Spring Board

How's that?

Rubble

Q. Where is the rubble from earthquakes and bomb disasters dumped?

A. Usually a temporary landfill site is created, and the rubble is crushed, bulldozed and covered up to eliminate health hazards, said city public works director Tom Decell. In the United States, government health officials help local officials create the landfill without going through the usual lengthy legal process, he said.

● The Big Spring Arts and Crafts Fest will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. today and 1-6 p.m. Sunday at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. No admission is charged.

Trial act in legal battle

AUSTIN (AP) — A longtime controversy between Texas defense attorneys and prosecutors appeared headed Friday for the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to decide if the Speedy Trial Act is constitutional.

The Waco Court of Appeals ruled on Thursday, by a 2-1 vote, that the law was unconstitutional.

Less than a month ago, the Fort Worth Court of Appeals said, by a 4-3 vote, the 1978 state law was legal.

"This is the showdown. It's headed for the big court," Steve Cappelle, executive director of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association, said Friday. "We now have conflicting decisions and that will make it get up there faster."

"This definitely will have to be settled by the Court of Appeals," said Louis Dugas, Orange, president of the Texas Criminal Defense Attorneys Association.

The district and county attorneys have contended since passage of the act that it favored defendants and their attorneys.

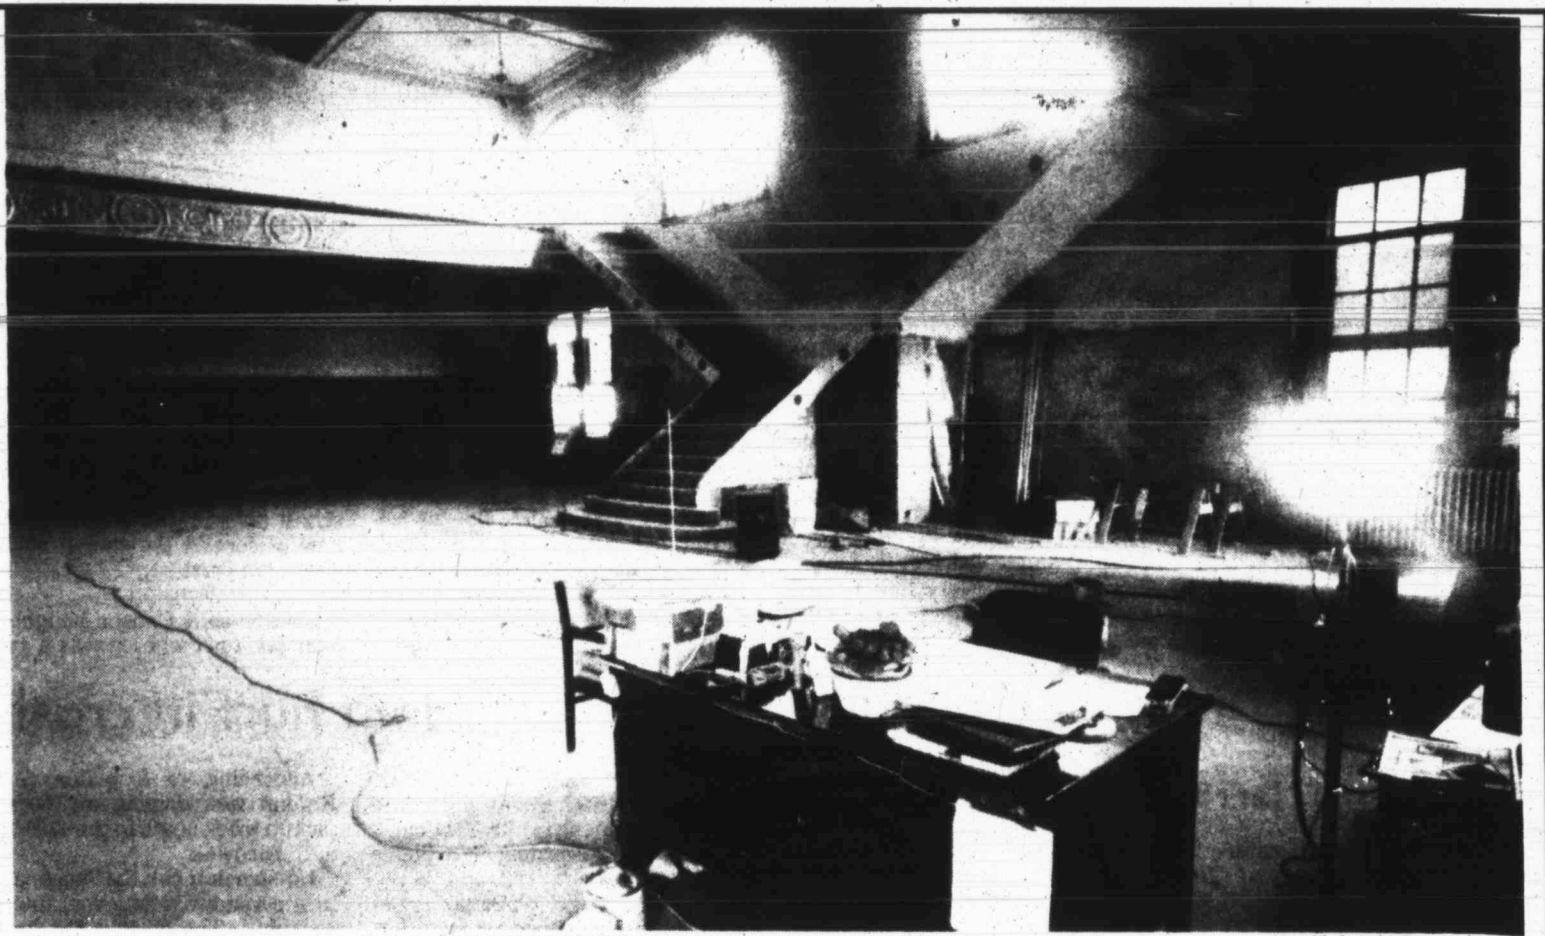

Defense attorneys claim the statute protects their clients from being kept in county jails for months and years before given a public trial.

Under the Speedy Trial Act prosecutors generally have 120 days after an indictment is returned to be ready to go to trial, or the indictment can be dismissed.

The 10th Court of Appeals in Waco said Thursday the law was unconstitutional because the bill that created it failed to give a fair warning of the new law's scope. All bills passed by the Legislature are required by the constitution to have a brief explanation or caption telling what subjects the bill covers.

A change in the constitutional requirement for a caption was approved by the 1985 Legislature but will not be voted on statewide until Nov. 4, 1986.

Dugas said most defense attorneys think the act is good legislation "if it was enforced right."

Officials support Settles

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Chamber and city officials Friday denied accusations of "lack of community support" for the renovation of the Hotel Settles.

San Antonio developer Gil Cuadra, whose MPG Management Inc. owns the hotel, said Thursday in a telephone interview that he was halting work on the Settles because of lack of community support and city planning.

City Manager Don Davis said Friday that he was "disappointed" in Cuadra's decision to halt work. "My hope is that we can get the thing resurrected," he said. He had not talked to Cuadra, he said.

Cuadra also complained that a consultant who appeared at a Chamber of Commerce steering committee meeting for revitalization of the downtown area was not hired by the committee or the city. The consultant had offered his services then, Cuadra said.

