Potholes

Q. When will the city fix the ootholes at the intersection of Sixth and State?

A. They will only do temporary patches on the potholes, according to Public Works Director Tom Decell, because Sixth Street will be reconstructed this year. Once Washington Boulevard has been repaired, crews will begin work on Sixth Street.

For the first day of school this morning, there was a con-spicuous lack of chaos at College Heights Elementary. By the time classes started at 8:25, the halls had emptied of children. Most were sitting at their desks. Nearly all the younger ones were swinging their feet, which didn't yet reach the floor as they sat on tiny chairs.

School began smoothly partly because most parents had registered their children early, said first-grade teacher Jo Crenshaw. This allowed the administration to assign the beforehand. Class assignments were posted on the school wall, so parents knew where to take their children.

"There are a lot of brighteyed, eager little faces," Cren-shaw said. "They seem to be ready for the transition from kindergarten. Only one cried, but he's OK now.' The majority of the first-graders knew the alphabet, could count to 100 and could recognize written numbers to 20, she said. Crenshaw said there was no problem with a language barrier this year. Although her class has a few Hispanic and Indian students, they all speak English, she said.

First-grade teacher Jana Irving said first-graders sometimes have trouble adjusting. They forget they're in school and that they must be quiet, she said, and their attention spans are short, so they need to be kept busy.

"A few were scared," she said, "but most were ready for school. Most of them had been to kindergarten."

Devastated Gulf Coast begins repair

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Armed police and National Guard troops patrolled areas of the Gulf Coast today as authorities and residents began adding up the damage from Hurricane Elena's torrential rains and 100-plus mph winds that splintered trees, flattened houses and pitched trucks like toys.

Authorities in Pascagoula — one of the two hardest-hit areas — said that almost every business was severely damaged when Elena roared ashore on Monday after five days of zig-zagging through the Gulf that forced hundreds of thousands of people from their homes in Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

Gov. Bill Allain toured Jackson

County in southeastern Mississippi late Monday and said the mayor of Pascagoula, a city of 29,000, told him damage to businesses was so extensive that none could open as

Protests hit adult magazine sales

DALLAS (AP) - Singing hymns and shouting anti-pornography slogans, about 5,000 protesters converged on an East Dallas park Monday to criticize 7-Eleven and its parent firm Southland Corporation for selling adult magazines.

"We find it difficult to say "Thank Heaven for 7-Eleven' when they defile our children," the Rev.

Jerry Falwell told the crowd.

The rally was part of a campaign by the National Federation for Decency to end sales of adult magazines in neighborhood convenience stores. Group members say the magazines trigger sex crimes and are too accesible to children.

"We wanted to support this national effort to get the message out," said Mark Weaver, director of Citizens Against Pornography, an Austin-based group that turned out for the rally. He said a contingent of about 38 people left Austin for Dallas at 4:30 a.m. for the rally. Weaver said rising early on a holiday and marching in the heat was a "sacrifice" necessary to the war on

Falwell was joined by several other ministers and fundamentalist leaders including the wellknown motivational speaker Zig Zigler

"When I think this day Southland is working with Jerry Lewis, a very good American ... while inside it is selling the very material that is poison-ing American kids, I have difficulty believing their sincerity," said Falwell, referring to Lewis' Labor Day muscular dystrophy telethon.

While the Moral Majority leader spoke, another crowd of anti-apartheid protesters competed for attention as they turned their ire towards Falwell, who recently returned from South Africa voicing support for the ruling white regime.

The anti-apartheid group sang "We Shall Over-come," and wore red armbands to "symbolizing the blood shed for freedom in South Africa," said the Rev. Daryll Coleman, of Kirkwood Temple Christian Methodist Episcopal Church in Dallas.

Falwell has upset many anti-apartheid groups with statements he made after the South Africa, including calling Bishop Desmond Tutu a

Robert Morris, assistant district attorney, said an arrest warrant will be issued for Robert Luis Salazar, 19, of 1403 Mesa, because Salazar missed his trial date in 118th District Court.

Citizens who had been called for jury selection this morning "were sent home," a spokesperson from the district clerk's office said.

Mary Thomas Bail Bond is responsible for the bond, according to court records. A hearing will be set to determine whether the $10,000 bond will be forfeited, District Attorney Rick Hamby said.

Danny Heckler, who posts bonds for Mary Thomas Bail Bond, said the bail bond service wanted to go off Salazar's bond and have him arrested last week

However, Gregg was out of town Cora Jones and unable to act on the request, Heckler said.

Salazar is charged with aggravated sexual assault stemming from a November incident. He was indicted on the charge in February. He was arrested on Feb. 21. He is represented by court appointed attorney Wayne Basden.

Morris said the failure to show up today might be forgiven by the court if Salazar can offer a reasonable excuse for his absence. "Of course, we have no way of knowing what the excuse will be until he appears," Morris said.

Heckler said once a new warrant had been issued, the bond service would aid law enforcement officials in the search for Salazar.

"All I know right now," Heckler said, "is that we're going to find

As Hurricane Elena's remnants tracked through northern Louisiana this morning, the counter-clockwise flow around the storm brought scattered showers to extreme East Texas.

Although the heaviest rainfall remained over western Louisiana and southern Arkansas, a few showers and thunderstorms were detected from Texarkana to Longview to north of Lufkin, the National Weather Service says. Partly cloudy skies were reported over parts of the Coastal Plains, South Texas and the Trans Pecos. Elsewhere, skies were generally clear as a dome of high pressure remained lodged over the state's Early morning temperatures remained in the lower 80s across parts of the upper coast and south Central Texas. Meanwhile, the mercury had fallen into the lower 60s in the mountains of far West Texas while readings in the 70s were common elsewhere.

In the forecast for North Texas, skies should be fair tonight with lows in the 70s. South Texas skies should be fair to partly cloudy through tonight with lows in the 70s and 80s.

