Rather than just buckling seat belts up for safety, automobile drivers and front-seat passengers better buckle up to avoid a fine.

Starting Sunday, a new state law will require drivers and front-seat passengers to wear seat belts. However, offenders won't be required to pay fines of $25 to $50 until Dec. 1.

The three-month grace period "is similar to the grace period when (automobile liability) insurance laws went into effect," said Big Spring Police Capt. Roy Lee Osborne.

People stopped from now until December will be given a warning citation or a verbal warning, instead of a ticket, Osborne said.

As of Dec. 1, however, of-fenders will be charged with a Class "C" misdemeanor that will become a part of their driv-ing record, said Department of Public Spfety Sgt Frank Woodall O'Big Spring.

In addition to the mandatory "buckle-up" requirement, the seat belt itself will be added to an inspection list of safety features that all Texas-licensed cars must have to receive the annual DPS inspection sticker.

According to the law, people driving _a, passenger car on Texas roads, streets or highways are required to wear selt belts. A passenger car includes pickup trucks a carrying under the new law are back-seat capacity of up to three-quarters passengers and people with written medical excuses from a doctor. Postal emplo are delivering mail also are ex-cluded from the law.

The law may be rather hard to enforce, Osborne said, because an officer may have no other proof than taking a person's word whether he wore a seat belt or not.

"As long as it's the law, we're going to enforce it," he said, however.

DPS troopers routinely ask whether seat belts are worn when collecting information for accident reports to comply with a years-old agency policy, Woodall said.

"When we walk up to a stopped vehicle, we are trained to look whether persons are wearing seat belts or not. We will definitely question the driver about it," he said.

Woodall said state troopers are prohibited from voicing opinions about the law.

Texas Gov. Mark White has said he supports the law. Others, however, claim the new statute is an infringement of a personal right Fire Chief Carl Dorton Friday reinstated a firefighter and union officer who had been temporarily suspended from the department.

He overturned a decision by the employee's shift captain to suspend Paul Brown, a driver in the department, Dorton said. "Through the normal appeals process, I overturned the decision by his captain and lieutenant,' Dorton said.

Brown, who also is secretarytreasurer of the city's firefighters union local, was suspended Thursday afternoon. The official reason given for suspension was the loss of equipment while responding to a fire earlier in the week

Brown was reinstated at 9 a.m. Friday when he met with Dorton and John Branham, president of the Big Spring Professional Fire Fighters Association Local 2922.

Brown said his coat, helmet and gloves had come off the fire truck while en route to a fire. His lieutenant said they would pick up the equipment on the way back, but the equipment was not there when they returned. 10

"The way it was put to me, I was suspended until I could pay for or replace the equipment. The city would not assume liability for it," Brown said. "They said I was perdicant " negligent.'

HOBBS, N.M. (AP) - Moncor Bank of Hobbs, which lost $42 million in deposits this week, was closed Friday after being declared insolvent by Michael Mancusi, senior deputy U.S. comptroller of the currency. The closing followed Moncor Inc.'s filing Thursday for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Code. Moncor, once the state's thirdlargest bank holding company, owns the bank in Hobbs and one in Roswell.

The Hobbs bank, closed after business hours at 6 p.m. Friday, would reopen Tuesday under a new holding company if a buyer is found, Mancusi said.

About 10 bank holding companies, including Sunwest Financial Services and United New Mexico Financial Corp., were expected to bid Friday night on the bank, bank officials said. Both Sunwest and United New Mexico expressed interest in the bank when Moncor Inc. tried to sell it early this summer.

Tar, clouds won't empty beaches

PADRE ISLAND (AP) - Texas Island. beaches, blackened recently by tar from the Gulf of Mexico, will be crowded during the Labor Day weekend despite some predictions of not-so-sunny skies, officials predict.

'The beaches will be in excellent condition for this weekend."

He said Padre Island beaches were helped by rains early in the week. The showers helped pack sand to make it easier to drive on the beaches, Luby said.

But the National Weather Service said the weather may not cooperate with the estimated crowds of 100,000. The extended forecast for South Texas calls for partly cloudy skies through Monday with scattered thunderstorms mainly along the coast.

Condominium and hotel owners on the islands said they've had some problems with the tar, but not enough to drive business away.

"There has not been a single complaint from my renters about the tar. It's kind of shocked me,' said Rodger Strickland, assistant property manager for the Leeward Cover Condominiums on Padre

"There have been some tar tracks in the rooms, but it's no big problem," he said.

Last week, patches of oil washed onto the beaches, causing the Texas Department of Water Resources to set up a cleanup unit. "There are traces of tar, but it's Fishermen also reported seeing a no major problem," Nueces Coun-ty Commissioner J.P. Luby said. 5-mile long slick of oil about 35 miles southeast of the Port Aransas jetties.

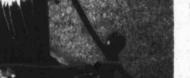

> Lt. Paul Zukunft of the U.S. Coast Guard's Marine Safety Office in Corpus Christi said he has not received anymore calls on the slick, but still is watching for the oil.

"We did run an extensive search (last) Friday, but the oil has not resurfaces and there is nothing we can do until it does," he said. Sometimes it just stays submerged."

Although the gooey black gobs will not tarnish weekend festivities, thunderstorms could put a damper on them, said Richard Dinkins, assistant manager of the Holiday Inn-North Padre.

