Spring 'Ginnetti' on most-wanted list

A picture of Anthony "Tony" Ginnetti, the man accused of defrauding the Coahoma State Bank out of $260,000, is being distributed by the governor's office in connection with the state's "most wanted" fugitive list.

However, Ginnetti, who has been a fugitive for 11/2 years, isn't the name used to identify the man being sought.

Ginnetti's picture is being distributed in the article that details the same crimes for which Ginnetti has been charged, but the identification is "Terry Lee Prero.

According to the press material, Prero is wanted for theft, making

Texas Ranger Charles Brune, who is handling the Ginnetti in-vestigation, said he could not confirm or deny whether Prero is Ginnetti's real name or whether Prero is an alias for Ginnetti.

Ginnetti, who formerly owned and operated Car City Auto Sales and Services at 1506 Marcy, is wanted on two Howard County felony warrants and a Swisher County felony warrant for theft of more than $20,000 each.

Ginnetti left Big Spring in April 1984, about two weeks before the

According to the information from the governor's office, Prero has a number of aliases, including Terry Argus and Tony Culpert. He is a habitual gambler and frequents gambling resorts in levada, the release stated.

At one time last year, Brune received information that Ginnetti was found dead in Nevada, but he could not confirm the information at the time, he said.

Ginnetti is being sought by the FBI as well as the Texas Rangers and the Howard and Swisher County sheriff's office. The FBI can

According to the Howard County warrant complaints, Ginnetti swindled the bank and individuals of more than $410,000 with a car title fraud scheme. The complaint by former bank officer John Ezell states that Ginnetti used "bad titles" to automobiles as collateral for loans

The Swisher County warrant was issued in connection with a "bad check" Ginnetti wrote to a Tulia car dealer for a Corvette, according to District Attorney Ron

Council set to approve budget, tax rate

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

City councilmen will consider approving a $12.8 million budget Tuesday in a 6:30 p.m. meeting in council chambers, second floor of city hall.

First reading is expected on the budget, which includes $400,000 more in expenditures than the current one. The budget year begins

In a separate ordinance, the council will set the property tax rate for next year. Councilmen scuttled their earlier suggestion of raising the tax rate to 72 cents per $100 valuation, a 15.74 percent increase from the effective tax rate.

According to a statement by Councilman Russ McEwen, the council will leave the tax rate at the current 68 cents per $100 valuation. However, because of a larger tax base, the 68-cent tax rate will still bring in more revenues than it does now. The effective tax rate is 63 cents per $100 valuation.

The effective tax rate is the rate needed to bring in the same amount of revenue next year as this year. The rate reflects higher property values.

In addition, councilmen will consider passing an ordinance raising the sewer and water rates on second reading. The increases were approved on first reading after the public budget hearing in the auditorium.

The basic water rate will increase to $9 from $5.75. Each additional 1,000 gallons will cost $1.53, up from $1.25. The basic sewer rate will remain the same, $4.25, but the cost of each additional 1,000 gallons will increase to 80 cents from 68

The council also will consider raising the fee for water and sewer line connections. According to Public Works Director Tom Decell, the current cost is $200 for a 34-inch water tap or a 4-inch sewer line tap to a line shorter than 50 feet long that does not cross a roadway.

A memo from Decell suggests that the city raise the water tap rates to $285 and the sewer tap rates to $215. The city will honor the current rates for any plumber or firm having a valid contract ding to the memo.

Under the ordinance, these rates could be adjusted annually.

EULESS (AP) — For Mike Stickles and Debbie Furhman, it was love at first byte.

He was an experienced computer hacker known on line as "Mr. Mike." She was an electronics ingenue who used the signature Sweet Lady."

Although they lived more than 1,000 miles apart — he in Texas and she in Arizona — they met and fell in love over an international computer network. For more than a month after a meeting, they never set eyes on one another. Nevertheless, they passionately courted each other through their computers.

On line, late at night, they'd spend hours pouring out their deepest thoughts and most heartfelt wishes. And the rest is ... well, high-tech history.

On Valentine's Day 1983, Stickles and Furhman joined hands over a computer keyboard and became America's first-known married computer couple, taking their nuptial vows on line, as other hackers scattered across the country witnessed the ceremony on their distant computer terminals.

"Before we ever saw each other, we had already met each other's mind. It was just a matter of get-ting used to the outward appearance of each other," said Stickles, who after more than two years of marriage remains a devoted hacker, husband and now proud father of a toddling daughter

Although their marriage ws unprecedented, the Stickleses' story of computer romance is becoming more and more common. As computer bulletin boards pop up by the thousands and commercial computer information networks proliferate, more and more people are meeting each other on line, making new acquaintances, extending professional relationships and even seeking romance.

Numerous other couples have now met, courted and married through computers connected electronically by telephone. Indeed, the Stickleses, who now live in Euless, say they have met many of their closest friends on line.

The growing prevalence of such meetings is causing some social psychologists to reassess the computer's impact on human interaction. Old worries that computers might alienate people, creating a generation of social misfits, are giving way to the recognition that his job and his ways. computers are bringing many peo.

