Who's footing the bill?

Indigent health care bill raising questions

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Senate Bill 1 - part of an indigent health care package passed in the last Legislature - is raising anxiety among county and state officials.

"When you consider that the county may budget over $300,000 for one line item, there is cause to be concerned," said Howard County auditor Jackie Olson.

The bill requires counties without public hospitals, including Howard County, to absorb costly medical services for persons who are too poor to pay for health care. Such counties must provide care to indigents up to $30,000 per year per patient or 30-day hospital expenses tional revenue is not available whichever is less. Patients may when the law takes effect. receive medical treatment in or outside the county.

Olson said commissioners had tentatively budgeted $300,000 for indigent health care for the county's 1985-86 fiscal budget, but withdrew the amount upon advice from the state comptroller's office. The law advises that counties budget approximately 10 percent of their tax revenue fund, which for Howard County is in the $3 million range. The comptroller's office advised county officials that since its 1985-86 budget ends a month after the bill takes affect, health care aid could be incorporated in the 1986-87

Lobbyists gain way with pay

WASHINGTON -- You might say the way to a congressional aide's heart is through his stomach.

In the first quarter of this year, some 7,200 registered lobbyists poured at least $10.2 million into efforts to influence legislation before

"It seems like every group of Americans or three or more has somebody here representing it," says Rep. Beau Boulter, R-

Amarillo. And, according to records, that cash is lavished as much on congressional aides as the congressmen themselves. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent annually on lunches, dinners, receptions and other "goodies" designed to make friends on congressional

For example, John Forehand, a lobbyist who represents several companies, has purchased food and drink for farewell and birthday parties for staffers to Rep. Solomon Ortiz, D-Corpus Christi. He has even sent get-well gifts to aides who were ill.

'This was done purely out of personal friendship," Forehand says. "I don't do it for everybody but if somebody has a birthday, I don't mind saying, thank you.' It has nothing to do with my business activities." Forehand this year was hired by group of businessmen from Port Lavaca seeking information on the Navy's hunt for a new homeport for the battleship U.S.S. Wisconsin.

Port Lavaca was one of several cities seeking to become the homeport. Corpus Christi, which is in Ortiz's district, was another.

U.S., Soviets share interests

at nuclear proliferation talks

WASHINGTON (AP) - When some 70 nations gather Tuesday to assess the arms race and the spread of nuclear technology, the United States and the Soviet Union may find themselves in an unusual situation - standing shoulder to shoulder against complaints from the have-nots.

At the last review of the 1968 nuclear nonproliferation treaty five years ago, the two superpowers were accused of reneging on a promise to reduce their arsenals if other countries would renounce nuclear weapons.

'This will be a very difficult debate," said a senior U.S. official who will be in Geneva with Kenneth Adelman, the director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, defending American policy. "I do not expect a walkout,"

The conference, in Geneva, Switzerland, is the third since the treaty was signed. The United States is going convinced it can demonstrate the spread of nuclear weapons has been contained.

In that sense, officials say, the treaty is a success. Also, they say, it has served to promote peaceful uses of nuclear technology. Sixteen countries have joined the treaty since 1980.

But when the discussion turns to the treaty's impact on negotiations to reduce nuclear weapons, both the United States and the Soviets are likely to feel the heat.

They have not concluded a major agreement in the arms control field since the last review was held. Negotiations in the Swiss city, due to resume in mid-September, have failed so far to make any discernible headway on reducing nuclear submarines

President Reagan has launched an ambitious research program into space weaponry which the Soviets have vowed to match if it is not stopped. Both sides, meanwhile, are still testing nuclear weapons - while hoping the treaty will keep other countries from launching programs of their own. "There will be a lot of tough questions asked and a lot of tough language used," said the U.S. official, who demanded anonymity in briefing several reporters on the outlook for Geneva. The United States has held preparatory talks with the Soviets and also with the NATO allies, trying to anticipate problems that may come up in Geneva. NUCLEAR page 2-A

Study says ads overlook women

DALLAS (AP) - Advertisers who stereotype women as either superwomen or homemakers may be excluding a lot of females, that don't fit in either category, a market specialist says.

'The tendency of advertisers is to go one way or the other," said Thomas Barry, chairman of Southern Methodist University's marketing department. "You don't see many ads advertising just to women as women.

Advertisers may be missing out on potential customers that are neutral women," concluded Barry, after completing a study with University of California-Irvine professor Mary Gilly and SMU counseling psychologist Dr. Lindley Doran.

"Advertisers are looking at statistics that say 52 percent of women are in the work force. But not all are really the hardcore career-oriented women," Barry

Today's woman is a moving target, and she is very hard to pinpoint for advertising, he said. "It is not clear today that the

The women were asked to rate for appeal and persuasiveness to buy three similar ads, designed by the researchers to reflect each group, for a hypothetical magazine called Woman

As expected, the women chose the advertisements that reflected them most. But the women more inclined to subscribe to the magazine were from a neutral group that found generic advertisemnts appealing.

"For those advertisers that think they can reach the majority of women in ads depicting them as advertisers or homemakers, our research is suggesting they're mistaken," Barry said. "Advertisers ought to look more carefully

NEDERLAND (AP) - At 14, T.R. VanAuken was too young to get a job in one of the fast-food restaurants near his Jefferson County home. So he took out a bank loan and opened his own restaurant

An accomplished cook since he was 7, VanAuken has long wanted to run his own restaurant

When the former owner of a tiny Cajun-style take-out restaurant decided to give up the business he had established in the same building where VanAuken's parents run a drive-in grocery, the youth decided it was time to go into business for himself.

A delivery route for a local newspaper was bringing in about $200 a month, and VanAuken decided that wasn't enough

He borrowed $800 from a local bank and purchased the business. The former owner taught him his recipe for the potent Cajun rice and pork sausage called boudin and VanAuken was on his own.

'He does it all himself," said VanAuken's father, Ty VanAuken. The teen works the counter every

According to a press release from Governor Mark White's office, those receiving indigent health care financial aid, must prove they do not receive any other source of payment, which means the county in all instances of indigent health care responsibility is the payor of last resort.

Clonts said the state recently broadened its range for persons eligible to receive Medicaid, thus narrowing the number of cases eligible for indigent health care.

This (indigent health care) is a subsidized payment of the last resort that meets health care needs. It's basically for the very poor who can't help themselves, Clonts said.

Strip search ruling upheld

BOSTON (AP) - A federal appeals court has upheld a $177,000 award to a woman who sued Plymouth County officials complaining that she was forced to undergo strip searches when she visited the county jail.

Friday's 2-1 ruling by the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a 1984 U.S. District Court decision, saying such searches are "demeaning, dehumanizing, undignified, humiliating, terrifying, unpleasant, embar-rassing, repulsive, signifying degradation and submission.

Plague shuts campground

BIG PINE, Calif. - Officials Saturday sprayed insecticide on a campground in the Angeles National Forest that was closed after a ground squirrel was found to have died of the plague.

The Table Mountain Campground was evacuated and closed Friday, said Bob Swinford of the U.S. Forest Service.

Tests determined that the squirrel died of sylvatic plague, which is called bubonic plague when contracted by humans, health officials said. The insecticide was meant to kill fleas, which carry the plague.

The campground is 40-50 miles northeast of

Gunfire, kidnappings strain fragile truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian chieftains refused to allow Syrian army observers into their strengholds to monitor a fragile Christian-Moslem truce Saturday, a day on which both sides kidnapped hapless civilian motorists trying to cross Beirut's dividing Green Line. The cease-fire, which began Thursday, was violated early Saturday by a three-hour artillery, tank fire and rocket battle between Christian and Moslem forces in hills overlooking the capital. No casualties were reported.

Police said all the kidnap victims, who included both pedestrians and people in cars, were released hours later in a swap. But the Christian Voice of Free Lebanon radio said 12 Christians still are missing.

The total number of people abducted Saturday was The kidnappings, a regular occurrence when sectarian passions run high, prompted the army to close the last gateway still open across the Green Line, which separates the city's Christian and Moslem A security committee representing the main Christian and Moslem factions and the army met Saturday for the third straight day. But it failed to come up with a workable plan to position Syrian observers on both sides of the Green Line to monitor the truce, because Christians oppose

But he made no mention of any progress toward agreement on deploying the Syrian observers. Sources close to the committee say the Christians want the observers stationed only along the Green Line, while the Moslems insist they be allowed deep inside both mostly Moslem west Beirut and Christian east Beirut.

