A lone unidentified figure is swept by high winds as he watches a sailing boat being pounded against the sea wall in New Bedford, Mass., Friday as Hurricane Gloria hits the region.

Storm wipes out

By The Associated Press
Hurricane Gloria dealt a glancing blow to the East Coast on Friday, tearing down power lines and buckling boardwalks but causing less damage than expected before it rapidly weakened over New England. A half-million people had fled what was once one of the most dangerous Atlantic storms on record.

Five deaths were linked to the storm, which moved north after smashing into North Carolina before dawn Friday with 130 mph wind. By Friday night, however, Gloria weakened into a tropical storm as it swept over western Maine and headed into Canada's maritime provinces.

Low-lying areas were flooded and more than 2.75 million customers lost electricity during the hurricane.

Gloria rapidly weakened once it ran aground in Connecticut and thick, gray clouds were replaced by sunshine from North Carolina to Massachusetts. The gambling casinos of Atlantic City, N.J., had closed early as the storm approached, but reopened Friday night.

"For the storm of the century, it was a washout," said New York City Parks Commissioner Henry Stern, whose office counted 572 trees down in the city.

Added Mayor Edward Koch, "We scared the hell out of the hurricane and it went elsewhere."

By midafternoon the storm had sped up the Connecticut River Valley into Vermont, where 50 mph wind forced some cars off roads, officials said. Gov. Madeleine Kunin declared a state of emergency, asked non-essential state employees to go home and placed 800 National Guardsmen on alert.

In New York City, tens of thousands stayed home, and the twin 110-story towers of the World Trade Center and the Wall Street stock exchanges shut down. But the storm's effects were mostly limited to flooded streets, white trees and power lines were down on suburban Long Island.

Waiting for Gloria

Framingham bar patrons use hurricane as excuse for party

BY JEFF KRAMER

Harte-Hanks News Service
FRAMINGHAM, Mass. — They weren't exactly cowering in fear at the Happy Swallow Tavern on Friday, where customers quaffed beer, scoffed at the hurricane and basically turned a state of emergency into a reason to party.

"It's fun," said Susan Mandino, as she sipped vodka and tonic water. "I've got a bottle of champagne in the car."

Patrons of the gritty downtown watering hole started showing up as early as 8 a.m., convinced it was as good a place as any to ride out the storm.

"It's like a bunker," one man said. Mandino's brother, Tom, suggested he could better survive the storm drinking in a tavern than starving at home. His hurricane plan: "Keep out of my house, because there's nothing to eat."

As Gloria approached New England, the crowd made up mainly of male workers with an unexpected day off, swelled to about 40 people. The mood ranged from skepticism about the storm's strength to anticipation of its arrival.

Warren Webster, affectionately known as "Big W," said he was expecting a "furious" storm.

And 35-year-old Frank Dailey admitted he was hoping for one. "In my lifetime, I've never encountered a storm like this. I want to see what it's like."

Another man turned philosophical when asked what he thought of Gloria. "I love it," said Ronny Kaufman, who gave his age as 37, but looked suspiciously as if he might have been alive during the 1938 Hurricane. "It's wild and furious. My life has been wild and furious. As long as nobody gets hurt, I ain't gonna worry."

Another man who identified himself as Chester hardly seemed on the verge of panicking either.

"Jesus Christ has taken care of me all my life, I am not afraid," he said, while washing down a ham and cheese sandwich with a glass of beer. "I'm a salvationist. I'm not a bit worried at all."

A row of drinkers perched at the bar watched television weather reports throughout the day. Others, drinks in hand, circulated throughout the bar, apparently giving little thought to the wind and rain outside.

London native, Paul Anderson, 29, said people seemed to be "panicking unnecessarily, shall we say... This is nothing."

A short while later, however, a blast of wind swept Anderson's eyeglasses across the street when he stepped outside.

After several minutes of looking, Anderson and a friend located the eyewear, which had not broken.

Thomas O'Reilly, of Framingham seemed at least a little concerned about Gloria. He said he was going home to sleep and listen to the radio.

Clements' future tied to football scandal

DALLAS (AP) — Former Gov. Bill Clements is trying to squelch reports that his political future may be as bleak as the football future of his favorite university.

Recent published reports have quoted Republican sources as saying that Clements' political chances could be hurt because he fingered other Southwest Conference schools for NCAA investigation of football cheating after Southern Methodist was put on two years' probation.

Clements is chairman of the board of governors of Southern Methodist, which is smarting from tough penalties slapped on it recently by the NCAA after it found players had been paid by school boosters.

SMU President L. Donald Shields recently wrote in a letter to university alumni that the school "did respond to a request for extensive information concerning alleged NCAA violations at other institutions which we discovered in our in-

Trade deficit shrinks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. trade deficit shrank in August to its lowest level for the year, with some economists hailing the reported decline Friday as evidence that the country has finally seen the worst of its trade woes.

However, other analysts were not as optimistic, contending that much of the improvement in the past two months has come from a temporary drop in oil demand.

The Commerce Department report showed that the difference between what the United States imported and what it exported fell to a $9.9 billion imbalance in August, the lowest monthly total since last December.

The August deficit was 5.8 percent below the July figure and a sharp 26 percent lower than the $13.4 billion June imbalance, the largest this year.

"The decline in the dollar is beginning to have an impact. This turnaround is for real," said Michael Evans, head of a Washington economic forecasting firm.

Arms control plan presented

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze outlined a new proposal for reducing nuclear weapons arsenals in a meeting Friday with President Reagan, Secretary of State George P. Shultz disclosed.

Shultz, who participated in the two hours of talks and a working lunch afterward, refused to reveal details of the plan but said Reagan "welcomed what was put before him" and the Soviets' suggestion that they put it on the table for discussion at the U.S.-Soviet arms control talks in Geneva next week.

"We hope it can lead to a process of genuine negotiations," Shultz said, adding that serious bargaining must be conducted in the privacy of the arms control forum, not in public debate between the two superpowers.

"I will not characterize it other than to say it is a change in their position," the secretary said, briefing reporters after Shevardnadze left the White House.

Shultz said the proposal was contained in a lengthy letter from Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev that Shevardnadze handed Reagan during his opening presentation. He said the foreign minister outlined the proposal but that because the more detailed letter was in Russian and had not been translated yet, U.S. officials have not had an opportunity to analyze it.

He did say, however, that the subject is a complicated one, as evidenced by the Soviets' request for two days to present it in plenary session next Monday and Tuesday in Geneva.

He described it as a counter-Soviets page 2-A

Forecasters said widespread destruction was averted because the storm's strongest winds remained on the east side of the eye and over water, gradually weakening, until they crossed eastern Long Island and began to dissipate, and because it coincided with low tide.

