Spring Murder suspect Board may have fled into Mexico

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Staff Writer A 37-year-old man may have fled to Mexico after the Saturday night shooting death of his estranged wife in the Latin Quarter Lounge on Highway 350 north of Big Spring.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said Feliciano Zamora of Knott is a suspect in the murder of Maria Isabel Zamora, 28, of 2308 Marshall.

The search for Zamora is being conducted by the sheriff's office with assistance from the Department of Public Safety and the U.S. Border Patrol, Standard said.

The sheriff's department was notified of the shooting at 10:56 p.m. Two deputies reported finding Ms. Zamora lying on her side in the middle of the floor in the south end of the club. Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin pronounced her dead

"It was a homicide," Heflin said, "they (bar patrons) said she wouldn't dance with him. He shot her right behind the ear.'

One witness, who agreed to talk only on condition that his identity not be revealed, said today an argument began when Ms. Zamora refused to dance with Zamora. The argument escalated into a physical fight that was stopped by patrons, the witness said.

Zamora left and returned 20 or 30 minutes later, the witness said. There were about 50 patrons in the club at the time of the shooting, he

College begins year-long fete

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

A restored Ford V-8 which belonged to one of the first students at Howard College set the mood for a 40th anniversary celebration this morning at the Big Spring Industrial Park

The vehicle, a gray, 1938 model which had belonged to the late Wendell Lawrence, glittered in the morning sun as spectators gathered around a podium decorated with red balloons to share in the history of Howard College.

The aging Ford was a perfect tribute to the blending of the past and the present. Lea Whitehead. director of development at Howard College, said that Wendall Lawrence died shortly after completing Howard College in 1947. Howard College trustee P.W. Malone, a member of the original board, retraced the history of Howard College, going back to the days when the college was established with buildings left dier school site at the close of World War II.

Today's ceremony, which kicks off a year-long celebration, was held on a vacant lot across the street from the SouthWest College Institute for the Deaf. Malone, reaching back 40 years, said, "Some of you here know what we had then. Nothing.

Malone said the Howard County Junior College District was created in November of 1945 when voters established the district through a bond election. Classes began in September of 1945.

Malone remembered that voters approved the expenditure of $200,000 to establish the college. Newly elected trustees obtained the old bombardier school buildings for $25,000.

Within a few years, trustees wanted to relocate the college to newer, larger facilities, Malone "We decided to have 100 acres of

Summit

Players in place for superpower talks

GENEVA (AP) - Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev arrived in Geneva today for the first superpower summit in six years and immediately challenged President Reagan to halt the unprecedented arms race" on earth and "its extension to other spheres" in

But Reagan stood by his search for his space-based defense plan, commonly called Star Wars but formally known as the Strategic Defense Initiative. "I think when that's explained to him, he'll find it will help us end the arms race." the president said at a separate welcoming ceremony hosted by the Swiss government.

Asked by reporters what he thought about Gorbachev's statement, Reagan said, "We both must have the same intentions. If he feels as strongly that way as I do, then we'll end the arms race.'

Just minutes after his Aeroflot jet touched down, the Soviet leader set the tone for the two-day meeting, beginning Tuesday, by zeroing in on Star Wars. The Kremlin has demanded that the United States abandon the program, but Reagan has pledged to pursue research and testing.

Gorbachev, wearing a hat and a topcoat as a strong wind whip ped across the airport runway and drove temperatures below freezing, was accompanied by his wife, Raisa. They were welcomed by Swiss President Kurt Furgler, who told the Soviet leader that he and Reagan are in a position "to help the destiny of humanity and lay the footsteps of peace.

The Soviet leader dabbed at his nose several times with a red handkerchief. . Reagan arrived in Geneva on Saturday night. At a formal arrival ceremony today, in an 18th century villa called Le Reposoir (the place of rest), Reagan said people should stop calling his reseach program Star Wars and should start "calling it what it is, a defensive shield instead of an offensive weapon.

Before sitting down with Furgler to pose for photographs, Reagan and his wife Nancy participated in a brief outdoor ceremony. The president appeared to sniffle, as if he was fighting a cold. Larry Speakes, the presidential spokesman, scoffed at reports that Reagan had a cold. He said Reagan was not taking medication.

