How's that?

Wrong info

Q. I think some erroneous information was given out on a recent credit check against me. Is there anything I can do about it?

A. Yes. The Federal Trade Commission's Fair Credit Reporting Act can help you clear a poor credit report, according to the Texas A&M Extension Service. If you have been denied credit or employment because of information in a credit report, you have the right to be told the name and address of the reporting agency in a report. That agency must tell you the nature, content and source of information in your credit file, except medical information.

Bombing suspect kills self

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

Police say they still do not have a motive for a Saturday night car bombing and the apparent suicide Sunday morning of the bombing suspect, police Lt. Jerry Edwards said today.

Terry Lee Hart, 24, of Hood Trailer Park on North Birdwell Lane shot himself Sunday morning when police arrived at his home to arrest him as a suspect in the car bombing, police said.

Edwards said he could not confirm or deny any possible motive for the car bombing until the police investigation is complete. "I don't want to release any erroneous information," he said.

Police found Hart lying in the bathroom area at the north end of his trailer home, suffering from a shotgun wound, Edwards said. The trailer home is outside city limits, but Howard County sheriff's deputy George Quintero, who handles criminal investigations, said the sheriff's office was involved only after Hart's death.

Police detectives and Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles had gone to Hart's house about 9:30 a.m. Sunday with an arrest warrant for arson. The warrant was issued by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt in connection with the 9:30 p.m. Saturday car bombing at Terry Watkins' house at 1708 Owens, Edwards said.

Law officers talked to Hart's wife Terri outside the residence, police said, and she went inside to convince her husband to surrender.

Officers heard several screams and Mrs. Hart came to the door and said her husband was dead, Edwards said.

Daratt ruled Hart died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds, Edwards said. His funeral service will be 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Edwards said there is no evidence anyone else was involved in the car bombing, but the case re-

Summit agenda to be set

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of State George Shultz, on a mission to Moscow complicated by a stand-off at the U.S. Embassy in Afghanistan, planned the superpower summit agenda today with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze despite sharp differences over arms controls.

The two-day visit by Shultz, who was carrying a letter from President Reagan for Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, could help shape the outcome of the Nov. 19-20 meeting and the course it will set for U.S.-Soviet relations.

Shultz also may get a more substantive Soviet reaction to Reagan's latest nuclear weapons-reduction proposal than the initial Soviet appraisal that called it an old formula in a new wrapping.

As the talks between Shultz and Shevardnadze took place in an ornate marble hall in the Soviet Foreign Ministry mansion, a young Soviet soldier had remained inside the U.S. Embassy in Kabul, Afghanistan. Outside, the compound was ringed by Afghan and Soviet troops.

But later today, a U.S. official at the State Department said the soldier left embassy of his own will and agreed to return to the Soviet Union. The official, who asked not to be identified, said the soldier left after meeting with Soviet and American officials.

The 19-year-old private entered last Friday through an opened gate and reportedly said he was tired of the war in Afghanistan and wanted to go home. On Sunday, he told a Soviet diplomat who interviewed him under U.S. supervision that he needed more time to decide what to do.

The official State Department officials said that after the soldier left, the U.S. Embassy lights were turned back on and the troops were withdrawn.

"He agreed to return to the Soviet Union," the official said. "He signed a statement that the decision was made on his own."

Weak peso deals a blow to border

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The fluctuating Mexican peso, steadily declining in value since the September earthquake in Mexico City, has kept Mexican shoppers away from American businesses and merchants predict the worst is yet to come.

"Business has been dead," said Ismael Chavez, manager of Gibson's Discount Store located a few blocks from the international bridge in this deep south Texas city. "Most of the stores in the downtown area are the same as we are. They're empty."

"We depend on the Mexican shoppers, but they're not coming. A lot of stores are having to let workers go and cut hours." Every day, from Brownsville to San Ysidro, Calif., almost 2,000 miles away, hundreds of thousands of Mexicans and Americans cross the border.

Mexicans cross to shop for clothes, food and small appliances, among other items. Others come to work. Americans cross into Mexico to work or shop in markets or to fill up their cars with inexpensive gasoline.

Border communities depend on each other to survive.

But in the past month, the value of the Mexican peso has dropped about 100 pesos on the dollar, due in part to the lack of confidence in the currency, bankers say.

The decline has hurt businesses on both sides of the border.

Mexican shoppers continue to cross the international bridges, but not in the same numbers. Many of them are not buying as much. Shopping mall parking lots once filled with cars with Mexican license plates are becoming a rarity.

Americans still cross into Mexico, but soon prices will rise and Mexican merchants will have to raise their prices in order to stay in business.

Deeply hurt by the fluctuating peso rate are the poor Mexicans, who soon will not be able to afford goods in either country.

And American businessmen say that although the holiday season could spark a buying trend, the economy probably will get worse.

Business was slow last week along the border. In the Rio Grande Valley in Texas, exchange houses opened the week selling pesos at 480 to $1 and buying back dollars at about 485 pesos to $1. By the middle of the week, that exchange rate was about 495 to $1.

The exchange rate was about the same along the Texas border to El Paso. But on Tuesday in San Diego, the peso-dollar rate hit an all-time low of 502 pesos for $1.

By week's end the peso had stabilized at an average of 475 pesos to $1.

Merchants believe it will get worse in a couple of weeks.

"I think it will go over 500 soon," said Cuco Perez, owner of Perez Curios in Matamoros, Mexico, across from Brownsville.

"You see how much business we got," he said, pointing to an almost deserted marketplace. "We cater to tourists, but even they are not coming over here. I don't know why. I think the peso will keep on going down, maybe 700 to 800 or even 1,000 (pesos to the dollar)."

Water plan is on ballot

AUSTIN (AP) — Officials predict only 11 percent of the state's voters will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on a variety of issues, including a $1.43 billion statewide water development and conservation plan.

State lawmakers debated and negotiated the plan for much of their 140-day legislative session in 1985 before finally sending the issue to voters.

Legislative leaders and the governor are behind the plan, listed on the ballot as Amendments 1 and 2. A Gulf Coast senator and some environmentalists oppose it, while others, including the Sierra Club, remain neutral.

"It's a far better plan than none at all, and it's probably better than we're likely to get in the future. It provides for (environmental) protection of the bays and estuaries that no prior plan has," said Gov. Mark White.

Amendment 1 would authorize issuance of $980 million in bonds for construction of reservoirs, pipelines, treatment plants and flood-control projects statewide.

It also would create a $250 million state insurance fund to guarantee water bonds issued by cities and other local government units, enabling the local governments to sell their bonds more easily.

Amendment 2 would authorize another $200 million in bonds, with the proceeds financing low-interest loans to farmers who buy water-saving irrigation equipment. Agriculture is a major water user in the state.

