Blizzard buries Midwest

By The Associated Press A powerful wintry storm blitzed parts of the Northwest today with gale-force winds, snow and rain after a blizzard buried the Midwest under more than 30 inches of snow, stranding holiday travelers, cutting power to thousands and shoving temperatures to record lows. Ten deaths on Sunday were blamed on traffic accidents caused by the weather.

Forecasters in northern California said "all but the largest ships should remain safely in port until seas subside." Morning winds gusted up to 55 mph and sea swells were around 15 feet, with warnings that they could rise. The Coast Guard warned that navigation buoys might be shifted by the rough seas.

"The storm is about as intense as storms get in the Pacific," forecaster Dale Goudeau said. As much as a foot of snow was ex-

City sets record low

Staff and wire reports December ushered in winter's first blast of Arctic air overnight, sending temperatures plunging to 16 degrees, a new record low for Big Spring.

The bitter cold Sunday night eclipsed the previous record of 17 degrees set in 1918, according to statistics kept by the U.S.-Big Spring Field Station on Interstate 20.

Temperatures at 10 a.m. still hovered at the 18 degree mark in the Permian Basin, with a wind chill factor of three degrees below zero, according to the National Weather Service.

Temperatures dropped well below seasonal normals across the state, and Wichita Falls broke its low-temperature records for a second day, this time falling two degrees below the Dec. 2, 1974, record of 21.

Cold air has not yet caused any damage to city water pipes, but a continued freeze could cause problems, said Public Works Director Tom Decell. Decell said if the cold CITY page 2-A Minister Shimon Peres, was delivered to U.S. Ambassador Thomas Pickering in hopes of defusing the controversy over the case of Jonathan J. Pollard, officials said.

Pollard, a 31-year-old American Jew, was arrested by the FBI on Nov. 21 and accused of selling military secrets to Israel for $50,000 over the past 18 months. His wife, Anne Henderson-Pollard, 25, was arrested the next day and ding to State Department

"We have full confidence in Israel's determination and ability to pursue this case down to the last detail and to bring those responsible to account," Shultz was quoted as saying.

The statement did not address U.S. demands that Israel return documents it allegedly bought from Pollard and allow questioning of two Israeli diplomats recalled from the United States last week.

Israeli commentators indicated that the survival of Peres' fractious 15-month-old coalition government could be at stake if Israel gave the Americans further information about its dealings with Pollard.

Tax delinguents warned of court action

Taxpayers who are delinquent in District who owe $700,000 in back their payments to the school district will find themselves in court if they don't pay up, a representative of the firm hired to collect delinquent taxes said today. If the letter fails to produce payments, his firm expects to file 200 lawsuits, he said, representing a cross-section of individual and business accounts and large and small debts.

The largest single delinquency is for $41,000, Blair said, from an agriculture-related business.

Names of the delinquent accounts will be released when the suits are filed, he said.

A similar campaign is planned for delinquent city tax accounts in

Astronauts build pyramid in space

The space-walking steeple jacks of shuttle Atlantis constructed and moved around by hand a 45-foot tower and a large pyramid with such ease that they declared themselves ready to "go build a space station."

Project officials on the ground agreed, saying that during space walks on Friday and Sunday, Jerry Ross and Sherwood Spring had demonstrated without a doubt that humans can build things in orbit.

"What we have here is a large amount of data ... which should be of great use in scoping out and designing the tasks that will be required to put together a space station and other large structures in orbit," one of the officials, David Akin of

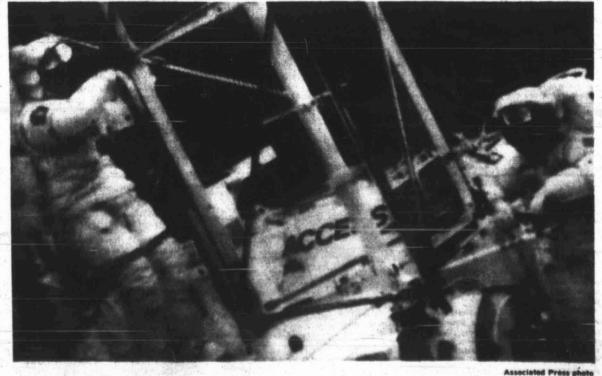

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP), the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said Sunday night.

