Indicted NASA executive refuses to quit position

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NASA administrator James M. Beggs has rejected demands that he resign following charges that he and three other present or former General Dynamics Corp. executives tried to defraud the government by hiding cost overruns on the ill-fated Sgt. York anti-aircraft gun.

Beggs was a General Dynamics executive vice president before becoming head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1981 and Rep. Robert G. Torricelli, D-N.J., a member of the House Science and Technology Committee that oversees NASA, urged his resignation on Monday.

The executives and the corporation were charged Monday with one count each of conspiring to defraud the Department of Defense between Jan. 1, 1978, and Aug. 31, 1981. They also were charged with six counts of making false statements.

The 39-page indictment said $7.5 million was mischarged, resulting in a $3.2 million net loss to the government.

The indictment was the latest in more than a year of government accusations of improper billings and bribery by the nation's third-largest defense contractor.

"He is presiding over nearly $8 billion in federal spending. When a man is indicted on a charge involving fraud in spending taxpayer dollars, it's difficult for him to continue with any confidence," Torricelli said in Washington.

"I will not resign," Beggs said through a spokesman.

He said he hadn't seen the charges and couldn't address them specifically. "But from what has been reported to me by my attorney I can state I am innocent of any criminal wrongdoing and I intend to vigorously defend the case," Beggs said. "I am confident that after all the evidence is aired I will be exonerated.'

U.S. Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, who chairs the Senate appropriations subcommittee that oversees NASA spending, urged a cautious approach.

'We have to let the courts decide," said Garn, who flew on the space shuttle earlier this year. General Dynamics, based in St.

Louis, said the indicted men "were honest in their judgments and acted in complete good faith. We are confident that when our side is heard, we will prevail." The indictment said the defen-

Pension issue goes to vote

Bank official warns of farm loan cut

"AIDS" - agricultural income deficiency syndrome, a bank official told the 52nd annual state Farm Bureau convention.

Joe W. Taylor, a senior vice president at Eastland National Bank, was one of several speakers who talked about the financial problems of the farm and ranch business Monday.

"We've got AIDS — Agricultural Income Deficiency Syndrome,"

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Taylor told the 1,300 delegates The farm economy in Texas has meeting here through Wednesday.

He said the explanation is simple: Farm costs are high and returns are down. And the problems mean that many banks will cut back on farm loans, he said.

With farmers struggling to stay in business, the Texas agricultural economy could be headed for hard times, Taylor and other speakers said.

Although things haven't yet reached the crisis stage, they are "moving in the wrong direction," said Doyle Cook, a senior vice president for the Farm Credit Banks of Texas.

Taylor and Cook said that lenders were eager to make farm loans during the inflationary period of the 1970s, when farm land values were skyrocketing with all other prices. The liberal loan policies eventually hurt farmers, Taylor said.

"It was negligence on was the loser," he said.

Cook said Monday that his organization has recorded a sixfold increase in farm real estate foreclosures in the past three years. The number of bankrupties by those borrowing from the Farm Credit System, the largest agricultural lending system in the state, has doubled in the same period, he said.

Cook said farm and ranch operating loan losses for the everybody's part ... The farmer system will probably reach $4 million statewide and could double by the next year.

Despite these problems, the vast majority of farm and ranch loans made by the system are sound, Cook said, and loan losses amount to less than 1 percent of the loan volume outstanding at the Federal Land Bank of Texas and its 44 associations statewide.

Cook said Federal Land Bank loan foreclosures went from five loans worth $98,508 in 1983 to 30 loans worth $3.66 million this year.

DENTON (AP) - Just before Jim Cundall drags the mutilated body of a dog off the highway, he photographs the remains. He has a dozen or so of the grisly pictures, and he'd like to see them published in the newspaper.

If the people who dump dogs in his neighborhood were forced to look at the pictures and could see what happens to their animals, he believes, they might stop "taking them to the country to find a good

Cundall and his wife, Edwinia, live off east U.S. 380 on Mosley Road, and their son and daughterin-law live nearby. The road is a favorite dumping place for un-wanted animals, he said. Cars routinely pull off the highway behind a large mound of gravel there, open the door, push out a dog and drive away.

The problem is widespread in unincorporated areas of the county, officials say, but they have yet to determine the best action to take to solve it. The Commissioners Court has discussed hiring an animal control officer, but so far has not been able to agree that this would really help the problem.

Meanwhile, people just outside the city limits find new dogs on their doorsteps or dead ones in their ditches almost daily.

"People think the dog will find a good home," Cundall said. "But mostly, they're hit by a car or truck on the highway. Sometimes they die quickly; sometimes it takes a long time. I stop when I see a dead one on the road and at least get it out of the way.

The animals are used to being taken care of and have no idea now to fend for themselves, said Cundall's daughter-in-law, Cynthia.

What usually happens is they hang around the gravel pile awhile, waiting for their owner to come back. You see them every time you pass. First, they run to the road every time a car goes by, thinking their owner has come back for them. By the next day, they only raise their heads, and by the third day, they're just lying there.

They've been betrayed."
Most animals starve to death, the Cundalls said. Others form packs and kill small animals, including chickens and cats. Rabies is a concern. The dogs are dangerous to people as well as farm animals.

Some of the neighbors routinely shoot strays, Cundall said. "I can't shoot a dog. I can't. What we wind up doing is trying to find homes for them, or taking them in to town to the pound, and that's expensive if you do it often enough.

Mrs. Cundall said she and her husband have adopted more animals than she can remember in the the years they've lived on Mosley Road. And they've fed and cleaned up many animals they later found homes for. Some are hopeless, she said, and must be taken to the pound.

"The last one we took to the pound was a springer spaniel," she said. "It was covered with fleas and sores - a walking skeleton.

"The last one we had put down cost us $65," Cundall said. "It cost more because it was night and it was overtime."

Cynthia recalls one evening when she heard a meowing sound as she drove in from a trip to the

"I looked for the meowing and saw this little black cat crawling through the grass, dragging its back legs. It didn't seem to be in pain — just purred when you petted it - it had been hit by a car and was paralyzed in back. We fed it and took it to the vet. He said there was an operation that might work, but it was very expensive. He advised putting it to sleep. We did, and it cost us $35."

