Missing dog

Mike McCarthy, a student at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, is looking for his dog "Davey," a "hearing dog" who has been missing since Saturday.

A "hearing dog" is much like a seeing-eye dog. The dog is specially trained to alert his master to various sounds.

Mike's mother, Karen, said the family moved into Big Spring Saturday so Mike could attend SWCID. While the family was moving in, Davey ran after another dog and never returned. Davey is a four-year-old white border collie with black markings on one side of his face and one black ear. A check to area vets, the local animal shelter and the Humane Society has revealed no trace of Davey.

If you see Davey, call 267-7607 and leave a message for Karen McCarthy.

DPS seeks wreck indictment

Howard County Grand Jury to consider 16 cases during session

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A case rejected by the county attorney for misdemeanor prosecution is being referred to the Howard County Grand Jury today as a possible felony.

The involuntary manslaughter charge requested by a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper is one of 16 cases being considered by the grand jury.

District Attorney Rick Hamby, whose office has prepared evidence submitted for each case, said the investigation into involuntary manslaughter involves the July 15 single vehicle accident that resulted in the deaths of a 14-year-old boy and a 54-year-old woman from Lovington, N.M.

A DPS trooper who conducted an investigation into the Interstate 20 and Birdwell Lane overpass accident cited alcohol as a contributing factor.

"Any time an investigation is submitted, the supposition could be (that the incident is) alcohol-related or a gross deviation of negligence," Hamby said.

The case initially had been filed with County Attorney Tim Yeats' office. Yeats refused to prosecute it, citing lack of evidence. The trooper then submitted the case to Hamby's office.

Hamby's said the true-bill and no-bill results would be available some time Wednesday afternoon.

Another involuntary manslaughter case jurors will consider concerns Bobby Lee Edmondson, 24, of 608 Goliad, who was involved in a May 29 two-car accident on Birdwell Lane.

A 30-year-old Big Spring man died as a result of that accident. A DPS trooper filed the charge against Edmondson who was the driver of a vehicle that collided with the victim's car. Edmondson was on probation at the time of the accident for an earlier conviction of driving while intoxicated and his license also had been suspended, according to County Judge Milton Kirby.

Rescue workers from the national defense force search the wreckage of a Japan Air Lines 747 Tuesday morning following the Monday night crash in central Japan. Four survivors have been found among the 524 people aboard the jumbo jet.

Rescue teams find survivors

Americans missing in jet crash

KITA-AIKIMURA, Japan (AP) — Search and rescue teams found four survivors and recovered the bodies of 50 people from the wreckage of a Japan Air Lines jumbo jet that crashed on a wooded mountain ridge with 524 people aboard, officials said today.

The crash of the Boeing 747 on Monday was believed to be the worst single-plane commercial air disaster ever. Airline officials said that among the passengers were six Americans.

The aircraft's pilot reported a broken cabin door and that he was losing control as the jetliner turned north from its normal course and crashed in Japan's rugged central mountains.

One of the survivors of Flight 123, a 12-year-old girl, was reported found in the branches of a tree. One woman was pulled from the crushed fuselage of the aircraft.

Airline spokesman Geoffrey Tudor told NBC's "Today" that the survivors were seated "fairly close to the tail. How they survived is a miracle."

The helicopter-borne rescue teams suspended the search for the night and reported no sign of other survivors. Shinji Watari, general manager of JAL's public relations, told a news conference the cause of the crash remained a mystery.

Koichi Sugita, a spokesman of the Japanese Defense Agency, said a ship spotted what appeared to be part of a vertical tail fin bearing a portion of JAL's red crane symbol. He said the object was seen in the sea off the Miura Peninsula, south of Yokohama.

No explanation was offered, but the 747 was headed out to sea on its normal route from Tokyo to Osaka before going off course.

Ex-guard pleads not guilty in bribery scam

Harte Hanks News Service — A former Big Spring federal prison camp guard pleaded not guilty Monday in an Abilene Federal Court to a four count indictment of accepting bribes and delivering controlled substances while employed at the camp.

U.S. District Judge Hal Woodward did not set a trial date for Eddie Joe Roybal who is accused of accepting $11,550 in bribes from Rex C. Cauble, a Denton area millionaire rancher and convicted drug dealer.

Cauble, sentenced in 1982 to five years in Big Spring for masterminding a marijuana smuggling ring, was not charged.

No trial date was set for Roybal. He was also arraigned on charges of accepting $1,000 from another former inmate Gary Gunter, and of delivering controlled substances on two different occasions to Gunter.

He could receive a maximum penalty of 5½ years in prison and a $601,000 fine, according to federal records.

Cauble was an inmate at the Big Spring federal camp when the four alleged violations occurred between May 31 and June 20. He has since been transferred to La Tuna federal camp near El Paso.

Other Big Spring cases that were arraigned in Abilene federal court yesterday included a 27-year old Denison man and 34-year old Big Spring woman who were arrested last June by Big Spring police.

James Dwayne Berger and Dorothy Gene Moser were arraigned on a six-count indictment alleging conspiracy and distribution of metamphetamines. They entered not guilty not guilty pleas.

Berger, 28, of Denison is being held without bond while Moser is free on bail. Their alleged activities were from April 10 to June 18, the government said.

Plunge at the gasoline pump

Experts predict lower prices in '86

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline prices, which normally rise during the summer vacation months, will drop a penny before autumn and decline another 4 cents per gallon in 1986, according to the latest government predictions.

Consumers this fall also can expect to pay about 3 cents per gallon less, or $1.02, for home heating oil than they did a year ago, the Energy Information Administration said.

Those savings, however, may be offset by higher prices for electricity. The agency, an independent statistical arm of the Energy Department, predicts residential electric rates will increase an average 4 percent for all of 1985 and another 4 percent next year.

Natural gas, the other primary fuel for keeping homes warm in winter, is expected to cost slightly less than during the coldest months last season.

But by the end of 1986, the agency predicts residential natural gas rates will have risen a total of 2 percent over 1984 prices. That compares with an overall annual inflation rate of 4 percent last year and 3.7 percent so far in 1985.

The agency attributed the 8-cents-per-gallon increase — from $1.14 to $1.22 — in gasoline prices this spring to

6 unseasonably low stock levels ... that permitted refiners to recover all of the margin they had lost over the previous 12 months. 99

Energy Information Administration

The predictions are from the Energy Information Administration's latest "Short-Term Energy Outlook," a 40-page study updated every quarter. The latest version was released late Monday.

The agency attributed the 8-cents-per-gallon increase — from $1.14 to $1.22 — in gasoline prices this spring to "unseasonably low stock levels ... that permitted refiners to recover all of the margin they had lost over the previous 12 months."

But falling crude oil prices and a 30 percent increase in gasoline imports this spring are combining for a penny drop in gasoline prices now "in contrast to the usual price rises at this time of year due to heavy summer driving," the agency said.

For consumers, that translates into projections of $1.19 average gasoline prices for all of 1985, compared with $1.20 in 1984.

Because of a slowdown in economic growth — from 6.8 percent last year to 2.5 percent in 1985, the nation's demand for crude oil has dropped about 100,000 barrels per day this year, to 15.6 million barrels.

The study assumes a 2.3 percent increase in the gross national product in 1986, after counting for inflation, to predict a slight upturn in oil demand next year, to 15.8 million barrels per day.

