Charles Colson talks with the media following a meeting with inmates at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

Preaching reform

Charles Colson remembers Watergate

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Former Watergate defendant Charles Colson was in prison again Sunday morning.

This time, however, he wasn't behind bars but preaching during religious services at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

In the almost 12 years since a break-in at the Democratic Party National Headquarters led to mass resignations, accusations and a president's resignation, Colson has been involved in prison ministries and prison reforms, he said.

Once the special counsel to Richard Nixon, Colson pleaded guilty to obstructing justice by spreading defamatory statements about Daniel Ellsberg, the man who passed the Pentagon Papers to reporters.

As a result, Colson served about seven months in federal penitentiaries. His political and legal careers came to a screeching halt.

If not for Watergate, "I'd be charging exorbitant law fees," he said.

Instead, prison changed his life. He became a "born-again" Christian and now heads an organization called Prison Fellowship Ministries. He tours the nation's prisons, preaching at religious services. His firm takes federal prisoners from behind bars for one or two-week training seminars on various topics, including marriage and discipleship training, and for community service projects.

"I'm very grateful. ... God used my life to give opportunities to others. I wouldn't want to do it again, though," Colson said about his prison experience. "I gave my life to another prisoner, Jesus Christ."

He crusades for prison reforms, including the elimination of parole and the creation of community service projects for non-violent offenders. "States are going bankrupt (because of their prisons)," Colson said.

Texas, he said, spent $1 billion on its prison system this biennium, or $25,000 per inmate. "We have to find a more productive way of dealing with this. Our prisons are bulging at the seam."

Colson said he had been invited to speak to the Texas Legislature on prison reform by Attorney General Jim Mattox.

"We need to get the vengeance out of our system," he said. Colson cited a federal prisoner who worked with him in a prison laundry, the former head of the American Medical Association imprisoned because of financial problems with the bank whose board of directors he was on.

"It cost $35,000 a year to house him, and he sat around reading books," Colson said. "They should have made him deliver babies for the poor at no cost. Why rip off the public twice? It would be more of a punishment if he had to change beds."

Public attitudes are changing, he said. Seventy percent of the people questioned in a poll in Indiana favored community correctional programs rather than more taxes for its prison system. "That caused a big change in politician's law and order speeches. I know; I wrote all of Nixon's law and order speeches, at least the good ones."

Another of Colson's goals is to get churches involved in prison ministries. "Most Christians don't care a whit about the people who get locked up. ... The public wants to throw us in prison, lock the doors and throw away the key."

During his sermon, Colson spoke of how he became involved in prison ministry. He had a "vivid vision" one night soon after he was released from prison, where he was taking prisoners out from behind bars and then returning

California freeway smashup kills 10 people

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Smoke from a brush fire hung "like a curtain" over California's major north-south freeway, setting off a 33-vehicle chain-reaction smashup that killed 10 people and injured more than 40, the highway patrol said.

"We hit the car in front of us and then all hell broke loose," one of the victims, Kenneth Shockley, said after the pileup Sunday.

Shockley, a passenger in a van that ended up in the middle of the pack of mangled cars and trucks, said his vehicle was hit six or seven times and bounced around "like a ping pong ball. We were scared to death."

The smoke socked in the freeway's northbound lanes "like a curtain being drawn," said Shockley, who received a cut on his head, a black eye and a bruised shoulder.

The pileup involved 33 vehicles — including two large tractor-trailer rigs — shortly before 4 p.m. on northbound Interstate 5 north of downtown Sacramento, said California Highway Patrol spokesman Dick Fridley.

The highway, closed until early today, was still littered with damaged vehicles several hours after the crash. One small sedan was smashed beyond recognition, and crumpled automobiles were strewn across all the northbound lanes and onto the shoulder. One of the two large truck cabs was on its side and two cars were blackened by fires.

"One minute the freeway was clear. Then suddenly the wind shifted" and the crash occurred, a local television station quoted one motorist as saying.

"Smoke was blowing across the freeway," CHP spokesman George Olinares said. "It was very dense at the time, and the chain reaction took place."

Keith Strickland, one of the first patrol officers at the scene, said parents and children wandered around dazed. Strickland, who called the scene "chaotic," said he and other motorists pulled a woman from a burning car.

A tow truck lifted one car that was in shreds. "A diesel truck landed on top of it," said tow truck operator Jerry Pollock. "Believe it or not, the people made it."

Eight people died at the scene and two of the 43 taken to hospitals died of their injuries, Olinares said.

Fridley said late Sunday that the injured had been taken to nine hospitals.

"Most of the injuries were not too serious," Fridley said. "Broken bones were the worst."

The highway patrol received the first word of the accident from

Cable home office to choose channel

By JOHN RICE
Managing Editor
A decision on replacing WFAA-TV on Big Spring cable television will be made by the cable company home office, cable TV manager Paul Thoman said today.

"I still expect the voting will determine the final outcome, but the president of the company said he needed time to consider" the alternatives, Thoman said.

Thoman said 600 votes were cast by cable subscribers on deciding a replacement channel, but declined to say which choice of channel was the top vote-getter. The cable company published ballots in the Big Spring Herald asking subscribers to help choose a station to replace WFAA, which is being taken off the cable lineup.

Thoman said, "We are hesitant to consider a rate increase based on a vote decided by less than 2 percent of our customers."

Two stations on the list of possible replacements would have required a 50-cent per month rate increase — WGN in Chicago or KTVT of Dallas-Fort Worth.

"The results have been turned in to our home office for a decision by the president of the company," Thoman said. The home office of Texas Community Antennas is in Tyler. The district manager and president are meeting in Tyler today, and channel replacement is "being discussed," he said.

"I will have more information soon," he said.

The vote was surprisingly close, Thoman said. "We expected an overwhelming majority for one station and we didn't get it." He said he had had a number of in-

KENT HANCE ...to seek office

Hance to seek governor's seat

By JANET WARREN
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock formally announced his bid Monday for the Republican nomination for governor, pledging to make better use of the governor's most-dreaded tool — the veto.

Hance said state government spending has outstepped inflation by 200 percent in the last 11 years. "As governor, I would use one of that office's most powerful tools to end this trend, that would be the veto, which was designed to add muscle to the leadership and guidance the governor can give the Legislature."

Hance was speaking at Capitol news conference that kicked off a four-day, 22-city swing to announce his candidacy. The candidate said

Democratic Gov. Mark White has ignored the veto. "I realize that the veto is used for maximum effect only when a governor gives clear and firm guidance far in advance of any use or threat of the use of veto power."

The Democrat-turned-Republican Hance hopes to face White in November 1986, but first he must beat former Gov. Bill Clements, U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler and possibly others for the Republican nomination in May.

Noting his efforts in Congress to cut taxes, Hance also vowed as governor "to do everything in my power to prevent tax increases of any kind."

Asked what he would do to the state budget, which is strained for revenue, Hance said he would con-

Life on goat farm is hard work

STONY (AP) — Jumper the goat thinks she's a dog and follows visitors and her human masters, nibbling on clothes, untying shoelaces and demanding attention.

Aaron Parr, 4, thinks he's He Man and struts around herding goats, climbing haystacks and blasting off spaceships made of rocks.

Mary Parr, Parr's grandmother, oversees them, a menagerie of dogs and some 100 other goats. This is Parr's Stony Road Dairy Goats, tucked unobtrusively away in the corner of a jog in a dirt road west of Denton.

Jumper, Parr and his older brother, Chris, keep Mrs. Parr and her dairy hopping.

Jumper has the run of the dairy barn, but it's not by choice. Jumper is an escape goat; she bounds over fences like a deer.

"The reason her name is Jumper is that there is no place she can't go. She's spoiled. There's no place I can keep her," Mrs. Parr said. "She thinks she's a dog. She wants people to pet her."

The younger boy, who spends days at the farm, "thinks he's He Man" or something. It's all that TV stuff," she said.

Four months ago Mrs. Parr hand milked her goats twice a day and was, she said, lagging decades behind the industry's technology. Then she bought a small machine that allows her to milk four goats at once.

"Before we got this I figured we were 75 years behind in the milk business, and now I figure we're just 50. It's very primitive, but it's very clean," she said.

Mrs. Parr's days start at 6 a.m. when she cleans the milking equipment and swings open a small door at one end of the milking room in her tin-roofed pole barn. Four goats — led by Beauty, who is temperamental and spoiled and grins when Mrs. Parr blows cigarette smoke in her face — troop up the ramp and into their places along the chute.

They munch contentedly from buckets of grain while their milk is pumped into a five-gallon can.

A few minutes and a couple gallons later the goats head back to pasture through a door at the opposite end of the barn. Four goats at a time come in. After 2½ hours Mrs. Parr and her hired hand finish the morning's milking.

Ten hours later they do it again. That's the way it is 365 days a year, "whether you want to or not," she said. "You can't just say I don't need any milk today."

"They're real affectionate, and they're real calm, and you come out here and it relaxes you," Mrs. Parr said. "If you want to be real relaxed you take five hours to milk. One thing, after you milk goats for a while, you don't want to arm wrestle with that person."

