Hard times hit petro-states

By The Associated Press

When times were good, Saudi Arabia's oil sheiks built up a $150-billion "rainy day fund." Now that rainy day has come - and stayed — and $50 billion has gone. The Saudis' dwindling bank accounts are only one sign of the hard times hitting the world's big oil producers. A worldwide Associated Press survey finds evidence of the oil slump everywhere - from the hundreds of thousands of foreign workers being kicked out of the "petro-states," to the gourmet cheese no longer let in; from food price increases for peasants to the price increases to the state of the stat tourist-class tickets for oil ministers. Leaders of some money-short oil countries sound desperate.

"There are no other viable options," President Miguel de la

Madrid apologized to fellow Mexicans when he announced government layoffs and other austerity measures last month. "I cannot offer the nation complacency or indeciston."

The downhill skid began in 1980, when worldwide recession cut sharply into demand for oil. At the same time, consumer countries, balking at the OPEC oil cartel's high prices, managed to reduce oil needs further through conservation.

World production slid from 63 million barrels of oil a day in 1979 to 54 million barrels last year. Prices went from an OPEC average of $34.50 per barrel in 1981 to $27 on the "spot" market today.

The recession has eased, but leaner economies now need less oil than before. And prices stay low OIL WOES page 2-A

Permian Basin rig count low

ODESSA (AP) - Uncertainty over world oil prices and possible changes in U.S. tax law are being blamed for the lowest number of operational oil rigs in the Permian Basin in two years.

But one industry spokesman speculated that Iraq's bombing of Iran's Kharg Island export terminal might help most drilling in Reed Tool Co., a producer of drill bits that has done a weekly count of rigs for several years in the oil-rich Permian Basin, reported 262 rigs were operating in the Basin on Thursday.

The area covers about 25 counties in West Texas. Ed Thompson of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, said that 262 rigs is the lowest number since 256 the week of Aug. 23, 1983. A year ago, Reed Tool reported 344 rigs were drilling in the Basin.

"Most of them (oilmen) are saying, 'Let's see what the government's going to do and what OPEC's (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) going to do," Thompson said.

"These people have to make a living. They can't very well drill for oil that they don't know what they're going to get for it, and they can't very well drill for oil that they don't know what the taxes are going to be," he said.

But Thompson also speculated that a sharp reduction in the 3 million barrels of oil flowing daily from Iran's Kharg Island, bombed Thursday by Iraq, might boost domestic drilling.

"...It might change things around for the Permian Basin,' the producer spokesman said.

Festivities continue today

Dressed in the garb of early trappers and Indians, these Crossroads Stampede participants recreate the primitive pre-1940s in a rugged, natural and honest way.

They call call themselves muzzle loaders. They erected tee-pees in the Comanche Trail Park Friday and held a black powder shoot and tomahawk throw Saturday. Their's was one of the many events held in conjuntion with the Crossroads Stampede.

The Stampede is being held this weekend to let people see the heritage of Big Spring, witness the city at present and get a glimpse of its future. It will continue today beginning at 1

The muzzle loaders' use their gatherings to "recreate the rendezvous of the trappers and trackers of the pre-1940s period," said Randy Klaus, member of the Big Spring Comanche Trail Muzzle Loaders association and an orgnanizer of this rendezvous.

Klaus said the club was asked to wear primitive dress and set up a pre-1940s campsite. He and fellow muzzle loaders Mike McKenizy and Nat Hart suggested that organizers of the Crossroads Stampede allow a black powder shoot and tomahawk throw

Initially, Stampede organizers were "nervous about the idea" for safety reasons. But after a demonstration by the local hobbiest, the events were allowed, Klaus said.

"Safety is one of the main aspects of our events," the local muzzle loader said.

In the competition, men, women and children shot charcoal, flour sacks, wooden sticks, silhouettes of quail, squirrel and metal men called Mike Finks.

Each shooter was given three chances to hit the objects in each round. Three points were given for a first try hit, two for a second and one for a third. At the end of the day the points would be calculated to determine winners

The muzzle loaders played for a variety of donated prizes, all related to their hobby. However, safety, fellowship and ability of the participants outweighed the competition.

In the tomahawk throw, each participant put money in a jackpot to participate. The best thrower will get to claim the entry fees as his prize.

The events drew more than 40 participants and large crowds.

a nation hardened by 10 years of civil war was shocked Saturday by the bombing that turned the fashionable Melki supermarket into body- and limb-strewn rubble. The explosion killed at least 50 people, mainly women and children, and wounded 100 others. As the blackened remains of the victims were carried out of the smoking ruins of the supermarket, battle-toughened civil defense workers and Christian militiamen looked away.

The bomb went off at 11:45 a.m. Christians from the eastern, Christian sector of Beirut were headed for the mountains for a weekend away from violence between Christian and Moslem militiamen.

The supermarket in the Antelias suburb on the coastal highway heading north out of Beirut was packed with shoppers, mainly women, many with children in tow, getting in the weekend groceries. Even after a night of heavy shell-ng and rocket barrages from Moslems on the other side of the city, the bomb changed the scene in a split second. The estimated 550 pounds of plastic explosives, apparently detonated by remote control, turned the supermarket into a charnel house. Men, women and children, blood pouring from wounds, lurched out of the black smoke, dazed and disbelieving. Inside, scores of people were incinerated. Jets of flame shot out of the market. The parking lot, where 150 cars stood, some with husbands waiting for wives, became a field of

At least 50 of the cars were turned into blazing hulks. Gas tanks exploded, spewing flaming gasoline onto other cars that became part of the conflagration.

.There were three bodies, badly burned, shredded clothes still smoldering, lying on the sidewalk in the debris of broken glass and chunks of rubble.

Five pedestrians were hurled into the Mediterranean 300 yards across the highway by the force of the blast.

At least 10 people - men and women- staggered around clutching wounds and blast-ripped clothes, stumbling through smoke that mushroomed out of the devastated building.

Men charged into the wall of black smoke to rescue people. On the balconies of the two upper floors of the six-story building where the supermarket is located, people trapped by the flames screamed and begged rescue teams for help.

Injuries, destruction caused by remnants of Hurricane Danny

The soggy remnants of Hur- pressure area early Saturday, the ricane Danny reached the central National Weather Service said. High winds slammed into three trailer parks near Spartanburg, S.C., destroying 10 mobile homes and damaging 35, officials said. Officials at Spartanburg County General Hospital said 24 people from the trailer parks were treated in its emergency room, including three who were sent to surgery.

David Robert Black, who lives across the street from Holly Trailer Park, said he was looking out his storm door when he felt suction, which broke the door glass.

He then saw what he believed was a tornado pick up the roof of a cement block house. "The whole roof got up in the air ... then it shattered," he said.

A National Weather Service meteorologist was trying to deter-mine whether a tornado had struck the area.

Tornado watches were posted for much of North and South Carolina. Flash flood watches were posted over northeast Tennessee, the mountains, foothills and piedmonts of South Carolina, and west-central and southwestern Virginia.

Heavy rain caused scattered lowland flooding across the region. About 20 to 25 mobile homes were evacuated in a park in North Carolina's Gaston County when a creek overflowed, said county police Lt. Ray Hovis.

An apparent tornado touched down at the Oconee-Barrow county line near Bogart, Ga., and damaged several homes

"It came right out of the blue," said Clarence Andrews, Oconee County civil defense director.

The shell of one mobile home was lifted off, leaving its occupant shaken but uninjured among his furniture, which remained on the home's floor, witnesses said.

Between midnight and noon Saturday, 6 to 7 inches of rain fell in several areas of South Carolina, including northern Greenville County, northern Spartanburg County and Gaffney, said meteorologist Jim Lowe.

The National Weather Service said up to 5 inches of rain had pushed small streams to near their flood stages in parts of North Carolina.

On Friday, the weather system had spawned more than two dozen tornadoes in Alabama and Tennessee that killed two people, injured 20 and demolished scores of houses and buildings.

"Trees were popping and wires were coming down everywhere," said W.A. Connell, an employee of Parrish, Ala. "There were drums and garbage cans and all kinds of debris flying around me. Then the wind slung me around in the road."

because of stiffer competition from such oil producers as Mexico and Britain — not members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The backlash catches not just the

The big U.S. construction company Bechtel, which cashed in on Saudi Arabia's ambitious development plans, has suffered a 39-percent drop in revenues as the Saudis scale down those projects. Countries such as Egypt and Jor-dan that long depended on money sent home by emigrant workers in the Persian Gulf oilfields now find the workers themselves coming home, jobless.

But the most dramatic change is in the oil countries themselves. Here is a nation-by-nation sampling:

SAUDI ARABIA

Although its sands hold onequarter of the world's known oil reserves, Saudi Arabia today pumps less oil than Britain - 2.2 million barrels a day, compared with 2.7 million.

As production plunged from a 9.6-million-a-day peak in 1980, annual Saudi oil revenues crashed from $101 billion to a projected $25 billion this year. The money budgeted for a half-trillion dollars worth of infrastructural, industrial and agricultural development projects was not coming in.

Public expenditures have been cut 23 percent, the government is laying off 600,000 of its foreign workers over a five-year period, and major projects have been scrapped — the biggest a $1-billion reports. Like the Saudis, the Kuwaitis are cashing in foreign assets to meet their budget deficits.

LIBYA

Revenues that reached $22 billion in 1982 are estimated to have slipped to $11 billion last year. But the impact on Col. Moammar Khadafy's north African oil power is not clear. "It is hard to assess ... since it is a highly controlled socialist system, where the power is very centralized," a high-ranking European oil-industry source told the AP in Rome. Libya's break-even margin may be narrowing, however. Its perennial trade surplus - excess of exports over imports - declined from $6.3 billion in 1982 to $3.7 billion in 1984.

MEXICO It has been one of the few oil producers with relatively steady income, because of rising production, but Mexico nonetheless is struggling through its worst economic crisis in decades.

The problem: Planners had bet on sharply increased oil revenues through the 1980s. They lost. Crushed by foreign debt - now totaling $96 billion — the government launched a belt-tightening campaign in 1982 that threw more than one million Mexicans out of work, canceled industrial projects and slashed the standard of living.

VENEZUELA

In an "oil boom" country where unemployment was rare just a few years ago, at least one Venezuelan worker in six is now jobless. Oil revenues fell from $19 billion in 1981 to $12 billion projected for this year. Since taking office in December 1983, President Jaime Lusinchi has cut bureaucrats' salaries by 10 percent, reduced a $2.4-billion public-works development program to a $600-million the Central Bank of Kuwait

Guerrillas fire on crowd

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Leftist guerrillas in a speeding car fired automatic weapons at a crowd of 60 people gathered at a bus stop, killing three and wounding eight. Rebels then seized radio stations and announced a truce with the government.

The leftists held a clandestine news conference and then took over a half dozen radio stations Friday night to broadcast a message of a truce to Peru's new government. They said they wanted to give newly elected President Alan Garcia a chance to make good on a campaign promise to help the poor.

Police blamed the attack of 60 uniformed members of the navy and civilian employees on the Shining Path, but no one claimed immediate responsibility.