A humorous, quick-witted man

Debbie Fuhrman and Mike Stickes pose with their daughter Pamela at home in Euless. In 1983, Stickes and Furhman became America's first known married computer couple, when they took their nuptial vows on line as hackers across the country witnessed the event on their terminals.

For literally thousands of people who are uncomfortable in traditional meeting places, such as singles bars and swingers parties, computers have proven to be a liberating way to meet others. While good looks and stylish clothing may matter greatly at pickup clubs, what counts on line, hackers say, are wit, wisdom and common interests.

"One of the things that computer networks seem to do is break down all those hierarchies that are created by face-to-face meetings, observes Gavin Clabaugh, an analyst for the Trend Response and Analysis Co., which monitors broad social changes for corporate business clients. "Everybody is equal on line.'

At age 55 and never married, Ed Jackson of Fort Worth considered himself a confirmed bachelor. He had long ago settled in his home, for a long time, Jackson says he just never thought of himself as very attractive. Until recently, his last date with a woman was when he was 21 years old.

His world was happily shaken to its very foundation when in 1984 he joined a computer information network called Startext. A talented writer, Jackson began writing a general-interest column for Startext, and before long he was receiving electronic fan mail via his computer.

One admirer in particular was Patricia Chadwell, a 43-year-old geneologist at the Fort Worth Public Library. She found Jackson to be a wry and amusing writer.

"One of my columns was about hating to mow the grass and she wrote, saying I ought to buy a goat to do the work," recalls Jackson. "I wrote her back asking. 'What would an old goat do with a young

Their computer correspondence who has battled a weight problem continued. She wrote him, he wrote back, once, twice, three, four times a week. Suddenly, they realized they were writing to each other After months of computer courtship, they decided to meet. It also went well, and on Nov. 2, 1984, eight months after their first on-line meeting, they married.

There is a mystique about computer communications," said Chadwell, who is responsible for four of the family's eight computers. "You feel a lot freer to open up with people on a computer. You don't have six months of small talk before you start talking about important things. I think we were fairly well committed to each other before we ever met."

Adds her husband: "There is very little that we didn't discuss. I've probably got six (computer) disks of love letters.

Jackson is not the only person whose once "inwardly turned life" has blossomed like a morning glory thanks to telecommunications.

Loyalists also went on the air on the same frequency used by the Radio Thailand and ordered undersecretaries of all ministries to report immediately to Tienchai. It also ordered all servicemen to return to their posts or face 'severe penalties.

SAN JOSE, Calif. - An Amtrak passenger train smashed into a car crossing the tracks on a rural dirt road and dragged it for almost a mile, killing all seven occupants of the car, including five children, police said.

'It was one of the most gruesome accidents I've ever seen in oyer 10 years as a firefighter," said Rudy Cabigas, who helped tear the roof off the car and extract the bodies

Sunday evening.

"I've been driving one of these rigs for 14 years, and this is the worst accident I've seen," said tow truck driver Jim Tonkin.

The victims were killed instantly, said fire Capt. Art McFerson.

The car was traveling on a rural dirt road in Coyote, about 12 miles south of San Jose, when was struck by the Amtrak SP Coast Starlight, said Terrie Santamaria, a spokeswoman for Amtrak. None of the approximately 275 passengers on the northbound passenger train was injured, said officials of Southern Pacific, which operates the train.

18 hurt in bus mishap

DENISON - At least 18 people were injured today when a Greyhound bus bound from Chicago to Laredo hit the back of a tractortrailer rig and ran into a ditch, the Department of Public Safety said.

The accident took place about 6 a.m. CDT on U.S. Highway 69-75 three miles north of Denison, near the Oklahoma border, said DPS investigator Steve Shally.

Authorities said the bus, which was carrying 30 passengers, hit the back of an 18-wheeler that had just pulled out of a truck stop, Shally said. The bus went out of control and ran off the road into a shallow ditch.

The bus driver, identified as Jonette Bruno, of Tulsa, Okla., was pinned in the wreckage for nearly two hours before rescuers could free her, Shally said.

Inspectors search Sunday beside the Mitchell Field runway used by a DC-9 that crashed Friday claiming 31 lives. The runway was closed for a search after engine parts were found Saturday.

Engine of plane was damaged before crash

MILWAUKEE (AP) - One engine of the Midwest Express Airlines DC-9 was already damaged when the plane crashed after takeoff, killing all 31 aboard, but the plane should have been able to land with only one engine, a federal investigator said.

Flight 105, heading for Atlanta, crashed Friday a half-mile south of Milwaukee's General Billy Mitchell Field, where investigators were still searching for signs of why the twin-engine plane crashed.

Metal detector sweeps of the runway had turned up 20 compressor blade pieces and 13 other parts from an engine like the DC-9's, National Transportation Safety Board Chairman James E. Burnett said at a press conference Sunday

While it was not certain that all the pieces came from the plane, he said, "there is damage to the right engine where the compressor blades would have come from" and no reports that any other aircraft had a similar problem at the site.