Agreement gives WFAA new lease on

By KEELY COGHLAN Staff Writer

Colorado City's Landmark Cable Vision has obtained a temporary lease on the Sweetwater microwave tower so that WFAA-TV of Dallas can remain on the air here, said Paul Thoman, manager of Big Spring Cable TV. The lease on the tower, formerly under contract to Times-Mirror Microwave Communications Co./West Texas Microwave Co., could help spur new negotiations with Times-Mirror for continued broadcast of the WFAA-TV signal, Thoman said. "Now that Landmark controls the tower lease, Times-Mirror is not under pressure to have their equipment removed from the tower by Dec. 1," Thoman said. "Cable operators now have the opportunity to continue discussing alternatives (to carry WFAA for its subscribers).

Landmark Cable Vision of Colorado City has a temporary lease on a 30-day basis, Thoman said. The lease could be cancelled if the tower site were sold or on a 30-day notice, he said. The landowners are trying to sell the tower site.

"Landmark's attorneys now will be able to talk to Times-Mirror to temporarily continue WFAA and to discuss alternatives," Thoman said.

The WFAA signal was to have been discontinued Friday if the cable companies from Big Spring, Snyder, Colorado City and Sweetwater all did not approve a contract with Times-Mirror. Big Spring and Snyder cable companies approved the contract, but Sweetwater balked at the deal.

One alternative would be to negotiate a temporary, contract with Times-Mirror for eight months, enought time for the cable systems to build their own low-power microwave system, Thoman said.

However, that plan would involve a lot of contingencies before Big Spring would be involved, Thoman said. Sweetwater would have to pick up the signal from east of Abilene. Colorado City then would have to build a link and pick up the signal, he said. Only then would it be possible for Big Spring to build a link and pick up the signal from Colorado City, Thoman said. Thoman said he was uncertain how much construction of such a link would cost or its impact on customers' rates. "This is too preliminary to tell," he said.

One advantage to this method would be that the cable operators would be able to get their own Federal Communications Commission license for the signal. "We would be free and clear of Times-Mirror," he said.

Cable companies' first choice, however, would be a "reasonable permanent agreement" with Times-Mirror to carry WFAA, 'provided they are willing to discuss alternatives other than the contract proposed already," Thoman said. CABLE page 10-A

Store dresses up gas station

HEARNE (AP) — A guy goes to gas station cashier and says, Give me $10 worth of unleaded, a medium Coke and some beef jerky. And let me see what you have in a stunning but tasteful party dress for my wife."

A bad stand-up comedy routine? Probably. But it also represents an average business day at Ann's Fashion Station, a combination service station and women's apparel store here.

Located 120 miles north of Houston on Texas 6, the main drag of the Robertson County town of 5,400, the store offers clothes not usually offered in an average small town such as Hearne. And certainly not what you'd expect to find at the average Texaco station.

"I specialize in things that are a little different," said Ann Weatherford, 38, store co-owner. "I want to bring a touch of the unusual — a bigger city look — to Hearne. We're trying to modernize the dress code for women here.'

The operation is split. Mrs. Weatherford runs the dress shop, while husband Dee Weatherford, 39, manages the gas station and convenience store on the other side of the building.

The result is a business enterprise that's often a paradox of

A $200 handmade sequined blouse, for example, hangs next to the bagged ice machine. A rack of $250 chinchilla-cut rabbit coats hangs next to a window that looks out upon self-service gas pumps.

The Weatherfords may have the only gas station where wicker chairs and potted plants stand next to the beer cooler.

The dress shop is located in the remodeled garage of the gas station. Under the green carpeted floor is a hydraulic lift that was used to hoist cars.

The room is dotted with potted plants and has a fountain located under one of two ceiling fans. The 1,000-square foot shop is wall-towall clothes, with only one small dressing room.

Ann Weatherford, 38, stands outside her "Fashion Station" in Hearne. Weatherford sells dresses out of one side of her husband's gasoline

"When we get crowded, we let them take the clothes to the station restroom," Weatherford said.

The Weatherfords were married in 1974. He bought the station five years ago and first ran it as a fullservice gas station. As self-service station pumps began to pop up across the state, full-service facilities became too expensive to operate. He let his three-man crew go and operated it as a self-service station.

She worked as an interior decorator and clothing store manager at several businesses in nearby Bryan.

The gift shop, which opened in August of that year, did well, but Mrs. Weatherford said she felt to be 12 of them at every party." Mrs. Weatherford, who choose all the clothes for the store, said she buys some clothes with certain regular customers in mind. Not that all of her customers are regulars. The Weatherfords say they get a lot of business from women en route between Dallas and Houston.

