Accident victim dies from injuries

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Staff Writer A Big Spring woman died Friday afternoon as a result of multiple injuries she received in a Thursday night motorcycle accident, said a spokesman for Medical Center Hospital in Odessa.

Funeral services for Shirley Jean Atwell, 30, of 1000 Baylor are pending with Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

Atwell died at 1 p.m. in the hospital's intensive care ward. She was transferred to the Odessa hospital Thursday night from Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital in Big Spring.

According to a Department of Public Safety accident report, Atwell was traveling north on Highway 87, five miles north of Big Spring when the single-vehicle accident occurred.

motorcycle when she "drifted off the roadway and onto the dirt shoulder on the east side" of the road, the report stated.

Atwell was "traveling at a speed too excessive ... (and) attempted to correct her condition" before the vehicle began sliding sideways, according to the report.

Before coming to a rest, the motorcycle fell over and overturned twice. She was not wearing a helmet, the report stated.

Atwell was born Feb. 28, 1955 and had lived her entire life in Big Spring. She was a member of a Baptist church and had worked at Cosden the last nine years. She was a Big Spring High School graduate.

'A cucumber gone crazy'

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Nadine Williams of Knott still lives with the legend of a cucumber gone crazy.

Four years after she planted what turned out to be the world's largest cucumber, Williams is still enjoying the fruits of her

"I just planted it and watered it with Miracle Grow plant food," Williams said, "and it just went crazy.

But the 17-pound cucumber did more than just land her a spot in the 1983 Guinness Book of World Records, a spot she's held ever since.

That cucumber recently got her an expense-paid trip to New York, where she will be in a commercial for Miracle Grow, she said Wednesday.

At 38 inches long and 1734 inches in diameter, the cucumber was bound to be special. At the time, it was taller than her grandson, then 4 years old.

It's not the first time the Miracle Grow company has rewarded Williams for using their product to grow her record vegetable. When it gained a spot in the book of world records, she received $1,000, 25 pounds of Miracle Grow products and a watersprayer.

The veteran gardener grew the cucumber in 1981, was verified as the record holder in 1982 and was listed in the 1983 edition of the Guinness book.

She will be in New York Sept. 16-19 with her husband, Knott farmer B.J. Williams, for the filming of the commercial. Asked if she's ever been to New York, she laughs. "Lands, no. I haven't been thinking about it too much. I've been trying to forget it

Farm receipts

Book tells how to stop records from blowin' in the wind

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) - Bookkeeping on the farm: A grain receipt blows out the pickup window, planting data scrawled on an envelope is washed with the bib overalls, and a fertilizer bill disappears in a six-month pile of paper.

These mistakes might have been merely annoying when agriculture was economically healthy. But declining grain sales and rising production costs and interest rates have combined in recent years to depress farm income and land values. The U.S. Agriculture Department says farm income will drop this year more than 24 percent from 1984.

That means lapses in bookkeeping can spell bankruptcy, say three farm wives who have devised a bookkeeping system to get farmers organized.

The Agriculture Department says farm income will drop this year to between $22 billion and $26 billion, down from $34.6 billion in Their book, "Put Paperwork in its Place," gives farmers a stepby-step plan for keeping good records — just "paperwork short-cuts," said one of the authors, Ann Jorgensen of Garrison, Iowa.

"It makes you really look at the figures to see if you're making money or losing money so you can react in the proper way," Mrs. Jorgensen said. "We're in an economic time where your banker wants to know your cash flow, profit projection and cost of production - all pencil-pushing pay for it in the fall" system and to activities."

The problem, said Mrs. Jorgensen, is that farmers traditionally have concentrated on raising crops while shunning paperwork.
"They tend to buy a desk, let papers pile up and not know how to file them," she said.

The book outlines basic plans for sorting the "tons of paper that arrive in the mail every day," from farm magazines and tax bills to business letters and junk mail. The book offers a system for creating files for important items "so information flows and doesn't get into a bottleneck. Do a little filing every day and it's a piece of cake.

