Reagan urges 'season of peace'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, preparing to meet Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, told the Soviet people Saturday that Americans "do not threaten your nation and never will" but warned against mistaking "our freedoms for weakness."

In a speech broadcast over the Voice of America just one week before his scheduled departure for the Nov. 19-20 summit session in Geneva, Switzerland, the president expressed hope that the meeting will pave the way for future get-togethers of the two superpower leaders. "I hope my discussions with Mr. Gorbachev in Geneva will be fruitful and will lead to future meetings," Reagan said.

Meanwhile, the president was quoted by U.S. News and World Report as saying he expected to propose annual summits when he meets with Gorbachev. "I will probably propose — if they don't — that we have an exchange of future meetings in our own countries instead of going to a neutral country," Reagan was quoted in the weekly magazine's Nov. 18 edition.

Asked whether he contemplated annual meetings, he said, "I haven't thought particularly about setting the actual time. But I think it would automatically follow that, yes, we'd be talking next year and the year after."

In his speech, Reagan called for "a season of peace" and urged the Soviets to agree to discuss in the superpower arms talks his plans for the eventual sharing of missile defense systems that Reagan says might make nuclear weapons obsolete.

He touched on the Soviet war in Afghanistan, which the United States has denounced, saying both superpowers should seek peaceful settlements to regional conflicts there and in Central America, Africa and elsewhere. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the president's address was monitored by U.S. diplomatic personnel in Moscow and Leningrad, who reported it was heard clearly on some frequencies although it was jammed on others.

"We are pleased and hope that this development will set a precedent which will allow the Soviets to put a permanent end to jamming on all frequencies," Speakes said. REAGAN page 2-A

Murphy faces new challenges of school reform

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Educators are beginning to see the effects of recent state education reforms, and not all the results are good, says Murray Murphy, the new principal at Big Spring High School.

Murphy assumed his position this year, just when legislation began greatly changing the state's education system. He brings his own philosophy and expertise from 12 years as a Lamesa principal and seven years as a teacher.

Murphy said educators "ought to challenge students to do their best on a high school level." Schools should "teach (students) the social and moral values we believe in as a society. We should teach them the rules, to abide by them, and consequences of breaking them in any category."

School also should "provide the different types of students we have with a sound basis to make a good living when they become adults," he said.

With this in mind, one of Murphy's first acts as principal was to encourage students to take harder classes by promoting a class ranking plan that would give students a higher grade point average for taking harder classes. The previous system assigned the same grade points per class, regardless of how difficult the class was. The result was that students would take easier classes to raise their grade point averages, Murphy said.

Recent school reform laws have definitely been an eye-opener for educators, Murphy said. He says he sees a number of problems with the legislation.

"There's a lot of pressure on kids," he said. "The majority of (parents) are glad of tougher standards of education... We as educators feel (no pass-no play rules) are too strict," whereas before they were too lax, he said.

One problem with the new laws, he said, is students now fall further behind if they fail a class. "It's extremely difficult now to fail a class without extending high school an extra year. We reduced our margin of error," he said.

The result will be more summer school, including a bigger variety of classes offered during the summer. Other solutions might be remedial work for failing students during the long semesters and the summer and a 7:30-8:30 a.m. remedial class.

Because new laws make school tougher, "our average and below-average students get frustrated more quickly than before," he said. If a student can stick it out through his second year of high school, he can go into a vocational program and be out into the work force, which is a good alternative for a lot of students who "just don't like school," Murphy said.

He said he would like to see more honors classes, especially in English. He would like to see the work/school programs refined and more students put into them, he

Remedial college credit questioned

Staff and wire reports AUSTIN — The chairman of a committee planning to fine-tune Texas' higher education system has asked 32 institutions to explain why they are giving college credit for high school courses.

The Howard County Junior College District is among those schools queried in a letter by Larry Temple, chairman of the Select Committee on Higher Education. He also is chairman of the Coorminating Board, Texas College and University System.

Bob Riley, Howard College president said Saturday he had not received such a letter.

The University of Texas of the Permian Basin does not give credit for those remedial, or high-school, courses, according to a Coordinating Board survey.

Temple said he asked the Coordinating Board staff to survey Texas schools after reading a report that many institutions in the United States give college credit for remedial work.

The Texas survey showed that 32 Texas schools were awarding such credit.

"I have not yet heard any convincing justification for giving college-level credit toward a degree program for high school-level courses," Temple said in a letter to the 32 institution presidents.

Temple asked each one for an explanation "if there is some rationale that I have missed behind your decision."

Remedial course work should be offered for students who did not receive a proper background in high school for college work, but they should not receive credit for it, Temple said.

But Riley said Saturday, "We feel it's not outside our scope" to give the six hours of credit possible for remedial classes. "It's our obligation to help (students who) can't read and write," he said.

"Some kids feel like they want to further their education but don't want to take a lot of hours and not get any credit for them at all. They're paying their hard-earned money" for the classes, he said.

Riley said giving credit for remedial classes gives students who may need extra help an incen-

Scenic Mountain, above, is the site members of the West Texas Republican Womens Club would like to plant wildflowers as a Sesquicentennial project, but club members must await a ruling by the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife.

Controversy blooms over wildflowers

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Members of the West Texas Republican Womens Club and other volunteers who wish to plant flowers on Scenic Mountain need not twiddle their green thumbs much longer.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is expected to make a decision this week that will determine policy on planting requests, said Bob Hauser, chief of the department's park operations in Austin.

The women's club decided to plant wildflowers on the mountain as a project for the Texas Sesquicentennial, but one local citizen fears the project might upset the Big Spring State Recreational Area's ecological balance.

The controversy over planting flowers arose after Joseph Dawes of Big Spring wrote a letter Oct. 6 to the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Dawes said in his letter that he objected to the planting of wildflowers because he feared "the delicate balance ... of native species" could be destroyed.

He wrote that new plant species on the mountain could find "the growing conditions just right" and might take over the soil, moisture and plant resources which current species depend on.

Austin officials already had given the women permission to plant flowers on Scenic Mountain, but after receiving the letter they decided to review their decision, said Charles Gray, manager of the Big Spring state park.

Polly Mays, a member of the women's club, said she hopes the state does not make a "blanket decision," because each park is different.

"I feel the integrity of the mountain was changed a long time ago when they paved roads up there. It

President Reagan, using the same master control panel that President Eisenhower used, gives a worldwide radio address on the Voice of America Saturday at its Washington studio. The address, which also was broadcast to more than 50 nations by the Worldnet Television Network, was beamed to the Soviet Union via the VOA to talk about the upcoming Geneva Summit.

Reagan

Referring to human rights abuses against Soviet Jews and other minorities, Reagan noted that both countries are signatories of the 1975 Helsinki human-rights accords.

"America asks the world's leaders to abide by what they have committed themselves to," the president said.

Speaking before the same control panel used by President Eisenhower for a VOA speech three decades ago, Reagan called for "expanded contacts between our two great societies."

"We should open a dialogue... so leaders of each country would have the same chance to communicate to the people of the other on television," Reagan said.

His speech was notably more conciliatory than one he addressed to the Soviet people in 1983, on VOA's 40th anniversary. In the earlier speech he charged that "the inflexibility of the Soviet government on arms control is holding back successful negotiations."

"I know much has been written in your press about America's hostile intentions toward you," the president said Saturday. "I reject these distortions. Americans are a peace-loving people; we do not threaten your nation and never will."

Reagan told his audience that America is "confusing to outsiders," partly because of its diversity, and added, "Our government is elected by the people; it is not above the people or above the law."

"The press criticizes me, and sometimes it hurts, but that is their role — to raise difficult questions and keep officials accountable to the people," he said. "But no one should mistake our freedoms for weakness."

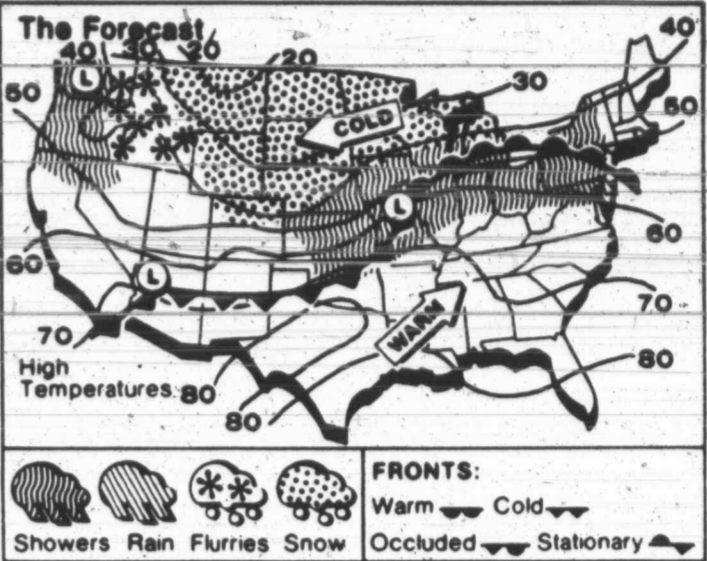

"Everything has a season. Let us hope as we near Christmas and the New Year, that this will be the season for peace."

"I believe our two nations, and those others that have nuclear weapons, should come together and agree on how, gradually, to eliminate offensive nuclear weapons and to make our defensive system available to all," Reagan said in a reference to his Strategic Defense Initiative for a high-tech shield against nuclear missiles.

"We ought to start talking about this process at the Geneva arms talks."

He warned that these talks "are complicated negotiations and satisfactory results will take long, hard work," but added that the United States is "working hard to reach a breakthrough."

State

By The Associated Press
While most of Texas continued to bathe in balmy, springlike temperatures Saturday, very cold air remained poised just north of the state.

Earlier in the day, the leading edge of the arctic air mass dipped into the northern Panhandle keeping temperatures in the 40s, the National Weather Service said.

But the front retreated northward, shifting winds in Dalhart rapidly to the southwest and boosting temperatures up 16 degrees in one hour.

He-Man's visit cut short by 'unruly' mob

ABILENE (AP) — An estimated 8,000 fans of a cartoon character pushed, shoved, sweated and swore just to get a glimpse of "He-Man" during his visit to the Taylor County Fairgrounds Saturday.

But hundreds of children were disappointed when promoters' fears of a mob scene cut short the visit of the character made famous by the cartoon series, "He-Man and Masters of the Universe."

The appearance of a big, blond, scantily-clad man posing as the cartoon hero was sponsored by local television station, KTXS-TV, and the Mattel Co. The television station sought forgiveness from He-Man's fans for briefly taking him off the air until a groundswell of support "forced" station management to revive the afternoon series.

He-Man was supposed to arrive in a hot air balloon, but promoters said 40 mph gusts were too strong even for a super hero. Then, his planned two-hour visit was cut in half.

"He-Man left early because we became very concerned about the safety of the children," said KTXS owner S.M. Moore Jr. "Children were getting lost from their parents. People were pushing and shoving. Kids started tearing down decorations."

"We were very concerned for the children, and the security people guarding He-Man were concerned about his safety," Moore said. "So they got him out of there."

Moore said he had no idea there'd be 8,000-10,000 spectators, instead of the anticipated 1,500.

The television station ordered 10,000 posters from Mattel Saturday to give to the disappointed children, he said.

"Abilene's the most enthusiastic reception we've ever seen," said Dave Capper, marketing director for Mattel, creators of "He-Man and Masters of the Universe."

Sheila Washington, the mother of a disappointed 5-year-old, said the crowd was so large, her daughter couldn't even see He-Man when she perched on the shoulders of her 6-foot-5 father.

Barbara Blythe of Sweetwater brought her three sons to see He-Man for her 6-year-old's birthday.

"Seeing He-Man was all Rowdy wanted for his birthday," she said. "My kids love him. We always have to be at home at 4 o'clock to see He-Man. We barely even got a glimpse of him."

Lila Vinita of Abilene tried to explain to her crying 2-year-old grandson, Audie Hutto, that He-Man was already gone.

"All I wanted was a picture of Audie with He-Man," said Mrs. Vinita. "We've been standing here since 20 'til 11 (a.m.). Now he's gone. Why'd he leave?"

Earlier in the day, Capper had predicted problems after seeing the size of the crowd: "We only brought 5,000 posters. When those are gone, there's going to be a mob scene. We're going to have to just slip him out of here."

Abilene toy stores reported a "madhouse" rush on He-Man toys Saturday.

Police Beat

Man arrested in burglary

Police arrested Kenneth Lee Berry, 44, no address listed, on suspicion of burglary, unlawfully carrying a pistol and evading arrest, according to police reports. The arrest occurred at Rockwell Bros. lumber yard at 300 W. Second, according to police reports. Police made the arrest after responding to a burglar alarm at the location at 6:05 p.m. Friday.

• Someone stole a chow dog, valued at more than $200, from the back yard at 1412 Johnson. Carla Little told police the black dog with a red collar was taken between 11:30 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday.

• Two men stole $12.60 worth of beer; broke a glass door and assaulted a clerk at the 7-Eleven store at 902 Willa at 12:50 a.m. Saturday, according to police reports. A man pushed clerk Melinda Beasley of 2615 Dow when she attempted to block his path, the report stated. One man kicked open the glass door, causing $210 damage.

• Someone stole a $339 camera, $289 worth of firearms, $50 of hand tools and an $8 flashlight from a car owned by Jerald Perryman of Bayfield, Colo., according to police reports. The theft occurred between 12:30 and 9 a.m. Saturday while the car was parked on the east side of Motel 6, the reports stated.

• Vandals caused $1,200 damage to the glass door of First Federal Savings at 500 Main between 8 p.m. Friday and 7:50 a.m. Saturday, according to police reports. The damage was caused by a pellet gun or an unknown sharp instrument, police said.

• Thieves stole $600 cash from the Shuffie Ann bar at 3509 W. 80 at midnight Saturday, according to police reports.

• Police arrested Travis Wayne Mims, 27, of 508 State on warrants, according to police reports. The arrest occurred at 500 Owens at 1:29 p.m. Saturday.

• Someone stole $199.20 worth of beer and caused $250 damage to a glass door at Pinkies at 1414 E. Third between 9:10 and 10:50 p.m. Friday, police reports said.

• Police arrested Kerry Guzman, 19, of 314 N.E. Ninth on traffic warrants at 7:09 p.m. Friday, according to police reports.

• Someone stole two rifles totaling $225 from G.C. Villa at 400 N.E. 11th. The thief also caused $400 damage to a portable television.

Teen hurt in pickup mishap

A Big Spring teenager who suffered injuries in a truck accident at 5:10 p.m. Friday was transferred to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock from Hall-Bennett Hospital, spokesmen from both hospitals said.

A Lubbock hospital nurse said Saturday she was "doing fine."

Gina Lee Henderson, 14, of 1611 Jennings was in the bed of a pickup truck when the truck backed into a tree, throwing her against the tree and back into the truck, according to police reports.

The driver, whose name was not listed in the police report, was backing out of the driveway at 1613 Jennings when he accidentally pressed the accelerator instead of the brake and hit the tree at 1606 Jennings, police reports said.

The truck was a 1985 Chevrolet owned by Thomas Edison Cook of 1613 Jennings, according to police reports.

depends on what your interests are," Mays said about Dawes' objections.

She said she has requested that the Parks and Wildlife Department make a prompt decision, because the flowers need to be planted before the first frost. The club has spent $125 so far on the Sesqui-centennial project, she said.

"We thought it could be a tourist attraction," Mays said. "Heaven knows it will be hard to get started. It takes a lot of effort and years to get much of a cover."

She said the club plans to plant wildflowers on the northern slope of the mountain that borders FM 700, so they would be highly visible to motorists.

Mays said the flowers would benefit the mountain because they could prevent erosion on the northern slope. "The slope could use something to hold the soil," she said.

"We had no idea if (the planting request) would be objectionable to anyone," Mays said.

If the state rules against the project, Mays said the club would find another place to plant.

Murphy

said.

The biggest problem Murray is facing this year as principal, he said, is that the new laws contribute to the number of kids dropping out of school.

"I feel like our curriculum changes were good, but we have to catch up and find alternatives to the dropout problem," he said.

Big Spring's dropout rate is about 20 to 30 percent over the four years of high school, Murphy said. That is somewhat below the national rate of 33 percent. The local rate had remained constant for "quite a while," he said.

This year he already has seen an increase if students dropping out of school, he said, especially since students are allowed to drop out at age 16, recently lowered from 17.

"A lot of your big, big discipline problems happen at that age," he said.

Also, younger students don't always take school seriously enough, he said. Freshmen and sophomores "tend to not believe that failing classes will hurt you," he said. "One of our hardest jobs is to get our youngest students in line."

Teachers too are affected by the reform legislation. The career ladder "has taken its toll on staff across the state. It's put a lot of pressure on teachers," he said.

"The whole structure of the career ladder is questionable — it doesn't pinpoint the better teachers," he said.

Another problem Murphy faces, he said, is the community's "lack of a positive attitude" regarding Big Spring High School because it doesn't always win at football or in the UIL contests. A high school shouldn't be regarded as good or bad just on its win-loss record, he said.

"I get so tired of hearing 'poor old Big Spring,'" he said. "We are in a good situation. I want the public to perceive the high school in a positive way. It's gotten some unfair criticism in the past. We have our problems, like every school has problems."

Remedial

to go to college. "It helps them get into it and feel they're not going to college for nothing," he said.

"If we can get them interested in college and they see they can pass, (students) go on to take courses like English and math," he said.

In his letter, Temple noted a Southern Regional Education Board report that said: "Higher education has been slow to acknowledge that too much of what is credited as college work is not."

College study should demand learning and thinking skills above high school level, the report concluded. "That analysis makes a lot of sense to me," Temple said in his letter.

The Select Committee on Higher Education will consider the issue in its study of the Texas higher education system, he said.

Sheriff's Log

Man held on DWI warrants

Sheriff's deputies arrested Ricardo A. Uranga, 26, of 706 Douglas at 4:30 p.m. Friday on warrants for two counts of driving while intoxicated. He was released on bonds totaling $2,000, according to sheriff's reports.