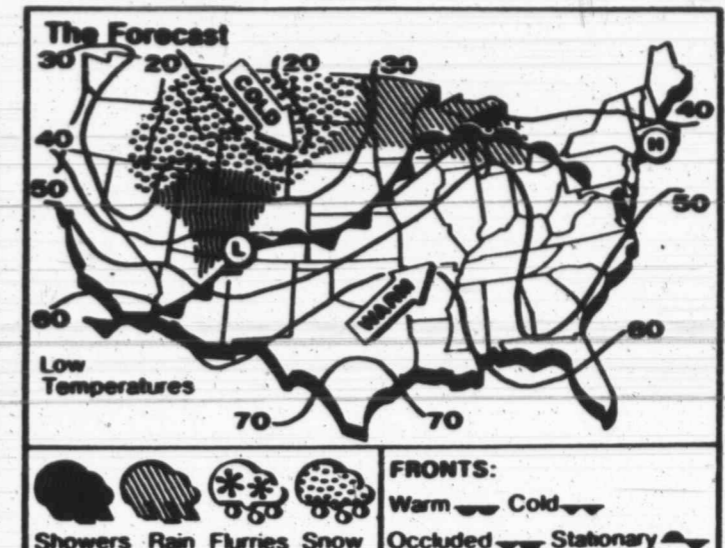

She sells most of her milk to a Dallas cheese factory, but she says many people want the goats' milk to drink for health reasons. Others

"just like goats' milk," she said. Mrs. Parr does most of her veterinary work and delivers her goats' kids.

"You have to learn to treat them yourself," she said. "If they get sick, there's not a lot of time to call the vet. They have a lot of things you just can't call a vet for. It's hard to get all the things done you need to get done."

"There's a lot of different things that go into having goats. It's real hard to milk in the winter when it's real cold, and it's real hard in the summer when it's real hot. Everything's just a lot of hard work."

Weather

Forecast

West Texas — Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday, continued windy Tuesday. Isolated thunderstorms far west tonight. Highs Tuesday around 90 most sections except the mountains in the 80s. Lows tonight in the low 60s except mid 50s far west and mountains.

State

A slight warming trend was expected to begin across Texas through Wednesday as a trough of low pressure moved in over West Texas, bringing with it southerly winds.

Forecasts called for late night and early morning cloudiness over central and western sections of South Texas and portions of North Texas and mostly clear skies and warmer temperatures through Wednesday over the rest of the state. There's no mention of rain in any of the forecasts.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 50s and 60s. Highs Tuesday will be mostly in the upper 70s and 80s with a few readings expected to rise above the 90-degree mark.

Skies were mostly clear over the state at dawn today although some high level clouds were reported over North Texas.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 50s and 60s. Extremes ranged from 45 at Lufkin to 78 at El Paso.

Other early morning readings around the state included 58 at Amarillo, 56 at Wichita Falls, 60 at Fort Worth, 59 at Waco, 55 at Austin, 57 at San Antonio, 63 at Corpus Christi, 66 at Brownsville, 61 at San Angelo, 59 at Lubbock and 61 at Midland.

Sheriff's Log

Man treated after assault

A man was treated and released at Malone-Hogan Hospital early Sunday morning for facial and internal injuries following a reported assault at the Latin Quarter on U.S. Highway 350.

According to a sheriff's report, deputies found employees of the tavern assisting Tony Sifuentes in the parking lot when they arrived at the scene.

Sifuentes said three men attacked him in the parking lot and slashed two tires on his Bronco truck. The tires were valued at $200 apiece.

Malone-Hogan later reported that Sifuentes "had been hit by something other than fists."

Big Spring Police transferred Danny Gene Priest, 26, of 4112 Dixon to county jail Saturday night following his arrest for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Deputies transferred Rosario Antonio Carreon, 24, of Snyder to county jail following his arrest for outstanding fines he owes the county. He remained in jail Monday morning.

Police transferred Oscar Hernandez, 25, of 1106 N. Nolan to county jail following his arrest for possession of marijuana and possession of a controlled substance. He was released on bonds totalling $6,500.

Police transferred Wayne Vaughn Williams, 28, of Gail Route Box 205 to county jail following his arrest for driving while license suspended. He was released on $500 bond.

In a press conference following his sermon, Colson spoke of Watergate as a lesson for the nation. "Watergate should have taught the nation the easy corruptibility of power. We shouldn't be taken in by the illusion that government and the state are all-powerful. We need a Watergate every generation," Colson said.

He also said he doubted the existence of a "Deep Throat" because "nobody could resist the temptation of signing a multi-million dollar book and movie contract."

Coahoma water rates on agenda

Whether Coahoma's water rates will increase or remain the same is expected to be decided Tuesday night when city councilmen meet at 7 p.m. in the Coahoma Community Center.

Eleanor Garrett, mayor of Coahoma, said the agenda item was tabled at the council's last meeting in order to review what Big Spring's city council did regarding their water rates.

Big Spring councilmen voted unanimously last August to increase its monthly individual customer rate from $5.75 to $9. Every additional 1,000 gallons was also increased from $1.25 to $1.53. Coahoma currently charges $8.50 per month and $3.10 for every additional 1,000 gallons.

Councilmen will also discuss adjusting current customer accounts and maintenance regarding the city's trash service which began a month ago.

Garrett said the city has hired three part-time employees to run the trash service. Councilmen will discuss and take action on their wages.

Other items listed in the meeting's agenda are:

• Discuss and take action on the mowing of the cemetery.

• Discuss and take action on the bids for a fire truck for the volunteer fire department.

• Discuss and take action on water pump agreement with R.L. Powell.

• Discuss and take action on the Coahoma landfill hours of business.

• Discuss and take action on hospitalization insurance for an employee.

• Discuss and take action on a safety device for the east railroad crossing in Coahoma.

sider across-the-board spending cuts.

White is afraid to specify certain areas for cuts, Hance said, "because he didn't want to make any special interest group angry or upset. I will look at all areas."

Hance also suggested formation of a privately funded group to hunt for ways to cut spending. He also complained that Texas prisons are in "complete disarray," suffering from lack of leadership and costing too much. U.S. Judge William Wayne Justice's prison reform orders should be appealed, he added.

Also, prisoners should be in the fields picking cotton rather than leaving it to machines, Hance said. "If a prisoner is picking cotton all day, he probably will not join a gang or start a riot."

On White's education reform adopted in 1984, Hance said he supports the concept of the no-pass, no-play rule, although the six-weeks no-play period after a bad grade may not be the magic number. Hance said he would support a shortened penalty time if it would still serve to make kids bring their grades up.

"We certainly should look at it," Hance said. "There is nothing sacred about six weeks."

Hance served four years in the Texas Senate and six years in Congress.

dividual requests for WGN during the eight months he has been in Big Spring.

One factor in the balloting may have been an organized campaign in favor of Trinity Broadcasting Network (TBN), a religious channel. Thoman said he believes there was organized effort for TBN from local churches, based on comments from customers. People told him they were "asked to be a part of the campaign," he said.

Cable subscribers were asked in mid-September to nominate a replacement for WFAA-TV of Dallas, which is being lost from the cable on Nov. 15. The channel is supplied to area cable companies by Times Mirror Microwave, which informed the local cable company by letter in early September that it would no longer supply the WFAA signal.

Among choices on the ballot published by the cable company were WGN, KTVT, TBN, ARTS (cultural programming) and full-time CTV, country music videos. Because of federal copyright rules, cost of WGN or KTVT would add 50 cents per month to the cable basic service cost, Thoman said.

Three stabbings reported at fair

DALLAS (AP) — In the third stabbing since the State Fair of Texas opened last week, a 19-year-old Grand Prairie man died after an argument in the Centennial Building ended violently in an alley outside.

Donovan C. Goodman died of a chest wound at Baylor University Medical Center at 8:36 p.m. Sunday, a hospital spokesman said.

Dallas homicide investigator James Gallagher said the victim and several friends were looking at exhibits when he got involved in an argument with three or four apparent strangers.

The argument moved to an alley behind the building, where at least three men attacked the man, police said.

Water amendments outlined

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce has a slide presentation which deals with the constitutional amendments regarding water, according to LeRoy Tillery, executive director.

The amendments will be voted on in the Nov. 5 election.

To schedule a presentation of this program, contact the Chamber at 263-7641.

Horses killed in mishap

ROMULUS, Mich. — The bottom fell out of a trailer carrying 43 horses on an interstate highway today, killing and injuring as many as half of the animals, police said.

Romulus police Sgt. Robert Brown said the bottom dropped out of the trailer at about 6:45 a.m. as it was being pulled by an eastbound truck on Interstate 94.

Brown said he didn't know exactly how many horses were dead or injured, but "the numbers are substantial."

Policeman killed in London rampage

LONDON (AP) — Youths rampaged through an inner-city district, attacking police with shotguns and machetes, looting and setting fires. Police said one officer was killed and 252 people hurt in Britain's worst urban violence in four years.

Following the six-hour overnight spree in which dozens of cars and buildings were burned and ransacked, the Tottenham area of north London was reported quiet today except for a vehicle that had been set on fire.

About 500 young people, mostly blacks, poured into the streets of the racially mixed neighborhood Sunday, a day after police said a black woman died of an apparent heart attack during a search of her home.

The roving bands of youths looted stores, set cars and buildings on fire and bombarded police with gasoline bombs, bricks, rocks and bottles, police said.

