Spring Board

How's that? Cable

Q. Is it true that the Supreme Court ruled a cable company is not required to protect a local broadcasting station, like when Channel 8 is switched off if the programming is the same as on Channel 2?

A. The Supreme Court recently declared the "must-carry" law unconstitutional. That is the law that requires cable companies to carry a local channel over a similar one broadcast from farther away.

Channel 8 from Dallas and Channel 2 from Midland are both ABC affiliates, and the law required that only Channel 2 be shown here when the programs were the same.

Don't expect the situation to change, though, because other laws are in force that have the same effect, said Paul Thoman, Big Spring Cable systems manager. Also, the FCC is rewriting the "must-carry" law to satisfy the constitutional questions that arose, Thoman said.

Local balloting mirrors state

Staff and wire reports

Howard County residents passed all 14 constitutional amendments on Tuesday's ballot, following a statewide trend, and overwhelmingly approved the two water plan amendments.

Turnout was nearly double that recorded in the last constitutional amendment election in 1983.

Election returns from County Clerk Margaret Ray's office show 2,247 ballots cast in the election, including 235 absentee ballots.

In the 1983 election, less than 1,500 county residents voted, Ray said last week. The state's election code board had told county officials to expect a 25 percent increase in voter turnout, largely because of the strong campaign for the state water plan amendments, Propositions 1 and 2. Absentee voting nearly tripled the 1983 figure. That year, 69 percent cast absentee ballots.

Tuesday's election increases to 283 the number of amendments to the 109-year-old constitution.

Proposition 1, which would finance water projects across the state, received 1,995 Howard County votes for the measure, or 91 percent. Opposing the heavily touted, bipartisan amendment were 191 votes, or 8 percent.

With the unofficial tally complete in all but one of Texas' 254 counties, 73 percent of the voters statewide said "yes" to Proposition 1, passing the amendment by a margin of 711,955 votes to 250,566.

Howard County voters cast 1,911 ballots, or 88 percent, in favor of the second part of the $1.42 million water package, Proposition 2. The amendment, a loan program to encourage farmers to buy water-saving equipment, drew 244 opposing votes, or 11 percent.

Statewide, Proposition 2 had support from 69.85 percent of the voters, winning 657,313 votes to 283,691 against.

The only incomplete vote was from Harrison County.

Proposition 10, which would provide $500 million in bond money for loans to buy farms and ranches, had the closest margin of victory, both in Howard County and statewide.

County residents cast 1,113 votes for the measure, 55 percent, to 930 against it. Statewide, the program won, 462,782 votes to 439,905.

Two law-and-order amendments also passed. Proposition 6, which would allow state prison inmates to be transferred out-of-state to control prison violence and break up prison gangs, received 1,449 votes for and 629 against the measure, a victory margin of 70 percent.

Floods rampage Virginia

By The Associated Press
Swirling, silt-brown crests of Appalachian floodwaters rolled downstream today, threatening more damage to mid-Atlantic states after killing at least 32 people, sweeping away houses, cars and barges, isolating towns and forcing thousands of evacuations.

Officials throughout the region already had counted hundreds of millions of dollars in damage from several days of flooding.

"We're talking millions and millions, just untold millions, if the reports we're receiving are correct," said John Price, an aide to Gov. Arch Moore of West Virginia, where federal disaster relief is being sought for 22 counties.

"It's certainly, in terms of the widespread nature, got to rank as the worst flooding disaster West Virginia has ever had," Price said.

Flooding, triggered by a low-pressure system that deluged the region for three days before sliding out to sea, was reported in more than half the state.

Moore said he was mobilizing National Guard units throughout the affected areas. The towns of Weston, Marlinton, Parsons and Petersburg all were cut off at various times Tuesday, and telephone communications with many towns were still out today.

There were 12 storm-related deaths in West Virginia, and Price said looting had been reported in some areas.

TV cable contract runs into a snag

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Although Big Spring and Snyder cable companies have accepted the agreement with Times Mirror Microwave to keep WFAA, the deal still may not go through if cable companies in Colorado City and Sweetwater do not accept the deal.

Times Mirror contract administrator Marie Watson said this morning that all four companies must accept the contract for any to get the service.

"I have no other comment," she said.

Fred Nichols, president of Texas Communities Antenna, the company that owns Big Spring Cable, said this morning his company has not yet signed the contract with Times Mirror, but has told Times Mirror that it would be willing to sign it if the other four were willing.

Big Spring Cable systems

manager Paul Thoman had said Tuesday the contract was to be signed that morning. "I may have gotten some misinformation or I may have misunderstood it," he said today.

A spokesman from the Snyder cable company said that that company has accepted the contract "under the same conditions everyone else accepted."

Sweetwater cable officials haven't made a decision, said

Wayne Jamar, general manager of United Cable Television of Sweetwater.

"They have not given us proper time for a decision of this magnitude," he said. Jamar said United Cable officials would contact Times Mirror officials and set up a meeting to discuss the matter.

In spite of the all-or-none deal, Jamar said he hasn't been pressured from the other cable companies to accept the deal. "It's tough knowing that if three decide to accept and one doesn't" nobody gets it, he said.

Nichols of Big Spring Cable's home office said Times Mirror was charging "significantly more than any other service."

"Microwave provision of signals isn't the normal way to (get) cable signals now," he said. "It was a hard decision, but if our customers want WFAA, we want to provide CABLE page 2-A

Colorado City site of mystery movie

COLORADO CITY — Filming of a murder mystery began here Monday and will continue for the next four or five weeks.

The movie, titled "Shadows on the Wall," is set in the 1930s and in 1985, said director Pat Poole of Lazy E Productions of Santa Fe, N.M.

The main site of filming in Colorado City is the historic Baker Hotel, which was in its heyday in the early part of the century. Poole said, "We've filmed three different buildings to make up the Baker Hotel and this one (in Colorado City) makes up the exterior." Poole was traveling through Colorado City when he first saw the hotel and decided it would be a good location for filming, he said.

The movie features Gary Swanson, who starred in the film "Vice Squad," and Wilford Brimley, who appeared as an old gentleman in "The Natural" and "Cocoon."

Release of the movie is to be sometime in late spring or early summer, the director said.

Reagan defends remark on Star Wars missile shield

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, questioned today on whether he had intended to suggest in an interview that the Kremlin could veto his Star Wars missile shield, said, "Would you forgive me if I say, hell no."

It was Reagan's first statement to clarify his remark that the United States would not deploy Star Wars, known formally as the Strategic Defense Initiative, until "we do away with our nuclear missiles, our offensive missiles."

Asked to explain what he had meant in last week's interview with four Soviet reporters, Reagan said,

"What I have talked about repeatedly and to many others, and that is when we've got it developed and we know we have that kind of a defensive weapon, we want to sit down with the rest of the nuclear powers in the world and say, 'Hey, now join us all in getting rid of nuclear weapons and instituting a defense.'" Reagan replied.

In that interview, Reagan had raised the prospect of letting the Soviets derail Star Wars merely by refusing to abolish their nuclear arsenals.

"The terms for our own deployment (of Star Wars) would be the elimination of the offensive weapons," Reagan said then. The statement appeared to say that if the Soviets maintained a nuclear arsenal, Star Wars would not be erected.

Within hours of the release of the interview Monday, the White House sought to clarify Reagan's remarks. Officials insisted the United States would not disarm unilaterally, and that Star Wars would be go ahead even if the Soviets refused to dismantle their nuclear missiles.

Whitmire returns third term

HOUSTON (AP) — Kathy Whitmire will serve a third term as mayor of the nation's fourth largest city after defeating former long-time mayor Louie Welch in a campaign that was dominated by the issue of the disease AIDS.

Whitmire won another two-year term with 206,788 votes, or 53.88 percent, to Welch's 138,532, or 40.63 percent, in a non-partisan field that included six candidates.

"I believe it's time to put differences behind us and to move forward," Whitmire, 39, said in her victory statement. "We sent a message that Houston has made great progress, that we're working to make this city the best city to live, to work, to do business and to raise families."

Welch, 66, had insisted the acceptance of homosexuals in the city and increased number of AIDS cases reported by the city health department dissuaded businesses and families from living in Houston. Public health, he said repeatedly, was the top issue in the campaign.

Whitmire said her administration was following the advice of experts who urged public education programs about the dangers of AIDS.

Welch's candidacy, spurred by his effort leading to the defeat of a gay rights referendum in January, also prompted eight political newcomers calling themselves the Straight Slate to seek eight City Council seats. Their campaign was based solely on the issue that public health rules should be adopted to protect residents from AIDS.

Although none of the Straight

HOUSTON MAYOR Kathy Whitmire waves to her victory crowd after being re-elected to her third term as mayor of the nation's fourth largest city, at the Westin Galleria hotel Tuesday night.

Slate candidates won, they drew enough support to force two council races into runoff because the leading vote-getters failed to attract more than 50 percent of the ballots.

Anthony Hall, the councilman who drew up the gay rights ordinance that subsequently failed, was a victim of the Straight Slate, pulling only 45 percent of the vote. He'll face businessman Dick Hite, who had 32 percent, in a runoff forced by the 16.6 percent of the vote gained by Straight Slate candidate O.J. Striegler. Striegler finished third.

In another council race, Straight Slate candidate Jim Kennedy made the runoff against incumbent Judson Robinson, who received 49.8 percent of the vote. Kennedy drew 29.6 percent.

Welch, who retired as mayor in 1974 after five terms and then headed the Houston Chamber of Commerce, blamed his defeat on a voter turnout lower than he expected.

"We have known all along that with any count (turnout) less than 400,000 it would be very difficult to win this race," Welch said.

"We're going to be able for the first time to do things without having to answer to any living soul and without having any media following us," he said, standing next to his wife.

Welch's comment appeared to be a bitterness reference to the news media's handling of his gaffe on a television broadcast.

In an incident that gave national notoriety to his campaign, Welch said on live television two weeks ago that one way to curtail AIDS in Houston would be to "shoot the queers." Unbeknownst to him, a microphone he was wearing was still on and the comment was broadcast live.

Rick Wilson, a political analyst from Rice University, said Welch spent too much time on the gay issue.

As for the televised gaffe, "He was as much as much to blame as the media," the analyst said.

Nichols said Times Mirror officials told him the microwave company would have to buy new equipment to broadcast WFAA.

Times Mirror had said earlier it could no longer broadcast the station here because it lost the lease on the Sweetwater microwave tower. "They'd have to get a return on their investment," Nichols said.

Autopsy upholds suicide ruling

An autopsy performed on Terry Lee Hart, 24, of Hood Trailer Park on North Birdwell Lane, upholds Judge Melvin Daratt's initial ruling of death by self-inflicted gunshot wounds, said China Long, a justice of the peace who ordered the autopsy Monday.

Hart reportedly shot himself Sunday morning after police arrived at his residence to arrest him as a suspect in a Saturday night car bombing at Terry Watkins' house at 1708 Owens, police records show.