The consultant at that meeting was architect Joel Mills of San Antonio, who was serving as Cuadra's representative for the Settles.

Davis said the city had postponed a decision on hiring a consultant until the end of this month. At that time, a decision is expected on whether Big Spring will be chosen as one of five Main Street cities.

Under the Main Street program, the city for three years would pay the salary of an architect-urban planner, who would establish a revitalization plan for the downtown area. The city also would be able to call on the Main Street office in Austin for historical, architectural and research support.

"We have been working on revitalizing the downtown area," Davis said. In addition to the Main Street project, city administrative assistant Pat Hardy has worked with downtown merchants in the Heart of the City association to start its annual downtown festival.

Chamber of Commerce President Granville Hahn said the chamber and city and county groups had responded to the only specific request made to them by Cuadra.

"He asked us to raise money to hire an architect to revitalize downtown," Hahn said. The city, the chamber, Howard County and the Industrial Foundation raised $150,000 in three weeks to Settles page 2-A

Amendment gives legislators control of hospital districts

By JILL KHIEW

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Texas legislators would extend their jurisdiction over hospital districts if a constitutional amendment on the Nov. 5 bond election is passed.

As proposed by the Texas Legislature, Constitutional Amendment No. 5 reads: "The constitutional amendment to authorize the Legislature to regulate the provision of health care by hospital districts."

The proposal would give the Legislature the power to standardize health care services and to establish eligibility guidelines for free or reduced rate services statewide.

Rep. Jesse Oliver, sponsor of the Indigent Health Care package passed last summer, said the proposed amendment is a disguised attempt to cut back health care services and to reduce hospital districts' responsibilities.

"It is not necessary to have the constitutional amendment," said the Dallas Democrat, adding many hospital districts are doing their jobs in supplying indigent care services.

Hospitals have a responsibility to the poor, Oliver said. Passage of the amendment would remove the Texas Constitution's guarantee that hospital district health care be available to everyone regardless of ability to pay, he said.

Hospital districts usually are located in urban areas. The state constitution stipulates any hospital district created by law must "assume full responsibility for providing medical and hospital care for its needy inhabitants."

State Rep. Alan Schoolcraft, R-San Antonio, sponsor of the amendment, said the amendment would help protect hospital districts from future lawsuits arising from vague definitions of "needy" and "medical and hospital care."

"In a recession, we don't have enough money to take care of everybody, so we would need to prioritize who to serve and who not to," Schoolcraft said.

According to a House Study Group report, Schoolcraft's Bexar County Hospital District provides 53.2 percent of its services free.

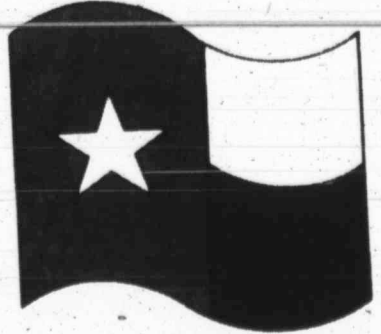

"Right now, the responsibilities of hospital districts are shrouded in uncertainty. The amendment would allow the Legislature to define exactly what is meant by needy and medical and hospital care," he added.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, agrees.

"The great complexity of health care finances and liabilities allow some definitions. The language in the constitution is too vague," he said.

But instead of amending the constitution, Oliver said the Legislature can clarify the range of medical services and eligibility standards by passing a statute.

On the ballot

This is one in a series on the proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution that will be on the ballot in the Nov. 5 statewide election.

Schoolcraft and Farabee agreed that setting a minimum health care standard would relieve hospital districts of some of their indigent health care responsibilities.

Parkland Memorial Hospital, owned by Dallas County Hospital District, sets its guidelines for free care at 150 percent of poverty-level income, according to a House Study Group report. The report also states that about 55 percent of the state's poor depend on hospital district services and that removing the guarantee could leave thousands without health care.

Bear in jail while owner up on animal cruelty charge

CRESTON, Iowa (AP) — She's bearing up under solitary confinement in the Union County lockup's exercise yard, but authorities hope they can find a new home soon for their most popular prisoner, a 200-pound female black bear.

"There's been a steady stream of sight-seers going by and taking photos," Sheriff John Coulter said Thursday in a telephone interview. "My chief jailer has fallen in love with the animal."

It took 10 police and sheriff's deputies to capture Bear Bear, a 3- or 4-year-old female who broke out of her cage Tuesday in Creston, about 55 miles southwest of Des Moines, and wandered the neighborhood.

"There were no injuries, but it was sure a three-ring circus," Coulter said. "The assistant chief was not too keen on getting close, my chief deputy sat in my car and stayed locked inside, one of the city police officers was using his coat to herd the bear toward the trailer and the bear turned on him."

"Finally, we get the squad cars lined up, and using some large pallets we forced it to the horse trailer and it got in."

"It's just like I told the sheriff," Assistant Chief Dean Jarman said. "I've been here 30 years and this is the first bear hunt I've ever been on."

Coulter said the bear's cage was filthy and the animal apparently had no food or water. Its owner, Roger Clauser, has been ordered to appear in court Monday on a charge of cruelty to an animal.

Two telephone calls Thursday to his home for comment were unanswered.

For the moment, Bear Bear seems content to dwell in the exercise yard and munch dog food laced with liver, carrots and apples. "We're just hoping we're not going to have her too long," Jarman said.

"We are under the impression from the last conversations with the owner that they'd like it back," Coulter said. "I don't know what we're going to do. I'd rather see it placed in a zoo where it can have professional care."

The Des Moines Zoo, however, is closed for remodeling, and the zoo in Omaha, Neb., says it has all the bears it needs. Coulter said he hopes he can persuade the Omaha zoo to keep the animal until a permanent home can be found.

He needs to get rid of the bear soon. Two prisoners in custody when the bear was captured are working out on exercise bikes indoors, but with the arrival of three new prisoners, the sheriff said he needs the yard.

Coulter said Clauser bought the bear for a pet when it was a cub.

The three face maximum sentences of 15 years and fines of up to $250,000. A sentencing date has not been set.

Settles

pay an on-site consultant and to apply for the Main Street program, he said.

Hahn said he had talked to Cuadra "for quite awhile," and Cuadra's main complaint had been lack of community support.

"We've accomplished what we've been asked to do. I don't know what his problem is," Hahn said. "I think his problem is the fact that we don't have parking and the bus station moved and everything done to really redo the Settles."

"I can't say that I blame him (for stopping work on the hotel renovation) but I haven't been asked to do anything," Hahn said.

He also said Cuadra had not stated any specific problem he wanted help in solving. "I told him more money can be raised when it is necessary, when we have a specific request. He said he was just going to put it on hold for a while. I said it was okay with me."

Hahn and Troy Fraser, who is chairman of both the Downtown Steering Committee and the Industrial Foundation, said if Big Spring were not selected as a Main Street city, they would hire an outside consultant then.

"It's everyone's opinion that we try to do it through Main Street first. Main Street has worked every time. There's no reason to go to an outside consultant until we get the advice of the people who have gone and revitalized Kerrville, Granbury, Georgetown and other cities," Hahn said.

Reacting to Cuadra's complaint that he had spent $100,000 on the project, Hahn said that was only a fraction of "what needs to be spent on the Settles to turn it into the mecca it used to be." Architects had estimated renovating the Settles into a first-class hotel would cost $3 million. "One hundred thousand dollars — hell, we raised $150,000," Hahn said.