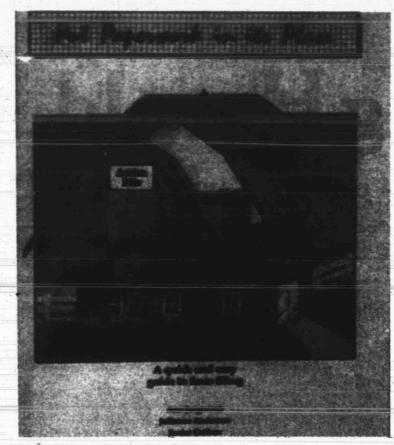

There are motivational tips, such as put a red dot on a document each time it is handled, and "if it gets measles, you've wasted a lot of

Mrs. Jorgensen said farmers often write important field information on a scrap of paper or the back of an envelope, then put in in their pocket.

"It gets washed and your whole history can be wiped out."

Such problems can be solved by carrying a small metal storage box with a clipboard on top. Notes and receipts can be slipped safely inside and taken to the office for filing on a regular basis.

The book, published by Wallace Homestead Book Co. in Lombard, Ill., also urges farmers to get away from the "buy it in the spring and

Legislator: schools won't give grant details

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN - Some colleges and universities are refusing to reveal how they distribute state funds intended for needy students, a state representative has charged.

Rep. Al Luna, D-Houston, said this week that of the state's 97 public colleges, universities and medical schools, 30 have not responded to a request by Commissioner of Higher Education Kenneth Ashworth that they provide details of their distribution procedures.

'If our colleges and universities do not heed a demand by the commissioner of higher education, who will they respond to?" Luna asked.

But Mack Adams, assistant commissioner for student services for the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, said as of Thursday only 11 colleges and universities had not responded to the reqest.

The funds, called Texas Public

Education Grants (TPEG), were created in 1975 when the state Legislature instructed colleges and universities to set aside part of their tuition revenue for needy students.

But in the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1984, 59 percent of those funds, or $4.6 million, remained unspent, according to figures provided by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

In the past, many institutions have carried over funds from previous years. But a law that takes effect Sept. 1 calls for an institution to forfeit any funds that exceed 150 percent of the financial aid set aside the previous fiscal set aside during the previous year. Among those listed as Category IV schools was Howard County Junior College, which had in its reserve 380 percent of the funds it set aside during the 1984 fiscal

In a letter to Ashworth, College President Bob Riley said because personnel changes over the years, it was "understandable" that some of the funds would go

"I don't believe any college intends to 'hoard' these funds or deprive any deserving student," Riley said.

He added that school officials are concerned that making TPEG funds more available might discourage some students from seeking work-study positions. "We like for students to have a feeling of the schools that carried over more working a few hours per week package of only grants," he said. While TPEG funds are intended for all students who can prove financial need, Luna said, minority students in particular feel the pinch when financial aid is withheld. "Failure by schools to respond to such a serious matter affecting economically disadvantaged students can only be interpreted as institutional insensitivity toward minority students," he

"How many students have been pushed out...because of our institutions' inability to administer these funds effectively?" he asked.

Luna said he will recommend that the Select Committee on Higher Education, a blue ribbon study panel whose members have yet to be named, investigate the distribution of TPEG funds. "Perhaps the commissioner's position of authority may need to be than 150 percent of the financial aid rather than a total financial aid strengthened somewhat," he said.

icann controls TWA

NEW YORK - Financier Carl Icahn raised his stake in Trans World Airlines to 50.3 percent of its outstanding shares on Friday, a move that gave him an apparent victory in his fight for control of TWA.

Icahn raised his stake from 47 percent of TWA stock, boosting his holdings to 17,492,469 shares of the approximately 34.5 million shares outstanding, a spokesman, Peter Rosenthal, said after financial markets had closed for the week.

Rosenthal refused to discuss Icahn's plans, and Icahn was away from his office and unavailable for comment.

Earlier in the week, after the TWA board refused to adopt proposals that would have been favorable to a rival bidder, Texas Air Corp., Icahn said he would seek to seal control of TWA by increasing his holdings to more than 50 percent.

It is believed he purchased a 930,000-share block of TWA stock that traded Friday at $22.50 a share. TWA ended the week at $22.371/2 a share, unchanged from Thursday's

MX test successful

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. An unarmed MX missile was launched Friday down a Pacific Ocean range, the ninth in the series of tests and the first to use an underground silo, officials said.

The $60 million launch was conducted from an underground Minuteman missile silo, as called for in President Reagan's plan to modernize U.S. nuclear forces.

This is the first flight out of a silo with a real launch-control system like the one (the MX) will be deployed with," said Air Force Gen. Aloysius G. Casey.