Long said Dr. Robert R. Rember of Big Spring who performed the autopsy Tuesday told her Wednesday morning that Hart "most likely died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds."

District Attorney Rick Hamby said it was his understanding of the autopsy results that "nothing was inconsistent," about Daratt's initial ruling.

"We're relieved that there is no evidence of foul play," Hamby said.

He said the autopsy initially was requested by Texas Ranger Charles Brune.

Long said she ordered the autopsy after receiving Hamby's and Brune's request because she "felt if they wanted information with this — there was no problem with that."

Police Beat

Burglary suspect arrested

Police have arrested a fourth adult suspect in a burglary ring they say committed at least 60 burglaries in the last year, Lt. Jerry Edwards said Tuesday.

James Lyndon Rhodes, 18, of 10 Highland Heather was arrested at the police station Tuesday morning on suspicion of burglary.

Thursday, police arrested three other adult suspects: Joy Diane Anderson, 22, and Troy Yules Barrett, 19, both of 1503 State; and Richard Charles Clayton, 17, of 3912 Parkway.

Anderson, Barrett, Clayton and a 16-year-old boy arrested at the same time have given statements to police concerning the burglaries. Two more juveniles also were implicated in the ring, Edwards said.

Rhodes is suspected of involvement in "five or six burglaries that we're pretty sure of," Edwards said. "There may be more."

Carol Reyes of 806 E. 15th told police someone ran up to her in the front yard and pointed a gun at her at 11:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Jean Carroll of 911 W. Third told police someone stole her black purse and billfold, valued at $50, at 6:50 p.m. Tuesday from the front seat of her 1982 Oldsmobile.

Also taken were $40 in cash, jewelry, a checkbook and miscellaneous contents.

Vandals tossed a gallon of black paint on the west wall of the back porch and the cement porch floor of 2622 Langley between 3 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Monday, according to a police report.

Carmen Salazar of Greenbelt Properties at 2501 Fairchild reported the vandalism to police.

Sheriff's Log

Man arrested on warrant

Howard County sheriff's deputy George Quintero arrested Gary Wayne Prater, 37, of Vincent Route on Tuesday afternoon on a warrant charging him with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

He was later released on $15,000 bond.

Deputies released Travis Lee Pittman, 25, of 1012 W. Third from jail after he served 15 days for a driving while intoxicated judgment.

A Department of Public Safety trooper arrested Michael Alan Miller, 28, of Austin on suspicion of DWI. He is also wanted on Travis County warrants for two possession of marijuana charges.

He remains in county jail in lieu of bonds totaling $3,000.

The Northside Community Center's walk-a-thon is Sunday, Nov. 17, not Nov. 10, said Marianne Brown, center director.
Walkers are to meet at the old Montgomery Ward parking lot at 1 p.m. that day for the 11-mile walk. The walk-a-thon begins at 1:30 p.m.

15-year-old in city jail tries to hang himself

A 15-year-old boy who police say tried to hang himself in Big Spring's municipal jail "is stable and awake," an intensive care nurse said from Malone-Hogan Hospital this morning.

The nurse said the boy would remain in the intensive care ward through Wednesday afternoon while a decision is being made on whether he would be transferred to Big Spring State Hospital.

Roy Osborne, a Big Spring police captain, said the boy "was found by another jail prisoner to be suspended by his jail clothing on bars in his cell."

Osborne said the attempted hanging occurred at 3:05 p.m.

The jailer and two reserve officers cut the boy down before Lee Ambulance arrived, Osborne said.

"They (ambulance attendants) did everything to stabilize him here. He was semi-conscious and breathing on his own when he left the police department," Osborne said.

Police Chief Rick Turner said the boy had been released from Big Spring State Hospital on Monday afternoon.

Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said police were detaining him in municipal jail "at the request of juvenile detention authorities."

District juvenile probation officers would make no comment on the incident this morning.

Osborne said the boy had been with a visitor before returning to his cell. Approximately two minutes later, Osborne said, another jail prisoner looked through the cell door porthole and discovered the boy.

"If he (other prisoner) hadn't looked through there — he (the boy) would have died," Osborne said.

He said the juvenile was from Big Spring and was the only occupant of the jail cell where the hanging occurred.

Statewide, the measure passed 664,565 votes to 273,032.

A second "law-and-order" measure, sponsored by state Sen. J. E. "Buster" Brown, a Republican candidate for attorney general, passed by 73 percent in the county. Proposition 11 garnered 1,424 ballots for and 520 against.

Across the state, it picked up 607,274 votes to 277,494. The measure calls for defendants to object to defects in an indictment before trial or else waive the right to object to any defect on appeal.

Proposition 8, which authorizes an additional $500 million to continue making $20,000 low-interest home loans to Texas veterans, passed in Howard County, 1,317 votes, or 63 percent, to 763.

State Land Commissioner Garry Mauro called the proposal's passage the "best possible Veterans Day present possible." It passed statewide 602,934 votes to 328,185, according to incomplete state returns.

State election results were not available for the remaining eight amendments. They are:

• Proposition 3, which allows cities to pay for water hookups on private property, with residential customers paying the city back in installments. The measure passed in Howard County, 1,219 votes, or 60 percent, to 802.

• Proposition 4, which authorizes the state to use proceeds from the sale of public-school land to acquire other land for the Permanent School Fund. County residents approved the sale, 1,454 votes, or 70 percent, to 869 votes.

• Proposition 5, which would allow the Legislature to regulate the provision of health care by hospital districts. Howard County voters tallied 1,164 ballots, or 57 percent, for the measure to 869 against.

• Proposition 7, which allows Chambers County to have six justices of the peace precincts. The measure passed with a 66 percent majority, 1,238 votes for the proposal to 645 against.

• Proposition 9, which allows the Legislature to require state agencies to obtain approval before spending or making an emergency transfer of appropriated funds. County voters approved the measure, 1,208 votes to 763, a 61 percent majority.

• Proposition 12, which gives the Texas Supreme Court and Texas Court of Criminal Appeals jurisdiction to answer federal court questions about state law. County voters passed the proposal by 73 percent, 1,424 to 520.

• Proposition 13, which creates a Judicial Districts Board to propose reapportionment plans for district court districts. The proposition passed by 58 percent in Howard County, 1,092 votes to 796.

• Proposition 14, which abolishes the office of county treasurer in Andrews County — and in El Paso County if a majority of the local voters agree — and abolishes the office of county surveyor in Denton, Randall, Collin, El Paso and Henderson counties, if a majority of the voters approve in a local election.

County voters passed the measure by 69 percent, casting 1,272 votes for and 572 against the proposal.

Geneva on Nov. 19-20.

Shultz told reporters the talks had not produced any agreements or narrowed the differences significantly between the two sides.

"Shultz didn't seem very optimistic, based on his meeting with the Soviet leader yesterday," a reporter told the president.

Accident victim stable

A 72-year-old Coahoma man was in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital Wednesday morning, a spokesperson said, suffering injuries received in a three-vehicle accident Tuesday.

Raymond Anderson was taken to Malone-Hogan after the 10:24 a.m. accident, according to a Texas Department of Public Safety accident report.

The report said a car driven by Ronald H. Shults, 27, of 1212

Mulberry and a tanker rig driven by a person who refused to identify himself, were traveling in the west-bound lane of Interstate 20 when they exited at ramp 182 near Midway Road.

Anderson, who was traveling on the eastbound side, failed to yield right-of-way and struck both vehicles. He was cited for failure to yield right-of-way and traveling at an unsafe speed, according to the report.

Murder trial set for Nov. 18

Two men accused in the March murder of an 81-year-old Big Spring woman will stand trial by jury in 118th District Court on Nov. 18, said District Judge James Gregg.

Jorge Loy Chavana, 21, of 817 W. Eighth and Angel Martinez, 22, of 808 Magnolia were indicted by Howard County grand jurors in April on two separate charges of murder.

Big Spring police charged Chavana and Martinez with beating and robbing Maurine Terrell in her home at 1400 Scurry on March 5. She died three days later in Lubbock General Hospital from head injuries suffered during the attack.

Gregg said jury selection for the trial would begin Monday.

He said both men would be tried together before the same jury.

Chavana is represented by attorneys Robert Garcia and Tony Chavez of Odessa. Martinez is represented by Javier Alvarez of Lubbock.

District Attorney Rick Hamby will prosecute.

Law backs AIDS victims

SAN FRANCISCO — Legislation that will prevent discrimination against people suffering from AIDS has been unanimously approved by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors. The proposed law passed Tuesday is modeled after similar legislation in Los Angeles and West Hollywood. It would make it unlawful to fire AIDS victims, evict them or discriminate against them in public accommodations.

Alien hits jackpot

SAN JOSE, Calif. — A young Mexican who sneaked across the border in search of the American dream will go home with a big piece of it after winning the California Lottery's $2 million jackpot. Jose Caballero, a 24-year-old illegal alien who earns $200 a week, will be able to collect his winnings — $100,000 a year for 20 years, less taxes — but he'll have to leave the country or risk deportation, officials said Tuesday.

Lawmakers pursue talks

WASHINGTON — The Republican-led Senate, backed by President Reagan, repudiated Democratic attempts to protect the poor, elderly and veterans from spending cuts as the lawmakers braced for further high-pressure talks over a balanced-budget proposal.

"We think rather than seek items to be excluded from deficit reduction and budget cuts, we should pursue a course that makes a reduction across the board, assuming that it is equitable and fair to all," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Tuesday.

Probe takes new turn

ATLANTA — Although the FBI has nearly completed its investigation into a plane crash that killed a pilot and 16 skydivers, it has not found sugar in the plane's fuel as another federal agency did, a newspaper reported today.

Earlier tests by the National Transportation Safety Board found contamination by sucrose in relatively large amounts.

Pilot lands in trouble

FRESNO, Calif. — The pilot of a private plane who thought he was landing at Oakland International Airport when he touched down in Fresno, 150 miles away, was arrested for investigation of drunken flying, police said.

Norman T. Lawrence, 39, of Oakland failed to radio the tower at Fresno Air Terminal late Friday before he landed without lights and nearly hit a charter plane approaching the runway, said Ed Hammonds, manager of the Federal Aviation Administration flight standards office in Fresno.

FIRES GO skyward Tuesday after an explosion rocked a petroleum refinery in Mont Belvieu, about 30 miles east of Houston. Two persons are missing and the damage is estimated in millions of dollars.

Two killed as storage vault explodes

MONT BELVIEU, Texas (AP) — Damages will run into the millions of dollars at a salt dome gas storage vault where a series of explosions killed two workers and forced hundreds of people to flee their homes, a petroleum company spokesman said.

About 200 firefighters worked almost six hours Tuesday to control the blaze, fueled by liquified propane from three pipelines that could not be shut off because intense heat kept crews away from the valves.

A five-foot underground pipeline ruptured at the Warren Petroleum Co. refinery and storage plant while workers were doing maintenance work, according to Cul Ingram, spokesman for Chevron Inc., which owns Warren and the 300-acre complex about 30 miles east of downtown Houston.