The six men and one woman aboard Atlantis were to pack up their experiments and test the ship's flight control systems today in preparation for returning to Earth on Tuesday at the end of their weeklong mission. Landing will be at 4:35 p.m. EST at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

In the afternoon they planned to look for Halley's comet and to tell of their experiences at a news conference, answering questions from U.S. and Mexican reporters at the Johnson Space Center in Houston. Mexico's first astronaut, Rodolfo Neri, is aboard Atlantis.

Atlantis' open cargo bay on Sunday, Ross and Spring assembled a four-story metal tower and a 12-foot pyramid from aluminum struts, practiced repair tasks on them and, like weightlifters, held them high over their heads to show how easy they could maneuver them.

Television views showed Spring holding the tower at its midpoint. He appeared like a toy figure playing with a metal framework many times his size, but he moved it and controlled it easily.

"This is a piece of cake," Spring said as he hoisted the tower to which the astronauts attached a large American flag. "There are so many good places to grip that it's easy to stop any motion.

'It feels very easy,'' said Ross as he took his turn holding the tower. 'I can go wherever I want to with

At one point, Ross laughed and said, "Let's go build a space station. We're ready.

After disassembling the tower, the astronauts built the pyramid and twirled it around, holding the bulky geometric shape by its apex. There were TV views of Spring spinning the pyramid like a top in slow motion as it floated in weightlessness.

"I could balance this thing on my nose," he said. Said Ross of his turn with the

On Earth the tower would weigh 200 pounds and the pyramid 384 pounds. In weightless space, they weighed nothing. But they have a mass that when moved must be controlled

The astronauts built the tower from 93 struts of aluminum tubes 1 inch in diameter. The pyramid was made of 6 aluminum struts, 12-feet long. The parts for both structures had sockets that permitted them to snap together like Tinkertoy pieces.

On Friday, the astronauts built and disassembled the tower and pryamid in a five-hour, 32-minute spacewalk. NASA officials said then that construction of the beam and pyramid proved that astronauts will be able to assemble major elements of a permanent space station that NASA hopes to build in orbit in the 1990s.

During much of Friday's work, the astronauts floated free. But for Sunday's work, the assembly and maneuvering work were accomplished with the astronauts taking turns standing on the end of Atlantis' robot arm, controlled from inside the shuttle by astronaut Mary Cleave. They operated from a work platform much like those used by utility workers when repairing power lines.

Accidents claim 16 lives

Traffic accidents on Texas highways over the four-day Thanksgiving holiday have claimed at least 16 lives, according to an unofficial count by The Associated Press.

One of the last to die in the grim toll that began Wednesday at 6 p.m. and ended at midnight Sunday included a 28-year-old Kingsville man who was killed early Sunday in Corpus Christi, police said.

Health care problems

EL PASO - El Paso officials say they will bill the Reagan administration $10 million for medical and surgical care for the thousands of indigents and illegal aliens who visit the county hospital over a year's time.

The gesture, proposed by County Judge Pat O'Rourke, is a desperate one from hospital officials who say their debts are mounting as poverty-striken people continue flocking to emergency rooms along the Texas-Mexico border.

A historic day

DETROIT - Rosa Parks made history by refusing to relinquish her bus seat to a white man in Montgomery, Ala, but 30 years later the civil rights champion says she doesn't feel like a heroine.

"It was just a day like any other day," said Parks, 72, who now lives and works in Detroit. "The only thing that made it significant was that the masses of the people joined in" to stop segregation.

Sunday marked the 30th anniversary of the day Parks refused to give up her seat to a white man and sparked a 381-day bus boycott by Montgomery blacks that led eventually to overturning by the Supreme Court of the "separate-but-equal" principle in the South.

Returns to the glitter

BURBANK, Calif. - President Reagan greeted old friends, sang his college fight song and stayed for a chili dinner as he and the first lady returned to their show business beginnings for a TV special for charity.

The "All-star Party for 'Dutch' Reagan" lived up to its name at the taping Sunday in NBC studios, with Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Burt Reynolds and other film luminaries joining in.

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos signs the reinstatement of Armed Forces Chief Gen. Fabian C. Ver after Ver was acquitted Monday by an anti-graft court in connection with the Manila airport assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino. Gen. Ver went on leave as Armed Forces Chief as a fact-finding board indicted him and 25 others in the Aquino assassination.