A separate law that would take effect only if the amendments pass would place conservation requirements on cities seeking state aid for water projects and would provide for special local districts to control groundwater pumping.

The new law also would restrict reservoir construction near Gulf Coast bays to protect fish and shellfish that depend on rivers to carry fresh water and nutrients to the sea.

Opponents say the plan doesn't address problems with groundwater that is being pumped out for irrigation, falls short in emphasizing conservation, and weakens public control over how much should be spent on water projects.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, a leading spokesman for opponents, argues that the plan lacks adequate controls for financial and environmental protection. "In short, it would make pork-

The Lisbon School

Small, all-Black school excelled despite obstacles

DALLAS (AP) — It opened in 1951 without gas, lights or running water. It didn't have a science lab or a library. In the winter, the only heat that the four dozen students could count on came from a coal-fired stove.

There were a lot of things that the one-room Lisbon School for Coloreds did not have when it opened that fall on Persimmon Road in Oak Cliff. And yet those who were there — the teachers, the students, the parents — remember it did what it was supposed to do.

"Although we had the inconveniences, we produced some excellent students from out there," recalls Juanita Buchanan, one of three teachers who taught at the school.

Lisbon School is a church now — has been for nearly 20 years. But the memory of that school and its place in the black community is being revived because all-black neighborhood schools are once again an issue in Dallas.

Today the controversy focuses on the quality of education available at three South Dallas grade schools that are predominantly black because they are in black neighborhoods. These are "super" schools, so called because their 4th, 5th and 6th grade students have special computer rooms, piano labs and calculus and trigonometry courses.

And yet, parents, teachers and community leaders aren't sure whether these schools will be successful.

Recent test scores show the black students reading below the national average.

The parents who sent their children to Lisbon School also worried about the quality of education at an all-black school. The big difference was that, in 1951, Dallas schools were segregated by law. Blacks had no options.

Anna McClellan, who was the only teacher at the school in 1951, says one of the lessons of the Lisbon School is that "it's not the facility that makes a difference. A child can apply himself regardless of the building."

McClellan, who also served as full-time principal, part-time nurse and sometimes social worker, said Lisbon produced successful students because everyone in the neighborhood worked together. Neighbors knew each other and looked out for each other, and parents were active in the school's Parent Teacher Association, she said.

Former students and parents say it worked because the teachers were dedicated, concerned and used innovative methods to motivate students.

"I can remember make-shift things such as apple and orange cartons as bookshelves," said Mary Hogues Barber, a former student who is pursuing a master's degree in gerontology at North Texas State University.

"When you think of the old days and the teachers now, it's a compliment to them and what they were able to accomplish," she said. "I don't see that our education suffered."

"Lisbon worked," Buchanan says, "because of the parental supervision and lack of activities in the home. Now the children spend too much of their time watching television, and they need to spend more time doing their homework."

Sally Glass-Gardner, who taught third and fourth grade at Lisbon, said she believes the family atmosphere was a key ingredient to its success.

Lisbon closed in 1958 after the poor conditions at the school were publicized, McClellan said. Students were transferred to portable school buildings on Bonview Road and their school was renamed J.N. Irvin Elementary School.

Today, Dallas educators are trying to identify and recapture the things that made Lisbon work for the students. Yet they are trying to do that in neighborhoods that no longer retain the same characteristics.

Louise Smith, who is principal at Charles Rice Elementary, one of the three "super" schools, says many of today's children are being raised by young single parents who are often lacking communication and parenting skills.

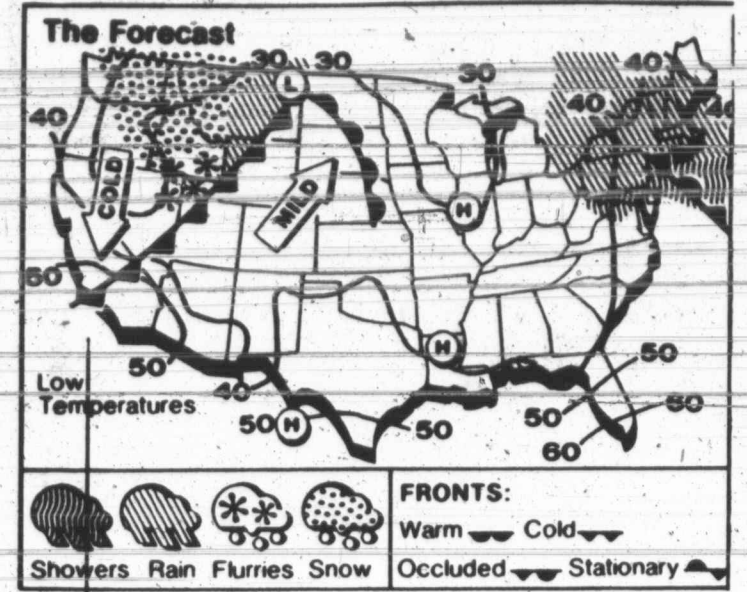

At Rice Elementary, which is considered the most successful of the schools, Smith says teachers are actively trying to cope with the changes.

To help students who don't know their neighbors and face an empty house at the end of the school day, Rice offers an afternoon study program and tutor hotline.

Meanwhile, the PTA is putting on workshops to teach parents how to help their children study.

But to seasoned teachers such as McClellan, the goals of the new policies still make good old-fashioned sense — to recreate the atmosphere that made a small, black neighborhood school called Lisbon work.

Weather

State

By The Associated Press
Clear skies dominated the Texas weather picture today as forecasters looked for at least a couple of days of mild, dry conditions.

No rain was reported across the state before dawn. Pre-dawn temperatures dipped into the 40s across most of the state. At 4 a.m., readings had dropped into the 30s across the mountains of the Trans Pecos, while temperatures were in the lower to middle 50s over portions of South Central Texas and the coastal plains.

Temperatures ranged from 31 at Marfa to 56 at Galveston.

Nation

Rain dotted the nation from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic and moved inland from the Pacific Coast today, while fair skies prevailed over the Plains and Mississippi Valley and Michigan had a bit of snow.

A flood watch for streams and low-lying areas was posted for the western half of Virginia, which had heavy rain during the weekend and more rain forecast.

Forecast

West Texas — Fair and warmer through Tuesday. Lows 40s most sections. Highs 70s mountains and north to 85 southwest valleys.

Area lounge burglarized

Audrey Schueling of Gail Route told Howard County sheriff's deputies Sunday afternoon the Happy Hollow Lounge on N. Birdwell Lane was burglarized between 7 p.m. Saturday and 12 p.m. Sunday.