Ingram said the charred area, about 10 percent of the plant, would be closed for a few weeks and damages would run into the millions.

"An investigation will go on for a week, at least," he said. "This is a substantial fire and a lot of damage. It will take time to get in."

Mayor Fred Miller ordered evacuation of the entire town of 1,200, fearing the fire would spread through a network of gas lines beneath the town.

The mayor lifted the order Tuesday evening for about half the residents but refused to allow residents living near the plant to return.

The blasts occurred in a salt dome used by at least 35 companies to store gas products. Smoke could be seen 30 miles away in downtown Houston.

"I saw gas rising four feet off the ground," said Henry Ford, a 40-year-old welder. "... I tuned my back and started running."

Explosions at the salt dome are nothing new. "This is becoming an annual event," complained Bill Wallace, who owns a nearby mobile home park.

KGB agent ready to leave U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — After satisfying the State Department he was not coerced by Soviet authorities, former KGB agent Vitaly Yurchenko prepared to return to his homeland, where a variety of experts believe a bleak future may await him.

There was no official statement on his travel plans but there were reports Yurchenko was preparing to return today aboard a Soviet aircraft that is bringing Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin back from presummit talks in Moscow.

Just three days after bolting from his CIA handlers, Yurchenko went to the State Department late Tuesday and was asked by officials whether his decision to return to the Soviet Union was made of his own free will.

State Department deputy spokesman Charles Redman said Yurchenko "repeated several times that he wished to return to the Soviet Union" and denied he was being pressured by Soviet authorities.

HANOVER, West Germany — Representatives of 18 nations agreed today to seek improvements in Europe's ability to compete with American and Japanese high technology through the Eureka, a technology pool proposed by France.

Seaway reopens

THOROLD, Ontario — More than 120 ships began lining up in the St. Lawrence Seaway to pass through the Welland Canal, blocked by a collapsed wall in a lock 23 days ago during the waterway's busiest season.

Officials said record rains and heavy winds slowed repairs to the canal in southern Ontario earlier this week, but they vowed to open the canal today with a bandage job that would allow ships to transport their cargo before the seaway closes for the winter.

Prisoners to be freed

WARSAW, Poland — The chief government spokesman announced that most of Poland's 368 political prisoners will be freed soon, and defended officials against Solidarity charges of government "lawlessness" in the death of a student.

Jerzy Urban, the government spokesman who announced Tuesday the impending release of the political prisoners, did not say whether officials would also release several prominent members of Solidarity, the banned trade federation.

Suspects questioned

MEXICO CITY — Fifteen farm workers have been detained for questioning about marijuana traffickers alleged to have ambushed and gunned down 22 members of an anti-drug squad in a remote area of southern Mexico, a military official said.

Gen. Jaime Jimenez Munoz, commander of the 29th military zone in Veracruz state, also said Tuesday that two people who lived in the area were killed in the gun battle, bringing the death toll to 24.

Peso hits record low

MEXICO CITY — The free-market value of the peso fell to a record low against the U.S. dollar, apparently as a result of investors' fears about the economy. The central bank announced restrictions on the buying and selling of pesos by foreign financial institutions.

Private currency exchange houses, which set their rates according to supply and demand, Tuesday offered 500 pesos for each U.S. dollar and demanded 521 pesos for a dollar.

Winter is season to secure home

Winter can turn faulty heating systems into deadly weapons. Now is the time for wise householders to carry out home fire safety campaigns.

Furnace, heaters, fuel lines, blowers, motors, wiring, pipes, ducts, flues and chimneys should be checked, cleared and repaired when necessary.

Portable kerosene or electric heaters should be safety inspected by fire prevention or qualified professional experts. Home wiring should be professionally inspected if electric heaters are to be used.

Flammable liquids should be stored safely, preferably outside the home and always away from areas where they might be ignited by sparks.

Smoke detectors can be lifesavers. Most are inexpensive and are easily installed but battery-operated models should be frequently checked for power loss.

Underwriter-approved fire extinguishers are a good idea for all homes. They can keep small fires from spreading but fire prevention officers stress that calling the fire department promptly is essential.

Exact instructions for calling the fire department or turning in an alarm should be memorized.

Saving lives is the first priority. A plan should be made for emergency escape should normal exits be blocked by smoke and flame. Strong ropes or rope ladders stored near windows and anchorable to pipes or heavy furniture provide means of lowering small children and descending from upper-story windows.

The plan should include emergency instructions for each member of the family, and each member should know his or her role.

Smart preventive measures can minimize the danger of home fires.

Dobrynin singled out by Reagan hard-liners

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Anatoly Fyodorovich Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador in Washington since 1962 and an intimate of high-level officials in both Democratic and Republican administrations, has been virtually frozen out of current arms-control negotiations by the United States, despite his years of dealing with such matters.

The reason, we suspect, is that intelligence reports have convinced the hard-line anti-communists in the Reagan administration that Dobrynin is the top KGB official in the Washington embassy. And they can't bring themselves to confide in the bogeyman.

Normally, the KGB "residentura" or chief is among the top five officers in a Soviet embassy, but not the ambassador. Exceptions in the past have included the ambassadors to Cuba, Indonesia, Afghanistan, Morocco and Colombia, according to our intelligence sources. So Dobrynin is a rarity among top-flight Soviet diplomats.

Of course, the genial Dobrynin, who will be 66 on Nov. 16, has been a rare bird in other ways, too. His tall, portly frame and cordial, almost shy demeanor don't fit the mold of the dour, suspicious, tight-lipped Soviet envoy typified by Vyacheslav "Iron Pants" Molotov and Andrei Gromyko. Dobrynin has long been a favorite on Washington's diplomatic party circuit and is now the senior member of the city's diplomatic corps.

He is always staunch and vigorous in his defense of the Soviet Union, no matter how indefensible the Kremlin's latest shocker may seem to non-Soviets. But he usually employs a puckish sense of humor, which combines with his gold-rimmed spectacles to give him the appearance of an almost saintly, latter-day Ben Franklin.

Dobrynin's debut in Washington was hardly auspicious: He lied to Attorney General Robert Kennedy in October 1962, when asked if the Soviets were installing offensive nuclear missiles in Cuba. There are some who still insist that he didn't lie, that he was genuinely unaware of what his bosses in Moscow were up to.

Whatever the case, Dobrynin soon enjoyed a unique status among foreign diplomats here. He became the White House's chief contact with the Kremlin on a wide range of matters. President Johnson even gave him his private phone number — and Dobrynin used it at least once.

Henry Kissinger elevated Dobrynin to an even more exalted status when he was President Nixon's national security adviser. The two were on an easy, first-name basis, and it was their secret conversations that nailed the SALT I and ABM treaties. Once Kissinger flew to Moscow secretly with Dobrynin; the American ambassador had no inkling of the visit until Kissinger was about to leave.

When Kissinger became secretary of state, he arranged for Dobrynin to be allowed to drive right into the department's underground garage and be whisked in a private elevator up to the secretary's seventh-floor office. This privilege was continued during the Carter administration.

Former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance credits Dobrynin with being the indispensable negotiator of the SALT II treaty. Then-national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski was another fan — even though the ambassador consistently beat him at chess during hours-long private battles.

The big chill set in with the sudden ferocity of a Russian winter when Ronald Reagan was inaugurated. In fact, Dobrynin learned of the change in political climate on Jan. 29, 1981, when he drove up to Foggy Bottom's underground entrance intending to pay his respects to the new secretary of state, Gen. Alexander Haig. He was turned back and had to use the main entrance like any other ambassador. His access to top administration officials is now no greater than any envoy's.

FUDDLE FACTORY: The FBI has conducted two reviews of the security arrangements at the Los Angeles Olympic Games last year, and has identified nine "lessons" that can be applied to future events. What were they? The G-men don't want you to know. The FBI "After-action Report for the Games of the XXIIIrd Olympiad — Los Angeles 1984" is stamped "secret." We're working on it.

YOUNG ASTRONAUTS: A blizzard of mail has hit the Young Astronaut Council from children who want to become Young Astronauts. The letters confirm that they are warm, willing, wonderful kids. Typically, 11-year-old Monica Joy announced that she wants to be "the first lady on the moon." She added, "I have waited and waited, studied and studied." A 13-year-old, named Charles Henry, was even willing to earn his own membership fee. "I think I'd be a great Young Astronaut," he wrote. "So if it cost anything, I think I, myself, might be able to catch the bill." As for motivation, consider this application from Freddy M.: "Please send me my kit so my friends and me can become good American Astronauts and learn about how other planets live without war."

Spending, and not deficit, is culprit

Cutting the budget deficit is a painful job that every member of Congress shirks. Oh, sure, they all say they want to do it, and they may actually mean it, but when it comes time to step forward and slash some program that has powerful supporters, they all get squeamish. So they've hit on a way to force themselves to do it, and the scheme is clever enough that it might work.

Gramm-Rudman-Hollings, named for the senators pushing it, aims at tying the hands of future Congresses to bring the budget into balance. It establishes a maximum acceptable deficit for each of the next six fiscal years, declining from $180 billion next year to zero in 1991. Congress would have a choice. It could choose the spending cuts or tax increases required to reach these goals. If it didn't, the President would have to implement automatic across-the-board cuts to keep the deficit within the limit.

The idea is simple. Given a relatively pleasant option, increasing the deficit, and some unpleasant ones, cutting programs or raising taxes, Congress will usually choose the former. So Gramm-Rudman-Hollings removes that option. Instead, members would have to choose among the unpleasant options.

If Congress has to decide whether to abolish Amtrak or to let the Treasury issue some more bonds, it'll keep Amtrak. But if the only way to save Amtrak is, say, to cancel the cost-of-living adjustment for military retirement benefits, it may decide passenger trains are obsolete after all.

This is a strange way to get at the problem of bloated government, or even at the deficit. Still, that's better than no way, which is what Congress and the President have come up with in the past. It would be much more sensible for both to agree on ways to bring the budget under control — and to do it this year. But they haven't been able to.

This might force them into agreement. Once passed, Congress can't get out of the restrictions without the President's approval. If Reagan is willing to use his veto to prevent a retreat, there is no reason the measure shouldn't work. The proposal has drawn heavy fire. One gripe is that it offers no guarantee of deficit reductions, since the bill, if passed, could always be repealed. Another criticism is that it exempts for the biggest domestic program of all, Social Security, which accounts for more than a fifth of the entire budget.

Both criticisms are accurate. But they recall the students who complained that their cafeteria's food was inedible and that they weren't allowed seconds. If the bill is really useless, it doesn't matter what is exempt. If, however, it will have some effect, it's silly to argue that if we can't cut Social Security, we shouldn't cut anything.

A more serious defect is the bill's preoccupation with the deficit. You don't have to be a woolly-headed Keynesian to recognize the folly of raising taxes to close the deficit during a period of economic doldrums. The bill has an escape clause in case of an actual recession, but it affords no flexibility if a "growth recession" strikes.