Aquino murder Judges rule defendants not guilty

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - Gen. Fabian C. Ver, the suspended armed forces chief, and 25 other defendants were found innocent today in the 1983 assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino. President Ferdinand E. Marcos promptly reinstated Ver. Three civilian judges ruled that the killer of Aquino, then regarded as Marcos' chief rival, was Rolando Galman, an alleged communist agent. Galman was shot dead by military police escorting Aquino from his plane at the Manila airport.

The judges discounted testimony of the prosecution's star witness that she saw a soldier shoot Aquino in the back of the head as he was led down the steps of the China Airlines plane.

The court ruled Aquino was shot on the airport tarmac, as claimed by the military.

Aquino was returning Aug. 21, 1983 from three years of self-imposed exile in the United States. Marcos had tried to stop Aquino's return, saying there was an unspecified plot to kill him and the government would be unjustly blamed.

Members of Aquino's family and other critics have accused Marcos and his wife, Imelda, of involvement in the assassination. Both denied the charges

Outside the courtroom, about 100 demonstrators pounded on lamp posts as court clerks read the 90-page verdict that cleared the defendants of murder charges in the deaths of Aquino and Galman.

A five-member civilian board, appointed by Marcos, investigated the assassination for 11 months. Four of its members recommended the indictment of the 26 defendants. Justice Corazon Agrava, the board chairman, issued a separate report accusing Brig. Gen. Luther Custodio and six other soldiers but exonerating Ver

Aquino's widow, Corazon Aquino, said after the verdict, "My No. 1 suspect is Marcos. Since he was not even mentioned, it was not of too much concern whether one or all would be acquitted."

Mrs. Aquino is expected to say this week if she will challenge Marcos in the Feb. 7 presidential election. She indicated Sunday she would. Former Sen. Salvador H. Laurel also has announced his candidacy. Laurel vowed to reopen the case if he is elected president, saying tht Aquino "has in effect been assassinated anew by this ghastly verdict.

Roman Catholic Cardinal Jaime Sin, the prelate of the Philippines, said the verdict threatened "to push our country to the brink of violence and despair.'

The court in its verdict said: "In this case where the evidence overwhelmingly points to Galman as the senator's murderer, any discussion of his motive for doing it would merely be a wasteful expenditure of judicial energy.'

The defendants - 25 military personnel and one civilian — were released and Marcos in a handwritten note today reinstated Ver to his former post. Ver, a Marcos confidant, was suspended last year pending resolution of the case.

Opinion Africa's troubles

are from the top

A recent speech by Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense under President Kennedy and former president of the World Bank, included a gloomy perspective on Africa.

"The harsh reality is that sub-Sahara Africa today faces a crisis of unprecedented proportions," McNamara said.

McNamara's familiarity with Africa is in part a result of his experiences with the World Bank, where he helped shift the focus of development programs to agriculture and Africa.

McNamara linked some of Africa's troubles to colonialism and natural disasters, but he also criticized African political leaders. Some Westerners, he said, maintain a "conspiracy of silence" about the inadequacies of some African governments because of the desire not to offend Africans.

McNamara said some African countries have a "very poor" record on human rights.

"There is concern over the pervasiveness of corruption," he said. "There is concern over the use of scarce resources to build large defense establishments and luxury projects. There is concern over the harsh treatment of regional groups. And there is concern over the repression of internal dissent."

McNamara is right to focus blame on African governments. Unless African nations learn to deal more effectively with problems of environmental degradation and overpopulation, more millions of people will be doomed to a life of deprivation and turmoil.

Dutch look for dirty dealing with a billion-dollar bounty

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON - If you think the CIA plays hardball when it tries to undermine a hostile regime like Nicaragua's or Libya's, consider the Dutch, of all people: They have, in effect, put a billion-dollar price on the head of Lt. Col. Desi Bouterse, the selfproclaimed Marxist who has controlled their former colony of Suriname for the past five years.

Practically singlehandedly, Bouterse has made his obscure. Georgia-sized country on the northeastern shoulder of South American a trouble spot worthy of Washington's attention. Bouterse has achieved this dubious status by conspiring with Fidel Castro to stir up trouble in Latin American countries struggling to remain free and democratic.