"Some people have canceled because of the tar, but for every cancellation we have someone waiting in line to get their room,' Dinkins said.

Archeological dig unearths 700-year-old Indian house

PERRYTON (AP) - The first archaeological "dig" in 65 years at the Buried City near here - one of the most substantial prehistoric sites in Texas - has unearthed a 700-year-old Indian house

2-A

Working five weeks this summer, a six-member crew headed by University of Oklahoma graduate student David Hughes and financed by Perryton oilman Harold Courson, has excavated the ruins of a 25-by-30 foot house at the edge of a bank overlooking Wolf Creek. It is one of several scattered in a 40-acre site owned by Courson along the creek about 15 miles southeast of this Panhandle city. "I'm very excited about what we've got here," Hughes said. Hughes said it is possible the house is a part of a hamlet along the creek, an attractive location that offered wood, an abundance of game, good water and rich soil in a valley at the center of a semi-arid belt. It is in direct line between Pueblo Indian settlements of New Mexico and the heart of the buffalo country, he said.

"What I'd hoped to do was find most of the house's structure and assimilate enough so we could be able to tell a little about the folks that lived here," said Hughes, who will write his report the next six months from meticulous notes he took at the site.

"What you have to do is weigh one's hopes and dreams against reality and assimilate the best you can from the outline of the site," he said

The building, which probably housed an extended family unit of about 15 members, dates to between 1200 and 1500 A.D., said Hughes, a doctoral student in archaeology. The inhabitants were the ancestors of modern Indians who probably moved north when they abandoned the site, he said.

Hughes said three dozen arrowheads, flints and buffalo bones were found at the site, but no human bones. Some of the artifacts date from 500 to 1,000 A.D.

"We haven't found any human remnants on this site, and at this point I don't expect to find any,"

said Hughes. "I don't know who before they moved on. He said it is these folks were. It's hard to tell believed the Indians were driven what type of people they were." away by a drought in the 1300s or by raiding Apaches from the north

Train crash kills 20

ARGENTON-SUR-CREUSE, France - A ssenger train derailed early Saturday near this central French town and a second train slashed into the wreckage, killing at least 20 people and injuring more than 100, officials reported.

Rescue workers put the number of injured at between 200-300 and said many of the victims were trapped in the wreckage

Officials said two cars of the Paris-Toulouse train derailed shortly after midnight and minutes later a second train, traveling in the opposite direction, crashed into the first one.

Israel warns PLO

JERUSALEM - Israel has been sending sharp warnings to Jordan to rein in Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, which is blamed for an upsurge of anti-Israeli terror.

Right-wingers such as Industry and Trade Minister Ariel Sharon have proposed bombing suspected PLO bases in Jordan and more moderate ministers have hinted at unspecified action if PLO-inspired attacks continue.

While no military action is anticipated, the terrorism is making it difficult for Prime Minister Shimon Peres' coalition government to support U.S. efforts to arrange peace talks with a joint Palestinian-Jordanian negotiating team.

Shiites accuse U.S.

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Shiite Moslem spiritual leader Sheik Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah on Friday said U.S. and Israeli intelligence agencies were behind five carbomb attacks in Beirut and Tripoli this month that killed more than 140 people.

Fadlallah, considered by many to be the spiritual guide of the radical pro-Iranian Hezbollah, or Party of God, said in a sermon that the bombers "are a gang trained by America and Israel."

Elena swamps coast, heads east to Florida

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - The leading edge of Hurricane Elena swamped coastal areas with high tides, thunderous surf and torrential rain Friday as the storm, its central winds spinning at 100 mph, turned eastward toward Florida.

Elena could become even more powerful before its eye roars ashore on Saturday, said Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables.

Thousands had fled to high ground along the Gulf of Mexico from Louisiana to northern Florida, but the storm shifted late Friday afternoon and the National Hurricane Center moved hurricane warnings eastward to Tarpon Springs and discontinued all warnings west of Pensacola, near the Alabama border. Gale warnings extended down to Venice, south of St. Petersburg

Estimates of the number of people to be evacuated in a seven-county area of the western Panhandle ranged from 224,000 to 318,000, said Joy McIlwain, spokeswoman for the Division of Emergency Management. She said there was no way to estimate the number of Labor Day tourists already in the area.

the Florida Panhandle Friday.

Earlier, while Elena still appeared aimed at the central Gulf Coast, the governors of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana had declared states of emergency and ordered evacuations in coastal counties. An estimated 145,000 had fled low-lying areas and offshore oil rigs as far as Louisiana, whose bayous were assaulted by Betsy in 1965, Camille in 1969 and Frederic in 1979.

Some people in Louisiana and Mississippi began returning home Friday as Elena took aim at Florida.

Along Florida's Santa Rosa, Okaloosa and Walton counties, the weather service reported surging seas of up to 15 feet, tides 3 feet to 5 feet above normal, and flooded roads

Rain fell so hard at Apalachicola at midday that visibility was only about 20 feet.

Wrestler ailing

Mike Adkisson was in the intensive care unit with a 107-degree fever and had lost the function of his kidneys, Baylor University Medical Center officials said at a news conference.

Dr. William Sutker said Adkisson apparently contracted toxic shock syndrome, a bacterial infection usually found in women who use tampons, following recent surgery on his shoulder

He described the prognosis as poor and said Adkisson almost died Thursday night.

