Jobless rate lowest in 5 years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's civilian unemployment rate, stagnant for six months, fell a dramatic 0.3 percentage point to 7.0 percent in August, the government said today. It was the lowest jobless rate in more than five years.

Some 310,000 jobs were created last month, the Labor Department said in a report that appeared to indicate the long-stagnant economy may be picking up some steam. Indeed, jobless rates in every major population group except adult women fell.

President Reagan himself said the new report serves as "proof America's economy is packing new power."

But much of the overall jobless decline was in the volatile teen-age rate, which is prone to skew the overall calculation at the beginning and end of the school year. Because of that, analysts cautioned that overall job gains may not be as dramatic as they appear on the surface.

Indeed, August's jobless drop was concentrated among those aged 16-24. The rate for teen-agers fell 2.2 percentage points to 17.3 percent, while the rate for black teenagers, considered the most volatile of all, dropped more than 5 percentage points to 34.5 percent.

Explaining the report, which confounded private analysts who had expected little if any improvement in a rate that had been stagnant for six months, the commissioner of labor statistics, Janet L. Norwood, told a joint congressional committee that, because of the volatility of the black teen-age rate, "additional data are needed to determine whether the August decline will be sustained."

"I'll wait another month to see whether this is for real ... or just a statistical aberration," Edward Yardeni, chief economist at Prudential-Bache Securities, said after today's figures were released. He said he is not yet revising upward his forecast that third-quarter growth will move along at an anemic 1 percent annual rate.

Yardeni pointed out that interest rates are up and that the dollar, reacting to skyrocketing U.S. auto sales, today hit its highest level in two months against major foreign currencies. A strong dollar is likely to worsen the U.S. trade deficit and higher interest rates would be a drag on the economy.

Yet Reagan was not so cautious, telling reporters that he was "delighted" at today's report and adding:

"We can keep driving our unemployment rate down; we can keep opening up opportunities for our future, if all of us unite in working for an America where government doesn't grow, prosperity does."

Luncheon kicks off United Way

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The 1985-86 United Way campaign kicked off Thursday at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce community luncheon at Howard College.

The United Way's goal this year is $210,000. Already $56,689, or 27 percent of the goal, has been raised, said spokesman Ted Griffin.

The luncheon was hosted by the Kiwanis Club and sponsored by Texas Electric Service Co., Southwestern Bell and Energas.

New chamber members and the annual leadership program participants were recognized, and new Big Spring residents were introduced.

Also, various Howard County events were promoted, including the following:

• The Howard County Fair will be Sept. 16-21. Entertainment chairman Don Richardson said the fair will be highlighted by the Clyde Foley Cummins country/western band, Bob Ford's magic act and the Old Time Fiddlers Contest.

• Texas Tech will play Texas A&M in a LaCrosse game to raise money for the United Way Nov. 2 at 8:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium. Drawings will be held for prizes, including a grand prize trip for two to New Orleans from Southwest Airlines and "five or six major prizes" such as televisions or VCRs, said spokesman Paul Thoman.

• The Big Spring High School Steers will play their first game of the season tonight against the Snyder Tigers.

Reagan encounters tough questions during campus talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Campaigning for his tax overhaul plan, President Reagan was enthusiastically welcomed by students at a Southern campus where he also encountered tough questions about free trade, Nicaragua and South Africa.

The president was interrupted by applause 27 times during his 24-minute speech Thursday at North Carolina State University in Raleigh. But student body president Jay Everette said the crowd was probably "caught up in the heat of the moment," expressing more enthusiasm for Reagan than his programs.

Most of the placards scattered among the crowd of about 13,000 at the Reynolds Coliseum bore laudatory legends such as "God, Country and Reagan." But other signs called for more student loans, help for the domestic textile industry and economic sanctions against South Africa.

The same issues came up again as Reagan lunched on sandwiches and iced tea with 25 student leaders in a basement restaurant of the University Student Center.

During the discussion, students said Reagan was not asked and did not say whether he would veto pending legislation to impose economic sanctions on South Africa.

But the president said sanctions would undercut U.S. businesses that try to foster reforms in South Africa by giving black employees equal pay and benefits, said Gary Mauney, president of the Student Reagan speaks to students on tax overhaul plan.

Senate

The black students who attended told reporters they wished the president would take a tougher stand on South Africa, but weren't critical of him.

Kevin Calhoun, vice president of the Society for Afro-American Culture, said Reagan "seemed sincere" and "felt that the apartheid system was ethically wrong, but it was a situation of economics versus ethics."

Students said Reagan did not budge from his opposition to limiting textile imports — a hot topic at a campus with the nation's largest textile school.

"He didn't like the idea of protectionism," said Everette. "I was impressed with the way he espoused his ideas but I do not agree with his

Farm Credit System faces severe financial crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Farm Credit System could be faced with liquidation of some of its large regional banks within two years unless agreement can be reached with the federal government on a bailout plan, the system's top regulatory official says.

"This is the most severe crisis the Farm Credit System has faced since the Depression days," Donald E. Wilkinson said Thursday, announcing that he will begin exploring rescue plans with Congress and the Reagan administration.

"If we are unsuccessful ... we will begin to face the necessity of possible liquidation of portions of the Farm Credit System," including some of the 37 regional banks, Wilkinson said. "This, I think, would be a very unfortunate situation to permit to happen."

Increased losses in the system's mortgage lending arm will result this year in the first operating loss since the 1930s for the $74 billion system, he said, while declining to say how large the loss would be.

Wilkinson said saving the system is important, not only to the farmers who depend on it for credit but to the large institutional investors, including banks and insurance companies, which provide its capital through their investments in Farm Credit bonds.

He declined to specify the size of federal bailout that will be needed, but said it will be "multibillions of dollars." Members of Congress familiar with farm lending have put the potential cost to taxpayers at $5 billion to $20 billion.

The Farm Credit System, founded early this century to make easier credit available to agriculture, is cooperatively owned by its farmer-borrowers and raises money through bond sales. Since it paid off the last federal seed money in the 1960s, the system has used no government funds.

The loose confederation of regional banks and their local branches is regulated by the Farm Credit Administration, an independent federal regulatory body.

System regulators will now begin meetings with administration and congressional officials to see what kind of legislation might be acceptable.

Wilkinson listed several possible long-term remedies for the system's ills: increased regulatory authority for the Farm Credit Administration, government guarantees for Farm Credit bonds and loans, creation of an institution to take over bad farm debt, a direct infusion of federal cash and a "buy-down" of interest rates.

Wilkinson said while he expects rural members of Congress to embrace the idea of a bailout, to get the urban majority and the Reagan administration to go along will require "the ultimate of negotiation."

"This is not to be assumed to be an automatic decision of the Congress. It will require much understanding," he said.

Of the system's $74 billion in outstanding farm loans, more than $11 billion are classified as "non-performing," meaning they are past due and not generating income. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., said Thursday after meeting with a top FCA official that the system may be holding $25 billion in "poor-

Senior citizens fighting possible office closing

By KEELY COGLAN

Staff Writer

Senior citizens in Big Spring are fighting a possible attempt to close the Social Security office in the city.

Members of the Spring City Senior Citizens Center mailed a petition with more than 100 signatures to Rep. Charles Stenholm, and Sens. Phil Gramm and Lloyd Bentsen, said Harry Sanders of 1606 Robin.

The Social Security Administration has proposed closing or downgrading 759 local offices in the nation, according to a newsletter from the American Association of Retired Persons. Listed among the Texas offices "which may be downgraded or closed" is the Big Spring office.

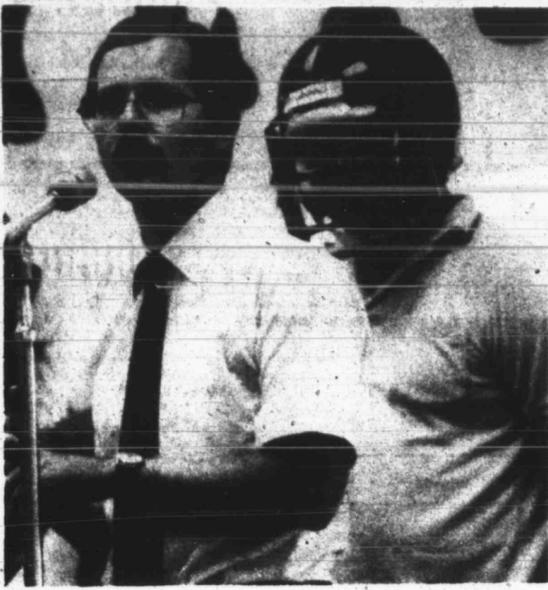

Bruce Carter, director of the local office, said Thursday he didn't think the office would be closed.

"We've already talked to Stenholm about it, and he said they weren't going to close the office," Carter said.

He said, however, that writing letters to Stenholm against the closing of the office could help.

If the office is closed, persons with questions about Social Security would have to contact the Midland office, he said.

Sanders said anyone wanting to sign the petition can do so by visiting or writing the Spring City Senior Citizens Center at P.O. Box 3463, Big Spring, Texas 79721. Stenholm's address is 1232 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

MIXED METAPHORS are obvious at the community luncheon as Paul Thoman touts the upcoming lacrosse matchup between Texas Tech and Texas A&M universities — a fundraiser for the United Way — and Pete Jones (right), a luncheon emcee, gives a visual boost to the start of the Big Spring Steers football season. The Steers begin play tonight; the lacrosse battle is Nov. 2.