Earlier, Burnett said investigators had determined that the right engine was not producing power at the time of the crash, but he said the plane should have been able to fly on one engine.

Board investigators in Washington, D.C., have listened to the cockpit voice recorder, but board policy prevented the disclosure of pilot dialogue until a transcription was made. Burnett said.

The cockpit recording includes a sound of "the stick shaker," described as an audible warning of imminent stall, he said. The recording also included a groundproximity warning that alerts a pilot that a plane's

Investigators were hampered at the crash site by heavy rain and wind gusts of up to 30 mph Sunday,

The team hoped to either move the 5,000-pound engines to another site today or hoist them from the mud at the charred crash site so they can examine the so-far hidden side of the engines to see if the engine casing was penetrated, he said.

"That's complicated by the fact that we are working in a quagmire," Burnett said.

An inspection of the right engine showed damage to the ninth and 10th compressor stages, part of the 13-stage apparatus that sucks air into the engine to be mixed with fuel, he said.

The engine pieces were found about 7,000 feet down the runway from where the plane began rolling. He said it should have lifted off after about 4,000 feet down the 9.600-foot runway.

The plane's Pratt & Whitney JT8D-7 engines are an older model than the JT8D-15 that apparently exploded and set fire to a British Boeing 737 during takeoff in August, said Pratt & Whitney spokesman David Long in East Hartford, Conn.

Burnett said the board had collected 23 written statements from eyewitnesses, including 20 from aviation professionals. He said another 10 witnesses would be making statements.

Witnesses told reporters that they heard a popping sound and saw flames coming from the right engine before the aircraft crashed, but Burnett said none of the people providing statements to the board reported

He also said that none of the recovered engine pieces

MADRID, Spain - A car bomb exploded on a downtown Madrid street today as a van full of paramilitary soldiers passed by, police said. Nineteen people were injured, including an American businessman.

Police said the car bomb was detonated by remote control near the Plaza de la Argentina at about 7:30 a.m. (12:30 a.m. CDT).

The van was carrying 24 members of the civil guard to several embassies, including the Soviet Embassy and consulate, to relief other embassy guards, police said. Sixteen of those hurt were civil guard members, and the other three were civilian passers-by, officials

Eight of the guards and one passer-by were taken to the Red Cross hospital and the others were rushed to a provincial hospital, police

Emergency landing

LONDON - A TWA jumbo jet en route to Copenhagen turned back to London and made an emergency landing today because one of its four Pratt & Whitney engines failed in flight, officials said.

Fire engines and ambulances lined the runway at Heathrow Airport as TWA Flight 754 with 94 passengers on board made a safe landing. Emergency vehicles followed the Boeing 747 as it taxted to the terminal. Airport and airline officials said the plane had arrived earlier from Boston with 309 passengers on board.

It had just taken off for the Danish capital when the outer left engine failed. The officials said the captain was forced to shut it down and return to Heathrow.

The plane's pilot, Capt. Donald K. Stitt, said the problem had been caused by the failure of one of the turbines in the JT9D engines.

As he examined the engine on the ground at Heathrow, he said: "One of the turbines broke up and there are a lot of pieces of metal inside

Racial reforms

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Antiapartheid groups said today a recent poll indicates urban blacks support an end to foreign investment as a way of pressuring the whiteminority government to make racial reforms.

Police reported two more blacks had died in anti-apartheid violence, bringing to four the number killed over the weekend.

The government also said it would allow Nelson Mandela's wife to visit him in prison. The 67-year-old leader of the African National Congress, jailed for life on a 1964 conviction of plotting sabotage, has been reported ailing.

The prison service said today that the black guerrilla leader was undergoing "preventive urological treatment," but did not provide details.

Reagan orders sanctions on S. Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, backing away under pressure from his longtime opposition to sanctions against South Africa, today acted to punish without delay the white-ruled regime economically for its apartheid laws discriminating against the nation's black majority.

By his own hand, the president put into effect most of the provisions of widely supported sanctions legislation that has passed the House and is before the Senate.

Speaking from the Oval Office, he said in a national broadcast:

'The system of apartheid means deliberate systematic, institutionalized, racial discrimination, denying the black majority their God-given rights. America's view of apartheid is simple and straightforward: We believe it's wrong. We condemn it and we are united in hoping for the day when apartheid will be no more.

The abrupt shift was made in hopes of avoiding an embarrassing foreign policy defeat in Congress. It came as the Senate prepared to move toward adoption of a sanctions bill. But Republican leaders said they would move to delay further action on the bill in light of Reagan's announcment.

Reagan said his executive order was "designed and aimed against the machinery of apartheid without indiscriminately punishing the people who are victims of that system measures that will disassociate the United States from apartheid but associate us positively with peaceful change."

Reagan said he is: Banning all computer exports to South African law enforcement agencies:

· Halting all exports of nuclear technology until Pretoria agrees to meet the terms of international non-proliferation agreements; Prohibiting loans to the South African government, except for those going to programs helping · Taking steps to ban the importation of the Krugerrand, the South African gold coin, in the United States, subject to consultations with America's major trading partners. He also directed the Treasury to consider minting a gold coin to serve as an alternative to the coin. held by investors and collectors.

