How's that?

Consultants

Q. Does the city ever take bids for engineering consultants?
A. Engineering firms can't submit "bids" for consulting but only proposals, according to City Manager Don Davis. The city takes proposals from different firms at the start of a new project, but usually keeps the same one throughout a project.
 Usually the firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper Inc. of Lubbock acts as the city's engineering consultants on streetwork. The architectural division of the firm also is the consultant on the Municipal Auditorium restoration.

Calendar

Registration

TODAY
 • Registration for all secondary students, grades 6-12, at Goliad, Runnels and Big Spring High School is today through Aug. 23 from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.
THURSDAY
 • The application deadline for the Starlight Specials Talent Show is noon. The show is scheduled for 8 p.m. Aug. 16 in the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheater. It will have four categories that include grades kindergarten through 1985 graduating seniors. The top prize in the Senior Division will be a $250 scholarship to Howard College. Persons wishing to participate need to turn in applications to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. Forms are available at the Chamber of Commerce and the Dance Gallery.
 • The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees will meet for an ice cream supper and business meeting at the Kentwood Center at 6:30 p.m.
 • The Big Spring Humane Society will meet at 7 p.m. in the Westside Community Center.

FRIDAY
 • Texas Tech University students are invited to an ice cream supper at 7 p.m. Friday in the Dorothy Garrett Hall at the First Methodist Church on Scurry. Admission is free. The director of the Tech Ex-Students Association will be there with a video presentation. For more information, call Steve Fraser at 253-7813.
SATURDAY
 • The Howard County Youth Horsemen Club at 10 a.m. will have an open all-breed horse show in their arena on the Garden City Highway. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. The concession stand will be open and the public is invited.

Outside

Partly cloudy

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies, highs in the upper 80s and a 40 percent chance of thunderstorms. Winds are blowing southeasterly, 5 to 15 miles per hour. By Thursday, highs will be in the lower 90s and a 20 percent chance for thunderstorms will be in effect.

Coahoma's football scoreboard lies in a heap on the field following Tuesday afternoon's thunderstorm. The storm brought high winds and dumped several inches of rain in a short time. See related photos Page 5A.

Thunderstorm rips Coahoma

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer
COAHOMA — Residents here have shaken the shock they experienced from a Tuesday afternoon thunderstorm and this morning are repairing damage from high winds, pea-sized hail and heavy rains.
 The storm, which came from the east, hit the town at 2 p.m. and became heavy about 2:40 p.m. It dumped as much as 3 inches of rain in an hour, knocked out electricity, destroyed property and damaged crops.
 Most residents were without electricity for 45 minutes, but about 100 houses were without service for as long as three hours, said Hooper Sanders, Big Spring division manager for Texas Electric Service Co.
 The power outage was confined to the Coahoma area, Sanders said.
 The division manager said the company began getting calls from the area about 3 p.m. Texas Electric dispatched three crews and contracted three other crews from H.G. Caldwell Electric of Big Spring to repair the damage.
 The Department of Public Safety and the Howard County Sheriff's Office provided the service crews with a road block on First Street while repairs were being made.
 Eight spans of the service's line were blown down and the company lost seven poles, the division manager said.
 Repairs were complete by 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sanders said.
 Storm damage also forced the Coahoma Independent School District to begin shopping this morning for a new scoreboard for the football field, Superintendent Jerry Doyle said.
 The board, formerly located on the south end of the field, was found on the 50-yard line after high winds "twisted and mangled" it, athletic director Bruce Mitchell said Tuesday.
 Doyle estimated the board's value at $2,500 to $3,000.
 Farmer Donald Long of Luther said his cotton field just north of Coahoma was damaged by hail and high winds. The field received 2 inches of rain, he said.

 Also, Helen Metcalf of Coahoma said her farm, south of the town, received extensive damage in part of two cotton fields.
 She reported 3 inches rainfall.
 David Barr of Vincent said his farm received a good rain without any hail.
 Other damage in Coahoma included a $1,000 evaporative cooling unit of the Methodist Church, which was destroyed when blown from the building; a $200 window that was broken at the Coahoma Dairy Queen; and roof damage reported by several residents.
 Athletic director Mitchell was traveling east into town in his vehicle at 2:40 p.m. when the brunt of the storm hit. He said because of the heavy rains he "couldn't see 4 feet in front" of him and the winds "felt like they were picking the car up."
 His wife, Jayne, who was at home, said the storm originally looked to be just a "good rain." It was "kind of eerie" when the wind, hail and heavy rain hit, she said.
 Several residents reported winds of more than 80 miles per hour.
 Big Spring received only .05 inch of rain Tuesday, a spokesman from the Big Spring-U.S. Field Station said today. The year total for the city is now 15.74 inches, more than 4 inches above the normal 11.37, according to the station's records.
 Other area rain totals included:
 Alton Allen of 104 Hoover in Coahoma — 2 inches.
 David Barr of Vincent — 2 inches.
 Tye Renfro of the north side of Coahoma — 1.5 inches.
 Melva Swinney west of Coahoma — 1 inch.
 Donald Long of Luther — 1 inch.
 Boyce Hale of Sterling City Route, Big Spring — .04 inch.
 Bill Bomb of Colorado City — trace.
 Larry Shaw of Knott — no rain.

Coahoma cuts city secretary position

By LUIS RIOS
News Editor
COAHOMA — City council members Tuesday night unanimously approved funding for the volunteer fire department and eliminated the position of city secretary.
 The decision to terminate the position of city secretary Cindy Langston came after 1½ hours of discussion in executive session.
 During the closed session councilmen spoke to the city's other three full-time employees, Robert Helm, Arnulfo "Shorty" Hernandez and city clerk Jo Anne Keenan.

 Langston will be given a one-week paid vacation and two weeks severance pay.
 This morning Keenan said she submitted her resignation to Mayor Eleanor Garrett because of last night's decision on Langston. Her resignation will be effective Aug. 30, she said.
 "They are leaving me in a vulnerable position," Keenan said, adding that she is the only employee left to handle office duties at City Hall.

auditor Steve Stone told the council cutbacks would have to be made in certain areas.
 "We wanted to cut down on her salary but she would not accept a salary cut," said Garrett. "It was then we decided to eliminate the position. It was just a question of savings."
 The elimination of the position will save the city about $1,400 a month, Garrett said.
 The position is the second in a year to be eliminated. The council

Council OKs auditorium repairs

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer
 Councilmen Tuesday night gave the go-ahead to begin the first phase of repairs on the historic Municipal Auditorium, which has been designated as the city's Sesquicentennial project.
 Restoration of the building has been plagued with problems, including what consulting architects labeled "excessive" bids for roofing work, causing councilmen to twice reject bids on the project.
 They finally awarded the building's roofing repair contract Tuesday to a Lubbock firm, Lydick Roofing, which submitted a negotiated bid of $52,036 on the project.
 That bid includes $672 for replacing all the flashings on the roof with galvanized copper. Some of the building's copper flashings need to be replaced. Others will be covered with new flashing to provide uniform brightness.
 Lydick Roofing also has a contract to repair the same type roofs at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, said architect Dennis Clayton of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper of Lubbock, the city's architectural consultants on the project.
 The same red Spanish tile is used on the university roofs, and the roofing company manager said he had enough tile in the yard to complete the auditorium repairs, Clayton said.

 "They're a very reputable company. They've been in Lubbock since 1948," he said.
 Clayton called the Lydick Roofing bid "a very good bid." The first time the project was offered for bidding, the council received only one bid for the roofing and waterproofing work at more than double the architect's estimate.
 Lydick Roofing's bid does not include the cost of replacing any part of the roof's plywood deck. Clayton said his firm believes the only damage to the deck is between the two towers and any repair costs

Councilmen gave the go-ahead on repairs on the Municipal Auditorium Tuesday night.

Ex-disc jockey eyes musical chairs record

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer
 The Guinness Book of World Records will have a new record and the Muscular Dystrophy Association will get $50,000 if a local effort to get 5,000 people to play musical chairs becomes a reality Aug. 31.
 Jay McKay, former disc jockey for radio station KQIP in Midland, is organizing the event, scheduled to take place at the Big Spring

Airpark.
 The organizing committee met Tuesday and will meet twice a week for the next two weeks to plan the record-breaking event, McKay said.
 The next meeting will be Friday at 2 p.m. at the Western Sizzlin' on Fourth Street. All interested persons are invited to attend.
 The present musical chairs record listed in Guinness's book claims more than 4,800 participants, McKay said. He said he got the idea for beating the record while he was reading a list of unusual occurrences on the air at the radio station.
 Participants will be charged $10 each and should bring their own chairs. The winner will take 10 percent of the money raised to his organization or favorite charity, McKay said. The rest of the money, McKay hopes, will be presented by the winner to Jerry Lewis, host of the M.D.A. Labor Day Telethon, which broadcasts live from Las Vegas, Nev.

 McKay said getting someone on the stage with Lewis is difficult, but his group is going to "give it their best shot."
 The winner's expenses will be paid to Las Vegas, if the trip can be arranged, he said.
 McKay has done several "crazy" things to help the M.D.A. effort, he said, such as sitting in a hot tub in the Big Spring Mall for 72 hours

Estes charged with sexual assault

BILLIE SOL ESTES free on bond.

ABILENE (AP) — Paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes was free on $10,000 bond after being charged with sexually assaulting a Mexican widow and mother of six who had come to Abilene to be his housekeeper.

Estes, 60, was arrested Tuesday after Abilene police conducted a three-week investigation into the allegation by the 38-year-old Mexican woman that he raped her in an office building July 26.

He made bond about three hours after his arrest and was released from Taylor County Jail, a sheriff's deputy said.

Abilene Police Detective Greg Knight said the case probably will be brought before a grand jury in the next few weeks.

Estes, who has been on parole twice while serving a 15-year sentence for his multimillion-dollar swindle involving non-existent fertilizer tanks and federal agriculture loans, has not made a statement to police about Tuesday's charge.

Asked for comment by the Abilene Reporter-News as he was leaving jail, Estes said, "I don't have any comment. Thank you for your time, though."

District Attorney Jorge Solis said Estes was initially "very congenial and cooperative" with the investigators but said "he'd like to exercise his right to remain silent."

Knight said Estes was arrested at the office of his parole supervisor "to save him the embarrassment of being arrested in front of his business associates."

He said he did not know what Estes' current business is.

According to an affidavit filed by Solis with Taylor County Justice of the Peace Samuel Matta, Estes' alleged victim said she came to Abilene from Fort Stockton, after traveling there from Mexico for a job that didn't pan out.

Knight said she was in the U.S. legally on a 15-day work permit.

Solis said the woman told police she arrived at an Abilene motel about 2 a.m. July 26 "for the purpose of doing domestic work for Billie Sol Estes."

Tropical storm stalks Texas coastline

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Louisiana kept a sharp eye southward this morning as tropical storm Danny inched its way northwest, triggering a hurricane watch along the coast.

Offshore oil companies began bringing workers ashore from Gulf of Mexico rigs. Coastal residents began stockpiling fresh water, flashlight batteries, gasoline and canned goods.

"We're trying to gain more information so we can report to the governor on the possible impact of the storm if it hits Louisiana," said Tom Creaghan, assistant secretary of the state's Office of Emergency Preparedness.

At 8 a.m., the National Weather Service said the storm was located about 350 miles due south of New Orleans.

"The coastal parishes have already gone through their checklists. If we step up precautions, it will probably be this afternoon," Creaghan said.

"I'm sure by tomorrow (Wednesday) the storm will be in striking distance of us," Pete Picou Jr. said Tuesday night. "It will probably be early in the morning (Wednesday) when we go on full alert."

Picou is civil defense director for swampy Cameron Parish, which butts against the Texas border. Cameron probably has felt the wrath of more hurricanes than any other place in Louisiana.

This time, however, the National Weather Service had a hurricane watch hoisted since 5 p.m. CDT Tuesday over Louisiana's entire Gulf Coast — a 275-mile-plus stretch.

"A hurricane watch," the National Weather Service said, "means that hurricane conditions could occur within 36 hours."

The watch area included New Orleans and its surrounding parishes, whose combined population totals about two million.

They were the same precautions urged with the approach of all previous hurricanes, including Camille in 1969. Though there have been other storm threats since, Camille was the last killer storm to devastate Louisiana.

Gasoline was selling briskly in Metairie, a suburb of New Orleans.

"I sold nearly $1,000 worth of gas in the first three hours," said Albert Lewis, who works the 10 p.m. to 8 a.m. shift at a Metairie service station. "It usually takes about nine hours to do the amount of business I did in the first three hours."

Forecasters said Danny probably would be declared a hurricane sometime later today.

"Right now, it's a period of increased watchfulness," said Creaghan.

"We're moving now on the best information we have. Certainly, we'll be very watchful through the night. We also have surveyed all the parishes and they are already doing preparatory actions," Creaghan said.

Police Beat

Man arrested on city warrants

A 22-year-old Big Spring man was arrested early today in Midland on Big Spring warrants for burglary of a habitation and retaliation.

Ricky Dale Payne, 22, of 509 Johnson remains in city jail today after being transferred from Midland.

A case against Payne on the two charges was being presented to the Howard County grand jury, which began meeting Tuesday.

Payne had been released July 5 on $20,000 bond for a charge of sexual assault.

Police arrested Jimmy Long, 43, of Oklahoma City, Okla., in the 400 block of State on suspicion of public intoxication and a bond forfeiture warrant for driving while intoxicated.

Two stopwatches were reported stolen from the lab in the northwest corner of Hall-Bennett Hospital at 411 E. Ninth between 6:30 p.m. Monday and 3 p.m. Tuesday. The stopwatches, in full nickel cases, are valued at $168.

William Sprinkle Jr. of P.O. Box 3334 told police someone stole his sons' two bicycles from the Western Sizzlin' at 309 Benton between 4 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Monday.

The bikes, a three-speed, 26-inch model and a blue 10-speed 26-inch model, are valued at $125 total. The bikes were stolen while the youths were at work.

Raymon Conner of 620 N.W. Fourth told police he was assaulted by a man he knows at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the 300 block of N. Lancaster while on his way home. The man struck him in the right shoulder with his fist.

Conner earlier had reported to police that a man he knows used abusive language to him during an argument at 7:15 p.m. in the 200 block of N.E. Second.

Sheriff's Log

Deputies make 5 arrests Tuesday

Howard County sheriff's deputies made several arrests Tuesday.

Delia Moreno Samora, 41, of Ackerly was arrested for fines she owes the county. She was released after paying $186 to the county clerk's office, according to a sheriff's report.

Twayne Bledsoe, 25, of 705 Cherry was arrested on a warrant charging him with revocation of probation. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Vivian Bledsoe, 63, of 705

Cherry was arrested for $441 in fines he owes the county. He remains in county jail.