Rupture cited in JAL crash

TOKYO (AP) — Passengers screamed and children yelled for their mothers during the panic that filled a Japan Air Lines jumbo jet minutes before it smashed into a mountain, killing 520 people, a survivor says.

Officials said today a rupture in the bulkhead that controlled cabin pressure may have triggered the crash of JAL Flight 123. The government, meanwhile, today ordered cabin pressure bulkheads included in inspections of 747s flown by Japanese carriers.

In a statement, Japan's Transport Ministry said there was a "possibility" a rupture in the aft bulkhead of the Japan Air Lines jetliner may have led to sudden decompression of the plane's main cabin and blown apart its tail fin.

Pope Paul visits preserve

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Pope John Paul II flew to one of Kenya's prize game reserves today to show his support for wildlife preservation and bestow a papal blessing on a baby rhinoceros.

The visit to the 720-square-mile Masai Mara reserve came on the pope's first full day in Kenya and the 10th of a 12-day tour to seven African countries.

Masai Mara's rolling grasslands, in southwestern Kenya along the border with Tanzania, has one of the largest concentrations of wildlife in east Africa — elephants, zebra, wildebeest, cape buffalo and giraffes. Prides of lions sometimes 20 strong can be seen stalking their prey.

Texans support seat belt law, but most fail to 'buckle up'

Harte-Hanks News Service
The new seat belt law is popular with Texans, but when it comes to practicing what they preach, more than half the state's drivers fail to

"buckle up."
In 1,000 telephone interviews conducted July 15-30 for the Texas Poll, 56 percent of Texans asked reported that they favor the recently passed state law requiring seat belt use in the car; 39 percent oppose it.

Yet a majority of those polled (55 percent) say they did not use a seat belt the last time they got into a car; 45 percent say they did.

Nationally, only 30 percent of Americans approve of mandatory seat belt laws, according to a 1984 Gallup Poll, which also found only 25 percent of Americans use their seat belts.

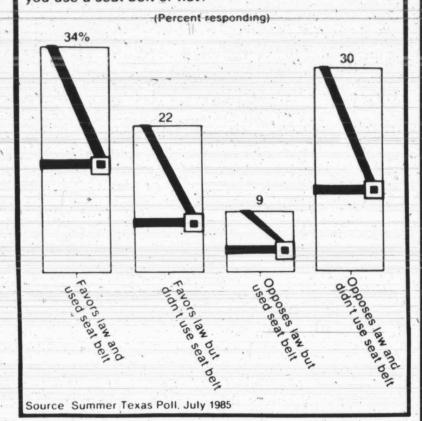

Beginning Sept. 1, all drivers and front-seat passengers in Texas face a $25 to $50 fine for not using seat belts in the car. The law was enacted in response to a U.S. Department of Transportation ruling last summer that requires American automakers to install air bags, automatic seat belts, or alternative safety measures in 1989 model cars unless states representing two-thirds of the population pass mandatory seat belt laws. Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole has predicted mandatory seat belt laws may save 2,000 to 4,500 lives a year, nationwide.

A minority of Texans (22 percent) say they do not use seat belts but think the state should require them. Only 9 percent report they use seat belts but do not want the state to make it mandatory. The remaining Texans have opinions on the law consistent with their behavior: 34 percent favor the law and wear seat belts, 30 percent oppose the law and do not wear seat belts.

Perhaps reflecting the greater dangers involved in driving in big cities, Texans living in metropolitan areas tend to wear their seat belts more (50 percent) than those in rural areas (32 percent). Urban Texans also approve of the law in greater proportion than rural Texans, 60 percent to 46 percent.

Women are more likely than men to favor the new law, and to use seat belts. Sixty-two percent of women favor the law, 49 percent of men. In seat-belt usage, 49 percent of women say they use them, compared to 40 percent of men.

Other groups that register greater approval of the law are Hispanics (72 percent), college graduates (59 percent), adults under 29 (66 percent), political liberals (65 percent), and those who have lived in Texas less than 10 years (69 percent).

Those most likely to wear their seat belts are Hispanics (49 percent), college graduates (58 percent) and newcomers to the state (62 percent).

Most states cutting taxes

WASHINGTON — State legislatures, responding to tax-cutting sentiments, reduced income and other taxes by more than $1 billion this year, a survey shows.

More states raised taxes than lowered them, but most of the increases were small, involving excise taxes such as gasoline, alcohol and cigarettes, according to the survey released this month by the National Conference of State Legislatures.

With nearly all the state legislative sessions over, 25 states have raised taxes and 19 states have lowered them this year, the survey said.

Meatpackers begin strike

AUSTIN, Minn. — Fifteen hundred meatpackers struck Geo. A. Hormel & Co. on Saturday, refusing to accept the same wages paid at other Hormel plants in spite of a company threat to move its headquarters out of town.

"The mood here is of grave apprehension and fear about the uncertainty of what's ahead," Lawrence Maier, a psychologist at the Mower Mental Health Center in Austin, said Saturday.

Maier said the mental health center has had an increase in cases since the labor dispute began about 10 months ago at Hormel, which provides one out of four paychecks in this southern Minnesota town of 23,000.

AT&T requests fee hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — AT&T, which already charges 50 cents for a long-distance directory assistance call, now wants to raise that fee to 60 cents on Oct. 1.

The request came in a rate proposal the company filed with the Federal Communications Commission on Friday.

AT&T customers still would get two free out-of-state information calls per billing period, provided they make at least two AT&T interstate calls that month.

The company also announced it would ask to pass through increased connection charges on various private line services it provides to businesses if the FCC grants local companies other increases they are seeking.

Q.: I've read about not personally selling one's house. Exactly where do most people go wrong when personally selling their homes?

A.: The main problem is usually pricing. Sellers may base an asking price on their idea of the house's value rather than market value. Priced too high, the home doesn't sell. Too low, it'll sell, but for less than the seller should have gotten. Secondly, sellers aren't objective in showing their homes. Emotion can disrupt a sale. Sellers also have a natural tendency not to reveal defects. If pointed out properly: No problem. If found prior to sale: "No Sale. A third problem is qualifying buyers, time is wasted by sellers showing homes to "just lookers". A good agent will show only to people with a genuine interest in buying.

Military threat is one of money

Well, we've got the Pentagon's agenda for the next few months, and it isn't figuring out how to make do with the modest budget increase that Congress has allocated it in the 1985-86 budget. Nor is it making hard choices from its wish list of weapons projects to accommodate the outright spending cuts Congress might still impose. (After all, the budget has yet to be translated into specific authorization and then appropriation bills, and the House has already balked at the authorization state.)

Just because cutting is what Congress ought to be doing, given the nation's debts and its actual strategic needs - and just because Congress went home from the budget negotiations debacle angry enough to maybe even do what it ought to do — doesn't mean the Pentagon has to be prepared for such a sane eventuality.

No, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, according to news stories, has ordered his underlings to start preparing requests for additional monies over the course of the year — "supplemental appropriations," they're called.

This will be a burden on the Pentagon staff, since at the same time they're also supposed to be preparing next year's budget requests — naturally for an amount larger than the 3 percent plus inflation that Congress appears to have agreed upon for 1986-87. Moreover, the supplemental requests are sure to send key legislators, as one anonymous official delicately put it, "through the roof." Nonetheless, the Pentagon will persevere.

By law, the only way a department can get a supplemental appropriation during the budget year is if it demonstrates that a significant change has occurred since its original budget request was submitted, like a shift in the economy.

But that should be a difficult case for the Pentagon to make, since it would require arguing that the administration's economic forecasts have been overly optimistic, an argument that should make legislators even more panicky about deficits and even less likely to approve new military spending. So the Pentagon is left having to discover a new heightening of the Sovier military threat to justify its supplemental requests. And that can take a lot of extra staff work, too.

No woncer they can't get by on $302.5 billion.

Cool fun in the hot sun

For a lot of people, it's easier to communicate face-to-face than by letter.

That was the form used by several at the Crossroads Stampede Saturday as they sent direct letters to the editor - messages delivered in little swirling spheres — as I performed public service at its finest: one hour in the dunking booth at Crossroads Stampede Saturday.

All my friends were there. Police Chief Rick Turner was very nearly first in line.

I hope Rick shoots better than he throws. Otherwise, he'll never qualify on the pistol range. Three shots with a softball erred at 20 feet. I gave him a fourth ball for free, confident that I'd stay dry. I did. Bill Tune, bailiff for the district court, took the easy way out. He paid big bucks so the official would turn her back while he walked up and simply pushed the danking lever. I cried "foul," but I was helpless to defend myself, being stuck inside that metal cage

Bill, that isn't the American way, and as an officer of the court, you should know that.

Even my insurance agent got in a shot. He went twice, because his aim is much worse than his ability to coax high-priced policies out of me. Jeff Nicholson, the budding newsman for KBST radio, is hereby banned from any future dunking He sent me into the drink on two-of-three outings and then returned to go three-for-three against Scott Fitzgerald, my replacement in the booth.

If Jeff could just gather news as well as he throws a softball, we might have some competition from the I wish I had recorded the dialogue between Fitzgerald, who covers county government for us, and Nicholson, who seems to cover everything for KBST, all in the "eyewitness news" spirit. Fitzgerald maintained a running monologue during his hour in the hot seat Saturday, much of it unintelligible to the crowd some 20 feet or further away. But I do recall him philosophically noting that everyone was a public record in the final analysis. I can only imagine the sage words he had for Jeff. I don't know about Fitzgerald, Lisa Brooks of KBYG or the other sacrificial media types who helped out Saturday, but I had a great time. Meanwhile, I earned $45 for the cause of good fun under the cooling trees of Comanche Trail Park. Thanks for asking me out. By the way, I also came in second in the tricycle race, but that's another story.

Spiral of anger tightens in S. Africa

By MAUREEN JOHNSON Between police bullets and rioters' rocks, white rejection of universal suffrage and black demands for power, South African President P.W. Botha's dilemma is He must find a power-sharing man is not just a political or economic decision," says Franklin Sonn, a liberal Afrikaner academic and rector of the Cape province's Peninsula Technikon. "It is a decision in faith, in which there are no final guarantees. If South Africa's whites yield some power to the voteless blacks, Sonn said, they will lose all control. Blacks outnumber whites 5 to 1, and by the time this nation's frustrated black youths reach middle age, the ratio will be 17 to 1.

Botha, in a major policy speech Thursday night, offered a vague "co-responsibility" to be worked out with unspecified "black leaders.

It was a speech roundly denounced by the main opponents of apartheid, South Africa's system of racial segregation. Critics said it lacked specifics, such as a timetable for talks, and did not call for release of top black leader Nelson Mandela, serving a life sentence for a sabotage conviction.

"It is clear that Mr. Botha does not want to see black leaders who are not black leaders of his own choice," said Bishop Desmond Tutu, a black who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1984.

You (Botha) are awakening a tiger in the whites. You will be crushed between black radical demands and whites' resistance.

Conservative Party leader Andries Treurnicht

But the right wing of Botha's own National Party and the ultra-right Conservative Party, wedded to permanent white control, fear apartheid is being abandoned:

"You (Botha) are awakening a tiger in the whites," said Conservative Party leader Andries Treurnicht. "You will be crushed between black radical demands and whites' resistance.