Lebanon's Christians generally are against the pro-Soviet Syrians, who mainly back the Moslems in Lebanon's 10-year-old civil war.

Dawi said the committee will meet again after political leaders settle the issue. He did not

The battles, a brief shelling of Christian areas, and the tit-for-tat gunpoint kidnappings underlined the lingering tension in Beirut despite the truce.

The cease-fire called Thursday by the security committee was endorsed by Lebanon's divided government and was backed by the Syrians. It was meant to end 12 days of indiscriminate shelling by both sides, in which police said 320 people, mainly civilians, were killed and 1,100 wounded

Saturday's predawn artillery and rocket battles pitted Christian units of the army and the Lebanese Forces, the Christians' main militia, against Druse fighters around the war-battered mountain village of Souk el-Gharb overlooking the capital.

Police said gunners of the Shiite Moslem Amal militia later shelled townships on the coastal highway in the Christian heartland north of Beirut. Police had no word of casualties.

Sugar subsidies have no validity

Sugar sells for about four cents a pound on the world market. The shelf price here in the United States is approximately 36 cents a pound — and Americans have the Congress and President Reagan to thank for it.

In 1981, Congress voted to enact subsidies that would provide a "safety net" for domestic sugar growers who were being hurt by fluctuating prices and foreign competition. The bill set a base price of 17 cents per pound that farmers could expect to get from the government — if they couldn't get a better price elsewhere.

President Reagan, who considers himself a champion of free-market enterprise, played politics in 1981 and became a backer of protectionism. He said he would back the sugar bill if Southern Democrats would vote for his budget.

Reagan went a step further in 1982 by restricting sugar imports for the first time since 1974.

So the U.S. sugar industry has spent the last several years operating under an unrealistic price structure, and Third World countries that depend on sugar exports have been crippled financially by U.S. quotas. Moreover, the sugar industry has been hurt by the increasing use of alternative sweeteners, aspartame and saccharine.

Health-conscious Americans have discarded sugar jars, replacing them with low-calorie sweeteners. And protectionist policies have caused many food and beverage companies to use corn syrup rather than sugar because corn syrup is a cheaper form of sweetener.

There is no good reason for the American consumer and the American taxpayer to put up billions in order to save our sugar industry. Sugar is not a strategic material. National security does not depend upon protecting our sweet teeth from deprivation in case of war. If our foreign supplies of sugar are cut off, we can simply do without.

Sugar can be produced more cheaply in Third World countries in the tropics. And it can give such countries a good start toward industrialization, because it is efficient to process the sugar where the cane is grown.

It is in the selfish interest of us consumers and taxpayers to end subsidies and quotas, so that we can buy our sweeteners at

And it is in the best interest of this country that we help Third World countries develop those industries which are most suitable for them, in order that they may be able to raise themselves economically by their own bootstraps.

Trade sanctions won't do the job

If Hitler were still in power, would the United States govern-ment allow American trade with Germany?

Viewed that way, the sanctions against South Africa, which have been approved by the House of Representatives and in diluted form by the Senate, have a definite visceral appeal. Some governments are so monstrous that any act that seems to acknowledge their legitimacy may be regarded as collaboration.

We would not allow trade with Nazi Germany; why should we allow Americans to make new investments in South Africa or to buy Krugerrands?

The precise accuracy of the analogy is open to argument, but the fundamental point is not. South Africa is not Nazi Germany, but in its treatment of blacks it comes too close. And to understand how American blacks feel about apartheid, it's useful to remember how Jews and other Americans felt about Hitler.

But that doesn't support the conclusions drawn from the parallel. The truth is, there are plenty of hideously oppressive governments with which the United States has cordial relations and appreciable

Last year alone, Americans exported $3.5 billion worth of goods and services to the Soviet Union. Two Eastern European countries, Hungary and Romania, enjoy most-favored nation trade status. The U.S. government not only permits trade with China, it sells it military equipment. It doesn't forbid investment in any number of non-communist nations with awful records on human rights.

Only in rare cases - Iran, Cuba,

Washington try to sever economic ties, though with doubtful efficacy. Usually the rationale for doing se is not the repugnant character of the regime in power, but its hostility to the U.S.

Given the unpopularity of freedom among the world's governments, that approach makes sense. We can hardly apply an economic quarantine to every country whose government is morally offensive. That would mean cordoning off the entire Soviet bloc, China and much of the rest of Asia, nearly all of Africa and a good chunk of Latin America. Besides the economic costs of barriers to trade, that policy would infringe on the liberty of Americans.

Punishing South Africa fits into no consistent foreign policy. That makes the moral stature of sanctions highly dubious, as if a man were to swear off adultery on Wednesdays, reserving the right to commit it the rest of the week.

Nor does the policy offer much hope of improving the lot of its black majority. Some of the sanctions, like the ban on Kruggerand sales, aren't likely to have any effect at all. To the extent that sanctions impede investment or damage South Africa's economy black workers are most likely to suffer. Commerce can be a powerful force for liberalization, as it has been in South Africa.

The Hitler analogy misleads in another respect. One object of defeating the Nazis was to enable the Allies to implant a democratic system on Germany. In South Africa, there will be no occupying army to supervise the transition to a multiracial government.

City budget makes waves

By JOHN RICE Managing Editor

A groundswell of opposition may swamp the city's proposed budget for the upcoming fiscal year which egins Oct. 1.

It's just hard to float a 7 percent property tax increase, a 55 percent increase in basic water service (and another increase in water cost based on how much you use) all while the tax roll - the worth of the city - has gone up.

At the very least, Tuesday's public hearing on the budget will draw a crowd. And that's all to the good. However the work on the budget comes out, now is the time to hear the opposition, answer the questions, resolve the conflicts.

I know where the dollars are going. I just find it hard to understand why such a large increase is Part of it is the sins of the past.

Over the past few years the fund reserves, money carried in reserve in case of emergency, have been dwindling as councils adopted tight-fisted budgets in an effort to save taxpayers' wallets. Finally, the reserves are depleted, and more revenues are needed to replenish them.

Part of it is costly capital construction.

City officers say we need water treatment plant improvements to the tune of $2.2 million. The council obviously fools better about funding those improvements on a pay as you go basis than about borrowing money to do the work. That's the theory behind the huge water service rate increase, from $5.75 per month minimum to $9, and the 28-cent per 1,000 gallons water usage increase.

Some of that money will go into a fund to finance improvements over a few years, rather than borrow the full amount and face repayment - along with interest charges - over a lot of years.

Reaction last week to the proposed budget was strong and immediate

As usual, people want government services, but they are likely not to want to pay for them. I think we should be progressive in this city. And, unfortunately, progressive (as opposed to stagnant) implies a willingness to pay for a variety of city services that provide us with a safe, functional and attractive environment

We need money for recreational areas, decent streets and quality of life programs just as surely as we need solid police and fire protection.

The differences of opinion come from those who say we pay too much to finance this city and from those who say we don't use the money wisely. It's hard to argue people out of either perception.

What is heartening is the willingness of city residents to get involved in their government. Seems to me we have a higher level of consciousness among the electorate here than elsewhere, and that's all to

I suspect there will be a good turnout Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in council chambers to discuss the proposed budget. And there's plenty of time to amend it if necessary prior to Sept. 10, when the budget goes for

It's important that people realize the public hearing Tuesday isn't just an exercise. It's a genuine opportunity for residents to get answers to questions like why the water costs will skyrocket and why the tax rate is going up.

I encourage you to be there to offer your opinion, to ask a question, or merely to observe. This is what democratic government is all about.

Return what you borrow

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: We have a neighbor who is constantly borrowing things but never brings them back. When I mention it to him, he promises to return it "tomorrow" — but then he doesn't. Would you say he is stealing? -

DEAR V.K.: He may not think of it as such, and might even be offended if you accused him of stealing — but yes, when someone "bor-rows" something which is never returned, it is the same as stealing. Often a person is simply absentminded or thoughtless and not deliberately trying to steal — but the end result is the same.

The Bible is clear; one of the Ten Commandments declares, "You shall not steal" (Exodus 20:15). Another Commandment says, You shall not covet ... anything that belongs to your neighbor' (Exodus 20:17). The Bible says, "Each of you must put off falsehood and speak truthfully to his neighbor ... He who has been stealing must steal no longer" (Ephesians 4:25, 28).

