Flat-state economy forecast

By SPENCER SANDOW
 Staff Writer
 ODESSA — Texas economic growth in 1986 is likely to be scant, said economist Dr. William Gruben, who spoke Thursday at the Permian Basin Economic Outlook conference. Gruben is a senior economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.
 Dr. Michael Williams, executive at the RepublicBank First National in Midland, who also spoke at the conference, predicted the same for Permian Basin economy. Gruben predicted more or less a flat economy and continued changes from manufacturing industries to service industries for next year.

 Energy, construction and agriculture industries should experience continued weakness, he said. Uncertainty in the energy industry will discourage drilling next year, which will lead to a continued reduction in oil equipment manufacturing, he said. Overall construction most likely will decline, especially buildings for industry, but warehouse construction may rise some, he said.

 However, defense manufacturing, especially of aircraft and defense electronics, business computers and non-building construction, such as new roads, should expect to grow next year, he said.
 Gruben said a fall of the dollar in the world marketplace would result in a general improvement in the state economy. "We would be able to compete more internationally," he said.

 Switching from goods-producing to service-producing industries, particularly business services relating to high technology, will continue to improve the economy, he said.
 He predicted the unemployment rate would decline slightly next year.
 "Since the end of the recession (in 1982), both the Texas and the national economy has grown,"

Texas more slowly than the United States, he said. While the national unemployment rate has been slowly declining, the state rate risen, he said.
 Williams said in the Permian Basin area the number of mining and manufacturing employees has been shrinking and will continue to shrink. The most rapidly growing areas will be trade categories and miscellaneous services, he said. Retail sales figures for Odessa

Guerrilla siege leaves 60 dead

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Authorities today searched the Palace of Justice for more bodies following a bloody two-day siege by leftist rebels that left at least 60 people killed.
 Police sources and relatives said today 12 Supreme Court judges were among those killed in the drama that began around noon Wednesday when about 25 guerrillas belonging to M-19, the country's main urban guerrilla group, attacked and seized the building in downtown Bogota.
 Army troops and police backed by artillery and armored cars ended the seizure of the palace at about 3 p.m. Thursday after storming the modern five-story building. Early today, details remained sketchy and it was unknown how many died or how many of the victims were civilians, guerrillas or members of the armed forces.

 An officer who commanded the assault, Col. Alfonso Plazas, said the guerrillas were "annihilated" by the army assault.
 Radio stations reported that Andres Almarales, the leader of the rebel unit, was among those killed. The rebels are part of the group M-19, or the April 19 Movement, which takes its name from the date of a presidential 1970 election.

Hostages plead for U.S. action

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Four of the missing American hostages in Lebanon appealed to President Reagan today in a letter sent to The Associated Press bureau in Beirut to negotiate with their Shiite Moslem kidnapers to secure their freedom.
 "There is no alternative," they said in an open letter to Reagan. "They say they will not be moved and are growing impatient."
 "Mr. President, how long do you suppose these people will wait? We have no chance of escaping, and our captors say if any attempt is made to rescue us they and we will all die."
 The letter was signed by Terry Anderson, Chief Middle East Correspondent of The Associated Press; the Rev. Lawrence Jenco, a Roman Catholic priest; David Jacobsen, director of the American University Hospital in Beirut; and Thomas Sutherland, Dean of Agriculture at the American University of Beirut.
 The letter, one of a package of letters from the hostages delivered to the AP, was dated at 1 p.m. (6 A.M. EST) today, the day after anonymous telephone callers in Beirut claimed the hostages had been shot by firing squads.
 AP staffers identified Anderson's handwriting and signature in the letters.
 In a separate letter to the media, signed by all four, the captives said: "We have just been told that someone has claimed that Islamic Jihad has killed all of us."

Guests at the city's landfill demonstration Thursday watch as the new machinery does its job of compacting trash.

Baler unveiled with bash

By KEELY COGHLAN
 Staff Writer
 To public works director Tom Decell, the raw grade of metal on metal is the sound of music.
 Decell, City Council members and other public officials met Thursday afternoon for a little barbecue and trash-bashing as the city unveiled its new baler, scheduled to go into regular operation Friday.
 Big Spring will be the first city in Texas to operate a municipal baler. A private company in Houston operated a baler but now is defunct, Decell said.
 The city's baler supplier, Logemann Brothers of Milwaukee, Wis., has 28 models in operation in Alaska, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Roanoke, Va., Washington state, New York, England and overseas, said Chuck Fish of Atlanta, Ga., the company's southern sales manager.

Councilmen had worked on putting a baler operation into commission for the last two years, said Mayor pro tem Harold Hall in a short speech before the baler demonstration.
 The baler compacts solid waste into three- to 3½-foot bales, similar to cotton bales, weighing 2,000 to 2,400 pounds each. The bales then are transported to the current landfill site, to be stacked and covered with dirt nightly.
 What can you throw into the machine? Just about anything but the kitchen sink, and maybe even that. One demonstration bale was composed of six washing machines, four electric stoves, three refrigerators and three water heaters. Another bale was a hodgepodge of 10 or more water heaters.
 More correctly, what can't the new baler press into shape? Concrete rubble, large trees and construction debris, said Decell. However, construction debris normally is placed in a separate pit from other solid waste and covered once a month instead of daily.

 Concrete and trash debris would be handled by the current compactor at the landfill, Decell said.
 The machine would be able to process 24 bales an hour, applying 3,000 pounds of hydraulic pressure per square inch, but it would not be used to capacity, Decell said, since city crews collect only enough trash for 75 bales a day. "There's a lot of room for growth," he said.
 He plans to bring the baler into operation gradually, training his crews in all facets of the operation on "practice" bales. The baler should last 10 to 12 years with proper maintenance, "which it will receive," Decell

Collision victim in hospital

A Big Spring man was hospitalized Thursday for injuries he suffered when the car he was driving collided with an 18-wheeler on U.S. Highway 87, south of Big Spring.
 Fred Russ Davis, 53, of 4105 Muir was listed in stable condition Friday morning at Malone-Hogan Hospital, said a hospital spokeswoman.
 Glenn Redmon, a Department of Public Safety trooper who investigated the 9:57 p.m. accident, said Davis was admitted to the hospital for observation because of bruises on his head and a cut

Woman bears baby for her sister

Carol Jalbert, right, of Danvers, Mass., holds hands with her sister, Sherry King of Tamarac, Fla., during a news conference at Malden Hospital Thursday. Earlier in the day Mrs. King gave birth to a child, which she bore as a surrogate mother for her sister.

MALDEN, Mass. (AP) — Sherry King said she never felt the pull of motherhood toward the baby she bore because she had impregnated herself with her brother-in-law's sperm just to give her sterile sister a child.