Scotland Yard said more than 100 youths armed with knives, machetes, staves and other weapons were involved in the rioting which led to the death of patrolman Keith Henry Blakelock, 40.

The patrolman was slashed across the neck, possibly with a machete, as he guarded firefighters trying to douse a blaze, Scotland Yard spokeswoman Gillian Humphrey said.

Blakelock, who had joined the London police in 1980, died in the hospital before surgery could be performed. He was married and the father of three sons.

Six people, including two policemen and three reporters, were hit during the rioting by pellets fired from either airguns or shotguns.

Racial rioting has swept through the south London district of Brixton and the industrial cities of Liverpool and Birmingham in the past month. However, no police officer had ever been killed before and there had been no previous use of firearms.

Scotland Yard, whose officers are normally armed only with plastic riot shields and clubs, refused to comment on news reports today that police had been issued plastic bullets in Tottenham, though none were reported to have been fired. Police marksmen also were reported to have been seen in the area.

Police today said a total of 252 people were wounded in the Tottenham unrest, all but 20 of them police. Sixty-nine of the officers were taken to hospitals, where five were reported in serious condition.

One officer was struck on the head by a slab of concrete dropped from a balcony, and a civilian suffered serious stab wounds.

Seven people were arrested. Richard Wells, Scotland Yard's deputy assistant police commissioner, said in a British Broadcasting Corp. interview today that the riot sent "a shock wave" through the force. He said the public must prepare for "tough options" by police to control future riots.

The disturbances were apparently sparked by the death of Cynthia Jarrett, 49, who collapsed Saturday night as police searched her house for stolen goods after the arrest of one of her sons.

When Mrs. Jarratt collapsed, the officers "were physically shoved out of the house," a police statement said. They were later allowed back in to administer mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but the effort to revive the woman failed, the statement said.

Rescuers lose hope

MEXICO CITY — Crews trying to reach a 9-year-old boy trapped in rubble from the Sept. 19 earthquake stopped working but resumed at a slower pace early today following protests from the boy's father, who believes his son still is alive.

Rescuers working with shovels and earth-moving equipment left the wreckage of the apartment building at about 9 p.m. Sunday (11 p.m. EDT), saying they needed rest.

However, about 3 hours later, the soldiers and police took up shovels and wheelbarrows again.

The family holds out hope that the boy, Luis Ramon Nafarrate, is alive although a scan of debris with highly sensitive sound equipment Saturday night found no signs of life.

Rig catches fire

OSLO, Norway — A spokesman for the state oil company said today that an oil and gas drilling rig in the Norwegian Sea blew out and caught fire, forcing the crew to evacuate. One Norwegian crew member was reported missing.

Spokesman Haakon Lavik of Statoil said in a radio interview that 79 crew members were evacuated safely. He said the missing crew member was a Norwegian.

AIDS scare spreads

SINGAPORE — A fear of AIDS is spreading in Southeast Asia, Japan and China.

Officials in Thailand worry that anti-AIDS campaigners may frighten away tourists.

The sperm bank in Singapore is dry for lack of donors worried about the disease. China has banned the import of human blood plasma as a way to keep AIDS from entering the country and the Indonesian Red Cross wants to bar homosexuals from donating blood.

Falkland talks urged

LONDON — David Steel, leader of Britain's opposition Liberal Party, urged the Conservative government to begin talks with Argentina on the future of the Falkland Islands.

Steel met President Raul Alfonsin of Argentina on Sunday in Madrid, where Alfonsin was awarded the Prize for Freedom from the Liberal International Congress. He was given the honor for his role in restoring democracy in Argentina.

Rabin dismisses report

NEW YORK — Israeli Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin has dismissed as "total nonsense" reports that Israel's bombing of a PLO target in Tunisia was designed to kill the organization's leader, Yasser Arafat.

He also warned that political groups that attack Israeli targets "will pay much more heavily" in the future.

Crimes hit lowest level

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of crimes committed in the United States fell by 1.5 million last year to the lowest level since the government initiated a survey of crime victims in 1973, the Justice Department says.

In a report that the department's top statistician called "particularly encouraging," the National Crime Survey said "victimizations" in 1984 fell by 4.1 percent from the previous year, from 37 million to 35.5 million.

"This decline continued a trend that has now reduced criminal victimizations to their lowest level in the 12-year history" of the survey, the report said.

Although overall violent crime showed no decline from 1983 to 1984, the report said this category of crime, including rapes, robberies and assaults, was down 12 percent from the peak level of 1981.

The number of violent crimes actually rose by 0.9 percent in the new statistics, increasing from 5,903,000 crimes to 5,954,000, said the report, "Criminal Victimization 1984."

The rape victimization rate for females age 12 and over, for instance, was 1.6 per 1,000 last year, compared to 1.3 per 1,000 in the preceding year.

The total of 35.5 million "victimizations" was 14 percent below the 41.5 million figure recorded in the peak crime year of 1981.

Among the findings, the report showed that the victimization rate for crimes of personal theft dropped 7 percent in 1984 to a new low, about 26 percent below the peak for these crimes, which was recorded in 1977.

Burglary victimization rates were down 8 percent, and have declined by 31 percent from the peak year of 1974, it said, while purse-snatchings declined significantly from a rate of 0.9 per 1,000 people in 1983 to 0.7 per 1,000 in 1984.

Household larceny continued a downward trend begun in 1979, declining by 6 percent to a 12-year low of 99.4 per 1,000 households.

But robberies in which the victims were injured occurred at a rate of 1.6 per 1,000, up from 1.3 per 1,000 in 1983.

Activists arrested

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eight wheelchair-bound activists were arrested as more than 130 disabled people demonstrated against a lack of access to public transportation, police said.

The eight were arrested Sunday near the downtown Bonaventure Hotel, where they had blocked entrances and stairways, and were booked for investigation of failing to disperse and interfering with police, officers said.

Earlier, a procession of 131 wheelchairs carried people with disabilities ranging from cerebral palsy to postpolio paralysis from MacArthur Park to the Bonaventure, where the annual conference of the American Public Transit Association was being held.

It's tea for Texas, taxes and...tepid

If the British had only waited, there would have been no Boston Tea Party, and the United States might never have become a nation.

In the 18th century, tea was the drink in the Colonies. When the British unwisely decided to put a tax on it, Boston merchants got angry and created a bit of history by dumping tea cargoes over the sides of ships.

We were reminded of this recently by a newspaper article about how to make tea correctly. It is something that few people know how to do, and virtually no restaurants even try to do.

If the Reagan administration put a tax on tea, most people would not care. Today, Americans do not have enough loyalty to tea to dump it in Boston Harbor, which is a pity.

In fact, tea drinkers are among the most abused segments of American society. Just try getting a warm cup of tea in the morning for breakfast at a hotel. Usually some lout brings it with a tea bag immersed in tepid water.

This may not seem important to coffee drinkers, but it is a sign of the times. And tea drinkers might well conclude that our national taste is going down the drain.

Postal competition is a first-class idea

Competition is fierce in overnight package delivery. If you have something that absolutely, positively has to be there tomorrow, you can choose from a host of couriers, all slaving to get your business. But the free-for-all hasn't touched the type of delivery that matters the most to the average American: first-class mail. There you have only one choice. The Postal Service, by federal law, enjoys an impregnable monopoly.

In an economic system characterized by the freest markets in the world, this quarantine on competition represents a foolish and expensive anomaly. Americans take it for granted that private monopolies are exploitative and wasteful. That's one reason we have anti-trust laws. There is no reason public monopolies should be any better, and the Postal Service proves that they aren't.

Rate increases, like the recent boost from 20 to 22 cents, are the most obvious illustration. Since 1958, the price of mailing a first-class letter has risen more than sevenfold, which is nearly twice as much as the increase in the consumer price index.

Nothing endemic to mail delivery accounts for the difference. Between 1971 and 1981, the first-class rate rose nearly two and a half times as much as the rate for parcel post. In parcel delivery, of course, the Postal Service has to compete with United Parcel Service, which now delivers 70 percent of all parcels.

Nor do all Americans pay equally. The structure of postal rates serves to penalize first-class patrons for the benefit of those using other classes of mail, and to subsidize rural dwellers at the expense of urbanites.

What do the higher first-class rates buy? Service actually has deteriorated, with delivery times rising by 10 percent since 1969. It's hard for baby-boomers like myself to believe that until 1950 homes got two mail deliveries a day, but it's true.

How things have changed. Today, there is talk of phasing out home deliveries entirely. And any patron who has ever compared the treatment customers get at a post office with that in a Federal Express office needs no reminder of the dangers of monopoly.

The alternative to a bleak postal future is to get rid of the laws banning competition in mail delivery. Given a choice, mail patrons would give their letters to whoever can provide faster delivery, better service or lower rates — or all three. The Postal Service, deprived of its domain over captive consumers, would have to adapt or die.

Neither alternative is anything to fear. The Postal Service insists that competition would be wasteful, since mail delivery is a natural monopoly — i.e., that economies of scale produce endlessly declining average costs, allowing the biggest deliverer to underprice all others while still making profits, thus driving them out.