But that problem has an easy solution: Instead of hinging everything on reductions in the deficit, hinge them on reductions in spending. That way, an unforeseen drop in revenues due to rising unemployment wouldn't force Congress to tax us into a full-blown slump. Likewise, if fiscal stimulus is needed, Congress would be able to use tax cuts. It just wouldn't be able to raise spending.

And spending, not the deficit, is the real villain, since it is the true measure of the government's drain on the nation's economic resources. Better a $1 trillion deficit limit with a $200 billion deficit than a $2 trillion budget in perfect balance. Replacing this bill's deficit limits with spending limits would prevent the greater evil — and probably eliminate the lesser one too.

In a better world, jerry-built constraints on the budget wouldn't be wise or necessary. In the existing world of soaring spending and chronic red ink, they're worth a try.

Accept gift of His love

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I feel like a yo-yo or roller coaster spiritually — up and down all the time. One day I will be convinced God is real and feel His presence, and the next day I will doubt it. For every step I take forward, I take another step backwards. — T.T.S.

DEAR T.T.S.: I receive many letters like yours, and I know this is a common problem. But God does not want our spiritual lives to be this way. Instead, we can have the assurance that God loves us and is with us every day. When we make use of the resources He has given us, we can learn to live above our circumstances, our emotions and our doubts. Our goal should be to "grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ" (2 Peter 3:18).

How can you do that? First, make sure of your commitment to Jesus Christ. One reason for your doubts may be that you have never really come to know God personally. But God has done everything possible to take away your sins and make you part of His family, by sending His only Son to die on the cross for you. Accept the gift of His love today, by asking Jesus Christ to come into your life by faith. God has promised — and He cannot lie — that He "has given us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. He who has the Son has life" (1 John 5:11-12).

Second, learn to walk with Christ every day by spending time with Him in His Word and in prayer. Do you want your faith to grow? The Bible says: "Faith comes from hearing the message, and the message is heard through the word of Christ" (Romans 10:17). Set aside a few minutes and begin reading a portion of the Bible each day. (Begin with the Gospel of John, for example, or the little letter of First John.) Ask God to teach you through its truth. When your faith is based on the facts of God's Word, you will no longer find yourself on a spiritual roller coaster!

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Nov. 6, the 310th day of 1985. There are 55 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On Nov. 6, 1860, former Illinois congressman Abraham Lincoln defeated three other candidates for the presidency of the United States. On this date:

In 1854, the "king" of American march music, John Philip Sousa, was born.

In 1861, Jefferson Davis was elected to a six-year term as president of the Confederacy.

In 1869, the first official intercollegiate football game was played in New Brunswick, N.J. In that game, Rutgers beat Princeton, six goals to four.

In 1900, President William McKinley was re-elected, beating Democratic challenger William Jennings Bryan.

In 1913, Mohandas K. Gandhi was arrested as he led a march of Indian miners in South Africa.

In 1928, in a first, the results of Herbert Hoover's election victory over Alfred E. Smith were flashed onto an electric sign outside the New York Times building.

In 1956, President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon won re-election, defeating Democrats Adlai E. Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

In 1962, Edward M. Kennedy was elected senator from Massachusetts.

Ten years ago: Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller told a news conference in Washington that he had decided to withdraw as President Gerald R. Ford's running mate in 1976 because of "party squabbles."

Five years ago: In his first post-election news conference, Pres.-elect Ronald Reagan said in Los Angeles he would do all he could to gain the release of the American hostages in Iran, but he would not intrude on the delicate negotiations already in progress.

One year ago: President Reagan overwhelmed his Democratic challenger, Walter F. Mondale, winning re-election by a landslide.

Decision to replace freeway sparks controversy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — City supervisors have voted to tear down a downtown highway that obstructs a view of San Francisco Bay, the latest chapter in a controversy that has dogged the mile-long stretch of road since it opened in 1959.

The supervisors decided Monday to replace the Embarcadero Freeway, a double-deck, concrete hulk on the waterfront, with a tree-lined boulevard and other improvements to transportation in the area.

For proponents, the issue centered on aesthetics.

"Concern about what the city looks like is probably more intense here than anywhere," said Dean Macris, city planning director.

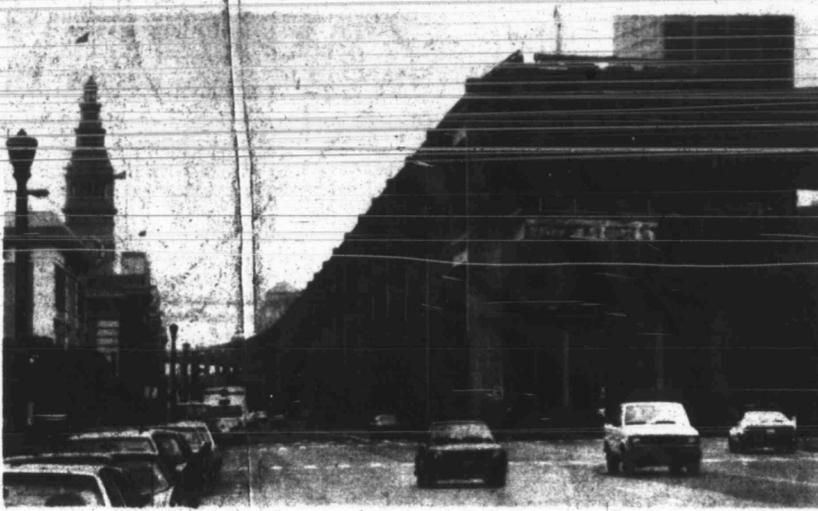

"Through a beautiful city a raised concrete monolith is very destructive," said Mayor Dianne Feinstein, who strongly supports the plan to tear down the freeway.

Opponents contended the $171 million needed to raze the road and make the improvements was too much to spend. Besides, said Supervisor Richard Hongisto, the new plans could make commuting much harder.

"I have no faith in the ability of the people in this city to build a functional roadway," he said.

The freeway, ordered razed on an 8-2 vote, separates the city's downtown section from the bay and never has been very popular.

It was originally planned to stretch from the Oakland-San Francisco Bay Bridge to the Golden Gate Bridge, about six miles away.

THE DOUBLE-DECK Embarcadero Freeway which separates the city's downtown from the San Francisco Bay area ends, right, near Broadway. City planners are deciding on a plan to tear down the freeway and replace it with tree-lined boulevard. The problem is over what to do with the traffic.

But in the early 1960s, "it became the victim of a freeway revolt," said Macris, as residents complained it was ugly and would divide their neighborhoods.

Construction stopped, and as a result "it really is not a freeway,"

Macris says. "It's a very long ramp to the Bay Bridge."

The plan to raze the elevated roadway still faces a possible veto by the regional Metropolitan Transportation Commission or the governor.

Tearing down the Embarcadero

Freeway will cost about $10 million, according to city estimate. Of the $171 million total for the project, $87 million in federal money of the plan to raze the road. "It opens up the whole waterfront area, making it a much more attractive place."

TDC counsel substitutes combine roles of investigator, defender and counsel

ANGLETON, Texas (AP) — Shortly before 11 a.m., an inmate is escorted into a small office from main hall at the Texas Department of Corrections' Retrieve Unit near Angleton.

He stands before a desk, facing Capt. Jim MacDonald.

At the inmate's side is TDC officer Hilario Montalvo Jr. As a counsel substitute, Montalvo helps inmates accused of violating rules.

MacDonald believes it is one of the toughest jobs in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Before, during and after disciplinary hearings, they serve inmates as investigator, defender and counsel.

"You can't be all three," says Robert Moore, Retrieve's other counsel substitute. "You're definitely investigator."

The accused must trust his counsel, a bond built on communication.

"You have to talk in such a fashion that you're not reprimanding them because that's already been done," Moore says.

MacDonald introduces everyone and asks the accused if he knows what the hearing is about.

He does.

He is accused of possession of weapons. If found guilty, he could be reclassified and lose his job, privileges and good time.

Good time is credited toward prison terms above and beyond time actually served.

MacDonald says some classifications award up to 45 extra days for every month served. Others award none.

Unit disciplinary committees cannot touch a prisoner's flat time, or actual time served, but they can delay his release by taking away his good time and changing his classification.

Discipline relies on rewards and punishments, MacDonald says. Well-behaved inmates receive privileges, good classifications and good time.

"Any time you have rewards, you have to have punishment," he says.

The process replaces a system in which building tenders or guards disciplined inmates, sometimes brutally.

"That is gone. That is gone," MacDonald says. "It is not being used in the TDC and certainly not at the Retrieve Unit."

"How do you plead to that charge, possession of a weapon? Guilty or not guilty," MacDonald asks.

Montalvo whispers in the prisoner's ear.

"Not guilty," the inmate responds.

Counsel substitutes' jobs are difficult due to growing case loads and the need sometimes to defend inmates they know are guilty.

They recommend the guilty plead guilty because punishment usually is not as severe if the committee believes an inmate is being honest, Moore says.

"Let's face it, sometimes we all just mess up," he says. MacDonald stresses counsels must be honest too.

Before the hearing, counsel substitutes such as Moore and Montalvo help accused inmates gather facts and witnesses.

Information found in their investigations is not confidential. It can be used against the accused, he says.

"The disciplinary process is a fact-finding process," he says. "If they lie for an inmate, they will never be substitute counsels again."

Six sharpened steel rods were found hidden in the frame of the inmate's bunk during a shutdown earlier in the month.

"I just moved into that bunk the day before or two days before," the accused says.

He inspected the bunk for contraband, he says, including the pillow, blanket and locker, but he did not turn the bunk over.

He believes the weapons belong to the bunk's previous occupant, a suspected gang member whose stabbing was the reason for the shutdown.

"Did you put them in there," MacDonald asks the accused.

"No, I did not," he replies. Inmates state their cases at hearings. Fair hearings and competent counsel are vital.

At Retrieve, the committee that metes out punishment is comprised of Ernesto Luna, Bobby Beam and MacDonald, its chairman.

"I do my damndest to make sure the guy is given a fair hearing," MacDonald says.

Luna was a counsel substitute for about eight months this year.

MacDonald says Luna was very good and became an expert on TDC policy and procedures. Inmates often asked him to represent them.

Luna sits in judgment now while inmates and counsel substitutes make their pleas. The new role hasn't changed his status with inmates.

"They know that I'm going to go by the rules and the facts, period," Luna says.

The weapons were found when a search team turned over the inmate's bunk.

Rules state inmates must make sure their areas contain no contraband, MacDonald says.

"They know the rules as well as we do. Probably better," Moore says.

He says inmates often do not understand reasons for rules and break them without thinking of consequences.

Ford to offer airbags starting next March

DETROIT (AP) — Melanie Stephenson was rounding a curve on a New England country lane when her Ford Tempo slid on an oil patch and smashed head-on into a propane tanker truck.

The car was a total wreck, but she walked away from the June 18 accident with a banged-up knee and a bruised arm.

Hers was one of 7,400 Fords equipped with a driver-side airbag.