If you continue to loan things to your neighbor, make it clear that you expect them back, and if he forgets, go over to his house and reclaim them. Do this not for the sake of the things you might otherwise lose, but because it might help your neighbor become more responsible. Remember the Bible's admonition: "Live in harmony with one another ... If it is possible, as far as it depends on you, live at peace with everyone" (Romans

But have you ever thought seriously about your neighbor's real need - that of Jesus Christ? If you have never turned your life. over to Christ, make your commitment to Him right now. And then that God will help Christ's love to your neighbor.

God wants to use you to point him Christ and His salvation. Pray that you will be a witness for Christ to him, to help him understand God's love for him.

The lawsuits were merged into one trial, which is being heard by U.S. District Judge William C. Stuart.

Similar disputes have cropped up in Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota and other Midwestern states as fundamentalists say they want to challenge the basic underpinnings of public responsibility for educating children. They see

Mexico may need debt help

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Mexico will likely need $2 billion to $3 billion in new money from its creditors next year to help close the gap in its finances, its chief debt negotiator said.

Angel Gurria, the Treasury Ministry's director-general for public credit, said in a recent interview that Mexico has not needed fresh lending so far this year but may require some, maybe $500 million, before year's end.

Gurria offered the estimates as Mexico prepares to sign on next Thursday a $48.7 billion rescheduling package that stretches out some debt payments by 14 years.

Mexico, which has a foreign debt of $96.4 billion, will become the first of the financially strapped Latin American nations to arrange such a deal.

Yet, Gurria's prediction that Mexico will have to ask for fresh money next year underscores the difficulties of the debt crisis, which first surfaced in August 1982 when Mexico couldn't meet its payments.

Mexico, which has the second-largest debt in the developing world after Brazil, generally has been considered a model for other countries in bolstering its economy and paying interest payments on Gurria said Mexico will pay about $3.5 billion to $4 billion in principal and about $10 billion in interest in 1985.

City trying to piece together missing records

BALMORHEA (AP) - Officials are scrounging for receipts and other papers that will give them an idea of this city's financial status. It appears that for the last two years no one remembered to keep records on such things as water bills, insurance and employees.

We found the books but there were no entries in the books," said Reeves County District Attorney Jack McGowen.

At worst, the lapse could lead to dissolution of the municipality of some 575 residents about 100 miles southeast of Odessa, said McGowen. "If they're not careful, they're not going to have a city anymore.'

City Secretary Julie Campbell submitted her resignation to the council in early June, and council members discovered the recordkeeping problem later that month, said Councilwoman Dora

There were a few things missing when I left but I understand they found them," Ms. Campbell said Saturday. "No city officials have contacted me.

Information on payment of city water bills was not kept, insurance on all but one of the city vehicles was allowed to lapse, and employee records including job descriptions are nonexistent, said McGowen.

If an uninsured city vehicle is involved in an accident and the city is found liable, "real estate owned by the taxpayers within the city limits could be liable for a pro rata-share" of the judgment, McGowen

And "if the city gets in a position where it's insolvent, it can be forced into bankruptcy just like an individual could," he said.

Ms. Campbell said she worked for the city for 312 years and resigned "because I wanted to leave.

Asked if she did or did not keep records, she said: "I have nothing to say. My husband and I just want to leave this behind.

Ms. Machuca said she and other council members asked McGowen in June to investigate whether any laws were broken in the failure to keep records

We found no criminal intent on anybody's part, but we found what possibly is a whole lot of negligence Tribune-Herald he had relayed his on somebody's part," McGowen told the Odessa American.

McGowen said his investigation, conducted along with the Reeves County Sheriff's Department and the Texas Rangers, also found that audits had been skipped for the last two years.

They quit. Other than making deposits, they just were not maintaining a good accounting system," McGowen said.

"Right now we're trying to get some stuff ready for an audit," Ms. Machuca said Friday. "We're trying to reconstruct some books. For the city's sake, I do worry about someone suing the city.

The council has asked C.T. Gray, the city's water commissioner, to establish a new accounting system and piece together the old one.

Gray estimated it would take two to three months before the city will be ready for an outside audit.

We're working with the old bank statements and all the records that we have." he said. "It can be done, but it's just going to take some time.

Waco Republicans protest billboards

WACO (AP) - The chairman of the Republican Party in McLennan County says Land Commissioner Garry Mauro's use of his name and picture in advertisments promoting the veterans land program may be a violation of the state constitution.

Craig Reid told the Waco protest to the state GOP headquarters in Austin.

But a spokesman for Mauro, a Democrat seeking re-election, says no laws have been broken because no state money has been used in putting up the signs along highways and other advertising. Reid said he took the action after

Rep. M.A. Taylor, R-Waco, pointed out a section of the Texas Constitution that says advertisements about the benefits of Texas may not include either the name or the picture of any living state official.

Robert Mead, Mauro's executive assistant, said Mauro had been aware of the constitutional provision. However, Mead said, no state money has been used for the billboards or similar advertising.

The billboards have a large color photograph of Mauro with his name and the words: "Texas Veterans Program: the best in the USA." The largest lettering on the sign is the telephone number: 1-800-252-VETS.

"We believe there may be something to this on the legality side and if there is not anything actually legally impacting on this, it is certainly the ethical intent of Legislature to prevent current office holders from using their office as a campaign tool, when the message is to educate," Reid said.

Tylenol maker loses insurance ruling

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - The maker of Tylenol, which says it lost $50 million when it temporarily pulled the painkiller from the market after cyanide was found in some capsules three years ago, cannot recover the money from its insurer, a judge has ruled.

Seven people died after ingesting Tylenol capsules that had been tampered with.

U.S. Distict Judge Frederick B. Lacey ruled Friday that McNeilab Inc., a Johnson & Johnson subsidiary, was not insured against the loss by its carrier, Affiliated FM Insurance Company.

THE VALUE OF INSULATION

Authoritative tests have shown that heating an uninsulated house during cold weather is 50 percent less efficient than heating an insulated home. This means that half of the heat produced by a heating system in an uninsulated house is actually wasted. It also means that half of the money spent on fuel is wasted. In addition uninsulated houses are subject to drafts, unequal temperatures, vapor condensation and other uncomfor table or unhealthy conditions. Insulation is also desirable for warmer climates. It retards the inflow of heat. particularly through the roof and those wall surfaces that are exposed to direct rays of the sun. An insulated wall can provide more than four times the heat resistance of an uninsulated some of the haying and grazing set-aside provisions, said Tim Hall, director of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Grazing and haying was authorized by a U.S. Department of Agriculture directive earlier this year, Hall said.

To be eligible, a producer must notify the ASCS office and pay a $10 spot-check fee to certify eligibility.

Howard County producers can now graze or lease grazing rights to others, including a forprofit price. Before Aug. 1, no charges could be assessed to other producers, except for fencing or waterline installation,

The Aug. 1 deadline applies only to grazing and simply legalized a starting date for the producer to begin charging for grazing, he said.

The haying portion of the program remains the same as before, Hall said.

Haying, however, can only be done when certified with the $10 fee and cannot involve any charges other than the baling charge itself. A producer cannot charge another for more than the baling charge and cannot make arrangements with harvesters for a trade on hay for baling, Hall said.

For more details, please call the Howard County ASCS office at 267-2557.

Former resident named N.M. state police chief

Former Big Spring resident Maj. M.J. Payne was selected unanimously Aug. 17 by the New Mexico Police Board to be the state police chief.

One of Payne's daughters, Terry Cain, resides in Big Spring at 2506

Payne, 51, will take over Sept. 1, after Chief Maurice Cordova's resignation takes effect.

Payne was chosen for the position over 13 other applicants. He also was interviewed by New Mexico Gov. Tonery Anaya.

Payne has been with the state police for 27 years. He will be the 15th chief since the department was created in the mid-1930s

Payne, a native of Big Spring moved to New Mexico in the early 1950s as a member of the U.S. Air Force stationed at Walker Air Force Base in Roswell. He and his wife, Lorraine, live in Roswell but will move to Santa Fe when he takes over his new duties.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) - President Reagan lamented the lack of prayer in public schools Saturday and warned parents against those who he charged would impose upon children a 'value-neutral' education barren of ethics, morality and values. The president took note of the start of the new school year by giving both students and parents a pep-talk with religious overtones in his weekly radio address

It was delivered from his mountain-top ranch about 30 miles from here, where Reagan is vacationing.