Laddie is one of the lucky ones. The younger Cundalls adopted the collie-shepherd mix dog about a vear ago.

"He stayed at the gravel pile for a week, just waiting for his owner," Cynthia said. "We just couldn't stand to watch it."

Future plans for the Ritz include purchasing a computerized ticket machine, installing a sound system equipped to handle Dolby sound, replacing the upstairs theater

During the same period, New York is expected to grow only 1.7 percent to 8,433,000 people.

"Metropolitan areas projected to have the fastest growth from 1983 to 2000 generally are located in the southern half of the nation; those projected to have the slowest growth generally are located in the Northeast and Great Lakes," the bureau said in its assessment.

West Palm Beach, Fla., is expected to be the nation's fastest growing metro area, followed by Phoenix, Ariz., and Orlando, Fla., according to the study of the 55 metropolitan areas expected to top 1 million people in 2000. Of those communities, only Cleveland, Detroit and Pittsburgh are expected to lose population by the turn of the century.

come among 28 Texas metropolitan areas ranked by the agency. It ranked eighth in the nation in 1983 and is expected to rank minth in the year 2000.

About 1:1 million people are expected to move into the Houston metro area by the year 2000, the largest numerical increase in the nation, according to the figures. That would up the city to seventh from eighth place in the nation in population.

Dallas would go from 15th to 12th and San Antonio from 38th to 37th. The projections showed Los Angeles would become the nation's most populous metropolitan area by the turn of the century, topping New York, and said San Francisco would have the highest personal

Of the Texas metro areas, Austin is expected to record the biggest percentage increase in people by the year 2000, increasing its size by 48.5 percent over 1983 to 919,000. That would put it at 60th place nationally, up from 72nd in 1983.

But Austin is expected to drop from 91st place in per capita income to 108th, going from $11,936 earned per person in 1983 to $15,840 in the year 2000. That 32.7 percent increase is below the national average of 34.7 percent.

No Texas metro area is expected to lose population, but Beaumont-Port Arthur has the smallest projected percentage increase - 5.8

Of the 28 Texas metro areas, 15 are projected to drop in the rankings for per capita income, while only eight are expected to decline on the list for population.

All the Texas metro areas are projected to have increases in per capita income, but Laredo's increase is expected to be the smallest, rising from $6,016 in 1983 to $8,113 in 2000.

Midland is expected to have the highest per capita income among the Texas metro areas, $20,289, by the year 2000. The 1983 figure was $15,501, also the highest for that year in Texas.

Bill awaits final action

WASHINGTON - Major trade legislation to curb textile and apparel imports is headed for final action in Congress, with sponsors confident they will get the bill to President Reagan's desk even though they're uneasy about veto threats.

"I'm not totally convinced that he will veto 'Rep. Ed Jenkins, D-Ga., said Monday, a day before the House was set to vote on a Senate-passed version of the textile bill.

Suspended for fraud

WASHINGTON — Nearly 400 health care providers were suspended from participating in Medicare and Medicaid in the 1985 fiscal year for fraud or poor quality of care, the Health and Human Services Department

In addition, HHS Inspector General Richard P. Kusserow said, federal prosectors won 75 criminal convictions for Medicare and Medicaid fraud, and federally supported state efforts resulted in another 405 convictions.

Rate hike fears allayed

ABILENE - Texas Utlities Electric Co. officials say a higher price tag for the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant will not lead to an automatic increase in electric rates but the future remains uncertain because of start-up

The latest delay in the plant's opening will add $900 million to its cost, bringing the projected price tag to $5.46 billion, utility officials

The utility announced the delay two weeks

Church gets donation

NEW YORK - An Israeli businessman said he was so angry about the armed robbery of St. Patrick's Cathedral that he donated $7,000 to the famous Fifth Avenue church.

"It was all boom, boom, boom, bang" when Abe Nathan decided to give the money, said the Rev. Peter Finn, the church spokesman who accepted the check Monday.

Nathan, in New York on his way home from Colombia where he helped people displaced by last month's volcano, said he learned from television reports that two ski-masked gunmen had robbed the cathedral Saturday of

The upper Midwest shivered in subzero temperatures today as it dug out from up to 6 feet of snow, while warnings of heavy snow were issued for the northern Rockies and eastern Great Lakes area and arctic air brought freezing temperatures deep into

New York City declared its first "cold weather emergency" of the season, enabling police to round up the homeless against their will. Dozens of homeless people in Atlanta scurried to emergency shelters as temperatures dipped to 29 degrees.

While parts of the West Coast got a break from a siege of wintry weather, the Mississippi River froze enough that people could walk on it and temperatures dropped to well below freezing in Maryland.

The temperature in Hibbing, Minn., this morning was 23 degrees below zero and the minus 20-degree reading combined with 11 mph winds in Grand Fork. N.D. made it feel like minus 45. The National Weather Service warned that wind chills could drop to as low 65 below zero across North Dakota.

Bill clears first test

LONDON — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's attempt to abolish a hodgepodge of laws that allow stores to sell soft pornography but not the Bible on Sundays has cleared its first parliamentary test.

The House of Lords voted 141-85 Monday night not to amend a government bill that would abolish restrictions on Sunday trading. It is expected to go to the House of Commons, where many legislators already have voiced opposition, early next year.

Victim may go home

VALLETTA, Malta — The four terrorists who hijacked an Egyptair jet forced a Greek passenger at gunpoint to serve food and collect passports, apparently causing the pilot to think there was an additional pirate. Malta's government spokesman said.

Meanwhile, a 30-year-old American teacher shot in the head by one of the hijackers is in good condition and might go home within a week, a U.S. military doctor said Monday from Landstuhl, West Germany.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - The rand, South Africa's currency, fell to a record low against the British pound, and national rugby officials announced the cancellation of a visit by a British team.

A funeral was scheduled today for 12 blacks killed nearly two weeks ago in violence in Mamelodi, a black township near Pretoria.

News coverage in Mamelodi was limited by police restrictions, and differing accounts of the Nov. 21 incident have circulated.

Bonner reaches Italy

ROME - Yelena Bonner began her first visit to the West in six years with a family reunion and an apology for her silence about the condition of her husband, dissident Andrei

After flying Monday night from Moscow to Milan, she was joined by her son, Alexei Semyonov, and son-in-law, Efrem Yankelevich, for the final part of her trip to Rome.