Search for life

NEW YORK - About half of Americans believe the search for intelligent life on other planets is worth the money, and why not? About half believe such life exists, a Media General-Associated Press poll has found.

Forty-seven percent of the 1,517 respondents in the nationwide telephone poll said they believed in what has long been the staple of science fiction writers - intelligent aliens from distant worlds. Only 36 percent did not believe intelligent life existed

Forty-nine percent of the respondents also said the search for life on other planets, such as the work done with radio telescopes, was a good use of research money. Forty-five percent did not think the money was well spent.

WASHINGTON - A speech by President Reagan helped raise $219,525 for Nicaraguan refugees last April, but more than half the money went to consultants who worked on the event and only a small fraction ever found its way to the refugees, according to an internal audit.

The Nicaraguan Refugee Fund, which received direct White House help in arranging the April 15 dinner, spent nearly the entire amount - $218,376 - on expenses, including consulting fees of $116,938 and catering costs of $71,163 to feed the nearly 700 people at the $250- to $500-a-plate dinner.

Sen. Robert Byrd, left, of West Virginia, and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, right, greet each other in the Kremlin today. Vadim Zagladin of the Soviet central committee is in the center.

A little optimism

Sen. Byrd positive about November summit

MOSCOW (AP) - Senate minority leader Robert C. Byrd said today he felt "a little more optimistic" about the U.S.-Soviet summit in November after a delegation of senators met for 3 1/2 hours in the Kremlin with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Byrd, speaking on NBC's "Today" show from Moscow, said the senators "came saying we wanted to open a dialogue. We think we accomplished that."

Asked about the prospects of the Nov. 19-20 summit in Geneva, Byrd told NBC: "I feel a little more optimistic than I did when I first went to the meeting. It was a 3 1/2-hour meeting, which would indicate the Soviet leader was interested in a dialogue and a good exchange - and we had that." Byrd said Gorbachev indicated "that the minute that we could reach an agreement on bringing up Star Wars, putting it on the table and reaching some agreement as to how they would pursue that, then I got the impression that he was ready to make what he called radical proposals with reference to weapons cuts...."

Byrd told NBC, "I think he is ready to negotiate on that issue and he is ready, once we can reach some kind of understanding about Star Wars, he is ready to propose, as he said, radical changes, radical proposals with reference to strategic systems. The superpowers are conducting arms negotiations in Geneva, Switzerland. The Soviets have charged that

President Reagan's proposals to develop space-based missile defenses, dubbed "Star Wars," violate existing The West Virginia Democrat described Gorbachev as "very businesslike; he is tough; he is able, articulate. And the overall impression I had was very good of him." The senators, who arrived in Moscow on Saturday, met Gorbachev in a sparsely furnished Kremlin office. Gorbachev, wearing a gray pin-striped suit, greeted Byrd by name and was then introduced to the seven other senators.

Byrd carried with him the text of a prepared statement. He has said previously he was carrying a letter from Reagan to the Soviet Communist Party leader. Gorbachev, in his first interview with a Western news organization accused the United States of building a "scenario of pressure" leading up to his summit meeting with Reagan in November.

The Soviet leader's remarks to Time magazine were made public Sunday.

Gorbachev predicted the United States would expect the Soviet Union to make all the concessions, and said the United States has unjustifiably blamed the Soviets for many world problems.

"That is a scenario of pressure, of attempts to drive us into a corner, to ascribe to us, as so many times in the past, every mortal sin - from unleashing an arms race to 'aggression' in the Middle East, from violations of human rights to some scheming or other, even in South Africa," Gorbachev said.

Other senators who accompanied Byrd included Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.; Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.; Sam Nunn, D-Ga.; Dennis Deconcini, D-Ariz.; Paul Sarbanes, D-Md.; John Warner, R-Va.; and George J. Mitchell, D-Maine.

The Internal Revenue Service is worried about its image. It should be.

For more than 60 years Americans considered the IRS efficient, ruthless perhaps, but efficient — a government service that made sure every taxpayer paid his or her fair share.

But this year the IRS has had problems. It has lost tax returns, sent taxpayers conflicting notices and has been months behind with refunds.

The IRS is not entirely to blame for these boo-boos. In the past five years its staff has been cut by 5,000, despite an evergrowing work load.

A loss in IRS personnel and efficiency can lead to significant increases in tax cheating. About 20 percent of the population admits in polls on the subject that it cheats — perhaps as much as $120 billion annually. And yet, the IRS reports it must reduce the number of audits it conducts to 12 for each 1,000 taxpayers this year, down from 14 per 1,000 in 1984, because of manpower shortages.

The IRS obviously doesn't have enough help. Each year tax processing becomes more complicated and demanding. Taxpayers write 200,000 letters each day. They have to be read, researched and answered. Each change in the tax code requires that agents be schooled to interpret that change.

If tax work is to be accomplished quickly and efficiently, it stands to reason that the IRS is going to have to add personnel. We may end up with more IRS auditors than taxpayers.

Clearly, it's time for a change. Tax returns have become so complicated and tax laws are so full of loopholes for those with the means to find them that there is little wonder Americans are losing faith.

The process must be simplified. It must be made fair and workable for all tax brackets. If Congress doesn't pass tax reforms soon, cheating will be difficult to control.

Flimsy fashions prove distracting

(While Art Buchwald is on vacation we reprint some columns from the past.)

Just when I get my latent male chauvinist pig feelings under control, the new fashions come out and I'm back to where I started.

The latest trend, if I understand it, is toward the pajama look with see-through fabric placed in areas you're not supposed to see. The backs are bare, and in many cases the midriffs are exposed. There is even a rain suit that zips down to the navel.

One has to assume that these clothes wouldn't have been designed unless the manufacturers thought women would buy them. And if this is the case, where do we men who have been trying to stop thinking of women as sex objects stand?