After delivering the address, Reagan planned to go horseback riding, according to an announcement from White House spokesman Larry Speakes. Reagan, who has been recuperating from cancer surgery July 13, has avoided such activity since he began his three-week vacation Aug. 11.

In his address, the president said parents must see that their children receive an education that is influenced by "teachers, administrators and parents working closely together ... not by bureaucrats in the far-off city of

He decried a movement that he said confronts parents today that is put forward by "so-called experts and a large battery of misguided opinion" who say a child's education should be "value neutral."

"Well to me, and I bet most Americans, a value-neutral education is a contradiction in terms," Reagan said.

He said the American people have always "known in their bones" the intimate connection between knowledge and values.

"We don't expect our children to rediscover calculus on their own, but some would give them no guidance when it comes to the even more fundamental discoveries of civilization: our ethics, morality and values," Reagan said.

"If we give our children no guidance here, if we give them only a value-neutral education, we are robbing them of their most precious inheritance - the wisdom to limit imports of shoes, saying of generations that is contained in our moral heritage," the president

Reagan said. "It most certainly was never their intention to bar God from our public life," he said.

He said youngers have to take up some responsibility for their own education, too.

"If your teachers don't give you homework, ask them, 'Why not?" Reagan said. "Remember, you're not only studying for yourself, but for your family, your community, your country and your God. So go for it. kids. Give it your best effort," Reagan said.

The president said his administration "has made excellence in eduation a top priority from the beginning" and noted that Education Secretary William Bennett intends to visit eight elementary, middle and senior high schools in the coming weeks to teach classes.

Nuns pressured for statements about abortion

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two dozen nuns who contend that committed Catholics can have differing views on abortion are coming under increasing Vatican pressure to retract their statement and pledge adherence to traditional church teachings.

"The Church's teaching on ... the radical immorality of direct abortion is clear, constant, and unequivocal," Cardinal Jean Jerome Hamer, the Vatican's top official for religious life, said Friday in concluding a three-week visit to the United States.

Hamer said the nuns had created a scandal that could only be remedied by "indicating adherence to the teaching of the Church." Failure to do so, he said, would result in disciplinary hearings. The ultimate penalty would be dismissal from their religious

The nuns were among 97 people who signed an Oct. 7, 1984, newspaper advertisement challenging what they called the "mistaken belief" that the only legitimate Catholic position on abortion is that it is wrong in all circumstances

"In fact, a diversity of opinions regarding abortion exists among committed Catholics," said the ad, published in the New York Times.

Frances Kissling, director of Catholics for a Free Choice, said another advertisement will be published in the Times this fall, this one with at least 1,000 signatures, to express solidarity with the right of Catholics to sign such statements.

Kissling said the Vatican seems to have hardened its stand by adding the demand for indications of "adherence" to church views - a requirement she said is akin to McCarthyism.

Commissioners will discuss project funding

Requests for county funds to help finance civic projects and services will highlight the Howard County Commissioners' Court meeting at 9 a.m. Monday in the county courthouse.

According to the meeting's agenda, Pat Hardy will speak to commissioners and request that the county help fund the Texas Main Street Project. Commissioners also will discuss an increase in subsidized funds for Lee Ambulance Service, Inc. The county currently pays $24,000 annually to Lee.

In other business, the court will be requested to increase funds for Chamber of Commerce Crime Stoppers program. The chamber's transportation committee also will renew discussions with commissioners regarding proposed new roads in the county

Howard County Auditor Jackie Olson has requested that commissioners listen to a presentation from a sales representative of Otis Elevator regarding installation of safety and lighting devices in the courthouse elevator.

Olson said she received a letter from the elevator company suggesting that the courthouse elevator be renovated. The company has given her an estimate of $21,922, she said.

The scoring play to Rice, the 19ers' top draft pick out of Mississippi Valley State, covered 56 yards. Cavanaugh totaled 272 yards passing in three quarters of play, and Rice gained 125 yards on five receptions.

Montana missed the nationally televised game because of a sore back, and several other 49ers' regulars were held out.

San Diego's offense was shut down by the 49ers' defense most of the day. Rolf Benirschie kicked a 30-yard field goal in the first period, but the Chargers trailed 18-3 before scoring again, on rookie first quarter. Curtis Adams' 32-yard TD run in the final period.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Defending champion Denis Watson of South Africa compiled what he called "a kind of unusual" 4-under-par 66 Saturday and regained a share of the lead in the third round of the NEC World Series of Golf.

Hornung wins lawsuit against NCAA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - A Jefferson Circuit Court jury has awarded $1.16 million to former football star Paul Hornung, who claimed the NCAA had damaged his broadcasting career.

thing," Childress said. "It really wears on you after awhile."

"I've had some wins and I've had some losses, but this is a big win," Hornung said after the jury returned its verdict. "It's been a long two or three years, and I really think this decision vindicates me.

The jury deliberated about an hour Friday before agreeing that the National Collegiate Athletic Association failed to act in good faith when it refused to allow Hornung to work as a commentator for college football games.

Hornung, 49, sought $3 million in his claim that the NCAA damaged his career and defamed him by not allowing him to join Atlanta cable station WTBS as a color analyst.

Hornung had agreed to do 38 NCAA." games in the 1982 and 1983 seasons. But the NCAA, exercising a contractual right it had then with WTBS, turned down Hornung.

An NCAA official told WTBS that Hornung was rejected because he 'does not personify college football" and that "he had at least one undesireable public situation while a professional player," according to evidence in the case.

Hornung, a former quarterback at Notre Dame, was suspended for year from the National Football League's Green Bay Packers in 1963 because he had placed bets on his team to win.

The NCAA also complained that Hornung's TV commercials for Miller Lite beer were suggestive. Hornung, who lives in Louisville, testified that he was "very perturbed about being blackballed by the William C. Boone Jr., Hornung's attorney, pointed out to the jury that Hornung received the 1956 Heisman trophy, college football's highest honor.

WTBS general manager Bob Wussler testified that perhaps the NCAA television committee wanted a commentator that was one of its members - Eddie Crowder, then the University of Colorado athletic director.

Crowder didn't testify, and NCAA attorney Edward Stopher said that Hornung had not complained about any alleged dealings involving Crowder in 1982.

Stopher told the jury that Hornung cultivated his image as a playboy, who liked to party and chase women.

Judge Edwin Schroering dismissed Hornung's claims that the NCAA defamed him or depicted him in a false light. He also threw out a claim that the NCAA interfered with Hornung's WTBS contract, which evidence showed was an oral agreement.

But the jury, after a four-day trial, found that the NCAA didn't act in good faith when it decided to reject him as an announcer.

The jury awarded $160,000 in compensatory damages and $1 million in punitive damages.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled last year that the NCAA no longer can monopolize televised football.

Hornung has a contract to begin broadcasting games for WTBS next Saturday.

Cubs 4, Reds 0 CINCINNATI (AP) - Three Chicago pitchers combined on a seven-hitter as the Cubs defeated hard-luck Mario Soto and the Reds 4-0 Saturday night.

Soto, 10-15, allowed just four hits and an unearned run in seven innings, fanning six and retiring down 13 batters in a row over one stretch. But he still dropped his fourth consecutive decision and has lost 12 of his last 14. The Reds have scored two or fewer runs for him in 14 of his 31 starts.

Steve Trout, just off the disabled list, blanked the Reds over the first four innings, allowing three hits, in his first appearance since being disabled July 23 by an inflamed nerve in his left elbow. Winner George Frazier, 7-5, allowed three more hits over the next three innings and Lee Smith went the last two for his 28th save.

An unusual play let the Cubs score the game's first run in the second inning. Ron Cey singled and started a hit-and-run play with Leon Durham at bat. Durham's grounder deflected off the glove of first baseman Tony Perez and rolled into center field for an error that let Cey score standing up.

Expos 5, Dodgers 2 MONTREAL (AP) - Tim Wallach hit a three-run homer s the Montreal Expos snapped a fivegame losing streak Saturday night with a 5-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers behind the fivehit pitching of Bryn Smith and Jeff Reardon.

Smith, 15-4, who allowed both Los Angeles runs and four hits in eight innings, retired the first 12 Dodgers before Pedro Guererro drew a leadoff walk in the fifth. Guererro later scored on a single by Steve Sax to cut Montreal's lead to 2-1.