Mrs. Bonner, 62, is scheduled to visit Siena in central Italy on Wednesday to meet with her eve doctor.

Liberals win in Quebec

MONTREAL - The opposition Liberals devastated the Parti Quebecois government in provincial elections, putting an end to Quebec's nine-year flirtation with separatism.

But the Liberal premier-elect, Robert Bourassa, returns to power on a sour note, losing his own district in suburban Montreal despite a landslide in Monday's vote. His party won 99 of the 122 seats in the Quebec legislature.

Household work has basic value

Virginia Slims, the cigarette people who equate women's progress with smoking, has commissioned a poll on the changing status of women. Among other things, it found an increasing number of housewives think they should receive a salary. In 1974, 24 percent of the women surveyed declared they should be paid for housework. Today, the percentage in favor of housewives' salaries is 42 percent. (Of the men polled, 65 percent rejected the proposal.)

As with all surveying, the wording of the question is of great importance. Would as many women have indicated that their husbands should pay them weekly salary to remain in the home if the question had pointed out that the arrangement would, in effect, make housewives employees and husbands bosses - thus formalizing a position of subservience for women within the marriage relationship?

Most women, to the contrary, probably read the question literally or as a matter of worth and value. The literalists sensibly wish compensation for their labor. For the others, we would suspect, a housewife's salary would validate the importance and seriousness of her work, giving it equivalent stature with her husband's job and with the employment and careers of women who earn incomes outside the home.

There is something sad in an assumption - reinforced everywhere in American life - that money alone confers value. But there is something sadder still about a society that cannot freely acknowledge the honor that is earned by women and men who keep their households running.

A tourist class of travel-haters

As someone who has made a close study of tourism there must be a cure for it. I believe I have isolated a certain type of tourist that for some reason has become more prevalent in recent years This is the type of tourist who hates traveling

While I've written in the past about individual tourists who hated traveling. I have discovered a new type of tourist who needs somebody else to hate it with

There are couples now traveling who know before they even leave the United States they're going to hate it But no matter how bad they think it's going to be, the reality is even worse than their wildest nightmares I met a couple like that not long ago They had been touring Europe for a month and they were on the homestretch in Paris. When I caught up with them they couldn't decide which they hated more. Venice or Rome. Jane," the man said, "didn't like Rome, but I still thought it was better than Venice Jane said, "That's because Harry didn't have the experiences I had. I still maintain I'd rather spend four days in Venice than two in Rome.

It was that bad, huh?" Harry said, "Well, it wasn't as things," I said. bad as Zurjch.

Jane agreed. "We both hated like," Jane said

Zurich We didn't have any fun in Zurich at all. It was almost as bad as Copenhagen.

You didn't like Copenhagen. huh" I asked

Does anyone like Copenhagen?" Harry wanted to know. "Would you like to hear what happened to us in Copenhagen?

Not particularly," I said. We were terribly disappointed in Amsterdam," Jane said.

A matter of power, politics and congressional parking

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR WASHINGTON - The fuel that runs the Washington merry-go-round is a high-octane mixture of power and perquisites. The more perks that Washington officials can bestow on themselves, the more power they have; and the more power they have, the more perks they accumulate.

But the merry-go-round broke down recently, when Rep. Phil Crane, R-Ill., made a grab for the brass ring and overreached himself. Upset because the free VIP parking lot at National Airport was getting too crowded. Crane suggested that the Federal Aviation Administration ban diplomats and Supreme Court justices, leaving the lot for Congress'

To widespread astonishment, the FAA dared to reject Crane's suggestion, and declined to be bullied even though the congressman threatened not too subtly to remember the agency's impudence at budget time. The FAA expressed its confidence that Crane surely would not endanger air travelers' lives by cutting the safety agency's budget over a mere matter of wounded pride.

There the matter stands, with both sides muttering darkly about the other's high-handed bahavior. And into the midst of the muddle dove Rep. Mel Levine, D-Calif., and his wife, Jan.

During a recent recess, the Levines and their children flew home to California, leaving their leased station wagon in a congressional parking space at Washington's Dulles Airport. A month later, when they returned, the car had racked up a $600 parking

No problem, Levine thought; congressmen park free. But he made one critical error: He had called his secretary to meet them in the Levines' other car, and he drove that one out just ahead of the station wagon with its $600 parking tab.

The parking lot attendant let the congressman out without charging for the few minutes the second car had been there. But she balked at the station wagon being driven by Mrs. Levine, demanding payment of

The attendant "was extremely abusive to my wife," Levine told our associates Corky Johnson and Donald Goldberg Not so, according to the parking lot atendant's report filed with the FAA. Levine "said he writes the budget for the FAA and that he was going to raise hell," the report alleged.

Levine does not sit on any committee with jurisdiction over the aviation agency. Anyhow, the reported threat is "simply not true," he said, explaining: "It is not my style to operate in the way this lady claims Levine said he asked to have a supervisor summoned. The lot attendant and her colleague wrote that they were the ones who requested the supervisor's presence and claimed Levine lost his temper at the suggestion. "He made several more statements and threats about what he could do,'

Levine insisted he was "very polite," but did acknowledge that he grew a little irritated when 'they started giving my wife a hard time.'

The lot employees reported that neither the station wagon nor its driver, Mrs. Levine, had proper identification that would allow for the free parking. The congressman said this is not true.

The lot supervisor, Sue Twitchell, said the attendants were on solid legal ground, because the free parking perk is for members of Congress only, not spouses. An FAA official agreed.

House Sergeant-at-arms Jack Russ did not. 'Spouses are allowed because of the nature of the job," he said. "They are intertwined in a member's work.'

Russ said he thought he had ironed out parking perk problems at a recent meeting with aviation agency officials. Evidently not.

MINI-EDITORIAL - Forgive our tears, but Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh doesn't like us. The freelove guru, whose commune took over the town of Antelope, Ore., and renamed it "Rajneeshpuram," recently pleaded guilty to violations of the immigration laws and chose banishment over prison. Leaving behind his fleet of Rolls-Royces, he returned to India, describing his life in the United States as "hell" and Americans as "subhuman." He added: "The Soviet Union is far better than the United States." He probably won't defect, however. It's tough to get used to a Lada after you're ridden in a Rolls. And we can't see the Russians tolerating a Raineeshgrad on the banks of the Volga. In a few weeks, he would probably be the guru of the Gulag.