"To this day, I feel like an aunt. I was just baby-sitting," the surrogate mother said Thursday, the day she delivered the baby girl into the arms of her sister, Carole Jalbert.

The 7-pound, 6½-ounce baby was named Kristen Jennifer Jalbert, and she arrived early in the morning at Malden Hospital.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Jalbert exclaimed, "Oh, my baby, my baby," when the girl was born. Her husband, Ernie, cut the umbilical cord.

"I think every man should see something like that," said Jalbert, who was nicknamed "the Snipper" by his brother-in-law for his part in the birthing process.

Mrs. Jalbert wept at the news conference as she described her joy. "It's overwhelming," she said.

Owen King, husband of the natural mother, said the child was "the culmination of a two-year project with a pretty heavy emotional investment."

"When the baby was born, to say we felt ecstasy and just incredible cheerful joy is an understatement," King said.

He was there when his wife gave birth, as were the adoptive parents-to-be and the two sisters' parents, Barbara and Harry Dodge of Beverly.

The Jalberts said they would explain the circumstances of her birth to the child when she is old enough to understand. Mrs. Jalbert already has a 15-year-old stepdaughter, Celeste.

Asked whose child her mother had carried, Mrs. King's 6-year-old daughter, Sarah Elizabeth, told reporters, "Carole's baby." Asked where the baby came from, she said, "the doctor's office."

William R. Rollins, an attorney for the Jalberts, said he would file adoption papers within a week. He said the adoption would take a month at least.

King said the couples were being paid "peanuts" for their stories by a nationally syndicated television show, The Boston Herald and some magazines, but added: "I'm not rich and I can use a few peanuts."

The family began working for a child for Mrs. Jalbert in 1983. The 39-year-old woman is unable to bear children because of a hysterectomy 18 years ago.

Jalbert said he got the idea from a television talk show about surrogate mothers. "I had no reservations. It was my idea," said the Beverly police officer.

His wife said she agreed to it because the adoption process took too long, and the Kings said they accepted the idea immediately.

"I'm doing this for love and for my sister," Mrs. King, 35, said in an interview last week. "I never thought of it as my baby. It was always my sister's baby."

Mrs. King became pregnant by artificially inseminating herself at home under the instructions of Dr. Leo Serger, an infertility expert from the Boston area.

She became pregnant four months after the inseminations began, but suffered a miscarriage.

"I was devastated that she lost her baby. I did not feel a loss for myself," she said.

Nine months later, she became pregnant again. That pregnancy was a success.

The state highway department dumped several truckloads of sand onto the highway to contain spillage of diesel fuel, Redmon said.

John Birdwell Jr. of Texas Wrecking Service in Big Spring said he and other workers were at the scene for five hours. They had to unload the truck's cargo, turn it on its side and reload the cargo, before moving the unit to the wrecking yard, Birdwell said.

Redmon said sheriff's deputies had to alternate traffic flow into one lane of traffic while the rig was removed.

Davis was arrested at the scene on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, Redmon said.

The driver of the tractor-trailer rig, Blake Wobrock, 28, of Clearmont, Minn., was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital Thursday night, said the spokeswoman.

Witnesses told Redmon that Davis was traveling southbound on U.S. Highway 87 and pulled into the C&G Quickstop store.

According to the witnesses, "he appeared to be attempting to turn into the roadway again and travel north," Redmon said.

Crimes against children are under investigation

Police have a suspect in several incidents of child solicitation, but have not made any arrests yet, Police Chief Rick Turner said this morning.

One incident involves two girls about 8 years old, he said. The girls' parents complained to police that a man tried to talk them into having sex with him, he said.

"The incident occurred about a month ago, he said. Parents said the man used graphic language to describe his intentions, Turner said.

Another case happened Thursday and involved a boy, Turner said, but there is not enough evidence to charge anyone. Both incidents happened on the east side of town between 3 and 5 p.m., police said.

Lt. Jerry Edwards said police are investigating several more cases of child solicitation.

All the cases involve girls and boys ages 8 to 12, in pairs or in threes. "I don't remember one being approached by himself," Edwards said. He said there was no physical contact between the children and the solicitor. Typically, the solicitor would approach children "just in the neighborhood" from his car, he said.

Edwards said police are investigating other recent reports of children being frightened when they were followed by an adult. "There hasn't always been words exchanged, but it scared the kids," he said. Some of the physical and vehicle descriptions don't fit the suspect, Edwards said.

Solicitation of a child is a Class A misdemeanor and carries a penalty of up to a year in jail and/or a $2,000 fine, Smith said.

Texas Tech University in Lubbock. We can expect a 10 to 15 percent depreciation in the dollar, but it still will be strong internationally, he said. Rouse predicted a continued national deficit in the balance of payments.

Financial institutions are experiencing problems because of the transition from high to low inflation, he said.

The move toward protectionism has stopped, he said, though it could revive if the economy remains soft in the latter part of next year.

Gruben said the state has been hard-hit by foreign competition. A broad spectrum of Texas industries are closely tied to the international marketplace, he said, and the recent high value of the dollar (on the world marketplace) has aggravated the problem.

But the dollar should remain strong in the world marketplace, predicted Dr. Robert Rouse, another conference speaker. Rouse is a professor of economics at

Items stolen from trailer

Don Niccum of Route 1 told Howard County sheriff's deputies Thursday night that several items were stolen from a room at Mt. View Trailer Park Lot No. 49.

Niccum, who owns the trailer, reported the theft of a digital clock radio, valued at $35; an amateur radio handbook, valued at $30; and $5-in change.

Police transferred Tommie Lee Freeman, 30, of Sterling City Route to county jail after he was arrested for suspicion of driving while intoxicated, resisting arrest and assaulting a police officer.

He was released on bonds totaling $5,000.

Police transferred Darrell Eugene Kisto, 19, of 1509 Main to county jail after he was arrested on suspicion of DWI.

He also is wanted on a Midland County warrant for violating the terms of his probation on a theft of property judgment.

He was being held in county jail Friday morning on orders from the Midland County sheriff's office.

Police transferred Joy Diane Anderson, 22, of 1503 State to county jail after she was arrested on two counts of burglary.

She was released on bonds totaling $20,000.

Travis County sheriff's deputies arrested Gary Walton House, 32, of Austin on a Howard County warrant for violating the terms of his probation on a possession of marijuana judgment.

He was being detained in Travis County jail in lieu of bond, according to the sheriff's log.

Police transferred Luis Hernandez Jr., 20, of 311 N. Aylford to county jail after he was arrested for driving while license suspended.