Hot-hitting Tim Raines scored Montreal's first two runs. Raines, who has 11 hits in his last 17 at-bats, got an infield hit in the first inning and went to second on a throwing error by Los Angeles third baseman Enos Cabell. Two outs later, Brooks singled to score Raines

In the third, Smith singled and was forced by Raines, who stole his 49th base and scored on a single by

San Diego Padres third baseman GRAIG NETTLES (right) collects a high-five from his son TIMOTHY his other son, Jeffrey (center) looks on. Nettles had just hit his 14th homer of the season.

Stieb, a 28-year-old right-hander who leads the American League in earned run average, didn't allow anything close to a hit until Rudy Law hit the first pitch in the ninth for a homer over the right field fence. The next batter, Bryan Little, also homered to right field.

It was Law's first homer of the season and Little's first.

Stieb, who struck out seven and walked three, was then relieved by Gary Lavelle, who immediately gave up another homer, Harold Baines' 11th. After one out and a single by Carlton Fisk, Tom Henke got his sixth save and extended his scoreless-inning streak for the season to 17 2-3 innings

George Bell provided Stieb, 12-9, a six-time all-star, with a 1-0 lead when he hit his 25th homer in the sixth inning off loser Tom Seaver,

Mets 5, Padres 1 NEW YORK (AP) — Ray Knight rapped out four hits and drove in three runs and Jesse Orosco bailed Ron Darling out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the eighth inning as the New York Mets defeated San Diego 5-1 Saturday night and ended the Padres' five-game winning

Knight, who came into the game 0-for-19, had RBI singles in the second, sixth and eighth innings as the Mets rebounded from a doubleheader loss to the Padres on Friday

The Mets added a run in the sixth. With one out, Foster doubled, took third on a grounder and scored on a single by Knight. New York scored twice off Gene Walter in the eighth on a single by Keith Hernandez, Paciorek's RBI double and Knight's fourth single.

MIAMI (AP) - Life atop the AFC East seems to agree with the Miami Dolphins, who will chase their 13th division crown in 16 years in 1985.

Two Super Bowl losses in the last three years, however, don't sit well with Coach Don Shula and players who are resolved to return to the National Football League's main event - and win.

On paper, the Dolphins have all the tools to get the job done. On the field, Shula must improve the club's rushing attack and defense against the run to stand a chance.

'You have to have a running game and it was evident in the Super Bowl that ours needs improvement," says Shula, who watched the AFC champions gain only 25 yards rushing against San Francisco in the NFL title game last

"When the 49ers went to six defensive backs and four linemen and invited us to run, we weren't able to run. We're going to have to work hard on playing against more defenses that use that philosophy."

Miami is still the class of the AFC East, a division once considered among the most balanced in the league.

The New England Patriots, New York Jets, Indianapolis Colts and Buffalo Bills are rebuilding, though, and are longshots to stop the Miami juggernaut that rolled to an 8-0 record in the AFC East last Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino, a holdout this summer while trying to renegotiate his contract, passed for an NFL-record 5,084 yards and 48 touchdowns in 1984. The totals represent more yards than 11 other teams gained in total offense, and more TDs than 21 clubs scored.

Shula, however, will strive for more balance.

He hopes No. 1 draft pick Lorenzo Hampton can add punch to the ground game as well as serve as an additional target for Marino, who also has Mark Clayton (73 receptions, 1,389, NFL single-season record 18 touchdowns) and Mark Duper (71 catches, 1,306 yards, eight TDs).

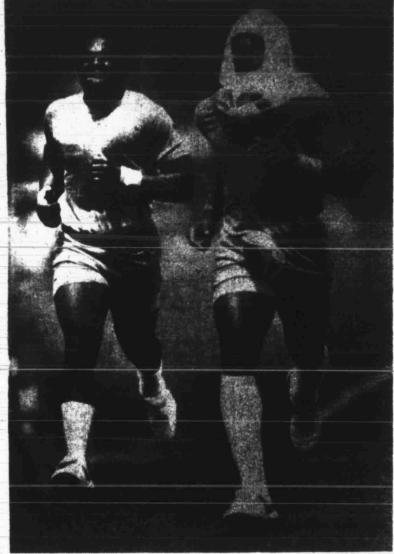

Defensively, the Dolphins ranked 19th in the NFL - 22nd against the run and 14th against the pass.

"We started out with some consistency and then had some serious problems in the middle of the season," Shula adds. "We managed to snap out of it just in time for the playoffs and played well in postseason until the Super Bowl."

Improvement, however, could hinge on whether Pro Bowl nose tackle Bob Baumhower bounces back from off-season surgery; unsigned linebacker Bob Brudzinski comes to terms, and Shula gets a contribution from young players such as Jackie Shipp.

New England, which finished five games behind Miami in the division at 9-7 a year ago, has set its sights on making the playoffs for the first time in three years.

Coach Raymond Berry has a passing sensation of his own in Tony Eason, who threw for 3,228 yards and 23 touchdowns as the NFL's third-rated quarterback behind Marino and San Francisco's Joe Montana in 1984.

Stanley Morgan and Stephen Starring are his prime targets, and Berry hopes to get more production from runners Craig James and Tony Collins with a two-back

"I've always approached the game with the idea that you should have a balanced offense, that you, should have a good mix," Berry says. "We want to be a little unpredictable."

Defensively, the Patriots are looking for solid cornerback play on the left side, where Ronnie Lippett and Ernest Gibson shared the job in 1984. Linebacker Andre Tir pett had 181/2 sacks last season, but Berry would like to get more pressure with his defensive Overtaking the Dolphins in 1985 will be difficult. Berry is optimistic.

"I think we have really exciting

DALLAS (AP) - Southern Methodist University, the second winningest college football team in the nation the last three years, could be on the downfall with the recent probation measures sanctioned by

'What the NCAA did is a disruptive problem,' said SMU Coach Bobby Collins. "This is a cloud that has been hanging over us two or three years now. We'll have to handle it regardless of how it comes

"If we let is consume us, it could be problem. If the players still have thd right frame of mind, we could be an excellent team.

In fact, Collins said he is "excited" as the prospect of the 1985 Mustangs, who have been picked by one magazine as preseason national champions.

The Mustangs have 13 returning starters including perhaps the best one-two tailback tandem in the country in Reggie Dupard and jeff Atkins. Dupard, a senior, has rushed for 2,448 yards and 27 touchdowns. Last season he was the nation's No. 12 rusher with 1,160 yards and 16 touchdowns. Also, the Mustangs recruited and signed the top running back in Texas, Bill Jones of Corsicana, a power runner with speed.

Classy Don King, the Southwest Conference's allconference quarterback, returns to lead a team that averaged 400 yards total offense per game last year. Also, Collins said, "Our corps of receivers should be among the best in the nation.

The swift receivers include Jeffrey Jacobs, Ron Morris and Marquis Pleasant.

The Mustangs will have six senior starters on defense and seven senior starters on offense. Collins has posted a 31-4-1 record since he came from Southern Mississippi in 1982. SMU has accomplished what no other SWC team has ever done and that is to win 10 or more games in a season for four straight years. Last year SMU was 10-2 including a 27-20 victory over Notre Dame in the Aloha Bowl and finished eighth in the final Associated Press poll.

The Mustangs have beefed up their nonconference schedule. They open with weak Pexas-El Paso but play at Arizona and Oklahoma in the other two intersectional matches. The game against the Sooners has been moved to Dec. 7 in Norman so it can be televised nationally by ABC.

"Our schedule is very challenging," said Collins. Certainly the addition of Arizona and Oklahoma make it very tough. The Dec. 7 game with Oklahoma could mean a lot to both teams. Who knows what may be on the line by that time?"

Owls trying to change losing ways

HOUSTON (AP) - The Rice Owls, trying to end a string of 20 consecutive losing seasons, got off to a 1-5 start last season.

After that, things started to go bump in the night. "I think the low point of the whole season was the Texas Tech and A&M two-week deal and A&M was the crowning blow," Brown said.

When the Owls lost to the Raiders 30-10, Brown and his coaching staff elected to give younger players more playing time and at first it appeared to be a disastrous decision.

"We started playing a lot of younger people in the A&M game and there was a lot of confusion,' Brown said. "We had penalties, too many people on

The Owls finished 1-10 for the second straight year for their 21st consecutive losing season, but Brown hopes last season's painful decision will pay dividends.