The agency noted that the 4 percent annual increases in residential electric rates — from $7.56 per 1,000 kilowatt hours in 1984 to a projected $8.33 for 1986 — are only "slightly above the rate of inflation."

Commissioner blasts newspaper coverage

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
County Commissioner O.L. Brown complained about newspaper coverage and suggested county property in his precinct be sold to raise money.

The comments came during a regular meeting of the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday. Commissioners are working on the 1985-86 county budget.

Commissioners also resumed a 1985-86 budget workshop during yesterday's afternoon session.

Brown criticized a recent Big Spring Herald story that accurately said he abstained on a vote to purchase the northeast corner lot of Majin and 4th from R.H. Weaver (the old F.W. Woolworth's building).

"I wasn't against the motion. I wanted a study done of the site before we voted on a motion to purchase it. The motion was let's buy it (property) and then make a study of it. That's the way it reads," Brown said.

Brown also said that several persons told him that 2 1/2 to 3 years ago, the lot was for sale at half the price the county purchased it for on July 23. Commissioners had voted to approve a motion to purchase the lot from Weaver at his asking price of $62,000.

Brown also suggested that the county sell its property located on the 1000 block of N.W. San Antonio.

"I've tried and tried to build something there so the property value would go up. I proposed it for a jail and a detention center. We might as well sell it so we can get some tax revenue," Brown said.

During yesterday's budget workshop, commissioners discussed ways to increase tax revenue so salary raises could be incorporated into the 1985-86 fiscal budget.

County engineer Bill Mims suggested that the tax rate be increased within a three per cent range.

"I don't think the average tax payer would have an objection in the three per cent range. Everything is going up," Mims said.

Commissioners agreed to resume the discussion during their next workshop scheduled for the Sept. 9 meeting.

Colleges' budget get first OK

The Howard Junior College District board of trustees approved a tentative budget of $5.9 million in a special meeting at 5 p.m. Monday, Dr. Bob Riley, president, said this morning.

The budget was able to be set without a tax hike because of a rise in tuition and a slight increase in state funds, Riley said.

The final budget will be approved during a public hearing Aug. 20 at noon in the Board Room at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building, Riley said.

Man injured in 3-wheeler crash

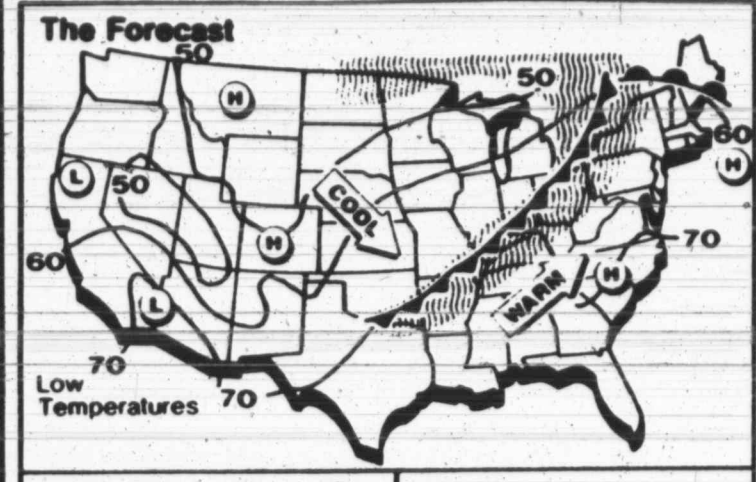

Albert Leal, 37, of 901 N.E. Goliad was in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital this morning after being injured in a three-wheeler motor vehicle accident Monday afternoon, a hospital spokesman said.

Leal, a meter reader for the Big Spring Water Department, suffered bruises and a fractured wrist, the spokesman said. The accident occurred at 1:14 p.m. Monday when a tire blew out on the three-wheeler he was driving, causing the vehicle to roll about two times, according to the police report. Witnesses told police Leal was thrown from the vehicle, which is owned by the water department.

Leal was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Lee Ambulance Service, according to the report.

Contractors eligible for program

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — State highway officials said Friday they hope to award $129 million in contracts to women-owned or minority-run businesses during the fiscal year starting Sept. 1.

The Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation maintains a lengthy list of those contractors both in and out of Texas.

Contractors eligible under that program in Big Spring are Anastacio Gonzales Contractor and Sanchez Construction Co.

The agency's goals have been submitted to federal highway officials for review. Texas highway officials expect to award $1.2 billion in contracts during the coming fiscal year. Of that, the agency hopes to award 10 percent — $120 million — to minority contractors and 75 percent — $9 million — to companies run by women.

The goal for women-led firms is 50 percent higher than the current fiscal year, partly because the number of eligible contractors has increased from 59 to 73.

Agency spokesman Bo McCarver said the department, in an effort to meet the goals, maintains an up-to-date list of eligible contractors and makes special efforts to notify them of all projects up for bid.

Judge sentences man to prison

District Court Judge James Gregg sentenced a Midland man to the Texas Department of Corrections Monday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated robbery.

Gary Lee Jewell, 24, will serve seven years at the TDC. The robbery occurred last March at Webb Bowling Lanes and was investigated by Big Spring police.

Firemen extinguish 2 blazes

Big Spring firemen battled two fires Monday afternoon, one a tree fire and the second involving trash. Firefighters used 50 gallons of water to extinguish a fire in a cedar tree next to the Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, 408 State, at 2:45 p.m. Monday.

The fire began when men from the Green Acres Nursery, 700 E. 17th, were trying to burn out a wasp nest they found while trimming the tree, according to fire department reports. The side of the church was blackened but not burned by the blaze, according to reports.

Firefighters also extinguished a trash fire on the property of Lorezon Juarez of 509 N. Lancaster at 2:03 p.m., according to the report.

They used 15 gallons of water to tap out the blaze.

UAW seeks top salaries

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. — United Auto Workers negotiators, some wearing red-and-white buttons saying "Lee got his, We want ours," are telling Chrysler Corp. they want a bigger share of the No. 3 automaker's record profits.

The head of the company's negotiating team, however, called for restraint to protect future profits and jobs.

UAW President Owen Bieber and Chrysler Vice President Tom Miner, the automaker's chief negotiator, on Monday officially opened talks on a contract covering 69,000 Chrysler workers in the United States. Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca, the "Lee" of the buttons, did not attend.

Separate negotiations between Chrysler Canada Ltd. and the Canadian UAW, which is splitting from the Detroit-based union, were to begin today in Toronto. The Canadian talks cover about 10,000 workers.

U.S. expects record crops

WASHINGTON — A record corn harvest is in the works this year, along with bumper crops of soybeans, sorghum, wheat and cotton, according to the Agriculture Department's first overall estimates of the 1985 season.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said Monday the corn crop could produce nearly 8.27 billion bushels, 8 percent more than last year's output and slightly more than the old mark set three years ago.

Officials said the estimates were based on surveys taken Aug. 1 and will be updated during the rest of the growing season.

The big crops are expected to further dampen prices at the farm gate and put additional pressure on Congress to come up with new farm legislation that will help protect producer incomes.

Jazz singer hospitalized

WASHINGTON — Jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald, hospitalized for an apparent respiratory problem, was listed in good condition today at George Washington University Hospital.

Nursing supervisor Elaine Sparks said this morning, however, that she did not know when the 67-year-old singer, who had to interrupt a concert schedule, would leave the hospital.

A performance scheduled for Wednesday night in Chicago was canceled, said Ms. Fitzgerald's personal secretary, Willetta Clark.