Eight previous tests, which the Air Force said were all successful, had been conducted from a $2 million concrete pad above the ground.

"We had an extremely successful test," Casey said. "The engines performed within one-tenth of 1 percent accuracy.'

Shuttle mission 'daring'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - Fitted with improved engine gauges to avoid another clif-fhanger launch, Discovery was primed Friday to begin one of the most daring space shuttle missions, the capture and rewiring of an $85 million wandering satellite.

Launch was set for 8:36 a.m. EDT Saturday and an Air Force weatherman said "the worst we expect are scattered clouds.

If all goes well, the shuttle will edge alongside the 71/2-ton slowly spinning derelict on Thursday, and one of the five astronauts will grab the satellite with his gloved hands and stop its rotation.

MTV goes to Austin

AUSTIN - MTV, the cable television music channel, will focus on Austin this weekend in a program called, "The Cutting Edge."

The Austin segment of the snow, which is co-sponsored by the MTV network and IRS Records, was filmed in July and will feature more than a dozen bands plus scattered shots

Included in the program, scheduled to air Sunday night, are shots of bands that include Doctor's Mob, Brave Combo, Dino Lee and the White Trash Revue, Zeigeist, Timbuk3, Glass Eye, the Wild Seeds and the Tail Gators.

Jet fire causes airline to check Boeing 737s

LONDON (AP) - British Airways Friday ordered a check of maintenance records of its Boeing 737s and investigators studied the remains of a 737's engine. which exploded during takeoff and ignited a fire that killed 54 people.

Teams of specialists from Boeing and the enginemaker, the Connecticut-based Pratt and Whitney, arrived from the United States to join Britain's Accident Investigation Board in seeking the cause of the engine

Roger Leonard, a Boeing air safety investigator, told reporters as he passed through Heathrow Airport in London that the 737 — one of the world's most widely used aircraft - had the lowest accident rate per flight of any Boeing aircraft.

Asked if 737s should be grounded, he said, "I have no knowledge of anything that would make the grounding of all 737s justified."

British Airways spokesman Alan Solloway said the state-owned airline was not considering grounding its fleet of 30 737s. But he said it had decided to run immediate "computerized checks" on the planes to look for abnormal patterns.

British Airways said later it had completed a check of computerized maintenance records. "Nothing turned up," said a press officer.

Seattle-based Boeing has sold more than 1,200 737s, a short-range plane seating up to 130 people. Its two Pratt and Whitney JT8D engines are carried in pods under the wings.

On Thursday, one of those engines exploded when a 737 of British Airtours, a subsidiary of British Airways, was taxiing to take off from Manchester International Airport with 131 passengers and six crew members bound for the Greek island of Corfu.

Though the engines are armored to stop debris from explosive failures flying about dangerously, something from the engine pierced fuel tanks in the wing, starting a fire that spread into the fuselage as the takeoff was Fifty-four people were killed, and 83 scrambled down emergency chutes ahead of the flames. All of the survivors were injured, most only superficially. One was reported in critical condition in a hospital Friday. Meanwhile, the charred carcass of the jetliner was being examined in a hangar at Manchester airport.

The engine that failed was to be taken apart for a microscopic examination. Officials in three separate agencies, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press they did not believe a rotating part of the engine was at fault. If so, that appeared to rule out turbine or compressor blades which rotate at high speeds. One source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said attention was focusing on the "combustor can" - metal-alloy bands that surround the combustion chamber and which must be tough enough to withstand searing heat and high pressure. If the combustor can cracked, the engine would have spewed burning fuel under immense pressure - "like a torch," the source said. British and American officials confirmed that the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration had put out two orders in the past year about the Pratt and Whitney engines used in 737s. In July, the engine-maker was ordered to make a survey of maintenance records of the engines

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — A pilotless U.S. spy plane crashed Friday in northeastern El Salvador, a U.S. Embassy official

Military sources in San Francisco Gotera, near where the plane crashed, said it measured about 20 feet long and had no room

The sources said the equipment in the plane was recovered and that the wreckage would MOSCOW — The Soviet Union reported a major earthquake along the border with China on Friday and said it was felt in several large cities in Soviet Central Asia. There was no immediate word on casualties or damage.

Attacks hurt coalition

JERUSALEM - Prime Minister Shimon Peres said today that attacks on his administration by right-wing Cabinet ministers could bring down the coalition government, Israel Radio said.