Meanwhile, black deaths have mounted to more than 600 in antiapartheid violence that has not been quelled by the state of emergency imposed July 21. Threats of international sanctions have become more pressing.

The 69-year-old Afrikaner president indirectly reaffirmed changes in one cornerstone of apartheid, the tribal homelands policy, under which the 24 million blacks were made citizens of 10 fragmented and impoverished areas comprising 13 percent of South Africa.

Foreign Minister R.F. Botha, no relation of the president, said citizenship can be extended to the four other homelands, which have accepted independence but have not been unrecognized internationally.

Laws that deny blacks freedom of movement also are acknowledged as unworkable. However, there's been no step to scrap them from statute books that are packed with security laws and discriminaion in everything from schools and housing to most public transport.

Analysts and political opponents say Botha's main options are:

 releasing Mandela unconditionally and holding talks. Mandela's outlawed African National Congress guerrillas and the United Democratic Front, the largest multiracial anti-apartheid group, say they will settle only for a unitary state with universal suffrage.

Reagan calls agriculture legislation a 'quagmire'

President Reagan, calling federal agriculture programs a 'quagmire' that have failed to solve farmers' woes, warned Congress on Saturday to keep a tight rein on spending when it takes up the 1985 farm bill.

"In writing farm legislation, I expect Congress to stay within its own ... budget goals," Reagan said in his weekly radio address, delivered from his ranch near

Reagan administration officials have hinted in the past that the legislation may be a candidate for a presidential veto. Agriculture Secretary John Block has accused Congress of "drifting off into fantasyland" with the House and Senate farm bills, which he estimates are at least $16 billion more expensive than the amount alloted for farm programs in the newly approved congressional

The current farm legislation expires at the end of next month.

Reagan said his goal is to "free ourselves from the quagmire created by federal farm programs," and do away with "interventionist" policies while entional markets.

"Much of the farm problems stem from the past practice of lurching from one emergency program to another, coming up with so-called solutions that never solve anything," Reagan said. "The

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) answer to our farm problem can't be found in sticking with discredited programs and increas-

Noting that since 1981, his administration has spent $59 billion on farm price supports, Reagan said throwing money after the problem doesn't help. Asserting that his administration has spent more money on farm programs than any other, he said: "If spending money on agriculture would solve the problem, we already would have solved it by now.

The president reviewed the problems that have plagued farmers over the past decade, ranging from inflation, record interest rates and the grain embargo instituted by the Carter administration. He also noted that recent reports of record crops will mean lower prices for consumers, but bodes ill for many farmers because it translates into weaker commodity prices.

"It's no secret that American agriculture is facing hard times,' Reagan said.

He noted that not all farmers are in trouble, adding "those whose crops are the beneficiaries of government programs are worse off than those who operate without such assistance.

"A major contributor to the problem is the federal program designed to help farmers," Reagan

He said the programs of distort market forces and send confusing signals to farmers, prompting them to produce more than the market will bear.

Reagan asked the public to "send Congress an unmistakeable message that change in our farm policy is not only desired, but ssential."

One teen dies, two injured when hit by 109-car train

HOUSTON (AP) - A runaway from a youth center was killed and two others suffered critical injuries Saturday when a 109-car train hit them as they slept on railroad tracks, authorities said.

Michael DeClaremont, 14, of Houston was pronounced dead at Livingston Memorial Hospital shortly after the pre-dawn acci-dent, said hospital spokewoman Joy Wiggins.

The other boys, identified as Sebastian Fields, 12, and Shannon Williams, 13, both of Houston, were taken to the Livingston hospital, then transferred by helicopter to Houston's Hermann Hospital.

Marie Fuller said both teen-agers were in critical condition Saturday Williams' right arm had to be fered severe head injuries and "multiple trauma," she said.

Department of Public Safety spokesman Mike Cox said the three were running away from the Hope Center for youths at Apple Springs in Trinity County.

The trio was returning to Houston on foot and fell asleep on railroad tracks about four miles north of Moscow, Texas, in Polk County, Cox said.

About 2:40 a.m., a Southern Pacific freight train enroute from Lufkin to Houston roared through, hitting the youths and traveling a short distance before stopping, Hermann spokeswoman Rose DPS officials said.

"The train was still on top of two of the subjects when it stopped. One was found clear of the tracks,' amputated and both youths sufsaid DPS spokeswoman Ann Watts.

Adult entertainment topic of hearing

ARLINGTON (AP) - City Council has plenty of public feedback to consider when it decides whether to adopt a proposed ordinance regulating the location of adult entertainment businesses.

The council got an earful at a public hearing Thursday that had all the religious fervor of a revival meeting. The hearing was the city's effort to test support for a law limiting adult operations to sites no closer than 500 feet from a residential neighborhood and 1,000 feet from churches, schools and public parks

At the start of the heated session, Assistant City Attorney Robert Diaz told the council and audience that the city does not have authority to regulate adult entertainment beyond the limits already set by state law.

The state laws address obscenity and material harmful to minors. The city can only restrict the location of establishments selling such material, he said.

But members of the Arlington clergy and others insisted that all materials should be outlawed.

'It's a crying shame our courts appear to be as big an adversary as the filth we're trying to rid from our stores," said resident Donny Atkins. "Those who elected you will support you if you make that decision."

Pilots able to walk away from crash

PARIS (AP) - A vintage World War II B-26 plane on its way to an air museum in Fargo, N.D., crashed less than two minutes after takeoff Saturday, but the two pilots were able to walk away, authorities said.

The crash occurred about 9:20 a.m. in a plowed field near Paris Cox Field, where the plane had just taken off, authorities said.

Witnesses told sheriff's deputies at the scene they saw a puff of white smoke coming from one of the plane's two engines shortly before it started losing altitude and disappeared behind a hill.

Although the plane was destroyed, two men on board were only slightly injured and were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Paris. Hospital spokeswoman Jan Huff would not release their identities. Harry Wilson, a farmer who owns the land where the crash occurred, said he heard the plane making a lot of noise, looked up and saw that it was flying just above tree-top level. Wilson said one of the plane's wings clipped a tree, spun around about 90 degrees and plunged out of sight. He said the plane broke up on impact, and although it was fully fueled, it didn't burn. He said two men aboard the plane walked away.

Austin council says log cabins can't be moved

AUSTIN (AP) - Four log cabins on Barton Creek west of Austin have been zoned historical structures by the City Council, meaning they cannot be moved, as a developer had planned to do.

The owner of the property, Austin businessman Richardson Gill, had proposed moving the four cabins to a nearby fenced compound to make room for development of the area and protect the structures from vandals

However, historians said moving the structures, which were built by German immigrant Dietrich Bohls in the 1850s, would diminish their historical significance.

Investigators take a close look at a vintage World War II A-26 plane that crashed on a test run Saturday near Paris, Texas, less than two minutes after take-off. The two pilots managed to walk away from the crash. The pilots were testing the plane before flying it later Saturday to the U.S. Air Force Museum in Fargo, N.D.

Teacher's union to grade schools proposal to test teachers on how much they know about the subjects they teach is a smokescreen to protect coaches, says the president of a teacher's union.

A basic skills test for public school teachers is scheduled for next year, but the State Board of Education decided for the time being not to require a test on specific subjects, such as government or mathematics.

"I think we should proceed with that (subject testing)," John Cole, president of the Texas Federation of Teachers, told a news conference Friday. "We're hearing a lot of excuses

He said he thought the "real

AUSTIN (AP) - Opposition to a reason" for opposition to the test is that education officials will discover "there are thousands of teachers teaching out of their fields in subjects they are not certified to teach, and they'd have to shift them back to their subject.'

> "That would have a very pronounced effect," said Cole. "The first effect would be on the coaching faculty. Very often they shuffle around teachers to accommodate the hiring of a coach who's not certified to teach anything

> Cole also said that eventually the competency tests taken by Texas teachers ought to be as tough as the CPA exam for accountants or bar exam for lawyers, and teachers who pass the tests should be paid $50,000 to $70,000 a year.

"I don't see anything revolutionary in requiring a teacher to pass a fifth- or sixth-grade literacy test or competency test," Cole said. "It ought to be something that's tough - not everybody could pass it, and that those who do pass it feel that they've earned something that is worthwhile to them, and then I think we ought to pay them the way we pay CPA accountants and lawyers who pass their exams.

"We ought not to be talking about $30,000 a year for teachers, we ought to be talking $50,000 and $60,000 and $70,000 salaries.

Robbery suspect unwittingly lands in jail

CORPUS CHRISTI - An Illinois man wanted for armed robbery unwittingly landed himself in jail when he called local police to ask if he was still wanted.

He was.

Now, instead of being on the lam, Neil L. Proffer, 24, of Jerseyville, Ill., was in Nueces County Jail Friday night pending proceedings for his extradition to Illinois.

"He called in and said, 'Am I still being sought, was vague about wanted? I don't know, but I think his whereabouts, the public ad-I'm wanted for aggravated robbery in Illinois,' "Lt. Ken Ersland, head of the Corpus Christi wara pretty good clue.

Two officers approached a man matching Proffer's description and asked him his name. Proffer surrendered without resistance after first giving his name as John Proffer, police said.

FAA team to study D-FW procedures

DALLAS (AP) - The Federal Aviation Administration has sent a five-member team to the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport to study how the airport handles weather information, emergency plans and physical obstructions to aircraft safety.

The team arrived in Dallas Friday, just two weeks after the crash of a Deita Air Lines jumbo jet that killed 134 people.

FAA Southwest Region Director

Tex Melugin said the team will recommend "any improvements to the safety of flight operations."

FAA regional officials did not elaborate on their plans.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police said Saturday they killed two black men in clashes and detained 152 people in one of the largest sweeps since emergency laws were imposed July 21 to try to end nearly a year of rioting.

Police also said fire bombs were heaved at the homes of two members of the mixed-race chamber. of Parliament, which seats Asians, whites and mixed-race people in segregated chambers but denies representation to the black majority.

New curfew laws appeared to be effective in Soweto, near Johannesburg, and in several other black districts. Police reported no incidents during curfew hours from 10 p.m. Friday until 4 a.m. Saturday. The curfew is in force until further notice.

More than 600 people, nearly all of them black, have perished in disturbances that began last August. Most victims were killed in confrontations with police, but black mobs killed many other blacks thought to be informers or collaborators with white rule, such as police officers and town councilors.

A police spokesman said Saturday officers shot and killed one man after he threw a gasoline bomb at a security vehicle near Worcester, a wine-producing center about 52 miles inland from Cape Town near the Hex River Mountains

A police shotgun blast killed a second man in a crowd throwing stones near the farming center-of Bethal, 8t miles east of Johannesburg, he reported. Neither victim was identified. The police spokesman, who cannot be identified under department rules, said he did not know if the victims died late Friday or before dawn Saturday.

The 152 people reported detained between early Friday and early Saturday were the most seized in one day since more than 200 were believed to have been detained July 23, two days after the government gave security forces emergency powers. On Thursday, police said 746 people were being held. The figure was 786 on Friday and jumped by 152 to 938 on Saturday.

