Trustees OK '86 tax rate hike

School eliminates student smoking areas

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

Elimination of smoking areas for high school students and passage of a 2-cent tax rate increase were major steps taken by Big Spring Independent School District trustees Thursday.

The board unanimously agreed with principal Murray Murphy that the "timing is right to change" and eliminated the tobacco use areas for high school students.

The principal said he has the support of the student council and "about 95 percent" of the student body regarding the new policy.

Teachers still may use tobacco in designated areas away from the students, Murphy said.

The ban on tobacco use by students will be effective with the start of the school year. Murphy said he will enforce the new policy, using discipline guidelines in the school policy. Repeat offenses could result in suspension from school.

Previously, students were allowed to use tobacco in enclosed areas designated by the principal. Discipline for violators ranged from three days of in-school suspension for first offense to suspension for the remainder of the school year for third offense.

Smoking areas for students had been used at the school for about 10 years, Bill McQueary, former high school principal and present assistant superintendent for personnel, said.

Murphy said he will use key positioning of teachers around restrooms and other possible offense areas to enforce the new policy.

Bishop Tutu blasts S. African leader

Botha rejects equal voting rights

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Bishop Desmond Tutu today lashed out President P.W. Botha's long-awaited speech on apartheid, saying the lack of concrete steps to end racial discrimination made the chance for peaceful change "virtually nil."

Tutu, the black Anglican cleric who won the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize, told reporters he was considering calling for immediate economic sanctions against the white-minority government.

He said Botha, who addressed his ruling National Party Thursday night, was acting like a "hack politician."

"I think the chances of peaceful change are virtually nil. We are on the brink of a catastrophe," Tutu said. "Short of a miracle, short of intervention by the international community, we are for the birds," said Tutu.

In nervous trading, the South African rand hit a record low of 38.50 cents, well below its previous 41.90 low in January. South Africa's mainly white anti-government Blash Sash organization said "the whole country will pay" for Botha's stance.

In the speech, Botha rejected equal voting rights for all races, saying it would be suicidal for the ruling white minority.

Tutu castigated President Reagan, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl for their policies toward South Africa, saying, "They have decided that blacks are dispensable."

"I don't think Mr. Botha is interested in peaceful negotiation. He is aware of his military strength," Tutu said. "He is interested in bludgeoning blacks into submission."

Other black leaders agreed that Botha had fueled the flames of revolt.

"The armed struggle continues," said Tom Sebina, information officer for the country's main black guerrilla organization, the African National Council.

Botha also ended speculation that he might free Nelson Mandela, the jailed black leader of the outlawed ANC. Botha reiterated he would release Mandela only if he denounces violence, which Mandela refuses to do.

The one man, one vote principle for all racial groups "would lead to domination of one over the others, and it would lead to chaos," Botha declared.

"I am not prepared to lead white South Africans and other minority groups on a road to abdication and suicide," he said. "Destroy white South Africa and our influence and this country will drift into faction strife, chaos and poverty."

Under the system of racial segregation called apartheid, 5 million whites rule 24 million voteless blacks.

Botha called for consultations with blacks about their future status, he promised more money to improve underdeveloped black communities, and he said a commission was working to change laws restricting the migration of rural blacks to white areas to find work.

"It is only going to fuel determination to make apartheid unworkable and the country ungovernable," Sebina told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from the outlawed ANC's offices in Lusaka, Zambia.

Blacks interviewed on the streets of Johannesburg's Soweto township virtually all predicted that the unrest, which has wracked South Africa for a year and claimed more than 600 lives, will continue.

City sales not affected by car haulers' strike

Staff and wire reports
After 23 days on picket lines the nation's 20,000 unionized car haulers are starting to strangle the flow of autos from factories and docks to showrooms, automakers and dealers say.

In Big Spring, however, spokesmen from two major car dealerships said the strike hasn't affected sales that much.

Dealers' success at getting cars to sell depends on their nearness to ports or railheads.

"The strike has affected us to some extent. I've been hiring people to go pick up cars in Amarillo, which is 240 miles away," said sales manager Bert Hillger of Bob Brock Ford in Big Spring.

Hillger said the dealership had a "fairly decent inventory" when the strike began and that customers had not complained of the additional odometer mileage at the time of purchase.

The dealership has been absorbing the cost of the delivery that is normally built into the customer sales contract, he said.

“The strike has affected us to some extent. I've been hiring people to go pick up cars in Amarillo, which is 240 miles away.”

Sales manager Bert Hillger, Bob Brock Ford

Bill Pollard of Pollard Chevrolet in Big Spring said the strike "occurred too late in the model year to have that profound of an affect." But manufacturers have put out special incentives "to move things out," he said.

One incentive has been lowering the purchasing finance rate for 1985 models in order to make room for 1986 models, he said. The model year begins in October.

The car haulers, men and women who drive trucks that ferry new vehicles to dealers, walked off their jobs at midnight July 25 during negotiations over a new contract.

The drivers, who earn an average of $13 an hour, had been offered a wage increase of 60 cents an hour in each of the next three years and an increase in the mileage rate for delivering cars to dealers. However, the offer also would have cut in half the mileage rate for return trips and would have reduced wages for new employees.

Negotiations between the Teamsters union, which represents the car haulers, and the National Automobile Transporters Association were held last week in Annapolis, Md., and resumed Tuesday in Washington.

The strike came in a month of typically slow sales, as automakers switched production to next year's cars.

General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. are continuing to build cars on schedule, moving them by rail where possible.