"An unsuspecting husband will stop to fill his car with gas, and his wife gets out to stretch her legs or use the restroom — she'll find my side," Mrs. Weatherford said, adding it catches most travelers off guard. "A lot of times they won't buy anything," she said. "But they usually come back a few days or weeks later with a daughter, or their mother or a friend. The merchandise is a drawing card, she said, but so is the service. Mrs. Weatherford is the buyer, manager and sole employee of the clothing store.

"That means that almost any hour they come here, they have to deal with me," she said. "I can provide personal service that a department store or a store in a mall can't provide.

Her customers agree.

'She really does have a good store," says Mattie Earle Mc-Coslin, a retired phone company supervisor from Hearne. "It's very cosmopolitan for a town like they turned it into a dress shop that Customers also say they trust Mrs. Weatherford's taste.

'She doesn't try to sell you something that isn't pretty on you," McCoslin said. "I'm in my nish," Weatherford said. "They have dress shops that cater to the 60s, but when I wear her clothes, I older women in town and usually don't look it.' The Weatherfords wanted to Mary Lutz, a Calvert homemaker, added, "She cares about her customers. If it doesn't look good on you, she'll tell you."

The dress store has done so well that the Weatherfords have plans to enlarge it by converting the last remaining garage bay into more display and dressing space. The gas pumps, though, will

Fire kills three

DALLAS - An elderly man who helped work on a production technique used in development of the first atomic bomb, his wife and bed-ridden daughter died in a fire because their paths of escape were blocked by locked doors and burglar bars, fire officials

The early Sunday morning fire took the lives of Hans Glitsch, 80, his wife, LaRue, 75, and their daughter, Carol Burnett, 48.

Fund drive at standstill

DALLAS - A drive to raise funds for a museum on John F. Kennedy's assassination has come to a standstill as fundraisers instead focus on educating a public reluctant to remember the tragedy through a museum. Meanwhile, the Texas School Book Despository's sixth floor, where alleged assassin Lee Harvey Oswald perched, remains closed to curious onlookers.

To the Dallas County Historical Society, it seems most Dallas residents want the ghosts of that Nov. 22, 1963, day to remain where they are, behind the doors of the depository.

Manager shot to death

INDIANAPOLIS - As the hard-working manager of a McDonald's restaurant, De-Wayne Bible always cared about his workers and looked after their welfare.

On Sunday he gave up his life for them, shot to death after he persuaded gunmen who held up the restaurant to take him hostage instead of a young woman employee, police said.

A sea of mud covers the once-rich farmland of Armero, Colombia, Sunday. The government said the last victims of Wednesday night's volcanic eruption were rescued Sunday and called an end to its emergency

Death toll in Colombia estimated at 22,000

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The government called off, then resumed the search for survivors of the volcanic eruption that killed more than 22,000 people, and geologists warned that increased earth tremors around smoking Nevado del Ruiz may signal more

Despite the renewed search, one government minister said Sunday there was "no one left to "The last three survivors were resuced this morning in Armero and I believe they later died," the Cabinet member, Health Minister Rafael Zubiria, said Sunday. But British rescue experts worked in the darkness early today with sensitive listening devices, trying to detect some sign of life. The British team worked at night because sound carries farther. Everything indicates that there are survivors to be found," said Patrick Stanton, head of the British team, 'Everything points to that conclusion. There just have to be people still alive out there.

He said people were found alive Sunday in houses buried in ... id, and that many houses with only rooftops protruding had not yet been checked.

Colombian officials say more than 22,000 people, including 8,000 children, were killed when the volcano erupted Wednesday, melting its snowcap and sending a gigantic wall of mud roaring down the Armero

Parts of 13 villages and almost all of Armero and its surrounding rural area, with a population of 50,000, were wiped out by the 150-foot-high avalanche of muck, water and rubble that swept across the area about 100 miles northwest of Bogota.

Tremors were detected in the volcano's vicinity Sunday, and a U.S. scientist said they indicated "a continuing possibility of eruptions.

There were 10 earthquakes in an hour around 5 p.m." said Darrell Herd, the head of a U.S. Geological Survey team. "This is higher than what we have

He said the jolts, technically called earthquakes, measured less than 2 on the Richter scale and were too faint to be felt by people. Herd, who spoke to The Associated Press by telephone from his hotel in Manizales, about 25 miles west of the volcano, said scientists will have to study the frequency and strength of the tremors to tell if another eruption is imminent. He said U.S. scientists would set up the laser equipment today on the volcano to detect any movement. He said the devices can detect a one-inch movement of the target area from several miles away. The U.S. Geological survey team reached the volcano Sunday and set up seismographical monitors, said U.S. Agency for International Development representative Jim Smith. "The crater seems to be getting deeper and the smoke indicates some continung activity," he said.