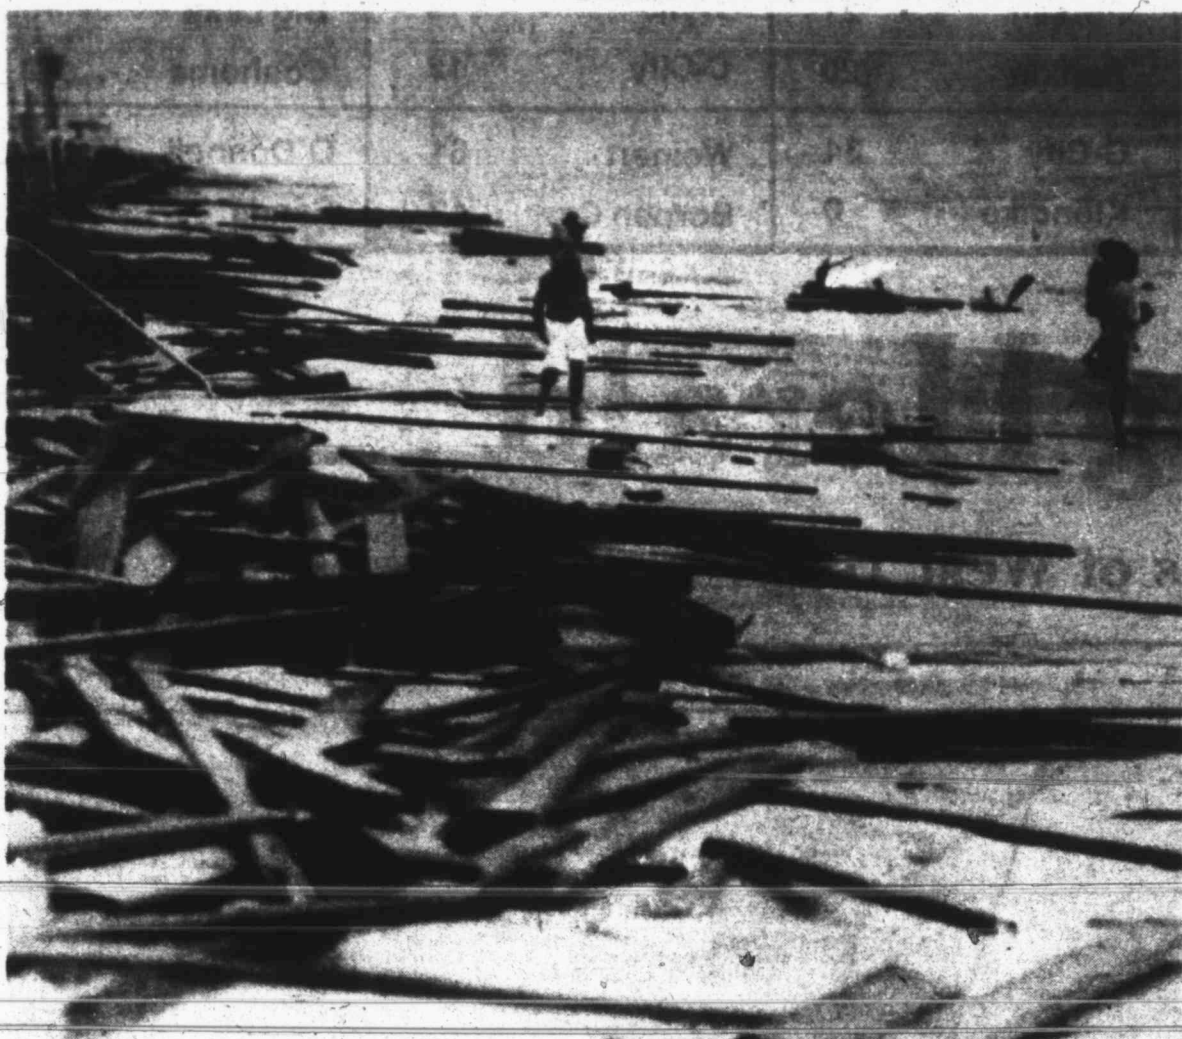

Gloria had approached the East Coast as one of the strongest Atlantic storms on record, with wind up to 150 mph. More than half a million people fled from North Carolina to Maine.

The hurricane still had 100 mph wind when it rammed the Connecticut coast after noon, breaking windows and crushing boats with 12-foot waves. But the National Hurricane Center said its central eye began rapidly weakening, and at 8 p.m. EDT, Gloria was downgraded to a tropical storm when its winds fell to 50 mph with some gusts in squalls.

In Boston Harbor, one of the upper horizontal spars on the foremast of the USS Constitution was broken, and a 450-foot radio transmission tower was toppled in Framingham, Mass.

Destruction along the East Coast appeared to be limited to downed trees and power lines, broken piers and boardwalks, including the famous one in Atlantic City.

Atlantic City's Casino operators were expected to lose thousands, perhaps millions of dollars in business as gaming tables shut down. A foot of water stood in the pool lobby of Resorts International Casino Hotel. Only one window pane was broken at the all-glass ternal investigation of SMU matters.

But on Thursday night, Clements angrily denied any role in the investigation. "SMU has had nothing to do with this, and certainly neither have I," he told a Dallas Republican gathering.

His comments were prompted by reports in the Dallas Times Herald speculating on the possible political fallout from Clements' involvement in the growing football cheating scandal in Texas.

The Houston Post reported last week that Aggie booster and Dallas Cowboys owner H.R. "Bum" proposal to U.S. arms reductions offers already put forward during earlier rounds of the arms talks and said, "It is different from the position that they have been taking."

Reports attributed to Soviet sources have suggested the long-awaited proposal would involve a 40-percent reduction in missile launchers and nuclear warheads linked to restraints on Reagan's plan to develop a high-technology defense against nuclear attack.

The president has refused to limit research, testing and development of the program, known popularly as "Star Wars," and reiterated his determination to go forward with the project after his talks with Shevardnadze. Shultz said Reagan "is the same in private as he is in public" on that issue.

The stated U.S. goals are to achieve deep reductions in the Soviets' arsenal of heavy, land-based missiles and to eliminate the intermediate-range missiles targeted on Western Europe.

Woman remains in hospital after one-vehicle accident

A Big Spring woman remains in the hospital today after being injured in a one-car accident early Friday morning on Interstate 20.

Patricia Gail Siler, 21, of 3202 Auburn suffered a broken pelvis in the accident and is in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

According to a Department of Public Safety accident report, Siler was driving eastbound in a 1983 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck. She fell asleep at the wheel and veered off the south side of the road, the report stated.

She attempted to correct her position and steered back onto the roadway. The car then traveled into the median and overturned once before sliding across I-20's westbound lanes. The vehicle came to a rest on its wheels on the north side of the road, the accident report stated.

Driving over the speed limit was cited as a factor causing the accident in the report. Siler was charged with speeding and possession of drug paraphernalia, the report stated.

Two persons were treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital Thursday night following a two-car accident at the intersection of Wasson and Belvedere.

A hospital spokesman said Christopher Wade Moore, 16, of 2301 Grace and Delia N. Graves, 34, of 2500 Gunter were treated for minor bruises before being released.

According to a Big Spring police accident report, Moore was driving west on Belvedere before stopping at a stop sign. He attempted to turn right on Wasson and travel north.

Graves, who was traveling north on Wasson, collided with Moore's vehicle as it entered the roadway, the report stated.

Scarlett sequel nixed

ATLANTA — MGM/United Artists Entertainment Co. may not film a sequel to "Gone With The Wind" because neither author Margaret Mitchell nor her estate ever intended the Civil War saga to be continued, a federal appeals court ruled Friday.

Ms. Mitchell "believed any resolution of what happened to Scarlett and Rhett would undermine the integrity of the original story," the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said.