Police do not elaborate on the data beyond issuing telexed messages giving the number of people being held and, occasionally, the number released since emergency law was imposed. On Saturday, the police said 1,022 had been freed since July 21. The Detainees' Parents Support Committee, which works on behalf of detainees and publicizes their plight, said in a statement Friday it had heard some detainees were being tortured. A spokesman for the national Prisons Department said the charge was too vague to investigate.

Thursday night, President P.W. Botha gave a policy address that angered many who believed he might make concessions to the black majority to try to halt spiraling violence.

Botha instead said he and his National Party will keep amending apartheid at their own pace.

Apartheid is the legal system of race-separation by which the nation's 5 million whites rule over 24 million blacks. Most blacks already have dismissed Botha's reforms as cosmetic moves

Blacks can marry whites and stay in a few previously whites-only hotels, but they still need government permission to work in white areas; their education is generally viewed as inferior; they cannot vote; and they must use segregated toilets, trains

Black opponents of apartheid such as Anglican Bishop Desmond Tutu, last year's Nobel Peace Prize winner, viewed Botha as showing inflexibility and said this will trigger more bloodshed in South Africa. Apartheid dominates the lives of the blacks and exercises lesser control over 2.7 million mixed-race people and 850,000 Asians, most of them descended from immigrant laborers from India. The fire bomb attacks Friday night caused minor damage to two suburban Cape Town homes. The incidents follow a pattern of attacks on mixed-race and Asian representatives who serve with whites in the segregated Parliament, and who are often accused of collaborating with white-minority rule. Police reported minor disturbances near Johannesburg, and riot police fired rubber bullets at black crowds near Pietermaritzburg, the provincial capital of Natal province on the Indian Ocean. No one was reported hurt in the incidents.

Honeymooners' whereabouts kept a secret

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) - Pop music naughty girl Madonna and actor Sean Penn, their romantic wedding ceremony marred by intense news coverage, apparently slipped away early Saturday, their destination shrouded in secrecy.

The limo that delivered them to the wedding Friday left the site shortly after midnight, but the windows were darkened and no one could see inside.

Guests leaving the wedding reception, which began late Friday afternoon and ended early Saturday, either didn't know the honeymoon plans or weren't Spokesmen for the couple have failed for days to return reporters' telephone calls, and guards at the wedding refused to give out any information.

The wedding also was cloaked in secrecy. Not even guests knew the exact location until just before the half-hour service at the home of Penn family friend and producer Kurt Unger, 35 miles west of downtown Los Angeles.

The couple was married in a sunset ceremony on an oceanfront bluff.

The bride, covered recently by Time magazine and uncovered in nude photos published by Playboyand Penthouse, wore an off-white gown with a 10-foot train and veil.

'It can't happen here' claim shattered by chemical leak

INSTITUTE, W.Va. (AP) - The leak of toxic gas from Union Car-bide's plant here that sickened 135 people has raised new questions about the safety of an industry whose image was shattered by a deadly leak in India, and has undermined claims that "it can't happen here.

The leak a week ago also has polarized public opinion in an area dubbed "Chemical Valley," a 25-mile stretch along the Kanawha River around Charleston that is dotted by at least 13 major chemical plants.

But by week's end, local officials who initially criticized Carbide's slow response to the leak already were talking about "risk-benefit ratios" and Union Carbide Corp.'s importance to the local economy.

About 500 to 600 marchers paraded through nearby South Charleston on Saturday in a show of support for Union Carbide. They included several city council members who said they think the 6,000 jobs Carbide provides, out of the valley's 10,000 chemical jobs, far outweigh threats posed by the industry.

The leak released a cloud of the pesticide ingredient aldicarb oxime, an irritant, and methylene chloride, a suspected carcinogen. Six workers and 129 residents were hospitalized for eye, nose, throat and lung problems. A smaller leak at Carbide's South Charleston plant two days later caused a brief scare but no serious injuries.

An estimated 2,000 people died in December's methyl isocyanate leak at Union Carbide's plant at Bhopal, India. During a February visit to West Virginia, company Chairman Warren Anderson said a similar incident could never happen here, where MIC also is Following last week's leaks, many residents aren't so sure.

"They're getting a little bit careless," said Hilda Tyree, 76, of Institute. "I know better than to sleep with the window open."

'I've lived in Charleston near the South Charleston plant and I've lived knowing that Carbide could be detrimental to my health — but Bhopal made us more aware," said Freda Burkett, who lives about 75 yards from the Institute plant's eastern border.

In addition to providing jobs, chemicals used at Union Carbide's Institute and South Charleston plants are intermediates later turned into such household and farm goods as Glad plastic bags, Prestone antifreeze, Simonize wax, Eveready batteries and the insecticide Sevin.

Accompanying those benefits are risks, Anderson said at a news conference Friday.

"There are people who don't want to live near dumps, there are people who don't want to live near nuclear plants," he said. "The world we are living in in the United States is getting to be a difficult

Organizers of Saturday's parade said the Kanawha Valley would wither without its chemical industry

"I just feel that the people who are screaming about this latest leak are the kind of people who don't stop to look beyond their noses," said parade organizer Betty Ray. "They don't think what the long-term impact would be if Carbide pulled out of here.

Following the Bhopal disaster, scores of government regulators inspected every part of the Institute plant, the only domestic producer of MIC, and the company installed $5 million in safety equipment.

Those precautions, though, did not prevent last Sunday's leak.

But some people in the valley are living on the edge, as witnessed place to live because nobody wants Tuesday when some residents fled to take any risks. And life is not their homes after the South

Bell says that makes Travis a local telephone company, subject to Public Utility Commission regulation. Bell has asked the PUC to shut down Travis.

We are the certificated franchise provider of service for Austin," said I Larry Schnieders said Bell spokesman Travis is "becoming the telephone company for a bunch of residents in their building," said John Loehman, a Bell assistant vice president. "Initially, they were the telephone company at the exclusion of all other telephone companies.

AUSTIN (AP) - It's David vs. commission refused last year to set the rules sought by Bell.

Bill Freed, Travis' 26-year-old chief executive, said his company merely re-sells Bell lines

"We are sharing facilities that Travis Telecommunications are provided by the franchised Southwestern Bell," he said.

Dobie residents and tenants can pick their phone company. Touch-Tone service that costs about $13 a month from Bell costs $10 from Travis also offers long-distance service. One of Bell's complaints about such a system is that it could force customers to use a selected long-distance company.

Almost all the Dobie residents, now about 125, have selected Travis. The business accounts, about 42, are evenly split between Travis and Bell, according to Travis moved into Dobie after tenants complained that they had to pay Bell's installation fee if they changed rooms within the dormitory. Travis has a reduced rate for such moves.

Green, 27, from Marbledale, Conn., carded a 5-under 67 Saturday on the Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club course and finished the third round at 15-under-par 201, a 54-hole record for the tournament. The old mark over the 7,014-yard, par-72 course was 202 by Mark O'Meara in 1984.

Sauers, a native of Savannah, Ga., who at 22 is the youngest player on the PGA Tour, fired a third-round 66 with the help of an eagle three on the par-5, 584-yard seventh hole

Grady, 28, a native of Queensland, Australia, who is playing his first year on the U.S. tour, was even with Green until the 17th hole, a 182-yard, par-3.

Playing head-to-head in the final group on the golf course, Grady and Green both put their tee shots in the bunker on the front of the 17th. Grady's second shot landed 12 feet short while Green blasted his to within three feet.

Grady's putt for a save rolled three feet past and he carded a bogeywhile Green tapped in for

On the 435-yard, par 4 18th hole, Green drilled his second shot over the green into some tall grass in front of the bleachers while Grady was on the green but 25 feet below the pin.

Green flipped a wedge 12 feet short of the pin, but calmly rolled in the putt for another save. Grady's first putt, which would have put him back into a tie for the lead, pulled up two feet short and he settled for par.

Donnie Hammond fired a 67 for a three-round total of 203, 13-under. Mike Nicollete was at 12 under and Roger Maltbie was 11-under.

The third round was played under ideal conditions under bright sunny skies, with the greens still during Thursday's opening round. As a result, 46 players were under par and the third-round stroke average was 71.58.

Scott Hoch had the lowest round, a 65, which left him in a tie with Mac O'Grady, George Burns and Brett Upper at 10-under.

The most spectacular shot of the day easily belonged to Ron Streck to aced No. 17 with a 6-iron. The hole-in-one earned Streck the use of a Buick for the next year.

The winner of the tournament also will get an automobile for a year, plus $81,000 forever. The total purse for the Buick Open is $450,000.

Orioles, Young crush Rangers, 9-2

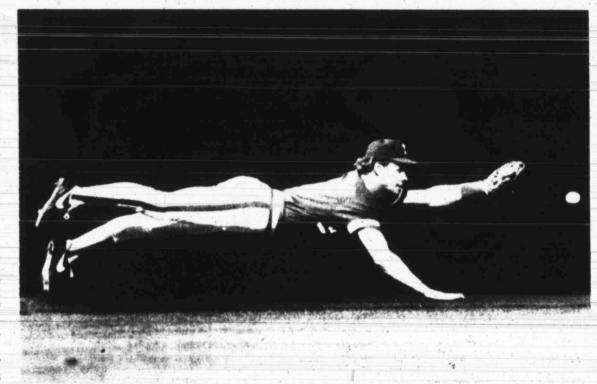

BALTIMORE (AP) - Mike Young drove in five runs with a two-run single and a three-run homer Saturday night to lead Baltimore to a 9-2 victory over the Texas Rangers

Baltimore, which pounded 16 hits off four Ranger pitchers, won its fifth straight game, its longest winning streak of the season. Texas lost its fifth straight.

Young, who has hit nine home runs and driven in 24 runs in his last 13 games, keyed a six-run Baltimore third with a two-out single. He then belted his 20th homer of the season in the fourth.

The Orioles trailed 2-0 against Texas starter Burt Hooten, 5-7, in the third before collecting eight hits and sending 12 batters to the plate. Floyd Rayford and Rick Dempsey had two hits apiece during the rally.

Texas collected nine hits off Baltimore starter Scott McGregor, 10-10, and had a leadoff hit in six of the first eight innings. The Rangers managed only solo runs in the first two innings on Cliff Johnson's RBIsingle and Bill Stein's homer.

Texas Ranger third baseman STEVE BUECHELE makes a diving attempt to grab a hard grounder hit in the hole by LEE LACY or the Baltimore Orioles during the O's 9-2 victory over the Rangers Saturday.

Lady Steers volleyball has the look of experience in '85

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Writer

The Big Spring Lady Steers varsity and junior varsity teams kick off their season Tuesday night against a very worthy opponent defending Class A state champs Bronte Longhorn Honeys.

The junior varsity game begins at 6:30 p.m. and the varsity contest follows at 7:30.

Lady Steers coach Susan Sharp knows the contest won't be an easy one, but with her returning team, it's a good bet Sharp won't spend a sleepless night worrying about the

But if records hold true to form, the Lady Steers should reach the playoffs by finishing second.

You see in Sharp's first season as head coach in '83, Big Spring finished fourth with a 7-7 record. Last season they were third with an 8-6 mark. So this season that means they will finish second, right?

