Team meals

Q. Why was the Lady Steers volleyball team not taken out for a hot meal after winning the district championship? Instead, they were given sack lunches. A. According to athletic director Ron Logback, when games are distant, the teams usually eat on the bus in order to return earlier. If the game is closer, the team may eat out. Also, coaches are allowed a certain amount in their team's budget, which they may choose to spend on food or something else, Logback said.

McCotter said during the annual jail administration conference that he could eventually be cited for contempt of court if he doesn't follow the stipulations in the Ruiz vs. Procunier suit to end overcrowding at the Texas Department of Corrections. The agreement is full of "gotthat leave him very little chas" flexibility in handling the overflow of inmates, McCotter said.

"There are pages and pages of little gotchas and I can be held accountable. I can be held in contempt of court."

Following the Ruiz agreement, signed July 15, is no easy task, Mc-Cotter said.

That July 15 signing "is just the beginning," he said. "We are bound, tied and gagged by one of the most complex agreements I have ever seen." Reducing crowded conditions is imperative under the Ruiz agreement and to keep violence down in the TDC, McCotter said.

The prison management act, which accelerates the paroles of some inmates if TDC's population hits the 95 percent capacity mark, is helpful, he said. ## Australian city adopted by Big Spring

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Howard County Sesquicentennial Commission members agreed Wednesday to adopt a South Australian town as a sister city for the 150th anniversary of Texas Independence.

South Australia will celebrate its sesquicentennial anniversary of statehood in 1986, said commission chairman Wade Choate. Texas and the Australian state have agreed to become sister states for the celebration.

Selected as Big Spring's sister city is Woolmira, South Australia. Commission members said they planned to exchange letters to learn more about the town.

Lee Storey, a program officer for the state sesquicentennial commission, met with county commission members briefly about upcoming plans.

Each community will be in charge of creating its own local celebration, Storey said.

One of the major statewide events planned for next year is the wagon train trip, which has as a theme, "Circle Texas for the Past and Future," he said. The wagon train will not go through Big Spr-ing, but will travel through Midland and Lamesa on its 3,000-mile, six-month trek.

"Those original settlers braved everything," said Storey, whose great-great-great-grandfather came to Texas with Moses Austin. 'We're proud of our heritage. When people in Japan or other countries are asked to name three places in the United States, they say New York, L.A. and Texas."

Storey said officials estimate that $17 billion will be spent statewide from tourism next year. Currently, $14.5 billion is spent on tourism in Texas, he said.

Local projects include the renovation of the Municipal Auditorium, interviews with longtime Big Spring and Texas residents for an oral history project, and the creation of more historical markers for the county and Big Spring.

Also, the city will ring bells at Howard College, First United Methodist Church and St. Mary's Episcopal Church on six historic dates next year.

Dates for the bell-ringings are Jan. 1, to celebrate the beginning of the sesquicentennial; Feb. 19, anniversary of the first state governor taking office in 1946; March 2, the 150th anniversary of Texas' declaration of independence from Mexico; April 21, the anniversary of the 1836 Battle of San Jacinto; 4 July 4, for U.S. Independence Day; and Dec. 29, anniversary of the U.S. Congress' acceptance of Texas' state constitution in 1846.

The Heritage Museum is planning a walking tour of historic homes in Big Spring. In addition, the commission is asking civic organizations to use the Sesquicentennial logo on publications and tie events to the celebration. Newsletters or other items with the logo will be placed in a scrapbook by the commission

The Blue Blazers also are considering developing a 45-minute multi-media show on the Sesquicentennial.

Deficit soars to new record

government's main gauge of future economic activity rose a barely perceptible 0.1 percent in ptember as the country's trade deficit soared to a new record, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the trade deficit, the difference between imports and exports, surged to an all-time high of $15.5 billion in September, 57 percent higher than the August deficit of $9.9 billion.

The big jump came from a 21.8 percent surge in imports, which put them at a record high of $33.3 billion. Exports posted a much lower 1.8 percent increase, putting them at $17.7 billion, still below the level of last March.

The big jump in the trade deficit combined with the weak perfor-mance of the Index of Leading Indicators was certain to fuel pessimism about the economic future.

Some economists had been expressing moderate optimism based on a belief that the worst of the have an impact.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The country's trading woes might be over with the declines this year in the value of the dollar.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said the figures point to "a further increase in real economic growth in the fourth quarter" of the year. But, referring to a House-Senate deadlock on balanced-budget legislation, he said economic recovery "can only be limited by a failure of the Congress to act on its historic opportunity to balance the budget.'

The huge trade deficit has been the principal factor holding back economic growth this year. The United States has lost 340,000 manufacturing jobs since January as American producers have seen markets evaporate under the onslaught of foreign competition. When the August trade deficit dipped to its lowest level this year, some analysts had said that the fall of the dollar, which began in March, was finally beginning to

However, other analysts disputed this contention, maintaining that it will take until the first part of 1986 for the positive effects of a falling dollar to be felt.

A strong dollar makes imports cheaper and more attractive to Americans while making it harder to sell U.S. goods overseas.

The slight 0.1 percent rise in the leading index was sharply lower than the revised 0.9 percent August gain and the 0.7 percent July increase.

The sluggish change in the index, which is designed to forecast the future course of the economy, was in line with the modest expectations of many private economists. The Reagan administration, however, contends that the sharp rebound in activity which took place from July through September will continue into next Police this morning continued to question the suspects in connection with what they say could clear "a large number of cases," Lt. Jerry Edwards said. The number of burglaries they are implicated in could rise, he said.