The subject of a sequel was never broached in contract negotiations in 1936 and 1961, the court said. The filmmakers knew then that Stephens Mitchell, Ms. Mitchell's brother who had acquired all rights to her novel, did not intend to grant sequel rights, the court said.

Texan arraigned

LOS ANGELES — Richard Ramirez was arraigned Friday with 68 crimes, including 14 murders and 22 sex assaults blamed on the "Night Stalker" who terrorized the area with seemingly random attacks.

Ramirez, a 25-year-old drifter originally from El Paso, was not present in court, and Municipal Court Judge Elva Soper announced at the outset that "Mr. Ramirez is in lockup and the proceedings are being piped into the lockup for his benefit."

Deputy Public Defender Allen Adashek, representing the defendant, told reporters there had been a brief meeting in chambers between the judge and lawyers, who decided to postpone entering Ramirez's plea until Oct. 17.

Throughout the brief session, the sounds of a man screaming could be heard from behind the doors where the lockup is located. There was also the sound of banging on bars.

Neither court officials nor Ramirez's public defender would comment on whether the shouts and clanking were coming from Ramirez.

Mathias not running

WASHINGTON — Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., announced Friday he will not seek re-election when his term ends next year, a move that jeopardizes Republican hopes of retaining control of the Senate.

Mathias, 64, told a news conference "the season has arrived to shift to a new field of activity," and said he might practice law, teach and write.

The three-term moderate was the fourth Republican senator to decide against seeking re-election next year, when Republicans must defend 22 Senate seats and the Democrats only 12. The GOP now controls the Senate, 53-47.

Sanctions

Ban planned for Krugerrands; protests continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is moving ahead with plans to ban the importation of South African Krugerrands after notifying U.S. trading partners that the move is an expression of displeasure over the Pretoria government's racial policies and not a step toward protectionism, sources say.

The final decision to ban the importation of the South African gold coin has been made, and a formal announcement is expected swiftly, according to congressional and administration sources speaking only on condition they not be named.

The ban would become part of a package of sanctions President Reagan announced Sept. 9 when he also said he would restrict the sale of computer and nuclear equipment and ban new bank loans to the white-ruled South African government in an attempt to force changes in apartheid race laws that discriminate against blacks.

At that time, Reagan also had announced he was ordering officials in his administration to consult with the United States' major trading partners on a Krugerrand ban, a key element of sanctions legislation then moving its way through Congress. Since then, Secretary of State George Shultz told a congressional subcommittee that the president was committed to implementing a ban within a few weeks.

Reagan's decision to slap sanctions on South Africa represented a retreat under fire, since congressional leaders said there was enough sentiment to approve at least some provisions over his veto. Republicans generally have applauded Reagan's actions, while Democrats have insisted he did not go far enough.

The issue flared anew in the Senate on Thursday, when Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said he would seek a rules change to prevent a repetition of the action earlier this month of a key Republican to remove the sanctions bill from the chamber.

The effect of that extraordinary action by Indiana Senator Richard Lugar, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was to block further Democratic attempts to force votes on the issue.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., accused Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas of a "raw abuse of power" for his role in the incident, as Byrd and other Democrats used several hours to express their anger at the GOP tactics.

Dole, in a pre-emptive speech several hours earlier, insisted he had not violated the Senate rules, and said his traditional prerogative to set the agenda of the Senate was "the issue we should focus on at this time."

Meanwhile, a group of congressmen and black leaders began a petition campaign Thursday aimed at gaining 1 million signatures on a letter to South Africa's Bishop Desmond Tutu stating their opposition to apartheid and to recent comments made about the Anglican church leader by the Rev. Jerry Falwell.

"Jerry Falwell does not speak for me, or for America," the letter says. "By signing this freedom letter, we say no to Mr. Falwell, no to apartheid and no to the government of South Africa."

The letter refers to remarks made by the Lynchburg, Va.-based Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, who said Tutu was a "phony" if he purports to speak for a majority of black South Africans.

Soviets replace premier

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Tikhonov has been replaced by Politburo member Nikolai Ryzhkov, the official news agency Tass announced Friday.

Tass said in a terse statement that Ryzhkov was appointed premier, or head of the Council of Ministers, by a decree of the Supreme Soviet.

Tass said Tikhonov, 80, was relieved of his duties "for health reasons."

No word on victims

BEIRUT, Lebanon — British Ambassador David Miers said Friday he was seriously concerned about two British women abducted by gunmen in Moslem west Beirut.

None of the armed factions in militia-ruled west Beirut has claimed responsibility for the Thursday kidnapping of Amanda McGrath, 28, and Hazel Moss, 45. Police said they were last seen being pushed into a car by two or three gunmen armed with pistols and an AK-47 rifle.

The kidnappings brought the number of Westerners abducted and still missing in Lebanon to 14.

Sikhs choose leader

CHANDIGARH, India — Sikh moderates, buoyed by an unprecedented election victory, on Friday chose an architect of the recent Punjab peace accord to head a new state government and begin healing the wounds of three years of religious strife.

Surjit Singh Barnala, 59, acting president of the Sikh Akali Dal party, was elected unanimously as its leader by victorious candidates from Wednesday's polling.

As leader of the new assembly's majority party, he automatically becomes the state's chief minister.

Barnala, a middle-of-the-road veteran politician, said his Cabinet would be sworn in Sunday and immediately begin work to end the bloody agitation for autonomy in the predominantly Sikh state of Punjab.

Rescuers want silence

MEXICO CITY — Rescuers demanded silence Friday and listened for signs, however faint, that life still stirred under the rubble more than a week after the great earthquake. Pedestrians stopped and drivers shut off their engines.

Hopes of success persisted, but were flagging because so much time had passed. Rescue teams from Switzerland, France, West Germany and Canada began going home.

Syrians seal off riot-torn Lebanese city

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops sealed off Tripoli on Friday and appeared ready to move in to quell a bloody 13-day power struggle in Lebanon's second-largest city.

During a morning lull in the fighting, unidentified gunmen shot to death 12 fleeing motorists on the city's outskirts, police said. Lebanese state radio branded the killings an "ugly massacre."

Police said the gunmen dragged the motorists from their cars, shot them and left their bodies on the road at Bahsas on Tripoli's southern outskirts, only 200 yards from a Syrian military checkpoint.

Moslem artillery positions in the hills above Beirut shelled President Amin Gemayel's palace. Presidential spokesman Rafik Shihab said one shell struck near the entrance, killing a member of the presidential guard and wounding three.

Shihab said Gemayel, who is a Maronite Catholic, was at his summer residence 10 miles northeast of Beirut with his family.

The Syrian army has strengthened its forces around Bahsas since Wednesday, demonstrating the Syrian government's impatience with feuding Moslem militias in Tripoli who are undermining Syrian efforts to end 10 years of civil war.

Police reported new rocket and artillery duels between the militias after the slaughter at Bahsas. They said eight people were killed and 19 were wounded.

Friday's casualties brought the known toll to at least 237 killed and 628 wounded since Sept. 15, when the militias began their latest battle for control of the port city 50 miles north of Beirut. Municipal officials said about 600,000 of Tripoli's 850,000 residents have fled.