Well Sharp is not ready to declare her squad a playoff bound team just yet. Right now she's just intent on making a good showing versus the Longhorn Honeys. "The Bronte game will be good competition and experience for us," she

But the look changes to a smile when you talk about her returning starters. "With four seniors and four starters coming back we are definately further along than last year. We've got good leadership and the girls worked hard in the spring and summer. We've had excellent practices so far."

The Big Spring coach rates defending district champ and last year's third place state tourney team, San Angelo Central, as the team to beat. "They lost some good people but they have a good spiker (Anita Allgood) returning and

• Tammi Green - According to Sharp this 5-5 senior spiker has the "cool head" of the group. Having three years of varsity experience makes her one of the team leaders. "In a tight sitution where we have to make something happen, she's the one I like for them to go to," said Sharp.

• Melinda Berkley — Another returning senior starter. The 5-6 spiker is the most fundmentally sound player on the team, said

Sharp. After transfering from Breckenridge last season, she has established herself a consistent player. Her best assest is passing. • Lisa Hale - The 5-4 junior setter is the sparkplug of the team. Has no varsity experience but will add another dimension to the Lady Steers game plan because of her tremendous jumping ability. "With Lisa we'll have a more versitile offense," said Sharp. "She jumps so well we can play her across the front row and not have to subsitute.

 Tab Green — The most consistent player on the squad. Last season the 5-7 junior setter-spiker was named the District 4-5A Sophomore of the Year. "Last year

• Michelle Husted - The 5-8 junior spiker is another performer from last year's 18-16 JV team. Possesses very large hands which helps with her blocking. According to Sharp, she was able to palm a basketball in the eighth grade. Good jumping ability.

• Katrina Thompson - So far, this 5-5 setter-spiker is the lone sophomore on the varsity. An natural athlete that competes in basketball, track and softball. "She's a smart player and good jumper," Sharp said.

Flying Queens travel to Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Wayland Baptist University's Flying Queens, the most successful women's college basketball team in history, are on a 20-day, 13-game tour of Mexico.

The Flying Queens boast an all-time record of 917-203. They have won 10 national AAU championships and produced nearly 150 All-

Their tour includes Mexico City, Pachuca, Vera Cruz and Tampico. They head home to Plainview in the Texas Panhandle on Sept. 5. The tour marks the first international competition since defeating the Russian National Team during the summer of 1974.

Wayland, coached by Dave Ketterman, finished third in the nation last season in the NAIA tournament at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Texas Tech plans football suprises

Tech is promising a fall full of foot-ball surprises, linked to a new-look offense, and no one is more optimistic than fifth-year coach Jerry Moore.

"We are going to do a combination of things offensively," said Moore, aware that the Red Raider attack has ranked right up there with killer rabbits and man-eating fense than anything else. There will be parts of the old wishbone, the flexbone that Arkansas runs and the Houston Gamblers' runand-shoot offense

"The multiple offense is more suited to the things I really believe

It is a move perhaps born not so much from creativity as necessity. Only three starters return from a unit that finished last in the Southwest Conference in total offense

The Raiders, while 4-7 last season, led in the final quarter in eight of their games and trailed by a single point in another.

Moore blamed the breakdown on offensive inconsistency. "The games we lost in the fourth quarter last year, we couldn't move the ball in order to keep possession and keep our defense off the field," Moore said. "To be effective, you have to have a good option game and we didn't last year. I'm looking forward to getting back to the sprintout game and I think our personnel better fits that type of attack...

"This new offense seems to be one that produces a lot of big plays and points.

Although a shoulder injury cut

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Texas short his spring drills, incumbent quarterback Aaron Keesee, a sophomore from Ballinger, will direct the new formation. And Moore believes he can pull it off. "Aaron was our most consistent player in the new offense," he said. "He didn't make many mistakes, and that's important.

"Plus, he's a better runner than I thought he would be.'

oths.

Aside from tackles Aubrey
"It will be more of a multiple of-Richburg and Sid Chambers, both returning starters, Moore will be relying on lettermen, redshirts and newcomers to fill in the offensive gaps.

If the offense is to provide the changes and surprises, Moore would not be too unhappy if the defense retains its status quo. That's because the Tech defense ranked 20th nationally and hovered near first place in the SWC.

Eight starters and 2l lettermen are back from a unit that forced more fumbles than any team in the conference, and a secondary that led the nation in pass defense, Returnees include four defensive players who won first or second team All-SWC recognition: linebacker Brad Hastings, cornerback Carl Carter, end Calvin Riggs and safety Merv Scurlark.

"Rebuilding the interior lin replacing Dwayne Jiles at linebacker are the two big priorities defensively," said

"If we can accomplish those and the returning people play up to their capabilities, then we should have another petty good year defensively.

Records fall at Youth meet the Trapshooting Hall of Fame.

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) - Andre Gren of Carson, Calif., and Nika Thomas of Wilmington, N.C., set track records Saturday while competing among 480 youngsters from all 50 states in the Hershey National Track and Field Youth Program. Green exploded out of the blocks on the 200-meter dash in the 13-14 age group and finished almost 2 seconds ahead of Eric Falls of Charlotte, N.C., with a time of 23.14 seconds. Maurice Carpenter of Washington, D.C., set the previous record, 23.27, in 1982.

Thomas breezed to the finish in the 100-meter dash for 13-and 14-year-old girls in 12.22, bettering the record of 12.44 set in 1981 by Angela Curry of Orlando, Fla.

In the boys 9-10 category, Dujuan Hord of Jefferson City, Mo., finished the 100-meter dash in 13.47, and Roderick House of Bay City, Texas, jumped 2.58 meters and won a tiebreaker in the 11-12 category to take home the long jump title.

The competition Saturday, sponsored by Hershey Foods Corp., was the culmination of months of local, district and state meets involving 1,400 communities and almost 300,000 youngsters 9 to 14 years old.

Boys and girls competed in in 50-, 100-, 200-and 400-meter dashes, a 400-meter relay, 800-and 1600-meter runs, the standing long jump and softball throw.

The boys' 4x100 meter relay team of Kevin Jolivette, Jason De-Jean, Corrie Johnson and Hayward Edwards from Lafayette, La., the favorite in the 13-14 group, defeated their closest competitors by a full second in 44.31.

In the girls' competition, Shenae Mills of Carson, Calif., finished the 200-meter dash in 25.45 in the 13-14 group.

SMU sings the blues

By DENNE H. REEMAN

AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Harry Crutcher, a football player for Southern Methodist in the early 1930s, summed up his school's current probation pickle candidly: "I sure hope the Lord gives us some real strong walk-ons.

SMU was stung by a three-year probation on Friday and the cruelest blow of all from the NCAA besides no bowls and no television was zero football scholarships in 1986 and only 15 in 1987.

The Mustangs signed only 15 freshmen this year.

The critical season for SMU's proud program will be 1987. SMU will lose 19 scholarshi seniors which would leave the Mustangs with only 67 players on scholarship (if there is no other attrition) and 15 of them would be freshmen.

NCAA rules allow a maximum of 30 football scholarships each year and a total of 95.

Even division 1-AA schools would have more scholarship players (70) in 1987 than SMU.

SMU goes into the 1985 season as the second winningest team in the nation the last three years.

But there could be some hard times for the Mustangs in just three seasons as they pay the price for their sixth probation since 1958, one-short of Wichita State's record seven sanctions.

The alumni, once again, are being cited for drawing the NCAA's attention. It's been that way since

In 1958, an oilman gave Abilene High School halfback Glynn Gregory a job after the player signing with SMU. The Mustangs received a one-year probation without sanctions.

In 1964, a private airplane from an alumnus was used by several prospective athletes

In 1981, SMU barred two 'athletic interests," which were heavy-moneyed alumni, from helping out the school after the Mustangs were put on probation.

This time, the NCAA ordered that SMU "shall make every reasonable effort to ensure that outside representatives of the university's athletic interests are not engaged in any activities related to the recruitment of prospective student-athletes."

SMU President L. Donald Shields has responded by taking steps against several boosters. disassociating them from future involvment in the university's intercollegiate athletic program.

Last year, Athletic Director Bob litch saw the storm approaching and barred SMU boosters from the lockerroom after games.

It's the same old song for SMU, just another verse.

The alumni are hard to control at the private university sitting on a hilltop in the wealthy Highland Park section of town.

Alumni and even some non-SMU graduates scramble to see who can have the most influence on the Mustang program. An example is an inscription written to W.B. "Tex" Trammell thanking him for his donations to the SMU weight room at Ownby Stadium. In reads, in part, "in appreciation ... for his acts of generosity that helped make possible these veight and practice facilities. In business-oriented Dallas, talk about such acts to help the Mustang football team can make impressive cocktail party conversation. The NCAA cited a booster giving a prospective athlete $5,000 cash to come to SMU. The father of the athlete also got a job and a rent-free aparment. The prospect later got a $300 per month living allowance and the father $2,000 for living expenses. Recruiting has suffered at SMU the last two years because of the NCAA investigation which lasted 26 months.

Coach Bobby Collins, who is under an administrative order not to comment until a news conference on Monday, said two weeks ago "No doubt we've lost a lot of players. A lot of them eliminated us early. It has hurt our program so much. There is no way anyone will ever know how much."

He added "A loss of scholarships could be devastating to a program. In three years, if he stays at SMU that long, Collins will know just how devastating.

MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Are You "Wendy's Kind Of People"?

At Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburger Restaurants we believe in a total commitment to satisfying every customer. We are dedicated to quality - not just talking about it. Our beef is pattled fresh daily at our restaurants. Each sandwich is made to order with the customer's choice of condiments. Our sandwiches never sit under heat lamps like the other hamburger restaurants you know. If you share our dedication to quality, you're "Wendy's Kind Of People" and we want to talk to you!

We are a growing Wendy's operation in the West Texas area committed to hiring only quality individuals who want to be a part of the Wendy's Management Team. As a Wendy's Manager, you'll learn that people are your most valuable resource and will be able to lead them to meet our tough standards. You'll relish the opportunity to be closely involved with the daily operation of our restaurants. Two years college or previous management experience is required. If you're "Wendy's Kind Of People" and want to receive the kind of salary and company benefits you deserve. Please apply in person Tuesday thru Friday at 208 Gregg. Ask for Eric — Equal Opportunity Employer.

Auburn looking for production in '85

ATLANTA (AP) - While Auburn appears to be the South's top college football power in 1985, Coach Pat Dye knows preseason expectations sometimes fail to materialize.

"This football team has a lot of potential, but you know what potential is — that's all it is until it produces," Dye said. "We will just have to wait and see how far that (potential) will take us."

Auburn has been in the preseason spotlight before. The Tigers were the choice a year ago to march through the Southeastern Conference and seriously contend for the 1984 national championship.

Instead, the Tigers struggled through a 9-4 season, finishing third in the SEC and 14th in the final Associated Press poll.

"Last year was not such a bad vear by a lot of standards, but when you are picked to be No. 1 in the nation, 9-4 is not very good," Dye said. "Being picked No. 1 was certainly premature, but it was something we enjoyed during the buildup for the season.