He was released on $500 bond.

Police fire dispatcher

Improper conduct by a police department dispatcher resulted in his dismissal Thursday afternoon, Police Chief Rick Turner said today.

Charles Crockett Hudson, 18, of Big Spring was fired after he made a statement to police regarding what police believe is an improper association with young children.

The county attorney is reviewing one incident to see if charges may be filed against Hudson, Turner said. Lt. Jerry Edwards said Hudson is not under arrest and no warrants have been issued.

Turner said Hudson's background was carefully investigated and he was given a polygraph test before he was hired four months ago. There was nothing in his background to indicate problems of this nature, the police chief said.

House burglary reported

Donald Hobgood of 1512-B Wood told police someone burglarized his house between Tuesday and 11 a.m. Thursday. Stolen were $200 worth of clothing; $635 in electronic equipment, including an Atari video game and software; $262 worth of household goods, including a waterbed; and $80 in miscellaneous items.

Police this morning arrested Luis Hernandez, 20, of 311 N. Aylford on suspicion of driving while his license is suspended. The arrest occurred after Hernandez ran a stop sign at 600 Tulane at 12:01 a.m., according to police reports.

Police arrested James Hayes, 23, of 1002 N. Main at 4:18 a.m. Thursday on suspicion of burglary with the intent to commit a felony, according to police reports.

Police arrested a juvenile male Thursday for criminal mischief. The arrest occurred at 6:48 p.m. at 808 E. Fourth, according to police reports.

Council members budgeted $673,000 for the entire program — including the cost of purchasing the building, the 11 acres of land it sits on, modifications to the south end of the baler building, the baler, all equipment and permit fees and engineering fees.

Richard Dormier of Crim Engineering was the city's consultant engineer.

"The land savings make it all worthwhile," said Decell. When the city decided to go with a balerfill operation, they had already filled the current landfill site and were faced with having to find and purchase more land or go to an alternate system.

The aerial landfill site will become a grass-covered hill with a 40-foot gradual slope and will be used as a recreational site, Decell said.

And 10 years from now; the surface could be scraped and some solid wastes shredded and burned to generate steam and power as a resource recovery method.

"We're storing energy we could mine later," Decell said. He is proud of the baler's success, he said, and points to the two-year process of obtaining the balerfill as a model in cooperation between councilmen, city departments and employees.

"It's not a single individual's effort. I know damn well we couldn't have done it without my good people making the thing possible," Decell said.

"This is new ground. It's not easy to branch out and do something nobody else is doing," Decell said. "Other cities should come to Big Spring and learn."

For the record

The Herald incorrectly reported an accident occurring at ramp 182 near Midway Road and Interstate 20 Tuesday morning.

The accident involved two vehicles, not three.

A red Kenworth Conventional truck towing a silver tanker was struck by a car driven by Raymond Anderson of Coahoma.

Anderson was taken to Malone-Hogan and treated for injuries. The driver of the truck, Ronald H. Shults, 27, of 1212 Mulberry, was uninjured.

Hostages

"Obviously this is not true. Our captors say it was an attempt by the U.S. government to spoil negotiations."

An anonymous caller telephoned a Western news agency in Beirut Thursday claiming to speak for the Shiite fundamentalist group, saying that the hostages were to be killed because negotiations with the United States have "reached a dead end."

Two later calls claimed the hostages had been killed and their bodies dumped in Beirut. But police searches turned up no bodies.

The letters gave no indication where the hostages were being held.

But in the open letter to Reagan they said: "We are kept in small, damp (two words scratched out) 24 hours a day, without proper exercise, sanitation, fresh air or balanced diet.

"We have only intermittent access to outside news. It is difficult to remain cheerful and optimistic when we see no sign anywhere of progress towards our release."

The hostages said they have been told by their captors that another hostage, U.S. diplomat William Buckley, "is dead."

Islamic Jihad claimed in a statement Oct. 4 that Buckley, 57, was killed in revenge for alleged U.S. complicity in Israel's Oct. 1 air raid on the Tunis headquarters of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The group produced blurred photographs of what it claimed was Buckley's shroud-wrapped body. But U.S. officials have said the photos are not "conclusive proof" that Buckley is dead.

Decisions erode funds

WASHINGTON — Social Security's trust funds stand to lose nearly $1.3 billion from investment decisions made by the Treasury during both the current debt-limit crisis and a battle over the debt ceiling a year ago.

Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., scolded a Treasury official at a Senate hearing Thursday about the earlier, 1984, losses, which could mount up to $440 million over seven years.

Lawmakers in both parties have assured senior citizens that steps will be taken to reimburse Social Security's trust funds for money lost in the debt-ceiling crisis. Moynihan indicated he wants last year's losses made up too.

Reaching the Soviets

WASHINGTON — President Reagan wants to tell the people of the Soviet Union of his hopes for peace and a successful summit, and his administration has challenged the Soviets to clear their airwaves so his message can be heard.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes announced Thursday the president will use his Saturday radio address — lengthened to 10 minutes — to discuss his Nov. 19-20 summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva.

Pecos Fish kill probed

SHEFFIELD — Texas Water Commission officials say they are investigating "a very odd" fish kill on the Pecos River in West Texas in which an estimated 30,000 fish have died.

Commission spokesman Max Woodfin said officials are puzzled because the yellow-orange substance suspected as the cause still seems to have the same lethal strength as when it was first spotted in the river last week.

He said the tainted stretch of the river, about five miles long, has moved at least 60 river miles downstream from the area where fish were first seen dying, where Interstate 10 crosses the Pecos.

New virus discovered

NEW YORK — The discovery of a new virus that might be one cause of multiple sclerosis could point the way toward long-sought knowledge of the cause of the mysterious, often debilitating disease, researchers say.

"As far as I'm concerned, this is a hopeful first step in the identification of one or more viruses specifically related to multiple sclerosis," said the University of Miami's Dr. William Sheramata, one of the discoverers of the new virus.

8 Virginia counties named disaster areas

By The Associated Press

Killer floodstreams, cresting against sandbag dikes around Washington, D.C., and lapping over the low-lying riverfront of Richmond, Va., receded today, leaving behind at least 42 dead and 47 missing, and devastated communities seeking millions of dollars in federal disaster relief.

"Now the hard part begins, when we start the cleanup process," Richmond City Manager Manuel Deese said Thursday, after the James River crested downtown at just under 31 feet, or 22 feet above flood stage, and slowly receded.

Eight West Virginia counties were designated federal disaster areas Thursday by President Reagan, and Gov. Arch Moore estimated that the state's flood damage could reach $200 million.