Deputies arrested George Clifton Clinton Jr., 37, of Deally Road at 1:50 a.m. Saturday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. The arrest was made one mile south of Big Spring on U.S. Highway 87, ac-ording to sheriff's reports. He was released on a $1,000 bond set by the county court.

• Transferred from city custody at 5 p.m. Friday was Andy Esquivel Guzman, 20, of 1501 Stadium. He was arrested on suspicion of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, according to sheriff's reports. He was released on a $5,000 bond set by Judge Melvin Daratt.

Wallabies escape zoo

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Two male wallabies escaped from their pen at the Louisville Zoo on Saturday, but one of the kangaroo-like animals was later captured, officials said.

The escape was reported about 4 a.m. when a security guard at a nearby hospital spotted one of the animals. The wallaby that was captured was found near the zoo.

The New Zealand natives weigh 15 to 35 pounds and are "very docile... but extremely quick," said Dr. Bill Foster, a zoo veterinarian.

He said zoo workers would try to divert the animal into a large net. If that didn't work, they planned to use tranquilizer darts.

Officials didn't know how the wallabies escaped, but Foster said they may have found a gap in a temporary fence erected while workers build a new shelter for the wallaby exhibit.

Man, dog survive cold

KETCHIKAN, Alaska — A man who survived an estimated five hours in the bone-chilling waters off Alaska after a boat capsized and dumped him, two of his friends and their dogs overboard says he was ready for death.

"I knew I was going to die; I felt it, someplace down inside me," George Shayen told the Ketchikan Daily News last week from his home, where he was recuperating from hypothermia.

"It wasn't scary. After a while I just accepted the fact that I was a goner. I started getting this funny warmth, this pleasant welcome feeling."

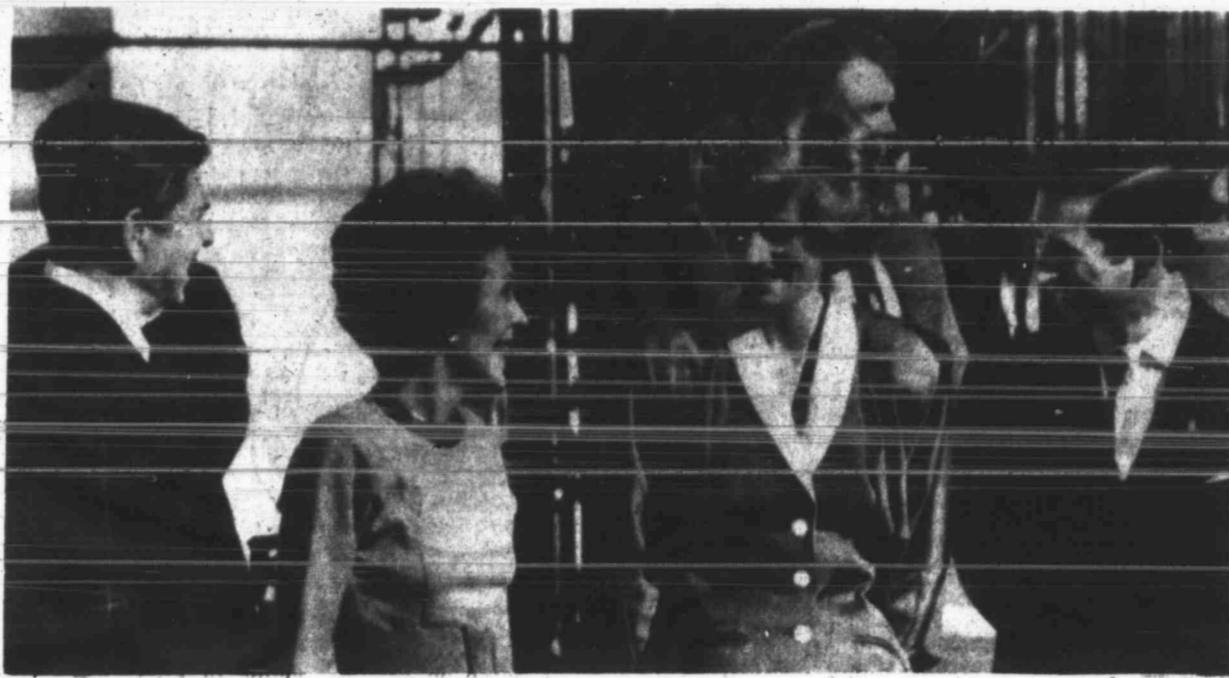

Shayen, 41, and his dog, Knik, were the only survivors of the accident. His friends, Joe and Le Crissa "Jinx" Walker, did not make it. Nor did their dog.

Vets gather for reunion

FORT COLLINS, Colo. — Veterans who gathered for a reunion this weekend said getting together is important because so many who served in Vietnam still have not made peace with themselves.

"When you were in 'Nam, you didn't leave people in the field," said Buddy Roach of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., soon after arriving for Firebase Colorado LZ 85, a four-day reunion that is to conclude with a "welcome-home" Veterans' Day parade Monday in nearby Loveland.

"We feel, especially with the suicide rate and the drug and alcohol problems, there's a lot of guys still out there. In the field. That's why we're here," he said.

Britain's royal couple embarks on 3-day visit

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Diana, appearing radiant on a bright fall Saturday, plunged into a dizzying three-day social whirl that has obsessed the capital's elite for weeks.

Following their morning arrival at Andrews Air Force Base, where they were greeted by a flag-waving crowd of about 2,000, the royal couple visited President and Mrs. Reagan and headed in separate directions — Charles to visit architects, Diana to a hospice — before coming back together for a White House dinner and dance.

The prince, who is visiting the United States for the seventh time, attended a briefing at the American Institute of Architects on community rehabilitation projects in Savannah, Ga., and Baltimore.

Charles Zucker, deputy director of the Design Arts Program of the National Endowment of the Arts, said Prince Charles was very knowledgeable and devoted many questions to how such projects get started, listening intently to the panel of community leaders, tenants and architects.

"How do you find community leaders, and how do you develop them?" the prince was quoted as asking. He "was more interested in the process — about the interaction between community groups, city officials, and banks to get a project off the ground," Zucker said. "He was soaking up the information because he thought it would be useful in Britain."

The prince was escorted to the Octagon Museum on the institute grounds, which, during the War of 1812, served first as the French ambassador's residence, and then as a temporary White House for President James Madison after British soldiers burned the Pennsylvania Avenue White House to the ground.

In the Treaty Room, a 20-foot circular room that served as Madison's study, the prince was shown the Treaty of Ghent, which formally ended the war on Feb. 14, 1815.

"Is that kept here?" he asked, pointing to the treaty. "It's kept at the National Archives. You know they don't trust architects," said Mary Means, president of the AIA Foundation.

"Can't trust them," the prince responded jokingly. Upon their arrival, Charles and Diana, who wore a bright red wool suit by one of her favorite designers, Bruce Oldfield, stopped by the White House for a 30-minute chat with the Reagans.

The young couple did not make any formal statements at the White House but posed for pictures with the Reagans at the diplomatic entrance.

Although she's known to adore red, first lady Nancy Reagan opted for a subdued tan dress at the friendly reunion, while the president wore a plaid jacket and tie. Mrs. Reagan first met the princess at the royal couple's wedding in July 1981.

Coffee, tea and orange juice were served, according to Michael Shea, the Buckingham Palace press officer traveling with Charles and Diana.

Envoy appeals to captors

LONDON — The Archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie, received a letter Saturday from four U.S. hostages in Lebanon. The archbishop's special envoy immediately appealed for a meeting with their Moslem kidnappers.

"It contains both a statement which I consider to be helpful and it also contains a threat," the envoy, Terry Waite, said of the hostages' confidential letter to Runcie. Its contents were not made public.

"This is why I make this urgent appeal to get out there to see them (the captors) because I believe we have something to build on."

Justice blames officials

BOGOTA, Colombia — The government knew in advance that terrorists planned to attack the Palace of Justice, a Supreme Court justice who was held hostage was quoted as saying in an interview published Saturday. At least 109 people, including 12 justices, were killed in the two-day siege.

"This massacre was foretold and permitted," Humberto Murcia, who was with the justices when they were killed, was quoted as saying.

His remarks were published in an interview with the Bogota daily El Tiempo, one of Latin America's most respected newspapers.

UNESCO ends meeting

SOFIA, Bulgaria — UNESCO's five-week general conference ended harmoniously Saturday, but Britain's threat to withdraw in seven weeks still hangs over the organization.

Many delegates from the 154 nations attending the biennial meeting of UNESCO's highest decision-making body praised the consensus achieved on several controversial issues, saying it was a hopeful sign for the future of the world body and the U.N. system.

British delegates declined to assess the conference, which began Oct. 8, but during several debates the British expressed disappointment with some decisions.

Ten killed in robbery

AALST, Belgium — Gunmen shot and killed as many as 10 people and seriously wounded about a dozen others in a bloody rampage during a supermarket robbery Saturday, police and witnesses reported.

Man charged in massacre of drug squad

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Authorities have charged a man with homicide in last week's massacre of 22 members of a police anti-narcotics squad, gunned down in a remote jungle village while on a search for drug traffickers.

The Mexican Attorney General's office said in a statement late Friday that Antonio Arreola Sanchez would be brought before a judge in Veracruz state on charges including homicide and narcotics violations.

The statement gave no other details on Arreola Sanchez.

But it provided the first detailed account of how the drug agents were killed Nov. 1 in a marijuana-growing area of Veracruz, which is along the Gulf of Mexico.

Tipped to a 13,200-pound marijuana deal, the drug squad headed to the village of Sanchez Taboada, the statement said. There, in the pre-dawn hours, they exchanged fire with men they believed to be drug traffickers.

Two agents were wounded, so the squad turned back. They abandoned their vehicles at a muddy stretch and walked for about three hours until they found a horse to carry the injured, the statement said.

At about 9:30 a.m., they arrived at the village of Ignacio Aldama and stopped in a small store for sodas and cookies. A half-hour later, more than 30 assailants shot at the group, killing two agents, the statement said.

After the shootout, the commander of the operation, Jesus Cabrera of the federal judicial police, "made contact with the aggressors trying to end the clash and withdraw," the statement said.

"After various minutes of conversation, it was proposed that the police agents hand over their arms to the village representative as the condition to permit them to retreat," it said.

"Commander Cabrera accepted the deal and ordered put at the disposition of that municipal authority all the arms," the statement said.

"However, the drug traffickers tied the hands and feet of the agents and beat them in sight of various villagers for a prolonged time," it said.

At 7 p.m., the surviving agents were taken on boats down the Choapa River to Playon de Cahuapan, where they were killed.

A sad comment on Mexican law

The wheels of justice often grind exceedingly slow in the United States, and it can be frustrating.

Across the international border in Mexico, well, sometimes the wheels just plain fall off the wagon. The descriptive word has to be "amazing."

Take the case of Jose Contreras Subias, described as the state of Baja California's most dangerous prisoner — charged with murdering a Mexican federal police agent and making multimillion-dollar dope deals.

On Oct. 25 a guard detail escorts Contreras from the Tijuana city jail for a court appearance — and they never bring him back. Some members of the guard express surprise that Contreras didn't wander back by himself.

The case becomes even more amazing. The warden of the jail finds out about the disappearance/escape on Oct. 26. He gets around to informing Tijuana's mayor and chief of police three days later, on Oct. 29.

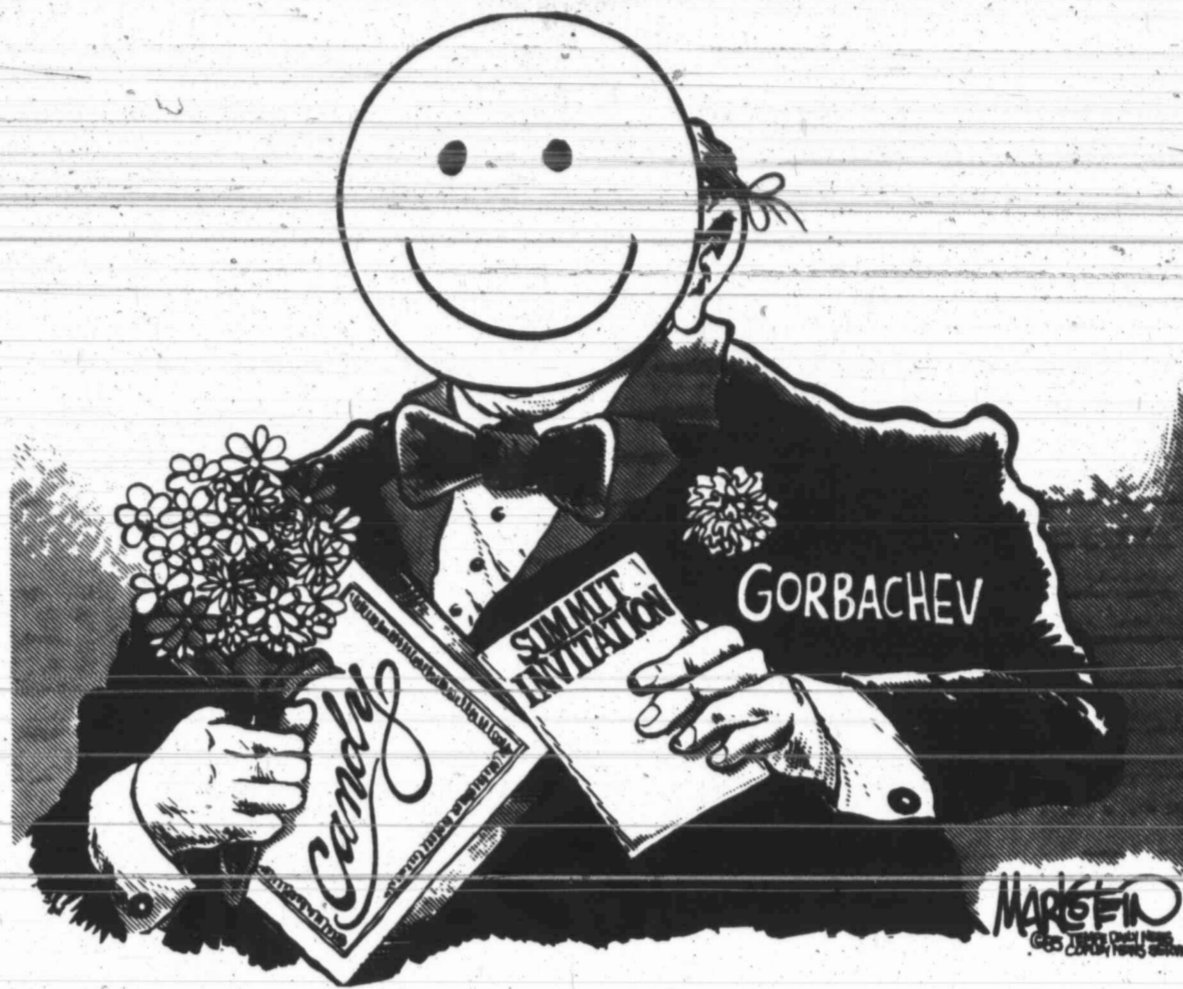

Subsequent investigations show that on several occasions Contreras bribed jail officials and police so that he could go to his Tijuana home, eat dinner and spend some time with his wife and kids.

A certain casual liberality is part of the way of life south of the border. At La Mesa Prison, near Tijuana, the inmates get what they pay for. Comfortable quarters, good meals, companionship of wives and girlfriends — all can be had for a price.

Nevertheless, the Contreras affair is international in scope, and his escape is inexcusable. He is described as the right-hand man of Rafael Caro Quintero, who is suspected of ordering the kidnapping and brutal slaying of a U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agent, Enrique Camarena Salazar, last February.

Camarena's death severely tested relations between the United States and Mexico. Now one of the chief suspect's lieutenants has been allowed to escape.

How much money has been paid to whom? The Contreras affair is a sad commentary on Mexico's system of criminal law.

Green thumb turns brown

By ROBIN WARD

After moving into my first apartment a few years back, I decided to raise some living thing to keep me company, something that would take a minimum of care. I didn't want to feel guilty about neglecting a dog or cat while away at work.

So I decided to raise plants. After all, I thought, they won't get lonely if I leave them alone for a weekend.

I bought a book on houseplants, a sack of potting soil, a collection of colorful pots, some plant food — all the things a well cared for plant could want.

I spent hours choosing the most beautiful plants I could find, and then I went to work.

And I soon discovered that plants are at least as much trouble to raise as pets — probably more trouble to raise than children. They have to be fed and watered just as regularly, they outgrow their pots, they insist on having their turn to sit at the window, and they never pay attention when you tell them anything.

Of those original plants, only one faithful ivy has survived. A dozen other potted plants have come and gone. But I haven't given up. My grandmother, whose house is full of plants, keeps me in stock. She's one of those people who can pull off a leaf, stick it in a glass of water, and three weeks later it's a lush, healthy plant. My mother has much the same luck with her plants.

I, on the other hand, have to pamper and coax every little bit of growth out of my spoiled foliage.

When I moved to Big Spring, I packed my plants with care and brought them along with me. Two of them didn't like the car ride and promptly died. Several more balked at Big Spring water, and pouted with wilting leaves until I started hauling Abilene water for them.

Two more plants I bought after I got here both died the first month. (One thing I've learned from plant-raising is that the more money you spend on a plant, the more likely it is to die.) Last week, a friend gave me three more plants, and I'm giving them royal treatment hoping I can keep them in good health.

But I'm reaching the end of my patience. If these plants don't live, I think I'll try a goldfish.

Newsrooms, in a nutshell

By JOHN RICE
Managing Editor

It's a common complaint, not just here but in most cities. Why can't the newspaper be more positive? Why can't it promote events and provide better publicity? Why can't it highlight good news?