Retail sales up in July

Retail sales climbed a modest 0.4 percent in July, the first increase in three months, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said retail sales rose to a seasonally adjusted $113.7 billion as a jump in activity at department stores offset a big slump in car sales last month.

Toxic spills

Hundreds affected by hazardous chemical leaks

By The Associated Press

A derailed train, a leaky tanker, and a forklift plowing into a pipeline spilled hazardous chemicals in Arizona, Washington, and New Jersey, routing more than 650 residents from their homes.

About 30 miles north of Kingman, Ariz., 27 cars of a Sante Fe train flipped early Monday, causing a series of explosions that engulfed 11 cars in flames and rocked nearby houses.

The 70-car train was hauling 46 containers filled with about 30 hazardous chemicals, including hydrochloric acid, benzene, methanol, butyl and alcohol derivatives, said Tom Buckley, a spokesman for the railroad in Los Angeles. He said benzene probably caused the fire, which was still burning late Monday night.

About 250 people from three communities were evacuated with all but 50 returning by early today. The cause of the derailment was under investigation, officials said.

In Washington, a 5,000-gallon tanker carrying hazardous materials leaked one-tenth of its contents on the busy Capitol Beltway during evening rush-hour traffic.

Police closed a two-mile stretch of the beltway, the area's main expressway, and evacuated 300 people who lived within a half-mile radius. The beltway reopened at 3 a.m. after the spilled cleaning solvent was mopped up and the tanker's contents transferred to another truck, said Virginia State Police Sgt. K.W. Grant.

Two minor injuries were reported, with both victims complaining of irritated membranes, officials said. Evacuees returned home early today.

The 20-wheel tanker truck, owned by Applied Technology, was hauling industrial-strength cleaning solvents from the Portsmouth, Va., naval yard to a New Jersey treatment center when the driver discovered the leak in the underside of the tanker, county fire department spokeswoman Pam Weiger said.

The mixture was believed to contain hydrazine, thiourea, ethylene diamine tetra-acetic acid, ammonium hydroxide and sulfates.

A 2,500-gallon toxic spill at a chemical plant in Camden, N.J., was cleaned up Monday after a forklift ruptured a pipe to a storage tank. More than 100 residents were evacuated for about six hours.

The substance, which poured into a sewage system culvert, was aniline, which can be extremely dangerous if inhaled, said police Lt. Art Lewandowski. Aniline is a colorless, oily liquid used in making dyes, varnishes and rocket fuel.

Cleanup crews quickly dumped sand on a 50-by-100 foot area at H. Kohnstamm & Co. Inc., to absorb most of the chemical before it reached the sewer system, said spokesman Jim Staples of the Department of Environmental Protection.

House collapses; 43 dead

BOMBAY, India — A three-story tenement house collapsed under heavy rain in central Bombay early today, killing at least 43 people and injuring 96, officials said.

Fire department rescuers said the feared more bodies would be found under the rubble of the dilapidated building.

Most of the victims were sleeping when 22 rooms of the house collapsed during the monsoon rainstorm, they said.

"I heard a loud crash," said Farida Khan, a teacher who lives across the street from the building. "I got up and saw a cloud of rubble and heard loud screams."

Pope addresses crowds

DOUALA, Cameroon — Pope John Paul II delivered messages today for both sides of an African generation gap, telling youth to have faith in the church and admonishing parents never to give up the responsibility for educating their children.

His comments came midway through his 12-day tour of seven African nations, during which he has also pressed his campaign for better relations between Christians and Moslems.

"Have faith in the church, despite its imperfections... As the African proverb says, 'never abandon the canoe that got you to the other side of the river,'" he said in a special message to youth in French.

Israel frees 101 prisoners

ATLIT, Israel — Authorities today freed 101 prisoners, most of them Shiite Moslems captured during the Israeli occupation of southern Lebanon, the military command announced.

The detainees were driven in three buses from the Atlit prison across the Lebanese border, 30 miles away, and turned over to representatives of the International Red Cross, the command said.

They were among hundreds whose release had been demanded by Lebanese Shiites who hijacked a TWA jet on June 14, killed one American serviceman, and held other Americans hostage for 17 days.

Blast kills 21 miners

SECUNDA, South Africa — A methane gas explosion killed 21 miners and injured 29 at the Middelbult coal mine, officials said today. Seven miners were still reported missing underground.

Rescue teams worked overnight trying to reach the trapped miners in the area of the explosion where an accumulation of gas and dust has built up, said a spokesman at the mine 40 miles east of Johannesburg.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said the blast ripped through an underground work area Monday, destroying ventilation shafts.

Wind shear due highest priority

Although investigators are not certain that the phenomenon known as wind shear caused the recent crash of Delta Airlines Flight 191 in Dallas, the nation's latest air disaster has renewed debate over the need for improved wind-shear detection at major airports.

Wind shear is an abrupt change in the speed or direction of airflow that, at low altitudes, can cause even the largest commercial airliners to crash. At least two U.S. crashes, one in 1975 at John F. Kennedy Airport in New York and the other at New Orleans in 1982, were caused by wind shear.

Minutes after the crash at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, sensors at ground level sounded a wind-shear warning. By that time, 133 persons already had died in an accident that might have been avoided if the nation's fourth-busiest airport had been equipped with a Doppler radar system that can detect wind shear.

Unlike conventional radar, which indicates rainfall intensity, Doppler radar measures wind speed and direction. This makes it possible for air traffic controllers to identify a wind shear before it reaches ground level. An experimental Doppler system worked remarkably well during recent tests in Denver, Chicago and Memphis.

Nevertheless, installation of wind-shear detection systems at airports is not the Federal Aviation Administration's top priority. Instead, the FAA wants to install a more costly nationwide radar system to monitor weather between airports. Although such a system could increase in-flight safety, many experts believe that an airport-based, wind-shear detection system should have higher priority.

A crucial decision on the nationwide radar system is scheduled in September. Unless the specifications for that system include wind-shear detection, another two years could pass before the FAA would be ready to accept bids on the necessary equipment.

The FAA should give wind-shear detection higher priority than a nationwide radar system. Takeoffs and landings are the most vulnerable moments for an airliner and its passengers. Installing Doppler radar at major airports would make these critical periods safer.

Head Start jobless claims threaten entire program

WASHINGTON — A deliberate abuse of the federal unemployment system threatens the continued high quality of service provided by the popular Head Start program for disadvantaged preschoolers. The apparent abuse stems from an almost-forgotten bureaucratic turf battle.

Unlike most teachers, who are prohibited by law from receiving unemployment benefits during summer vacation, at least 32,000 of the 40,000 Head Start teachers and aides routinely draw jobless benefits during the summer.

They're hardly getting rich, of course. Last year's average total summer unemployment compensation for teachers was $1,210, and for aides $973. But the increased cost of the unemployment insurance premiums paid to the states by the local agencies that run Head Start programs must come from their federal grants.

And, as Health and Human Services Department Inspector General Richard Kusserow points out in a recent report, "escalating costs... are unnecessarily eroding the quality of the programs by decreasing resources available for direct services to the children."

"The source of the (summer compensation) abuse seems to arise from the 'turf' negotiations in 1979, Kusserow wrote to Rep. Gene Chaffie, R-Calif., in June. He was referring to the competition between HHS and the newly formed Education Department for jurisdiction over Head Start. As a successful program with widespread bipartisan support, Head Start was coveted by both agencies.