Campaign

Head coach Quinn Eudy said he couldn't yet tell what kind of team the Steers will be this year, but that it is "bigger, faster and stronger."

"They've shown a lot of togetherness. They realize that one guy can't do it; it's a team thing," he said.

• Volleyball coach Susan Sharp said the volleyball team has been successful so far by defeating two defending state champions. Home games this season are Saturdays at 2 p.m. and 3 p.m.

• The Evening Lions Club will have its 21st annual barbecue tonight from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Tickets are $4.

• The Big Spring Symphony season begins Nov. 15 with its first concert. The major concert will be in February to celebrate the sesquicentennial. Ticket sales start in October.

• The Womens' Conference will take place Oct. 5 at Howard College. Topics to be discussed include personal safety, balancing home life and career, effective communication, a positive self-image and legal advice. Karen Perkins, director of Tarrant County Womens Center in Fort Worth, will speak on Womens, Language and Power. Conference tickets are $18 in advance or $20 at the door. CEU continuing education credit is available.

• Horse, dog and other animal shows will highlight the Country Affair Oct. 5-6. Also featured will be an arts and crafts sale and a United Way barbecue.

• The Chicken Fried Steak World Championship Cookoff will take place Oct. 12 at Highland Mall. Awards will be $300 for championship, $150 for first runner-up and $100 for second runner-up.

Trophies and other mementos will be awarded for showmanship, costumes and the long-haul team, which is the team traveling the most miles to compete.

Former Dallas Cowboy football players Preston Pearson and Harvey Martin will be on hand to visit with the crowd, sign autographs and judge the event, as will race car driver Johnny Rutherford. Armadillo races by "Jalapeno" Sam Lewis and a "fun run" also will take place. George Strait will appear at the coliseum that evening.

"Nothing better can happen to a piece of meat," joked emcee Pat Porter.

Entry fee for the cookoff is $25, and meat will be furnished.

Weather Forecast

WEST TEXAS — Sunny days and fair nights especially Panhandle and far West through Saturday. Partly cloudy with widely scattered thunderstorms this afternoon and evening southeast. Isolated thunderstorms South Plains and Permian Basin this afternoon and evening and southeast Saturday. Lows tonight 58 mountains to 71 southeast. Highs Saturday in the 90s except near 100 Big Bend valleys.

State

Rain and thunderstorms spread over much of South and south Central Texas this morning from the Rio Grande to north of the Hill Country, flooding a few streets in Kerrville and prompting wind gusts of up to 50 mph.

The culprit behind the abundant rainfall was a slow-moving upper-level system that slid out of Mexico and collided with moist tropical air, the National Weather Service said.

Late Thursday night, one of those storms hammered the Hill Country with up to 3 1/2 inches of rain and wind gusts to almost 50 mph. No damages or injuries were reported, however.

Elsewhere, a few heavy thunderstorms were reported over Southeast Texas as well as off the upper coast. Clouds covered the state's southern half, while generally fair skies prevailed across most of North Texas and west of the Pecos.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s, except for in the middle 50s in the mountains of far West Texas.

Bible Fund

The Bible Fund passed the two-thirds mark on the way to its goal of $15,000 with contributions of $1,322 deposited Thursday, bringing the total to $10,593.50.

The drive, sponsored by the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship, is held to raise money for Bible classes at Big Spring and Forsan high schools.

Search for missing pilot is called off

A search for the missing pilot of an aircraft that crashed near Vincent Tuesday evening has been called off, Mitchell County Sheriff Wendell Bryant said today.

"We believe he made it home," Bryant said.

He said he would contact sheriff's deputies in the pilot's hometown.

Bryant would not reveal the name of the missing pilot. He did say, however, the man was from Dallas.

The search for the missing pilot began early Wednesday morning after Big Spring police received a telephone call from a man who said he had crashed a plane in an open field somewhere and requested aid. Texas Department of Public Safety troopers were notified of the call, but failed to locate the person.

Midland Civil Air Patrol located the aircraft about noon on Wednesday. The wreckage was reported to have been found 25 miles northeast of Big Spring in a field located about eight miles east of Vincent.

Bryant said this morning that the wreckage was still intact and had not been moved. The National Transportation Safety Board is conducting an investigation into the cause of the accident.

According to NTSB reports, the pilot gave a Dallas-home address to Economy Aviation Rentals Inc. of McKinney when he made arrangements to lease the plane last Monday evening.

He took off at 6:45 a.m. Tuesday from McKinney's Aero Country Airport and said he would return at night. The McKinney CAP dispatched a missing person's report later that evening, when the missing pilot failed to return.

NTSB said the pilot had properly presented a Federal Aviation Administration license and proper pilot certification in McKinney when making arrangements to rent the aircraft.

Other federal agencies gathering information about the crash include the FAA flight standards office in Lubbock.

A spokesperson from the Drug Enforcement Agency office in Lubbock said they were not conducting an investigation into the crash.

quality" land loans.

While it is exploring possible avenues for a federal bailout, Wilkinson said, the system will operate under an emergency rule that enables money to be shifted between various banks in the system to meet operating losses that have been concentrated in areas hardest hit by a farm depression.

The system's board of directors approved the expedited loss-sharing procedure on Wednesday. It will, in effect, override the objections local Farm Credit banks may have to shifting system funds and is likely to anger some local credit officials who have guarded their administrative powers and object to centralizing the system.

But Wilkinson said the move was necessary to allow quick response to problems and to demonstrate that the system is doing everything it can internally before going to the federal government for help.

policy."

Tammy Crews, leader of a group of campus sororities, disagreed with Reagan's contention that students who would lose financial aid under his proposals did not need it.

"I know how hard it's been for me to get myself through school," she said.

The group gave Reagan a copy of a student senate resolution opposing student aid reductions. Students said he slipped the resolution into his pocket without reading it.

Joyce Bennett, president of the Graduate Student Association, said Reagan "shook my hand and said 'don't worry, we will not be sending troops into Nicaragua.'"

The students said Reagan, who was operated upon for cancer of the colon July 13, appeared relaxed and healthy.

At the end of the president's speech in the basketball arena, members of the pep band did a card stunt spelling out, "The Pack is Glad You're Back." The school's athletic nickname is the Wolfpack.

Reagan plans to spend this weekend at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., and has another tax speech scheduled next Thursday. The White House has not said where it will be.

In his Raleigh speech, the president took issue with "gloom artists" who say his tax overhaul plan has no chance of getting through Congress this year, if at all.

Reagan said he wanted to remind "the naysayers, people who tell you it can't be done ... that this is America, and there are no limits except those that we put on ourselves."

Injured trucker moved

An Oklahoma truck driver who was injured Thursday morning when his rig collided with a smaller truck on Snyder Highway has been transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock.

Bill W. Willsey Jr., 41, of Oologah, Okla., was driving south to Big Spring when his 1979 white International truck, towing two semi-trailers, failed to negotiate a bend on Snyder Highway south of County Road 25, the Department of Public Safety accident report stated. The accident occurred at 8:55 a.m. Thursday.

Four other vehicles parked in the machine shop parking lot also were damaged in the collision.

Inquiries planned

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's national security adviser says no one on his staff ever acted "as a go-between" for private aid to Nicaraguan rebels, but three congressional committees plan inquiries into reports of such activities.

National security adviser Robert McFarlane gave his assurance there was no impropriety to Sens. Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., Senate Intelligence Committee chairman, and Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., the panel's vice chairman, during an hour-long meeting Thursday.

Search for donor

TUCSON, Ariz. — Doctors at University Medical Center waited for a gravely injured man to die and searched for other possible heart donors as the world's youngest recipient of a Jarvik-7 artificial heart fought back from a series of tiny strokes.

Hospital officials were pursuing a possible donor heart for Michael Drummond from a 21-year-old man in an Oklahoma City Hospital, who was suffering from a gunshot wound to the head, transplant coordinator Mary Jean McAleer said Thursday.

His family reportedly had given permission for the donation if he did not survive, she said.

Zero gravity effect

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Space rats that spent seven days in orbit suffered massive losses of muscle and bone strength, suggesting that astronauts on long voyages must be protected from the debilitating effects of zero gravity, a scientist says.

"There are changes, and very dramatic changes, in the bones during space flight," said Richard Grindeland, a researcher at the Ames Research Center in California. "And what happens, happens very, very quickly."

Networks in hot water

WASHINGTON — Two television networks are in hot water with feminists and a telecommunications consumer group as a result of their decision not to use public service announcements about birth control.

The National Organization for Women, the NOW Legal Defense and Education Fund and the Telecommunications Research and Action Center said Thursday they would file a complaint against CBS and ABC today at the Federal Communications Commission.

Aid for AIDS victim

SWANSEA, Mass. — Junior high school students in this small, seaside community have rallied around a popular classmate stricken with AIDS, but many parents say school officials should expel the boy, who was allowed to attend class without his condition being disclosed.

"He's just the same thing as a regular kid, except he has problems," said Joseph Sousa, 13, a sixth-grader at Case Junior High School, which confirmed Thursday that an eighth-grader with AIDS has been attending classes at the 625-student school since Aug. 27.

Many parents said they wanted school Superintendent John E. McCarthy to expel the AIDS victim, who contracted the ailment during treatment for hemophilia.

A GROUP of Nicaraguan Indians meet at a congress in the remote village of Rus Rus, two miles from the Nicaraguan border. During the congress, which ended late Tuesday, two rebel groups agreed to merge in an effort to attract U.S. aid.