A newspaper trade magazine article this month addresses the role of reporters and the business community. International Newspaper Advertising and Marketing Executives magazines gives solid tips on the relationships between reporters, editors and retailers and other news sources. Its advice is good insight into what makes newsrooms tick, and what reporters and retailers can do to enhance communication.

It is written by Joann Byrd, editor, and Roger Christensen, vice president of sales for the The Herald of Everett, Wash. Here's what they have to say:

• For news departments, the burden is to explain: They aren't interested in bad news or good news. They are interested in news.

They do not work for businesses or politicians or charities or churches or advocates of any kind. They work for their readers.

They cannot act as the public relations outlet for anyone.

They need points of view of business people to stay abreast of trends in business and the economy, and welcome ideas which are not self-serving.

• Retailers can help newsrooms and themselves by:

Telling reporters and editors what's going on in their industry and how the newspaper's readers might be affected.

Making each contact with a journalist a fresh start, solely a sharing of legitimate information.

Retailers are advised not to begin a conversation with, "I spend a lot of money with your newspaper" or "You only seem interested in bad news, and I think it's time you reported something good." Though both perceptions may be valid opinions, they tell an editor that the retailer doesn't understand news, and therefore, his idea of a story's value to readers may not match the journalist's definition.

Understanding at the start that they can influence how a story is written and photographed by providing information, perspective and background, but that the story and its display will be determined by honest and professional editors, without the subjects seeing it in advance.

Knowing that they can call the newspaper's editors any time they have a complaint and owe it to the paper and to themselves whenever they see an error.

• Advertising sales people can help by: Encouraging retailers to talk directly to the news department people.

Understanding that acting as go-betweens and mediators advances the myth that newsrooms and advertising departments play the same role with retailers.

Suggesting story ideas to the news department with the expectation that their ideas will be given the same consideration story ideas from any source are given.

Giving names of key editors to accounts who approach them with ideas or complaints.

That's a summary of the article's key points. It's sound advice and gives a revealing glimpse into the newsroom's role in producing a newspaper.

Gentlemen's GOP destined for scrap

The three leading candidates for the Republican nomination for governor swear they will live by their party's 11th Commandment: "Thou shalt not speak ill of another Republican."

Anyone who thinks the GOP Three will be able to follow that commandment through next May's party primary probably could be convinced that Ronald Reagan is going to grow his hair long and join a nuclear disarmament group.

Former Gov. Bill Clements, U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler and former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance have had only friendly smiles for each other in public so far. They will, they say, focus their political attacks on Democratic Gov. Mark White rather than each other.

It would be nice and refreshing if they could accomplish this high-road approach to campaigning over the next six months, but there's little chance of that happening.

Clements, Loeffler and Hance are veteran politicians, each with a drive to win the Governor's Mansion back for the GOP. They know that campaigning is a serious business that takes a total commitment from candidates, their families, their staffs and their supporters.

Everyone involved in a campaign must make personal sacrifices and keep focused on the one objective: to win.

Because of all these commitments and sacrifices, a political campaign tends to take on a crusade atmosphere. Everyone involved becomes convinced that a victory for the candidate is absolutely mandatory for the good of the nation, the state, the district, the county, the city or whatever entity is involved.

Such fervor and dedication sometimes lead to excesses, such as Watergate in President Richard Nixon's administration. Almost always, they lead to at least some negative campaigning in the hot races.

One incident already has led to bad feelings among the GOP

Three. It happened mostly behind the scenes, and the GOP state headquarters staff reportedly took an oath to keep the matter quiet. But not everyone had the same interest.

Leaks occurred, and in a recent issue of his Texas Weekly newsletter, longtime political reporter Sam Kinch details how Bill and Rita Clements walked out of a GOP fund-raiser in Dallas honoring former United Nations Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick.

It seems that the former governor and wife arrived late and found their seats at the dinner table occupied. They waited about 20 minutes to be escorted to other seats, but finally left in a huff.

One party official tried unsuccessfully to coax them back inside from the parking lot, and Party Chairman George Strake and Party Treasurer Rob Mosbacher wrote letters of apology.

Kinch says Clements' opponents "tried to use the occasion to indicate that, a change in image notwithstanding, the 'old' Clements is alive and well in the 1986 governor's race."

The newsletter quoted Clements as saying "I've got a hide like an alligator. And this snipping and snapping isn't going to do a thing to hurt me. I can take it as well as dish it out."

The information that has come out about the incident makes us wonder if there aren't some muddy potholes in the high road of the GOP campaign.

Gang activity a growing menace

By JESSE TREVINO

Despite the harsh glare of coverage the state's prisons have received this year, no public outcry has followed to resolve one of Texas' most pressing problems. But a new development within state prison walls should be of particular interest to Mexican-Americans and all Texans — the rise of the prison gang system.

Popular sentiment is that prisons and prisoners deserve each other, and no better. But before we dismiss the problem with ill-advised disinterest, we had better acquaint ourselves with this new, troublesome aspect of prison life because it may be about to introduce a new level of criminal activity on to our streets.

Recent news reports have disclosed that the upsurge of murders within state penitentiaries is related to the ongoing development of a strong gang system. The fighting and killing are said to be among different gangs warring for control. A great many of the gangs' members are reported to be Mexican-American.

If so, we may be witnessing the birth of a criminal network which ultimately will claim the lives of younger Mexican-Americans and which will produce another of those seemingly insoluble problems afflicting the Mexican-American community.

Five years ago, working as a reporter in southern California, I spent long hours with an inmate who relayed to me how it is that gangs born in the state prison system spread their influence across the state.

However short the history of gang creation is in Texas prisons, Texas may be on the verge of repeating the California experience. Already, membership in state prison gangs has increased tenfold in less than three years' time. About 1,000 — again, many of them Mexican-Americans — have entered (or have been forced to enter) the brotherhood of gangs now forming inside the state's prisons.

That does not bode well for Texas because some of the same elements present in California 10 years ago, when gang activity spread dramatically, are present in Texas today.

Allowed to establish themselves inside California's prisons, the gangs reached outside the prison gates to draft into criminal employment their most logical first cousin in California society: Local bands of unemployed Mexican-American youths, many of them high school dropouts, who are the bane of law enforcement and social welfare officials there.

The youngsters are then recruited by gang members leaving prison, leading to the creation of gangs in communities and neighborhoods which had no previously organized gang activity.

Were such a system to spawn in Texas and prison gangs allowed to build a network with the outside gangs, their main function would be to serve the overlords of the drug trade, the other major element present in Texas that California officials faced years ago.

This is where the real problem begins, because Texas officials believe the drug trade is exploding, especially the demand for cocaine.

Connecting into the drug trade is particularly useful for gangs in prison. They recruit the young with the promise of easy money and introduce them to the misfortune of drugs. That allure proves especially powerful to young kids with little or no education, fewer work skills. The payoff to the gang comes not only in the profits they reap but in producing fledgling criminal records for teenagers, insuring they remain unemployable, and leading to the creation of a permanent, ready source of warriors for the new gang system being created in local neighborhoods.

Whatever is done about the gang problem evolving in the Texas state prison system, it is clear that Texas must stop it before the more fateful connection is made to the outside world.

Here is a problem we should be able to solve before the Mexican-American community is chained to another social entanglement.

PUC commissioner reportedly used state funds to get Ph.D.

AUSTIN (AP) — Public Utility Commissioner Dennis Thomas received thousands of dollars in taxpayer-financed research, computer time and secretarial services in pursuit of his Ph.D. from the University of Texas, the Dallas Times Herald reported.

While Thomas contends the expenses are justified and his research may aid the PUC, some legislators said they were "offended" by Thomas' actions, the Times Herald said in Sunday editions.

Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, author of a major PUC reform act, said he doubts lawmakers intended to authorize state money for research on an advanced degree.

"I'm glad Dennis is going to get his Ph.D. and I'm proud for him, but I don't want him to do it on the state's time and on the state's payroll," said Caperton, a member of the Senate Finance Committee.

State records provided by Thomas to the Times Herald show $400 in tuition costs were paid by the utility commission, and that Thomas used $2,800 worth of state computer time, obtained the quarter-time use of a researcher who was paid $1,176 a month for almost a year and had PUC secretaries type and copy his 375-page thesis.

Thomas said his actions are authorized under the State Employees Training Act of 1969, which allows state agencies to pay for extra education and training for administrators and employees in their field of work.

Thomas, one of the three commissioners since October 1984, will get his Ph.D. in business management in December

Sesquicentennial: statement of supremacy?

By JIM DAVIS

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — An army of tall, Anglo males whipped the short, dark-skinned Mexicans at the Battle of San Jacinto while many Anglo women fled in panic toward the United States in the "Runaway Scrape."

In 1985, 150 years later, Texans will celebrate their Sesquicentennial in honor of the independence from Mexico that the Battle of San Jacinto made possible. But will that celebration focus on the male Anglo soldiers of that day? Is the whole idea of the Sesquicentennial a statement of supremacy?

These questions kept popping up Thursday and Friday in a pre-Sesquicentennial seminar at the University of Texas.

T.R. Fehrenbach, author of "Lone Star: A History of Texas and the Texans," set up the questions by declaring the Texas Revolution to be the second-most important event in American history, topped only by the writing of the American Declaration of ## Independence.

In defending his ranking, he said the 1836 Texas Revolution and the war with Mexico that followed a decade later brought under U.S. rule about one-fourth of the nation's current territory.

If the Texas army had lost, North American history could have turned out quite differently, he told the audience of journalists, teachers and historians. Mexico might have kept Texas and a large area consisting now of Western states, including California, he said.

If that had happened, he asked, would Mexico have been better off? And he answered, "I think not."

A woman in the audience then noted that only one or two Hispanics and no blacks were among the several dozen persons at the seminar. Is the Sesquicentennial, she asked, a supremacy statement? "Yes," he answered. "I don't think it's intended for that, but it's in there. Unfortunately, I know of no way around this." The Mexicans were the enemy and the few blacks in Texas at that time mostly were slaves, he added.

"I don't think you can take a certain amount of arrogance out of the Texas Revolution. If we had been humble, if we had discussed it, we would have lost," he said.

Many of the following speakers politely disagreed, however.

Jesus de la Teja, assistant archivist with the Texas General Land Office, said history largely has overlooked the importance of the Hispanic population in Texas during the revolution.

He said at least six Hispanic men died defending the Alamo. They were among the Hispanic residents of Texas who joined in opposing the dictatorship of Gen. Lopez de Santa Anna.

De la Teja, a Cuban by birth, also questioned Fehrenbach's contention that U.S. expansion would have halted if the Mexicans had managed to drive out the Anglo Texans. Americans paid little attention to treaties with Indians when they wanted their land and probably would not have honored the Mexico boundary from a strictly legal sense, he said.

Other speakers also questioned whether a Mexican victory at San Jacinto would have ended U.S. expansion. Some pointed out that U.S. troops were nearby and might have intervened if the Anglo population in Texas had faced annihilation.

Dr. Fane Downs, history department chairwoman at McMurry University at Abilene, warned Texans to keep their perspective as to the contributions of men and women "as we are swept along in the bombastic tirades" of the Sesquicentennial.

It would be easy, she said, to "focus on the Anglo man with the exception of the Hispanic man in sub-characters as the enemy."

Although they didn't fight in the battles, she said, Texas women made history in a thousand ways.

Professor researches marijuana

EL PASO (AP) — A university professor helping to develop new drugs to treat depression says one key to the research is determining how smoking marijuana produces elation.

Don Moss, an associate professor of psychology at the University of Texas at El Paso, has been researching tetrahydrocannabinol since the late 1970s. He said THC is the component of marijuana that produces a euphoric effect.

"I'm interested in marijuana because it has some great therapeutic potential," Moss told the El Paso Times on Friday.

He said scientists do not understand the euphoric effect of THC. Moss said 80 percent of people who suffer from depression can be treated successfully with tricyclic drugs such as Toframil, which stimulate the activity of norepinephrine and dopamine in the brain.

"I'm looking for some way to explain the other 20 percent," said Moss.

He said his current project is to establish that THC works in the brain through the same mechanism as nicotine.

"If we knew what mechanism it was, then we could get drugs that would produce the effect we want," he said.

He said identifying the mechanism would allow treatment of depression, either by blocking it or inducing euphoria in its place.

Moss said he and his associates at UTEP are closer than anyone else in the world to understanding how marijuana works in the central nervous system. In the past 1½ years, he has presented papers on his research at Oxford, England, and Boston.

EAT YOUR CARROTS

Did your mom ever say — "Eat Your Carrots. They're good for your eyes" — or — "Drink your milk before you leave the table" — or — "Don't turn up your nose at that liver" — or — "Now that spinach won't kill you?" Well, my mom said those things too, but my nose still twitches at that liver! Moms say those things because all of those foods are rich in Vitamin A. Vitamin A maintains the mucous membranes within your eyes and it helps form "vision purple" which helps you see in dim light. Other good sources of Vitamin A includes most yellow vegetables, peaches, apricots, cantaloupes, eggs, cheese, butter and the dark green leafy vegetables. A word of caution: Be careful with Vitamin A supplements. Your body stores Vitamin A in your liver. If you overdose on Vitamin A pills you can poison yourself. And as Mom would say, "What's the matter with you! You know better than that!"

Star Wars looms over summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Kremlin tells it, the U.S. Star Wars program is a plot by Pentagon militarists to accelerate the arms race and extend the superpower confrontation to outer space.

In the White House version, the United States is merely trying to catch up with the Soviets.

These arguments have been made repeatedly since President Reagan announced in March 1983 a search for high technology capable of creating defenses against ballistic missiles. Two years later, as Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev head for the summit, the Pentagon is forging ahead with Star Wars.

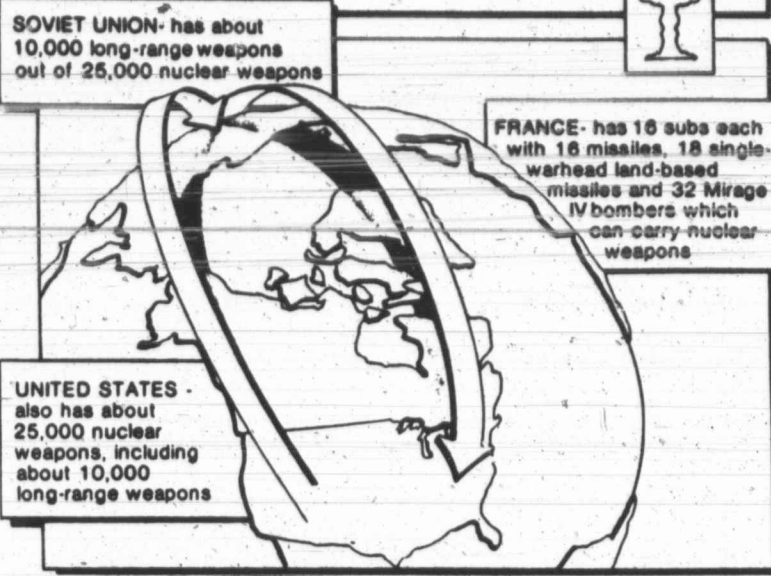

And the Soviets have said that unless the United States drastically alters the program, no arms control agreement is possible.

Why is the Soviet Union so eager to kill the program?

Gorbachev argues that Star Wars will spur the superpowers to build more offensive weapons to overcome sophisticated defenses. It also will create a costly race for space-based systems at a time when both countries are trying to cut defense spending, he says.

According to Reagan administration plans, the Pentagon will spend more than $20 billion in the last half of the 1980s for research into lasers, high-speed projectiles, space stations, radar, computers and other equipment that could be used for defenses against missiles.

While the Soviets call this an escalation and a potential violation of the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, the Pentagon maintains that the program — officially called the Strategic Defense Initiative — is an effort to keep pace with the Soviets.

George Keyworth, President Reagan's science adviser, said in recent Capitol Hill testimony, that "the very technologies that we are proposing in SDI have been under way in the Soviet Union as a massive effort for more than 15 years." "By the late 1980s, the Soviets could have prototypes for ground-based lasers for ballistic missile defense," the Defense Department said in its 1985 edition of "Soviet Military Power."

"With high priority and some significant risk of failure, the Soviets could skip some testing steps and be ready to deploy a ground-based laser ballistic missile defense by the early-to-mid 1990s," the report said.

By the end of the decade, the Soviets could establish a network of satellites designed to provide timely indications of an attack by ballistic missiles, including submarine-based weapons that form the backbone of U.S. strategic forces.

Scientist Edward Teller, who helped build the first atomic and hydrogen bombs, says the Soviets are especially far ahead in the field of lasers, which would be fired from ground, aircraft or space stations at incoming missiles.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger has summed up administration arguments: "The Soviets are working on it night and day. I don't think we need any elaboration of how dangerous the world would be if the Soviets got this capability first. I think that it is quite apparent, therefore, that we really have no option but to pursue the research."

What bothers the Soviet Union the most, according to Teller and other scientists is the superiority of U.S. technology. Once the United States makes a firm commitment to build a strategic defense — as it did in the early 1960s to put a man on the moon by the end of the decade — the Soviets will lose the race.

U.S. capability over the Soviets is especially advanced in the field of computers. Supercomputers would be needed in a strategic defense to chart the courses of missiles and give commands to battle stations equipped to shoot down the warheads.

Mormon president buried

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mormon Church President Spencer W. Kimball was buried Saturday after a funeral service attended by thousands in which he was called "a prophet of God" by the man who likely will succeed him.

"He knew the Lord. He knew how to speak to him and how to receive answers," said Ezra Taft Benson, who as president of the faith's Council of the Twelve Apostles stands next in the traditional line of succession.

"For more than 40 years we have sat together in council meetings.

When I say I love Spencer Woolley Kimball, I do so with a full heart," said Benson, who was secretary of agriculture under President Eisenhower.

Benson, whose reputation is that of an archconservative aligned for years with the John Birch Society, praised Kimball as "one of the most progressive" leaders of the church, citing his leadership in ending a ban on blacks in the priesthood and his missionary work.