Battles between the Tawheed Islami, a Moslem fundamentalist militia backed by the Palestine Liberation Organization, and the Syrian-backed Arabian Knights of the Arab Democratic Party intensified again after the roadside killings.

Police said Syrian troops, who had been positioned in hills north, east and south of Tripoli, began closing in early Friday afternoon.

Meteorologist stars in hurricane alerts

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — By the time most East Coast residents arrived at work Friday morning, Dr. Neil Frank of the National Hurricane Center already had given more than a dozen live television interviews on Hurricane Gloria.

Frank, the 53-year-old director of the hurricane center, quickly became one of the most sought-after people in the country as Gloria edged up the coast toward the 30 million people living in the Washington-New York corridor.

Looking haggard from lack of sleep, Frank alternated between reporters' questions and punching in the latest update on the storm.

"He left at 1 a.m. and came back in at 6:15 a.m. this morning," said Don Witten, public affairs director for the National Weather Service, who had put together a 10-page list of television bookings for the day.

Frank, a wiry ex-basketball player with expressive hand gestures who wears an unfashionable flat-top haircut, did 50 live interviews Wednesday, 75 on Thursday and was slated for 130 Friday, Witten said.

"He does the morning talk shows beginning at about 6:30 a.m. and then just keeps it up all day. And he's got to be believable. People have got to be able to understand what he says," Witten said.

At 11:41 a.m., Frank pulled himself from a computer screen, where he had been working on another hurricane advisory, and moved to a chair in front of the television lights and cameras.

He would stay in that chair for much of the day, repeating his simply worded hurricane warnings over live television feeds to cities across the country.

"We've got to learn how to utilize this electronic tool," Frank said of his newly assumed role as one of the nation's best known weather authorities.

Frank originally started out at Southeastern College in Winfield, Kan., as a physical education major with a goal of becoming a basketball coach. He later earned a master's and Ph.D. in meteorology at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

"He's always looking for better ways to communicate with people," said Mark Zimmer, a forecaster at the hurricane center.

The Box, a wholesale grocery store, will open at 9 a.m. Thursday. Because the store stocks items in boxes, the prices are lower, according to management.

The Box: wholesale prices for all

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The Box, soon to open in Big Spring, is a store based on a new concept: that individual customers as well as businesses can buy merchandise at wholesale prices.

Customers may buy single items or as many as 100 cases of an item at the same wholesale price, said Roland Hasenoehrl, president of Furr's Inc., which owns The Box stores. Furr's Inc. is not the company of the same name that owns the Furr's cafeteria and grocery stores, he said.

The Box is one of three such stores in West Texas. They sell to grocery stores, restaurants, hotels and other institutions in addition to individual customers.

"The big difference is that the store looks like a warehouse," Hasenoehrl said. "We sell everything out of the box. Many people need to buy whole boxes." That's how the store got its name, he said.

Hasenoehrl said the store can afford to sell its merchandise at wholesale prices because expenses are kept as low as possible.

"Our buildings are rented or built in the cheapest possible way. We don't open on Sunday or after 9 p.m. We offer limited services for the customer," he said.

To save labor expenses, customers must bag their own groceries and carry them out themselves. Paper sacks cost 2 cents but boxes are free for the taking.

But the managers don't skimp on equipment. They bought the latest in technological, price-scanning cash registers, which read pricing codes on the merchandise, Hasenoehrl said. This keeps them free from marking the prices on each individual item. Prices are marked on a sign above the boxes.

Labor costs are reduced because stock goes directly from the delivery truck to the shopping area, he said. In many cases, goods are not unloaded from the box. Freezers and refrigerators are built around the refrigerated storage areas in the perishable goods section.

In most stores, stock must be unloaded two or three times — from the truck to the storage area and from there to the shopping area, the president said.

Unlike similar stores in other cities, The Box carries 98 percent name brand items, Hasenoehrl said. There are some 10,000 grocery and 14,000 non-food items on the shelves, he said.

In addition to a full variety of groceries, dairy products, frozen food and produce, the store carries hardware, ready-to-assemble furniture, sporting goods, appliances and other items.

Hasenoehrl boasted that The Box has "absolutely the lowest prices. For sure, no one in the area can match our prices (on all items every day) — no one," especially on perishables, he said.

Hasenoehrl said the concept, which he originated, has done well in other communities. He said he plans to open similar stores in "many, many" other cities in West Texas and New Mexico.

Winning team has meal on Wendy's

A brand new business in town, Wendy's, has proven already that it supports Big Spring just as Big Springers are supporting it.

Last Saturday morning a Goliad Middle School student, Marta Mathews, and her mother, Jewell, went by Wendy's for breakfast before Marta was to play in an invitational school volleyball tournament. The manager, noticing her uniform, asked her about it.

When he heard about the big tournament, he said, "If you win, bring your team and coach back here and I'll treat you to a free meal."

They won and excitedly went back, not sure he would even remember his promise, especially since the restaurant was overflowing with customers when they arrived. He remembered and fed 10 hungry girls and Coach Ritchey.

Thanks, Terry and Wendy's. You win this week's Spirit of Big Spring award!

Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring another Customer Relations Workshop series. Two have been held during the summer and were so well received that requests for repeats of the series were made. The workshop series include four 90-minute classes held on the four Wednesdays in October, beginning Oct. 9. One class will be from 8 to 9:30 a.m. and the second class will be from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Cost is $50 per participant, which includes all materials. Call 263-7641 to register.

QUICK TAKES:

- Some of the original carved oak doors from the Settles Hotel have been located by the Lusks of Lusk Paint and Frame Center. In the renovation of the hotel, the owner wants to return it as much as possible to its original state.
- About 450 people are expected to attend the annual Agriculture Appreciation Barbeque Oct. 2, preceded by a tour around the county showing how food goes from range to table.
- Western Sizzlin' Steak House is planning to expand because of customer response, requiring more dining room space.
- Cheryl Pink, West Texas business development coordinator of the Texas Economic Development Commission, was in Big Spring last week to work with our Industrial Team and Foundation.
- Former Big Spring Airpark manager and Air Force base commander, Harry Spannaus, has been named to succeed Ed Thompson as executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association.
- To get toll free listings for companies, call 1-800-555-1212. Give the name and city of the company.

Big Spring native Barry Canning just took his State Board Exam for Architects. He passed on the first try, which is significant since only 10 percent pass on the first trial. Nine out of 10 have to take the test up to five times before passing it for state certification.

Barry lives in Grapevine and works for a prominent architectural firm in Dallas. He has a bright future.

Two entrepreneurs have started a unique business called Errands and Such. They are Barbara L. Webb and Sandra Christensen. Whether personal or business errands, delivery, shopping, or other tasks, they are available seven days a week. For anything you don't have the time or manpower to do, call 263-4567 or 263-2073.

It is imperative that West Texans go to the polls in November in full force to vote for the water amendments. This issue, so critical to our part of the state, is not supported as heartily in other parts. If the metropolitan areas vote heavily, it is likely to fail, and because Houston has a hotly contested mayor's race that will bring out voters there, we need to make a concerted effort to get West Texans to the polls.

There is a 15-minute slide presentation with narration available to be shown to any interested group about the water amendments. Call Ralph McLaughlin, regional vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, at 263-8411 to schedule it.