He warned Pretoria to take clear steps to end unequal treatment of blacks and said, "The American people are impatient. We all feel very strongly about the changes

Reagan repeated that he would veto the sanctions legislation if it reaches his desk.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who briefed reporters after Reagan's statement, said the administration's chief objection to the pending legislation was a provision that could have imposed additional sanctions if the Pretoria regime failed to make sufficient progress toward ending apartheid in the near future.

steps as potentially doing more harm than good to South African blacks but also regarded them as unwarranted interference in the But he said he might now use the president's role as chief architect of U.S. foreign policy.

Reagan said he would name instead an advisory committee to recommend in a year measures "to encourage peaceful change in South Africa. Reagan announced he was sen-

Opinion

Comments lack basic imperative

Suppose President P.W. Botha declared tomorrow that apartheid is unworkable and invited its leading South African opponents to help prepare a plan for ending it quickly. Even such a declaration probably would seem to lack something

And suppose President Reagan announced he wanted even more sweeping sanctions than on South Africa than those favored by most of Congress. Even such an announcement would probably seem too weak by Reagan's critics.

And suppose the Rev. Jerry Falwell, besides his halfapology for questioning the integrity of Bishop Desmond Tutu, said that he and Tutu differ only on the means of peaceful race relations. Even such a switch would probably not win Falwell many new admirers.

The missing ingredient in these imagined statements is an urgent conviction that apartheid is immoral. Moral urgency has been missing also in real statements. Falwell sounds phony when he bad-mouths Tutu, because Falwell has no record of commitment to overcome race-based political and social discrimination.

Reagan sounds reluctant to distinguish right from wrong in a foreign nation whose policy grates on America's most sensitive moral nerve. And Botha sounds unreal when he grudgingly speaks of deep social change as though it were just a touchy technical reform - or even a tough political power sharing problem — instead of a compelling moral imperative.

Not much can be hoped for from Falwell. Though a selfprofessed moralist, he has proved himself obtuse by befogging the issue of apartheid's moral basis. Much more should be asked of Reagan. His office makes him a spokesman for his nation's social values as well as accountable for its diplomacy. More yet must be asked of Botha - asked by Americans as well as by South Africans — to whom falls the choice of prolonging rigidity or leading a reversal in white South African moral standards on race.

President Lyndon Johnson helped white America turn a moral corner when in 1964 he uttered as his own the blackfreedom hymn, "We shall overcome." Blacks and whites alike yearn for such a turn by Botha and his colleagues. Reagan and his colleagues should be publicly forthright that they want the same. And if Falwell in his preaching cannot make clear apartheid's radical moral offense, he should not be surprised if Americans find him offensive as well.

Spy dust deepens cloak-and-dagger

By DONALD KAUL 's put our cards on the table. I am not a Communist, nor have I ever been one. And it I were a tollower of lines, the Soviet would be one of the last I'd trail after. I think, basically, communism is a rotten form of government, promising equality and justice but delivering a series of prison-like societies that give flesh to George Orwell's bleak vision of the future. To arrive at a just comparison of communism and our society one need only contemplate what the world would be like today had the Soviet Union come out of World War II with the atom bomb and we without it. I'm telling you, comrades, things would be a lot more strict.

However

This business about the cancercausing spy dust in our embassy in Moscow is a little much, don't you

Not that I don't believe it. The charge is that the Soviets have been dusting the U.S. Embassy in Moscow with an invisible powder in order to track the comings and goings of embassy personnel, particularly their contacts with Soviet

That would figure. It's just the sort of comic book gimmick that appeals to secret police the world over. (Remember the powder our CIA wanted to put in Fidel Castro's shoes, to make his beard fall out?) I will even go along with the allegation that the substance might, in some way, present a health hazard. What I can't get down is the U.S. government taking a health hazard seriously

We're talking about a govern-

We're talking about a government that won't admit that the radiation to which it subjected American soldiers during atomic testing in the 40s and 50s caused cancer. We're talking about a government that subsidizes the tobacco

> I can only guess at the real reason we went public with the spy dust. Moscow, in its angry and unconvincing denial of wrongdoing, said that the U.S. was trying "to prepare the ground for yet another slander campaign against the Soviet Union, to poison the atmosphere in relations between our countries and kindle enmity toward Soviet people." That sounds about right to me

> Mary Poppins could become premier of the Soviet Union and the Pentagon would still be pushing for, and getting, more weapons. We have arrived at that gloomy state of affairs President Eisenhower warned against in his farewell address, "undue influence" exerted by the military-industrial complex. Indeed, we have gone beyond it. The "military-industrial complex" does not influence our government; it runs it. It is swallowing our money faster than it can digest it and keeps screaming for more. In between screams, it gasps, "The Russians are coming.

> My hunch as to why we announced to the world that the Soviets are putting spy dust on the doorknobs in our Moscow embassy is this: It demonstrates how critical it is that we spend billions of dollars on a 'star wars' defense system.