Billy Graham

Living it up, until death

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you believe in the so-called death bed conversion? My brother-in-law says he will turn to God and be forgiven when he knows he is dying, but in the meantime he wants to live it up and have a good time. — M.M.

DEAR M.M.: Certainly, there are occasional instances in which a person truly comes to Christ almost at the last minute. The best Biblical example, of course, is the thief who was crucified with Jesus. Just before his death, the thief turned to Christ and said, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom." Jesus' reply was one of forgiveness and promise: "I tell you the truth, today you will be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:42,23). This man was saved not because he deserved it, but because of God's grace - and that is true for each of us as well.

But I do not want to be misunderstood. Nowhere does God promise that we can intentionally, repeatedly turn our backs on Him all our lives and expect to get away which is what your brother-in-law hopes to do.

The thief on the cross truly repented of his sins, and it is only by repentance and faith that we can come to Christ. Your brotherin-law is in a very dangerous spiritual condition, because he knows he needs God and yet he deliberately is choosing to live withouit Him. The bible teaches that the longer we resist God, the harder our hearts often become.

When it comes time for his death; how does he know he will have any sensitivity toward God? And how does he know he will even have time to turn to God, for death can come in an instant?

Pray for him, and urge him not to delay in turning to Christ. The Bible says, "I tell you, now is the time of God's favor, now is the day of salvation" (2 Corinthians 6:2). And it he turns to Christ now, he will discover a whole new joy and peace in living that he never dreamed possible

U.S. hopes for democratic dominoes

U.S. ally was seen to be backsliding

In its effort to stem what it claims is a flow

By REID G. MILLER

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras - Elections play a major part in U.S. plans to forge a chain of democracy around the leftist Sandinistas who govern Nicaragua, replacing the military governments that once were the norm in Cen-

While U.S. diplomats in Central America admit that some links in that chain are weak and that the military retains a powerful behind-the-scenes role in most countries, they claim some successes:

 El Salvador, where President Jose Napoleon Duarte, a moderate Christian Democrat, was elected in 1984. His party then gained legislative power over conservative and extreme right-wing opponents in elections of power from one civilian government to another without military intervention in more than 50 years, held a presidential election Nov. Honduras, however, remains questionable.

A constitutional challenge of the law under which the winner of the election will be decided could cause political unrest.

Washington looks to Honduras as the cornerstone of its Central American policy and does not want its efforts shattered by political upheaval.

Moreover, some American diplomats in the region privately admit that it would be difficult to win congressional funding for ad-

For the first time since 1977, when all military aid to Guatemala was suspended in a dispute over human rights violations, the U.S. Congress this year approved $10.3 million to equip and train that country's armed forces, although the aid depends on improving civil rights and civilian control of the army.

El Salvador's 6-year-old war against a leftist insurgency has been largely financed by U.S. taxpayers, as has a continuing effort to rebuild its war-ravaged economy.

Even Costa Rica has shared in Washington's largesse, although it has enjoyed a stable democracy since 1948, has no army, and proclaims itself neutral.

Sitting on Nicaragua's southern border with a population of 2.5 million, Costa Rica will get about $260 million in economic aid this year, making it the second-biggest recipient of U.S. aid per capita after Israel.

Constitutional lawyers in Tegucigalpa overwhelmingly agree that the electoral law violates the constitution, which calls for direct election of a president by a simple majority.

Dear Abby

Mother-in-law pressed to be baby sitter and nurse

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago, our 59-yer-old mother-in-law had to quit her job to stay home and care for our father-in-law, who had a massive stroke that left him totally helpless. They have six married sons and 11 grandchildren — the youngest is 4 months old and the oldest is 10 years old.

The folks are on a limited budget, so all the sons must help out financially. We wives can't care for Pop because he has no control over his bowels or kidneys, and we do not feel like that is a job for a daughter-in-law. We are also very busy with our own

We don't mind our husbands helping their parents with money, but we think Mom should repay the favor by keeping our kids every weekend. It would give each one of us a "vacation" from our kids every six weeks. Our husbands don't think their mother should be obligated to baby-sit, but we do. After all, we are obligated to give them $20 a month. What do

DOT IN GEORGIA DEAR DOT: Your mother-in-law already has her hands full caring for her invalid husband, and to expect her to baby-sit every weekend is the height of insensitivity. If you daughters-in-law need a vacation from your kids, take turns looking after each other's children every weekend.

DEAR ABBY: I am a sailor in the U.S. Navy and an avid reader of your column. A few weeks ago, "Kathryn in Rock Island, Ill." wrote that pedestrians should walk facing traffic, and asked if you would mention it in your column. You wrote back and told her that in case pedestrians didn't know it, they were supposed to walk on the left side of the road

Well, Abby, Stars and Stripes is the paper where I read your column, and where I am stationed we would be walking on the right side to be facing the traffic. Sorry to be so picky! Sign me..

PICKY IN JAPAN DEAR PICKY: I would say that overlooking the fact that the traffic flows in the opposite direction in many foreign countries is a monumental goof. Others wrote to remind me. Mea culpa.

 DEAR ABBY: After experimenting with parenthood for almost 40 years, I have come to the conclusion that children are a sexually transmitted disease with an incubation period of about 15 years, at which time they become an acute cephalalgia (headache), a cervical strain (pain in the neck) and a maximal pain in the gluteus maximus (butt). And like herpes they can be forever.

D.O. IN OHIO DEAR'D.O.: Please be careful! Heaven help the child accidentally conceived by your carelessness.

DEAR ABBY: My friends and I have a question that only you can answer. When you catch a bouquet at a wedding and the marriage ends in divorce, are you still going to be the next to be wed? JUST WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: The catcher has no guarantee that she will be the next to wed regardless

Dr. Donohue

Permanent rabies protection possible

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am exposed to potentially rabid animals. was bitten once and had to have the protective shots. Am I now protected against future bites? Can I be permanently protected some way if I am not already? - O.D.F. Only those whose work exposes them to rabies need the protective vaccine (the human diploid cell vaccine), and that seems to include you. So where do you stand?