It is a terrible dilemma and one I don't think the Women's Lib people are facing up to. For example, not long ago I went to a dinner party in Washington prepared to behave as the perfect liberated male. I was going to treat my dinner partners as human beings who had minds of their own and opinions on the subjects of the day that should be listened to.

right was wearing a black net pajama top with a neckline that plunged down to heaven knows where. The blouse was held up by two tiny straps that looked as if they would break at any moment.

The person on my left was wearing what appeared to be a sheer scarf wrapped in such a way that her bosom was pushed up and out halfway across her soup plate.

Now you have to admit it's pretty difficult to discuss the President's tax plan when you're faced with this kind of situation.

My heart said, "These women have brains. Find out what they're thinking." But my eyes kept wandering down to areas other than their heads.

I wanted to discuss the Geneva arms talks and the trade deficit with the person on my right, but all I kept thinking was: I wonder what would happen if one of those tiny straps broke while she was reaching for a piece of roast lamb from the tray?

I then turned to the person on my left to get such evil thoughts out of my head. I was going to ask her what she thought about the situation in Nicaragua, but I noticed that the scarf she was wearing had shifted and there was even more cleavage showing than when she had sat down.

I was so ashamed of myself because I forgot all about Nicaragua, which I'm sure she would have been delighted to talk to me about.

I turned back to the person with the two itty bitty straps. She had her back to me, which was bare all the way down to her lower spine. It just didn't seem to be the right time to talk about food stamps.

How, I pondered, can I show these people that I am interested in their minds when I have so little to work with? I would have given anything to have Gloria Steinem at my table to tell me what to do.

As I looked around the room, I noticed that all the men seemed to be having the same trouble. We were trying to make up for years of injustice and ignorance is our male attitudes toward the opposite sex, and they were doing everything to thwart us.

God knows we've all been sinners and most men are trying to change their attitudes toward women. But when you have nothing but bare back and cleavage to stare at during dinner, how on earth can any man keep his mind on Henry Kissinger?

Cape Hatteras project results in all-out war

By JACK ANDERSON and DALEWAN ATTA WASHINGTON — For years we've been pointing out a surefire way to bring the federal budget deficit down: Stop costly pork-barrel projects before they get started.

That's exactly what the Interior Department tried to do last year to the Army Corps of Engineers' gradiose plan to build a pair of huge jetties at the Cape Hatteras National Seashore, a fragile strip of barrier islands running for 70 miles along the North Carolina coast.

The jetties were intended to keep sand from filling in Oregon Inlet, a channel used by fishermen going to and from the Atlantic Ocean.

Interior refused to grant the Corps of Engineers a land-use permit to build the jetties. But now North Carolina's two Republican senators, Jesse Helms and John East, have sponsored legislation that would override the department's veto.

Experts familiar with the plan predict that the ict.

Experts familiar with the plan predict that the jetties would turn out to be an environmental disaster. They also argue that even if the project did what the Engineers claim it will — which is debatable — the cost (more than $100 million) would far outweigh the benefits. And they accuse the Engineers of cooking the figures anyway.

Fifteen specific complaints were expressed in a letter to the Engineers by a top White House budget officer. Our associates Donald Goldberg and Corky Johnson obtained a copy of the letter. Here are the highlights:

"Our review of economic analysis prepared by the Corps of Engineers disclosed the use of inappropriate study methodologies, questionable assumptions and lack of documentation," the budget official stated. "The supporting data shows that the project costs will substantially exceed its benefits if more generally accepted procedures and reasonable assumptions are applied."

● The Engineers hyped the projected benefits by using the highest possible estimated cost of dredging, the alternative method of keeping Oregon Inlet clear for fishing boats, the official charged. "Using a more realistic assumption, such as the historical average dredging costs, would show the project to be uneconomic," the letter stated.

The White House official was also skeptical of the Engineers' cavalier brushoff of the environmental problems the jetties could cause. "We are concerned about the divergent opinions of the Corps and ... the team of coastal experts retained by the National Park Service, as to the environmental impacts of the project," the letter stated. "Should the project not work as modeled by the Corps, there could be significant adverse environmental impacts which could add substantially to the total cost of the already expensive project."

◆ In a parting shot, the budget official observed dryly: "We are concerned that submission of such a defective report may indicate that the internal review processes of your office and of the Corps are ineffective."

The Engineers, secure in their historical role as provider of pork for members of Congress, responded to the White House letter by haughtily dismissing the criticisms as "totally unsupportable."

But the Engineers may have a fight on their hands this time. In an Aug. 15 letter, William P. Horn, assistant Interior secretary for fish, wildlife and parks, reiterated the department's opposition to the Oregon Inlet jetties.

"Our continuing concerns about this proposed project have not been altered," Horn wrote. "(It) would result in permament adverse impacts to National Park and National Wildlife Refuge lands under the jurisdiction of this department."

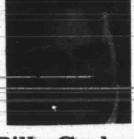

EYE ON THE ECONOMY: Huge budget deficits, high interest rates and the overvalued dollar are transforming the United States from a manufacturing country into a nation of shopkeepers. Economists estimate that as many as 3 million jobs have been lost permanently as U.S. companies flee the flood of cheap imported goods for the high ground of overseas production, with its lower taxes and cheaper labor. More than 70 percent of all employed Americans now make their living in service industries.

WHO'S NEWS: Twenty-five years ago, young Dorothy Godlewski surprised her father in Detroit with a long-distance birthday call from Moscow, where she was working as a secretary in the American Embassy. This past weekend, she was the one who was surprised — with a 50th birthday party thrown by several hundred friends here in Washington, where she's office manager of the President's Office of Consumer Affairs. Decorations included posters and buttons of Ms. Godlewski's face superimposed on the Statute of Liberty, in accordance with the party theme, "Save the Lady."

MINI-EDITORIAL: In its obsession with the seemingly indestructible drug traffic, Congress sometimes behaves as irrationally as the junkies it's trying to save. The House, for instance, recently slipped a provision into the Defense authorization bill that would allow Navy personnel to arrest dope smugglers overseas.

