Consolidation seems unlikely

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer
Representatives of governing bodies in Howard County failed to come to any solid decisions Monday about creating a consolidated tax office, but such a consolidation seems unlikely. At least one entity will continue collecting its own taxes.
Bruce Griffith, president of the Coahoma Independent School District Board, said the school district would continue to collect its own taxes.

"We collect 98 percent plus of our taxes, so we want to continue to collect our own," Griffith said. He said the board had met twice to discuss the proposal in detail and were "united in the feeling that we want to collect our own taxes."
"We have no problem with the theory (of consolidating tax collection). I wonder about what might happen in actual practice," Griffith said.

Present at the meeting were about 50 elected officials and administrators from all nine governing bodies in the county — including the county commissioners, the junior college district board, the Coahoma water district board, the city councils of Big Spring, Fortsan and Coahoma, and the school districts in those cities.

The luncheon meeting was sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and chaired by chamber president Granville Hahn.
Hahn opened the meeting by saying he understood the entities could save $125,000 a year if they consolidated tax collection operations, thereby freeing that money for use elsewhere.

Officials discussed under which office they would consolidate the tax collection functions: County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore's office, which currently collects for everyone but the three school districts, or chief tax appraiser Gene Pereira's office.
A dispute arose over whether the county could go into a consolidated office that was not headed by

Unpaved road is problem

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

An unpaved stretch of McGregor Road in East Howard County is disgruntling residents who live there and is causing concern to a county commissioner as he attempts to solve the problem.
Residents on the undeveloped 2½-mile road, also known as South Route Coahoma, have submitted a petition to Howard County commissioners, complaining about the road's condition.

U.S. SECRETARY of State George P. Schultz addresses the United Nations General Assembly in New York Monday. He called for Soviets "get down to real business" in the arms talks.

"This road is junk. Most everyone who has to drive it feels the same," said Shannon Boyles, a resident of the road and one of 15 signers of the petition, not all of whom live on the road.
Boyles said the petition was drawn up by Carla Stroud, another resident.
The petition describes the north-south road as "paved to the bridge, which is just past the commissioner's house."
The commissioner, Paul Allen of Precinct 2, said the road was merely a trial when he moved to his present residence on South Route 20

Soviets tell UN 'Star Wars' plan is main barrier

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze unveiled today what he described as a plan for "Star Wars" that would save the world from the Reagan administration's "sinister plans of Star Wars."
In an address to the 40th U.N. General Assembly, Shevardnadze said the Star Wars program, known officially as the Strategic Defense Initiative, is the main stumbling block to a new U.S.-Soviet arms control agreement. He said it threatens to make the global arms race "uncontrollable and irreversible."

nuclear attack.
But he said the Soviet Union "will not permit military superiority over itself."
"The State and party leadership of the Soviet Union has instructed me to reaffirm this once again from the high rostrum of the United Nations," said Shevardnadze, making his first address at the United Nations since being named to succeed Andrei Gromyko as foreign minister earlier this year.
In his address Monday, Shultz said the United States has made "far-reaching proposals" in the Geneva arms control talks, which opened in March, but that the Soviets have "not negotiated with the responsiveness that the talks require."

Shevardnadze said Moscow has offered "far-reaching proposals" at the Geneva talks to which the United States has not responded. Secretary of State George P. Shultz made an identical claim for the U.S. position at Geneva in his address to the U.N. Monday.
Shevardnadze accused the administration of seeking to achieve nuclear superiority over Moscow through the development of a secure defensive shield against Shultz accused the Soviet Union of "blatantly one-sided" propaganda in blaming President Reagan's proposed "Star Wars" program for the lack of progress. He said the Soviet charge "is not to be taken seriously."

Democrats say Reagan's trade talk not enough

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's tough talk on unfair foreign trade is being welcomed in Congress, but lawmakers say it isn't enough to keep them from passing legislation to help industries being hurt by less expensive imports.
"The president sounded an uncertain trumpet on trade," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass. "I believe the Congress wants to send a clear and certain message that the American people will not stand for unfair trade practices."

Reagan, in a White House speech Monday before invited business leaders and lawmakers, said what Congress has been urging him to say.
"I will not stand by and watch American businesses fail because of unfair trading practices abroad," Reagan said. "I will not stand by and watch American workers lose their jobs because other nations do not play by the rules."

But some were suspicious of how much substance was behind the rhetoric of the revised administration trade policy.
"For a man to change his mind that quickly, you want to see if his heart is really in it," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.
Sen. George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, said the president's motives were political. "It's obvious that the president's statements are aimed at Congress and not at our trading partners," he said.

Mitchell compared the trade speech to Reagan's last-minute endorsement of sanctions against South Africa.
"The president opposes a policy until it becomes obvious Congress is going to do something." Then, to avoid a political embarrassment, the president proposes "a milder form — something like a vaccination," he said.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, who continues to work on a bill to protect the textile industry from imports, praised the president's statement.
"I was pleased that the president recognized that the United States cannot be the only free trader in the world," he said.

Mauro to speak here Wednesday

State Land Commissioner Garry Mauro will be in Big Spring Wednesday to drum up support for a constitutional amendment that would allow the Texas Veterans Land Board to loan qualified farmers and ranchers money to purchase land.

Proposition 10 on the November constitutional election would provide $500 million in bonding authority to the board to loan qualified farmers and ranchers up to $100,000 to purchase at least 50 acres of land.

Mauro will be in the county courtroom of the Howard County Courthouse at 3 p.m. for a reception sponsored by the Democratic Club.

The program will not cost taxpayers a cent, according to a press release from Mauro's office. Instead, the program will be paid for by farmers who buy land through the program. The amendment simply grants bonding authority.
Young ranchers and farmers need an incentive to stay in the business, however, the release stated.

Thousands flee capital to avoid health hazards

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Thousands of Mexicans streamed from the capital city to avoid possible epidemics caused by two killer earthquakes that ripped open gas lines, contaminated water and pinned hundreds of decomposing bodies under rubble.

The city government raised the death toll from the quakes by 1,000 on Monday, saying the discovery of more bodies around the city had raised the known death toll to 3,000. The federal Health Department said it did not expect the toll from the Thursday and Friday temors to rise above 5,000.

About 100 people were killed outside of Mexico City, the president's office said.
City officials also said 6,500 were injured by the earthquakes, and that 600 remained hospitalized. Only 17,000 of the estimated 300,000 homeless were in government shelters, they said.

The Federal Health Department said it estimated 11,000 people in this metropolitan area of 18 million sustained injuries, but did not explain the discrepancy between its figures and the figures provided by city officials.

The U.S. Embassy said six Americans had died, and that 12 others were missing and presumed dead.
Thousands of residents headed for less seriously affected areas of the country to avoid the health hazards. The Mexico City newspaper Excelsior reported the flight in six-inch headlines reading, "The People Fear Epidemic." Underneath, it simply said: "Exodus."
Health officials, citing danger of disease from the gases of the bodies, urged everyone entering disaster areas to cover their mouths and noses. Workers fumigated the hardest-hit neighborhoods.
In order to prevent sickness, authorities advised citizens to boil all water before using it.
There were reports that 1 million people living in a slum area near the airport had been without running water since Thursday.
Nearly 5,000 people in the heavily damaged Tlateloleco area near the heart of the city have been inoculated against typhoid and tetanus, Red Cross officials said.

DR. JOSE Juan Hernandez Cruz looks at his rescuers after he was removed from the wreckage of the Hospital Benito Juarez early Monday in Mexico City. The intern, who turned 23 on Sunday, was trapped more than four days after Mexico's tragic earthquake Thursday.

'The drag' is life in the fast lane for town's teens

By JEFF SIMPSON
Gainesville Daily Register
GAINESVILLE, Texas (AP) — On any given weekend night California Street and Grand Avenue leap to life, a headlighting interminable queue of headlights, fog lights, pickup trucks and over-crowded family sedans, all weaving their deliberate — and sometimes maddeningly slow — courses through the heart of the city, the area called "the drag."

Auto headlights leave a streak as they cruise Gainesville in the area called "the drag."

This is the scene and the place to be seen, the focus of socializing and courting. With slight variations, it repeats itself in many cities and towns.

Just as much an event as a place, the drag is that time each weekend when we piled into Glenn's maroon Fairlane or Dave's silver Goat or Joan's black Camaro and crept through the same hamburger havens and taco stands week after week. We cruised to see who was out, who was with whom, pausing every so often to chat through open windows over a cacophony of rock 'n' roll cascading through midnight parking lots.