The series of shots you had after the bite episode was with the same vaccine that would be used to protect you permanently. You need the vaccine every two years, so the date of the previous administration would be important to bring to the doctor. From that, he could determine your present status. Now, some prefer not to get the vaccine on regular two-year intervals. Instead, they have their blood checked periodically to measure the level of antibodies against the rabies virus. If the antibodies level is low, the vaccine can be given. In fact, laboratory personnel working blood checked every six months to tibody testing is being done.

Remember to mention when you were vaccinated last, and, if possible, the manufacturer of the vaccine. I mention that because one manufacturer had to recall some vaccine. It was not stimulating adequate antibody production. Again, the results of the antibody test will tell if that happened to

And in all of this, I am not referring to the general population. The incidence of rabies infection is so very low that massive vaccination programs would not make sense.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is meant by complicated migraine?

You have heard of the various visual symptoms that may precede certain kinds of migraine attacks. These symptoms subside quickly for most, but for a few they can linger long after an attack. That is what we usually mean when we speak of complicated migraine. Perhaps as few as three out of every 100 migraine patients may with the rabies virus have their experience this. The danger is of permanent vision disturbance. But be sure their antibodies level is with the means we have today of protective. Counterfeit spree ends

BROOKSHIRE (AP) - An Alabama man whom authorities say cruised the country for 18 months spending counterfeit money was arrested after police found more than $73,000 in bogus bills stashed in his sports car. Eubert Gayle Lloyd Jr., 42, of Mobile, was arrested Sunday at a gasoline station in Brookshire, about 30 miles west of Houston, said Police Chief Joseph Garcia.

Waller County Assistant District Attorney Travis Koehn said charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and possession and passing counterfeit money are pending there against Lloyd.

Lloyd, who is charged with conspiracy to manufacture counterfeit money in Tampa, Fla., kept detailed records of which cities he visited, said Secret Service agent James H.

It's time to think about taxes

Firm can help with 1985 returns

As the year's end approaches, now is the time to begin thinking about your income taxes

Professional Business Services offers its clients tax consulting, help with all types of tax returns, bookkeeping services, accounting services, and assistance in the preparation of payroll reports and insurance reports.

Patsy Henry, owner, has extensive experience in all types of tax returns. She was associated with Clyde Hollingsworth, C.P.A. for 71/2 years, where most of the business was tax accounting. Prior to his death, she worked with Hollingsworth on corporation, Sub S, partnership, individual and fiduciary returns.

"Anybody that has tax questions, I'm willing to help them," from someone wondering whether to itemize to others with complicated returns, she said. For people who make estimated tax payments, she reminds them of upcoming payment deadlines.

'Some individuals have extensive oil and gas operations," she said. Because oil and gas work is complicated, many investors prefer to place their bookkeeping in the hands of a professional and ask Mrs. Henry and Professional Business Services to handle bookkeeping and business reports.

MIAMI (AP) — The so-called unbeatable team had just been beaten by a team that a year ago had itself been called unbeatable. So how did the Chicago Bears feel about having their 12-game winning streak ended by the Miami Dolphins?

Nobody's invincible, nobody's perfect," Chicago Coach Mike Ditka said after his team suffered its first National Football League loss of 1985, 38-24 to the Dolphins Monday night. "We're going to bounce back. It will be good for

Indeed, Monday's game was more like something from a year ago, when the Dolphins began 11-0 en route to a 14-2 regular season record and a berth in the Super

Consider

Miami scored on all five possessions in the first half, and had 31 points at intermission more than Chicago had surrendered in the previous six games, in which it outscored opponents 170-29.

- Dan Marino looked like the Marino who in 1984 had the best season any National Football League quarterback ever had. His stats weren't brilliant - 14 of 27 for 270 yards and three touchdowns but he was sacked just three times by a ferocious rush that had racked up 50 entering the game. And he constantly made the big play, passand third-and-19 to keep Miami's first two touchdown drives alive.

 The defense, bolstered by the return of defensive end Doug Betters from a knee injury and the heady play of linebacker Bob Brud-the score. A key play was Marino's helmet of the onrushing Dan zinski, registered six sacks on 30-yard completion to Mark Duper Hampton and into Clayton's hands.

Steve Fuller and Jim McMahon. It was Miami's fourth straight win after an injury-plagued 5-4

New England and the New York

Jets in the AFC East. The victory also struck a blow for the Miami old-timers, preserving the record of the 1972 Dolphins, the last NFL team to go through an entire season unbeaten.

'That was important for us older guys," said Coach Don Shula, who also coached that 1972 team. "But what's really important is that it keeps us tied for first place." It also was important for the morale of a Miami team that has had some doubts about itself ever since a 38-16 thrashing by San Francisco in the Super Bowl. We beat a team that was playing the best football in the NFL," Marino said. "For us to beat them is a great lift. We know we can compete at their level. I only have one wish," Ditka said. "I hope they go as far as we're going to go (in the playoffs) and we'll play them again.' Chicago got a morale boost of its own from Walter Payton, who carried 23 times for 121 yards to break a league record with his eighth straight 100-yard game. It was hard coming, though. Chicago used three timeouts in the last two minutes of play to allow Payton, who was stuck at 98, to get the three carries he needed to set the three-way, first-place tie at 9-4 with nine of the yards came on a bomb from Fuller to Willie Gault.

Fuad Reveiz kicked a 47-yard field goal gave Miami a 10-7 lead, then the Dolphins zoomed out to a 31-10 halftime margin with three touchdowns in the second quarter, two in a 40-second span at the end of the half.

