Outside Freezing rain is in forecast

A cold front drifting into the area this morning is causing temperatures to slowly drop into the upper 20s. A travelers advisory is in effect because of freezing drizzle and fog. Hazardous driving conditions may exist, especially on bridges. Winds are from the northeast at 10 to 20 miles per hour and gusty. A less than 20 percent chance of rain is forecast for today, changing to a 30 percent chance of light freezing rain or sleet tonight. Tonight's low should be in the upper 20s. Wednesday, look for a high in the lower 30s and a 20 percent chance of light freezing rain or sleet.

Oil price decline foreseen

NEW YORK (AP) - Little new ground has been broken in OPEC's latest effort to bolster its hand against the world's other oil producers, but analysts say the price of oil will drop as the cartel tells non-OPEC countries "they're going to have to share in the pain.

After several days of informal meetings and a formal conference that ended Monday in Geneva, oil ministers of the 13-nation cartel didn't formally abandon their 4-year-old strategy of trying to keep prices high by allowing their production to fall.

Instead, they vowed to cut prices, if necessary, to maintain their share of the world market, virtually guaranteeing, analysts said, that oil will grow cheaper as the current winter demand subsides in spring.

Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said in Geneva that OPEC was declaring that non-OPEC producers "must give up part of their share of the market."
If they did not, he said, a price war was possible.

Petroleum futures prices nosedived on world commodity markets, although industry officials in and out of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, including Yamani, have been predicting the same thing for Gordon Pye, an economist at Irving Trust Co. in New York, said: 'As long as they do not try to expand their share, I'm not sure this has any meaning as far as a real change in the situation.

Spot prices for Arab light remained unchanged Monday at $27.90, close to the OPEC benchmark price of $28 a barrel.

UTPB center to link oilfield research with its application

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN - Helping the oilfield and related businesses use their equipment and know-how to make money in new ways is part of the mission of the new Permian Basin Center for Energy and Economic Diversification.

Approved last week by the University of Texas System Board of Regents, the new center will be located midway between Midland and Odessa at the intersection of Highways 1788 and 191. It will rest on a tract of land donated by the Scharbauer family of Midland.

UT Regent Bill Roden of Midland said Midland-Odessa is the logical place for the center since 25 percent of the U.S. oil and gas is within 150 miles of that area.

The center will not do traditional basic research, but will serve as sort of a field operation and apply research from other institutions, said James Duncan, an executive vice chancellor for the UT system.

The center would be a link between originators of new ideas and those willing to finance them, he

Possible projects include developing the use of co-generation, which involves producing electricity as a by-product of an industrial process, said Warren Gardner, a UTPB vice president. "Heat is a by-product of a lot of processes out there," he added. Other projects would include finding new ways to use the vast amounts of idle manufacturing equipment in oilfield-related businesses, Gardner said.

School districts account for increased property tax

AUSTIN - Local property taxes in Howard County accounted for about $1.1 million of the $1 billion statewide property tax increase for ty and county levies dropped.

According to figures from the State Property Tax Board annual report, the county, school and city governments in Howard County sent out property tax bills for about $17.2 million for the 1984 tax year.

up from about $16.1 million in 1983. Statewide, local governments levied $8.2 billion in property taxes, which is up from $7.2 billion in 1983. "The property tax is still the most important revenue source for 1984. But the school districts were school districts, cities, counties responsible for the local hike as ciand special districts such as utility, junior college and hospital districts," said Ron Patterson, director of the State Property Tax

But what happens when a door bell rings, a smoke alarm buzzes, or a tea kettle whistles?

Last month, Johnson became the owner of Domino, a dog specially trained to help hearing impaired people and alert them to sounds they can't hear.

Doreen James delivered Domino from Oregon where Dogs for the Deaf are selected and trained. James said Domino will respond to the door bell or telephone and bring Johnson to the sound Domino is a year-old blue merle cross-Australian shepherd: He's been training for six months and now Johnson is learning to work with him.

Johnson must repeat regular "inhome" training sessions to keep Domino obedient and alert to sounds.

"Dogs for the Deaf" is a not-forprofit organization that trains about 30 dogs a year. To receive a dog, an applicant's medical information is reviewed by a placement screening committee and an interview is held in or near his home.

'We have about a year's waiting list for dogs," James said.

Johnson, who learned of Dogs for the Deaf through a magazine, had to wait a year before receiving Dogs for the Deaf placement rate success is about 96 percent. "Dogs come back to us either because the people don't have the ability to handle them or the home is too busy," Ms. James said.