Herd told the AP he and other scientists flew over the 3-mile-high volcano in a helicopter for a look down into the crater, and saw steam and light ash rising 3,000 to 5,000 feet in the air.

Family planning vs. abortion

Planned Parenthood warns that a bill before Congress will "destroy our nation's family planning pro-gram." Boston Globe columnist Ellen Goodman, who is to the "pro-choice" movement what Pravda is to the Soviet Communist Party, calls it the "most direct attack yet on birth control.'

In fact, the bill sponsored by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, and Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., has nothing to do with birth control, normally defined, and everything to do with abortion. Hatch and Kemp favor underwriting the former, but want the federal government to stop its indirect financing of the latter.

The family planning act of 1970, known as Title X, provides nearly $150 million a year to privately run clinics offering birth control advice and contraceptives to the poor. It forbids any subsidy of abortions. That prohibition, however, has been effectively nullified by family planning clinics that offer counseling and referrals for abortions and even perform them. Hatch's bill would deny funds to organizations that do either.

Planned Parenthood - whose own clinics got $30 million last year from this program, while performing 89,000 abortions - insists that 'no Title X dollar funds abortion.' This is technically true but seriously misleading. By paying for the birth control services provided by family planning clinics, the government frees them to spend more of their own money on abortions - just as "humanitarian" aid to the contras in Nicaragua enables them to spend their own money on guns and bombs

Consider a clinic, getting no federal aid, which raises $100,000 a year in donations to pay for both contraceptives and abortions It splits the money evenly between the two. Now assume the federal government offers to provide $50,000 a year to pay for the contraceptives. Will the clinic now spend $100,000 a year on contraceptives and only half as much on abortions? Not likely. Given its original preferences, it presumably will spend half of its total funds, $75,000, on each. By paying for contraceptives, then the government effectively subsidizes abortions.

The Hatch-Kemp bill attacks this unintended result by decreeing that any facility getting federal aid may not perform abortions. If the operators of a clinic want to perform abortions, they would have to set up another facility, administratively and physically separate, to do so - or else they would have to forgo federal money.

So what's all the hysteria about? No family planning clinics would be shut down by this rule. They merely would have to use their federal money for the sole purpose intended by the law

The second part of the bill is not so wise. It would ban clinics not just from providing abortions, but from even informing women about their availability, except when the mother's life is in danger. (Let's leave aside the interesting question of why women who are already pregnant are visiting "family planning" clinics.)
The ban on counseling and referrals almost certainly runs afoul of the First Amendment. Telling women about their options, or recommending particular ones, is an exercise of free speech. The federal government can't revoke someone's rights simply because he or she is getting federal money.

There is no guarantee that the first part of the bill would stand up in court either, but there is a solid case for it. The Supreme Court has ruled that the government can't be constitutionally required to pay for the abortions of poor women. If it sees the current Title X policy for what it is - an indirect means of paying for these abstraon — it will uphold the denial of funds to clinics that perform them.

The uproar against this bill arises purely because of its potential impact on abortion. It would not reduce by a nickel the amount spent to help poor women avoid pregnancy - only insure that the funds won't be spent to help them end pregnancy. Hatch and Kemp can see the difference between family planning and abortion. It's their critics who can't:

Insider reports support theory of living POWs

JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON - Veterans Day provided a recent reminder to Americans that nearly 2,500 U.S. military men remain unaccounted for in Southeast 10 years after the war ended Seem armost certainly alive - on the authority of no less than the president's national security adviser. Yet for all its bold talk, the Reagan regime has done little more than previous administrations to help these men in their unimaginable agony. The Defense Intelligence Agency, while professing great concern about reported sightings of live American prisoners de Vietnam and Laos, has systematically.

tried either to squeich the reports or discredit them. According to our sources, the Rentagon has received more than 400 reports since 1981 of live American prisoners. The Defense Intelligence Agency has been unable to discredit more than 100 of these eyewitness reports, even counting some pre-1981 sightings. Supposedly, they are still under Granted, this administration, like its predecessors, is in a frustrating position. The Vietnamese flatly deny that they have American prisoners-of-war. Faced with this official obstinacy, the White House's only option seems to be a Rambostyle raid to liberate the POWs. But the intelligence information isn't up-to-date enough to guarantee a fair chance of success, even if the administration were willing to risk such an operation.