Rapist gets life term

AUSTIN - A 33-year-old repeat rapist who volunteered to be castrated as part of his punishment has been sentenced to life in prison instead.

Clinton Twomey pleaded guilty to raping an Austin apartment manager at knife point.

The March 4 rape that led to his life sentence occurred four months after Twomey had been released from prison after serving time for another rape conviction.

He had been given a 30-year sentence for a 1975 rape in Denton and was released after 10 years, authorities said.

TONASKET, Wash. - A rapidly spreading wildfire threatened rural communities in north-central Washington on Friday, scorching at least 30,000 acres and forcing 125 families to flee, while more than 100 other fires burned across the state.

More than 4,500 firefighters, including prison inmates and Cheyenne and Crow Indian crews, were recruited from as far away as Colorado and Alaska to battle the blazes.

Focus on the family

By NAOMI HUNT Howard County Extension Agent

Working moms and families

As more and more women joined the job force during the 1960s and 70s, some people predicted the downfall of American family life. Although their own families seem happy, some women are still concerned about the impact of working outside the home especially on their children.

Actually, the hundreds of research studies of working mothers and their families show little direct impact from outside employment. But they also show that families have made some changes.

In general, a mother's full-time employment is not by itself likely to harm a child. Studies show virtually no difference in school achievement and social adjustment between children of working mothers and those of non-working mothers.

The children of working mothers also have as much attachment to their moms as the children of non-working mothers have to theirs.

Even during the often-troubled teenage years, a mother's employment alone seems to have little impact. The researchers say that within the entire range of behavior from marijuana smoking to attitudes toward school and parents, there's almost no difference between teens with working mothers and those whose mothers don't work.

Teenagers also say that the advantages of a working mother outweigh the disadvantages

JOB-RELATED FACTORS THAT AFFECT FAMILIES: The many research studies conducted on families with working mothers tell us that the mother's job alone does not seem to negatively affect the family. But certain job-related factors can have a profound impact on the working woman and her family'. Those factors most often identified are:

The quality of substitute care for young children. It's difficult for a mother to find satisfaction in her job if she's worried about the care her young ehildren are receiving

The supervision of older children. Working mothers may be concerned about older childrens' after-school activities, especially if they must spend time alone.

The mother's attitude toward her work. If she doesn't like her job, that attitude will show and affect the family's attitudes toward her working outside the home

The attitude of her husband and children toward the job. If they feel "cheated" because they don't have enough time with the mother, that can cause problems within the family.

Job demands. A woman who has a very demanding job may have less energy for family support activities - especially if she receives little or no help from other family members.

Ability and willingness of family members to help. When family members are not able or willing to take on household chores, it can overburden the working woman and give her even less time to spend with the family.

Prepare to spray peaches

Between Oct. 15 and Dec. 1, most peach producers will need to spray their peaches with a copper fungicide or Bravo 500 for the control of peach leaf curl. If the trees are varieties that are susceptible to bacterial leaf spot, or bacterial canker is a problem, then only the copper fungicide should be used in the fall. The correct timing for this spray is important to control of the pathogen and to the safety of the tree. Application should be made when foliage comes off easily in your hand as small limbs are pulled between one's fingers.

An application made too early will cause foliage to burn and can result in buds breaking and using stored food that was to have been used next spring. This is also too early to be effective against the bacterial leaf spot organism.

If the materials are applied too late, they will not control the bacterial diseases becuase the organisms are already inside the tree and are protected from the copper. Growers should remember that the use of the fungicide is not the complete answer to the bacterial leaf spot and bacterial canker problem but is reported to help in reducing the amount of inoculum overwintering in the trees

In the case of bacterial leaf spot, use of resistant varieties when available will have a significant effect on reducing fruit and foliage losses. Bacterial canker infected trees should be pruned only after the other trees have been pruned.

Maintain a good management program to include irrigation, fertilizer, pruning and fruit thinning to reduce the stress on a tree. Pruning should only be done between Jan. 1 and late May. Spread of the pathogen will be less during this time of the year.

Peach leaf curl is a fungus disease of peaches which affects the foliage and fruit. On the foliage it causes red to light green blisters in the spring. Normally, it affects only the first one or two leaves that are formed. It causes red rough warts on the fruit.

Fruit infection is less common than foliage infection. The leaf curl pathogen overwinters on the bud scales, and next spring as the leaves begin to emerge the fungus enters the leaf and causes the distortion. Later the leaf will defoliate prematurely.

The total infection process is dependent on weather and the presence of the pathogen. Infection is the greatest when the leaves and fruit are covered with a thin film of water at emergence. Temperatures between 70 and 75 degrees encourage development of this pathogen.

Either Bravo 500 or Kocide can be used for the control of this pathogen. The timing should be the same as that used for bacterial leaf spot or bacterial canker. Remember when using Kocide 101, this is a copper fungicide and can cause foliage and fruit burn when used during the growing season.

Maintaining a positive self-image is vital for children

The most important thing a child needs in order to grow up successful cannot be bought with money or guaranteed with love - it is a positive self-image. Many children feel unattractive, stupid or incapable, according to an article in the September issue of Redbook, and parents of such children should examine their own behavior rather than that of the child.

Dr. Wayne W. Dyer, in his book "What Do You Really Want For Your Children?" (Morrow), outlines the major mistakes parents make that undermine children's self image

Avoid telling children either that they are bad or that they are good. Children should not be given the message that they are bad people when it is their behavior a parent is criticizing, nor that they are good people only when they behave the way their parents dictate.