Fight for rights

Refugees form alliance against Sandinistas

EDITOR'S NOTE — Nicaraguan Indians held their congress this year in Rus Rus, a village on Honduras' isolated Caribbean coast where hundreds of them have sought refuge. A major topic was the fight of Indian guerrilla organizations against Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government. Associated Press reporter Andrew Selsky was one of five U.S. journalists who observed the congress.

By ANDREW SELSKY
Associated Press Writer
RUS RUS, Honduras (AP) — Hundreds of Nicaraguan Indians, some escorted by guerrilla patrols, slogged for weeks along jungle trails to attend an assembly in this remote refugee village and form an alliance against the leftist Sandinista government.

The delegates represented all the Indian communities along the Caribbean coast of Nicaragua. In forming the new group called Kisan, which means Nicaraguan Coast Indian Unity in the Miskito Indian language, the assembly dissolved the Misura and Misurasata rebel groups, two of four guerrilla armies fighting the Sandinista government.

The Indians, who claim about 4,000 soldiers, hope to qualify for some of the $27 million in non-lethal aid the U.S. Congress authorized for the rebels, also known as Contras.

"We have lived in our country before the time of Columbus, but now we must plead with the Sandinistas for the control of our lands," said Wycliffe Diego, who was elected leader of Kisan by the assembly.

"We will die before we become slaves to any government, much less the Sandinistas," declared Diego, 39, who formed the first Nicaraguan Indian rights group, Alpromiso, in 1973 when Anastasio Somoza was in power. The Sandinistas overthrew Somoza in July 1979.

Diego, like others, addressed the 491-delegate assembly in the Miskito Indian language, which another Indian translated into Spanish for the 10 U.S., European and Honduran journalists who attended the three-day assembly. The assembly ended Tuesday, but reports about it were delayed because there are no telephones in the area.

Some of the delegates were guerrilla officers, dressed in heavy boots, jeans and T-shirts. Others were clergymen representing the Roman Catholic and Moravian churches in Nicaragua. Still others were from nearby refugee villages.

The delegates from Nicaragua were accompanied by guerrillas from the Misura group because of fears of attacks by Sandinista troops.

Violence between the Sandinistas and the Indians erupted in 1981 when government troops tried to arrest a dissident leader in a Moravian church in Prinzapolka, Nicaragua. A shootout left four Indian rebels and eight soldiers dead, Indian leaders say.

In the following weeks, Indian guerrillas in the Misura and Misurasata bands attacked soldiers with bows and arrows and machetes, then later with automatic rifles taken from dead soldiers.

In 1982, the government began forcibly relocating thousands of Miskito Indians living in the coastal jungle area. The Indians say soldiers set fire to Miskitos' homes, churches and crops, and killed their livestock.

The Sandinistas now say the forced relocation was a mistake and are trying to move the Miskitos back to their ancestral homelands along the Coco River, which divides Honduras and Nicaragua.

But delegates representing the refugees vowed not to return as long as the Sandinistas remained in power.

"You young ones must struggle so you don't die here and so you can take the bones of the old ones who do die here back to Nicaragua," said Mollins Tillet, the president of the Indian's council of elders.

Some Indian leaders say they are seeking an autonomous state in Nicaragua, and representatives of the Misurasata faction believe an autonomy plan can be negotiated with the Sandinistas.

"Our fight is for our rights," Kenneth Bushey, a Misurasata guerrilla commander elected to the Kisan governing body, told reporters. "If the Sandinistas respect those rights, we won't have any reason to fight," he said.

However, other leaders like Diego want more.

"We want to have a dialogue with other (rebel) groups and to fight together for the freedom of our country and to get rid of Sandinismo forever, which is communism," Diego told the assembly.

Cargo ship sinks

BANGKOK, Thailand — A cargo ship that left Bangkok for Japan sank in the South China Sea, but the 19 crewmen and captain were rescued, a company official said.

Mana Patram, general manager of Mitsui O.S.K. Liner company, said Thursday the 7,080-ton Monte Emerald sank two days earlier about 100 miles south of Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam.

It was not immediately known why the Panamanian-registered ship sank, he said.

Filipino captain Primo Alorro, 48, sent an SOS to the British oil tanker Aquamaster, which came to rescue the crew, he said.

Mana said the ship, which left Bangkok last Sunday, was loaded with general goods.

Bomb hits radar

NOHFELDEN, West Germany — Three bomb blasts damaged radar equipment early today at a U.S. Army installation in the western part of West Germany, U.S. military spokesmen said.

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

"There was a bombing," Cmdr. Tom Connor, a spokesman for the U.S. European military command, told The Associated Press. Sgt. Bob Lentner, a spokesman for U.S. Army in Heidelberg, said the explosions took place early in the morning.

Lentner declined to say what kind of installation was damaged by the blast.

Poll campaign starts

AMRITSAR, India — More than 900 candidates, entitled by the government to carry guns and employ bodyguards to protect them from Sikh terrorists, began campaigning today for seats in the Punjab state legislature and the national Parliament.

Punjab police said they arrested more than 400 people, most of them Sikhs, under a preventive detention law on the eve of the election campaign. The arrests were made throughout Punjab on Thursday and were continuing today, state authorities announced.

Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi decided to proceed with the Sept. 25 elections despite the assassination of the leading moderate Sikh politician on Aug. 20. A prominent member of his Congress Party was slain Wednesday.

Police blamed Sikh extremists for both attacks.

Six dead in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile — Soldiers fired rifles in the air to disperse hundreds of slum-dwellers ransacking a supermarket, and riot police fired tear gas to quell other disorders on the second day of anti-government protests in which six people died.

A clergyman reported that two youths were wounded in the unrest Thursday, increasing the number injured to at least 34.

The outlawed Communist Party pressed for a return to democratic rule in the protests that began Wednesday, a week before the anniversary of the Sept. 11, 1973, coup in which Gen. Augusto Pinochet overthrew President Salvador Allende, a Marxist.

New disorders broke out after dark Thursday in at least nine neighborhoods ringing the capital as residents blocked streets with burning tires.

New efforts aid African farming

Efforts by scientists to develop new crops and agricultural methods for African farmers are aimed in the right direction. So-called miracle crops have triggered a "Green Revolution" in parts of Asia and could help Africa reduce its vulnerability to drought and famine.

Eight billion dollars worth of food was shipped as aid to Africa in the decade preceding 1984, saving uncounted lives and reducing human suffering. But food aid is only a temporary solution. Success by some scientists in tailoring new high-yielding, drought-resistant strains of crops to African soil and weather conditions could provide a basis for a lasting solution.

Some of the scientists who produced the Green Revolution in Asia have been working on Africa's problems. They have reported progress with such crops as sorghum, maize and millet.

Only a few years ago, India, Bangladesh and China couldn't feed all their people. India is now self-sufficient, Bangladesh is nearly so and China is exporting food.

Glen Vollmar, associate dean for international programs at the University of Nebraska and head of a program to develop new varieties of sorghum and millet, says Africa is a much tougher case. The soil is more fragile, and the cadre of native scientists is smaller.

Even if miracle crops become a reality, parts of Africa have other problems.

Emphasis on products for export — coffee, tea, cocoa, cotton — is excessive in some cases and comes at the expense of producing food for domestic consumption. Civil wars rage and dictatorships sap the energy of some countries. Destruction of the forests, soil erosion and Africa's exploding population compound the continent's problems.

Miracle crops could be part of a solution, but only part. Africans must also solve their numerous political and social problems and reverse the environmental decline of the continent.

Finding a remedy for wrong-doing

WASHINGTON — Consumers won a big one when they forced the Coca-Cola company to restore the brand now rightly renamed Classic. But an even larger triumph lies at hand.

The breakup of the telephone company has inflicted on Americans far greater injuries, insults, and rip-offs than anything ever dreamed of in the poor philosophy of the soft-drink makers. But with a little pressure in the right place, those wrongs can be set right; the Everest of consumer affairs practically begs to be scaled.

Years, nay centuries, from now men will scratch their heads and wonder by what crazy chain of circumstance the normally sensible American people allowed the best communications system in the world to be scrapped. Not by somebody armed with the people's mandate — say, the Congress or the President. Not by a technical expert, or even a designated wise man with special experience in practical affairs and the ways of mankind. But by a lowly federal judge — unelected, unrenowned and unqualified.

Except for having a poor sense of his limitations, Judge Harold Greene of the Federal District Court cannot fairly be blamed. This, in brief, is what happened and why a remedy exists.

The Reagan Justice Department wanted no part in the antitrust action. But it took a casual attitude toward the terms of the settlement. Attorney General William French Smith, a former director of Pacific Bell, excused himself. William Baxter, the attorney general in charge of antitrust, was chiefly interested in pushing the telephone company into the internationally competitive information field.

So the exact terms of settlement, the consent decree as it was called, were left up to Judge Greene. In his ruling, Judge Greene acknowledged the possibility of error. His decision to break up AT&T into one national company (also called AT&T) and seven separate regional companies was made subject to revision. A formal review is scheduled three years after the decree went into effect on Jan. 1, 1984. In the interim the Justice Department can seek adjustments at any time.

By now angry citizens have accumulated complaints numerous as the autumn leaves. Double—and even triple—billing is irksome. The rise in the cost of the service is no joke. Neither is having to hunt around among various entities for equipment and repairs.