But the evidence from parcel post and overnight delivery argues against that thesis. The only way to be sure is to try competition. If mail delivery truly is a natural monopoly, the Postal Service needs no statutory shield against upstarts: It would be able to out-compete them.

If, on the other hand, the Postal Service proves unable to compete, the mail patron would have the same option available to other consumers — do business with a private firm. Private firms deliver everything else, from eggs to computers. They certainly can deliver mail.

The only plausible worry is that some people in isolated rural areas may pay higher rates. But given the higher costs of serving them, there is no good reason they should be protected from that risk. If Congress wants to protect them, it should use narrowly targeted subsidies, not the blunderbuss of high first-class rates, which bleed the poor as well as the rich.

That famous advocate of capitalism, Lenny Bruce, could find no better way to indict socialism than to describe it as one giant post office. If President Reagan wants to expand the horizons of the free market, this is a good place to start.

Mexican earthquake sends aftershocks to United States

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — The tragedy in Mexico City could have repercussions that, like another monstrous earthquake, could rock the United States. The disaster adds terrible new pressure upon Mexico's wretched masses to burst across the U.S. border in search of a better life.

Even before the earthquake brought new misery to millions of Mexicans, the Defense Intelligence Agency warned that Mexico is a tinder box, and a spark could send desperate refugees overrunning the border.

In the words of one warning, Mexico will be "the No. 1 security problem for the United States in the next 10 years." With this in mind, the DIA has made a secret study of how many Army divisions it would take to seal off the 1,933-mile Mexican-American border.

While the Reagan administration wants to keep illegal Mexicans out, ironically, the administration of Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid is worried that the United States wants to take more Mexicans in.

U.S. intelligence intercepted a private conversation last year between de la Madrid and two of his cabinet ministers in Mexico City. One of the ministers, according to a top-secret report, suggested that restive northern states might secede from Mexico and join the United States.

This incredible idea was accepted by de la Madrid, who said the United States would certainly welcome the annexation of the breakaway Mexican states. Divorced from reality as this may seem to Americans, it is a measure of the paranoia among Mexican leaders.

In the back rooms of Washington, meanwhile, U.S. strategists acknowledge that they won't be able to slam down an iron curtain between the United States and Mexico. A secret State Department report puts it this way: "The problems of illegal immigrants, narcotics and social inequality are forces of (great) magnitude. These problems will be important to us; Mexican and American societies are becoming interwoven to the point of symbiosis."

Here are just a few of the pressures, now aggravated by the earthquake, that could cause a massive rupture in the Mexican-American border:

- One-third of all Mexicans today are undernourished. They not only live in poverty but their living conditions are getting worse.

- The upper half of the population hogs 90 percent of the income, leaving the lower half with less and less.

- The Mexican government is on the brink of bankruptcy. It is saddled with a staggering $90 billion in foreign debts, with no credit left to satisfy the demands of a booming population.

- The government is corrupt from top to bottom, with 2 million bureaucrats feeding like leeches off the national income. In past columns, I have detailed how Mexican presidents have siphoned off personal fortunes into U.S. and Swiss banks.

Three months ago, we wrote that "it's five minutes to midnight in Mexico." The minute hand, unhappily, is still moving remorselessly.

UNDER THE DOME: Members of Congress are constantly besieged by lobbyists, constituents, colleagues, staffers and the press for information, favors or just a shoulder to cry on. It's small wonder that sometimes they don't know whether they're coming or going. The other day, for example, we asked Rep. William Hendon, R-N.C., about his schedule by saying: "What do you have on for today?" Before checking with his secretary, Hendon replied: "The only thing I know I have on today is my pants."

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: King Hussein of Jordan is being touted by the State Department as a "moderate" Arab leader and at least a potential friend of Israel. But an aide to Rep. Larry Smith, D-Fla., questions this rosy assessment, pointing out that Hussein can't even bring himself to use the term "Israel." Instead, as in a talk to the American Enterprise Institute last spring, the king refers to "the Jewish state."

EXECUTIVE MEMO: The U.S. Information Agency is evidently afraid its message isn't getting across. So a major study of USIA publications has been ordered; it will look at the "purposes, content, form, audience distribution and effectiveness of USIA magazines and pamphlets" all over the world. The investigators will talk with U.S. ambassadors and other embassy personnel, foreign journalists, businessmen and government officials to determine if the agency's output is regarded with respect or is — as some critics have charged — viewed skeptically as propaganda.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Swedes have a reputation for taking life and themselves very seriously; some of their Scandinavian neighbors, in fact, consider them downright stuffy. But strange things seem to be stirring in Sweden: Donald Duck emerged from the recent general election with 291 votes for parliament. That's 107 votes more than the irascible little water fowl got on his last outing three years ago — a whopping 58 percent increase. We don't mean to suggest there's a trend developing, but Donald's showing might be enough to worry the winner, Olof Palme, making him even stuffier than he usually is.

Time will heal wounds

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My problem is with my in-laws. My husband's first wife left him and took their two children, and his parents constantly look down on me and treat me as if they suspect I will do the same thing. Do you think I can do anything about this? — Mrs. E.A.S.

DEAR MRS. E.A.S.: Yes, I believe this situation can be changed if you will take the initiative and do all you can to reach out to your in-laws. Have you discussed this problem honestly (but calmly) with your husband? Communication in a marriage is very important. He should be aware of your feelings, and it may be that he will have some practical suggestions or even may be able to encourage his parents to be more trusting.

Make it your goal, with God's help, to follow the Bible's command: "Do to others as you would have them do to you. If you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? ... But love your enemies, do good to them ... Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful" (Luke 6:31-32, 35, 36). Be as creative as possible, therefore, in thinking of ways you can express your interest and concern toward your in-laws.

Remember them at special times of the year (such as birthdays). Have them over for dinner more frequently than you do now. In addition, pray for them, that God would not only heal the problems between you, but that they would realize their need to put Christ first in their lives. And if you and your husband have never given your lives to Jesus Christ, now is the time to make your commitment to Him and to make Him the center of your marriage.

In order to prove to your in-laws that you are a good wife, you need to be the best possible wife you can be to your husband. Then, in time they will notice and the hurts they feel from the past will begin to fade.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, Oct. 7, the 280th day of 1985. There are 85 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On Oct. 7, 1849, author Edgar Allan Poe died in Baltimore, Md., at the age of 40.

On this date:
In 1765, the Stamp Act Congress convened in New York to draw up colonial grievances against England.

In 1777, the second Battle of Saratoga began during the American Revolution. The British forces, under Gen. John Burgoyne, would surrender 10 days later.

In 1949, the Republic of East Germany was formed.

In 1950, the United Nations General Assembly approved an advance by U.N. forces north of the 38th parallel in the Korean Conflict.

In 1954, Marian Anderson became the first black singer hired by the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York.

In 1960, Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy and Republican opponent Richard M. Nixon held the second of their broadcast debates.

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy signed the documents of ratification for a nuclear test ban treaty with Britain and the Soviet Union.

In 1968, the Motion Picture Association of America adopted its film-rating system.

Ten years ago: Congress overrode President Gerald R. Ford's veto on a $2.7 billion extension and broadening of federal school lunch and child programs.

Five years ago: A jury in Washington, D.C., found U.S. Rep. John W. Jenrette, D-S.C., and a co-defendant guilty of bribery and conspiracy charges stemming from the FBI's Abscam investigation.

One year ago: In Louisville, Ky., President Reagan and Democratic challenger Walter F. Mondale clashed in their first campaign debate, disagreeing on topics that included the deficit, Social Security, religion in politics, leadership and abortion.

People at work

Every day different for Gail Earls

By CAROL BALDWIN
Lifestyle Editor

When Gail Earls moved to Big Spring 16 years ago from Hawaii, she vowed not to stay here very long. Today, she and her husband Floyd have made this community their home.

Gail is secretary for all of the Texas A&M Extension Service agents in the Howard County Courthouse. She works for Don Richardson, county extension agent, agriculture; Naomi Hunt, county extension agent, home economics; and Lisa Hoff, county extension agent, home economics.

The extension service coordinates educational programs for people in the county concerning agriculture and home management. Earls has been secretary in the office for 13 years.

Although there are only three agents in the office now, Earls usually has four agents to work for. "Sometimes it's a little hairy," she said.

Earls is assisted by Kim Beckham, a student at Howard College.

"I enjoy my job," Earls said. "I enjoy the contact with people. It's not the same old thing day in and day out."

On one day, someone might bring in a sample of dirt to be analyzed, Earls said. Another day, someone might bring in a suspicious-looking spider or a pecan leaf.

Agents look at them and answer questions or "send them off to a specialist in Fort Stockton," Earls said.

"No day is the same," she said. Earls also helps the office coordinate four newsletters a month. When the office hosts educational programs, she must send out information to everyone involved.

There's also a lot of "envelope-stuffing" in the office because the extension service sends out so much educational material.

Gail Earls says no day is the same at the County Extension Office, located in the basement of the Howard County Courthouse.

"This week Kim stuffed 475 envelopes in one day about a farm program," Earls said of her Howard College assistant.

Earls is originally from Oklahoma City. Her husband, Floyd, was transferred to Big Spring by the U.S. Air Force. The couple had been living in Hawaii and found the West Texas landscape harsh in comparison with Hawaii.