Four days of heavy rain over the Middle Atlantic States earlier this week brought the floods, killing at least 20 people in Virginia, 20 in West Virginia and one each in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Of the 47 people missing, 39 were in West Virginia, seven in Virginia and one in Pennsylvania. Moore's staff said most of West Virginia's missing lived in remote areas and possibly were just out of contact.

In Washington, where officials had closed the Washington, Lincoln, and Jefferson monuments to keep the public away from the swollen Potomac River, the high water drew thousands of sight-seers.

"There are a lot of people who want to see the water," said National Park Service spokeswoman Sandra Alley, adding that the agency was not preventing people from strolling near the monuments, which were never threatened.

The cherry tree-rimmed walkway around the Tidal Basin near the memorial was underwater on the river side, and gawkers jammed roadways.

In Richmond, almost 600 National Guardsmen carrying M-16 rifles and ammunition patrolled the perimeter of the flood zone and helped direct traffic, but city manager Deese said there were no reports of looting.

The James, which peaked four feet below the lip of a 28-foot dike protecting the water filtration plant serving 400,000 Richmond-area residents, should be back within its banks by early Sunday, Deese said. He said it was too early for damage estimates.

Three of the seven bridges that span the James were closed and traffic on Interstate 95, the East's major north-south highway, was turned onto secondary highways after the river overflowed it just south of the city.

Low water in the Monongahela River was the biggest threat in western Pennsylvania, where several barges, among 62 ripped loose in the flooded stream Tuesday, had wedged under the floodgates of the Maxwell Lock and Dam in Brownsville.

Sikh suspects held

DUNCAN, British Columbia — Two Sikhs were being held today on charges of explosives violations following a Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigation of the crash of an Air-India jet and a Tokyo airport bombing last June.

The men charged Thursday, Talwinder Singh Parmar and Inderjit Singh Reyat, were to appear today in provincial court in Duncan, on Vancouver Island.

They were arrested Wednesday during a series of RCMP raids on several homes and a Sikh temple in the area. Vancouver is the home of Canada's largest Sikh community.

Arafat assails terrorists

CAIRO, Egypt — PLO chief Yasser Arafat condemned terrorist acts against unarmed civilians and appeared to promise punishment for any member who engages in terrorism outside Israeli-occupied territory, but Israeli leaders reacted skeptically.

An unidentified aide to Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres was quoted on Israeli television Thursday as saying only a "simpleton" would believe Arafat's promises, made the same day in Cairo.

Freighter to stay

RESERVE, La. — A Soviet freighter will not be allowed to leave U.S. waters until a Senate subpoena is either served on a Ukrainian seaman who twice jumped ship or the subpoena is withdrawn, officials said.

Congressional envoys who tried unsuccessfully on Thursday to serve the subpoena said they would return to the ship today to meet with Soviet officials flying in from Washington.

Narcotics destroyed

RANGOON, Burma — Authorities destroyed more than 21,000 acres of opium poppies and seized more than a ton of the raw narcotic in the first six months of 1985, a government report said.

The report, submitted to Parliament on Monday, also described January-to-June seizures of 68 pounds of morphine base and 93 pounds of heroin, as well as the 2,013 pounds of raw opium. All three drugs are derivatives of the opium poppy.

Man admits killing 3

MEXICO CITY — Authorities said one man has admitted killing 3 of the 22 members of an anti-drug squad slain in a shootout in a remote marijuana-growing region of southern Mexico, and that their investigation into the massacre was nearly complete.

Nighttime explosion kills three, razes four houses

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Firefighters have recovered the bodies of three people killed in a nighttime explosion that leveled four row houses and ignited a three-alarm fire, authorities said.

The 9:30 p.m. explosion Thursday collapsed the two-story brick homes, threw debris nearly 50 yards, destroyed two cars parked in the street and knocked people to the ground.

An elderly man and woman and a 15-year-old girl were killed in the blast, police said. Four people were hospitalized in satisfactory condition, two for cuts and two, including a police officer, for smoke inhalation, hospital spokesmen said.

"We heard this big bang, came out and saw people dropping all over the street from the concussion," said Robert Burns, a neighbor. "When we got to the rubble, there was a big smell of gas. I brought one lady out who had her whole head cut wide open."

The fire swept through the collapsed houses and damaged two adjoining houses but was brought under control within 30 minutes. About a dozen houses in the working-class neighborhood were evacuated.

The dead were identified as Elizabeth Smith, aged 65 to 70, Francis Grace, 83, and Ruth Alvarado, 15, according to Det.

Capt. Thomas Seamon. Seamon said all the occupants of the houses had been accounted for, but city workers continued slowly picking through the rubble this morning, he said, "just in case there's somebody there they didn't know about." Seamon said officials of the Philadelphia Gas Works were at the scene trying to determine if it was a natural gas explosion, as firefighters on the scene had theorized. Mayor W. Wilson Goode, Police Commissioner Gregore Sambor and Fire Commissioner William Richmond all went to the scene.

CLEAN sweep continues Saturday

The Chamber of Commerce's CLEAN committee campaign will continue Saturday with Area 4, which is bounded north by the railroad, south and west by FM 700 and east by Gregg Street.

Crews will collect trash items such as tree branches, furniture pieces and appliances that are too large to place in dumpsters. Items to be discarded should be placed at the curb in front of residences and not in alleys, said LeRoy Tillery, chamber executive vice president.

The citywide cleanup is being done through November in coordination with the city of Big Spring. The schedule for trash pick-up is:

- Area 5 — north railroad, south 11th Place, west Gregg Street, east FM 700, Nov. 16.
- Area 6 — north 11th Place, south and east FM 700 and west Gregg Street, Nov. 23.

- Area 7 — Coronado, Highland, Capehart, Douglas, north FM 700, south city limits, west C.L. and east Highway 87, Nov. 30.
- Area 1 — Kentwood, north FM 700, south city limits, West Virginia and east-central Grafa. Pickup was canceled because of weather, new date to be announced.

Stenholm certain on tax hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles Stenholm today defended the Democratic House version of a deficit-reduction bill but told the conservative U.S. Chamber of Commerce that raising taxes is inevitable.

"A lot of people say we can't raise taxes," Stenholm said. "Folks, I challenge anybody to look at the problem facing (us with) this deficit and show me how we're going to get there without raising some additional revenue."

Stenholm, a conservative Democrat who represents a rural West Texas district, praised the prime sponsor of the Senate version, Texas Republican Phil Gramm, but complained about Gramm's criticism of Democrats in the House for exempting an additional $10 billion in aid to veterans and poor people.

The bipartisan Senate bill exempted Social Security, about $250 billion, Stenholm said.