Gainesville's drag extends from the Safeway parking lot on the west end of California to the E-Z Food Store on North Grand. It is precisely 1 1/2 miles from one turn-around point to the other. It takes 30 minutes to drive the three-mile round trip.

Hot spots naturally include McDonald's on West California Street and Jack-in-the-Box on North Grand Avenue. Tom Thumb-Page sits at the center of the circuit. A dozen or so parking lots dot the drag. They are filled with cars and kids, pickup trucks and ice chests.

On his off-duty hours, Gainesville Police officer George Wintle works security at McDonald's. He has done that weekends for about four years and knows many of the locals by name. As he wanders through the crowded parking lot watching for possible trouble spots, kids call out, "Hey, Georgie! How's it going?"

Wintle answers and then saunters up to the various groups and chats. Just as he has for four years.

"We try to be real lenient," he said. "But when things get out of hand, you have to make a line somewhere." He said police have to uphold the law. That means, in part, clearing the parking lots that are posted closed after hours and checking flagrant law violations and rowdiness.

Wintle estimated that alcoholic beverages are in 98 percent of the cars cruising the drag during the weekend. As the parties leave the parking lots at the end of the evening, a night's worth of dead soldiers remain behind, shattered over the pavement, crammed into crevices and shoved into any place that will hold a drained bottle or empty can.

"When ever you have a large group of people, you're going to get loud and crazy," Wintle said. "It doesn't hurt anybody if you get loud or not, but it gets annoying to other people."

But, Wintle said, "You can't just walk up to a lot full of kids and say, 'Which one of you 40 or 50 threw that bottle?' I'm sure they're going to raise their hand."

"That's the biggest problem right there," he said. "Any kid who's close to looking 18 or 19 years old can go . . . buy beer and give it to all the kids."

There seems to be little police can do to combat the problems arising from the teen-age throngs that glut parking lots and clog traffic in the city.

Three years ago, Wintle recalled, the community attempted to crack down on the weekend road parties and litter. Businesses posted "no-trespassing" signs, and police distributed tickets for criminal trespass.

Following an arrest of some 20 cruisers one night, parents complained of the $1,000 bail that accompanies the violation. In response, police began issuing first-time warning tickets along with the promise that a second offense would result in arrest.

Now cruising is again in full bloom. Wintle attributes that in part to the fact that kids have more money now than ever and can cruise every day of the week. It's the same kids hitting the drag night after night, he said.

But at least part of the responsibility must fall to the parents, whom Wintle suggests may not understand what their teen-agers are up to. "Parents think their kids are just out teeny-bopping around. And some of them are. But some of them are wild."

Gunman robs steakhouse

An armed robber took $789 in cash Monday night from the Western Sizzlin' Steak House at 309 S. Benton, according to police reports.

The restaurant manager, John Homan, told police a man walked into the business at 10 p.m. with a large handgun and demanded they give him the money in the cash register.

Police have not made any arrests in the case, said Sgt. Pam Jordan. Descriptions of the suspect, a white male, are vague, Jordan said. Detective Bill King is investigating the case and witnesses have been interviewed, she said.

A Big Spring man was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital for injuries he suffered when assaulted by three men at a convenience store, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

The victim, Robert Morgan Carson of 800 Lancaster was assaulted in the 300 block of W. Eighth, according to the police report. He suffered injuries to his right lower back, including tenderness over a kidney, the police report stated.

When police arrived at the 7-Eleven store at 800 Gregg in response to a call, they found Carson lying in the roadway near the store.

Police at 11:30 p.m. Monday arrested three men in the 400 block of W. 17th on suspicion of the Class A assault. Arrested were: Glenn Eugene Meek, 29, of 3500 W. Highway 80; James Richard Howerton, 25, of Salado; and James Corbett Abbott, 34, of 1321 Utah.

Burglars took an unknown amount of pipe wrenches, tools and three flashlights from LTV Co. at 201 between 5 p.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday. The tools were valued at $1,609.

Three checks, stolen from the Midland-Odessa area, were forged and cashed earlier this month at the Safeway stores in town, according to police reports.

Francis Payne, an employee of the store at 1300 Gregg, told police a $346.75 check had been cashed Sept. 11, the day after a $225.45 check was cashed Sept. 10.

Renea Teal, an employee of the Safeway store at College Park Shopping Center, told police a $247.95 check was cashed at the store Sept. 10.

Police Monday evening arrested Dillard Curtis Johnston, 30, of 1212 E. Sixth at his house on a warrant for parole violation.

Pedro Carrillo of 811 E. 14th told police someone broke the front windshield of his blue 1983 Pontiac with a rock between 2 and 7 p.m. Sunday while the car was at 514 N.E. 11th. Damage was estimated at $250.

Employees of the H.W. Wright Oil Co. of 100 Lancaster told police someone broke into two motor vehicles at the rear of the company offices between 5 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Monday.

Two windows on a white 1984 Chevrolet were broken. Damage was estimated at $150. In addition, the side window to a red 1975 Chevrolet was broken; damage was estimated at $75.

Burglars broke into the Ezell Key Feed Store at W. First and Lancaster this weekend, damaging a glass window and a wooden door. Damage was estimated at $125, store manager Clyde Eager told police.

Debbie Ham of Route 1 told police Monday someone stole some checks on a Citizens Federal Credit Union account between 8:30 a.m. Sept. 6 and 6:30 p.m. Sept. 8 from the Wal-Mart employee locker room, while she was at work.

Court hears probation case

Testimony was scheduled to continue this afternoon in 118th District Court for a 35-year-old man who is suspected of violating the rules of his probation.

Stephen J. Zultz of Jeffersonville, Ind., was arrested in Wichita Falls and transferred to Howard County jail July 30. He had been given a probation sentence on an unauthorized use of a motor vehicle conviction.

He pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle on Dec. 17, 1984, and received six years probation from District Judge James Gregg, according to court records.

Moments before yesterday's hearing began, Zultz refused an offer from adult probation officer Frank Martinez to serve a three-year prison term at the Texas Department of Corrections in lieu of a hearing.

Martinez testified that in return for payment from Zultz of $1,200 to $1,300 in probation fees, revocation charges would be dropped against him and Zultz could "continue with the terms of his probation."

"This money, where was it to be applied?" prosecuting attorney Rick Hamby asked Martinez upon cross examination.

Martinez said the money was to be used to help defray court costs, sheriff department costs in transporting Zultz back to Howard County from Wichita Falls and other probation fees.

Adult probation officer Janie Cotter earlier testified that when Zultz was placed on probation last December, she had discussed the rules and stipulations of his probation with him. She said that Zultz was given permission to live in Phoenix, Arizona, but was not given permission to leave that locale as he is suspected of doing last January.

Cotter said she received one letter from Zultz postmarked last January and this was the only information she received from him as to his whereabouts until he was incarcerated last July.

Prior to Monday's revocation of probation hearing, District Judge James Gregg placed two persons on probation after each had pleaded guilty to felony charges.

Francisco L. Galivaz, 17, of Coahoma pleaded guilty to burglary of a building that occurred June 30. He received a six-year probation sentence from Gregg. If Galivaz successfully completes the terms of his probation the next six years, burglary charges will be dropped from his record.

Ana Maria Roy, 22, of 1501 State pleaded guilty to a forgery by passing charge. She was sentenced to a three-year probation term by Gregg. Roy was also ordered to pay restitution fees of $176.15, attorney fees of $200 and court costs amounting to $102.

Consolidation

Moore. According to County Judge Milton Kirby, if the other entities formed a separate office or asked the tax appraisal district office to perform that function, the county would not be able to join.

Other officials, including Big Spring City Councilman Johnny Rutherford, said they thought Moore could agree to contract that function to an independent body under the Peveto Bill.

County commissioners voted 3-1 earlier Monday not to join a consolidated tax collection office if it was not headed by Moore.

Hahn said 92 counties in the state have some form of consolidated tax office. However, in some counties, the consolidated office does not include the county, Moore said. In Midland County, the county tax assessor-collector collects taxes for the county and the Greenwood Independent School District. All other taxing entities are in a consolidated office.

City councilman Larry Miller also is opposed to consolidation under Pereira's office, he said at the meeting.

"It would be great if we all had one central office. I would be all for it if it is not under the tax appraisal office. If it's put under the tax appraisal office, I'm 100 percent against it," Miller said.

Pereira was the subject of controversy last summer when appraisals for property rose substantially, while the real estate market remained soft. At several tax appraisal district board meetings, crowds of 50 to 200 people crowded the office and called for his resignation.

Costs for adding collection services for the school districts to her office would be minimal, Moore said.

"The county has a computer that's bought and paid for. I'd just have to add another line," she said.