· Don't use unkind pet names for children, such as Shorty, Klutz or Chubby. They reinforce a child's obvious flaws.

• Treat children as individuals. Continually comparing a child with others deprives her of the feeling she is unique

· Give children responsibility or you will send the message that they cannot do things correctly and shouldn't try

· Avoid criticizing children when they make mistakes. "Of all the ways to motivate a child," Dyer said, "criticism is perhaps the least useful and the most damaging.'

· Allow children to speak for themselves, instead of speaking for them.

· Don't talk in front of children as if they weren't there. "This teaches kids to regard themselves as unimportant or, worse, as simply part of the furniture," Dyer said. He added: "The less regard you have for your child as a feeling human being, the less regard she will have for herself."

Touch, kiss, hold, wrestle and play with your children and tell them, "I love you." "Children who are not fondled or touched begin to see themselves as unattractive and ultimately begin to doubt their own lovability," Dyer said.

Dyer said it was a rare parent who never committed any of these negative reinforcers. He outlined a set of strategies to help children think well of themselves and advised using at least one of them daily

 Provide an example of self-respect. Indicate you will not tolerate disrespect from anyone - including your child.

Educational testing craze

may be reaching its peak

A quick quiz: Educational testing:

(A) often provides important information about school performance, but sometimes yields results that mislead the public about how good a job schools are doing;

(B) is neither the disaster dread ed by critics nor the wonder drug for school ills claimed by backers;

(C) may finally be peaking after a phenomenal, decade-long expansion affecting virtually every school in the country;

Those who study testing think the best answer is probably "D." To help stem the tide of mediocrity in school performance, the American public demanded, and got, tests to make schools and teachers more accountable. Nearly everyone agrees that tests, tests and more tests are now a fact of classroom life.

In Texas this past year, for example, the Legislature passed an educational reform bill that mandated no fewer than 97 new tests. measuring student competency at every grade level and requiring minimum basic skills tests for aspiring teachers and those already in the profession.

The University of Tennessee and a few other schools have recently begun "value-added testing. Students take identical comprehensive skills test as freshmen and as seniors. Comparing the results can tell much about the strengths and weaknesses of the school and the students' progress.

"There's no way the public will ever say, let's end testing. Testing gives the public important things about how their schools are doing, things they have a right to know, said Bill Honig, head of public instruction for California, a state that pioneered competency exams more than 20 years ago and now has one of the nation's most sophisticated testing programs.

Testing programs, for instance, have helped bring the public to grips with the frightening gulf in achievement between white and minority students.

But signs are emerging that the spread of some kinds of educational testing is slowing.

 No additional states appear likely to vote to require minimum competency testing for basic skills like reading and arithmetic.

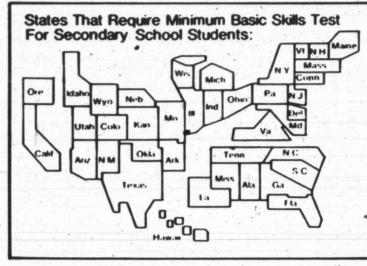

Thirty-nine states now require such tests for their students. Twenty require students to pass exams nation's largest teacher union by EDUCATIONAL TESTS have enjoyed phenomenal popularity during the last decade, but educators see signs the craze may be peaking. Shown are states that require minimum basic skills testing for secondary school students.

Harvard Business School announced this summer it would no longer require applicants to take the Graduate Management Admissions Test (GMAT), the first major business school to do so.

Johns Hopkins University made the Medical College Admissions Test (MCAT) optional in May and challenged other medical schools to do likewise to combat "pre-med syndrome."

And Bates College in Maine recently dropped its Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) requirement of prospective freshmen, the first selective school to do so since Bowdoin College, also in Maine, dropped the requirement 16 years ago. Arkansas began testing teachers for basic skills this past spring, but test experts doubt many other states will follow.

Since 1979, 27 states have passed laws requiring aspiring teachers to pass certification tests, seven states in the last year alone. Pipho and others believe more states will follow

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Saturday, August 31, 1985

"All I can say is we are very leased blacks have improved. But think it also means we just have to keep working," she said. "Our test measures minimums. Our goal is that our students master all standards. I think you also have to remember that this legislation was passed in 1976 as a result of students graduating and not being able to read and write."

Still, Greg Anrig, president of the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., which produces the SAT, said that "of the 39 states that have minimum competency tests, very few provide all the extra help needed for those who don't pass

"Tests are like a thermometer. Tests don't solve the problems, but they coalesce the forces needed to solve them," said Honig of California. Competency testing five years ago, he said, helped bring his state to grips with 12th grade achievement levels well below national averages. Those scores have been rising recently.

But others worry that encouraging test results may give the public a false impression of progress.

"What I worry about is that scores go up, but that's partly because kids who fail often drop out of school," said Dean Corrigan, dean of education at Texas A&M University who helped draft Texas' new education reform act.

Corrigan and others have expressed concern that too often with minimum competency testing, 'the minimum becomes the maximum." Passing the test becomes more important than getting a well-rounded education

Often the tests are ridiculously simple. Questions focus on students' abilities to perform simple computation, for instance, but often tell little about abilities to think critically or write clearly and logically.