"If the home is too busy and someone is always answering the door or responding to sounds, then the dog can't do his job and he becomes lazy.

"You've got to make yourself start paying attention and continually remind yourself to look around you, at least I do. I hope someday it (deafness) will come second nature to me but I don't know that it will.'

Being deaf has changed Ms. Johnson's lifestyle. Her telephone is now connected to computer that prints out the caller's message but only if the caller has a computer, too.

Also, lights in her small house have had been rigged to flash when the doorbell rings.

"It's different to be deaf," she says, "You miss things that you take for granted like voices, the sound of how deep they are, or listening to the radio, I don't get to do that anymore. Argentine ex-rulers get prison terms

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A civilian court found five former military rulers guilty of responsibility for thousands of kidnappings and killings in a 1970s campaign against leftists, and sentenced them to prison terms varying from 41/2 years to life.

The trial that ended with the reading of verdicts Monday marked the first time Argentine military officials had been tried by a civilian court, and the first time in Latin America that members of a former military regime were judged for human rights abuse.

The six-judge federal panel ordered life imprisonment for ex-President Jorge Videla and former navy commander Emilio Massera, and terms of 17 years for former President Roberto Viola, eight for ex-navy leader Armando Lambruschini and 41/2 years for former air force chief Orlando Agosti.

An investigating commission picked by President Raul Alfonsin reported that at least 9,000 people died or disappeared in an anti-subversion campaign launched by three successive military juntas in the 1970s. The commission said many of the victims were innocent of anti-government activities.

Prosecutors said during the trial that the defendants had not directly participated in the abductions, torture and killings, but asked for severe sentences to avert future coups and abuses of power.

Videla alone was convicted of responsibility for 66 counts of homicide, 306 of kidnapping, 93 of torture and 26 of robbery. Massera was found responsible for three counts of homicide, 69 of kidnapping, 12 of torture and seven of robbery.

Viola was convicted in connection with 86 counts of kidnapping, 11 of torture and three of robbery; Lambruschini on 35 counts of kidnapping and 10 of torture; and Agosti eight counts of torture and three of robbery. All five were ordered stripped of military rank and privilege. Videla and Viola are both generals, Massera and Lambruschini are admirals, and Agosti is a Chief Prosecutor Julio Strassera had sought the maximum punishment — life imprisonment — for Videla, Massera, Agosti, Viola and Lambruschini, 15 years for Galtieri and Graffigna, 12 for Anaya and 10 for Lami Dozo

Viola's lawyer, Andres Marutina, said he and attorneys for the other four convicted defendants would appeal to the Supreme Court.

Church envoy hopeful

WESTMINSTER, Calif. - Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite, who met with the captors of American hostages in Lebanon, told relatives of the abducted men by trans-Atlantic telephone he remains optimistic about their eventual release.

"I'm cheerful and I don't give up easily," Waite said in a telephone call Monday to about 40 relatives of the men held in Lebanon by Islamic extremists.

Speaking from London, Waite told the group that he believes he has developed rapport with the group holding the Americans.

Toy cars removed

LONDON — Toy cars powered by hamsters and ant colonies that are meant to be refrigerated have been removed from British outlets of the U.S. toy chain Toys R Us after protests from animal-lovers.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals protested the sale of racing cars powered by hamsters in treadmills and model ant colonies whose instructions include a suggestion that the ants be refrigerated to slow their reflexes and make them easier to handle.

Lange pushes new bill

WELLINGTON, New Zealand - Prime Minister David Lange today introduced con-troversial legislation in Parliament that would ban nuclear-powered or armed ships and aircraft from New Zealand.

The long-awaited bill, which was approved 48-30 after its first reading, would put into law a policy imposed by Lange's government in January that strained relations with the United States.

Reagan stresses trade

MOSCOW - President Reagan said in a message to a U.S.-Soviet business group today that commerce is essential to better relations between the superpowers, and called for more non-strategic trade.

Reagan's message was read by U.S. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige at a meeting of the non-governmental U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council, holding its largest-ever conference in Moscow. American officials are attending for the first time in seven years.

Survey items are private business

The federal government's penchant for wasting the taxpayers money is well documented. Still, we never cease to be amazed by Washington's profligate spending practices.