The case was mentioned Monday by Ford Motor Co. Chairman Donald Petersen, who called a news conference to announce the company would offer driver-only airbags to the general public next March as an $815 option on its Tempo and Mercury Topaz compact cars.

"A couple of seconds before I hit I closed my eyes. This truck was huge and Tempos aren't that big," Stephenson said Monday in a telephone interview from her Westport, Conn., home.

"It was like falling into air," she said. "The only pain I had was from my knees." The arm bruise was from the airbag.

The combination of the airbag and fastened seat belt saved her life, she said, and her friends and co-workers have become converts to the airbag cause.

Stephenson, 23, is a field representative for Travelers Insurance Co. and hers was one of about 2,400 insurance company fleet cars equipped with the bags. Another 5,000 U.S. government Tempos and Topazes have airbags.

Ford's move to make them available to anyone marks the first offering of airbags to the public since General Motors Corp. did so for three years a decade ago.

"I had my seat belt on, which is really important," Stephenson said. "If I had had the seat belt without the airbag, I definitely would have hit the steering wheel. They said there was a lot of wear on the seat belt" from the impact.

She knew the car had an airbag but, at the instant of the accident, "it didn't dawn on me," she said.

She said she had touched the brakes while taking the corner at about 25 mph, hit a patch of oil and slid into the truck's path.

"I never blacked out, but when I opened my eyes the airbag was in front of me," she said. Stephenson doesn't remember hearing the loud bang, like a rifle shot, of the airbag being propelled from the steering wheel.

"I went back to work that afternoon. It wasn't until I saw the car from the outside that it hit me," she said. "I never would have believed I was in that car."

Dear Abby

Bride's old flame as guest kindles groom's slow burn

DEAR ABBY: If plans go according to schedule, I'll be married next June. I met "Julia" when I was a senior at college. She was a junior. After I graduated, I drove down to see her nearly every weekend. I live about two hours from there. We started to go steady, then I gave her an engagement ring.

One night Julia called me from college crying. She said she had fooled around with a guy I knew (I'll call him John), but she promised she would never go near him again.

She called me several times after that to say John was still "after her," but she didn't want me to do anything about it because she could handle it. Meanwhile, I was very upset after these calls.

Then one morning she called in tears to say that John had given her a ride somewhere, refused to take her home and tried to rape her, but she fought him off. I told her I was driving right down there to have it out with him, but she begged me not to, saying they have a lot of mutual friends and she didn't want any awkward feelings. She asked me for her sake to forgive and forget.

Here's the payoff: Julia put John on her guest list for our wedding! I told her I couldn't stand the sight of that guy and I didn't want him anywhere near us on our wedding day. She says he's a good friend to all her friends and she can't leave him out. I am ready to tell Julia if she wants to marry me, she can't invite John. Am I wrong?

END OF ROPE

DEAR END: No! Why your fiancée would even consider inviting to her wedding a man who tried to rape her is a mystery to me. Give her a choice, you or John. And if you back down and permit John to be a guest at your wedding, prepare to do a lot more forgiving and forgetting.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your very informative column on fire prevention. May I add one more fire hazard to the list? It's one I never would have thought of, but it nearly cost me my home.

Late one morning I smelled smoke. The last room I searched was the spare bedroom. As I entered the room, I saw the heavy drapes pulled back from the window burst into flames!

I had left a magnifying makeup mirror on a table by an east window, and apparently the sun on the mirror had reflected onto the drapes!

STILL SHAKING IN WESTLAKE, ORE.

DEAR STILL: Thank you for the valuable tip and your reassuring comment. Apparently a St. Louis reader was less than fired up about that column:

DEAR ABBY: Your column is one of the first things I read in the Globe-Democrat, but the one about fire prevent was very disappointing. I enjoy your column when a problem is posed and you offer a solution, but the essay on fire prevention is just not your thing and has no reader interest.

I hope you'll accept this in the constructive manner in which it is offered.

Dr. Donohue

Daytime drowsiness not narcolepsy

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 38-year-old woman with a longstanding problem in sleeping nights. I wonder if this insomnia is somehow related to what you call narcolepsy. My doctor says he is sure I don't have narcolepsy, but nevertheless I still wonder, I get definite periods of drowsiness during the day. How can you tell if one is suffering from narcolepsy? — Mrs. S.M.

The tired feeling you get in the middle of the day is not narcolepsy. In fact, the pattern of narcoleptic symptoms is very recognizable to a physician. The person has sudden and irresistible attacks of real sleep. Narcoleptics often have brief loss of muscle strength preceding sleep and may even fall to the floor. Total muscle paralysis (except for breathing and vision) may occur on awakening. Those and other hallmarks alert the doctor to the problem.

Yet even with such dramatic signs and symptoms as these, the diagnosis of narcolepsy is not easily made. Other conditions associated with loss of consciousness must be considered. For a definite diagnosis the doctor may have to conduct tests to determine just what goes on during sleep regarding heart and brain activity and eye movements.

I've taken a roundabout way to tell you I doubt that you have narcolepsy and to suggest that your episodes of drowsiness are very likely a result of your nighttime insomnia. You aren't the only one to write me in much the same vein, and I hope to clear up the obvious confusion on the matter of narcolepsy vs. plain daytime fatigue.

For the narcoleptic, the answer is use of stimulant drugs like amphetamine and methylphenidate. For people like you the answer is getting at the root of the insomnia, if possible without resort to narcotic sleep-inducers. This may mean searching for one of the sleep disorder clinics.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: About a year ago I was diagnosed as having polymyalgia rheumatica. My doctor, who has since moved from this area, started me on steroids and within a short time the aching of the muscles subsided. The doctor told me I didn't have the heart artery problem you mentioned in connection with polymyalgia rheumatica, so I guess I was lucky. Well, my question is, what about the steroids? I still take them for his prescription. How long did he intend for me to take them? — Mrs. E.M.

You have to keep on top of this and you must check with the doctor who took over your previous physician's practice. It is not unusual for the polymyalgia patient to remain on the steroids for extended periods, even years. Steroid dosage is usually reduced as blood tests indicate a leveling off of the disease. Arriving at an optimum dosage can take many months. Meanwhile, the doctor wants to be alerted to any signs of temporal arteritis, the vessel inflammation sometimes accompanying PR.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Are the mirror lens sunglasses good to use? Do they reflect the ultraviolet rays that are so damaging? — K.H.

The mirror lenses do help reflect many of the sun's rays, particularly the harmful ultraviolet ones. The American Academy of Ophthalmology specifically recommends them in a recent mailing that crossed my desk. And, according to them, the plastic lens is more effective than glass, which was a surprise to me.

Recipes prepared with the diabetic in mind

By CAROL BALDWIN
Lifestyle Editor

A reader called this week and asked us to publish some recipes for diabetics. We collected some of the following from cookbooks published by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The reader also wanted a recipe for spiced tea without sugar. We couldn't find a recipe for this and would appreciate any readers who have this recipe writing in and sharing it with the Recipe Exchange.

Diabetics must follow a diet plan to maintain normal amounts of glucose in the blood. It is wise for diabetics to consult their physicians or dietitians about what diet is proper for them.

The recipes below are also good for people who are not diabetic but who are watching their diets.

Oilman pleads guilty to drug charges

DALLAS (AP) — Hours before he was to go on trial in federal court, a 39-year-old Dallas oil executive accused of running an international cocaine and marijuana trafficking ring pleaded guilty to two cocaine-related charges. Federal prosecutors dropped 15 other charges against Joe Bill Bennett on Monday after he agreed to a plea bargain in which he said he would testify against a group of accused drug smugglers. "This is the best thing for him," Bennett's attorney, Charles W. Tessler, said. "He knows he has no one to blame but himself. He told me he should have stayed in the oil and transport business." Bennett pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to possess cocaine with intent to distribute and one count of possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

PARASKA JEZIEFSKY, who believes she may be related to a Soviet sailor who twice jumped ship in the Mississippi River, wipes away tears Monday on her way back from an unsuccessful attempt to deliver a letter to the sailor, Miroslav Medvid.

Government defends stand on handling sailor incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, defending its handling of an incident in which a Soviet sailor apparently jumped ship twice near New Orleans last month, says an international incident could result if it tried to seize the sailor and hold the Soviet ship in U.S. territorial waters. In arguments before the U.S. Court of Appeals on Monday, a government attorney said the courts should not involve themselves in political issues such as foreign policy. To ask the Secretary of State to prevent the Soviet freighter, the Marshal Koniev, from leaving the United States until the 22-year-old sailor, Miroslav Medvid, is asked again whether he wants asylum in the United States could "cause grave harm to other parties and to the public interest," argued U.S. attorney Richard Lawrence, an assistant U.S. attorney. "The forcible removal of an alien from a foreign ship could obviously cause significant adverse diplomatic consequences," Lawrence said, noting the possibility of "serious bodily injury to the boarding party as well as to members of the crew" of the ship. But attorneys for the Ukrainian-American Bar Association, which sued the government after Immigration and Naturalization officials returned Medvid to the Soviet freighter, disputed the government's claim that force would have to be used. Andrew Fylypovych, one of the association's attorneys, said the administration had asked to board the ship previously and received permission to do so. "They can ask again," he said. "We want to hold the ship in U.S. waters, not take Medvid off," Fylypovych told the three-member court. "Then we want a full hearing on the events that led to his return to the freighter. We want to freeze the status quo."

Salvation army plans ahead

Big Spring is one of 40 Texas cities where the Salvation Army is gearing up to conduct programs to assist the needy this Christmas.

Bright red kettles soon will be seen in the streets and shopping malls to help raise funds for the organization, according to a news release.

Army officers, workers and volunteers will distribute toys to needy children, provide food checks or vouchers to families and meals for individuals. League of Mercy volunteers will distribute gifts and mementos to patients in hospitals and clinics, nursing home residents, jail inmates and students in special schools.

Selected parents will be able to choose toys for their children from the Salvation Army toy shop a few days before Christmas this year. Names will be selected from Army and other agency welfare roles. Checks or vouchers also are given then to help families with the cost of a traditional Christmas dinner, according to the release.

Also, "dinners with all the trimmings" will be served at Salvation Army lodges for the needy during the holiday season, the release said.

Archaeology meeting set

MIDLAND — James Walker, the Southwest regional director of the Archaeological Conservancy in Santa Fe, N.M., will speak at Midland Archaeological Society's monthly meeting Thursday.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Blakemore Planetarium in Midland, and the public is invited, according to a news release.

Walker will show a slide presentation on the problems of vandalism and looting on privately owned archaeological sites and some of the solutions that have been employed over the years. The talk also will include recommendations about what landowners or concerned citizens can do to preserve existing archaeological resources.

New insurance available

Insured barley and wheat planted by Nov. 30 must be reported by Dec. 15 in order to receive full crop insurance coverage for Howard County, said Dottie Sampley, a representative for the Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

If damage occurs to a crop during the growing season, the FCIC should be notified promptly, she said.