HHS won the jurisdictional battle. "After considerable political pressure from our department," Kusserow wrote, "one of the outcomes of this bureaucratic exercise was for Head Start officials to convince the Department of Labor that Head Start was not an educational program" — and therefore should not fall under the ban on summer unemployment compensation.

At the time, Kusserow noted, unemployment insurance premiums paid by Head Start grantees (and other employers) was low, so "no particular adverse consequence was anticipated."

But as the recession and high unemployment forecast the states to raise their premium rates to employers, "the result of this (1979) decision has proven disastrous," Kusserow wrote.

An 18-state survey of 62 Head Start grantees' insurance costs show why: The total in premiums paid for the summer benefits has risen from $9.8 million in 1983 to an estimated $15.6 million this summer. Some examples:

- Bill Richardson, Head Start director for the East Missouri Action Agency in Flat River, Mo., told our associate Tony Capaccio that his unemployment insurance costs increased by $27,000 from 1983 to 1984. Seventy of his 84 teachers, aides, cooks and van drivers draw the summer benefits.

- German S. White, Midwest regional director, noted a year that the insurance premium problem "is plaguing grantees in all six of our states," particularly Illinois and Michigan. "A number of grantees have even broached the subject of reducing their enrollment," he warned. White continues to stand by his warning.

- John L. Jordan, Atlanta regional director, pointed out even earlier in a memo to Washington headquarters that "more than 80 percent of all grantees (serving 87,000 children) are affected by this problem, and if current trends continue, as appears likely, the problem will force a number of grantees to reduce the number of children served or give up the Head Start grants."

Jordan said his warning still stands, although so far only one grantee, Voorhees College of Denmark, S.C., had given up its Head Start program because of a $200,000 insurance deficit.

INSIDE THE PENTAGON: The brass hats are still smarting over the abrupt end of military-related research on many university campuses during the Vietnam War, and they're evidently planning to make the schools dependent on the Pentagon's big bucks. A recent study estimates that $2 billion will be needed to "replace obsolete university research instrumentation." The study suggests that Defense Department grants to academia could "reverse the effects of the relative neglect of university research that occurred during the Vietnam War."

Reagan looks for change in S. Africa

By R. GREGORY NOKES
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, aware that its policy of "constructive engagement" is in trouble, is quietly exploring new approaches to dealing with the turmoil in South Africa, spurred by congressional demands for economic sanctions.

There already has been a sharp increase in the administration's public criticism of South Africa's white supremacist policies. One feature of constructive engagement had been to push for change quietly and behind-the-scenes.

The White House has called for an end to the current state of emergency, blaming the recent violence on the Pretoria government's apartheid practices. And on Monday it called for a black-white dialogue leading to "political rights, justice and equality" for South Africa's black majority.

It was always implicit in the administration's policy that it was aimed at fostering conditions leading to political rights for South Africa's 22 million disenfranchised blacks.

But the latest statement was explicit and came against the background of increasing criticism of U.S. policy among South African blacks over the weekend.

Asked whether the statement meant backing for majority rule, spokesman Larry Speakes said in Santa Barbara, Calif.: "I think if you see political rights, justice and equality, then you will see the will of the people be exercised."

The administration has hesitated to publicly demand political rights for blacks because it hasn't wanted to define what that meant. If political rights mean giving all blacks the right to vote — the logical interpretation — it would almost certainly lead to the ouster of the white government by the black majority, who are 72 percent of the population.

Senior officials have publicly acknowledged they are conducting a review of the situation in South Africa, while insisting it doesn't signal a change in policy. But the betting is that it will.

At his news conference last week, Reagan referred to his South African policy as "so-called constructive engagement," indicating even a change in name is possible.

No president wants to acknowledge a policy failure or change. President Jimmy Carter was subjected to widespread criticism, even ridicule, after acknowledging he was wrong about Soviet communism after Moscow intervened in Afghanistan in 1979.

Reagan never admitted a change or a failure after withdrawing American Marines from Lebanon in 1984.

But congressional demands for economic sanctions against South Africa provide a convenient opportunity for a new approach. Informed congressional sources speculate Reagan may impose some mild sanctions by executive order, while vetoing tougher sanctions expected to be sent to him by Congress after the August recess.

Robert C. McFarlane, the president's national security adviser, told South Africa's foreign minister, R.W. (Pik) Botha, at a meeting in Vienna last week that the administration is having difficulty resisting pressures from Congress.

Reagan's own feelings are unclear. From all indications, the president sees himself as a friend of South Africa, defending its actions even when they are being denounced by other senior officials.

Pretoria clearly hopes the new reforms it is expected to announce on Thursday will be sufficient to give Reagan justification for vetoing congressional sanctions.

Constructive engagement is defined by the administration as a regional policy aimed at giving South Africa secure borders so that it can peacefully dismantle apartheid free from attack by black nationalist guerrillas. It was also aimed at getting Cuban troops out of Angola and obtaining independence for Namibia, the South Africa-ruled colony.

Washington would be as helpful and as supportive and uncritical of Pretoria as possible, in contrast to the more confrontational approach favored by the Carter administration.

But none of the aims has been achieved so far. Cuban troops remain in Angola. Namibia remains under South African rule. South African troops still conduct raids into neighboring countries, and South Africa's blacks still lack basic political rights.

At least one message of the violence in South Africa is that the pace of change has been too slow. The administration now appears to recognize this.

R. Gregory Nokes writes on diplomatic issues for The Associated Press and has been covering the administration's policy toward South Africa since 1980.

Today's highlight in history:

On Aug. 13, 1961, Berlin became a divided city as East Germany sealed off the border between the eastern and western sectors. East German police and troops used barbed wire and barricades to block crossing points to halt the flight of refugees. Two days later, work began on the Berlin Wall.

On this date:
In 1521, Spanish conqueror Hernando Cortez captured present-day Mexico City from the Aztec Indians.

Five years ago: At the Democratic National Convention in New York, President Jimmy Carter endorsed most of the party's platform just hours before his renomination.

One year ago: At a breakfast in Los Angeles honoring U.S. Olympic athletes, President Reagan hailed them as heroes who had given their country unforgettable memories. The athletes returned the favor by making the president and his wife, Nancy, honorary members of the U.S. Olympic team.

The fine art of check-stalling

(Whilst Art Buchwald is on vacation we reprint some columns from the past.)

Anyone who has had to deal with large companies is aware that they are paying their bills later and later. This is no accident. The longer they can defer paying you, the more money they can keep in their bank accruing interest. It is known as the "float."

There is an art to not paying someone when the bill is due, and it is getting more sophisticated as time goes on.

In fact, universities are now offering master's degrees in "check stalling" for students who want to be comptrollers and bookkeepers.

I attended a graduate class the other day at one of our leading business schools and watched in awe as a professor conducted a course entitled "Stalling Creditors, Contractors and Individuals 1A."

"All right," the professor opened up his lecture. "Last week we discussed what to say to an irate person who calls up your company and wants to know where his or her check is. Let's review it."

"Stevens, you're the irate caller. Joseph, you're the person in charge of the comptroller's office."

Stevens picked up the white phone on the professor's desk, and Joseph picked up the one in the back of the classroom.

Stevens spoke first. "This is David Stevens, and I want to know why I haven't received a check for the work I did for your office."

"I'll look into it," Joseph said. "No, you dumbbell," the professor yelled. "You won't look into it. You will find someone else to look into it. You don't want to make friends with Stevens, or he'll know whom to call about the check next time."