Gramm was once a fellow "Boll Weevil" Democrat with Stenholm in the House where Gramm sponsored 1981 budget-reduction legislation.

"But it's going to have to be done with bipartisan cooperation from both sides of the aisle," he said. "And stop some of the silly rhetoric about blaming Charlie Stenholm for being irresponsible, as Phil Gramm is doing when he talks about the Democrats and their phony bill. He's talking about me."

Group seeks textbook delay

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas director of People for the American Way says two life science textbooks being offered for use in Texas public schools are identical to books rejected by the California Board of Education.

Michael Hudson, Austin, said witnesses planned to ask the State Board of Education today to delay adoption of six proposed life science books because they do not treat evolution adequately and provide a superficial explanation of the scientific process.

"Texas, at the very least, should provide textbooks as good as those now required in California," Hudson said in a statement.

He said People for the American Way, a self-styled national citizens organization, had been responsible for repealing the "Texas anti-evolution textbook rule in 1984."

He said "the entire national movement to reverse the 'dumbing down' of textbooks started in Texas in 1983," and added that Texas "has devoted too much time over the last two years to improving public education to settle for mediocre science books."

REV. PAUL POWELL
...new Baptist president

Powell says controversy is healthy

SAN ANTONIO — The controversy in the Southern Baptist Convention over biblical inerrancy has created an atmosphere of suspicion and a tendency to paint labels on members, the new president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas says.

Paul Powell, a Tyler pastor elected Wednesday to head the 2.3 million-member Texas denomination, said he believes the Bible is "inspired, it is infallible, it is inerrant."

"A lot of people get hung up on words — playing silly word games," he said at a news conference shortly after he was elected.

"People wonder who's side are they on? We ought to all be on the Lord's side," said the 51-year-old pastor of Green Acres Baptist Church in Tyler.

Powell said the controversy has had some positive fallout.

"It has made us take a good look at ourselves and be more cautious," he said.

Powell said he does not believe in ordination of women in his own church, but he would not object to another Baptist church having a woman preacher.

"The New Testament doesn't seem to say that women are ordained. We'd probably not practice it in my church," he said.

State RRC comes under royalty owners wrath

PAMPA, Texas (AP) — Panhandle royalty owners involved in the dispute involving the so-called "white oil" have launched a campaign to impeach the three members of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Royalty owners began signing petitions calling for the impeachment of the commission members for what they allege to be neglect of duty.

White Deer royalty owner Dr. Harbord Cox said the Railroad Commission's inaction during the "white oil" dispute has given the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission unprecedented power over Texas minerals.

Cox and others complained that the Railroad Commission did not participate in the hearing in Washington, D.C., where the FERC ruled that 35 independent oilmen were diverting natural gas by improperly producing from gas zones.

The ruling has shut down hundreds of wells and is serving as a precedent to shut down others.

During a meeting called by Amarillo oil and gas broker Ron Slover, Cox called the commission's inaction a neglect of duty that will devastate the Panhandle economy and have statewide implications.

Many of the almost 275 people attending Tuesday's meeting signed the petition. Slover and Cox said the petition would be distributed throughout the state.

The so-called "white oil" is a product derived from the pressurized cooling of vapors into a liquid. Independents who have operated LTX, or refrigeration, units at their wells contend the product is oil, but larger companies owning rights to natural gas in the Panhandle Field contend it is a gas.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission backed the position of the large companies. Many independent producers felt betrayed when the Texas Railroad Commission failed to back them in another case and ruled that the LTX wells must be retested to assure that they conform to the definition of oil wells.

"If you operate something for 10 years under a set of rules and then you come up and you change them like the Railroad Commission has done, it's equivalent to an ex post facto law," said Rep. Foster Whaley, D-Pampa.

"You cannot come out with a law today that makes something you did yesterday a crime, but now the darn Railroad Commission has done an effective job of passing an ex post facto law."

In previous telephone interviews, Railroad Commission spokesman Ray Grasshoff has said that the Railroad Commission did not get involved in the FERC proceedings because it was resolving a similar complaint filed by Phillips Petroleum Co., and did not want one decision to affect the outcome of the other.

Months after the FERC made its controversial ruling, the commission requested that the FERC reopen the case so that the commission could intervene.

Man convicted for murder

HOUSTON (AP) — A south Houston man was convicted of capital murder in the shooting death of a pregnant 14-year-old girl who was one of four people shot in a Pasadena home March 30.

A state district court jury took 45 minutes Wednesday to find Mariano Juarez Rosales, 46, guilty of murdering Rachel Balboa after burglarizing the Balboa residence.

Rosales also is charged in the shooting death of Pete Rodriguez, 23; the wounding of Patricia Balboa, 19, who was three months pregnant; and with attempting to kill Hector Balboa, 25.

Two days of testimony in the case traced the origins of the shootings to the collapse of Rosales' 26-year marriage to Mary Rosales, 42, and her love affair with Balboa.

Donation for Mexican relief project sought

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans should build a hospital and three schools in earthquake-ravaged Mexico City by donating $5 million to the state's relief effort, say the co-chairmen of the project.

"What's at stake here is a lot more than just good will from Texas. What really is involved here is the practical long-term working relationship with a country that's very important to Texas," San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros said Wednesday after announcing the program.

Co-chairmen Cisneros and Bob Krueger, former U.S. ambassador to Mexico, said fund-raising could become more difficult as the September earthquake fades from front pages.

"We're at that point where we may lose something in terms of high-visibility intensity but have to make it up in organization and have to make it up in continuity of discipline," Cisneros said.

The hospital and schools would give Texans a target, he said.

The proposed, 144-bed hospital would cost about $4 million. There is no target date for construction. The need is immediate, said Krueger, who visited Mexico City two weeks ago.

"Mexico lost some 5,000 hospital beds in this earthquake. They are using the facilities that remain and stand. They lost the most important research hospital facility that exists in Mexico," he said.

Book recounts Texas history

DALLAS (AP) — Members of the Historic Jefferson Foundation say they are marketing a 64-page illustrated storybook and cassette tape explaining the history of Texas for the Sesquicentennial.

More than 60,000 copies of the book, "The Epic Adventure ... Texas," have been printed, officials said. The book gives a capsule description of Texas history from prehistoric Texas to the present.

Bill Moyers, Emmy Award-winning television commentator, narrates the publication. It is introduced by Lady Bird Johnson.

"I wanted to do something for the children of Texas," said Ann Hackney, who said she spent more than one year researching, writing and producing the work.

Illustrated by Carol Hodges of Hughes Springs, the publication is now in bookstores in hardback and will be released in clothbound form Nov. 15.