Hahn said Cuadra stands to gain a lot personally from the redevelopment of downtown. "I told him I think you're great. But $100,000 does not put the city in a position where it is forced to do anything," he said.

Fraser said he told Cuadra Friday he needed to have more patience. "We have a game plan. We're just in a holding pattern now for a few more weeks," he said.

"Gil's just wanting to see a full commitment from the city. I don't know how the city could be more committed. Don Davis and Pat Hardy are committed to this, and they've spent a lot of time on it," Fraser said. "I think he's just looking for reassurances from the city that it's committed to revitalizing downtown."

Fraser said he had reassured Cuadra of the city's commitment Friday.

He also said no one from the city or the Downtown Steering Committee attended the Main Street seminar in Austin because it was an informational meeting on how to apply for a grant and to get community support. "We had already applied for a grant," Fraser said.

However, he said he visited Brenham, a Main Street City, last week and talked to the city manager and the Main Street representatives. "They told us we were so far ahead of the Main Street schedule. We already had support and a committee."

"Gil just wants to go a little faster than what we are able to go," Fraser said.

Martin County grand jurors hand down 18 indictments

STANTON — A Fourth of July assault and shootout in Stanton resulted in five indictments handed down by Martin County grand jurors following their meeting Thursday in the county courthouse.

Jurors returned 18 indictments against 14 defendants during their all-day meeting, said Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders.

Robert Morris, assistant district attorney for the 118th District District, said the incidents began early July 4 when Thomas Gonzales, age unknown, of Stanton hit Emilio Hinojosa in the head with a piece of wood.

"This sparked the Hinojosa-Gonzales feud," Morris said.

Thomas Gonzales was indicted by grand jurors on assault with intent to inflict serious bodily injury, Morris said.

Later the same night, Morris said, a pickup driven by Joe Hinojosa and passenger Lupe Hinojosa parked in front of the Gonzales residence and exchanged gunfire with Omar Gonzales and Joe Gonzales.

All four people involved in the shootout were each indicted on an assault with a deadly weapon charge. All four were from Stanton; ages were unavailable.

The grand jury's decision to issue indictments was influenced by testimony that an innocent bystander was injured in the shootout.

Jurors also indicted: Pat Perez, age not available, of Stanton; on two counts of theft.

Jeffrey Young, age not available, of Stanton; on burglary of an empty housing unit on June 7.

Jerry Hinojosa, 17, of Stanton; on burglary of a motor vehicle occurring on Aug. 23.

"He stole an ice chest with beer from a pickup," Morris said.

LeeRoy Harris, age not available, of Odessa; on four counts of forgery by passing.

James Molinar, 33, of Midland; on a felony charge of driving while intoxicated.

Charles Rhodes, age not available, of Knott; on theft.

Jack Mendenhall, age not available, of Dallas; on theft.

"He stole a sign from a former used car lot in Stanton and though requested to do so, he has not returned it," Morris said.

Nathaniel Hudson, 34, of Odessa; on forgery by passing.

Jurors passed on two cases, Saunders said.

Suspect kept silent

SALT LAKE CITY — The chief suspect in a pair of fatal bombings tried to make a statement Friday from the hospital bed where he lay seriously injured from an accidental blast, but his lawyer stopped him, authorities said.

Mark Hofmann had made the request early Friday and defense attorney Ronald Yengich had advised his client against the move after a nurse told the lawyer that Hofmann asked her for a tape recorder, said Deputy Salt Lake County Attorney Bud Ellett.

Hofmann, seriously injured Wednesday when a bomb blew up his parked car, has been identified as the prime suspect in two separate bombings Tuesday that killed a Mormon bishop and the wife of another Mormon bishop. He has not been arrested or charged.

Six shot at game

DETROIT — A teen-ager opened fire with a shotgun during halftime at a high school homecoming football game Friday, wounding six other youths, police said.

The gunman, who had apparently been involved in a fight at Murray-Wright High School earlier in the day, fled the scene following the 4:15 p.m. shootings during halftime at the game, said police Sgt. Daniel Carr.

Protesters punished

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — A Vietnam War-era disciplinary committee, revived in response to protests against apartheid, has placed 10 Harvard students on the equivalent of probation for barricading a South African diplomat in a building last spring.

But the action clears the way for three of the students, scheduled to graduate last May, to receive their diplomas, the chairman of the Committee on Rights and Responsibilities said Friday. None of the students was identified in the report.

Liberty coins minted

WEST POINT, N.Y. — Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III switched a press into motion Friday to strike the first Statue of Liberty $5 gold commemorative coin at the U.S. Bullion Depository here.

The minting launched a new phase in the private campaign to raise money for the restoration and upkeep of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island. Immediately after the West Point striking, Baker telephoned the U.S. Assay Office in San Francisco where officials struck the first Statue of Liberty silver dollar and cupronickel half dollar on Friday.

Artificial heart

HERSHEY, Pa. — A man whose heart was expected to give out within hours became the first human recipient Friday of the Penn State artificial heart, which doctors hope will keep him alive until a human donor is found.

The heart, with a new design intended to reduce the danger of blood clots and intended only as a bridge to a human transplant, was implanted in Anthony Mandia of Philadelphia during a nearly five-hour operation at Hershey Medical Center, a spokesman said.

Chrysler, UAW recess talks to end strike

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Talks aimed at settling a nationwide strike against Chrysler Corp. recessed for the weekend with no agreement Friday, and the union's president said the two sides were "still far apart" on key issues.

Suppliers, meanwhile, began laying off employees, and dealers worried about running short of cars and parts as the walkouts by 70,000 U.S. and 10,000 Canadian autoworkers stretched through a third day.

United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber said the issues included profit sharing, job security and "full economic parity" with workers at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. The union has also sought Chrysler concessions on parts subcontracting.

Bieber also put new emphasis on a demand he hasn't mentioned since last summer, which he defined as "something special." He gave no details, but union officials said the reference was to a large lump payment.

Chrysler chief negotiator Thomas Miner told reporters after Bieber's news conference that, "We provided jobs for 25,000 of them who were laid off and I think that's doing a pretty good job." However, Miner said he expected to come to terms with the union on that issue.

Members of the United Auto Workers union march on a picket line in front of Chrysler Corp.'s Highland Park, Mich., headquarters Friday afternoon as hundreds of other workers line up to collect what may be their last paycheck for a while.

Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca noted the strike in his comments Friday at a ceremony in West Point, N.Y., held to mark the striking of a new coin in honor of the refurbished Statue of Liberty.

Iacocca, who chairs the statue campaign, called the New York gathering "the second ceremony involving a strike this week. The first one didn't turn out too well."

Negotiators in Toronto planned to continue meeting over the weekend in hopes of ending the separate Canadian walkout.

The UAW had scheduled a meeting of its 170-member Chrysler Council of local leaders from around the nation Saturday in Huntsville, Ala. The council considers tentative contracts and has the job of selling them to rank-and-file members.

The union had said the Alabama meeting would be a strike strategy session if there was no agreement.

"It is best to recess these discussions now," Bieber said. "We will go to the council meeting, make our report and return here Monday afternoon."

"... We need something special here that reflects the sacrifices that our members, the Chrysler workers, made during the lean years in Chrysler," Bieber said.