Honig agreed that tests in many states frequently are too narrow, often failing to measure writing ability or achievement in science, history, literature or geography He said some of those subjects would be reflected in future California tests.

Children's eligibility for the program is determined by family size and income, according to a release from the school district.

Eligibility standards for free meals have been increased. They range from $6,825 maximum yearly income for a family of two to $23,205 yearly income for a family of eight.

The reduced price meal standards also have been increased. New standards range from $13,043 maximum for a family of two to $33,023 for a family of eight. For each family member of a family over eight, $2,340 to $3,330 will be added to the maximum.

All children in the same family for 40 cents. Students meeting the standards are eligible for breakfast and lunch.

Applications for the program are available at each school office. Parents will be notified in writing of approval or disapproval of the application.

Students entering Big Spring schools for the first time will not receive free or reduced price meals until the application has been approved., according to the release. Students entering school with a brother or sister on last vear's meal plan list will be added to the temporary list until their application for the new year has been approved.

Parents responsible for attendance

Parents or legal guardians of ages of 7-17 can be legally served if school-age children are responsible for their child's enrollment and regular attendance, according to Section 4-24 of the Texas Education Code.

According to a release from Big Spring's attendance office, parents or guardians of children within the compulsory school attendance they fail to comply with the law. Fines range from $5 to $25 for a first offense, $25 to $50 for a second offense and $25 to $100 for each day thereafter.

Parents who have problems complying with the law should contact the attendance office, 267-8245, or the appropriate school principal.

BIG SPRING (TEXAS) HERALD, SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1985

Local team defends LULAC state title By STEVE BELVIN

Sports Writer

ABILENE - Over the last eight years, the Big Spring Kings have been regarded as one of the top softball teams in the Crossroads Country area

This year is no different as the Kings, who were called Westside originaly, will be in Abilene this weekend to defend the League of United Latin Offizens title they won here last year.

The LULAC tournament attracts the top Hispanic teams in Texas. Last year the Kings breezed to the championship by winning seven consecutive games. This year Kings player-coach Lupe Lara knows the road to the championship will be much tougher. "It will be a hard tournament," said Lara. "Everybody wants to knock us off, especially Wichita Falls

The Kings have built up a rivalry with the North Texas team going back to last year's defeat of Wichita Falls in the championship game. The year before Wichita Falls beat the Kings in the second-place tilt. But the team, 11-strong; feel they have a legitimate chance of retaining their title, even though they have only been playing together for only two weeks. "Now, the only time we get together is right before LULAC," said outfielder Nune Moralez. "We did the same thing last year and won it."

There was a time when the Kings played together all season long. But times have changed. During league play they played on four different teams.

First baseman Benito Hilario insists the time spent apart doesn't effect the team. "We know what to do when we get there," said Hilario. "We'll go there thinking about nothing but winning."

Coach Lara added, "We've made a few personell changes, we've picked up a player here and there. But the players we've picked up are just as good as the ones we had."

"We wouldn't pick them up if we didn't like the way they play," seconded Moralez.

One would think that playing with a player-coach might pose the threat of dissension on the team; not so according to Lara. "We don't have any problems. We get out there and play and have a good time.' Lara is one of the key factors in the Kings drive, although he coming off an injury incurred in an accident. Last year at LULAC, the powerhitting third baseman was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

In the two weeks the team has played together they won one tournament and finished fifth in the other. But they still have a special mission, and that's to defend their title.

"I think we have a good chance of repeating as the champs," said Lara. "We are experienced and we all know what do do," concluded Moralez.

Sounds like a team in quest of another title

Softball Kings Connors wins in stormy Open

NEW YORK (AP) - Jimmy Connors easily advanced to the third round while a tornado-like storm with heavy rains and hail forced an early end of play at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships Friday.

Police said more than 800 lightning strikes were reported during the storm in the area of the National Tennis Center.

The storm caused the elevated press box to sway, flooded the inside courts, toppled trees and fences around the outside courts and downed power lines and tents on the grounds

Four people were hurt, none seriously.

A second-round men's singles match between second-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia and Bill Scanlon of Dallas had been halted by light rain before the brunt of the storm hit.

Completion of the day matches and the entire night schedule were postponed as live electrical wires were downed and several outside courts were damaged.

Connors, the No. 4 seed who is seeking his sixth U.S. Open title, roared into the third round of America's premier tennis event Friday by crushing Hank Pfister 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

In the women's singles, Caroline Kuhlman of Lakeside Park, Ky., 'a member of the USTA Junior Federation Cup team, upset 16thseeded Andrea Temesvari of Hungary 2-6, 6-2, 6-2. Veteran Brian Teacher ousted Scott Davis, the men's No. 15 seed, 6-3, 7-6, 6-3.

But No. 4 Pam Shriver, No. 6 Zina Garrison, No. 8 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria and No. 11 Steffi Graf of West Germany safely reached the third round on the fourth day of this two-week tournament.

Shriver downed Hu Na 6-2, 7-6; Garrison stopped Pam Casale 6-2, 6-4; Maleeva eliminated Isabelle Cueto of West Germany 6-0, 7-6; and Graf defeated Australian Ann Minter 6-3, 7-6.

In the men's singles, No. 11 Stefan Edberg won his secondround match, stopping Ken Flach 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Connors, the only player to capture singles titles on all three surfaces on which the U.S. Open has been contested, had no problems with Pfister's slam-bam style.