Moore said the average time between collection of taxes and turnover to the taxing entity is between two to five days. The longest period was during the holiday season in November, when it took 10 days, she said.

She also told Lynn Hise, Big Spring Independent School District superintendent, that if a contract with a government entity stated it, she would direct deposit funds at the end of each day. Hise said his office deposited all taxes collected by 3 p.m. daily.

Red Patterson, a board member of the Forsan Independent School District, said he did not see any problems with a centralized office run under Moore, but was concerned about her successor.

"If a person were duly elected but poorly qualified, we might have problems getting our money," he said.

After discussion of tax collection consolidation ended, Kirby said he had a suggestion that could save the county $1 million every four years.

He proposed firing all tax appraisal district employees but one and hiring an outside firm to conduct an appraisal every four years. The district's budget presently is $400,000 a year, Kirby said.

Hise, however, said it was important to keep real estate appraisal values up to date and said it needed to be done more often than every four years.

Under the Peveto bill, all property must be reappraised every four years.

Road

years ago and paving was done by a portion of the road just before he was elected commissioner in 1978.

"Most of the folks who live on this road have moved here within the last four years," Allen said. The road now has five houses on it.

"I admit it's a rough road and I admit it's not smooth. But it's 100 times better than it used to be," Allen said.

The petition was forwarded to Allen by Howard County Judge Milton Kirby.

"I would have appreciated it, if they (persons who signed the petition) had contacted me," Allen said.

The road is in poor condition partly because it is used by oilfield trucks that weigh about 90,000 pounds, he said. Dry weather is another factor that contributes to the wear and tear of the dirt road.

Allen said that during his term as commissioner, he has ordered work to be performed on the road. This last year, he said, the county road department helped level off a portion of the road that contained three hills — a delight for young dragsters.

"The last lump was known as 'thrill hill.' We cut the center hill in order to cut the 'thrill' out of that hill," Allen said.

He recently ordered gravel to be stored on a portion of his property. Allen said this saved from $1,000 to $1,500 in delivery charges.

"You want to have your material at the roadside where you can get to it," he said.

He said if the weather allows for it, the road would be graveled and sealed this year.

"The weather factor and the maintenance breakdown has us off schedule," Allen said.

He said the county engineering department that will handle the paving project moves about each county precinct in 13-week cycles.

Plane crashes killing 14

WEYERS CAVE, Va. — Rescuers fought their way through dense brush today to reach the wreckage of a commuter plane that crashed into a cloud-shrouded mountain, apparently killing all 14 people aboard, authorities said.

The crash Monday came during commercial aviation's worst year ever for safety. The first rescuers, two doctors lowered from a Marine Corps helicopter, said they saw no survivors.

The Henson Airlines Beech 99 disappeared from radar screens early Monday and crashed, said Mike Chumbley, Henson's administrator at the Shenandoah Valley Airport.

Minor quake in San Jose

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — A minor earthquake was recorded near San Jose today but there were no reports of damage, the state Office of Emergency Services said.

The quake, shortly after midnight, had a preliminary Richter scale reading of 3.9 and was centered about six miles northeast of San Jose.

San Jose police said they had received no calls.

Well oiled fraternity

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — Sigma Chi fraternity at Texas A&M University doesn't have to worry too much about collecting dues this semester, not since the well came in.

The Aggie Sigma Chi No. 1, an oil well 500 yards behind the frat house, is producing 300 barrels of crude oil a day. Translated into cash, that means more than $50,000 for the group's coffers since the well was drilled in August 1984.

Much of the money earned from the well will be set aside to buy a new house big enough to house 42 members of the 95-member fraternity. The current house is big enough only for nine.

VA doctors probed

WASHINGTON — A Veterans Administration doctor accepted more than $61,000 in speaking fees and expenses from a pharmaceutical company whose product he recommended the VA to buy, documents from an internal investigation show.

The VA declined to make public the name of the doctor, but he is among 75 to 100 employees investigated by the VA inspector general's office following allegations they accepted gratuities from Smith Kline & French Laboratories.

Haunting scenes

Mexican destruction moves Mrs. Reagan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nancy Reagan says she was deeply affected by the horror wrought by Mexico City's killer quakes, but emerged from her tour of the stricken capital with renewed admiration for America's southern neighbors.

"I felt badly the whole time," Mrs. Reagan said following a four-hour visit to the city on Monday. "I've never seen devastation like that."

Mrs. Reagan carried a letter from President Reagan to Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid, as well as a $1 million U.S. government check from the Agency for International Development for Mexico's reconstruction fund.

In his letter, Reagan pledged that the United States would accelerate its efforts to meet Mexican requests for assistance, as well as consult on long-term reconstruction plans if the Mexicans wish to do so.

Mrs. Reagan said she was very impressed with the Mexican people's valiant spirit in the face of tragedy, as well as de la Madrid's handling of the relief effort.

She said she hoped her visit would help her husband and de la Madrid to keep in touch, but that any further steps in the U.S. aid effort depended upon the Mexican president informing the United States about what is needed.

At the end of her day, she pronounced she was ready to "collapse," appearing drained by the hectic swing through Mexico. Later Monday, she flew to Southern California, and was to be honored here by the entertainment industry Thursday for her anti-drug-abuse work.

During her Mexico City visit, Mrs. Reagan, with an entourage of reporters and camera crews in tow, toured the streets in a 20-car motorcade and saw some of the city's most haunting scenes of death and destruction. She visited a collapsed 13-story condominium complex, comforted injured youngsters at a Red Cross hospital, talked with weeping volunteers at a relief supply depot and observed search teams poking through the rubble of the Regis Hotel.

She also gave a pep talk to workers at the U.S. Embassy.

"It's been wonderful," she said, then paused, perhaps thinking the words might not be appropriate to the turmoil she had seen. "Yes, it's been a wonderful experience seeing both of our countries working in friendship when there is a tragedy of this proportion."

"We are good neighbors, and will always be," she added.

Abortion judged murder

TORONTO — Although seven protesters were found guilty of trespassing at the Morgentaler clinic, anti-abortion advocates were delighted to hear a provincial court judge describe abortion as "murder" in his judgment.

Judge Arthur Meen fined seven of the 14 Campaign Life protesters $20 for trespassing — less than half the minimum specified by Ontario law. He dismissed charges against six others because they were not arrested on clinic property. Charges against a 14th person were dismissed because of lack of evidence.

Ten killed in Tripoli

TRIPOLI, Lebanon — Rival Moslem militias dueling with artillery and multi-barreled rocket launchers in central Tripoli today and police said 10 people were killed and 15 wounded.

The midnight outbreak came a few hours after senior Syrian army officers declared a cease-fire and said the commands of the warring militias had agreed to surrender their heavy weapons.

Student groups clash

DHAKA, Bangladesh — Student political groups clashed at Carmichael College in Rangpur, 215 miles north of Dhaka, and three students were injured, college authorities said.

The fight broke out Monday between rival student groups supporting and opposing the government. College officials said one of the students was seriously injured.

China promotes young

PEKING — The Communist Party promoted six men in their 50s and 60s to full membership in the Politburo today, climaxing a drive by senior leader Deng Xiaoping to elevate a younger generation to the highest organs of power.

An official communique said five men who had not been members of the Politburo were promoted to full membership, and that one alternate member also was given full membership.

Zulu swap criticized

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The leader of South Africa's 6 million Zulus criticized a proposal by a government commission to swap part of the Zulu homeland near two Indian Ocean ports for white farmland, uprooting about 42,000 people.

Analysts forecast lower rate of inflation this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Falling grocery and fuel costs held the overall rise in August retail prices to a modest 0.2 percent for the fourth straight month, the government reported today.

The small rise in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index pointed to the prospect of 1985's cost-of-living increase coming in at the lowest figure in nearly two decades.

Donald Ratajczak, a George State University economist who specializes in monitoring both wholesale and retail price changes, is now forecasting a 3.3 percent retail inflation rate for all of 1985. That would be the lowest since a 3 percent increase in 1967.

Indeed, the rate for the first eight months of this year is 3.3 percent. Over the last year, prices have risen 3.4 percent.

Although not all analysts are calling for a 1985 rate as low as Ratajczak sees, virtually all see it being well below 1984's 4 percent. Prices increased 3.8 percent in 1983 and 3.9 percent the previous year.

Consumer Price Index

Seasonally Adjusted Measure of Inflation by Percentage of Monthly Change in Consumer Prices

The continued modest rise is about the only economic bright spot for government policy makers — particularly the Federal Reserve Board — struggling to keep lagging economic growth from grinding to a halt.