Spying for love isn't new

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON - The latest West German spy scandal may have shaken the Bonn government, but t came as no surprise to the CIA.

In fact, our CIA sources tell us that at least one more high-level West German intelligence official is suspected of working for the East Germans, and may be exposed any day.

Fortunately, the number of West Germans who have sold out over the years for love, money or ideology convinced the CIA long ago that its counterpart in Bonn could not be trusted with U.S. secrets that are routinely shared with other allies.

The CIA's glum conclusions about West German intelligence and counterspy agencies was translated into a highly sensitive White House policy - dating back to President Ford — which has denied the West Germans access to "top secret" information in three military categories: "Combined Military Operations, Planning and Readiness"; "U.S. Order of Battle" and "Military Intelligence.

Four allies are cleared to see the information in all three categories: Australia, Canada, New Zealand and Britain. Japan is allowed to see top-secret data in the military intelligence area.

The CIA's disenchantment with the West German intelligence agency it helped organize and fund began in 1961 with the arrest of a top West German official, who confessed to delivering 15,000 photographs of sensitive files and 20 spools of tapes to Soviet agents in East Berlin, starting 10 years

A recent Defense Intelligence Agency report summarized 30 cases of individuals who betrayed NATO secrets to the Soviet bloc since the North Atlantic Treaty was signed in 1949. Eleven were West Germans, five were East German "plants," four were French, four were Belgians, two were Italians and the remaining four were Canadian, British, Turkish

While motivation varied, according to the DIA report, the fascinating thing is how the Soviet spymasters used Cupid's arrow as an effective weapon against lonely German secretaries in positions to provide classified documents.

With depressing regularity, secretaries working for NATO or West German ministries fell for smooth-talking East German spies and handed over military secrets

Here are some of the moonstruck traitors listed in the DIA report who were seduced by men known in German intelligence parlance as "blackbirds"

• Ingrid Garbe worked in the West German mission to NATO from 1976 until her arrest in 1979. She was recruited in 1971 by an East German intelligence officer "with whom she had fallen in love." At the direction of the East German intelligence service, she had initially applied for a job in Bonn's foreign ministry.

• Ursel Lorenzen, another secretary, went to work at NATO headquarters in 1966 and defected to the East in 1979. She "spied 'for love' and ... married her former East German spymaster following her defection." She is believed to have given East Germany all the NATO secrets she could get her hands

WILL MIKHAIL TALK ABOUT "BONZO"?

· Leonore Heinz Suetterlin was an "unmarried secretary in the West German Foreign Office (who) was wooed and wed by Suetterlin, who, unknown to her, was an agent of the KGB." Beginning in 1960, 'she provided her husband more than 3,000 documents from her office, including Foreign Office cable traffic and NATO and German defense and intelligence information.'

She also passed along personal information on fellow employees "and on security investigations of Soviet and East German agent suspects.

THE OMBUDSMAN: An Army Reserve sergeant has written us to complain about the conditions her unit had to endure during their two-week field training at Fort Indiantown Gap, Pa. She said the floors in the antique barracks were rotting; lighting was inadequate; there were no locks for the doors, only one shower and the water was undrinkable. She said a soldier got cramps from drinking the water and had to be flown to the hospital. The deputy commander of the base replied, in effect, "bullfeathers." He said the World War II buildings were being renovated, and there was nothing wrong with the DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: The sporadic but growing number of terrorist attacks on American installations abroad has had an unnerving effect on our diplomats and their families. Congress is currently considering a $4 billion plan to improve security at U.S. embassies. A key part of the project is the removal of embassy facilities from city centers to safer suburbs. This led one old Foggy Bottom hand to bemoan the placement of American diplomats in "ghettos" - even if they are secure 'golden ghettos.

MINI-EDITORIAL: It's long since time the Navy scuttled the barnacle-encrusted tradition of the 'captain's mast'' - the summary proceeding at which a crew member's career can be wrecked on the flimsiest of evidence. These kangaroo courts made a certain amount of sense in the days when Navy ships were at sea for months, and discipline had to be swiftly enforced. But in the modern Navy, no ship is more than a few days from some port where charges can be adjudicated in an orderly fashion. Dumping the captain's mast would not only be fair to the crew, it would free the skipper from duties for which he is not properly trained

Teamsters cozy with Ron's boys

To the editor: Little attention has been given by the local and area media to the Teamsters International Union and the Republican Party. It is more interesting because the Reagan administration destroyed the Air Controllers Union early in Ronnie's first term. Properly trained con-trollers have not been adequate since that day and the current workers complain about fatigue due to excessive hours required, the identical complaint which caused the controllers strike.

The Teamsters' presidents have enjoyed the friendly hand of every Republican occupant of the White House since Eisenhower even though it has been the one union in the forefront because of violence and Mafia contacts. Their refusal to comply with the law and the conviction of Jimmy Hoffa during the Kennedy administration resulted in the AFL-CIO expelling the Teamsters from their organization.