Suriname's previous claim to fame was as a footnote in colonial history. In one of the shrewdest bargains ever made, the British gave Suriname to the Dutch in 1667 in exchange for Manhattan and the Hudson River Valley

It took the Dutch more than three centuries to active for the stand of the sta independence - even agreeing to pay $1.5 billion over the next 15 years to be relieved of the burden.

But when Bouterse, in December 1982, arrested the 15 most prominent opposition leaders and had them tortured and executed, the Dutch abruptly cut off their subsidy. Our sources in the Netherlands say the remaining money - nearly $600 million been put in trust against the day when Suriname becomes a democracy again. In fact, highly placed Dutch officials we talked to recently in The Hague said that if Bouterse and his gang are ousted. the Dutch parliament will raise the aid ante to a full $1 billion This is the highest price ever set on a head of state." agreed one Dutch source, after we pointed out that the huge aid pledge had in effect made bounty hunters out of coup plotters. It would be hard to argue that Bouterse doesn't deserve the "wanted" poster the Dutch have put up for his demise. His petulant ferocity was shockingly demonstrated the day of the 15 opposition leaders' execution. The chief target of his wrath was labor leader Cyril Daal, who had upstaged a Bouterse welcome for a visiting Marxist by calling a rally that drew 10 times as many people as the official ceremony "I will pay Cyril Daal back in cash and he can keep the change," Bouterse proclaimed, and five weeks later he made good on his threat. He had Daal, already broken and trembling from torture, dragged into his presence and forced to kneel. Then the enraged dictator castrated his rival with a bayonet and shot him dead.

An uncomfortable eyewitness to the atrocity, Maj. Roy Horb, the No. 2 man in the regime, was imprisoned two months later and found hanged in his cell. No one believed the official claim of suicide.

We have now learned that Bouterse's homicidal tendency is not confined to individual rivals, but embraces the bulk of his long-suffering countrymen. According to information from a recent defector, Rewpat Ghiraw, Bouterse has laid plans (and explosives) to blow up the Affobaka dam in the event of a coup

The dam is upriver from the capital city, Paramaribo, where most of the 360,000 population lives. Its destruction would devastate the city.

Ghiraw said he took part, as a member of Bouterse's elite "Echo Company," in three separate exercises simulating the destruction of the dam. We were told that this flooding would be necessary to create to create people on and permit an easy escape of the regular Summanese army," he explained. "Nobody outside the Echo Company knows for sure that Bouterse has made preparations for blowing up the dam. We were the only ones they let in on this secret.

By The Associated Press Today is Monday, Dec. 2, the 336th day of 1985. There are 29 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Dec. 2, 1982, in the first opera-tion of its kind, doctors at the University of Utah Medical Center implanted a permanent artificial heart in the chest of retired dentist Dr. Barney Clark. He lived for 112 days with the device.

On this date: In 1804, Napoleon was crowned emperor of France in a glittering ceremony at the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris.

In 1816, the first savings bank in the United States, the Philadelphi Savings Fund Society, opened for business

In 1823, President James Monroe outlined his doctrine opposing European expansion in the Western Hemisphere.

In 1840, William Henry Harrison was elected president.

In 1859, militant abolitionist John Brown was hanged for his raid on Harper's Ferry the previous October.

In 1942, a nuclear chain reaction was demonstrated for the first time by a group of scientists at the University of Chicago.

In 1954, the U.S. Senate voted to condemn Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., for what it called "conduct that tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute.

In 1961, Cuban leader Fidel Castro declared in a nationally broadcast speech that he was a Marxist-Leninist, and that he would lead Cuba to communism.

Ten years ago: Chairman Mao Tse-tung met in Peking with President Gerald R. Ford for nearly two hours. In the Middle East, Israeli jets attacked Palestinian targets in Lebanon. And in the Netherlands, seven South Moluccan terrorists seized a train bound for Amsterdam, killing two people and holding the remaining occupants hostage. Five years ago: Four American churchwomen - three nuns and a lay worker -were shot to death outside San Salvador and buried. Their bodies were found two days gone from one cliff-hanging situation to the next: energy loans made on the expectation of a continuing rise in oil prices, farm loans made in the hope of an agricultural boom. The latest mistake to catch up with the banks is the loans made to the maritime industry on the strength of its short-lived prosperity in the early 1980s. But the shippers are sinking, and they're dragging the banks with them. In the third quarter of 1984, for example, First Chicago lost $71.8 million in its overseas maritime loans.