Joe Torres, 21, of 500 N.W. Seventh was arrested Tuesday on a warrant charging him with issuing a bad check. He was released on $200 bond.

Elojia Acuna Wilson, 47, of Lubbock pleaded guilty Tuesday to theft of more than $20 and less than $200 judgment. She was sentenced to 30 days in county jail by County Judge Milton Kirby.

Sales increase tax rebates

Big Spring and Midland show significant increases in retail sales so far this year as compared to Abilene and San Angelo, according to the barometer of sales tax rebates from the state.

Big Spring's figures indicate a 10 percent increase, year-to-date from this time in 1984, and Midland tops the area list at almost 16 percent. Abilene's gain from 1984 is less than one-half a percent while San Angelo posted a modest 6 percent gain.

The payments cities will receive soon from the state represent taxes collected on sales made in June and the second quarter.

Big Spring will receive a sales tax rebate of $218,616, compared to $184,255 during the same time period of 1984. Last year at this time, Big Spring had received $983,082 in tax rebates. So far this year, the city has received $1,080,979.

This year's increases, however, are not a precise measure of retail sales growth because the 1984 Legislature approved a major increase in the sales tax base. Officials projected about a 5 percent increase due to the lifted tax exemptions.

Coahoma showed a 5 percent decline. The city will receive a check for $4,106. So far this year, Coahoma has received $24,185 in sales tax revenue, a decline from last year's $25,553.

Howard County has received sales tax revenue in the amount of $1,117,923 so far this year. This is a 10 percent increase from last year's $1,015,115.

Social Security office celebrates birthday

The Social Security Act is having a birthday, and the Howard County Social Security office is inviting everyone to the festivities.

Fifty years ago today, then-President Franklin Delano Roosevelt signed into law what some consider his most wide-reaching social legislation.

The Social Security Act provided for retirement benefits for the elderly, many of whom were destitute during the decade of the Great Depression that spawned FDR's "New Deal."

In celebration of the 50th anniversary of the signing of the act, the Howard County office will have an open house from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. today.

The open house will be in Room 229 of the Post Office Building at 501 Main. Also in commemoration of the act's signing, Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel has proclaimed today "Social Security Day."

From its small Depression-era roots the program has grown into one of the largest federal bureaucracies and one of the most common methods of planning for retirement.

"We've become many people's whole retirement program. We weren't meant to be, but we've turned out to be," said Bruce Carter, director of the Howard County Social Security office. "Ninety-five percent of the population is covered in some way by Social Security."

Nationally, 37 million beneficiaries receive $182 billion a year in retirement, survivor and disability benefits, Carter said.

His 16-employee office now issues $2.1 million a month — $25.2 million annually — to 5,144 Social Security and 686 Supplemental Security Income beneficiaries, Carter said.

would be minimal. In addition, the city also awarded the contract for waterproofing the walls and sealing the windows to the low bidder, Western Waterproofing Co. Inc. of Dallas, for $13,995. Those bids had been tabled at a previous meeting, pending the award of the roofing contract.

Western Waterproofing will begin its work Aug. 19 and complete it by Sept. 9, according to a memo to Clayton.

City council members also took the first steps Tuesday to apply for designation as a Texas Main Street city. The project, which has been instrumental in rejuvenating the downtown districts in other Texas towns, selects five cities a year to participate in a three-year program.

The city would have to fund the salary and office expenses of a Main Street manager, an experienced architect and planner. Funding details for the project have not been determined but will be worked out before the next council meeting, City Manager Don Davis said.

Coahoma

voted to eliminate the Coahoma Police Department earlier this year.

Coahoma Volunteer Fire Department spokesman Brian Jensen asked the council to consider administering a fund for the purchase of fire-fighting equipment.

Jensen asked the councilmen that $1,000 be taken out of the city's 1 percent sales tax rebate on a monthly basis to administer the fund. The city collected $35,000 last year in the sales tax rebate, Jensen said.

However, the council approved a measure proposed by Mayor Pro Tem Barbara Robertson to provide the department with $1,000 to initiate the fund and then to allocate $750 on a monthly basis.

The fund will be administered by the council after the current budget is amended. The council also will have to approve any purchases made by the volunteer fire department.

Despite the new city fund, the fire department still is seeking donations to help purchase other equipment, said Fire Marshal Bob Sullivan.

The department is looking to replace 20-year-old equipment, he said, adding that the fire truck's drive shaft fell off two weeks ago enroute to a mobile home fire.

State

A hurricane watch was in effect today from Port Arthur eastward to Mobile, Ala., as Tropical Storm Danny continued to move northwestward in the Gulf of Mexico.

The National Hurricane Center also warned that small craft along the Texas coast should remain in or near port today.

The storm's location at 5 a.m. today was near latitude 25.0 north and longitude 89.8 west or about 350 miles south of New Orleans.

Forecasters said they expected the storm to continue its present court at 10-15 mph for the next 12 hours and said they expected it to turn to a more northerly direction later today.

Nun sues card company

CHICAGO — A greeting card company being sued by a Roman Catholic nun says it has pulled cards bearing her picture from the market and has offered to donate its profits from the card to her order.

However, an attorney for the nun said she would pursue her lawsuit against the company, California Dreamers Inc. of Chicago.

"If they think they can commercially exploit someone, embarrass them and laugh it off by saying, 'Now we'll give you the money we got wrongfully,' they've got another guess," said William Linklater, attorney for Sister Candida Lund of the Dominican order.

Another chemical leak

INSTITUTE, W. Va. — Union Carbide Corp., already criticized for its emergency warning systems during a poison gas leak that injured 135 people near one plant, faces new scrutiny after a non-toxic leak at another plant two days later.

The company acknowledged shortly before the second leak, Tuesday night at its South Charleston plant, that the computer system it used to track chemicals in the poison gas leak here was not programmed for the chemical involved.

Carbide has blamed the system for a 20-minute lag in reporting to emergency officials the leak Sunday of aldicarb oxime, a dangerous pesticide ingredient.

G-Dynamics' ban lifted

WASHINGTON — The Navy, lifting a three-month ban on awarding new contracts to General Dynamics Corp., has resumed its former relationship with the defense contractor, which had to bow to demands to settle disputed expense claims in several contracts.

Everett Pyatt, assistant Navy secretary for shipbuilding and logistics, announced Tuesday that the Navy had lifted the ban and cleared the way for awarding more than $680 million in new contracts, including more than $600 million for a new Trident missile submarine.

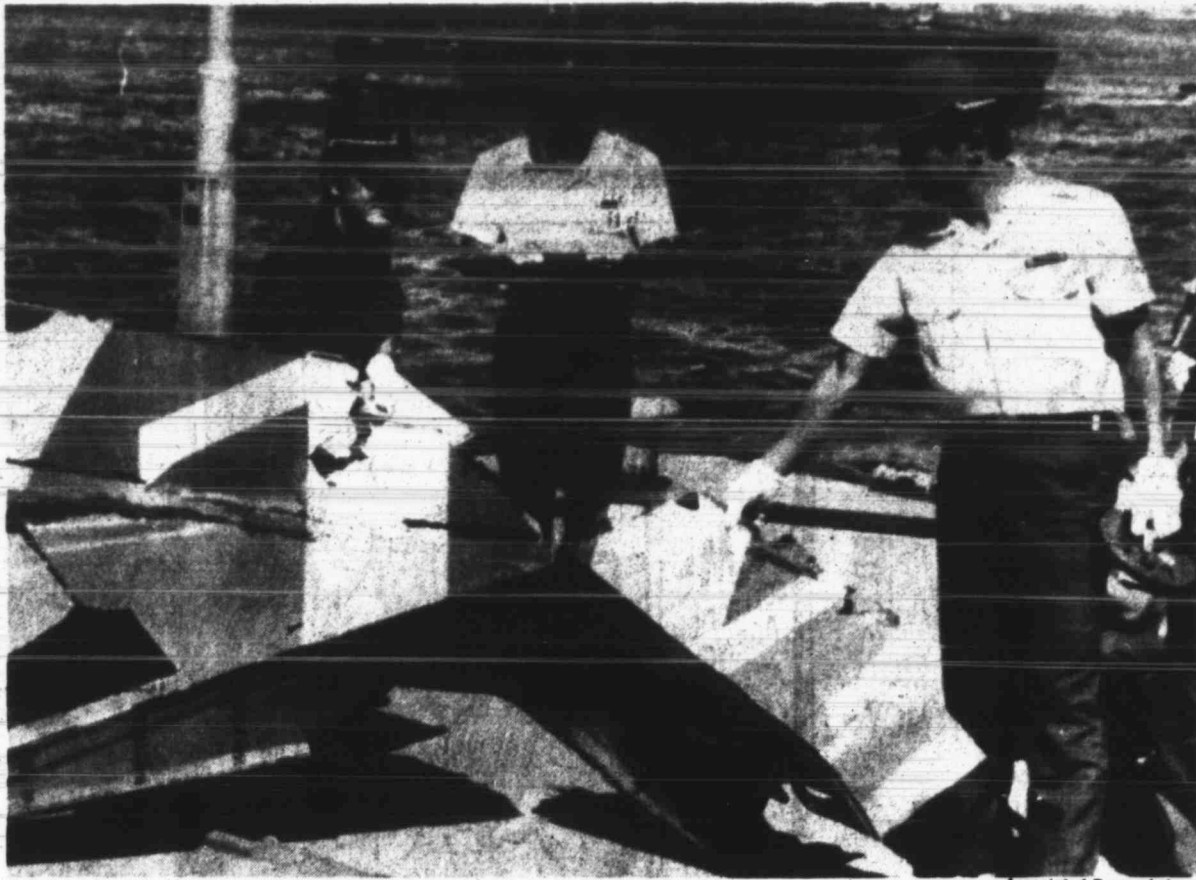

He said the Navy's relationship with General Dynamics was now "back to normal," but added: "I hope the lessons here are far broader than what General Dynamics may have learned. I hope the whole defense industry has learned we take these bills seriously."

Hotel tycoon dies at 84

WASHINGTON — John Willard Marriott, the son of a poor Utah sheep rancher who parlayed a small root beer stand into one of the world's most prominent hotel chains, is dead at the age of 84.

The hotel tycoon, whose Washington-based company grew to include chains of restaurants as well as airline and institutional feeding services, died Tuesday afternoon at his summer home in New Hampshire, said Terry Souers, Marriott director of corporate public relations.

Souers said he did not know the cause of death, and that to his knowledge, Marriott had not been ill recently.

Flight attendant recalls crash of 747 jumbo jet

FUJIOKA, Japan (AP) — An off-duty flight attendant told officials today the crash of a Japan Air Lines jetliner with 524 people aboard was preceded by a "big noise," a sudden drop in cabin pressure and a "wild yawing," the airline said.

Yumi Ochiai, 26, told two airline directors from her hospital bed she saw damage to a ceiling above a rear lavatory, but did not know whether a fuselage door blew out prior to the crash.

Mrs. Ochiai was sitting in the rear of the JAL Boeing 747 when the jumbo jet went down Monday in a remote mountainous area in central Japan.

She is one of only four people known to have survived the crash crash, the world's worst air disaster involving a single aircraft. JAL officials made her comments public.

By mid-afternoon, 109 bodies were delivered to a school gymnasium in Fujioka, about 25 miles from the crash site, where more than 1,700 relatives and friends brought in by JAL waited to identify them.

A police spokesman at Uenamura, command post for the recovery operation, said there was only the "remotest chance" of finding more survivors.

Searchers today found the plane's two flight recorders, and maritime officials announced two more pieces of aircraft debris had been found in the sea off the Japanese coast.

The black boxes, painted bright orange for visibility, keep track of cockpit conversations and flight data. They could help determine why the jetliner plowed into a mountaintop while on a flight from Tokyo to Osaka.

Mrs. Ochiai, who has been a JAL flight attendant for about two years, suffered pelvic and arm fractures. She was listed in "relatively stable" condition in a hospital here.

According to JAL spokesman Geoffrey Tudor, she told the officials the crash itself was a series of "three jolts," with seats and cushions flying. She said the next thing she knew, a helicopter was flying overhead.

"I waved but it didn't notice me," she said. "I fell asleep. I woke up to a man's voice. It was morning."

JAL officials said Mrs. Ochiai was seated in the 56th of the plane's 60 rows.

She said oxygen masks came down and a "white cloud" swirled through the cabin. Airline officials suggested it was condensation from sudden pressure loss.

There was no announcement from the cockpit but a purser made an "emergency announcement," and a stewardess instructed the passengers to put on life jackets and assume a "crash position," Mrs. Ochiai said.

The pilot reported to Tokyo air controllers he had problems with a "broken" door in the rear of the cabin, a loss of pressure, and could not control the plane.

Yoshinubu Shibakawa, a spokesman for the Gunma prefecture (state) police, said the two recorders were found shortly after 2 p.m. (1 a.m. EDT) on a valley below the site where most of the wreckage is scattered.

The recorders were impounded by officials of a Transport Ministry investigating team at the crash site, Shibakawa said.

A Maritime Safety Agency spokesman in Yokohama said the debris found today in Sagami Bay south of Tokyo included an air-conditioning duct and a small plastic-and-metal fitting, evidently from the tail section.

Tudor said a vertical tailfin fished out of the ocean Tuesday was positively confirmed as having come from the JAL jumbo jet.

The trapezoid-shaped piece was the top and leading edge of the vertical stabilizer that holds the plane's rudder.

Tudor said the jetliner was involved in a 1978 accident in which its lower tail section was damaged. He said the plane sustained "minor damage to the rear lower fuselage, a section under the tail plane" when landing at Osaka Airport in June 1978.

Tudor said the portion had been "completely replaced" by the Boeing Commercial Airplane Co., makers of the jumbo jet. Boeing spokesman Bill Mellan in Seattle declined to speculate on whether the 1978 incident contributed to Monday's crash.

Guerrillas bomb Kabul

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Islamic guerrillas have stepped up their offensive against Kabul, bombarding the Afghan capital almost nightly with rockets and fire bombs, Western sources said Tuesday.

They said hundreds of government and Soviet troops have been deployed around the city to try to stop the attacks.

The diplomatic sources, speaking on condition they not be identified further, said reports from Kabul described guerrilla attacks on government and Soviet military installations in and around the city. Government security forces have conducted house-to-house searches across the city to try to unearth guerrilla hideouts and arms dumps, they said.

Food supply increases

ROME — World food production increased more than 4 percent last year, but food shortages and distribution problems in Africa became more acute, the U.N.'s Food and Agriculture Organization said.

The Rome-based FAO's 1985 World Food Report released Tuesday called the food production increase in 1984 "one of the best results of the past decade."

The increases were concentrated in the United States, Western Europe, and some of the larger developing countries such as China and India, the report said.

