"We have talked with several other cable companies affected by this," he said. "As a group, we're looking for someone who'd like to go into the microwave business. We're shopping around."

Fiddlers, others flock to fair

Tom Castle top fiddler in contest

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Howard County fairgoers gathered around the blue and white striped tent, tapping their feet on a carpet of fresh, sweet-smelling sawdust. The clear tones of "Rag Time Annie" rang out as the elderly man expertly drew his bow across the fiddle strings.

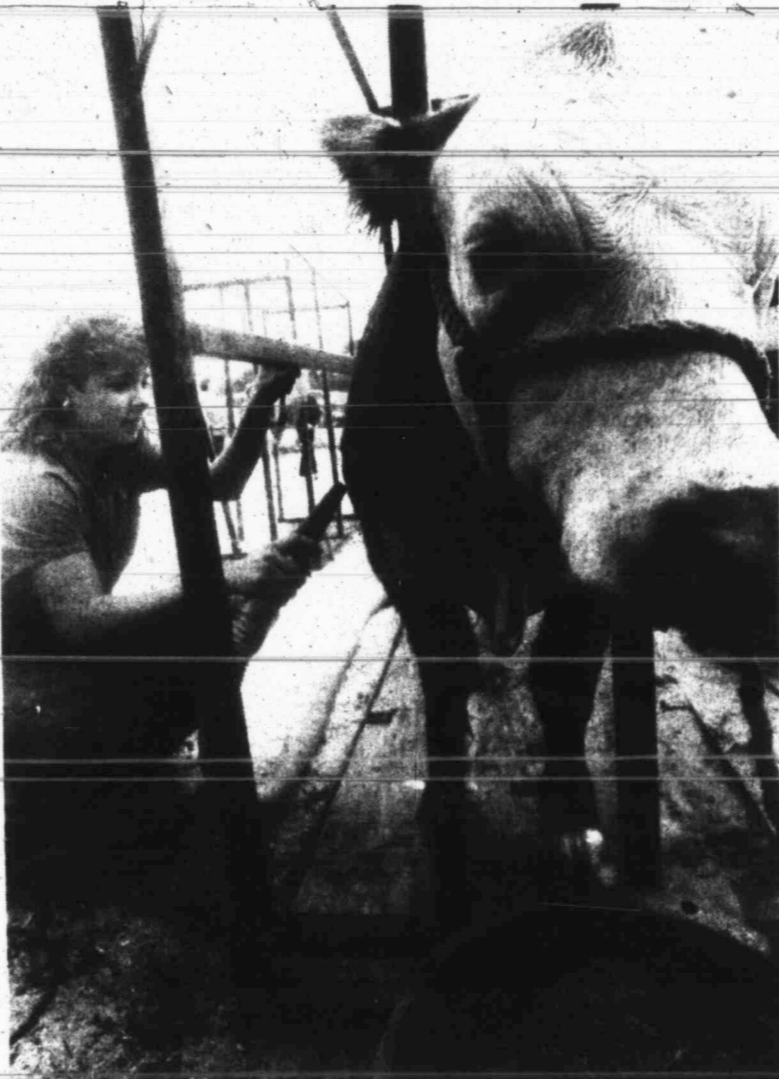

The fiddler, Tom Castle, won the Hoyle Nix Fiddlers' Award, given for the first time this year to the best all-around fiddle player at the Howard County Fair. The 83-year-old man has been fiddling since he was 14 years old, he said. His skill made playing seem effortless.

Castle said he follows in the tradition of his father, a left-handed fiddle player. His grandson, Sheldon Castle, accompanied him on the guitar.

The youngest player in the contest was 11-year-old Brian Fowler from Snyder, who began the show with "Sally Goodin," rendition on a bright blue fiddle. His rendition of "West Phalia Waltz," was outstanding in execution, technique, touch and tonal quality, said judge Don Tolle. Fowler won second place in the under 30 division.

First place winner of that division was Mike Hilger from Garden City, who began with "Sugar Foot Rag" and ended with "Lost Indian." Hilger won $75, Fowler won $50 and third place winner Becky Webb won $25.

Second prize in the over 30 division was taken by 77-year-old Roy

Players were accompanied by Irland McCormick and Jim Kays on the guitar.

Sea of lambs, steers entered county show

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The fair barns were filled with a sea of lambs and steers this weekend for the county fair livestock shows, which had their largest numbers of entrants ever this year.

The winners of the prospect steer show were a pair of sisters from Brownwood with black exotic breeds named after popular movie characters.

Sheffield Wise, 12, took overall grand champion with a Limousin named "Rambo," and her older sister, Geyer Wise, 16, had the reserve grand champion steer, a Chianina named "Axel Foley."

Judge Jim Jenkins, a agricultural science professor at South Plains College, said he was looking for prospect steers with developed but not overly expressive muscle patterns, power, growth potential, firm stifles, good legs and clean lines.

Champion of the market steer show was Doug Washam of the Lubbock County 4-H, with a 1,285-pound heavyweight steer. Washam also consistently placed high in the prospect show, winning two breed championships in Polled Herefords and Simmentals and a reserve breed championship in Angus.

Reserve champion in the market show was Geyer Wise.

Brett Lucas of the Baytown Sterling FFA received the senior showmanship award, for youths 14 to 19, and Amanda Anderson of the Howard County 4-H received the junior showmanship award for youths 9 to 13.

Show superintendent was Robb Haney.

The grounds around the judging arena and fair barns were busy with excitement as youths scurried back and forth with their parents in an effort to get their animals just so.

Before the steer shows, which started at 1 p.m. with the market steer classes, youths shampooed, scrubbed, dried and combed their animals.

Big Spring residents Kelly Newton, 14, and Mike Wilbanks, 16, were busy combing and hairspraying their Polled Herefords before the show. The whole process of readying the animals usually takes up to four hours per steer directly before the show.

"This is the second time this week I've washed mine," said Mike. He washed his two steers, a Polled Hereford and a Limousin, earlier this week and again today because the heavy recent rains had muddied the grounds.

The 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America youths also said they shaved their steers earlier in the week so they would need only a touch-up today. "We've been working on them since Thursday night."

Readying steers for shows is not only time-consuming, it can be expensive. Special adhesive hairsprays are used on the lower

Red Cross helping to locate relatives

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Big Spring residents who wish to inquire about the welfare of immediate family members in Mexico, can contact the Red Cross office in Big Spring at 267-3992 or 267-3701.

"An inquiry has to be for those who are immediate family members," said Big Spring's Red Cross social worker Marianne Brown.

She said Big Spring is working through the Abilene Red Cross chapter, which is in direct contact with Red Cross stations throughout Mexico City by way of short band radio communications.

"The stations in Mexico City will check lists of names they have gathered and attempt to reach immediate family members by telephone or direct contact," Brown said.

Mexico City stations will then recontact Abilene with any information they have, she said.

In addition to handling inquiries, Big Spring Red Cross is also starting a food drive to aid the earthquake victims.

Brown said only canned goods will be accepted. The goods will be transported to the Odessa Red Cross station and loaded on trucks that will travel directly to Mexico. Other relief items such as blankets and clothes also will be accepted, Brown said.

All donated items are tax deductible and donors will get a receipt, Brown said.

Those who wish to make a cash donation to aid Mexico's plight can make checks out to the American Red Cross and should note on the check that monies are to be directed toward the Mexico City Earthquake Relief Fund, Brown said.

Checks can be mailed to American Red Cross, P.O. Box 1970, Big Spring, Texas, 79720 or dropped off at the Red Cross office located at 110 N.E. Eighth in north Big Spring. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Ambassador: Quake toll may number 10,000 dead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A stricken Mexico on Saturday counted at least 2,000 dead from the giant earthquake that struck a savage blow at the world's largest capital. A second quake spread panic as exhausted workers struggled to rescue people believed still trapped in collapsed buildings.

U.S. Ambassador John Gavin, who flew over the city Saturday, told reporters he believed the number of dead could reach ten thousand, but added that his estimate was "just a guess."

He noted that 1,000 people may have been killed or injured in just one high-rise apartment complex in the Nuevo Leon neighborhood.

Mexico City newspapers earlier said the number of dead could reach 4,000.

The second quake hit Mexico City and four states Friday night, toppling some buildings already damaged by Thursday's devastating quake.

President Miguel de la Madrid said, "We still have neither precise nor final figures. There are still people trapped in many buildings whom we have not been able to rescue."

He told his grieving and frightened nation in a speech broadcast on television that the second quake Friday night, which measured 7.3

on the Richter scale, did not cause so much damage. It was "less severe but provoked panic," he said.

De la Madrid appealed for national unity and said: "We will bury our dead with sadness but at the same time we will renew our will to live and to cure our wounds."

"The truth is that in the face of an earthquake of this magnitude we do not have the resources to confront the tragedy with speed and sufficiency," he said.

The first quake hit a mighty 7.8 on the Richter scale, which measures ground motion.

People ran from their apartments and hotels and many slept in the debris-strewn streets. The tremor knocked out electricity on some subways and people streamed from the stations.

"We got out, walked up the tracks to a station and came up," said one passenger. He joined thousands of other Mexico City residents who slept on sidewalks or stood in groups all night discussing "El Grande," Thursday's giant earthquake.

Mexico's Minister of Tourism, Antonio Enriquez-Savignac, said in Houston Saturday the situation in the capital was "under control" and that subways, buses and trains were running normally.

Enriquez said power was restored to 65 percent of the city, although 35 percent of the capital remained without water because of broken water pipes.

Local telephone service was operating, but long distance lines still were out Saturday, two days after the first quake.

In Washington, President Reagan announced his wife Nancy would visit Mexico City Monday on her way to the West Coast to "explore the support of the American people and explore how we can land a hand in this ordeal."

More than 18 million people live in the sprawling, 7,800-foot-high capital that is the world's most populous urban area, according to United Nations figures.

Unofficial accounts spoke of hundreds killed in less densely populated areas closer to the epicenter of the quake, including in the states of Colima, Guerrero, Jalisco and Michoacan.

A government spokesman placed the death toll at 2,000, but agreed with others that the full extent of the casualties and damage could not be assessed.

Greg Lagana, spokesman for the State Department Earthquake Task Force in Washington said three Americans were killed. He

Two men arrested in connection with the Monday beating and stabbing of a man after an accident on N.W. Ninth Street were released on bond Friday afternoon, according to sheriff's reports.

The two had turned themselves in to police Friday morning, thinking they were named in arrest warrants, but the warrants actually were for someone else, police said Friday.

Deputies arrested Rumaldo del Bosque, 38, of 101 Carey on a Harris County writ of attachment at 2:15 p.m. Saturday. Bond was set at $500.

Kevin Jay Patterson, 26, of 601 Circle was transferred from city custody at 12:35 p.m. Saturday after being arrested for driving while license suspended and a second offense of failure to provide proof of insurance, according to sheriff's reports.

Gary Don Capps, 21, of 516 Sheldon was transferred from city custody at 11:35 a.m. Saturday. He was arrested on suspicion of burglarizing a motor vehicle, according to sheriff's reports. Bond was set at $5,000 by Judge Melvin Daratt.

Deputies arrested Perry Alexander Jr., 58, of Mountain View Trailer Park No. 46 at midnight Saturday in connection with an assault. A $200 bond was set.

Frank del Bosque, 24, of 502 S. Bell, who was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, was released on a $1,000 bond set by the county court at 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

David Murl Williams, 17, of 1310 Donley, arrested for driving while license suspended, was transferred from city custody at 3:50 a.m. Saturday. Bond was set at $500 by the city.

Lori Porter, 20, of 2001 S. Monticello was arrested at 6:30 p.m. Friday on two theft warrants, according to sheriff's reports.

Deputies arrested Jesus Ramirez, 42, of 601 E. 12th at 2:15 p.m. Saturday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, according to sheriff's reports. Bond was set at $1,500.

Willie James Matthews, 54, of 1311 W. Second was transferred from city custody at 3:45 p.m. Saturday. He had been arrested and charged with felony driving while intoxicated, driving while license suspended and failure to provide proof of insurance, according to sheriff's and police records. Total bond set was $2,000.

Joe Bedwell, 42, of 2112 W. Third, who was arrested and charged with evading arrest, was transferred from city custody at 2 p.m. Friday and released on $500 bond set by the city.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported that lightning struck a transformer at 9:45 p.m. Friday at Midway and 11th place. Texas Electric was notified.

Classes canceled

ACKERLY — No classes will be held Monday at Sands School so students and teacher can attend the funeral of longtime teacher Evelyn Turner, said Superintendent James Blake.

She died at 6:50 a.m. Saturday at Midland Memorial Hospital after a brief illness.

"She and her husband both taught out here for years," said Blake, "so out of respect we wanted to cancel school." Classes will resume Tuesday, he said.

legs of the cattle to prevent dirt from sticking, and more hairspray is used on the cattle's body. Glue is used on the cattle's tails to fix the hairs in place after the tail has been combed out.

"They're expensive. They eat nearly a bag of feed a day," Mike said.

Still, Kelly said she enjoyed showing the cattle. "Can you believe I'm standing where I am?" she asked her mother, who was walking by.

"You've come a long way," her mother replied. Kelly, who was standing behind Mike's 865-pound Hereford combing his tail, said in the past she had been scared of being kicked.

The two were surrounded by dozens of cattle being air-brushed and combed. Howard County Extension Agent Don Richardson said 121 steers and 153 lambs were entered in this year's show, the largest ever.

Kelly and some of the out-of-town youths attributed the large number of entrants to scheduling conflicts in the past. Last year, they said, the Abilene Fair livestock shows were conducted the same weekend as the Howard County fair show. This year, it was the only show in West Texas this weekend, they said.

Richardson, however, said he thought the large turnout was caused by youths trying to collect more points in shows sanctioned by the state calf club association.

In addition, the Howard County show was scheduled on a weekend, so youths from farther away could attend. Under education reforms passed by the state Legislature, students cannot miss school to attend livestock shows as in the past.