"But now that it's done, that was the critical decision we made as coaches because we're a lot more experienced team right now for doing that than we would have been," he said. Brown said the Owls played better in losses to Arkansas and Southern Methodist and closed out the season with a 46-40 loss to Baylor and a 38-26 loss

"It kept getting a little better near the end and I guess that's the high point," he said. "Our kids left the season losing yet with their heads up because they got better and learned that they can compete in this league.' Brown's cram course over the final part of last season means that he will start fall practice with seven returning on offense and eight on defense. Brown's goal this season is to improve a defensive unit that ranked last in the Southwest Conference in total defense with a 432-yard yield per game. "We weren't last, we were dead last," Brown said. "There was no one close to us. We were the worst. I said when I came here that you can't win consistently without a good defense. We proved that last year.

The defense will be headed by junior defensive tackle Dwain Turner and senior strong safety

Turner says the Owls will be better this season because they are much stronger. With the new equipment and the new program, I think all of us have benefitted," Turner said. "Overall, we were a weak team. Now, I think we are if not the strongest, one of the strongest teams in the conference and I'll put my money where my mouth is on that." The Owls had moments of sparkle with an offense Brown called "Controlled Chaos.

"We moved the ball last year but it was on big plays too much," Brown said. "We'd punt, punt and then we'd score. But we didn't have enough control to keep our defense off the field the way I'd like."

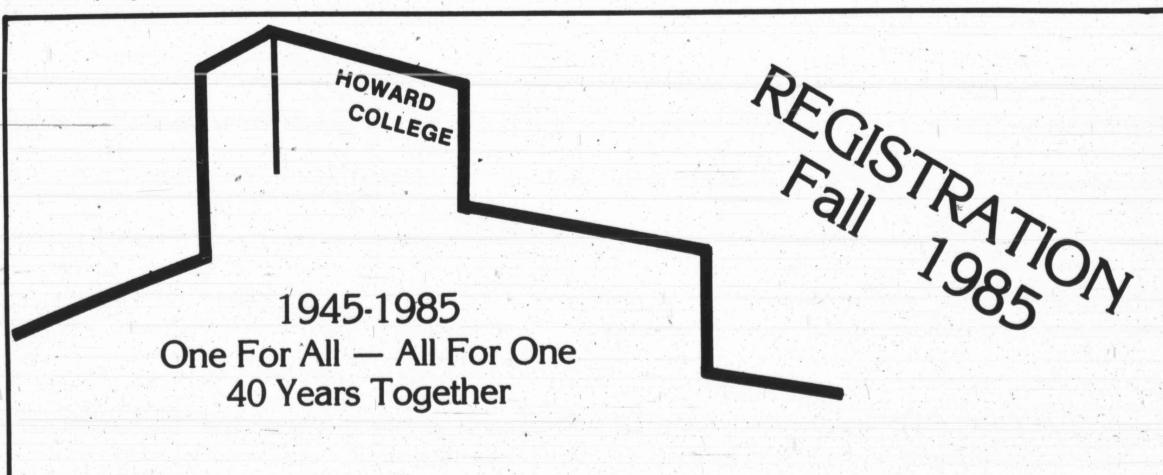

The Owl offense was most potent with freshman quarterback Mark Comalander. After missing much of the season with an injury, he closed out the season with a freshman-record 357 yards passing against Southwest Conference champion Houston.

Card of Thanks

In the midst of our sorrows, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many relatives; friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us in the loss of our beloved Mother, Jewel Williams. We especially wish to thank Rev. Sammy Sims and Rev. Dale Daily for their consoling words. All the donors of the many heartiful floral offerings, the pallbearers, the singers and organist; Dr. Clyde E. Thomas, Hall Bennett nurses and all those who prepared and brought food. Perhaps you rendered a service unseen, whatever you did to console the heart, we thank you so much.

Are You "Wendy's Kind Of People"?

At Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburger Restaurants we believe in a total commitment to satisfying every customer. We are dedicated to quality - not just talking about it. Our beef is pattled fresh daily at our restaurants. Each sandwich is made to order with the customer's choice of condiments. Our sandwiches never sit under heat lamps like the other hamburger restaurants you know. If you share our dedication to quality, you're "Wendy's Kind Of People" and we want to talk to you!

We are a growing Wendy's operation in the West Texas area committed to hiring only quality individuals who want to be a part of the Wendy's Management Team. As a Wendy's Manager, you'll learn that people are your most valuable resource and will be able to lead them to meet our tough standards. You'll relish the opportunity to be closely involved with the daily operation of our restaurants. Two years college or previous management experience is required. If you're "Wendy's Kind Of People" and want to receive the kind of salary and company benefits you deserve. Please apply in person Tuesday thru Friday at 208 Gregg. Ask for Eric — Equal Opportunity Employer.

Sedinger said the Human Services Council was organized in order to help people in the human services agencies to know where to send people for help.

The council had been a goal for several years by several of the members of the group. The council has no officers or board members. It meets monthly at various sites in the city and various members give presentations on what their organization does to help people in need.

Sedinger is one of the organizers for the Rainbow Project, a home for neglected and abused children, and is pastor of First Christian Church.

"There are people who do not know where to go for help," Sedinger said. "There may be several agencies where they need to apply for help. We often don't know where to send people next, or where to send people for the help that they need."

Starting the council was, "an idea we kicked around for "The Human Services Council several years," Sedinger said. was created by human services The council "is built on the idea of necessity. Although the primary concern of the council is getting help to people in need, the council was also formed to stop abuses of aid, Sedinger said.

"We are aware of folks who get away with applying for aid at different agencies because we do not talk among ourselves. This has contributed to vagrancy that has been perpetuated by that

Sedinger became involved in the council "because of my own belief that we serve God best when utilizing all the resources at our disposal to help people."

Sedinger learned firsthand about the needs for a network of information in human services when he found himself in "a very frustrating situation" trying to help a handicapped man "who didn't want help.

Sedinger recalled, "He needed medical and psychological and financial assistance" but "he had been on the take so long that he had become a con artist.'

Through trying to secure aid for this man, Sedinger "learned more about all of the resources available for him." Sedinger also learned "how many different resources he had manipulated."

"I became interested in the whole system of human services. I talked with other people and found out I was not the only one being frustrated by the system. A lot of people know the system is about the people they didn't know how to help.'

Proposed tax reforms will have effect on retirement funds

By CHANGING TIMES The Kiplinger Magazine

Anyone planning for retirement or their family's financial security probably is very interested in the effect that President Reagan's proposed tax reform will have on personal plans in place or under consideration.

Here's a rundown of the pros and cons: A big plus is the proposal to push to $4,000 the combined IRA deduction for a married couple. Current law limits to $2,250 the combined amount that can go in a worker's IRA and one he or she opens for a spouse. That ceiling would go to $4,000 - $2,000 in the husband's and $2,000 in the wife's IRA.

This doesn't help working couples; both husband and wife can have $2,000 IRAs now.

However, the reform plan would double, to 20 percent, the penalty for withdrawing IRA or Keogh retirement plan funds before you reach age 59 1/2. The penalty would remain at 10 percent if you use the money to buy your first home, pay for your children's college education or replace unemployment benefits that run out during a prolonged period

Of course, the incentive for investing in an IRA is diminished by lower tax rates. A $4,000 deduction is worth $600 less in the 35 percent bracket than at the 50 percent tax rate.

Deferred annuities would lose their tax-favored status. Currently, the tax bill on earnings is put off until you begin withdrawing the funds. The reform plan would require annuity owners to report and pay tax on the income as it is earned each year.

The Reagan plan includes a grandfathering provision for annuities sold prior to the date that either the House or Senate tax committee acts on this part of the reform proposal - probably by no earlier than mid-September. Annuities purchased before that date would retain the tax-deferral feature.

Count on insurance agents pressing a beat-theclock campaign for annuities. Don't stumble into a mistaken investment in the rush to lock in a threatened tax break you've been ignoring up to now.

If you've been anticipating the gentle tax treat-ment for lump-sum distributions from pension and profit-sharing plans, you'll be disappointed by the proposed elimination of 10-year averaging. That means you would have to pay regular tax rates on the payout or roll the money into an IRA to maintain the tax deferral.

Ten-year averaging would be knocked out for distributions made after January 1, 1986. There are special phase-out rules, however, for people who will reach age 55 by January 1, 1987.

The Reagan revolution would also crimp the 401(k) plans that let employees reduce their pay, and the tax bill on it, by diverting part of it to a special investment account where it grows tax-free.

The proposal slaps an $8,000 annual limit on payins to the plan, and the cap drops by the amount you put in your IRA.