Crew recounts hijacking incident

ROME (AP) — The hijackers of the Achille Lauro forced the ship's hairdresser and a waiter to throw Leon Klinghoffer's body into the sea, Italian newspapers reported Friday.

Joaquim Pineiro da Silva, 27, was quoted in Corriere della Sera, Italy's largest newspaper, as saying that two hijackers held an automatic rifle to his back and threatened to kill him and the hairdresser, Ferruccio Alberti, if they did not obey.

"So Ferruccio and I picked up the old American by the armpits and turned him around," he said. "He was all covered with blood, so much that we couldn't figure out where he was hit. We picked him up. He was already almost cold."

"I wish I could cry, but I can't," da Silva, a Portuguese citizen, said.

The newspaper said the waiter gave the account in an interview after the cruise ship returned Wednesday night to Genoa, its home port in northern Italy. Il Lavoro di Genoa carried a similar story.

Prosecutor Dolcino Favi, an investigating magistrate from Sicily, said Thursday there was no doubt that the four pirates killed the 69-year-old New Yorker, who was confined to a wheelchair.

Klinghoffer's body drifted ashore in Syria on Monday and was brought to Rome for an autopsy. Officials said after the seven-hour examination that he was killed by gunfire.

"I repeat again, certainly the union wants very much to find a solution as quickly as possible to end this strike," he said. "I believe the company shares that attitude."

"We have some very difficult items yet before us, and it's a question of whether or not and how soon we can find the answers to those problems."

The layoffs in the supplier network came so quickly in part because Chrysler buys more of its parts from outside suppliers than the other major carmakers.

Lebanese peace talks

DAMASCUS, Syria — Presidents Hafez Assad of Syria and Amin Gemayel of Lebanon met Friday to discuss an accord by Lebanese militia leaders aimed at ending the civil war which has torn their country apart for the past decade.

In Beirut, Prime Minister Rashid Karami called for Syrian peacekeeping troops to return to the Lebanese capital.

Both Assad and Gemayel kept their silence going into the meeting at the Mohajerine Palace in Damascus.

Two bombs exploded three minutes apart Friday night in front of Socrates restaurant in Moslem west Beirut, killing at least five people and wounding 12, police reorted. They said that did not know who planted the bombs.

Bomb injures 20

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland — A bomb exploded in a parked van at a shopping center Friday night, injuring at least 20 people and causing extensive damage, police said.

It appeared to be the worst bombing in Northern Ireland this year.

Police in Londonderry, the second largest city in the British province, had begun clearing the area after an anonymous telephone call warned a bomb would explode. Several of the injured were policemen, according to a police statement. The condition of the injured was not immediately known.

Mobs riot in S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Angered by the execution Friday of a black man convicted of killing a policeman, black mobs overwhelmed police in downtown Johannesburg, beating up whites and smashing and looting shops for four hours.

It was the first time black mobs roamed unchecked through white Johannesburg. Witnesses at the scene said two policemen were stabbed, white men and women were beaten, and police shot at least one black man in the leg.

Arafat wants boycott

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia — PLO chief Yasser Arafat was quoted Friday as saying the United States is a "basic adversary" and the Arab nations should impose a commercial boycott against America.

Arafat, the head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, made the comments in an interview with the Saudi newspaper, Al-Sharq Al-Awsat.

Autobiography hailed

LONDON — Academy Award-winning actor Sir Alec Guinness wrote in his new autobiography that he suffers "nightmares of inadequacy." But the British press this week warmly applauded both the actor and his memoirs.

Novelist Anthony Burgess hailed the 225-page autobiography, "Blessings In Disguise," as "a marvelous Guinness record ... of a great period in the British theater."

Charles, Diana set record straight in TV interview

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Diana, appearing Sunday in their first television interview since their 1981 marriage, intend to set the record straight about some of the "remarkable stories" written about them, Buckingham Palace said.

The commercial Independent Television network, which taped the 45-minute interview, said in a press release the royal couple, "speak candidly about their personal interests and concerns, their public image, their family life and what people say about them."

The program also will benefit the heir to the throne's favorite charities. Profits from broadcast and newspaper rights to the interview and a book version of it are to go to the Prince of Wales' Charities Trust, the fund from which Charles makes donations.

The ABC network in the United States and Channel 7 in Australia were the first to buy rebroadcast rights, both for undisclosed sums.

Various newspapers and magazines worldwide have published claims that Queen Elizabeth II is jealous of her daughter-in-law's popularity; that Charles believes in ghosts and is under the influence of mystics; that Diana suffered from anorexia nervosa and spends fortunes on clothes; that the couple can't agree on music because he likes opera and she favors Duran Duran.

For your gardens

Compost pile

Rather than burning leaves or hauling them to the dump this fall, why not use them for a compost pile? The resulting compost will provide a good source of organic matter for potted plants, for top-dressing the lawn, and for rebuilding up the soil in flower beds and shrub borders.

There are many ways of composting leaves and other vegetable matter, but the simplest method is to alternate four-to-six-inch layers of vegetable matter such as leaves, grass, etc. with two to four inches of good garden soil. If available, manure can be added to the soil layer to good advantage. The compost pile should be four to six feet wide and any desired length depending on material and space available.

Sprinkle a commercial fertilizer on each layer of vegetable matter to hasten decomposition, using about 1/2 pound, or one cupful, or any good commercial fertilizer with a 1-1-1 ratio of 10 square feet.

The top layer of the compost pile should be soil and the surface of the pile should be dish-shaped forming a basin to hold water. Each layer of organic matter should be watered thoroughly before adding the soil layer. This is especially true when composting leaves as they can be extremely slow to decompose if too dry. The pile should be watered thoroughly when completed and additional water should be added as needed to keep the material moist but not soggy.

Turn or mix the compost with a garden fork or shovel every three to four months to speed up the process as it aerates the material. It should be ready to use in six months to a year. The use of commercially available compost activators will reduce the time required for decomposition only if used according to directions.

Well prepared compost can be utilized anywhere peat moss is used and is an excellent way to dispose of garden debris, leaves and similar organic material.

STORING SEEDS — LEFTOVER OR FRESH

Every gardener worth the title has a few packets of flower or vegetable seeds left from spring and summer plantings, or they may have collected seeds from their own or from their neighbor's plants.

Although old seed often has a lower germination rate as well as reduced vigor, especially if left in a hot shed or storage area, the temptation is to try to save it for next year. Proper storage can greatly increase the shelf life of many seeds.

The seed should be air-dry before placing in the tightly sealed containers. Seeds last longer if held in a refrigerator or other cool area at a temperature range of 35 to 50 degrees F.

When collecting seeds from garden plants, remember that many of the new improved varieties are hybrids and will seldom come true. The offspring of these hybrids may have little or no resemblance to the parent plant.

Fish, seafood month

Fish and Seafood Month is the perfect time to enjoy fish meals that are both nutritious and tasty.

Seafood provides protein, vitamins and minerals and has the extra advantage of having low levels of fat and cholesterol.

Fish also fits well into today's active lifestyle. Seafood cooks quickly, requiring little time in the kitchen. It can be poached and served with a low-calorie sauce, broiled and basted with melted butter or margarine and lemon juice, baked in a casserole or breaded and fried.

For good eating and good nutrition, try some fish or seafood this month.