Gas spill controversy

LOS ANGELES — Federal investigators believe a gas cloud that escaped from a Union Carbide Corp. plant in West Virginia consisted mostly of a potentially cancer-causing toxin, not a pesticide as the company has said, according to a published report.

The cloud that injured 135 people Sunday consisted of about two-thirds methylene chloride, a solvent that is a suspected cause of cancer in laboratory animals, and one-third aldicarb oxime, the Los Angeles Times reported in its Friday editions.

Union Carbide had said the chemical that escaped was aldicarb oxime, a pesticide ingredient.

Discovery set for launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Space shuttle Discovery will have better heat sensors when it blasts off Aug. 24 than those that cut off one of Challenger's engines last month, almost aborting the flight, NASA says.

Shuttle managers gave the go-ahead Thursday after examining the status of the shuttle and all mission aspects during a four-hour meeting. Aug. 24 had been the tentative target. Liftoff was set for 7:38 a.m. EDT.

Discovery's crew of five is to release three communications satellites and then track down and try to repair a Syncom communications satellite that failed to activate after being deployed by another shuttle crew in April.

Soldier kills Army officer

DALEVILLE, Ala. — A Fort Rucker soldier has been charged in the slaying of an Army officer who was struck on the head with a 70-pound tombstone in a cemetery, authorities said.

Daleville Police Chief Ed Goodway said Spec. 4 Steven G. Nwranaky, 21, home address unavailable, was charged with murder in the slaying of 26-year-old 2nd Lt. Kevin P. Keating of Ayer, Mass.

Keating's body was found by a city employee early Wednesday in the cemetery of the Daleville Baptist Church.

The police chief said evidence indicates the two men met in a club Tuesday night and had gone drinking at the cemetery, located in the middle of town, after the club closed.

Advice for Madonna

NEW YORK — Rock singer Madonna and actor Sean Penn were to walk down the aisle today in Los Angeles, and that was just fine with readers of the New York Daily News.

The newspaper asked readers to write in with what they thought of the match and what advice they would offer the newlyweds. The final tally: 1,255 in favor, 994 opposed and 90 with no opinion.

One writer advised the couple to avoid the names Play or Fountain for the kids.

A boatload of people makes its way down a flooded road Thursday near Louisa, La., after hurricane Danny caused widespread flooding in low-lying areas.

Hurricane's flash turns to fizzle in Louisiana

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Flash-in-the-pan Hurricane Danny left power failures, downed trees and minor flooding in its wake today, and emergency centers were quickly abandoned by people one official said "have been through this so many times before that they've got it down to a science."

There was one death. No other injuries were reported Thursday and none of the immense property damage left by such killer storms as Audrey in 1957, Betsy in 1965, Camille in 1969 or Hilda in 1964.

Still, Gov. Edwin Edwards declared a state of emergency in 13 parishes and said he would try to get federal aid to cover damages.

After building in intensity for three days, Danny finally stormed ashore at Pecan Island mid-morning Thursday with 85 mph winds gusting to over 100 mph.

It was downgraded to a tropical storm by 8 p.m. At 2 a.m. today, the National Hurricane Center downgraded Danny to a tropical depression with a "poorly defined center" just south of Monroe in northeast Louisiana, heading north-northeast toward Arkansas and Mississippi with 30 mph winds.

Tom Creaghan, director of state emergency operations in Baton Rouge, said damage assessment teams would fan out today through Calcasieu, Cameron, Jeff Davis, Vermilion, Iberia and Evangeline parishes.

"We were tremendously lucky — nothing serious and no injuries," said Pete Picou, Civil Defense director at Cameron, about 35 miles west of Pecan Island.

"We had 300 people here less than an hour ago," said Timothy Hooper, manager of the Red Cross shelter at Lake Charles-Boston High School. "Just about all of them were from Cameron and when the Civil Defense gave the OK, 99 percent of them left within a half hour."

"They started cheering and then started packing. I tried to stop them but they heard it on TV and then there was no stopping them."

"Some of these people have been through this so many times before that they've got it down to a science."

The worst peril occurred 40 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico, where a Coast Guard helicopter rescued seven Texans who, oblivious to hurricane warnings because of radio trouble, sailed a 41-foot yacht into the storm.

They were airlifted to a suburban New Orleans hospital for treatment of injuries ranging from a broken leg to scrapes and cuts.

Another 60 or so people were stranded for a while on a bridge over the Intracoastal Waterway, near Louisa in St. Mary Parish.

In the town of Kaplan, a man was injured when a mobile home for an oil drilling crew was rolled about 60 yards. He was hospitalized in stable condition, authorities said.

Robert Henry Johnson, 24, of Houston, died Wednesday evening after being electrocuted when the boat he was pulling out of the water to avoid the storm hit a power line, said Galveston Medical Examiner Ray Lease.

Officers asked to resign

SANTIAGO, Chile — The director of the national police has asked 29 top officers to retire, it was announced Thursday, creating the most dramatic change in the organization's structure since Augusto Pinochet came to power in 1979.

It was not known how many of the five generals, 17 colonels and seven lieutenant colonels of the police were due for retirement, and how many were asked to leave the force early.

Earlier this month, a civilian judge said he had found evidence that 14 national police officers were involved in the deaths of three Communists who had been arrested. The judge said it was up to a military court to take further action.

Jet's tail named in crash

TOKYO — American aviation experts today flew by helicopter to a remote mountain ridge where 520 people died in the crash of a Japan Air Lines jumbo jet. New evidence was found that indicated the plane's tail section had disintegrated in flight.