A new crop insurance plan, Actual Production History, is available this year to producers of wheat, barley, oats and rye in addition to corn, grain

New highway commissioner talks on funds

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A request to widen Highway 87 south of Big Spring from two to four lanes will have to wait, but the county can expect major roadway improvements because of a redistribution of state department highway funds.

This was the message newly appointed Commissioner Ray Stoker of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation conveyed to a noontime audience at Tuesday's Rotary Club luncheon. The luncheon was sponsored by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

"You were wise in doing your planning now," Stoker said in reference to a recent request the chamber's transportation committee made to the state's transportation board.

The two-part request asked that immediate action be taken on a 38-mile lane expansion on Highway 87 south of Big Spring and that consideration be given to a major north-south bypass around Big Spring for U.S. 87.

The proposal to widen U.S. 87 "is in a 10-year plan and is working its way to the top," Stoker said. "Our purpose is to do what needs to be done — in an orderly fashion."

He initially told the audience the board would consider lane expansion requests for roadway traffic counts starting at a minimal 10,000 vehicles per day.

The portion of U.S. 87 south of Big Spring currently averages 6,500 vehicles per day, Stoker said.

But the county can expect more consideration from the board for other road improvements because of a restructuring of priority rates, Stoker said.

He said previous money allocated for road improvements was weighted in favor of engineers who submitted higher road congestion figures, which are evident in metropolitan areas.

The board amended its policy last July, Stoker said, and now more consideration is given to "center line miles," or requests for individual strips of roadway repair regardless of congestion.

He said an additional $100 million became available last September for rural roads because of the new priority rates in the board's Safety and Betterment Fund.

The department's emphasis now is on maintaining existing roadways rather than building new roads, he said.

Stoker said the board plans to raise future revenue by cracking down on "those who tear up the highways."

He said a recent study compiled by a research transportation group jointly established by Texas A&M University and University of Texas indicated that interstate carriers load their tires up to 25 percent more pounds per square inch than the average vehicle on the roadway.

"It does nothing but cut four ruts in the road," Stoker said. "We're going to let some air out of their tires" by cracking down on weight checks conducted on the state's freeways, he said.

He also said Department of Public Safety patrolmen were "going to make (interstate carriers) abide by the speed limits."

sorghum, peanuts, cotton, rice and other crops. Sampley said with a yield guarantee that reflects production capability, crop insurance establishes a farm income floor. Thus cash flow and the ability to repay a loan may be more accurately projected, she said.

Adults can enter their favorite children in the NAACP's latest fundraiser, "A Parade of Stars."

Winners are determined by who raises the most money, according to a release from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's local chapter. Each dollar raised counts as one vote for that child, the release stated. Winners will receive trophies at an awards ceremony Nov. 16.

Categories, arranged by age, are: Twinkle, Twinkle Little Stars for infants to 1 year old; Little Dippers for ages 2-3; and Big Dippers for ages 4-6. The overall winner will be the "North Star."

The class, for adults who wish to earn a high school equivalency diploma, will be at Westside Community Center on Wednesdays from Nov. 6 to Dec. 18 from 6-9 p.m. For more information, call the college at 267-6311, Ext. 315.

Business planning meet set

Hospital exceeds target

The hospital also has offered the services of personnel director Richard Hoolahan for the local United Way campaign. He is chairman of the Loaned Executive Program for Big Spring and Howard County this year.

Revealing a secret

One of the best kept track secrets in the state is right here in the Crossroads Country.

To track down this secret one must travel 30 miles south of Big Spring to the tiny community of Lenorah. To find this secret one has to stay on their toes because this secret is hard to catch up with. Just ask any opponent that has ever run against Shanna Hale.

Remember her name because you'll be hearing a lot about her in years to come. Hale, a senior at Grady High School has been dominating cross country and track circles since her freshmen year.

The only bad thing is that West Texas is not one of your track and field hotbeds. It's no wonder not many people know she's one of the top distance runners in the Lone Star State.

But the blonde, hazel eyed flash is just that. Every since her freshmen season, she's outrun this area. She's already been to the state meet two years in-a-row, coming away with two silver medals.

Her sophomore year Hale competed in the 1600 meters. Last year she tried the 3200. This Saturday she will be making her bid for the gold in the Class A and AA Division at the State Cross Country meet in Georgetown.

It will be a momentous occasion for Grady High School since Hale will be the first runner from that school to compete in a state cross country meet. In fact, she and four other female runners made Grady history when they formed a cross country team this season.

That's why this is Hale's first trip to the state cross country meet.

But with all the success Hale has had, she's still a very down-to-earth person. Her main goal in life is to run track at the collegiate level. Unfortunately, not very many track coaches come to the eastern part of West Texas to scout distance runners, especially Class A distance runners.

But what they don't know is that this young lady has all the potential in the world. Not very many sprinters-turned distance runners are capable of a sub-12 minute two mile or a 5:20 mile? Hale can.

"The kid is addicted to running, said her coach Ted Bedwell. "She works hard at it. She's trained all summer and right now she's in the best shape she's ever been in."

"Running is a big joy to me," said the soft-spoken distance star. "I just like doing it. There are times when I workout when I don't want to. But the hard work doesn't affect me because I want to go to college and run."

How can a coach resist a talented person with an attitude like that?

Coach Bedwell is quick to add that Hale will be a big addition to some college's track program. "She needs to run for somebody. She's got such a big heart and so much talent. With the right program and right competition, there's no telling how good she can be."

Just like this cross country season. The only time she's been beaten this season is by a Class 5-A runner who went to the state meet last season. As far as her on level of competition, she's had very little.

Her main competition at state will be from Woodson's Cindy Harper, the runner that beat her in the two mile at the state meet in May. The two haven't faced each other this season, but I wouldn't advise anyone to bet against Hale.

Bedwell is pleased because the meet will give more colleges to see his star performer. "She needs all the exposure she can get. Our area is not that big on cross country running. It's hard to get recognized when you come from a

Forsan 9th in AP prep poll

The Forsan Buffaloes made their way into the Associated Press Schoolboy Football Class A Top Ten for the first time this year, at the ninth spot, after beating previously fifth-ranked Roscoe, 23-8 last Friday. The victory raised the Buffaloes record to 9-0, with only Roby in the way of a perfect regular season.

Forsan head coach Jan East was pleased at hearing the news. "I think it's pretty good and I know the kids are real pleased. We felt like we would get in there if we beat Roscoe. We've been ranked the Harris Poll all year long, but it's nice to get mentioned in both."

Forsan is currently ranked sixth in the Harris Poll, their highest ranking of the year.

The Munday Moguls, with a 25-game winning streak and a high-scoring offense, gained unanimous selection as the state's No. 1 ranked Class A team.

Roscoe and Runge, ranked Nos. 5 and 6 in Class A last week, also dropped out of the top 10 following losses. They were replaced by Forsan, and Agua Dulce, 7-1.

A tug-of-war between No. 1 ranked Tomball and runnerup Denison in 4A, also highlighted the latest voting by The AP's panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Houston Yates in 5A, Navasota in 3A, and Electra in 2A, joined Tomball and Munday as the top-ranked teams in the weekly voting.

The Moguls, defending state Class A champs, defeated Archer City 60-0 last week and received all 28 first place votes, leading runnerup Goldthwaite by a 280-238 net margin.

Munday is the state's highest scoring team in any classification with 445 points and a 49.4 per game average. The Moguls have allowed only 19 points.

Tomball, aided by a state record rushing performance by Bubba Greely, defeated Brenham 27-13 and held onto its top rank in 4A although Denison received 14 first place votes to 13 for Tomball.

Denison, which also has a 25-game winning streak, defeated Rockwall 23-2. Tomball remains the state's 4A scoring leader with a 39.2 average for nine games.

Yates struggled before defeating Houston Jones 13-6 but retained its lead among state 5A scorers with a 42.6 average.

There were only three losses among the 50 teams ranked in The AP poll.

Sweeney, ranked ninth in 3A last week, fell from the top 10 after a 9-8 loss to Needville and was replaced by Cuero, 8-1, which beat Kenedy 48-0.

Rockets, Olajuwon stuff Portland

HOUSTON (AP) — It was a night for Houston's Akeem Olajuwon to remember and the Portland Trailblazers won't soon forget his performance either.

Olajuwon crammed in 41 points, grabbed 18 rebounds and blocked three shots to lead the Rockets to a 127-113 National Basketball Association victory over Portland Tuesday night.

Olajuwon had a 42-point performance for his career best last season against Golden State and he couldn't decide which he considered his top performance.

"This one or the one I played against Golden State was my best game," Olajuwon said. "I felt good and my mind was in the game. Everything was going my way."

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay concurred.

"Olajuwon played a super game and we didn't have an answer for him," Ramsay said. "He made routine shots and difficult shots and he blocked shots. He did it all."

The Rockets struggled to a 57-56 halftime lead, aided by 27 points from Olajuwon. Rockets guard John Lucas picked up the scoring pace in the third quarter and finished with 22 points.

The Rockets had six players in double figures and the Blazers had five double-figure scorers, led by Kiki Vandeweghe's 28 points. Center Sam Bowie scored 15 points and drew five fouls trying to contain Olajuwon.

"Tonight was one of his outstanding games," Bowie said. "It's a game for him to cherish in the NBA."

"Everyone knows his capabilities on the basketball court. There aren't many games like he had around. He was perfection."

The Blazers held Ralph Sampson to 12 points and 13 rebounds. Bowie thought that would be enough.

It wasn't.

"When you shut down one of them, you have a chance to win," Bowie said. "But tonight the other one (Olajuwon) took it on his shoulders and he was an aircraft carrier."

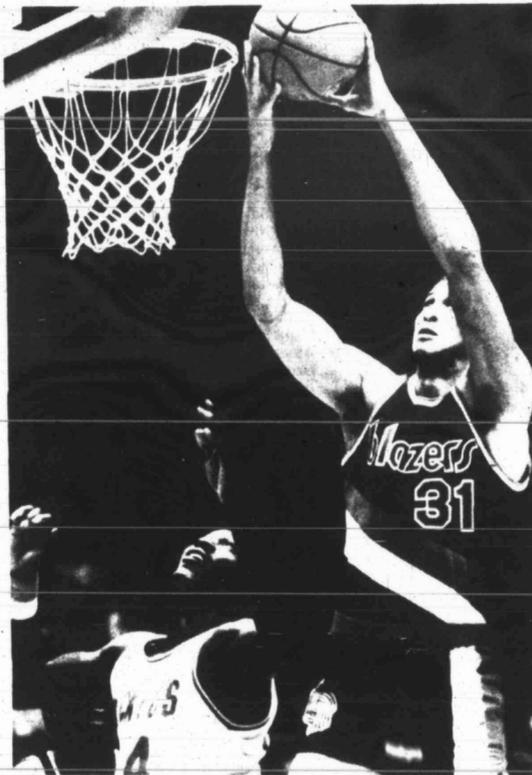

Olajuwon said Bowie had an early surge that forced him to respond.