Arrested at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the police department were: Joy Diane Anderson, 22, and Troy Yules Barrett, 19, both of 1503 State; Richard Charles Clayton, 17, of 3912 Parkway; and the 16-year-old boy.

In additon to the city cases, the Howard County sheriff's office also is questioning the suspects to see if they committed any burglaries in the county, said Sheriff A.N. Standard.

Edwards said the four are suspected of committing an attempted burglary in the county, "but that's all we know about right now.

Really Rambo?

Stallone look-alike cashing in on movie's popularity

DALLAS (AP) - Rambo came stalking into the office the other day, a formidable bow hooked over one arm, a quiver of arrows strap ped to his powerful back. Camouflage pants and combat boots concealed his lower body; from the waist up, it was strictly biceps, triceps and brawn. He looked big. He looked broad.

He looked Ram Tough.

Women came from every corner of the building to gawk at this live action Rambo, a character seem-ingly plucked from the silver screen and dropped into an ordinary downtown conference room. Clearly, it was Rambo, but was it could it also be ... Sylvester Stallone? No, ladies, it was Jade Roberts, a 26-year-old Dallas nightclub bouncer who has looked like Stallone all his life, but until "Rocky" made Stallone's voluptous face and beefy bod a familiar one, nobody noticed the resemblance. After "Rocky," people started staring.

In 1981, while studying pre-med at Auburn University in Alabama, Roberts entered a contest at the local Holiday Inn and won $25 for looking like Rocky. Two years later, in Dallas, he entered another contest: This time, he won $100 and a contract with Ron Smith's Celebrity Lookalikes, the Los Angeles-based agency. A few gigs, including an interview on "PM Magazine," followed.

Then came Rambo, this summer's mega-hit. The movie already is pop-culture phenomenon: It has spawned books, posters, toys and weaponry. There are Rambo jokes (X-rated, most of them) and Rambo quotes ("Murdoch, I'm coming to get you!") Rambo is, to President Reagan and other rightthinking Americans, a hero.

And, for Roberts, he's money in the bank.

Roberts not only makes personal appearances as Rambo -/ on television talk shows, at conventions, golf tournaments and benefits — he has found yet another

"It's neat that I can represent such a popular character," said Roberts. "And I feel obligated to portray him as an upstanding citizen.

That's partly because kids are his biggest fans. Roberts said two 7-year-old girls regularly call him to say, "We love you, Rambo ... but only as friends." "Most kids want an autograph or a kiss on the cheek," Roberts said, pointing out that he cannot identify himself as Sylvester Stallone nor can he sign himself as Sylvester Stallone nor can he sign autographs as Stallone. He signs "John Rambo."

Unlike some look-alikes, who tend to identify very closely with their famous counterparts, Roberts remains firmly rooted on planet Earth. "I realize I'm not Sylvester Stallone," he said. "I don't have $3 billion in the bank. Hey, I gotta be realistic here."

At 6-foot-1 and 205 pounds, Roberts is taller than Sylvester Stallone and less beefy than the star was in "Rocky." Although he was born in Michigan and grew up in Florida, Roberts easily falls into the "dense" and "dose" ver-nacular of Stallone's native Philadelphia. Roberts' "Rocky" voice differs noticeably from his "Rambo" voice.

Roberts considers himself an allaround good impressionist and proved it by doing some other voices in his repertoire. He did Pee Wee Herman ("Rambo's my name, don't wear it out") and Ronald Reagan ("This is Ronbo"). It was a bizarre performance, this he-man in his black tank top impersonating a septuagenarian president and the country's biggest nerd.

Still, Roberts must depend on Stallone, and his continuing popularity with moviegoers, for his livelihood. Roberts' personal manager, a Hollywood stuntman and local model named Ski Lawrence, hopes to get his client a job as Stallone's double.

But there was something new added to Texas forecasts for tonight. There's a chance of some light snow mixed with some scattered showers expected over portions of West Texas. No accumulation is expected.

Juan, the former hurricane, was drifting slowly eastward early today, just off the Louisiana coast. It was located at dawn just west of the mouth of the Mississippi River, forecasters said.

It was to be mostly fair over western sections of North Texas and South Texas today and fair over all of West Texas. The light rain and drizzle over the eastern third of the state was expected to end tonight and be accompanied by decreasing cloudiness.

Lows tonight will be in the mid 30s in the Panhandle and in the 40s and 50s over the rest of the state. Highs Friday will be in the 50s in the Panhandle and in the 60s and 70s elsewhere.

Early morning temperatures were in the upper 30s over the northern part of the Panhandle and in the 40s and 50s over the rest of the state. Extremes ranged from 37 at Amarillo to 64 at Corpus Christi.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 42 at Wichita Falls, 49 at Fort Worth, 50 at Waco, 52 at Lufkin and Austin, 55 at San Antonio, 57 at Houston, 56 at Brownsville, 45 at San Angelo, 42 at Lubbock and 46 at Midland and El Paso.

Trade blocks identified

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration says it has identified more than 200 "significant barriers" to U.S. sales abroad and plans to take steps to deal with many of

The barriers range from limits on U.S. agriculture and computer products in many countries to Japanese quotas on beef imports, Indonesian curbs on U.S. chocolates and a restriction on the number of American television shows that can be broadcast in Italy.