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, at a onehour meeting with Peres designed to mend a growing Cabinet rift, said his right-wing Likud bloc was not interested in breaking up the 11-month old partnership, the radio reported.

The radio report was confirmed by a Peres aide who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Peres called the meeting following harsh criticism by Industry and Trade Minister Ariel Sharon about a government decision to evict legislators from an apartment they occupied in Hebron to demand the expansion of a Jewish enclave in the predominantly Arab city on the occupied West Bank.

The five-day Hebron sit-in also underlined right-wing opposition to recent U.S. efforts to start peace talks with a joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation.

Hammersmith, a leading British center of infertility treatment, issued a statement saying Doris del Renzio is staying in the hospital as a precautionary measure. It said she and the unborn children "are very well."

It said she had been treated at the infertility clinic since 1983, was 29 weeks pregnant and was expected to give birth in September. It gave no further information about the couple.

Rate yourself as a money manager

Some people seem to have a natural instinct for making their spending and income balance. Others have no problem earning money but fail to spend it wisely. They can't seem to resist buying more and more, even when they can't afford it.

To rate your money management skills, answer the following questions "yes" or "no"

Do you pay more than you have to? Do you often buy from habit without comparing prices, thinking a few cents difference is unimportant?

Are you an impulse buyer? Do you buy on whim without first considering whether you actually need the item or whether it will throw the budget out of

Do you fall for the something for nothing trick? People spend millions of dollars every year to get something free. Do you fail to examine the true cost of that supposedly free item?

Do you spend to keep up with the Joneses? Is it important for you to have what others have whether or not it fits your own lifestyle?

Do you spend money to soothe your ego? If you get depressed or angry, do you go out and buy something to make you feel better or to get even with someone?

Is it difficult for you to resist buying on credit? Do you say to yourself, I'll worry about paying for it next month, even though you know you can't afford

Are you a snob buyer? Do you believe the most expensive is usually the best and turn up your nose at low priced items because you consider them cheap

Do you have a tendency to buy worthless things? Do you have a lot of gadgets or trinkets that you don't

For your garden

By DON RICHARDSON Howard County Extension Agent

Fall gardening is at hand

Although there is still plenty of hot weather ahead, it's time to start getting things in shape for your fall vegetble garden.

Much of Texas is well suited for year-round gardening, and fall vegetables generally have better quality and flavor than those grown in the spring.

Many popular warm-season vegetables such as tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, pole beans, potatoes, okra, cucumbers and squash can be planted during the coming weeks Also, the so-called "winter" vegetables such as broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, greens, parsley and carrots can be planted now for early harvesting. Later plantings of these cold-hardy crops will supply fresh vegetables well into winter. What are some of the important aspects of fall

OI

1004 Locust

Big Spring Herald

First of all, get the land into good shape. If you had a garden this spring and fertilizer was applied, little if any additional fertilizer will be needed before fall

For new gardens, apply two to three pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 10-20-10 per 100 square feet and work it into the soil. If plants make slow growth, apply a light amount of fertilizer between rows and water it into the soil.

Adequate water is vital for a successful fall garden, particularly for seed germination and early plant growth. We suggest "pre-irrigation" before planting followed by subsequent, light waterings three or four times a week to keep soil from drying and crusting. Water stress during early growth of plants can reduce later yields.

Transplanting is a good practice in the fall since this allows seed to be started in areas sheltered from high temperatures and drying winds. Check at garden centers for recommended varieties of vegetables and strong, vigorous, healthy plants, or you may want to grow your own transplants.

The bar portrayed in the movie Hangar 18, filmed in Big Spring, no longer serves alcohol or has the nicotine stains across the ceiling. Instead it is Wild Bill's Deli, 3417 W. Highway 80.

Desotell, originator of Wild Bill's Hot Sauce, was getting numerous requests for jars of his secret recipe and decided to market it on a small scale. The law required him to have a commercial kitchen to do this. So, he and his wife have decided to open a deli in the only building they could find, a vacant bar, he Desotell's wife, Marianne, said the couple designed Wild Bill's Deli to be an "off-beat, informal eating place."

He decided Wild Bill's could be used for more than just a place to make hot sauce. His deli is designed to be like a New York City deli, Desotell said.

One of the specialty items on his menu is sauerbraten, which is a German food having marinated roast beef.