A big attraction of the plans - the chance to tap into your account before retirement for certain "hardships" like buying a home or financing a college education - would be squelched. The same 10 percent/20 percent penalties that hit IRA withdrawals before age 59 ½ would apply to 401(k)s.

Tax reform would severely blemish life insurance policies with investment appendages - whole life and universal policies, for example.

The inside cash buildup would be taxed each year rather than allowed to grow unmolested by the IRS, as it does now. Policyholders would receive an income statement showing how much income was credited to the policy and should be reported to the IRS as taxable income.

You'd have to pay the tax even though the only way you could get at the money would be to cancel the policy or take a policy loan.

Abolishing the tax-free buildup would substantially reduce the appeal of the policies and give added weight to the argument that you should buy term insurance and invest the savings from the lower policy cost somewhere other than with the insurance Policies purchased before the House or Senate tax committee acts on this part of the plan would generally retain the current tax-free treatment of the buildup. New policies or old ones on which the death benefits are increased would be hit by the

A time-honored tax-saving maneuver - shifting income-producing property and therefore the tax liability on the income to a child in a lower tax bracket - would be smashed by the tax plan. Lower tax rates and fewer and less progressive tax brackets would restrict the benefit of income splitting.

The Reagan plan goes further to short-circuit two popular income splitting methods: outright gifts us-ing uniform gift to minors accounts and Clifford trusts, which only temporarily shift the ownership of property and responsibility for the tax on the income

Under the reform plan's complex rules, income earned in a Clifford trust would generally be taxed at the top rate of the person who set it up.

Fibroid tumors frightening but rarely life-threatening

Fibroid tumors can be frightening and troublesome but they are rarely life-threatening.

The non-cancerous fibroid of the uterus occurs in 25 percent of women between and 30 and 50, according to an article in a recent issue of Redbook, and doctors don't know what causes them. "Why these lumps develop is simply not known, nor is there anything you can do to prevent them from occurring," said Dr. Lucienne Lanson, a Colorado Springs gynecologist.

Some can be ignored; for others the only cure is Doctors do know that fibroids, which can range from pea-sized to several pounds or more, flourish during childbearing years when estrogen is abundant in the body. The Pill can contribute to their growth. After menopause, when the body's estrogen level drops, fibroids often stop growing and sometimes shrink.

Here are some of the symptoms and problems fibroids cause.

Pressure - Fibroids can press on the bladder, spinal nerves or rectum, causing increased frequency of urination, backache or bowel problems. An enlarged fibroid anywhere in the uterus can cause a feeling of pelvic heaviness or stomach distention.

"If you find the discomfort to be unbearable, you may want to consider surgery," said Dr. Robert Breitstein, clinical assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at New York University Hospital-Bellevue Medical Center in New York City.

He said one potentially dangerous complication is pressure on the ureters — the tubes that lead from kidneys to bladder - which can hamper urine flow and result in kidney damage.

Bleeding - Fibroids can cause heavy or prolonged menstrual bleeding, leading to energy depletion and possible anemia.

"If your fibroids are causing menstrual bleeding to the point where you're marginally anemic, it's possible your condition can be managed with no further treatment than iron supplements," Breitstein said. "But if bleeding is so heavy you become severely anemic or otherwise debilitated, surgical removal of the tumors is advisable."

He said the best way to monitor anemia is to have your blood count taken every four to six weeks for several months. If it remains low, it is a sign of

Women police officers adapt well in macho world of cops

The woman police officer is proving herself in the macho world of cops and some studies indicate she sometimes makes a better officer than her male

The first woman was named to the Chicago police force in 1893, according to an article in a recent issue of Cosmopolitan, but women have been assigned the same jobs as men only since 1972 when federal legislation banned sex discrimination.

Women today make up only 5 percent of the nation's police officers. They take the same training as men, fill the same jobs, accept the same risks. This is a big departure from the pre-1972 days when women worked mainly in plain clothes, undercover, in administrative jobs or only on cases involving juveniles and women.

Women make good cops. A recent evaluation indicated that female officers made fewer arrests and issued fewer traffic citations than their male colleagues, but more of their collars ended in conviction. They made fewer unnecessary arrests.

Height and weight standards that discriminated against women no longer apply.

Women score lower than men in tests of physical prowess, but equal opportunity laws make it hard to reject women on the basis of poor performance unless the skills involved are job-related.

"My chances of getting killed on the job are only slightly greater than the average citizen's," said Sgt. Mary Wamsley of the Lakewood, Colo., police department

Wamsley, past president of the International Association of Women Police, at first felt she had to prove her toughness, but learned on the job that women need not become as "macho" as men cops. The ability to subdue someone is not as important as the ability to communicate intelligently," she said. "And that's an area in which women naturally Maralyn Hershey, who joined the Washington,

Many say they would prefer not to work at home

CLEVELAND (AP) - Given a choice of working from home two or three days a week using a computer would you do so?

That question was put to Americans by Sales Consultants International, a sales recruiter, and it brought a negative response from many of those polled.

Of those interviewed, 44.9 percent said they would prefer not to work from home, 31.6 percent said they would, and 23.5 percent were undecided.

she said.

"For a while, they called me Mad Dog Hershey,"

Carmen Flores joined the New York City Transit Authority police after her husband's death. She compared her early years, chasing subway purse and chain-snatchers, with her current plainclothes job looking for pickpockets on buses:

'When somebody snatches a chain, they're running. They run through the tunnels, out in the streets. The adrenalin flows. Everybody's running, the radio's going, the sirens are screaming. It's exciting, and when you get him, you're proud. Catching pickpockets is different. The most excitement is when they find out who I am. Then, the look on their face makes my day.

Joyce Leland's first male partner greeted her by saying, "I don't like women. I don't like blacks. And I don't like you.'

"I figured he was crazy or playing," said Leland, who is black and as a deputy chief of the Washington D.C. force is one of the highest ranking female officers in the country. She finds humor her best weapon in handling such problems.

Leland helped develop a policewomen's dress code and convinced her superiors that women officers could work better in pants than skirts, carrying their guns in holsters - not in their purses. "Anything went in those days," she said. "high heels, diamond earrings. There was nothing in writing. New York Detective Karen Krizan, daughter of a retired police sergeant, found there was a burnout factor in working the sex crimes squad.

"I found that very rewarding as a woman," she said, "but two years is as much as anyone can take. You have nightmares about the cases; it's impossible not to take them home with you.

PROSPERITY, S.C. (AP) - The familiar old phrase "by hook or crook" originated in feudal times when peasants weren't allowed to cut trees for firewood.

According to Georgia-Pacific Corp., a forest products company, all forests belonged to the lord of the manor and peasants were allowed only to gather twigs, fallen limbs and other wood that they could cut with a pruning hook or snare with a shepherd's crook. In this way, they kept the lord's forests clear of underbrush and dead branches.

Bone, chronological age differ

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can a young athlete determine his bone age through X-rays? When does the male stop growing physically? I am a 19-year-old, 5-foot-8-inch male who weighs 145 pounds. I recently had bone X-rays taken and the results showed I still have space for my bones to grow. But I wonder if that is really possible.

Use your head.

Big Spring Herald

Yes, you can continue to grow into your 20s or until your bones are completely fused. Growth in height stops when all the changes of puberty have been completed, and that includes the changes in bone development.

When we begin life part of what eventually will be bone is actually cartilage. As we develop, this soft material gradually becomes true bone. Eventually, there is a fusing of the ends of bones and further linear growth is impossible.

Most boys experience a growth Studies have been done. On a respurt between 13 and 151/2 years. cent one, a group of runners took They add as much as eight inches part. more than an inch or so after that. Now, let's take the exceptions. If a boy begins puberty late and if his bones are taking longer to fuse, that is, if there is still some of that pre-bone cartilage left, then growth may continue much later and the boy will be a tall adult.

I don't know what to predict for you since I am not familiar with the radiologist's report. He would be the one to tell you what degree of linear growth has already been achieved and how much more may be left. Those estimates can be

You have to find out if your galactorrhea is caused by nipple chafing. If that is the cause of the milk secretion, then you certainly have to look to a better-fitted athlete's bra to help. Another theory of such secretion among female athletes is the effect of the exercise-induced endorphin levels on the body's milk production. This form of galactorrhea usually stop when you discontinue the exercising for a couple of weeks or eliminate the chafing factor.

Working women may be healthier

NEW YORK (AP) - Women who are employed are healthier than those who aren't, according to Dr. Lois Verbrugge of the Institute of Gerontology at the University of Michigan.