"I thought I'd done something real bad to be sent here," she said. But the man who sold the couple their home said, "You will want to retire here." The couple responded, "No way."

Three years later, when Floyd was ready to retire from the Air Force, the couple was approached about selling their home. They decided to stay in Big Spring a little while longer. They soon discovered they didn't want to leave.

Why?

"Because of the people in Big Spring," Earls said. "We like them."

Earls husband is working for Stanton Mobile Homes. Gail also works for GOSH and Yes! Business Services. She does "engraving and everything no one else wants to do," she said with a laugh.

She thinks her job with GOSH and Yes! "is real interesting. I get to do a lot of different things."

Earls is also involved with the Rape Crisis Services and Blue Blazers.

She also enjoys "clowning around." She works as a clown at birthday parties and other local events.

Despite her busy schedule, "my grandchildren take precedence over everything," Earls said. She has five grandchildren, including three who are Big Spring residents.

Dear Abby

Fire prevention

DEAR READERS: Last year in the United States, 5,240 people died in fires. The total loss in property alone came to $6.71 billion.

This is Fire Prevention Week, and although fires occur throughout the year, each season has its own special fire hazards. Here are some tips for all seasons:

Fall: If you enjoy camping, select a tent made of flame-resistant fabric. Pack a reliable flashlight with plenty of extra batteries to light the inside of your tent — never use matches or candles. When building a campfire, place it downwind of your tent. And never try to hasten the burning by using gasoline or other flammable liquid starters.

If you use your fireplace, have your chimney professionally cleaned in the fall to make sure it's in good condition for the coming season.

Winter: More fires occur during winter than in any other season. The reasons: home heating and the holiday season.

If you use a portable heater, be sure it is placed away from combustibles — draperies, furniture, paper, etc. Remember, the surface heat of some portable heaters may reach 500 degrees, so keep a careful watch on your children and warn them to keep away from heaters. Hospitals are treating an increasing number of patients with burns resulting from contact with the outside surface of some portable heaters.

For a merry Christmas, choose a Christmas tree that does not have shedding needles, and keep it standing in water while it is in the house. If you choose an artificial tree, choose one that is flame-resistant.

After holiday parties, before retiring, check your ashtrays for smoldering cigarette butts, and carefully examine all upholstered chairs and sofas to make sure that no "live" cigarette butts have fallen between the cushions. Remember, most house fires occur between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m., when people are sleeping.

Spring: Take spring cleaning seriously — clean out your attic, basement, garage and workshop. Throw out trash, especially combustibles such as rags, newspapers, magazines, boxes and scraps of wood. Never smoke while fueling gas-powered lawn mowers or chain saws. If you must store gasoline, store it in a ventilated area in a can designed especially for that purpose. And store oily rags and paint in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

Summer: When cooking out, never use flammable liquids near live coals. An explosion or flash fire could result. When you've finished cooking, soak the coals with water and make absolutely sure they're out when you leave. Smoldering coals that appear to be "dead" can reignite as much as a day later. If you use a propane gas grill, always have the lighted match in position before turning on the gas.

Some tips for all seasons:

- Never smoke in bed.
- Never leave invalids or small children alone in the house — not even for a "few minutes."
- Never use flammable liquids for dry cleaning indoors.
- Have periodic fire drills in your home — be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.
- Keep easy-to-use fire extinguishers in your kitchen, cottage, back bedrooms and on your boat. Invest in smoke detectors, and be sure that they are kept dust-free and in working order.

Sulfites in foods should to be identified as safeguard

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Everywhere I look I see disgustingly hardy and healthy people, in fact some of the most healthy generation in my memory, which goes back more than 70 years.

Every week, it seems, they uncover some food or substance that's supposed to be killing us or putting us all in hospitals. Now it's sulfites. Don't they realize this has been used in foods for years, probably since I was born? I enjoy good health. What's wrong with sulfites? — P.H.V.

Nothing's inherently wrong with them. Sulfite is a chemical that helps prevent food spoilage. You find it in a wide range of foods, from avocado dips to baked goods and products like beer, wine and shrimp. What has been learned is that some people may be extra sensitive to sulfites and that can cause them considerable trouble.

Sensitivity to sulfites can result in asthmatic attacks, hives, even drops in blood pressure. Asthmatics, who tend to be allergy prone are more likely than others to have problems with the substance. In fact, it is now believed that many people who think they are allergic to certain foods may actually be reacting to the sulfites rather than the food itself.

It's for this reason that the move has been initiated to have careful labeling to warn people about the sulfite content of various foods. And those who are, indeed, sensitive may even have to carry special kits (with adrenalin) for use in the event of serious reaction. Tests are available to determine sensitivity.

You must understand that some people run a great risk of serious reaction to this food preservative. And they have to be warned. As for you and me, we can go about our business as usual. And I agree with you that we are a most healthy collection of generations. Our concern for the consequences of an un-monitored food supply will help keep us that way.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Blood Pressure and Your Health." Write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

EAST RUTHERFORD (AP) — What was supposed to be a matchup between two national Football League defenses produced six passes, 59 points and favor of the Dallas Cowboys. The New York Giants' simplest of plays — a center.

Danny White threw three touchdown passes and kicked three field goals, including a 31-yard boot to win, as Dallas edged the Giants 30-29 Sunday night in a Football League game.

The Giants had entered the game with the league's stingiest defense, having surrendered just four touchdowns in four games. Dallas' offense, however, was third, having allowed 17 touchdowns in 17 games.

"You never know what can happen," said White. "I've had a lot of games where it's a defensive domination and vice versa, where you have great offenses and you can't light up the board on a 17-14. You just can't do anything in the NFL if anything can happen."

Baseball start

By The Associated Press
 As Willie McGee of the St. Louis Cardinals puts it, the playoffs are the fun part.

"The playoffs and Series are the fun part," says McGee. "We can go out there and relax."

The playoffs, following a 7-7 format for the first time, began Tuesday night in the American League with the East champion Toronto Blue Jays hosting the Kansas City Royals.

The National League playoffs begin following night with Los Angeles leading the NL West at home against the Cardinals.

The World Series begins Oct. 19 at the home of the pennant winner.

The Blue Jays will hander Dave Stieb, 14 left-hander Charlie Leisner for Kansas City, while the Cardinals lead off with John Tudor, 21-8, against lefty Fernando Valenzuela.

The Royals clinched with a 5-4 victory in 10 innings at Oakland Saturday.

The Dodgers were clinch, wrapping up their season last Wednesday with a 5-1 victory over Atlanta.

Like the Royals, St. Louis also clinched the day before the series. Toronto beat second-year pitcher Dwight Gooden 5-1 and St. Louis.

Yates

By The Associated Press
 Quarterback Charles Yates tossed three touchdowns to give top-ranked Yates a 51-0 victory over Houston Milby Saturday.

The win was the 40th district victory for Yates, who tied a Texas Class 5A record in 1976 by Temple.

It also capped a record-breaking season for Texas schoolboys. Yates is the first quarterback to lead a Texas school team to a state championship.

On Friday, Brownwood's Wood got a telecast when he tossed three touchdowns in his 400th game with the President Reagan High School Eagles in Cleburne. Wood's career wins are more than any other coach in history.

In other Class 5A action, Brian Cleveland scored three touchdowns on runs of 68, 11 and 10 yards while rushing for 103 yards and three touchdowns on the seventh in a 34-14 victory over Beaumont West.

Quarterback Robert Robertson contributed to the victory.

Giants 'muff' game away

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — What was supposed to be a matchup between two of the National Football League's best defenses produced six touchdown passes, 59 points and turned in favor of the Dallas Cowboys when the New York Giants muffed the simplest of plays — a snap from center.

Danny White threw three touchdown passes and Rafael Septien booted three fourth-quarter field goals, including a game-winning 31-yard boot with 2:19 to play, as Dallas edged the Giants 30-29 Sunday night in a National Football League game.

The Giants had entered the game with the league's stingiest defense, having surrendered just 50 points in four games. Dallas was ranked third, having allowed just 57. But both were exploited on Sunday night.

"You never know what's going to happen," said White. "I've been in a lot of games where it's supposed to be a defensive dominated game, and vice versa, where you have two great offenses and you expect them to light up the board and it ends up 17-14. You just can't predict anything in the NFL because anything can happen, and it did tonight." White was responsible for a lot of it, both good and bad. He connected on 31 of 46 passes for 342 yards. He found Tony Hill on an 18-yard scoring pass in the first quarter and connected with Mike Renfro on TD passes of 8 yards in the second quarter and 24 yards in the third quarter.

White also found Giant defenders four times, including two that started New York on scoring drives and one other that snuffed out a Dallas threat deep in Giants territory.

"Even as good as it was, it could have been better," said White. "Our offense is frustrated now because we do have a great offense. We're just a half-step away from showing it on paper."

The Cowboys were about that far away from being 3-2 this year instead of 4-1. The Giants did fall to 3-2.

The Cowboys took a 14-6 lead to the locker room at halftime, but failed to show up for the first 12 minutes of the third quarter when the Giants scored 20 consecutive points. It could have been 21 had rookie place-kicker Jess Atkinson made the extra point after the first

Flags fly at Mile High

DENVER (AP) — The Houston Oilers, intent on intimidating the Denver Broncos with an aggressive defense, caught the attention instead of seven gentlemen wearing striped shirts.