According to a sheriff's report, items taken in the incident included: a combination of cigarettes and change amounting to $117 stolen from a machine; three cases of beer amounting to $72; 60 packs of chips and peanuts amounting to $24; and one hand calculator amounting to $10.

Deputies are investigating the burglary. Christina Jones of 301 S. Main in Coahoma told sheriff's deputies someone stole her son's dirt bike with knob tires from the backyard between 8 a.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday.

A Texas Department of Public Safety trooper arrested David Paul Cowan, 40, of Aurora, Colo. Sunday afternoon for suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

He was stopped at the intersection of Interstate 20 and Texas Highway 350. He remains in county jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Big Spring Police transferred Ervin Richard Newby, 42, of 1204 Blackmon to county jail Saturday night after he was arrested for criminal mischief over $200 and under $750. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Deputies this weekend released Jesus Ramirez, 42, of 601 E. 12th from county jail after he served 7½ days for a DWI judgment.

Police Beat

Vehicles reported stolen

A white and blue 1981 Buick was stolen between 10 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday, according to police reports.

The car, valued at $5,000, was taken from 2513 Fairchild, the police report stated.

Robert Hutchinson of 1517B Sycamore told police someone stole a green 1972 Chevrolet Nova at 3:10 a.m. Sunday from his house. The car, valued at $800, had dents in the driver's door.

Christina Hernandez of 307 E. 23rd was treated Sunday for a laceration to her forehead by Dr. Raj Marwah at Malone-Hogan Hospital. Hernandez received the wound when someone she knows struck her in the face with his hands and hit her in the head with a beer bottle, the police report states.

The assault occurred at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at 2210 Nolan, the report stated.

Dr. Marwah Saturday night treated another assault victim at Malone-Hogan Hospital. Carlton M. Ransom of 1504A Wood suffered superficial puncture wounds to the back, the left arm and the right breast, the police report stated.

Ransom told police someone he knows stabbed him with a screwdriver at 11 p.m. Saturday at 1504B Wood.

Willy Estes of 1001 Birdwell told police a burglar stole a blue electric typewriter from Room 126 in the Howard College men's dormitory between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The typewriter is valued at $250.

Billy Sullivan of Coahoma told police someone stole two 1965 Mustang hubcaps between 8:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Saturday from a car owned by Darin Greenfield of Coahoma. The hubcaps, valued at $140, were taken when the car was parked at Bowlarama on E. Interstate 20, the report stated.

Desiderio Carmona of 1405 Bluebird told police a man threatened to kill him at 6:45 p.m. Saturday at the Pronto convenience store at 2105 W. Third.

Vernon Parnell of 807 Lorilla told police someone had been passing checks between Thursday morning and 10 a.m. Saturday at Trevino's One Stop Grocery at 3300 W. Highway 80 and Airport Grocery at 3107 W. Highway 80. The checks had been stolen from his unlocked motor vehicle earlier, the police report stated.

Joyce Wilson of 1509B Main told police someone she knows threw her into the side of the building and hit her head with his fist at 6:22 p.m. Saturday.

Police reports also show someone caused $400 damage to her clothing and $17 damage to a coffee table at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at her house.

Police Saturday afternoon arrested Lester Fred Lang, 28, of 1505 Wood on suspicion of assault.

mains under investigation.

"There was no indication a timing device was used" to trigger the dynamite, Settles said.

The force of the blast tossed the front windshield over the house, 145 feet away, and sent a front panel of the car flying about 30 feet, where it landed in the next-door neighbor's yard in front of the sidewalk.

The blast also blew out two front windows of Watkins' house and ripped open the roof of the car, a 1980 Ford LTD, parked in the front driveway.

The car usually was driven by Watkins, said his wife, Eva. No one was injured in the blast. Watkins had been asleep in the house at the time of the explosion, Mrs. Watkins said.

Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents from Lubbock took samples Sunday from the explosive, which was "pretty powerful," Edwards said, for analysis at their lab, either in Dallas or Washington, D.C.

The agents did not say when the results of lab tests would be available, Edwards said.

barrel heaven for the water hustlers and the bond hustlers every time the Legislature convenes," Truan said.

Among the plan's backers is Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot, who compared the need for a water plan with that for public school reforms.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, another supporter and a drafter of the plan, said voter apathy is the biggest threat to passage of the statewide plan.

"Many areas of the state do not have any contests on Tuesday, and it will be a problem to get voters out," Montford told the Texas Association of Taxpayers on Friday.

"Our turnout depends a great deal on the mayoral election in Houston, a flouridation fight on the ballot in San Antonio, a bond issue in Dallas and a transit issue in El Paso."

Only 11 percent of the state's voters are expected to go to the polls Tuesday, Secretary of State Myra McDaniel said.

Mrs. McDaniel said her prediction is about average for an off-year election on constitutional amendments.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Besides the two water plan amendments, the other dozen proposals cover such diverse topics as exchanging prison inmates with other states, making more money available for family farmers, and abolishing some county treasurer and surveyor positions.

Man arrested on parole violation

A 38-year-old Howard County man remains in county jail today after his arrest Friday night on an emergency parole violation warrant by Texas Ranger Charles Brune.

The parolee, Jack Cummings, 38, of Route 2 Box 15A, is charged with assault in an Oct. 18 incident at Ken's Western Bar on Interstate 20, said Cummings' parole officer, David Harman.

Cummings kicked a female bartender in the chest and ribs, Harman said. She suffered multiple bruises and was treated at Hall-Bennett Hospital for the injuries, he said.

According to a Howard County sheriff's office report, Cummings became involved in a dispute between the bartender, Vicky Kurth, and his girlfriend, Penny Simmons, and then started kicking Kurth, Harman said.

Cummings had been arrested Wednesday on an assault warrant issued by County Judge Milton Kirby, Harman said.

He said the parole violation warrant was issued Friday afternoon, after he learned of the incident.

Cummings served 3½ years of a 15-year sentence for attempted murder, Harman said. Cummings entered prison in 1977 and was paroled in 1981.

A hearing date on the parole violation has not been set yet, Harman said.

Extension expected

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — West German officials were considering asking today for a one-day extension of space shuttle Challenger's science flight to gain more knowledge about the effects of weightlessness on metals, biological growth and human physiology.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it would add a day to the flight only if the Germans, who are paying $64 million for the mission, request it.

VA loans get tougher

WASHINGTON — Concerned about the large number of foreclosures that has prompted Congress to pour millions of dollars into the VA home loan program, the Senate is considering legislation that would make it more difficult for some veterans to get government-backed mortgages.

The bill, sponsored in part by Senate Veterans Affairs Chairman Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, would make administrative changes that he contends amount to a major alteration of the Veterans Administration home loan guaranty program.