The Americans — from the Federal Aviation Administration, the National Transportation Board and the Boeing Commercial Airplane Co. which built the plane — carried cameras and were dressed in mountain-climbing gear. The group was accompanied by Japanese investigators.

At one point, a Japanese official pointed to an adjoining ridge where a gap in the solid treeline indicated the plane, fighting for altitude, had plowed through before smashing into the steep mountainside on Monday.

American faces charges

NAIROBI, Kenya — Authorities today charged American photographer Peter Beard with marijuana possession, in addition to a pornography charge made against him Thursday.

The 47-year-old Beard, estranged husband of model Cheryl Tiegs, pleaded innocent to both charges.

He was accused in the new charge of cultivating marijuana at his suburban Nairobi home, known as Hog Ranch, where he has lived for more than 20 years.

According to court documents, the earlier pornography charge stemmed from a magazine found at Beard's ranch "which had obscene photographs, pictures intending to corrupt morals."

Crew takes hijacked jet

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Three American crewmen left today with the TWA Boeing 727 that had been at the Beirut airport since it was hijacked by Shiite Moslem extremists in June.

The plane left shortly after noon for the 25-minute trip to Larnaca, Cyprus.

Brought together for a week of camping activities for young hemophiliacs, these youngsters participate in a canoe race at Camp Ailhipomeh in Marble Falls.

Camp Ailhipomeh

Hemophiliacs share week-long experience

MARBLE FALLS (AP) — In between events at the Camp Ailhipomeh olympics, 12-year-old Paul Hampton talked about the common ground that brought the 52 boys together.

"I had two uncles that had it, they died. I have four cousins with it. I would have had a brother with it, but he died when he was 2-days-old," the boy said from beneath a big visor that blocked the Central Texas sun.

"One of my uncles had a throat bleed. One head a head bleed," he said, adding that one uncle died at age 3. The other was 60.

Ailhipomeh is hemophilia spelled backwards. For the campers, it's a week-long experience with activities usually considered too risky for children who suffer from the hereditary disease that interferes with normal blood clotting.

"They hardly let me play any sports," Wayne Martinez, 14, of El Paso said of his parents. "They're afraid I might get hurt seriously."

Hampton, who lives in nearby Briggs, said his parents also are careful.

"I don't blame them really," he said.

For one week, under the close eye of counselors and medical staffers, the hemophiliacs play softball and basketball, learn archery, go swimming and ride horses. Helmets are required for the horseback riders.

The basic plan is to run as close to a normal camp as possible, according to Dr. Keith Hoots, camp director.

"We try to come to camp equipped to handle major bleeding problems," said Hoots, assistant professor of pediatrics and medicine at the University of Texas at Houston.

Hoots started Camp Ailhipomeh five years ago. The camp is a project of Gulf States Hemophilia Center at the UT-Houston Medical School.

"One of the reasons we set it up is because most of the other camps are very, very uncomfortable having kids with this degree of bleeding tendency," he said.

"We know we are going to have a number of bleeding episodes, most of which are routine bleeds like they have at home and like they treat at home," said Hoots.

This week's top medical excitement was provided by Rhett Tutt of Silsbee, Texas. The 17-year-old junior counselor, a hemophiliac, barely missed running into a clothes line. But he managed to hit a second line, opening a facial cut that required three stitches to close.

"I was scared," he said.

In addition to the danger caused by surface cuts, hemophiliacs face the danger of internal bleeding that can damage joints. It adds up to a carefully planned menu of activities.

Routine care, including infusions of the clotting agent the hemophiliacs need, is handled at the camp. Many of the campers infuse themselves.

Dear Abby

Compassion is main course when dining with the disabled

DEAR ABBY: I've never written before but now I need your thoughts on a subject that really bothers me. I don't know how to put this delicately, but what is your opinion of people who take persons who are unable to eat normally to high-class restaurants? I mean people who have had strokes, can't eat without drooling and make a terrible mess.

A co-worker told me that he and his wife went to a lovely restaurant for a relaxing evening, only to be seated right next to a family that included a woman who had to be fed. He said there appeared to be more food coming out than going in and it looked like she was vomiting. He said it was revolting, and it spoiled his appetite.

This kind of stuff doesn't bother me because I'm a nurse, but I can understand how some people might not be able to tolerate it.

If people want to take someone out who can't eat normally, out of consideration to the other diners, why don't they request an out-of-the-way table?

SEES BOTH SIDES
DEAR SEES: Most people with special needs do request an out-of-the-way table, but it's not always possible to accommodate them. Those who cannot eat normally desperately need to get out and dine in a lovely restaurant, and their friends and families deserve commendation for taking them. If one happens to encounter a "revolting" sight, he need only turn his head and avoid looking in that direction again. I, too, can see both sides — but my plea is for more compassion and understanding on the part of the "other diners."

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old male. In my youth, I hitchhiked great distances — even coast to coast. I was given rides by many kind and interesting people. Only in one situation did I have any concern for my personal safety, and that came to nothing. In recent years I have not picked up hitchhikers, but when my wife passes on (she is terminally ill) I plan to travel extensively by car. Long stretches of highway driving will be lonely, and I would gladly give rides to strangers for companionship if I could substantially reduce the risk of robbery or worse. Abby, is it safe to pick up hitchhikers? And what measures can a driver take to reduce the risk if he does give someone a ride?

TACOMA READER
DEAR READER: No, it is NOT "safe." For 100 percent protection, pick up nobody. I would offer a would-be hitchhiker the same advice. Sorry, but we're living in crazy times.