The Oilers were whistled for a team-record 15 penalties amounting to 188 yards. Eleven of those infractions produced first downs for Denver — a National Football League record — as the Broncos prevailed 31-20 Sunday.

Quarterback John Elway, who threw three touchdown passes, called the Oilers "an aggressive team, but I thought they kind of overdid it. They were headhunting more than they were going for the ball."

Of the 15 penalties, 12 were called on the Oiler defense, including four for pass interference, three personal fouls and two for unsportsmanlike conduct. Twice the Oilers managed double penalties — pass interference and unsportsmanlike conduct on the same play in the third quarter, and offsides, and unsportsmanlike conduct on the same play in the final stanza.

Penalties played a part in all but one of Denver's scores as the Broncos raised their record to 3-2 and Houston suffered its fourth straight loss, dropping to 1-4.

"It was an unusual game as far as penalties were concerned, but I saw no penalties I disagreed with," said Denver Coach Dan Reeves.

Hardly a surprising comment from a coach whose team was assessed only four penalties for 30 yards.

But Houston Coach Hugh Campbell agreed. "I'm sure most of the penalties were justified," he said. "I don't know if their calls were consistent, but they have a very difficult job. The officials didn't make the difference in the game. We just didn't execute very well. You must play flawless to have a chance to beat Denver."

The Broncos didn't execute all that well, either, as Elway would attest.

"It was not one of our prettier performances," he said. "We weren't sharp at all and we made our share of mistakes, but we made some big plays. Any time you score 31 points and can say you've not had a great game, it says a lot about your potential."

Elway's key TD throw was a razzle-dazzle 41-yarder to Steve Watson, which put Denver ahead 17-3 late in the first half. On the play, Elway pitched back to Sam

Baseball playoffs start new season

By The Associated Press
As Willie McGee of the National League East champion St. Louis Cardinals puts it, the tough part is over. Now the fun begins.

"The playoffs and the World Series are the fun part," McGee says. "We can go out there now and relax."

The playoffs, following a best-of-7 format for the first year, begin Tuesday night in the American League with the East Division champion Toronto Blue Jays playing host to Kansas City of the AL West.

The National League begins the following night with Los Angeles of the NL West at home against the Cardinals.

The World Series begins Saturday, Oct. 19 at the home of the AL pennant winner.

The Blue Jays will start right-hander Dave Stieb, 14-13, against left-hander Charlie Leibrandt, 17-9, for Kansas City, while the Cardinals lead off with left-hander John Tudor, 21-8, against Dodgers lefty Fernando Valenzuela, 17-10.

The Royals clinched the West with a 5-4 victory in 10 innings over Oakland Saturday.

The Dodgers were the first to clinch, wrapping up the NL West last Wednesday with a 9-3 victory over Atlanta.

Like the Royals, St. Louis and Toronto also clinched on Saturday, the day before the season's end. Toronto beat second-place New York 5-1 and St. Louis defeated Chicago 7-1 to eliminate the runner-up New York Mets.

Royals Manager Dick Howser is 0-9 in postseason play, being swept by Kansas City in 1980 as the New York Yankees Manager, losing three straight after joining K.C. against Oakland in 1981's mini-playoffs and being swept by Detroit in 1984.

Picked by many to win the division, the Blue Jays led or shared the AL East lead from May 13 on. But the Blue Jays lost four straight, including the first game of a three-game set with New York last Friday night, to lead the Yankees by only one game before clinching the title Saturday. Toronto finished with a two-game lead over the Yanks after losing 8-0 on the final day as New York's Phil Niekro recorded his 300th career pitching victory.

Neither the Cardinals nor the Dodgers were picked to win their divisions.

The Mets closed within a game of the Cards last Wednesday. But St. Louis finished three ahead of New York.

The Dodgers fell as many as six games back in fourth place on June 9. But the Dodgers acquired Enos Cabell, and later Bill Madlock, to play third base, and Manager Tom Lasorda made the switch that may have saved the club — moving Pedro Guerrero from third back to the outfield.

STEVE GARVEY of the San Diego Padres slides safely into third base with a triple as PHIL GARNER of the Houston Astros has the ball hit off his glove. The Astros won their final game of the season, 6-4.

Niekro finally reaches win number 300

By The Associated Press
TORONTO (AP) — Phil Niekro, whose fluttering knuckleball brought his first 299 major league wins and the nickname "Knucksie," put his bread-and-butter pitch aside to go for his landmark 300th victory Sunday on the last day of the 1985 season.

So it was with an assortment of screwballs, "dead-fish" fastballs, slip-pitches, curves and the occasional fastball away that Niekro led the New York Yankees to an 8-0 pasting of the American League East champion Toronto Blue Jays.

It was only with two out in the ninth inning, a runner on second and slugger Jeff Burroughs at the plate that Niekro went back to three straight knucklers and struck his former teammate out swinging to end the game.

Niekro's Yankee mates — led by his brother Joe, also a knuckleball pitcher, rushed to the mound to congratulate him, as a Toronto crowd of more than 44,000 rose with a warm ovation.

"I always wanted to pitch a game without throwing a knuckleball," said Niekro, who finished the season with a 16-12 record. "A lot of people thought I couldn't get people out without the knuckleball."

Niekro gave up just four hits and three walks, along with four strikeouts to move past Ferguson Jenkins into seventh place on the all-time strikeout list with 3,197

Yates sets 5A record

By The Associated Press
Quarterback Charles Price tossed three touchdown passes to give top-ranked Houston Yates a 51-0 victory over Houston Milby Saturday.

The win was the 43rd straight district victory for Yates and tied a Texas Class 5A record set in 1976 by Temple.

It also capped a record-setting and record-breaking weekend for Texas schoolboy football teams.

On Friday, Brownwood's Gordon Wood got a telegram from President Reagan when he won his 400th game by whipping the Crowley Eagles in Class 4A high school play, grabbing more career wins than any other football coach in history.

In other Class 5A action, Brian Cleveland scored three TDs on runs of 68, 1 and 1 yards while rushing for 103 yards on 11 carries for seventh-rated West Orange-Stark in a 41-10 romp over Beaumont West Brook.

Quarterback Roderick Robertson contributed two touchdown passes, one for 8 yards to Dedrick Owens and the second for 71 yards to Robert Teate. Erick Williams also scored on a 13-yard run.

West Brook retaliated with a 1-yard touchdown run from Alvin Lee and 33-yard field goal from Layne Talbot.

Also in 5A, quarterback Bubba Jacques scored a 93-yard TD and passed 88 and 42 yards to Kevin Castleberry for two other scores to lead ninth-ranked Conroe to a 48-14 win over Humble.

Conroe's Keith Sneed hauled in a 10-yard pass from Tyke Tolbert on a halfback-option and then a 36-yard run. Other Tiger tallies went to Tolbert on a 9-yard run and Darrell Sherer on a 38-yard run in the third quarter.

Humble, winless in five starts, got touchdowns from Chuck Canty on a 1-yard slam and Jerry Seade on a 5-yard pass from Craig Shirley.

Other 5A play saw fourth-ranked San Antonio Clark blanch Corpus Christi Moody 48-0.

Minnesota gambles and loses

By The Associated Press
Remember Bud Grant, "Old Stoneface" himself, one of the National Football League's most conservative coaches?

Well, forget about him. The new Bud Grant actually gambles.

On Sunday, Grant gambled that the Vikings could make it into the end zone from a yard out on the final play of the game with Minnesota trailing the Los Angeles Rams 13-10. Grant lost, as Darrin Nelson was foiled by linebacker Jim Collins and the Rams upped their record to 5-0.

"It was a high-percentage call," Grant said after Minnesota fell to 3-2. "We had a chance to win the game on one play. I would do the same thing again."

The Vikings actually had two tries at the game-winning touchdown from the 1. With seven seconds remaining, quarterback Tommy Kramer threw an incomplete pass, but Los Angeles' Gary Green was called for pass interference.

Then Nelson couldn't get the longest yard.

The Vikings held Eric Dickerson to 55 yards on 25 carries. Chicago also remained undefeated, downing Tampa Bay 27-19.

NFL Roundup

Bears 27, Buccaneers 19
Chicago scored 24 points in the second half after falling behind 12-3 at intermission. Walter Payton scored on runs of four and nine yards, giving him 100 career touchdowns. Jim McMahon threw a 21-yard TD pass to Dennis McKinnon and Kevin Butler kicked field goals of 30 and 31 yards. It's the best start for the Bears since 1963, when they won their last NFL championship.

Jets 29, Bengals 20
In one of several games featuring controversy over officials' calls, New York won its fourth straight. A total of 29 penalties were called, including eight personal fouls.

Things got wild in the third period with the Jets ahead 17-13. Quarterback Ken O'Brien was short on a bomb for Wesley Walker and Louis Breeden intercepted at the 6-yard line. He continued into the end zone where Walker tackled him for what was called a safety by the officials. The Bengals bitterly argued that Breeden's momentum carried him into the end zone and it should have been a touchback.

Kirk Springs returned the ensuing free kick 58 yards to the Bengals 18 and O'Brien soon hit tight end Mickey Shuler with a 7-yard touchdown pass for a 26-13 lead.