"He didn't come to the net," Connors said of Pfister. "He was trying to hit everything hard right away. If I can get my first serve in, it knocks out his theory.'

Connors didn't need any theories as his steady ground game and always-attacking style carried him easily through to the third round.

Shriver also breezed through her opponent in the opening set. But the second set was a complete contrast.

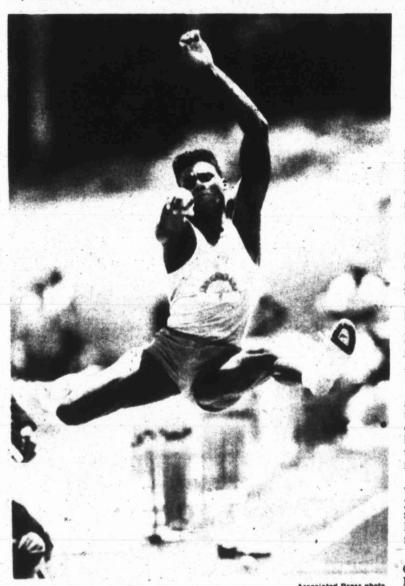

Hu Na, the first woman native of China to play in the U.S. Open since at least the end of World War II, broke Shriver's serve four times in the second set. But she also lost her own serve four times, including in the 10th game when she reached double set point at 40-15.

"I found her backhand a pain in the neck, and that's the side of the court I like to approach to,' Shriver said. "She's a good player.

A finalist here in 1978 when she was 16, Shriver captured the tiebreaker 7-5 to escape her second-round foe.

for state regionals

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Writer

HOUSTON - It's been a long summer haul, but in the end local softball slow-pitch softball team L.G. Nix, has reached its goal. That being a berth in the Regional Tournament in Houston this weekend.

The 12-man squad, coached by long time resident Bill Battle will do battle with the best the rest of the state has to offer when they compete in the ASA Class C Regional tournament.

The team's trek started back in April and by no means was the journey easy. It was a rough start but it will end with the team from the Crossroads area showing all the metro powers what they can do.

Some big-name teams have already felt the crunch of L.G. Nix. Three weeks ago in Midland, L.G. Nix won 10 of 12 games while finishing second at the Class C State tournament, thus qualifying the local to regionals; which is as far as the competition goes in ASA Class C competition.

There are seven state tournament in various areas. The first four finishers in each tourney qualify for the regional tournament which starts Saturday.

Battle, who took over coaching duties six weeks into the season, is one of the main reasons L.G. Nix has jelled so well. The veteran coach of 28 years says he had no intentions of getting back into coaching.

"I really hadn't thought about coaching. I use to go watch the team play because I've got two sons (Roger and Vic) playing," said the elder Battle. "But they looked terrible," he said of the team. "They asked me to coach and I told them I'd have to think about it. Finally I told them I'd coach.

The first line of duty for coach Battle was to get some youth on the ballclub. "I didn't want to make anybody mad but I needed some younger players because some of the others were getting too old. So I picked up a few players.'

What Battle got was a squad that now has an average of 29-years old. 'We're not a power team, but we've got good speed and we can run the bases."

Even under Battle's direction, L.G. Nix started out slow in the City Industrial League. For a while they were in second and third place. But midway through the season they cranked up and won the league title hands down with a 15-5 record.

From there, L.G. Nix started to roll and has been virtually unstoppable ever since. In fact, in the last two months, the only tournament they haven't won was one in Colorado City where they placed fourth and the second place state tourney finish. They racked up a sparking 40-5 slate over that period.

Battles echoes the fact that his team is hot right now. "We're hitting the ball and playing good defense. The guys are playing together well because they know each other now. We're fundementally sound. Going into the state tournament in Midland I thought we could finish in the top four. We got a good draw and played well that Sunday to finish second

So now it's all the marbles time and Battle and his troops will make Big Spring softball history when they take the field in their first game. They will be the first local team to play in a regional tournament. Battle's tourney thoughts are simple, "If we hit and play good defense, we'll do good.

Some 40,000 spectators at the Heysel Stadium, site of the May 29 soccer riots in which 39 people died, watched Lewis win the long jump and the 100-meter dash and Slaney dominate the 1,500 meters. Lewis, recovering from a pulled hamstring muscle, won the long jump with a leap of 28 feet, 31/2 inches, the longest jump in the world this year, after edging fellow American Kirk Baptiste to win the 100-meter dash.

Lewis' time in the 100 meters was a disappointing 10.24 seconds. He trailed at the halfway point, but accelerated in the final 50 meters to beat Baptiste by 0.06 seconds. Darwin Cook of the United States finished third in 10.31 seconds.

Slaney's 3 minutes, 57.24 seconds was the fastest in the world this year in her event, but five seconds slower than Soviet runner Tatiana Kazankina's five-year-old world record.

Slaney led from the start, with Olympic 3,000-meters champion Maricica Puica of Romania and Britain's Zola Budd trailing. It was Slaney's second victory of the year over Budd.

SAN ANGELO - The Big Spring Lady Steers defeated arch-rival and defending Class 4A champion Monahans 15-5, 11-15, 15-6 in the opening round of the San Angelo Invitational volleyball tournament Friday afternoon. Big Spring went on to defeat Seminole in straight games to advance to the semifinals scheduled today at 10 a.m.