The U.S. Education Department is a case in point. The sprawling federal bureaucracy squanders millions of dollars on dubious research projects, many of which are gathering dust in government offices. But none of these projects we know of can match the bizarre survey being conducted by the National Center for Education Information.

The private group was given a $72,461 grant from the Education Department's discretionary fund last year to delve, among other things, into the private lives of classroom teachers across the country. Specifically, teachers are being asked whether they pray, how often they have sexual relations, what their views are on abortion, the death penalty, and mercy killing, and whether they voted for Ronald Reagan or Walter Mondale in the last presidential election.

Predictably, the survey is generating considerable controversy among prospective respondents, many of whom understandably refused to reply. Similarly, several school superintendents have refused to distribute the questionnaires in their districts.

Stung by the survey's notoriety, the National Center for Education Information insists the questions are intended to develop a profile that will be helpful in hiring the estimated 1 million teachers who will be required by the early 1990s. The Education Department's lame excuse is that it did not review the questions before the poll was distributed.

Several months ago, Education Secretary William Bennett promised to prune the deadwood from his department. He ought to begin with the bureaucrat who authorized this grotesque survey.

Salesman gives Super Tonga deal

The old 1970 Super Tonga gave out on me the other day. It just gasped once and then died on Canal Road. Several impatient drivers helped me push it into the Potomac

I went down to Long John Silver's, "The Largest Dealer of Super Tongas on the East Coast -One Price for Everyone," to replace my loss. I was surprised to discover the sticker price on the window of a new Tonga was the same as what I had paid 16 years

If there is one thing I know it's how to talk to car dealers, so when Long John asked me for $5,900 for a showroom Tonga I stared him

"I'll give you $4,900."

"I see I've met my match, " Long John said. "That will teach me to try and fool someone who lives in Northwest Washington. We have a deal.'

"Can I drive it right off the floor?"

'Of course you can. Let's go into this office and I'll write it up. I walked into the cubby hole where Long John started to tap numbers into a computer. "Do you want my check?" I asked. "In a monent...." Tap, tap.

"That will be $4,900 for the car and an extra $1,500 for the windshield wipers. "Suppose I don't want windshield

"You have no choice since they come with the car, just like the

With Philippines bases at risk, U.S. courts new military sites

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR WASHINGTON — As Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos tries to reinforce his dictatorship with an election mandate early next year, hard-eyed strategic planners in the Pentagon are quietly preparing for the worst: the eventual eviction of U.S. military forces from Subic Bay and Clark Air Force

Marcos' opposition has already announced its determination to get rid of the U.S. bases. Even if Marcos isn't unseated this time, he can't live forever. And the longer he survives with U.S. support, the greater the resentment will be when his opponents inevitably take over.

The Reagan administration is trying to prevent disaster by cooling its once-ardent love affair with Marcos. But just in case this doesn't work, serious consideration is already being given to optional strategic bases in the Southwest Pacific. Our associate Lucette Lagnado has asked congressional and administration sources to evaluate the various alternatives. Here's the rundown:

· Guam. This long-time U.S. territory, which has a non-voting delegate in Congress (Rep. Ben Blaz), heads everyone's list. The residents are American citizens and show no resentment to the substantial Navy and Air Force presence on their island — an important consideration.

The Pentagon has been openly courting the Guamanians lately, perhaps a little too obviously. We're told that the recent "goodwill" visit by Deputy Assistant Defense Secretary L. Wayne Arny was viewed with some suspicion among the locals, who aren't accustomed to such attention. Sure enough, it turned out the Pentagon wants to renege on its promise of a few years ago to turn over about 2,000 acres to Guam's home-rule government. Some of the land may be needed for expansion of U.S. bases if the Philippines boots us out.

Although Guam is politically the favorite, it might be difficult to find enough locals to operate bases on the scale of Subic Bay and Clark Air Force Base. which employs 50,000 Filipinos.

 Tinian. This tiny island in the Marianas, just north of Guam, won a footnote in history as the base from which the B-29 Enola Gay took off to drop the atomic bomb on Hiroshima. At best, it would supplement the facilities on Guam. The Pentagon has negotiated an agreement with the Northern Marianas government for the lease of several thousand acres of Tinian, and consideration is being given to construction of a major airfield there.