With little prospect of a renewed outbreak of late 1970s-style inflation in the months ahead, the Fed has been able to maintain a relatively loose monetary policy that has driven interest rates lower and kept the economy moving ahead, albeit at a pace many private analysts now say won't exceed 2 percent for the year compared to 6.8 percent last year.

Prices for food bought at grocery stores fell 0.1 percent, but were more than offset by increases for foods and beverages consumed away from home, so that the overall food and beverage price component rose 0.1 percent for the third straight month. Restaurant food prices were up 0.3 percent while alcohol prices rose 0.6 percent.

At the grocery store, declines were recorded for fruits and vegetables, meats, poultry, fish, eggs and dairy products.

Energy costs fell across the board. Gasoline prices were down 0.8 percent; natural gas costs were off 1.1 percent, and fuel oil prices fell 0.7 percent.

Housing costs rose 0.5 percent, after increases of 0.3 percent in June and July, and included a 0.7 percent gain for homeowners and a 0.6 percent rise for renters.

Overall transportation costs, which include gasoline prices, were down 0.4 percent, largely because of a 1.2 percent decline in used car prices and a 2.5 percent drop in auto financing charges — a reflection of industry-wide dealer and manufacturer buyer incentives. New car prices, however, rose 0.4 percent.

Medical care costs, continuing to show the biggest increase of the seven major components of the overall index, rose 0.6 percent.

Clothing prices gained 0.3 percent.

Entertainment costs fell 0.1 percent.

All the monthly changes are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

The department reported earlier that wholesale prices fell 0.3 percent in August. That means wholesale prices are up at an annual rate of 0.8 percent so far in 1985.

If last month's 0.2 percent increase held steady for 12 straight months, the yearly advance would be 2.3 percent. The annual rate reported by the department is based on a more precise calculation of price activity than the figure made public in the monthly CPI report.

In all, the Consumer Price Index stood at 323.5 in August, meaning that goods costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $32.35 last month.

Comet prober is sky trail-blazer

It was only an old model in the rear of the used-satellite lot, but it performed a comet-probing mission like a brand-new billion-dollar space lab.

The satellite — International Sun Earth Explorer 3 — was sent into space in 1978. In the ensuing seven years, it had completed its objectives and was just sitting out there in the black void, 900,000 miles from Earth.

Meanwhile, U.S. scientists were miffed because this nation elected not to send a space probe to encounter Halley's Comet. In discussing what might be done, they wondered if Sun Earth Explorer could take a run at Halley's — on the cheap, so to speak.

It was soon determined that the path Halley's Comet will be taking this fall is too far distant for Sun Earth Explorer. Checking out a smaller, nearer comet, however, was possible.

Sun Earth Explorer was given a new name, International Cometary Explorer, and was signaled to push itself out into space and probe the comet Giacobini-Zinner. ICE did its job remarkably well.

Zooming across the comet's path at 46,000 mph, ICE reported on wild regions of magnetic turbulence and high-energy particles, sending back all sorts of data. Space scientists are elated with the mission's success.

When the information from ICE is digested, mankind will know a lot more about the mysterious comets that have been observed for centuries.

Well done, ICE. You get a gold star when it's time for your billion-mile check.

Grazing rights due for review

Western ranchers, who are supposed to embody the old American spirit of hardy self-reliance, have benefited for decades from a nice federal subsidy. Now Congress, at the urging of environmentalists, is talking about cutting it back, and ranchers are resisting. The environmentalists are right about the problem, but wrong about the remedy.

The dispute involves some 270 million acres of federally-owned range land in the western United States, an area eight times the size of Illinois. This is land, much of marginal quality, that was never claimed by the homesteaders who settled the region. Now it is rented to cattle and sheep ranchers for grazing.

At issue on Capitol Hill are the fees charged by the government for these grazing rights, which generally run well below their market value. Besides subsidizing private ranchers at public expense, conservationists say the low fees promote destructive overgrazing of the land. Roughly half of the receipts are spent on range land improvements, further benefiting the ranchers using it.

For the taxpayer, it's a losing deal: By one estimate, the Bureau of Land Management, which administers most of the range land, spends five dollars on the program for every dollar it gets in fees.

Ranchers and their spokesmen say the depressed state of their industry makes this a terrible time to raise fees. Sen. Jake Garn, a Utah Republican, warns that it would "destroy the family rancher's way of life." Other critics of the plan say many ranchers bought ranches assuming they would be able to run livestock on nearby federal lands at bargain rates, and that it's unfair to make them pay twice for the privilege.

This last argument is particularly pernicious. The ranchers involved bought the land knowing they had no guarantee of continued subsidized rates. Their optimism doesn't justify the continued indulgence of the taxpayer. The same argument can be used against removing any federal subsidy, direct or indirect, since it penalizes those who planned as if it were permanent.

The boost might bankrupt some ranchers, but Garn vastly exaggerates its impact. If it's impossible to make money paying higher fees, no one will pay them. If it is possible, then those ranchers who can do so will ante up. At worst, more efficient ranchers will supplant less efficient ones. In addition, the change would help ranchers who run their stock on private land, by removing their government-aided competition.

But raising the fees isn't the best solution to the problem. There is a simple way to minimize the damage to western ranchers while eliminating the perpetual federal largesse they've enjoyed. It also would create greater incentives for careful stewardship of the land.

All the federal government has to do is sell it. Those ranchers now renting range land would be given first crack, at a bargain price, thus accommodating their complaints about equity, with any unbought land going to auction. If the land has the productive capacity claimed by the federal government, it should bring in a tidy sum of money. And Washington would be freed of the chronic drain on the Treasury.

After all, there is no good reason for the government to own millions of acres of land suited only for ranching. Contrary to environmentalist myth, private ownership would enhance the health of the land and the forage it supports. Ranchers who rent land temporarily have no particular incentive to attend to its long-term health, since they won't be around to enjoy the benefits. Private owners, by contrast, lose financially if they let their land suffer and gain by making investments to improve it.

The federal grazing program is overdue for drastic revision, and raising fees is better than nothing. But Congress shouldn't overlook the better option.

MIAs in Southeast Asia being held in bondage

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — At the urging of anguished relatives, we've spent years investigating whether American prisoners are still alive in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos. We're now prepared to announce our conclusion:

We are convinced that some Americans on the missing-in-action list have actually been held in bondage by their communist captors for more than a decade.

The latest top-secret reports identify one group of about two dozen who are believed to be doing "technical work" for the Vietnamese — repairing helicopters and other military hardware left behind by U.S. forces.

"Actually, there are more likely a hundred POWs still living there," said a key source in the Defense Intelligence Agency. He based this estimate on satellite photos, communications intercepts and human reports. "The evidence," he said, "is overwhelming."

This evidence may be forced into open court by a class action lawsuit, which has been filed by a former prisoner-of-war and a Special Forces sergeant. They charge that federal officials have violated U.S. law by not aggressively seeking the release or rescue of live POWs still being held in Southeast Asia.

A tale of intrigue and betrayal rivaling the movie "Rambo" could unfold in a federal court in Fayetteville, N.C., the "company town" of the Green Berets.

Affidavits filed in the suit claim U.S. officials deliberately ignored or discredited reports of live POW sightings. One affidavit, by a Congressional Medal of Honor winner, even suggests that the Army tried to arrange the death or capture of the two plaintiffs in the suit.

A much-decorated former POW, retired Maj. Mark A. Smith, swears that while he was serving with the Special Forces in Korea he got information for the DIA from 1981 to 1984 proving that there were POWs in Southeast Asia. The information was gathered "by talking with agents in the Thai military, the Lao resistance, the Pathet Lao, the free Vietnamese, gun smugglers, gold smugglers, drug smugglers and anyone who could provide information."

Smith said he cross-checked reports of about 50 agents, most of whom had no knowledge of each other but who corroborated the others' testimony.

In April 1984, Smith learned that three POWs could be rescued from Laos the following month. But when he took this information to a U.S. major general in Seoul, Smith's affidavit said, "I was told that if I wanted to be a Lt. Col. in the Army that I should forget about the POW/MIA information..."

Smith said when the general read the cover letters

Smith had prepared, he "turned white, handed the briefing back to me and said, 'This is too hot for me to handle, big guy.'" Smith swore that the general advised him to "put the briefing paper through a shredder and forget the whole issue."

Sgt. Melvin C. McIntire, still on active duty, served in Korea with Smith and also made trips to Southeast Asia to gather information on POWs. "I learned of approximately 200 living Americans in Laos who were prisoners-of-war," McIntire's affidavit said. When he, too, reported on the POWs who could have been brought out in May 1984, he "was sent back to the United States six months early." He was later told that his and Smith's intelligence reports had been destroyed.