When Republican Nixon was in office, he released Hoffa from prison and shortly thereafter Hoffa disappeared. It is widely believed that Teamsters then in power feared Hoffa would reveal too much and they are the ones who caused Hoffa's disappearance. Now Jackie Presser is president of the Teamsters and he has been indicted, but Attorney General Meese recently decided enough evidence was not available to prosecute and dropped the case. Columnist Jack Anderson has reported in several articles that the Reagan Administration had made a deal with Presser who promised to clean up the Teamsters if the Reagan staff would lay off him. Anderson reported numerous instances of Presser's activities with the underworld, racketeers, and the payoffs between them and

It could be that Ronnie Boy may be tied in with the crowd as was Nixon who received considerable money from the Teamsters, and as has every Republican presidential candidate starting with the Eisenhower campaign We will probably never get the truth unless it is forced by court decisions which now seem remote with Attorney General Meese's announcement to drop the case because of "insufficient evidence.

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago I wrote to you from another city. I told you that I had a dream job and also a dream boss to whom I was very much attracted, and the feeling was mutual. The problem was that he was married, and I felt that an affair was rapidly becoming

You advised me to look for a job elsewhere, saying, "You can't build happiness on the misery of others." It was the hardest thing I ever had to do, but I quit my job and moved out of town to work elsewhere. My heart ached for a long time, but finally I met and married a good man, raised a family and had a happy, interesting life. Last year, my husband died, and

I went back to my hometown for a visit. Quite by chance I ran into my former employer. He was a widower! We started seeing each other, and the feeling between us is stronger than ever. We are planning to marry soon. There were times over the years when I might have blamed you for influencing me, but now I bless you because we neither hurt nor betrayed anyone to be together.

Please keep telling people who lack the strength to do the right thing that happiness cannot be built on the misery of others. You are always saying someone made your day. Well, Abby, you've made my life!

Looking for a cure for diabetes

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: At a diabetes clinic I attended at the local hospital, one of the doctors mentioned in his talk a new medicine, not ready yet, but which he said might be the cure for diabetes. He did explain that diabetes is a disease where the person's body attacks his pancreas, that stops insulin production, and that's what causes the diabetes. Do you know of this new medicine? -

Researchers are looking at the possibility of shutting off the body's immune mechanisms as a potential therapy for Type I diabetes, the kind that happens because of lack of insulin production by the pancreas. People with that kind of diabetes need insulin injections to keep blood sugar levels down.

Many authorities now accept the idea that this kind of diabetes arises from the person's body attacking the insulin-producing cells of the pancreas. Somehow, the person's immune system senses those cells as alien.

Perhaps the doctor you neard was referring to experimental work underway in France to test this theory. In those studies, the researchers used the drug cyclosporine to suppress attack. Some of the Type I diabetics did improve and needed less outside insulin to get along.

Cyclosporine, incidentally, has been used in other similar situations. It's been widely employed in transplantation, where the body attempts to reject the transplant tissue. Again,the idea is to suppress the immunity mechanisms.

Diabetics can be grateful that so much work continues to progress in the areas of control and potential cures. But they have to temper enthusiasm with the knowledge that there is often a wide gap between research results and practical application. Many problems, remain to be solved before such therapies as we're talking about there can be applied. For example, when using immunity suppression, there is danger of shutting off a person's total immunity. We have to be sure we aren't trading one disease for others to which the weakened system would then be susceptible.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would you be so kind as to mention dermatopolymyositis. I am now in remission and on medication that controls it. I would love to know

If you break down that long term you have two elements — dermato (for skin) and polymyositis (multiple muscle inflammation). And there are combined symptoms from both these factors.

The person experiences a weakness, and sometimes swelling and pain in various muscle groups, especially those of the shoulder, hip, upper arm and upper legs. But in some, swallowing muscles can be affected, causing a choking when food is taken.

Some of the skin changes are pretty specific. For example, there often is a lilac discoloration of the eyelids and swelling around the eyes. A scaly red rash may appear on the backs of the hands.

While dermatopolymyositis may occur at just about any age, those levels. The medicine is used for in their 40s and 50s seem most prone. I imagine vour medicine is a steroid, for that is the kind of drug most often used to control this. Many achieve such good control that they can resume almost all their former activities. I wish this outcome for you.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: You

said awhile back that food companies were supposed to be labeling packages for sodium content. I don't see that on lots of foods I buy. How come? — D.D.

That was supposed to happen, but the government has altered its ruling to give companies a year's grace. It will allow food suppliers to deplete stocks of non-labeled products. It is my understanding now that the extension ends in July 1986. Of course, many firms have already started labeling food for sodium content.

FOR MRS. P.Y. — Yes, the medicine you mention (isotretinoin or Accutane) can make blood glucose control more difficult while it is being used. If used at all under such circumstances (in diabetes) there would have to be careful watch kept over blood glucose severe acne.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever

Couples taking different view of vows

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - A new trend is developing in marriage, according to a cleric here, who says couples seem to be taking a different view of their vows.