AT<sup>o</sup>T strike averted

WASHINGTON - Another 2,800 workers will lose their jobs at AT&T's Information Services unit on Friday, bringing to 10,000 the number leaving the computer arm of the company this year.

However, a nationwide strike against the telephone company by up to 50,000 members of the Communications Workers of America was averted Wednesday when AT&T agreed to give the union more information on the work it sends outside the company.

Agency seeks bail-out

WASHINGTON - The financially creaky Farm Credit System is asking Congress to provide up to $6 billion in a massive bail-out to help keep thousands of farmers afloat.

But some members of Congress are looking hard at the proposal, and at least one national farm organization says the rescue effort needs more study.

None hurt in explosion

GRAPEVINE - American Airlines officials said they will study beefed-up screening of luggage as the result of an explosive device that detonated in a baggage compartment of a passenger jet moments after its arrival at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

No one was injured in the explosion about 8 a.m. Wednesday aboard Flight 203, en route from Austin, Texas to San Francisco. Airline officials said 147 passengers and seven crew members were quickly removed from the 727 jet after smoke was found inside a baggage compartment.

Copter crash kills 3

CORPUS CHRISTI - A Navy helicopter that crashed on a training mission, killing three crew members, appeared to be making practice dives along with another chopper when it hit a marsh, witnesses said.

Rick Andrews and his wife, Linda, of nearby Port Aransas were on their way home about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday when they saw two helicopters practicing diving maneuvers about one-half mile off Texas Highway 53.

Pilots recount moments before crash of jet

IRVING, Texas (AP) - J-A. Coughlin calls the sud-den storm that ripped across the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport moments after a jumbo jet crashed "the most severe weather I've ever been through in a plane.

The Delta Air Lines pilot, testifying Wednesday at National Transportation Safety Board hearings on the Aug. 2 crash that killed 137 people, said he saw what looked like a tornado and "the heaviest rain I've ever seen" seconds before the accident.

Luckily for him and his passengers, they were on the ground when the storm slashed across the airport and pummeled their craft with gale-force winds and rain so intense Coughlin's co-pilot thought the plane was moving.

"The rain was horizontal," Coughlin said. "We couldn't even see the ground."

It was that storm - unforecast and until just before the crash - that Delta Flight 191 had flown through just north of airport runway 17L.

Five pilots who testified Wednesday were either on the airport tarmac or in the air nearby when 191 crashed and exploded into flame at 6:06 p.m. near the

All of them said the storm looked harmless - "a garden variety summer shower," as one put it - until it exploded without warning into a mass of swirling winds around 6 p.m.

American Airlines pilot Frank Becker, whose jet was six miles behind 191, said heavy rain and a bolt of lightning had just convinced him to abort his landing when the tower futilely ordered 191 to "go around."

The Delta jumbo jet, which Becker had seen disappear into the storm cloud moments before, had already hit the ground once when that command was issued and then hurtled on in flames to hit water tanks near the runway

"I was going to tell the tower that (I wouldn't land) as soon as I could get a word in," Becker said. "I didn't like what I was seeing.

That storm and effects of wind shear on aircraft have been the focus of the NTSB investigation.

Another pilot, Capt. Allan Stanley of Eastern Airlines, testified Wednesday that he was queued up for departure on a runway near Delta's crash for almost an hour before the accident.

"I saw the storm approaching the north end of the airport, and when it was about one to three miles away, I saw what looked like a tornado inside the rainshower." he said.

He called the funnel cloud "a striking figure. It was much whiter than what you'd expect. The closest thing I've ever seen to it is a waterspout, but never in a shower like that.'

Seconds later, he saw the Delta Lockheed L-1011 emerge from the storm "looking like it was running across the ground." The plane's nose inched upward like it was trying to take off again, "but then I saw sparks and fire flying under it.'

Its left wing engulfed in flame, the plane ricocheted off the ground briefly, started a left bank and then stammed into the water tanks about 100 yards later, he said. MP: 11

"There was quite a fireball, and then our view was obscured by smoke," Stanley said.

Botha retains 4 seats

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Several thousand white voters deserted the ruling National Party in mid-term parliamentary elections to cast ballots for candidates calling for an entrenchment of apartheid, but the governing party retained four of five seats.

President P.W. Botha had said the election would be a test of white support for his limited moves away from apartheid, and his party had predicted it would retain all five seats.

Craxi to seek vote

ROME - President Francesco Cossiga rejected the resignation of Socialist Premier Bettino Craxi today, and gave him the goahead to seek a new vote of confidence from Parliament for the coalition government that crumbled due to the Achille Lauro hijacking.

Cossiga's action had been expected after the five parties patched up their differences and adopted a compromise document on government policy Wednesday.

TOKYO - Boosted by a record number of motor vehicles sold overseas, Japan logged a $29 billion trade surplus in the first half of fiscal 1985 — its largest six-month surplus ever, according to Finance Ministry figures.

To Barry Goldwater and Sam Nunn, critics of the way the Pentagon is organized and run, the Reagan administration has a fresh reply: "It puzzles us that people would say that something is terribly, drastically wrong with our military forces when they just achieved such a success as this," says a spokesman for Defense Secretary Weinberger. Weinberger himself compared it with the invasion of Grenada.