You may consider doing business with the federal government difficult if you haven't done so before; however, there are distinct advantages to be realized with this potential market. Over 54 percent of purchases of FY '84 were with small businesses for expenditures of more than $500 million.

The Defense Department alone spent nearly $1 billion, of which $300 million had only one bidder. The federal government actively is seeking bidders to encourage competition, lower prices, decrease delivery time and increase supply availability.

Write: DCSC-POD, Box 3990, Columbus, Ohio 43216-5000. Indicate your interest in doing business with the federal government and ask for the information and forms to get started. You will immediately be put on the bidder's list.

Low-interest bond money is available for small businesses through the capital program by the Texas Economic Development Commission. The program provides loans between $250,000 and $750,000 for qualified businesses that have identified project needs and can close their deals before Dec. 15.

Interest rates on the loans are lower than the conventional rate.

saving the borrower an average of 2 to 3 percent annually, according to a news release.

The loans may be used to build and equip new facilities or buy and restore older buildings. Under certain circumstances, the loan may be used to buy land or used equipment, but generally cannot be used for inventory, working capital or refinancing existing debt.

Obvious insights provide best advice

By TOM PETERS

I admit in many of my speeches to business people that it's embarrassing to get paid a lot of money to stand up in front of them and then have nothing more to say than, "For gosh sake, go out and listen to your customers."

As reviewers of my books have pointed out, the practice of listening to one's customers is obvious (as are other management techniques I identify as characteristic of excellent organizations). Yet when one listens with obvious determination, the results are frequently little short of astonishing. In today's column I will simply share with you, virtually unedited, a letter about listening that I recently received from Philip C. Cooper, president of David-Edward Ltd., a Baltimore-based furniture maker:

"As a manufacturer of a high quality upholstered furniture line for the contract market, we are dependent upon design specifications generated by interior designers whom we define as our customers. Like most manufacturers in our field, we have usually designed our product, our policies, and our procedures and then promoted them to these people. This has been successful, and we grow about 20 percent per year. We are aggressive and anxious to realize our maximum potential.

"So, shortly after our meeting... I decided to bring together a group of 12 prominent designers in our area and ask their opinions, not of our company specifically, but of our industry in general. I tried to act as a consultant to our industry, encouraging them to talk to me about their requirements, both practical and psychological. This first pilot meeting was extremely successful. I not only got information but I was able to provide some, clearing up misconceptions about us, our service and our product.

"With the success of this first meeting, we organized what I called the David-Edward Listening Tour. Between Dec. 15, 1984, and April 15, 1985, I visited 27 cities in the United States. In each case, we invited a dozen or so prestigious designers to meet with me for two hours over breakfast. We rented conference rooms in first-class hotels and worked very carefully with our on-site representatives to ensure smooth logistics. We recorded all the sessions and I sent abstracts of these recordings to all participants.

"The information we received has been invaluable. We have modified product, programs, policies and procedures to provide what our customers say they really need. While it is still too early to define the final result in specific sales increases, our representatives are predicting a 25 to 40 percent increase over the next six months.

"In addition, we also were able to reach a different audience from the one we call on in true sales calls. We got the really hard-to-see people to see us. Interesting that they wouldn't give me 15 minutes to listen to me in their offices but would allow me two hours in my hotel if I would listen to them.

"And finally, we are now perceived as a leader in our industry, as a firm which cares, and then does something about what we hear. A story will be written about us in an upcoming issue of our most prestigious trade magazine."

On the one hand, Cooper surely deserves plaudits for a highly imaginative act. On the other hand, his act is indeed obvious (at least in hindsight). He identified the most important decision-makers who impact his product. He then went out on the road, listened to them and acted expeditiously upon what he heard.

Sadly, Cooper's approach — be it in specialty steel, computers, grocery sales or furniture — is all too rare. Rather than complicate my message, I will simply ask: When was the last time you went out on a 27-city listening tour?

Customer relations workshop scheduled

The Chamber of Commerce business committee will sponsor a customer relations workshop for all sales or service companies Oct. 9, 16, 23 and 30 in the chamber conference room.

The workshop, titled "Feelings," is based on the theory that people patronize businesses where they experience positive relationships, according to a chamber release. Participants learn the basis of positive and negative "stroking," or words or actions that affect customers positively; the barriers to positive stroking; and how to handle irate customers by positive stroking, the release stated.

One class will meet from 8 to 9 a.m. and another from 2 to 3:30 p.m. The fee is $30 for chamber members and $60 for nonmembers. Reservations can be made through the chamber of commerce.

Workshop materials, including a videotape and training materials, are available for rent.

Focus on the family

By NAOMI HUNT
Howard County Extension Agent

Home economics committee

The name of the Family Living Committee has been changed to the Extension Home Economics Committee to more clearly identify the committee's relationship with the Extension Service and involvement in Extension educational programs.

The 14 member committee serves as an advisory group to Extension Home Economics agents. Together we assess the needs of families in Howard County; then plan and conduct educational programs to help families improve their lives with the resources available.

Members of the Committee are: Esther Lopez, Chairman; Janet Wolfe, Jowili Etchison, Teresa Gaskins, Alma Wrightsil, Sara Edens, Zula Rhodes, Craig Brace, Madeline Boardie, Myri Soles, Larry Bristo, Kenna Scott, Mary Herrera, and Claudette Green.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Extension Home Economics - What does it do?

The Extension Home Economics Family Health was the in-depth program for 1985 because of the need for regular health care and maintenance due to ever-increasing health care costs and the related health problems of obesity. Over 10 percent of the population is overweight. Major teaching activities include:

"Fit for Life" met twice weekly for 12 weeks with mostly minority participants at Lakeview School and Westside Community Center. Agents conducted a lesson on good nutrition and health practices then led in aerobic exercise or walking to help develop habits for a lifestyle which promotes health and weight control. Measurements were taken at beginning and end of the series. Participants lost some weight, reduced percentage of body fat, increased cardiovascular fitness and improved flexibility. The most remarkable was a 16-pound loss and change of body composition from 32 percent to 22 percent.

Works with other agency's and organizations on major projects such as the Health Fair.

3,833 people attended the Health Fair with 11 percent having abnormal results to the screenings. They were urged to consult their doctor. Although the fair is not meant to take the place of a physical exam, the wide variety of screenings (all free) do reach people who wouldn't see a doctor until often too late. Early detection and treatment results in better health for improved quality of life and in some instances lengthened life. Persons who participate in Extension educational programs scored higher on the nutrition and fitness quiz at the weight screening booth than those who are not participating. Some comments were: "Oh, I know that, it was in the newsletter." and "You taught us good, I only missed one."

"The Art of Being an Informed Patient" was presented to all Extension Homemakers Clubs. Points included selecting a doctor, preparing for a productive visit, following doctor's orders and taking medication properly.

Nineteen completed training in the Adult Sitter Clinic. This prepares them to sit with frail elderly or ill people who cannot stay alone but do not need full time nursing care. Participants had few job skills or employment possibilities. They can earn $5.00 an hour as sitters which supplements their income and saves money for the client who needs care - compared to hospitalization. A job registry was prepared for those who wish to be employed as sitters and provided to hospitals, nursing homes and health care agencies in the county. If the 6 who registered work as sitters half time for a year, each can add $5,280 to her annual income. Others took the training to be better able to care for family members.