"I think more and more churches, Catholic and Protestant, are taking marriage preparation a lot more seriously," said the Rev. Tim Davern. "We're doing everything we can to make sure couples know each other before they get married. It's not perfect, but we're hoping it works.

A vice chancellor to the bishop at the Phoenix Diocese, Davern spends much of his time in marriage tribunal work, meeting with divorced Catholics who want to remarry in the church.

In recent years, Davern said, there seems to have been a change in the way couples viewed

"You hear a lot of stories about people getting married on the third date. They're more common than say up until the mid-'70s, you were divorced Catholic is still married in getting a lot of marriages that were too quick, too fast. People didn't really know each other then.'

Davern left his post as associate pastor at St. Thomas the Apostle in Phoenix to study canon, or Catholic Church, law. After two years of special training at The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., the native Arizonan is living and helping out at the Church of the Resurrection in Tempe and working as vice "Lamentably, our (Catholic) divorce rate is about the same as everybody else. It's a little lower, but not by much," he said.

For a divorced Catholic to remarry in the church, his previous marriage must be declared invalid by the church. 'It's not that the Catholic Church doesn't allow divorce, but we don't say the divorce makes you free to get remarried," he said.

The church considers divorce a people think," he said. "I would civil action, which means that a

Without an annulment of the previous marriage, a priest will not perform the wedding ceremony and the remarried Catholic would not be able to receive communion or go to confession.

'We're in the business to help people get everything straightened out with the church," Davern said.

Davern also will talk to friends and relatives who knew the marriage, in addition to the Catholic who wants an annulment. "You have to judge everything with the background," he said.

Sometimes people enter marriages not intending to live accor-

Many couples, especially those who married 20 or more years ago, were pressured into marriage because the bride was pregnant.

"Very often, you have a mar-riage and it breaks up and you find out a lot of people thought they were making the worst mistake in the world," he said. "People often won't tell a person they love they're making a big mistake."

The facts were that Miami, which won 11 straight games last season and gained a Super Bowl berth, lost its National Football League season opener 26-23 to the Oilers, which lost 10 in a row last season and finished 3-13

Miami isn't accustomed to losing to the lower echelon teams and the Oilers haven't had a winning season since 1980 and hadn't won a season opener since 1981.

Rose ties Ty's hit record

CHICAGO (AP) - The lights went out on Pete Rose's latest opportunity to break the 57-year-old record of Ty Cobb, sending him back to Cincinnati with one more

With two hits in five at-bats Sunday against Chicago, the Reds player-manager tied the record of 4,191 lifetime hits, set by Cobb in 1928. Tie became the order of the day when the game was halted after nine innings because of darkness with the score tied 5-5.

"I'm happy he tied the record." Reds shortstop Dave Concepcion said. "And I'm happy he will break it back in Cincinnati.

Rose got his second hit of the game, the tying hit, off emergency starter Reggie Patterson in the fifth inning. Like the first-inning hit, No. 4,191 was a line single.

Rose had two more chances to break the record, but he grounded out to Cubs shortstop Shawon Dunston in the seventh and struck out swinging at a Lee Smith fastball in the ninth.

The Reds already had scored a run to tie the game when Rose came up in the ninth. The game had been delayed in the bottom of the eighth by rain for 2 hours and 3 minutes, and when the teams completed nine innings, umpiring crew chief Bob Engel halted the proceedings at about 6:10 p.m. CDT. Without lights at Wrigley Field and under a heavy cloud cover, it had become too dark to continue.

"I thought we would win it right there," Rose said of his ninthinning at-bat. "It was getting kind of dark, but I could see the ball."

PETE ROSE ... one hit from history

Normally, when a game is halted because of darkness here, it is resumed at a later date at the point of suspension. The Cubs, however, said they had been told by the National League that the game would be declared a regulation draw and that all records would stand. Should it become necessary to determine a pennant, another game would be played.

Rose hadn't even expected to play because the Cubs had selected left-hander Steve Trout as the starting pitcher. Rose, who shares time at first base, restricts himself to starts against right-handers, with Tony Perez getting the call against

Fumbles-Lost

Penalties-Yards

But Trout fell off a bicycle Saturday night and hurt his shoulder and elbow. So the Cubs went to righthander Reggie Patterson, who came into this season with just 100 days major league service, and Rose started Rose.

"It's all part of the game," the 26-year-old Patterson said of the record-tying hit. "It's just another

No. 4,191 came on a 3-2 pitch from Patterson, a 6-foot-4, 185-pound beanpole, and went into right-center field, where it was scooped up by Keith Moreland. Moreland tossed the ball in to first baseman Leon Durnam, who gave it to Reds first base coach Tommy

Rose said he didn't speak with anyone after the hit, but he said Durham told him, "Don't move. I want to get some TV exposure Patterson said Durham came over to him "after the hit and said, 'Pete is going to buy you a steak.'

"He's the greatest ballplayer that ever played the game," Patterson said of Rose. "It was a history-making event, and everybody wanted to see him do it

Lendl overpowers McEnroe

NEW YORK (AP - Ivan Lendl had said from Day One of the U.S. Open that he had nothing to lose. He never did lose.