But for purposes of convenience two general kinds of trouble can be identified.

First, there are restrictions on the kind of business that can be done by the seven regional phone companies. Under Judge Greene's decree they are limited to local services. In fact many could provide local, and long-distance, and overseas services. That way customers would not have to make regional calls through one company, long distance calls through a second and (in many cases) international calls through a third. They could make all calls through a single company and receive a single bill for all services.

Secondly, there are the limitations on the sale of equipment by the regional phone companies. Though they handle the bulk of the traffic, they can't sell you phones. Equipment has to come from AT&T or its manifold competitors — including many sleazy firms that have just sprung up. Hence customers have to deal with more than a single company, and often with crooked outfits.

In these two areas alone amendment of Judge Greene's decree would end numerous abuses and inconveniences. As to how it might be done, well, the trick is to find Attorney General Edwin Meese when he's not out busting marijuana growers. He can easily petition for a review of the decision at any time.

Wasting millions each year on workers' compensation

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — Federal employees should be entitled to collect compensation for legitimate injuries incurred on the job. But the government is wasting millions of dollars each year on excessive claims, and those with real disabilities have every right to be outraged.

The Department of Labor's Office of Workers Compensation — which doled out $1 billion in claims for all federal employees last year — has apparently been pouring money into a bureaucratic sinkhole for more than 10 years. The reasons are incredible: Officials have refused to update their standards for calculating hearing-loss claims, despite numerous government and independent studies criticizing Labor's antiquated guidelines.

An internal draft report by the Navy, obtained by our reporters Corky Johnson and Kenneth Reid, estimates that $10 million could have been saved last year in the military alone — if officials had followed standard medical guidelines when calculating claims.

Physicians groups, including the American Medical Association, recommend factoring in noise levels associated with normal speech while testing for hearing loss; without that factor, the tests tend to show hearing impairment more often. But the Labor Department has ignored the recommendations.

As early as 1972, a Navy doctor blasted the Labor Department in a memo. "We disagree very strongly with the office's bastardization of the AMA's guide for hearing loss computation," he wrote. In another memo, he identified a "misuse of government funds," after reviewing compensation awards.

In 1978, the General Accounting Office determined that the agency's guidelines "lacked scientific justification." Instead of changing the standards, the Labor Department hired researchers from Ohio State University to study the controversy.

The researchers supported the AMA guidelines and suggested that the Labor Department adjust its formula accordingly. That apparently was not what the agency wanted to hear. According to one of the researchers, "They just accepted (the report), and I haven't heard anything since."

The director of Workers Compensation, Larry Rogers, defended his agency's standards and blamed the medical community and others for failing to agree on what noise level represents speech. Rogers added that on-the-job hearing loss is much harder to determine than other injuries, such as broken bones.

But investigators for several government agencies discovered that claims examiners have given awards to workers who had hearing problems before they went on the public payroll.

The draft Navy report and an Air Force audit listed these examples of wasted payments for hearing loss claims:

- One shipyard worker was awarded $11,000 for job-related injuries to his hearing, despite a previous history of ear infections and related problems.

- Another shipyard worker received $10,920, even though the Navy claimed it was "well documented" that the employee was not exposed to noise levels high enough to cause hearing loss.

- The Air Force audit identified overpayments of more than $100,000 in just 25 of 48 cases reviewed, and criticized the Labor Department for "paying claimants for hearing losses existing prior to their Air Force employment."

Not only have compensation officials ignored these reports, they have shelved similar warnings from their own staffs.

Two years ago, former Workers Compensation medical director Dr. Cheryl Opalack recommended using medical histories in determining awards. And she faulted the agency for not hiring claims examiners with medical training at its regional offices. Her reports are still gathering dust.

Dr. Opalack said that some Labor Department officials "were not keyed in intellectually" with the problem. "It was all gridlock thereafter," she said.

LET ME COUNT THE WAYS: When an American spy turns traitor, more often than not it's for money. But some of the most damaging traitors in Europe have sold out not for Rolls-Royces, but for romance. Here are a few examples from a recent study by the Defense Intelligence Agency:

- Beginning in 1960, a secretary in the West German Foreign Office gave the Soviets more than 3,000 documents and tipped off the KGB when their spies came under suspicion. She had been "wooned and wed" by "an agent of the KGB."

- Another German secretary worked in NATO headquarters from 1966 to 1969, before defecting to East Germany, where she "married her former East German spy master."

- A Belgian employee at NATO headquarters fled to East Germany in 1980. She had provided an East German spy with hundreds of secret and top-secret NATO documents, after falling in love with him.

- A woman who worked for the West Germans until her arrest in 1979 "was recruited by an East German intelligence officer with whom she had fallen in love."

EYE ON THE ECONOMY: Latin American countries — which owe the West $350 billion — probably were bluffing when they spoke of forming a "debtors cartel" to defy strict austerity and repayment measures imposed by Western banks. But it was enough to give banking officials' sweaty palms. And with good reason: The nation's nine largest banks have more than 100 percent of their shareholders' equity loaned out to the four shaky countries of Argentina, Brazil, Mexico and Venezuela. So far, default on these loans has been avoided by a series of patchwork "rescheduling" schemes, but no one thinks this foreign-debt house of cards can bear the strain forever.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Around The Rim

Stepping over ... way over

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Sometimes a writer gathers too much information. Such is the case with Malcolm McConnell's Stepping Over, published in 1984 by Reader's Digest Press.

Paranoia seeps from its pages. The non-fiction work is a series of loosely connected incidents about personal encounters the author had with young extremists.

Chapter Six is titled "Texas, Spring." It's set in El Paso where McConnell lived for two years when he taught at the University of Texas at El Paso.

I met McConnell in the autumn of 1982 when he was teaching at UTEP. I enrolled in one of his writing classes. That spring I heard he was gathering information about Ronnie Love who shot his mother to death, two years before. He also severely injured his sister and brother-in-law in a shooting incident that defied any semblance of sanity.

Before the shooting, Ronnie Love was diagnosed as a chronic paranoid schizophrenic. He was involuntarily committed to Timberlawn Psychiatric Hospital in Dallas by the family who began fearing for their lives in the late 1970s.

I vaguely remembered the family and Ronnie himself, while growing up in El Paso. We belonged to the same church and Ronnie as I remembered was a quiet looking kid who liked to play football.

McConnell was interested in knowing all of this. I volunteered to drive him around El Paso's West Side to show him the church and the neighborhoods we grew up in.

He busily took notes and tape-recorded my dialogue. He should have made note though that I only encountered Ronnie Love a few times and that was when I was 10 years old.

Well my explanation of how such a horrifying murder could have occurred is mentioned in the chapter. And it's quickly refuted by experts in the field of forensic psychiatry.

I never expected my theory to hold much weight, much less be published.

I was interested in joining McConnell on his ride into the unexplainable. What he plunged into was scary — yet intriguing. Sometimes there are no answers.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

'Quality of life' doesn't mean golf

To the editor:

I had my say at the public hearing on the budget Tuesday night. There is one thing that needs clarification: "Quality of Life."

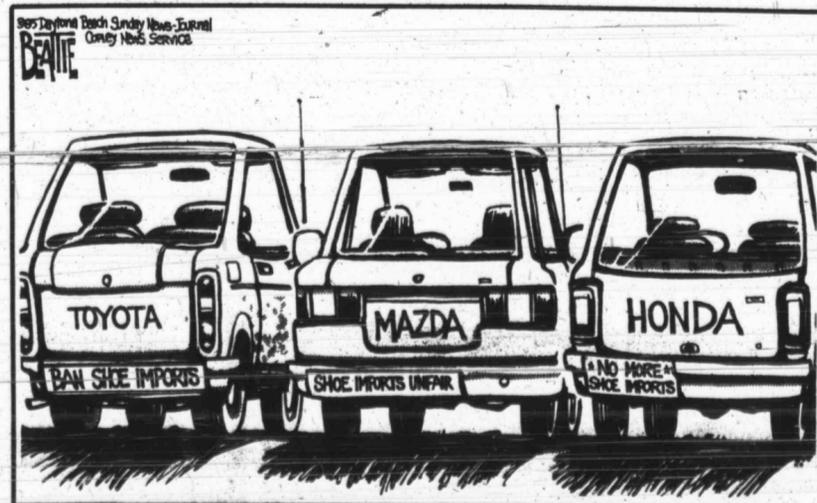

It seems that to some people the means golf, tennis, softball, etc. T others "Quality of Life" mean food on the table, a roof over their head and clothes to wear. I know I take away from the people the barely exist by raising their tax to where some people can play golf tennis etc. is wrong.

I hope that our city council listened to the people's viewpoint at the public hearing and cut the budget — not raise taxes.

I would like to commend the council. I know you are trying to do a good job and are; but it is time for us to get back to the necessities of life. If people want the necessities of life they will have to pay for them out of their pocket. The taxpayer cannot carry them any longer. This isn't only in city government but all the way to the federal government. The people can only get back from the government what some taxpayer paid in.

I don't mind paying for police, fire protection, streets, water, but I resent paying for a few people's recreation. This is wrong and the people that expect this from government agencies and put pressure on our city council for these items should be ashamed. We are a land of opportunity and these items are available to everyone if you want to work for them.

State gets Hughes' money

AUSTIN (AP) — Howard Hughes' estate has made a second $25 million tax payment to the state of Texas in the final chapter of an eight-year legal battle over his fortune.