DEAR ABBY: To avoid "surprising" a bride with an engagement ring she may not like, I submit the following idea. It was used by my husband many years ago when he went to buy me a wrist watch but didn't have the slightest idea about my taste: He bought a cheap toy watch, took it to a fine local jeweler and asked him to place it on one of their lovely boxes together with a handwritten certificate stating: "Redeemable for a real watch of your choice with all my love. Happy Birthday!" It was a romantic (and sensible) solution to a possible problem. The same idea would work for an engagement ring.

Past Matrons recognize member with presentation of 50-year pin

Dorothy Hull received her 50-year Order of the Eastern Star pin during a dinner meeting Tuesday.

Hull received the pin from Janette Smith, worthy matron of Big Spring Chapter 67, Order of the Eastern Star.

The women were meeting with the Past Matrons Club. Ollie Layman and Ina Richardson were hostesses.

The members voted to make a donation to the Bible Fund. A letter from Vera Gross, a member who is moving to Irving, was read.

Elva Biffar gave the program. She attended the 32nd annual state WMU Houseparty at Waco Aug. 5-9, on the campus of Baylor University.

She told members that the theme of the Texas Leadership Conference was "Deny... Take Up... Follow." She highlighted the afternoon conferences on Acteens Leadership, Girls in Action Leadership, and the Missions Learning Center designed for preschoolers.

Morning mission spotlights included Liz Corwin speaking about Indonesia; Grace and Virgil Colson, Liberia, and a discussion on the Texas River Ministry.

Dr. Charles McLaughlin, Dallas, was a guest speaker. His theme was "2,000 More in '86." The 2,000 refers to the organization of 2,000 churches during the coming year.

Ruth Pittman and Bernice Davis were recognized for their birthdays.

Dr. Donohue

Body yields secrets sparingly

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please say something about the little known Guillain-Barre syndrome. My medical guide touches on it lightly in a section dealing with peripheral neuropathy. Perhaps there is some newer information. My neurologist reads your column daily. — R.H.G.

I'm sure I'm not going to impart any new information for your neurologist about this widely-known but little-understood condition. While it isn't really a rare disease, I am always a bit surprised at the number of letters I get asking about it.

Quite simply, it is a paralysis that is often preceded by a viral infection. There is some link between those two aspects, but just what it is isn't known. Perhaps the infection triggers the body's defenses in such a way that nerve tissues come under attack. That would explain what follows — the peculiar sensations and the ensuing muscle weakness as nerve transmission lags.

The symptoms are then pretty straightforward. The muscle weakness usually begins in the lower legs and advances in an upward march to chest and breathing structures. The threat to breathing muscles is the most ominous in Guillain-Barre (GHEE-en-bar-AY). When they are affected an artificial respirator is used.

The course of the disease is variable. Recovery for most people begins in two to four weeks after the muscle weakness advance stops. Some patients involved make full recovery. A few are left with mild impairment and a few with more serious disability. Fewer still succumb. Recovery is slow, taking from six to 18 months before return of full function.

Doctors continue to study this strange illness. That we still know so little about it attests to the rigidity of the body in parting with some of its secrets.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a 25-pound weight problem. I'm on two medicines, one for thyroid (Synthroid) and Premarin. This weight gain has only been in the last year, since I've been on the Premarin (for menopause). I'm 54 years old. Please advise me. — D.A.G.

I'm at a loss to advise you. It would be most unusual for your thyroid supplement medicine to cause weight gain.

Premarin is one of the female estrogen hormones, and it has been known to cause weight gain. But it's also been reported to cause weight loss.

I wish you'd talk this over with your physician. What I'd like to know is the reason for your taking the thyroid medicine. You've got me stumped.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am writing for information on eating bran and vegetables. I was having trouble with hemorrhoids and started eating bran for breakfast and vegetables at other meals. It has helped me. However, recently I read where you can become dependent on fiber, and that later on you would need it for the bowels to operate. Please answer that for me. Will it make me dependent? — Mrs. L.

That's the kind of dependency you want to have. Don't be afraid of it. We all have eaten too refined a diet, and fiber is the answer to that.

Fiber is in many foods. It promotes elimination, prevents bowel problems, like diverticulosis, and it probably helps regulate cholesterol and blood sugar levels. The artificial kind of dependency is the kind to beware of, the kind that comes with overuse of medical laxative products. Fiber is the best natural laxative we have.

FOR MRS. D.V.: You're not finished by a long shot. Semile vaginitis is perhaps an unfortunate medical term. All it means is that the tissues have thinned and the glands are not quite so active as in the past. You can use any number of approved lubricants, even some that contain female hormones. I wish you would abandon your hesitancy in talking this over with your physician. He encounters the problem almost daily in his practice.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for his valuable booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Pope John Paul II says good-bye to two women wearing head scarves with images of Zaire's Saint Anurite who was beautified Thursday.

Pope's abortion campaign faces stiffest test in Kenya

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Pope John Paul II's African campaign against birth control, abortion and sterilization faced its biggest challenge in Kenya, where the government is encouraging contraception to stem the fastest-growing population in the world.

Before arriving today in Nairobi, the Kenyan capital, the pope scheduled a brief stop in Lubumbashi, Zaire's second largest city located in the central African country's mineral-rich south.

The pope, who is on the ninth day of a 12-day, seven-nation swing through Africa, struck at birth control earlier in the week in Cameroon.

In a hard-hitting speech on Monday, John Paul attacked what he called a "strong anti-life mentality." He charged that such methods as artificial birth control, abortion and forced sterilization were being introduced in developing nations "as if it were the compulsory path to development and progress."