TEXAS SEAFOOD MAKES GOOD EATING:

The state of Texas, long a leader in agricultural production, now ranks fourth among states in the production of seafoods. Texas shrimp, crab, fish and oysters are in plentiful supply now. Treat yourself and your family to Texas fish products prepared at home. Request your free set of seafood recipe cards by writing Seafood Recipes, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, P.O. Box 158, Port Aransas, Texas.

COUNTING THE NUTRIENTS IN FISH:

Fish and shellfish are foods nutritionists call "nutrient dense." That is, they generally offer a wealth of nutrients as compared with the fat and calories they supply. For example, a 3 1/2 ounce cooked portion of just about any kind of white fish offers about one-third of an adult's Recommended Dietary Allowance for protein, yet it contains a small amount of fat and has less than 100 calories.

FAT AND SODIUM IN FISH:

The amount of fat and calories in fish go hand in hand. Fatter fish — meaning a higher oil content — include herring, mackerel, trout, catfish, sardines, tuna and salmon. In general, the darker the color of the flesh, the higher the fat content.

Shellfish, snapper, drum, cod, sole, flounder, haddock, halibut and other white finfish are low in fat. However, the level of fat in all fish is not always constant. Some species put on more in the summer and fall than at other times. The fat content of certain fish may be as much as 4 times higher in summer than in winter.

But the primary source of fat calories in fish is the butter, margarine, oil, sauces or breaded and fried coatings we add when cooking. For example, a breaded, fried fish fillet may have 4 or 5 times more calories than the white fish broiled alone.

Canned fish packed in oil has double the calories and more than five times the fat of the same fish packed in water. Even though water-packed fish is lower in calories, it's usually not lower in sodium. Both oil-packed and water-packed versions are high in sodium chloride, or salt.

A large portion of the salt that is added in processing can be removed by rinsing and draining the fish in a sieve or colander. Rinsing will not remove the other valuable nutrients.

Some manufacturers have begun to eliminate salt by offering tuna with about half the sodium. If you're on a low-sodium diet, beware of smoked or dried fish because it is preserved with salt.

Former Stanton law officer opens manufacturing plant

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Howard County Industrial Park is the home of the community's newest manufacturing plant, C.J.'s Manufacturing, owned by Chuck James.

James, a Stanton resident, opened C.J.'s the first week of September and travels to dealers all over the county, selling his custom built boat and oil well trailers.

He also manufactures pontoon boat trailers and does any type of agriculture and oil field equipment repair, he said.

His boat trailers, called "Gee-Haw" trailers, have a combination of three trailer features: the center boat drop, the spare tire-bolt drop and an acrylic enamel finish. The trailers have an extra set of rear lights, which are submergeable, he said.

James also builds his own axles and winch posts, he said, and most trailers come with chrome rims.

The trailer supports the boat's full length with two braces on either side.

C.J.'s sells only to dealers, but James said individuals can purchase custom-made trailers through the Boat House of Midland, H&K of Odessa, Steve Crane and the Lamesa boat dealer.

Customer Dave Jones of Co-Exx Pipe said C.J.'s trailers were "a lot better than what you normally get" because of their heavy construction and neat workmanship. "It's built for the oil field," Jones said.

C.J.'s opened the first week of September, and business has been "fair," James said. He said the company needs a sales representative.

Before opening a manufacturing plant, James was a Howard County deputy sheriff and a Stanton police officer. He is now a Stanton constable.

Opinions sought about building a second Big Spring prison

Last week I asked for comments and opinions, pro and con, of having a second federal prison in Big Spring. The responses have come in well — approximately 55 by mail and phone in a week. You still have a few days to write or call. It is important that we have this indication from the citizenry to show the federal prison site selection director and Congressman Charles Stenholm's aides who will be here Wednesday and Thursday. Write me today at Box 2271.

We are now compiling a "fact" sheet about the proposed prison, which will be released to all the news media as soon as it is finished. This can be a real shot in the arm economically: a $250 million facility to be built; a $10 million yearly payroll; 250 jobs.

Meanwhile our application for the Main Street project is being considered for a final decision the end of this month. Pat Hardy put the application proposal together for the city and did an outstanding job of "telling and selling" our story. He was commended for having submitted the best compiled, most complete application of all the towns applying.

Sixteen Texas communities with populations under 50,000 have applied for a designation as 1986 Main Street cities. They are: Ballinger, Big Spring, Daingerfield, Floresville, Greenville, Kaufman, Mount Pleasant, Palestine, Pampa, Pittsburg, Port Lavaca, San Juan, San Marcos, Temple, Terrell and Wharton.

A good suggestion recently came in the mail anonymously: "I think it would be a good idea to proclaim a week to honor our local police and sheriff's and other law enforcement officers...just to show appreciation...have a reception in a central location spanning a time period to enable people to stop by during the day...have the mayor declare it law enforcement week, present plaques in a little ceremony." What do you think? Is there any group who would like to sponsor this as a special project?

Quick Takes:
• Dr. Carroll Moore and his family will be moving to Amarillo Oct. 30.
• Candidate for State Court of Criminal Appeals, Preston Dial, will be in Big Spring for a reception Oct. 23 at 4:30 p.m. at the District Courtroom.

Next week, the Oklahoma State Department of Corrections will send several representatives to tour the prison to learn from their operations and management.

Granville Hahn has just been named to the Texas A&M Advisory Board for the Plastics Technology Program. They recognized that Granville is one of the foremost authorities and researchers in the field of plastics technology.

In a recent edition of the Dallas Morning News on the editorial page was an article about Big Spring having the first fire truck in Texas.

Congressman Stenholm's district includes 35 counties, and he has visited in 28 of these at least once this year.

• John Dabbs is the new manager of the Country Club.

Malone-Hogan Hospital's Department of Wellness has several corporate workshop programs that can be conducted at the company site. Special programs, tailored to the needs of particular groups, are available at a group discount rate. These programs may include educational programs involving behavior modification, practical techniques that produce long-lasting results and are affordable to individuals or companies. Call Craig Brace at 263-1211.

Another "How to Sell What You Write" workshop will take place Oct. 26 at 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. for writers. The fee is only $6, which includes lunch and materials. Dr. Robert Ruchstein shows how to write, edit and publish material. Call 367-2330 for reservations.

Women and the New Texas Laws is a free workshop being offered at the UTPB Women's Center Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Attorney Melissa Hirsch will explain the new laws that deal directly with women's issues or are of great importance to women. It's in Room 469, UTPB.

Steel executives get vast profits while their communities suffer

When fog prevented my plane from landing as planned in South Bend, Ind., Gary was the best alternative. I arrived at 6:45 a.m., jumped into a taxi and headed off through Gary to my original destination, 60 miles away.

Gary was like an old Colorado mining town. At least half of the houses we passed were boarded up, and half of the stores were out of business. When we came to Route 1-90, the Indian Tollway, a massive U.S. Steel plant emerged out of the gloom. Yet smoke belched from only a few of the stacks.

As we drove by, my driver commented in a flat tone that only one of the 13 furnaces was operating. Most steelworkers, he said, were heading for Wisconsin. I expressed surprise. He quickly explained that welfare in Wisconsin runs $600 per month, compared to a paltry $200 per month in Indiana. (Many of these people, he pointed out, had been out of work since 1978.)