The first score came on the first play of the quarter on Ron Davenport's 1-yard plunge

For the next-8:20, the Bears controlled the ball, taking 15 plays to drive 56 yards. But a sack of Fuller by Betters forced Chicago to settle for Kevin Butler's 30-yard field Miami made it 24-10 on its next possession, going 79 yards in eight plays in a drive marked by Marino's 52-yard connection with Mark Duper on a third-and-13 play. Davenport again took it in from the one with 1:57 left in the half. Twenty-nine seconds later, after three quick timeouts, William Judson blocked a Maury Buford punt to give the Dolphins the ball at the Chicago six. From there, Marino again hit Moore and it was 31-10 at halftime. It was probably as good a first half as I've been around for a long time," Shula said. "We flattened out in the second half, but we accomplished our objective - to stay Fuller snuck over from the one to stopping the Bears without a yard cut it to 31-17 after Richard Dent recovered a Mark Clayton fumble yards in just five plays for a 7-0 in the third period. A motivational speech by former Big Spring football standout Kenneth Coffey highlighted the annual awards ceremonies at the 1985 Big Spring High School Fall Sports Banquet Monday night in the school cafeteria.

Coffey, a 1978 graduate of BSHS who plays safety for the Washington Redskins was introduced by Athlectic Director Ron Logback as a "role model for the youth of Big Spring." And "one of the most outstanding examples of student leadership that Big Spring High has ever produced."

Coffey addressed the school's cross-country, volleyball and football teams. He talked of the valuable lessons learned through athletics and stressed the importance maintaining one's priorities in every stage of life. "We all face

Hurricanes vault into second place

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Football Writer

Miami Hurricanes, fresh from a 58-7 mauling of Notre Dame, vaulted into second place today in the Associated Press college football poll behind No. 1 Penn State while unbeaten Bowling Green made the Top Twenty for the first time in 12 years.

The Sugar Bowl-bound Hurricanes have won 10 games in a row since dropping their opener to Florida, including road victories over Oklahoma, Florida State and Maryland, and Coach Jimmy Johnson said following Saturday's rout he believes Miami is the best team in the country

Penn State, which completed an 11-0 regular season a week earlier and will meet fourth-ranked Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, received 47 of 59 first-place votes and 1,164 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

In the next-to-last regular-season poll, Miami received three firstplace votes and 1,063 points. Meanwhile, Rose Bowl-bound Iowa, 10-1, slipped from second place to third with three first-place ballots and 1,050 points while Oklahoma, a 13-0 winner over Oklahoma State, dropped from third to fourth. The Sooners received five first-place votes and 1,048 points.

The remaining first-place ballot went to Michigan, 9-1-1, which remained in fifth place with 935

Florida trounced Florida State 38-14 and held onto sixth place with 903 points while Nebraska, 9-2, climbed from eighth to seventh with 779 points

Tennessee won the Southeastern Conference championship and a berth opposite Miami in the Sugar Bowl by trimming Vanderbilt 30-0 and jumped from 10th place to eighth with 746 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Brigham Young, 10-2, which remained No. 9 with 657 points, and Air Force, 11-1, which moved up from 11th to 10th with 617 points.

Auburn was the biggest loser from last week's Top Ten, skidding from seventh place to 16th after a 25-23 loss to arch-rival Alabama. Texas and Georgia fell out of the Top Twenty while Alabama and Bowling Green moved in.

The Second Ten consists of Texas A&M, LSU, Arkansas, UCLA, Alabama, Auburn, Ohio State, Florida State, Oklahoma State and Bowling Green.

Last week, it was Air Force, Florida State, LSU, Arkansas, Texas A&M, UCLA, Oklahoma State, Texas, Ohio State and Georgia. However, Texas was battered by Texas A&M 42-10 and Georgia lost to Georgia Tech 20-16.

Bowling Green, the champion of the Mid-American Conference, last appeared in the rankings in September 1973 when the Falcons were tied for 20th for one week. They will take an 11-0 record against Fresno State in the California Bowl, the most notable victory a 30-26 road triumph over

The Tar Heels, 5-0, received 1,239 points from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters, easily outdistancing Michigan, which garnered 12 first-place votes and 1,165 points. The Wolverines, 4-0, who were ranked third last week, beat then-No. 2 Georgia Tech 49-44 in the Tipoff Classic last Saturday.

North Carolina started the week with a 110-67 rout of Iona and then won its three games in the Shootout by an average of more than 12 points, besting then-No. 16 Nevada-Las Vegas 65-60 in the title game.

Duke, 6-0, which captured the inaugural Big Apple National Invitation Tournament last weekend with a 92-86 victory over then-No. 5 Kansas, moved from sixth to third, receiving four first-place votes and 1,112 points.

Syracuse, 3-0, held fourth place with 1,054 points, followed by Georgia Tech, 2-1, 910 points; Georgetown, 2-0, which received one first-place vote and 908 points; Kansas, 3-1, 830 points; Oklahoma, 5-0, 753 points; Kentucky, 3-0, 693 points; and Notre Dame, 2-0, which received one first-place vote and 636 points

Georgetown, which won its only game last week by 91-57 over Hawaii Loa, moved from eighth to North Carolina, which won the sixth, while Oklahoma jumped Great Alaska Shootout last from 13th to eighth with a 59-57 victory over then-No. 7 Illinois, one of its four triumphs in Hawaii. UT assistant named Texas Tech mentor

By The Associated Press LUBBOCK - David McWilliams, defensive coordnator at Texas for nearly 16 seasons, has signed on to coach Texas Tech, one of three major colleges to hire new football coaches in a postseason spate of personnel moves.

Also hiring new coaches Monday were Kansas State and Wyoming. Stan Parrish moved from Marshall to Kansas State, and Dennis Erickson, former Idaho coach, went to Wyoming.

Southeastern Louisiana, meanwhile, hired an interim coach, Johnny Majors signed a contract extension at Tennessee, Pitt continued its search for a new coach, and coaches at Rice and San Diego

State were reported close to moving

McWilliams, 43, who masterminded one of the country's best defensive programs at Texas, signed a five-year contract at Texas Tech, promising that "we're going to talk bowls and championships here every year.'

Texas Tech, 4-7, hasn't had a winning season since 1978. McWilliams replaced Jerry Moore, who was fired Nov. 19 after five years as head coach. McWilliams will receive a reported salary of at least $65,000 a year.

Athletic director T Jones said he interviewed eight to 10 other prospective coaches before settling on McWilliams, the fifth Texas Tech

Curry-McCrory set to square off

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Donald Curry and Milton McCrory will fight next Friday night to become a member of a species that soon could become extinct - an undisputed champion. The winner of the Curry-McCrory welterweight match soon will move up in weight class, and the other undisputed champion, middleweight Marvelous Marvin Hagler, is moving toward retirement.