The issue is of major concern to the government of the east African nation of Kenya where the yearly birth rate is more than 4 percent, a rate that would triple its population to 57 million in 25 years.

The issue has become a sore point between the Roman Catholic Church and the Kenyan government.

In Africa, where population growth is outstripping food production, the overall birth rate is 3.1 percent, the highest of any major region.

The government of Kenyan President Daniel arap Moi has been pressing artificial birth control, pro-voicing an outcry from local Roman Catholic Church leaders, who have charged that the government is seeking to legalize abortion.

Kenyan Cardinal Maurice Otunga, who protested bitterly last year when he learned women were being surgically sterilized at government facilities, has said the most famine-stricken countries have no over-population problem.

"The problem is not that the Earth is unable to feed everyone," he said recently. "The problem is of distribution and production. We have not challenged the Earth enough."

In Cameroon, the pope told Africans "their glad acceptance of your children as God's gift to you stands to your glory and honor."

Nevertheless, he said, the church recognizes "the grave problems" posed by population growth in some parts of the world. He asserted that such growth can be checked by abstinence from sexual intercourse during a woman's fertile period.

A Kenyan editor, Hilary Ngweni, in an editorial in his weekly review magazine, ridiculed the church stance on birth control, likening it to the church's former refusal to accept Galileo's theory that the sun was the center of the solar system.

"Fortunately, the people of Kenya don't have to wait 500 years to wake up to the dire implications of unchecked population growth," he said.

Last month, the U.N. Decade for Women conference in Nairobi discussed, among other things, family planning and population control.

Budget office predicts higher deficits in '86

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Congressional Budget Office is predicting higher deficits than Congress estimated when it passed the budget just two weeks ago, and an economy less robust than predicted by the Reagan administration.

But CBO Director Rudolph G. Penner says he "can't help but be upbeat," because of what he sees as a dramatic effort to stem the tide of red ink.

The budget office, in a report Thursday to the Senate and House Budget committees, estimated the deficit for the year beginning Oct. 1 would be $175 billion. Deficits would decline to $163 billion in fiscal 1987 and $143 billion in 1988, it said.

The budget passed by Congress on Aug. 1 assumed deficits of $172 billion in fiscal 1986, $155 billion in 1987 and $113 billion in 1988. The deficit for the current fiscal year is estimated at $210 billion.

The Congressional Budget Office is a non-partisan organization set up by Congress to do research and provide advice to congressional committees on budget matters. Although it issues reports, it does not make recommendations.

The administration and Congress started this year with the goal of deficits below $100 million a year by fiscal 1988.

The CBO predicts, even if Congress obeys all the budget guidelines, that deficit reduction will fall far short of that goal — largely because it sees a more modest economic recovery than the boom predicted by the White House for the second half of this year. Penner said the results "may be a disappointment" to people who expect quicker results, but the budget still represents "dramatic progress in attacking the deficit problem."

Deficits without the budget changes would be $100 billion higher in 1988, he said. Significantly, he said, the yearly deficits, while declining gradually in dollars, make dramatic drops when considered in relation to the growing economy.

The deficit, 5.5 percent of gross national product this year, will drop to 4.2 percent next year and, if budget priorities are maintained, decline to 2.1 percent by 1990, the report said.

That pattern is sharply in contrast to what the budget office expected just 18 months ago.

The new forecast says the economy, as measured by the gross national product, will rebound in the second half of this year from the weak 1 percent annual growth rate posted in the first six months.

REAGAN'S deficit outlook not rosy says Congressional Budget Office spokesman.

Two Pentagon panels review status of Midgetman missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Pentagon panels are reviewing the new Midgetman missile, the mobile nuclear weapon designed to follow the MX missile but which has been criticized for its capability and price.

One study by the Air Force was launched several months ago and is to be completed by Oct. 1, said

Pentagon sources Thursday who spoke only on condition of anonymity. The study was described as focusing on such things as the missile's range under current design plans.

Another review by the Defense Science Board, meantime, was said to be much broader in scope. It was to be completed early next year, the sources said.

John M. Deutch, provost of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a member of the Scowcroft commission that originally recommended the Midgetman in 1983, is heading the science board study, the sources said.

Judge allows phone wiretap used in trial

BALTIMORE (AP) — A judge ruled today that prosecutors at John A. Walker Jr.'s espionage trial may use information from wiretaps on his telephone.

U.S. District Judge Alexander Harvey II said there was probable cause to believe Walker was operating as an agent of a foreign power when his telephone was tapped from mid-April until his arrest May 20. The tap had been approved by a judge under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act.

Harvey also denied a defense motion to suppress evidence gathered with search warrants at six locations in Virginia and three in Maryland.

On Thursday, Harvey ruled that a bag of classified Navy documents that the retired Navy communications expert admitting leaving along a roadside may be used against him at his trial.

In another ruling Thursday, Harvey disallowed some statements made by Walker on the day of his arrest. The decision, however, did not appear to be a major blow to the prosecution's case. The judge said the statements, which have not been made public, were "brief and exculpatory."

Fred Warren Bennett, Walker's chief attorney, said the defense team was encouraged by that ruling. "My response is .500 is better than .000," he said.

Saying that Walker's "frame of mind and state of mind is fine," Bennett added, "I have not found him to be ... severely depressed or any other way than he was today."

Alcott gains lead in World golf

BUFORD, Ga. (AP) — Amy Alcott birdied seven of 10 holes during one stretch and fired a 7-under-par 65 Thursday to take the first round lead in the $200,000 Nestle World Championship of Women's Golf.