Seahawks 26, Chargers 21
San Diego's Wes Chandler was livid over an incompletion call which he insisted should have been a touchdown early in the game. Seattle prevailed by forcing turnovers — it led the NFL in that category last season — intercepting quarterback Mark Herrmann three times and recovering a Herrmann fumble. Curt Warner scored touchdowns on runs of one and 18 yards in the second half for the Seahawks. Herrmann, who started in place of the injured Dan Fouts, passed for three touchdowns.

"It was the difference between winning and losing," Chandler fumed. "The referee said my back foot wasn't in the end zone but I dragged my back foot. The linesman made the call after coming from 15 or 20 yards away to the very back of the end zone. How could he see this, especially when it happened so fast?"

Browns 24, Patriots 20
Bernie Kosar made an inauspicious NFL debut, fumbling his first pro snap from center. He made up for that goof, however, by hitting seven straight second-half passes to lead Cleveland to victory.

Brian Brennan caught seven passes for 104 yards and threw a 33-yard touchdown to Ozzie Newsome. Kevin Mack, who scored the winning points on a 10-yard run, had 115 yards on 20 carries and caught five passes for 85 yards.

East German sets world mark

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — A near-perfect race in the women's 400-meter dash by Marita Koch of East Germany and an imperfect, confusing race in the men's 1,600-meter relay capped a record-smashing World Cup track and field meet.

The 28-year-old Koch broke the world record in the women's 400 for the seventh time with a dazzling time of 47.60 seconds on Sunday.

It was the first individual world record to be set in the World Cup, which was inaugurated in 1977 and held this year for the fourth time.

"Marita Koch is the most remarkable women's athlete of our time and the record is in its rightful place," said Miroslav Kratochvilova, holder of the old record at 47.99.

Koch's record was one of two world marks set Sunday and was her third victory of the meet. On Friday, she captured the women's 200 in 21.90 and anchored the East German team which took the 1,600-meter relay.

The other world record was by the East German women's 400-meter relay team of Silke Gladisch, Sabine Rieger, Ingrid Auerswald and Marlies Gohr.

They clocked 41.37, smashing the mark of 41.53 set in 1983 by an East German team that also included Gladisch, Auerswald and Gohr.

The victories by Koch and the relay team, along with a sweep of the other three women's finals on Sunday, gave the powerful East German team its third World Cup title in a row.

The East Germans finished with 121 points, just bettering their World Cup record of 120 $\frac{1}{2}$ compiled in 1981.

The United States won its second men's crown, with 123 points, capping its point haul by winning the controversial 1,600-meter relay, in which five protests were filed.

The controversy developed during the handoffs between the No. 3 and No. 4 runners. With the American team leading, and Ray Armstead about to hand off to Michael Franks, there was much bumping and pushing in the exchange area.

Franks said the anchor man for the Soviet team, Vladimir Krylov, ran in front of Darren Clark, the final runner for Australia. Clark then tried to get back into position by shoving Krylov twice.

The second push knocked Krylov into Armstead, who was jolted into the infield.

"I had to come back and try to pick up the stick from Ray (Armstead), and while I was doing that, Krylov ran up my back," said Franks. "He and I got tangled up, and I ran into a few more people."

By the time Franks untangled himself, he was in fourth place. But the World Cup 400-meter champion burned a final lap of 43.3 seconds and overtook Innocent Egbunike of Nigeria in the closing strides.

Considering all the confusion, the winning time of 3:00.71 was remarkable.

Egbunike, apparently stunned by Franks' ferocious finish, dropped the baton about two steps from the finish line, causing the disqualification of the African team.

The Soviet team, which originally was disqualified by the referee, was reinstated by the race jury.

The fifth-place finish in the relay enabled the Soviets to take second in the men's standings with 115 points, one point ahead of East Germany.

The United States men's team also got victories from Tomie Campbell in the 110-meter high hurdles in a wind-aided 13.35 and from Doug Padilla in the 5,000 meters in 14:04.11.

day as a pro included five TD passes to tie a team record. He also set club records for attempts (37), completions (57) and yardage (429), and Roger Craig had a club-record 12 receptions for 167 yards and a 46-yard score.

Colts 49, Bills 17

The head coaching debut of Buffalo's Hank Bullough — who replaced the fired Kay Stephenson during the week — was a disaster. The Colts rushed for 281 yards and scored the most points they've managed in a game in nine years. Fullback Randy McMillan, returning from a two-week absence with an ankle injury, ran for 112 yards and two touchdowns. Albert Bentley also rushed for 100 yards and George Wonsley scored twice.

Dolphins 24, Steelers 20

Dan Marino came on late in the game and wound up with 27 completions on 45 attempts for 277 yards against the best pass defense in the league. The Dolphins' game-winning drive was capped by Lorenzo Hampton's 2-yard run with 47 seconds left.

The Steelers never have beaten Miami in the Orange Bowl.

Saints 23, Eagles 21

Johnnie Poe scored on a 40-yard interception return, Dave Wayne picked off three passes and Morten Andersen kicked three field goals for New Orleans, which won despite Philadelphia tight end John Spagnola's career-high 11 catches for 118 yards and two touchdowns.

Packers 43, Lions 10

James Lofton's best game of the season — 10 receptions for 151 yards — moved him into first place on the Packers' all-time receiving yardage list with 8,050. Phillip Epps caught two touchdown passes and Green Bay's aggressive defense and special teams forced six Detroit turnovers — four lost fumbles and two interceptions. The blitzing Packers had four sacks.

Raiders 19, Chiefs 10

Quarterback Marc Wilson, named the starter just prior to the game and playing despite a sprained ankle, passed for 241 yards and one touchdown and Chris Bahr kicked four field goals. The Raiders sacked Chiefs quarterback Bill Kenney six times.

"We're back," crowed Raiders Coach Tom Flores. "It was a total team effort."

Inquiry made at Tech

LUBBOCK (AP) — Texas Tech Athletic Director T. Jones said today the school responded in September to an NCAA inquiry concerning five possible violations in the recruitment of prospective football student athletes.

The statement comes on the heels of an admission by a former San Antonio schoolboy football star Chris Pryor that he was given as well as use of a rental car and a motel room while being recruited at Texas Tech.

The inquiry included questions of whether, on three occasions, a student athlete host was improperly provided a car to be used in entertaining a visiting athletic recruit; whether an assistant football coach visited a prospective student athlete an improper number of times (12); and whether an assistant football coach attempted to arrange employment for a prospective athlete prior to completion of his senior year in high school.

Pryor said he was not sure how much money was spent to recruit him and another player.

"I'd say for sure between $6,000 and $7,000, counting the motel rooms, the cars, the money, taking us out to eat," he said.

Youth head Southern Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Tim Simpson finally got his wish after 22 years of waiting.

The 29-year-old former University of Georgia golfer, winless since going on the Professional Golfers Association Tour in 1977, broke the spell Sunday by capturing the $350,000 Southern Open golf tournament in record fashion.

Simpson shot a 3-under-par 67 on Sunday to fashion a 264 total, 16-under-par for the par-70, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course. His 72-hole score equaled the tournament record set in 1975 by Hubert Green.

Clarence Rose, who also had a 67 Sunday, was two shots off the pace with Bob Tway, who had a final round 68, another shot back of Simpson.

Rose, a 28-year-old former Clemson standout, earned the biggest paycheck of his four-year career with the $37,800 for second.

Robinson gets record

DALLAS (AP) — Eddie Robinson, 66 years old and in his 44th season at Grambling, passed the late Bear Bryant and became the winningest coach in the history of college football with 324 victories when the Tigers defeated Prairie View 27-7 Saturday night.

As the final seconds ticked away, a swarm of humanity surrounded Robinson as he moved slowly off the field, stopping only for a TV interview.

Connors takes title

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jimmy Connors used accurate serving and some deadly ground strokes to defeat Brad Gilbert 6-4, 6-3 on Saturday in the championship match of the $100,000 Seiko Super Tennis tournament.

The victory was worth $25,000 to Connors, who grew up in Belleville, Ill., just across the Mississippi River from St. Louis.

of two Phil Simms touchdown passes to Lionel Manuel, and the miss eventually proved the difference.

Simms, who had his best game as a pro, hit Manuel on a 51-yard scoring pass play at 1:51 of the third quarter to cut the deficit to 14-12.

Elvis Patterson picked off a White pass on Dallas' next series, and Simms found Manuel seven plays later on a 23-yard touchdown pass that was deflected by Cowboys safety Dexter Clinkscale, the player who called Simms a "myth" earlier in the week.

The lead ballooned to 26-14 after Terry Kinard intercepted a pass and Simms teamed with rookie George Adams on a 70-yard TD pass. It was the No. 1 draft choice's first NFL touchdown.

However, Dallas came back as White hit Renfro on his second TD and Septien booted field goals of 22 and 29 yards early in the fourth quarter to put Dallas ahead 27-26.

Simms, who hit 18 of 36 passes for 432 yards, then drove New York 61 yards in eight plays and Atkinson atoned for his earlier missed extra point with a 47-yard field goal with 4:57 to play.

The lead looked like it would hold up when New York held Dallas on the following series. But Simms fumbled the snap from center Bart Oates with 2:40 to play, giving Dallas the ball at the Giants 19 to set up Septien's game-winning field goal.