It was the first time that Big Spring had beaten Monahans in over six years, but the Lady Steers, who raised their record to 8-2 on the year, were not to be denied.

Tammi Green was the leading scorer in the first game, totaling 5 points from the service line. There was balanced scoring from the rest of the starters with five girls getting two or more points in the opening game.

Monahans made a comeback in the second game, outscoring the Lady Steers early and holding on from the rest of the starters.

Again Tammi Green led all scores in the first game with five points. Tab Green scored three, while Michelle Husted, Sherri Myrick and Joned had two apiece. Thompson served out the game with an ace.

In the second game Thompson continued her service mastery, totaling nine straight points before Seminole could shake her from the line. Jones and Tammi Green each had two points in the final victory. Sharpe cited Tammi Green's

Oilers sign Moriarty

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oilers starting fullback Larry Moriarty, a holdout throughout preseason training camp, signed a 3-year contract with the team that will pay him in excess of $1 million, club officials said Friday.

"I weighed all the factors and evaluated my position and decided it was time for me to play football," Moriarty said. "I wanted to be an Oiler all along and I want to be with Coach (Hugh) Campbell."

Moriarty, 6-feet-1 and 240 pounds, led the Oilers with 785 yards on 189 carries.

"Emotionally, I was up and down," Moriarty said. "As my teammates know, I am a competitive person. I'm a hard-headed person but I learned that I don't want to go through this thing again.'

The Oilers also announced that they had cut 11-year veteran Ted Thompson and defensive end Mark Studaway, a 2-year veteran. Thompson had missed only one of 147 Oilers regular-season games since joining the team in 1975.

Moriarty, an avid weight lifter, is one of the Oilers' strongest players. He moved into the starting lineup last season when the Oilers traded Earl Campbell to New Orleans and gained over 100 yards in three of the Oilers final six games.

Verplank lead U.S. Amateur

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP) - Defending champion Scott Verplank rolled in a 3-foot par putt on the first extra hole and edged Bob Lewis to advance to the quarterfinals of the U.S. Amateur golf championship on Friday.

For the second straight day, the 21-year-old Verplank of Dallas was forced to extra holes by a Walker Cup teammate. Randy Sonnier pushed Verplank to play two extra holes in the opening round of match play at the Montclair Golf Club.

And Lewis did it almost the same way, rallying in the closing holes. Lewis, a former runner-up in this event, birdied both the 16th and 17th holes to tie the match.

Rookie leading B.C. Open

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) - Jay Delsing, a Professional Golfers Association rookie, found the right groove for a day, playing an error free round of 9-under-par 62 Friday to tie the tournament record before the $300,000 B.C. Open was delayed by rain.

Coupled with his opening 73, the spectacular tour of the En Joie Golf Club layout gave Delsing a share of the second-round lead with Doug Tewell, who played steady rounds of 68-67 for his 135-shot total.

The pair completed play before a 2<sup>1/2</sup>-hour rain delay and waited while challengers with later starting times faltered.

Phils nip Dodgers

in marathon game

By DICK BRINSTER AP Sports Writer

The pitching-rich Los Angeles Dodgers were soaring skyward, but a bloop, a blast, a boot and a clutch catch brought them back to earth - at least temporarily.

Philadelphia's Jeff Stone started the eighth inning Thursday night with a bloop single and Juan Samuel followed with his 16th home run to tie the game at 2.2. Two inn-ings later, Dodger third baseman Enos Cabell bobbled a grounder to let in the winning run as the Phillies prevailed 3-2 in a game that ran three hours, 35 minutes, and saw the Dodgers leave 13 runners on base.

While the Dodgers lost on an error, one of three they committed on the night, the Phillies held them off in the 10th because of a defensive gem by left fielder Von Hayes.

With one out and Mike Marshall, who homered earlier, on second base. Haves made a diving catch of Steve Sax's line drive.

"I was telling myself not to dive and I went ahead anyway," said Hayes, who snagged the ball at chest level while falling to the ground.

NL Roundup

Elsewhere in the NL, it was San Francisco 6, New York 3 in 10 innings; Montreal 8, San Diego 5; Atlanta 9, Chicago 6; and Cincinnati 6, Pittsburgh 0.

The loss snapped the Dodgers' seven-game home winning streak, but Los Angeles - with baseball's best earned run average, 2.87 still holds a 7½-game lead over San Diego in the National League West.

Bud Grant, back with the Minnesota Vikings after just a year in retirement, is one of the four new head coaches preparing for the start of the 1985 National Football League season.

New coaches face

Three of the four, including Grant, are from the NFC Central Division

The Vikings fired Les Steckel, an ex-Marine who alienated players with his boot camp methods and speeches, after going 3-13. He was replaced by the man he replaced, Grant, who had coached the Vikes to four NFC titles.

John McKay, the only coach in the history of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, announced his retirement midway through a 6-10 season. In came Leeman Bennett, himself dismissed three years ago by the Atlanta Falcons

And Monte Clark, on the hot seat in Detroit for three years, was finally dismissed by the Lions after they finished 4-11-1. His replacement is Darryl Rogers, late of Arizona State.

The other change came in the AFC East, where Indianapolis Colts Coach Frank Kush - who, like Steckel, considered himself a disciplinarian - resigned to take a job with the Arizona Wranglers of the United States Football League. Replacing him with the 4-12 Colts is Rod Dowhower, former offensive coordinator of the St. Louis Cardinals and head coach at Stanford.