You could see Joseph was upset. "We'll look into it, Mr. Stevens. I'm sure it's been sent out. Where can we reach you?"

Stevens gave his number and hung up.

"All right," the professor said. "It's two weeks later. Joseph hasn't called you back, so, Stevens, call him again."

"Where the hell is my check? It was due months ago," Stevens cried.

Joseph said, "I told the accounting department about it. It should have been sent the day after you spoke to me."

The professor nodded his head. Stevens shouted, "But I didn't get it!"

"The mails are terrible these days. Let me get back to you."

"Let me speak to the comptroller."

Joseph looked blankly at the professor. "What am I supposed to do now?"

The professor said, "Give the phone to anyone, dummy. Stevens doesn't know who the comptroller is."

Joseph handed the phone to Radcliffe.

"Look," said Stevens, "I have to pay my bills, I have to pay my labor. When I'm late paying, you people charge me 8 percent interest. Why can't you pay me?"

Radcliffe said, "I've been checking the invoice, Mr. Stevens. There was a clerical error somewhere in the pipeline, and we should have it straightened out in a couple of days. You should get a check from us as soon as our treasurer, who is now in Japan, returns."

Stevens played his part to the hilt. "If I don't get my check in the mail tomorrow, I'm going to sue you people!"

After using all of the usual human excuses for nonpayment of bills, your next step is to involve the computer. It's what we call in the check-stalling business "The Final Solution."

New Jersey Generals quarterback Doug Flutie, right, walks away with his bride, Laurie Fortier, outside St. Patrick's in Natick, Mass., Saturday following their wedding ceremony. Flutie won the Heisman Trophy while playing for Boston College last year.

Dear Abby

Man discovers marriage one of convenience

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nearly three years to a very beautiful 23-year-old woman. I am 30. Our marriage hasn't been perfect, but I considered it better than average, with one exception — "Betty" has no interest in sex. Once every two or three months is enough for her; then she acts like she's doing me a favor.

When I try to discuss it with her, she gets angry. Despite our differences, I have given her all my devotion and a very comfortable life with all the material things a woman could want — a lovely home, clothes, jewelry and a car of her own.

Two weeks ago I discovered that Betty had been seeing a married man. I was shocked and hurt. When I confronted her, she admitted it, and told me she'd never been physically attracted to me; she married me because I had money and she wanted to get out of her parents' home. She says she "loves me" — but not in a physical way.

Betty doesn't want a divorce. She says she's strongly attracted to the married man and will not give him up. She insists that she wants to save our marriage but needs to see her lover twice a week. I find this totally absurd and unacceptable. Abby, is this marriage worth saving?

HURTING HUSBAND

DEAR HURTING: You didn't have much of a marriage in the first place. By Betty's own admission, she used you. You may qualify for an annulment.

DEAR ABBY: Everybody writes to you to get something off their chest; well, now it's my turn.

Does anyone realize how difficult it is for a woman with a child to get a date? Once a man finds out a woman has a child, he assumes she wants to get married and stick him with a ready-made family, then boom! it's all over!

Abby, that's not true. There are some women, like myself, who would just like to go out with a member of the opposite sex once in a while. If marriage is in the cards, then it will work out. If not, well, it was fun while it lasted.

So where does a decent woman meet a decent man? Don't suggest church; I don't belong to one.

LONELY IN LEHIGH, PA.
DEAR LONELY: Here we go again. Decent women meet men where decent people go to entertain themselves, do volunteer work, improve their minds and bodies, enjoy sports, music and theater, and even to worship the Lord, whether you belong to a church or not. They also meet through the thoughtfulness of friends.

DEAR ABBY: Am I touchy, out of line or overly sensitive to resent it when someone asks, "Is that dress new?"

I enjoy being complimented on my clothes, but I bristle when I am asked, "How much did it cost?"

I never know what to say, so I foolishly respond as though I were on the witness stand, having sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

Am I an oddball to feel that these are impudent questions? And how should such questions be handled?

KICKING MYSELF

DEAR KICKING: You are not oddball. Quit kicking yourself and have the answer ready. To any question that strikes you as being impudent or out of line, haul out the standard response: "Why do you want to know?"

Dr. Donohue

Eating fish

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I know the word about not eating so much meat, that it can cause heart attacks. But what is the story on fish? Does it really prevent heart attacks? — L.W.E.

It's not a fish story; it's for real. Groups of people whose main source of food is fish have a very low incidence of heart attacks. Eskimos are a dramatic example of the apparent benefits of eating fish.

What is so great about fish? The answer is that it contains a substance that stops clots from forming inside arteries — eicosapentaenoic acid. (I mentioned it recently in connection with an experimental arthritis diet.) Fish also acts to lower levels of blood cholesterol and triglycerides (fats).

So on the basis of this knowledge some authorities are now suggesting that one or two fish dishes every week may prevent heart attacks. We'll have to wait for further studies to find out just what he benefits might be for our society, whether they will be as good as suggested. It looks like they will be.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a copy of your booklet on herpes. It did not answer the question I have. It is this: What is the longest known formancy period after an initial contact. If a person had sexual intercourse with an infected partner in 1966 could the virus lay dormant all these years? — W.E.

An attack of herpes usually appears two or three days after contact, sometimes as long as six or seven days. In one experiment it occurred 24 days later. I cannot believe it would appear 19 years afterward.

You should also know that even with a known contact, the chances of developing herpes are not 100 percent, but more like 75 percent. The booklet "Herpes: Don't Panic" is available in a new printing. Other readers may order a copy by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.25 for printing and handling.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 60 years old and have been a smoker since I was a teenager. What good will it do me to quit at my age? — P.C.

If you quit, your risk of getting heart disease declines the same as it would be for any non-smoker after one to five years of abstinence. And there will be a definite increase in blood flow to your brain in one year. Yes, it probably does mean that you would think more clearly.

Am I overstating the situation? Not at all. Nicotine constricts blood vessels. At your age you want them as dilated as they can possibly be so that your organs get all the blood they need. I haven't even mentioned what it will do for your lungs.

People your age have more than an average stake in the benefits that can come from quitting. Do it today.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Men indicted in hospital bribery case

BYOTE (AP) — A criminal investigation of some male employees at the West Texas Children's Home has led to indictments being handed down against two men for allegedly promising a teen-age girl an early release from the center in exchange for sex.

Charges of sexual abuse by male staff members first surfaced at the center for delinquent youths in late June, said Joan Timmons, chief of media relations for the Texas Youth Commission in Austin, which operates the home.

"After our people at the children's home began an investigation into the matter, and determined it required more than they normally would do, we at the Texas Youth Commission started an investigation with the Texas Rangers," Ms. Timmons said.

The probe prompted the firing of four male employees, the transferring of a fifth staff member to another TYC facility, and disciplinary action being taken against two others, she said.

It also led to the case being presented to a Ward County grand jury in nearby Monahans, said Jack McGowan, who prosecutes cases for the state in Reeves, Loving and Ward counties.

Last Friday, the panel handed down bribery indictments against Esequiel Valdez Jr., no age or hometown available; and Ismael Mendoza, 27, of Pecos.

Both were accused of soliciting sex in January from a "15- or 16-year-old" girl confined at the center, McGowan said.

The indictment alleged that Mendoza and Valdez offered the girl an earlier release date in exchange for the sex.

Mendoza was one of the four employees fired in July, while Valdez had resigned from the center in January, Ms. Timmons said.