A second Adult Sitter Clinic will be conducted October 21-24. Contact Naomi Hunt, at the Extension office 267-8469 for more information.

Supporting programs and presentations include: Improving Your Memory, Money in Children's Hands, Making the Most of Space in the Home, Clothing for Elderly and Disabled, Water Conservation, Car Care for Women, Homemade Mixes, Nutrition for Weight Control, Calcium and Osteoporosis, and Heart Disease.

A Textile Tour to Lubbock was conducted to teach about cotton, the major cash crop in the county. Thirty visited the Texas Tech Textile Research Center, Museum and Ranching Heritage Center and the State 4-H Fashion Show. Evaluations indicated they learned much about cotton uses and processing. One lady summed up the feeling of the group with: "I'm thankful for every thread I wear on my back."

Another success in the Directory of Human Services being developed by the Human Services Council. The idea was developed by the Extension Life-Long Learning Committee to list resources for Senior Citizens. We learned about the project of the Human Services Council and pooled our efforts for a more comprehensive directory.

For your gardens

By DON RICHARDSON
Howard County Extension Agent

Soil is key to gardening

The soil in your garden beds is the mainstring, or key, to successful gardening. Late summer and fall days will allow the opportunity to prepare soils in anticipation of planting.

The success or health of any plant depends directly on the soil in which the plant is growing. Basically, the soil holds the plant in place in an upright position and provides necessary moisture, oxygen, and food for the plant. As simple as this may seem, many backyard soils do not supply these essentials for proper production, be it in the vegetable garden or flower bed.

The best method of assuring plants of adequate moisture is to incorporate generous amounts of humus or organic materials into the soil. Organic materials such as peatmoss, leafmold, compost, processed bark, and animal manures, are of a coarse texture which insures good soil aeration or oxygen, proper drainage or movement of water through the soil and proper water retention, as well as prevention of soil compaction and often times food for the plant.

Proposed planting areas should be well spaded and worked prior to adding organic or humus materials so as to remove all undesirable weeds and grasses and to better work the organic additives into the bed area. The organic material may be spread evenly over the surface of the cultivated soil, then turned into the soil.

The amount of organic material required for a garden bed depends on the conditions of the existing soil. Heavy clay type soils or very sandy soils demand greater amounts of humus or organic materials to insure proper aeration, drainage, and water retention. The amount will depend on the depth and size of the proposed planting area. With experience, the gardener can feel the soil and recognize the desired till and soil texture for desirable plant growth. The soil should appear and feel "fluffed" and loose in texture.

Perhaps the most popular and best organic material for soils is sphagnum peat. This material is loose and coarse in texture and long-lasting in the soil. Normally, peat is bought in a compressed bale or block. Because of its dry, compressed condition, it should be spread and fluffed over the bed area, moistened, then worked well into the soil. The average soil will require two to four inches of peat over the soil surface to be spaded in to provide a desirable soil texture.

Animal manures, compost, and leafmold not only provide organic matter, but slowly available food for the plant as well. Because they are not as coarse as peat, usually more is required for a good soil mix. Often times, when available, well rotted manures, compost, or leafmold is added to a peat and soil mixture.

Processed barks are available in a number of grades or sizes and are popular and useful as long-lasting soil conditioners and decorative mulches.

Commercial fertilizers may also be added when preparing soils in advance of planting. If they are applied at least two weeks prior to planting. The best formula is a complete and balanced fertilizer such as 8-8-8, 10-10-10, or 12-12-12, at the rate of approximately one-half cup per square yard of soil area. Fertilizers, like organic materials, should be well worked and distributed into the prepared soil.

If time does not allow for a fertilizer treatment prior to planting, the wise gardener will wait until plants are well established and growing before applying the raw fertilizer at the same rate.

Prepared annuals, perennials, and vegetable beds should be dug to a 12 to 18-inch depth. Areas for trees and shrubs should be prepared 8 to 12 inches beyond the width of the plant's existing root area. All planting beds should be raised slightly above normal ground level to allow for settling and to insure surface drainage.

The extra time, expense and labor of properly prepared soils are well worth the effort in good plant growth and production, less soil compaction, and summer watering. The wise gardener abides by the theory: "It is by far best to plant a two-bit plant in a two-dollar hole, than a two-dollar plant in a two-bit hole."

New Coahoma officers

By LEE COLEMAN

Hello. I am Lee Coleman, secretary-reporter for the Coahoma 4-H Club. I will be telling you the goings-on at Coahoma this year.

The officers for our club this year are Denette Dick, president; Wade Carper, vice-president; Lee Coleman, secretary-reporter; Denise Walker, treasurer; Dianna Coleman, recreation chairman; and Crissie Jones, refreshment chairman.

Our adult leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Walker, Mrs. Paul Allen, Pam Walker, Mr. and Mrs.

Steve Dick and Hannah Coleman.

We just got through with the Howard County Fair. We had an omelet supper, gun raffle and sold homemade ice-cream. All of these projects were successful.

4-H members from Coahoma that showed at the fair were Denise Walker, Shandra Walker, Becky Walker, Maurie LaVerne, Paul Walker, Vance Christie and Lex Christie.

We had lamb exhibitors and steer exhibitors. The next meeting is Sept. 30.

Pregnancy is time of highs, lows

Pregnancy is a time of hopes and fears, of dreams - and nightmares.

Doctors describe a pattern of highs and lows during pregnancy, according to an article in the October issue of Harper's Bazaar, and one doctor even says he can tell the stage of a woman's pregnancy by her dreams.

"It's possible to tell how far along a woman is in her pregnancy by hearing her describe her dreams," said Dr. Arthur Colman, clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California in San Francisco. "Consciousness is altered in fairly predictable patterns throughout the nine months."

During the first three months or trimester, the rise in estrogen and progesterone may cause fatigue and morning sickness.

"Women who have suffered from premenstrual syndrome or who have had adverse reactions to the Pill may be especially prone to these fluctuations," said Dr. Niels Lauersen, clinical professor of obstetrics/gynecology at New York Medical College.

This is when a woman faces the fact that her life will never again be the same. She also worries about miscarriage until the doctor detects a fetal heartbeat.

The second three months of pregnancy may be the best, said Dr. Marya Anna Friederich, clinical associate professor of obstetrics/gynecology and psychiatry at the University of Rochester School of Medicine.

Women are more comfortable physically as the body adjusts to pregnancy. They switch their focus from themselves to the baby.

"They feel it move, sense it as a separate individual," she said. The third trimester, according to the story in the magazine's "Special Guide Section to a Healthy Over-30 Pregnancy," brings "prepartum blues."

"A lot of women don't feel as attractive as they did a few months ago," Lauersen said. "They're emotionally down because they're heavier, tired, bloated."

Women in the final trimester often feel irritable, anxious and mildly depressed. The uterus begins to press on other organs. The stomach is pushed up and flattened, causing indigestion and heartburn. Pressure on the lungs can make breathing difficult.

"A major concern is 'Will my baby be normal?'" said Elisabeth Bing, a certified childbirth educator and pioneer in promoting the Lamaze technique. "This question isn't voiced frequently, but when I actually ask women if they are worried, they say yes. Sonograms help reassure them."