Budget war resumes

WASHINGTON — The House and Senate this week resume their political test of wills over a balanced budget plan that has held up urgently needed legislation restoring the government's line of credit.

The standoff kept Congress from meeting a Friday deadline for final action and forced the Treasury Department to dip into Social Security trust funds to keep the government solvent.

Money raised for AIDS

NEW YORK — Dozens of stars danced and sang in the Metropolitan Opera House to raise $1.3 million and show, in the words of producer Barry Brown, that "caring and concern are spreading faster than AIDS."

Army to foot bill

SAN ANTONIO — Medical bills for treating the colleague of a former Salvadoran presidential candidate who was hurt when a bomb he was building exploded in his face may stay in the lap of the U.S. Army.

The bill is for the $1,610-a-day treatment Fernando Sagrera received during two months he spent at the Institute for Surgical Research at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, the San Antonio Light reported Sunday.

PRESIDENT FERDINAND MARCOS shakes hands with farmers in Tariat, home province of assassinated opposition leader Benigno Aquino, as he hit the campaign trail Monday, hours after announcing his plans to call a special presidential election in January. It was the first time Marcos visited the province, 50 miles north of Manila, in eight years.

Snap election

U.S. pressure linked to Marcos' decision

MANILA, Philippines — Political foes of President Ferdinand E. Marcos met in urgent sessions today to try to agree on a single opposition candidate for the special presidential election Marcos said he may call by January.

Appearing on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinley," Marcos said Sunday he could call the snap election "in three months or less."

He told reporters in Manila afterward that the balloting could take place on Jan. 17, the anniversary of the 1981 lifting of 8 years of martial law.

Marcos, in power for 20 years, is under growing pressure from the United States to deal with a growing communist rebellion, and faces widespread political opposition at home.

Many opposition leaders see Marcos' announcement as the result of U.S. pressure for democratic reforms to counter the insurgency.

The president's domestic political opposition has been divided and has squabbled over choosing a single candidate to run against the 68-year-old Marcos, whose current term expires in 1987.

Opposition reaction to Marcos' unexpected announcement was generally favorable, although some leaders expressed wariness at Marcos' possible motives.

"We welcome the announcement of a snap election," said a statement from the anti-Marcos National Unification Committee, which convened a meeting of a dozen opposition groups today to discuss election strategy. The statement added: "The opposition reiterates its readiness to field a single candidate." The committee's statement demanded, however, that any presidential election be held in accordance with the constitution and that Marcos announce the mechanics of the proposed balloting.

The Filipino constitution provides for a special presidential election only in case of a vacancy brought about by death, disability, resignation or removal. Marcos has said he does not intend to resign before his current term runs out.

A former foreign minister, Arturo Tolentino, warned that besides violating the constitution, the proposed election might trigger a "very dangerous" constitutional crisis.

"Assuming President Marcos loses and the opposition wins, don't you think there are people in the government who will not question it on grounds of constitutionality?" Tolentino said during a forum at a Manila hotel.

The meeting of the National Unification Committee lasted more than an hour, but the statement did not give details of any decisions reached. A former Supreme Court justice, Cecilia Munoz, presided over the session, and told reporters another meeting was scheduled for Nov. 11.

Alfonsin's party wins

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — President Raul Alfonsin's center-left Radical Civic Union won a solid vote of confidence from Argentine voters and appeared likely to add to its legislative majority in congressional elections conducted under a state of siege.

Sunday's balloting was marred by late-night street clashes in several cities in which at least four people were hurt. Interior Minister Antonio Troccoli said "some small incidents" of violence occurred, but he praised the country's democratic spirit.

Drugs shootout fatal

MINATITLAN, Mexico — Police trying to recover the bodies of 22 officers killed in a shootout with drug traffickers in a remote marijuana-growing center came under fire and were forced to summon the army for help, Mexico's attorney general said.

Hundreds of police and soldiers pressed their search for the drug traffickers Sunday, encircling villages of southern Mexico that reputedly subsist on marijuana production.

Protesters seized

SEOUL, South Korea — Police moved into the office of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in downtown Seoul today and seized a group of student dissidents who occupied the office in a protest against the South Korean government and U.S. trade policies.

The students took over the U.S. business organization's third-story office suite in the Chosun Hotel late this morning and held out for about two hours before police broke up the demonstration.

Car bomb detonated

TEL AVIV, Israel — Israeli-backed militiamen opened fire on a suicide car bomber in southern Lebanon today, detonating the car and killing the driver, Israeli military sources said.

The sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified, estimated the car was carrying at least 100 kilograms, or 220 pounds, of explosives. They said they had no reports of other casualties.

Bombers shoot guard

BRUSSELS, Belgium — A booby-trapped van blew up today outside the headquarters of one of Belgium's largest banks, police said. The blast caused no injuries, but police said a guard was shot by the bombers as they escaped.

Soviet soldier returns

An official at the State Department said today the Soviet soldier who sought refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Kabul, Afghanistan, has left the embassy and agreed to return to the Soviet Union.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said the 19-year-old private left the embassy after meeting twice with Soviet and American officials. The soldier signed a statement saying he is leaving with Soviet officials on his own will, the official said.

Following that, the lights that had been cut off Saturday were turned back on at the U.S. Embassy and the troops that had ringed it were withdrawn, authorities said. Searchlights had been playing across the embassy building at night since the incident started Friday.

"He agreed to return to the Soviet Union," the official said. "He signed a statement that the decision was made on his own."

Earlier, State Department officials said the soldier met with Soviet ambassador Fikryat A. Tabeev in the presence of U.S. charges d'affaires Edward Hurwitz and a Marine guard, then asked for time to think about his options.

UN vote reflects measure of bias

Amid the international celebration of the United Nations' 40th anniversary, the General Assembly took the kind of vote recently that speaks volumes about the world body's flawed character.

Liberia, a friend of the West, was blocked from becoming a non-permanent member of the Security Council. Instead, the General Assembly chose Ghana, which is pro-Communist and has close ties with Libya.

Liberia was chosen as the official candidate of African nations on the basis of rotation and was expected to obtain the routine two-thirds majority. That its government is pro-Western and the only one of four black African nations to have full diplomatic relations with Israel was enough for Moslem and Communist-bloc countries to unite in keeping it off the Security Council.

While blocking Liberia, the General Assembly also elected Bulgaria, Congo, the United Arab Emirates, and Venezuela to the two-year Council terms.

When the Security Council of five permanent members — Britain, France, the United States, the Soviet Union, and China — was expanded in 1965, it was agreed that 10 non-permanent members would include five from Asian and African nations, two from Latin America, two from the West, and one from the Communist bloc.