Elsewhere in the South, Maryland is favored to capture the Atlantic Coast Conference championship for the third year in a row and Miami, Fla., Florida State and South Carolina are expected to challenge for the title among the area's Division 1-A independents. Defending champion Tennessee-Chattanooga, The Cidadel and Furman should battle for the title in the Southern Conference, a Division 1-AA league.

There will be a new look offense for Auburn when it opens the season against Southwestern Louisiana on Sept. 7.

Dye has lived with the Wishbone attack since his days as an assistant under Bear Bryant at Alabama. He's decided to take a primarily because of senior Bo Jackson, a 1983 All-American who missed six games last year with a separated shoulder.

Jackson, who has 2,517 career yards, has carried the ball 20 or more times in only three of his 27 regular-season games. By contrast, three-time Georgia All-American Herschel Walker carried the ball less than 20 times in only three of his 33 games, while netting 5,259 yards in the I-formation.

Auburn is heavily favored to capture the SEC title this time, with its most serious challenge expected from Florida, which won't win the championship even if it goes unbeaten.

The Gators swept to the 1984 SEC title, the only one in the school's history, but that crown was stripped by the conference because of recruiting violations that landed the Gators on NCAA probation for two years. Teams on probation, with sanctions, are ineligible to win SEC titles.

Of the eligible SEC contenders. Alabama, Tennessee and Louisiana State appear to have the best shot at Auburn. Georgia, winner of three successive titles beginning in 1980, is in a rebuilding stage, and also there is some question as to how the team will react in the aftermath of Coach Vince Dooley's brief venture into politics.

For a month, Dooley considered running for the U.S. Senate, but decided late last month to remain at Georgia.

Auburn and Alabama each return 16 starters from last year, most in the SEC, with Mississippi State bringing back 15 starters, including 10 on defense.

Auburn has two All-SEC linemen back, defensive end Gerald Robinson and offensive guard Jeff Lott, look at the I-formation this year, and Alabama also has a pair of all-conference stars in linebacker Cornelius Bennett and defensive tackle

Jon Hand

Florida must rebuild its offensive line, but the Gators have some proven backs in quarterback Kerwin Bell and runners Neal Anderson and John L. Williams. Alonzo Johnson ranks as one of the area's top outside linebackers.

LSU, like Florida, has some spots to fill in its line, but the Tigers also have some gifted backs quarterback Jeff Wickersham and running backs Dalton Hilliard and Garry James.

Tennessee's attack will be geared to Tony Robinson, who had 2,089 yards of offense in winning the quarterback slot on the All-SEC team last year.

Maryland, which went 9-3 last year, has 18 starters back for 1985, including two All-ACC defenders guard Bruce Mesner and back Al

"We are talent-wise a little better than last year, but I don't know if it will be reflected in the won-loss record, though," Maryland Coach Bobby Ross said. "It is very important that we get off to a good start."

With Clemson coming off probation and picked to finish second, the ACC will have eight teams officially in their race for the first time since 1970. Georgia Tech and Virginia are expected to nail down the other two first-division spots in the 1985 race.

Among the top talent returning in the ACC are quarterbacks John Dewberry of Georgia Tech and Kevin Anthony of North Carolina, wide receivers Terrance Roulhac of Clemson, Chuck Herring of Duke and John Ford of Virginia, offensive tackles Jim Dombrowski of Virginia and Joe Milinichik of North Carolina State and defensive end Gary Baldinger of Wake Forest.

Miami, the 1984 national champion, is coming off a disappointing 8-5 season. The Hurricanes have nine defensive starters back, but lost quarterback Bernie Kosar to the pros. Kosar graduated from school early and now is with the Cleveland Browns. Vinnie Testaverde will inherit his slot at Miami.

FSU must rebuild its secondary and also settle on a quarterback either last year's starter, Eric Thomas, who had shoulder surgery in January, or sophomore Danny McManus, who came out of spring practice listed as the starter.

Coach Joe Morrison steered South Carolina to a 10-2 record last year, but only eight starters return, including quarterback Mike Hold and running backs Thomas Dendy and Kent Hagood. All-American linebacker James Seawright is among the departed.

Morrison says if the Gamecocks remember hard work and "go back with the same intensity and effort (of last year), we can have a good football team."

Virginia Tech, 8-4 ast year, has 10 starters back, but will be missing two of its key defenders - All-American tackle Bruce Smith, the NFL's No. 1 draft pick, and back Ashley Lee.

Howard Schnellenberger, who steered Miami to its national title, is the new coach at Louisville, and Art Baker will be in his first season at East Carolina, where the Pirates hope to improve last year's dismal 2-9 mark.

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — This is the about his defensive secondary. year of the quarterback in Midwest college football.

Nine of them, all starters, return in the Big Ten. Steve Beuerlein will be back at Notre Dame after shoulder surgery, and all but one of the Mid-American Conference teams have veterans returning.

Illinois, Iowa and Ohio State have been tabbed the preseason favorites, but Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler warns, 'Don't count us out." Purdue and Michigan State also are eyeing Pasadena and the Rose Bowl.

Despite losing 15 starters, Wisconsin Coach Dave McClain says he still has plenty of talent returning, but he is concerned

PLANS AND PATTERNS

Gerry Faust enters his fifth coaching year at Notre Dame and if the Irish are healthy, they could again become a national power. The Big Ten failed to land a team in the final Associated Press rankings last year, but conference coaches expect an outstanding season

"It'll be fun to watch," said Il-linois Coach Mike White. "There are more offensive skills and talented individuals in quarterbacks, receivers and running backs than you will see anywhere. The offenses will be explosive."

White will have such an offense. Jack Trudeau, returning at quarterback, passed for 2,724 yards last year. And returning wide receiver David Williams led the nation with 101 passes caught for 1,278 yards.

But the field is crowded with returning, outstanding quarterbacks.

That leaves only Ohio State, whose Mike Tomczak was graduated. But Coach Earle Bruce isn't worried - he has Jim Karsatos, an outstanding passer who backed Tomczak.

"I'd be concerned if it weren't for Jim Karsatos," said Bruce. "Jim has the experience and he can throw a football. We'll probably throw more this year."

Buckeye running back Keith Byars, the nation's leading rusher, also is returning. But if Ohio State has an edge over Illinois and Iowa, it's on defense.

"We have a good nucleus on defense with eight starters returning," said Bruce. "Our entire defensive secondary is back and that's a big plus because of all the emphasis on passing in the Big Ten." Iowa Coach Hayden Fry isn't overly concerned about his offense, not with Long at the controls and running back Ronnie Harmon returning from a leg injury. "I don't know of a quarterback who is better than Long," said Fry.

"And Ronnie Harmon is one of the most exciting football players in the nation." Defensively, Iowa returns only

The Wolverines have a stronger defense than last year and the quarterback situation appears healthy.

Michigan has one of the tougher pre-conference schedules, facing Notre Dame, South Carolina and Maryland before opening the Big Ten against Wisconsin.

'We look at it as a challenge. We like the challenge," said Schembechler.

Leon Burtnett of Purdue, last season's Big Ten "Coach of the Year," notes that in Everett he has the first quarterback in Boilermaker history to pass for 3,000 yards in one season. The receivers also are back, and so are running backs Ray Wallace and Rodney

"The question mark is the offensive line," said Burtnett, adding he has a vastly improved defense "capable of winning close games." George Perles of Michigan State says he also has "a stronger defense which should help the offense.

At one point last season, Notre Dame was 3-4, but rebounded with unexpected victories over Louisiana State, Penn State and Southern California, plus a comefrom-behind triumph over Navy.

"When our injured players got well, we started to win," said Faust. "If we stay healthy, we can be a junior-senior team that will be deep at two positions.

"We're close to where we want to be, we can see it coming," he said. "Once we got healthy we knocked off three of the top 20 teams."

In the tough Mid-American Conference, Bowling Green appears ready to succeed Toledo as the champion.

Toledo will still be a factor because of a defense which allowed less than 10 points a game last season before injuries took their toll. Eight regulars return to that

Sooners could challenge for No. 1

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) -When Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said his 1984 football team lacked depth in the backfield, skeptics could be forgiven if they thought he was joking. He wasn't.

Though Switzer's teams had rushed for nearly 340 yards per game in each of his 12 seasons as head coach, injuries, transfers and ineligible players often left his staff scrambling to make up a depth chart with two players at each halfback position.

Still, Oklahoma went 9-2-1 and earned a trip to the Orange Bowl. Switzer gave much of the credit to his great defense and the play of quarterback Danny Bradley. This year, things look better in the backfield. Spencer Tillman, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards as a freshman in 1983, had an injuryfree spring after shedding 15 pounds. A hamstring pull limited him to eight games and 449 yards last season.

Earl Johnson, a junior fullback, is expected to be 100 percent again after having a cracked kneecap fixed in the off-season. Johnson teamed with Tillman to give Oklahoma more than 2,000 rushing yards two seasons ago, but his injury in 1984 limited him to 80 yards on 33 A healthy Johnson would give the Sooners a potent 1-2 punch at fullback. Starter Lydell Carr, a sophomore, returns after leading the club with 695 yards a year ago. And several young players showed great improvement during spring drills, leaving Switzer smiling.

'We can be a good football team," he said. "If everyone we're counting on is well physically, we have a chance to be a very good team. Much will ride on the shoulders of sophomore quarterback Troy Aikman, a 6-3, 215-pound strongarm player, who looks out of place in the wishbone "If everyone expects him to be a great wishbone quarterback in the mold of a Thomas Lott or a Danny Bradley ... he's not going to win that way," Switzer said.

"But he's big and strong and has good enough speed. We've timed him at 4.65 in the 40. He's got good, quick feet and a good arm." Aikman started in place of the injured Bradley last season, and Oklahoma lost to Kansas, 28-11. It was a rude welcome, but something Switzer says has been beneficial

"I think that helped him,"

Switzer said. "I think it's been a plus. Now he's got something to prove and he's been working hard to do it. He's come a long way.'

The rest of the offense showed improvement during spring drills, also. Up front, the Sooners found suitable replacements for the two tackles and center lost by graduation.

Coaches say Keith Jackson, a sophomore-to-be, gives Oklahoma its best tight end in several years. And wide receiver Derrick Shepard returns for his junior season after leading the club with 24 receptions a year ago.

Switzer has always said defense is what wins games, and the Sooners again look outstanding in that area

Lifestyle Writer Speaking before a group is number one on a list of 14 things people fear most, according to the 'Book of Lists." They fear it more than death. An international organization, however, is helping people overcome this fear.

Toastmasters organizations are helping people improve their ability to communicate, to express themselves clearly and concisely and to develop and strengthen their leadership and executive potential. Sandra Waggoner, secretary of the Tall Talkers, a local Toastmasters charter, joined the club in March. She began a bookkeeping business a year ago. When I started my business, I

"I wish I had had the opportunity to join Toastmasters as a teenager and before I became a parent,' said Moses. A good part of effective communications is the ability to listen, she said.

'When it comes to meeting new people, I don't just reach out. It takes me a little while to warm up to them," said Waggoner. But, "I feel like I'm more confident with people now. I can think in a more organized way," she said.

Toastmasters "really made me aware of communication techniques I was not aware of before," said Moses.