The Historic Jefferson Foundation is a nonprofit historical society that Hackney said is "dedicated to education and to the preservation of our Texas heritage."

She said the book and tape are expected to be on sale at tourist bureaus and will be placed aboard the Texas Sesquicentennial Independence Express steam locomotive and Texas Wagon Train during the sesquicentennial celebration.

Rock Star Deborah "Blondie" Harry, right, walks down a runway with Jellybean Benitez, modeling at New York's Palladium night club late Wednesday in a fashion benefit for African famine. The show, featuring 18 of the world's top designers and including many stars, was billed as the biggest fashion show ever staged.

Dear Abby

Shopper says pretty dresses are nowhere to be found

DEAR ABBY: I have just returned from another shopping trip frustrated and empty-handed. All I want is one good-looking dress that I can wear for an evening out. I would like to ask the American fashion designers: For whom are you designing? Each other? Certainly not for American women. I am a 41-year-old professional woman who has worked hard to maintain a trim figure, and I'd like to show it off a little. Today's designers make that hard; their fabrics are lovely but the styles range from frumpy to ridiculous. I can find nothing without a blousy waist (intended to hide at least 20 pounds around the middle), and dresses with shoulder pads that make me look like a football tackle. Whatever happened to the classic little cocktail dress whose shape approximates a woman's figure? I'm boycotting the dress market until the designers come up with something worth buying, and I'll bet I have plenty of company. THREADBARE BUT RESOLUTE IN VIRGINIA

DEAR THREADBARE: Don't give up. Figure-flattering dresses can be found if you know where to look. Specialty stores, boutiques and catalogs carry fashions for every kind of figure — and department stores have plenty, too. Far-out trendy fashions may be current, but you don't have to buy them. Should shoulder pads overpower you, they can be modified or removed entirely. If you can't find something that pleases you, buy fabric and a pattern and make your own. You can't sew? So what? Find a dressmaker who can. *******

DEAR ABBY: My niece's daughter was recently married. For her wedding present I gave her a very nice check. Instead of a thank-you note, I received a hastily written "THANK YOU" on the back of the check! Should I mention this to my niece? Or should I put it down as poor judgment on the bride's part and a lesson for me? CONFUSED IN ST. PAUL

DEAR CONFUSED: Don't mention it to anyone. While this quick and easy acknowledgment of your gift is barely acceptable, it's still an acknowledgment. *******

(Every teen-ager should know the truth about sex, drugs and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dr. Donohue

Diuretic raises uric acid level

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My doctor says my uric acid is 9.0. That showed up in a blood profile I had done. I am taking Dyazide medicine and he says that may have something to do with it. Shouldn't I be taking medicine now for the high uric acid? — Mrs. E.G.

Dyazide is a water pill used often for control of high blood pressure. It can elevate uric acid in the blood. I suspect what your doctor will want to do is switch your medication to one that doesn't raise your uric acid. Otherwise, the question of what to do for a slightly higher-than-normal blood uric acid level vexes many doctors. It's a fact that a high level is part of the gout picture. Almost everyone who has gout has an elevated blood uric acid level. But the other side of the coin is that only about 5 percent who have a high level ever develop gout. People with high uric acid levels are not treated unless they have the symptoms of gout or have a family history of it. Those who have had a uric acid kidney stone or whose urine shows a high concentration of the substance need treatment with gout medicine. A high uric acid level doesn't usually spell trouble until it gets above 9.0, even though the upper limit of normal for women is only 6.0 (it's 7.0 for men). Furthermore, gout is overwhelmingly a disease of males.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Do you know of the biofeedback therapy being used to cure the embarrassing problem of urinary incontinence? I hear of it being used for so many conditions these days. Sorry to say the exercises you suggest (Kegel) haven't helped. — Mrs. R.H.

Biofeedback may be an option for you, although I can't guarantee you will find it being done locally. You can check with a urologist in your area. Biofeedback has been tried experimentally, and with some promising results. The patients get the electronically-visualized feedback from attached devices that measure urinary bladder pressure. The experimental work I've heard about was done at the National Institute on Aging's Gerontology Research Center in Baltimore. This is, as you know, chiefly a problem of older people. And speaking of feedback, I do enjoy feedback of a different kind — from my readers, especially on matters involving new techniques in therapy. Let me know your experience. FOR MRS. W.G. — It's great that your elderly mother is now able to spend certain seasons of the year with various family members. But you have to take hold of this medication nightmare. The list of medications you give is impressively long and presents a pharmaceutical puzzle that can be solved only by a physician firsthand. That's why I didn't use your letter. Some of those drugs can interact with others and contribute to problems for one her age. Do this: Go to your own physician and let him review the medicines. He can get you off to a fresh start. Then be sure that along with your mother's favored possessions there is a detailed list of drugs and dosages to be adhered to faithfully by those who are to enjoy her company next.

Love has nothing to do with marital success

LUBBOCK — Promises to love are an important part of marital vows, but after that they do little to contribute to a successful marriage, a Texas Tech University family studies professor said.

If love were an important factor contributing to marital bliss, virtually all marriages would succeed because all couples believe they are in love at the onset of marriage, said Dr. Carl Andersen.

"People have come to believe that love has something to do with success in marriage," Andersen said. "I'm not saying love is not important. But, as a predictor of success, love has nothing to do with it."

The major force in determining the success of a marriage is the compatibility of the couples' histories, said Andersen. Personal histories include family background, class, beliefs, goals and motivation.

The societal move from courtship to dating as a precedent to marriage led to the belief in love as a reason to marry.

Courtship existed prior to World War I when people lived in small communities and knew everyone. Marriages generally occurred between people whose families knew each other fairly well. Family influence on mate selection was very powerful.

"When someone was going to get married, the decision of who they were going to marry came first and then came the courtship relationship in which the couple would try to work out the kinks," Andersen said.

Although they may not realize it, parents then and today have a basic understanding that similar backgrounds are helpful in establishing a strong marital relationship.

"Arranged marriages are rated as more satisfactory than romantic selections," he said. "Cultures that have arranged marriages basically match histories. Today, parents don't arrange their child's marriage, but they do discourage children from dating certain people simply because they know that being compatible is important."

After World War I, people began to move to the cities and more young people attended college. It was no longer possible to know a person's background.

"The phenomena we call dating was a special tool developed to cope with the fact that you no longer knew everybody," Andersen said. "That chemistry which draws two people together frequently leads them to believe they are in love. They begin operating on that greatest of all myths that 'love conquers all' and that we can work out our problems."

"Dating is for two people to get together and find out about each other's history and where they are going with their lives," he said. "If their histories are compatible then they might decide to begin forming a relationship. Many times the chemistry starts working before the history."