Rather than acknowledge its impotence, the Pentagon resorts to a shameful game of semantics over the word "evidence." Unable to deny that sightings have been reported, the military simply challenges the reliability of the evidence, demanding proof or corroboration that is impossible to get.

There's a double standard at work. We made a careful study of the live-sighting reports; then compared them with the top-secret reports that give evidence of Soviet arms-control violations.

The sources of information are similar in both cases: "humint" or human intelligence from refugees and other eyewitnesses, supplemented by spy satellite data. No one has come up with an official Vietnamese document acknowledging the existence of American POWs; but then, no one has come up with an official Soviet document admitting arms treaty violations, either.

But the comparison makes clear that the White House has accepted far flimsier evidence on armscontrol breaches - sometimes even called "strong evidence" in the reports — than it is willing to accept

Indeed. National Security Adviser Robert e a starte ig a ... ission last month in remarks that he thought were off the record. A former congressman (and a staunch conservative at that) taped the remarks and released them to friends in the media

"I think there have to be live Americans there," said McFarlane, stressing that this was only his personal opinion. He paid obeisance to the official line that the evidence wasn't conclusive, but then said: "There is quite a lot of evidence given by people who have no ulterior motives and no reason to lie, and they're telling things that they have seen.

Finally, McFarlane admitted that the administration hasn't done enough to gather intelligence on the missing Americans. "And that's bad," he said. That's a failure.

If admission of error is the first step toward correcting it, maybe the government is finally making BARBERSHOP BLUES: President Reagan strode into the White House barbershop the other day for a haircut. The television set was blaring, with ex-Secretary of State Al Haig on camera. Barber Milton Pitts offered to turn off the set. "No," said the president, "let's hear what Al has to say." Afterward, Pitts told the president that Richard Nixon had once entered the barbershop while the TV was on. An aide had turned it on deliberately, said Pitts, "so the old man can hear what they're saying about us." But Nixon went straight to the set and switched it off, muttering that he didn't want to listen to the slander.

MENGELE INQUEST: With a haste that almost seemed born of relief, government officials accepted the findings of forensic experts who declared that skeletal remains dug up in Brazil earlier this year were those of Dr. Josef Mengele, the Nazi "Angel of Death." But some of the war criminal's victims are not convinced. An organization called CANDLES, made up of twins who survived Mengele's ghastly experiments at Auschwitz, scheduled an "inquest" last week in Terre Haute to look into whether the exhumation in Brazil was part of a gigantic hoax.

Around The Rim Falcons elude popularity poll By TIM APPEL

Love me, love my Falcons. No, I'm not talking about the Atlanta variety that loses almost every game, we're discussing the Bowling Green State University type here.

It's something that I just don't understand. My alma mater is presently one of two unbeaten teams left in 1-A college football. with the nation's longest winning streak, yet do you see their name among those in the top 20?

It's not that they don't have possibly one of the best (and tallest) quarterbacks in the collegiate ranks that has already broken several NCAA passing records this year, which they do. It's not that they have don't have a running back that is currently leading the nation in scoring, which they do. And it's not because they don't have a big 'zero' in the loss column, which is there.

It's because the pollsters and other skeptics call "an easy schedule" those nine straight wins. Going to an away game such as Kentucky and coming up with a 30-26 victory is always easy. Tell Brigham Young that UT El Paso was part of their easy schedule.

BGSU won the 1983 NCAA hockey championship, yet no one doubted, even though they were in the same conference with such low-lifes as Ohio State and Michigan. So why now doubt now the quality of their football team?

If Bowling Green does end up as the only undefeated team in the nation, nurray for the national cham pions. If the so-called media voters, which have made the polls nothing but a popularity contest. disagree, I have proof on my side: an ominous "0" in that desolate loss column.

Go team!

Billy Graham

Take the Bible in little bits

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I read my Bible occasionally, but honestly don't get much out of it. Do you have to be a preacher before you can understand the Bible? — P.C.

DEAR P.C.: No, you don't have to be a preacher before you can understand God's Word. Most parts of it, in fact, were originally written or delivered to ordinary people, to tell them about God and His will for their lives. And God wants you to understand it, because the Bible is His word that has been given to us to help us spiritually.