The Medal of Honor winner, Lt. Col. Robert Lewis Howard, now with the Special Forces in Germany, swore that he was told of live POW sightings in January 1984, in Thailand, when he "participated in a training exercise which I now believe was designed and intended to discredit the intelligence-gathering activity" of the Korea-based Special Forces unit.

The training mission "if completed as planned, could have resulted in the killing or capture of myself, Maj. Mark Smith, Sgt. McIntire and others by a hostile force." Howard swore, adding: "This could have had the effect of putting the American POW/MIA issue to rest."

Footnote: A Pentagon official refused to comment because "it is pending litigation."

OOPS!: Officials of the beleaguered U.S. Synthetic Fuels Corp. recently drafted a document called "The Plan" to "convert a group of Western senators from neutrality to advocacy" of the rescue effort being led by Sens. James McClure, R-Idaho, and Pete Domenici, R-N.M. But Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., a lawyer and a critic of synfuels, wrote to President Reagan pointing out that it's against the law for federal officials to try to influence members of Congress with written matter on pending legislative action. Synar even cited the pertinent section of the U.S. Criminal Code. Synfuels officials said "The Plan" was written by the staff but never implemented.

WATCH ON WASTE: The Alaska regional office of the Fish and Wildlife Service plans to buy a Cessna seaplane, for use in the 8 million-acre Yukon Flats National Wildlife Refuge, figuring it will be cheaper than hiring the air taxi services of Donald Ross, a former wildlife service pilot. Ross vehemently disagrees. The Cessna 185 base price is $120,000, plus $25,000 for skis or floats, plus up to $40,000 a year for a full-time pilot. Ross, who has been earning about $15,000 for four months' work, says bitterly, "That plane is going to cost the service more than 10 miles what they pay me."

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Cigarettes aren't as bad as alcohol

To the editor:
I'm not trying to start a debate, but I noticed an article in your paper by a man condemning the lowering of cigarette taxes.

He gave every reason as to why this should not be done. He never one time mentioned taxes on alcohol.

The beer and wine commercials are still on T.V. encouraging people to buy different brands, yet the cigarette ads were taken off the air.

To me, alcohol is far more dangerous to one's health than cigarettes. It causes liver and brain damage and also causes stomach ulcers and "wrecks." A person can smoke several cigarettes and still walk a straight line. But let that same person drink several beers or mixed drinks and his brain is mush and he can't even control his speech.

For those people who don't smoke, I say "good for you", but for smokers, I, for one, am getting tired of being condemned for it when there are far worse things being done all around us and nothing being said about it.

"Golden" Colorado is a pretty place, but "Marlboro Country" is just as pretty.

Director clarifies quote about band

To the editor:
I am writing in response to a statement attributed to me by one of your reporters concerning the article, "Early contest bypasses no-pass, no-play rule" (Sept. 20).

I was quoted with the statement, "It (the early contest) gives the students a chance to participate without worrying about things like class standing and grades."

This statement does not reflect my reasons for approving the early contest. While the six-week rule is being used to our benefit, I certainly encourage our band students to keep up in their grades and studies. The early contest will allow more (although not all) students to participate in band and KNOW that they will be allowed to participate in one of two UIL contest days in which the Steer Band participates.

For example, if the contest had been scheduled for October 26 (the same time as last year), some students would have been eliminated after working for six weeks to establish a contest-quality performance. This was the case this past spring, when many bands lost members due to poor contest placement, and performances suffered.

While the Steer Band does not offer specific tutorial sessions due to staff shortage, we do encourage students to help each other and to use the state-mandated tutorial programs.

While band and contest activities do contribute to the overall education of each student, I do not feel that these are to be a substitute for academic excellence, but should be a part of academic excellence.

Thank you for making this correction.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 25, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Many delays and apparent obstacles can take place during the daytime to block your path, but these are actual opportunities giving you more time to work out a plan.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Some practical affair could interfere with your activity to gain some private desire in the morning, but later you gain it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A partner could take up considerable time in the morning. After lunch, work quickly to get caught up with your duties.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You first have to handle work that is important before you can get off to some new and interesting situation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Make sure you get all of your affairs in good order before you go out for a good time with your friends.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have to handle a home situation before meeting with an associate, but this gives you more time to plan your discussion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some interruption could delay work you had planned for the morning, but later you can get right at it enthusiastically.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may find some pleasure thwarted early because of a practical affair that needs attention, but later, have a fine time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) First keep a promise made to kin before doing your own thing and then you can be very energetic.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to handle some private worry even if it takes longer than you expected. Take care of outside business.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put yourself in a good friend's shoes and you know how best to be of assistance to him or her.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be most tactful in dealing with a prominent person and don't make any untoward remarks. Enjoy friends tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have a well-thought-out plan, but are not sure just when to launch it. Late afternoon is best for this.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will find it difficult to express self and show true talents early in life and needs all the encouragement the parents can bestow from earliest years. Send to the right kind of schools. Adulthood will be successful and happy.

Five attend luncheon for Constitution Week

Dear Abby

Tales of tragedy confirm that hitchhiking is risky

The Captain Elisha Mack Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the La Posada Sept. 21 for lunch and a business meeting.

Mrs. John Cobean brought a message from Mrs. Walter King, president general.

The Wolverhampton Civic Society invited King to visit England and to pay tribute to Barton Gwineth, signer of the Declaration of Independence and first appointed governor of Georgia.

A marker was placed at St. Peter's Church in London, where Gwineth married and his children were christened.

King, representing the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), dedicated a showcase table to be placed in All Hallows of the tower where John Quincy Adams married Louise Johnson in 1797.

The table will be placed between one honoring the christening of William Penn and another commemorating the visit of Queen Elizabeth II.

The table presented by the society will contain the marriage bond of the sixth president of the United States.

Congress designated Sept. 17-23 as Constitution Week to observe the signing of the Constitution of the United States.

A Constitution Week luncheon was held Sept. 17 in Midland. It was sponsored by the Col. Theunis Dey and Lt. William Brewer chapters of Midland. Kent Hance of Lubbock, former United States congressman, was speaker.

Attending the luncheon were: Mrs. Jack Alexander, Mrs. Curtis Driver, Cobean, Mrs. H.D. Cowden and Mrs. C.G. Barnett.

Barnett attended the Continental Congress April 15-19 in Washington D.C.

The National Society has established a special committee, "DAR Member Military Service," honoring those having served in the military.

Members are asked to bring small gifts to the October meeting for patients in the Big Spring State Hospital.

A DAR workshop was held Sept. 11 in San Angelo. Attending were Alexander, Driver and Barnett.

The next meeting will be at 12 p.m. Oct. 19 at the La Posada.

DEAR ABBY: "Tacoma Reader" asked, "What measures can a driver take to reduce the risk if he picks up a hitchhiker?"

You replied, "For 100 percent protection, pick up nobody."

Your answer was 100 percent correct. In essence, the hitchhiker is saying with his thumb: "You pay for the car, the gas, the upkeep and maintenance, the insurance; drive me where I want to go as far as you can, but if you have an accident, I may sue you!"

That's exactly what happened to one of my clients who picked up a hitchhiker. He swerved to avoid being hit by another car, over-compensated and hit a guardrail. The hitchhiker has just filed a $250,000 lawsuit against him, even though we are paying the present medical bills and loss of any income as a result of the accident.

I received many rides as a young man, and I would like to repay those who were kind to me by doing the same for others. However, times have changed, and unfortunately so have the attitudes and motivations of many people in our society. What a shame that in order to protect ourselves, we cannot be as generous and kind as we would like to be.

C.R.T., ALBANY, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, my son, who was 21 at the time, had just re-enlisted for his second term with the U.S. Navy. He wanted to make it his career. He picked up a hitchhiker, a decent-looking young man about his age who said he was going home to visit his mother.

Less than 48 hours later, my son was lying in a hospital fighting for his life! The hitchhiker had brutally attacked him, beat him about the head, stolen his car and belongings, and left him on the roadside.

Thanks to the grace of God and a skilled surgeon, my son lived. He suffered the loss of the use of his right hand, and slightly impaired speech. This, of course, ended all hopes of a career in the Navy. He considers himself lucky to be alive.

I want to add my unconditional support of your advice: Never pick up a hitchhiker. Whenever I see a person with his thumb out, I see my son lying in the hospital, fighting for his life.

You may use my name.
MRS. PAT DOUGLAS,
PITTSBURGH

Allred Building gets new curtain

Custom Design and Upholstery of Abilene installed a new, Cambridge blue stage curtain in the auditorium of the Allred Building of the Big Spring State Hospital Sept. 20.