During Kimball's administration, the church's missionary force nearly doubled, almost 2 million new members were added and plans to build 31 new temples around the world were announced.

Kimball was buried at the Salt Lake City Cemetery, as snow and small hail began to fall.

Kimball died Tuesday at age 90 after suffering failing health for years. He had remained at the head of the 5.8-million member church, but the day-to-day affairs had been overseen by one of his counselors, Gordon B. Hinckley.

Seat belt safety focus of program

To encourage people to use safety belts in cars, a safety demonstration will be given at Big Spring Mall Nov. 22 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The program will be presented by the Big Spring Police Department and the Texas Automobile Dealers Association.

The demonstration will include the use of a "convincer," a sled-like device that simulates a head-on collision at 5, 7 or 10 miles per hour, according to a news release.

Beginning Dec. 1, drivers and front seat passengers not wearing safety belts face a $25-50 fine. The law requiring seat belt use took effect Sept. 1.

Last year, 97 percent of the 4,000 people that died on Texas highways and streets were not wearing safety belts, the release said.

Food commodities to be distributed

People certified for November 1985 may pick up their food commodities through the West Texas Opportunities Emergency Food Assistance Program on Thursday at the National Guard Armory, FM 700, from 8:15 a.m. to 2 p.m.

That will be the only day the food is given out, according to a news release. All those receiving the food must have their certificates with them.

The program office in the Ventura Building will be closed Thursday. If the certified person can't be present at the National Guard Armory, he should send someone else to pick up his food, with a permission note and the certificate. Participants should bring their own sacks for the food.

Sewer bonds topic of district meeting

Refunding of $23 million sewer improvement bonds issued in July 1982 on behalf of the city of Midland will be the sole item on a Nov. 20 board meeting of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Although the district issued the bonds, they are obligations of Midland, according to a water district news release. Bids will be opened at 11 a.m. in Big Spring.

Reading program seeks volunteers

Volunteer tutors for Midland's Need To Read program will have special training programs Nov. 16 or Nov. 23 at the Midland College Adult Learning Center. The classes are from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Those interested in participating may call 684-7851, Ext. 273 or 186, for information or to register.

Highway 87 Association urges widening roadway

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The U.S. Highway 87 Improvement Association passed a resolution Saturday urging state and federal government departments to accelerate the development of the highway into four lanes, particularly from Big Spring to Sterling, from San Angelo to Eden and from Dumas to the northern state line.

The association held its annual meeting this weekend at the Holiday Inn. Representatives from communities along the highway participated.

The Big Spring to Sterling route is the only section not scheduled for updating into four lanes, association officials said. The rest of the highway has either been converted to four lanes or is being worked on, members said.

In opposition to the association's plan, Sen. John Montford is working on a proposal to develop a new highway south from Lubbock to end at Midland, said member Jim Eubanks. The highway would bypass many small towns now on the highway 87 route, including Big Spring. The association voted to oppose Montford's plan.

County commissioners to hear architects' plan

Big Spring architects John Gary and Donald Bailey will present Howard County Commissioners Monday morning with a preliminary plan to remodel the former Woolworth's building at the northeast corner of Fourth and Main.

Commissioners will meet at 9 a.m. in the Howard County Courthouse.

Gary and Bailey were hired by the county last spring to design and remodel a facility for juvenile detainees. Federal law mandates counties to house juveniles in separate facilities out of sight and sound of adult offenders by Dec. 15. The county recently purchased the former Woolworth's building from R.H. Weaver.

According to the meeting's agenda, commissioners also will appoint a county representative to the Downtown Steering Committee.

Commissioners also will meet in closed session with Charles Neeb and Mona Jamison of the state's home economics program to discuss personnel in the county's extension agent's office.

The prize winning homecoming float was in celebration of Walt Disney's Anniversary.

Shop, art and homecoming classes participated with the cheerleaders and golden girls pep squad in creating the float.

Micky Mouse played by Jason Matthes led his fan club and friends in the parade. Joining him on the float were the following Disney characters: Peter Pan, Marci Weaver; Donald Duck, Chris Ficke; Tinkerbell, Karen Johnson; Mary Poppins, Jamie Mirales; and Chimney Sweep, Josh Free.

Other characters were: Cinderella, Gracie Nieto; Snow White, Anne Bustamante; Pluto, Jana Jones; Pinocchio, Ricky Prater; Alice in Wonderland, Danika Morales; Queen of Hearts, Patsy Garza; and King of Hearts, Mark Corrales.

Cards from Wonderland that walked along side the float were: Stephen Rodriguez, Clay Bruce, Elizabeth Perez, Dawn Akins, Karma Morrow, Roderick White, Jana Haney and Jonathan Downey. Members of the Mouseketeers Fan Club were: Marcos Salinas, Sammy Dailey, Conney Solley, Bradley Heckler, Emilia Merrick, Charlotte Chancellor, Melanie Glickman, Julie Adams, Stephanie Stewart, Cathy Ogburn and Denise Deanda.

Other fan club members were: Lakisha McGragor, Jon Sims, Sammy Gonzales, Marshall, Darnell, Betty Rodriguez, Quintinn Stewart, Caryn Howell, Wendy Martinez, Shawna Griffith, Michael Ramirez, Katrina Homfeld and Marisa Deleon.

Goliad would like to thank the following for their support: J.B. Hall, Shive Gin in Coahoma, Ann Weaver, Newsoms, Do-It-Center, K-Mart, Ross Allen of Permian Supply and Erminia Camacho.

Leal is band sweetheart

Delia Leal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eloy Leal, was chosen Big Spring Steers band sweetheart. She was crowned during the Friday night football game between the Steers and San Angelo.

Delia is a clarinet player in the Honor Band and has participated in solo and ensemble contests. She is a member of the Office Education Association and the National Honor Society. After graduation, she plans to attend Texas Tech University and major in accounting.

Other sweetheart nominees were Shannon Jordan and Maria Ramirez.

Carnival names new royalty

The Westbrook School Carnival held Nov. 2 named new royalty to represent the school.

Raymond Vigil and Cathy Lane, both seniors, were crowned king and queen of the carnival. The junior high division crowned Gabriel Fuentes and Jeran Ware as prince and princess.

In the elementary division the intermediate prince and princess, both six graders, are Kendel Beasley and Stephanie Matlock.

The primary prince and princess are Kevin Schaffer and Amanda Rich, both second graders.

Bonnie Martin crowned queen

Senior Bonnie Martin was crowned homecoming queen for 1985-86 during half-time festivities Friday.

Other awards were given to Libby Martin and Patrick George who were band favorites. Melissa Griffin was selected by the cheerleaders as Buffalo Gal and Rodney McMillian as Mr. Buffalo.

Football sweetheart for 1985-86 was Julie Roberson.

Other homecoming festivities included Hawaiian Day, 50's and nerd day, glasses and hat day, and black and white or dress up day.

A homecoming pep rally was held Friday at the end of school.

National Honor Society will have their induction Thursday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The girls basketball team will have their first scrimmage Tuesday in Lamesa against the Lady Tornados.

The junior high ended their season as district champs. The junior varsity ended their season with two wins and two losses.

The varsity football team will begin playoff games next Friday.

Choir members selling poinsettias

The Big Spring High School Choir is selling red poinsettias to help finance their tour in the spring.

Choir members will be taking orders Nov. 6 through Nov. 15. These plants are 12 inches to 16 inches tall and have four to six blooms.

Poinsettias are great for gifts and to decorate business and churches during the holiday season.

These plants will be delivered the second week of December, just in time for Christmas.

To place an order or for more information call 263-4992, 267-7461 (Ext 171), 267-7936 or contact any choir member.

Delay due to malfunction

Picture packages have been an area of concern for students and parents.

According to Mr. Poitevin, journalism teacher, "the pictures are delayed about three weeks due to the malfunction of the identification mechanism in one camera. Pictures had to be visually identified. The problem, however, didn't affect the picture quality, though."

"As a result, picture identification had to be done by hand. This process has been completed, however, and negatives have been sent to the processor. Picture packages should arrive about Nov. 15."

The packages will be distributed in English classes as soon as they arrive.

The choral department will present their second concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. Admission is free. The choir is now selling poinsettias. The cost is $8.50 per plant. See a choir member to get yours.

On Thursday the annual end-of-the-season band banquet will be held at 7 p.m. This will take place at the First United Methodist Church.

FORT WORTH (AP) — Although civil war is creating a fatal tension between Moslems and Christians in Lebanon, it hasn't affected the relationship of two Lebanese students who share the same room in one of Texas Christian University's residence halls.

"It's not a religious war," said Hani Mansour, a native of the Christian village of Monsif, 35 miles north of Beirut.

"My friend and roommate, Karim is Moslem, and I am Christian," Mansour said. "So if the fighting back home is based on religion, then 'how are we living together?' Mansour wondered.

Karim Naamani, a citizen of West Beirut, was 8 years old when war escalated. Both Naamani and Mansour have spent the majority of their lives surrounded by bloodshed.

"Life in Lebanon is horrible," said Naamani. "One cannot plan anything because you never know what will happen in an hour or even in a minute."

"It is extremely dangerous to leave your home after 7 in the evening for fear of shelling or car bombs," said Naamani.

According to Mansour, freedom and safety were hard to adapt to in the United States.

"I was 7 years old when the war started. All of my life has centered around war, fighting, surviving and killing," said Mansour.

"Peace has been a great obstacle to overcome because it has been so long that I had forgotten what peace really felt like."

Because of the deteriorating situation in Lebanon, Mansour and Naamani came to the United States and, subsequently, to TCU.

"It was useless to stay and try to study in Lebanon with all the fighting and also the standard of education was going down," said Naamani.

"I like the freedom to go out at night without being shot at or scared," said Mansour. "I want to be able to sleep in my bed and not have to be awakened to bomb explosions, then spend the rest of the night in a shelter."

"The worst part of it all is having to collect yourself together to go to school the next morning," he said.

Mansour said that much of the credit for his quick adjustment to TCU goes to residents in Brachman Hall.

"I really thank everyone in Brachman for making me feel at home," Mansour said. "We are a huge family that reminds me of home and my friends."

Watching the evening news has proven to be a trying ordeal, according to both men.

"It scares me whenever I hear bad news from home," said Naamani. "I must try to isolate myself from my family and home in order to live a normal life here."

"Every time I sit down and watch the news I worry," said Mansour. "How's my family?... Where was the bomb?... Who died?"

"Up until now, luck has played a big role because no one has been killed," said Mansour. "My parents call after every bombing."

Both Mansour and Naamani wonder how long their luck will last.

"What will I do if it does happen?" Mansour asked. "What can I do except cry and pray that the war stops and nobody else dies?"

Naamani feels the same emotional strain and fear.

"It always feels bad to see them suffer that much," said Naamani.

First FarmAid money goes for food, lawyers

By SHARON COHEN
Associated Press Writer

The FarmAid music extravaganza, like a fresh summer shower, brought America's heartland a measure of hope. Now, it's delivering help.

Seven weeks after the concert in Champaign, Ill., organizer Willie Nelson has distributed about $900,000, roughly a tenth of what has been pledged, to farm groups in 22 states from Montana to Florida. About half of that has been allocated for food and counseling for needy farmers.

Most groups have received relatively small sums — $5,000 to $10,000. The largest amount, $500,000, was donated to a national legal defense fund that will help farmers in danger of losing their land and equipment.

FarmAid has harvested about $9 million in pledges to date. The First National Bank of Champaign collects the pledges but refuses to divulge the amount received so far. Bank officials said daily statements were being sent to Nelson, but staffers at the singer's office in Spicewood said they could not release exact figures.

Whatever the amount, it pales alongside the nation's farm debt of more than $210 billion. Still, the music marathon wasn't intended to buy farmers out of their predicament. When the financial harvest from the Sept. 22 concert at the University of Illinois fell well short of a $50 million goal, there was no disappointment.

"Willie's big thing, No. 1, is to help the farmer," said Jim Nicholls, executive vice president of PLC The Media Corp., the Texas-based advertising agency handling FarmAid. "No. 2 is to generate awareness. The third thing is credibility."

Organizers plan to keep the spotlight shining with more FarmAid events. A Christmas television special is planned, Nicholls said, along with an album and a video. A sequel has also been scheduled: FarmAid II in New York City in June.

A postal box for mailed donations remains in service. So does a toll-free number for call-in contributions (1-800-FarmAid). About 400,000 calls have been logged, Nicholls said.

FarmAid proceeds, Nicholls said, will be targeted to four areas: legal aid, food, public awareness, and counseling and transitional assistance.

Nelson's immediate task is screening hundreds of requests for money raised by the 14-hour concert, which featured more than 50 performers, including Bob Dylan, Billy Joel, Johnny Cash, Neil Young and the Beach Boys.

Nelson decides which requests are granted.

"He has some advisers, but he makes the final decisions," Nicholls said. "That's the way the farmers wanted it."

The first FarmAid money was given to the National Council of Churches on the condition it be distributed to feed the men and women who produce America's food.

"Talk about anything being ironic, that's it," said Mary Ellen Lloyd, director of the council's domestic hunger and poverty office in New York. "That's what we've come to at this point."

The council distributed $110,000 to 14 farm organizations in 19 states, Ms. Lloyd said. In October, FarmAid gave the council an additional $200,000, also designated for food.

Among the first recipients was the Iowa Rural Crisis Fund, which divided its $10,000 among 33 food pantries across the state, said Roz Ostendorf, program coordinator. Each pantry received about $300. One of them is at the Delaware Volunteer Cindy Denin fills an order for a farm family at a rural food pantry near Des Moines, Iowa, using food supplies purchased with FarmAid funds.

Community Center in central Iowa's Polk County. "I've heard $300 isn't very much," said Sharon Brooks, center director. "Three hundred dollars is a whole lot to people who don't have anything to eat."

Some Iowa pantries will use the money to buy goods they normally wouldn't stock — eggs, milk, fresh vegetables and meat.

Others have a larger area to serve. The Federation of Southern Cooperatives, a Georgia-based organization, helps black farmers in a five-state region. It estimated that the $20,000 it received has aided up to 125 families in desperate need.

"It will help them survive a little longer," said Ralph Page, executive director.

Kirby says only 13 violations of no pass, no play reported

AUSTIN (AP) — State Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby told the State Board of Education Saturday there had been only 13 alleged no-pass, no-play violations reported to his office.

Kirby said the reports concern violations of limits set on practice time, absences from class, and grades required for participating in extracurricular activities as required by the major school reform bill.

Kirby said eight of the reported violations had been resolved, with an actual violation only found in one case.

The one violation involved an ineligible student playing in a football game and was reported by the school district itself, he said.

Kirby also informed the board of some recent decisions he made on the new rules that say a student must make passing grades or be suspended from extracurricular activities for six weeks.

Kirby's decisions include:

- A band student may perform in a marching band contest and perform with the school band at a football game within the same week if both are classed as University Interscholastic League contests.

- Out-of-school practice for cheerleading and drill team come under the eight-hour practice rule, even if the student receives class credit for physical education.

- It is up to a local school board to determine if a student is permitted to drop a course without it being recorded as a failing grade.

Man gets death in shooting spree

HOUSTON (AP) — A 46-year-old man has been sentenced to death for killing a pregnant teen-ager during a shooting spree allegedly triggered by his wife's love affair. A seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated about five hours Friday before deciding Mariano Juarez Rosales deserved the death sentence for the March 30 slaying of Rachel Balboa, 14. Defense attorneys portrayed Rosales as a kind, church-going man who deserved a life sentence. However, prosecutors argued that the defendant was "just flat mean" and angry because his wife of 26 years was having an affair. Mary Rosales, 42, testified she had been seeing Hector Balboa, 25, since 1963, when they met at a bowling alley. She said she told Rosales about the relationship four days before the shooting.

After a series of threats and accusations between Balboa and her husband, she testified, her husband took a pistol and went to the Balboa home in suburban Pasadena.

Plan would aid private schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some poor parents would be allowed to use federal money to send their children to private schools under a plan to be unveiled this week by the Reagan administration.

The administration proposal, outlined in documents obtained Saturday by The Associated Press, already has drawn fire from education groups, which fear the plan would undermine public education.

The Reagan administration tried to push through a similar plan 1983, but it failed to make any headway in Congress. Education Secretary William Bennett is expected to discuss the proposal at a news conference Thursday.

Under the plan, local schools would still receive federal help to provide remedial services. But the parents of children now eligible for remedial help from the chapter I program would be able to ask for federal money in the form of vouchers.

The vouchers, which would be worth about $600 a year, could be used to pay for private school tuition or services offered at a public school inside or outside the child's district.

The $3.2 billion program, created 20 years ago, is the nation's largest federal education program. It gives money to school districts to aid educationally deprived children.

The program has been the center of a controversy since July, when the Supreme Court ruled that money for it could no longer be used to pay public school teachers who went into parochial school classrooms to give remedial classes to the poor.

Bennett was highly critical of the ruling, and indicated he would seek congressional approval of a voucher proposal.

In a draft letter to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., Bennett said the plan, called the "Equity and Choice Act," would "serve the cause of social justice by providing disadvantaged families some of the educational choices already available to more affluent families."

The education secretary also said the plan would create "market incentives and competition which will lead to significant improvement in the provision of chapter I services."

Gunman hijacks Greyhound

DALLAS (AP) — A gunman hijacked a Greyhound bus with a company security officer aboard Saturday night and took it about 45 miles north on Interstate 35 before being apprehended, a Department of Public Safety official said.

The man, reportedly armed with a .357 Magnum pistol, took the bus about 8 p.m. and state troopers managed to stop the vehicle and take the hijacker into custody at Sanger, a DPS dispatcher said.

"This is still sketchy because all we have is just the reports," said the dispatcher, who did not want his name used. "We think it's just the guy doing the hijacking and a bus security guard."

Stephanie Lambring, Greyhound's regional fare and scheduling clerk, referred all questions to police.

"The only information I can give you is the bus was hijacked," she said.