"At the beginning of the game, Bowie hit three or four jumpers and it put the pressure on me. I had to play hard," Olajuwon said.

"After the first half when I had 27 points, I knew it was going to be a big night."

The Rockets now are 4-2 and improving and Portland is 4-2 and struggling, Bowie said.

"Everyone had high expectations that if anyone could dethrone the (Los Angeles) Lakers, it would be Portland or Houston," Bowie said. "Now you'd have to say it's Houston."

Astros land new manager Lanier

HOUSTON (AP) — Hal Lanier wants the National League Western Division Houston Astros to become a base-stealing carbon copy of the Eastern Division's St. Louis Cardinals.

Lanier signed a two-year contract Tuesday to manage the Astros, his first major-league managing job. He spent the last five seasons as an assistant coach under Whitey Herzog with the Cardinals.

"I think there are at least five or six people on this team that can steal 25 to 30 bases," Lanier said. "This is going to be a more exciting ballgame for the fans."

The Cardinals led the NL with 314 stolen bases last season and had three players in the top 10 in stolen bases, including NL leader Vince Coleman with 110.

The entire Astros team stole 96 bases last season.

"I want to get it in people's minds to take the extra base," Lanier said. "I don't like to see a club that goes base to base and I think that's the type of club the Astros have been."

Lanier said Astros Bill Doran, Dickie Thon, Jose Cruz, Kevin Bass, Jerry Mumphrey and Terry Puhl each have base-stealing potential.

Lanier replaces Bob Lillis, who was fired Oct. 7 after the Astros tied for third place in the NL West.

Lanier's success as a minor league manager and his association with Herzog were factors in his selection, Astros General Manager Dick Wagner said.

"I like the Herzog touch,"

Wagner said. "He's a very outstanding man in the game today."

Lanier said Herzog gave him a good recommendation.

"Anytime you get a recommendation from Whitey Herzog, you've really got something on your side," Lanier said.

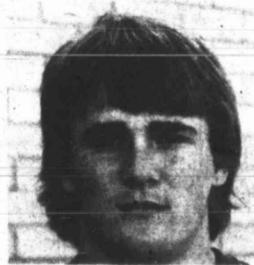

Bass said he's excited about a more aggressive approach.

"I think we need to have a giddy-up offense and he's going to give us that," Bass said. "We have to take chances. We don't have the Boston Red Sox power."

Madrid, Soles tops in ninth week Crossroads Honor Roll

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

There are some new faces in the Crossroads Country Football Honor Roll for the ninth week of the season. But the biggest stars are two players who have been making headlines all year.

Garden City halfback Abby Madrid and Forsan defensive end Lance Soles turned in sparkling performances to earn Player of the Week honors for week nine.

Madrid, a 5-8, 160-pounder, was all the Garden City Bearkats needed in their impressive 42-0 romp over Loraine. The senior running back scored all six of his team's touchdowns. He churned out a season-high 184 yards in 16 carries. He scored on runs of 4, 38, 16 and 35 yards. Add a 76 yard TD reception and a 35 yard TD interception return from his linebacker spot, and you've got a banner night.

This week he's the hands down winner of the Offensive Player of the Week.

Soles has been a mainstay on the Forsan defensive front all season. The 5-11, 170-pound junior was instrumental in Forsan limiting Roscoe to 75 yards rushing.

Soles' main responsibility was taking talented Roscoe quarterback Matt Denman on the Veer option. He and fellow defensive end Tom Cates held Denman to 20 yards in 13 carries. Soles ended the game with 12 tackles. This outstanding effort earns him Defensive Player of the Week honors.

Forsan linebacker Bruce Strickland also had a good game making 12 stops. Stanton linebacker Micheal Holt and Garden City linebacker Jesse Lopez also turned in defensive gems. Holt made 14 tackles in a losing effort to Wall and Lopez was in on 13 stops.

It was a good week for defensive ends too. Colorado City's Danny Salazar and Raymond Martinez made 12 and 10 tackles respectively against Sonora. Coahoma's Monte Huckabee made 8 tackles, got two quarterback sacks and intercepted a pass against Ozona.

Grady noseguard Brandon Stone made 12 tackles in his team's win over Highland.

Besides Madrid, there were numerous offensive stars last Friday night.

Forsan sophomore quarterback Brant Nichols directed a masterful game against a stingy Roscoe defense. He led his team to 270 yards total offense and was near-perfect with his passes. Although he had a couple dropped, he completed 4-7 for 68 yards, including a 24-yard TD pass.

Offensive tackle Mike Averitt was one of the main reasons the Forsan offense moved the ball so well.

Stanton reserve wingback Salvador Reyna snagged 6 passes for 74 yards and fellow receiver Mark Gonzales caught two passes for 30 yards and returned a kickoff 90 yards for a TD.

Sands got good performances from quarterback Jerry Long and running back Jay Fryar. Long completed 10-19 passes for 186 yards while Fryar caught three of his passes for 100 yards, including a 70-yarder for a score.

Borden County got a good game from freshmen running back Chris Kilmer who gained 150 yards in 27 carries. Colorado City's Sammy Rivera upped his season total to 1,147 yards as he rushed for 174 in 21 carries in a losing cause to Sonora.

Coahoma quarterback Dale Hodnett had his best night as he hit 6 of 19 attempts for 122 yards. Brian Calaway snagged five of the passes for 100 yards.

Grady running back Arnold Valasco had a banner night against Highland, scoring 4 TD's and rushing for 175 yards in 21 carries.

Klondike receiver John Matthews scored Klondike's first TD of the season with a 38 yard reception. He finished the night with 96 yards on four receptions.

Cleveland ruins Lakers ring ceremony

If the Los Angeles Lakers win another National Basketball Association title this season, they might plan to send the championship rings through the mail and hang the championship banner in private.

Commissioner David Stern presented the Lakers with their 1984-85 rings and their title banner was unveiled in a 25-minute ceremony Tuesday night at the Forum. A couple of hours later, Los Angeles lost for the first time this season, 129-111 to the Cleveland Cavaliers, who won for only the second time in six games.

"It was the same kind of ordeal that we went through three years ago," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said, referring to a 132-117 loss to Golden State after a similar ceremony in 1982.

"I was feeling great, receiving the ring and remembering what the championship meant," said Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who led Los Angeles with 23 points, eight rebounds and eight assists. "We know everyone will be gunning for us. The Cavaliers shot 57 percent to our 42 percent. We won't win any games shooting like that."

Cleveland's 1-4 start did not flag the confidence of the team and Coach George Karl, and the Cavaliers proved it against the Lakers.

"The guys know they can play with any team," Karl said. "It doesn't matter if it's the Lakers or the Celtics. We believe we can win."

The Cavaliers got stellar performances from point guard John Bagley and backup forward-center Edgar Jones against Los Angeles. Jones had 24 points and 12 rebounds, while Bagley added 20 points and 11 assists.

SuperSonics 84, Knicks 80
Rookie Xavier McDaniel had 21 points and 14 rebounds as Seattle handed New York its sixth straight defeat.

McDaniel's two free throws put the SuperSonics ahead to stay at 77-76 with 3:28 left, and he followed with a slam dunk 21 seconds later.

NBA Roundup

The Knicks, who got 22 points from rookie Patrick Ewing, pulled away to an 11-2 lead, but Seattle rallied to go ahead 41-35 at halftime.

Nuggets 128, Hawks 113
NBA scoring leader Alex English scored 33 points as Denver stayed unbeaten by defeating Atlanta despite the loss of all-star forward Calvin Natt in the second quarter.

The start is the best for the 5-0 Nuggets since 1978, when they started by winning their first eight games.

Natt suffered a sprained left ankle in the second quarter and did not return to the game.

Mike Evans, who had four three-point goals and 18 points, led a 19-0 rally as Denver broke away from a 34-34 tie in the second quarter.

Rookie Jon Koncak led the Hawks with 21 points.

Bucks 126, Spurs 97
Backup guard Ricky Pierce hit 10 of 14 shots and scored 26 points to lead Milwaukee to an easy victory over San Antonio.

The Bucks started the second quarter with an 18-7 streak that gave them a 56-41 lead. They went on to outscore the Spurs 32-17 in the period for a 68-49 halftime advantage.

Milwaukee took a 75-54 lead in the third period before a 14-2 streak by San Antonio cut the deficit to nine. But the Bucks rebuilt the margin back to 97-77 at the end of the third period.

Mike Mitchell led San Antonio with 17 points, while backups Randy Breuer and Kenny Fields scored 15 apiece for Milwaukee.

Nets 112, Bullets 106
New Jersey won its fourth straight game at home by outscoring Washington 66-50 in the second half. Buck Williams scored 13 of his game-high 25 points in the fourth quarter for the Nets, who have lost their three road games by an average of 22 points.

The Nets, who trailed 53-36 in the second period, outscored Washington 10-2 at the close of the third quarter to take a one-point lead.

New Jersey then held the Bullets without a field goal for the first 3:34 of the fourth period, outscoring Washington 11-2 during that stretch to open an 88-78 margin. Williams had seven points in that stretch.

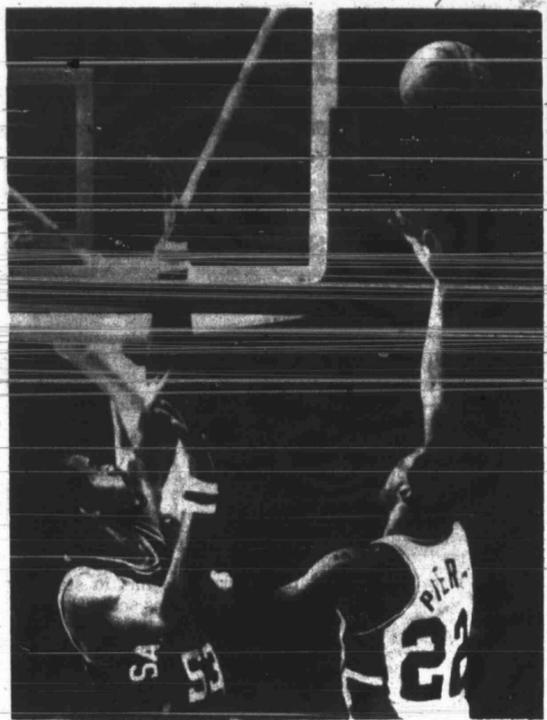

Jeff Ruland led the Bullets with 21 points, while Mike Gminski scored 22 for the Nets.

Jazz 118, Warriors 99
Adrian Dantley scored 27 points and Utah reserves outscored Golden State's bench 53-28.

Backup forward Thurl Bailey scored 11 of his 13 points during a six-minute stretch of the second quarter as the Jazz rallied from a 24-21 first-quarter deficit to take a 51-44 halftime lead.

The Jazz extended its advantage to 77-66 after three quarters and led by as much as 100-78 in the fourth period.

Joe Barry Carroll and Eric Floyd led the Warriors with 26 and 24 points, respectively.