One modern paraphrase of the Bible translates Paul's words in 2 Timothy 3:16-17 this way: "The whole Bible was given to us by inspiration from God and is useful to teach us what is true and to make us realize what is wrong in our lives; it straightens us out and helps us do what is right. It is God's way of making us well-prepared at every point, fully equipped to do good to everyone." (The Living Bible).

How can you understand it better? First, get a readable, accurate, modern translation of the Bible; your pastor or a local Christian bookstore can help you. Then, set aside a time each day when you know you will not be disturbed and ask God to guide you by His Holy Spirit as you read

Start reading through a book of the Bible, reading only a small portion of it each day (a paragraph or so can contain much truth). I have often recommended the little book of First John as a starting point, or the Gospel of John; in them, we discover God's love for us. As you read, ask yourself some questions. For example: What is the main idea or event in this passage — what is it talking about? What does this teach me about God, or about Jesus, or about me and my responsibilities?

Go back over the passage several times until you know you have the main point.

Myths cast dark shadow on bat

DEAR ABBY: We live in a relatively rural area and have always delighted at the wildlife that abounds. We welcomed the bats that came to live in our old barn, and even provided bat houses to entice others. Yes, we love bats!

Abby, because of our neighbors' ignorance and fear, last Halloween we lost nearly all of the two dozen or so bats that lived on our property. Although we have tried to educate our neighbors, evil myths of Dracula and vampires persist. Some neighborhood, children declared war, using shotguns, BB guns, clubs, rocks - whatever they could find - to kill the helpless, gentle creatures that hung from the rafters of our barn. Then they torched the two bat houses that we had built to encourage bats onto our property. Why? All because of misconceptions.

Abby, bats are mammals, not some kind of flying mouse. They are not dirty; they do not carry strange diseases, or get tangled up in people's hair. Bats do not go for the jugular and drink blood, and they are not blind! They do, however, consume more insects in a single night than never been very batty about bats, but I'm glad you wrote because your letter contains an important message: Nature put every living an electric zapper will kill in a creature on this earth to serve a

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Our much-loved cat tests positive for feline leukemia. He has no symptoms and is healthy. I know you are not a vet, and I am writing you only because I've heard this disease is contagious to children. We want to start a family and are concerned. Could you please tell me if feline leukemia is contagious to children?

The veterinary experts tell me this about feline leukemia: The good news is that there is now a vaccine to prevent it. However, although evidence points to the unlikelihood of it happening, no one can give you absolutely 100 percent assurance that humans cannot be

You might think that a virus that causes a problem in an animal would also cause it in humans, and vice versa. That's not always true. It's all but impossible, for example, to infect any animal but the chimp with the human hepatitis viruses. We can't say why it should

But let me be a bit more specific about your concern - feline leukemia.

There is no incontrovertible proof that this ever caused the illness in humans. Yet antibiodies to the feline leukemia virus have been identfied in humans. The implication is, of course, that those people have been exposed to the animal virus. Other experts challenge the finding, doubting that the antibodies found in humans were those caused by the feline leukemia virus at all, but by some other

Statistically, facts argue against human infection. A large number of veterinarians, who are most likely to have been exposed, were tested. Not one had a sign of feline leukemia virus. Further, only a third of cats infected ever get sick. Th other either never contract it at all or do and throw it off.

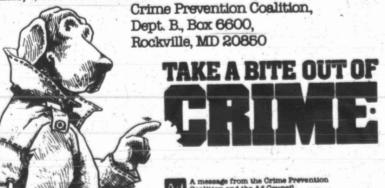

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 19, 1985 GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning brings resentments or obstacles in the path of your desires, which can prevent the accomplishments that you wish to achieve. The day gets better later.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A responsibility can deter your progress in the morning, but later you can go after personal wishes in a positive way.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An outside partner could take your time in the morning, but later you can catch up on your routines easily.

better plans for the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You have important work to do in the morning, so don't run off on some silly tangent. Be enthused and accomplish a lot. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Gently handle home affairs early, and then be off to do whatever partners expect of you. Handle any public affairs with wisdom.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You had better continue with that specialized work ahead of you and don't go dashing off hither and yon.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) In the morning, handle that important monetary affair, then you will have time to enjoy recreation with friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) The aspects are fine for gaining your personal aims, provided you get rid of outside restrictions first. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle that new enterprise and then be with a good adviser who is very helpful

Worst defeat in club history

Bears crush Dallas, 44-0

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Chicago Bears have sent a message to the rest of the National Football League: beat us if you can, but try it at the peril of losing your health and your pride. With Richard Dent, Dan Hampton, Otis Wilson and Mike Richardson leading a brutal defense and Walter Payton running for his accustomed 132 yards, the Bears beat the Cowboys 44-0 Sunday. They had six sacks, four interceptions and limited Dallas to 171 total yards.