Soviet freighter heads for sea

RESERVE, La. (AP) — A Soviet freighter, ignoring a U.S. Senate subpoena and protesters on and off shore, headed for the high seas Saturday with a load of corn and a seaman who caused an international furor after he twice jumped ship.

"It's heading out," said Tom Richard of the Universal Shipping Agencies.

Aboard the 810-foot Marshal Koniev was Miroslav Medvid, a 25-year-old Ukrainian who swam to shore in the late night and early morning hours of Oct. 24 and 25, and slit his wrist after being forced to return to the ship.

Medvid later denied in interviews with U.S. officials he wanted to defect, and the federal government said it could do no more.

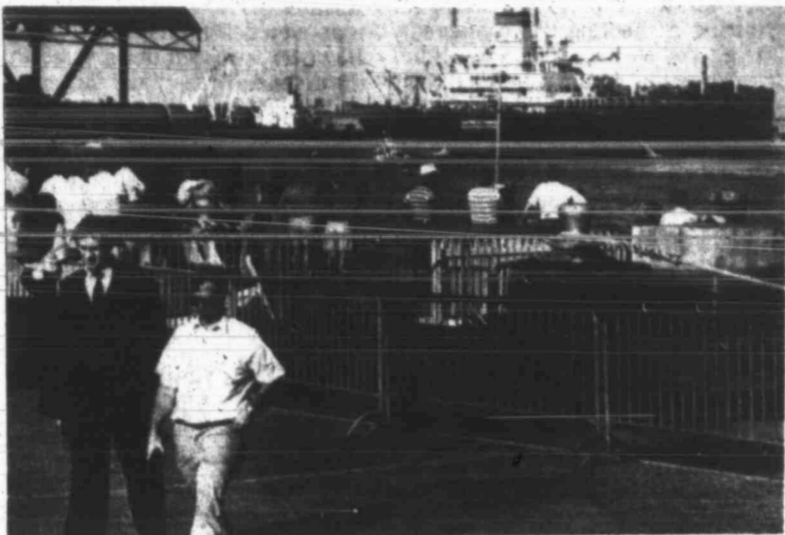

Protesters on shore waved Ukrainian and U.S. flags and yelled "Stop that ship now! Stop that ship now!" while the 120,000-ton freighter slipped its moorings at 11 a.m. and pulled away from a Cargill Grain Co. dock.

And Sen Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who led Congressional attempts to get Medvid off the vessel, said he was "dismayed that the U.S. State Department has prevailed in its insistence" that the ship had been cleared to leave U.S. waters.

Three U.S. Coast Guard boats leaptfrogged in front of and behind the vessel and a Coast Guard helicopter hovered overhead as the ship moved smoothly and swiftly through the river.

The Coast Guard also boarded a protest vessel as it headed toward the freighter. Joan McEnery, a member of the Save The Oppressed People Committee, said Coast Guard officials told those on board it was conducting a safety check.

David Finzer, the owner of the Soviet diplomat Yevgeniy G. Vtyurin, front left, and an unidentified friend walk down Canal Street as Soviet freighter, the Marshal Koniev, makes the bend in the Mississippi River at New Orleans. The diplomat was aboard the ship earlier when the U.S. government decided to let it return to the Soviet Union.

boat called the Freedom Warrior, earlier had agreed to stay 1,000 feet from the Marshal Koniev and had invited the Coast Guard to inspect his boat. McEnery said the invitation had been rejected.

When the Coast Guard later boarded the boat and began its inspection, McEnery said Finzer asked what law gave them the right to board the vessel. He was told he could be arrested for obstructing the search, McEnery said.

Once the boat was released it chugged after the Marshal Koniev, McEnery said. The boat hoped to catch up with the freighter as it made its 135-mile trip to the Gulf of Mexico, expected to take 10 to 12 hours.

Motorists stopped their cars near levees to look at the departing freighter. "I just wish he'd have got a good shot at freedom," said a woman who wouldn't give her name.

With the ship already in the channel, the American Civil Liberties Union announced it had filed another lawsuit in U.S. District Court in New Orleans — this time representing the Senate Agriculture Committee, which had subpoenaed Medvid.

But Judge Martin Feldman rejected the lawsuit, saying that only the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., could order the ship to stay within U.S. jurisdiction, said Martha Kegel, executive director of the ACLU's Louisiana chapter. Later appeals to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court also failed.

Meanwhile, Yevgeniy Vtyurin, second secretary and consul of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, interviewed Medvid on Saturday and helped arrange the ship's departure. In New Orleans, about 30 miles from Reserve, he joined about 50 other ship-watchers as the freighter passed beneath the Greater New Orleans Bridge about 2:30 p.m.

Vtyurin had said Medvid was "OK." Pressed for elaboration, he said: "I can repeat one hundred, one million, one billion times. He's OK."

Protesters believed otherwise. "He is dead. He was murdered here on U.S. soil and you U.S. citizens are assisting. ... We ask you to stop the ship," Roman Golash of Chicago yelled to Cargill workers who helped throw off the ship's moorings.

"This is one terrible day for the United States," said Golash, among a group of a dozen Ukrainian Justice Committee members who said they came from Chicago.

Even while the ship was weighing anchor, it was impossible to get official confirmation that it had been cleared to leave.

The Coast Guard and U.S. Customs referred queries to the White House. White House spokesman Mike Guest said he had no information except for the official statement: "The executive branch considers its responsibilities have been fulfilled in this regard."

The subpoena for Medvid to testify before the Agriculture Committee was served Friday by David Sullivan, an aide to Helms.

Poison tentatively identified in bizarre Pecos River fish kill

IRAAAN (AP) — State scientists have tentatively identified the contaminant that caused a bizarre fish kill in the Pecos River as a rare group of natural poisons sometimes produced by algae.

"It's just the weirdest thing," said Thomas Mason, director of water quality for the Texas Water Commission. "We have had some reports of fish jumping out of the water."

Tens of thousands of fish died along a desolate, 50-mile stretch of the river near Interstate 10 in Pecos, Crockett and Terrell counties last week, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials say.

TPWD pollution control officer Dennis Palafox said chad, sunfish, channel catfish, flathead catfish, largemouth bass, white bass, minnows and other species perished.

A glob of yellowish-brown toxins moved down the Pecos in Southwest Texas, and scientists tentatively identified them Friday as "algal toxins," sometimes produced by algae when they proliferate under certain water and weather conditions.

Tax & financial planning

TAX BITS AND PIECES

These items may be of interest to you as 1985 tax return filing time approaches.

1. The standard mileage deduction for business use of an automobile has just been increased by the IRS. For 1984 it was 20.5 cents per mile for the first 15,000 business miles driven. For 1985, it will be 21 cents a mile. The standard rate for business miles in excess of fifteen thousand will remain at 11 cents a mile. The deductible standard rate for using your car for charitable activities increases from 9 cents to 12 cents a mile for 1985.

2. If you have overdue government loans, any 1985 federal income tax refund you are due may be held back to cover the loan payments. This new program is part of a two-year test to have the IRS collect non-tax federal debts by withholding income tax refunds.

3. Effective January 1st, 1986, the interest rate that the IRS charges on overdue taxes and pays on overdue refunds will drop from 11% to 10%.

4. Though the business equipment recordkeeping rules were eased in 1985, taxpayers will still be required to provide information on their 1985 tax returns that they have not been asked before. This information for automobiles includes:

- a. the total number of miles driven during the year
- b. the percentage of personal use claimed
- c. whether the vehicle was used for commuting or not and, if it was, the commuting distance
- d. whether the vehicle was available for personal use in off-duty hours
- e. whether another vehicle was available for personal use
- f. whether adequate records or sufficient evidence exists to justify the deductions, and whether or not such evidence is written.

Sheriff says inmate erased DWI videotape

AMARILLO (AP) — A jail trusty grabbed a videotape of a drunken driving suspect and erased crucial segments of it to get back at an officer against whom he held a grudge, Potter County authorities said.

The inmate saw officers scuffling with Donald Ray Rollo, who had been arrested for alleged drunken driving, and took the tape from the booking officer's desk, Sheriff Jimmy Don Boydston said Friday.

The trusty, who Boydston declined to identify, later told sheriff's officials he didn't like the arresting officer and knew a blank spot on the tape would draw attention to him.

"When he first took the tape, he intended to erase the whole tape," Boydston said. "But he realized it could be blamed on a mechanical failure. So he erased the critical part of the tape because he knew that would bring some heat on the officer."

The inmate is scheduled to be transferred to the Texas Department of Corrections on a theft conviction in a move that is unrelated to the erasure incident, the sheriff said.

Evidence-tampering charges will not be filed against the trusty for the incident because he is about to serve a lengthy prison sentence on the theft charges, officials said.

Those suspected of driving while under the influence of alcohol in Potter County are videotaped and then receive intoxication tests.

Rollo's attorney, William McKinney Jr., said Friday that "I'm satisfied that law enforcement did not intentionally have that tape erased."

But he said he questioned the right of officers to force DWI suspects to be videotaped and described it as a legal gray area. He said his client acted peacefully when he was arrested, and a scuffle only broke out when Rollo refused to be taped.

A misdemeanor DWI charge has been filed against Rollo, 45. He also was charged Oct. 28 with aggravated assault on a peace officer and felony possession of a firearm.

Amarillo downs Lady Steers

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer
LUBBOCK — The Big Spring Lady Steers hadn't been in a state playoff volleyball in eight years. The Amarillo High Sandies were in the playoffs in 1983. One could tell the difference by the way the District 3-5A runnerup Sandies drummed the District 4-5A champions 15-13, 15-4 in bi-district action yesterday at Lubbock Coronado gym.

The Lady Steers definitely had a case of "playoff jitters" as they hardly resembled a team that went 23-9 during the regular season and lost only two district games.

Very seldom did coach Susan Sharp's team get into their offensive game, typified by their 28 kills attempts during the game. Meanwhile coach Kim Hudson's Sandies had 45 kill attempts, converting 23 for a respectable 51 percent.

Normally a hard-hitting team, the Lady Steers downed a mere 7 spikes for a dismal 25 percent.

The Sandies played with the finesse of a playoff-seasoned team, three of the Sandie starters played on the last playoff squad. Although they did show signs of "playoff jitters," the Sandies settled down and played excellent ball.

As hard as the Lady Steers tried, they just couldn't seem to get into the groove. Unlike the way they played most of the season, the Lady Steers constantly mishandled serves, hit numerous free balls, and had a miserable time from the service line.

"They've been here and we haven't and you could tell," said a heartbroken Sharp after the game. "We got ahead of them in the first game and got scared. Our serving really hurt us."

One player whose serving was up to par was Tammi Green. The 5-6 senior spiker was responsible for Big Spring taking a 12-10 lead late in the first game.

Green served seven points in the game, including four aces. Her ace of AHS' Kristie Doores gave Big Spring a 12-10 lead.

AHS' Danna Curry served a point and Big Spring's Monique Jones came back with an ace, giving the Lady Steers a 13-11 lead.

But the Sandies roared back with some fine net play by Terri Morgan and Laura Hart. The Lady Steers tried to put the Sandies away with some occasional spikes, but Morgan and Hart were there for the block.

Doores served two points to tie the game at 13-13. Then she came back with an ace that Big Spring's Lisa Hale couldn't handle, for the Sandies' 14th point. The Sandies ended the game when Mindy Bennett drilled the next spike through the middle of the Lady Steers defense, giving AHS a heart-breaking, come-from-behind win.

The second game was all Amarillo High and their senior spikers Morgan and Jeannie Howard. The duo got hot in the second game riddling the Lady Steers defense time after time with hard hits. Howard downed 9 of 11 spikes attempts while Morgan was 7 of 10 in the match.

Amarillo jumped out to a 3-0 lead but Big Spring came back and cut the margin to 3-2 behind two service points by Tammi Green. Green was the most effective Lady Steer at the net, downing 3 of 8 kills. Lady Steers top spiker for the year, Monique Jones, downed only 2 of 11 kill attempts. Some were good shots that were double-blocked by AHS' front line.

After Tammi Green's two points, the Sandies rattled off 9 consecutive points, putting Big Spring in a 12-2 hole.

The Lady Steers made one last-ditch effort to stay in the game. They made the Sandies go through almost a full rotation to get the final three points.

Big Spring got a point when Tab Green served and Katrina Thompson got a block. The final Big Spring point came when Thompson got a kill off a Jones serve.

But the end was just a matter of time as Amarillo scored when Bennett and Curry served over points, giving the Sandies their 27th win in 33 games.

"We made a rally at the end and I felt it was a beginning for next year," said Sharp. I hope everyone remembers us as winners and not losers. This is just the beginning. We laid the groundwork this year. Next year, we're going to build on it."

In other 4-5A action yesterday, runner-up San Angelo Central was defeated by District 3-5A champion Amarillo Tacosa 15-6, 15-10.

Jones named 4-5A's Outstanding Hitter

Big Spring Lady Steer spiker Monique Jones was named District 4-5A's Outstanding Hitter while teammate Katrina Thompson was named Sophomore of the Year in two of the big four awards announced by district coaches Saturday.

Other 4-5A volleyball honors went to San Angelo Central's Anita Allgood for Most Valuable Player. Abilene High's Sharon Bowles was chosen Outstanding Setter. Abilene

High coach Anita Corder was named Coach of the Year.

Junior spiker Tabitha Green was selected for First Team All-District. Green was the 4-5A Sophomore of the Year in 1984.

Junior blocker Sheri Myrick was named Second Team All-District.

Senior spiker Tammi Green and junior setter Lisa Hale were named to the All-District Honorable Mention squad.

Big Spring senior volleyball player Tammi Green sets up a shot in the Lady Steer's zone playoff match against Amarillo High School Saturday at Lubbock Coronado gymnasium. The Sandies defeated Big Spring 15-13, 15-4 to advance to the bi-district playoff round.

Bulldogs stun No. 1 Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — It was so much more than Vince Dooley expected.

"I thought that we had a chance to win, but never did I think that we'd win by such a large margin," Dooley said Saturday after his 17th-ranked Georgia Bulldogs ended the nation's longest college football unbeaten string at 18 games with a 24-3 victory over top-ranked Florida.

"I never dreamed that we would make the long plays, nor that we could hold Florida to three points," Dooley added. "All we wanted was for our defense to minimize Florida's big-play capability. Our defense did a superb job."

Georgia's big plays came from a pair of freshmen running backs — touchdown sprints of 76 and 32 yards by Keith Henderson in the first half and an 89-yard dash by Tim Worley that sealed it in the final quarter.

And, although it yielded 408 yards passing to the Gators, a swarming Georgia defense never allowed Florida any offensive continuity while sacking quarterback Kerwin Bell five times and keeping him under constant pressure.

Dooley figured Florida was ripe for an upset when the Gators climbed to the top of The Associated Press poll for the first time after last week's victory over then sixth-ranked Auburn.

"Florida was in the difficult position of winning big last week, being ranked number one by AP and having to play a big rival the next week," Dooley said.

Besides ending Florida's unbeaten streak, the Georgia victory marked the first setback for Galen Hall, now 15-1-1 since becoming the Gators coach three games into the 1984 season.

"I thought the winning streak would end some time," Hall said. "Of course, I wish that it hadn't happened today. But this was a great experience for our kids at being No. 1 in the nation and maybe, hopefully we will learn from our mistakes."

Hall said he thought Georgia had played "one of its greatest games ever. The Bulldogs shut-down every phase of our game plan."

Georgia's defense, led by end Greg Waters, kept pressure on Bell throughout the game, and the Gators were unable to sustain lengthy drives as Jeff Dawson missed two field goals before converting from 36 yards after the Bulldogs had built a 14-0 lead.

Henderson raced 76 yards up the middle with 5:24 left in the opening quarter, giving Georgia a lead it never relinquished.

Henderson's 32-yard scoring jaunt capped a 53-yard drive early in the second quarter, and the Bulldogs lifted their halftime lead to 17-3 on Steve Crumley's 32-yard field goal 15 seconds before intermission.

In the final eight minutes, Florida moved from its 2 to the Georgia 7 where John L. Williams fumbled and Steve Boswell recovered for Georgia at the 8.

One play later, Worley went 89 yards for his score with 3:58 remaining.

Georgia is 7-1-1 overall and 3-1-1 in the SEC. Florida, losing in the SEC for the first time in 10 games, fell to 7-1-1 and 4-1.

Florida appeared to have ended Georgia's mastery in the series with a 27-0 victory last year, but Saturday's triumph was the seventh in eight years for the Bulldogs and lifted their series lead to 41-21-2.

The victory also kept alive Georgia's slim hopes of capturing the SEC championship, but the Bulldogs would need some help along the way with Tennessee and the Alabama-Louisiana State Saturday winner having only one defeat.

The game drew a record crowd of 82,327 into the Gator Bowl, breaking the mark of 82,138 set in the 1984 Gator Bowl game.

Florida, a 4-point favorite, got an early break when Leon Pennington sacked James Jackson for a 9-yard loss and forced a fumble that Tommy Duhart recovered at the Georgia 40.

Georgia tailback Keith Henderson (30) outruns Florida defenders Ricky Knight (24) and Curtis Stacy (23) Saturday during a 76-yard first quarter touchdown run at the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla. The Bulldogs went on to upset the top-ranked Gators 24-3.

The Gators reached the Georgia 16 before bogging down, and Dawson's 33-yard field goal try was wide right.

The Bulldogs needed only two plays to go the distance — Jackson keeping for 4 yards before Henderson broke through the middle and was untouched until Curtis Stacy made a diving attempt that forced Henderson to stumble into the end zone at the end of his 76-yard run.

An interception by John Brantley when Bell was under pressure from Waters stymied Florida's next effort, but the Bulldogs didn't get their 14-0 margin for another six minutes.

U.S. regains pride in World match play

KAPALUA, Hawaii (AP) — Ray Floyd and Calvin Peete helped the American team win five of six matches from the Europeans and restored a measure of lost prestige with a lopsided victory Saturday in the inaugural of Nissan Cup World Championship.