"It's a lot harder," said Kelly. "The parents have to take the steers and lambs down early in the week, and the kids usually fly in the night before."

"It's really a shame. The kids are missing the educational portions of the shows and aren't getting to see the fairs. The parents are spending more time, too," Richardson said. "We try to cooperate and have the show on a weekend. If it's in an afternoon or evening, the kids can't come."

Commissioners to consider resolution on tax collection

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioners will consider adopting a resolution to retain tax collecting duties in the Howard County tax office when the court convenes at 9 a.m. Monday in the county courthouse.

Howard County Judge Milton Kirby said Commissioner David Barr requested the agenda item after news last week about a meeting Monday sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

According to a letter from Granville Hahn, president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, addressed to all elected officials in Howard County, the purpose of Monday's luncheon will be to discuss the development of one consolidated tax collection office for all taxing units in the county.

The Howard County tax assessor's office currently collects taxes for all taxing agencies in the county except the Big Spring, Foran and Coahoma independent school districts.

"They're barking up the wrong tree," said County Judge Milton Kirby about the proposed plan.

Kirby said a statewide election would have to be held before reassigning duties regarding tax collection procedures. He said the county's current tax collecting procedures are in accordance with state law as provided by the state constitution.

Kirby said he had not received a copy of Hahn's letter and that he had been informed none of the commissioners received the letter.

County tax assessor and collector Dorothy Moore said her office received Hahn's letter and she was planning on attending the luncheon.

"They can't establish a separate office to collect taxes unless I agree to it. I am representing taxpayers who voted me to this office. If they don't want me to collect their taxes, they can petition for the duty to be removed from my office," Moore said.

She opposes the idea of tax entities uniting to form a separate collection office, saying it would create an additional expense for taxpayers.

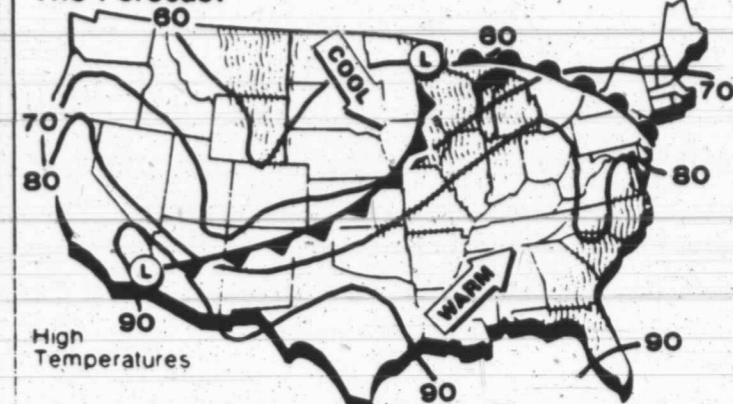

Moore paid for an advertisement that ran in The Big Spring Herald Aug. 4, that expressed her opposition to the plan.

She said she has not received complaints from tax entities regarding her office's collecting procedures and duties.

"They haven't complained to me if something is wrong," Moore said.

Rabbit show draws 325

About 325 rabbits were entered in the first Howard County Fair Rabbit Show, conducted Saturday, said show secretary Janis Ramey.

"The show went real smoothly, and we got a lot of compliments," Ramey said. "People told us we would double the number of entries in next year's show through word of mouth because it went so smoothly."

Show superintendent Sherry Newton also said she was pleased with the turnout for the show, which had competitions in 14 different breeds.

A Florida White rabbit, shown by Ryan Walker of Big Spring, was named best in show and best fancy breed. Billy Brad Johnson of Stanton nabbed the award for best commercial breed with a California rabbit.

Haitians tell of horror

MIAMI — A tale of illegal alien smugglers throwing as many as 100 people overboard to drown when heavy seas threatened their boat is part of a "continuing horror story," a U.S. immigration official says.

The story, told by Haitians rescued from a tiny Bahamian isle, matches other incidents investigators have learned of, Perry Rivkind, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service said Friday.

Seven Haitians said in a written account that smugglers transporting them to the United States for a fee beat passengers with sticks and chose who would be tossed overboard before their rickety 40-foot sailboat finally beached on a desolate Bahamian island Aug. 14.

Soviet space junk seen

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Blazing debris seen in the sky by residents of Western states has been identified as the re-entry into Earth's atmosphere of a Soviet rocket, military officials say.

Sightings of the blazing space junk were reported Thursday in at least 12 northern California counties and in Oregon, officials said.

Maj. Jacob Mogel, of the North American Aerospace Defense Command, said Friday that the light show was the result of the re-entry of a rocket body from the Soyuz T-14, which was launched Tuesday.

AIDS funds may go up

WASHINGTON — Congress, prodded by public panic over AIDS, is moving to increase money for research into the deadly disease, and a Republican senator says "whatever resources are needed" will be provided.

Several lawmakers on Capitol Hill said they will provide the money that federal scientists believe they must have to find a cause and cure for the fast-spreading disease, acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

"Let me forcefully quash that aspect of public panic over AIDS that can be attributed to the belief that the federal government is holding back on funding to find a cure for this disease," said Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn.

Nancy to visit Mexico

WASHINGTON — President Reagan announced today that his wife Nancy Reagan will travel to Mexico to explore ways to deliver U.S. aid to earthquake victims.

Reagan made the announcement in his weekly radio address delivered from his presidential retreat at Camp David, Md.

Mrs. Reagan's press secretary Elaine Crispin said the first lady most likely will travel directly from Washington to Mexico City on Monday and will return that same day to the United States.

WEEPING OPENLY on their reunion Saturday, a man from North Korea greets his sister in the South Korean capital of Seoul. The two, whose identities were not immediately available, were among a group of family members brought together by Red Cross efforts in the two countries.

Koreans reunite

Tearful meetings highlight exchange

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — North Korean artists performed on a South Korean stage Saturday for the first time since the countries were divided in 1945, while long-separated family members held tearful reunions in an unprecedented North-South exchange of civilian visits.

The exchange was negotiated by Red Cross officials to mark the 40th anniversary of the Korean peninsula's liberation from Japanese rule at the end of World War II.

Korea was divided by the victorious allies, and the communist North fought a bitter war with the South from 1950 to 1953. Since then, private citizens have not been allowed to cross the border, and more than 10 million family members are said to have been separated.

Saturday's performance of folk songs and dances was held at the 1,500-seat National Theater. It was packed by leading South Koreans, including many Cabinet ministers, opposition leader Lee Min-woo, businessmen, artists, newspaper publishers and editors.

The audience mildly applauded the North Korean performers before and after each number on the 1½-hour program, which carried no political overtones.

The performance followed reunions involving 15 of the 50 North Koreans who came to look for relatives they hadn't seen in 35 to 40 years.

The emotional reunions took place in a large dining hall at a plush resort hotel on the eastern outskirts of Seoul where the North Koreans were staying.

Similar reunions took place simultaneously in Pyeongyang, the North Korean capital, where South Koreans were visiting under the exchange program.

The official (North) Korean Central News Agency, in a dispatch monitored in Tokyo, said 20 members of the South Korean group were having "emotional reunions with their families and relatives."

It said, "The place of reunion is overflowing with warm kindred sentiments. They are conversing with each other, inquiring after the kin whom they had longed to see for dozens of years, never forgetting them even for a moment."

Under an agreement reached last May in Seoul, each side sent a 151-member delegation to the other side for a three-night stay. Both delegations consisted of 50 members of separated families, 50 folk art performers, 30 journalists, 20 support personnel and the head of each country's Red Cross organization.

Of the 50 visiting North Koreans, 30 had been told by the South their parents, brothers, sisters or other relatives had been located and meetings arranged.

However, only 15 met with their family members in the dining room. North Korean officials said the others did not wish to meet relatives in front of many other people and planned later meetings.

Oh Chang-kun, 80, who lives in South Korea, could hardly recognize his son, Oh Suk Hwan, 60, who has lived in the North since the two were separated during the Korean War. They hugged each other and sobbed openly.

Several minutes later, the son apologized to his father for being "an unfilial son," but he said he was doing well in the North as vice chairman of a metal workers' union in Pyongyang.

Train vandals nabbed

MANCHESTER, England — An undercover train packed with police officers and shadowed by squad cars rolled around Manchester in an attempt to catch vandals and trespassers on the tracks.

"It was a most successful exercise; we caught 24," Chief Inspector Alan Livesley said of the Friday operation.

"People do not expect the train to stop and police officers to jump out," he said.

Filipinos join protest

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand E. Marcos' troops blocked columns of marchers from reaching his palace Saturday as some 95,000 Filipinos joined in nationwide demonstrations against his 20-year-old government.

Opposition organizers said three people were wounded in shooting incidents in Manila and at least 30 demonstrators were detained as police suppressed rowdy crowds. A hospital confirmed one shooting.

JAL employee kills self

TOKYO — A Japan Air Lines employee assigned to help the families of victims of the Aug. 12 JAL plane crash was found stabbed to death early this morning in an apparent suicide.

Hiroo Tominaga, 59, was found dead with stab wounds on his neck and chest in his home in Yokohama, south of Tokyo, according to Kanagawa Prefecture (state) police. Police recovered a fruit knife near his body and a note addressed to his family, said an officer, who spoke on condition he was not identified.

South Africa aids rebels

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — South Africa has admitted for the first time that it aids rebels fighting Angola's Marxist government, two days after confirming it helped guerrillas in another nearby Marxist country, Mozambique.

Angola criticized the disclosure Friday, and accused South Africa of using a current operation in Angola to help the rebels of the Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA).

Leaders call for strike

LA PAZ, Bolivia — Labor leaders, driven underground by a government-declared state of siege, called upon workers to continue an illegal strike to protest strict measures taken to curb Bolivia's 14,000-percent inflation rate.

Oil and rail employees returned to work Friday, but thousands of miners and factory workers remained out for the 17th day.

Britain's Jewish leaders oppose talks with PLO

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has earned praise from political adversaries but disapproval from Britain's Jewish leaders for announcing her government will hold talks with officials of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Mrs. Thatcher announced plans of the meeting with Jordanian and PLO representatives Friday at the end of a five-day visit to Egypt and Jordan during which she visited a Palestinian refugee camp north of Amman.

Mrs. Thatcher said she hoped the meeting with British Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe would give a boost to the Mideast peace efforts of Jordan's King Hussein, who has proposed the joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation also meet with U.S. representatives.

Members of Mrs. Thatcher's ruling Conservatives and the opposition Labor Party welcomed the move. But the Board of Deputies of British Jews denounced it.

The board said it will do all it can to mobilize opinion against "this unacceptable policy." The board said the invitation could have serious consequences, not least for Anglo-American relations.

The United States has so far refused to meet with PLO representatives, and will not talk to the organization until it recognizes Israel's right to exist.

Hayim Pinner, the Jewish board's general secretary, condemned the planned talks as a dangerous departure from Mrs. Thatcher's pledge "not to deal with terrorists."

Q.: Would you advise speculation in real estate as a relatively sound form of investment?

A.: When considering real estate investment, think of location, current market price, area trends, usage and amount of investment, etc. Speculation in real estate, particularly housing, is a unique form of investment. Unlike more risk-prone types of speculation, people aren't buying houses and leaving them empty. Even the family whose investment is limited to its own dwelling is investing, particularly when the property appreciates in value. And, the homeowner is gaining use from his home as well as tax breaks in property tax and interest deductions. Many speculate in real estate in buying a property or two with the intention of renting. Real estate speculation, entered into wisely, even on a small scale, may be the most risk-free and rewarding form of speculation.

State lotteries win third place

As August's record $41 million jackpot in New York illustrated, state-run lotteries are the fastest-growing form of gambling in the United States. According to the trade magazine Gaming & Wagering Business, lotteries last year had total revenues of $4.1 billion, with total wagering up 37 percent over 1983. That put lotteries in third place among all commercial gambling endeavors, with 22 percent of an $18.8 billion U.S. market. Casinos, with $5 billion in 1984 revenues, came in second. Bets may now be placed on which kind of gambling finishes first.

No, not horse racing. The sport of kings finished well back in the pack with revenues of just under $2 billion. Bingo and charitable gambling were even farther behind.

The winner, and still grand champion, with $5.2 billion in revenues and almost 28 percent of the market — illegal betting. Those who picked it may collect their winning from their friendly neighborhood bookie or numbers runner. For even where legal gambling thrives — some say especially there — so too do practitioners of the illegal forms.

The myth — one that has helped persuade many states to adopt lotteries — is that legal gambling allows taxpayers to profit from and government to police an activity that occurs anyway. But even the officials who run state lotteries concede that their games do little to discourage illegal gambling or the unsavory elements that control it.

In Maryland, for example, the state lottery director says his games have cut into the illegal numbers game by "no more than 20 percent." Indeed, many illegal games there now rely on the state lottery's winning numbers to determine their own winners.

The reasons illegal gambling continues to grow in the face of legal competition are that it often pays a higher and more immediate return to winners and doesn't require the reporting of big payoffs to the tax collector. Some students of the issue also contend that many illegal gamblers are people who were introduced to betting by legal games. That's just one more negative aspect of the lottery story which tends to get drowned out by the hoopla over big jackpot payoffs.

Joseph Kraft Reagan's strategy veering to center

WASHINGTON — For months the Reagan Administration bowled lickety-split down the well-worn path that leads from landslide to the crumbling of presidential power. Then as Congress came back to town after Labor Day, a strategic retreat was executed.

While the pullback comes on narrow issues, it carries implications for the broadest elements of policy. And even though it may be merely tactical, the new tilt makes a healthy move away from the right-wing ideologues and toward the politics of the center.

In foreign policy, the Administration had emphasized a vast military buildup, and a stance of rhetorical toughness toward Russia and its proxies. To this there was added direct White House management of a guerrilla war, against the Sandinista regime in Nicaragua and a stress on the Star Wars program that jeopardized arms control.

But whatever the President and the White House staff may have been thinking, the country was not moving hard right. The majority rejected more deficits to benefit the rich; it opposed reversal of civil rights progress; it lost patience for a buildup that only increased tension.