"It's fumbled in me and Bart and we messed up. We didn't even make them work for the field goal."

Ironically, Septien had missed 4 of 5 field-goal attempts in last week's victory over Houston.

"It was definitely nice to have the game on my shoulders after last week," he said. "We had a good opportunity and I just made the kick."

Tony Dorsett gained 86 yards on 25 carries and is now 31 yards short of becoming the sixth running back in NFL history to gain 10,000 yards.

conduct penalties on that drive.

With quarterback Mike Moroski relieving starter Warren Moon, the Oilers made the final score respectable with another Zendejas field goal late in the third period and a 7-yard touchdown pass to Drew Hill in the final period.

Moon had difficulty moving his team. He was sacked four times and had directed Houston to only 162 total yards before Moroski took over late in the third period.

"Warren played fairly well, but then he got banged up and bruised his knee a bit," said Campbell. "He could have still played, but we put Moroski in and he played well."

Houston entertains Cleveland next Sunday, while Denver is at Indianapolis.

my Winder, who handed off to Butch Johnson on an apparent reverse. Johnson, however, flipped the ball back to Elway, who passed downfield to Watson near the goal line.

Elway's two other TD throws were a 6-yarder to tight end Clarence Kay and a 29-yarder to rookie wide receiver Vance Johnson.

After a Rich Karlis field goal, the Broncos went on top 10-0, capitalizing on pass-interference and off-sides penalties against the Oilers. Sammy Winder's 1-yard run produced the TD.

Early in the second period, Tony

Illinois chosen for auto assembly unit

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. and Mitsubishi Motors Corp. announced today they have selected the twin Illinois cities of Bloomington and Normal for the site of a new $500 million auto assembly plant that will employ 2,500 people.

The formal announcement at a news conference at Chrysler headquarters in Highland Park, Mich., ended a four-state rivalry to lure the factory.

Earlier, Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca telephoned Indiana Lt. Gov. John M. Mutz to tell him that the plant would not be built in Indiana, considered Illinois' major competitor for the factory, said Mark Akers, a spokesman for Mutz.

Ohio and Michigan had also been in the running, but Michigan recently withdrew from the competition.

The plant, to be located on an 860-acre site just west of Bloomington and Normal, would employ 2,500 and create 8,000 more new jobs in related fields, though all the 8,000 jobs would not necessarily be in Illinois.

Each company will own 50 percent of the venture, named Diamond-Star Motors Corp. It will start with initial capital of $150 million, according to announcements at Chrysler headquarters.

Diamond Star's chairman will be G. Glenn Gardner, a general manager at Chrysler, while Yoichi Nakane, a general manager at Mitsubishi, will be president and chief executive officer, Mitsubishi added.

Iacocca and Mitsubishi President Toyoo Tate said in a joint statement, "Bloomington-Normal has all the requisites for an outstanding assembly plant including modern air, rail and highway transportation, a superior education system, many cultural advantages, a good labor climate and a favorable tax base."

Construction was expected to begin next spring. The Mitsubishi-designed two-door and four-door cars with a 1.8-liter or 2-liter Japanese-made engine should start to roll off the lines in late 1988.

The plant would use computerized industrial robots to build 180,000 small cars a year, pumping an estimated $100 million a year into the local economy, officials said. They said all of central Illinois could benefit, especially western areas.

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR James R. Thompson, with members of the Mitsubishi-Chrysler negotiating team Jay Hedges, top, and Mike Woelfer, bottom, board a plane Monday in Chicago for Bloomington to participate in an announcement by Chrysler Corporation and Mitsubishi Motors Corporation that the central Illinois city has been selected as the site of a new automotive plant.

Tax board election set

City Councilmen are scheduled to nominate a representative to the Howard County Tax Appraisal District board of directors when they meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers at City Hall.

After all county taxing entities make their nominations, County Clerk Margaret Ray will prepare a ballot for the election of directors to the board. The city has 664 votes it can cast for members; votes are assigned proportionately, according to the tax base of each entity.

Councilmen also will consider a resolution adopting the Texas Water Plan, Propositions 1 and 2 on the Nov. 5 ballot for constitutional amendments. In addition, they will consider housecleaning amendments to the junked vehicle ordinance and will conduct a public hearing on its assessment paving ordinance.

Councilmen will discuss billing procedures in the municipal water office and listen to a presentation by Jack Powers.

In addition, the council will award bids on chemicals used at the city's water and wastewater treatment plants. City purchasing agent Leonard Hadley recommended that the council rebid four of the chemicals.

The council also will award a bid for advertisement on its water bills.

Contest picks 15 winners

The Big Spring Fire Department Monday named 15 winners in its first fire prevention poster contest.

National Fire Prevention Week began Monday.

Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles said the department sponsored the contest for second and third graders this year to see what the children learned last year in the department's school education programs.

"Apparently, they picked up quite a bit," said Settles. "We were plumb tickled pink with the response we got." About 250 second and third graders participated, he said.

Firemen judged the posters on originality, colors and the message, he said. The posters will be on display throughout the week in a room at the Big Spring Mall across from the Henderson Hallmark store.

Third grade winners are: first place, Ryan Williams of Shirley Meier's class at Bauer Magnet School; second, Chandra Harrell of Sylvia Kerby's class at Kentwood Elementary School; and third, Kristi Birrell of Jeanette Harris' class at Marcy Elementary.

Students receiving honorable mentions in the third-grade competition are: Monica Tijerina of Harris' class at Marcy; Trey Terrazas of Kerby's class at Kentwood; Holley Armstrong of Meier's class at Bauer; Jaime Palacios of Jane Gill's class at Moss Elementary; and Joe Gonzales of Clovie Shirey's class at Moss.

Second grade winners are: first place, Emily Ziebell of Charlotte Majors' class at Moss Elementary; second, Kristy Hooser of Carol Boyd's class at Kentwood Elementary; and third, Damian Puentes of Sandra Klatt's class at Bauer.

Five honorable mentions were given to second graders. They are: Felix Chavarria of Halena Nichols' class at College Heights Elementary; Xavier Zapata of Judy Everett's class at Marcy; Wesley Thoman of Boyd's class at Kentwood; Heather Mills of Marilyn Woodall's class at Kentwood; and Janet Rhoads of Woodall's class at Kentwood.

Government faces 'financial emergency'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government opened for business today with its line of credit gone and Congress unable to approve new borrowing because of a Senate tangle over a budget-balancing amendment.

The Senate held its first Sunday meeting in nearly three years and, despite a third straight day of prodding from President Reagan, refused to choke off debate and make a decision on a plan to eliminate deficits by fiscal 1991. The amendment is a proposed addition to the bill raising the national debt above $2 trillion.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., said he would continue to press for the balanced-budget amendment, even if it began to disrupt government finances.

"This is probably the last chance we'll have here for a couple of years to deal with the deficit and we shouldn't let it go by," Dole said, refusing Democratic requests for short-term debt hike to allow time to review the budget-balancing plan.

Reagan, in a statement released from Camp David before Sunday's Senate session, called on the Senate to "seize this moment of opportunity."

The president warned that quick Congressional action was needed.

"By tomorrow (Monday), the federal government's cash balances will be virtually exhausted and we will be facing a financial emergency," Reagan said.

The government has already borrowed up to its limit of $1.824 trillion. The bill before the Senate would raise the limit to $2.078 trillion.

Treasury officials said late Friday that federal employee pay checks would be issued as scheduled today, that that would be the last major expenditure possible under the current debt ceiling.

However, White House spokesman Albert R. Brashear said Sunday he could not say what specific problems would be caused by failure to enact the debt limit measure.

The president's chief congressional liaison, Max Friedersdorf, said the administration would not ask for any short-term extension of the debt ceiling — an indication the White House, too, would keep the pressure on the lawmakers.

Sens. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., have offered a plan to gradually reduce deficits to zero by the 1991 fiscal year.

Their amendment calls for reducing deficits, now running at about $200 billion a year, by enforcing ceilings on overspending.

Congress and the president could use taxes or spending cuts, or a combination of both, to stay within red-ink limits. But if they failed, spending would be cut automatically, across-the-board, to meet the targets.

In a pair of votes Sunday, a solid majority of the Senate supported the amendment. But it failed to gain the two-thirds majority needed to limit the debate, mainly because of opposition from Democrats who say they want time to offer changes to make the cut-backs more fair.

"They want to raise taxes and cut defense — that's it," Dole said, protesting the delays.

But Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said he wanted to move with caution — compared to 1981, when lawmakers rushed to approve Reagan's economic program.

"In 1981, the folks back home said, 'He's a new president, give him a chance,'" Byrd said. "Well I gave him a chance and I've regretted it ever since."

Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., arrived to vote in gray tails with a white flower in his lapel — to the applause of his colleagues.

Fetuses buried en masse

EAST LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — The burial of 16,433 aborted fetuses referred to by President Reagan as "the innocent dead" has ended a three-year legal fight, but political and religious leaders who attended the memorial urged a renewed effort to outlaw abortion.

Color autopsy photographs of 42 of the fetuses were displayed on Sunday during the non-religious service at Odd Fellows Cemetery as six wooden coffins containing the fetuses were placed in three graves.