But the game, which the Bears won with second stringer Steve Fuller at quarterback in place of the injured Jim McMahon, did more than that.

It made the Bears 11-0, the first time since the divisions were realigned in the 1970 merger that an NFC team has been unbeaten this late in the season.

It clinched for the Bears the NFC Central title, the first time since 1970 any team has clinched this early

And it represented the worst defeat in the illustrious 26-year history of the Cowboys, worse even than a 41-point loss to Cleveland back in 1960, when Dallas was no more than a pitiful, first-year expansion team.

'This was an old-fashioned country licking by a very good football team," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, whose team began the day 7-3 and tied for first in the NFC East with the New York Giants.

"I'm glad we did it," said Wilson, Chicago's left outside linebacker, who twice knocked Dallas quarterback Danny White out of the game with vicious unblocked blitzes. 'They were mouthing off a lot, sayng we haven't played anybody yet. I guess we still haven't played anybody."

Despite the score, it was pure efense that divide participations the first half, when the delei. acounted 21 of the 24 points

"Our defense took the game away and the offense picked up the pieces," Coach Mike Ditka said.

It started with 3:29 left in the first period when Chicago got the ball in Dallas territory when cornerback Richardson knocked it loose from Mike Renfro, picked it up, then had the ball knocked loose himself and Gary Fencik recovered for the Bears on the 45. The Bears couldn't move, but

Maury Buford's punt went out at On the next play, White when back to pass, Hampton lunged at the ball and tipped it high into the air. The 6-foot-5 Dent, charging from the other side, used moves honed by hours on the basketball court, leaped high, pulled it in, and stepped over the goal line to give the Bears of 7-0 lead.

"I knew I hit it good," Hampton said. "Then I turned around and saw Dent. You know he's got a 38-inch vertical jump. He just went up and got it and turned around and he was in the end zone.'

"Hampton got up pretty high and tapped the ball," said Dent. "It was like playing basketball. I just went up and got it."

The rout was on. Early in the second quarter, the offense took the ball 39 yards in 10 plays and Kevin Butler kicked the first of three field goals, a 44-yarder, to make it 10-0. Then it was the defense again. A blitzing Wilson knocked White out of the game with a concussion and on the following series he charged at White's replacement, Gary Hogeboom. Hogeboom tossed it over the middle right into the hands of Richardson, who waltzed 36 yards for the score that made it

Then the other cornerback. Leslie Frazier intercepted 48. ralier, who mish-ed with nine completions in 24 attempts for 164 yards, took it in five plays later from inches away after William "The Refrigerator" Perry, the 302-pound rooki defensive tackle who's becoming a fixture in the goal line offense, lined up at tailback for the first time and carried from the two to the goal

In the second half, the Bears continued to run up the score despite trying not to. Wilson knocked White out of the game a second time. Butler kicked field goals of 22 and 46 yards and reserve running backs Calvin Thomas and Dennis Gentry had 16-yard touchdown runs when Ditka said all he was trying to do was run out the clock.

One thing Ditka did, however, was give Payton enough game time to get his his ninth-1,000-yard season, an NFL record - he now has 1,085. He also had his sixth straight 100-yard game, one game away from a record.