The score in the championship match of the event that brings together six-man teams from the world's four major golf circuits was: United States 10, Europe 2. Japan beat Australia 9-3 in the match for third place.

Each member of the winning American team — captain Floyd, Peete, Lanny Wadkins, Mark O'Meara, Corey Pavin and Curtis Strange — received $50,000. The Europeans won $30,000 apiece. The third-place Japanese each collected $20,000 and the Australians $15,000.

It was the United States' first victory in four starts in international team competition this year, and helped ease the sting of previous losses to Europe in the Ryder Cup, to Australia in the Dunhill Cup and to Japan in the ABC Cup.

"We all felt we had something to prove. We needed to redeem ourselves," Floyd said.

And they did it in convincing fashion, turning the tables on the European team that beat them by the same five matches-to-one margin in the round-robin competition earlier in the tournament.

Only a spectacular, 8-under-par 64 — the best round of the tournament — by British Open champion Sandy Lyle prevented an American sweep of the final matches.

Lyle's effort on the Bay course at the Kapalua Golf Club gave him a five-shot victory over O'Meara and propelled him to the individual championship.

Lyle won the $50,000 individual prize with a 267 total, 21 shots under par, on the course on which he's defend his Kapalua International title next week.

"It's a great start. I'm very pleased," Lyle said. He won by three strokes over Strange, who had a closing 67 and a 270 total. Ian Woosnam of Wales and Jet Ozaki of Japan were next at 271, each with a last-round 69.

Pavin got the Americans off to a fast start with a 71-74 decision over Sam Torrance, and Strange, despite losing three shots on the final hole, followed with a 67-69 victory over Woosnam.

After Lyle's run-away victory for Europe, Floyd came from two shots back in a 71-72 decision over Gordon Brand Jr. that insured at least a tie for the United States.

Peete won the clinching match, 68-72 from Howard Clark. Lanny Wadkins completed it with a 71-73 win over European captain Bernhard Langer, the West German who holds the Masters title.

Howard nips SPC 64-62	Kilgore downs Queens
------------------------------	-----------------------------

MIDLAND — The Howard College Hawks used balanced scoring, with four players in double figures, and aggressive all-court pressure defense to defeat conference rival South Plains College 64-62 for third place in the Midland College Classic Saturday afternoon in the Chap Center.

Head coach Ed Sparling was pleased with his young team's effort. "It was first time all year that we've played with some patience and poise. I was particularly pleased with the defense. Our young players are starting to come around."

Leading the Hawks off the bench was freshman guard Tim Cope, who hails from nearby Klondike, with 11 points and excellent defense. Freshman Mike McCall took scoring honors for the Hawks with 14 points. Center Walt Reynolds was the Hawk's leading rebounder.

Two other Hawks scored in double figures. Bruce Kimble fired in 12 points while Reynolds chipped in 11.

HOWARD (64) — Duran, 2-2-6; McCall, 4-6-14; Reynolds, 4-3-11; Kimble, 5-2-12; Hughes, 2-4-8; McDermott, 1-0-2; Cope, 5-1-11; Totals, 23-18-64.

ODESSA — The Howard College Hawk Queens met up with a bunch of hot shooting girls from Kilgore JC and lost their third round game of the Odessa College Classic, 67-53, Saturday afternoon in Wrangler Gymnasium.

The turning point in the game came early in the second period when The Queen could score only two points in the first eight minutes of the half. Howard fell behind by fifteen midway through the final period. They chipped the Kilgore lead down to three points on several occasions, but were forced to foul in the late stages of the game and Kilgore capitalized from the line.

Queen forward Carolyn Willand enjoyed an exceptional night, collecting a team high 15 points and 17 rebounds. Lori French chipped in nine points for the Queens.

Queen forward Terri Powell was selected for the All-Tournament team.

The Queens record drops to 1-5 with the loss.

QUEENS (53) — Brandye Owens, 1-3-5; Trina Allen 2-3-7; Pam Franklin, 0-2-2; Terri Powell, 2-2-4; Lori French, 4-1-9; Monette Wise, 2-0-4; Sophia Ish, 2-1-5; Carolyn Willand, 7-1-15; Totals, 20-13-53.

Hogs rally upsets Baylor

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Greg Thomas' first pass completion of the game was good for 50 yards and a fourth quarter touchdown that lifted 12th-ranked Arkansas to a 20-14 victory over 11th-ranked Baylor and scrambled the Southwest Conference race.

Luther Franklin caught Thomas' toss inside the Baylor 20 and eluded a last defender inside the 10. It was only the fourth pass attempt of the day for Thomas who had rallied the Razorbacks from a 14-0 third quarter deficit. He shared time in the first half with Mark Calcagni and looked shaky at times. He was injured two weeks on the Razorbacks second play of the game and was held out last week.

Arkansas and Baylor are both 5-1 in the SWC race. Texas A&M is 4-1, same as Texas. Representatives from five bowls, in addition to the Cotton Bowl, watched the game.

It was the kind of defensive game that both coaches had expected in a matchup between the top two defenses in the conference.

Tom Muecke, who threw a critical interception with 10 seconds left in the first half, combined with Matt Clark on an 88-yard scoring pass that put the Bears on top 14-0 with 9:02 left in the third quarter. It was the second-longest pass play in Baylor history and the longest ever allowed by Arkansas. The pass came two plays after Ray Berry and Johnny Subia dumped Thomas for a two-yard loss on fourth and 1 at the Baylor 18.

When the Razorbacks came up short, it was the 16th time this season an opponent had failed to score when inside the Baylor 20. Arkansas couldn't do anything the next time it got the ball but got a needed break when Calvin Williams forced Baylor's Robert Williams to fumble and David Dudley recovered. An unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against the Bears put the ball on the Baylor 29. Six plays later, Carl Miller scored from the four, the first touchdown against Baylor in more than 12 quarters.

Arkansas' Kendall Trainor came up short on a 44-yard field goal attempt early in the fourth quarter but Richard Brothers — burned earlier on Clark's td — intercepted Muecke's throw down the middle and returned it 21 yards to the Baylor 25. On fourth and inches from just outside the five, Marshall Foreman sliced into the end zone to make it 14-12 with 10:21 left. Thomas' two-point conversion pass was incomplete.

Baylor moved to the Arkansas 33 but Jim Mueller was wide right on a 49-yard field goal attempt. On first down, James Rouse dipped in and back out for 17 and on the next play Thomas hit Franklin.

Texas 34

Houston 24

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Longhorns, burned by big plays the past two weeks, victimized the Houston Cougars with some explosive plays of their own Saturday as they blew to a 34-24 Southwest Conference victory.

Quarterback Bret Stafford directed the assault, running 1 yard for a touchdown and hitting Russell Hays for a 15-yard touchdown pass in a 21-point first quarter, en route to a 31-10 halftime lead.

"We were able to get a lot of big plays and big rushes because they were playing the blitz and had to pursue us a lot," Stafford said. "We knew they'd play us hard, but we also knew if we stayed with it, we've have the ball game. "We can control our own destiny now," he added. "I think this is a Cotton Bowl team."

The victory boosted the Longhorns to a 4-1 SWC record and 6-2 overall and kept them in the running for the New Year's Day classic. Houston dropped to 2-7 and 1-5.

Texas' early surge nullified the three-touchdown performance by Houston's Sloan Hood.

"If it's 10 TDs or anyone else getting them I don't care as long as we win," Hood said. "It's been a disappointing season, but I would like to see it end on a good note."

SMU 40

Rice 15

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Cornerback Mark Vincent woke up Southern Methodist on the second half's first play Saturday with a 23-yard interception return for a touchdown that prompted a Mustang explosion and a 40-15 victory over Rice.

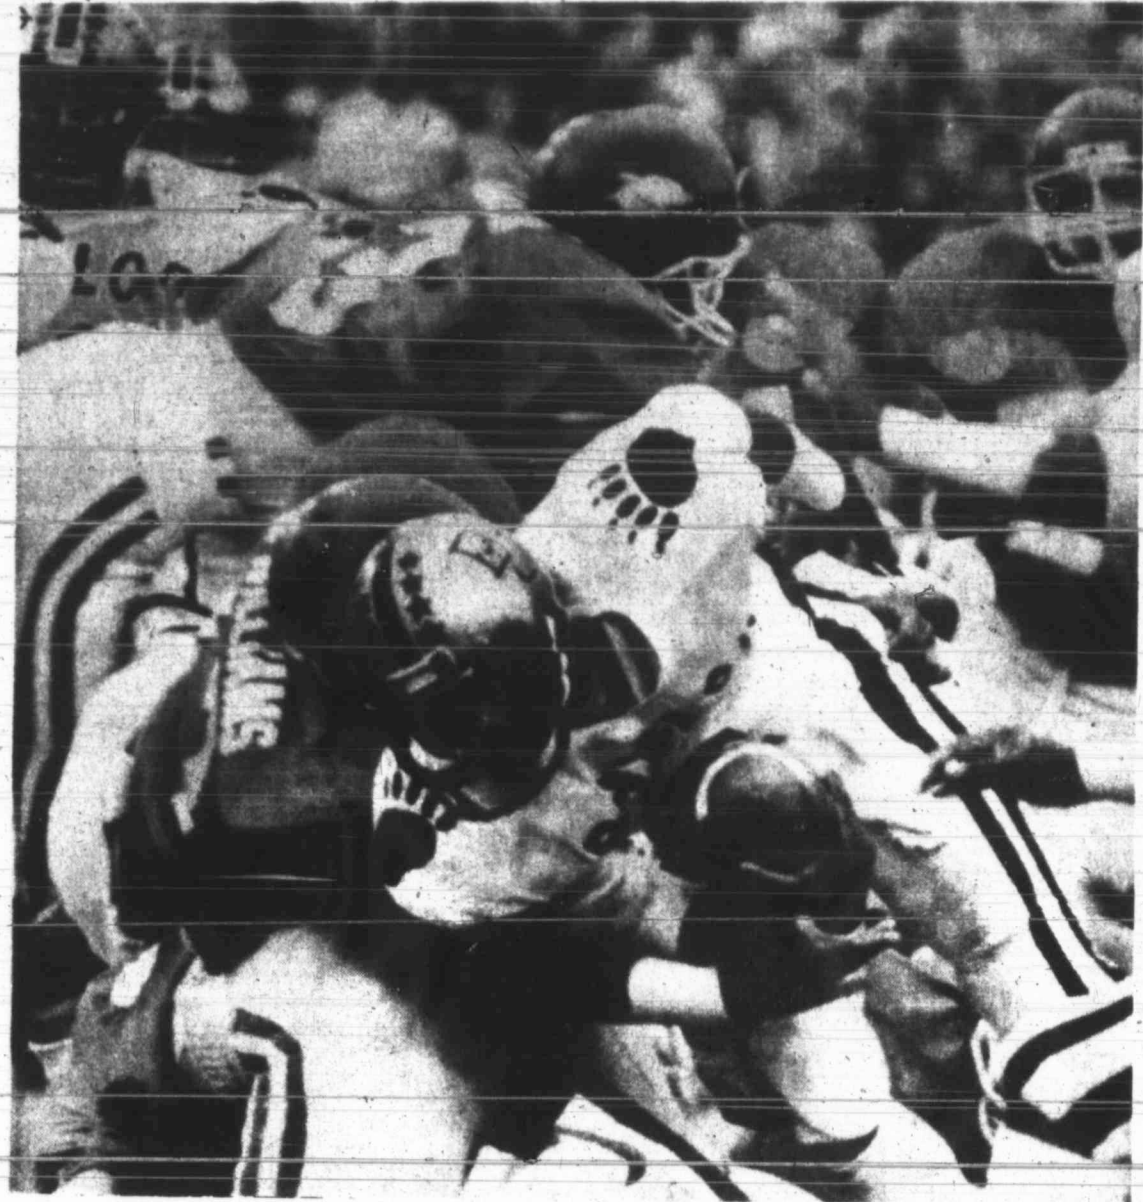

SMU, 5-3 for the season and 4-2 in the Southwest Conference, led only 10-7 at the half, but got 17 easy points in the third quarter as the game turned quickly into a rout. Rice fell to 3-6 and 2-4.

First, there was Vincent's interception for a TD. Then, linebacker Ben Hummel recovered a fumble at the Rice 43, and SMU needed only two plays to take a 24-7 advantage.

Penn St. makes bid for No. 1

By the Associated Press While top-ranked Florida was losing to Georgia 24-3, unbeaten No. 2 Penn State made a bid for the top spot in The Associated Press poll, rallying to beat Cincinnati 31-10 for its ninth victory.

Meanwhile, third-ranked Nebraska crushed Iowa State 49-0, No. 4 Ohio State whipped Northwestern 35-17, fifth-rated Air Force soared past Army 45-7, No. 6 Iowa overwhelmed Illinois 59-0, seventh-ranked Oklahoma routed Missouri 51-6, eighth-rated Miami, Fla. beat Maryland 29-22, No. 9 Michigan battered Purdue 47-0, and 10th-ranked Oklahoma State trimmed Kansas State 35-3.

In the Second Ten, No. 12 Arkansas topped 11th-rated Baylor 20-14, 13th-ranked Auburn beat East Carolina 35-10, No. 20 Alabama tied 15th-rated Louisiana State 14-14, 18th-ranked Brigham Young overpowered Utah State 44-0, and No. 19 Tennessee defeated Memphis State 17-7.

In night games, No. 14 UCLA was at Arizona and 16th-ranked Florida State entertained South Carolina.

Top Ten

Georgia, 7-1-1, handed Florida's Galen Hall his first defeat in 17 games since he became coach last year.

Henderson opened the scoring with a 76-yard run in the first quarter. He scored again in the second quarter on a 32-yard run, and Würley completed the Bulldogs' scoring with an 89-yard dash late in the fourth period.

Although Georgia's defense yielded 408 yards passing, it held the Gators' without a touchdown.

"Florida was in the difficult position of winning big last week, being ranked No. 1 by AP and having to play a big rival this week," said Dooley.

"This was a great experience for our kids being No. 1 in the nation and maybe, hopefully, we will learn from our mistakes," said Hall.

John Shaffer, a former star at Moeller High School in suburban Cincinnati, passed for one Penn State touchdown and ran for another against Cincinnati, while D.J. Dozier rushed for 112 yards.

The Nittany Lions trailed 10-7 in the second quarter before reeling off 24 consecutive points.

Despite the victory, Penn State Coach Joe Paterno wasn't happy with the way his team played in the first half. But he was pleased with the Nittany Lions' performance in the second half.

"In the second half, I thought we played a strong football game," he said. "There was not a question in my mind at halftime that we could get it done. It was a question whether we were going to work and stop fooling around."

Paterno also said his team would have to play better to beat Notre Dame next week.

Nebraska, 8-1, manhandled Iowa State with the help of quarterback McCathorn Clayton and running back Doug DuBose. Clayton ran for one TD and passed for another, while DuBose, a junior who became the 10th Cornhuskers' player to rush for 2,000 career yards, gained 114 yards and scored once.

Ohio State, 8-1, rolled to its fifth straight victory behind the passing of quarterback Jim Karsatos. Karsatos completed 15 of 20 passes for 275 yards, including three first-half TDs. Karsatos has thrown for 17 touchdowns this season, tying a school record set by Art Schmeier in 1981.

Air Force, 10-0, raised its two-year winning streak to 13 — longest in the nation — and won the Commander-in-Chief's Trophy, emblematic of football supremacy among the service academies, with its triumph over Army. Earlier this season, the Falcons beat Navy.

Quarterback Bart Weiss ran for 114 yards and two touchdowns and fired a 64-yard pass to Ken Carpenter for another Air Force score.

Iowa's Chuck Long set Big Ten Conference season and career records as the Hawkeyes improved their record to 8-1 against Illinois.

Long fired four touchdown passes, including strikes of 49 and 43 yards to Robert Smith in a 35-point first-quarter outburst, and two in the second period when Iowa took a 49-0 halftime lead. Long now has 72 career TD passes, including 25 this season.

The loss was the worst for Illinois since a 63-0 hammering by Chicago in 1966.

Freshman quarterback Jamelle Holloway set a school record with 324 yards in total offense in leading 6-1 Oklahoma's rout of Missouri. Holloway hit eight of 17 passes for 168 yards and two TDs and rushed 22 times for 156 yards.

"I've been practicing against the No. 1 defense in the nation," said Holloway, who was starting only his third game. "That helps me be a better quarterback."

Miami, winning its eighth consecutive game after an opening loss, rallied from a 22-13 deficit against Maryland. Brett Perriman launched Miami's comeback with a 74-yard TD on a punt return.

Dallas, Washington grudge match highlights NFL schedule

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

They call it "Dallas Week" in Washington, the closest thing to a traditional rivalry the National Football League has these days. And the Cowboys are arriving at RFK Stadium Sunday at just the right time for the Redskins.

"I think I feel better about this team than at any time this season," said Coach Joe Gibbs, whose team has won four of its last five games following a 1-3 start. That leaves the Redskins just a game behind the Cowboys and New York Giants, tied at the top of the NFC East with 6-3 records.

The Redskins would rather forget the first Dallas Week. The Cowboys beat them 44-14 on 1985's first Monday night, intercepting Joe Theismann five times and Jay Schroeder once.

But in their four most recent wins — interrupted by a 17-3 loss to the Giants — the Redskins have looked like the Super Bowl teams of 1982 and 1983, outscoring St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland and Atlanta 109-30. Last week, with John Riggins on the bench with a sore back, Keith Griffin and George Rogers combined for 288 rushing yards in a 44-10 rout of Atlanta.

"You'd like to have a great start and then coast, but we can't seem to do that," said guard Russ Grimm. "We have to be down. We have to be kicked a bit and get pushed against a wall before we respond."

Dallas was upset 21-10 at St. Louis last Monday and fell into a tie with the Giants, as the Cards moved back into what could become another mad division scramble.