With the 1986 elections in view, the Congress was especially sensitive to the broad popular mood. Democrats led the way, but, under the spur of competition for public favor, Republicans felt pressure to outbid them. Together they fashioned from general public feelings a host of specific challenges to the Administration.

Thus where the Administration came in with a 6 percent rise in military spending for next year the Congress cut it to zero. When the Administration laughed off black-led protests against South African race policies, the Congress voted sanctions. Against Administration economic policies, the Congress brandished a hundred different weapons — protectionism; a soak-

ris. Talk of veto was the initial White House reaction, much to the joy of congressional critics. For far more than any of his predecessors, Reagan is weak on substance but blessed with an almost magical quality to muster popular support. He wins by winning. But once beaten, the spell is broken. A Congress with its appetite whetted by the overturn of a Reagan veto would eat the rest of his authority for breakfast. Landslides would quickly become lameduckism.

Faced with that prospect the President and some of his advisers pulled back. He preempted the Congress, by himself invoking sanctions against South Africa. The Pentagon began cutting out weapons systems. Trade officials announced protectionist procedures to gain wider access for American exports. Management of the anti-Sandinista guerrillas is being moved from the White House to the State Department. The Treasury accepted a congressional stipulation that tax reform not end in revenue loss. Still more adjustments are likely in the tax field.

In that climate of compromise, Senate and House Republicans have softened their challenge to the White House. There is now no chance of overturning a veto on South African sanctions. Even on trade, the veto pen looks like an ultimate weapon.

Many Democrats fume that the switch in signals reflects tactical adjustment rather than a sincere change of heart. No doubt President Reagan will concede as little as he has to. Given half a chance he will return to the right-wing agenda. But if Congress stays vigilant, if it maintains the pressure, the White House will give way. Reagan would rather be powerful than right.

Joseph Kraft's reports on Washington, national affairs and trends are distributed nationally by the Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

Second glances By JOHN RICE Managing Editor Combine the tax collection

I doubt the average reader cares much who sends him a bill for his taxes. In fact, in many cases, tax payments are part of the monthly mortgage payment and paid by a third party anyway. But for most city residents, two tax bills are received. One comes from the office of Dorothy Moore, the Howard County tax assessor-collector. The other comes from Big Spring Independent School District.

Someone got the good idea awhile back that if all tax collection were consolidated in one place, then only one bill would be sent out. It would save a great deal of office work, and thus save money. It would save the homeowner having to receive and pay two different bills.

Monday, officials of public agencies in the county will meet to figure out whether all taxing agencies in the county can't use one office to collect their taxes.

Already there is one office to appraise taxes: the Howard County Tax Appraisal District.

Already there is one office that collects virtually all the county agencies' taxes: the Howard County tax assessor-collector's office of Dorothy Moore.

If centralized collection is a good idea, and it sure seems like it to me, then Mrs. Moore's office is the logical choice to be the single collection point for the county.

For one thing, her office already collects for Howard County, city of Big Spring, city of Coahoma, city of Forsan, Howard County Junior College District (Howard College and SWCID) and Howard County Water Control and Improvement District.

The only agencies that do their own collection are the Big Spring, Forsan and Coahoma independent school districts. It seems practical that these three should merge collection efforts under Mrs. Moore's office. After all, her office has done centralized collection for years, and it has worked well. It was the norm here long before there were centralized appraisal districts or central collection agencies elsewhere in the state. Her office has the necessary computer equipment and tax information to easily add three more agencies for collection.

It makes sense for the taxpayers, too. If all collection is done at one place, we can reduce the people in the tax offices of the three school districts, thus giving relief to taxpayers of schools already hard-pressed for money.

It's a good idea, efficient and economical, if the three school districts are willing to go along.

Plus, there's a bonus in having collection done under the watchful eye of an elected official like Mrs. Moore. We, the voters, ultimately control the office. It's not remote from the public it serves, such as is the case with, say, the county appraisal district.

Billy Graham How to keep prayer going

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Whenever I try to pray I get to thinking about the problems I am praying about and my mind wanders. I know that is not good, but I can't seem to do much about it. Do you have any suggestions? — T.B.

DEAR T.B.: Prayer is one of the greatest privileges we have when we come to Christ. When we commit our lives to Him, we are reconciled to God (although we had been enemies because of our sin) and become His children, adopted by Him into His family forever.

That is one reason why our prayers should not just be long lists of our needs, only bringing our personal problems to God. Instead, a large part of our praying should consist of praise and thanksgiving for what God had done for us.

How much of your prayer time is spent in praising and thanking God for His good gifts — especially His gift of salvation in Christ? Doing this will help keep us from getting wrapped up in our problems. "Rejoice in the Lord always ... in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God" (Philippians 4:4,6).

And if you have never accepted Christ personally, your first prayer should be one of repentance and faith, accepting God's gift of His Son and thanking Him for His love.

Then there are some practical steps you should take to avoid distractions. Have a regular time and place to pray where you won't be disturbed. Keep a written prayer list of those people and problems you are praying for. This will help you think about them in advance and keep your mind on your praying — as well as help you keep track of God's answers.

Some people find it helpful to pray out loud (or at least with their lips moving) so they will not be so easily disturbed. In addition, combine your prayer times with Bible reading, so you can pray about things God has shown you in His Word.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Around The Rim Rock around the real point

By ROBIN WARD
A pair of musicians at Thursday's Senate hearing on a plan to protect children from raunchy rock songs may have hurt their cause more than helped it.

The hearing took an angry turn, according to an Associated Press report, when the musicians mocked the prominent Washington wives who support the idea of wck musicians Frank Zappa and Dee Snider were Tipper Gore, wife of Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and Susan Baker, wife of treasury secretary James Baker. The women helped found the Parents' Resource Center, an organization of parents concerned with rock music lyrics that are sexually explicit, excessively violent or glorify the use of drugs and alcohol.

At one point in his testimony, Zappa mimicked Mrs. Baker's Southern accent. He complained that the group's proposals are a bid to "housebreak all composers and performers because of the lyrics of a few," and added: "Ladies, how dare you."

Outside, he told reporters he had written a song for the hearing titled, "Beneath Contempt."

In another tense exchange, Snider complained that some of Mrs. Gore's remarks earlier in the year were unfair.

Referring to his song "Under the Blade," which he said dealt with fear of surgery, Snider said, "The only sado-masochism, bondage and rape in this song is in the mind of Mrs. Gore."

Zappa and Snider came to Capitol Hill with the message that the group's efforts to clean up song lyrics are misguided and unduly restrictive.

The group's goals, according to Mrs. Gore, are to make record producers label records with a generic warning about adult content, to make lyrics available to the consumer before purchase, and to create a panel to set up policy guides for which records should be labeled.

Actually, the musicians have a strong case against the clean-up-rock proposals.

The idea of protecting impressionable young minds is an appealing one, but the proposed steps most probably would have the opposite effect.

Remember the advent of the Motion Picture Association of America's movie rating system? Higher ratings did not stop children from attending. In fact, G-rated movies have so little appeal for youngsters nowadays that the gratuitous addition of "strong" language, sex and violence is commonplace to achieve a "desirable" rating.

That could easily happen with music albums. Many teens would find questionable songs more appealing with a warning label attached than they would otherwise.

Unfortunately, the real issue — whether or not the proposal would be effective or desirable — may be buried beneath two musicians' insolent behavior.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Teen skips school to man ham radio

BRIAN BYRD, 15, sits in his Fort Worth home Friday monitoring the news from earthquake-stricken Mexico and contacting separated families. The youngster's school principal had no quarrel with him being out of classes to aid with his ham radio.

FORT WORTH (AP) — Brian Byrd didn't go to classes at Arlington Heights High School on Friday. Instead, the 15-year-old spent hours at his ham radio, monitoring the news from earthquake-stricken Mexico, and connecting separated families.

School principal Frances Alles had no quarrels when Byrd's mother, Judie, called early Friday to say her son would be taking the day off.

"I just told her that if he was my son and he was doing that much good, I'd let him do it," Alles said. "He'll be able to make up his work."

Through Byrd's long-range contacts, two Dallas women learned their relatives in Mexico were safe.

"It's a high point of every ham operator's hobby. It's really what you live for. But the best feeling is when you can call up people on the phone and tell them that everything's all right," Byrd said.

Since Thursday, when the first of two major earthquakes hit Mexico City, Cathy Dennis of Dallas spent anxious hours waiting for word of her father, Paul Flato, a jeweler who lives in the central section of Mexico City.

Her wait ended with a phone call Friday afternoon. Byrd had contacted a Mexico City operator and confirmed her father was safe.

"He got in touch with my father," Ms. Dennis said after hearing the news. "He's terrific."

The other Dallas woman wept when Byrd told her that her daughter in Mexico City was unharmed.

"It does give you a feeling of self-satisfaction that I can listen to the news about what's going on in Mexico before almost anyone else in the country because I have a ham license," said Byrd, seated at his radio.

Ham radios remained virtually the only direct communications link to Mexico City Saturday after an aftershock measured at 7.3 on the Richter scale struck the area Friday night.

Byrd earned his license about a year ago. He says his instructor in a ham radio course at General Dynamics told him he was the youngest operator in Fort Worth at that time.

"I consider myself one of the youngest in the nation," Byrd said. "I won't be much longer, though, because I'm getting too old."

The youth, became interested in the hobby through his father, Bill Byrd, who has been a ham operator for about 20 years.

"I would see him in there talking to someone from New Zealand. That really inspired me. I decided to study up and take the test," the younger Byrd said.

Parental involvement urged to slow Hispanic dropouts

AUSTIN (AP) — The increasing dropout rate for Hispanic high school students means parents must become more involved and schools should hire more Spanish-speaking educators, according to a national Hispanic policy group.

"Parents need to be full partners in the education of their children," says Siobhan Oppenheimer-Nicolau, president of the Washington-based Hispanic Policy Development Project.

"But unfortunately, schools don't always reach out to Hispanic parents and in many cases discourage them because there is a feeling that if they are uneducated, they have nothing to offer," she added.

Also critical, she said, is "reasonable representation" of Hispanics in all levels of public school systems — teachers, administrators and counselors.

Nicolau and two other representatives of the non-profit organization were in Austin this week to share results of the group's analysis of Hispanic education. They met with about 100 Austin parents, educators and school administrators.

The report was the culmination of more than a year of research. It indicated that:

- 45 percent of the nation's Hispanic students drop out of high school.
- 40 percent leave school before the 10th grade.
- 25 percent of Hispanic

students are older than their classmates.

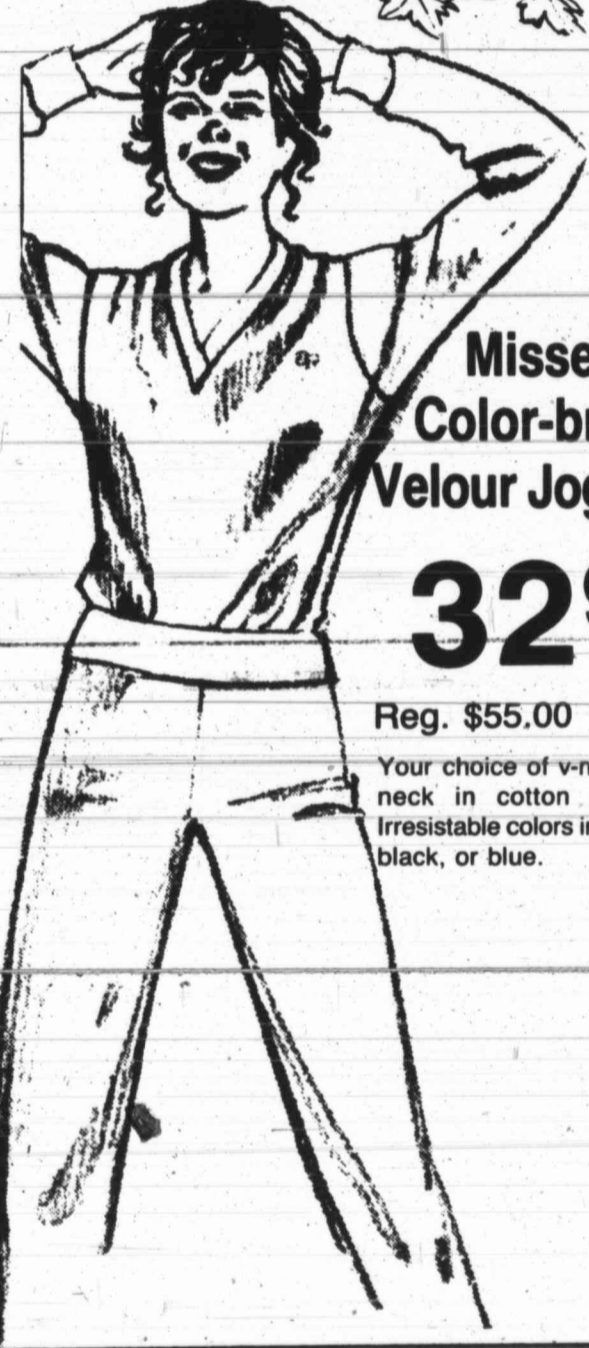

• Few Hispanic dropouts return to school.

• Few Hispanics pass exit-level competency tests, such as those which will be required by the Texas Education Agency beginning next year.

Ms. Nicolau labeled the results of the study "tragic."

"The finding of the commission is that a shocking proportion of this generation of Hispanic young people is being wasted because their education needs are neither understood nor met, their high aspirations unrecognized, their promising potential stunted," she said.

The fizz factor: Who drinks water anymore?

By the Associated Press

How about something to drink? How about a new Coke? An old Coke? With or without caffeine? With or without calories?

A brew, maybe? Low-cal? Light alcohol? No alcohol?

Perhaps wine. Regular alcohol, light alcohol or no alcohol? A wine cooler? Maybe some fruit juice with sparkling water? Or just plain water?

Over the last two decades Americans have forsaken tap water for beverages with fizz and flavor. This year the nation will spend an estimated $60 billion to slake its thirst.