Arrest warrants were issued last Friday, but Ward County sheriff's officials said that the men had not been picked up Monday.

McGowan said no other charges were filed against the men because "these were the best charges to fit the offense at hand."

He said that because the sexual history of a girl older than 14 can be considered as a defense in cases of alleged sexual abuse, "bribery charges fit best."

"These girls are not put into the children's home for missing Sunday school," he said.

The West Texas Children's Home is one of four centers for non-violent juvenile criminal offenders operated in the state by the TYC, Ms. Timmons said.

The home has been in this small, isolated town, 26 miles east of Pecos, since 1966, but was a center for neglected children until July 1, 1980, when the youth commission turned it into an institution for delinquent youths, she said.

Today, 161 boys and 35 girls are confined at the center, she said, adding that no action was taken against any of the youths at the home in connection with the commission's investigation.

Ms. Timmons said that of the three other employees fired last month, two were terminated for "inappropriate sexual behavior," and the other for "lying during the investigation about what happened."

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Bob's Custom Woodwork is three-shops-in-one

It's hard to think of any home or business remodeling or repair job that Bob's Custom Woodwork can't handle within one of the three operations.

Bob's shop is really three businesses in one: General Contractor, "Furniture Doctor" Repair Service, and the Strip Shop.

As a general contractor, Bob provides turn-key construction on room additions, everything from slab to roof including sheetrock, painting, electrical, plumbing and cabinets.

Remodeling is a specialty, including redesigned kitchens and baths. Bob's advice and counsel is an invaluable service to the homeowner who's in a quandary about where to begin remodeling.

"The Furniture Doctor" service offers complete repairs to furniture in your home or in the shop. This includes the repairs and refinishing of fine antiques. Bob's has hard-to-find specialty hardware for trunks, chests and other antique pieces.

In the Strip Shop, they do wood and metal stripping for home and industry. They will do the stripping and refinishing—or they'll strip an item and provide complete supplies and recommendations for the do-it-yourselfer.

Bob's installs microwave ovens, dishwashers, and Majestic heat circulating fireplaces and mantels.

There's no job too small or too large for Bob Noyes and his crew. Bob does the estimates and gives his personal supervision to all jobs.

His wife, Jan, oversees the Strip Shop, handles bookkeeping and customer service. Armando Nunez does general carpentry, counter tops, installation of cabinets, custom doors and acoustical ceilings. Rod Zapata does cabinets, stereo centers and book shelving. Elvin Bearden does furniture repair. Craig Neighbors and Burke Bristow do strip and refinishing shop work. Nathan King does general carpentry and dry wall textures. Eddie Word does general carpentry.

Bob Kinnan is production supervisor in the manufacturing of expandable, affordable and versatile shelving for business display or home collectables. Ron Schmidt and Chris Churchwell work together with Kinnan. These shelving units are available through Bob's or at several local outlets including the Candle Shop in Big Spring and Antiques Haven in Stanton.

Bob's is a distributor of Alcoa building products including siding, roofing, trims, soffit and fascia, aluminum cedar shake roofing, Fashion carpents, and patio covers. Instead of costly painting, consider Alcoa building products line.

Bob's is located in Building 613 in the Industrial Park. Their number is 267-5811.

Football fever

Monday kicked off the start of two-a-day workouts for most of the Crossroads Country football teams, which in return started the "football fever" burning inside of me.

I'll admit I was quite drained after the conclusion of last year's season. Thanks to the Colorado City Wolves and Forsan Buffaloes, my season lasted 15 weeks, which is a lot longer than some sports writers tenure.

You may not be ready for it to start all over but eight months is time enough for me to recuperate. Now I'm rearing to go.

If my second season in this area is anything like the first, I'm in for a rip-roaring time. Whether anybody will duplicate the feats of C-City and Forsan and advance to the regional playoffs is beyond me. But with the caliber of coaches and players in this area, Crossroads Country football will be well-spoken for.

Take for instance, returning stars like Chris Cooley of Borden County and Sammy Rivera of Colorado City and Garden City's salty backfield. These seniors should be the cream-of-the-crop in their respective districts. Cooley, the man with a thousand moves, rushed for over 2,000 yards last season. Rivera, a 1,000 yard gainer last season, should "slash" his way to even more real estate this season. Garden City's Abby Madrid is another good runner.

Or how about quarterbacks like Big Spring's Carl Speck, Kevin Glaspie of Stanton, Brian Calaway of Coahoma or Luis Gonzales of Grady? They are all good run-or-pass signal callers. Calaway has the potential to be the best Coahoma has produced in a while. He's a natural leader with a lot of ability.

Receivers to keep an eye on are Terry Deatherage of Grady and Stanton tight end Derick Sorley. Deatherage hooked up with Gonzales 42 times for 750 yards last year. There was no such thing as double-coverage on this guy. Sorley was an excellent blocker and snagged 23 passes for a 16.8 average. The Battlin' Buff junior is also a vicious hitter in the secondary.

But anybody knows that the linemen have to be doing some good blocking for these "skill people" to produce. So let us not forget the poor souls in the trenches.

The Steer running attack looks to be in good hands behind a powerful and experienced group of linemen.

Steer guard Jay Burchett and tackle Luis Puga are big and strong enough to move any barrier in front of them. Their fellow working buddies, Timmy Green, Paul Sotello and Charley Ogle are no slouches themselves.

I'll bet anyone this; the Steers will have a runner that gains over 400 yards this season.

So you can see why I'm getting excited about the offensive aspect of Crossroads Country football. But the defensive side of the coin is just as intriguing.

Burchett, Puga and David Shortes will be three of the top defensive linemen in the area. A year's experience in 4-5A trench wars can make a world of difference. Then there's people like noseguard Barry Stafford of Coahoma and Sands tackle Mark Rogers.

Stafford was a consistent force on the offensive line last season, this year he will also make his presence known on the defensive side. Rogers, a 6-3, 240 tackle, is big and strong enough to physically dominate Class A football.

Not to be outdone is a crew of linebackers led by Big Spring's Mike Cayhill and Forsan's Wayne Wright. Cayhill was tested in the best football district in the land in his first season last year. He passed the test with flying colors, finishing as the team's third leading tackler.

As a sophomore last season, Wright, made well over 100 tackles. He's also a pretty good fullback.

When you talk good secondary people, the names of Coahoma's Calaway and Leland Bearden of Sands come up. Calaway is always where the action is and proved so by picking off nine passes from his safety position last year.

Bearden used his tall frame to pluck seven enemy aereals. Opposing quarterbacks will find it hard to throw over a 6-3 cornerback.

So I've had my first say about area football. Now my heart is pumping at a fast pace, the ole adrenaline's flowing.

Crossroads Country football, here I come.

Tulane bribery plot thickens

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — John "Hot Rod" Williams, out of place socially and scholastically at academically elite Tulane University, was an easy dupe for classmates seeking to make quick money by fixing basketball games, defense lawyer Michael Green of Chicago argued.

Green said Monday that Williams' only friends among the children of high-income families at Tulane were the members of the basketball team, so he may have acted as if he were going along with a scheme to shave points against Southern Mississippi and Memphis State.

Gary Kranz of New Rochelle, N.Y., the Tulane student identified as the prime organizer of the point-shaving scheme, was scheduled to testify today.

Williams is accused of three counts of conspiring to fix basketball games and two counts of sports bribery, charges carrying a possible maximum penalty of 17 years in prison and $35,000 in fines.