The "success" of which he speaks, of course, is the Navy's interception of an Egyptian civilian airliner, an event which, in administration rhetoric, is retroactively beginning to sound like the Battle of the Eastern Mediterranean.

Good news is wonderful to savor, but let's not fool ourselves. To hail the interception as a "success" indicative of U.S. military strength is a little like bragging about an A on a test when no one else studied and the teacher graded on the curve. The real tests of U.S. strength will come against aircraft more elusive and deadly than a Boeing 737 and infantry units more fearsome than the Cuban construction crews in Grenada.

There will be battles where Army officers cannot pull out their telephone credit cards and call in a request back to the states for Navy fire support, as one commander was forced to do in Grenada after he discovered that the Army and Navy radios were incompatible. "If we have to fight tomorrow, these problems will cause Americans to die unnecessarily," as Goldwater says. "Even worse, they may cause us to lose the fight."

Royal bash is not ## worth all the fuss

Everyone in Washington is talking about the visit of Prince Charles and Princess Di in November. Most people are behaving like idiots trying to wangle an invitation to one of the glittery affairs. I'm happy to report my wife and I couldn't care less

"I never was big for royalty," I said to her as we roasted potatoes in the fireplace.

"Me neither. If you've seen one Prince of Wales you've seen them all."

"The thing to do is not answer the phone for the next two weeks. Then if Buckingham Palace calls we can always say we were out."

"Suppose they deliver the invitation by hand. I saw a wigged footman in the neighborhood yesterday. He was only two blocks away.

"You never know what is going on behind closed doors.

"It wasn't behind closed doors. It was in Vanity Fair." "What did they say about the Prince besides the fact he keeps falling off his horse?'

"He's lonely and bored. The reason is that his mother won't give him anything to do. Queen Elizabeth is keeping a tight rein on the throne. The Prince has no duties and seems to be out of it."

"I'm glad we're not going to any of the parties because we wouldn't have anything to discuss with him," I said.

"You're not supposed to talk to royalty unless they talk to you first," she told me. "Where did you hear that?" "I read it in Miss Manners." 'Well if you can't talk to them what's the big deal about getting invited to a party?" 'The National Enquirer said that although you can't talk you can stare at them," my wife said.

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR WASHINGTON - State Department officials suspect that a cargo of chemicals, seized by Paraguayan customs, will wind up in the hands of cocaine dealers via the black market

The chemicals - nearly 50,000 gallons of diethyl ether, acetone and hydrochloric acid - would sell on the black market for 30 times the price they command for industrial use. The 10 large containers of chemicals are enough to process 2.4 metric tons of cocaine with an estimated street value of, $500 million.

The shipment was discovered Sept. 22, 1984, by Paraguayan customs agents at a small town on the Brazilian border. The chemicals were apparently being trans-shipped to Bolivia, a major source of illicit cocaine for American users. A State Department official told our associate Donald Goldberg that such a large shipment of the particular chemicals could only have been intended for cocaine production

The United States has repeatedly asked Paraguay either to burn the chemicals or to send them back to the West German firm that manufctured them. Paraguayan officials have refused to burn the chemicals, pointing out that by the United States's own standards, burning would pollute the environment.

evidence that influential Paraguayans are 'up to their nostrils in the illegal drug trade, Brazilian police have disclosed, for example, that a Paraguayan general accompanied two known dope traffickers to Europe last summer to purchase

U.S. officials also suspect that marijuana destined for Brazil has been grown on Paraguayan military ranches

Last October, the American Embassy in Asuncion sent the Paraguayan foreign minister a note offering to pay the cost of destroying the chemicals. Paraguayan officials declined the offer, and last January the case was turned over to a Paraguayan criminal court, which ordered the chemicals destroyed

But officials stalled for months, and finally said the chemicals would be offered to any country that would take them off Paraguay's hands. According to a State Department source, Paraguay's foreign minister said several weeks ago that the chemicals would be offered to the first West German ship to visit Asuncion. But these ships dock only once every few months.

Meanwhile, the State Department is counting on the new U.S. ambassador, Clyde Taylor, to keep Paraguayan officials honest. Taylor was formerly a high official in the department's bureau of international narcotics matters.

By SPENCER SANDOW Saturday marks the 47th anniversary of The Night of Broken Glass, in which bands of Nazis roamed the streets of Germany in 1938, looting and burning synagogues and Jewish-owned stores and houses. The vandalism, got its name from the great quantities of broken glass that littered the streets.

Meanwhile, anti-Semitism still lurks in Germany. Today some of the same people who helped kill two-thirds of all the Jews in Europe still willingly listen to the same kind of inane, prejudicial pro-paganda the Nazis spewed out 47 years ago.

A Rainer Werner Fassbinder play about a "rich Jew" land speculator premieres today in Frankfurt, West Germany, and the theater is sold out.

'Der Muell, die Stadt and der Tod" (Garbage, the City and Death), is set in Frankfurt in the 1970s and portrays a predatory Jewish real estate speculator, known only as "the rich Jew."

Jewish groups say the play could renew anti-Semitism among Germans, while supporters say the play shows that it never left.

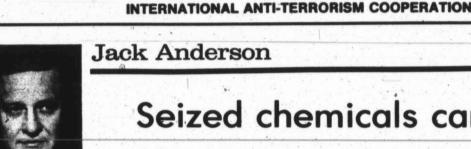

With events like that happening, it is conceivable that if another fiend like Hitler tried again to kill all the Jews, there could be some support, just as before.