• Palau. Another island group with grim memories for World War II veterans, this small republic has also been the object of Pentagon negotiators' attentions since the growing troubles in the Philippines. Palau is closer to the Philippines, but not enough to make a significant strategic difference. What is considered significant by our sources, though, is the recent agreement the Pentagon got from the Palau government to convert certain areas into military facilities if the need arises. American forces - primarily the Navy and Marines would be permitted to use these bases · Singapore. This bustling mini-state has the port facilities, an adequate airport and more than enough manpower to maintain major U.S. bases. A Congressional Research Service study a few years ago gave Singapore high marks for suitability. But its obvious drawback is political: There'd be no way to guarantee against a replay of the Philippine uncertainty that inspired the Pentagon's search for real estate in the first place.

The experts we've consulted agree that the U.S. bases in the Philippines are superior to the other options. But they also agree that the worst policy of all would be to make no plans for the loss of those bases.

Footnote: Rep. Steve Solarz, D-N.Y., chairman of the Asia and Pacific Affairs subcommittee, is closely monitoring the Reagan administration's efforts to restore democracy in the Philippines. SLOWLY, SLOWLY the uselessness of the California Debris Commission, which was established 92 years ago to regulate hydraulic gold-mining but which hasn't done a thing for more than 20 years. We're gratified to report that the House, in approving a multi-billion-dollar water resources bill, OK'd a provision that would abolish the three-member panel and turn its duties over to the Army Corps of Engineers. Now if the Senate will just do its part, we may actually see the abolition of a federal entity.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Robert P. Aguilar, a federal district judge in northern California, has gone out of his way to take on an unpopular issue — the rights of innocent citizens caught in the government's battle against marijuana growers. Aguilar has repeatedly given thoughtful analyses of the intrusive nature of the government tactics; he has issued injuctions against harassing techniques, and ordered that a court-appointed monitor keep close tabs on the government's operations. At a time when the government's zeal to crack down on drugs has resulted in the trampling of individuals' rights, Aguilar has not forgotten the Constitution.

Billy Graham

Boss reacted out of guilt

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently I had a copy of a religious magazine sitting on my desk at work, because I was going to read it during my lunch hour. My supervisor glanced at it and threw it in the trash, saying he wasn't going to allow religious literature in his office because it might offend some of our clients. Do you think he was justified in doing this? - Mrs. L.L.

DEAR MRS. L.L.: Your supervisor's action was rude and inconsiderate; he at least should have had the courtesy to hand the magazine back to you with the simple request that you keep it in your drawer.

It is clear, however, that his real problem is not that the magazine might offend his customers, but that it makes him uncomfortable. Quite frankly, some people are running from God and in their guilt react almost violently to anything that would remind them of Him even when it is seemingly insignificant.

The Bible says, "The wicked man flees though no one pursues' (Proverbs 28:1). Guilt can do that to a person. I don't know if that is the case with your supervisor, but I have found that many people who react this way actually were raised in religious homes and have rebelled against God.

How should you react? First, pray for your supervisor. You can't argue with him or convince him of his need for God - but the Holy Spirit can. The Spirit "will convict the world of guilt in regard to sin and righteousness and judgment" (John 16:8).

Second, by your life demonstrate that Christ is real to you, and that He has changed your life: Be the best possible worker you can be both in your actions and your attitude. "Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good" (Romans 12:21). Respect him as a person who has authority over you, but at the same time pray that God will use you to touch him for Christ's sake.

Today's highlight in history: On Dec. 10, 1906, President

Theodore Roosevelt became the first American to be awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, for helping to mediate an end to the Russo-Japanese War. On this date:

In 1520, Martin Luther publicly burned the papal edict demanding that he recant, or face excommunication.

In 1817, Mississippi was admitted to the Union as the 20th state. In 1830, poet Emily Dickinson was born in Amherst, Mass.

In 1869, women were granted the right to vote in the Wyoming Territory

In 1898, a treaty was signed in Paris officially ending the Spanish-American War. In 1920, President Woodrow Wilson received the Nobel Peace Prize

In 1931, Jane Addams was named co-recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize, the first American woman so honored

In 1950, Ralph C. Bunche was presented the Nobel Peace Prize, the first black American to receive the award.

In 1958, the first domestic passenger jet flight took place in the United States as a National Airlines Boeing 707 flew 111 passengers and seven crew members from New York to Miami in about 21/2 hours.

In 1967, singer Otis Redding died in the crash of his private plane in Wisconsin. He was 26

Ten years ago: Yelena Bonner, wife of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, accepted her husband's Nobel Peace Prize in Oslo, Norway. Bonner read a statement from her husband in which he said he shared the honor with "all prisoners of conscience.