The organization "teaches you to speak on the spur of the moment,' said Waggoner. "To be able to speak spontaneously is something we have to do everyday," Moses

"I want to go just as far as I possibly can" in the club, said Waggoner. "Even if I'm not a speaker, I can learn from seeing how other people improve.'

"Toastmasters are the greatest audience in the world," said Moses. "They are attentive; they are listening.

In Toastmasters, constructive evaluation is taught. It can be a tool in communicating on the job. In pointing out the positive aspects of a person or situation, a person builds a foundation for effectively communicating his or her desires and needs from a co-worker, boss or employee, said Moses.

"I really can't imagine any area of life in which the skills of communicating effectivly would not be useful," said Moses. "It's really "I think it's easier for your audience to relate to you," said life."

Parents can ease transition from vacation back to school

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) - With the start of school, attention is focused on children and their adjustment to the classroom. But parents need to realize that the transition from summer vacation to school days can disrupt the whole family, says Dr. Gregory W. Brock, a family therapist.

around people and is able to organize her thoughts. She is the secretary

Brock, director of the Marriage and Family Therapy Program at United States International University here, believes that parents and children can better weather the transition if the negative hassles are minimized.

"All of a sudden when the school year starts, the belt of routine tightens around the neck; a little planning can loosen the belt a bit," says Brock, who has been a practicing marriage and family therapist for 12 years and is a clinical member and approved supervisor of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy.

He offers parents these suggestions, which he says can help both them and their children cope with the annual transition from leisure to a more regulated life and speed the adjustment period:

 If possible, start children on the necessary bedtime and morning routines a week before school begins. In any case, be firm about the bedtime requirements during the early weeks of school, rather than allowing later summer bedtimes to continue once school begins.

· Help your children break the snack habit by sticking with regular mealtimes and limiting snacks on weekends, because after the school year starts children don't have the freedom to nibble at odd · Wait a week or two after school starts before going on a shopping spree. That way children will be able to choose clothes that they will feel good about wearing on a regular basis instead of clothes designed for the first day of school.

· If your children are at a new school this year, take time to go to the school yourself to visit and to meet the teachers. • Try to be organized with car pools, the time children are to leave for school if they walk, and routines for buying or bringing lunches. Parents should arrange their own schedules the first weeks of school to allow time to talk to children

Brock urges parents to ask children specific questions about their experiences, rather than just an open question such as "What did you learn today?"

'The younger the child, the more specific the questions. Ask a first-grader if he had milk for lunch, or what side of the room his desk in on," Brock advises. Once school has started, parents need to remember that the experience is full of disappointments for the children, as well as excitement. Disappointments include such things as finding out that your best friend is in a different class or that you don't get to sit by the window this year.

Parents will find it works best to just listen seriously to the child's complaints, but allow the child to deal with these issues himself, adds Brock, the father of three young children.

The Puppeteer

Local florist enjoys working with puppets

By CAROL BALDWIN Lifestyle Editor

Tucked away between the shadows of a spacious workroom at Faye's Flowers are dozens of puppets in various stages of completion. One can often find florist Kelly Draper in this work area, building props or adding "character" to a puppet he has

The workroom, with high ceilings and glaring light bulbs, is a perfect hideaway for the puppets. They sit, wide-mouthed and silent, amid colorful streamers which fall from the ceiling and pieces of props that Draper brings with him to various shows.

Draper, a florist by profession but a puppeteer at heart, has made dozens of puppets during recent years. He also performs at workshops and for classrooms of eager kids. He has toured with several symphonies with a produc-tion of "Peter and the Wolf."

But he still considers puppeteering second in line to his career as a Draper, 31, said, "You can't make an easy living with puppets. I road all the time."

But both jobs are demanding, Draper said. "Anything wor-thwhile is work," he said.

Draper manages to balance work in the florist shop with work on his puppets. He has been negotiating another tour with the Fort Worthy Symphony Orchestra and will perform with several assistants in "Peter and the Wolf" and an original show that is still in the planning stages. Recently, he attended the Texas Library Association Convention in Dallas to show off some of his newer puppets. Among those he displayed was Hemingway, a purple worm which peeks out from the pages of a large book. Hemingway will read stories, through the aid of a tape, to children. Draper did all of the voices for the stories and he hopes to market the puppet soon.

Draper believes puppets may be able to teach where regular human "Kids are conditioned to listen to puppets. Sesame Street started that," he said. People "don't have the uniqueness that a puppet has," Draper said with a smile. "Kids would have to tour a lot and I really are used to seeing people, but couldn't have a home. I'd be on the they're not used to seeing Draper decided to use puppets for educational purposes when he was at a camp several years ago. "I was teaching kids how to work the mouths of my puppets. We went around the room and I asked the kids to say nursery rhymes."

What he found shocked him. "Very few of the kids knew a nursery rhyme. I thought there was bound to be a way to get the stories that were popular when I was growing up to kids where they would listen to them. Hemingway is very good for that."

In addition to his work with Hemingway, Draper is also hoping to expand his "Peter and the Wolf" program into a video which he wants to market. "I would like to get involved in (video)," Draper said. "It's really fascinating."

Draper's work with "Peter and the Wolf" has been a surprise to Draper, who designed the puppets and the props for the show. He originally wanted to do about three performances of the show, but has found the show very popular. He toured with symphonies as far away as Mexico and with several symphonies within Texas.

Kelly Draper sits with Glunk, a puppet he works with in various shows. Behind Draper are a number of other puppets he has designed.

Weddings

Wheeler-Warren

Beverly Ann Wheeler and J. Wray Warren exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening at the First Baptist Church with Dr. Kenneth G. Patrick, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Wheeler of 1707 Harvard. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Loran H. Warren of 2903 Navajo.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with two arrangements of rubrum lilies in birdbaths. The altar was also decorated with an arch of greenery and two arch candleabra.

Keith Ross was organist for the ceremony. Laura Lynn Warren was pianist. Vocalists were Carrie Vickers, sister of the bride, and Mark Warren.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white taffeta gown fashioned with a high sheer yoke of English net. Alencon lace accented with pearls and sequins accented the bodice. The lego-mutton sleeves were edged with Alencon lace. The headpiece was a small bandera covered with matching lace, pearls and crystals. The fingertip veil was edged in

But there are ways to bounce back after a vacation to avoid having a serious case of post-vacation blues, suggests Lawson, who spent two years on a kind of continual "vacation," living out of a suitcase and teaching in a different European location every 10 weeks. He offers these tips on how to plan your vacation to minimize stress and to avoid a big letdown: Leave some time at both ends of your vacation. It's not a good idea to hit the road an hour after you get off work on Friday, nor to return home late Sunday night.

• Try to tie up loose ends before you go. There's nothing worse than being in some far-away spot feeling guilty and worrying about unfinished tasks at home

Hot food is key to keeping cool in the heat

NEW YORK (AP) - No other country beats the United States in preparing iced drinks and desserts in trying to stay cool in hot weather. However, most other countries know the worst thing to do to stay cool is to eat cold foods. according to Feeling Great magazine

In fact, whether they drink hot tea in India, eat curries in Sri Lanka, or nibble jalapeno peppers in Mexico, people beat the heat by eating hot foods. Hot foods cause you to perspire, which helps to maintain control over body temperature through evaporation.

In addition, many of the spices and roots used in preparing hot dishes contain potassium and sodium traces along with other elements which the body uses to replenish chemicals lost through heavy perspiration.

 Avoid taking a vacation that is merely an extension of what you do at home or work. Remember, a vacation by definition is something that allows you to get your mind off what you do routinely.

TAX-WISE LOANS It's not unusual for individuals to lend money to family members, friends, and to their own businesses. It's also not uncommon for some of these loans to end up as uncollectible The IRS is very suspicious of loans to family, friends and one's own business and will try to force you to prove certain things if you try to deduct such loans as bad debts. The IRS will expect you to prove that you did indeed make a loan and that the money was not a gift to a family member or friend or a capital contribution to your company. The IRS will look for evidence that the bad debt that you want to deduct is in fact uncollectible. Finally, if you try to treat the loan as a business loan with its more favorable tax treatment rather than as a personal loan with less favorable treatment, the IRS will expect proof that the loan was business related.

Do the necessary paperwork at the time you make a loan, business or personal, to assure yourself of the best deduction should the loan turn into a bad debt. Draw up a note for the loan, stating the interest rate, schedule for repayment, and the collateral that secures the loan. If the loan becomes uncollectible, be certain your collection attempts are formally documented. Keep copies of letters sent to the debtor and a record of other collection attempts that you make.

If the loan is a business one, have that fact documented in the loan agreement or in business records or corporate minutes. A business bad debt can be deducted when it becomes partially worthless or completely worthless and it gives you an ordinary loss that offsets taxable income dollar for dollar. A personal debt can only be deducted when it is totally worthless and is treated as a short-term capital loss which means it will first offset capital gains and then can offset ordinary income to the extent of only $3,000 per year.

Tax shelters need thought

WASHINGTON (AP) - If you are thinking about investing money in a tax shelter, there are a number of points to consider.

James T. O'Hara, of the Jones, Day Reavis & Pogue law firm, says you should not be impressed by the celebrity names of other investors. 'They don't know any more than you do," says O'Hara.

He says it is safer to deal with an established investment, accounting or law firm. He advises it is risky to deal with an individual broker, accountant or lawyer whom you do not know or who operates out of a distant city.

And, he adds, you should be wary of any investment that promises you tax losses in the first few years that are more than double the cash you have invested, and that you shouldn't get involved with investments with which you are not

am I doing wrong? I run with a friend who seems tireless, while I get pooped easily. His stride seems to be his secret. We are both about the same so far as height, weight, etc. are concerned. Can you offer any advice? - J.L.C.

You raise a point that intrigues sports medicine scientists - the efficiency of movement.

There's not a whole lot of work done in this area, but enough to suggest a few possible answers for you. They say that if you really want to learn about efficiency in running, watch a kangaroo. Believe it or not, a kangaroo uses less energy per hop as it increases its speed of hopping, its momentum. It has increased the efficiency of energy expenditure, of movement. Some feel, both from that example and from experiments with humans, that efficiency improves when there are fewer pauses or semi-hesitations between strides. This creates what is called elastic energy. And there are ways to help develop it. Well-cushioned shoes decrease the energy cost of each stride, so look to that. Your companion's shoes may be giving him an edge. Increase of body temperature helps movement efficiency. So warm-ups are necessary before setting out. It starts you on the way to getting your second wind.

Finally, stride length plays an important role. A good stride should be about 80 percent of the distance of your total leg length. DEAR DR. DONOHUE: An injury interrupted my swimming

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What program for two months. I am amazed now at how much I've gotten out of shape. I never imagined how a two-month layoff could undo all the work I had done before the accident. Do you think it is in my mind? I feel I'm back to square one. - F.K.B.

> As a matter of fact, after only a week of layoff athletes find profound changes in their work capacity. And it's not imagined.

Oxygen delivery to muscles can be halved after just a week of inactivity, and there are changes in the muscles themselves. Their glycogen stores drop. That's the raw material of muscle energy. The number of tiny blood vessels around muscle fibers decreases markedly.