Attorney General Jim Mattox said Wednesday that Texas has received just over $50 million, the amount agreed on in a settlement reached last year with the Hughes estate and the state of California.

"This wraps up a complicated case that lasted eight years, with the state of Texas definitely getting its money's worth," Mattox said. When the settlement was reached, Mattox called it probably "the most publicized and complicated probate case in this country's history."

The legal battle began on April 5, 1976, when the reclusive Hughes died aboard a private jet flying from Acapulco to Houston, where he was to receive medical treatment.

Texas and California each pursued inheritance tax claims on his massive estate, and the case went to the U.S. Supreme Court three times.

Hughes left no verified will. More than 40 purported wills and hundreds of prospective heirs surfaced over the years. A series of trials in 1981 trimmed the number of heirs to 22.

Hughes, the son of the inventor of the oil drill bit, was born in Texas and lived in the state for 20 years. But he also lived in Los Angeles and San Diego counties in California for about 41 years. Claiming to still be a Texan during that time, he stayed in rented or borrowed homes and said he was visiting California on business.

In 1966, Hughes moved to a Las Vegas hotel from which he began acquiring hotels and land in Nevada. He later moved to the Bahamas, Nicaragua, Canada and London, secluding himself in posh hotel suites.

The state of Texas, arguing Hughes was a Texan, claimed an 18 percent inheritance tax. California, contending Hughes was a resident of that state, wanted to impose its inheritance tax.

Stenholm Funday is Saturday

STAMFORD — Citizens can meet with Congressman Charles Stenholm and several other congressmen when Stenholm hosts his annual Funday Saturday.

Stenholm's picnic will begin at 4:30 p.m. on the grounds of the Bethel Lutheran Church, 12 miles east on Stamford near the Stenholm farm.

A public forum designed to let area residents meet with the congressmen will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. in the Stamford High School auditorium.

Present will be Congressman Doug Barnard of the 10th District of Georgia, who serves on House committees dealing with banking and government operations; Congressman Bill Gray of the 2nd District of Pennsylvania, who has appeared frequently on national television as chairman of the budget committee; Congressman Earl Hutto of Florida's 1st District, who serves on the armed services committee; and Congressman

Kika de la Garza of the 15th District of Texas, who is chairman of the agricultural committee.

Tickets to the Funday are $10 each. The menu will include fried chicken, barbecue beef and all the trimmings, and cold watermelon. Attendees may want to bring lawnchairs.

For tickets or information, call or write the Stenholm for Congress Committee, P.O. Box 1032, Stamford, Texas 79553, for call (915) 773-5521.

Some things don't change at the state's oldest bank

BRENSHAM (AP) — Washington County State Bank celebrated its 80th birthday, but patrons say some things have not changed at Texas' oldest existing state bank.

The bank hardly resembles its original two-story office, where employees neatly hand-printed each transaction in a ledger.

It has grown from a few employees to 60 and from $100,000 in deposits to $110 million.

But senior vice president Billy Sohns, 70, still finds time to chat with a longtime customer and is often spotted shaking hands in the lobby with regular patrons.

Sohns started as the bank's bookkeeper in 1939, back when most of its customers were farmers.

"When I first started, we did notary work, wrote wills and did affidavits," Sohns said. "We were just like lawyers. We were the main institution in the community."

In addition to bookkeeping, Sohns also spent mornings peddling cotton for bank patrons.

"These cotton buyers out in the fields did business with us," he said. "They'd buy some cotton and would come into town at night and dump some samples of the cotton on the front door."

"My job was to take the samples to the mills in town and sell 'em," he recalled. "We'd then credit the money to the buyers' accounts. That way, they could afford to buy more cotton."

Sohns said he tried to retire last year, but he was talked into coming back to work two days a week.

Washington County State Bank was chartered Aug. 15, 1905. Four other state banks — in Houston, Somerville and San Antonio — were chartered sooner, but have merged with other banks or have gone out of business.

Last week, an official state historical marker was dedicated at Washington State Bank, proclaiming its historical significance.

Sohns recalled when he would record every transaction in a ledger at the end of each day. The bank had no account numbers or personalized checks then, he said. Only names were necessary.

Now the bank is housed in a large modern building, instead of the old one on the town square. Computers and electric typewriters have since replaced the old ledgers.

"Things were simple in those days," Sohns said. "When a man came up and cashed a check, you didn't worry if it was hot. You knew it was good."

Dear Abby

Tomcat dogs feral female in affair

DEAR ABBY: My son moved to another state and left his young tomcat with me for approximately one year. He forbade me to have his cat neutered for fear it would alter its personality. A cat-loving neighbor, who doesn't own a cat, feeds all the strays in the neighborhood, including one wild female who keeps having one batch of kittens after another. The Humane Society has tried unsuccessfully to trap this wild female. Meanwhile male cats come from near and far to breed with this wild female.

This neighbor has volunteered to pay to have my son's cat neutered, but I resent having my cat singled out for neutering. I say as long as this cat lover feeds that wild stray, she'll stay, right? What should I do?

CAT CRAZY
IN MURRAY, KY.

DEAR CAT CRAZY: As long as your son's cat stays with you, it's your responsibility to keep him locked up. And if you can't do that, he should be neutered. Contrary to your son's fears, neutering will not alter the cat's personality.

Because stray (wild) animals that forage for food frequently fall victim to diseases (rabies, for example), putting children and pets at risk, your Humane Society should try harder to catch the wild female and put an end to her reproducing all over the neighborhood. And unless you keep your Romeo from the neighborhood Juliet, you are compounding a "feliny." (Sorry.)

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating "Doug" off and on for four years. During a time when we were "off," he had a little vacation romance with a California girl he met in Aspen. I'll call her Sheila. Then he started dating me again.

Sheila kept writing and calling him, assuming there was a future for them, but he assured me that he loved me, so we continued seeing each other.

Five months ago Sheila came to visit him. He felt that since she made the trip, he owed her a few evenings alone. He hoped I'd understand his situation. Well, I didn't understand. He refused to introduce us, which upset me terribly. We broke up for about a month, then resumed our relationship more in love than ever. He even started talking marriage.

Now I learn that Sheila is pregnant, and she told Doug that the baby is his. There's a question in his mind because she had been dating another guy at the same time. She is now five months along, but nothing can be certain until after the baby is born and blood tests are taken.

Doug says he loves me and doesn't want this mess to come between us. He says that even if the baby is his, he won't marry her, and wants nothing to do with the child. All he wants is me. What should I do? I really love him.

IN DEEP IN DENVER

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I think he's shown his colors; and there's more yellow than true blue. A man who has sex with a woman, whether he "loves" her or not, should take responsibility for his actions. If he's man enough to make a baby, he should be man enough to shoulder the financial (if not the emotional) responsibilities of fatherhood. I'd lose this loser.

Dr. Donohue

Prostrate: surgery vs. wait and see

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 68 and have had an enlarged prostate for seven years. I have frequent urination and get up three times at night. Sometimes I can't get started and sometimes it's painful. My urologist checks me once a year and tells me I'm OK. He doesn't believe in surgery unless it's absolutely necessary. He feels the prostate and says there is no indication of cancer. I'm sure that if he felt urine was about to be shut off he would operate.

My question: Why wait until it turns cancerous? Why not operate now before it turns cancerous? Your answer will help many men in my situation decide on which side of the fence to jump, surgery now or wait? — D.N.

All men who live long enough will have prostate enlargement. That and the fact that we have an increasing population of older people makes your question an important one. Let's take your situation.

What you have is benign prostatic enlargement. Your doctor, a specialist, assures you it is not cancerous. The enlargement itself doesn't mean it will turn cancerous. But cancer can coexist with enlargement, and that's why your doctor feels the gland for telltale hard nodules. He doesn't feel that, only a uniformly soft enlargement.

From what you tell him at examination, that, too, would bring him down on the non-surgery side of the fence. In fact, only one of 10 men with your problem ever needs surgery.

So what about the future? Well, if your symptoms have gotten worse since your last examination you have to report that and not wait for the next scheduled check. If the situation has become intolerable to you, then I am sure your urologist will be happy to discuss removal of the gland. Have I helped you off the fence?

A word of explanation for other readers: The prostate gland lies adjacent to the urethra, the urine outlet from the bladder. Enlargement often causes urination difficulty by pressing against this outlet, obstructing flow.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 20 years old. I had gonorrhea about for years ago. I had severe abdominal pains with it. Now I am trying to become pregnant and I cannot. My menstruation is normal. I'm afraid my gonorrhea has made me sterile or damaged my tubes. I really want to have a baby. What should I do? — C.C.

Gonorrhea isn't the only infection that leads to blocked fallopian tubes. And, of course, you cannot know that your tubes are blocked unless you let a doctor examine them. A special test, where a dye is introduced into them, will tell if there is blockage. The doctor can also view the ovaries and tubes with a small scope and tell much from that.

Having blocked tubes doesn't have to mean the end of your dream of having a baby. If your physician finds blockage, he might suggest surgery. Sometimes the blocked part of a tube can be removed and the two ends rejoined. So stop asking questions and get some firsthand observation.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Ex-resident to attend training school

Annabeth Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Deats of Big Spring, will attend campaign management school in Washington, D.C., beginning Sept. 15.

ANNABETH MILLER

Miller, an Omaha, Neb., resident, said the purpose of the school is to train people to work as campaign managers. Miller has worked for a senate campaign and for two congressional campaigns in Nebraska. Miller's husband, Drew, is in the United States Air Force.