Desotell originated his hot sauce recipe in 1950 and spent five years getting the recipe perfected, he said.

Appraisal arises

By TOM PETERS

In any day-long seminar I give, the issue of performance appraisal invariably arises. The questioner doesn't really want to talk about the issue but believes he or she must do so. And I don't want to discuss it but believe I must in order to be responsive to my

W. Edwards Deming, the quality guru, states that performance appraisal is the number one American management problem. He contends that it takes the average American employee six months to "recover" from the typical performance appraisal. I agree with him. In fact, I suspect that his apparent overstatement may, instead, be understatement.

In a single column I can hardly do justice to the topic of performance appraisal. Nevertheless, I will provide five observations. (They do not constitute that longed for "how-to" guide.)

(1) "Appraisal" must be constant, not focused principally on the one big annual (or semiannual) appraisal event. (Dr. Deming points out that, in contrast to American dependence on the one or two big events, specific feedback to the average Japanese employee comes daily.) To ensure this, upper-level managers should appraise middlelevel managers in part on the degree to which the middle-level managers give their people constant feedback, both good and bad.

Above all, the annual (or semiannual) appraisal should never come as a surprise to the appraised employee. The employee should be fully aware of his or her status and progress throughout the year. On this issue, I'm a big supporter of Ken Blanchard's approach in his book "The One Minute Manager." "One minute praising" (catching someone doing something right), 'one minute reprimanding" and 'one minute goal setting" should be major parts of the manager's daily repertoire.

(2) Appraisal, done right, is (and business. We usually fail to give regular and direct feedback (especially painful negative feedback) in the course of day-to-day tive; and (d) one or two events. We know an employee doesn't know where he or she stands, but now it's time to fill out the semiannual appraisal form. We put it off until late one Sunday afternoon, prior to "appraisal meeting week." Then we hurry through it accompanied by a stiff double Scotch or two.

Likewise, we rush through the scheduled meetings at the rate of seven or eight a day. (We hold them - as opposed to slipping the form under the door - only because the personnel department representative says we must.) Then the office is a shambles for the next few weeks. A few find their superb self-images confirmed and are therefore neutral; most are stunned, hurt and disappointed. In no case was the meeting a positive one for the appraiser or the target. Successful appraisal takes four different types of time: (a) day-today time spent giving constant feedback; (b) preparation time for the annual or semiannual evaluation; (c) execution time for the appraisal meetings, which should be spread out rather than bunched by the dozens in a single week; and (d) group time, during which fellow managers are consulted and coordinated with. (This last category not only provides the manager with input, but also provides a sense of fairness and equity throughout the entire

(3) There should be no forced ranking. I'm fully aware of category inflation, in which 90 percent of the people end up being graded as 9 or 10 on a 1-to-10 scale. Nonetheless, there is simply nothing dumber (and more debilitating) than labeling onethird to one-half of your people as lowers, which is exactly what the majority of forced-ranking systems do. Surely all the time you've spent recruiting and coaching has resulted in a work force more than half of which is doing an adequate job. Label an individual a loser and you will have a loser. Label the same person a winner and you'll have someone who acts like a winner.

This is not a plea to go easy on your "problem" people. They deserve counseling and a second and third chance, to be sure; given that nod to genuine due process, I am behind you when you make the necessary decision to demote or let go. But forced ranking doesn't help you go after those who need serious help, and its unintended fallout creates a large number of unnecessarily disaffected employees.

(4) Minimize the complexity of evaluation procedures and forms. I am against overcomplexity, not against putting comments in writing. You, as manager, and each subordinate should jointly sign off on a two-page written "contract," drafted by the subordinate, that includes the following: (a) two should be) a very time-consuming or three specific annual or semiannual objectives; (b) one or two personal/group growth objectives; (c) one career-enhancement objecim provement-area objectives. The format should be open-ended prose. Reviews of progress should be scheduled at least bimonthly, and you (manager) should be able to recall - from memory - the content of each and every contract.

> (5) Performance categories should be limited to three (or four at most). "Superstar," "doing just fine" and "serious problem" are my three favorites. Moreover, 'superstar' and "serious problem" ought to be limited to a small percentage each - for instance, 10 percent for superstars and 5 percent for serious problems. That leaves 85 percent in the "doing just fine" category. The next promotions will likely go to the superstars, and the ax will fall on the serious problems, if major improvement is not rapidly forthcoming.