Alcott, coming off a two-week layoff and having played only once in the last month, built a 3-shot lead on the hilly 6,007-yard Stouffer Pinelise Resort Golf Course on Lake Lanier Islands 50 miles north of Atlanta.

Patty Sheehan, winner of two events this year, was second with a 4-under 68 and Judy Clark, at 35 the oldest player in the elite field of 12, shot 69.

Defending champion Nancy Lopez, a four-time winner in her last nine outings, had four birdies in succession early in the round, but then faltered and was tied at 70 with Beth Daniel, winner of the first two World Championship events in 1980 and 1981.

Alcott, 29, began her birdie surge on the fifth after taking her only bogey on the 328-yard, par-4 fourth. She also birdied the sixth, had a par and then put together four birdies in a row before going par-par-birdie and finishing with round with four pars in succession.

"I played awfully well," Alcott said. "I just kept firing at the pin, which is my game. I never back off. I hit the ball well, got it in good position and made some great putts. I was very pleased with it."

Alcott, who has three major championships among her 23 career victories, got five of her eight birdies with putts in the 10-20-foot range.

Her only bogey came on the fourth when her approach was short and she then failed to sink her putt after chipping to within 10 feet.

"This is a situation that I thrive on," Alcott said of the event, this year featuring the top 12 players on the 1985 money list.

Alcott is the only player to have appeared in the previous five World Championships.

"I really enjoy the competition," she said. "You have to be a consistent player to get in this tournament."

U.S. Open champion Kathy Baker was six shots back and deadlocked at 71 with Jane Blalock and Betsy King.

Pat Bradley and Bonnie Lauer each shot 72.

Jan Stephenson, complaining of an upset stomach, struggled to a 74, and also had a 2-stroke penalty on the 13th for accepting a ride in a cart.

Alice Miller, a four-time winner this year who withdrew from last week's Henredon Classic because of heat exhaustion, never got anything going and had the poorest round of the day, a 75.

Fehr's 65 leads Buick Open

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Rick Fehr, who lives in Seattle, makes himself right at home on Michigan golf courses.

In 1982, Fehr won the Western Amateur, which is played at Pointe O'Woods Golf Club in Benton Harbor, near Lake Michigan on the western side of the state.

This year, as a 23-year-old rookie on the Professional Golfers Association Tour, he tied for ninth in the U.S. Open at Oakland Hills in June. On Thursday, the former Brigham Young University star fired a seven-under-par 65 at Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club to take the first-round lead in the Buick Open.

"I have a great track record in Michigan," Fehr said. "My best event as an amateur was the Western Amateur and my best finish as a pro was at the Open," which was played about 30 miles from Grand Blanc in the Detroit suburb of Birmingham.

Fehr entered today's second round with a one-stroke lead over another rookie, Paul Azinger, and a two-shot lead over Bill Kratzert, Gil Morgan, Charlie Bolling, Greg Twigg and Scott Hoch.

Ninety-eight golfers were in at par-72 or below over the rain-softened 7,014-yard course. Seventy-eight broke par and 33 were below 70.

Fehr, making only his seventh 1985 start in a PGA Tour event, had an outstanding record as an amateur. He played on the Walker Cup team and twice was an All-American at BYU.

However, he doesn't hold a Tour card from the PGA's qualifying school. As a result, Fehr was unable to compete in Tour events this year and spent most of the season playing on the Tournament Players Series satellite tour.

He finally landed a PGA starting spot in the Houston Open as a qualifier and later was granted a sponsor's exemption for the Westchester Classic.

"Finishing ninth at the Open opened the eyes of some more sponsors and got me into some tournaments," Fehr said. "I was a bit discouraged because of not getting into any tournaments. It helped that my father knew some people."

In his seven PGA events this year, Fehr has earned $31,569, more than the 150th man on the 1984 money list, thus exempting Fehr from qualifying for the remainder of the 1985 season.

"I'll be a little nervous when I start the second round, but I've been under pressure before," Fehr said. "It will be different if I'm still in the lead Saturday night. For now, I'm going to go out and play aggressively."

On Thursday, Fehr started his round on the 10th hole and played the back side in 3-under-par 33 with birdies on the 12th, 13th and 14th holes. Playing the front nine in 4-under 32, Fehr birdied the 1st, 4th, 6th and 8th holes. He didn't card a single bogey during the round.