The trial, which began Monday in Orleans Parish Criminal District Court before District Judge Alvin Oser, was expected to last at least through Friday.

The charges against Williams have apparently already lessened his value to the National Basketball Association. The Cleveland Cavaliers gambled on an acquittal by making Williams a second-round draft choice. A conviction of Williams on any count would almost certainly result in a ban by the NBA.

"I tell you it's all a frame, and it's a frame based on the witnesses from the basketball team who got caught cold," Green said.

Three of Williams' former teammates are testifying for the prosecution — forwards Clyde Eads and Jon Johnson, both under grants of immunity, and little-used point guard Bobby Thompson, testifying in a plea bargain. Point guard David Dominique is scheduled for trial later in connection with the case.

JOHN WILLIAMS, former Tulane University basketball player, follows his mother BARBARA COLAR up the steps of the criminal courts building in New Orleans Monday. WILLIAMS is charged with two counts of sports bribery and three counts of conspiracy to commit sports bribery.

Green said Williams, 23, had a tragic childhood until Coach Tommy Wall of St. Amant, La., High School took him under his wing. Green called Wall the closest thing to a father Williams ever knew, and noted that Williams invited Wall to watch Tulane's game with Memphis State.

Green said Williams received $1,000 in cash on two occasions when he was being recruited and got another $10,000 from Tulane.

"He knew it was wrong, but he took the money and turned it over to his family so they could buy food and clothes," Green said.

Green pointed out that the money was given to Williams in violation of NCAA rules, but not in violation of any state or federal laws.

"He was admitted to Tulane and accepted because one of the coaches filled out his application when he couldn't get through it," Green said. In addition, Williams took his entrance exam on the same day he was accepted, Green said.

He said the evidence against Williams consists of the testimony of teammates jealous of his ability and national stature and from others who got deep into drugs and needed to make quick money.

Houston recruits ruled ineligible

HOUSTON (AP) — Tito Horford, one of the nation's most intensely recruited schoolboy basketball players last season, went through freshman orientation Monday at the University of Houston and then learned that he was ineligible to compete for the Southwest Conference school.

"He'd already learned the Cougar fight song and was ready to go," Houston Athletic Director Tom Ford said after announcing that the NCAA had declared Horford and Bay City track star Joe DeLoach ineligible to compete for the Cougars because of recruiting violations.

"The real shame is that these two athletes really want to come to the University of Houston," Ford said. "They are the ones being punished through no fault of their own."

Horford, tabbed as the next

Akeem Olajuwon at Houston, was ruled ineligible because of an apparent illegal contact made by Houston assistant coach Schverak during the recruiting season last year.

Schverak's contact with Horford came during a July 1 to Aug. 1 NCAA ban on face-to-face contact with recruits.

DeLoach, a top sprinter prospect, can't compete for the Cougars because Olympic gold medalist Carl Lewis, a former Houston trackster, accompanied Cougar track coach Tom Tellez on a visit to DeLoach's home.

NCAA rules forbid alumni to recruit prospects.

The NCAA sanctions came despite an internal investigation by Houston administrators followed by a self-imposed restriction on Houston's basketball and track programs.

Houston banned Schverak from off-campus recruiting for one year and ordered head basketball coach Guy V. Lewis to give up any scholarship for each of the next two seasons.

The school never formally filed DeLoach's scholarship with the SWC and the 100- and 200-meter specialist is now free to attend any school of his choice.

Ford said that Horford's scholarship agreement had been filed with the SWC and that the 7-0 schoolboy hopeful was still bound to the Cougars, pending a final appeal to the NCAA Council Subcommittee on Eligibility.

"No other school can legally recruit Tito at this point but Joe is free to be recruited or to go to any school he chooses," Ford said.

The Houston athletic director said if the final appeal to the NCAA fails, the school could consider filing a civil action.

Olajuwon led the Cougars to three consecutive appearances in the NCAA Final Four tournament before becoming the first-round draft choice of the National Basketball Association Houston Rockets in 1984.

The Cougars failed to earn a berth in the 1984 NCAA tournament and were hoping the addition of Horford would signal a return to the playoffs.

Ford said he discussed the NCAA's decision with Horford Monday and told him that the Cougars were appealing the decision.

"I explained to him what was taking place and that the appeal had been denied," Ford said. "I told him that we were going through one more appeal. His comment was 'When will we know, when will we know.'"

NFL Roundup

By The Associated Press
John Riggins and Nat Moore will return to their teams for the upcoming National Football League season. Joe DeLamielleure, who has played in 175 straight games, and Alfred Jackson will not.

The Washington Redskins announced Monday that Riggins had agreed to terms on a one-year contract. The pact, according to sources, is worth $850,000, the most ever paid to an NFL running back for one season.

Moore also agreed to terms for another season with the Miami Dolphins. The wide receiver had previously said that the 1984 season would be his last.

DeLamielleure, a guard who was part of the Buffalo Bills' "Electric Company" offensive line that helped O.J. Simpson run for 2,003 yards in 1973, was cut by the Cleveland Browns.

Jackson, the No. 2 receiver for Atlanta last year and fifth on the club's all-time list, was cut Monday by the Falcons.

Riggins, 36, ran for 1,239 yards and scored 14 touchdowns in 1984. The 13-year veteran missed three games last season because of injury and there had been speculation that he might not return in 1985.

The Redskins, unsure of Riggins' plans, traded their No. 1 draft choice this year to New Orleans for running back George Rogers.

But Riggins is now ready to play, or at least soon will be. Riggins says he's not sure whether he will play in Saturday's exhibition game against the Los Angeles Raiders.

receiving yards (6,415) and touchdown catches (60). In 1984, his 11th season in the NFL, Moore caught 43 passes for 573 yards and six touchdowns as a backup for 1,000-yard receivers Mark Duper and Mark Clayton.

DeLamielleure, 34, is a 12-year veteran. His 175 consecutive games played ties him with punter Ray Guy of the Raiders for second among active players, trailing only the 189 by Dave Dalby of the Raiders.

In other NFL news, San Francisco traded linebacker Blanchard Montgomery to Buffalo for a future undisclosed draft pick. Montgomery was a third-year veteran from UCLA.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers said defensive end Lee Roy Selmon will undergo non-surgical rehabilitation for a back injury that will sideline him for the entire 1985 season. Selmon, who will use traction and other procedures, was placed on the injured reserve list last month.

Cardinals bomb Pirates, 8-1

By The Associated Press
If the mark of a good pitcher is a victory on a night when he feels like a bad one, pencil in John Tudor as a good one on the threshold of becoming a great one.

"He told me before the game he didn't have good stuff," St. Louis catcher Darrell Porter said after Tudor limited Pittsburgh to five hits over eight innings Monday night to win for the 14th time in his last 15 starts as the Cardinals bombed Pittsburgh 8-1. "If you don't have good stuff and you're pitching that well, you're doing pretty good."

"I didn't think I had as good a fastball as I had in the past few games," said Tudor, 15-8 with a glittering 2.07 earned run average and a major-league-leading six shutouts. The victory enabled the Cardinals to stay within a game of the New York Mets in the National League East. The Mets survived a ninth-inning scare to edge Philadelphia 4-3.

Elsewhere, it was Chicago 8, Montreal 7; San Diego 2, Cincinnati 0; and Los Angeles 3, Atlanta 0. Houston and San Francisco were not scheduled.