Five years ago: U.S. Rep, John Jenrette, D-S.C., announced he was resigning from the House to halt expulsion proceedings against him resulting from his conviction for bribery and conspiracy in the FBI's Abscam investigation.

Balanced budget, at a glance

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional negotiators on Monday worked out final details on a plan aimed at forcing a balanced federal budget by fiscal 1991. A tentative agreement was reached last week. Final action by the full House and Senate is due later this Here are some of the major points of the plan.

DEFICITS:

The plan would establish statutory ceilings on federal deficits. For the 1986 fiscal year, which began Oct. 1, the maximum allowable deficit would be $171.9 billion; followed by $144 billion for fiscal 1987, $108 billion for fiscal 1988, $72 billion for fiscal 1989, $36 billion for fiscal 1990 and then no deficit for 1991.

After fiscal 1986, the deficit ceilng still could be exceeded by $10 billion without automatic spending cuts being triggered.

The White House Office of Management and Budget said the total deficit for the 1985 fiscal year which ended Sept. 30 was $211.9

MEETING THE GOALS: Early in the calendar year, the president would have to submit a budget for the coming fiscal year that does not exceed the deficit

Congress then would proceed with drafting a budget blueprint, including instruction to congressional committees to make changes in programs within their jurisdictions to meet the deficit targets.

The plan would tighten congressional rules for the consideration of legislation that exceeds the budget

ENFORCEMENT:

In August of each year, the Office of Management and Budget and the Congressional Budget Office would be required to make a report on the fiscal year about to begin stating the projected budget deficit and the gap between the maximum statutory deficit.

These reports will be sent to the General Accounting Office, the auditing arm of Congress, for review. If projected deficits exceed the targets, the GAO will draw up a list of cuts in accordance with guidelines in the plan and send them to the president.

The president then would issue an order that becomes final on Oct. 15 to make the cuts. Meanwhile, Congress would be working to try to trim the difference.

For the current fiscal year, the process would begin in January 1986, with an order for cuts taking effect March 1, 1986. That cut could not exceed $11.6 billion.

AUTOMATIC CUTS:

About half of the approximately $1 trillion federal budget would be subject to the automatic cuts that might be triggered to meet the deficit ceilings. Those cuts would have to reduce military and non-military spending by equal amounts.

Exempt from automatic cuts would be Social Security, Medicaid, Food Stamps, veterans compensation and pensions and various welfare and child ...utrition programs.

Cuts for veterans, community, migrant and Indian health programs as well as some Medicare payments would be limited o 1 percent in the current fiscal year and 2 percent thereafter.

Provisions of the budget plan could be waived only during recessions or wartime.

Woman who survived attack bound in red tape

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I was raped, beaten and left for dead in the middle of nowhere. I found my way back, identified my attacker and pressed charges. We went to court, and he is now serving five to seven years. He was up for parole once and was denied. My problem: At the time of the attack, the police took all my personal belongings for evidence-including the jewelry and clothes they took off me in the hospital. They told me I couldn't have anything back until after the case was over.

After the jerk was sentenced, I asked for my things and was told I would have to wait until the case was appealed. Next they tell me that the case has to be typed up, the judge must read it, sign it, then it must be filed. They said they "lost" my things. Two months later they found everything.

I have been calling them once a month for three years, and I still don't have anything back! I keep getting one stall after another; they say the courts are very busy

The Big Spring Lady Steers made one giant step of progress in their 66-59 loss to the Andrews Mustangs last night in Steer Gym. The Lady Steers proved they are capable of playing against a topnoth team. When the smoke had cleared and all was said and done, Coach C. E. Carmichael's Lady Steer had taken the highly regarded Mustangs to the limit. And the class 4-A Mustangs, ranked No. 2 in the state in the Texas Girls Coaches Association Poll, had a hard time coming away with their ninth victory in as many games, against the 4-6 Lady Steers. The Lady Steers battled hard the entire game, despite being heavily outrebounded and committing 32 turnovers against a persistent Andrews full court press. At times it seemed the Mustangs were on the verge of putting the game away, but each time the scrappy Lady Steers battled back into contention.

By STEVE BELVIN

Sports Writer

But in the end the Mustangs proved why they reached the state quarterfinals last year, as they held on for the win despite losing star forward Charlotte Jones via fouls with five minutes remaining in the game.