Andersen tells his "courtship and marriage" class, an elective taken by more Tech students than any other elective, that the first 50 people they date should be just for training. During that time, young people should decide what characteristics they enjoy in others and begin seeking out those people.

"Dating isn't to check out how you feel about a person because you can feel good about a lot of people," he said. "I call it the Baskin-Robbins theory. You can't really know how well you like one flavor of ice cream until you've tasted all the others. If you have done that, then you can say you like pralines and cream best."

Two people who have dated many other people have the best success rate for marriage. Two people who have dated a little fall below that. One person who has dated a lot and one who has dated a little have the least probability for success together.

About 50 percent of all marriages end in divorce, but Andersen predicts the divorce rate will go down in the future.

One reason for the prediction is that people are waiting until later in life to get married, improving their chances for better marriage.

"We used to think marriages between older people were more successful because they were older and more mature," Andersen said. "Now we know it relates to having your life picture in focus. Some couples graduate from high school and go directly into the family business rather than going to college. These couples know pretty much what life holds for them and can marry with a fairly good probability of success."

Man making sure eggs stay fresh with formula

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer

The chicken may have come before the egg, but Pete Kontos is making sure the egg stays fresh in salad bars from Hatteras to Hawaii long after the chicken has clucked its last.

Kontos, president of P.K. Foods Inc. of Advance, N.C., has developed a process to give hard-boiled eggs a shelf life of several months without freezing or preservatives. He said his nine-employee company supplies all the fresh-chopped hard-cooked eggs used around the country, except in parts of the Midwest and Alaska.

"On a weekly basis, we're talking about some place around 80,000 pounds," said Kontos. "That's about 650,000 eggs."

About four years ago, Kontos and other processors were making a decent living selling 5-gallon buckets of hard-cooked eggs preserved with chemicals when someone came up with the process for producing diced frozen eggs.

The process took away a lot of his customers, and Kontos wasn't impressed with what it did to the egg.

"It becomes like a sponge," he said. "There was a lot of demand from customers for something better than the frozen egg. I developed this process, and the U.S. government has awarded us two patents."

Kontos, a chemist by trade, declined to say how he preserves eggs without freezing or chemicals. He said it took him about four months to come up with the process about a year and a half ago.

The eggs, most of which are chopped but some of which are sold whole, still must be refrigerated. But Kontos has developed another process to preserve a whole egg without refrigeration. He hopes to introduce the product in the next two or three months.

"I have talked to some people dealing with the military," he said. "That is what we are aiming at."

In tests, the eggs have remained fresh after three months at 100 degrees Fahrenheit, said Kontos.

In addition to the U.S. patents, Kontos has patents for fresh-chopped hard-cooked eggs in Europe, Canada, Japan, Israel, Australia and New Zealand.

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Central (7-2) at Big Spring (3-6)

Going by team records one wouldn't think this would be much of a game. But records aren't everything. There's a lot more surrounding this game than mere records.

Grady (4-5) at Borden County (2-7)

One would think the Grady Wildcats might be a little down after a hard-fought, state-playoff clinching victory over Highland last week.

Roby (2-7) at Forsan (9-0)

The good news for the Roby Lions is that they won their first district game last week. The bad news is they're playing one of the state's best teams on their homecoming night.

Roscoe (7-2) at Garden City (5-4)

What about a 360-degree turnaround. That's what the Garden City Bearkats have made since their early season catastrophe, when they couldn't hold on to the football.

C-City (4-5) at Crane (7-1-1)

The Wolves are playing for the chance to even their season record at 5-5. Crane locked up a playoff spot by tying powerful Ballinger 7-7 last week and could be looking past Colorado City, which would be a big mistake.

Ballinger (7-1-1) at Coahoma (2-7)

Ballinger is hopping mad after being tied by Crane last week and that is the last thing a struggling Coahoma squad needs to face in their last ball game.

O'Donnell (6-3) at Klondike (0-9)

The Klondike Cougars have struggled through one of the toughest seasons imaginable, and yet, they have never given up. All has not been lost in this winless season for the Cougars, as several underclassmen will bring valuable experience into the next season.

McCamey (8-1) at Stanton (3-6)

Stanton faces the reigning district champions in McCamey who may surprise some people in the 2A playoffs. The Buffs are coming off a disappointing loss to previously winless Wall and will have to turn things around 360 degrees to be competitive in this game.

Loraine (2-7) at Sands (3-6)

The Sands Mustangs have taken a dramatic turn for the worse following a 3-0 start. The Mustangs have now lost six straight and can't seem to get their once potent running attack back in gear.

USSR women take World title

MONTREAL (AP) — It would have been news had the Soviet women's gymnasts failed to win another world team championship. But everything went as expected for the third straight time.

Oksana Omeliantchik of the Soviet Union reacts after scoring a perfect 10.0 on the floor exercise during the women's optionals at the World Gymnastics Championships in Montreal Thursday night.

The Soviets finished the compulsory and optional exercises on the vault, uneven parallel bars, balance beam and floor with a score of 393.375. The maximum possible is 400.00.

Houston Rocket center Akeem Olajuwon makes a pass through Los Angeles Clipper defenders while jumping spread eagle from the floor in first period action Thursday night in the Summit. The Rockets drubbed the Clippers to break their five game winning streak.

The Americans were horrified and in tears Thursday night when Jennifer Sey of Haddonfield, N.J., tumbled off the uneven parallel bars and dislocated her left knee during the U.S. team's final rotation.

Rockets snap Clipper unbeaten streak

HOUSTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Clippers came into The Summit expecting to lose their unbeaten status in the National Basketball Association and the Houston Rockets were happy to oblige them.

Queens down Paris, 74-65

ODESSA — The Howard College Hawk Queens tasted victory for the first time this season as they defeated Paris Junior College 74-65 in the opening round of the Odessa Classic last night.

Hawks nip Chaps, 70-68

The Howard College Hawks won their opening round game of the Midland College Chapparral Classic, 70-68, over Lubbock Christian College's junior varsity on a Bruce Kimble jumper with three seconds remaining.

NBA Roundup

Nuggets 131, Mavericks 99
 Elston Turner scored 10 points to lead Denver on a 24-6 run that produced a 36-39 halftime lead, and the Nuggets buried Dallas to preserve their unbeaten record for at least one more game. The Mavericks shot just 32.7 percent from the field, hitting only 34 of 104 attempts.

Alex English led the Nuggets with 30 points in only 25 minutes of play. Denver outscored Dallas 42-14 in the third period, running off 17 straight points in one stretch, to take a 98-53 lead into the final quarter. English had 16 of his points in the third quarter.

Derek Harper led Dallas with 23 points.