She reached that conclusion after analyzing National Health Interview Surveys conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics, reports Feeling Great Magazine.

Employed married women are the healthiest, followed by employed married women without children. Exceptions are employed mothers with preschoolers, or three or more children at home.

Single women without children, and without jobs, have the poorest health status of all, even after adjusting for the fact that many of this group are older widows.

Handicapped may take part in hiking

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) - Hiking, an activity that appeals to many, is now something in which many handicapped persons also can take part.

According to the 1985 Rand McNally "Campground & Trailer Park Directory," the National Forest Service has modified facilities at 286 campgrounds throughout the United States to accommodate both wheelchair users and those with visual disabilities.

Some of these sites, such as the Roaring Fork Braille Trail near Aspen, Colo., and the San Bernardino Forest in California, include interpretive trails where blind campers and hikers can listen, feel and smell the forest around them as they go along the paths.

Children should know, practice school bus safety

In the U.S., one child a week is run over by a school bus.

To protect your children, make sure they know and practice these school bus safety tips from Family Circle magazine. Tell them:

· At the bus stop, line up facing the bus — not alongside of it — so you aren't close to the bus as it comes to a stop. The first person in line should be at least an arm's length away from the bus as it pulls

 Don't play ball or tag in the street while waiting for the bus.

 Never retrieve papers that have fallen under the bus. If you must bring the papers to school, inform the bus driver. If you're going home, wait for the bus to leave, then ask an older child or adult to get the papers.

 After getting off the bus, move immediately onto the sidewalk.

 When crossing the street, walk 10 steps in front of the bus so the driver can see you. Note: Never cross the street behind the bus. Oncoming motorists are not able to

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information.

We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available; we will use one of the bride-elect. The nouncements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The Information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 78720. Call us at (915) 263-7531 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS

Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to the Herald. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

WEDDINGS

WEDDINGS If a wedding writeup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

BIRTHS

Local hospitals supply information for Storkclub. If a child is born elsewhere in the newspaper's circulation area, or is born to out-of-town parents with local or area grandparents, please contact the Herald Lifestyle Department with Storkclub information.

Information needed for Storkclub is: newborn's name, sex, time and date of birth, weight, place of birth, parents' name and address. If the baby, is born outside the circulation area but has local grandparents, please include their name and address. The local grandparents serve as the area connection for the information.

Their research shows that teen-agers give high marks to mothers, that fathers don't deal well with adolescents, but that overall adolescent-parent relationships are just fine.

Although conflict and turmoil are often seen as the hallmark of adolescent and parent relationships, the CUA study does not bear that out.

'We found very little open or overtly stated hostility toward parents," says Youniss.

But teen-agers make a sharp distinction between mother and father, Smollar notes.

"Our research finds that teen-agers have a different relationship with their mothers and fathers and that girls, especially, have strained relation-ships with their fathers," she says. "Mothers fare better than fathers with both male and female teen-

It is not clear when fathers begin to distance themselves from their children, but CUA data suggest that fathers are more involved with their children during their young years than during adolescence, says Youniss. Another surprising finding is that teen-agers are extremely sensitive to their parents, Smollar says.

"The usual thinking has been that adolescence is an egocentric stage, but our studies show that teenagers sympathize with their parents as people with problems and limitations and see them as complex

While seeking to establish a new form of equality and attempting to transform earlier relationships, teen-agers are not striving to break free from their parents or seeking total autonomy, Youniss believes.

"They still rely on parents for advice, encouragement and support," he points out. This was made clear repeatedly during interviews, Teen-agers would say 'I used to be mommy's little boy or daddy's little girl, and everything they did was perfect or right, but now I see differently.' But they didn't say, 'I don't have to pay attention to my parents anymore.' When teen-agers form their own opinion they want their parents' agreement that the opinion is correct," she explains.

Research results also contradict previous studies characterizing the father's parental function as dealing only with the adolescents' future and other practical matters, and the mother's as dealing with adolescent children on a daily basis.

"Our data reveal that mothers are performing both functions," says Youniss. "The mothers' function is not restricted to talking about friendships and other day-to-day affairs. Ninety percent of male and female adolescents talk with mothers about everything - school, future, friends and family. Eighty percent of teen-agers talk with fathers about the world of work and other practical matters, and only 20 percent discuss dating and friends.'

Youniss' and Smollar's research results have been published in "Adolescent Relations With Mothers, Fathers and Friends" by the University of Chicago

Color, shine, texture important to hairstyles

CHICAGO (AP) - As fashion St. Paul sees longer hair for fall. moves into a season where clothes will be streamlined and bodyconscious, women will be turning to hairstyles that top these looks with softness and feminine Color, shine and texture are the attributes that will bring hairstyles into the fall 1985 fashion scene with ease, according to the Helene Curtis Hairstylists Advisory Board.

Board member Victor Figueroa of New York City forecasts that "a new fascination with '60s fashion will call for a return to the longer, rounded hairstyles popular in the Beatles' era. But it's a softer look than those of 20 years ago, and takes advantage of the new styling tools designed to make hairstyling

He points out that a perm is a "must have" for creating the look of back-combed hair reminiscent of "the bubble," one of the strongest looks for fall. "Today's perms give maximum volume without frizzy curl - exactly what's needed for the smoother, but still textured, styles," he points

Rocco Altobelli of Minneapolis- everything she wears.

"The trend is turning away from the short spikiness of the past several seasons," he says. "Smoother, close-to-the-head styles look fresher and have the right proportion to complement the '60s-inspired fashions.' Altobelli also sees increased use of new gels, glazes and styling sprays to create the new looks. "Gels and glazes give form to the hair, 'memorizing' the style line that's molded into wet hair and retaining the sleek texture of natural, healthy hair when dry," he explains.

Just how long fall hairstyles will go depends on the individual's preference and hair type, with engths past the shoulders as much in vogue as ear-length bobs.

"Versatility is the key," says Mario Tricoci of Oak Brook, Ill. "Whether the style is a shaggy version of the Beatles' boyish cut or a long, sleek bob, it should be suited to the individual who wears it. A woman's hairstyle should take her through busy days and glamorous evenings, complementing Tricoci. "Bangs might be cut very with mousse or gel for short and wispy or in a shaggy sophistication.' Early Bird Coat Sale!

Donna and Stacy Jackson return from France

By CAROL BALDWIP Lifestyle Editor

Donna is childrens' librarian at the Howard County Library. Her daughter spent two months this summer with the Michellier family in Aix-L-s-Baines in Southern France. Stacy had visited the Michelliers before. Their daughter, Cecile, visited Big Spring a couple of years ago during an exchange p. ogram.

This year, the Michelliers again invited Stacy to spend the summer with them. Donna left for France and met Stacy, stayed with the Michelliers for a few days, then mother and daughter headed for Paris:

'Paris is wonderful," Donna said early last week She said she spent a lot of time watching people, describing the "wild clothes and hairdos" of French

The Jacksons also visited Munich, Salzburg, Vienna, Venice, Florence, and spent a day on the Riveria. They traveled on a Eurorail pass and spent 15 days on the road.

Although Donna and Stacy didn't stay very long in any one place, "We got a little taste of everything," she said.

Stacy is returning to Angelo State University this fall, and Donna is back at work at the library.

Two Big Spring men worked as counselors this summer at the Texas Lions Camp for Handicapped Children in Kerrville.

ALEX BONURA, son of DOM and HELENE BONURA, and BARRY JON HOLDAMPF, son of BARBARA HOLDAMPF, both spent 11 weeks this summer in Kerrville working with kids.

They began their summer learning things such as sign language skills, how to lift children from wheelchairs and how to work with childrens' braces. Counselors also learned how to adapt activities to include all the campers.

having several fund raising organizations, said Griffin, who started in the United Way as a volunteer five years ago. He has been a board member for the past two years.

The United Way is primarily focused at the youth in the com-munity, said Griffin. And "it helps people that are in a temporary state of financial disaster," he said.

"United Way is not intended to be a socialist type organization," Griffin said. "We don't promote welfare, free loading. It's totally governed by the people of Big Spring and not by state and federal governments.

The United Way has not reached its goal in the last two years, according to Sherrie Bordofske.

"A lot of people say it can't be done with the economy," said Griffin. "I don't think it's something to be afraid of, because it can be done.'

Ninety-nine percent of the money raised in Big Spring and Howard County is used in the area, he said.

Fund raising events for the campaign include volleyball, softball and golf tournaments.