However, while the world's agricultural situation got better overall, conditions in Africa worsened, partly because of "differences in production performance between the developed and the developing countries," the report said.

Pope: Fight corruption

BANGUI, Central African Republic — Pope John Paul II brought his African pilgrimage to this landlocked, impoverished country today and made a strong plea for self-reliance and a fight against corruption.

Armored cars sped along both sides of the runway as the pontiff's jetliner touched down after a 75-minute flight from Cameroon. Crowds were barred from the airport, which was ringed by combat-ready French and national troops.

After a six-hour visit, John Paul was to fly to Zaire — the fifth of seven countries on his 12-day tour of Africa.

Welcomed by a tribal drums and African rhythms, the pope celebrated an open-air Mass before several thousand people along the Avenue of the Martyrs.

Car bombing kills 12

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A car bomb exploded today outside an apartment block in a densely populated suburb of Beirut, killing at least 12 people and injuring 75 others, police said.

The Christian radio station, The Voice of Lebanon, said three children were among the dead, but said rescuers had found a 9-month-old girl alive in the debris of a devastated eight-story building.

The fate of the baby's parents was not known.

The bombing occurred at mid-morning in the poor neighborhood of Sadd El-Boushrieh, setting off fires in a cluster of industrial compounds, the radio said.

Some good news on curbing AIDS

By any standard, it is a remarkable achievement. Just two years after the nation learned that deadly acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) could be transmitted through blood transfusions, scientists have announced that a new test for the AIDS virus has virtually eliminated the risk of AIDS-tainted blood reaching the shelves of blood banks.

The announcement means that medicine has closed one small but unpredictable avenue of the spread of the fatal disease — 2 percent of the 12,067 AIDS cases reported to the federal Centers for Disease Control have been traced to donated blood. According to studies conducted since the blood screening test became available in March, the procedure picks up virtually all units of blood that contain antibodies to HTLV-3, the virus that causes AIDS. Equally important, the success of the blood test should put to rest public fears that donated blood, intended as a gift of life, can transmit AIDS death.

The success in eliminating AIDS from donated blood does not mean the disease is at bay. Far from it. The number of people infected is steadily rising, and the disease has moved beyond the original risk groups, homosexual men and intravenous drug users.

But the recent announcement is a visible sign of how far scientists have come in a short time in their understanding of the mysterious epidemic. To develop the blood test, it was necessary first to understand that the disease was caused by a transmissible agent, then to isolate that virus, a little-understood retrovirus, and the antibody associated with it, and finally to develop a test signaling the presence of the antibody.

All this was accomplished despite what most scientists and public health officials regard as inadequate funding from the federal government. It is a remarkable achievement — and a promise, finally, of future progress in combating a disease whose hallmark has been its hopelessness.

We'll be just like Archer City, Texas

To the editor: I am writing in regard to Mary Dupree's letter about the ridiculous "mug shot" law that our outstanding city council has passed.

I have never been charged with anything nor have the police ever been called to my place. This law they have passed is arbitrary and unconstitutional, and is just another way to belittle and intimidate a small group of Big Spring businessmen. This very attitude is why Big Spring is going downhill fast.

Mr. Cuadra who is trying to rebuild our worst eyesore — The Settles Hotel — is dreaming if he thinks he will get any help from Big Spring.

About her comment on new industry, the city council and people who advise their every move don't want any new industry as it would cut in on their business and also bring new and up-to-date wages to Big Spring.

Our city council will only be happy when every building is boarded up and the tumbleweeds are blowing down the streets as happened in Archer City, Texas.

Prisons punish by taking freedom

To the editor: I recently read your article titled "Life at Club Fed." I want to compliment you on your understanding that criminals are sent to prison as punishment, not to be punished. The total control over inmates' activities and their loss of freedom is the real price which they pay.

Minimum security correctional facilities frequently are labeled as "luxurious" and an impression is left in the public's mind that their hard earned tax dollars are being wasted. Nothing could be further from the truth. In the Federal Bureau of Prisons, our minimum security Federal Prison Camps cost from one-third to one-half less to operate per inmate than higher security institutions. This is possible because minimum security inmates require less staff and other security measures in order to insure the appropriate operation of the institution.

Another popular fallacy of minimum security correctional facilities is that inmates spend all their time sitting around or participating in recreation programs (e.g., playing softball, volleyball, etc.). In reality, all medically fit inmates in the Federal Bureau of Prisons are required to work either producing goods for Federal Prisons Industries or in institution service jobs such as maintenance and food service.

Again, I want to thank you for your comments. In closing, I might note that one important ingredient for the success of any correctional institution is its relationship with the community in which it is located. The interest in and support of our work by the citizens of Big Spring, Texas has always been deeply appreciated by the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

Downtown growth and high cotton

To the editor: I would like the people to know in our area and also the ones who come here from other cities to our V.A. Hospital how grateful all of us should be for this institution of doctors, nurses, other staff and personnel.

Recently a relative from Haskell who was very ill came here for treatment. In our estimation he was given the best of care even though he has a chronic illness.

This area of West Texas is blessed with good hospitals. We should all be grateful and say a prayer for being lucky to live where we can be taken care of in case of illness or accident.

With the promise of a good cotton harvest and the city trying so hard to fill vacant buildings in "old downtown," we think Big Spring is a good place to live. Let's all show courtesy to our tourists, our neighbors and friends. Remember it doesn't take as many wrinkles to smile as it does to frown.

From a little seed money, a big canal project grows

WASHINGTON — A problem with federal budgets is that they often include modest items for preliminary research or "feasibility studies" that are destined to grow into billion-dollar boondoggles in succeeding budgets.

Even this year, when Congress and the White House are desperately looking for ways to trim unnecessary items from the budget, one unpublicized but egregiously unworthy project appears likely to make it into the final list of necessities. That's because its initial demands are so piddling — a mere $8 million for a feasibility study.

The Cendak irrigation project would crisscross six counties in South Dakota with canals, bringing Missouri River water to 474,000 acres of farmland and nearby towns. The ultimate cost is estimated at $1.3 billion.

Even Cendak's backers concede that it is a reincarnation of the earlier Oahe water project, which was killed by the united opposition of South Dakota farmers — whom the project was supposed to help. They realized it would cost them both money and land.

Now a coalition of 2,000 farmers is battling Cendak for the same reason — and pointing out that for the cost of this dubious irrigation project, the debts of all the state's farmers could be wiped out.

The project has even aroused the derision of federal engineers from the Bureau of Reclamation, assigned to make it look good. After contemplating the staggering drainage problems that Cendak would entail, the engineers began circulating humorous memos when their objections were ignored.

One memo, which gave rules for playing the "Cendak Drainage Game," suggested that bureau officials were glossing over the serious problems.

A second memo, taking off from the movie "Star Wars," is entitled "Drain Wars" and has bureau officials playing such roles as Luke Pipewalker, Princess Leakie and Han Manholo. The villain's role, Darth Vadosezone, is assigned to Herb Greydanus, a consultant hired by the state to promote the project. Greydanus told us he was not offended, because he hadn't seen "Star Wars."

Between the two needling memos, bureau officials reassigned engineers working on the Cendak project, explaining that the engineers had been unable to come to an agreement. But bureau sources told our associates Corky Johnson and Donald Goldberg that the engineers were pulled off the job because they questioned the practicality of the project.

Here are some of the serious problems raised by Cendak critics:

- A Reclamation Bureau draft report estimates benefits of $1.02 to $1.29 for every dollar spent. "The creative genius necessary to come up with that benefit-cost ratio will boggle your mind," states the Drain Wars memo. In fact, the official draft acknowledges that it used unapproved methods to arrive at the figures.

- The supposed benefits include $9.5 million for South Dakota's ailing railroads for hauling the extra crops farmers will grow. Opponents criticize this back-door method of subsidizing railroads.

- In a preliminary study, the Army Corps of Engineers estimates that a less ambitious Missouri River pipeline could provide water to towns in the same area for about 30 cents less per 1,000 gallons.

- More than 100,000 acres of woodlands, wetlands and grasslands essential to the area's wildlife would be destroyed by the Cendak project, and critics estimate some 600 wells will be contaminated by pesticide runoff.

- Congress has tentatively agreed to fund $1.7 million toward the feasibility study, which was supposed to cost $6.2 million, but which the bureau admitted a year ago would eventually cost more than $8 million.

- Footnote: Reclamation Bureau officials said they are not committed to building Cendak but want to finish the feasibility study before making a decision.

WATCH ON WASTE: On the golden anniversary of its creation, the National Labor Relations Board staged a nifty five-day excursion for 157 Washington and regional officials at a resort in Clearwater Beach, Fla. An agency spokesman said it was the first time in nine years that top regional and headquarters brass had gotten together. The bill for the affair, including lodging, meals and travel, came to $110,000.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

A few random observations

By KEELY COUGHLAN
Random observations while wondering when the Detroit Tigers are going to get pennant fever again:

- Ever notice how the Hotel Settles seems to draw clouds and lightning like the old Gothic condominium in "Ghostbusters"? One day the lightning is going to strike the building and something — your imagination is as good as mine — is going to emerge from the dust-covered penthouse.

- And then again, if San Antonio developer Gil Cuadra can't do anything with the building, he could always rent it out for the inevitable sequel.

- I finally saw a line outside of a Big Spring moviehouse a couple of weeks ago, and experienced the first sold-out show.

- It's not that Big Spring's become the movie mecca of West Texas, however. It's just that the Ritz Theatre has evidently on an extended summer vacation — like the Jet Theatre with its "opening, soon" sign.

- "Soon" is in the eyes of the beholders — or in this case, the Midland corporation that has the leases to the buildings.

- On another note, it would be nice if the building were ever leased to anyone committed to fixing it up. It's a shame that the Ritz can't be restored to at least some of its former Art Deco beauty as part of the city's Main Street downtown revitalization project.

- Similar Roaring '20s theaters in Dallas such as the Village Theatre, the Granada and the Majestic Theatre have been kept up or renovated and now house community theatre groups and moviehouses that show classic films, film festivals and foreign films. A theatre with such a limited appeal might not work here but maybe such an idea might be combined with current features.

- This has been a year for weddings. Billy Joel and Bruce Springsteen have both tied the knot. My brother's gotten engaged, and now they tell me Doug Flutie, Mr. Heisman himself, got married this weekend.

- Fortunately, only one of these people will expect a wedding present from me.

- Somebody told me the baseball strike was over, but that's bad news to Arlington Strangers fans. Every day Eddie Chiles' group of losers doesn't play is a day the team doesn't sink further into the cellar.

- But what I'm wondering is if Texas will ever truly get a major league baseball team. But why am I worrying? If they get it, they'll trade it away for a half-dozen players destined never to surface above the Double A farm level.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Aug. 14, the 226th day of 1985. There are 139 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
Forty years ago, President Harry S. Truman announced that Japan had unconditionally surrendered, ending the hostilities of World War II. Capitulation came several days after the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and after Emperor Hirohito called upon Japan's war council to give up.

On this date:
In 1900, international forces — including U.S. Marines — entered Peking to put down the Boxer Rebellion, which was aimed at ridding China of foreigners.

In 1917, China declared war on Germany and Austria at the start of World War I.

In 1935, the Social Security Act became law, creating unemployment insurance and pension plans for the elderly.

In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill signed the Atlantic Charter.

In 1951, newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst died.

In 1969, British troops intervened in Northern Ireland as sectarian violence between Protestants and Roman Catholics increased.

In 1973, the U.S. bombing of Cambodia ceased, marking the official end to 12 years of American combat in Indochina.

Protesting world war three

By STEVE DAVIS

The cuisine was excellent consisting of fresh fruit, date bread and health foods. The accommodations left something to be desired as all bar ditches do...One unidentified soul awoke one morning actually floating high and dry on her inflatable mattress! Nevertheless, the spirits of all the people that I met were buoyant, way above water line, which is to be expected of young intelligent men and women who are really involved in what they are doing, and believe in it.

These people weren't taking their hard-earned company vacation time and spending it in St. Kitts or Paris. They were camping outside a nuclear weapons plant. The horrifying reality of what was happening in the huge gun-turreted complex just north of Amarillo did not put a damper on anyone's attitude.

A firm spirit of cooperation and love pervaded all, giving hope like a candle in a dark well. Children chased each other and laughed and sang just a few thousand feet from a complex designed to assemble weapons capable of stopping them in their tracks, reducing them to ashes in mid-song.
People young and old exchanged stories and information freely.

Those that were capable of understanding the significance of the plant looming in the distance would often suddenly quiet themselves and look inward at the mirror of their own souls, experiencing chillers and quickly passing shivers despite the scorching hot weather. Only knowing glances and acceptance would meet these brief moments by the others.

I experienced one of these passing moments of anxiety and loneliness as the sun set in magnificence on Tuesday evening. I sat alone at the edge of the furrowed field facing west, feeling the sharp edges of the barbed-wire fence that surrounds the Pantex plant, wondering "why?" I had just come to the camp and was yet unable to sing aloud and laugh with my new friends. It seemed so easy to them.

As the sun set the whole camp fell silent in prayer for a very long time. I sat alone with my back to them, for I had claimed the sunset first while they were still inside a nearby tent. It was mine and I was unwilling to give it to them to enjoy also. Unknown to me the entire peace camp had linked arms in a human prayer chain 20 feet behind me.

As darkness came tears crept into my eyes as I compared the two conflicting realities of the beautiful sunset and the horrible plant and all its capabilities. I turned my head and saw the people standing behind and something broke inside me. I rose without a will of my own and followed two lead feet to join them in prayer.

The dark clouds that had been gathering to the north and south of the camp had seemed to be converging on us in anger as if the Lord was saying, "You cannot question the wisdom of those who have authority over you!" Yet as the clouds grew ever closer we stood united against the twisting tendrils of rain and startling flashes of lightning, and the storm passed over us leaving us unscathed, in its eye, wondering at the beauty of the sun that, forty years ago, had set on a smoldering Japan. It was then that I knew that there would be no world war three, for our prayers had been heard.

Steve Davis of Box 2644, Big Spring, was among the protesters at the Pantex weapons plant near Amarillo last week. The demonstration was sanctioned by the Fellowship of Reconciliation, a Catholic peace organization with goals aimed toward non-violent social change.

Councilmen plan sports complex

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

A 40-acre tract of land donated by oilman Ted Groehl will be the site of a new softball and multi-sports complex, city councilmen decided Tuesday night.

The land, located outside city limits, is bordered by Willard Street on the north and Parkway Avenue on the east. It will replace the Industrial League's playing fields at Johnny Stone Memorial Park, which the city has been asked to vacate by Jan. 1.

Steve Fraser of the Big Spring Softball Commission presented to the council a petition with 800 signatures calling for the construction of a four-field softball complex.

Fraser said the city needs to build a four-field complex to draw big-money tournaments. In the past, the city has drawn major tournaments but fields have declined into a state of disrepair and no longer draw those tournaments, he said.