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's basic money supply rose $900 million in early August, the Federal Reserve Board reported, leaving the measure known as M1 substantially above the central bank's anti-inflation growth

The rise in M1, the money supply measure that represents funds readily available for spending, was in line with expectations Thursday and had a negligible impact on interest rates in the bond market.

But financial economists said that although the economy continues to show signs of sluggishness, excessive growth of M1 appears to be preventing the Fed om stimulating activity by cutting interest rates further.

NEW YORK (AP) - The economic signals from nine key industrial countries point to continued moderate expansion, a report prepared for a businesssponsored research concern said.

"Moderate is the key word," Edgar B. Fiedler, a counselor to the Conference Board said Thursday. "With only one or two exceptions, the economic signs for the industrial world are favorable, but not spectacular."

Australia paced the nine countries as its leading index was up at an annual rate of 13 percent in the latest period surveyed. Japan and All four companies have limited Italy followed at 10 percent and Canada was up 8 percent, according to the survey.

Falling in the middle range, the leading index for West Germany and France were each up 5 percent and that for Taiwan was up 4 percent, the report said.

Cuadra pays taxes, needs fair shake

On Aug. 12, Gil Cuadra paid another $8,172 in back taxes on the Settles Hotel. To date, he has paid $14,340.21 in taxes on that structure and still owes $74,160.78. The impression was that Cuadra was late in paying the taxes but this isn't quite the full picture. Cuadra bought the building agreeing to assume the back taxes if the enormous amount could be paid out over several months. He budgeted $5,000 a month to pay the taxes. The problem is that the county doesn't take partial-year payments, making it necessary for the monthly set-aside monies to accumulate until there is enough to pay one full year of back taxes. He

on a building he bought at the end

A lot of attention has been given to the fact that this payment was late, but consider how much better off this community is with the $14,000 we wouldn't have had in our tax coffers if he hadn't bought the hotel. Also, consider the other properties he is acquiring and beginning to pay taxes on, several of which also had delinquent taxes It seems that Cuadra has not been given a fair shake by this community. He has gone about his business in a most gentlemanly manner. In some instances he could have taken control of proper-ties in legal but "unethical" ways through tax foreclosure process, leaving lien holders high and dry; but, instead, he elected to buy land and pay back taxes so everyone comes out a little better.

Even if Cuadra never fully develops the properties he has here, the community is better off for what Cuadra has done already in Big Spring. He's excited about the possibilities in Big Spring but he's not getting a lot of encouragement or support. I'm puzzled why?

Two items in the city budget this year are requests for partial funding for the downtown revitalization project and for an updated sports complex. It's easy to look at them as "frills," but these are probably as important to the future of Big Spring's economy and quality of life as any other items.

Many people don't know how a sports complex, for example, can add to the economy of this community. Midland has such a complex. A Class C Adult Slo-Pitch tournament was recently held in it in which 86 teams participated with only 16 teams being from Midland. With 15 players on each roster, that meant 1,050 players, their fans and families came from out of town to spend an average of $75 each. For the one day tournament, $78,000 was added to the economy of Midland. Even with Big Spring's limited and outdated facilities, there have been activities there every weekend this summer.

Few people realized that the 17th Congressional District is one of the largest in the nation. It is the second largest congressional district in Texas, covering almost 32,000 square miles, about the size of the state of Indiana!

access to NCAA documents identify Sherwood Blount, a Dallas realtor and sports agent, as the booster whose financial aid to a football recruit and his family figured prominently in the NCAA's censure last week of Southern Methodist University, the Dallas Times Herald reported.

The NCAA named no names in its report of the 36 violations it documented against SMU's football program — which resulted in sanctions including a ban of TV and bowl appearances and unprecedented scholarship cuts over the next three years.

The Times Herald reported Friday that its sources, who asked not to be identified, said the principal figure was Blount, who played football at SMU from 1969 to 1971.

of Sean Stopperich, a high school All-America offensive tackle from a Pittsburgh suburb, was the critical part of the NCAA case against SMU, the sources said. Blount refused comment to The Associated Press when contacted on Aug. 16, the day the NCAA announced its probation of SMU.