In 1983, the Volunteer Services Council established a fund to buy a new curtain to replace the original one that had been used since 1963, the year the Allred Building was constructed.

The dedication will be Oct. 17 during the annual fall luncheon.

Frank Melton, chairman of Volunteer Services State Council and member of the Board of Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, will be guest speaker for the luncheon. The "Colorados," with pianist Margaret Baum, former volunteer coordinator for the hospital, will entertain.

Bob Ford of San Antonio performed a magic show for the patients at the Big Spring State Hospital Sept. 17.

On Sept. 20, Arthur and Dorothy Burns, known professionally as Bimbo and Cleo the Clowns, visited the patients and made balloon animals for them.

The clowns are sponsored by Ed Burlingame, owner of Pride of Texas Carnival from Beeville.

Dr. Donohue

'Borderline' hypertension

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm a 52-year-old female in pretty good health. My question is about high blood pressure. How high can it be before it has to be brought down? Let me be specific.

On two separate occasions I have had readings right in the neighborhood of 150 over 95 or 93. From what I have read this is what is defined as borderline. Are doctors today insisting on lowering pressures this low? — Mrs. R.Z.

Borderline high blood pressure has been somewhat arbitrarily defined as systolic (first reading) between 140 and 160 and diastolic (second reading) between 90 and 95.

Pressure in this range poses something of a dilemma, although that may be too strong a word. Let's say it presents a gray area for decision-making, both as to need for treatment and type of therapy. Does the person with this slight elevation need treatment? The answer is yes, especially if it can be shown that the initial reading was not a fluke and can be duplicated at home, for example, away from examining-room stresses. Another way to clear up the issue is to repeat the test in three different office visits.

Then there is the matter of treatment. For borderline high pressure, simple non-drug measures, like weight-reduction, salt restriction, and exercise may suffice. If not, then drugs can be initiated, beginning with low dosage of the less potent ones and working upward to the more powerful medications as needed.

Generally speaking, and in answer to your question, pressure in the border-line area has to be attended to somehow.

CABLE TV BALLOT

BIG SPRING CABLE TV
P.O. BOX 1871
2006 S. BIRDWELL LN.

Dear Cable TV Customers:

Recently Big Spring Cable TV received notification from Times Mirror Microwave that WFAA, Channel 8, will no longer be available to us or to many other area cities West of Abilene. Unlike most of the programming we carry, WFAA is carried to us by microwave and is not available by satellite. We at Big Spring Cable TV are disappointed with Times Mirror's decision to discontinue WFAA, but at this time we have no alternative other than to accept Times Mirror's decision and choose a replacement channel.

Considering the popularity that WFAA enjoys in Big Spring, we feel that it would be best if our customers helped us choose its replacement. Therefore we have elected to conduct a poll among our customers to determine which channel we will carry. Please indicate your preference on this ballot, include your name, address and account number, and mail it to us or drop it by our office (limit, one ballot per account number.)

We appreciate your understanding, and hope that our customers realize that, here at Cable TV, we are just as disappointed with this situation as you are.

Sincerely,
Paul A. Thoman
System Manager

- WGN, Chicago independent station, carries the Chicago Cubs. *Addition of WGN would require a rate increase.
- KTVT, Dallas independent station includes Dallas area news. *Addition of KTVT would require a rate increase.
- CMTV, Country Music Television, already available part time on Channel 8, shows country music videos.

- TBN (Trinity Broadcasting Network), provides Christian programming

OTHER _____

*The addition of WGN or KTVT would require a $.50 per month rate increase made necessary by the increased expense due to the Federal copyright requirements. This increase would result in a slight loss of revenues to Big Spring Cable TV.

Meeting to discuss farm law

STANTON — The president of the Texas Farmers Union, Joe Rankin of Ralls, will address area family farmers at the union's District 8 banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Stanton Community Building.

District 8 director Pete Ballew of Andrews said Rankin was expected to discuss 1985 farm legislation.

Other keynote speakers will be Robert Girard, vice president of Texas Farmers Union, and Robert Mullins, director of legislative services for the National Farmers Union office in Washington, D.C.

Texas Farmers Union represents more than 10,000 family farm members in Texas and sponsors community development projects such as Green Thumb Inc. and Senior Texans Employment Program, older worker programs designed to employ seniors in rural communities.

The free dinner is open to the public.

Farmers plan market

MIDLAND — Farmers in the Midland area are forming an association to organize a farmers market here.

Midland County agricultural extension agent Earnest Kiker said the group will have an organizational meeting at 3 p.m. Oct. 1 in the Midland County extension offices at 2445 E. Highway 80.

"The farmers market approach to marketing offers consumers fresh produce at a central location in an open-air marketing style," Kiker said. Extension horticulturalist Austin Stockton of Fort Stockton, a coordinator of the program, said the meeting would cover modifying and adopting rules and regulations for a Permian Basin Farmers Market.

Other actions to be taken include naming a board of directors for the association, reviewing farmers market survey results and planning winter educational programs for direct-to-consumer vegetable, fruit and nut production in West Texas.

The group is trying to finish groundwork at the meeting so the farmers' market could begin in the spring, Stockton said.

Representatives of the group have met with county and city officials and received assurances of full support of the market, Stockton said. Similar markets are successful in Dallas, Weatherford, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio and El Paso.

Appreciation lunch on Oct. 2

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce has scheduled its 14th annual agricultural appreciation barbecue for noon Oct. 2 at the Howard County Fairgrounds.

All agricultural producers in Howard County are invited to the luncheon, sponsored by the chamber's agricultural committee.

Free tickets must be picked up at the Chamber of Commerce office at 215 W. Third by noon Friday.

Preceding the luncheon will be a tour titled, "Range to Table," which will cover the beef production process in Howard County.

The luncheon will feature a panel on "Opportunities with Beef Cattle." On the panel will be Zerle Carpenter, director of the Texas agricultural extension agency; Mike Phillips of the Beef Industry Council of Texas; and Larry Boleman, extension beef cattle specialist.

Technology affects auto repair industry

In recent years the automobile industry and service personnel have changed. Yesterday's mechanics are today's trained technicians. The term changed as automobiles became highly technical.

In the near future there will no longer be a "shade tree mechanic." They will not have the knowledge or the equipment to service the latest vehicles.

The changes lie with the technological advancements in automobiles, such as the computer command control. New car owners can't afford to let just anyone make repairs on their vehicle. George Leatham of G&M Garage, 900 E. 3rd, wants to make today's car buyers aware of the current automotive technology.

G&M Garage has the In-House Diagnostic Computer. This new diagnostic computer enables technicians to repair the automobile promptly and correctly. Guesswork no longer plays a part in determining what is wrong. The diagnostic computer gives a complete read-out on the auto's problems, including those that the customer may be unaware of that could cause trouble or damage.

For auto repair and maintenance projects that are complicated and costly, try G&M Garage at 900 E. 3rd. George and Mary Leatham (they're the G&M) run a garage where you can feel confident your car will receive the very best care.

Crossroads Chalk Talk

The third week of Crossroads Country Football action saw plenty of rain and two teams gain their first wins of the season. Two teams remained undefeated and one team was knocked from the undefeated ranks.

The Garden City Bearcats and Borden County Coyotes both tasted victory for the first time this season. Garden City whitewashed Grandfalls 12-0, while Borden County drummed Wellman 34-6.

District 7-A South Zone teams Forsan and Sands pushed their marks to 3-0 by virtue of shutouts. Forsan, ranked 11th in last week's Harris Poll, downed Robert Lee 40-0 and Sands contained Klondike 33-0.

The Colorado City Wolves lost only their third game in the last two years, being upset by Denver City, 21-6.

The Coahoma Bulldogs racked up their second consecutive win with a 20-14 decision over stubborn Tahoka and Stanton was humbled by a tough Crane squad, 35-6. It was a costly game for the Buffaloes since starting quarterback Kevin Glaspie went down with a knee injury.

The Grady Wildcats are still looking for their first win after taking a sound, 76-29, whipping from Christoval.

Here is what area coaches had to say after Friday's games.

TOM RAMSEY, COLORADO CITY — "We just didn't play well. In fact it was our worst performance this year. We made them (Denver City) look good. You could call it a overall bad game."

"Denver City came in here with a 0-2 record but they didn't know they were supposed to roll over and play dead for us on homecoming night. We had scoring chances all night and didn't take advantage of them. Then the rains came and that slowed us down."

"Practice will be tough this week, we're going to test the character of our team. Abilene Wylie (next game) is a good passing and running team. You can't just stop one, you must shut both of them down."

DALE RUTH, STANTON — "Crane was a real physical team, they are the best team we've faced so far this season. They were fundamentally sound and had the size to go along with it."