"We really evened the division up. We made the other NFC teams happy," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "It's a mental game now in the league, much more mental than physical and Washington has its confidence back. I'm sure Washington hasn't forgotten what we did to them in the Monday night game."

The Giants, meanwhile, will be home, trying to win their fourth straight, against the once-beaten Los Angeles Rams. Their New York-New Jersey neighbors, the Jets, will be at Miami, trying to write the obituary on the Dolphins' chances of returning to the Super Bowl.

The Chicago Bears are home trying to run their unbeaten streak to 10 games against the Detroit Lions, one of two teams with a minimal chance of catching them in the NFC Central. And San Francisco, beginning to again look like a Super Bowl team, will be at Denver Monday night looking for its third straight victory.

In other Sunday games, Atlanta is at Philadelphia, Cleveland at Cincinnati, Green Bay at Minnesota, Houston at Buffalo, Indianapolis at New England, Pittsburgh at Kansas City, St. Louis at Tampa Bay, Seattle at New Orleans, and the Raiders at San Diego.

New York Jets (7-2) at Miami (5-4)

This may be it for the third-place Dolphins, who have spent a good part of the week denying rumors that quarterback Dan Marino, who has a bruised thigh, had been involved in late-night, off-the-field shenanigans.

In fact, Marino's biggest problem, as the Dolphins have lost three of four, has been the absence of injured receivers Mark Duper, Nat Moore and Vince Heflin. That's made Marino, who tore up the NFL record book last year in passing, an ordinary quarterback, ninth in the AFC with just 13 touchdown passes compared with 27 at this time last season.

But Jets Coach Joe Walton, whose team started the Dolphins on their slide with a 23-7 victory a month ago and leads New England by a game in the AFC East, doesn't believe the negative hype.

"The Miami newspapers are writing off the Miami Dolphins," he said. "They are saying the Jets have a chance to wrap it up. What I'm going to tell them is that the Miami Dolphins are going to be coming out of the ground. It's going to be the toughest game of the season."

Rams (8-1) at Giants (6-3)

The Rams lead the 49ers by three games in the NFC West and will have Jeff Kemp at quarterback in place of Dieter Brock, who underwent minor surgery for removal of a kidney stone. Kemp was at quarterback last January, when the Giants beat the Rams at Anaheim 16-13 in the NFC wild-card game.

In that contest, New York concentrated on stopping running back Eric Dickerson and dared Kemp to pass. Dickerson had his best game in two months last week, 108 yards in 23 carries in a 28-10 victory over New Orleans before leaving with a sprained ankle. He is expected to be ready Sunday.

The Giants squeezed by winless Tampa Bay 22-20 as Joe Morris rushed for a career-high 132 yards and newly signed Eric Schubert kicked five field goals. But New York, which leads the NFL in defense, generally plays up — or down — to the level of the competition.

San Francisco (5-4) at Denver (6-3) (Monday night)

Joe Montana probably will be back at quarterback for San Francisco after Matt Cavanaugh directed last week's 24-13 victory over Philadelphia. The 49ers have put two good games for the first time this season. Trailing the Rams by three games, they'll need a few more in a row to guarantee a playoff game.

Denver, tied with the Raiders for AFC West lead, was routed 30-10 at San Diego last week, but no one's panicking.

"We won four in a row before San Diego, and I don't think losing one game is a sign we need to make drastic changes," said Coach Dan Reeves.

Detroit (5-4) at Chicago (9-0)

The Bears are in cruise control, four games in front in the NFC Central and looking ahead of a week towards Dallas, a serious impediment on the way to an unbeaten season.

Despite Detroit's record, which includes victories over Dallas, San Francisco and Miami, Coach Darryl Rogers says he wants to make a lot of personnel changes next season. The Lions are 4-0 in the Silverdome, 1-4 on the road, and the major suspense in this one may be whether Bears' rookie lineman William "The Refrigerator" Perry, who has rushed for a touchdown and caught a TD pass, will complete the circle by throwing a pass.

Raiders (6-3) at San Diego (4-5)

The Raiders beat the Chargers 34-21 at Los Angeles two weeks ago and it wasn't really that close. Then, last Sunday, they turned the ball over four times, had a field goal blocked and allowed six sacks in a 33-3 loss in Seattle.

"We can't dwell on it," Coach Tom Flores said of the letdown. "It was almost like a nightmare. We just put it behind us and go on."

San Diego got 116 yards rushing from recently signed Gary Anderson against Denver. But Flores said of the Chargers:

"Defense is where they've been criticized the most. Defense is where they've improved the most."

Cleveland (4-5) at Cincinnati (4-5)

Barring a tie, this game will provide the AFC Central, where all four teams are 4-5, with at least one .500 team.

It looks now like Bernie Kosar will be at quarterback all season for the Browns — Gary Danielson probably won't make it back from shoulder injury. The Cleveland defense, which has been stingy except when it counts, will have to deal with Boomer Esiason, the AFC's leading passer.

Indianapolis (3-6) at New England (6-3)

The Pats are 4-0 since Steve Grogan took over for Tony Eason at quarterback and could move in to a tie for the AFC East lead if the Dolphins beat the Jets. They've also been innovative — they scored on a fourth-and-one flea-flicker last week and used 295-pound tackle Steve Moore at fullback.

The Colts are tough sporadically and at home. They're 0-4 on the road.

Houston (4-5) at Buffalo (1-8)

The Oilers have won three straight and are starting to think seriously about a title in a division where .500 might do it. "We'll just let the other guys knock themselves out of it," said quarterback Warren Moon, who has been sacked only four times in those three victories after going down 20 times in the first nine games.

The Bills have been more competitive in the four games that Hank Bullough has coached, but have blown early leads in the last two.

Seattle (5-4) at New Orleans (3-6)

The Seahawks finally began forcing turnovers like last year in their rout of the Raiders. The test now is whether they can perform consistently well against a team that's lost four straight and has 10 players on injured reserve. Richard Todd replaced Dave Wilson at quarterback for the Saints late in last week's 28-10 loss to the Rams, but Wilson probably will be back at quarterback this week.

Pittsburgh (4-5) at Kansas City (3-6)

Another chance at .500 and at least a share of the division lead for the Steelers, who beat the Browns last week on Gary Anderson's last-minute field goal.

St. Louis (4-5) at Tampa Bay (0-9)

A dangerous game for the Cards, who finally snapped out of a slump in Monday night's 21-10 victory over Dallas and who can remain in contention in the NFC East if they play as well as they are capable. The Bucs, who have lost by a total of 17 points to four teams with a combined record of 28-8, won't keep losing forever, but they have to get out of the habit of sinking in the second half.

Atlanta (1-8) at Philadelphia (4-5)

The Eagles, who lack the offense to be consistent, barely got by Buffalo two weeks ago, then lost to San Francisco last week, indicating their surge into contention may be over.

Big Spring places third in tri-meet

MIDLAND — The Big Spring Steers boys and girls swim teams placed third in a tri-meet against San Angelo Central and Midland Lee Saturday at the Midland Lee pool.

In the boys competition, Central won the competition 106 to 88 over Midland Lee. Big Spring was third with 39 points.

Leading the Steers was diver Louis Morelion who placed first and remained undefeated in district competition with a 197.20 performance on the board.

Steer swimmer Cade Loftin also garnered a pair of first places. The junior Steer placed first in the 100 yard butterfly with a time of 59.14 seconds. Loftin also won the 100 yard backstroke in a time of 1 minute 5.25 seconds.

In the girls competition, Central outpointed Lee 106 to 83 for the title. Big Spring finished third with 27 points.

Lady Steer freestyler Kelley Brannon won two individual first places, winning the 100 yard event in a time of 1 minute 12.6 seconds in the 50 yard event in 32.46 seconds.

AN OLD DEALERSHIP...
A NEW DEALERSHIP!!!

1986 will mark the 25th anniversary of Pollard Chevrolet Company in Big Spring and the first anniversary of Pollard Chevrolet-Buick-Cadillac, Inc. The Big Spring area has been very kind to us and we have tried to reciprocate by investing back heavily to provide the very best in trained and helpful personnel; up-to-date shop and parts equipment; inventories; adequate land and building facilities and competitive sales policies. Acquisition of the Buick and Cadillac franchises from Mr. Jack Lewis further reinforces our total commitment to Big Spring.

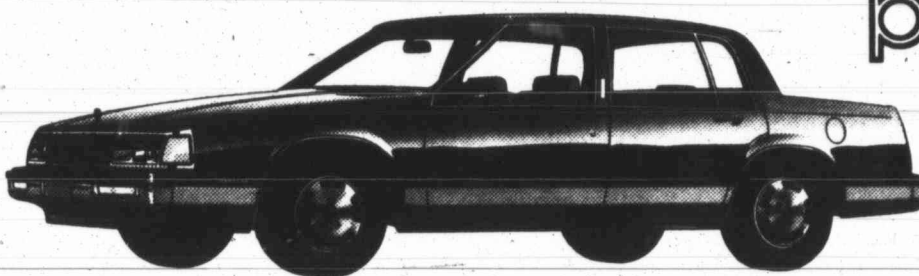

Please bear with us as we go through our growing pains of staffing up and training additional people to give the quality of service expected and deserved by all our customers.

NBA Roundup

Bulls 97
Knicks 94

NEW YORK (AP) — Orlando Woolridge scored 28 points, including two straight baskets in the final 1:13, to lead the Chicago Bulls to a 97-94 National Basketball Association victory Saturday night over the winless New York Knicks, who lost their 20th consecutive game since last season.

The Bulls, who broke a four-game losing streak and won for the first time since star guard Michael Jordan broke his foot on Oct. 26, trailed 92-91 with 2:05 left after Knicks rookie Gerald Wilkins scored five consecutive points to erase a 91-87 Chicago advantage.

But Woolridge, who hasn't scored fewer than 25 points in Chicago's eight games this season, rebounded a missed shot and scored for a 93-92 lead with 1:13 left, then hit a 20-foot jumper to make it 95-92 with 35 seconds to go.

After Bulls center Jawann Oldham, who scored eight of his 14 points in the fourth quarter, blocked a shot from Knicks rookie Patrick Ewing, Dave Corzine's free throw with 18 seconds remaining clinched the victory.

The Knicks, 0-8, for the season and just four losses away from the NBA record of 24 by Cleveland in 1982, were led by Ewing with 26 points, Wilkins with 23 and Ken Bannister with 20. Corzine had 20 points, and George Gervin 14 for Chicago.

Ewing scored 14 of his 20 first-half points in the last nine minutes of the first quarter as New York took a 32-24 lead.

After scoring the first basket of the second quarter, Chicago didn't score a point for the next 4:17, while the Knicks managed six for their largest lead, 38-26. But Woolridge and Corzine each scored six points in the last 5:21 of the period as the Bulls outscored the Knicks 16-8 to cut the deficit to 52-48 at halftime.

The Knicks led by as many as nine points in the fourth quarter before the Bulls rallied.

40-26. Terence Stansbury's layup gave Indiana a 19-point lead, 45-26, with 10:20 left in the first half.

The Suns, who got a game-high 20 points from Walter Davis, got back in the game with a 16-5 spurt as Larry Nance contributed four free throws and a layup.

The Pacers were up by 10 before Bill Martin's rebound and layup gave them a 66-53 advantage with 1:16 left in the opening half.

Vern Fleming, who finished with 20 points, hit a layup and two free throws as Indiana scored the final seven points of the period to take a 17-point cushion, 70-53, into the dressing room.

The Suns, off to the worst start in the club's history, fell behind by 23 as Clark Kellogg, who contributed 22 points to the victory, made a slam dunk with 5:05 left in the third quarter.

The Suns cut the deficit to 14 at the end of three quarters but were unable to get any closer. The Pacers, snapping their four-game losing streak to go 2-4 for the season, led by as much 24 points twice in the final period.

Nance had 20 points for Phoenix, while Stipanovich pulled down 13 rebounds for Indiana.

Celtics 124
Pistons 105

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Larry Bird scored 29 points and Kevin McHale added 28 Saturday night to lead the Boston Celtics to a 124-105 National Basketball Association victory over the Detroit Pistons.

McHale scored four points during an 11-4 third-quarter spurt that widened the Celtics' lead from nine points to 16, 89-73 with 4:30 left in the period.

Boston never was threatened from there, taking a 100-82 lead when Dennis Johnson made a jump shot from the perimeter as the third quarter buzzer sounded.

Johnson and Detroit's Bill Laimbeer were ejected from the game with 4:37 to play after they were involved in a brief fight.

The Celtics had led by as many as 24 points in the second quarter and held a 72-50 halftime advantage.

Detroit, however, outscored Boston 19-6 in the first 5:09 of the third quarter to pull within 9, 78-69. Isiah Thomas led the rally with 10 points.

Pacers 127
Suns 105

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Steve Stipanovich scored 20 of his team-high 24 points in the first half, helping the Indiana Pacers defeat the winless Phoenix Suns 127-105 in National Basketball Association action Saturday.

The Pacers trailed only once after the game's first basket, and took the lead for good at 10-8 on a Herb Williams dunk. Phoenix fell to 0-7.

Sparked by 11 first-quarter points from Stipanovich, Indiana led by 14 after the opening period at

A salute to veterans

Volunteers Lila Holland, left, and Carol Trevino, right, give a mug to veteran David Trimble of Odessa. Both women are members of the American Legion Auxiliary. The auxiliary is only one of 29 volunteer organizations which donates hundreds of hours each year in work to the Veterans' Administration Medical Center.

Volunteers donate time in appreciation of vets

By CAROL BALDWIN
Lifestyle Editor
Lila Holland and Carol Trevino were busy stacking white coffee mugs on a tray at the Veterans Administration Medical Center recently. The two women, like hundreds of other volunteers around the area, were preparing for Veterans' Day.
The mugs were donated by the American Legion Auxiliary. Trevino and Holland and other volunteers had earlier tucked small flowers in the mugs to brighten up the gifts to veterans at the hospital. As Veterans' Day approached, each veteran at the hospital would receive a special mug.
Volunteers play a big part in the services offered at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, according to Lupe Dominguez, chief of voluntary services.
"We have about 400 volunteers" from around West Texas, Dominguez said. That compares to a paid staff of about 380.

Volunteers spend time at the hospital as often as they can for different reasons.
As she worked stacking mugs for veterans in the hospital, Trevino said she works as a volunteer at the hospital "because it gives me something to do, and it feels good." Holland agreed. The women said, "We feel like we need to do something for veterans" in return for what American vets did for their country.
Trevino has been working as a volunteer at the hospital for more than five years. Holland has been a volunteer for more than 12 years.
Holland said, "I enjoy my work and trying to help. And I've got a very good volunteer director to work for," she added, smiling at Dominguez.
The American Legion Auxiliary, one of 29 volunteer organizations at the hospital, is composed of wives of veterans who belong to the American Legion. Holland's husband, Marvin, and Trevino's husband, T.A., are both American Legion members.

The work of volunteers doesn't go unnoticed by veterans at the facility. David Trimble, a patient at the Veterans Administration Medical Center for the past two months, said, "Volunteers come by all the time" with cake and coffee or just to talk.
Trimble, who is from Odessa, often sees volunteers from the Midland-Odessa area. He appreciates the work of the hundreds of volunteers at the hospital.
"They don't have to do it," he said.
Among organized groups of volunteers at the hospital are the American Gold Star Mothers, the American Ex-Prisoners of War, the American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, and the American National Red Cross.
Others are the BPO Elks, the Calvary Baptist Church, the Col-

VAMC celebrating 30th anniversary during 1985

By CAROL BALDWIN
Lifestyle Editor
Veterans will be honored during a special anniversary ceremony at 11 a.m. Monday at the Veterans Administration Medical Center.
According to Lupe Dominguez, chief of voluntary services at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, the VAMC and other facilities like it offer services to the 1,117,000 veterans of all wars who reside in Texas.
This year marks the 35th anniversary of the medical center, according to Dominguez. Joe Pickle will be the keynote speaker during the veteran's salute Monday morning. Pickle was one of the community leaders who in 1944 set out to recruit a VA hospital for Big Spring, said Dominguez.
The public is invited to the ceremony.
Members of the original Veterans Hospital Committee included: W.W. Inkman, J.E. Hogan, T.S. Currie, R.T. Piner, R.L. Cook, R.L. Tollett, Judge James Brooks, R.R. McEwen, J.A. Thurman, C.W. Deats, B.J. McDaniel, Grover C. Dunham and M.M. Miller.
Applications were prepared and broken on Feb. 1, 1948, construction started Feb. 2, 1948, and construction was completed on June 3, 1950.

Dedication ceremonies were held Sept. 10, 1950.
Today, the Veterans Administration Medical Center takes up 31 acres on a lot located north of Farm Road 700 and west of U.S. Highway 87. The main building is a six-story, partial basement, penthouse structure.
Dominguez said the VAMC has 209 beds, including 118 for medicine, 46 for surgery and 45 for psychiatry. An additional 40 beds are assigned to the nursing home care unit.
The VAMC serves 54 counties. The area includes 122,567 veterans.
The medical center is affiliated with Texas Tech University School of Medicine in Lubbock. There are local residency programs in general surgery, ophthalmology and anesthesiology. The hospital is also affiliated with the Howard College School of Nursing.
The medical center treats more than 4,024 patients a year, with an average length of stay in the hospital of 15 days. About 380 people are employed at VAMC.

Gold Star Mothers much like 'family'

A group of mothers across the United States are serving veterans to honor their sons and daughters who were killed in combat.
American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., is a non-denominational, non-profitable and non-political organization.
The membership is composed of mothers who lost their sons or daughters in World War II, the Korean conflict, Vietnam or any strategic area.
There are no World War I mothers left anywhere, said Kathryn Thomas, treasurer of the local chapter. "When I first was a Gold Star Mother, we had eight all over the United States."
She became a Gold Star Mother in 1968.
There are 19 members of the local chapter of Gold Star Mothers, which was organized in 1950. The chapter meets the second Thursday of each month.
Della Nobles and Annie Smith are charter members.
Dads are associate members and don't pay dues or have voting privileges, said Thomas.
Other officers of the local chapter are: Edna Peacock, president; Odell Turner, first vice president; Annie Smith, second vice president; Martha Moody, chaplain; Edna Perkins, secretary; Elida Hernandez, historian; Luz Dominguez, Americanism chairman; and Odell Turner, hospital representative.
In 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed the last Sunday in September as "Gold Star Mother's Day." On that day, members of the local chapter attend church with the president at whatever church she attends.