He has refused to comment on his involvement with the Stopperich family. Blount was unavailable Friday for comment on the Times Herald story. A secretary at his Dallas office said he was on vacation and could not be

However, Blount flew to Pittsburgh under an assumed name on Feb. 4, 1985 — the Sunday before the Wednesday national signing date - and visited the Stopperich family at a hotel near their Canonsburg, Pa., home, the Times Herald said, quoting the sources.

Blount gave the family "at least $5,000 in cash" in exchange for the athlete's signature on a post-dated letter of intent with SMU, the sources said.

The 6-4, 275-pound Stopperich, who injured a knee and withdrew from SMU without playing a down, transferred to Pittsburgh. He now is at Temple University, which offered him a scholarship although he won't be eligible until 1986.

SMU officials denied any knowledge of the cash payments, and SMU president L. Donald Shields described the alleged violations as "an incredible situation of arrogance and ego."

A remaining point of contention between the NCAA and SMU is whether the booster acted alone or in concert with an SMU assistant coach - which the Times Herald said both its sources identified as Tony Marciano.

In its report, the NCAA accused an unidentified coach with unethical conduct in the recruiting of "Prospect No. 1" - identified by the sources as Stopperich. The NCAA said the coach gave "false and misleading information" concerning the athlete's recruitment.

All Stopperich will say about the hotel meeting is that there was no SMU coach present, only a booster he refused to identify. Stopperich told The News that Marciano was the only SMU coach he dealt with.

1500 meter record falls again

BERLIN (AP) - Said Aouita of Morocco, fighting "great pain" from an injury, added the 1,500 meter world record to his 5,000-meter mark here Friday and then announced he would attempt to set three more world records before the end of the season.

"I want to hold five world records," Aouita said after clocking 3:29.45 to beat Steve Cram's fiveweek-old mark of 3:29.67.

Meanwhile, American Carl Lewis, winner of four gold medals at the 1984 Olympic Games, finished fourth in the 200 meters, his second race after a two-month layoff with a hamstring injury. Aouita nearly broke the mile record Wednesday night at Zurich, Switzerland. He won in 3:46.92, the second-fastest mile time ever and just outside Cram's record of 3:46.31.

hamstring injury six days ago and that injury prevented me from breaking the mile record in Zurich," Aouita said. "If my injury improves, I plan to attack the mile record again next Wednesday in Koblenz," he said.

In the 200, Lewis got out of the starting blocks at full speed, accelerated well and looked in a position to win down the stretch. But with about 50 meters left, he slowed down and finished fourth.

Kirk Baptiste and world champion Calvin Smith tied for first in 20.45 seconds, while the fourth American in the race, James Butler, clocked 20.63 for third. Lewis came in at 20.69.

"I ran a very good first 100 meters, but I felt very tired at the end," he said. "But I felt much better tonight than I did in Zurich. I'm pleased that I am coming around.

Lewis said he plans to run the 100 meters Sunday in Cologne, West Germany.

Meanwhile, Petra Felke of East Germany, world record holder in the women's javelin, won with a heave of 244 feet, 7 inches, more than 2 feet short of her mark of 247-4.

Willie Banks of the United States, world record holder in the men's triple jump, also won — and also fell short of his all-time best. Banks' winning jump was 55-61/4, compared with his record of 58-111/2.

Marian Woronin of Poland won the 100-meter dash but failed to lower his European record of 10.0 seconds. He clocked 10.20, edging Steffen Bringmann of East Germany, runnerup in 10.22. Desai Williams of Canada was third in 10.33, Darwin Cook of the United States fourth in 10.34 and Canada's Ben Johnson, the winner at Zurich, was only fifth in 10.35.

Another American victory came in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, with Danny Harris winning in 48.34. The women's 400 hurdles also was won by an American, Judi Brown-King, in 54.73.

Americans dominated the meet, with Ray Armstead taking the 400 meters in 45.36, Alice Brown the women's 100 in 11.06 and Jim Howard the men's high jump at 7-61/2.

Cougars shooting for another SWC crown

Cougars made a Cinderella appearance in the 1985 Cotton Bowl as the Southwest Conference representative, but they never got a chance to try on the glass slipper.

Instead, they were subjected to snide remarks that suggested their fans hung out at convenience stores instead of finer eating establishments. They felt like an after-thought as pre-game hype focused on Doug Flutie-led Boston

"I think it shocked our kids to be beat on like that," Coach Bill Yeoman said. "Here they are representing the Southwest Conference and they didn't expect people in the conference lashing out at you like that."