City Manager Don Davis said the Parks and Recreation Board and city staff have discussed creating a multi-sport facility that would accommodate soccer, flag football and other sports, as well as softball.

Other West Texas cities such as Abilene, San Angelo, Midland and Lubbock have developed such complexes recently. However, the construction cost of a similar complex would exceed $300,000, according to a memo to the council from City Public Works Director Tom Decell.

The city would need to determine funding for the project and would have to consult a parks planner for the construction, Davis said.

In other business, the council agreed to a change order on street repairs on N.W. Second that would include the construction of a French drain, or storm sewer, near the Scurry Street intersection, to divert groundwater from the area.

According to an engineer with the project, the groundwater level rose to within an inch of the street base during replacement of a pipeline on the street. Estimated cost would be $9,000.

Councilmen also agreed to add water and sewer line to service Thorpe and Seminole Streets, which originally installed their own lines.

lines, and to install lines for better service to the west side of Runnels Street from the 1900 to the 2400 blocks. Pressure in both areas has been inadequate and the Seminole area currently does not have enough water flow for fire protection.

In other action, the council:

- Awarded contracts for the first phase of work on the Big Spring Airport runway to the apparent low bidders, South Texas Construction Co. of Midland bid $648,530 for the paving project and Gifford Electric Inc. of Fort Worth bid $123,286 for the lighting.

- Appointed the Lubbock firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper as engineers for the second phase of the airport improvements project.

- Tabled consideration of the Convention and Visitors Bureau Budget, presented by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, until after the council considers its own budget next week. The chamber is asking for $128,000, a 6 1/2 percent increase from the $120,000 budget last year.

- Discussed possible lawsuits for delinquent taxes in a closed executive session, but took no action.

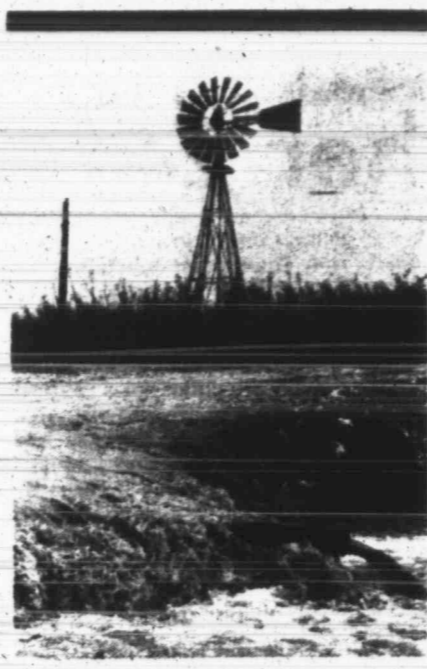

- Awarded the bid for police radio maintenance to Motorola of Midland, the low bidder at $1,022 a month.

- Approved specifications for chemicals for the city's water and sewer plants; for bids for insurance; for advertising space on the back of the water bill; and for gasoline and diesel fuel supplies.

- Approved emergency resolutions for paving eight streets under the city's voluntary paving assessment program. Streets to be paved are: Carey, from Third to First; the 1800 block of Dixie; Seminole, from Thorpe to the north end of the street; Dixie, from 14th to 15th; 11th Street, from Gregg to Scurry; Bell, from 16th to 17th; Anna, from Seventh to W. Highway 80; and W. Third from Lockhart to Carey.

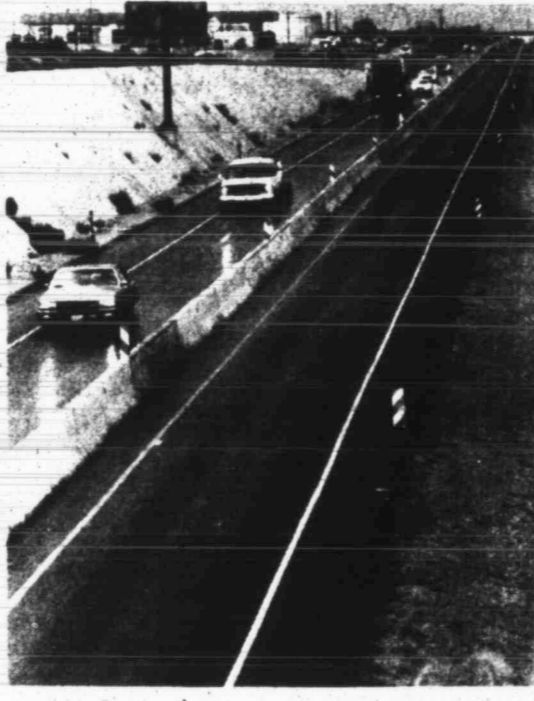

- Increased the funding for the Chamber of Commerce's CLEAN program $2,000 to match additional grant funding the program received.

- Agreed to lease Building 607 at the airport to Fiberflex Products Inc. for $675 a month to maintain its fleet vehicles.

Karl Flugel prepares a meal at his World Famous restaurant in Del Rio. The German native is hopeful that his lodge, bar and cafe will become a little touch of Germany.

Flugel's fricassee

German chef adds flavor to Del Rio

DEL RIO — The yellow and black portable billboard reads: World Famous Schnitzel Cordon Bleu. Today's Special: Karl's Burger.

Karl Flugel greeted patrons as they entered his tiny restaurant, called World Famous, located in the Del Rio Motor Lodge on Avenue F or U.S. Highway 90 West.

Flugel is a friendly man with sparkling eyes, bearded face, quick smile and casual attire. He was wearing a knit sport shirt, bermuda shorts, tennis shoes, a stylish cap and white apron.

"What would you like?" he asked with a distinct German accent. "But, please, no Karl's Burgers," he teased. "I am sick of making them."

Karl's Burger is as close as you'll get to a hamburger, so if you're in the mood for a Big Mac, drive on. Flugel's creation is a chopped sirloin cooked in a spicy cream sauce and served "mit" German style fries or potato salad at lunch or "mit" home fries, a vegetable, soup du jour, homemade or imported bread, butter and salad for dinner.

Guests are encouraged to relax. "Please allow for all orders 15 to 20 minutes since everything is cooked to your personal specification," the menu says.

Flugel is a new comer to Del Rio, having lived in the United States off and on for 17 years. A native of Bonn, West Germany, he arrived in the West Texas town in May to take over ownership of the Del Rio Motor Lodge, bar and cafe. His business is being remodeled. Meanwhile, he is "feeling out" the tastes of Del Rio residents and area diners.

He plans to rename the motor lodge the Innsbruck Inn before next year's telephone directory is published. He is changing the bar — currently closed for remodeling — into Flugel Gast Haus, and he is making World Famous into an exclusive restaurant.

"I don't want to run a bar. I want to run a restaurant," Flugel said flatly. "I don't care for cocktails. I would rather specialize in wine and beer." Eventually, he plans to start a beer club of the world.

"My idea is eventually having 50 imported beers." He said the beer would be purchased from a San Antonio distributor. Flugel must first obtain a carrier permit to transport it to Del Rio.

The gast haus will typify a German guest house, serving such dishes as schnitzel, rouladen and sauerbraten. The adjacent restaurant, seating 25 to 28 people, will be a "small place for people who really like good meal," Flugel said.

The guest house will have an a la carte menu. "Here (at World Famous) it will be different. There will be a choice of various meals which I put together from day to day. There will be three variations of a five-course meal that I will prepare myself."

Man tries to clear death of father 24 years later

AUSTIN (AP) — Twenty-four years after his father's death, Don Marshall is in an Austin courtroom this week trying to clear his father's name by having the death declared a homicide instead of a suicide.

At the time of his death, Henry Marshall, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official, was investigating Billie Sol Estes. Estes, a flamboyant West Texan who claimed ties to Lyndon Johnson, eventually was convicted of fraud over a non-existent fertilizer business.

Estes gained more attention last year when he told a Robertson

County grand jury that Marshall had been killed on orders from then-Vice President Johnson.

Marshall's body was found June 3, 1961, on the family farm in Robertson County, north of Bryan. Five bullet holes marred his body. He also had inhaled carbon monoxide.

A 1962 grand jury in Robertson County ruled the death a suicide. But a 1984 grand jury reopened the case, heard testimony from Estes, and ruled the death a homicide. The grand jury issued no indictment or comment on the claim that Johnson was involved, saying only that those involved with the murder were dead.

In state District Court before Judge Peter Lowry on Monday, Don Marshall and his mother, Sybil Marshall, asked that the cause listed on Henry Marshall's death certificate be changed from "gun shot wounds — self-inflicted" to "gun shot wounds — homicide."

Marshall said he only recently learned that the listed cause of death could be changed.

Assistant Attorney General Lou Bright said a judge can order a change in a death certificate if there is a satisfactory showing that the information listed is wrong.

Official was investigating con man BILLIE SOL ESTES (pictured here) at time of the Department of Agriculture agent's death.

Child abuse ruling targets clergymen

Attorney general's opinion will require priests to report all cases to police

AUSTIN (AP) — An attorney general's opinion saying state law requires even clergymen to report cases of child abuse could cause serious problems for the clergy in Texas, church officials say.

"I would go to jail before I would ever admit anything that was brought to me in confession. I don't know a priest that wouldn't do the same thing," said Monsignor James Jamail, pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in southwest Houston.

Attorney General Jim Mattox released an opinion Monday saying a priest or minister is legally bound to report cases of child abuse, even if he learned of it from an abuser who admitted it in confession.

The 1975 law "requires a minister of an established church to report evidence of child abuse when confidentially disclosed to him by a parishioner," the opinion said.

Mattox also said state law doesn't give the clergy exemption from being required to testify in court proceedings involving child abuse.

"I would go to jail before I would ever admit anything that was brought to me in confession. I don't know a priest that wouldn't do the same thing."

Monsignor James Jamail, pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in southwest Houston.

An attorney general's opinion customarily carries the weight of law and remains in effect unless overturned in court or by the Legislature.

Several religious leaders said the opinion conflicts with church law and practices.

Tammy Ederly-Dowd, a canon lawyer with the Diocese of Austin, said a Catholic priest cannot violate the promise not to repeat what is confessed, "unfortunately even at the expense of the children."

The canon law of the Catholic church, she said, explicitly states that it "is a crime for a confessor in any way to betray a penitent by word or in any other manner, for any reason."

If the confidence is broken by the priest, she said, the penalty is automatic excommunication that can be reversed only by the Vatican.

"Nobody can defend child abuse. But if we make it difficult for a person to go to his clergyman with a problem, and if we make the clergyman a criminal if he doesn't go to the police, then we're taking a bad situation and making it worse," said Brother Richard Daly, a lobbyist for the Texas Catholic Conference.

Ex-POW tells story of prison camp life

AUSTIN (AP) — Former World War II prisoner John Allen McCarty does not like to tell his war stories. But he is recounting them on behalf of fallen soldiers who cannot tell their own.

"I feel like I owed it to them to tell it the way it was," the 70-year-old Henly rancher said during a break at a book-signing party.

McCarty's 33 months in a prison camp in the Philippines are recounted in the new book, "Cabanatuan, Japanese Death Camp."

McCarty was captured when Bataan fell April 9, 1942. After a 65-mile forced march, he was loaded onto a box car and sent to a POW camp in the Philippines.

"During the first hour I was captured, the Japanese killed seven Americans and a Filipino. Any soldier who had any article made in Japan or Japanese money was tried and executed on the spot. They were bayoneted and clubbed to death," McCarty said.

After several months, McCarty was transferred to the Cabanatuan camp.

Here is how McCarty sums up 33 months in captivity:

"Fence in a bunch of animals with one water spigot. Throw in a little feed every once in a great while. That's what it was like. We had no sanitary facilities. We weren't allowed shoes, blankets, razors, soap, water to wash with, no clean clothes.

"I prayed a lot. Sometimes I prayed to live, sometimes I prayed to die. Sometimes death seemed better than living in those conditions," he said.

McCarty was joined at the Sunday book-signing by Dripping Springs lawyer Vince Taylor and Bill Butler, an Army Ranger who helped liberate the POW camp where McCarty was held. Taylor and Butler wrote the book.

"I love him like a brother," McCarty said of Butler. "I owe my life to him and the rest of those Rangers. I would never have gotten out of there if it hadn't been for them."

"Conditions were deplorable," said Butler. "The remaining prisoners were nothing but skin and bones."

McCarty weighed 71 pounds when freed with 510 other prisoners on Jan. 30, 1945.

East Germany celebrates construction of Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — East German children gave flowers to Berlin Wall guards on Tuesday, 24 years after the barrier was built to stop illegal emigration to the West. At least 74 people have been killed trying to cross it.

Reporters on the East Berlin side of the Brandenburg Gate area saw the school children present flowers to the soldiers, shake their hands and thank them for their duty.

An East German man, also carrying flowers, went to the wall and said he wanted to celebrate his 80th birthday there.

A festive atmosphere prevailed as families took group photographs along the structure.

The part of the wall running past the gate, which is in East German territory, had been painted a gleaming white for the occasion. The West Berlin side of the wall is covered with graffiti.

East Germany's communist authorities started building the concrete wall Aug. 13, 1961, to stop a stream of illegal emigration through West Berlin, the part of the divided city protected by U.S., French and British troops since 1945. Berlin is 110 miles inside East Germany.

Western authorities say 74 people are known to have been killed while attempting to flee to the West over the wall, which is guarded by soldiers in watchtowers.

East Germany officially calls the barrier the "anti-imperialist protective wall."

"The soldiers watch that no one from there (other side of the wall) comes here and hinders the building of our socialist state," the reporters on the Western side heard a teacher tell his class.

On Monday, Heinrich Windelen, West Germany's minister for inter-German relations, said the wall was "painful evidence of the inner weakness and insecurity" of the communist government in East Germany.

In a commentary Tuesday, Neues Deutschland, the daily newspaper of East Germany's ruling Communist Party, said that when the wall was built, "the nationalistic, revanchist agitation against the first socialist state on German soil had reached an unprecedented high point."

"Mass media in the Federal Republic (West Germany) were heralding the impending invasion of the West German army through the Brandenburg Gate," it said.

Anti-apartheid demonstrators, led by actors, civil rights leaders and mayors, march by the Washington Monument Monday as they call on the Reagan Administration to impose sanctions on South Africa.

Top celebrities stage anti-apartheid rally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Entertainment world celebrities joined prominent politicians and religious leaders in the capital to back the growing anti-apartheid movement and urge the government to get heavy handed with South Africa.

Singer Harry Belafonte accused the Reagan administration of being "unwilling to lend its power" to stop South Africa's racial separation policies, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson said "a large moral force" is unifying in the nation to push for a change in those policies.

They were among thousands of demonstrators who marched Monday from the Lincoln Memorial to the State Department, calling on the administration to renounce its policy of "constructive engagement," or quiet diplomacy, and take stronger action force change in South Africa.