Until recently there was another undisputed champion - light heavyweight Michael Spinks. But when Spinks upset Larry Holmes for a piece of the heavyweight title, he relinquished his 175-pound class championship.

The WBC, WBA and IBF quickly announced plans to select their own light heavyweight champion.

So six men will fight to become the three light heavyweight champions. There aren't six legitimate light heavyweight contenders

Jazz bang Warriors

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -- Questionable calls and what Golden State coach John Bach called "the kind of slashing, banging type of play that was on" left the Warriors feeling a bit mugged after their latest game.

Utah Coach Frank Layden, asked how he might feel if he had been in Bach's shoes during the last six minutes of the Jazz's 103-100 victory over Golden State on Monday night, said, "I'd probably be thrown out, like I was the last time with that crew (of referees)

"That call almost looked like a good block." Bach said. "There was certainly no maliciousness about the play.

Mannion scored all of his nine points in the final period and Mark Eaton scored five of his eight in the last three minutes to spark the come-from-behind victory, which boosted Utah's Midwest Division record to 12-8, while the Warriors fell to 8-12 in the Pacific Division.

Baylor rips Concordia

By The Associated Press

The Baylor Bears may have won the battle, but Coach Gene Iba fears they might not be prepared for the war that lies ahead on the Southwest Conference college basketball tour.

"This was as bad a college basketball game I have ever seen as far as a team's effort was concerned." Iba said Monday night after Baylor took an 81-64 victory over the much smaller Concordia Lutheran.

SWC Roundup

"There's just no sense in yelling at the guys who don't seem to want to play. I really hate to say these things about this team. I think we took a major step backward here tonight in preparing for conference play," said Iba, who is in his first year of coaching the Bears.

In other SWC games Monday night, Texas Tech scraped by Oregon 69-68 in Lubbock, while Rice fell to Austin Peay 84-77 in Clarksville, Tenn.

Sophomore forward Darryl Middleton, at least, had a fine night for Baylor, pulling down 14 rebounds and leading all scorers with a career-high 27 points.

But Carlos Briggs, one of the top scorers in the SWC, finished with just 11 as Baylor, 3-0, led at the half by, just 37-30. Concordia Lutheran, paced by Kim Jones' 11 points, dropped to 5-7 for the season.

Rice Coach Tommy Suitts said better and started playing better and Rick Osborn added 11.

defense, but it's hard to win a game when you give up 49 points in the first half. Austin Peay was down by 6 early in the game but built a 15-point lead with 3:22 to go in the first half, finally settling on a 49-38 halftime

Senior forward Gerald Gray fired in a game-high 26 points to spark Austin Peay, 3-0

Rice, 3-2, came within 2 points, 79-77, with 35 seconds remaining before falling to solid free-throw shooting of Lawrence Mitchell and Richie Armstrong. The Owls were led by forward Terrence Cashaw, with 22 points, 12 rebounds and three assists.

"I was pleased with the way we kept coming back in the second half." Suitts said.

In Lubbock, senior guard Tony Benford tossed in 16 points and junior forward Dewayne Chism added 12 for the Red Raiders.

Tech, now 3-0, trailed 35-34 at halftime and fell behind 46-38 with 15 minutes remaining before Benford and Chism sparked a late

A pair of free throws by Tobin Doda with 4:06 remaining knotted the score at 60-60. Doda then fired in a 20-foot jumper to give Tech a 62-60 edge with 3:18 remaining.

The Ducks, 2-1 on the season, tied the score at 62-62 before Mike Nelson connected on a 20-foot jumper and Ray Irvin hit two free throws to give Tech its biggest lead of the second half, 66-62.

Anthony Taylor led Oregon with the Owls "handled their pressure 13 points. Jerry Adams added 12

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Work on pending interests during the day, and tonight you can seek information regarding new outlets.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can handle that obligation after lunch and feel happy about it. The evening is best for contacting one who is out of town.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Think about how to make things easier with a pompous person and later all works out just fine for you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Your works are the relief to the morning but later all encoders.

starts rather slowly in the morning but later all speeds up and you can accomplish a good deal.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Plan some needed recreation, but a delay may come up that needs a little patience, and then all works out fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The situation is not satisfying in the morning, but take it easy and then all straightens itself out later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You find it difficult to communicate well in the morning, but later you can express yourself very well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful you handle money carefully in the morning, and later you can understand how to expand.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some situation you do not like is bothering you in the morning, but later you can gain in personal affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some private worry can be eradicated after lunch, and then you can make a fine plan to gain your wishes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Being with friends and acquaintances during the daytime is wise today. Enjoy artistic persons at amusements.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You feel you are not getting ahead as fast as you like in the outside world, but can soon make progress by leaps and bounds.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she can quickly understand different philosophies of life and be very brilliant, and must learn foreign languages. Teach not to be everly independent. Teach to be more thoughtful of others and to be a more cooperative person.

Following the introduction of the 1985 freshman, junior varsity and varsity cheerleaders by sponsor Jill Willbanks, Steer head trainer Everett Blackburn awarded Donnie Davis with the Charley Johnson Trainer Award.

Index shows advance in October

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government's main forecasting gauge of future economic activity rose 0.3 percent in October, the smallest advance in four months, the Commerce Department reported today. The department said the October advance in the Index of Leading Indicators was the weakest since a 0.1 percent June increase.

The slight advance was likely to be taken as confirmation by many economists that the economy is headed for more sluggish growth in the coming months.

Those holding to more optimistic forecasts of future activity, however, were likely to note that the index was revised upward for September to a 0.4 percent gain. It had originally been reported as a 0.1 percent increase.

The government also reported today that housing sales fell a sharp 5.5 percent in October to an annual rate of 652,000 units. It was the third decline in a row and the steepest since a 7.2 percent April

Many analysts had been predicting that sales would turn up again in October given the fact that mortgage rates have continued declining and are now at their lowest average levels in six years.

Commenting on the 0.3 percent rise in the leading index, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige noted that the average monthly gain in the last six months has been 0.4 percent, slightly below the 0.5 percent advances needed to hit the administration's 4 percent growth target for 1986.