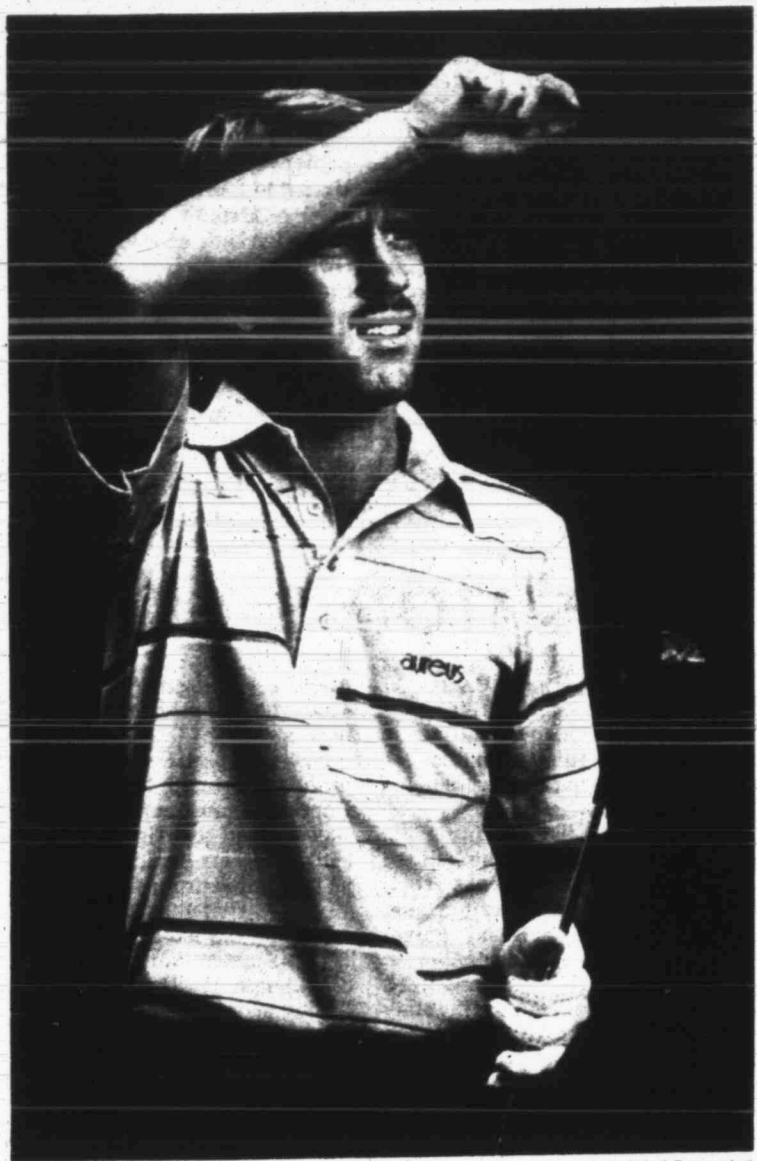

The key to Fehr's success was putting. He rolled in a 45-footer at No. 6 and 20-footers at the 8th and 14th.

"I'm pretty good at scrambling," Fehr said. "I have a good variety of shots around the greens."

Azinger, 25, the medalist at the PGA qualifying school last fall, was 35-31 for his 66. He carded seven birdies and a single bogey.

"I just knew I'd play good today," Azinger said. "I looked out the window at the rain and I didn't care."

Ten golfers were at 4-under 68, including Calvin Peete and Lanny

RICK FEHR, a former Brigham Young University standout, watches his drive on the ninth hole at Warwick Hills Thursday. FEHR shot a 65 for 7-under-par to take the first round lead in the Buick Open.

McEnroe advances in Player's tennis

MONTREAL (AP) — Top-seeded John McEnroe continued his defense of the $368,000 Player's International tennis tournament championship Friday by advancing to the quarterfinals with an easy 6-0, 6-1 triumph over unseeded Nelson Aerts.

McEnroe kept Aerts on the defensive with an overpowering serve in the first set, and then relied on an effective serve-and-volley game and deft groundstrokes to overcome the Brazilian in the second set.

"It was a little different for me because I haven't played at night for a while," McEnroe said. "But I hit the ball well and I concentrated well."

McEnroe will face No. 16-seed Ramesh Krishnan of India, who stopped eighth-seeded Johan Kriek, 6-4, 6-4.

In one of the biggest surprises of the day, 15th-seeded Jimmy Arias earned the right to play Eliot Teltscher with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over fourth-seeded Kevin Curren.

"I felt it coming," Arias said. "I've been playing much better the last few weeks, and I know when I play well, I can play with most of the players in this game."

"I figured I could beat him because he can't do anything off the second serve," Curren said. "He isn't having a good year, but he surprised me."

Jimmy Connors advanced to the quarterfinals with an easy 6-4, 6-2 victory over Vitas Gerulaitis.

"I've seen him play better," said Connors, the No. 3 seed, who kept Gerulaitis off balance with a series of a strong serves and precise cross-court shots.

Connors broke service once in the first match, and three times in the second to earn the right to play Stefan Edberg.

Earlier in the day, Edberg advanced by downing fellow Swede Henrik Sundstrom 7-6 (7-5), 6-4.

Unseeded Stephane Bonneau of Laval, Quebec, saw his Cinderella story come to a sudden halt as he dropped straight sets 6-1, 6-2 to fifth-seeded Anders Jarryd of Sweden.

Bonneau, the lone Canadian remaining in the tournament, had a good serve working for him but was victimized by inconsistent net play and poor passing shots.

Jarryd will take on No. 2 seed Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, who earlier stopped ninth-seeded American Tim Mayotte 7-6 (9-7), 6-2.

The Lendl and Edberg matches were the only ones played in the afternoon draw which was interrupted twice by rain before tournament officials rescheduled four matches for Thursday night.

When play resumed, seventh-ranked Eliot Teltscher advanced by stopping unseeded Sammy Giammalva 6-4, 6-4.

Lendl got off to a slow start and he settled down only after he questioned a few line calls that went against him.

Mayotte broke Lendl's serve in the first game of the first set and used his booming serve to go up by two games.

Dallas Cowboy running back TONY DORSETT speaks to reporters at a press conference Thursday afternoon at the team's training camp in Thousand Oaks. DORSETT returned after signing a new 5-year contract.

Watkins, each shooting for their third triumphs this year.

The winner of the $450,000 Buick Open will pocket $81,000 and the runner-up will go away with $48,600.

Dorsett finally a happy camper

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — After ending his 25-day-old holdout, running back Tony Dorsett says he's going to put away the name-calling and put on his Dallas Cowboys practice gear today for a team workout.