So seriously do people take their beverages that Coca-Cola's decision to fiddle with its 99-year-old formula became a front-page, cultural event.

Jesse Meyers, publisher of Beverage Digest, estimates the average consumer now drinks 42 gallons of soft drinks per year, 26 gallons of coffee, 25 gallons of beer, 20 gallons of milk and 43 gallons of water. That last figure is a bit misleading, since it counts the water contained in foods; for example, the water in a popsicle.

Fifteen years ago Americans quaffed 64 gallons of water to 27 gallons of soft drinks, 36 gallons of coffee, 23 gallons of milk and 19 gallons of beer.

By the end of the decade, Meyers predicts, soft-drink consumption will hit 50 gallons per person compared to 35 gallons of water.

"Find me somebody who gets turned on by a glass of tap water anymore," he challenges.

There are many theories about the change in the nation's drinking habits. Martin Romm, who follows the intrigues of the beverage industry for First Boston Corp., a New York investment firm, says sodas have more "zip and appeal."

"The consumer is drinking water in other forms," he says. "Now it's water with flavor and no calories."

Public tastes also are influenced by the constant buzz of advertising. Coca-Cola spent an estimated $70 million last year proclaiming that Coke is it. Pepsi-Cola countered with around $50 million, using robots, space ships, even Michael Jackson, to tout the "Choice of the New Generation."

Cost is a small matter in the $23 billion soft drink industry, where a change in 1 percent of the market share is worth $230 million.

"It is a very, very important part of the business," says Ken Ross, a spokesman for Pepsi-Cola USA, which spent $1 million for a 60-second commercial featuring the Jackson brothers. "This is a glutted market and you've got to find a way to separate yourself from the pack."

The boom in the fast food industry has encouraged America's fizzy habit. Meyers estimates a third of Coke's business and 19 percent of Pepsi's sales comes from food chains like McDonald's and Burger King.

"Every day 6 percent of the U.S. population walks into McDonald's and has a soda," he says.

The fitness craze also altered drinking habits, and one of three sodas now sold is a diet brand.

Meyers, a student of the beverage industry for 24 years, theorizes the way we live determines our refreshment. Agrarian societies, he says, like beverages that are not and/or acid, like coffee, tea and beer.

"When the best thing you have to look at is the rear end of a mule, you need something to perk you up," he says.

Now Meyers thinks we are entering the "chic industrialized" period, where your drink says who you are.

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S VACATION IN EUROPE CHEVY CHASE	AMERICAN NINJA

Social Security officials to visit area locations

A representative of the Big Spring Social Security office will visit Colorado City every Wednesday in October, November and December.

The representative will be at the Wallace Community Center between 10 a.m. and noon and 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. Wednesdays, except for Christmas Day and New Year's Day, according to a release from the local office.

The representative will answer questions and assist with applications for Social Security benefits and Social Security numbers.

Big Spring representatives also will be in Snyder and Lamesa weekly.

The visits to outlying communities are being made in response to increased activity by organizations seeking to sell services that are available free from Social Security offices.

According to a release from the Social Security Administration, at least two firms are using mail order appeals offering one of two types of services — to change a person's name on his or her Social Security records or to get a statement of the earnings credited to someone's records.

Social Security officials consider the advertisements misleading because the firms imply they are performing a service that is not available without charge. Getting the service free from Social Security involves no more work than paying for it through a private firm, the release stated.

To get a statement of earnings covered by Social Security, an individual can call any Social Security office and ask for a Form SSA-7004PC. The form should be completed and mailed to the address on the back. Within three weeks, the person should receive a statement.

If you have Medicare questions, the office can offer faster service by telephone. Call toll-free 1-800-442-2620.

To apply to receive benefits, call 267-5226 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

DOG-TAGGED DOG — An unidentified woman shows a dog dressed in military trappings during Friday night's pet show at the Howard County Fair.

Lamb show has highest turnout ever

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The Howard County Fair Prospect Lamb Show this year drew 153 entries Saturday, the most ever at the show, said Don Richardson, Howard County agricultural extension agent.

Entries included some of what will be the top sheep in the state, said the show judge, Menard County extension agent Sam Kuykendall.

Kuykendall praised the lambs entered in the show. In fact, he was so taken with the overall grand champion, a heavyweight mediumwool shown by Michael Lewis, 13, of Levelland, that he came up to Michael after the show.

"Are you going to sell that lamb?" Kuykendall asked.

"Yes, for $10,000," Lewis replied. "I believe we're going to have to cheapen him up some," was the judge's response.

Lewis, who has shown lambs for six years, has won the overall grand champion lamb at the El Paso stock show and the overall reserve grand champion at the San Antonio show.

Although many of the lambs were in good shape, Kuykendall said the youths exhibiting them needed to work on their showmanship. "Don't get discouraged. Get out and work with your lambs. Some of you will go home and work on your lambs, and a lot of them will win major shows."

The youths at the show seemed to be taking the judge's advice seriously. One girl told her parents afterwards, "The judge said he wants more muscle on my leg." She paused and laughed. "I mean, my sheep's legs, not mine."

Reserve Grand Champion lamb was a mediumweight mediumwool shown by Jeff Hicks of the Hereford Future Farmers of America.

The senior showmanship award, for youths 14 to 19 years old, was given to Lacey Marquart of the Kendall County 4-H Club. Tami Voss of the Borden County 4-H Club claimed the junior showmanship award for youths 9 to 13 years old. Show superintendent was Jimmy Long.

Lady Steer spikers rip Mojo

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

The Big Spring Lady Steers methodically whipped the Odessa Permian Panthers in two matches here yesterday afternoon in District 4-5A volleyball action.

It was simple — coach Susan Sharp's Lady Steers knew they had a job to do and they went out and did it; by downing Mojo 15-3, 15-12. The win keeps Big Spring's district record perfect at 2-0 and raises its season record to 13-7.

For the most part the Lady Steers played a very consistent game, especially in the first match when they simply overwhelmed the Panthers with their aggressive play.

Led by senior spiker Monique Jones, the lady Steers kept their counterparts on the defensive end the entire match. So dominant was Big Spring in the 15-3 rout, it tried 17 spike attempts as compared to only 6 for Permian.

Big Spring downed 10 of the attempts in the contest, four came from Jones, as she missed only three attempts. In fact Jones would miss only one kill attempt in the second match as she finished the contest with 11 kills in 15 attempts.

Jones also had plenty of help from her friends in the first match rout. Setters Lisa Hale and Tab Green showed their power expertise as they combined for four kills in the match. When they weren't putting the pressure on Permian, Katrina Thompson and Tammy Green were with some mean spiking of their own.

Their booming spikes ignited a vocal home crowd which made Steer Gym a very noisy place.

Sophomore Kelly Burrows was the only offensive threat Permian had in the first match as she downed two spikes. She ended up as her team's leading spiker with 6 kills in 8 attempts.

"We looked real good," said coach Sharp when asked about her squad's first match performance. "We came out and played hard, which is sometimes hard to do when you face a team that's not that strong on volleyball tradition."

The second match gave Sharp a chance to look at some changes in her lineup. For instance, she took setters Hale and Tab Green out and let 6-1 middle blocker Sheri Myrick play the setter's position.

It also gave her a chance to give junior spiker Michelle Husted, who was coming off a injury, plenty of playing time. "We played people in different positions to see how they would do. It was a good time to experiment," explained Sharp.

"Sheri (Myrick) has some of the best hands on the team so I let her play some setter. Michelle (Husted) is coming off a knee injury and practiced just once this week. She needed to be out there on the floor for the playing time."

As far as the spectators go, the second match was better from their point of view. Unlike the first match which it took the home team a mere 11 minutes to put Permian away, this match was highly competitive. After Big Spring jumped out to a quick 4-0 lead and stretched it to 11-5, it looked like another quick match was in store.

But Permian rallied back behind the net play of Burrows and Chelle Sullivan. The Panthers scored six unanswered points to tie the game at 11. That's when Jones took over as sets from Hale and Tab Green resulted into fierce kills by the Lady Steer senior spiker.

With Hale at the line, Big Spring ended the game as Tab Green set Jones, who downed another spike, giving Big Spring a 15-13 win.

JV'S WIN

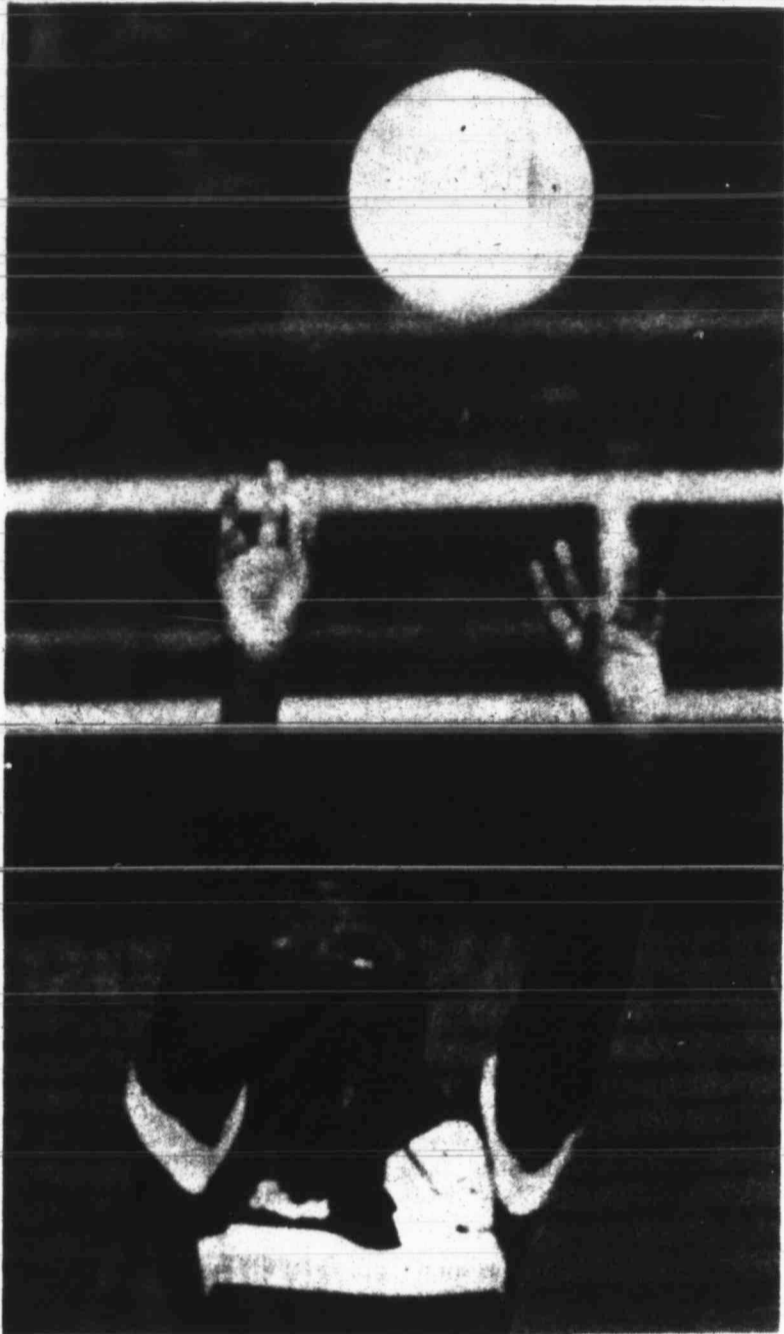

The Big Spring Lady Steers junior varsity evened its district record to 1-1 by downing Permian 15-8, 15-2. This was sweet revenge for the loss Permian handed coach Elaine Stone's troops last week in the District Junior Varsity Tournament.

Stone credited Kim Phipps and Nicky Rodriguez for their fine overall play. "We regained the teamwork we needed to win," added Stone.

The JV's record is now 12-6 for the season.

Big Spring Lady Steer spiker-setter TAB GREEN readies to make a set to one of her teammates in Saturday afternoon action against Odessa Permian. The Lady Steers won the game in two matches.

Two tied for Southwest golf lead

ABILENE (AP) — Andy Bean, Mike Reid and Hal Sutton went on a birdie binge in the $400,000 Southwest Golf Classic Saturday and figure they'll have to do the same thing again Sunday to win the $72,000 first place prize.

Bean and Reid birdied the final hole to take a one-shot lead over Sutton going into the final round at 15-under par 201.

"If there is no wind, it will take a 67 or 68 on Sunday to win," Bean said. "This course will yield a lot of good scores and I hope I shoot one of them."

Reid agreed, saying, "We couldn't shake Sutton today so I guess it will be all three of us going after it tomorrow. Of course, someone five shots back could win. There will be a lot of low scores."

Sutton had five birdies and said "it might take lower than a 67 to win on Sunday. If the wind doesn't blow, the scores are going to be mighty low."

Bean had six birdies with two bogeys and the steady Reid churned out five birdies.

Reid, a tour non-winner, shot a 5-under-par 67 while Bean, who had the lead by one stroke starting the round, fashioned a 68 on a windless day that was perfect for low scoring.

"No matter what I did, it didn't look like I was going to catch Andy, but I finally did," said Reid. "It will be a dogfight tomorrow."

Bean, whose last victory was the 1984 Greensboro Open, said, "It was a different course out there today. The greens were moist from the overnight rains and you could hit the ball right at the flag."

Sutton, winner of the 1985 Memphis Open, was lurking just a shot behind at 14-under-par 202 following his own 67 with brilliant putting on greens moist from overnight rain.

Richard Zokol, Dan Pohl and Howard Twitty were at 205, 11 under par. Pohl and Twitty each shot 68.

Zokol of Vancouver, British Columbia, used only 25 putts to fire the best round of the day, an 8-under-par 64, just a shot off the course record.

Zokol, who switched to cross-handed putting two months ago, highlighted his round by holing a sand wedge from 30 feet for an eagle three on the 528-yard, par 5 No. 14.