Among the marchers were actors Paul Newman and Tony Randall, mayors Ed Koch of New York City, Marion Barry of Washington and Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., civil rights activist Coretta Scott King, NAACP Executive Director Benjamin Hooks, Walter Fauntroy, the District of Columbia's congressional delegate; Judy Goldsmith, outgoing president of the National Organization for Women, and the Rev. Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

They carried 50 coffins symbolizing the South Africans killed in growing violence since the white-minority government imposed a state of emergency 23 days ago.

Speaking to the crowd that police estimated at 5,500, Koch said all countries should end relations with Pretoria.

"What we are seeing today in South Africa is akin to what we saw in 1933 in Nazi Germany. We turned a blind eye to Germany in 1933, and it cost thousands of lives. The U.S. should unilaterally end all diplomatic and economic relations with South Africa unless and until that regime ends apartheid and martial law against the South African people, and then ask the United Nations to do the same," Koch said.

"We should not wait for the death camps that occurred 10 years later in Nazi Germany. We should have acted in 1933 and we should act in 1985," Koch added.

"There is a large moral force in the community coming together," said Jackson, the Chicago-based civil rights leader who ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic presidential nomination last year.

Herald recipe exchange

Fruit is easy summertime treat

By CAROL BALDWIN
Lifestyle Editor

We've had a Recipe Exchange reader request. Catherine Baca is looking for a recipe for "Beer Biscuits."

If you have a favorite beer biscuit recipe, please share it with the Recipe Exchange at P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas, 79720.

Today's Exchange features a variety of desserts. A piece of fruit alone is a good summertime treat, but some of the recipes here show other ways to use fruit. Other recipes include various pies and cakes.

If you have recipes to share or are looking for a recipe, please write the Herald Recipe Exchange.

FRUIT GLAZED MALLOW PIE

1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1 7-oz. jar marshmallow creme
1 3-oz. jar lemon flavored gelatin
¾ cup boiling water
½ cup cold water
1 9-inch baked graham cracker crust
1½ cups sliced assorted fruits

Combine cream cheese and marshmallow creme, mixing with electric mixer or wire whisk until well blended. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add cold water. Reserve ½ cup gelatin; let stand at room temperature. Gradually add remaining gelatin to cream cheese mixture, mixing until blended. Chill until thickened but not set; mix until well blended. Spoon into crust; chill until firm. Arrange fruit on top of pie; top with reserved gelatin. Chill until firm.

EASY LEMON MERINGUE PIE

1 3-oz. pkg. lemon pudding and pie filling
¾ cup sugar
Juice of 1 lemon
1½ cups water
3 egg yolks, well beaten
Grated peel of ½ lemon
1 (8-in.) baked pie shell

In saucepan, combine pie filling mix and sugar. Gradually blend in lemon juice and water until smooth. Stir in egg yolks. Bring to a full boil over medium heat. Boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add lemon peel and pour into baked pie shell. Top with meringue, sealing well at edges. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes. Cool 2 hours before serving. MAKES 6 servings.

REAL OLD FASHIONED LEMONADE

Juice of 6 lemons (1 cup)
¾ cup sugar or to taste
4 cups cold water
1 lemon, unpeeled, sliced in cartwheels
Ice cubes

In large pitcher, combine lemon juice and sugar; stir to dissolve sugar. Add remaining ingredients; blend well. Makes 6 cups.

Variation: Substitute honey to taste for sugar.

1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
2 Tbsps. sugar
2 Tbsps. milk
1½ cups halved strawberries
1 pkg. (4-serving size) instant pudding - vanilla or lemon flavor
1½ cups cold milk
1¾ cups thawed non-dairy whipped topping

Combine crackers and butter and press into bottom of 8-inch square pan. Chill. Beat cream cheese with sugar and 2 Tbsps. milk in bowl until smooth. Spread evenly in crumb-lined pan. Arrange strawberries on cream cheese mixture. Prepare pudding mix with 1½ cups milk as directed on package for pie filling. Fold in ½ cup of whipped topping. Spoon over strawberries and chill until set, about 2 hours. Garnish with remaining whipped topping and additional strawberries, if desired. Cut into squares. Makes 9 servings.

STRAWBERRY BELGIAN WAFFLES

4 frozen waffles
1 pint strawberries, hulled and halved
2 Tbsps. confectioners sugar
2 Tbsps. orange juice (optional)
½ tsp. grated orange rind (optional)
1 cup thawed non-dairy whipped topping
Toast waffles as directed on package and place on dessert dishes. Combine strawberries, sugar, orange juice and rind. Stir until sugar dissolves. Spoon onto waffles and top with whipped topping. Makes 4 servings.

STRAWBERRY PUDDING FREEZE
1 cup cold milk

1 pkg. (4-serving size) instant pudding, vanilla flavor
1½ cups thawed non-dairy whipped topping
1 pint strawberries, sweetened and mashed

Pour milk into bowl and add pudding mix. Beat slowly with hand beater or at lowest speed of electric mixer until blended, about 2 minutes. Blend in whipped topping and strawberries. Pour into shallow pan and freeze until firm, about 4 hours or overnight. Serve in ice cream cones or dessert dishes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

NOTE: 1 package (10 oz.) quick thaw strawberries, thawed and pureed, may be substituted for fresh strawberries.

OATMEAL PIE CRUST
½ cup 3-Minute Brand oats

¾ cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup chopped nuts
6 Tbsps. butter or margarine
2 Tbsps. sugar
Stir together oats, flour, nuts and sugar. Cut in butter till crumbly. Press into a 9-inch plate. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Cool completely.

ANGEL FOOD CAKE

1½ cup sifted cake flour
1½ cup sifted granulated sugar, divided
1½ cup egg whites (10-12 large egg whites)
¼ tsp. cream of tartar
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 tsp. almond extract
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Sift flour and ½ cup sugar together three times on waxed paper; set aside. In large mixing bowl beat egg whites on high speed until frothy, about 20 to 30 seconds. Add cream of tartar and salt. Whip until whites are almost stiff, but not dry, about 2 to 2½ minutes. Reduce mixer speed to low and gradually add remaining ½ cups sugar, about 1 minute. Stop and scrape bowl. Sift about ¼ of flour-sugar mixture over egg whites. Fold in gently with spatula just until flour-sugar mixture disappears. Repeat until all flour is incorporated. Sprinkle vanilla and almond extract over batter and fold gently. Pour batter into ungreased 10 inch tube pan. Run spatula around edge of pan and through middle of batter to remove air bubbles. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes or until top springs back when lightly touched with finger. Remove from oven, turn pan upside down. Cook cake in pan 1 hour or until completely cool. (If pan has no "feet" on which to rest, invert over neck of bottle.) Turn cake right side up and loosen around edges and around central tube with a thin, metal spatula or knife. Remove cake gently from pan.

For a richer dessert, slice fresh peaches and bananas and mix with blueberries. Serve over cake topped with whipped cream.

HEAVENLY GRAPEFRUIT PIE

3 to 4 Ruby Red grapefruit
2 envelopes (2 Tbsps.) unflavored gelatin
2 eggs, separated
½ cup plus 2 Tbsps. sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 pkg. (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 cup dairy sour cream

1 baked 9-inch pie shell or oatmeal pie crust (see recipe)
3 drops red food coloring (optional)
Maraschino cherry
Peel 1 grapefruit, cutting away all rind. Carefully remove sections, set aside for garnish. Halve and juice remaining grapefruit. Strain juice, measure 1½ cups. In small saucepan, soften gelatin in ½ cup of the juice, then dissolve over low heat; set aside. Pour remaining juice in blender container. Add egg yolks, ½ cup of the sugar, salt, cream cheese, sour cream and food coloring, if desired. Whirl smooth. Add dissolved gelatin; blend 5 second more. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites with 2 Tbsps. sugar until stiff; fold into gelatin mixture. Pour into pie shell; chill. To serve: Garnish with grapefruit sections and cherry.

MANGO COLADA

2 ripe mangos, peeled and diced (1½ cups)
3½ cups chilled unsweetened pineapple juice, divided
2 Tbsps. lime juice
2 tsps. honey
½ tsp. ground ginger
In the container of an electric blender place mangos, 2 cups of the pineapple juice, lime juice, honey and ginger. Cover and blend until smooth. Stir in remaining 1½ cups pineapple juice. Serve in tall glasses over ice garnished with lime slices.

PLUM SQUARES

¼ pound stick butter, cut in 8 pats
½ cup confectioners' sugar
2 large eggs, separated
1 cup stirred all-purpose flour (spooned into measure and leveled)
½ cup granulated sugar
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
½ cup plum jam
½ cup walnuts, finely chopped
Cream butter and confectioners' sugar; beat in egg yolks. Stir in flour until blended. Pat over bottom of an ungreased 8-inch square cake pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until edges are golden - 10 minutes; remove from oven but leave heat control at 350 degrees. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in granulated sugar until stiff; beat in lemon juice. Spread jam over partly baked layer; top with egg white mixture; sprinkle with walnuts. Bake 25 minutes longer. Place pan on wire rack; cool completely. Cut in squares.

RUBY SALAD AND HAM KABOBS

1 Ruby Red grapefruit
8 strawberries, halved (fresh or frozen)
2 tsps. each honey and lemon juice
1 small avocado, peeled and cut in wedges
Parsley
6 cubes (1 inch) ready-to-eat ham (about 6 ounces)
4 cubes (1 inch) yellow cheese (about 4 ounces)
2 skewers (wood or metal)
Halve grapefruit. Remove segments with serrated grapefruit spoon or curved knife. Combine segments with berries, honey and lemon juice. Refrigerate. Pull out and discard membrane from shells, reserving shells. Thirty minutes before serving time, spoon marinated fruit into shells. Garnish with avocado wedges and sprigs of parsley. Thread ham and cheese cubes on skewers. Place on shallow pan. Slide under preheated broiler. Broil until golden, turning skewers frequently. Arrange skewers on plates, alongside fruit salads. Serve with hot rolls or french bread.

GRAPEFRUIT UPSIDE-DOWN BREAKFAST

¼ cup plus 1 tsp. brown sugar, divided
1½ cups grapefruit sections
2½ cups milk
½ tsp. salt
½ cup farina
2 large eggs, well beaten
¼ tsp. grated grapefruit peel
Butter five 6-ounce custard cups; sprinkle each with two tsps. brown sugar and top with 2 to 3 grapefruit sections. In a large saucepan bring milk and salt to a boil. Stir in farina and remaining 1 Tbsp. brown sugar. Boil 1 minute or until thickened; cool slightly. Stir in eggs and grapefruit peel. Spoon into prepared custard cups. Cool. Cover. Refrigerate overnight. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until golden. Cool 5 minutes. Loosen sides with a small spatula and unmold onto serving plate. Serve with remaining grapefruit sections.

Coconut is variation for fruit dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Fanciers of coconut sometimes use it to advantage in easy-to-make desserts.

The late Jim Beard, who had such a salutary influence on American cooking, loved a dessert I served to him on occasion. It is a simple Spanish Cream made as usual with unflavored gelatin, eggs, sugar, milk and vanilla to which I add flaked coconut.

In summer other fans of coconut enjoy it teamed with the season's fresh fruits. Peaches and strawberries plus bananas, for example, make a luscious combination when layered and topped with coconut. If you like, you may accompany this dessert with Honey Cream as suggested in the following recipe.

FRESH FRUIT
COCONUT DESSERT

3 peaches, sectioned
2 medium bananas, sliced
1-quart container strawberries
1½ cups (about) flaked coconut
Honey Cream, see recipe

Layer half of the peaches, bananas and strawberries in a serving bowl; top with half of the coconut; repeat. Chill. Serve with Honey Cream.

Makes 6 servings. (Recipe may be doubled.)
Note: You may wish to use combinations of fruits different from the ones given. Here are two suggestions:

Orange sections, sliced strawberries and halved seedless grapes, plus bananas.
Sliced peaches and blueberries plus bananas.

HONEY CREAM: Whisk together 1 cup sour cream, 1 tablespoon honey and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Chill. Makes 1 cup.

Carrot juice is no longer only for drinking

Those who rebelled against eating carrots during childhood might be surprised to learn that the daiquiris they enjoyed at a recent neighbor's party may have been seasoned with a slug of carrot juice.

This is one of the latest vegetable extracts featured in supermarkets.

The 12-ounce can found in the vegetable juice section contains the juice of two pounds of carrots.

Many take carrot juice straight with a little lemon, over ice. Others combine it with such fruit juices as orange, apple or pineapple.

Carrot juice plays other roles too. It makes an excellent base for soups, stews, sauces and salad dressing.

But what is most surprising is that the juice can also serve as the liquid used in making cookies, cakes, pies and other sweets.

Carrots are known to be good for your health. The juice is an excellent source of Vitamin A.

Yogurt not necessarily low calorie

COLLEGE STATION — Yogurt can be a dieter's delight — or downfall.

According to a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist, it all depends on the type of yogurt you eat.

"Yogurt's calorie count depends on the butterfat content of the milk from which it is made," says Dr. Alice Hunt. "The more butterfat, the higher the calories."

One cup of nonfat plain yogurt contains about 90 calories, while the low-fat type has about 150 calories and the whole milk product can have 180 to 210 calories.

Many of the new custard-style or creamy style yogurts use whole milk, Hunt says. The fat from the whole milk adds flavor and creaminess, but also makes some of these products almost equal to ice cream in calories.

"Dieters should also consider the serving size on yogurt products," says the nutritionist, "since more manufacturers are using six-ounce containers instead of eight-ounce containers for the higher calorie yogurt."

She cautions consumers to note the serving size when comparing calories among yogurt products. "A six ounce container of a higher-fat yogurt may have the same number of calories as an eight-ounce cup of low-fat yogurt because the serving size is reduced."

Flavoring in yogurts is another source of calories a dieter may want to avoid, says the nutritionist.

Flavored yogurts contain two to three times more calories than plain yogurt, with the extra calories coming from fruit and sugars such as sucrose, fructose, corn sweetener or honey.

Whether you eat high-calorie or low-calorie yogurt, but have one big plus, says Hunt. Most yogurts contain about 350 milligrams of calcium per serving which is about 35 percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance.

Broiler consumption is up in U.S.

While Americans are eating about the same number of eggs as in the past few years, broiler consumption is up.

Per capita consumption of eggs has stood at 261 the past two years while broiler consumption increased by two pounds, point out Dr. David Mellor and Dr. James Denton, poultry marketing specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Per capita broiler consumption increased from 50.8 pounds in 1983 to 53 pounds last year. Consumption of other chicken meat averaged about 3 pounds per person while turkey consumption held steady at 11.2 pounds.

In 1970 the average American ate 309 eggs, 36.8 pounds of broiler meat and 8 pounds of turkey.