Just a few years ago there were riots in the streets of Israel when someone suggested repealing the law which prohibited music by Wagner. Wagner had been Adolf Hitler's favorite composer. The law still stands.

When you look at European history, the time that has passed since World War II is very short. Time there is measured in cen, turies. For almost two thousand

'That's what you call tough love." I said.

'What makes it even worse is Di has cut off the Prince's contact with all his friends from his bachelor days, and will not allow him to see any of his old girlfriends."

"Why would a wife do that?" "She's very headstrong. She's not the shy virgin we saw being married on TV by Barbara Walters.

"Why do people kill to go to that kind of bash?"

"I guess it's just to say they've been there."

"Are you sorry you weren't invited?" I asked her.

"Of course not. What woman wants to go to the trouble of buying a brand new evening gown and silver shoes just to meet the next King of England, when she can stay home in her bathrobe and watch 'Dynasty' on TV?''

"That is exactly the way I feel. Let other people fight for two chairs at J.C. Penney's., I'd rather have two seats to a Redskins game. Did the mail come today?" I asked. 'Yes, it's over there.'

"Anything in it?" "Not really.

I peeked out the window. "Maybe the British Embassy doesn't know where we live."

THE PRICE OF LIBERTY: The First Amendment doesn't guarantee the right to yell fire in a crowded theater, but it does give local cable TV stations the right to run a syndicated talk show featuring "political extremists." Among the guests who have appeared on some cable stations have been members of The Order, a right-wing group linked by the FBI to terrorist acts including murder; Klu Klux Klan leaders; and those who deny the Holocaust ever occurred. Free speech advocates in Congress who fought for locally produced cable shows are trying to figure out how to tone down the extremists. How about the on-off switch?

ears there has been anti-Semitis in Europe and it is no surprise that it hasn't changed now.

But unlike the previous general tion, today's German Jews are fighting back. Jewish organizations, mainstream politicians and church leaders have denounced Fassbinder's play as anti-Semitte and are planning to stage demonstrations today outside the theater.

Perhaps that will make all the difference and the motto "never again" will really mean something in Germany.

Vocational education on slippery course

By ED SHIVE

I am a tired man with a few things to say about recent changes in public secondary schools. I was a very fortunate youngster during the 1930s. My father owned and operated a little repair shop in a rural area. I became a welder and machinist at a very early age. Because of this, I never really had the experience of being unemployed.

Some 36 years ago, I decided to enter college and further my education. My tradé background and experience has caused me to believe that high schools should offer elective courses that prepare young people to be competent and self-sufficient upon graduation. This belief led me to major in Industrial Education and devote my life to a career in this field. After 33 years of teaching, encouraging, promoting, and working to improve Vocational Education in Texas, I find that my work and the work done by hundreds of other dedicated people has been totally destroyed within a short period of a few weeks.

In 1958, I accepted a position in the vocational division of the Texas Education Agency. This position offered a real challenge. Many of our secondary schools had a dropout rate of 50 percent or more and money was in short supply. The need was great and our best asset was a small group of dedicated men and women located in field offices over the state.

dedicating their lives to solving our problems. Their dedication and effort established one of the best state wide vocational programs in America. This is a well known fact to all authorities in the field, except for a few "would be" authorities located in Texas.

The early '60s found our country trying to catch the Russians in space. More and more money became available for Vocational-Technical Education. Special emphasis was placed on Science and Mathematics. The leadership in Vocational-Technical Education made excellent use of these funds. New school buildings were constructed. Shops and laboratories were built and equipped with some of the finest tools and equipment available. Millions and millions of state and federal dollars were spent on a cooperative basis with local school districts and colleges. This effort in the space race was quite successful. We put our first man on the Moon within a short time. We also reduced our school drop-out rate to around 12 percent. This is excellent. I might also add that unemployment among high school graduates who have satisfactorily completed Vocational Courses is practically nil. It seems that even all good things have an ending. The recommendations made by the Select Committee on Education appointed by our Governor, the policies and procedures initiated by the Texas Education. He is doing his job ac-

These people were literally Education Agency and approved by the newly appointed State Board Education, and new school legislation promoted by our elected officials and approved by the legislature has not only destroyed the state leadership that established these programs, but the actual classes offered are being eliminated as rapidly as possible. We will lose some 25 percent this year and another 25 percent or more next year.

This will put our Vocational Education in public schools on a status equivalent to what we were offering in the '40s. Our public school drop-out rate can be expected to triple within the next four to five years. The unemployment rate among teenagers will increase rapidly unless a way can be found for private schools to fill the void left by a State Department of Education that coould care less for the vocational needs of boys and girls.

Our State Commissioner of Education is already proposing that certain students be paid with public funds for taking these courses outside the regular school days. This reflects a total lack of commitment to the comprehensive high school programs that has served our country so we'll for the past century. This is not entirely his personal fault. He is employed at a good salary to carry out the policies adopted by elected officials and the State Board of cording to their wishes. I seriously doubt that people in Texas realize that 50 years of hard work in Vocaltional Education has evaporated almost overnight. also question whether public schools will be able to make efficient use of the millions of tax dollars that will be invested in vacant vocational facilities. The lack of elective subjects in the new school curriculum presents students with a straitjacket atmosphere.

It will be interesting to observe their reaction when failing grades become a problem. When it is estimated that one out of every five people in our country cannot read a street sign, it would seem that our problems are much beyond learning how to punch buttons on a confputer. It is also alarming that school officials and the public in general have no expressed concern and it seems they could care less about their vocational programs.