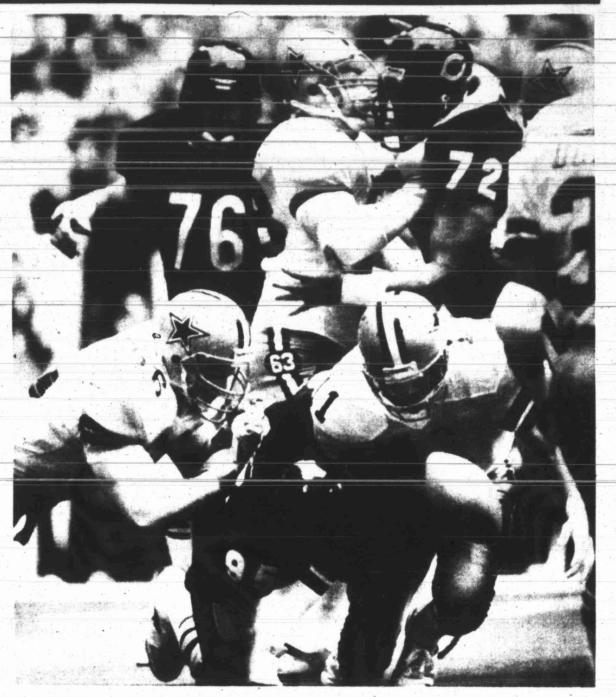

The game was also the first win for Chicago over Dallas in seven games since 1971 and was a celebration of Ditka's return to Dallas, where he spent eight years as an assistant coach. It was only the second win by Landry's former pupils against him.

But it may also be known for Perry's first offensive penalty he was called for illegal use of the hands after throwing a block, then trying to carry Payton into end

"I'm sure I've been carried into the end zone before, but never by anyone of Perry's stature," said Payton. "He said he was trying to keep the defensive players off me. I appreciate that."
"Everybody was jumping on him. I was just trying to get him in there," said Perry. The Bears, meanwhile, continue their quest to solidify their hold on the ultimate home field advantage for the NFC title game. They now lead by three games.

Dallas quarterback Danny White fumbles the ball as he is sacked by Richard Dent (95) of the Chicago Bears. White had a particularly rough day, being knocked out of the game twice with concussions and having one of his passes intercepted and returned for a touchdown. The 44-0 victory raised the Bears record to a league leading 11-0 and helped clinch the NFC Central division title. The Bears are the first team to clinch a playoff spot this

Then, after Navasota recovered for a 14-7 halftime lead, two more turnovers in the third quarter allowed Hearne to deadlock the game and take a 3-2 lead in penetrations - the first consideration in breaking a tie.

But Navasota staged two timeconsuming drives in the fourth quarter, allowing Hearne's offense on the field for only three plays.

The Rattlers tied the penetrations and had an 18-7 edge in first downs - the next tie-breaker then called time out at the Hearne 1 with 16 seconds left for a one-yard touchdown plunge and a clear 21-14

Major bowls picks nearing completion

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Football Writer

One week before the official invitation date, much of the bowl picture fell into place Sunday night when No. 1-ranked Penn State declared its preference for a trip to the Orange Bowl.

That put sixth-ranked Miami in the Sugar Bowl and left the Cotton Bowl with a major problem when Auburn refused to wait a week.

An Orange Bowl spokesman told the Associated Press a bid would be forthcoming regardless of what 10-0 Penn State does next Saturday night in its regular-season windup against Pitt.

According to NCAA regulations, bids may not be tendered before next Saturday at 6 p.m., local time, or the end of that day's game, if there is one. The Penn State-Pitt game is scheduled for a 7:45 p.m. EST start and the Orange Bowl spokesman said the Nittany Lions would already have their invitation in hand by the kickoff.

Nebraska, No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll, concludes its regular season Saturday at seventh-ranked Oklahoma. The Big Eight champion is the host team in the Orange Bowl and No. 10 Oklahoma State still has a shot at the title. As usual, almost everything fell into place one week before the official selection date. The Big Eight worked a deal that will send its runnerup to the Fiesta third-place team to the Gator Bowl against Florida State.

Tennessee controls its own destiny in the Southeastern Conference race for the Sugar Bowl. The Vols can go to New Orleans by defeating Kentucky and Vanderbilt. That would put LSU in the Liberty Bowl.

But it was a lost weekend for the Cotton Bowl. Fifth-ranked Iowa seemed likely for a trip to Dallas until Wisconsin upset third-ranked Ohio State and, in all probability, cost the Buckeyes a trip to the Rose

The Cotton Bowl, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary, has never had a Big Ten team and would have been happy with any of the top three. But with Iowa in the Rose Bowl if its beats Minnesota and, if that happens, Michigan committed to the Fiesta Bowl, the Cotton Bowl was squirming.

It asked 8-2 Auburn, which is idle next week and plays Alabama on Nov. 30, to wait until next Saturday's Ohio State-Michigan game. Obviously, the Cotton Bowl would have taken Ohio State with a victory over Michigan. Auburn, which has been wooed by the Florida Citrus Bowl to play Brigham Young, said no. The Citrus was waiting to grab whichever team the Cotton Bowl didn't.

The Southwest Conference host team also was in doubt with Baylor, Texas and Texas A&M all Bowl against Michigan and the in the running.