Texas continued to rank sixth among the states in total receipts from poultry production, note Mellor and Denton. Gross receipts for 1984 totaled $575.2 million, up sharply from the $500 million recorded in 1983 due to increased egg, broiler and turkey prices.

Average price of a dozen eggs in Texas last year was 82 cents compared to 70 cents in 1983. At the same time, the live weight price for broilers increased from 30 cents a pound in 1983 to 35 cents last year and live weight turkey prices increased from 38 to 51 cents per pound.

The state's egg industry is also ranked sixth in the nation with receipts of $217.4 million. Texas' broiler industry is ninth with receipts of $294.7 million, point out the specialists.

Commercial broiler production in Texas is concentrated in eastern counties.

Robert Aldridge named Psychiatric Aide of Year

Robert Aldridge was given the Psychiatric Aide of the Year award today in ceremonies at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Aldridge is a native of Big Spring. He began working with the hospital in January of 1977. His first assignment was on Unit 4 - Psychiatric. Two and a half years ago he transferred to the geriatric unit. According to co-workers at the hospital, "Robert exhibits a fantastic ability to understand the patients' needs and help them to feel at ease with themselves and their surroundings."

Co-workers also said, "His enthusiasm for his job makes him quickly take on new duties such as becoming an instructor of training in learning the management and prevention of aggressive behavior. Because he takes his own training seriously, he was able to perform the Heimlick maneuver on a choking patient recently, thus preventing a potential disaster."

ROBERT ALDRIDGE ...Aide of the year

Self-testing tools for health checks popular

Last year, American consumers spent more than $350 million for diagnostic tests and devices that they can use in their homes, according to a recent issue of Reader's Digest.

Sales of pregnancy-test kits are rising at a 15 to 20 percent annual rate. The tests are more accurate for positive results than for negative - 98 percent accuracy when the test is positive, but only 82 percent when negative. "If a woman gets a negative result, she is advised to take another test a week later, unless she has her period in the interim. If she does as directed, the level of negative accuracy rises to 94 percent. Occult blood tests, designed to reveal hidden blood in the rectum, can indicate cancer, colitis and ulcers. The test can be performed at home for between $4.50 and $7.50. A positive finding gives strong motivation for checking with one's doctors.

'Love builders' reinforce marriages

Successfully married couples have a special way of relating to each other - they practice special "love-builders" to reinforce their marriage.

Long-term success in marriage does not mean just staying together, marriage counselor Nathaniel Branden wrote in Red-bog Magazine.

A crucial factor in a happy marriage is the care such couples take to express their love for each other every day, said Branden, executive director of the Biocentric Institute, a counseling center in Beverly Hills, Calif.

"There is no better way to improve our chances for a successful relationship than by studying the behavior of those who have achieved the success to which we aspire," Branden said. "Other people's success can both inspire us and teach us, if we are open to learning."

Branden described the behavior of happy couples this way:

They express love verbally, with physical affection such as hand-holding, hugging and cuddling, and they express love sexually.

Branden said happy couples express their appreciation and admiration of each other, giving both partners a feeling of being appreciated and valued. They also participate in mutual self-disclosure, trusting each other above all others.

They offer each other emotional support, exchange gifts and help each other with chores and work; they accept demands and put up with shortcomings, and they create time to be alone together.

"Small kindnesses and gestures make your partner feel valued and appreciated, and make him value and appreciate you in return," Branden said. He offered a list of "love-builders" he guaranteed would make a marriage happier and more satisfying.

Dear Abby

Letters astonish mom

DEAR ABBY: The day I sent my 13-year-old son off to camp, while cleaning his room, I came across some letters he had received from his "girlfriend." Abby, they left me numb! Apparently he is sexually involved with her. She's 14. He is very popular and a good kid, but I never expected anything like this! My inclination is to ground him when he comes home and not let him out of my sight, but I know that is not the answer. He returns in two weeks. Please help me.

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When your son returns, have a heart-to-heart talk with him, but keep your cool when you tell him what you know. Then make sure he knows everything a sexually active adolescent should know; otherwise a mother (or father) may appear at your door with a pregnant teenager — then it will be too late.

Don't assume that in providing your son with the information he needs to prevent venereal disease or accidental pregnancy you are condoning his sexual activities. You're not — you are being realistic. Since he is already sexually active, you must teach him sexual ethics and sexual responsibility.

The sex drive, a God-given natural urge in all of us, is one of the most difficult to control, so like it or not, it's the parents' responsibility to see that their sexually active children don't get themselves — or anybody else — in trouble.

DEAR ABBY: How can a man change so much in one year? My husband used to be a loving, caring, sexually alive man. We were considered an ideal couple who never argued.

He quit smoking a year ago (doctor's orders), and how he's turned into an arguing, complaining person who finds fault with everything I do. He goes to bed mad about something every night. He lies there like a log and never makes a move toward me — no hug, kiss or even a caress.

He has eaten himself into clothes two sizes larger from snacking from the minute he comes home from work until he goes to bed.

I long for some love and companionship. If it weren't for the children, I would seriously consider leaving him.

He refuses to talk, so we can't even talk about what's bothering him. He wasn't this way before he quit smoking. I almost wish he'd start smoking again.

How do I get a conversation going with him? Please answer soon. My marriage depends on it. I love the guy, but he's not the man I married.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband has obviously undergone a personality change. He's unhappy, and is either consciously or unconsciously trying to punish you.

His having quit smoking may or may not be related to his sudden change in personality and behavior. This should be reported to his physician. If he doesn't report it, you must. There is something either physically or psychologically wrong with him.

***

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a married man who's in love with another woman, yet shares a home and bed with his wife and takes her on planned vacations? His wife is not well mentally and practically lives on medication.

The question is, should a man who is in love with another woman, be taking his wife on vacations? Is he doing it out of duty, obligation or guilt? Family functions I could understand, but planned vacations?

Please help the other woman to understand.

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: The man in question could be taking his wife on planned vacations because he wants to. (He could even "love" her.) What you should "understand" is that if he had intended to leave her for you, he probably would have already done so.

Dr. Donohue

Chelation therapy reviewed

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I suffer from severe coronary artery disease, which in the past 27 months has caused two heart attacks. My doctor and cardiologist tell me I'm not a candidate for surgery since an operation would not improve my condition anymore than my medicines will. I am taking high blood pressure and angina medicine now.

Recently, I read a book about chelation, the use of a drug called EDTA. The writer claims some good results are made from it in cleaning of the arteries and rejuvenation of your cardiovascular system. My cardiologist said the method has been in existence for some time for treating lead, mercury, and other toxic poisonings.

It occurs to me to ask that if it can do all that, why hasn't the American Medical Association looked into the matter? Also, why don't the insurance companies complain about enormous bypass operation costs when the chelation method can do just as well? — J.D.S.

The American Medical Association and others have looked into the question of chelation therapy and find that it does not do what it purports to do — dissolve fatty buildup in arteries.

It's true that EDTA is useful for removing toxic accumulations of certain metals from the body. And it's natural to assume that if it can do that it should be able to remove calcium (another metal) from the plaques on heart arteries and thus improve circulation. But even if it did that (and that is not yet proven) it would still leave the rest of the buildup — the cholesterol, fibrin, and blood platelets.

entails more than just EDTA; that it involves taking of vitamins, minerals and enzymes. But the efficacy of that part of the therapy remains unproven as well.

If and when scientific proof is forthcoming that proves the effectiveness of this use for chelation I will be the first to stand and say go for it. Until then I cannot recommend it.

I realize that chelation therapy

Local couple win second in bridge tourney

LAS VEGAS, N.M. — Willene and Carlos Humphrey, 2506 Rebecca, won their section and second overall in the President's Pairs, a one-day championship designed for players with less than 100 masterpoints.

The championship was held earlier this month at the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel. There were 392 players competing.

The contest was among seven North American Championships, 12 lesser title races and 70 other events which drew 11,000 players to ten days of competition here. Card players of every class and skill compete during the meet which became the world's largest with more than 5,000 players in action simultaneously.

Make plans for retirement

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Anyone planning for retirement within the next two years should be taking certain steps to ensure a smoother transition from the workforce to the ranks of the retired.

Frederick H. Sandstrom of Fleet National Bank here says it's very important to set your personal retirement plans in advance so you can assess their impact on your finances. Sandstrom says the most important thing that should be done is a complete analysis of the funds a person has to work with.

"In addition to listing cash, other assets that should be included are: Investments such as stocks, bonds, real estate, pensions, life insurance as well as tangible personal property such as home furnishings, collections, automobiles, and jewelry," he says.

Government mints new coin

MEXICO CITY — A new 5-peso coin that is smaller and cheaper to mint than the current one will be put into circulation Wednesday by the Bank of Mexico.

The coin measures just .68 inches in diameter, about one-third smaller than the coin it replaces. It has a yellowish color because of its content of 92 percent copper, 6 percent aluminum and 2 percent nickel.

Bank officials said the new coin costs only 1.45 pesos ($.004) to make, while the old coin cost 8 pesos ($.024) to mint.

About 900 million of the new coins will be minted in the coming year, at a cost of 1.3 billion pesos ($4 million) for the metal. The metal for the same number of old coins would cost about 7.2 billion pesos ($21.8 million), according to the bank.

MEXICO CITY — The National Air Controllers Association has threatened a nationwide strike on Sunday unless its members receive the 100 percent wage increase they have demanded.

"It is impossible to continue working with the lowest wages of the airline industry,"

Moises Gonzalez Cervantes, secretary-general for the union, told reporters.

Air controllers and dispatchers currently earn between $181 and $272 a month except those in the capital, who earn $424 a month, Gonzalez Cervantes said.

The union says its members have not received a pay hike since 1978.

More than 100 domestic and international flights were delayed or cancelled last weekend when the controllers walked off the job for 13 hours to press for negotiations.

The slowdown ended when the director of the government's National Service of Mexican Air Space promised that the union's demands would be negotiated with federal transportation authorities.

Another union spokesman said delays and cancellations would end only when the union signed a new contract.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico — At its current growth rate, the population of metropolitan Guadalajara could exceed 5 million within 15 years, according to the vice president of the College of Civil Engineers of Jalisco state.

Mexico's second largest city now has a population of more than 3 million, or about two-thirds of the people in Jalisco. At the beginning of this century the capital city accounted for just one-tenth of the state's population.

Victor Leal Mora called on state and city officials to use existing laws to prevent the population explosion. Otherwise, he said, authorities must be prepared for innumerable social problems and huge demands on municipal services.

MEXICO CITY — A record 25.7 million cubic meters of water are stored in reservoirs nationwide, ensuring irrigation for extremely good harvests this season, the Department of Agriculture and Water Resources announced.

The department said the stored water and a good rainy season guarantee bean, sorghum and corn crops far above the spring-summer harvest of 1984.

KGB agent to stand trail on fraud charges

AUSTIN (AP) — A self-described KGB agent went on trial Monday in federal court on charges of defrauding an Austin man of thousands of dollars after promising to secure the release of the man's son from captivity in Vietnam.

Bratislav Lalic, 33, a native of Yugoslavia, is accused of swindling Douglas F. Pierce of $46,000.

Pierce's son, John, was on board an oil drilling ship that sank during a typhoon in the South China Sea 200 miles off Vietnam's coast in the Gulf of Tonkin on Oct. 25, 1983.

The younger Pierce and 80 other crewmen aboard the Glomar Java Sea, owned by Global Marine Drilling Co. of Houston, were believed to have drowned. More than 30 bodies were recovered but John Pierce's was not among them. The elder Pierce, hoping his son was still alive, offered $100,000 for his son's return.

According to the indictment, Lalic, posing as an officer of the KGB named Alexander Ivanov, contacted Pierce and told him that his son was in a Hanoi hospital and that the Soviet Embassy would assist in his repatriation.

Sales fuel state tax rebates

AUSTIN (AP) — Fueled by retail sales growth and a broadening of the tax base lawmakers approved last summer, Texas sales tax collections are up this year.

The state comptroller's office reported Tuesday that Austin's sales tax receipts have increased by 25 percent so far this year, more than any other major city in the state.

Austin received $5.4 million as its 1-cent share of the sales taxes collected in the city. The city's payments so far this year total $30.2 million, up from $24.2 million a year ago.

The comptroller reported sales tax increases of 5 percent for Houston, which has $104.8 million in tax receipt payments for the year, the highest payment total for any city.

Other cities' totals, the report said, included: Dallas, a 15 percent increase to $77 million; San Antonio, a 14 percent increase to $38.1 million; Fort Worth, a 12 percent increase to $22.9 million; El Paso, a 16 percent increase to $14.2 million.

Texas cities receive 1 percent of all taxable retail sales as their share of the tax.

C-City school trustees propose tax decrease

The Colorado Independent School District board of trustees proposed a tax rate decrease of 5 cents and approved the school's budget during its regular meeting Monday night, superintendent Charlie Uselton said.

The school's 1985-86 budget was set at $6,058,062, compared with last year's $5,784,000 budget. Uselton said Tuesday that the trustees were "well pleased" they could meet the district's financial needs and have the added bonus of proposing a decrease in the tax rate.

The proposed decrease to 77 cents per $100 property valuation was made possible by several factors, the superintendent said. A major factor was the collection of 97 percent of all of the district's taxes, including almost all the delinquent taxes, he said.

So far the Colorado school district has been the only one in the area to propose a decrease in the local tax rate.

The new rules imposed on Texas schools by House Bill 72 have forced several school districts to call for tax hikes; others have had to make spending cuts. Still others are using a combination of tax hikes and cuts to meet their budgeting needs.

S.L. "Mac" Morris, president of the board of trustees, resigned during the Monday meeting for business reasons, Uselton said.

Morris had been on the school board for 13 1/2 years. The board will meet Aug. 30 in the board room at 534 E. 11th and will discuss filling the president's position then, the superintendent said.

In other business, the school accepted the resignations of two teachers and hired seven teachers and a transportation supervisor, Uselton said.

The board also raised school lunch prices throughout the district by 5 cents, because of an increase in food costs and salaries for cafeteria employees, the superintendent said.

City National Bank of Colorado City was reappointed as the school's bank depository, effective from Sept. 1 to Aug. 30, 1987, Uselton said.

Bentsen PACs in money

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau WASHINGTON — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and other members of congressional panels considering tax reform legislation have raked in three times as much campaign money in 1985 than in 1983.

That's the conclusion of a recent study from Common Cause, a self-styled public-citizen lobbying group.

Members of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committees have raised a total of $3,736,054 from political action committees during the first six months of 1985, according to the study. That's compared to $1,167,988 raised during the same time period in 1983.

The two panels are working on legislation which could eliminate many income tax deductions for businesses.

In total contributions, the tax-writing members have collected $10,399,936 in 1985 compared to $3,631,680 in 1983.