This is very well for the people who have promoted this situation. They are very pleased to have concerned patrons vent their feelings on such things as no pass, no play.

Our Governor, other elected of ficials and at least one member on the State Board of Education are well aware of how I feel toward this situation. How about you, My Friend? It's possible that we are all getting what we deserve from this situation.

> Dr. Donohue Uncovering a sweet tooth

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you please explain the relationship between stopping smoking and gaining weight? I stopped smoking about four years ago and have since gained 15 pounds. Food tastes so much better. Now I'm being careful not to overeat. Does smoking dull your appetite, or just what happens? - Mrs.B.G.

Blunting the appetite generally is but one theory advanced to explain the fact that many people put on weight after quitting the weeds. But there are other, more scientific, explanations suggested, three in fact.

One has to do with lipoprotein lipase, an enzyme that regulates the storage of fats carried in the blood. Nicotine lessens the activity of that enzyme, and when you quit nicotine, it goes beserk, stuffing blood fats into your fat cells.

Another theory has to do with the fact that nicotine prolongs the time that food stays in the stomach before being released to the intestines. When the stomach remains relatively full, the brain gets a signal and turns off your appetite. In the absence of nicotine, the opposite occurs. Food passes into the intestines more quickly; the brain tells the body about it, and you may eat more.

Theory No. 3 uses the premise that nicotine dulls the desire for sweets in particular. Without nicotine, the sweet tooth is unsheathed and you may want to pig out on candies and desserts. These are nice explanations, but don't drag them out if you flunk out, possible.

It's true that people do tend to gain weight when they stop smoking. The answer lies in exercise. That revs.up the body's metabolism and counters all those physiological negatives mentioned. And between having a few extra pounds and continuing to smoke, smoking is the greater of the two

The best shoppers are newspaper readers.

The Texas Poli research data confirm once again a basic fact of marketing life:

Newspapers provide the most efficient means of reaching the best prospects in Texas.

Daily and Sunday newspaper readership is strong. The majority of adults in Texas read a daily newspaper everyday of the week; two thirds read every Sunday. In terms of where Texans get most of their shopping information, newspaper leads mail by more than 2 to 1 and TV by almost 3 to 1.

More good news-readership is even stronger among upscale demographic groups. The highest income, occupation, and education groups are the strongest newspaper readership groups.

War on Drugs plans local seminar

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

6-A

Texans War on Drugs, a public service group that receives grant money from the Governor's Office for Criminal Justice and Texas Department of Community Affairs, has tentatively scheduled a February seminar in Big Spring.

Regional coordinator Beverly Barron said the seminar will specifically focus on the area of law enforcement in drug abuse.

"Our primary goal is to stop the use of drugs by young persons,' Barron said.

She said the seminar with city and county law enforcement agents will review current laws used to prosecute drug sellers and offenders.

Other topics that will be covered, Barron said, include the latest information on drug smuggling activities across the Mexican border and recent developments in clandestine drug lab operations. The seminar will be open to the public, Barron said.

'It is an effort to bring the community and law enforcement agencies together in trying to build a more cohesive approach to the problem," Barron said. Also, the Howard County sheriff's department will aid volunteers throughout the county who wish to develop groups to combat drug abuse.

Sheriff's deputy Barney Edens said members of the department would assist in providing materials, films, videos or speakers.

"We'll answer questions private-ly. We found that working with small groups proved to be a better informational situation," Edens said.

He said the department can obtain instructional materials from

NCAA to investigate Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - The University of Kentucky says it will cooperate with an NCAA investigation into allegations that former Wildcat basketball players accepted cash and other gifts from boosters.

But the editor of the Lexington Herald-Leader, the newspaper that orginated the story, said Wednesday night that it wouldn't be willing to allow the National Collegiate Athletic Association to listen to its taped interviews with those players.

David Berst, the NCAA's enforcement director, confirmed in a telephone interview with The Associated Press that a decision to investigate was made Wednesday morning and UK officials were informed.

"The decision was based on an evaluation of information made available to us from the school (that) could involve serious violations" and that "there are credible individuals to be contacted to verify the information one way or the other.

Ray Hornback, UK's vicepresident for university relations. said in a statement Wednesday that "the university again pledges its cooperation with the NCAA in pursuing this matter."

The Herald-Leader reported Sunday that 26 former UK players admitted accepting money from boosters, in apparent violation of NCAA rules. The players also said they sold their free season tickets for $1,000 each or more and received excessive payments for speaking engagements

UK already had announced that it had begun an internal investigation of the reports and had notified the NCAA and the Southeastern Conference. The statement issued Wednesday said the school sent copies of the Herald-Leader story and UK's public response to Steve Morgan of the NCAA staff."

Several players interviewed in the Herald-Leader story claimed after its publication that they were misquoted, or that their statements were taken out of context. Herald-Leader editor John Carroll said reporters had taped most of the conversations, and that the paper stood by its story.

Berst said Wednesday his organization could only ask the Herald to make the tapes available for the investigation. If the Herald refused, the NCAA staff's decision would be based "on the explanations of the individuals that claim they did not say what the newspaper claims," he said.

Carroll said the paper would not allow the NCAA to listen to the tapes

'We've said before that we're not an arm of the NCAA any more than we are an arm of the University of Kentucky. We're in the business of covering news; that's what we're here for.