One wonders why the United States continues to pay 25 percent of the U.N.'s annual budget when any nation known to be a friend of this country is denied its rightful place on the Security Council for that reason alone.

Apartheid, free market don't mix

In recent weeks, a group of executives of American corporations which do business in South Africa have published newspaper advertisements urging an end to apartheid. The group, headed by Burroughs Corp. chairman W. Michael Blumenthal and General Motors chairman Roger B. Smith, placed themselves behind 91 South African business leaders who have called for the abolition of statutory racial discrimination, negotiations with black leaders, full citizenship for all South Africans and the establishment of the rule of law.

Some Americans, regarding business as a pillar of the Right, may be surprised at this repudiation of a system for which many American conservatives have shown considerable sympathy. Others may dismiss it as an opportunistic hedge against coming change. Still others may regard it as a mere manifestation of the divisions between South Africa's English-speaking whites and its Afrikaners.

All miss the crucial point: the basic contradiction between apartheid and capitalism. South Africa, needing capitalism's productive capacity but fearful of its awesome power to stimulate change, has given the market considerable latitude, while entangling it in laws aimed at preserving white domination.

But it is hard to keep the creature leashed. Economic efficiency is continually at war with the official racist dogma, because it has no use for restrictions based on economically irrational criteria like race. To realize its full potential, capitalism requires freedom of movement for labor and capital, freedom of contract for employer and employee, freedom to buy and sell property, freedom to live where one chooses. In South Africa, these liberties are non-existent or substantially abridged.

The architects of apartheid understood white supremacy's vulnerability to a free market. Even before it was formalized, there were measures to prevent black workers from supplanting whites. As early as 1912, blacks were barred from buying land on the open market to ensure that whites would retain the lion's share.

Modern restrictions on the freedom of blacks betray the same conviction that unfettered capitalism would be fatal to apartheid. Blacks are still not allowed to live or to operate businesses in areas reserved for whites. They may not enter "prescribed" areas without government authorization. They are effectively prevented from quitting their jobs without their employer's permission. Some jobs are still reserved by law for whites.

The government spends large sums subsidizing industrial development near the black "homelands" in the hope of keeping blacks in them. Blacks who migrate to the cities are made to live in single-sex hostels without their families, who are not allowed to visit. Sales of land anywhere between people of different races require government approval.

Laws like this represent the antithesis of a free market. They are needed for precisely that reason. Under laissez-faire, blacks would be free to participate fully in the economic life of the country — to trade with whites, compete with whites, live and work alongside whites. No system aimed at "racial separation" can survive that kind of freedom.

That is not to say that, saddled with heavy bureaucratic controls, markets cannot function at all. Most of South Africa's economy is in private hands, and hundreds of American companies have managed to operate within the constraints imposed by apartheid — just as capitalistic black markets, and occasionally American companies, operate even in communist countries.

But capitalism is no more compatible with apartheid than it is with communism. It flourishes only in an environment of personal and economic freedom. To the extent it is allowed to function, it perpetually erodes the absolute control on which totalitarian systems depend.

South Africa's white supremacists have always known that. The anti-apartheid statements of these American and South African executives reaffirm it and provide a valuable reminder of the true nature of capitalism.

U.N. may be forced to terms with slaughter in Afghanistan

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON — After six years of diligently skirting the issue, the U.N. General Assembly may finally be forced to condemn the Soviet Union's slaughter of the innocents in Afghanistan.

Worse for the Kremlin, the process of U.N. condemnation will probably begin shortly before the Geneva summit between Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev next month. How this all came about is almost enough to restore American critics' faith in the international body.

Up to now, the United Nations has referred to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan with exquisite delicacy as "foreign troops in Afghanistan." This euphemism allowed U.N. diplomats to avoid offending the Security Council's perennial bully.

But — wonder of wonders — a small U.N. unit known as the Commission on Human Rights last year decided to come to grips with the reality of Afghanistan. The commission (whose first chairman was Eleanor Roosevelt) took up a resolution to appoint a special "rapporteur" to investigate human rights in Afghanistan under the Soviets' brutal occupation.

"The Soviet Union bitterly opposed this appointment," a U.N. source told us. But the 43-member body, over Soviet-bloc nays, passed the resolution and named Felix Ermacora to draft the report.

Ermacora is a distinguished Austrian professor whose previous human rights investigations — in South Africa and Chile — were lavishly praised by the Soviets. But when he began investigating the Afghan tragedy, the Soviets routinely referred to him as a Nazi. Ermacora was undeterred.

Refused entry by the Soviet puppet government in Kabul, Ermacora toured refugee camps in Pakistan. His first report was a tough indictment of the Soviets, which received little attention in either the United Nations or the media.

At its meeting this year, however, the spunky human rights commission voted to commend Ermacora, and ordered him to write a second report and present it to the General Assembly early next month.

According to a secret State Department cable from Geneva, Ermacora's second report will be even tougher than his first. He "intends to accuse the Soviets of genocide in Afghanistan," the cable states.

It explains that Ermacora "was clearly moved by what he saw recently in hospitals on the Pak/Afghan border." It adds that Ermacora "believes that Soviet use of new and more terrible weapons in attacks on civilians, the destruction of tribal social structures, the forced departure of a quarter of the population to Pakistan, the abandonment of traditional villages and ways of life and the movement of large numbers of displaced persons into the cities are the elements of genocide."

The cable explains that "a charge by Ermacora of genocide would be a major development in the (United Nations) and could have significant repercussions elsewhere."

It already has. Even before the draft report is out, the Soviet propaganda machine is already denouncing it as "cooked in the sauce of the CIA." In fact, however, neither the U.S. government nor any other Western nation with an embassy in Kabul would provide Ermacora with information, precisely to belie charges that his report was biased.

The significance of the situation is that for the first time the U.N. General Assembly, usually so susceptible to Soviet manipulation, will be forced to consider an authoritative report that charges the Soviet Union with genocide. If there is any credibility left in the General Assembly, it will not shunt aside this embarrassment to the Kremlin.

HAIR TO THE FED: Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker has enormous power over the nation's economy, and he fancies the imperial trappings that go with power. He rarely deigns to go to another agency for a meeting, requiring other officials to come to his elegant quarters. And he likes to be the last to enter the room for top-level meetings. One associate recalled a conference that was conspicuously delayed while Volcker and a Cabinet secretary pulled an Alphonse-Gaston routine over who would be the last to cross the threshold. Volcker won.

EYE ON THE ECONOMY: The bell may be tolling for a supposedly key feature of the Reagan Revolution: keeping the government's hands off the financial markets. Treasury Secretary James Baker's decision to get Britain, France, West Germany and Japan to unite in depressing the overvalued dollar was in response to a crisis.