"The most competitive people on teams are coaches," says Grant, who brings a record of 161-99-5 and four Super Bowl appearances into his 18th NFL season. "Otherwise we wouldn't be here - the job security is terrible. Most of us get fired."

Not Grant, who parlayed his status as a Minnesota legend, into returning on his own terms. Those terms include a lifetime contract.

"I didn't have to sit down and say, 'Hey, I've got another five-year commitment,' " he says.

"It didn't work out with Les to the point where it was kind of an embarrassment," Grant says.

Karl Schoenfield stands in front of his new business, Big Spring Elevator, which will allow area farmers to sell their grain in Big Spring again.

Grain elevator opens as area grain market

By LISA MUSSER Staff Writer

The Big Spring Elevator is giving Crossroads Country farmers an option they haven't had in four years - a place to sell their grain locally. Karl Schoenfield of Miles recently bought the vacant grain elevator at 403 E. First and opened it for business.

He bought the elevator after cutting grain for local farmers and seeing "there was a need for somebody to service the area" with a grain elevator, he said.

The main object of the business is to provide "whatever we can do to help the farmer," Schoenfield said. Grain elevator operators are the middlemen between farmers and retailers who use the crops, he said.

Economics is causing the Business briefs

cotton-dominated Big Spring area to become "more and more grain-oriented," he said. Because milo, wheat, cotton and all other crops take different nutrients from the soil, "you can't raise the same product year after year," he said. Farmers also are rotating their crops and planting grain after cotton season, he said.

Big Spring Elevator's goal is to handle all of the local grains, including milo, wheat, barley, oats and maize, Schoenfield said.

A middle point for grain is not the only service the Big Spring Elevator will offer farmers. The business also provides a cutting service for the grain. Schoenfield owns rotary combines and provides a cutting service for farmers who request it, he said. He plans to open a store at the elevator that will be supplied with products to meet various farming needs.

In the store, he will carry equipment, ranging from tires to batteries, for all the vehicles used on a farm. The store also will be stocked with seed, he said.

Schoenfield, who now lives in Stanton, has had several years' experience in operating elevators and cutting grain. Grain elevators operate on his farm in Miles, and he also has operated an elevator in Eden, he said.

He is assisted in his work by his sons, Jeff Schoenfield, who works on a full-time basis and Jay Schoenfield, who works part-time.

Big Spring Elevator is open Mondays through Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. until dark.

Economists' forecasts miss mark

We are now well into the second half of 1985 and the economists are still telling us to be pessimistic but that seems to be expected of economists. Someone said, "Maybe it's because if they predict things to be bad and they're good, no one complains. But if they call for good times and they turn out bad, they're in trouble.

This reminds me of the story Pipeline or Permian Research? about a hot dog vendor who had a good location and worked hard to make his business successful. The business grew and was prosperous enough to send his son to college. The son graduated and became an economist. He returned home to find his father's hot dog business flourishing and ready to expand again. This alarmed the son, "Don't you know the country is in a recession and you can't afford to expand your business? You should be cutting back."

Of course the father heeded his economist son's educated advice. He canceled his expansion plans and cut down on the number of hot dogs he ordered each day. Yes! Business fell off, so I guess the son was right!

Protectionism worsens economy

By TOM PETERS The clamor for protectionist economic measures is now reaching a crescendo. Yet during the past several years we have been using them blatantly under the euphemistic term "quotas. The unintended consequences of these protectionist actions have made economic conditions worse, not improved them.

have been accepted and, for the most part, honored. The results? First, U.S. auto makers have had to pay up to 25 percent more for steel unan they otherwise would have paid, thereby further increasing the already gargantuan differential between their costs and those of their Japanese counterparts. Ironically, the quotas have hastened the decline of the steel industry, as auto makers have moved away from steel to steel substitutes and/or plastics.

Worse yet, steel quotas have caused foreign competitors to maximize the value of their limited tonnage. By moving to higher value-added specialty steel, the foreigners quickly doubled the perton value of imported steel. Thus the one part of the industry in which U.S. technology should have retained an unassailable advantage has been attacked.

Take steel. "Voluntary" quotas

Stan Partee, the owner of the Spring City Do-It Center of Big Spring and Tall City Building Materials of Midland, has announced the formation of a new management team.

John Clark is now the general manager of both the Do-It Center and the building materials store. For the last six years he has been a representative of Hardware Wholesalers Inc.

Mark Sheedy was named advertising and promotions director for the Big Spring and Midland locations.

Colton Wright was promoted to manager of the Spring City center. The assistant manager is Tim Brewer and the retail sales manager is Mark Heinis. Mark Tovar is in charge of the customer service counter, and Joe Raines runs the contractor counter.

As a member of the council, Hollomon serves a two-year term, acting as a liaison between area pharmacist/owners in five states and the Medicine Shoppe corporate staff.

Big Spring radio station KIOF-FM has the largest audience in the Big Spring area, according to an Arbitron survey from March 28 to June 19, 1985. Local stations KBST and KBYG rated second and third, respectively, in terms of audience size, according to a KIOF release. An average of 3,200 people listen to the radio per day, according to the release. KIOF's audience averages 1,300 per day, with about 17,000 different listeners per week, the release said.