Miller has also been a representative from her home county to the State Central Committee in Nebraska.

Miller was chosen to attend the school out of applicants from around the nation. The National Republican Committee selects 20 participants for the school, which is held in September and again in October.

"I really didn't think I'd be chosen," Miller said. "I was very shocked."

Miller recently completed her master's degree in business administration from the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. She is a Big Spring High School graduate and has a degree in pharmacy from the University of Texas at Austin.

Her husband recently completed his Ph.D. at Harvard in June. Mr. Miller is originally from Lincoln, Neb., and received his master's degree from Harvard in public policy and his undergraduate degree from the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs.

The couple will be transferring to McDill Air Force Base in Tampa, Fla., next week.

Stress may be turned into an asset

Stress traditionally has been considered a liability, but some of the most high-powered women have learned to make it an asset that helps them deliver a great performance every time.

Researchers are learning to separate two kinds of stress, according to an article in the September issue of Harper's Bazaar. One is eustress, a healthy, life-enhancing pressure; the other is debilitating distress.

Physical upsets such as shortness of breath, indigestion, diarrhea, muscle spasms, headaches and fatigue are destructive stress responses. There also are symptoms of constructive stress.

"You know you are at your optimum when you feel more energized than overwhelmed by external demands and use stress to motivate both yourself and others," said Dr. Michael Feuerstein, director of behavioral medical programs at the University of Rochester School of Medicine.

Positive stress doesn't tire or bore you, said Dr. Kenneth Greenspan, director for Stress and Pain-Related Disorders at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York City.

"Instead of fuming about a delay or obstacle you cannot control," he said, "you concentrate on the amount of progress you are making and use the waiting time positively. You find goals easy to accomplish, you don't become frustrated or discouraged by others and avoid taking setbacks personally. And you spend little time brooding over what goes wrong."

Some people are those who psychologists call "stress-resistant." They are people who seek out and welcome change, identify with stressful situations and adapt to them quickly instead of fighting them, and they keep a sense of control by participating in the planning, goal-setting and problem-solving.

The sense of control is why top executives who appear to hold the most pressured jobs suffer less stress than middle-managers who have less influence over company policy.

Stress management can be learned, Greenspan said, and told Mary Alice Kellogg how to build stress resistance in a special magazine section devoted to "Women and Success — Are You a Power Failure?" He suggested:

- Modify your expectations and be flexible. Preconceived notions can be self-defeating.
- Ask for feedback. Don't dwell on past failures — ask others how they see you and realistically evaluate your performance.
- Seek a smooth-running work situation. An organization geared toward a well-defined objective is less stressful than one whose aims are unclear.
- Do relaxation exercises, including breathing techniques, stretching exercises such as yoga and progressive relaxation.
- Make time to do something pleasurable and try to enjoy some activity unrelated to work every week. As for meals — if you eat under pressure, you'll have a 50 percent higher cholesterol count after the meal.

• Do only physical exercises you like.

By turning stress to your advantage, you are helping create a "new" personality profile — Type C that is neither too aggressive like Type A nor too laid back like Type B.

This kind of person learns to cope by using the five Cs — control, confidence, commitment, challenge and courage — said authors Robert and Marilyn Harris Kriegel.

Burned or melted wire caused emergency landing in Abilene

ABILENE (AP) — A burned or melted wire forced American Airlines Flight 436 to make its emergency landing at Dyess Air Force Base Tuesday, a federal investigator says.

Armond Edwards, a National Transportation Safety Board investigator, said Wednesday that the wire, part of the engine fire-warning system, burned or melted when hot air from the engine compartment blew across it.

The air normally is recycled for de-icing, air conditioning and pressurization of the cabin, he said. "For some reason the air duct separated, and hot air passed over the wire," Edwards said. "If the line (wire) is broken, the emergency engine fire light comes on."

Although investigators later found no evidence of any fire, the fire light came on, indicating problems in the engine on the right wing.

Edwards said procedures call for the engine to shut down immediately. If the light is still on after 20 seconds, the first "fire bomb" — a fire extinguisher in the engine compartment — is discharged.

If the light is still on after another 30 seconds, the pilot should kick on the second fire bomb. If that doesn't put out the fire or at least turn off the light, the pilot should find the nearest available airport and land, he said.

"That's just what they did," Edwards said.

Thirty-two people were injured — most only slightly — when the jumbo made its emergency landing at 11:58 a.m. Tuesday. The jet was about 60 miles west of Abilene, flying at 37,000 feet, when the fire light first came on.

Edwards also commended the cockpit crew and flight attendants for following textbook emergency procedures precisely.

The DC-10 left Dyess at 9:35 a.m. Wednesday, dropped off passenger luggage at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and ferried on to an American Airlines maintenance base in Los Angeles for repair.

Friday Football Forecast

The Steers are looking to get the 1985 season off to a winning start against the 2-4A Tigers (2-8 in '84).

Big Spring's offense looked sharp at times against Sweetwater in their only live scrimmage, but must improve on defense. Snyder pins its offensive hopes on running back Justin Webb, who is touted as one of the best backs in West Texas 4-A.

Expect lots of hard hitting and emotional play from these two down-the-road rivals.

Big Spring 28, Snyder 21

Tony Stricklin's Bearcats will open on the road against 8-A foe Miles (5-4-1 in '84) in hopes of turning their gridiron luck around after a 2-6-1 season last year.

Garden City returns 13 letterman including running back Abbey Madrid, who expected to be one of the better backs in 7-A this year. Miles returns four two-way starters off last year's squad.

Coach Tom Ramsey's Wolves start a tough non-district schedule against 8-3A foe Slaton (2-8 in '84). The Wolves, who made it to the regional finals in '84, will have their work cut out for them to make the playoffs again in 1985.

The Wolves will count on All-Crossroads running back Sammy Rivera for plenty of yardage from his single back slot.

Slaton returns 5 two-way starters and will look for tailback Rodney Taylor for its offensive firepower.

Colorado City 24, Slaton 14

The Coyotes open with traditional rival Dawson (8-3 in '84) in clash of West Texas Six-Man powers. The game is shaping up to be an offensive battle featuring Borden County's all-state running back Chris Cooley returning for his senior campaign.

The Dragons return backs Kevin Coor and Rudy Rodriguez going both ways.

Borden County 45, Dawson 40

Coahoma is itching for revenge for the whitewashing the Indians gave them last season.

This time the shoes are on the other foot, last year Seminole had all the returning starters and Coahoma had a untested squad. This time the Bulldogs are packing loads of experience.

Seminole will have a hard time scoring on the Bulldogs defense. Brian Calaway is good for at least one big play and the Bulldogs will grind out a couple of TD's.

Coahoma 21, Seminole 7

Last year the Buffaloes shutout Bronte, but they did that to a lot of people last year. Forsan's 12-0 victory last season was a hard fought one, the game was every bit as close as the score indicates.

This year Bronte returns the majority of their lineup while Forsan, though strong on tradition, will be trying to feel things out early in the season.

The game will be even closer this year, a defensive struggle to the end. But Bruce Strickland and Wayne Wright will bail the Buffaloes out.

Forsan 8, Bronte 6

This will be a tough one for coach Danny Wilhelm and his Sands Mustangs.

It will take Sands a while to get used to their new Wishbone offense. Meanwhile Meadow returns 15 lettermen from a 3-6-1 team. Meadow also returns a fairly good offense which can put some points on the board.

The Sands defense will hang tough, but its offense still needs more time.

Meadow 25, Sands 6

Stanton (0-0) at Tahoka (0-0)

This game will be a dog fight. Both teams are similar in many ways. They are both coming of dismal seasons, both had problems scoring and both return a adequate amount of lettermen.

Stanton returns three good skill people in Kevin Glaspie, Derek Sorley and Mark Gonzales. They should give the Buffaloes enough firepower to overcome their Friday night opponent.

Stanton 20, Tahoka 12

Grady (0-0) at Loop (0-0)

This will be another good contest. Loop has "All-Everything" quarterback Ricky Garza while Grady has a group of top performers.

Coach Currie McWilliams has his Grady Wildcats thinking playoffs and they need an impressive showing to get on the right track. Garza is not enough to overcome Luis Gonzales, Michael Mitchell and Terry Deatherage.

Grady 55, Loop 37

Klondike (0-0) vs. Presidio (0-0)

The Klondike Cougars will face a tough test against 2A Presidio (4-6 in '84) in their home opener Friday night in Patricia. The Cougars return only 3 offensive and 4 defensive starters from a 5-4-1 squad in '84.

Klondike will play tough, but it won't be enough against deeper Presidio.

Presidio 23, Klondike 12

Lendl, Connors in Open semis

NEW YORK (AP) — Ivan Lendl, still on the trail of a first U.S. Open tennis championship and trying to avoid a dubious record along the way, is headed for an old, familiar roadblock — Jimmy Connors.

Lendl reached the semifinals Thursday with a 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Yannick Noah of France in 1 hour, 59 minutes. Then, at night, so did Connors, dispatching Heinz Gunthardt of Switzerland by the same scores in four fewer minutes.

Today, in the women's semifinals, No. 2 seed Martina Navratilova, the two-time defending champion, plays Steffi Graf, the 16-year-old West German seeded 11th, and top seed Chris Evert Lloyd plays No. 3 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia.