Milwaukee's RICKY PIERCE (22) hits a running hook shot over San Antonio's ARTIS GILMORE during action Tuesday night at the Milwaukee Arena. PIERCE, a Rice graduate, scored 26 points on the night.

Sotelo making most of final grid season

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

To say that Paul Sotelo is making the most of his final season of high school football is putting it lightly. The Big Spring Steers senior offensive guard has made a name for himself in the District 4-5A ranks.

One year ago it seemed very unlikely that Sotelo would be seeing any action for the Black and Gold.

But the 5-10, 210-pounder put a stop to that thought with a good off-season program and vigorous summer workouts. Now he has emerged as one of the top offensive linemen in the district. Week in and week out he grades out well on the films, prompting offensive line coach Scott Knippa to call the senior one of his most consistent blockers.

"Paul's done a great job for us this season," said Knippa. "A year ago I didn't think there was any way he would be starting for us this season. But he worked hard and has turned out to be a very good offensive guard. A lot of coaches ask me, who is that left guard?"

Sotelo was switched from offensive tackle to guard his sophomore year. He admits he wasn't very fond of the change at first. "I didn't like it because I had always played tackle. But then I got used to it."

Summer workouts consisting of lifting weights, distance running and bleachers soon paid off for the Big Spring senior. "I improved my quickness of the ball and my bench press went up 75 pounds."

By the time the season rolled around, he was a permanent fixture in the Steers offensive line. "It's a big change playing 4-5A football on a varsity level. I had to mature. Like coach Knippa said: This is not Thursday night football anymore, you're playing with the big boys now."

With his rough and tumble attitude, Sotelo has proven that he can indeed play with the "big boys." "I like to come off the ball and make solid contact on my man everytime. It's either him or me. I've got to whip him because I don't like getting embarrassed."

Sotelo says that words of wisdom from head coach Quinn Eudy have held the team together. "Coach Eudy has always stressed to us not to get down on ourselves, to have faith in ourselves."

"This season has been very frustrating. It's good to be winning but it makes me mad when I know we should have been doing it all year."

Sotelo and his teammates have no doubt they can make San Angelo Central their third consecutive upset victim. "It's incentive enough that they beat us 63-0 last year. We knocked off two Top 20 teams, now we're out to knock off the No. 8 ranked team."

"Intensity and execution is the key to beating Central. A win will be good for the young players. They will see how hard we worked and it will make them work harder because they don't want an up-and-down season like we had."

Frank Rubio says that her sister Debra, a former Lady Steer athlete, and coach Stone are the most influential persons pertaining to her sports career. Rubio is also basketball manager, a member of Future Homemakers of America and Meistersingers.

The Big Spring High School junior's favorite subjects are english and history; her hobbies are softball, swimming, skating and boys.

Upon graduation she plans on attending the University of Texas and obtaining a medical degree.

Nashville wants new franchise

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. Lamar Alexander says he will encourage Commissioner Peter Ueberroth and other major league officials to let Nashville join 12 other cities in the running for a new baseball franchise.

Alexander said Tuesday he will lead a five-man delegation to New York to meet Friday with baseball officials, including Ueberroth, American League President Bobby Brown and National League President Chub Feeney.

Nashville Mayor Richard Fulton and Larry Schmittou, president of the Triple-A Nashville Sounds team, will present the city's proposal during a one-hour meeting, the governor said.

The Tennessee delegation also will include Nashville attorney Law Conner and Nashville consultant Tom Ingram.

"We are to use no visual aids, and we were told that no decision would be made" at that time, Alexander told the Nashville Banner in a copyright story.

Other cities also are to make their pitches to the baseball officials during meetings this week.

The governor said the Tennessee presentation was arranged after he and Schmittou offered last-minute pleas for the leagues to include Nashville as a prospective site.

Nashville was not on the list released in October of 12 cities under consideration by the major leagues' Long-Range Planning Committee.

When asked about Nashville's chances — particularly since the city was not on the list — Alexander said,

Goliad sweeps Snyder

The Goliad A and B football teams defeated Snyder last week in Middle School football action. The B team defeated Snyder 12-6 behind two big plays by Lamont Jollia. He scored on a 50 yard run and a 60 yard punt return. The A team drummed Snyder 34-8. Neal Mayfield was the workhorse in the victory as he rushed for four touchdowns and passed to Armanda Enrique for another score.

Mullin, Warriors reach agreement

OAKLAND (AP) — Chris Mullin, the National Basketball Association's only unsigned first-round draft choice, has reached an agreement with the Golden State Warriors, according to his agent. Mullin and agent Bill Pollak arrived Tuesday night by plane from Newark, N. J. and the former St. John's star told reporters: "Everything will be taken care of tomorrow." Pollak said an agreement has been reached with the Warriors and the terms will be announced at a news conference today. However, he would not reveal the time of the conference. Neither would officials of the team. Pollak would not say what was responsible for the apparent breaking of the logjam in the negotiations with the Warriors.

Cowboys may go European

DALLAS (AP) — National Football League officials say they are considering the Dallas Cowboys as one of the participants for an exhibition game in London next summer. At recent meetings, NFL officials voted to consider a preseason game outside the United States, with London the most likely site. "The reason the Cowboys have been mentioned is, number one, because people in England would know us," Cowboys vice president Joe Bailey told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "The second reason is that next year is the Texas Sesquicentennial and there apparently is going to be a lot of interaction between Texas and Great Britain," he said. "But we have not pursued it in any way." A likely opponent would be the Los Angeles Rams. Owner "Georgia Frontiere's husband (Dominic) has done some work in England and he has contacts over there," Bailey said. The Cowboys, if chosen to play, would report to training camp a week early.

school this small." Hale has had three schools show interest in her, which is hardly enough for a runner of her caliber. But lack of recognition doesn't affect her. "It doesn't bother me," she said. "I just want to go to college and run track. I'd really like to go to the University of Texas. That would be a big change from Grady where we have only 54 students." So the saga of Shanna Hale, the unknown distance star goes on. No doubt she will keep winning races just like she's always done. But hopefully the secret is out of the bag.

Hall taking low-key approach to Gator's Number 1 ranking

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Galen Hall's fingernails belie his low-key demeanor. Hall doesn't have any fingernails. A few cuticles, perhaps, but the nails have all been chewed off. Maybe that's how the coach of No. 1-ranked Florida keeps his team loose; he takes his anxieties out on his fingernails.

"I don't think you play your best if you're uptight and afraid of making mistakes," Hall says. "This is a confident football team, confident enough in themselves that they have the ability to get the job done, that if they just play to the best of their ability they have a chance to come out on top." Hall has been on a roll since taking over the Florida reins for the last eight games of the 1984 season. He guided the Gators to eight consecutive victories and they are 7-0-1 this year. But he has a ways to go to match Barry Switzer's start as head coach at Oklahoma — 29-0-1 and a national championship before a loss to Kansas in the ninth game of the 1975 season. The Sooners won their next three games to win their second straight national championship and got off to a 5-0-1 start in 1976, making Switzer an incredible 37-1-2.

Hall was Oklahoma's offensive coordinator in those days and the Sooners were on probation in 1974, just like Florida is this year for violations before Hall's arrival a year ago. "I don't think in 1974 there was that much talk about it (being No. 1)," Hall said. "Barry mentioned it, but not everyone wrote it every week. You weren't asked about it every week, where now you're asked it every week and everyone's making such a big deal out of it. That's the difference in 11 years, I guess. "I haven't really stressed it. We still have three games to go. But I think with all the hype and everything, I think they (the players) knew there was a very great possibility. "We played under the no-bowl (ban) last year. We knew it this year and we accepted it. I think we have a lot of pride in ourselves and we play in a very difficult conference. And if you don't have a lot of pride in yourself, in this conference you're gonna get your head knocked in. I don't think our players want that to happen." Hall was among those who thought the 1984 Gators were the best team in the country, although they finished third behind Brigham Young and Washington. The biggest difference between last year's team and the current edition, he says, is in the offensive line.

"We were really good last year and we're getting better this year. I said at the beginning of the season I didn't think this year's team could be what last year's was (up front), and I don't think it will be. But it'll be a good offensive line. "We're still very young and inexperienced on offense, but we have some very good backs (Neal Anderson, John L. Williams) and our quarterback (Kerwin Bell) can make things happen. "I'm not sure yet how good this team is. I don't know whether we'll ever be a great team. Our defense, if it keeps playing well, might be able to carry us into a great football team."

Gerry Faust's record of 29-23-1 isn't what Notre Dame had in mind when he was hired five years ago and media criticism has been constant. But there is one sports writer with whom Faust will always bat 1.000. Several weeks ago, the writer's mother suffered a heart attack and he had to cancel a planned trip to Notre Dame, where he was supposed to do a story on Faust and his problems, the last thing in the world Faust needs. Four days later, he received a note from Faust, which said in part: "I just wanted you to know that my thoughts and prayers are with you to help you through this difficult time. I certainly hope she recovers very soon and will be back to feeling 100 percent. God bless you and your family always. I will light a candle for your mom at the Grotto (a campus religious shrine)." Not many coaches would have taken the time to do something like that in the midst of a hectic football season. Faust not only did it — he meant it.

One of the most remarkable stories at any level of college football is being written by St. Peter's College of Jersey City, N.J. The Division III school had to cancel its 1984 schedule after an opening-game 72-0 embarrassment at the hands of Catholic University left it short of players.

St. Peter's is back this year with a 34-man squad and a 3-3 record. "We're about as thrilled as can be about what's happened to our football team this year," says Coach Jim Gilrain, who doubles as principal of Carteret, N.J., High School. "Back in August, there were a whole lot of people that didn't think — and probably rightly so — that St. Peter's College could come back from what had happened to it. "The 34 young men that we have have overcome just about every obstacle that you could ask a group of young people to overcome. They're young people of great character and I just simply can't say enough about them. "We've improved with every single football game. We've played six games; when the season started, that in itself would have been an accomplishment. "Some of our kids are playing hurt. You don't have 34 kids on a team without a lot of kids playing banged-up. The kids have accepted this, they've dedicated themselves to saving football at St. Peter's and I think they've taken great strides in that direction. "We certainly think anyone who cares about college football should be proud of what they're doing because small-college football can't afford to have schools dropping it. Every time a school drops football, it hurts college football in general. The young people we have are working their butts off, proving to themselves, proving to a community, proving to a school that you can overcome a whole lot of obstacles if it means enough to you.

"You can throw the record out the window. That doesn't mean a whole lot. The record's not the important thing; the important thing is what these kids have achieved.

"We've got two football games left (Stony Brook and Jersey City State). On paper, we probably don't belong on the field with either one of those teams. The only thing is, these kids we have playing football for us right now, on paper probably shouldn't have won three games, on paper probably shouldn't have played six games. "We'll show up for the next two. I couldn't say that the first week of the season when the big question was, 'How many games are you gonna get in this year?'"

"We'll finish our schedule for a group of young people who'll finish it unbowed, who'll finish it with their heads high."