Not only would this require extensive training in law enforcement for the sailors selected, but it would mean they'd have to be on call for long periods for any resulting court cases, instead of on duty with the fleet. All things considered, it would be wiser to leave the war on drug smugglers to civilian landlubbers.

Billy Graham

Alcohol abuse hard on family

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Please pray for my husband. He is battling against alcohol, and it is really hard on all of us. He hasn't sought any help, and he won't even admit that he has a serious problem. — Mrs. G.F.D.

DEAR MRS. G.F.D.: Alcoholism is destructive in many ways, one of the most destructive being that it often deceives a person into thinking he (or she) does not have a problem, Tragically, a person may be willing to admit the problem only when he has almost destroyed inslife. The Bible pictures this vividly: "Do not gaze at wine when it is red, when it sparkles in the cup, when it goes down smoothly! In the end it bites like a snake and poisons like a viper. Your eyes will see strange sights and your mind imagine confusing things" (Proverbs 23:31-33).

Do-all you can to urge your husband to face his problem. He may kid himself into thinking he can stop at any time — but that is almost certainly not the case. He needs help — help from you, help from others and most of all, God's help if he is to break away from alcohol and keep from shattering his life.

At some stage, therefore, he must face his problem. Pray that God will give you wisdom in knowing how to help him face his need; it may seem easier right now to avoid any confrontation, hoping the problem will solve itself — but in the end this will only make the problem worse. Perhaps there is a friend or relative you can enlist to talk frankly with him, and urge him to seek help. Your pastor can suggest programs in your community that can help also.

But most of all your husband needs Christ. I don't know why he drinks; often a person turns to alcohol to avoid some personal problem or responsibility. But whatever the reason, Christ can help him deal with it and find strength. Encourage him to turn to Christ, who loves him and wants to help him.

Dear Abby

Runaround

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I lived together for four years and planned to be married, but three months before the wedding date, he asked me to postpone it "for a while." I didn't know how to handle that, so I just moved out. Although we aren't living together anymore, we're still seeing a lot of each other. He admitted to having another girlfriend, but he says he still loves me.

My problem: He refuses to tell his girlfriend about us. I asked him why, and he said because she's not mature enough to handle it. He also said he wants to get all the running around out of his system before he settles down. The other girl found out about us. He told her that we were just "friends" and she had nothing to worry about. Now she thinks I am out of his life for good.

I still love him, and feel guilty when he comes to my bed after he's been with her, but I can't turn away when he tells me he loves me and needs me. What should I do?

HANGING ON DEAR HANGING: Face it, he's lying to both of you, and he's using you to the hilt. Kiss him goodbye, and tell him to let you know when he gets all the running around out his system. If you're still available, you might consider pick-

DEAR ABBY: A close neighbor phones, wanting to know if I'll be home. She wants to "drop something off." Then she comes by with some flowers from her garden. (I have a garden with the same flowers, and she knows it.) Or she just made some cookies. (I am off sweets, and I would rather not have any around, which she also knows because I have told her often.) Or she has some little trinket or doodad, or some snapshots to show me, or a letter she wants to read to me! Obviously I have to invite her in to sit for a few minutes, and maybe offer her a cup of coffee or a cold drink.

Naturally, she sits and sits and sits, until I am ready to scream. She is a bore and her company is a

Is there a polite way to avoid getting stucked into this situation?

OFTEN STUCK DEAR OFTEN STUCK: I know of no polite way to tell a bore that you do not want to get sucked into allowing her to "stop by" with something in order to spend time with you. Your best defense would be to tell her that you will not be home. (Then go somewhere if

Ex-boxer's nasal drip: a follow-up

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: After reading your response to the letter concerning an ex-boxer's nasal drip, I am compelled to write. I also had a nose that dripped on one side. It was very annoying and had some doctors confused for several months. At long last, one doctor took a sample of the fluid for analysis and a lab test showed that the fluid was spinal fluid. I had a ruptured dura that required an operation to seal. - H.E.D.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Regarding this attached item (the same as above) - P.D.). It reminds me of a patient I treated ...intermittent drainage from left nostril. It was found to be cerebrospinal fluid. It was from a choroid plexus tumor. Your column is in our paper. Good! - A.L., MD

Yes, I agree with both of you. I left this matter somewhat ambiguous. What I meant by clear-water type drainage as the aftermath of a skull fracture was the possibility of a leak of cerebrospinal fluid from the skull, above the nose. I wish I had said it better the first time. I hope it is cleared up this time around. Thanks for the suggestion.

The dura is the outer covering of the brain and spinal cord, and the doctor's reference to a choroid plexus tumor is the kind of event I was suggesting.

A.L.'s case was reported in Surgical Neurology Magazine, December 1984. Thanks to both of you for taking time to write. It's also a good reminder that any suspicious drip of this kind that cannot be explained through normal events certainly demands

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Why is some Parkinson's referred to in write-upus as "idiopathic Parkinson's disease"? What is different about that kind? - P.D.

Parkinson's disease is thought of as one of the unfortunate consequences of the aging process. That may be so, and in fact is believed to be so in most

However, we know of certain specific causes unrelated to aging. Some drugs can cause it by interfering with the way dopamine (the chemical tht is out of balance in Parkinson's) is handled in the brain. We also know that outside toxic substances, like manganese, can cause it. And in one famous outbreak it was traced to a virus infection.

The term "idiopathic" isused to distinguish the more common age-related kind of Parkinson's from those of known cause (as from toxicity or the viral type mentioned). This is discussed in greater detail in my booklet "Coping with Parkinson's," which is now avaiable by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.50 for printing and handling.

'Total communication' is key at church for the deaf

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — When the 90 members of the Mother of Perpetual Help gather for Sunday services, there's "total communication," even though it's one of the few Roman Catholic churches in the United States officially designated for the deaf.