He had a rollercoaster round of eight birdies, an eagle and two bogeys. His longest birdie putt was 25 feet as he fashioned nines of 33-31 over the par 36-36-72 Fairway Oaks Golf Club.

"It's the best round since I shot 64 to win the final round of the B.C. Open in 1982," said Zokol. "I made up a lot of ground out there today. I just fed the horse and let it run."

Former U.S. amateur king Bill Sander was at 10-under-par 206 after shooting a 71.

Tough to pick winners in NFL

By The Associated Press
This may be momentum year in the National Football League.

And reverse momentum year.

The Dallas Cowboys were sky-high for the Washington Redskins the first week, then went flat and were knocked off by Detroit. The Green Bay Packers were dreadful against New England, Forrest Gregg jumped all over them and they went home and beat the Giants.

In other words, who knows? Which brings us to the Kansas City Chiefs, who were flying when they beat the Raiders last week. Does that mean they'll be flat in Miami Sunday against the Dolphins?

Maybe. On the other hand, the Dolphins are down to five linebackers and are without Mark Duper. The Chiefs, with 10 days to prepare, are a legitimately good team with an offense that mirrors Miami's — a lot of passing and not much running.

The Dolphins are favored by 4. Kansas City keeps the momentum going.

... CHIEFS.

San Francisco (minus 3) at the Raiders.

The 49ers were moving in reverse for the first six quarters they played this season. Then ... bingo ... 35 points in the second half against Atlanta. The momentum continues against the old cross-bay rivals

... 49ERS.

It's time for the Dallas pendulum to swing upward before the home folks. It's time for the Cleveland pendulum to swing downward after an emotional win over Pittsburgh before the home folks. But nobody will score a lot of points ...

... BROWNS

St. Louis (plus 1½) at the Giants. Neither of these is the easiest to figure — the Cards are a scary 2-0 and the Giants are continuing their habit of alternating the good with the bad. The positive and negative momentum factors point to the Giants, so take the

... CARDS

Houston (plus 5½) at Pittsburgh. Were it not for a zebra's ruling, the Oilers would be 2-0 against the NFL's elite. Were it not for the Colts, the Steelers would be 0-2. Houston may be the league's most improved team, but the momentum factor says

... STEELERS

CINCINNATI (minus 4) over San Diego. Sam Wyche says the Bengals will win one soon. With the Cincinnati offense against the San Diego defense, Sunday is soon ...

... BENGALS.

Also (Home Team in Caps):

Detroit (minus 5) over INDIANAPOLIS

New England (minus 6) over BUFFALO

Philadelphia (plus 14) over

Spinks outpoints Holmes for title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Michael Spinks made boxing history Saturday night by out-pointing previously unbeaten Larry Holmes to become the first light-heavyweight champion to win the heavyweight title.

Spinks' unanimous 15-round decision ruined the 35-year-old Holmes' attempt to tie Rocky Marciano's record of 49 victories without a loss.

Spinks, who weighed 200 pounds, 25 over the light-heavyweight class limit, threw punches in flurries and never let Holmes get him in serious trouble throughout the fight. In doing so, he did what nine previous light-heavyweight champions or former champions couldn't do in the heavyweight division.

A full house in an 1,192 seat outdoor arena at the Riviera Hotel and Casino let out a wild roar as the decision was announced making Spinks the International Boxing Federation champion. Diane Holmes sat quietly weeping beneath her husband's corner.

Judges Dave Moretti and Harold Lederman each scored it 143-142 for the 29-year-old Spinks. Judge Lawrence Wallace scored it 145-142 for Spinks.

The AP favored Holmes 144-141.

Immediately after bout, Holmes, saying he "had nothing to prove," said he wouldn't fight again.

Spinks, 6-foot-2½, seemed to waste a lot of time moving back and forth in several rounds, but the judges obviously thought he did enough.

When he did elect to fight, Spinks threw more punches than Holmes and did land several of them. Holmes, looking every bit his 35 years, never really got into his rhythm, but he did score well with jabs and was effective to the body.

Following the major upset Holmes said quietly, "I had my time."

The defeat came in his 22nd world title bout. Now he will not become the second heavyweight champion to retire undefeated.

Holmes pressed throughout but didn't throw his right hand as much as his corner wanted him to. When he did throw it, it was often to the body.

Spinks threw a lot of jabs and never allowed Holmes to trap him except on two or three occasions. One of them was in the 15th round when Holmes, 221½, shook Spinks with a left-right and right-left along the ropes, but Spinks escaped.

"He threw more effective punches," Moretti said of Spinks.

"Michael used very, very good ring generalship," said Lederman. "Michael was the ring general."

"I had it even going into the 15th and Michael won the 15th."

Spinks did land a couple of good flurries after Holmes shook him early in the round.

Of the added weight, Spinks said, "I didn't lose any speed, I was hitting faster at the end than the beginning."

Neither fighter was ever close to going down and neither was marked badly.

Spinks did complain on several occasions that Holmes was thumbing him with the left hand.

The victory for the undisputed light-heavyweight champion gave him a 28-0 record with 19 knockouts and earned him a permanent place in boxing legend.

The younger brother of former heavyweight champion Leon Spinks did what some of the great fighters in the light-heavyweight division could not do. Men like Georges Carpentier, Billy Conn, Archie Moore and Bob Foster.

Spinks, a 6-1 underdog, also avenged his brother's three-round knockout loss to Holmes in 1981.

Spinks' victory came on the 30th anniversary of Marciano's ninth-round knockout of Moore in what was Marciano's last fight.

Holmes had said before the fight that he wanted to run his record to 50-0 before the year was out and then retire.

"I want to close the book by the end of the year," said Holmes.

Michael Spinks closed the book for him Saturday night.

"I'm the champ, I'm the champ," shouted Spinks in the ring.

(No. 4) Iowa 48, Northern Illinois 20
IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Chuck Long passed for 270 yards and five touchdowns, three to Bill Happel, as fourth-ranked Iowa shattered two school passing records and tied another in a 48-20 romp over Northern Illinois Saturday.

Long, who was 18 of 28 but had three intercepted, led an Iowa attack that overwhelmed the Huskies on offense, 534 yards to 85.

(No. 7) Ohio St. 36, Colorado 13
BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Quarterback Jim Karsatos tossed three touchdown passes, including an 11-yard strike to tailback John Woodridge, who ran for 119 yards and another TD, as No. 7 Ohio State pounded outmanned Colorado 36-13 in intercollegiate college football action Saturday.

Ohio State dominated Colorado throughout the game with an aggressive Buckeye defense forcing the Buffaloes into four costly turnovers and the offense cashed in each one for a total of 22 points.

(No. 6) Florida St. 19, Memphis St. 10
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Kirk Coker threw a 13-yard touchdown pass to Darrin Holloman and Derek Schmidt kicked four field goals Saturday as sixth-ranked Florida State bounced back from a lethargic start to beat Memphis State 19-10.

Coker replaced injured Florida State quarterback Danny McManus in the final minute of the first half, and his TD flip to Holloman gave the Seminoles a 13-10 lead with 3:05 left in the third quarter.

The final outcome was not assured, however, until Coker's fourth field goal — a 24-yarder with 50 seconds.

(No. 10) Penn St. 17, East Carolina 10
STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) —

John Shaffer passed for one touchdown and third-string tailback Kevin Woods ran for another, then 10th-ranked Penn State survived a third-quarter scare to beat East Carolina 17-10 Saturday.

It was the third victory of the season for the unbeaten Nittany Lions and the first loss after two triumphs for East Carolina.

Penn State took a 7-0 lead 6:54 into the first period on a 4-yard touchdown pass from Shaffer to Eric Hamilton. East Carolina cut it to 7-3 late in the opening period on a 34-yard field goal by Jeff Heath.

In the second period, Woods capped a four-play, 44-yard Penn State drive with a 24-yard scoring run, his first collegiate touchdown, to give the Lions a 14-3 lead.

But the Pirates cut the deficit to 14-10 with 6:16 remaining in the third period when fullback Anthony Simpson bulled 8 yards for a touchdown to complete an 11-play, 64-yard drive.

Michigan 34, (No. 15) South Carolina 3
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Michigan continued to rebound from its embarrassing 1984 season Saturday with its second straight victory over a Top Twenty opponent, defeating 15th-ranked South Carolina 34-3 behind the passing and running of Jim Harbaugh.

The senior quarterback capped a time-consuming 76-yard drive by scoring on a 5-yard run late in the first period and pitched out to tailback Jamie Morris for a 4-yard touchdown run that gave the 19th-ranked Wolverines a 14-0 lead with 2:11 remaining in the first half.

Harbaugh, who completed only seven of 17 passes for 74 yards in last week's triumph over Notre Dame that knocked the Irish out of the Associated Press rankings, did better than that in the first half alone when he was 9-of-13 for 126 yards. He finished with 12-of-22 for 164 yards.

(No. 18) Nebraska 52, (No. 20) Illinois 25
LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne and Illinois Coach Mike White hoped their football teams would come of age Saturday.

Eighteenth-ranked Nebraska did in the 52-25 victory over the 20th-ranked Illini thanks largely to Cornhusker I-back Doug DuBose and his three touchdowns.

DuBose a junior speedster rushed for 191 yards to drop Illinois and the hopes of White.

Nebraska safety Chris Carr, who had one of two interception returns for touchdowns, said he believed Illinois is a good team.

"Illinois is the type of team you can't hold to 150 to 200 yards passing. The deal is to keep them out of the end zone, which we did," said Carr, who returned a Jack Trudeau pass 56 yards to score two minutes after DuBose's first 1-yard TD run.

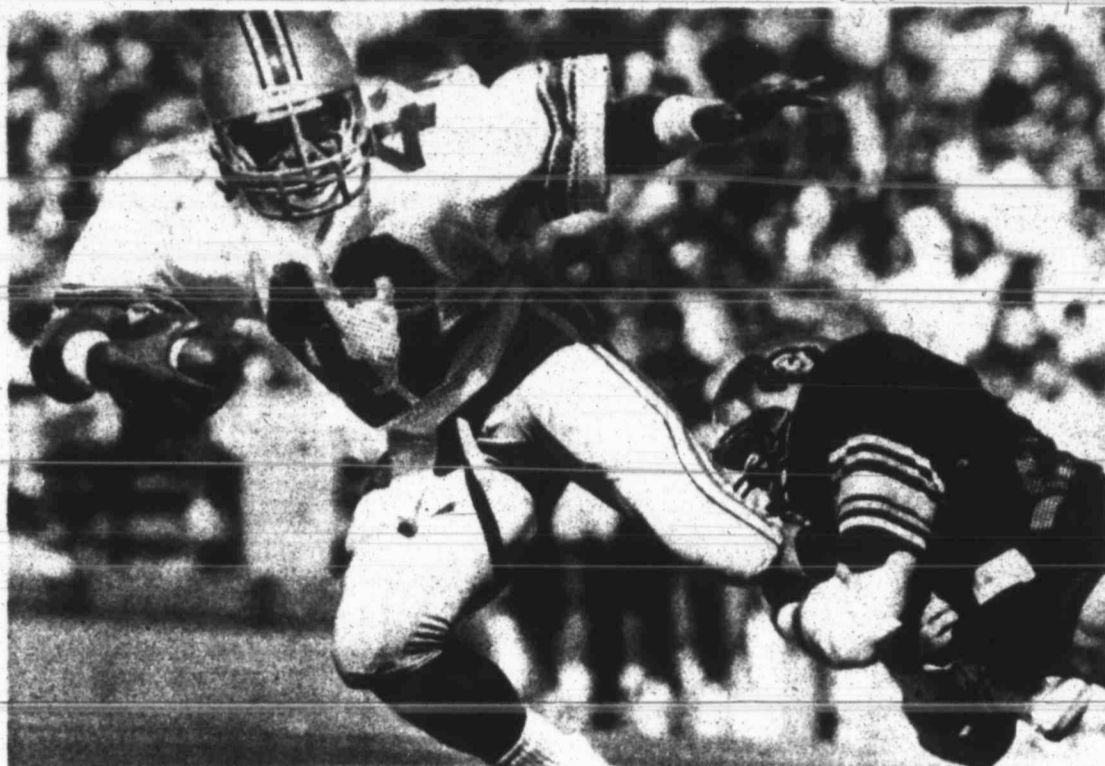

Arizona 23, California 17
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Arizona safety Allan Durden intercepted a pass at his six-yard line with 1½ minutes remaining Saturday, killing a California drive and preserving a 23-17 Pacific-10 victory for the unbeaten Wildcats.

Linebacker Boomer Gibson and cornerback Gordon Bunch made key defensive plays which helped Arizona, down 10-0 after one period, go ahead in the second quarter. Max Zendejas kicked three field goals for the Wildcats, raising his career total to 65, fifth highest in major college football history.

Georgia 20, Clemson 13
CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Georgia defensive back John Little intercepted two Randy Anderson passes in the fourth quarter to lead the Bulldogs to a 20-13 win over Clemson Saturday.

Little intercepted the Tiger quarterback with about eight minutes left in the game at the

But Little's critical steal came with less than a minute left when Anderson threw a desperation bomb from the Georgia 36-yard-line intended for receiver Shelton Boyer in the end zone.

Notre Dame 27, Michigan State 10
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Sophomore flanker Tim Brown returned the second half kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown and grabbed a 49-yard pass to set up Allen Pinkett's 2-yard touchdown Saturday night, leading Notre Dame to a 27-10 victory over Michigan State.

Brown's kickoff return broke a 7-7 tie and after Chris Caudell had booted a 21-yard field goal for Michigan State, Steve Buerlein hit Brown with the 49-yard pass to set up the clinching touchdown early in the fourth quarter.

Michigan State started quarterback Bobby McAllister in place of injured Dave Yarema and the freshman directed the Spartans to a 7-0 lead on the game's opening drive.

McAllister completed his first three passes but failed to convert another until the closing minutes as the Notre Dame defense sacked him four times for losses totaling 24 yards.