One year ago: Artificial heart recipient William Schroeder was reported making "excellent" progress one week after receiving the device at Humana Hospital Audubon in Louisville, Ken.

RATING REFUGEES: The State Department is keeping a close watch on Guatemalan refugees who return home from exile in Mexico. If they are being persecuted by the government as suspected guerrilla sympathizers, it would lend credence to the claims of many refugees that they are entitled to entry into the United States as political refugees. Market can't draw from a dry well

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK - By offering below-market interest rates, automakers enticed many thousands of buyers into the marketplace in September, pushing up consumer spending by 1.2 percent over the previous month.

In October, however, spending dropped by nine-tenths of 1 percent, the biggest month-tomonth decline in 25 years. Carmakers complained about unsold units, and retailers worried that Christmas sales would be off.

Various lessons have been drawn from the experience, prominent among them being the thesis that after 20 years of consumerism the American shopper has become a smart, confident cookie who knows a real bargain.

But, say consumer economists, there is at least one other lesson to be learned, particularly by business. The lesson: You can't draw water from a dry well.

The consumer, it is argued, is the dry well, with a savings rate under 3 percent - around half the long-term level - and installment debts whose repayment consumes nearly 20 percent of after-tax income.

Carmakers are now worried. Inventories are rising, and fears are growing that the September sales spurt might have been at the expense of winter sales. That is, that incentives simply advanced buying dates but didn't add to sales.

As the year approaches its 12th month, other lessons stand out in bold relief, some for the reason that they were learned a long time ago and then forgotten.

That the economy is a cyclical thing, for example, meaning that expansions are followed by contractions, speedups by slowdowns, and market confidence by buyer wariness. It is inevitable, according to the record.

While the phenomenon wasn't pronounced in 1985 - while the economy slowed it didn't contract - there was enough evidence to suggest that some folks forgot the lesson. Such as some real estate entrepreneurs.

An upswing in the real estate cycle began several years ago with an obvious need for commercial and residential structures in the swift-developing Sun Belt. Builders rushed to fill the need, and then they overfilled it.

They ignored the lesson - an easy trap to fall into amid enthusiasm generated by the running bulls. They lost sight of the cyclical nature of the economy. Much of the Sun Belt cooled, and the buildings were left empty.

Meanwhile, the cool northern tier, in recession for so long, heated up again, and prices rose sharply because of a shortage of good space. It too will cool again - but probably not before it is overbuilt again.

Another lesson - as usual, well known but long forgotten - is getting a workout almost every day. It is this: A publicly owned company cannot sit on unutilized or unproductive assets for long without suffering dire consequences.

In the past the consequence was collapse or deterioration. The steel industry went through it. The railroads too, the latter forgetting that their business was transportation rather than simply rail transportation.

The lesson has taken a somewhat different form during the past few years. Now, instead of collapsing, the company is raided by aggressive investors seeking an opportunity to rebuild the company or sell its parts for cash.

The situation has become enhanced by an increasingly efficient stock market, which spots losers more quickly than before and blares the news by giving the company a low price per share.

The list of lessons relearned goes on and on, and probably always will, given the nature of human beings. But you can pardon some people for forgetting one lesson, because it hasn't been a great factor for many years.

It is the lesson that the courts can restructure the marketplace as well as corporate executives. General Motors restructured on its own, but American Telephone & Telegraph was restructured by the court.

And now, one of the largest oil companies, Texaco, might become a changed entity because a court awarded more than $10 billion to a company that, the court said, was wronged during competition for another oil company.

There could be still another lesson in this that the courts in 1986 will be looking a lot more closely and critically at many big corporate mergers, and might very well have a say in the shape they take.

Dear Abby

Give old folks what they want

DEAR ABBY: We read you in the Midway Driller, Taft, Calif. As residents in a nursing home, we hope you will run again your column on what to give older people for Christmas. It made a lot of sense, and people will listen to Dear Abby.

THANKS FROM ALL OF US DEAR ALL: Here it is with some minor revisions:

DEAR READERS: Can you elieve it's time to prepare for the holidays again? Well, it is, so do

Aunt Jennie or Grandpa, who don't go out much, let me tell you what not to give them:

Forget dusting powder, aftershave and cologne. (They probably have several unopened boxes gathering dust on their closet shelves.)