And with his victory Sunday over two-time defending champion John McEnroe, Lendl gave Czechoslovakia a virtual sweep of the American national tennis championships.

Virtual because while Hana Mandlikova, the women's champion, stillcalls Czechoslovakia her homeland and is fiercely proud of that fact, Lendl, although a Czech citizen, lives in pastoral Greenwich, Conn.

"I love my country and I never said anything wrong about my country and I wish they could see this over there," Mandlikova had said following her 7-6, 1-6, 7-6 victory over Martina Navratilova, somewhat of a non-person in Czechoslovakia since her defection

"I can't even describe it," Lendl said after he beat McEnroe 7-6, 6-3, 6-4, "because this is the tournament I was saying I think is the biggest of the year, the one I want to win the most and finally did it. ..

"It's the championship of the country where I enjoy living very much. I have won the championship of Czechoslovakia three times, but I don't think it means nearly as much as this one.

Quinn's Quarter

Steers head football coach Quinn Eudy had these comments on the Steers 42-28 loss to the Snyder Tigers in the season opener last Friday

"Offensively I was pleased with the game," stated Eudy, concerning the Steers 348 yards total offense. In fact Big Spring outgained their op-"This is probably the best offensive showing we've had in the last three years. We moved the ball well, but we can't put the ball on the ground," he said of his team's four fumbles. He also praised the offensive line. "The offensive line came off the ball well. They were blowing people off the ball. Carl (Speck) threw the ball well, the backs ran hard and the receivers caught the ball well. "It looks like we'll be able to put some points on the board this year. We can be a good ball control team. We are not a big play team. It wasn't perfect but it's a big step forward.' 'We have some new people on defense and it will take time for them to get to their positions. we didn't tackle well but the kids gave a good effort and played hard. But the offense must help the defense by not turning over the ball.'

Eudy said the turning point in the game came in the disasterous third quarter. "We turned the ball over to them in our territory two times. That killed us. What hurt us in the first half was a penalty in four-down territory for having too many men on the field; and a inadvertent whistle that wiped out a big gain."

'The kids seemed ready to come back and get with it. I've got a lot of admiration for them because they are ready to accept the challenge." The challenge this week comes in the form of Lubbock Estacado.

"They are a typical Estacado team," said Eudy of the Matadors, who defeated Plainview 14-9 last week, "They are quick, fast and wellcoached. They are much better than Snyder. We're excited about taking this challenge."

Cowboys,

IRVING (AP) - There will be hree things different about Dallas quarterback Danny White when he starts against the Washington Redskins tonight in a National Football League opener.

White will be the starter for the Cowboys, which he wasn't last year until midway of the season. He also will be wearing a flak jacket for the first time in his career to protect tender ribs.

White also will replace Tony Dorsett as offensive captain of the team in a vote by teamates.

'If I've had any differences with the players, they've been resolved one way or the other," White said. "Coming from the players, it's an honor to be named captain."

White has a 7-2 lifetime record against Washington as a starter while the Redskins' Joe Theismann is 6-9.

'Danny is back into the leadership role," said Dallas wide receiver Mike Renfro. "He's over the last three seasons.

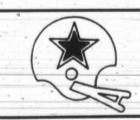

more relaxed now than he has been. You can see he has respect in the locker room now.'

Dallas' game plan is simple: Stop Theismann.

"We have to stop Theismann to win the game," said Cowboys safety Michael Downs. "John Riggins just kind of bothers you. But Theismann kills you."

The Cowboys go into the National Football League opener as one-point favorites based on the homefield advantage.

However, Dallas hasn't beaten Washington in Texas Stadium since 1982. The Redskins have the second winningest record (16-5) in the NFL on the road

Dallas owns a 28-20-2 series lead over Washington but the Redskins have been taking a lot of scalps lately.

Both teams went undefeated during the preseason. Although the game is a sellout the Cowboys' officials are taking steps to see that the crowd is an unusually noisy one: Some 35,000 megaphones will be given away at the gates. Dallas Coach Tom Landry and Washington Coach Joe Gibbs are batting .500 against each other with four wins and four losses in their eight confrontations.

San Francisco, which lost only one game last season, equalled that in the first week with a sloppy fourth quarter. The 49ers led 21-14 when Wendell Tyler's third fumble of the game was scooped up by Doug Martin, who ran 29 yards to the 49er 1. Alfred Anderson scored, then Derrick Harmon fumbled the ensuing kickoff.

made," Gibbs said in a statement Sunday in Washington. "It is appalling to us that the Cowboys Weekly would publish such damaging libelous remarks without conducting any standard research expected of such a publication.' The letter, purportedly from a "Mr. Tom Whidby, Vienna, Va.," and published in the Aug. 24 issue of the Cowboys publication, repeated several statements, defamatory toward the Cowboys, supposedly made by Theismann at the opening of a new restaurant in the Washington, D.C. area.

Officials with St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester, Minn., said Sunday that Varrelman died of a severe concussion and anoxia, the medical