People sometimes think the organization is "something sad, but it really isn't," Thomas said. "Our getting together is kind of a family. We feel a part of one another when we get together."
The mothers help one another deal with the death of their children, she said. "It's harder for some of them to accept a loss like this."
The chapter's main emphasis is volunteer work at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, said Thomas. "The other veteran is really our mission." Their motto is: "We honor the dead by serving the living," she said.
The mothers visit patients who otherwise would not have visitors. They spend one hour one day a week visiting the patients.
"Just like in the nursing homes, no one comes to see" the patients on the nursing home floor of the VAMC, Thomas said.
The club got its name from the gold star placed on those who were killed in World War I.
During the early days of World War I, a blue star was used to represent each person, man or woman in the military service of the United States.
As the war progressed and men were killed in combat, others were wounded and died of their wounds or disease, there came about the accepted usage of the gold star, which was superimposed upon the blue star.
The gold star came to represent the honor and glory accorded the person for his or her supreme sacrifice to his or her country, rather than a symbol of mourning.

Veterans' Day holds a special place each year in Big Spring mother's heart

Kathryn Thomas holds a portrait of her son, Coy. Coy was killed in a booby trap during the Vietnam War. Thomas is a member of the Gold Star Mothers.

By KIM KIRKHAM
Lifestyle Writer
Veterans Day has had a special place in the heart of Kathryn Thomas the past 19 years.
"It has always brought back a lot of sadness," said Thomas, whose only child died in 1966 in the Vietnam War. "It just kind of brings it all back. Memories."
Her son Coy, 23 at the time, was killed in a booby trap. He had been in combat only three months. He volunteered to fight in the war in October 1965, left for Vietnam in January 1966 and was killed in April 1966.
He was the second young man from Big Spring to be killed.
Thomas and her husband Truett were notified of their sons death the night of the day he was killed. His body was home within four days.
Although it was not allowed, an owner of a local funeral home let them see their son's body. "I just thought if I couldn't see in that casket, I couldn't believe he was in there," said Thomas.
When the next young man from Big Spring was killed, J.C. Pickle of a local funeral home called the Thomases and asked them to visit the family.
"I felt like it was something I could experience, and if I could share with them, it might help a little," she said. "We cried right along with them."
Thomas then began attending all funerals in Big Spring of young men killed in Vietnam. She also contacted all their families.
"It was just like going through Coy's funeral every time when you would go and see the flag draped casket," she said.

She also wrote over 800 sympathy letters to other families who lost sons or daughters. She got the addresses from the list of deaths that was published each day in the Big Spring Herald.
Some people replied; others she never heard from. Thomas kept a diary of those she wrote.
Two years after the death of her son, Thomas joined the Gold Star Mothers. "You wonder why the mothers don't just join," said Thomas. "You just keep putting it off."
Her husband is an associate dad. A wall in her home is dedicated to her son's medals and certificates with a picture of him in his military uniform in the center.
The last letter Coy wrote his parents was on Easter Sunday in 1966, said his mother. "We didn't get it until after we had gotten the message that he was killed."
On that Sunday the Thomases were attending the Easter Sunrise Service at the Amphitheater in Comanche Trail Park and "wondering what Coy was doing," Thomas said. "We haven't been to one since. We just can't go."
Coy had been in the service for three years. "He had planned to make it a career," said Thomas.
While Coy was stationed in Hawaii, the Thomases visited him for a week. As they were getting on the plane to return home, he told them of his plans to go to Vietnam. They had had no idea of his plans to re-enlist.
"He wanted to go," said Thomas. "He felt like it was his duty, and he was proud to serve."

Riddle-Sato

AUSTIN — Pamela Bea Riddle became Mrs. Christopher Eric Sato in an evening ceremony Saturday at the Grace Covenant Church here. Judge Paul Pressler of Houston officiated at the 7 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip E. Riddle Jr., Route 1, Big Spring. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Sato of Houston.

The couple exchanged vows before an altar decorated with candelabra and large palm strands on each side and fresh flowers. An altar arrangement featured mauve, blue and white fresh flowers.

Pianist Cindy Hoch of Austin and vocalists Bill and Trish Brunson of Austin and Connie Jo Goodman of Washington, D.C. provided music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown. The bodice was covered with pearls and lace. The sleeves were gathered at the top, covered with pearls and came to a point of top of the hand. The open back came to a V with a large bow at the waist. Streamers flowed from the bow to the train.

The bride carried a cascade of orchids and roses. Cindy Riddle of Damascus, Ark., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Julie Dudley, Big Spring, Amy Ragan, Big Spring, and Julie Duke, Big Lake.

Jennifer Nichols of Big Spring, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Jeff Nichols of Big Spring, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Groomsmen were David Kunz, Dallas, Joseph Mathew, Dallas, and Keith Westerlage, Phoenix, Ariz. Ushers were Scotty Riddle of Big Spring, brother of the bride, and Vance Usui of Cheyenne, Wyo., cousin of the bridegroom.

Scotty Riddle and Danielle Reneau, Houston, were candlelighters.

A reception followed in the reception area of the church. The bride's table featured a three-tiered cake decorated with cascading arrangements of orchids. A large orchid of mauve, white and blue was on the top of the cake. The table was covered with a white lace cloth and held mauve candles and crystal.

The bridegroom's table was

covered with a blue cloth and held a blue centerpiece. The chocolate cake was in the shape of a football.

A graduate of Coahoma High School, the bride attended Howard College and is attending the University of Texas at Austin.

The bridegroom graduated from Northbrook High School in Houston and the University of Texas at Austin. He is employed by McCallum High School in Austin.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will live in Austin.

Garcia-Smith

Elsa M. Garcia and James Chrisman Smith exchanged wedding vows Oct. 12 at Hillcrest Baptist Church with Wayman Wells, cousin of the bridegroom, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mary Green of Big Spring and G.C. Garcia of Midland. The bridegroom is the son of Clea F. Smith and Bob C. Smith, both of Big Spring.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with white carnations and pink silk bows.

Sandy Smith was pianist. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Felix Garcia. She wore a formal-length gown fashioned with a Victorian neckline and an inset of English net and Venise lace appliques. Her skirt fell into tiers of Wedgewood lace to form a chapel-length train. She wore a Victorian hat accented with Venise lace, seed pearls and crystals.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby white rosebuds.

The maid of honor was Terri Garcia, sister of the bride. Angelique Chavez Yanez, niece of the bride, Abilene, was train carrier. Cassandra Cisneros, niece of the bride, Abilene, was flower girl.

Robert G. Smith, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Duffy Yancey, cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Terry Gene Smith, brother of the bridegroom, was usher.

A reception was held at Hillcrest Baptist Church fellowship hall following the ceremony. A two-tiered cake trimmed with pink roses and decorated with a bride and bridegroom figurine was served. The table was covered with a pink and white lace cloth. A brown and white lace cloth covered the bridegroom's table. A German chocolate cake shaped as a horseshoe was served. The centerpiece was a brown candle holder accented with flowers.

The bride graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. She is employed by Citizens Federal Credit Union.

Dr. Donohue

Sports jitters

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: In practice I do fine. I could go out on the pro golfing tour if only it was practice. I can sink putts from 30 yards. But once on the course and especially in competition I fall apart (along with my game). What am I doing wrong? — J.D.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a pretty good basketball player, but I lose my touch when it comes to shooting. I sort of choke up. Don't tell me to concentrate. My coach tells me that. Any tips you've heard of to overcome tension? — L.W.

Golf, basketball, bowling, almost any sport or activity you can name can cause jitters. I don't think either of you need me to tell you that.

You don't need just simple concentration, but a special kind. Quite obviously, what is happening here is loss of muscle control. In those tight situations you have alerted your body to an imagined present danger. It starts pouring out adrenalin and overworking your automatic nervous system. You lose fine muscle control.

It does no good to tell yourself to relax. That only makes you more tense. Instead, you adopt a psychological ploy that lets you concentrate on a few basic athletic principles.

For the golfer it can be the proper placement of the hands on the club handle, for the basketball player the proper placement of the hands on the ball. You must overpower all other thoughts by this concentration on the one thing you've learned. At that split second you are practically self-mesmerized.

I have always been fascinated by how, for example, a basketball player can emerge from an absolute chaos of surrounding activity, leap and coolly pop the ball unerringly through the basket. It's that concentration-plus factor, I'm sure.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a boxer. I am fearful, though, of cauliflower ear. What is it and how does it form? — H.O.

Cauliflower ear is distortion of the ear tissue from repeated trauma. The outer ear is mostly cartilage covered with skin. When that combination is pounded, blood seeps out between the skin and cartilage. It's like a bruise.

It's important to take care of such bruises (hematomas) promptly. If the swelling is not kept down, pressure from it begins the distortion process. The result, in time, is the grotesque stippled look of cauliflower ear.

You can prevent it by first of all protecting the ear. Your boxing helmet must cover the entire ear. Don't box with a helmet that doesn't fit properly.

If you do get a bruise, the blood of the hematoma can be removed with a syringe or a scalpel. Modern boxers have to a large extent learned cauliflower ear prevention from the experience of the old-timers. You don't see nearly as much of it as you did a few years ago. Today we're concentrating more on what happens between the ears. But that's another story.

Suzanne Haney attending statewide meeting

By CAROL BALDWIN
Lifestyle Editor
SUZANNE HANEY, president of the Big Spring Symphony board of directors, is in Sherman this weekend attending the Texas Association of Symphony Orchestras meeting. Suzanne said state committees will be set up on Saturday. Suzanne is representing the Big Spring Symphony Guild. The Guild joined the Texas Association of Symphony Orchestras this year. "We're trying to take an active part on the state level," Haney said. Speaking of the Symphony, this year's premiere performance is Friday at 8 p.m. in the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium. A reception will follow in the parish hall at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. Featured Friday will be the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of John Giordano.

This is the third consecutive year they've opened the Big Spring season. MIKE HUBBARD, son of TOM- MY HUBBARD of Big Spring and JEAN HUBBARD of Dallas, recently received his certificate of registration as a professional engineer.

According to his grandparents, MR. AND MRS. BOB CROWELL recently returned from an automobile trip through Washington and Oregon. Mrs.

Crowell said she enjoyed the drive through the Cascade Mountains. The trip coincided with the fruit harvesting season in the Wenatchee Valley.

REMOVING PARTITIONS

Rooms sometimes are not always the desired sizes. It therefore may be necessary to move some partitions. This is not a difficult job if the partition is non-load-bearing and the plumbing, electrical or heating services are not concealed in it. It is possible to move even load-bearing partitions by adding a beam to support the ceiling where the partition is removed. If rooms are small, it may be desirable to remove partitions to give a more open and spacious feeling. A partition between the living and dining rooms, for instance, can be removed to make both seem larger and, perhaps, make part of the space serve a dual purpose. Removing a partition between a hallway and a room in the living area gives a more spacious feeling, even though traffic continues through the hallway.

It takes an experienced contractor to know whether a wall can be removed. At BOB'S CUSTOM WOODWORK, our skilled craftspeople can handle any kind of home renovation project, from floor-to-ceiling. We design and build room additions, decks, porches, kitchens and baths. Come to 613 N. Warehouse Road in Industrial Park, or call 267-5811. Open M-F, 8-12, 1-5 or by appt.

Dear Abby

News not fit

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a problem with his sister that requires your immediate attention. For years now, "Sis" has been sending newsy Christmas letters to friends, relatives, old schoolmates, and people we rarely see and hardly know. It wouldn't be so bad if she would just write about her own husband and children, but she writes about the whole gag of us, including her in-laws, trips, what they've bought, where they plan to go, which boils down to bragging at its worst!

She tells what is going on with all the members of the entire family, which includes us. My husband (her brother) has been in and out of court for several years with business problems and lawsuits, and she tells about our "never-ending problems in court" in every newsletter. Nothing, including gossip and rumors, goes unmentioned. This includes separations, divorces, jilted lovers, yq name it.

To make matters worse her husband has bought her a word processor for Christmas, so her Christmas letters can be longer now! How can we stop her? Several other family members feel the same way, but are as helpless as we are.

Please get this in your column as soon as possible, Abby. You will be doing this family an enormous

***
DEAR ABBY: Every day I use public transportation to reach my place of employment. During these two-hour stretches, I read, relax and often daydream.

Recently my privacy was rudely interrupted by an annoying clocking sound. Looking around, I was astonished to see a fellow commuter clipping his fingernails! (I decided to move rather than risk the sight of toenail trimming!) Once aboard the next car, I noticed a sickening sweet smell — nail polish!

Abby, what is going on? Have we moved our hygiene and grooming department into the rapid transit system?

Please print this. I can understand using one's commuting time productively, but let's draw the line at grooming, please!

C.A.R.G.O.
(COMMUTER AGAINST RAPID GROOMING ONBOARD)

DEAR CARGO: Nail clipping and polishing is mild compared with other reports I've had. Shaving with a battery operated shaver is common, and putting on full makeup is routine. One commuter saw a woman quietly change her pantyhose without leaving her seat!

Big Spring Symphony kicks off season Friday

The Big Spring Symphony Association opens its sixth season on Friday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium with a performance by the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra.

The orchestra is under the direction of John Giordano. This will be the third consecutive year the orchestra has opened the Big Spring Symphony season, according to Symphony board president Suzanne Haney.

Violinist Andrew Hardy will make a guest appearance Friday. Included on the program is the Overture from the Opera Cosi Fan Tutti by Mozart; Concerto No. 1 in G minor for Violin, Opus 26, by Bruch; and Serenade No. 1 in D major, Opus 11, by Brahms.

Hardy is a 1982 graduate of the Peabody Institute. He is a native of Baltimore and has been concertmaster of the Baltimore Opera Company since 1983. He joins the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra as associate concertmaster for the 1984-85 season.

Immediately following Friday's performance, a reception will be held in the Parish Hall of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 10th and Goliad.

Season tickets and single admission tickets will be available at Friday's performance. Other concerts during the season will be under the direction of Dr. Marianna Gabbi.

On Feb. 22, James Cunningham, a Big Spring native, will appear as guest saxophonist.

The April 12 concert will feature the music of George Gershwin. Season ticket prices are $15 for adults and $7.50 for students and senior citizens.

Single admission is $7.50 for adults and $4 for students and senior citizens.

Lifestyle guidelines

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement, wedding, silver or golden anniversary in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this. The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form must include a name and telephone number of a person whom we can reach during the day for more information. We will use a picture of the couple in the announcement. Or in the case of engagement announcements where a picture of the couple is not available, we will use one of the bride-elect. The picture must be a professional quality studio photograph. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print. We ask for this kind of photograph so that it will reproduce well in the newspaper. Following the picture's publication, it may be picked up at the Lifestyle department.

The information for the story may be brought to the Lifestyle department of the Herald, which is located at 710 Scurry. Or it may be mailed to Lifestyle Department, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

ENGAGEMENTS
Information of engagement announcements must be submitted to the Lifestyle department of the Herald anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks prior to the wedding. Anything closer than three weeks will not be published. The engagement form must be submitted no later than Wednesday noon prior to the Sunday it is to be published.

WEDDINGS
If a wedding writup is submitted to the Herald after the wedding has occurred, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Volunteers

onal Dames of the 17th Century, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Disabled American Veterans, the DAV auxiliary, and the Eagles.

Also the First Baptist Church, First Christian Church, First Methodist Church, Hillcrest Baptist Church, Midway Baptist Church, Military Order of the Cootie, the Cootie Auxiliary, and the Order-of-the-Eastern-Star.

Volunteers also come from the Order of the Rebekahs, the St. Paul Lutheran Church, the Salvation Army, the U.S. Catholic Conference, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, the Veterans of World War I, the WWI vets auxiliary, and the Wesley United Methodist Church.

Although the hospital sponsors an active youth volunteer program, the Veterans Administration Medical Center has a number of volunteers who are 60 and over. The opportunity to volunteer is good for both veterans and volunteers, Dominguez said.

Although many may be retired from careers, "They still want to help," Dominguez said.

Dominguez said she has people calling on a daily basis, offering to volunteer at the hospital. Volunteers may choose their own hours and work a schedule of their choice.

Dominguez has been chief of voluntary services since 1981, and has seen a fluctuation of volunteers throughout the years. Surprisingly, the number of volunteers at the hospital is on the rise.

Volunteers provide all sorts of services, Dominguez said, including aiding in recreational activities, providing toilet articles, writing letters and sponsoring Christmas activities.

Each year, the American Legion Auxiliary sponsors a gift shop for hospitalized veterans at the VAMC.

"All items are new," Dominguez said. Items that veterans may choose for their families include toys, dishes, jewelry, blankets and clothing. "It's just like a regular store."

The makeshift store is set up each year in the hospital conference room and veterans may select gifts "free of charge," Dominguez said. Auxiliary members help veterans choose gifts, then they wrap and mail the gifts.

"This is a $15,000 project," Dominguez said. This year the gift shop will be set up Dec. 2-5.

Although that project is one of the bigger projects conducted by volunteers, "we can't underestimate the others," Dominguez said. Other groups have provided funds for television "throughout the hospital," she said. Groups have also donated money for a bus for the hospital and funds from volunteers went toward renovating the hospital chapel and toward renovating the family room in the nursing home care unit.

In addition to providing financial support, volunteers "provide support" by visiting with patients. They also "work in various offices" at the hospital, Dominguez said.

Dominguez said many people enjoy working as volunteers because "it gives them a feeling of being able to help others in need. I've heard it expressed many times. They want to be able to do something for others."