At the time Jones was whistled for her fifth foul Andrews was leading 58-53. The Lady Steers had just battled back from a 58-47 defict with 6:46 remaining in the game.

Jones had been the main thorn in the Lady Steers side all night. She started off slowly by making two of her first five shots. Then she got her turnaround jumper working in the second quarter and sank six of her next eight attempts. Propelling her team to a 35-29 halftime lead.

The 5-9 senior ended the game with 24 points and 9 rebounds. She and fellow foward Sherry Martin were the main reasons Andrews dominated play inside. Martin ended the night with 19 points and 10 rebounds and Andrews outrebounded Big Spring 37-21.

So dominant was the Mustangs' rebounding, Sheri Myrick, Big Spring's 6-1 forward, got only one rebound the entire game.

But with Andrews' big rebounding advantage and Big Spring's poor ball handling against the press, the Lady Steers still managbang-up job in the second half. She hit 4 of 6 shots in the period and chipped in five rebounds

Pruitt hit a couple of 10-foot bank shots against the press, Banks added a long bomb and Big Spring cut the lead to 58-53 at the 4:15 mark. A few seconds later Jones was whistled for her fifth foul. Katrina Thompson's driving layup cut the Andrews lead to 58-55 with 4:33 remaining.

Then Andrews' Melissa Reynolds hit from the corner, Banks answered with another bomb, cutting the margin to 62-57 at the 2:25 mark. Reynolds again hit from the corner and Pruitt answered with two free throws and Andrews led 64-59 with 1:47 remaining.

Big Spring got a chance to narrow the lead when Reynolds was charged with a technical foul. But Pruitt's attempt rolled off the rim with 1:36 showing on the clock.

Big Spring got the ball back and promptly threw the ball away. The Lady Steers got another chance when Banks got a steal and missed the layup, Pruitt got the rebound but the ball was stolen away by Lauri Hester.

Andrews' Rachael Trevino was fouled on the other end with 31 seconds left; and she missed the front end a a one-and-one. Big Spring's final chance came when Banks missed on a 20-footer. Trevino got the rebound and was fouled on the play with 17 seconds

This time she sunk both attempts, putting the final score at 66-59.

Texans drop Hawks

LEVELLAND - The Howard College Hawks' dropped their first Western Junior College Athletic Conference game, a 73-64 loss to the South Plains Texans last night at the Texas Dome

The Hawks went into the game after impressive wins over Western Texas and Frank Phillips. But the Texans, led by Von Joshua's 21 points, prevented the Hawks from capturing their third win.

It was a cold streak in the second half that led to Howard's downfall. After going in tied 34-34 at the half, Howard came back out and had problems putting the ball in the hole. Halfway through the second half the Texans had jumped out to a 62-50 lead and their was no catching up for the Hawks.

Sophomore guard Bruce Kimble led the Hawks in scoring with 24 points. Sophomore forward Walt Reynolds scored 10 points and freshman guard Walter Walker added 11 points. They were the only Hawks in double figures in the game.

Howard did limit South Plains' leading scorer Darrell Rudolph to 7 points.

Howard's overall record falls to 7-8 for the season.

The Hawks will take on New Mexico Militay Institute Thursday night at 8 p.m. at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. It will be their final game before the Christmas break.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Cornerback Gary Green returned an interception 41 yards for a touchdown with 3:24 remaining Monday night to give Los Angeles a 27-20 upset victory over the San Francisco 49ers and assure the Rams of at least a wild-card berth in the National Football League playoffs.

The Rams, 10-4, moved two games ahead of the 49ers in the National Football Conference West race. San Francisco's defending Super Bowl champions fell to 8-6 and probably will need victories in their last two regular-season games to have any opportunity to reach the playoffs.

The Rams were behind three times against the 49ers before tying the score 20-20 with 5:08 left in the final quarter. Dieter Brock threw a 39-yard touchdown to Henry Ellard, who grabbed the ball after it popped out of defender Dwight Hicks' hands. Mike Lansford's conversion tied

The 49ers started from their 23-yard-line after the Ellard touchdown and got one first down before Green made his sixth interception of the year and scored the winning touchdown. Joe Montana threw a short pass over the middle to running back Carl Monroe, but the ball popped away and into Green's grasp.

San Francisco's final possession ended when defensive end Gary Jeter forced a fumble, Montana.

College Hawk-Queens dropped a 75-55 decision to the South Plains Lady Texans here last night in Western Junior College Athletic Conference at the Texas Dome.