With nine returning starters on offense and six on defense from that Cinderella team, the Cougars are hoping to give the SWC a chance to make amends by returning in January 1986.

Junior quarterback Gerald Landry, who set four school offensive records and ran and passed for almost 2,000 yards last season, will have much to say about Houston's 1985 season

He led the Cougars to the Cotton Bowl as a sophomore, which could make it hard to come up with an encore. But Yeoman believes he can.

An experienced corps of running backs - including Raymond Tate. Mat Pierson and Sloan Hood along with tight end Carl Hilton quarterback sacks.

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston and wide receivers Larry Shepherd and Anthony Ketcham will lend support to Landry

"Hilton, now, I don't want to go around saying he's better than anybody but nobody has got a better tight end in the country than we Yeoman said of his senior tight end who caught 38 passes last Defensive tackle T.J. Turner will anchor the Cougar defensive line and Randy Thornton will direct traffic in the secondary.

"It appears that we may have more speed and experience in the secondary than we've had in quite a while, which is encouraging," Yeoman said.

Sophomores Robert Harper and Gary McGuire will start in the Cougars' two-linebacker defense.

"Harper and McGuire are two outstanding physical specimens," Yeoman said. "You've got to stay upright (healthy) but it looks like we'll be in pretty good shape there.

Harper, a freshman standout last season, needs to learn more discipline, Yeoman said.

"Robert has to discipline himself to make sure he makes the tackle as opposed to unraveling the guy with a big hit," Yeoman said. "The big hit is fine, just make sure you make the tackle.

Turner, a senior three-year letterman, had 23 tackles for 98 yards in losses last season, including 11

Cowboys get wild and wholly

FORT WORTH (AP) - Several Dallas Cowboys will have to pay for damages inflicted on a dormitory during a late-night ruckus on the final day of training camp, coach Tom Landry said.

At least seven players were reprimanded and fined for missing curfew on their wild Wednesday night. Players damaged dorimitory rooms at California Lutheran College where they train each summer, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported.

As punishment, Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said team meetings would be conducted Friday night after the final Cal Lutheran workout.

Aggies want to get early start this time

COLLEGE STATION (AP) -The bottom dropped out of the Texas Aggies' season mid-way through the 1984 schedule but they rebounded in the final two games to knock off two bowl-bound teams, Texas Christian and Texas.

It gave the Aggies a 6-5 record, Jackie Sherrill's first winning season in three tries. And he hopes, an early start on the 1985 season.

"I'm very excited about this team," Sherrill said. "We are pretty well settled defensively going into the fall and that's a very big plus.'

The Aggie defense has settled in after a tumultuous 1984 season filled with change. "We were really scrambling a lot at this time last year," defensive coordinator R.C. Slocum said: "We lost four starters and one backup linebacker. This year things are a lot more settled. I can give you my two-deep lineup right now.

Johnny Holland, Todd Howard and Steve Bullitt return as starting linebackers this season and Larry Kelm has stepped in to replace graduated Ken Ford.

The Aggies' biggest defensive loss was end Ray Childress, a first round draft choice of the Houston Oilers. Rod Saddler has been moved into Childress' old left end

"You go into the season realizing that no one will play the way Ray Childress did last year," Slocum said. "You don't replace anybody like Ray. "He personally stopped so many drives last season."

On offense, the Aggies have more graduation holes to fill but they appear solid at quarterback with Craig Stump beginning fall practice as the starter backed up by Kevin Murray, who missed most of last season with injuries.

The Aggies must replace three starters on the offensive line including center Matt Darwin. Tight end Mark Lewis and split end Jimmy Teal have also departed along with running back Thomas Sanders.

Rod Bernstine has been moved from running back into the starting tight end position and Roger Vick and Anthony Toney will fill the running back spots.

Matt Wilson is the starting center and tackle Louis Cheek and guard Trace McGuire have filled offensive line losses

The Aggies also expect 6-6, 378-pound Marshall Land to challenge for a tackle position.

Eric Franklin, younger brother of former A&M kicker Tony Franklin, will handled field goal duties and Todd Tschantz, a junior from Richardson, will do the

The Aggies open the season Sept. 14 in Birmingham, Ala. against the Alabama Crimson Tide, coached by Ray Perkins, a former Alabama teammate of Sherrill's.