Grandpa doesn't need another necktie, and Aunt Bertha doesn't really want any more brooches, necklaces, bracelets or earrings. With the price of groceries so high, older folks who live alone on a fixed income would be delighted to receive a basket of goodies. Include small cans of salmon, chicken, ham, tuna, vegetables, fruit, instant coffee, tea bags, crackers, cookies and instant soup mixes.

Older people who live in confined quarters do not need more things" that are ornamental only. Don't send music boxes; statuettes or other bric-a-brac.

A truly thoughtful gift: postcards and some lined stationery with envelopes and a generous supply of postage stamps. (Enclose some felt-tip pens, too.)

A handy gift: an assortment of greeting cards for all occasions, so that they, too, can send birthday, anniversary, graduation, get-well and condolence cards to others. (Be a sport and affix postage to some of the envelopes.)

Don't give a gift of clothing unless you're absolutely sure the size is right. That goes for color and style, too.

If you're tempted to pass along a scarf, purse, wallet or some little doodad you received three Christmases ago, please don't; the recipient will probably find it just as useless as you did. (Besides, you might get it back the year after next.)

And The State of the

If you are aware that someone on your gift list is living on a pension, a check for any amount would be much more appreciated than some useless little trinket. Another thoughtful gift would be a year's subscription to a newspaper or magazine you are sure he or she will enjoy.

If you buy a gift on sale, be sure t's appropriate, since if the recipient tries to exchange it, he will be told, "Sorry, sale merchandise is not returnable."

Never give a pet to anyone unless you're absolutely sure a pet is wanted and will be properly cared for. And if you want to delight someone who considers his pet a "member of the family," include a tin or two of cat or dog food for the pet.

Don't give wine or liquor unless you're sure the recipients imbibe. Candy, nuts and fruitcake make wonderful gifts for those who aren't counting calories, but please have compassion for those who are, and lead them not into tempta- Calif. 90038.)

tion. Also remember that many older people have difficulty chewing hard candies and nuts. And nutritonists caution: "Lay off sugar and salt."

Instead of giving someone a gift with permission to "take it back and exchange it if it's not what you want," save yourself (and them) time and effort by giving gift certificates in the first place.

Holiday time can be very depressing for people who are alone, so if you know someone who might be alone and lonely, give him (or her) the best gift of all - an invitation to have a holiday meal with you and your family. Loneliness is the ultimate poverty. Love, ABBY

A beta channel has receptors on the heart, and the specific job is to accelerate the beat. The beta blocker works as it name implies; it blocks the reception at the receiver point. The heart slows. Extra beats that might be causing problems can be eliminated. These extra beats can be a problem in various heart ailments, as with a prolapsed mitral valve, so a doctor might want to use a beta blocker drug (there are several) to help the patient. There are dozens of other uses for beta blockers, from preventing migraine attacks to easing high blood pressure.

Not too detailed. Not too scientific. But it might suffice. It's a very complex subject, really. The advent of various receptor drugs, like beta blockers, has revolutionized treatment of many heartrelated ailments in recent years.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is it safe to eat cabbage? I read you can ruin your thyroid gland if you do. -L.A.

You're talking about goitrogens, natural substances that cause enlarged thyroid gland (goiter). Vegetables with goitrogens include cabbage, broccoli, spinach, and legumes (peas or beans). What you heard is an example of informational overkill.

First of all, cooking destroys goitrogens. Second, you would have to literally stuff yourself to the gills with such raw foods to cause a goiter. And you'd have to do that over a long period. Millions of out-of-shape men and women desire fitness, but shy away from formal programs because they think it's all too complicated and difficult. Dr. Donohue's newest booklet, "Introduction to Fitness," puts the esoteric terminology of aerobics into plain language and offers a fitness program anyone, regardless of age, can adapt.

The No. 1-ranked Tar Heels overcame a 10-point first-half deficit to beat Tarkanian's 16th-ranked Runnin' Rebels 65-60 Sunday night for the Shootout championship.

Brad Daugherty, the 6-foot-1112 center who was named the outstanding player of the tournament, scored 21 points - including five straight late in the game - to keep the Tar Heels undefeated at 5-0.