TCU wins without star running back

Texas Christian 24, Kansas St. 22
MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Texas Christian's defense, stripped of four starters when Coach Jim Wacker suspended six players for accepting illegal booster payments, batted down a pass during Kansas State's conversion play in the last minute to preserve a 24-22 victory Saturday.

TCU, 20, trailed 16-7 at halftime but came back with a touchdown and field goal in the third quarter to take the lead, 17-16. The Frogs then seemed to put the game away with a 49-yard scoring drive in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback Scott Ankrom led the TCU rally, passing 41 yards to halfback Tony Jeffery for a third-quarter touchdown and running 11 yards himself for the final Horned Frog score with four minutes left.

TCU played without star running back Kenneth Davis, one of those suspended by Wacker on Friday. His replacement, freshman Bobby Davis, gained 47 yards on 12 carries.

Following an AFA field goal, Rice drew within 17-10 on a Mark Comalander shovel pass that running back Antonio Brinkley carried 61 yards for a TD.

(No. 14) Arkansas 24, Tulsa 0
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Greg Thomas, formerly of San Angelo Central High School in Texas, threw the first touchdown of his college career and shifty Bobby Joe Edmonds set up two scores with long punt returns as 14th-ranked Arkansas defeated Tulsa 24-0 Saturday night.

Thomas, who completed only three of 10 in his first start last week, hooked up with Donnie Centers on a 16-yard pass that put Arkansas on top 7-0 less than six minutes into the game.

Washington 29, Houston 12
HOUSTON (AP) — Washington kicker Jeff Jaeger punted a school record five field goals and fullback Rick Fenney scored on a one-yard run as the Huskies ended a season opening two-game losing streak with a 29-12 victory over Houston Saturday night.

Jaeger, Washington's leading scorer the past two seasons, booted 38 and 19 yarders and Fenney, returning from an ankle injury, scored in the second quarter for a 13-10 halftime lead.

Texas Tech 28, North Texas State 7
LUBBOCK (AP) — Freshman quarterback Travis Price rushed for 85 yards, including a seven-yard touchdown run in the fourth period, to lead Texas Tech to an easy 28-7 non-conference college football victory over North Texas State Saturday night.

Price, who took over for starting quarterback Aaron Keesee early in the third quarter, added five passing yards in the Tech win, which kept the Red Raiders undefeated in their three outings this season.

Texas A&M 31, Northeast Louisiana 17
COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Fullback Anthony Toney scored all three Texas A&M touchdowns as the Aggies beat Northeast Louisiana 31-17 Saturday night in a non-conference game.

Toney carried for 106 yards and Eric Franklin added three field goals as A&M evened its record at 1-1. Northeast Louisiana, a Southern Conference Division 1-AA team, fell to 1-1.

The Aggies broke a 14-14 tie late in the third quarter when Toney carried five times to pick up the final 25 yards of a 55-yard drive. He scored from the one.

Baylor 20, (No. 3) USC 13
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Muecke ran for one touchdown and threw for another Saturday night, then unranked Baylor made a goal-line stand to hold on and upset third-ranked Southern Cal 20-13.

The Bears, who took the lead for keeps in the second quarter, stopped the Trojans after they moved to the Baylor 7-yard line with 3:23 remaining.

Four running plays — one by quarterback Sean Salisbury and three by tailback Ryan Knight — got Southern Cal no closer than the 3-yard line. Baylor then took over and ran out the final minute of the clock.

Baylor is now 2-1, while the Trojans are 1-1.

Texas 21, Missouri 17
AUSTIN (AP) — Quarterback Bret Stafford was a surprise starter at quarterback for the Texas Longhorns Saturday night and scored on a weaving 36-yard run as Texas edged Missouri 21-17 in an intercollegiate football game.

Texas led 21-7 early in the third quarter when safety John Hagy fumbled a Missouri punt for a 53-yard Tiger gain that almost turned the game around.

Four plays after the fumble, which was recovered by Tony Facinelli at the Texas 31, Missouri quarterback Warren Seitz scrambled 16 yards up the middle for a Missouri touchdown.

Texas' offense, which also lost a fumble at midfield, couldn't move after the fumbled punt, and Missouri got a 53-yard field goal from Tom Whelihan with 5:19 left in the game.

The Longhorns took the following kickoff and used up the rest of the time to clinch a victory in their season opener.

Air Force 59, Rice 17
AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Quarterback Bart Weiss ran for 172 yards and three touchdowns and the Air Force special teams contributed to two other scores as the Falcons pummeled Rice 59-17 Saturday in college football.

Weiss' well-timed delayed pitch to halfback Kelly Pittman produced a 7-yard score early in the second quarter that gave the wishbone-oriented Falcons a 14-3

Mets, Cardinals win, Astros stop Reds

Baseball Roundup

By The Associated Press
The St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets each won Saturday to keep a tight 1-2 in the National League East race, while the Los Angeles Dodgers loosened things up a bit in the NL West.

Jack Clark's two-run homer gave St. Louis an uphill 7-6 victory over the Montreal Expos, maintaining the Cardinals' East lead at two games over the Mets.

The Mets kept pace with the Cards with a 12-1 rout of the Pittsburgh Pirates, behind the pitching and hitting of Dwight Gooden.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, routed the San Francisco Giants 11-2 to improve their lead in the NL West to 5½ games over the Cincinnati Reds. The Reds, who had been making a charge at the Dodgers of late, dropped a 9-5 decision to the Houston Astros.

In American League day action, the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1 in 14 innings to maintain their 6½-game lead over the New York Yankees in the AL East.

In other games, Chicago beat Philadelphia 9-2 in the National League, and Boston beat Detroit 7-6 in the AL.

Cardinals 7, Expos 6
Clark's home run, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, was his 22nd of the season but only his first since Aug. 16. The blow climaxed the Cardinals' uphill climb from a 6-1 deficit and gave them their ninth victory in the past 10 games.

Cesar Cedeño, hitting .466 since being acquired Aug. 29 from Cincinnati, capped a four-run burst in the sixth with an RBI single that pulled the Cardinals within 6-5.

"Clark is always a threat," said Montreal Manager Buck Rodgers. "He's a threat (even) at the airport to hit one out, he's a good addition to that ballclub. Jack Clark is not just a home-run hitter. He knows how to play the game."

Mets 12, Pirates 1
Gooden pitched a four-hitter in eight innings and drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single, leading the Mets over the Pirates.

Gooden's homer, his first in the major leagues, capped New York's seven-run first inning. Gooden, 22-4, also drove in a run in the fifth inning with a single, then singled again in the seventh, giving him 20 hits this season, a record for a Mets pitcher. Tom Seaver had 18 in 1971. The Mets collected 18 hits off five Pittsburgh pitchers.

Gooden, quiet on all subjects but his hitting, said the home run "definitely is my biggest thrill. It's the icing on the cake for my '85 season. It's the biggest thrill of my season, better than a two-hitter or a shutout. I'll take a homer any day."

Dodgers 11, Giants 2
Jerry Reuss pitched a five-hitter and knocked in a pair of runs with a single and sacrifice fly, leading Los Angeles over San Francisco.

Reuss, 13-10, retired 18 of 19 he got all the offensive support he needed when the Dodgers erupted for seven runs in the fifth, equaling their season-high production for an inning set against the Giants on July 29.

Astros 9, Reds 5
Tim Tolman slammed a three-run homer in the eighth inning to power the hot Astros over the Reds. With the score tied 5-5, Tolman belted his second home run of the season off loser John Franco, 12-3, to provide the Astros with their 21st victory in their last 25 games.

Blue Jays 2, Brewers 1
Kelly Gruber's bases-loaded single with one out in the 14th inning drove home Toronto's winning run over Milwaukee. Toronto's magic number for winning its first-ever division title was reduced to nine.

With one out in the 14th, George Bell singled off Danny Darwin, 7-18. Jesse Barfield followed with a single that sent Bell to second and Rick Leach followed with a walk that loaded the bases. Gruber hit an 0-2 pitch over Milwaukee's drawn-in infield for the game-winning single.

Dennis Lamp, the fifth Toronto pitcher, went 1 1-3 innings and improved his record to 10-0.

Yankees 5, Orioles 2
Joe Cowley and Brian Fisher combined on a five-hitter and Ron Hassey and Ken Griffey hit home runs to help New York break an eight-game losing streak.

Cowley, 11-5, who had not won since Aug. 10, held the Orioles to three hits in six innings. Brian Fisher relieved Cowley and allowed two hits for his 13th save.

Baltimore starter Storm Davis, 10-8, was forced to leave the game in the third after a line drive by Mike Pagliarulo that went for a double hit him in the wrist.

Cubs 9, Phillies 2
Ryne Sandberg drove in two runs in an eight-run fifth inning and rookie Johnny Abrego won his first major league game as Chicago defeated Philadelphia.

Abrego, the Phillies' first pick in the 1981 draft who was later picked up by the Cubs, allowed four hits over six innings, struck out five and walked four. Kevin Gross, 14-11, was the loser.

Red Sox 7, Tigers 6
Wade Boggs broke a 73-year-old Boston club record with his 222nd and 223rd hits of the season, leading the Red Sox over Detroit. Boggs tied Tris Speaker's record of 222 hits set in 1912 with an RBI single to center in the second inning and then broke the Hall of Famer's team mark with another line single to center in the fifth.

By going 2-for-5, Boggs had his average remain at .374, tops in the major leagues.

Foreign athletes big hit in America

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

He was a moon-faced, sixth-grade dropout from the tiny Mexican village of Etchohuauquila who moved north across the border to scrub out a living, not in the fruitlands of California, but in a smaller field known as a diamond.

He threw a baseball — fast enough to make it look like a grape to major league hitters — and within two years he was responsible for "Fernandomania." While still barely able to speak English, Fernando Valenzuela was lunching with President Reagan at the White House as the million-dollar ace of the Los Angeles Dodgers pitching staff.

Now 24, he drives a sleek Corvette with personalized "FV34" plates, he has a three-bedroom condominium with a panoramic view of Los Angeles, and he has built his parents a mansion back in Etchohuauquila.

A pudgy teen-age tennis player from Czechoslovakia stood under a tent at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N.Y., and announced, in faltering English, that she didn't want to return to her Communist homeland. She wanted to be an American.

Some six years and several million dollars later, on July 21, 1981, she was granted U.S. citizenship.

At age 27, Martina Navratilova has become one of the most affluent professional athletes, male or female, in any sport, and one of the most dominant players ever in women's tennis.

The "Americanization" of Martina has included jeans, jazz, Gucci purses, fast cars and homes in Texas and New York. She is a one-woman conglomerate, surrounded by a staff of specialists who not only handle her profitable commercial enterprises, but monitor her training, diet and frame of mind.

Valenzuela and Navratilova represent the epitome of the newest breed of immigrant, lured to American shores by the promise of a better and richer life.

Unlike the millions who passed through Ellis Island, many of those migrating today have found they can parlay athletic skills into instant riches.

America has become a ripe prospecting land not only because of its prestigious tournaments, but because it provides athletes with broad television exposure and unlimited opportunities for extra commercial income.

In baseball, Valenzuela is just one of the 111 foreign-born players listed on 1985 major league rosters. While most of them are from Latin America, long a baseball breeding ground, some have come from countries such as Germany, France and Canada.

Not all are millionaires like Valenzuela, who is still cultivating a merchandising image, but average baseball paychecks aren't bad either. The average salary for some 500 players is $360,000.

Nearly half the imported major leaguers have established permanent homes in the United States. Among them: the Dominican Republic's Cesar Cedeño of the Cincinnati Reds, Panama's Ben Oglivie of the Milwaukee Brewers and Nicaragua's Dennis Martinez of the Baltimore Orioles. The Reds' Dave Concepcion and Mario Soto head home for the winter — Concepcion to Venezuela and Soto to the Dominican Republic.

The mother lodes of America's gold mines, however, are found in the tennis and golf tours, both men and women, young and old.

The richest is the PGA Tour, which annually generates $30 million in prize money. It launched both Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus on golf and business careers that net each $250 million to $400 million a year.

Gary Player, the South African with an affinity for black playing attire, was one of the first to recognize the limitless wealth tied to the divots and sand traps on U.S. courses.

The diminutive shotmaker from Johannesburg had a commuter airline ticket to cross the Atlantic, starting in 1957. During a 27-year span, he never missed a campaign, winning 21 tour victories and amassing career earnings of more than $1.8 million.

After Player, foreign golfers started coming over in small clusters: Australians Peter Thomson, Bruce Crampton, Bruce Devlin and David Graham, Canada's Al Balding.

Christoval romps over Grady

CHRISTOVAL — The Christoval Cougars protected their No. 8 ranking by taking a 76-29 over the wireless Grady Wildcats Friday night. Christoval built up a 32-7 first quarter lead and stretched it to 54-7 at the half.

Grady quarterback Luis Gonzales threw scoring strikes of 38 and 34 yards to Joe Valle for two scores. He then found Wade Miller for a 17-yard scoring pass. Gonzales ended the night with 9 completions in 16 attempts for 132 yards.

Grady's final score came on a 80 yard kickoff return by Arnold Valasco.

Christoval is 3-0 for the season while Grady falls to 0-3.

Goliad B whitewashes Snyder

The only TD of the game came on a run by Freddy Rodriguez. Darryl Wrightsil ran in the two-point conversion.

The Goliad defense limited Snyder to a paltry 12 yards total offense for the game. Joe Miramontes was top defensive player for Goliad.

A long road back

Former Big Spring family rebuilds after tragic accident

By CAROL BALDWIN
Lifestyle Editor

Former Big Spring resident Mary Grinnan remembers a scream, a flash of color and a grinding collision. Her family's car had collided with a pickup driven by a man later arrested on suspicion of drunk driving on a highway near Austin.

In the span of seconds, the lives of Mary, 28, her husband Gordon, 30, and their three children were drastically thrown off course. The family, who had recently moved to Austin from Big Spring, was returning home from a Christmas visit to Big Spring when the wreck occurred.

It is a story Mary has repeated to others, including Austin reporters, dozens of times. She repeats it, she says, to warn others about the dangers of driving while intoxicated.