Berst said an investigation would "take a substantial period of time.

If any alleged wrongdoing is found, UK would be given a chance to respond. The NCAA staff would then meet with the organization's Committee on Infractions "who would propose a penalty if one is appropriate," Berst said. The Herald-Leader reported on Wednesday that Berst said UK had issued an invitation to the NCAA to 'participate in the collection of information" about the reports.

Millsapps has asked to be reassinged within the Ector County school system, but is not necessararily retiring from coaching. His options are open.

One reason for the Dallas' 6-2 midseason record has been the outstanding play of the secondary. ## Queens drop season opener

WACO — The Howard College Hawk-Queens dropped their. opening game of the McLennan Community College Highlassie Tournament to San Jacinto 92-76.

It was coach Don Stevens' team first game of the season. It was a rough beginning for Stevens and the Queens as the Big Spring school was plauged by turnovers and poor free throw shooting.

The Queens committed 36 turnovers and made only 20 of 37 free throw attempts for 54 percent.

"It was a matter of turnovers," said Stevens. We just made too many. I know the girls were nervous, and they pressed us the whole game. It's the first time San Jacinto had ever beaten Howard College and they were really enjoying it. With 30 seconds left in the game, they were still pressing.

The Queens dropped behind early in the game thanks to some cold foul shooting. HC missed its first six free throw attempts and the Houston school built up a 12-4 lead. By halftime the margin was 41-31 and San Jacinto would never lose the lead. Howard stayed close in the first half. behind the scoring of guard Lorrie French, who scored 12 points.

French went on to have her best night ever as a Queen as she finished the game with 31 points. The Sonora native hit 11 of 14 from the floor and 9 of 12 from the line. "Lorri played an exceptionally good game," commented Stevens.

The Queens will play host school McLennan today at 6 p.m.

Hawks open hoop season Friday night

The Howard College Hawks will get the 1985 basketball season underway Friday night (8 p.m.) in the Old Hawk Gymnasium with a non-conference game against Jacksonville Baptist College of the Texas Eastern Junior College Athletic Conference.

Second year head coach Ed Sparling, has assembled a fine crew of ball players from around the nation in his first year of recruiting for the Hawks. Two returning letterman from last year's squad included sophomore foward Bruce Kimble, who average nearly 20 points a game last season, and center Walter Reynolds, last year's leading rebounder.

The Hawks have been practicing through the month of October and have played controlled scrimmages against Lubbock Christian College, Northwest Oklahoma, McMurray College, Panola JC and last Tuesday's final scrimmage against Sul Ross.

The Hawks looked particularly impressive against the Lobos in the final scrimmage, beating the fouryear school's varsity squad by more than 30 points.

"I've brought them along slowly this month, getting the men used to our offense and trying a lot of dif-ferent defenses," explained Sparling. "We put it all together for the first time against Sul Ross. I was very pleased with the team's progress through preseason.' The Hawks play again Saturday in the Old Hawk Gym. The games are being held in the old gym with the Big Spring Consumer Fest be-ing held in Dorothy Garrett Coleum this weekend.

Judging from the stats, both teams are strong in all areas of the game.

Roscoe enters the game with a 7-1 record and ranked No. 5 in the Associated Press Poll and No. 9 in the Harris Poll. Their only loss was to Class AA power Hamlin (No. 3 in the state) by a 31-0 margin. Take away the Hamlin game and the Roscoe defense has allowed only 21 points in the rest of their games.

Forsan enters the game with a perfect 8-0 record and ranked No. 7 in the Harris Poll. With the exception of a 22-21 win over Rankin, their victories have come by large margins.

Both teams have overwhelmed district opponents.

The Roscoe offense, led by "All-Everything" Veer quarterback Matt Denmann, is averaging 43 points in three district games. Dennman has been directing the offense since his freshmen season. Meanwhile the Roscoe defense has allowed one touchdown. That came

On the other hand the Buffaloes have been nothing less-thanspectacular. Offensively the 'Buffs Wing-T attack has averaged 55 points per contest district play. Their defense hasn't allowed a point. It has a string of 16 scorless quarters going into Friday night's clash. In fact, Forsan has registered six shutouts and only allowed 26 points the entire season, prompting praise from Roscoe coach Kennedy. "Forsan is a better all-around team this season because of their defense. They're bigger and stronger and have a whole different defensive concept," said Kennedy.

Meanwhile Forsan coach East says the same thing about the Roscoe offense.

"Roscoe has a better offense this year. They have Dennman at quarterback and he's the best we've seen all season. He's like Wink's Travis Price (now playing at Texas Tech). He's a leader and a with the game out of reach against big play man. He's going to get his yards, we've got to shut the rest of them down. Defensively they're not quite as good as last year because they lost some good, big people.

But Roscoe has more than a oneperson offense. Dennman, who has run for 468 yards and passed for 635 more, has lots of help from his teammates. Running backs Tommy Williams and Danny Herrera have rushed for 780 and 335 yards respectively.

Dennman's favorite receiver this year has been Lee McPaul who has 20 catches for 290 yards and four TD's.

Roscoe's top defensive players are linebacker Jeff McGlothin (170) and defensive end Jeff Altoff (220). "They have been our most consistent players," said Kennedy. The Forsan offense is very balanced; led by backs Wayne Wright and Bruce Strickland. The duo has accounted for over 1,400 yards. The Buffalo offense is in good hands with sophomore quarterback Brant Nichols, now a proven veteran of big-game wars.