Three years ago, when Lendl made it to the final, Connors put him away in four sets. Two years ago, when Lendl made it to the final, Connors put him away in four sets. Last year, when Lendl made the final, Connors was nowhere to be found — so John McEnroe put him away in three sets.

McEnroe, the top seed, plays Saturday's other semifinal against No. 3 Mats Wilander, the lone survivor of five seeded Swedes. On Thursday, McEnroe was fined $1,500 for "verbal abuse" of two officials during his Wednesday night quarterfinal.

Lendl is a gaunt Czech with a dry wit. When someone mentioned that most of the players have said they have nothing to lose in forthcoming matches with favored opponents, Lendl obliged. "I have nothing to lose," he said.

"What about the record?" someone asked. "Four finals in a row; four runners-up in a row?" William M. Johnston did it during 1922-25, losing each time to Big Bill Tilden.

"Oh, I'm going to go for that one," Lendl said to laughter. "That's what I have to gain, too."

They have played 25 times in seven years, Connors winning 13 to Lendl's 11 (a 1984 final between them in Rotterdam was abandoned because of a bomb scare), but Lendl has won the past six, four of them this year.

"Every time's a new time," Connors said. "I'm playing better. Just go out and serve 'em up. See what happens."

Connors is "always very difficult to play here," Lendl said. "He gets the people to pump him up and they stand very firmly behind him. They seem to enjoy giving me a hard time."

Whether it was the night-time

JIMMY CONNORS fires a two-handed backhand shot to Switzerland's HEINTZ GUNTHARDT during Thursday's semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships in Flushing Meadow, New York. CONNORS defeated GUNTHARDT 6-2, 6-2, 6-4, and is set to meet IVAN LENDL in the semifinals.

weather, sticky and in the high 80s, or the lack of competition for the fourth-seeded Connors, the crowd at the National Tennis Center was lethargic. No frantic rooting for the underdog this time — and no real rooting for the overdog, either.

Connors checked in, punched the time clock, punched out the unseeded Gunthardt and checked out.

"I played pretty well and I've seen Heinz play better and he really wasn't into it," Connors said. "I went out and played good tennis and jumped right on top of him right away. ... I like to do everything I can to entertain the crowd but business is business."

"I like the crowd to get into it. I think they'll be into it when I play Lendl."

Gunthardt couldn't have attacked if he'd wanted to. He had no weapons. For one thing, he had no partner. That's where his strength lies — in doubles.

On those occasions when Gunthardt rushed the net, he generally found the ball whizzing past him. But for the most part, Connors buried him at the baseline, running him from corner to corner. If he even got to the ball with a lunge, he netted it.

"I'm happy with the workout," Connors said.

The daytime crowd, sitting in a 112-degree steam bath, saw the seventh-seeded Noah begin to lose immediately, if Lendl's assessment was to be believed.

"He seemed to pace himself from the very first point of the match," said Lendl, the No. 2 seed. "Obviously I was worried about the heat, too, but after about three or four games I felt I was in such good shape that I could go all the way, that he was not going to get to me today the way the match was going."

Noah said his big weapon, his first serve, deserted him. "Most of the time I count a lot on my first serve to be able to come in, and I have an aggressive game, an attacking game. I didn't serve too well today so I didn't have the chance to really feel confident at the net."

McEnroe was fined for referring to chair umpire Steve Winyard as a "bonehead" and calling Bob Howe, the tournament referee, "an incompetent idiot" during his three-set sweep of Joakim Nystrom, a spokeswoman for the Men's International Professional Tennis Council said.

Kansas City Royals shortstop LONNIE SMITH (in double breasted suit), leaves Federal Court in Pittsburg after testifying in the cocaine distribution trial of former Philadelphia Phillies catcher CURTIS STRONG.

Hernandez testifies in drug trial

PITTSBURGH (AP) — New York Mets first baseman Keith Hernandez testified today that he began using cocaine in the middle of the 1980 season, a time he said was one of "romance" between baseball players and the drug.

"I think it was the love-affair years. ... It was pretty prevalent," Hernandez said of cocaine use by ballplayers. He said he used the drug heavily for the rest of the 1980 season, but worried about its effect on him after he lost 10 pounds and awoken once with a bloody nose and the shakes.

Hernandez was the leadoff witness in the second day of testimony at the federal trial of Curtis Strong, a former clubhouse cook for the Philadelphia Phillies who is accused of distributing cocaine.

Under questioning from U.S. Attorney J. Alan Johnson, Hernandez said he got his drugs in 1980, 1981 and 1982 from other, unidentified players. At the time, Hernandez was a member of the St. Louis Cardinals.

On Thursday, a former teammate, outfielder Lonnie Smith, testified that he bought cocaine from Strong and had used the drug with Hernandez and pitcher Joaquin Andujar in 1982 while all were with the Cardinals. Smith now plays for Kansas City.

Asked if he bought cocaine from fellow players, Hernandez said: "Players never sell. It was there to use. It was shared. ... Some would pick up some, a gram, if they had a connection. You'd give him $100."

The early '80s, Hernandez said, were "the romance years of ballplayers and cocaine."

Hernandez said he met Strong through Smith, in a hotel room.

"They were doing cocaine. I saw a transaction made. I was involved," Hernandez said.

He testified that Strong had sold him cocaine, always at the price of $300 for an eighth of an ounce.

Hernandez said that, at the end of the 1980 season, he felt he "had to get away from" cocaine.

Hurricane, Gator tilt heads college lineup

By the Associated Press
The end of the season usually is the time for in-state rivalries. Florida and Miami, however, get together at the start.

The Orange Bowl will have a rare sellout when fifth-ranked Florida visits Miami Saturday night. The game matches two coaches who are former colleagues.

Florida's Galen Hall and Miami's Jimmy Johnson were on the Oklahoma staff together from 1970-72. They arrived in the State of Florida last year by different routes. While Johnson's travels took him from Oklahoma to Arkansas to Pitt to Oklahoma State (as head coach from 1979-83), Hall remained at Oklahoma until last season, when he became Florida's offensive coordinator.

Hall has yet to lose as a head coach. He replaced Charley Pell three games into the 1984 season and posted an 8-0 record the rest of the way as the probation-bound Gators won the Southeastern Conference championship — at least the SEC Executive Committee's version. The presidents took it away from them in May.

The major newcomer, however, is neither Hall nor Johnson. It's Vinny Testaverde, who inherited Miami's quarterback job when Bernie Kosar opted for the NFL. At 6-foot-5, Testaverde is about the same size as Kosar. What may surprise some people is that he has a better arm.

But Testaverde has only thrown 46 passes in two seasons (1982 and 1984), completing 22 for 263 yards and a touchdown.

"Vinny has the capabilities to be a great quarterback," says Johnson. "He has a great arm and has studied the system for three years."

The Gators are 3½-point favorites but the pick is ... Miami 24-21.

The first week of the season produced an overall 9-3 record — which might be good enough for a major bowl these days — and 5-4 against the line.

The highlight of the opening week's predictions was nailing the exact score of Brigham Young's 28-14 victory over Boston College in the Kickoff Classic. Nowhere to go but down.

The first major weekend of 1985 features five games between members of the Associated Press Top Twenty — and Florida-Miami isn't one of them.

No. 6 Southern California at No. 11 Illinois (favored by 3): You won't find either of these teams on TV during the regular season as they finish NCAA penalties, but you could see them in the Rose Bowl ... Illinois 28-21.

No. 19 Penn State at No. 7 Maryland (by 7): Despite being an underdog, Penn State leads the series 27-1 and has won 20 straight since a 21-17 loss in 1961. Maryland 28-14.

No. 20 UCLA at No. 8 Brigham Young (by 6½): What's this? BYU, a Western Athletic Conference "nobody" favored over a Pac-10 somebody? Next thing you know someone will have the Cougars winning a national championship some day ... BYU 30-17.

No. 17 Florida State at No. 10 Nebraska (by 6): The Seminoles have a game under their belts, a 38-12 trouncing of Tulane. Nebraska will never be too far down but the Cornhuskers lost most of last year's starters. Upset Special of the Week ... Florida State 21-14.

No. 16 Oklahoma State at No. 12 Washington (by 42): Having knocked off Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl for a No. 2 national finish in 1984, the Huskies begin 1985 by taking on ... Oklahoma State 17-14.

Texas-El Paso at No. 3 Southern Methodist (by 42): That's right — 42 points. In fact, that's the exact number by which UTEP dropped its opener to Air Force ... SMU 56-0.

Appalachian State at No. 16 South Carolina (no line): Another tuneup before the Gamecocks face Michigan ... South Carolina 42-7.

Steers JV drops Snyder

SNYDER — The Big Spring Steer Junior Varsity football team got their season off to a winning start Thursday afternoon with a hard fought 7-6 victory over the Snyder JV. Steer quarterback Andy Dominguez connected with wideout Cedric Banks for Big Spring's lone touchdown on a 60 yard pass play. John Olson provided the game winning extra point. The Steers defense stuffed two threatening drives in the fourth quarter with a pair of interceptions by Banks and Ruben Yzaguirre. Leading tacklers for the Steers were linebackers Chad Wash and Ronnie Miller. Defensive front men John Meyer, John Moore and Marc Gomez were also lauded for their efforts on the day. The Big Spring JV will host Pecos next Thursday. SOPHS FALL TO LEE The Steers sophomores jumped out to a 21-7 halftime lead over Midland Lee, only to come up short 26-21. The first Steers score came on a 35-yard run by quarterback Robert Rodriguez to Teddy Molina. The next score was a 45-yard run from Rodriguez to Teddy Molina. The final Steers score came on a 45-yard pass from Steve Gill to Dwayne Woodal. COAHOMA SPLITS WITH SEMINOLE COAHOMA — The Seminole freshmen got the best of Coahoma by a 20-6 margin. Group grows from family home to funeral home

By KIM KIRKHAM
Religion Editor

What started out as a prayer group of five families meeting in the Lanny Hamby home has grown into a church congregation meeting in a former funeral home.