While many religions provide interpreted services for those with impaired hearing, only about 180 churches in the country are run exclusively for deaf people and their families, said Harold Noe, associate director of Deaf Missions, a non-denominational service organization for the deaf in Council Bluffs,

"Deaf people need their own churches," said Sister Alverna Hollis, executive director of the National Catholic Office for the Deaf in Silver Spring, Md. "They don't feel comfortable in (hearing) churches, even if there's someone there to interpret for

Mother of Perpetual Help, a Roman Catholic church, has been filling that need in the Omaha area. From its humble beginning in a church cafeteria, its approximately 90 members regularly pray and socialize together.

Vance, who has normal hearing, says he became aware of the problem while he was pastor of an Omaha church next to the Nebraska School for the

"I used to see all these deaf people with no place to pray and it bothered my conscience," said the 75-year-old priest. "They went from pillar to post, to a different church each Sunday. They needed a place In 1972, after learning sign language, Vance began holding informal services for a small group of deaf worshipers in the cafeteria of Holy Name Church. Looking for more room, he soon moved the services to the public chapel of another church.

On July 4, 1976, Vance and his roaming congregation found a permanent home at Mother of Perpetual Help, a former Syrian Orthodox Church purchased with a loan from the Catholic Archdiocese of Omaha.

When Vance conducts services, he speaks while simultaneously translating into sign language. At a recent service, he was flanked by a deaf couple who led the congregation in responses and a deaf woman who directed songs in sign language.

Vance said it's difficult to translate some religious terms into sign language.

"That makes it hard to explain some doctrinal words.'

To translate words such as Trinity and sacrament, Vance said he resorts to improvisation. To express Trinity, the priest combines the sign symbols for the number three and God. He translates sacrament by using the symbol for the letter S and the sign of the stringent restrictions on how much water can be used from Lake Texoma for power generation.

Doyle Davis, president of the Lake Texoma Association, believes what he calls the "senseless drainoff" of the lake for power generation can be curtailed.

Davis said his group wants Congress to establish 612 feet as the bottom line for power generation. Under the current setup, the lake may be drawn down to 590 feet above sea level for power generation and water supply.

"Last year we reached 610 and it caused some loss of business,' Davis, a marina operator, said.

'We are currently gathering facts and figures as they pertain to loss of income. Right now we can't give you dollars and cents figures. That's what it is going to take to reach our congressmen," he said. The lake association also is seek-

The association wants congressional acknowledgment that recreation is a prime function of the 89,000-acre reservoir and an adjustment in the way water in the lake is allocated

Recreational boats worth more than $30 million are moored at marinas along the shoreline, but the federal law authorizing Lake Texoma's construction nearly 50 years ago does not mention recreation.

Because of its many uses, the lake is "up and down like a yo-yo," Sandra McClain, executive director of the association, said.

She said data is being gathered to demonstrate the fortunes of businesses ringing the lake rise and fall with water levels.

Lake levels rise when the gates are closed to contain its waters from rain-swollen tributaries. The ing a broader definition of the level drops during the hot summer months, when evaporation is coupled with a peak demand for power the lake, which straddles the and municipal water.

Gays march in Dallas to protest court ruling

DALLAS (AP) — The light from centuries..." their candles flickered against the sloped windows of City Hall as more than 1,000 people gathered to decry a court ruling they said spells doom for gays throughout the nation.

"I'm mad as hell and I'm not going to take it any more," the crowd chanted at the Dallas Gay Alliance rally Monday night held to protest a 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that upheld Texas' sodomy

Alliance president Bill Nelson, urging people "don't let anybody tell you you are a criminal," applauded the large turnout in a city of predominantly white-collar, nonmilitant gays who still shy away from television cameras at rallies. The gathering came only hours after an anti-pornography rally, led by the Rev. Jerry Falwell to protest the sale of adult magazines in 7-Eleven stores, marched down Dallas streets singing hymns and shouting anti-porn slogans.

Ironically, both the Falwell and gay groups sang the civil rights "We Shall Overcome."

Gays gathered from all over Texas — Austin, Amarillo, Tyler, Houston, Marshall and Wichita Falls ("Yes, there are gays in Wichita Falls," Nelson said.) — for the rally. The New Orleans-based appeals court reinstated Texas' sodomy law, overriding its own three-judge appellate panel and a Dalfas federal judge who said in 1982 that

The judges said the law is constitutional "in view of the strong which has prevailed in western

"In 11/2 pages, the court of appeals decided a major constitutional issues of our time," said Neil Cogan, a constitutional law professor at Southern Methodist University.

'We have been waiting - those of us who teach con(stitutional) law and those of us who do civil rights work — for many, many years for a learned court of appeals opinion about this subject," he said. "We'll have to wait a little longer."*

Nelson and Don Baker, who filed the 1979 suit challenging the state sodomy law, said that a petition to be heard by the U.S. Supreme Court will be filed within 90 days.

The 5th Circuit panel also said the law, which among other things prohibits sexual intercourse between people of the same sex, does not deprive homosexuals of equal protection under the Fourteenth Amendment.

The 9-7 vote delighted groups such as Dallas Doctors Against AIDS, which had kept up the longrunning legal battle. But it infuriated gay rights and civil rights advocates such as the Texas Human Rights Foundation and the Dallas Gay Alliance.

"No agency of government has the right or ability to tell any American who they can love or associate with," said Ken Gjemre, a Dallas Civil Liberties Union spokesman. "The issue is as simple and profound as that."

The Rev. Don Eastman, pastor of the Metropolitan Community Church, told the crowd Monday objection to homosexual conduct, night that "there comes a time when we have to say, 'Tradition is culture for the past seven wrong - let's change tradition."

Crime rate up 10 percent

AUSTIN (AP) - Major crimes in percent and theft was up 10.6 Texas increased 10 percent during the first half of 1985, Col. Jim Adams, director of the Department of Public Safety, said today.

All types of crime increased 8 percent for the same period. All of the four major crime categories showed increases. Aggravated assault was up 9.6 percent, murder up 8.7 percent and robbery up 3.1 percent, Adams said.