He told me he was a workaholic, but he could not stand being in a steel plant. (His only job in a plant had driven him to quit in just three weeks.) He acknowledged that, when the plants had been open, the money there was good. But he needed the open spaces of the road.

He loved trucks, he said. As a truck driver for a major firm, he had washed his engine regularly, and had shampooed the rug in the driving compartment, too. That career ended when he was fired in the late 1970s, at the start of Gary's decline. He did not quit, however. He drove cabs and local quick-delivery trucks — whatever was available. He scratched out a living.

I sat back, my neck stiff from leaning forward to chat. I picked up the day's Chicago Tribune — Sept. 27, 1985. The lead story in the business section reported that Inland Steel had failed to pay a dividend for the first time in 51 years. Inland's quarterly loss was $50 million on nearly $800 million in sales. Polled financial analysts were concerned; they noted that, until then, almost all of the big steel companies had religiously maintained dividends, even in the face of enormous and continuous losses.

Reading about Inland Steel, I felt a tide of potential radicalism sweep over me. It crossed my mind that some of the big steel managers ought to be tried for criminal negligence. Gary is a virtual ghost town, with a collapsed infrastructure. Yet big steel had, at best, offered benign neglect. Examples:

• Item: Big steel maintains dividends through crisis and mounting losses. (Keep those shareholders happy.)
• Item: U.S. Steel spent billions to acquire Marathon Oil, while not retraining its current work force to a significant degree.

• Item: Business Week reports that U.S. Steel executives are still served their morning coffee on silver platters by white-coated stewards — on the 61st floor of the company's plush Pittsburgh headquarters.

Randall M. McNallen, a Big Spring High School graduate, was recently elected commercial loan officer for Frost National Bank of San Antonio, according to a news release. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T.R. McNallen.

Steers lose, 46-27

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

MIDLAND — The Big Spring Steers and the Midland Lee Rebels got together for a little football Friday night at Midland's Memorial Stadium. Two hours and forty-six minutes, 4,016 yards and 73 points later, Lee had taken a 46-27 victory into the locker room.

Some of the individual highlights included Big Spring quarterback Carl Speck's 19 of 26 completions for 312 yards and three touchdowns, and Lee's sophomore sensation Joe Woodard's 206 yards on 12 carries and touchdown runs of 75, 20 and three yards. Lee wide receiver Dexter Traylor caught all six Rebel passes for 140 yards and one touchdown.

The game had an acute case of schizophrenia: the first half dominated by rugged defense and low scoring, the second half a scoring parade of Macy's Thanksgiving Day proportion.

Lee got on the scoreboard first midway through the first quarter on a 59-yard drive that ended with tailback Rodney Sims going over from three yards out. The PAT attempt was short, leaving the score 6-0.

Following fifteen minutes of defensive stalemate, Big Spring put together a fine drive in the second half and was threatening to score when Speck's fourth down pass at the Lee 25 was broken up.

Lee took over at its own 20, following a procedure penalty, and drove the ball 80 yards for its second touchdown of the game. Lee used over six minutes in the drive, grinding out five first downs,

Buffs slaughter Sands, 63-0

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

ACKERLY — A word of warning to District 7-A South Zone members: The Forsan Buffaloes are taking no prisoners. Just ask the Sands Mustangs.

The Buffaloes racked up their seventh consecutive win as they steamrolled by the Mustangs, 63-0, last night in 7-A South Zone action. It was Forsan's fifth shutout and their second consecutive game to score 60 points or better. To say the Buffs looked awesome would be an understatement.

They did whatever they wanted to do in the game against the game, but undermanned, Sands squad. It was no contest from the start as the Buffalo offense rolled with authority and the defense played with vengeance. In fact, it seemed like one half of the Buff team was trying to outdo the other.

The Buff offense racked up 306 yards while scoring seven touchdowns. The Buffalo defense limited Sands to a mere 78 yards total offense while scoring two TDs themselves.

Forsan's offense dominated, led by sophomore quarterback Brant Nichols, who tossed two TD passes, and running backs Bruce Strickland and Wayne Wright. It scored on seven of its 10 possessions.

The defense, led by the front five of Michael Self, Billy Massingill, Mike Averette, Lance Soles and Stacy Munoz, made life miserable for the Sands offensive unit. It allowed Sands only four yards total offense the entire second half. The Buffs' 'D' caused eight Sands turnovers, including five interceptions.

One of the few bright spots in the game for Sands came in the opening minutes of play. On Forsan's first possession, Larry Ybarra recovered Forsan receiver Lee Morris' fumble at the Sands 35-yard line.

But the Forsan defense held. On fourth down, Lance Soles roared through to block Sands' punt attempt. He also recovered on the Sands 22, setting up Forsan's first of many scores.

The drive took five plays before Soles got the scoring honors from his receiver spot. He caught a 3-yard look-in pass from Nichols. Strickland then added his first of six extra points. The Buffs led 7-0 with 5:15 left in the first quarter.

On their next possession, the Buffs scored in one play. This time Wright went in from 45 yards out. Strickland added the PAT to put the score at 14-0 with 2:51 left in the first period.

Nichols set up the third Buffalo score when he intercepted Jerry Long's pass and returned it 26 yards to the Sands 28. From there it took two plays. Wright got the honors from 26 yards out. The PAT put the score at 21-0 with 40 seconds left in the first quarter.

Another interception led to the fourth Forsan score. This time it was Brandy Bryan who picked off Long's aerial, returning it 25 yards to the Forsan 44.

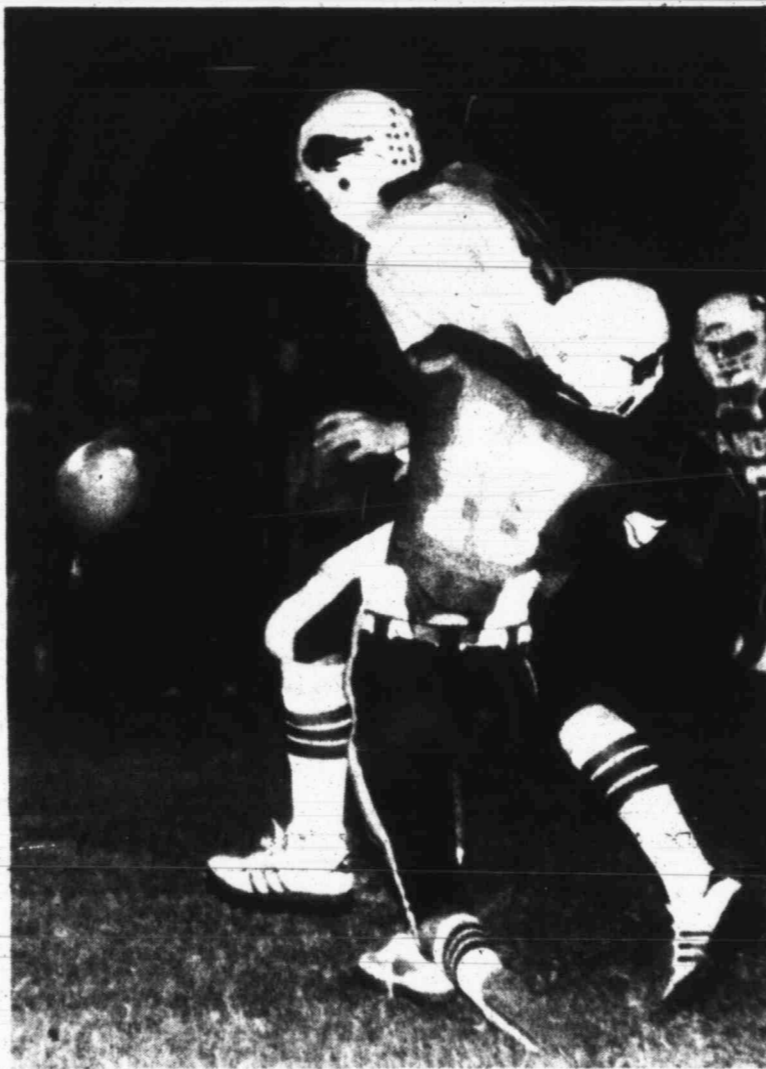

Again, it was a one-play scoring drive as Wright went 56 yards for the tally. The PAT failed and the Forsan lead was 27-0 with 10:07 left in the half.