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith tried his best to downplay the Tar Heels' lofty ranking. He told everyone who would listen that there are lots of very good teams besides his Tar Heels.

"We can play with anybody in the country," Smith said repeatedly, "The trouble is there are 150 teams that can play with us.'

Smith said his team played only about 12 minutes of good basketball in an 84-63 victory over Missouri, and about 15 minutes in a 73-62 defeat of Purdue.

"We played better for a longer period of time tonight," Smith said. 'We played very well in the second half.

Strong inside play by Daugherty and 6-10 Joe Wolf whittled the lead, and North Carolina took its first lead of the second half, 49-47, on a jumper from the top of the key by freshman Jeff Lebo.

A back-door layup by Jones tied it up, but Steve Hale's jumper put North Carolina ahead for good with 6:37 to go.

Then came what Tarkanian called the turning point of the game Armon Gilliam was called for a technical foul for protesting a ball possession ruling too vigorously. and Hale's resulting free throw made it a three-point lead.

The Los Angeles Rams better not look over their shoulders. That onrushing locomotive is the San Francisco 49ers and they are headed for a first-place collision with the slumping Rams.

By The Associated Press The Class 3A high school football playoff game between Kermit and Vernon was as unpredictable as the swirling winds that buffeted Tiger Stadium in Snyder. But the Lions' Brett White wasn't quite so pat.

White scored one of Vernon's three big-play touchdowns, intercepted two passes, recovered a fumble and provided the spark that the Lions needed in a rousing 21-14 victory Saturday.

The win moves Vernon, now 11-2, into the state quarterfinals against Post, who defeated Ballinger 21-12 Saturday night. The two will square off at 2 p.m. Saturday in Abilene

Six of the state's six 5A regional playoff games also were staged Saturday.

Irving McArthur edged past Midland Lee 24-21 and Odessa Permian pummeled Denton 41-0 in Region I. In Region II, Cypress-Fairbanks breezed past Lewisville 35-7 and Conroe defeated Plano East 17-7. In Region IV, San Antonio Holmes beat Alice 35-29 and Converse Judson trounced San Antonio East Central 28-13.

But in Snyder, although White didn't score the game-winning touchdown - about the only thing he didn't do on the blustery afternoon - his interception with 1:54 to play sealed his team's fifth straight win

Meanwhile in 4A action Saturday, Sweetwater blanked Cleburne 42-0, Denison defeated Waco Richfield 31-22 and Calallen overcame San Antonio Southwest 55-28.

In another 3A game, Post drove 72 yards on 17 plays and used up 8:16 of the second half to score its second final-half touchdown and eliminate Ballinger from the Class 3A playoffs.

Harold Cash sparked Cameron with 181 yards in 13 carries to a 31-7 decision over Kirbyville, and San Antonio Cole defeated Refugio 20-7 in other 3A games.

In Class A, Wheeler blanked Crowell 47-0.

In Friday schoolboy play, Kerry Simien returned a punt 83 yards for a touchdown and Patrick Coleman dashed back with a 69-yard interception for another score as Houston Jones beat Pasadena Dobie 26-21 in a 5A game.

Zoeller 'Skins' field

MURRIETA, Calif. (AP) - Fuz- these," Zoeller said. zy Zoeller, an easy-going guy who plays golf for fun, found himself in a big-money situation.

'I'd been telling you all I wanted to do was get in a position to choke for this kind of money," Zoeller said

The situation: a 12-foot, uphill birdie putt for $150,000.

The result: "He didn't choke," Tom Watson said

Zoeller used that big putt as the key to a victory - measured only by the standard of money - in the 1985 Skins Game.

Over Sunday's final nine holes of the two-day, 18-hole, made-fortelevision event, Zoeller won more than one-quarter million dollars, $255,000.

Watson finished with $100,000, 56-year-old Arnold Palmer with $80,000 and Jack Nicklaus, owner and designer of the Bear Creek Club and the defending champion in this event, with $15,000:

"It's a crazy game and I love it," said Zoeller, who had picked up 'three or four times" and really hadn't been in the hunt until he dropped that 12th hole birdie for the biggest payoff of the matches.