"Compared to the first six month of 1984, the crime rate for the first half of 1985 was up eight percent to 3,111.7 crimes per 100,000 population," Adams reported.

Motor vehicle thefts rose 12.4 percent, burglary increased 8.3

Adams said statistics show that 21 percent of the total crimes reported were cleared by arrests.

The value of property stolen during the six months was more than $585 million, with about $230 million recovered by police.

Adams said two Texas law enforcement officers were killed in the line of duty and 1,733 assaults were made on officers during the first six months of 1985

Driving while intoxicated arrests totaled 68,717, an increase of 2.6 percent. Drug arrests were up 14.4 percent to 31,913.

Texans celebrate Labor Day with picnics, parades and sun

By The Associated Press Under virtually flawless skies and record-breaking heat, Texans celebrated the nation's workforce on Labor Day with picnics, parades and beach runs that heralded summer vacation's waning days.

The festivities were as farranging as the Texas terrain and included a mammoth United Auto Workers' picnic in Grand Prairie; Garland's stretched-out version of the Labor Day parade and nude bathing at Austin's Hippie Hollow.

But although Monday was supposed to be a day off to commemorate American workers, many of those employees were at work nonetheless, ringing up sales at stores all across Texas.

Monday was sizzling and dry across much of the state, and the mercury hit record levels in the south and a rash of forest fires plagued East Texas. Recordsetting temperatures of 103 were set in San Antonio, 98 in Corpus Christi and 99 in Houston.

At one of the biggest official events in the state, Crystal Lee Sutton - better known as the movie "Norma Rae" - talked to the UAW picnic gathering of 3,500 peopie about her union-building tivities at a North Carolina textile mill in the middle 1970s.

"My dream is to see a rally this big in North Carolina, because North Carolina workers are the lowest paid in the country," she

Meanwhile in the Dallas suburb of Garland, it almost seemed as though there were more people and groups on the parade promenade than watching from the sidewalks.

Beauty queens of every age, floats of myriad designs, a small army of cheerleaders and hundreds of assorted revelers trooped through downtown in a procession that stretched for untold blocks and lasted for more than two hours.

And in Austin, it was business as usual - broken glass, beer cans, naked bodies and voyeurs - over Labor Day weekend at Hippie Hollow, Lake Travis' renowned nude beach.

But for the isolated cove newly under control of Travis County, the holiday weekend crowd was tame.

"We used to have rapes, burglary of vehicles, assaults, and shooting incidents," said Lt. Jamie Page of the sheriff's office. "Now you get an isolated call, but it's really turned into a resort spot. The rough clientele and the bikers have

COLLEGE STATION (AP) - Employee experience and job traits — not gender — may account for why men receive higher overall salaries than women in the same field, three researchers said Monday

A study of 100 occupations by three Texas A&M University researchers showed that, in general, women and the jobs they traditionally hold possess fewer characteristics linked to higher

In their study, associate psychology professor Ben Shaw and associate management professor Stuart Youngblood analyzed job characteristics such as salary, wages, the extent of decisionmaking, use of machinery and equipment, clerical activity, supervisory duties and public

Also assisting in the study was graduate student Keith Allen.

The researchers also studied what they call employee or "human capital" characteristics, such as experience, education and the number of hours worked each week and each year.

The team found employers valued the traits studied equally, whether the characteristics are found in women or men, or in traditionally male or female jobs.

"Women have less of many characteristics, including four or five major ones," said Shaw. 'Males had more experience, worked more hours per week and worked more weeks per year. Their obs were also significantly different.

Swedes advance in Open

Swedish army is taking over the U.S. Open tennis championships, plundering hopes for a Dream Match between John McEnroe and Boris Becker.

Four Swedish men are still alive going into the quarterfinals. So rather than the top-seeded McEnroe against Wimbledon champion and West German hero Becker Wednesday night, it will be McEnroe and Sweden's Joakim Nystrom.

But first, it will be top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd against Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany and Hana Mandlikova against fellow Czech Helena Sukova in the women's quarters today.

Also in action are No. 3 Yannick Noah against amateur Jay Berger, Swede Stefan Edberg against No. 4 Jimmy Connors, and Frenchman Henri Leconte against Heinz Gunthardt of Switzerland.

McEnroe, still No. 1 although he has not been at top form this summer, did his part Monday to set up showdown with history's youngest Wimbledon champion by dispatching Czechoslovakia's Tomas Smid 6-3, 7-5, 6-2.

But the steady, patient Nystrom, who went to five sets against Becker at Wimbledon and lost to him again two weeks ago in Cincin-

NEW YORK (AP) - The nati, was too much for the tight teen-ager this time.

"I think he felt it more than me. Everyone was talking about Becker against McEnroe in the next round," said Nystrom. "This victory was very sweet because at Wimbledon I thought I played my best grass-court match ever, and I

Fellow Swedes Mats Wilander, the No. 3 seed, and Anders Jarryd, seeded sixth, also won Monday.

Wilander, taking the court after Nystrom's victory, beat Greg Holmes 7-6, 6-1, 7-5, and Jarryd outlasted American Tim Mayotte 7-6, 7-6, 6-4.

'It couldn't be anything but inspiring," Wilander said of his countryman's victory. "I think he played great, and I'm real happy he beat him. ... Right now, I think Joakim is as good a player as me."

All but one of the top eight women's seeds made it to the quarters Monday's winners included Lloyd, No. 2 Martina
Navratilova, No. 3 Mandlikova
No. 4 Pam Shriver, No. 5 Kohde-Kilsch, No. 6 Zina Garrison, No. Sukova and No. 11 Steffi Graf of West Germany.