Fumbleitis hit the Mustangs, setting up yet another Forsan score. After holding the Buffaloes on downs, Forsan had to punt for the first and only time of the game. Rodney McMillian recovered Lee Young's bobble at the Sands' 13.

But the Sands defense held tight with a good effort by Paul Martin. The Buffs had to settle for a 32-yard field goal by Strickland. The Buffaloes took a comfortable 30-0 lead into the locker room.

Turnovers plagued the Mustangs at the start of the second half. Following the opening kickoff, Soles recovered a Mustang bobble at the Forsan 19.

From there, it took the Buffs three plays to reach paydirt. Morris got the score on a 8-yard scoring pass from Nichols. Strickland's PAT gave the Buffs a 37-0 lead with 8:22 left in the third period.

The Forsan defense got into the scoring act for the next tally. Linebacker Jason Donaghe intercepted an attempted screen pass and waltzed 30 in yards in for the score. The PAT brought the Buffalo total to 44 with 6:44 left in the third period.

The next Forsan scoring drive went 36 yards in three plays. The big gainer was a 30-yard run by Strickland. McMillian scored from one yard out. The PAT gave Forsan a 51-0 lead with 3:36 left in the third period.

A turnover again set up Forsan's ninth score of the night. Linebacker Strickland intercepted Long's attempt and returned the ball 17 yards to the Sands 8. On the first play Michael Chandler scored. The try for two failed and the lead was now 57-0 with 50 seconds remaining in the third quarter.

The Forsan defense got the final score of the night in the fourth period. This time it was defensive back Morris intercepting Long's pass and returning it 8 yards for the TD. This put the final score at 63-0.

The win gives Forsan a 2-0 record in district play while Sands falls to 0-2 in district play and 3-4 overall.

World Series starts tonight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Vince Coleman, the major league base-stealing king, who missed the final three games of St. Louis' playoff victory over Los Angeles with an injured right leg, may return to the Cardinal lineup when the World Series opens Saturday night.

That could further enhance the Cardinals' chances because Kansas City must play without a designated hitter. Gone from the Royal lineup is veteran DH Hal McRae.

That means Frank White, who spent most of the season hitting fifth in the Kansas City batting order, will be in the cleanup spot behind George Brett, the latest recipient of baseball's "Mr. October" tag. White hit a career-high 22 home runs this season.

"I don't think it matters who's batting behind Brett. They'll pitch around George," said White, mindful that the next hitter is bound to see pitches in the strike zone.

Coleman, injured when the automatic tarp roller at Busch Stadium ran over his right leg prior to the fourth game of the National League playoffs, is making progress in his recovery from severe bruises to the lower part of his leg. "He is improving every day and is a possibility to play Saturday," Dr. Stan London, the Cardinal team physician said Friday after the NL champions arrived in Kansas City. "He took physical therapy treatment from trainer Gene Gieslmann yesterday in St. Louis and this afternoon at Royals Stadium."

St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said he would not decide on his lineup for the first game — set for 8:35 p.m. EDT on ABC — until the status of Coleman, the Cardinal leadoff batter and major league leader in stolen bases with 110, is known.

Coleman was scheduled to do some running and hitting before any decision would be made. But an unhealthy Coleman would not be a part of the lineup, Herzog said Friday.

"Let's put it this way, if there was a seventh game (against Los Angeles), he couldn't have played," Herzog said. "Using a gimpy Vince Coleman is like putting in a pitcher with a sore arm."

The forecast calls for speed and pitching — and occasional power — along with a gametime temperature in the low 60s and a 20-percent chance of rain.

The Royals' lineup, Manager Dick Howser said Friday, would be Lonnie Smith, Willie Wilson, Brett White, Jim Sundberg, Darryl Motley, Steve Balboni, Buddy Biancalana and pitcher Danny Jackson.

Facing them will be John Tudor,

21-8 for the Cardinals during the regular season with a tidy 1.93 earned run average. He was 1-1 against the Dodgers.

Making it a battle of left-handers will be Danny Jackson, 14-12 for the Royals with a 3.42 ERA. Jackson shut out Toronto 2-0 in the fifth game of the AL playoffs.

McRae is out because this is one of those "other" years, when the DH is tucked away following the American League playoffs. It'll be back next year.

McRae batted .259 with 70 runs bated in and 14 home runs in 1985, and .261 with three RBI against Toronto in the AL playoffs. White hit .249 with 69 RBI during the year and .200 with three RBI against the Blue Jays.

White's role in the fourth spot is vital because Herzog demonstrated in the NL playoffs a reluctance to pitch to the most dangerous batter on the opposing team. The Cardinals walked or pitched around Pedro Guerrero of the Dodgers in virtually every crucial situation.

Brett, who hit .348 with three home runs as the Royals beat Toronto in the AL playoffs and .335 with a career-high 30 home runs and 112 RBI during the regular season, figures to get the same treatment from his former manager.

COAHOMA — The Crane Golden Cranes slaughtered the Coahoma Bulldogs, 54-8, in the District 7-AAA game last night.

The first quarter was scoreless, and it looked like the whole game would remain so for Coahoma, until they scored with only 2:11 left in the fourth quarter.

The wins ups C-City's district mark to 2-0 and overall record to 4-3. Ozona falls to 0-2 and 1-6 overall.

It was a stout effort by the C-City defense as it held Ozona to minus 11 yards on the ground and 103 yards total offense. The Wolves secondary had a field day, picking off four Lion passes. Meanwhile Colorado City quarterback Mike Ligon had a banner night, completing 7 of 15 passes for 172 yards and two touchdowns.

The Wolves got the scoring started in the second quarter when Sammy Rivera scored from one yard out. Ligon scored the next TD in the period on a five yard run. C-City built up a 18-0 halftime lead when Ligon connected with wide receiver Michael Swan with a 70 yard scoring strike.

Sub-varsity football roundup

COAHOMA — The Crane Junior Varsity took a hard earned 35-24 victory over the Coahoma Junior Varsity using 29 unanswered points in the first half and then hanging on with a last minute interception return for a touchdown to pull out the victory Thursday afternoon.

After being held scoreless in the first half, the Bulldogs erupted for 24 straight points behind the running of Corey Storbakken and the passing combination of quarterback James White and Jimmy Kill. Storbakken got the Bulldogs on the board first in the third quarter on a four yard touchdown run that brought the score to 29-6. White connected on the first of two touchdown passes to King on in the third quarter on a six yard scoring toss. The loss brought Coahoma's record to 5-2 on the year.