At the time of the accident, Mary and two of her three sons were sitting in the back seat. Gordon was driving and their oldest son, Brian, 5, was sitting with his father in the front seat.

What happened next will haunt Mary for the rest of her life.

"I remember Gordon yelled something," she said. "I sat up and saw a flash of orange. I braced myself (against the front seat) and broke my wrist."

Gordon Grinnan sustained massive head injuries. The rear view mirror sliced through the frontal lobe of his brain. Nine months later he remains in a coma. Doctors have offered Mary no hope of recovery.

Mary sustained severe internal injuries, a broken back, broken wrist and broken nose. Moments after the collision, lying in the wreckage of their automobile, Mary said, "I could hear two of my kids crying. I couldn't hear Brian."

Firemen and paramedics arrived on the scene quickly, and Mary begged them to get her children out of the car.

"I was upset, but I remember this so well. I kept telling them where the (children) were sitting in the car. I kept asking, 'Where is Brian?'"

She was told later that Brian, 5, was "trapped in the front seat. He had broken both legs."

Firemen had the "Jaws of Life" rescue equipment, which they used to free Brian. Mary couldn't hear him crying because "he was talking to the firemen," she said. "He told them what had happened."

Firemen kept the youngster talking in an attempt to keep him calm.

Mary Grinnan sits with her sons, Brian, Michael and Andy Paul, at her parents' home in Big Spring recently. The Grinnans were in a traffic accident in December and Mary's husband, Gordon, remains in a coma in an Austin hospital. The recent visit with Mary's family, Tom and Helen Ament, was the first trip home for the Grinnans since the accident.

"He was real upset. He thought that Gordon was dead," Mary said.

The family was rushed to Brackenridge Hospital in Austin. Mary said she remembers only bits and pieces of what happened in the hospital's emergency room.

"I kept thinking, 'I just want to listen so I'll know what is going on,'" she said. Mary was in intense pain, and a doctor told her that "he was going to make an incision in my stomach" to check for internal injuries.

Within hours Mary underwent major surgery. Doctors did reconstructive surgery on her face to repair the broken nose and facial lacerations. For weeks after the accident, "no one would let me see a mirror," Mary said.

A pin was placed in her shattered wrist on Dec. 30. It was several days before doctors realized she had broken her back.

"I started to get out of bed one day and couldn't," she said. Doctors again performed surgery to replace vertebrae that had been crushed in the accident.

Doctors discovered that Michael, 3, suffered internal injuries in the accident, and he was rushed to surgery. Brian was placed in a body cast.

Only Andy Paul, a 2-month-old infant at the time of the crash, emerged from the wreck unscathed. Although all the family members had been wearing their seatbelts, Andy Paul was firmly strapped in his car seat, facing the back of the automobile. The child had glass fragments in his hair that paramedics removed by pouring pitchers of water over his head.

On the night of the accident, Mary was asked in the emergency room if there was anyone who should be notified. She asked doctors to call her family in Big Spring. Her mother and father, Tom and Helen Ament, threw a few things together and left for Austin immediately after receiving the call.

While the Aments headed for Austin, Andy Paul, was sent to a foster home to spend the night.

"The woman there told me he stayed awake until 2 a.m. He went through an emotional trauma," Mary said. Weeks later, Andy Paul "would wake up screaming," she said.

Mary credits her parents and brothers and sisters with helping her get through a difficult time. "I would never have made it without my parents," she said.

Mary would suffer setbacks in the weeks of her recovery. She worried about her children and asked for progress reports on her husband. She remained in the hospital until the end of January.

"Michael bounced back within two weeks," Mary said. "Brian took a little longer. He was better toward the end of February."

Brian "had to see a child psychologist for three weeks," Mary said. "He and Gordon were very close. But he's done really well."

Although Mary and her sons are doing well, she is realistic about her husband's chances.

"I had my last conference with the doctor about a month ago," Mary said. "He told me that Gordon is the worst case he's ever seen. He's a vegetable. He told me he would be very surprised if Gordon lived for more than two years."

Mary had to make the hardest decision of her life when confronted with the news that Gordon's condition was critical.

"The doctor recommended stopping the antibiotic treatments (that fight off recurring infections) and let him die."

Mary, after long consideration, agreed with the doctor.

Facing life without Gordon has been hard. "It's hard to watch someone you love lying in a hospital."

But she is realistic. "No matter how much I want him back, that's not going to make him come back."

"I feel like the doctors did him an injustice in keeping him alive this long."

Mary said her husband "is alive but not living."

Gordon Grinnan's 30th birthday was July 9. The couple's anniversary also went by, virtually unnoticed, as family members battled back from the tragedy.

Doctors told Mary they want Gordon moved to a nursing home. She is concerned with the exorbitant costs of nursing home care.

The nursing home will cost about $2,200 a month, Mary said. Insurance will not pick up the cost, and Mary is trying to obtain Medicare. She must meet several requirements before being eligible for Medicare.

She is making a living for her family by selling Tupperware and has become a manager for the firm. Insurance has covered most of the medical bills to date, and her church in Austin is paying for the family's duplex, she said.

According to an article in the Austin American-Statesman about the Grinnan family, the driver of the pickup involved in the accident had been arrested Christmas Eve on a drunk driving charge and had been released a short time later. Within 48 hours he was involved in the accident with the Grinnan family. He was injured in the accident and taken to an Austin hospital, where he later was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

A trial has been postponed, and Mary awaits word on when it will be rescheduled.

Mary said she feels some bitterness toward the driver of the other vehicle.

"I don't feel like this guy will ever go to jail," she said. "I don't think that is fair."

Although it is painful to relive the accident, Mary has no plans to quit talking about the tragedy.

It was a brutal lesson, but Mary says the experience has taught her one thing she wants to share with others. "We've got to get these drunks off the road. He was out celebrating, and look what he did to my family."

Prison term turns couple towards ministry

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer

A three-year prison term has separated B.J. and Helen Bateman physically but brought them closer together spiritually.

Bateman was transferred to the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp in April 1984, and his wife of five years moved here from Winner, S.D. in July 1984. She would not say why he was in prison.

When she moved here, Mrs. Bateman had no job, no home, no car and little money. But "all the doors opened," she said. "It just fell into place for me."

Linda Lindell, choir director at the camp, encouraged Bateman to let his wife come here. Mrs. Bateman now lives with Linda and her husband Paul.

"Not many families would take in someone, especially if their husband's in prison," she said. "This is what I call true Christianity."

Mrs. Bateman works at Spoiled Rotten in the Highland Mall. She is saving money "so that when he gets out, we'll have money to start on." He sends her half of what he makes as an inspector at the camp.

She bought a $250 car. "I believe that was a God-given gift, too," she said.

"When I first came here, it was hard," she said. "I know I sure prayed a lot."

"Even though B.J.'s out there, it's been his encouragement and his love that's lifted me up," Mrs. Bateman said. "He's the most precious person to me."

"The love of the people in the church helped me so much, too," she said. She attends First Church of God with Delmer Loy as pastor.

"I'm happy all the time," Mrs. Bateman said, "and my husband's in prison." She visits B.J. on Sundays and when he gets a pass to leave the camp.

"There's wives having a really hard time," she said. "They just have to stick by their husbands. You've just gotta have faith."

Bateman was in several jails

Helen Bateman visits her husband B.J. at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp on Sundays. They are hoping he will be released by Christmas.

before coming to this prison, Mrs. Bateman said. He spent four months in two South Dakota jails and one Texas jail.

At the jails, "they chained him and he's not a criminal for what he had done," she said.

"He said he never felt such humiliation," Mrs. Bateman said. "They wouldn't let him shave or clean up" at the jails.

"Right now he's in a real nice camp," she said.

"I'll be so happy when he gets out," Mrs. Bateman said. B.J. may be released by Christmas. Mrs. Bateman couldn't remember his original sentence, but "I know at the very beginning B.J. had a lot more years," she said. His sentence was reduced to five years and then 36 months.

Bateman will have a job with Pollard Chevrolet when he gets out. He has worked in the car business for several years, Mrs.

Bateman said.

"B.J. has taken it really well," she said. "He's praising the Lord because he don't have to run no more. He's not ashamed and I'm not ashamed of him either."

There has "just been a lot of good come out of this," she said. "We've both become a lot stronger in the Lord."

"Along the way, he has helped many, many prisoners to the Lord," Mrs. Bateman said.

The couple later plans to enter the prison ministry.

She returned recently from her first trip back to South Dakota since leaving there 1 1/2 years ago.

She has three daughters, Tammy, 25, Joan, 23, and Carla, 21, and two grandchildren.

Through "prayer, faith and encouragement," things have worked out for her, Mrs. Bateman said. "If you let God do the work, things fall into place."

Helen Bateman greets her husband B.J. with a kiss at the front door of the prison camp. The couple has been married 5 years and plans to enter the prison ministry when Bateman is released.

Wedding

Graham-Blount

Marie Moore Graham became Mrs. Robert "Shakey" Blount at a wedding ceremony Sept. 14 at the home of the bride's parents.

Eldon Cook, pastor of Sand Springs First Baptist Church, officiated at the 7 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moore of Route 1. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Blount.

The couple exchanged vows before an altar featuring a white candelabra and floor brass candle holders, fall flowers and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length rose dress. She carried a long-stemmed pink rose.

Llada Flanagan of Rockland, Maine, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Brandon Graham was ring bearer.

Best man was David "Punk" Kohout.

A reception followed at the same location.

A two-tiered white wedding cake topped with a bride and bridegroom figurine was served. Peach and blue flowers, crystal punch set and gold serving pieces completed the setting.

The bridegroom's table featured a chocolate cake and fall flowers.

Michele Graham, daughter-in-law of the bride, served punch. Adeline Kohout served wedding cake.

Out-of-town guests were from Colorado, Stamford, Wichita Falls and Maine.

A graduate of Stamford High School, the bride is a property manager of an apartment complex in Wichita Falls.

The bridegroom graduated from Southmayd High School. He is self-employed with Ke-Ro Electrical contractor in Fort Worth.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple is residing in Lewisville.

Dear Abby

Grandchild has envious half-sisters

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of four lovely daughters. The eldest is 11. I'll call her Agnes. When Agnes was 3, her father died. Two years later I remarried. Every summer, the parents of my first husband take Agnes for a month. Their son was their only child, and Agnes is their only grandchild.

So far Agnes has seen Disneyland, Hawaii, Mexico and Europe. My husband and I cannot afford to take our other three children on trips like that, and they are understandably envious and resentful.

I'm sure with all the divorces, deaths and remarriages, this is a common problem. If you or any of your readers have a solution, I'd appreciate knowing it.

DEAR ABBY: What are your alternatives? To deny Agnes those exotic trips with her grandparents in order to avoid being envied by her half-sisters? Not fair to Agnes.

To ask the grandparents to take one of the half-sisters along every year in the interest of family unity? Rather presumptuous. It would be very generous if they were to offer, but that idea would have to originate with them. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: I witnessed a minor crime. Since then I have been subpoenaed three times to appear in court. I don't get paid when I miss work. The courthouse is quite a few miles from my home, and the nearest parking I can get is five blocks away. Each time it costs me $12.50.

So far it's cost me $487.50 to be a good citizen. Is this justice? I'll never cooperate again. Please print this.

THE REAL VICTIM

DEAR VICTIM: Consider this: Let's say a crime was committed against you, and the one witness who observed the crime refused to come forward for whatever his reason. In the absence of a witness, the accused was presumed innocent and was set free to commit other crimes. Was that justice?

IT'S ALWAYS SWEET... AT THE SWEET SHOPPE

and Elizabeth Childress makes it twice the fun! Elizabeth was born in Hungary and was living in Constantinople, Turkey when she met and married the American who was to bring her to the United States. She began an adventure that would take her from Washington, D.C. to Louisiana and Texas. Her first taste of this big state was in Amarillo and it was the Texas of her imagination. There were cowboys in big hats, oil wells and a big sky! Elizabeth speaks seven languages, four of them fluently, so she had no trouble learning Texan! Her four children were born in different parts of the country and all of them have lived in Big Spring. Elizabeth came here in '76 and considers Big Spring to be her home. Her one grandchild lives in Dallas, not too far away for visits!

She has been an important part of the Sweet Shoppe since its opening in February of 1981. It may have been her first experience in retailing, but she's a natural and her love for the people she meets shows through. Joan La Fond owns the shop and the two of them enjoy working together. They're expecting a lot of new items for the holiday season. There will be a new look to the shop too, because they're moving to the east end of Highland Mall tomorrow! Joan will have additional display space and more jar candy than ever! Gummy Alligators are back! All the gummy products are extremely popular and there is a large selection of unusual candy that would be good for football player lockers and just for general munching! There's Rambo bubble gum, Jelly Bellies, suckers and dietetic candies, too. The newest is a sugar free crunch made of chocolate. Joan says the newest chocolate confection is called "Texas Brags". It's made of chocolate and caramel and loaded with whole nuts, more nuts than any other candy. There's a new chocolate mouse and truffles are still loved by almost everyone. Fudge love is the most requested of all chocolates. The name really says it all.

Elizabeth and Joan are pleased to announce that it will be easier than ever to get to the sweetest place in Highland Mall. It's now at the East entrance to your hometown shopping center. Come on out... We're in the middle of all the action!

CABLE TV BALLOT

BIG SPRING CABLE TV
P.O. BOX 1871
2006 S. BIRDWELL LN.

Dear Cable TV Customers;

Recently Big Spring Cable TV received notification from Times Mirror Microwave that WFAA, Channel 8, will no longer be available to us or to many other area cities West of Abilene. Unlike most of the programming we carry, WFAA is carried to us by microwave and is not available by satellite. We at Big Spring Cable TV are disappointed with Times Mirror's decision to discontinue WFAA, but at this time we have no alternative other than to accept Times Mirror's decision and choose a replacement channel.

Considering the popularity that WFAA enjoys in Big Spring, we feel that it would be best if our customers helped us choose its replacement. Therefore we have elected to conduct a poll among our customers to determine which channel we will carry. Please indicate your preference on this ballot, include your name, address and account number, and mail it to us or drop it by our office (limit, one ballot per account number.)