Approximately 60 people attend Big Spring Christian Fellowship, a non-denominational, full gospel fellowship that in March moved to the Colonial Oaks Office Center on FM 700, the former Trinity Memorial Funeral Home.

After meeting for four years at the Hamby home, the group became too large and moved to Jack & Jill School and Day Care Center in 1982. They met there until moving to Colonial Oaks.

The group became incorporated in 1984, and there are no memberships at the church.

"It was a little awkward at first" meeting in the former funeral home, said Hamby. "It's taken some getting used to."

The congregation uses the chapel and a few offices for Sunday School classes.

Sunday School begins at 9:30 a.m. and worship service at 10:30 a.m. A men's prayer meeting is held at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesdays.

"We put great emphasis on home prayer meetings," he said.

"We fortunately got people very able to preach and teach," said Hamby, an ordained minister and local attorney who usually leads the services. There are three other ordained ministers in the congregation of the church.

"We didn't intend to become a church," Hamby said. "Last year we decided whether we wanted it or not, that's what we were. That's what people regarded us as."

Public worship, history classes begin Monday

Studies in public worship and history of Christianity will be offered in 10 weekly classes beginning Monday at the First Baptist Church, the Big Spring Baptist Association center.

The church is one of 400 extension centers in operation across the country under the Southern Baptist Seminary Extension Department, a ministry of the six Southern Baptist theological seminaries.

Locally, the center is sponsored by the Big Spring Baptist Association with Kenneth G. Patrick as director.

Dr. Lee Butler and Ernie Boyd

will teach the college-level courses. Classes will be at 7 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. on Mondays.

Interested persons may pre-enroll at First Baptist Church or by calling 263-3661.

The courses are designed primarily for pastors, staff and others actively working in the ministry. They are also open to individuals desiring academically oriented study in the Bible and other subjects normally included in a theological curriculum.

Similar courses have been offered regularly by the Big Spring Baptist Association center since 1970.

Three visions of peace were given: Virginia Chappell, "A Biblical Vision of Peace;" Elsie Smallwood using the "Prince of Peace;" and Georgia Cauble shared thoughts on "Peace Maker."

The program was concluded by a solo, "This is My Song, O God of all Nations," by Reagan, and a prayer by Renae Loy for a strong and personal vision of peace for each member.

The women will participate with the Church Women United in a "Tasting Tea" at the First United Methodist Church, Garrett Hall, Sept. 15 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. The public is invited.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or from members of Church Women United.

The next meeting will be Oct. 7 in the church sanctuary.

Vincent church to show film Sept. 29

VINCENT — A film, "Heavenly Deception," will be shown at 2 p.m. Sept. 29 at Vincent Baptist Church. Recommended audience for the film is 13 years and above.

Evangelical Films' newest release, "Heavenly Deception," is the true story of Chris Elkins' journey from the college campus to the inner workings of the Unification Church.

Although raised in a Christian family and attending church regularly, Chris never grew in his faith. He still had questions.

Then one day in college, Chris met a man, someone who seemed to have the answers; a man who directed him to a church of unification.

But it wasn't long before he sensed something wrong, a sort of deception, where the end justified the means.

Baptist Association hosting picnic

The Big Spring Baptist Association Brotherhood is hosting a picnic Saturday at the Old Settlers Pavilion of Comanche Trail Park.

Recreation begins at 4 p.m. with the meal being served at 6 p.m. A talent show will begin at 6:45 p.m. The public is invited.

Smith returns from mission in Brazil

Deena Smith of 1902 N. Monticello returned Sunday from a two week Baptist partnership mission in Fortaleza, Brazil.

The group of 42 people was led by Dr. Jerald McBride of San Angelo. There was a total of 34 churches and missions.

A surgeon and his wife from San Angelo served at the Baptist hospital.

Religion roundup

GENEVA, Switz. (AP) — The Dalai Lama, leader of Tibetan Buddhism, says most people can be classified into three groups — the genuinely religious, the material-minded majority and the disbelievers.

In comments recently to the staff of the World Council of Churches at its headquarters, he said:

"One group is sincerely devout, in faith and practice. It believes in religion to achieve it." Another majority group, "no matter what appears superficially, is deep down only concerned with money and direct surroundings such as family."

This group "believes in happiness achieved through money, and so money becomes the religion, god, and everything. Then there is the third group, the minority, that deliberately denies any value of religion, that believes religion deceives the human mind, so that there is no value to religion."

BREMEN, West Germany (AP) — A study by two Bremen University professors says medieval witch-hunters were primarily trying to eliminate birth control.

Professors Gunnar Heisohn and Otto Steiger say witch-hunting was practiced more to counter population shrinkage, brought on by food shortages and plague, than for religious reasons.

Noting that midwives in the Middle Ages were labeled "wise women" familiar with ways of birth control handed down through the centuries, the professors say a main goal of "destruction of the wise women" as witches was to stop their fostering birth control.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Roman Catholics and Episcopalians of Arkansas have joined in a three-year covenant of prayer and cooperation.

The nine-point agreement between Catholic Bishop Andrew McDonald and Episcopal Bishop Herbert Donovan of Little Rock pledges them to encourage joint planning and use of facilities, dialogue, common prayer and other activities advancing unity.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A joint Congressional resolution passed by both the House and Senate has condemned a 1975 United Nations resolution equating Zionism with racism as false and "itself a form of bigotry."

Calling the action "a permanent smear" on the UN's reputation, "totally inconsistent" with its purposes and principles, Congress said it "encourages anti-Semitism" and urged its repudiation by "parliaments of all countries which value human freedom and democracy."

American delegates to the UN were asked "to take all appropriate action necessary to erase the shameful resolution from the record."

Zionism is a Jewish-homeland philosophy that led to formation of the state of Israel in 1948.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conflicting reports are circulating about whether the Vatican plans to lift its silencing of a noted Brazilian theologian, the Rev. Leonardo Boff, sometime this fall.

The National Catholic News Service reported Franciscan sources said the Vatican had decided on that step after a meeting with Brazilian bishops with the pope, but that a Vatican source later denied it.

Boff, a Franciscan himself, criticized by the Vatican for his "liberation theology," was ordered last May to refrain from writing, teaching or public speaking, restrictions that were said then to apply for a year.

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal lawsuit has been filed, challenging the constitutionality of a recent congressional ban on use of federal funds to teach "secular humanism" in the public schools.

FORECAST FOR SAT., SEPT. 7, 1985

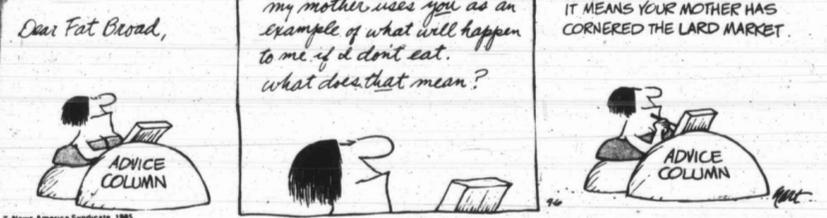

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning can bring you not only a feeling of tiredness and some surprising upsets, but it can also lead to a period in which you will be able to think out a clever course of action. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't try to force anything just to gain your desires or you get into trouble, but later all is fine if you are diplomatic. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The morning starts slowly in the business world, so be patient and then all works like a charm for you. Be happy at home tonight. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You find it difficult to gain your objectives in the morning, but later it is relatively easy to do so. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You can be discouraged in the morning because of delays, but later can formulate a fine plan that speeds everything up. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't jump impulsively into anything just to gain your aims in the morning. By using wisdom and poise, you can easily gain them. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is not good for committing yourself to anything important. Later, the planets are more favorable. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't run off on some tangent in the morning. Tonight you can plan how to gain more benefits in the future. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have a feeling that some bill is not correct, but wait awhile and it will soon be rectified to your benefit. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to light into a rambunctious associate in the morning, but control your temper and all changes for the better. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Even if work starts slowly in the morning, by mere perseverance, this becomes a profitable day anyway. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your plans for recreation do not turn out right in the morning. By tonight, friends help you complete them correctly. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Conditions at home may not be to your liking in the morning, so off to business and by evening all is righted. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be late in getting started and will need much love and encouragement from the parents in order to develop nicely otherwise there could be stunted growth. Send to elocution school to help express self better.

IF SOMETHING GOES WRONG AFTER YOU BUY, ERA REAL ESTATE PAYS FOR REPAIRS.*

ERA pays for all the surprises homeowners insurance doesn't always cover... like the interior plumbing and fixtures, built-in appliances, the hot water heater, furnace, electrical wiring, exposed duct work, the central air conditioning, water softener... even swimming pool components.

We've got what it takes to protect home buyers... even after the sale. There really is a difference in real estate companies.

The ERA Buyer Protection Plan covers more homes and more working components than any other home protection plan. And it's available from ERA in all 50 states.

So if you're in the market to buy, call the qualified professionals at your neighborhood ERA office.