"I'm happy to be back and I never thought I'd say that about training camp," Dorsett said Thursday as he arrived at the National Football League team's training camp. "It's been an ordeal."

After meeting with his attorneys in Los Angeles to go over his new five-year contract, Dorsett met with Cowboys president Tex Schramm for more than an hour, and with the media for 20 minutes and then went to a local hospital to take his camp physical.

Although Dorsett was to practice with the team today, Coach Tom Landry said the running back will not play Saturday night in San Diego and will see his first game action Aug. 26 in Texas Stadium against Chicago.

"I just want to be a part of this team, and I'm extremely happy," he said Thursday. "Through all this, there has been a lot of things said, some that shouldn't have been. Apologies have been made and I owe an apology to the fans of America."

Dorsett was to be paid $450,000, $500,000 and $550,000 the next three seasons. Instead, he'll get $450,000 for each of the next three years and $500,000 a year in a two-year contract extension.

He is to get annuity payments of $300,000 annually from 1993-2012, a total of $6 million. In addition to getting $450,000 between the time he retires and when the annuity payments begin, he has a five-year, $850,000 real estate deal set up by the Cowboys.

Dorsett, a nine-year veteran who has "no bad feelings" towards the Cowboys now, said he decided to come back last weekend after watching the Dallas-Green Bay exhibition game on satellite-fed television.

Dorsett said he is at his playing weight of 185 pounds and ready to play. He added that he is "on a mission now to help this team gain some respect. Last year we lost some and I'm back to help get it back."

Dorsett was accompanied by agent Witt Stewart when he arrived here.

Stewart negotiated the contract with Schramm Wednesday after another agent, Howard Slusher, had encouraged Dorsett to "stay away from camp at least another two weeks."

St. Louis Cardinals safety BILLY DAVIS grabs on to Los Angeles Rams running back BARRY REDDEN down at the five yard line during first quarter action Thursday in Anaheim. The Rams crushed the Cards 39-7 in the preseason game.

Brock sharp against St. Louis

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Dieter Brock is not wasting any time adapting to his new surroundings.

The expatriot of the Canadian Football League is being thrown in as a starter for the Los Angeles Rams this year without the benefit of any experience in the National Football League.

His performance in the Rams' 39-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday night made Brock rage, and I'm not confused or anything," said the quarterback.

The Rams, who could generate only 285 yards in their exhibition opener, followed Brock's example and exploded for 481 yards in total offense against the Cardinals.

"I thought we did everything well offensively," said Brock. "All I can say is that we had a great balanced attack."

For the St. Louis Cardinals it was a game better forgotten.

"It was the worst preseason game I can remember the St. Louis Cardinals playing," said Cardinal Coach Jim Hanifan. "The Rams really handed it to us. They were superior in all phases of the game."

The Rams opened a 20-0 halftime lead and were ahead 29-0 when St. Louis reserve quarterback Rick McIvor connected with Clyde Duncan on a 42-yard touchdown pass, the Cards' only score.

St. Louis was able to total 211 yards in total offense against the Rams.

"I don't know where the St. Louis Cardinals were tonight," said quarterback Neil Lomax, who started for the Cardinals and completed 7 of 13 passes for 78 yards in less than a half.

The Rams recorded nine sacks in the game and kept the Cardinals out of the game by establishing a sort of attack.

"We had a great pass rush tonight and our secondary played very well," said Los Angeles defensive lineman Gary Jeter. "It's a good start for us because we haven't been known for our pass rush."

Leading the Rams' rush was linebacker Kevin Greene, a rookie out of Auburn who recorded four sacks.

"I've had some pretty good plays on the pass rush," said the rookie. "but it takes two to tango. My defensive ends (Booker Reese and Doug Reed) each gave me time to come in free."

Running back Charles White added 62 yards in nine carries to a Los Angeles rushing attack that gained 243 yards in the contest. Running back A.J. Jones also scored two touchdowns on the ground for Los Angeles.

Linebacker Jim Collins and rookie Holbert Johnson each had interceptions for Los Angeles.

St. Louis had 11 receivers catch passes, with Stump Mitchell leading the corps with three receptions for 31 yards. Otis Anderson led the Cards with 16 yards on five carries, all in the first half.

Henry Ellard led all receivers with five receptions for 75 yards for the Rams.

The Rams are now 2-0 in exhibition play, while the Cardinals have yet to win in two preseason games.

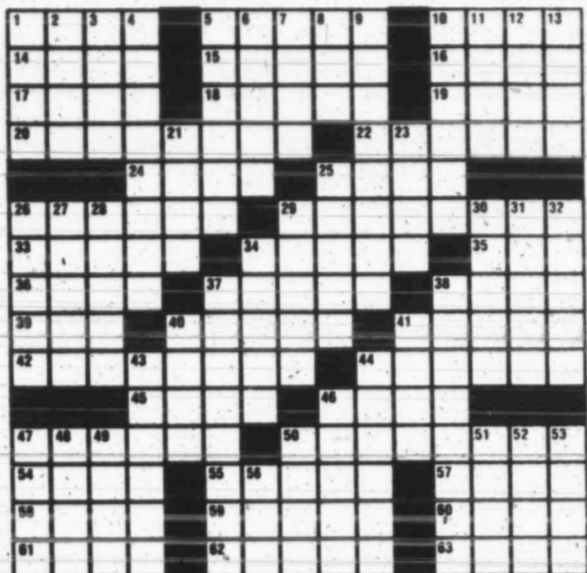

Joe Ferguson, the former Buffalo quarterback, is expected to start for Detroit when the Lions face Seattle.