Women also fear the pain of childbirth. "There is anticipation of enormous discomfort, of tremendous stress," Bing said. "Women say, 'I can't stand a lot of pain. How will I cope with it? I'd like to have a natural birth, with as little medication as possible, but will I give up in the middle?' This issue looms very large."

Diana Simkin, cofounder and director of Family Focus Inc. in New York City, calls the final month a trimester in itself.

"From the 34th to 40th weeks," she said, "women begin to zero in on what it will be like to be a mother."

Childbirth classes provide an expectant mother with a forum for expressing her fears and alleviating the blues, but some women are too frightened to attend. That is unfortunate, Eileen Stukane wrote in Harper's Bazaar, because obstetricians and other pregnant women can be the most understanding counselors.

Bulldogs chew on Big Spring, 35-13

By STEVEN BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Midland High Bulldog defense held the Big Spring Steers scoreless the last three quarters and went on to down the Steers, 35-13, in the District 4-5A opener for both teams.

The fiery Bulldog defense yielded two first quarter TD's to the Black and Gold, dodged a couple of bullets in the second half, and let their offense do the rest.

The Bulldogs offense was in top form against the Steers defense, racking up over 400 yards. The Bulldogs came into the contest noted for quarterback Matt Marcum and a explosive passing game, but they soon let the home team know that they could run the ball equally as well.

Led by tiny halfback Anthony Adkinson, the Bulldog rushing attack accounted for 321 yards. Adkinson, a 135-pounder, rolled up 179 yards in 18 carries and one TD. He scored Midland's second touchdown of the night on a beautiful 75-yard run.

Meanwhile, Midland quarterback Marcum had his usual consistent night. West Texas' leading passer ended the game with 7 completions in 16 attempts for one touchdown and no interceptions. He also added 58 yards on the ground.

The Steers offense rolled with authority in the first quarter as quarterback Carl Speck executed the Veer option to perfection. So potent was the Steers 'O', it scored on their first two possessions. The only problem was so did Midland High.

First quarter action was hot and heavy as Midland took the opening kickoff and marched 74 yards in 12 plays. Fullback Mark Johnson got the scoring honors from the 9-yard line. Booby Williams' first of five extra points gave Midland High a 7-0 lead with 8:10 left in the quarter.

The Steers roared right back on their first possession. Led by backs James Harlin and Phillip Matthews, the Black and Gold marched 79 yards in 8 plays. Harlin was the workhorse, picking up 64 yards in 4 carries. He had runs of 20 and 32 yards in the drive. Matthews caught a 15-yard pass from Speck.

Harlin turned in another stellar performance, leading the Steers' rushing attack with 106 yards in 17 carries. Matthews got the score from the 4. Colin Carroll's PAT was good, tying the score at 7-7 with 5:21 remaining in the quarter.

Midland wasted little time in getting on the scoreboard on its next possession, thanks to Adkinson. The speedy scatback took a pitch for Marcum and streaked down the sidelines for a 75-yard jaunt. The PAT gave the visitors a 14-7 lead with 4:59 left in the first quarter.

The quick pitch gave the Big Spring defense problems throughout the first half. "That play hurt us bad, especially in the first quarter," commented Steers coach Quinn Eudy. "It's the first time we've seen them use it. Normally they pitch the ball to the trail back, this time they were pitching it to the lead back. We adjusted to it late in the second quarter."

Trailing 14-7, Speck rallied his Steers for another TD on the Steers second possession. The cool senior directed a nine-play, 61-yard scoring drive. Matthews, who ended up with 58 yards in 11 carries, and Speck got the big-gainers in the drive. Speck got the scoring honors on a 2-yard run. The two-point conversion failed, giving Midland a 14-13 lead with 1:16 left in the first quarter. Unfortunately, it would be the last time Speck would lead his team to payday.

But in all fairness to Speck, the Big Spring signal-caller put on a good show. His rushing stats would have been better than his 18 yard total, if not for those quarterback sacks on which he lost huge chunks of yardage.

His passing stats (11-24-115 yards, 2 interceptions) would also have been better if his receivers had not dropped no less than seven passes.

Midland got a break on its third TD of the night, which came with 1:43 left in the half. The Bulldogs had to drive only 24 yards for the score, following a Matthews fumble.

Johnson's 2-yard run gave the Bulldogs a 21-13 halftime lead.

The Steers' offense did move the ball in the second half, but it could never get it across. Twice the Steers got inside Midland's 10 only to come away empty-handed. The first time, Johnson, who also doubled at cornerback for the Bulldogs, took a pass out of Steers' receiver Brian Mayfield's hands in the end zone. It was one of two Johnson interceptions for the night.

The second scoring chance came at the end of the game, after Speck had moved the Steers from their

Eagles' Ramirez runs through Sands, 28-0

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

ACKERLY - The Sands Mustangs probably had no idea who Roel Ramirez was before Friday night's game against the O'Donnell Eagles. But Ramirez will not soon be forgotten by the Mustangs, since the senior halfback raced for 171 yards and two touchdowns, leading his team to a 28-0 victory at Mustang Field.

O'Donnell ran their Wing-T formation to perfection against a hard-hitting Sands squad, racking up an impressive 327 yards rushing for the game. Besides the slashing runs of Ramirez, O'Donnell also got good games from fullback Kelly Sanders, who ran for 56 yards and halfback Bobby Sanchez, who tallied 44 yards on the ground.

The visitors wasted little time getting points on the board after stopping Sands' opening drive on four plays.

Following a Jay Fryar punt, the Eagles took the ball at their own 33-yard line and drove the ball piecemeal down the field. Four first downs later, Sanders took the ball over on a fullback draw from three yards out to give the visitors a 7-0 lead with 6:42.

Sanders also had the big play of the drive on a 23-yard burst up the middle that put the Eagles within scoring range at the Sands 18-yard line.

After exchanging punts, Sands turned in their best drive of the half at the opening of the second quarter.

Starting at their own twenty yard line, the Mustangs drove the ball for a pair of first downs behind the running of fullback Lee Young and halfback Jay Fryar.

Sanders surprised the Eagle secondary on a third and long play from their own 35. Quarterback Jerry Long fired a lateral out to Fryar in the left flat, who then passed to split end Leland Bearden who was streaking down the sideline, for a 50-yard completion to the O'Donnell 35.

The Mustangs had a first down at the Eagle 24-yard line but the drive stalled when O'Donnell defensive end Kenneth Burns sacked Long for a seven-yard loss on second down.

A great play by Ramirez from his linebacker position stopped Fryar from going for long yardage on a third down screen pass, and Eagle safety Kyle Summers killed the drive with an interception on fourth down.

O'Donnell continued to move the ball well between the 20 yard lines in the second quarter but the Sands defense, led by linebackers Fryar and Young and defensive tackle Freddy Covarrubias, stiffened when the Eagles got to within scoring position.

The ball game remained tight at the end of the first half with the score still 7-0.

O'Donnell came out of the locker room hot, duplicating their first half touchdown drive after Ramirez returned the second half kickoff 32 yards to the Eagle 43-yard line.

The Eagles attacked the heart of the Sands defense using sweeps and quick trap plays to keep the Mustangs off balance. O'Donnell's runners tore off big runs time and time again, picking up four first downs before Ramirez carried the ball over on a one-yard run with 8:20 left in the quarter to put the Eagles up 13-0.