We appreciate your understanding, and hope that our customers realize that, here at Cable TV, we are just as disappointed with this situation as you are.

Sincerely,
Paul A. Thoman

Dr. Donohue

Drug throws off pulse as indicator

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am riding my exercise bike every day but it is impossible to give my heart a workout since I am taking Inderal for my borderline high blood pressure. After 15 minutes (or four miles of riding at 15 miles per hour) my heart rate is usually only up to the low 80s. My doctor does not want to change my medication. What do you think of this? Don't you think it would be more beneficial to the heart if I were on a medicine that did not slow the heart rate? — J.B.

I continue to get mail on this subject, so let's take it once more over lightly.
Beta-blocker drugs (like Inderal) are widely used for treatment of angina, high blood pressure, and as post-heart attack therapy. They do cause a lowering of pulse, the number of times the heart beats each minute.

Now people who are exercising for aerobic benefits rely on the pulse to tell them how effective their exercise is. Many use the pulse to tell when they have attained their heart rate goal, perhaps 70 or 80 percent of the so-called maximum rate (220 minus their age).
So when the person is on beta-blocker drug therapy, how is he or she to know when an effective heart rate has been achieved?

One solution is quite simple. Forget about the pulse, and use your common-sense perception of the intensity of the exercise. Remember, too, that the heart that is beating more slowly is working more efficiently, pumping more blood with each stroke. So you are getting benefits, even from your low 80s pulse level.

The more complex solution to your pulse rate dilemma lies in a treadmill test to measure your oxygen uptake (the so-called VO max). That, in fact, is the ultimate measure of your capacity and the relative intensity of exercise. The oxygen consumption can be measured at various levels of exercise intensity and that can be correlated with the actual pulse rate at each level.

Miss SWCID ready for Austin pageant

Debbie McCauley will leave Big Spring Thursday for Austin where she will compete in the Miss Deaf Texas pageant.

Debbie is Miss SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. She won the honor last January. In preparation for the Miss Deaf Texas pageant, Debbie has been working with several Howard County Junior College District employees, according to Cheri Sparks, a district vice president.

Sparks said district personnel have been preparing Debbie for competition by interviewing her and video-taping her talent presentation.

Among district personnel working with Debbie are Sparks, Bob Coltrane, Tim Haynes, Liz Wolter, Paula Catrone and Deb Covell.

Debbie, 20, will sign-sing "Let's Hear It For The Boy." She presented the same talent during the Miss SWCID competition in January.

Debbie is the daughter of Walter and Carol McCauley of El Paso.

This is her second year at SWCID. Debbie will compete against six other contestants for the title of Miss Deaf Texas.

"I'm anxious to go to Austin," she said this week. "I'm a little bit nervous."

She said she's been busy with rehearsals, interviews and with aerobics.

On Wednesday, she will spend the afternoon with students in the cosmetology department at Howard College.

Once Debbie arrives in Austin Thursday for the pageant preliminaries, she will be interviewed by a panel of judges and will go through several talent rehearsals.

A barbecue for all contestants is scheduled Friday evening and contestants will be introduced during the halftime of the Texas School for the Deaf football game.

On Saturday, a brunch is slated, followed by a dress rehearsal. The pageant begins Saturday night at Texas School for the Deaf.

Debbie McCauley, Miss SWCID, will compete in the Miss Deaf Texas pageant this Saturday in Austin.

Tall Talkers Toastmasters meet with area governor

The Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club met recently with Dene Sheppard presiding.

Diane Scott, an employee of American Well Service, was welcomed as a new member. Paul Tunell, area governor for district 44, presented Sonny Choate with a certificate for participating in an evaluation contest.

Sheppard reminded members of the upcoming District 44 fall conference to be held in Odessa Nov. 1 and 2.

She introduced Rich Roney as Toastmaster of the Day.

Topic master for the day was Stan Black, who introduced the word for the day, "Euthenics," which means a science that deals with the development of human well-being by improvement of living conditions.

Each Toastmaster then told something positive about "My HomeTown — Big Spring," with a time limit of one minute. Speeches were given by Shirley Shroyer, Winnie Turney and Sondra Waggoner.

Paul Tunell gave an overview of the day's program. He also talked about upcoming contests, including a humorous speech contest Oct. 17 at the Federal Prison Camp and a local club contest Oct. 7.

Speech winner of the day was Shirley Shroyer. The Topic (Ball) trophy was presented to Rich Roney, Bill Sheppard and Diane Moses.

Toastmasters meet every Monday at Herman's Restaurant at 6:30 a.m. Meetings are open to the public.

Tidbits

By CAROL BALDWIN
Lifestyle Editor
When we ran an Associated Press wire story on Monday about a deaf pilot, little did we realize that the pilot, LEWIS DELLINGER, was a student at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

From reading the AP story, we got the impression that Lewis was attending school somewhere near his hometown of Corpus Christi. SAM HILL, executive director at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, called to set the record straight and let folks know that SWCID is proud to have Lewis among a group of new students at the school.

Lewis has been in Big Spring only a few weeks. I talked with him and he said he has been attending Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, but decided to spend at least a year at SWCID because, "I thought I'd get more help here with all of my classes."

He is an agriculture-economics major. I asked him if he will continue seeking his pilot's license here, and he said that RICK RICKABAUGH of Trans Regional Air is his local instructor. Lewis has a permit which allows him to fly solo, and he's done that several times here in a rented plane. He hopes to get his license at Christmas in Corpus Christi.

Before receiving his license, he must pass a written test and then fly with another instructor who will judge his skills before issuing him a license.

SHIRLEY SHROYER wants to remind folks about the Blue Blazers Women's Conference Oct.

5 at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The last day to make advance registrations is Friday. Registration fee in advance is $18 and that includes lunch and a day's worth of speakers and panel discussions. Registration on the day of the event is $20.

Speakers during the event include CECELIA MCKENZIE, FRED PACE, JOYCE EATON, GLYNNA MOUTON, DENE SHEPPARD, KAREN PERKINS AND DR. LOIS HALE.

The conference is open to everyone and will include a style show in addition to a number of topics which women face in the 80s. TINA AND GARY STEFFEN recently returned from a cruise aboard Carnival Cruise Lines. They gave the vacation an A-plus rating.

Tina and Gary saw Playa Del Carmen and Cozumel, Mexico. While in Mexico, they visited the Mayan ruins at Talum.

They also toured Hell (it's the name of a community) and Georgetown, Grand Cayman, and Ocho Rios, Jamaica.

PART TWO HARD LENSES

This is the second in a series of five articles on the pros and cons of various types of contact lenses. Hard contact lenses are tiny firm discs that float on the layer of tears that bathes the cornea. Hard lenses are not as large as soft lenses and they do not completely cover the cornea. Hard lenses can correct most vision problems, including near and farsightedness, and they are ideal for most people with astigmatism.

The Pros ... longest lasting and most durable type of lens ... least expensive lens ... easy to clean ... provides better vision than soft lenses in some cases.

The Cons ... longer and more difficult break-in period ... subject to chipping, scratching and cracking ... more likely to pop out or slip off center ... dust and foreign bodies can get caught behind the lens.

For the first few weeks, hard lenses can be worn only a few hours a day, gradually building up to full time wear. This usually takes several weeks. Then, if the lenses fit properly, most people can comfortably wear them for 8 to 15 hours a day. Keep in mind that hard lenses are recommended for daily use and they should be worn about the same number of hours each day. If you stop wearing the lenses for a few days, your corneas may lose their adaptation and you may need to readjust to the lenses all over again.

Next week: Soft lenses.

SPACE SAVERS

Most people remodel their kitchens in a quest for space. Since this is true, let us consider various ways of saving counter space. There are at least three good ways to get clutter off a counter. First, fold-up shelves that attach underneath wall cabinets are available. They keep cookbooks, spices and knives off the counter. Small appliances that attach to wall cabinets by a bracket screwed to the underside of the cabinet can be purchased. Under-cabinet models include toaster ovens, coffee makers, knife sharpeners and mixers. Second, there are shelves that swing up from a cabinet beneath the counter work surface. Third, is an appliance garage. This is actually a specialized cabinet that conceals appliances behind an attractive tambour door.

If you need a more spacious kitchen within the same four walls, call BOB'S CUSTOM WOODWORK. We can design, build, and install your new kitchen, from floor tile to custom cabinets. We also do all types of home renovations. Our 8000 sq. ft. workshop and skilled craftsmen can handle any job. Come to Bldg. 613 in the Industrial Park, or phone 267-5811. Open M-F, 8-12, 1-5 or by appt.

— HINT —

One advantage of wood is that scratches can be sanded and stained out.

Good 'people helping people' drama

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY
A good "people helping people" drama unfolded in Big Spring last week. Mrs. Raleigh (Ruth) Rutledge, who lives on East Highway 80, had been to the grocery store, pulled into her garage, closed the door and started to unload her groceries. She hadn't been feeling well and blacked out, hurting herself when she fell. Her husband was at work.
When she recovered consciousness, she tried to get up but couldn't. She managed to struggle by dragging herself slowly to the car door, worked to open it, and finally reached the CB speaker. A trucker heard her soft plea for help and told the other truckers talking on the radio to "be quiet so we can hear this lady," and they did. She guided them to her door.
The neighbors first noticed something was strange when three big-g rigs roiled up to the Rutledge house and by the time the truckers had gotten the garage door opened, the neighbors began to come and help, too. An ambulance was called and Mrs. Rutledge is recovering nicely in Hall Bennett — thanks to those good Samaritans.

Can you imagine a more likely spot for a Western club than Oerlinghausen, West Germany? That's the home of the Lazy S. Club, which takes its name from Col. C.C. Slaughter's famous frontier ranch empire north of here. As a result of correspondence established through the Heritage Museum, Joe Pickle recently sent Uwe Baumert, club representative, a copy of a book about Col. Slaughter.

Now Lazy S has responded: "We thought it over how to thank you. We decided to send you two records of a German country and western group by the name of 'Truck Stop'. This group began in 1973 producing well-known country hits such as 'Rings of Fire,' 'Orange Blossom Special,' 'Jambalaya,' etc. Later the musicians wrote songs of their own, changed their style and use German lyrics, a good example of which is 'Take it Easy Altes Haus.'" Baumert added: "We are interested in your opinion about German country music." Some of you C&W experts should call Joe and schedule a time to listen and comment.

Long-time, loyal Big Springers Ted Groehl is recovering from a stroke. He's in No. 420 West Presbyterian Hospital, 8200 Walnut Hill, Dallas. He's given so much to this community over the last 50 years, it would be nice if we let him know we care. Write him a note or call him at 214-696-7120.

Chuck and Carol Benz just returned from a trip to New Jersey and other states in that area. She attended her 25th high school reunion. She left there only days after graduation and hadn't seen any of her classmates until this encounter.

Conrad Dunagan, one of the major owners of Western Container, was honored in special ceremonies at UT-Permian Wednesday. He was recognized for his outstanding contributions to the cultural, economics and educational opportunities in the Permian Basin.

Among other things, he is the founder and president of the Permian Honor Scholarship Foundation which has over a one million dollar endowment and has committed $244,400 to 112 honor students in the Permian Basin enrolled in the five community colleges and UTPB this fall. Of this total, 11 are enrolled in Howard College.

Did you know that hairspray will remove ball point pen stains from most fabric? Spray it directly on the stain and wash the garment as usual. The result is amazing.

REMINDER: An organizational meeting for the League of Women Voters will be held Monday, Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church parlor. Mrs. Flynn Long will serve as the organizing chairperson.

The next community wide 4x4 clean-up campaign will be held Oct. 12. The idea behind this is that teams of 4 people work 4 hours on Saturday morning in an assigned place. The community has been divided into 7 divisions with each division having at least 6 4x4 teams. All clubs, businesses, and individuals are encouraged to participate. Call the Chamber and sign up a four-member team, or request to be put on a team. Locations will be assigned so that everyone will begin in their designated spot on Saturday, Oct. 12. The city maintenance department goes from location to location hauling off the garbage that is collected. This will be the third or fourth time this particular method has been used and it's proven very effective.

We can thank Johnny Rutherford for this brainstorm.

Also on Oct. 12 is the Garden Club Council annual fall luncheon. Highlighted by a book review by Annie Matt Angel and a style show by Charde, this is a well attended function. Call Edna Womack for tickets.

The Morning Optimists Club will hold an auction Oct. 5 at the Country Affair to be held at the Rodeo Bowl. Businesses have donated merchandise with the proceeds going to the Optimists service projects for children.

ATTENTION GENEALOGY BUFFS: The Howard College Continuing Education Department is offering a course in Genealogy beginning Sept. 26. The course costs $13.50. Students will learn to trace their family roots back to the origin. Pre-register by calling 267-6311, ext. 213.

Lisa Nichols, membership chairperson for the Big Spring Symphony Guild, has announced the opening of memberships for the 1985-86 season. This is the support group for the Symphony. Those interested in joining, for a fee of $15, may call 263-7641.

STOP SHOPPING AT THE SUPERMARKET ...AND START SAVING YOUR HARD EARNED BUCKS!

Everytime you buy groceries at a supermarket, you spend far more money than you need to. Why? Because you pay for the frills and thrills of a supermarket. Every item you put in your basket is marked up to cover the cost of store displays, exhibits, bonus games, trading stamps, piped-in music, special lighting, decorations, sackers and carry out people. In fact, you might just call a supermarket a "super mark up."

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE!

Introducing THE BOX: No frills, no gimmicks, no glitter. All you'll find at the Box are quality brand-name groceries, fresh produce, fresh dairy products, houseware and health care items. It's a variety store and food market all in one box!

The Box is your answer to wholesale prices! You'll be amazed at how much money you've wasted in the past in those fancy supermarkets and variety stores. If you're ready to get back to basics, come in and shop with us. You'll pay only for what you buy - not the gimmicks and games used to sell it to you.