"Special interest groups intent on preserving their tax breaks are providing a sea of PAC dollars to the congressional tax writers," said Common Cause President Fred Wertheimer.

Bentsen, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, has collected $699,018 in total 1985 contributions.

Sen. LLOYD BENTSEN rakes in PAC money.

Martin County considers tax increase

STANTON — Martin County Commissioners considered a possible 2-cent tax rate increase, appointed a new county attorney and reappointed two directors to the county hospital board during a regular meeting Monday.

The current tax rate is 27 cents, Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport said Tuesday. If the increase is passed, the rate would go up 7 percent, just below the 8 percent trigger for a possible rollback election.

Deavenport predicted that the county would hold the current rate, however.

A hearing to decide the 1985-86 budget was set for Aug. 21 at 9 a.m. in the Martin County Courthouse, Deavenport said.

In other business, James L. McGilvray of Houston was chosen as county attorney, effective Sept. 1, Deavenport said.

McGilvray has been operating a private law practice in Houston, the county judge said.

Defense rejects mistrial

New twist in point-shaving saga

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Playing out a complicated legal strategy, lawyers for former Tulane basketball star John "Hot Rod" Williams capitalized on a prosecution mistake to gain an extra chance for victory in his sports bribery trial.

Williams is accused of three counts of conspiracy and two counts of taking bribes to control the point spread in games against Southern Mississippi and Memphis State — allegations which could mean 17 years in prison and $35,000 in fines, if convicted.

The defense strategy adopted Tuesday apparently gives Williams a certain chance for a new trial on appeal, if he should be found guilty at the ongoing trial which goes into its third day today.

In gaining that apparent advantage, the defense rejected a mistrial, which would have required starting the proceedings over again.

State District Judge Alvin Oser, visibly angered, declared the mistrial Tuesday evening when a witness referred to a tape-recorded statement that prosecutors had not made available for the judge's inspection.

Weeks ago, Oser and the state's 4th Circuit Court of Appeal ordered prosecutors to produce for inspection all evidence and statements, so Oser could decide whether the people working to convict Williams might have evidence that could help to prove him innocent.

Defense lawyer Mike Green of Chicago complained frequently that the district attorney's office was slow in responding.

Green had just begun cross examination of Williams' former teammate, Jon Johnson, when Johnson mentioned that he gave a tape-recorded statement to Assistant District Attorney Eric Dubelier.

Oser called Dubelier into the courtroom, asked him if such a statement had been taken, and when Dubelier said the tape existed Oser ordered the mistrial.

"I have never, in 26 years in the legal profession, seen anything like this," Oser told Dubelier and Bruce Whittaker, another assistant district attorney.

"I think that Mr. Green's client's constitutional rights have been violated by the state," Oser said.

Oser then called lawyers for both sides into his chambers. Back in the courtroom after a four-hour meeting, Oser told Green he could either object to the court-ordered mistrial or acquiesce.

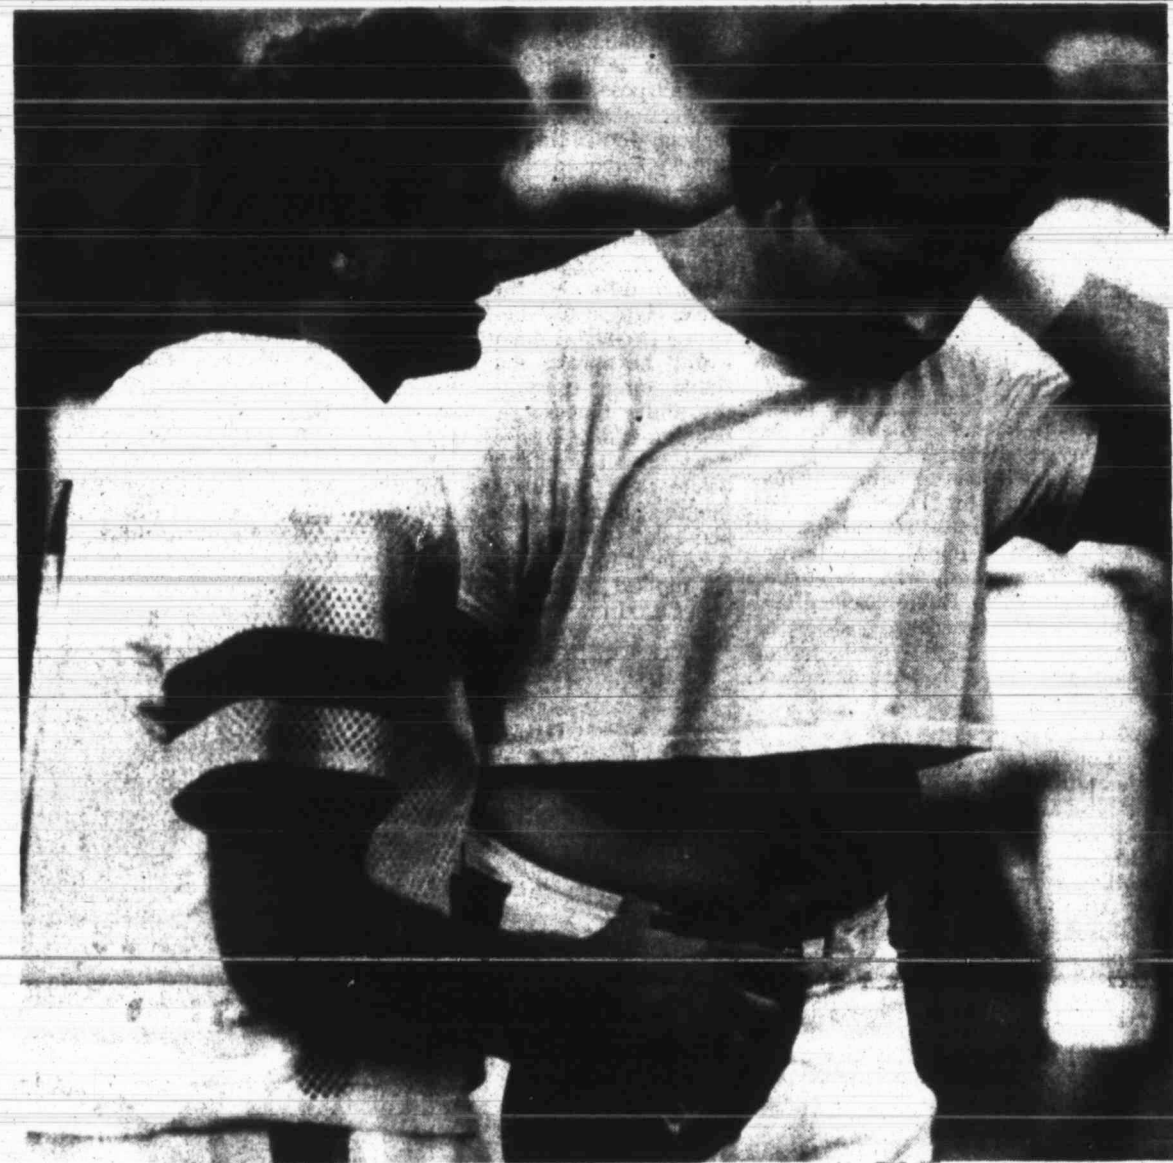

"If the court please, we respectfully refuse to answer the question," Green responded.

Green reserved the right to appeal, if necessary, on the grounds of the prosecution's failure to produce the tape recording as ordered.

Oser then vacated his mistrial order and said trial will continue today.

Johnson and former Tulane teammate Clyde Eads testified against Williams Tuesday under grants of immunity.

Thompson is testifying for the prosecution in a plea bargain, and Dominique is scheduled for trial later.

JOHN RIGGINS (right), Washington Redskins running back, listens to quarterback JOE THEISMANN. Riggins spent his first day at the Redskins training camp after a four week holdout.

NFL News

Riggins back, Dorsett wants to stay away

By The Associated Press

Two of the National Football League's top running backs appear to be headed in opposite directions.

John Riggins of the Washington Redskins, owner of new $850,000 one-year contract, said he is looking forward to a banner season. But Dallas Cowboys speedster Tony Dorsett is talking about a trade.

Riggins joked that he has been "a bad boy," but insists he will be able to control his off-field conduct and will cause no further embarrassment for the team.

The 13-year veteran, who signed a one-year, $850,000 contract on Monday, spoke Tuesday at a news conference at the Redskins' Carlisle, Pa., camp. He said he is in good shape, excited about the coming season and eager to battle for playing time against George Rogers, acquired during the off-season from New Orleans.

Dorsett said there has been no progress in his contract negotiations with Cowboys, and added that he would welcome a trade. But Cowboys' President Tex Schramm, who met briefly with Dorsett last weekend, isn't so sure a change of teams would solve Dorsett's problems with the Internal Revenue Service.

Meanwhile Tuesday, NFL teams continued to trim their rosters, and a notable victim was San Diego Chargers defensive back Tim Fox. The former Ohio State star was waived when the Chargers couldn't work a trade for him.

During the news conference Tuesday, Riggins classified himself as "a guy who likes to have a lot of fun" and said that his off-field incidents were getting more exposure than they deserve.

Last winter, Riggins made headlines when he told Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor to "loosen up, Sandy baby" and then fell asleep on the floor as Vice President George Bush delivered a speech.

Last month, Riggins was stopped by Fairfax County, Va., police and charged with being drunk in public.

"I have a certain image that I suppose I have carried with me through the years. I'm not overly concerned by it," Riggins said.

Dorsett has been seeking a new contract with the Cowboys and has been involved in a dispute with the IRS over more than $400,000 in back taxes the government says the player owes.

"He keeps saying he's been embarrassed and that he might be better off somewhere else," Schramm said. "But I told him you don't just pull down the curtains on a bad experience because you're traded to another team."

"Right now I think I will be traded," said Dorsett. "I think I've made it pretty obvious that I wouldn't mind going to another team."

Dorsett has missed 18 days of training camp and has been fined $13,000 so far. If traded, the leading rusher in Cowboy history said he would prefer to play for the Miami Dolphins or the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Fox, a nine-year veteran, was among three players cut by the Chargers, who also announced that defensive lineman James Lockette had torn knee ligaments and would be lost for the year.

Fox, acquired by San Diego in a 1982 trade with the New England Patriots, started 10 games for the Chargers at free safety in 1984. He skipped training camp this season but remained on San Diego's roster while the Chargers unsuccessfully attempted to trade him.

"They couldn't trade him so they waived him," Chargers spokesman Bill Johnston said.

Larry McCarren, who started more games at center than any other player in Green Bay Packer history, announced his retirement on Tuesday. He started 132 consecutive games at center before he suffered the neck injury last season that, in effect, ended his career.

SMU appeals to NCAA Council

BOSTON (AP) — Southern Methodist, a frequent winner on the football field, tries today to avoid an off-field loss that threatens to spoil a promising season less than a month before it begins.

A hearing was scheduled before the NCAA Council on the university's appeal of a decision that reportedly would cost it football scholarships and bowl and television appearances because of alleged recruiting violations.

The council was not expected to announce a decision on today's hearing before its three-day meeting ends here Friday. The penalties were assessed by the NCAA's infractions committee, according to the Dallas Times Herald.

SMU, which was on probation five times since 1958, has been the object of a 26-month investigation that began about the time its previous two-year probation ended in June 1983.

The infractions committee's decision would bar SMU from giving football scholarships next year and from appearing on television or in bowl games for two years, the Times Herald reported.

It also said SMU plans to bring a court challenge on grounds that it has been discriminated against.

The Mustangs, who open their season Sept. 7 against Texas-El Paso, were the second winningest team in the nation the last three years with a 31-4-1 record. They beat Notre Dame in last year's Aloha Bowl and were ranked eighth in the nation with a 10-2 mark.

The NCAA investigation centered on the role of the football team's boosters and allegations that recruits were offered cash, cars and jobs for their relatives if they went to SMU.

SMU had been on probation from June 1981 through June 1983. Ron Meyer was coach in 1981, and Collins took over after Meyer became head coach of the New England Patriots on Jan. 15, 1982. The Patriots fired Meyer midway through the 1984 National Football League season.

The NCAA never has stripped a school of all its football scholarships for one year, the report added.

GEORGE BRETT ...current AL leader

Vet, kid continue AL hitting duel

BOSTON (AP) — The friendly batting rivalry between Boston's Wade Boggs and Kansas City's George Brett is driving American League pitchers crazy. And no relief is in sight.

For the second time in less than two weeks, Boggs and Brett waged their version of dueling bats on the same field. Brett won the latest battle — at Boston's Fenway Park Tuesday night — getting four hits to regain the lead in the American League's batting race with a .358 average.

It was the 34th four-hit game of his career. After singling twice and getting his 27th double of the year, Brett tripled off the wall in left-center in his final at-bat for his first four-hit game since July 31, 1983.

Boggs, who started the game with a four-point lead, managed "only" two hits — his sixth home run and 32nd double — and fell to second place in the race at .356.

It was a different story last week, when Boggs paid a visit to Kansas City and came away with eight hits in 15 at-bats. Brett, meanwhile, nosedived with a 2-for-12 performance and fell behind in the batting race.

Oilers first two picks still on holdout list

SAN ANGELO (AP) — The holdout game being played by the Houston Oilers' two first round draft picks and starting fullback Larry Moriarty is starting to bother quarterback Warren Moon.

"Everytime this team takes a step forward, say, in getting a Mike Rozier or Butch Woolfolk, it seems we also take a couple of steps backward and we end up staying in the same place," Moon told Houston Radio Station KIKK Tuesday night.

"What we need to do is to build this thing and keep everything on a positive move forward and have all our guns ready come September 8."

The Oilers need first round draft picks Ray Childress and Richard Johnson and Moriarty to continue the team's rebuilding program, Moon said.

"If I start thinking about it too much it bothers me but I don't want to let it affect my play," Moon said.

The Oilers open their season against 1985 Super Bowl finalist Miami in the Astrodome Sept. 8 but it appears likely they'll start without Childress, a defensive end from Texas A&M, and Johnson, a cornerback from Wisconsin.

Childress' agent Joe Courage currently is negotiating with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League. Johnson's agent, Ed Sewell, said his client had enrolled in graduate school.

Moriarty, the Oilers' leading rusher last season, has retained a new agent, Larry Muno, but talks remained deadlocked.

"When I first came here this team had a plan in mind which I was told to rebuild the club and one way we wanted to do it was with younger players," Moon said.

"We've got in a position to have two good No. 1 draft picks and both of those guys would really help our football team this year and they're both not here."

AL Western race gets even closer

By The Associated Press

Mark Langston and Alvin Davis, a pair of 1984 rookie stars who have struggled this season, rediscovered some of their lost magic to further tighten the American League West race.