Graf upset No. 8 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria 6-2, 6-2, in the last match Monday night.

was Lloyd over Robin White 6-2, 6-4; Navratilova over Catarina Lindavist of Sweden 6-4, 7-5; Mandlikova over Kathy King 7-5, 3-6, 6-1; Shriver over Alycia Moulton 6-2, 6-4; Kohde-Kilsch saving two match points to get by Wendy Turnbull of Australia 5-7, 7-5, 6-2; Garrison eliminating Kate Gompert 6-3, 6-2; and Sukova coming back from a 5-2 deficit in the Canada 4-6, 7-6, 7-5. But the one that mattered most to the thousands at the National Tennis Center on Monday was Becker's loss to Nystrom, who at No. 10 was seeded two spots lower than the German teen-ager.

third set to oust Carling Bassett of Becker consistently overhit his groundstrokes or watched in frustration as Nystrom's passing shots whizzed by.

'The first two sets, I wasn't on the court. Then the third and fourth was a close match," said Becker. who saved five match points but didn't even swing at the winning shot, a deep Nystrom forehand that looked out.

"The ball was out, but it didn't matter," Becker said. "There were too many mistakes in the match.

"I'm disappointed. I wanted to play McEnroe in the quarterfinals. But Joakim is a good player, and

In the other women's matches, it he gave me a lot of trouble both times we've played. He beat McEnroe this year, and he's a good player.'

Nystrom's victory over McEnroe came at Dallas in May - in his words "the best win of my career." Becker insisted he wasn't looking ahead to McEnroe.

"It may have been in the back of my head, but I knew this was going to be a tough match," he said.

McEnroe, who beat Becker last March in Italy when the teen-ager was an unknown, was one of the few people in New York who downplayed the significance of any showdown.

"I'm here to win the tournament," he said. "I don't care about beating him and losing the tournament. .

"I'm just looking at this match as one I need to win in order to try and win this tournament, McEnroe said. "Nystrom will be a different type of match. Me against Becker is more of an attacking kind of match. Me against Nystrom would be more of me having to take the play.'

As for Becker, he plans to be back next year.

"So far, every match that I've lost has been good for me. Hopefully, this will be the same.'

Alabama upsets Bulldogs

"We may never lose," Perkins said Monday night following a dramatic 20-16 opening-game victory over Georgia, a contest which Alabama dominated only to fall behind 16-13 on a stunning blocked punt with just 50 seconds left.

But Mike Shula completed four consecutive passes for 71 yards, the last one a game-winning 17-yard touchdown pass to Albert Bell with 15 seconds left to play.

"That was just what the doctor ordered for our football team," Perkins said. "It was a big, big step for us. You talk about a team needing that shot of confidence, to come from behind in the last minute and pull it out — there's nothing better than that."

Perkins shook up the Alabama faithful in 1983 by making a 15-yard penalty when many of the numerous personnel changes on the coaching staff and in the athletic department. But his inaugural 8-4 record was the same as Bryant's finale and the critics bided their time.

zone for the touchdown that gave Georgia its only lead of the nationally televised Southeastern Conference game. "It was a pretty tough situation," Perkins said. "Some people might say, 'Oh, my gosh, there's only 50 seconds left.' But one of the things we wanted to do as a team was

Shula, who finished with nine completions in 13 attempts for 136 yards, said he didn't have any butterflies, adding: "It's too tough to get nervous when you're concentrating so hard."

An incomplete pass used up six seconds and Shula then passed 16 yards to Greg Richardson, who got out of bounds to stop the clock. Shula next threw for 26 yards to Albert Bell, a junior college transfer who caught a 16-yard pass in the second period for the game's first score, and Alabama was at the Georgia 29 with 29 seconds remaining.

"I wanted to score a touchdown and win," Perkins said. "But if it came down to it (a field goal for a tie), I would not have let my team walk off the field a loser.'

Shula threw two more passes. The first went to Richardson for 12 yards and again he got out of bounds, this time with 20 seconds showing. Then Shula found Bell all alone at the 3-vard line and he step ped into the end zone with 15 seconds left to play.

"It was a simple post route," Bell explained. "I took an outside release, he (free safety Tony Flack) fell for it and I got open. It's a once-in-a-lifetime deal to win in the last minute like that."

Alabama quarterback MIKE SHULA, son of Miami Dolphin head coach DON SHULA, hands off to CHESTER BRAGGS (30) during first quarter action in the Crimson Tide's 20-16 comeback victory over Georgia Monday night in Athens, Ga. When the whip comes down Cowboys ax Springs

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry says a decision to start Timmy Newsome at fullback led to the end of Ron Springs' career with the National Football League club

Springs was one of five players released on waivers Monday as the Cowboys reduced their roster to 45 players for the opening of the regular NFL

Also released were veteran wide receiver Duriel Harris, rookie linebacker Scott Strasburger, free agent cornerback Carl Howard and free agent cor nerback Ricky Easmon.

Coach Tom Landry said the team opted to cut Springs after deciding to start Newsome.

We felt that it was better to move somebody like Springs off the roster when that happens because it's not good to leave a veteran who has been a starter at backup," he said.

In 1983, Springs led NFL running backs in receiving and set a club record of 73 catches. He finished fourth on the club in receptions last year with 46, including three long touchdown catches that contributed to three victories.

Landry said that Springs started to slide after he bruised a shoulder in 1984.

"Springs had a good 1983, but had a hard time performing in 1984 and that was when we moved Newsome in. We tried to trade him (Springs) because we like to see that our veterans have a job."

Landry said that Springs took the news "just fine. He was very level-headed. He knows that he can still play for somebody else.

Springs was not available for comment. Landry said that he had been impressed by John Williams, who played at the running back spot last season for the United States Football League's Oakland Invaders.

"Williams has a lot of potential and we will move James Jones into the backup fullback position until Williams learns our offense," he said. Landry also has said he was pleased with the performance of former USFL running back Todd Fowler. Springs, who was entering his seventh season. faces a Sept. 9 trial date on an aggravated assault charge stemming from a January altercation at a topless har in Dalfas. A female police officer claims that Springs hit her while she and her partner were investigatingon a disturbance at the bar.