The trade deficit was zooming, and Congress was considering protectionist legislation. Even though the tactic seems to have worked, conservative economists in the administration weren't happy with the departure from laissez-faire orthodoxy.

MINI-EDITORIAL: The graying of America continues apace, with more and more of us living beyond the biblical three score and 10. Unfortunately, the federal government has yet to do anything about an obvious effect of the trend: the enormous increase in medical-care costs for the elderly.

One way to address this problem, before it reaches the crisis stage, would be to have Medicare fund home care. As things stand now, elderly patients who don't really need full-time hospital care are being institutionalized because they can't afford care at home. This is as wasteful as it is insensitive.

Billy Graham

True peace is from Christ

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: After a long search I have decided it is not possible to have true peace within my heart. Some people may find it, but I guess I am just one who is destined to be unsettled and never at peace, no matter what you say. — G.A.

DEAR G.A.: The quest for inner peace is universal. Some people may feel it more intensely than others, but everyone — whether or not they realize it — is engaged almost from the moment of birth in a search for inner peace and happiness. People will try anything that promises to fill that empty space in their hearts, but virtually all those ways fail to bring lasting peace.

Why do we have this restlessness in our hearts, and why do so many people never find an answer to it? The Bible tells us our lack of inner peace comes ultimately from one problem: We are separated from God, who created us.

Imagine for a minute that you were the captain of a ship without an engine, which had been firmly anchored to the dock with a heavy chain. But then imagine that you decided you did not want to be anchored there any longer, so you threw the chain overboard. What would happen? Your ship would begin to drift and be in serious danger. The only answer would be to have someone tow you back to the dock and anchor you there again. Then you would be safe and secure.

This is somewhat like our situation. God created us for fellowship with Him, but we have chosen to turn away. As a result, we are drifting and in danger. But Jesus Christ came into the world to bring us back to God — and when we turn to Christ, we can know the peace and security God alone can bring.

Jesus promised, "In me you may have peace" (John 16:33). Turn in faith to Christ right now and ask Him to come into your heart as your Savior and Lord. Then you will discover that there can be true and lasting inner peace.

Dear Abby

Alcoholism is disease

DEAR ABBY: As one who was rescued by Alcoholics Anonymous, I have long appreciated your continuing public support of AA. However, I was deeply disturbed to read the letter in your column from "Had My Say," who was sick and tired of hearing that alcoholism is an "illness," and went on to call it a vice, a weakness and a lack of self-control.

While I respect your policy of allowing people of divergent opinions to have their say in your column, I think you owe it to your readers to publish a responsible response.

The American Medical Association does classify alcoholism as a disease. There is documented research showing that alcoholics have a different physiological makeup than non-alcoholics; their enzymes, genes, hormones and brain chemistry work together to create their abnormal reaction to alcohol. And yes, it is a hereditary, genetic disease.

HAD MY SAY, TOO

DEAR HAD: As a recovering alcoholic, you are well aware that the alcoholic goes through a period of denial. He tells himself, "I am a social drinker ... I can take it or leave it alone." When he finally reaches the point where he is taking more than he is leaving alone, and the taking becomes costly in terms of friends, family and job, then he must face the truth: He can't drink at all. Ever. Alcoholism is a disease — not a disgrace.

Readers, if you really don't know whether or not you have a problem with alcohol, I offer you this test:

1. Have you ever decided to stop drinking for a week or so, but only last for a couple of days? Yes () ; No () .
2. Do you wish people would stop nagging you about your drinking? Yes () ; No () .
3. Have you ever switched from one kind of drink to another in the hope that this would keep you from getting drunk? Yes () ; No () .
4. Have you had a drink in the morning during the past year? Yes () ; No () .
5. Do you envy people who can drink without getting into trouble? Yes () ; No () .

6. Have you had problems connected with drinking during the past year? Yes () ; No () .

7. Has your drinking caused trouble at home? Yes () ; No () .

8. Do you ever try to get "extra" drinks at a party because you did not get enough to drink? Yes () ; No () .

9. Do you tell yourself you can stop drinking anytime you want to, even though you keep getting drunk when you don't mean to? Yes () ; No () .

10. Have you missed days at work because of drinking? Yes () ; No () .

11. Do you have "blackouts"? Yes () ; No () .

12. Have you ever felt that your life would be better if you did not drink? Yes () ; No () .

If you answered "yes" to four or more of these questions, you are in deep trouble. Look for AA in your phone book, or write to Box 459, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017, for information.

Dr. Donohue

Headache part of vitamin overdose

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 36-year-old female who has had acne since the teen years. It became worse eight years ago and I took antibiotics. Then they stopped working, so I did something foolish. I went to a gentleman who called himself a doctor of nutrition and he recommended certain health foods and minerals, also vitamin A (50,000 I.U.s daily).

After a couple of months I began having headaches and nausea. My family physician confirmed the fact that I was overdosed with vitamin A. How long until the vitamin is completely out of my system? — A.B.V.

Our knowledge of this subject is far from complete. But you did a wise thing in stopping the vitamin A megadosage. We need 5,000 I.U.s (International Units) of vitamin A daily. Toxicity has occurred at the 50,000 I.U. daily dosage taken for an extended period.

My sources vary in the matter of how long it takes to clear the body of such dosage levels. One says it happens promptly. Another, equally-respected, says it may take as long as six months to get rid of it all. As you may know, vitamin A is one of the fat-soluble vitamins, which means it is stored in fat. That means doses accumulate.

I'm glad you shared your story with us. I have long been worried about people using huge doses of any vitamin. Some people feel you can never get enough of a good thing. Knowledge is the antidote for such a mistaken view of our bodies.

Want a good book to look into? It's "Vitamins and Minerals" by Charles W. Marshall, and it's published by George F. Stickley Co. I have it on my shelf.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Resurgent Oilers win third in row

Houston Oilers halfback BUTCH WOOLFOLK flies across the goal line as Oiler center JIM ROMANO signals the touchdown with upraised arms in the background as the Oilers went ahead of the Kansas City Chiefs 20-6 in the third quarter.

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler kicker Tony Zendejas got a second chance against the Kansas City Chiefs.

Oiler wide receiver Tim Smith gave it to him and Smith was rewarded with a headache and the satisfaction of knowing he helped the Oilers beat the Chiefs 23-20 Sunday on Zendejas' 38-yard field goal with 14 seconds to play.

Smith caught a 24-yard pass from quarterback Warren Moon at the Chiefs 20 and was knocked unconscious on the play. But he held onto the ball.

It gave Zendejas a chance to atone for missing an extra point and field goal in the first quarter, and also spoiled a comeback by the Chiefs.