After stopping the Mustangs three plays following the kickoff, O'Donnell's front line swarmed Sands punter Jay Fryar, blocking his punt and recovering it in fine field position at the Sands 31.

Ramirez immediately ripped off a 12-yard first-down run to the Mustang 19-yard line. Two plays later, the bullish Ramirez raced 15 yards for his second touchdown of the evening, to put the score at 19-0. Ramirez took a beautifully camouflaged reverse handoff on the two-point conversion play to make the score 21-0 with 4:10 remaining in the third quarter.

While the O'Donnell offense and Ramirez were able to gain good yardage most of the night, the same could not be said of Sands, despite the hard running of Young, Fryar and Long. For the game, the Mustangs were held to 68 yards rushing, though passing for a respectable 81 yards.

The Mustangs would muster only one more serious drive in the game late in the third quarter.

Taking the ball on their own 36-yard line, Long found Fryar on a swing pass good for 20 yards in the first series of the drive. The Mustangs used the same play for their next first down with the Fryar picking up another 12 yards on Long's swing pass.

Sanders looked as if they were going to score after Long took a quarterback keeper down to the O'Donnell 10-yard line but the drive was snuffed when Burns crashed in from his defensive end spot and picked off a Long handoff in midair. Burns returned the ball to the 15-yard line.

Abilene 7 Permian 7

ABILENE - The Abilene Eagles to escape with a 7-7 tie Friday night against the Permian Panthers. Both clubs remained unbeaten on the season with three wins and one tie.

Abilene's Melvin Davis missed a 22-yard field goal attempt right before the half that could have been the difference in the game. Davis' attempt was reported to be against a shifty wind and at a bad angle.

Both clubs tallied their only scores of the evening in the second quarter. Permian scored first on a 9-yard pass from Jason Harrington to Nolan Watson. The extra point kick attempt was good by Woody Bryant.

Abilene scored on a 11-yard pass from Michael Keith to Gerald Bailey. Davis' kick attempt was good.

EDDIE ROBINSON, head coach at Grambling State goes into this Saturday's game against Oregon State needing one win to tie Bear Bryant's record victory total of 323.

Robinson two wins from the summit

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer

SHREVEPORT, La. - Poised on the brink of becoming college football's most successful coach ever, Grambling's Eddie Robinson remembers without bitterness the days when he had to mow the school football field and fix lunchmeat sandwiches for his players on road trips.

"Some people build the roads, some drive over them," he says. On Saturday, Grambling meets Oregon State. A Grambling victory will give Robinson 323, tying him with the late Paul "Bear" Bryant for most career victories.

Some carp that every one of Bryant's victories were in college football's top division, while most of Robinson's have been in the smaller classifications.

"They all get their water from the same well," says Robinson, alluding to the number of players who have gone on to star in professional football after college careers in the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

He has sent more than 200 to the pros and one year had 43 former players in National Football League camps at the same time.

Robinson became Grambling's football coach in 1941 and endured a 3-5 season. Grambling was 3-5 in 1951 and 4-6 in 1959 - the only losing seasons in his career.

When he talks about the bad old days of Jim Crow laws, it's as an example of how things work out for the best in America, how one can accomplish anything in this country with hard work and perseverance.

That's not to say he won't fight injustice. He felt it was wrong for Doug Williams to be denied a real shot at the Heisman Trophy in 1977 when Williams quarterbacked Grambling, and he said so. Usually, he's less direct. It's not easy to schedule games against traditionally white schools. "Most of the big schools are scheduled up for eight to 10 years in advance. There's no reason why a Notre Dame would want to play us," he says.

Grambling played Southern Methodist in 1983 and lost 20-13. In 1975, Grambling beat Oregon State 19-12.

Oregon State goes into Saturday's game 2-1, the first time since 1967 that the school won its first two games. Grambling is 2-0.

Oregon State Coach Dave Kragthorpe said he expects an emotionally-charged atmosphere here.

"I think it has to be a concern for all of us - all of the coaches and all of the players. I think that they will be high, though, for every game that they play this year," he said. "One thing, I'd rather play in the game where they go to tie the record than in the one they play to break it. "What we are telling our players is that the game still will be played on a rectangular field. And once they give us the ball it's our job to do our thing with it."

Kragthorpe, former offensive coordinator at Brigham Young, is in his first year at Oregon State. He inherited a program that won six games in the previous five years.

He wasn't real happy about taking his Division I-AA team on the road to meet Division I-AA Grambling.

"I don't think that we should ever have to travel to play someone on a lower level than ourselves," Kragthorpe said. "I don't think we should be going to Boise State, to San Jose State or to Grambling to play games."

"If you're going to play those people, it should be at your place. But this game is on the schedule, and we're going to travel there."

own 29 to the Bulldogs 2. But his fourth-down pass went incomplete.

Midland got a big break at the opening of the second half. After Big Spring held and forced a punt, the Steers put on a strong rush and hit the Bulldog punter, but it appeared one of the rushers tipped the ball, causing a 17-yard punt.

After a few seconds of indecision, officials ruled that Big Spring didn't touch the ball, causing a roughing the punter penalty.

Midland got an automatic first down and went on to score.

Eudy cited that as one of the big plays in the game. "I'd say it was the turning point of the game. We had the block on and we felt like we got a piece of the ball."

What might have been a Midland turnover turned into a 6-yard scoring run by Marcum. The Bulldogs led 28-13 with 5:25 left in the third quarter.

The final Midland score was an 11-play, 71-yard scoring drive. On a third and five from the Big Spring 11, Marcum found flanker Kenny DeLaGarza for the score, giving Midland its final margin of victory.

The Steer defense was sparked by a fine effort by noseguard Todd Coker and defensive end Colin Carroll.

Eudy said his troops were down but not out. "We'll get ready for next week. We play Permian in Odessa and we're excited about it. We're going over there planning to beat them."

Big Spring falls to 1-3 for the season while the Bulldogs are now 3-1 for the year.

Dodgers solidify West lead

By The Associated Press

Orel Hersheris won his 10th straight game as the Los Angeles Dodgers solidified their front-running position in the National League West with a 6-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants Friday night.

Hersheris, 18-3, pitched a four-hitter as the Dodgers maintained their lead at 5½ games over the Cincinnati Reds, who beat Houston 4-3, and lowered their "magic number" for winning the division title to five.

The Dodgers scored enough to win off Vida Blue, 7-8, with a four-run second inning as Hersheris knocked in a run with a sacrifice bunt.

Earlier, Dave Parker hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning as the Reds whipped the Astros 4-3.

"Any home run is dramatic right now," said Parker, whose 30th homer tied a career high and league-leading 119th RBI set a career best. "We are trying to keep close to the Los Angeles Dodgers."

The St. Louis Cardinals, rained out in Montreal, picked up a half-game on New York in the NL East as the Mets dropped an 8-7 decision to Pittsburgh and fell 4½ games back.

In the American League East, the Toronto Blue Jays defeated Milwaukee 5-1 and improved their lead to six games over the New York Yankees, who were rained out against Baltimore.

Both California and Kansas City lost, leaving the AL West race in a tie. The Ang' were beaten by Cleveland 7-3 and Kansas City lost to Minnesota 4-1.