"That's what it's all about, putting yourself in a position like that. It isn't nervousness. It isn't tension. But there's a hole in the bottom of your stomach. It's a lot of fun — and it was great fun for me just to be playing with three great players, great gentlemen, like

There had been five carry-overs in the two-tie, all-tie format before Nicklaus and Watson both missed medium-range birdie putts on the critical 12th. That put the pressure squarely on Zoeller, who faced what he called "a straight-in putt." He rapped it into the back of the cup.

But it was slightly different on the 15th, a par-3 that carried a $70,000 prize. Zoeller, recently named winner of the Ben Hogan award for his comeback from major back surgery, holed an 18-footer for birdie then had to wait and see if it would stand up.

First it was Watson, who tried from 15 feet, and missed. Then it was Nicklaus, needing a 12-footer to tie and force a carry-over. His putt lipped out and Fuzzy celebrated the winner by grabbing the startled Nicklaus and planting a hand-covered kiss on his chin.

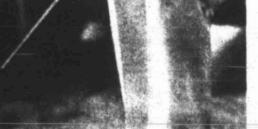

"I couldn't resist," Zoeller said. But he wasn't through. He capped off the most lucretive day of his career with a 25-footer for birdie and another $35,000 on the last hole. Zoeller, whose career was threatened by back surgery late last year, returned to action in Florida and won his third start.

But he admits he still plays in pain

'They tell me it's from scar tissue, nerve damage, that causes muscle spasms in the right hip." Zoeller said

Fuzzy Zoeller watches his chip shot head for the pin Sunday on the ninth green during the 1985 Skins Game at Bear Creek CC in Murietta, California. Zoeller collected $255,000 for nine holes.

New England defensive end Ken Sims broke his leg in the game. The host Colts got three rushing touchdowns by fullback Randy McMillan.

Vikings 28, Eagles 23 Trailing the Eagles 23-0 at Philadelphia, the Vikings suddenly woke up behind QB Wade Wilson, who had three scoring passes.

Minnesota gained only 67 yards rushing and was under 100 passing until the fourth-period eruption. Wilson even had been benched earlier in the game.

Minnesota, which had lost three straight, drove 58 yards, with Wilson hitting Allen Rice for a 7-yard score making it 23-7. The Vikings cut it to 23-14 when cornerback Willie Teal picked up a Ron Jaworski fumble and raced 65 yards for a touchdown.

Troubled Mac advances in Australian

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) - John McEnroe's troubles at the Australian Open continue. Yet, he continues to win.

The second-seeded McEnroe rallied from the brink of elimination Monday to beat 13th-seeded Henri Leconte of France 5-7, 7-6, 3-6, 7-6, 6-1 and advance to the quarterfinals of the $1.5 million event

At one point, McEnroe trailed two sets to one and was down 1-5 in a the fourth set tiebreaker. But he stormed back to win the final six points of the tiebreaker, and then won the last set to take the three hours-plus match in front of a packed outside court.

In a previous match last week, McEnroe was fined $1,250 for a similar offense - a fine that put him over the allowable limit and means he will have to serve a 21-day suspension at the conclusion of the tournament,

Before he had even played his first match here, McEnroe got into a shouting and spitting match with journalists who were inquiring about his girlfriend, actress Tatum O'Neal.

Despite all of his troubles, McEnroe has kept winning. On Monday, Leconte, 22, 'layed some superb tennis but his spirit appeared broken after he lost the fourth set.

McEnroe will face unseeded Slobodan Zivojinovic of Yugoslavia in the quarterfinals in the grass court tournament.

Zivojinovic, based in West Germany, continued his giantkilling run by downing eighth-seeded American Tim Mayotte, a noted grass court expert, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 in another fourth-round encounter.

Zivojinovic, a tall 22-year-old from Belgrade, defeated ninthseeded American Scott Davis in the second round. Zivojinovic, who is Wimbledon champion Boris Becker's doubles partner, has shown a recent liking for grass courts. He defeated Mats Wilander of Sweden at Wimbledon earlier this year.

Prior to McEnroe's victory, twotime champion Johan Kriek of the United States became the first player to advance to the quarterfinals.

Kriek, the sixth seed, defeated unseeded American Jay Lapidus 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Kriek, ranked 10th in the world and the Australian Open winner in 1981 and 1982, simply had too many shots for the left-handed Lapidus, from Princeton, N.J.

Rain delayed the start of play for almost three hours Monday, but only four men's singles were scheduled