Trailing 20-6 going into the fourth quarter, Kansas City quarterback Bill Kenney hit touchdown passes of six yards to Herman Heard and 18 yards to Stephone Paige for a 20-20 deadlock.

Smith's catch and Zendejas' kick gave the Oilers their first three-game winning streak since the 1980 season and a share of the American Football Conference Central Division lead with a 4-5 record.

The four members of the division — Houston, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati — are tied with 4-5 records.

Kansas City dropped to a 3-6 record with its fifth consecutive loss.

"I can't say enough about that great play," said Oiler Coach Hugh Campbell, a former wide receiver. "He caught it and was knocked cold but he held onto the ball."

"If he catches it, we win the game, if he doesn't, it's overtime and who knows what."

Zendejas was just thankful he got another chance.

"I wanted it that way," Zendejas said. "I needed some pressure to show that I could still do it. Everything went routine on the big kick, just like in practice. I just said 'I've got to make it.'"

Houston took a 6-3 halftime lead on Moon's 17-yard touchdown pass to Drew Hill, who looped behind the Chiefs' defense into the end zone in the second quarter. Nick Lowery kicked a 35-yard field goal with 29 seconds left in the first half.

Moon hit Chris Dressel for a 3-yard touchdown pass and Butch Woolfolk ran 3 yards, extending the Oiler lead to 20-6 going into the fourth period. Lowery had a 39-yard field goal.

"We had some breakdowns in the last two minutes that cost us the game," Kenney said. "But we had the desire that we hadn't had in the last few weeks. They just beat us."

Kansas City Coach John Mackovic also noted the improvement in intensity following a team meeting early last week.

"Despite what some people may think, we don't have any dissension on this team," Mackovic said. "Our team meeting was just to make sure we were all playing together."

Smith regained consciousness in time for the post-game celebration.

"We're starting to make the plays instead of the 'what ifs,'" Smith said. "I knew I had to get the first down to set up the field goal. There was nothing else to do."

Stenerud comes through as 'Vikes nip Lions

By The Associated Press
Minnesota's Jan Stenerud could have kicked himself after missing a field goal late in the fourth quarter against the Detroit Lions. But he didn't get mad — he got more than even.

"Sure, you get upset with yourself, but you can't afford to let that snowball," the 43-year-old, 19-year National Football League veteran said Sunday after kicking the winning field goal as time expired in a 16-13 decision over the Lions.

NFL Roundup

Vikings 16, Lions 13

Stenerud's winning kick was set up by Darrin Nelson's 21-yard punt return and Nelson's 23-yard run. Nelson ran for a career-high 122 yards.

Minnesota had taken a 13-3 lead 5:37 into the third quarter on Ted Brown's one-yard TD run. But Detroit came right back as quarterback Joe Ferguson scored on a one-yard plunge and Eddie Murray kicked a tying field goal.

Steelers 10, Browns 9

The Steelers continued a home-park jinx over the Browns, beating them for the 16th straight year at Three Rivers Stadium in a driving rain.

The Browns have not won in Pittsburgh since Three Rivers Stadium was opened in 1970. The last Brown victory came in 1969, when the Steelers played in Pitt Stadium.

"The Steelers were just two points better than us today, but I don't think they're a better team," Cleveland wide receiver Bryan

Brennan said. "We're the best team in our division."

Bengals 23, Bills 17

Boomer Esiason threw two touchdown passes and fullback Larry Kinnebrew rumbled for another and chalked up 128 yards' rushing as Cincinnati erased a 10-point deficit and beat Buffalo in a driving rain.

Esiason, the AFC's highest-rated passer, threw a 68-yard scoring bomb to rookie Eddie Brown and a 22-yard touchdown toss to tight end M.L. Harris.

"We knew coming in we were going to use Kinnebrew a lot because of the weather," Esiason said. "We outweighed them 30 pounds a man across the offensive line and you've got to use that."

Bears 16, Packers 10

Walter Payton rushed for 192 yards and scampered 27 yards for a key fourth-quarter touchdown and defensive lineman William "The Refrigerator" Perry caught his first TD pass in the NFL as the Bears defeated the Packers.

Perry gained national attention two weeks ago when he ran for a touchdown, also against Green Bay. The four-yard toss from quarterback Jim McMahon Sunday came with 25 seconds left in the second quarter and gave the Bears a 7-3 lead.

The Packers entered the final quarter with a 10-7 lead, but the Bears narrowed the margin with a safety before Payton's game-winning run.

"I'm happy to get out of town with a win," Bears Coach Mike Ditka said. "It was by far the toughest football game we've played all year. It was old-fashioned football on grass, a typical Bears-Packers game."

Patriots 17, Dolphins 13

Steve Grogan capped New England's second 80-yard scoring drive in a 12-minute span with a 1-yard touchdown run with 3:03 remaining, lifting the surging Patriots over Miami.

The quarterback's rollout around the right side gave New England, 6-3, its first lead of the game and its first four-game winning streak in five years.

The victory broke a second-place tie in the American Conference East and gave Miami, 5-4, its third loss in four games.

Giants 22, Bucs 20

Eric Schubert, just signed this week, kicked five field goals and Joe Morris rushed for a career-best 132 yards and a touchdown as the Giants came alive in the second half to down Tampa Bay, handing the Buccaneers their ninth straight loss.

Schubert, who until this week was an assistant coach at a New Jersey high school earning $1,000 for the season, connected from 24, 36, 24, 41 and 33 yards as New York overcame a 13-6 halftime deficit to raise their record to 6-3. The five field goals were one short of the Giants team record set by Joe Danelo in 1981.

Redskins 44, Falcons 10

Keith Griffin ran for 164 yards and two touchdowns, one a 66-yarder, and George Rogers had 124 yards rushing and one TD as Washington scored on its first five possessions in crushing Atlanta.

A fake punt gamble at its 29 by Atlanta in the second quarter helped launch the rout as the Redskins stretched a 10-3 lead to 17-3, then added two scores before intermission for a 31-3 advantage at halftime.

"We were cranked up for this game," Washington Coach Joe Gibbs said. "Everything I could think of was positive for us."

Seahawks 33, Raiders 3

Cornerback Terry Taylor raced back a pass interception 75 yards and blocked a field goal attempt that teammate Byron Walker returned 56 yards for another score as Seattle exploded for 23 points in the second quarter and beat the Raiders.

Dave Krieg passed for two touchdowns for the Seahawks, who snapped their own two-game losing streak and broke a five-game Raiders' winning streak.

Rams 28, Saints 10

Dieter Brock passed for 256 yards and two touchdowns as the Rams bounced back from their first loss of the season to beat the Saints.