Still, Baldrige said the gains are an improvement over the declines registered at the end of 1984.

this quarter, the leading index is pointing toward continued expansion in 1986," Baldrige said in a statement.

The October advance was the sixth in a row. But, except for a 1.3 percent January gain, the advances this year have all been below 1 percent, indicating sluggish economic growth.

The economy, as measured by the gross national product, grew at an anemic annual rate of 1.1 percent in the first half of this year, While some crosscurrents in down sharply from the robust 6.8 output and spending are evident percent growth turned in for all of

The weakness is a reflection of the battering U.S. manufacturers have been taking from foreign competition. Hobbled by a strong dollar, domestic producers have seen their foreign sales dry up and have had to fight a growing invasion of cheaper imports.

The dollar has fallen by almost 20 percent since February, but analysts have said it normally takes up to a year before currency declines begin to have a positive impact on the trade deficit, which is expected to hit a record $150 billion this year.

The dollar has fallen 7 percent in-the last two months under the influence of an agreement between the United States and four other countries for coordinated action to push the U.S. currency lower.

Even with this effort, however, many analysts are forecasting that growth at least through the first half of 1986 will remain weak.

David Wyss, an economist with Data Resources Inc., predicted that the economy will not grow at all in the first three months of the year before rebouding to 3 percent growth, on an annualized basis, in the second quarter.

Wyss forecast growth of around 4 percent, annualized, in the second half of the year as domestic manufacturers' sales begin to pick

While the economy grew at a robust annual rate of 4.3 percent rate in the July-September quarter, many analysts are predicting growth will not match this pace in the current quarter, primarily because of an expected drop in personal spending as consumers beging to cut back because of record high debt burdens.

However, the Reagan administration is predicting growth in the final three months of the year will surge to an annual rate of percent to 6 percent.

The economy will need to expand at a 5.7 percent annual rate in the fourth quarter to meet the administration's projections of 3 percent growth for the entire year.

Many private analysts believe 1985 growth will be much closer to 2 percent. Growth in this range is usually termed a "growth recession," a time when the economy expands, but at such a sluggish pace that the unemployment rate rises.

The October advance in the leading index left the index at 171.1 percent of its 1967 base. The September revision put the index in that month at 170.6 percent.

The gain last month came from positive contributions from six of the 11 available indicators. The iggest positive force was a growth in business and consumer borrowing. Other positive factors were slowdowns in business deliveries, seen as a sign of growing demand; a drop in weekly unemployment claims; a rise in raw materials prices; an advance in stock prices, and a gain in manufacturers' orders for consumer goods.

Four indicators held the index back. The biggest negative factor was a drop in net business formation followed by declines in building permits and orders for capital equipment plus slower growth in the money supply.

One indicator, the average workweek, was unchanged in

U.S. may mint gold bullion coins soon

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. consumers who have bridled at the very thought of buying foreign gold bullion coins may soon be able to Buy American.

It's up to President Reagan to sign a congressional measure that would authorize the Treasury Department to produce and sell general circulation U.S. gold coins for the first time in 53 years. Capitol Hill Republicans said Reagan is expected to sign the bill.

$10 and $5. The selling prices will fluctuate with the gold market and will not be tied to the nominal dollar designation on the coins, which are designed in large part to attract investors and collectors.

The coins would be legal tender for their face value but would be sold by the Treasury Department at the higher market value, plus minting, marketing and distribution costs.

Profits from the sales would be used to reduce the national debt.

bolic of Liberty on one side. On the reverse would be a family of eagles, with a male bird carrying an olive branch and flying above a nest containing a female eagle and two eaglets — a design initially crafted by Texas sculptor Miley Busiek.

The $25 coin would contain onehalf ounce of gold; the $10 coin onefourth ounce of gold; and the $5 coin one-tenth ounce of gold. The designs of those coins will be left up to Treasury.

Ver appointment may be brief

Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos says Marcos' reinstatement of Gen. Fabian Ver as head of the nation's armed forces may be for only a brief time.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., said Monday that Ver's reinstatement after he and 25 other people were acquitted in the 1983 murder of opposition leader Benigno Aquino 'comes as no great surprise.'

But other congressmen were more critical Monday, and the State Department, speaking for the Reagan administration, disassociated itself from Marcos'

A commission in the Philippines last year concluded Aquino was killed by military officials as he stepped off a commercial airliner that brought him home from voluntary exile in the United States. The panel rejected the Marcos' government contention the killer was a lone guman, Rolando Galman, a purported communist who was slain by soldiers immediately after Aquino was shot.

The United States has been urging Marcos to institute reforms to surgency and civil unrest. The Philippines is a key U.S. ally in the armed forces."

He said he discussed Ver's possible reinstatement in light of indications the general might be acquitted. Laxalt told Marcos that "an unconditional reinstatement would be met with extreme criticism in the United States.'

'Marcos indicated to me that he had an honored commitment to reinstate General Ver in the event of an acquittal, but that he had not determined the length of the reinstatement or the circumstances," Laxalt said.

'What we must watch now is the length and circumstances of his reinstatement," Laxalt added.

Bill to protect Titanic wreckage

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Canada and any other interested United States would negotiate with other nations to try to protect the wreck of the sunken luxury liner Titanic if a bill passed by the House becomes law.

The measure, sent to the Senate on a voice vote, won approval less than a week after John Pierce, the head of a British team that salvaged $3.4 million in treasures from the liner Lusitania, said he would try to raise the Titanic. The Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine off Ireland in 1915.

Rep. Walter B. Jones, D-N.C., chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, told the House Monday his bill "seeks to promote a spirit of cooperation between countries to protect the Titanic from plunder before it is too late.'

the development of international guidelines for research on, exploration of, and, if appropriate, salvage of the Titanic.

Jones introduced the bill Sept. 11, 10 days after a research team of American and French scientists located the wreck of the Titanic.

At a hearing on Jones' bill in late October, Robert Ballard, of Woods Hole, Mass., a leader of the expedition that found the Titanic, said a salvage attempt probably would fail and would be pointless, since the ship can be explored using robot devices.

Ballard also said he doubted the value of the ship or its contents would make a salvage effort worthwhile financially.

The House-passed bill, even if it becomes law, could not stop an attempt to raise the Titanic since the ship sank in international waters.