It was coach Don Stevens' Queens third consecutive conference loss in as many games, and their 10th in 15 tries Again is was a rough shooting night for Howard as it sunk only 30 percent from the floor and 15 of 27 free throws. Meanwhile its opponenets shot 48 percent from the floor while making 11 of 15 free throws. South Plains led 25-23 just before the half when it made a run, outscoring Howard 11-3 in a short span, taking a 36-26 halftime lead.

"We made some foolish fouls," said Stevens of South Plains' run. "They made 7 of 8 free throws during the run. After that we went into our zombie walk and never got back into the game.

Heisman winner heads All-Americans

By The Associated Press

Heisman Trophywinning tailback Bo Jackson of Auburn and Oklahoma nose guard Tony Casillas, the Lombardi Award recipient as the nation's top lineman. have been named to the Associated Press All-America team for the second time:

Jackson made it in 1983 but missed a year ago when he was limited to six games because of a shoulder injury. Besides Casillas, the other repeaters from 1984 are Illinois wide receiver David Williams and UCLA placekicker John Lee on offense and Oklahoma State tackle Leslie O'Neal, Iowa linebacker Larry Station and Arizona State defensive back David Fulcher on

The 1985 AP All-America team consist of 14 seniors, seven juniors and three sophomores - Michigan State running back Lorenzo White, Oklahoma linebacker Brian Bosworth and Colorado punter Barry Helton.

Miami (Fla.) tight end Willie Smith and West Virginia offensive tackle Brian Jozwiak moved up rushing with a Big Ten-record 1,908 from the second team a year ago as did Bosworth — while defensive tackle Tim Green of Syracuse was on the third team in 1984.

The rest of the All-America of- and finished third with 162.4 yards fensive unit consists of wide receiver Tim McGee of Tennessee, offensive tackle Jim Dombrowski of Virginia, guards Jeff Bregel of Southern California and John Rienstra of Temple, center Pete Anderson of Georgia and quarterback Chuck Long of Iowa.

Rounding out the defensive squad are lineman Mike Hammerstein of Michigan, linebackers Michael Brooks of LSU and Johnny Holland of Texas A&M and deep backs Thomas Everett of Baylor and Mark Moore of Oklahoma

The AP All-America team will be featured, as usual, on Sunday, Dec. 15, on the Bob Hope Christmas Show (NBC-TV, 9-10 p.m., EST). It will be Hope's 47th Christmas special on radio or television.

White, a virtual unknown at the start of the season, led the nation in a game, although his school-record total of 1,786 rushing yards was second best nationally. He is Auburn's career rushing leader with 4,303 yards, second in Southeastern Conference history. White and Jackson tied for second in scoring with 102 points on 17

TDs. White and Jackson finished fourth and fifth, respectively, in all-purpose rushing. Long, who turned down a chance to turn professional a year ago. was the nation's third-ranked passer, completing 231 of 351 passes for 2,978 yards and 26 touchdowns - all school records in leading Iowa to its first outright Big Ten championship in 27 years. Oilers give Campbell walking papers

HOSTON (AP) — Veteran Houston Oiler players are accustomed to the periodic furor: Another coach had been fired.

"I just wish we could get a coach in here that can stay awhile," backup quarterback Oliver Luck said. "It's been a revolving door. I've been here four years and this is my fourth head coach.

Hugh Campbell, the 12th coach in the troubled history of the National Football League franchise. received his firing notice Monday and defensive coodrinator Jerry Glanville, became the 13th man to call the Oilers' head coaching job his own.

At least on an interim basis for the final two games of the season. Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzeg fired Campbell Monday, hours after the Oilers had lost to the New York Giants 35-14, assuring the Oilers of their fifth straight losing season. "I'd be lying if I said it was a surprise," Luck said. "I personally liked him. If it's a move that will help the team in the long run, then I applaud it, but it's too early to judge.' Veteran wide receiver Tim Smith said the continued change would be easier on some of the older 'This will be my fifth head coach in six years," Smith said. "I think the veterans will adjust quicker than some of the young players. This is a young team so I hope we recover quickly. Oiler quarterback Warren Moon, who played for Campbell on the Canadian Football League Edmonton Eskimoes, took the news more personally than some of the players.

"I feel bad for him and his family right now," Moon said. "I know how much they liked it in Houston. I'm surprised that it happened now." Campbell was nearing the end of his second season with the Oilers and had compiled an 8-22 record as head coach.