The Los Angeles defense sacked New Orleans quarterback Dave Wilson nine times, with Gary Jeter, Dennis Harrison and Shawn Miller each logging two.

The Rams' Eric Dickerson, who broke O.J. Simpson's NFL single-season rushing record in 1984, gained 108 yards on 23 carries, just the second time he's been over 100 yards this season. He left the game late in the fourth quarter with an ankle injury.

Jets 35, Colts 17

Ken O'Brien passed for 164 yards and a career-high three touchdowns as the Jets beat the Colts with the help of three Indianapolis fumbles in the first half.

The Jets, leading the AFC's Eastern Division with a 7-2 record, scored on five of their first six possessions, including three times in less than four minutes in the second quarter.

49ers 24, Eagles 13

Matt Cavanaugh, filling in for injured quarterback Joe Montana, threw a touchdown pass to Jerry Rice and made maximum use of fullback Roger Craig on three TD drives to help the 49ers beat the Eagles.

Montana sat out the game because of a strained sternum but is expected back next week. Cavanaugh also took his place against Philadelphia last season and guided the team to victory.

Walls, Green to renew old rivalry

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Not even a leg injury that has kept Roy Green away from St. Louis Cardinals practices an entire week is enough to reassure Dallas Cowboys cornerback Everson Walls.

Walls, in four previous National Football League seasons, has been burned too often by his All-Pro opponent. And when the teams square off tonight, his palms will be moist in anticipation of what could be another classic matchup.

"He'll be out there ... the same old Superman," Walls said of St. Louis' speedy wide receiver.

"He can devastate you in a minute. That's what I'm expecting," Walls said. "I don't care if I saw him on crutches during the pregame warmup."

A healthy Green, who a year ago set a National Conference record with 1,555 receiving yards, is, of course, a big part of what the Cards need most.

But 1985, for both him and his team, have been star-crossed so far. A toe injury suffered in St. Louis' first game, hampered him for several weeks. Last week, as the Cards were bowing 20-10 to the Houston Oilers, he suffered the leg injury when pinned under a Houston back.

"I want to play, and it will be upsetting if I can't," said Green, who again Sunday was held out of St. Louis' practice.

"Right now, we need a spark to get us going and I'd like to create that spark. There have been opportunities for the big play this year. Our calls have been correct, but we've had a lot of hit-or-miss situations and something always seems to go wrong."

Not surprisingly, Green's lesser production of 30 catches for 428 yards and three touchdowns in eight games compared to 40 receptions for 992 yards and eight scores a year ago at this time coincide with the Cards' general decline.

St. Louis, since rolling Sept. 29 to a 43-28 triumph over the Green Bay Packers, has lost four straight times. The Cards stand 3-5 and the Cowboys are 6-2 at the head of the NFC East.

Last year's matchups between Green and Walls were marked Green's eight receptions for 189 yards and two touchdowns in St. Louis' 31-20 victory and eight catches for 99 yards during the Cards' 24-17 loss.

A disputed call in the second test cost St. Louis dearly. Green, on a

Channel 2
8 p.m.

39-yard play, beat Walls for an apparent touchdown in the third quarter only to have his catch nullified by an offensive interference penalty.

"It was a big play. The penalty cost us a playoff berth and a division championship," Green said. "You've got to put it behind you. Most close calls are opinionated. At that particular time, I guess the official thought he was making the right call. But after the game he realized it was a bad call."

In addition to Green, the Cards are uncertain over the availability of running back Otis Anderson, who in 11 career games has rushed 203 times against Dallas for 917 yards.

St. Louis offensive right tackle Tootie Robbins is not likely to play because of a pulled hamstring. In his absence, third-round draft choice Lance Smith is ticketed for an assignment against Cowboys defensive end Too Tall Jones.

Although the Cards have won only two of their last 13 games against Dallas, they have beaten the Cowboys in both their previous Monday night contests.

"We've matured enough and been around long enough to know that anything can happen. There have been teams that started off 0-8 and wound up 8-8," Green said. "Although we've been losing, we're trying to get something positive out of it for when we start winning."

Quinn's Quarter

Here is what Big Spring High School Head Football Coach Quinn Eudy had to say after his team's 15-13 upset win over Abilene High.

"We're ecstatic about the win. The kids did a great job. They always have believed in themselves and this win just reinforces that belief. I've always felt we've had the potential to play with the best of them. The team and the coaches never doubted ourselves. Great things will happen when you believe in yourself."

"There were several turning points but the biggest came in the third quarter when we made them fumble on our one inch line. Then we threw a first down pass to David Shortes for 64 yards. We capped it off by scoring and cutting the lead to 13-12."

"We've cut down on the turnovers the last two weeks and our defense, which is full of sophomores and juniors, is coming of age."

"We've been playing better each week. Odessa was a good ballclub and I feel that Abilene High was better. And this week San Angelo Central is even better."

"It's motivation enough that Central beat us 63-0 last year. Central probably has the best overall talent in the district. They have the best back in the district in C.L. Bowman. He and the other backs, Don Hall and Charlie Good are all game-breakers."

"They play good defense and have a very balanced offensive attack. In fact, they've been the best 8-2 team in the state over the last two years."

"A win over Central will do two things for us. First it will give the seniors a good feeling about themselves as they close out their careers. They have been good leaders. Second it will prove to the younger players that we are capable of doing the same thing next year."

"We played good last week, this week I think we'll play better."

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Know what Mommy's name used to be? Darling!"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 5, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Approach ventures from an angle of knowing what the possibilities actually are to make them work out at a considerable benefit. Think over objections from influential persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have fine creative ideas, but must still convince a clever person in business that they are worth your time and effort.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A family tie could resent your spending so much time with an associate, but this is necessary, so try to explain.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have many fine opportunities to advance in the business world, so make the most of them. Put all that dull work aside.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) There are many new outlets through which to add to present abundance, so seize the best of such.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have fine ideas for advancing your career, but home ties could throw cold water on them if you permit.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can get ahead through private avenues today, so avoid dashing hither and yon in the outside world.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Look to generous pals for assistance in gaining your finest aims and avoid a greedy financier.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more willing to do what bigwigs suggest since your own ideas are not so good today, though you are enthused about them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A private anxiety could deter your progress in the outside world, if you permit. Try to get out of that rut you are in.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can be very happy with the one you love provided you don't permit friends to interfere.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't enter into any argument that may arise between a partner and an official or you could become the whipping boy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to schedule your time and activities well if you are to handle work at hand. Be wise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can see everything that comes up from its greatest potential, but is also practical; so teach to combine the two and get extraordinary results. Give praise for anything spectacular that is accomplished and your progeny can become a very successful person.