"They shut us down on offense, but we did get some kind of running game going in the second half. We don't know about Kevin's (QB Kevin Glaspie) knee. We'll know more later in the week. If he can't go we'll use Derek Sorley or Skip Hopkins."

CURRIE MCWILLIAMS, GRADY — Christoval is probably the best ballclub we'll play all season. They got ahead of us early and needed one more touchdown to end the game at halftime.

"But the kids didn't quit, they went back out there and mixed it up with them. We came back and scored two quick touchdowns."

"Jayton is the number one ranked team in the state and offensively they are just as good as last year. But they lost two key players off their defense. We think we can move the ball on them. If the kids get pumped up and ready to play; it will be a good game."

CURRIE MCWILLIAMS

DUKE FRISBEE

DUKE FRISBEE, BORDEN COUNTY — We're real excited about getting our first win. We played good in the wet conditions. We took advantage of their turnovers and jumped out on them early. Everytime they turned it over, we scored. It gave us a chance to let the young kids play.

"Weinert (next opponent) is the number three team in the state, if we play well we'll be in the game. They have a All-State quarterback (Shanon Forehand) and run a multiple offense. "we'll give the ball to Chris (Cooley) because you have to go with your best player."

"Our kids are not in awe of this team; we upset them last year. We're excited about playing them."

TONY STRICKLIN, GARDEN CITY — "We feel pretty good about our win. Going into the game we felt like we had the better team and should have won the game. We still made a lot of mental mistakes or we could have scored more."

"We wanted to work on our passing game but the rain prevented that. We are getting better. We're much better than our record indicates."

"If we go out and play good against Klondike we should win the game."

TONY STRICKLIN

JAN EAST

JAN EAST, FORSAN — "We're doing so well it kind of scares me. I don't know if the teams we've been beating are that weak or we're that strong. We've been getting good balance on offense. Both quarterbacks (Brant Nichols and Duane Box) have been doing a fine job. Brant is probably a little better passer, while Duane is quicker and a better runner. So it works out pretty well."

"Our defense has been playing just great. They've had nine straight scoreless quarters. It's futhur along that last year because we are bigger and more physical."

"We'll get a good test this Friday against (Rankin). This will give us an indication of how good we are. Rankin is a good football team. They're big and probably have a little more talent than we do."

TOM HAM

BRUCE MITCHELL

TOM HAM, KLONDIKE — The players are not down. They are pretty level headed kids. They realize we are young and they'll have to go

Rams shake off Seattle, 35-24

SEATTLE (AP) — For the first three quarters, Eric Dickerson shook off the rust from his holdout. In the fourth, he made the Seahawks look like they were the guys who had been away for 47 days.

"Obviously, Eric had training camp in the first three quarters and began the regular season in the fourth," Los Angeles Rams Coach John Robinson said after the holder of the National Football League's single-season rushing record played his first game of the season on three days of practice like he'd never been away at all.

Recreating some of his routine days of the past two seasons, he carried 31 times for 150 yards and scored three touchdowns as the Rams beat the Seattle Seahawks 35-24 for their third win without a loss. Even more important, he saved his best work for the final period after the Seahawks had cut a 21-7 deficit to 21-17 with just under seven minutes to play on a fourth-down play from the Rams 3-yard line.

Then Dickerson took over, ignoring the constant din of the 63,292 fans who bounced their appeals to the Seahawks defense off the walls and roof of the Kingdome.

On the first play of the next possession, he took a handoff from Dieter Brock, burst through a hole between right tackle and guard and cut for the sidelines, racing 43 yards to the Seattle 37. Five plays later, he burst into the end zone from 15 yards out to make it 28-17 and the Seahawks were never in the game again.

"I felt very much at home," said Dickerson, who ran and lifted weights during his time away from the Rams in a contract dispute, then practiced with the team last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

"In the fourth quarter the defensive guys starting getting tired and I got a step ahead of them."

"You know that one of these plays he'll break it," offensive tackle Jackie Slater said of the 43-yard run, which came on a "gap play" that the Rams had tried 10 or 12 times before with virtually no success.

"It was a strange game," Robinson said of the contest between two teams that began the evening among the NFL's three unbeaten teams.

Indeed it was.

The half ended 7-7 although the Seahawks could gain only 27 yards through the first two quarters against a Los Angeles defense that finished the game with seven sacks. But they managed to offset Dickerson's first-quarter 1-yard touchdown run at the end of a 65-yard drive with Dave Brown's 28-yard score on an interception.

Then Los Angeles took control again with two touchdowns in the first 2:03 of the second half. The first came on a 19-yard pass from Brock to Bobby Duckworth at the end of a brisk 5-play, 80-yard drive; the second on Dickerson's 2-yard run one play after Randall Morris fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Mark Jerue recovered for the Rams.

Southern Cal skids in college poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer
Auburn and Oklahoma, both idle over the weekend, remained 1-2 in the Associated Press college football poll today while Southern California skidded from third to 18th after being upset by Baylor.

In addition, South Carolina and Illinois, last week's No. 15 and 20 teams, fell out of the Top Twenty after suffering crushing defeats while Air Force and Virginia made the rankings for the first time this season.

Auburn, 2-0, received 26 of 57 first-place votes and 1,087 of a possible 1,140 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. The Tigers visit Tennessee on Saturday.

Oklahoma, which will become the last major-college team to play a game when the Sooners visit Minnesota on Saturday night, received 21 first-place votes and 1,076 points.

Last week, with all 60 voters participating, they were tied 23-23 in first-place ballots while Auburn led in points 1,137-1,125.

With Southern Cal losing to Baylor 20-13, Iowa moved up from fourth place to third with five first-place votes and 1,008 points by trouncing Northern Illinois 48-20.

Florida State and Ohio State, sixth and seventh last week, both climbed past idle Southern Methodist, which slipped from fifth to sixth. Fourth-place Florida State received 877 points following a 19-10 victory over Memphis State and No. 5 Ohio State, a 36-13 winner over Colorado, received 807 points, followed by SMU with three first-place votes and 787 points.

Oklahoma State, which was also idle, jumped from eighth to seventh with 695 points. LSU defeated Colorado State 17-3 and rose from ninth to eighth with 681 points.

Penn State turned back East Carolina 17-10 and went up from 10th to ninth with 624 points and Arkansas cracked the Top Ten for the first time this season, vaulting from 14th to 10th with 515 points after blanking Tulsa 2-0.

The Second Ten consists of Florida, Michigan, UCLA,

Brigham Young, Alabama, Nebraska, Maryland, Southern Cal, Air Force and Virginia. Michigan, which pounded South Carolina 34-3, and Maryland, a 28-0 winner over West Virginia, each received one first-place vote.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Florida, UCLA, BYU, Arkansas, South Carolina, Alabama, Maryland, Nebraska, Michigan and Illinois.

Illinois dropped out by losing to Nebraska 52-25. Meanwhile, Air Force raised its record to 8-0 by clobbering Rice 59-17 — the Falcons have outscored their opposition 156-30 — and Virginia downed Georgia Tech 24-13 for its second consecutive triumph.

Four share Steer Player of the Week awards

There were a abundance of stars in the Steers 35-0 win over Lubbock Monterey last Friday night, but seven rose to the top to be named the top players of the week.

Leading the way for the Steers award winners were quarterback Carl Speck and running back James Harlin. These two got the nod from Steer coaches as the Offensive Players of the Week.

Another duo shared honors for Defensive Players of the Week. Noseguard Todd Coker and defensive tackle Jerry Freshour were honored for their efforts.

Other Steers players receiving mention for their fine play Friday night are offensive tackle Tim Green, cornerback Danny Williams and kicker Colin Carroll.

This marks the second week Speck has been named as one of the Steers top offensive players. The 5-11, 165-pound senior quarterback was instrumental in leading the Steer offense to 35 first half points, including 28 in the second quarter.

Against Monterey, Speck carried the ball one time for 11 yards, but his passing is what stood out. The sturdy signal-caller completed 8 of 15 passes for 137 yards and one touchdown. He didn't throw any interceptions. His TD toss was a 3-yarder to tight end David Shortes.

Going into district play, Speck is 20 of 52 for 371 yards and 3 TD's and no interceptions.

Diminutive running back James Harlin turned in his second consecutive good performance against Monterey. The 5-7, 140-pound junior racked up 81 yards in 9 carries and 1 touchdown. He's the Steers second leading rusher with 156 yards in 24 carries. The 81 yards was the best single-game rushing performance the Steers have had this season.

Offensive left tackle Green was one of the main reasons for Harlin and Speck's success. The 6-0, 210-pound senior had a banner night opening holes for his teammates. He was the top offensive lineman of the week.