Last year Nichols came off the bench to throw a touchdown pass against Wink in playoff action. The Forsan defense is led by Wright, Strickland and Jason Donaghe at the linebackers. Cor-nerback Lance Soles and safety Duain Box are other top players. Both coaches view the contest to be a defensive struggle. "You can't ever tell but judging by the stats but it should be a defensive game," said Kennedy. This is the best Forsan team I've seen in the seven years I've been here. They have a power offense. Out defense must escape the blockers and tackle well. I think it will be a close game.

"I hope it's a defensive game because I'm not sure I want to get into a scoring match with them. Everytime they touch the ball they can score," said East. "The game will come down to turnover and penalities. Whoever turns the ball over less and takes advantage of the other team's mistakes will win.

And now for round two.

been doing this year, but you have to give Lee credit. They have a fine offensive football team

The Eagles will be facing another fine offensive team in Big Spring, which currently ranks second only to Lee in total offense. Cumpton feels tha his top-rated defense will have their hands full. "Big Spring has got a heck of an of-fense and a well balanced attack. They've moved the ball on everybody they've played," "I don't know if it will be a high scoring game or not," said Cumpton. "I did'nt think last week's game would be high scoring and look what happened. But with our hall control offense it would be to our advantage to keep the scoring down.

The Steers will likely have to open up their passing game against the massive AHS defensive front. "I imagine they'll try to shut down our option and dive plays, so we'll probably throw the ball more than we did last week," explained Eudy. Even with quarterback Carl Speck enjoying one of the best passing seasons in Big Spring history, the yards won't come easy against the AHS secondary. "Their secondary is as good, if not better than Odessa's," Eudy said. "They've got a lot of speed back there.'

Despite AHS's lack of scoring punch Eudy feels that the Eagles have the potential to run away with a game. "They've got one of the best backs in the district (Junior Bell, 630 yards). I felt at the beginning of the season they had some of the best talent in the district."

Both teams will go into the game healthy. Only Abilene High's speedy wide reciever Gerald Bailey is listed as probable with a lingering ankle injury. Though neither team is in the running for the district title, Eudy expects a tough game nonetheless. "I don't know if they'll be as excited as if they were playing for a district title, but they're well coached and they will be ready. These next two games are real important for us, because we want the underclassmen to go into off season with a good taste in their mouth."

Probe discontinued on Dallas Cowboys

MIAMI (AP) - An internal FBI probe has concluded there was no reason to investigate allegations that five members of the Dallas Cowboys fixed games in the early 1980s in exchange for cocaine, the former chief of the Dallas FBI office says.

"It's a non-issue. It's over with," Thomas Kelly, the former Dallas agent-in-charge, told The Miami News in an article published Wednesday.

The allegations against the National Football League team were forwarded to the FBI in Dallas in February 1983 by a former agent in Miami who has since pleaded guilty to drug-related charges.

The inquiry was strictly an internal FBI matter and neither the Cowboy organization nor any ets in a crimin investigation, the FBI said.

"The findings were that there was no coverup by anyone nor any basis for an investigation in the first place," said Kelly, who gave FBI investigators a lengthy sworn statement on the matter.

In Dallas, Cowboys President Tex Schramm told The Associated Press that "unfortunately that (Kelly's statement) won't be in headlines across the country. The earlier stories still left the impression that there was grounds for an investigation. That points out unfairness of that type of story.

The NFL also was looking into the allegations, brought by formeragent Dan Mitrione. NFL spokesman Joe Browne said Tuesday the inquiry was ongoing.

Browne said if the FBI probe is indeed over, "we're obviously FBI officials in Washington, D.C., had no comment on Kelly's statement, saying no information is released on internal investigation reports.

At the time he made the allegations, Mitrione was an agent in good standing working on a Fort Lauderdale-based drug probe. His report was addressed to Kelly but never reached him.

FBI Supervisory Agent Jim Siano has confirmed the account by Kelly, who recently was nominated by U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese to be deputy administrator of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day has a warm and magnetic influence in effect that can make it possible for a considerable amount of cooperation to be developed in personal relations. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Come to a better

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Come to a better understanding with your partners in the morning, and then carry through with this new plan. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle financial affairs with thought for the rights of others and all will go well. Make out a more workable budget. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are magnetic in the previous put later the morning, and others will do as you desire, but later you may run up against stumbling blocks. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Try to please one who is devoted to you in the morning, even if you must treat a disturbed friend tactfully.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) If you are cooperative in the morning, a favor may come your way, but later you may find it difficult to gain your personal aims. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is the best time to handle important outside affairs since later you may have to cope with problems. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Look into some new outlet that can assist you in gaining your aims, and put it to work. Rest and relax this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get your business affairs in good order and then stay indoors since the aspects are not favorable later. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A partner will be supportive in the morning, but later will not be very cooperative. Try to build up your bank account. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to get your surroundings more charming early and then get to work with vim/and vigor. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan recreation for the evening since later there is much routine work to do. Get the OK from your mate for a social event. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get some new activity going at heme in the morning, and then make your surroundings far more charming. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she can act very quickly in a case of emergency because the mind and reflexes are quick. One who will need to have the abilities channeled in the right directions so as not to become a jack of all trades, since almost everything will be of interest. A cracker jack salesperson here.