Moon thought his former boss didn't get enough time to turn the Oiler program around.

"I think the team's showed a lot of improvement from last year," Moon said. "Any coach that's given just two years with a young team, I'm not sure he had enough time.

The Oilers rank 27th among the 28 NFL teams in total offense going into Sunday's next-to-last game of the season at Cleveland.

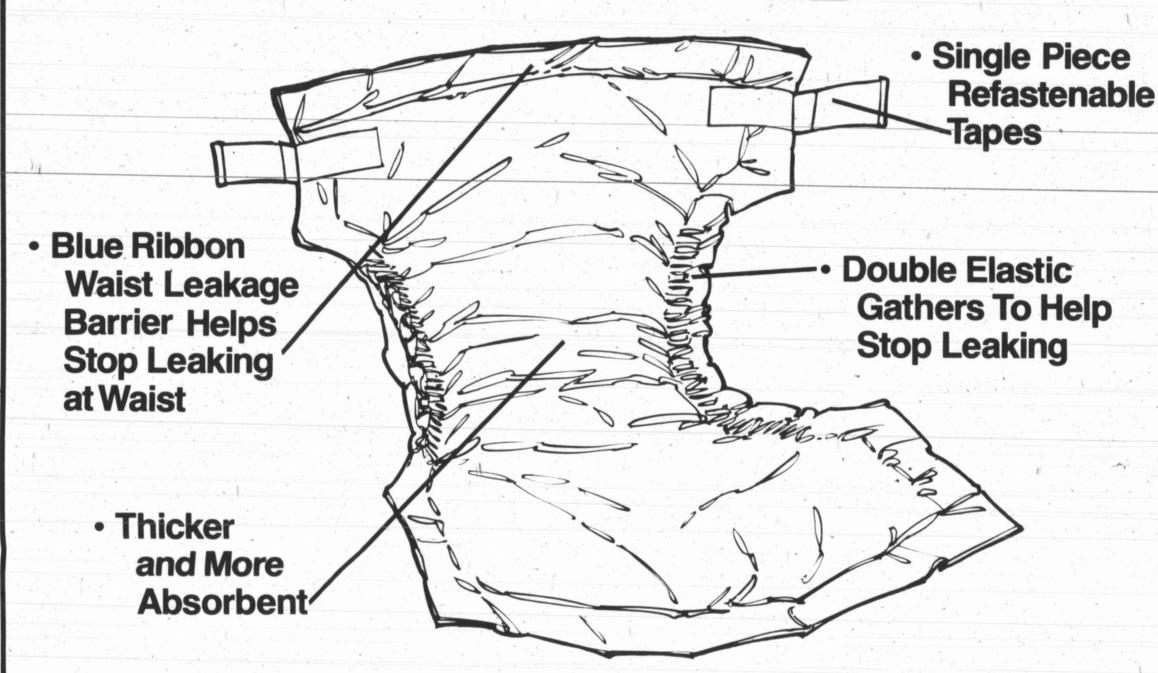

Running back Stan Edwards said he was shocked that Campbell was fired with two games remaining in the season

"There's two weeks left in the season so what's the reason," Edwards said. "Obviously, it was not done to salvage the season. I don't like to see anyone fired but losing does that.'

Americans

Continued from page 1-B quarterback in Big Ten history to pass for more than 10,000 yards. He finished with 10,142.

Williams caught 85 passes for 1,047 yards and is the No. 2 pass receiver in NCAA history with 245 catches in 33 games. His 7.4 catches per game is third on the NCAA career list and his 3,195 yards ranks fourth.

McGee grabbed 50 for 947 yards and became Tennessee's all-time leader in receptions, reception yardage and touchdown catches.

Smith, Miami's all-time reception leader with another year to go, caught 48 for 669 yards. He owns five of the top 10 single-game performances in Miami history, including nine receptions against Rice and eight against Maryland in Helton finished second nationally in punting with a 46.0-yard average while Lee made good on 21 of 24 field goal attempts and became the leading kicker in NCAA history with 79 of 92 regular-season threepointers. He had kicked 22 in a row before his first miss this season.

The juniors on the All-America team are Smith, Bregel, Brooks, Holland, Everett, Fulcher and Moore.

The team was selected by the AP's regional sports editors, along with the college football editor and the sports editor, from allconference and all-sectional lists.