Porter led an 11-hit St. Louis attack with a three-run homer to highlight a five-run fifth inning. Herr drove in two runs, Coleman had two hits and swiped three bases, giving him a major-league-leading 81 for the season, and McGee had three hits to raise his NL leading average to .354.

NL Roundup

Mets 4, Phillies 3
Sid Fernandez, who says he is beginning to feel comfortable in the major leagues, matched his career high for strikeouts with 13 as he pitched a one-hitter into the ninth inning.

Despite his performance, the 22-year-old Fernandez had to sweat out the ninth when Roger McDowell gave up a three-run homer to Philadelphia's Glenn Wilson.

Keith Hernandez drove in three runs and Wally Backman had three hits and scored three times to lead New York. Fernandez was rolling along with a one-hitter — a two-out bloop single by Garry Maddox in the second inning — before Rick Schu opened the ninth with a double, followed by a bunt single by Mike Schmidt.

Dodgers 3, Braves 0

While Los Angeles has soared to a seven-game lead in the NL West, left-hander but Rick Honeycutt hasn't felt like much of a contributor. But this time Honeycutt surrendered just two singles over six shutout innings before Tom Niedenfuer came on to get his 10th save.

He had been knocked out of three straight games since last winning on July 9 against Pittsburgh. "It's been real tough not to be able to come in and help the club with everyone else doing so well," he said.

Padres 2, Reds 0

With bullpen ace Rich Gossage out of action with a knee injury, San Diego was badly in need of relief and got it in the form of Lance McCullers. The hard-throwing right-hander, called up from Las Vegas of the Pacific Coast League, pitched 2 2-3 innings in relief of starter Mark Thurmond to preserve a shutout and earn his first save.

McCullers' effort against the struggling Reds, who have scored just three runs in their last 41 innings, saved the game for Thurmond, who started his first game since July 11. The Padre left-hander departed after suffering a pulled muscle in his left buttock in the seventh inning.

Cubs 8, Expos 7

After witnessing seven home runs, Montreal Manager Buck Rodgers called it "a Wrigley-Field-with-the-wind-blowing-out-kind-of ballgame," adding that "you can never have enough runs in this ballpark."

Chicago's Thad Bosley hit two of those homers, including a two-run game-winner in the eighth inning, as the Cubs broke their seven-game losing streak. Bosley, who drove in five runs, hit a pinch three-run homer in the sixth and stayed in the game.

"I have never accepted my role as a part-time player and I never will," the 28-year-old Bosley said.

California Angels REGGIE JACKSON blasts a home run Monday, his 521st, placing him eighth on the all-time list.

Reggie now eighth on home run list

By The Associated Press
Along with round-number milestones like 20, 30, 400, 500 and 3,000, baseball has numbers whose importance comes from the stars who stopped there — 56, 61, 714, 755 and 4,191. Reggie Jackson reached 521.

Jackson entered a new class of baseball royalty with his 521st career home run Monday night, but in a losing cause. The California Angels lost the first game of their doubleheader 6-5 to the Seattle Mariners.

The Angels won the second game 4-3, with Brian Downing hitting a two-run homer.

At 39 years of age and in his 18th major-league season, Jackson is now tied for the No. 8 spot on the all-time home run list.

"If I continue to play well, if I continue to swing the bat well, the home runs will take care of themselves. Right now I'm concerned about playing winning baseball," said Jackson.

Five hundred and twenty one is the number of home runs Ted Williams hit.

It's also the number hit by Willie McCovey, the only man not enshrined in the Hall of Fame besides Jackson to have hit 500 home runs. McCovey becomes eligible next year.

His first time up Monday, Jackson hit a 1-0 pitch from Seattle's Frank Wills into the left-field stands. With one more like that, Reggie will become one of only eight men to hit more than the Kid.

In other American League games, Texas tipped Toronto 5-4, Kansas City topped Boston 3-2, Milwaukee stopped Detroit 4-3, New York stomped Chicago 10-4, and Cleveland beat Baltimore 8-5. Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Oakland, 4-3 and 5-4.

Jim Slaton won for the first time since May 19 in the second game. He pitched six innings and was followed by Luis Sanchez. Sanchez did not give up a hit over three innings for his first save this year.

In the first game, Jackson homered and also scored on Jack Howell's homer, leading the Angels to a 5-2 eighth-inning lead, but the Mariners tied the score with three runs.

Barry Bonnell hit a two-run homer off starter Mike Witt, his first of the season. Donnie Moore came on and was greeted by Dave Henderson's 10th home run.

Alvin Davis hit his 10th homer for Seattle in the first game. Gorman Thomas hit his 25th in the second.

Rod Carew advanced on an all-time list of his own. His four hits in the doubleheader left him with 3,009 hits.

AL Roundup

Indians 8, Orioles 5
Next time Pat Tabler comes up with the bases loaded, walk him. Tabler is 22-for-34 with 54 RBIs in such situations over three years with Cleveland. He has driven in 15 runs while going 6-for-6 with the bases full this year.

Tabler singled in two runs with the bases loaded as Cleveland scored five times in the first inning. He added a run-scoring double in the ninth.

Yankees 10, White Sox 4
Ron Hassey hit two homers, helping Phil Niekro to his 295th career victory.

Hassey's second homer of the game triggered a seven-run seventh inning that broke a 3-3 tie.

Niekro, 11-9, gave up seven hits. Two of them were home runs to Ron Kittle, one of which landed on the left-field roof at Comiskey Park.

Twins 4-5, A's 3-4
Recently acquired Bert Blyleven's four-hitter, his major-league leading 17th complete game, won the opener, then 3 2-3 shutout relief innings by Steve Howe, another newcomer, helped nail down the sweep.

Blyleven, 11-12, went the distance for the 17th time this year, most in the majors. Blyleven now has 143 strikeouts, giving him the American League lead in that category as well.

Howe was making his first appearance for the Twins, who signed him Sunday.

Brewers 4, Tigers 3
Earnest Riles collected three hits and drove in what proved to be the decisive run with a single during Milwaukee's three-run uprising in the eighth inning. The Brewers scored with the help of two Tiger errors in the help.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WED., AUGUST 14, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is not good to organize or put into motion any big plans, but it is good for getting details arranged in a more satisfactory fashion.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't argue with anyone at home during the day and in the evening. Enjoy only pleasures that are not too costly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Think before you speak even one sarcastic word to a partner during daytime and in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find ways of economizing during the day, and cut down on expenses. Study your books or records carefully and make out reports.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Be conscientious. Get your appearance improved before you go out socially. Adopt a kinder attitude toward your friends.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have plans that require practical methods in order to make them a success, but in the evening, you see how to gain more prosperity.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to ask a pal for assistance concerning an interest that means much to you, so hide your time. Be patient.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't attempt to force any issues in business or personal life today. Avoid an influential person who is apt to be on the warpath.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep promises you have made and don't go off on any foolish tangents. Avoid the limelight in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to go over accounts and be certain they are correct, whether bills or collections are to be made.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't let an emotional associate confuse you today, and tonight forget all about business affairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get tasks handled that you have promised to do, and don't try to make any changes. Listen to the ideas of a blusterer tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not a day to get into pleasures that you know little about, so do your work during the day and rest up tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she is apt to be full of emotion and very sensitive, so teach to become more objective and then there can be much success during the lifetime. One who would do well in civic circles where much variety of work is required, so don't force some confining profession on your fine progeny.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