Series

White is known more for his fielding and leadership than for his slugging.

"You know," White said, "you think of guys like Jim Rice, Jack Clark, Eddie Murray, Don Baylor hitting in those spots. I'm not that kind of hitter, but all I can do is what I'm asked and do it to the best of my ability."

"I've batted fourth. As a matter of fact, I've hit in every position in my career, and just because this is the World Series doesn't mean it's any different."

Howser said he has no problems with White batting out of his usual fifth spot.

"One year he broke the record for consecutive RBIs," the manager said. "He was a third-place hitter then. Brett was out of the lineup. So he's shown me he can hit in those situations."

"I don't think I've ever managed without the DH," Howser said. "Does he look forward to this extra challenge? 'I have no choice,' Howser said with a grin. Is it fair, he was asked, to have to go without the DH in the World Series after having had it all the way to this point?

"Whether it's fair or not, it's what's happening," he said. "Unfair is being called a loser because you're 0-11 in the playoffs," his career record before Kansas City turned it around and won the AL pennant in a seven-game series with Toronto.

"But we knew about this coming in. We'd like to have the DH because I'd like the people to be able to see Hal McRae. I understand the format, I don't particularly agree with it but we can live with it."

Herzog had a novel approach to the DH business, which has existed for more than a decade since the AL approved it and the NL did not.

"Why in the world we don't play American League rules in American League parks and National League rules in National League parks, I don't know," Herzog snapped.

The Series figures to come down to the Cardinals' speed — with or without Coleman — against the Royals' pitching, although both clubs can pop the ball out of the park.

"They get it done more than one way," Howser said. "People look at their 300 stolen bases. I look beyond that. I don't overlook it but I have to look beyond that."

"A good club doesn't always get on base... there's no question their speed makes them a good ballclub, but we're not going to overlook Jack Clark and all those other people."

"It's so easy to say, 'Keep 'em off base,' but we know that's not going to happen... a good club, when you don't get on base, you win with home runs," as the Cardinals did twice against the Dodgers, with Clark's three-run, ninth-inning homer on Wednesday the pennant-winning blow.

Stanton quarterback Kevin Glaspie (10) throws a pass while being rushed by Greenwood's Abel Mireles (86). Stanton won the game 21-6.

Rangers outshoot Stanton, 21-6

STANTON — The Greenwood Rangers put the clamp on Stanton's vaunted offensive machine and escaped from this West Texas town with a 21-6 victory.

The Rangers are 2-0 in District 8-2A play and 6-1 overall. Stanton Buffaloes, dropped to 1-1 in District 8-2A play and 3-4 overall.

The Rangers were led by defensive cornerback Steve Heyford who picked off three Kevin Glaspie aeri-als on the evening. He ran the last interception back 66 yards for a touchdown with 10:40 remaining in the contest. The point-after-touchdown kick by Chad Cottrell was good.

Greenwood scored first during the initial quarter when quarterback Chad Longley ran 2 yards in from the score. The score was set up by an Heyford interception who picked off the errant Glaspie pass at the Stanton 29. He returned it to the 13-yard line. The kick attempt by Cottrell was good following the score.

Stanton managed to get on the scoreboard in the second quarter when Glaspie ran from 1 yard out. The touchdown was set up when the Buffaloes pounced on a loose ball during a fourth down kick situation. The fumble recovery was made by cornerback Greg Barnhill. A pass play from Glaspie to Timmy Rose and a flea-flicker from Mark Gonzales to James Vidal had the Buffaloes knocking at the door.

However, the run attempt for two points following the Buffalo touchdown was unsuccessful.

Pats hope Grogan up to old tricks

By The Associated Press
Joe Walton hopes that Steve Grogan isn't up to his old tricks against his New York Jets.

"Grogan knows the Jets and he's had success against us," the Jets coach said of the veteran New England Patriots' quarterback. "He's had a lot of experience, so I'm sure it's going to help him when he faces us."

Grogan, who will be starting Sunday's National Football League game in place of the injured Tony Eason, has practically made it a career playing against the Jets and playing very well.

In his 11-year career, Grogan has victimized the Jets with two of his nine-300 yard passing games, 25 of his 140 touchdown passes and his best single-game completion percentage and rushing performance. Grogan has beaten the Jets 10 times in the 13 starts he's made against them.

"I don't think I move around as well as I did five or six years ago, but I'm not in a wheelchair," said Grogan.

Steers

minutes, taking the kickoff at their own 37-yard line. The Steers used hard running by fullback Charles White, who led the Steer rushers with 83 yards on 15 carries, and short passes from Speck to tailbacks Danny Williams and Phillip Matthews for a couple of first downs.

The drive was nearly snuffed at the Lee 41, but on fourth down and one, White blasted up the middle for the first down at the Rebel 35 with only forty seconds left on the clock.

On the next play, Speck dropped back to pass, eluded several Lee defenders and lobbed a perfect touchdown strike to flanker Brian Mayfield, who had slipped unnoticed into the end zone.

Colin Carroll's PAT was true and the Steers were very much in the game, trailing by only 12-7 at halftime.

The Steers opened the second half with a repeated performance of last week's third quarter fumbleitis. And it quickly put an end to any hope of a Big Spring upset.

Lee recovered their second-half kickoff, after a Steer return man coughed the ball up at the Big Spring 20. Woodard needed only one chance to put the ball in the end zone on a 20-yard scoring sweep that put seven more points on the board in less than 20 seconds.

Following the Lee kickoff, lightning struck a second time, when Matthews could not come up with Speck's option pitch on the second play from scrimmage, leaving the ball on the Steer 44-yard line.

After a first down that put the ball on the Big Spring 32, Lee executed a perfect halfback pass with Rodney Johnson hitting Traylor in the right flat for a touchdown that suddenly brought the score to 26-7 with 8:41 left in the third quarter.

Lee scored one more unanswered touchdown, on a Tvey Rankin 20-yard quarterback keeper, padding a comfortable 33-7 lead with under three minutes left in the third period.

Big Spring scored its first third-quarter points of the year on a 78-yard drive late in the period. The big play of the drive was Speck's 46-yard completion to split end Kim Anding, putting the ball at the Lee 20 yard line. After another Steer first down to the eight-yard line, White scored from three yards, leaving the score 33-13.

The Steers knocked on the Lee door again early in the fourth quarter but Rebel defensive back Terry Young picked off his second Speck aerial at the one-yard line to stop the drive.

Woodard then put on a one-man show, scoring on a beautiful 75-yard run and capping Lee's final scoring drive with a three-yard touchdown that put the Rebels well in front.

The Steers' played catch-up effectively in the fourth quarter, but there was not enough time to make up four touchdowns.

Speck engineered scoring drives of 77 and 70 yards late in the game with some impressive passing and running by a host of Steer receivers.

Randy Hayworth hauled in a 34-yard touchdown pass with 3:34 left. And White ran in the two-point attempt to make the score 40-21.

Speck found Matthews, who led all Steer receivers with six catches for 75 yards, on a swing pass and the junior scatback made several fifty moves on the way to a 15-yard touchdown, leaving the final score 46-27.

The loss dropped the Steers' record to 1-6 on the year and 0-4 in 4-5A. Lee raised their record to 5-2 and 3-1 in district play.