QB's feel the heat

NEW YORK (AP) - Eight teams chose to cut experienced backup quarterbacks Monday in order to reach the National Football League's new, lower, final 45-man roster limit.

The Seattle Seahawks cut an original member of their team, Jim Zorn. The left-hander, in 100 games with Seattle, threw for 20,122 yards and 107 TDs. Zorn, 32 years old, has a contract that calls for a $450,000 salary this year.

Other veteran quarterbacks cut were Jack Thompson, by Tampa Bay; Bob Avellini, by the New York Jets; Bob Holly, by Atlanta; Mike Moroski, by San Francisco; Joe Pisarcik, by Miami; John Witkowski, by Detroit; and Babe Laufenberg, by Washington.

Moroski was cut for the second time this summer. He was let go two weeks ago by the Falcons, for whom he backed up Steve Bartkowksi last year under the old 49-man roster rule.

"It's just wrong to have to go to 45 players," said Washington General Manager Bobby Beathard. "It's a terrible thing for football and it's terrible when you have to release a player like Babe Laufenberg.

Lions Coach Darryl Rogers had been hoping owners would pass a rule allowing teams to keep an additional quarterback as a 46th player, but was disappointed.

"Quarterback is a very vulnerable position and I really wanted to keep Witkowski," said Rogers. "I wanted the extra quarterback (rule) not just for us, but because it would be best for the league. There are a lot of teams that will have to go with two quarterbacks."

Another backup, Oliver Luck of Houston, will be unavailable for three or four weeks because of a slightly fractured left ankle, the Oilers announced.

Other veterans who did not survive their teams' final cuts included place-kicker Bob Thomas of Chicago, safety Beasley Reece of Tampa Bay, linebacker Fred McNeill and nose tackle Charles Johnson of Minnesota, linebackr Dan Bunz of San Francisco, running back Mike Pruitt of Cleveland, wide receiver Clarence Weathers of New England, and nose tackle Ken Kremer of the Kansas City

Thomas, a 10-year veteran, lost his job to rookie Kevin Butler. "I was told by (head coach) Mike Ditka that I would have to be beaten out convincingly," said Thomas, "And I wasn't."

San Diego reached the 45-man limit by trading Earnest Jackson, the AFC's leading rusher last year, to Philadelphia for undisclosed draft choices.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 4, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when you need to use your best judgment and experience in organizing and preparing the practical aspects of whatever vocational activies you have agreed to do. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid one in authority who is irate now and would not grant you any favors.

Think before you speak and do not criticize others.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Find new data that can be applied to your own interests to make them work better, but be sure it is the acceptable kind. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't try to handle some business affair with a testy person or you soon find yourself behind the proverbial eight ball. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Avoid being pressured into some agreement with another and feel safe both during the day and at night.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Although your work may be going slowly, don't run after other interests or you will regret it later. Show you have poise and wisdom.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get together with congenials and have a fine time, provided you are not extravagant. Be patient.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be sure to use control with those who dwell with you and maintain harmony.

Show that you have a sense of humor. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful you do nothing in the world of activity that could be harmful to your health. Remain poised. SAGITTARFUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may not be thinking straight where money is concerned, so be sure to doublecheck everything.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't be vociforous if some situation arises that is not to your liking, or you can regret it. Caution is the keynote now. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A practical affair of a personal nature should be further studied, so don't jump into it as yet. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may find it difficult to gain some personal wish, so concentrate on other objectives. Be concerned with the practical.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will want to take the lead, which is fine, but teach to respect the feelings and rights of others for best results. A born trouble-shooter is here, so encourage along such lines and your progeny will be a valuable asset to society.

49ers team to beat in NFC

By DAVE GOLDBERG

AP Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in 10 years, the Dallas Cowboys failed to make the National Football League playoffs last season. If you listen to Tom Landry, the NFC East is so tough he's ready to make it two for 11.

While the San Francisco 49ers waltzed through the West on the way to a Super Bowl victory, and the Chicago Bears took the Central by default, the race in the East last season went down to the final weekend with four teams still in contention for playoff spots.

The Washington Redskins finally took the title with a 29-27 victory over St. Louis that wasn't settled until Neil O'Donoghue's 50-yard field goal attempt went wide at the final gun. As far as Landry is concerned, Washington's again the team to beat.

"After Washington, it's St.Louis, then New York and Dallas. I pick us fourth," Landry said as training camp opened. "I like that position. I like to come from behind."

"You don't win this division, you try to survive" Washington's Joe Gibbs said.

One team in the NFC that will almost surely survive is San Francisco, which won 18 of 19 games last season, including a 38-16 thrashing of Miami in the Super Bowl. Only the Los Angeles Rams seem capable of challenging the 49ers in the West.

In the Central, it looks like a two-team race defending champion Chicago and Green Bay. But then there's the East.

St. Louis, 9-7, had the best talent a year ago, led by Neil Lomax, whose 4,614 yards passing was the fourth best single-season performance in NFL

The Cards' most serious problem this year is the offensive line, where they lost guard Terry Stieve to retirement and tackle Luis Sharpe to the United States Football League. Sharpe wants to come back; if he does, it means larger holes for Ottis Anderson and Stump Mitchell, more time for Lomax to find Roy Green and probably a division title.

The Giants, 9-7, have found one element they lacked last season — a running game in rookie George Adams and USFL refugee Maurice Carthon. They complement Phil Simms, who passed for more than 4,000 yards last year to a young receiving corps headed by Bobby Johnson and Lionel Manuel.

The Redskins, who finished 11-5, have a new runnng back in George Rogers, obtained from New Orleans. John Riggins, 36, is also back, and Gibbs says he might abandon his one-back set at times to get them both into the game at the same time.

The quarterback controversy, for instance, appears to have vanished. Landry says he'll start with Danny White at quarterback over Gary Hogeboom, although White will miss the last two weeks of preseason with a rib injury suffered last Saturday