Langston, who won 17 games last year, scattered 10 hits for only his second complete game of the season and Davis homered as the Seattle Mariners downed California 11-4 Tuesday night, trimming the Angels' lead to two games over Kansas City.

"I think it's the first time all year I've gone a whole game without pain," said Langston, 6-9, who registered his first victory since May 15. "It felt real good. It has been a long time."

Davis, who was the AL Rookie of the Year last season with 27 homers, now has 11 in 1985.

In other American League games, it was Baltimore 8, Cleveland 4; Kansas City 6, Boston 3; Chicago 4, New York 3; Toronto 5, Texas 3; Minnesota 8, Oakland 1; and Detroit 5, Milwaukee 4 in 13 innings.

Langston has been hampered by a sore elbow this season and was forced to go on the disabled list June 7.

"I felt strong in the ninth," he said. "I've had enough of this and hopefully I can write it off and start pitching again."

Seattle made it easy for Langston by reaching Angels starter Ron Romanick, 13-6, for 12 hits and 10 runs in 3 2-3 innings. Romanick grew up in Bellevue, Wash., a Seattle suburb, but said that wasn't a factor in his poor performance.

"I'm a pro," Romanick said. "That shouldn't affect me and it didn't." Al Cowens drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single and Jim Presley added a sacrifice fly to give the Mariners a 3-0 lead in the first. They made it 6-0 in the third when Dave Henderson singled to drive in Gorman Thomas and Jack Perconte added a two-run single.

Romanick was finally relieved in the fourth when Seattle scored four runs on RBI singles by Henderson and Bob Kearney, and Spike Owen's two-run double off Al Holland. Davis homered for Seattle's final run.

AL Roundup

Mets extend winning streak to nine games

By The Associated Press

There are times when the New York Mets — despite the heroics of Dwight Gooden and associates — are badly in need of relief. That's where Jesse Orosco comes in, and if he fails, all is generally lost.

The Mets, clinging to a one-game lead in the National League East, got a top-flight performance Tuesday night from Orosco, who pitched out of an eighth-inning jam to preserve a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and extend the Mets' winning streak to nine games.

Elsewhere, it was Montreal 4, Chicago 1; San Francisco 4, Houston 2; Cincinnati 3, San Diego 2; and Los Angeles 2, Atlanta 1.

Starter Rick Aguiera, 6-3, hurled seven strong innings, got two hits and drove in a run in the victory. New York tied its own mark for the longest winning streak in the NL this season.

Aguiera got the Mets' first hit in the third inning and capped a two-run fourth with an RBI single. Aguiera is 8-for-20 this year. Wally Backman, who extended his hitting streak to 12 games, had three of New York's 10 hits. He is 18-for-31 against the Phillies this season.

NL Roundup

Cardinals 6, Pirates 5

It was a struggle for Adgwin Andujar, 19-6, who pitched 7 1-3 innings, gave up nine hits, struck out two and walked two. But batterymate Darrell Porter made it possible by stroking a two-run double following a game-tying hit by Terry Pendleton in the sixth.

Porter's double gave him five RBIs in the last two games for St. Louis and seven in the Cardinals' last four games.

Danny Gonzalez homered off Andujar in the seventh.

Dodgers 2, Braves 1

Mike Marshall supplied the wood and catcher Steve Yeager the leather that propelled Los Angeles to its fifth straight victory and a commanding eight-game lead in the NL West. Marshall hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning and

Blue Jays 5, Rangers 3

Toronto extended its lead over New York to seven games in the Eastern Division by scoring all of its runs in the first inning at Texas.

Lloyd Moseby and Rance Mulliniks hit consecutive homers and Ernie Whitt hit a two-run double to key the Blue Jays' biggest first inning of the season.

Tom Filer, 5-0 in six starts this season, gave up all three Texas runs in 5 1-3 innings and got relief help from Dennis Lamp and Tom Henke.

Lamp allowed only one hit in 2-3 innings and Henke pitched the ninth for his third save. Henke was not allowed a run in 11 2-3 innings since being called up from the minors.

Royals 6, Red Sox 3

George Brett raised his AL-leading batting average to .358 with four hits and Darryl Motley highlighted Kansas City's four-run fifth inning with a three-run homer against Boston.

Brett, who singled in his first two appearances, started the fifth with a double, and Steve Balboni broke an 0-for-28 Fenway Park slump with a run-scoring single off the Green Monster in left field. Motley then hit a three-run homer for a 4-0 Royals lead.

Brett, who also tripled and scored in the eighth, passed Boston's Wade Boggs, who had a homer and a double in five at-bats, for the batting lead. Boggs has a .356 average.

"Wade and I are good friends and this is a friendly rivalry," Brett said. "And with so many games to go you just don't think about a batting title. If it comes down to the final week, though, it will be fun. It will give us something more to talk about when we get together this winter."

White Sox 4, Yankees 3

Chicago, held hitless for 4-2-3 innings, came back to beat New York on homers by hot-hitting Ron Kittle and Carlton Fisk and an eighth-inning sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Reid Nichols.

With the score tied 3-3, Ozzie Guillen and Jerry Hairston singled off reliever Brian Fisher, 3-3, to set up Nichols' game-winning fly ball against Dave Righetti. Guillen had hustled to third although Hairston's single was to left field.

Kittle, who has five homers in his last seven games, got the first hit off New York starter Marty Bystrom in the fifth and Fisk tied the game 3-3 with his 31st, high in the major leagues, in the seventh.

Yeager made a sparkling pickup of a throw from Candy Maldonado to nail Atlanta's Claudell Washington, the potential tying run, at the plate in the ninth.

Carlos Diaz, 3-1, who relieved starter Orel Hershiser, earned the victory. Tom Niedenfuer, the fourth Dodger pitcher, got his 11th save by pitching out of the ninth-inning jam.

Reds 3, Padres 2

Dave Parker didn't know much about LaMarr Hoyt, but he didn't let it bother him.

"I think this was the first time I've hit off him, so I really didn't know what to expect," Parker explained after hitting his 22nd home run of the season to highlight a three-run Cincinnati fourth that broke both the Reds' four-game losing streak and a runless drought of 25 innings.

Tom Browning, 10-9, went six innings for the victory, allowing seven hits, striking out a career-high eight and walking three. Hoyt, 13-7, lasted just four innings.

Expos 4, Cubs 1

Montreal's Andre Dawson stopped Chicago with his bat and his glove.

Dawson doubled in two runs in the second inning and made what Manager Buck Rodgers called a "momentum savor" when he chased down a double by Jody Davis and made a strong throw that was relayed home by second baseman Vance Law to nip Ron Cey and end the fourth.

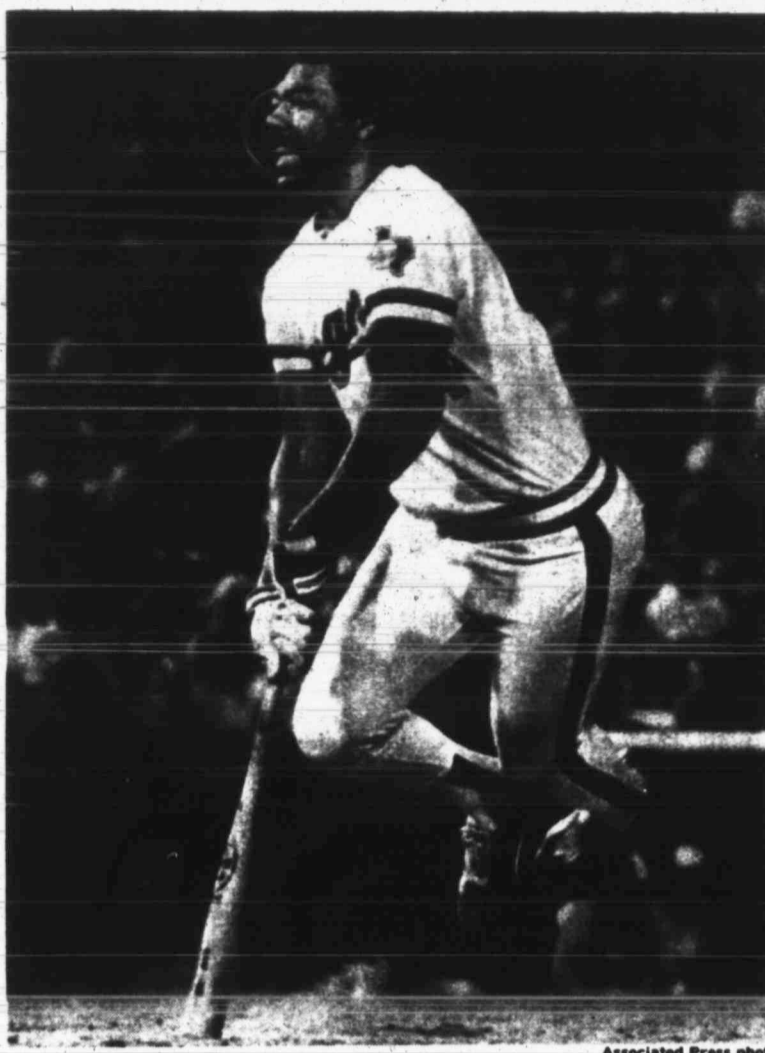

Hubie Brooks tripled twice in support of rookie Joe Heaketh, 10-5, who pitched seven strong innings. Major-league save leader Jeff Reardon came on to notch his 30th.

Giants 4, Astros 2

San Francisco's Mike Krukow, an inventive fellow, had a day he'll never forget. He pitched a five-hitter, struck out a career-high 12 batters and hit his first home run of the season.

Krukow, 8-8, got help from Bob Brenly, who hit his 15th homer for the winning run in the seventh inning, and Jeff Leonard, who hit his 16th in the eighth.

Krukow aided his own cause in the second with the fourth homer of his career, a solo shot off loser Joe Niekro, 9-9.

Texas Rangers designated hitter CLIFF JOHNSON jumps on his bat after striking out in the sixth inning Tuesday night in a game versus the Toronto Blue Jays.

Don Mattingly hit his 19th homer, a two-run blast, for the Yankees.

Twins 8, A's 1
Frank Viola rediscovered his fastball and got plenty of hitting support from Tom Brunansky, Mickey Hatcher and Kent Hrbek as Minnesota bombed Oakland.

Viola, 12-9, who has struggled this season after finishing 18-12 last year, pitched a six-hitter and didn't allow a runner until Mike Heath singled with one out in the fifth inning.

"I went right after them last year," Viola said. "This year, I started nipping. I was trying to get cute, leading with my off-speed stuff. But the last two games, I said, 'Here's the fastball — hit it if you can.'"

Brunansky drove in three runs with his 21st homer, a double and a single; Hatcher keyed the Twins' six-run third inning with his first homer since April 11; and Hrbek added two doubles, two singles and two RBIs to pace Minnesota's 17-hit attack.

Orioles 8, Indians 4
Mike Young, who has blossomed as a slugger since Earl Weaver took over as manager June 14, homered from both sides of the plate to lead Baltimore over Cleveland.

"I'm getting a chance to play," Young said of his 10 homers and 26 RBIs in his last 27 games. "Playing as a designated hitter or a part-time outfielder has enabled me to get my at-bats in."

Young, who has six homers in his last 12 games, hit his second of the game and 17th of the season to snap a 4-4 tie in the eighth off reliever Rich Thompson, who replaced reliever Vern Rühle, 2-9, after pinch-hitter Jim Dwyer drew a one-out walk. Alan Wiggins, who had three hits, tripled home two runs later in the inning.

Tigers 5, Brewers 4
Lou Whitaker broke a 3-3 tie with his 17th homer leading off the 13th inning and Nelson Simmons added an important insurance run with a single for Detroit against Milwaukee.

After Whitaker's homer off Bob Gibson, 6-6, Lance Parrish doubled and Simmons singled to make it 5-3.

Willie Hernandez picked up his 23rd save in relief of Aurelio Lopez, 2-7, for the Tigers despite giving up a homer to Ted Simmons in the bottom of the 13th.

Hitting

"I've been involved in batting races before," said Brett, a two-time AL batting champ. "I remember 1976, when the race was so tight between me, my teammate Hal McRae and Rod Carew, who was with Minnesota, that they were carrying out the averages to four and five digits.

"I got a hit on my last time at bat in the final game of the season and won the batting title" with a .333 average. He won again in 1980 when he batted .390, the highest major-league season average since Ted Williams' .406 mark in 1941.

"Wade and I are good friends and this is a friendly rivalry," Brett said. "And with so many games to go you just don't think about a batting title."

"I'm thinking more about a pennant race," Brett said. "I'm sure that's the way Wade is thinking."

Exactly.
"I'm not thinking about it (the batting race)," Boggs said. "The main thing now is the team. I'm concentrating on winning ballgames and helping the team. Everything else is secondary."

Except hitting.
In his fourth year, Boggs' batting prowess is formidable. While he doesn't possess the power and run production of former greats Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb, his batting average after three seasons — .344 — was better than all of those masters for the same period of time.

Now 27, Boggs may be the best contact hitter in the game and ranks right at the top while hitting with a two-strike count.

And he sprays the ball to all fields, many times counteracting the shifts that some clubs have begun to utilize in an attempt to cut down his hit production to the opposite field. During the last two months his average has only dipped below .333 once.

"A lot of luck," Boggs explains in his modest manner. "If the luck keeps up, I'm probably going to hit for a high average. Once I see a pitcher, I know exactly what he throws. And that's not going to change. Whatever he throws, you know you're going to see it again."

Walt Hrinak, the hitting instructor for the Red Sox, has his theory on Boggs' success.
"Number one, he has a balanced, workable stance. Number two, he knows the strike zone. Number three, he has discipline on keeping his head down, tucked in almost against his chest — something the great hitters do — as well as anyone I've ever seen. And fourth, he has the desire to be as good as he can be."

How good is that? After playing first base, third base and the outfield in 1982, his rookie season, and getting 118 hits in only 338 at-bats, the Red Sox made him their regular at third. He repaid that vote of confidence with consecutive 200-hit seasons in 1983 and 1984. Barring injury, he will easily top that this year — he leads the major leagues with 157 hits.

Boggs also owns the longest hit streak in the majors this year after hitting in 28 consecutive games — the third-longest streak in Red Sox history.

Brett, who hit .432 in July when he was selected the AL's Player of the Month, leads the AL with a .586 slugging percentage and has the edge in on-base percentage — .455 to Boggs' .441.

"We swing a lot alike," says Boggs. "Same rhythm, weight shift, head down. The main difference is that George lets go of the bat with his top hand and gets a little more extension on his swing. George has the ideal swing." Which accounts for Brett's power. He is tied for eighth place in RBIs with Toronto's George Bell at 71.

In his major-league career, which began in 1973, Brett has posted league-leading totals in hits and triples three times, batting and total bases twice, and doubles, on-base percentage and slugging percentage once each.