With a little diligence you'll return to full function. Some use a rule of thumb that it takes about as much time to become reconditioned as it took to get out of condition.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Our 15-year-old daughter is a high school sophomore and active in athletics (running, golf, softball, etc.). She maintains a rigorous physical routine, as she has since she was in eighth grade. Our concern is for her sexual development. She hasn't menstruated yet. Her coach attributes this to the physical activity and says many girls experience the same thing. It's supposed to be temporary. What do you think? Shouldn't she have an examination? - Mrs. I.I. I agree with you. It is unwise to attribute delay in puberty (although we cannot yet classify this as such a delay) to physical activity. That, indeed, can be a factor, but much hinges on determination of secondary sex characteristics. That refers to signs such as breast growth, pubic and underarm hair growth, and so on. If those signs are present, the concern is less. The general rule with regard to menstruation is that its absence by the 16th year should be evaluated.

So for everyone's peace of mind. including the girl's, you should make an appointment with your family doctor or your gynecologist. If your concern is for the girl's athletic career, you should not worry. Even were she to require treatment for abnormal development the doctor would most likely allow her to continue with it.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever

Women Break Into New Field With H&R Block Tax Course

Women across America are moving into the business world by learning income tax preparation skills.

ESTIMATES

OPEN 9 TO 5

Learning a skill like income tax preparation is a good way to open up career opportunities and help save money at tax time, as well.

H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 3 with morning and evening classes available. Courses are ideal for those interested in increasing their tax knowledge. No prerequisites are required to enroll.

Classes are held over a 13-week period. An experienced Block in-structor will guide students through all phases of income tax preparation. Classwork will in-clude discussion, practice pro-blems and actual experience preparing individual tax returns. New tax laws will be explained.

Skills learned in the H&R Block Income Tax Course could be the key to entrance into the business world an da way to earn extra money or qualify for a possible job interview with H&R Block. Many people feel employment with Block gives them the freedom of flexible hours. Block, however, is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

FRANK DEAR FRANK: The lady's criticism is less troubling than the way she phrased it — "people of slum caliber." A lot of nice middleclass people bathe their dogs in the kitchen sink, which is all right as long as the sink is well cleaned afterward.

Letting a pet lick the ice cream dish clean is another matter, however. Boiling water will

EASEMENTS

Before going ahead with plans to have an addition built on your home, have your property deed checked. This way you can verify that there is no "easement" that would prohibit you from putting your addition exactly where you would like it. An easement gives another party the legal right to use part of your property. It might be in the form of a right-of-way allowing a utility company to lay cables or pipes across some part of your property. Or, it may give a neighbor the right to pass through your property to his own. In any case, it is necessary to check such things before beginning construction.

Desk and Derrick Club celebrates 31st anniversary

The Desk and Derrick Club of Big Spring celebrated its 31st anniversary Tuesday at Alberto's Restaurant. Guests were Mary Winkler and Mr. and Mrs. Paschal Odom.

The club received its charter and became affiliated with the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America Aug. 3, 1954.

Charter members present were: Helen Green, Mamie Roberts, Margueritte Cooper and Charlotte Sheedy

Membership is open to all women employed in the petroleum and allied industries. The purpose is to gain a better understanding of the industry through informative programs.

Sue Warren, president, was elected delegate to the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs Convention to be held in San Francisco Sept. 19-21. Grace Kinney was elected alternate.

Paschal and Lucy Odom presented the program on their ex-periences in Saudi Arabia for the last two years.

Paschal, an engineer for Bechtel Company, Ltd., worked on the largest construction project in the world which is the Madinat Al-Jubail-Al-Sinai Yah, he said. This venture is to cover the period of 1974 to 1994 and combines Saudi Arabian natural resources and financing with American technical managerial and marketing expertise.

At the beginning Bechtel did everything and the Saudis nothing; in 1994 the Saudis will do all and Bechtel nothing, said Odom.

The plant is running but maintenance and operation have to be taught, and it takes time and exbies a United States companies have joined with Bechtel in operating the

Mrs. Odom and the other wives and families were subject to the laws of the kingdom. Women are not permitted to drive in Saudi Arabia and only men who have college degrees can secure a driver's license, they said. There are no speed limits for driving, and no alcoholic beverages are allowed.

The religion is Moslem and everything stops for prayers five times every day, said the Odoms. The roles of women and men in a Moslem society are separate. Educational facilities are separate yet provided for all children.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcements of the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper.

white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department. The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, 1918 Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 283-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS

Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS

WEDDINGS

If a wedding writeup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding. BIRTHS Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address.

SWCID employees return from vacations

By CAROL BALDWIN Lifestyle Editor

WILMA EVANS, an instructor at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, is becoming a world

Wilma flew to Athens, Greece, earlier this summer to participate in a tour there. Later, she met DELORES ERLANDSON, two other SWCID employees, at the Grand Canyon. The women walked down through the winding paths that lead into the Canyon's interior and spent the night in some dormstyle cabins. Helene told friends later that folks attempting to walk through parts of the cabin need to be in good shape.

After their stay in Arizona, Helene headed back for Big Spring, while Wilma and Delores headed for the Los Angeles area where they attended the National Deaf Women's Convention and saw parts of the World Games for the visiting relatives and friends. Sandra also attended the Deaf Women's Convention.

BOB and SHARON COLTRANE visited South Carolina this summer where they showed off the newest addition to their family, son NICHOLAS. The Coltranes also picked up Bob's son, ROBBIE, who will be living in Big Spring for the coming year. Welcome to Texas, Robbie.

Several Big Spring home AMMONS RASMUS spent several economics teachers recently weeks in California this summer, returned from the State Professional Improvement Conference in Dallas. The conference was for home economics teachers across the state and was held in the AM-FAC hotel on the grounds of the D-FW Airport.

Attending were VIRGINIA MAR-TIN, CHARLOTTA HAMILTON and ALMA WRIGHTSH, all of Big Spring High School, and KARLA CANADA of Runnels and ADA NAREM of Golidad.

GAIL EARLS had her tonsils out earlier this month and has been recuperating at home. When we tried to contact her last week about some story ideas, Gail had a little trouble talking on the phone, but otherwise she's doing a lot better.

Although most people are still thinking about summer vacations, some are preparing for the coming school year. Let's face it, school starts locally in about two weeks.

Thinking about school may have prompted WANDA REESE to send a note to the Herald praising math teacher DOLLINE BUDKE. In her letter to the newspaper, Reese said of Budke, "She is the sort of teacher who should be encouraged. She really cares about whether her students learn math...She is more than willing to help anyone who is having problems. She tutors her own students and those of other teachers.'

Reese went on to say that she doesn't know Budke personally, but that her child had Budke as a math teacher and felt the class was

SAFETYPUP ...with Sqt. Pace

Special pup joins local police force

"Safetypup" has joined the Big Spring Police Department, according to Sgt. Fred Pace.

Safetypup, an animated character sanctioned by the National Child Safety Council, will help present safety information to children in area schools. Safetypup comes with a set of song cassettes geared to various grade levels, Pace said. Topics include: How to say no to strangers, to sexual abuse, to drugs and alcohol; how to report emergencies; safety tips for latchkey kids; and learning your telephone number and calling long distance.

Pace is coordinating the program with the help of Betty Boren of the National Child Safety Council Pace said he and Safetypup will be visiting kindergarten children and day care centers during coming weeks.

Safetypup teaches kids to never go with strangers, to use a buddy system, to go straight home from school, and to never take shortcuts from school. He also urges the importance of knowing one's full name and address and the names of parents.

Around town :

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

Former local couple witnesses Delta tragedy

Barry and Marie Canning, son and daughter-in-law of Harold and Doris Canning, were behind the car in which a man was killed when it was hit on the Dallas freeway by the Delta Aircraft tragedy last week. They are still having nightmares about it.

Remember my asking you to submit ideas for creative action? Dana Clawson suggested last week the idea for having a clearinghouse for matching people to appropriate volunteer jobs

This week, two ideas came in. Dixie Hogan suggested an old-fashioned May Pole Celebration every May 1 at Comanche Lake. Her vision is to start with a parade of boats on the water tied together with a garland of flowers and greenery. Music, festooned trees, youth performing the traditional May Pole dance, and possibly a May queen crowning would involve the whole town. Artificial garlands could be made by volunteers during the winter months. Beginning as a Sesquicentennial event, it could become an annual offering.

The second idea was for the Humane Society to set up a program to match homeless animals with elderly people to give them healthy, vaccinated pets for both love and protection. It has been proven in many studies that the mental health of the elderly has been improved tremendously by giving them pets.

Back to the idea from Dana Clawson. This week's spotlight is on Friends of the Fair. This is a more "seasonal" volunteer activity with the bulk of the work coming in June, July, August and September. These volunteers have some special rewards: The camaraderie of a social event (fish fry for all Friends annually) and free pass to the Fair each night. Jobs to be done include every aspect of putting on a fair from planning, organizing, decision making, problem solving, finance, decoration, booth placement, clerical, public relations, speech making, juding exhibits and entries and so on. Call 263-0784 or 394-4439 to volunteer. They NEED you NOW. The fair is only 4 weeks away.

Theresa and Lee Henry, longtime residents of Big Spring, recently moved to Temple where Lee went to work for the Ford dealership there. Their new address is 5433 Loop 205, No. 162, Temple, TX., 76502.

Go peek in the windows of the Settles Hotel and see the work as it progresses. The cleanup is a major, time-consuming job because of the amount of destruction and deterioration accumulated over the years. Also much basic work is having to be done on wiring, plumbing and structure before the cosmetic part is begun. This slow process is beginning to show visible results, however.

The two ballrooms on the mezzinine-second floor are going to be restored to original opulence. If all goes well, Big Spring will see a splashy New Year's Eve dance with the big band sound of yesteryear filling the historic old

The UT System Board of Regents will have one of its regular meetings Dec. 5-6 in Odessa. This is open to the public. During the twoday board meeting the Regents will be hosted in a special dinner by the UTPB Development Board at the Green Tree Country Club in

About 1,500 people are expected for the annual Charles Stenholm picnic Sept. 7 and YOU ARE IN-VITED. I have tickets in my office for the event featuring a catered meal of fried chicken and all the trimmings including truck loads of watermelons. It is a festive, informal evening under the trees at the old Ericksdahl park outside Stamford. People from all over Stenholm's district come by car, bus and plane loads to visit and meet with lots of dignitaries from Washington and Austin. Bales of hay are scattered everywhere for sitting on, a live country band entertains and a lively program briefly interrupts the relaxed visiting.

We always have a good number of people go from Big Spring but we need more. Most communities take chartered buses or large car caravans for the Saturday party held from 4:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. The blue-jeaned crowd creates a down home, old-fashioned political picnic for the one time each year that Charlie, Cindy and their 3 children return to the 17th District to visit old friends.

Another aspect of the day is a public conversation preceeding the picnic held at Stamford High School Auditorium. Charles will lead discussion between four dignitaries on banking, agriculture, the budget, small business and taxation. The four are

Georgian Doug Barnard, a member of the House Banking Committee; Kika De La Garza, Texas congressman and chairman of the House Agriculture Committee; Bill Gray, Pennsylvanian who chairs the House Budget Committee; and Robert Matusi, Californian and member of the House Ways and Means Committee.