Nets 106, Bulls 97
 Buck Williams led the Nets on two surges — one in the second period and another in the third quarter — to rally New Jersey over Chicago. Williams scored four points as the Nets ran off 10 straight to take a 50-49 halftime lead, then sparked another 10-point run with a basket as New Jersey broke a 56-56 tie.

Williams had 10 of his 23 points in the third quarter as the Bulls lost their fourth straight since the loss of Michael Jordan, who broke a bone in his left foot on Oct. 29.

Orlando Woolridge led all scorers with 25 points for Chicago.

Bucks 92, Knicks 88
 Ricky Pierce and Terry Cummings led a surge that erased an eight-point New York lead with 7:07 left and rallied Milwaukee over the winless Knicks, 0-7 and losers of 19 straight since last March 22. Pierce and Cummings had eight points apiece in the burst that saw Milwaukee outscore New York 20-8.

Sidney Moncrief led Milwaukee with 21 points, while Cummings had 17. Pierce scored 10 of his 12 points in the fourth quarter. Patrick Ewing led the Knicks with 24 points, and Gerald Wilkins had 22.

Milwaukee went scored for 6:52 of the third period while Ewing scored 10 points in a 17-0 burst that gave the Knicks a 48-46 lead.

Lakers 116, Jazz 106
 The Lakers came back from a 59-51 halftime deficit behind Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and outscored Utah 65-47 in the final two quarters. Abdul-Jabbar scored 15 of his 25 points after halftime.

The big push came in the third quarter as the Lakers outscored Utah 34-23. James Worthy had 26 points for the Lakers, 11 of them in that decisive frame.

UK alums blast paper

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — To many Bluegrass folks, basketball as played by the University of Kentucky is almost a religion.

So when the hometown Lexington Herald-Leader, which has detailed all of those glorious basketball victories over the years, published an investigative story last month on the sacred subject, the Kentucky faithful were in a dither.

The Herald-Leader's story on Oct. 27 reported that 31 former Kentucky players knew of illegal cash payments, gifts, clothing and meals given during their collegiate days, and 26 admitting they were on the receiving end.

The initial reaction, on radio talk shows and on the streets, wasn't shock over the players' admissions, but that the paper would print such things.

"Why are they picking on our Cats?" they asked. "Everybody else does it (pays players), so what's the big deal?"

In this instance, the messenger has taken the brunt of the public's outrage. Since the story appeared, there has been a bomb threat at the newspaper office; and reporters have received threatening calls. As a precaution, the newspaper has increased security around the building.

Bumper stickers proclaim, "Send The Herald to Knoxville," home of the University of Tennessee, a bitter Kentucky rival.

There have been T-shirts and baseball caps inscribed with sarcastic remarks about the paper's intentions in writing the story. The items have sold briskly.

Blue and white toilet paper was thrown on the yard of John Carroll, the paper's editor.

About 100 people attended a "Trash the Herald-Leader" party at a downtown restaurant last week where they signed a petition criticizing the paper.

Several fans at a Kentucky football game last Saturday held up editions of the Herald-Leader with large international "no" symbols painted on them.

There have been 369 canceled subscriptions since the story was published.

Presbytery elects Koger as moderator

By KIM KIRKHAM
Religion Editor

The Presbytery of Tres Rios recently elected Tom Koger, a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Big Spring, as moderator.

In this position, Koger presides at the meetings of the Presbytery which are held four times a year.

He was elected at a meeting the first of October in Alpine. "The first thing was to elect someone and then change on the spot," Koger said. "So, I've already had one meeting" as moderator.

The nominating committee presented his name to the Presbytery. The Presbytery then voted and elected him for the position.

The next meeting will be after the first of the year in Midland, he said.

When announced that he had been elected moderator, Koger was surprised "and greatly honored." He will serve for one year.

"I think the main gain that you get from anything is the number of people you get to associate with," said Koger. Meeting new people is the "greatest profit that you can gain."

Koger has served on committees in Tres Rios four

The Presbytery of Tres Rios includes the area between the Rio Grande, Pecos' River and Concho River.

Ministers called to churches are "examined and must be approved by the Presbytery," Koger said. Ministers are members of the Presbytery.

There are 39 Presbyterian churches in this area, said Koger, and there are approximately 11,000 Presbyterians.

There are "lots of Presbyterians who were something else at one time, but I've always been one," Koger said.

Koger sings in the choir at the First Presbyterian Church and occasionally teaches Sunday School. He has also served on the sessions for the local church, which elect representatives and "transact the business and do the work of the church," Koger said.

Koger is a rancher in Reagan Co. His wife Nancy is a teacher at Big Spring High School. Their two daughters, Shannon and Shawn, live in Austin. Their son Phillip is a student at Angelo State University in San Angelo.

Farewell reception to honor the Rev. Guy Whites

Deacons, trustees and church staff of East Fourth Street Baptist Church and their spouses will host a farewell reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Guy A. White Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Public invited.

White, who has served as pastor of the church for the past nine years, will be moving to El Paso Nov. 15 to become pastor of the Scotsdale Baptist Church.

During his ministry with East Fourth, 516 new members have been received into the church - 239 by baptism and 277 by transfer of church letter.

The church became debt free during White's tenure of service, paying off the last $22,000 of a $235,000 debt in 1977 on the church sanctuary, which was built in 1961. The church made the final payment on the parking lot debt in 1978, two years ahead of schedule.

In addition to his ministry with East Fourth, White has served on numerous committees in the Big Spring Baptist Association, which is made up of all the Southern Baptist churches in Big Spring and the surrounding area, and has served as moderator of the association.

He has also served as chairman of evangelism for the association and participated in two mission crusades to the Philippines and one to Mexico.

White has served on various committees with the Big Spring-San Angelo Baptist Area, which is made up of the Big Spring Baptist Association and the Concho Valley Baptist Association.

White has been active in community and civic affairs and has participated in the Howard County Ministers' Fellowship, serving in various capacities in that organization.

White came to Big Spring and East Fourth Street Baptist Church Sept. 1, 1976 after serving as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Phillips for four years. He served as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Coahoma from 1967-72.

Other pastorates were at Union Baptist Church in Snyder and Bethel Baptist Church in DeLeon.

Before going into the gospel ministry, White was employed for 16 years by El Paso Natural Gas Co. as an accountant and also served five years in the United States Air Force.

White is a graduate of Wink High School, attended Odessa College and graduated from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth with a degree in theology.

The Whites have two sons, Guy Jr. of Coahoma, a Certified Public Accountant with an office in Big Spring, and Danny of Amarillo, chief engineer for Northwest Texas Hospital. They also have four grandchildren.