Defensive stars Coker and Freshour were mainstays up front as Big Spring limited Monterey to a mere 41 yards total offense. Each recovered two fumbles while Coker made 7 tackles and Freshour led the team with 8 stops.

This marks the second straight week Coker, a 5-10, 190-pound junior has been named the top defensive player. He's the team's second leading tackler so far this season with 23 stops.

Freshour, a 210-pound senior, was making his first start this season. He was credited with 4 unassisted tackles and 4 assisted tackles.

Cornerback Williams had much do with Monterey not completing a pass in against the Black and Gold secondary. The speedy sophomore made two tackles and got a interception, his first of his varsity career.

The Steers secondary is limiting opposing offenses only 25 yards per game through the air. Williams and his secondary mates have only had six passes completed on them.

Carroll, the Steers place-kicker and kickoff man, also had a banner night. He boomed two kickoffs in the endzone and was 4 of 5 in extra points.

Cards maintain lead; Chisox challenge in West

By the Associated Press
The way the St. Louis Cardinals are playing, it's a no-win situation for the New York Mets.

"We feel that anybody on this team can step into the hero's role on any given night. I think we've proven that," Terry Pendleton said after his two-out, two-run triple in the eighth inning Monday night led the comeback Cardinals to a 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was the fourth straight uphill victory for the National League East leaders, who maintained a three-game lead over the frustrated Mets, who couldn't gain any ground despite a 4-1 triumph over Philadelphia.

Pendleton also was the hero in Friday night's comeback 5-3 win over Montreal with a two-run single in the eighth. On Saturday, Jack Clark's two-run homer in the seventh keyed a 7-6 Cardinal triumph over the Expos. And on Sunday, it was Tommy Herr with a two-out, two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth that did it for St. Louis.

In the NL West, the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Houston Astros 5-3 to boost their lead over idle Cincinnati. In other NL games, Montreal kept past Chicago 10-7 and San Francisco defeated San Diego 7-2.

The Cards' recent late-inning heroics may have prompted a team meeting convened by the Mets before Monday's game against the Phillies.

"We decided not to look back and forget scoreboard reading. Never mind what St. Louis is doing," veteran outfielder George Foster said.

"We said, 'Win 'em all and the worst we can get is a tie. Nobody remembers the team that finishes second, even in the World Series.'"

NL Roundup

Cardinals 5, Pirates 4
Pendleton's big hit came off reliever Ceciliano Guante, 4-6, the third Pirates pitcher, and provided the hot Cardinals with their 11th victory in 12 games.

"He gave me a fastball — a pitch I could handle," said Pendleton. "Fortunately, it found the gap and both runners scored."

Earlier, the Pirates had taken a 4-2 lead in the sixth on Jim Morrison's solo home run and Joe Orsulak's RBI single. A run-scoring single by Ozzie Smith in the Cardinals' seventh cut the Pittsburgh lead to 4-3.

Mets 4, Phillies 1
Gary Carter, hitting .394 with three homers and nine RBIs in his last nine games, hit a two-run homer in the third inning to lead New York over Philadelphia in the opener of a 10-game road trip for the Mets. Rick Aguilera, 9-6, pitched five innings for New York, allowing six hits, walking one and striking out five.

Roger McDowell relieved for the Mets and pitched four innings of two-hit, scoreless ball to earn his 16th save.

Mike Schmidt hit his 30th homer of the year for the Phillies in the fourth inning. It was the 11th season in which Schmidt has hit 30 or more home runs, a feat surpassed by only three others in baseball history, Hank Aaron (15), Babe Ruth (13) and Jimmy Foxx (12). Willie Mays also accomplished the feat 11 times.

trip is going to be," said Carter. "We have to stay close to the Cardinals. We have to go into St. Louis (Oct. 1-3) with no more than a two- or three-game deficit and play them head-to-head."

"We've been known to have very good road trips," added Mets Manager Dave Johnson. "We've been 9-1 on the road. That's what the doctor ordered, one of those road trips."

Dodgers 5, Astros 3
Pinch-hitter Enos Cabell lined a two-run single in the eighth inning and Steve Sax had three hits and two RBIs to power Los Angeles over Houston.

The victory enabled the Dodgers to improve their lead over the second-place Cincinnati Reds to six games.

"We don't have to worry," said the Dodgers' Pedro Guerrero. "They are the ones that are trailing. They have to catch us."

Carlos Diaz, 5-3, was the winner with late relief help from Tom Niedenfuer, who gained his 17th save. Jeff Calhoun, 2-4, took the loss.

Guerrero, who returned to the Los Angeles lineup after a 17-game absence due to a sprained left wrist, collected three hits. He drove in the Dodgers' first run with an RBI single in the fourth and singled to spark their rally in the eighth.

"I didn't expect three hits," Guerrero said. "I thought I could get at least one. My wrist is still sore and on every swing it hurt, but I couldn't be worried about the pain."

Expos 10, Cubs 7
Andres Galarraga hit a leadoff home run and Doug Fobel added a two-run shot during a tie-breaking, three-run eighth inning that powered Montreal over Chicago and broke a six-game Expo losing streak.

Galarraga's second homer of the season snapped a 6-6 tie. Fobel then hit his first after a walk to Razor Shines off George Frazier, 7-8.

Frazier also gave up a two-run homer to Vance Law in the seventh inning. Earlier in the game, Andre Dawson hit his 200th career home run and Tim Wallach hit his 19th of the season, both against starter Steve Trout, giving the Expos five home runs in a game for the first time this year.

Giants 7, Padres 2
Dan Gladden and Mike Woodard each knocked in two runs and San Francisco capitalized on four San Diego errors to score seven unearned runs and give left-hander Atlee Hammaker his first victory in a month.

Hammaker, 5-12, who last won on Aug. 23, went six innings, allowing six hits and one run before leaving the game with a tender left elbow. It was Hammaker's first career victory in San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium, where he had been 0-5.

The Padres stranded 16 runners, one shy of a club record for a nine-inning game.

As far as Harold Baines is concerned, the American League West is a three-team race.

"The way I see it, we still have an outside chance to win," Baines said Monday night after hitting a solo homer and a run-scoring single that helped the Chicago White Sox beat the California Angels 6-5.

Almost all of the recent attention in the AL West has been focused on the Angels, who now lead the division by one-half game, and the second-place Kansas City Royals, who were idle.

But the White Sox pulled within 7½ games of the lead, and Baines says his team is not ready for the spoiler role yet.

"We take the field everyday as though we're still in the race," he said.

In other AL games Monday night, Toronto beat Milwaukee 5-1 and extended their lead in the AL East to six games over idle New York. Detroit edged Boston 2-1, Texas bopped Seattle 11-4 and Oakland edged Cleveland 8-7 in other action.

Baines, notoriously one of baseball's best second-half hitters, put the White Sox ahead in the first inning with a solo homer, his 21st of the season. The blow came against Don Sutton, 15-9.

The best Angels tied it in the second when Doug DeCinces homered for the third straight game — his 17th of the year.

Luis Salazar hit a three-run homer for Chicago in the third, and Baines doubled and scored on a single by Greg Walker in the fifth for a 5-2 lead.

Baines added an RBI single in the seventh to make it 6-3, enough to withstand California's two-run rally in the bottom of the seventh.

Gene Nelson, 10-10, pitched 5 1/3 innings for the victory and hard-throwing Bob James worked the ninth for his 29th save.

The Angels left 12 runners on base, including a runner on third when James struck out Bob Boone to end the game.

Blue Jays 5, Brewers 1
Right fielder Jesse Barfield hit his 25th home run of the season and stole his 20th base to lead Toronto over visiting Milwaukee.

The Blue Jays lowered their magic number for clinching their first-ever division title to eight.

Barfield became the first Toronto player to have at least 20 homers and 20 steals in one season. He homered in the second inning against Tim Lary, 1-2, and his through some hard times. But they are gaining valuable playing experience.

"We started out well against Sands then had a couple of bad breaks happen. Again our inexperience began to tell. We did play better than the stats indicated."

"Garden City is big compared to us. They have more experienced people coming back. They are a power type team and they'll run at us. We hope to eliminate the mistakes and not have to play catch up football."

BRUCE MITCHELL, COAHOMA — "I think we played well. We got ahead early 20-0 and then the rains came. We gave up one big play touchdown and then fumbled on our own one-yard line to give them another score."

"Our defense is playing well. Tahoka is a lot better team than people give them credit for."

"Big Lake (next game) is a lot better than last year. They've got good team speed and a fine quarterback (Cosme Roman). This will be our toughest non-district opponent so far this season."
