Reagan keeps heat on tax bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is making an 11th hour attempt to revive his tax overhaul bill while Congress, also facing deadlines of its own making, tries to finish a massive appropriations bill in time for the yearend recess.
Most of the major roadblocks preventing passage of the huge spending bill to finance most of the government have been cleared. But both the House and Senate need to act by tonight, which is the expiration date for the latest in a series of short-term spending bills approved last week and signed by President Reagan.

The new spending bill is necessary because Congress has been unable to agree on separate legislation appropriating money for many government agencies.
The catch-all appropriations bill will be the major focus as Congress tries to adjourn for the year, but the spotlight also will be on Reagan's lobbying attempt to revive tax reform.
He was scheduled to make a final pitch for tax reform in a visit today at the Capitol with House Republicans who joined with some Democrats to scuttle the tax measure last week.

"I'd like to make a personal request to the House of Representatives," the president said Saturday in his weekly radio address. "You have the opportunity to provide the relief that millions of Americans demand."
Last Wednesday, all but 14 House Republicans voted to block consideration of the bill, leading gusgestions the issue was dead for this year and perhaps for the remainder of Reagan's term.

Meanwhile, both chambers are scheduled to vote on a comprehensive farm bill that was worked out Saturday night by House-Senate negotiators who broke a bitter impasse over future dairy subsidies.
If the bill makes it to the president's desk, it is uncertain if he will sign it because of its cost.
Bills in the House and Senate to restructure the nation's primary farm lender, the $70 billion Farm Credit System, also were to be taken up. It appeared that rather than send the separate, but basically similar bills, to conference committee, the Senate would amend the House version and then send it back to the House and on to the president.

House-Senate negotiators on the appropriations bill agreed late Friday on a Pentagon spending package that provides $298.7 billion for defense — far less than the $322 billion originally sought by Reagan

Bargain-hunters have upper hand

Trees in varying shades of green stand in rows in a cold vacant lot. A pungent, evergreen smell permeates the air.
Children stuffed into fat ski boots and woolly caps wander among the rows while their parents haggle with the man in a gray, felt cowboy hat and fur-lined suede gloves to ward off the cold and pine needle prickles.
"It doesn't make any difference how much you cut down on (the tree's stated price), they want you to cut down some more," said Harold Gilmore of the Optimist Club Christmas tree lot at 10th and Gregg streets.
Gilmore is selling Scotch pines and noble, west and Oregon fir trees.
Business this year has been about the same as last year, he said, and prices are close to the same, too.
But Dan Alley, selling trees on Fifth and Gregg, said his prices are a little lower this year than in 1984.
This is Alley's first year selling trees in Big Spring. He's from just outside Eugene, Ore., he said. He and his wife, Cindy, stay in a camper on their Christmas tree lot.
Last year he sold his trees in Houston, but didn't do as well.
"We had to cut the prices below what we paid for them" because of a glut on the Christmas tree market in Houston, he said.
This year, he decided to try further west. Alley's grandmother, Bonnie Foster, lives in Sand Springs. He was born in Midland and spent the early years of his life in this area before he and his parents moved to Oregon. His father is now a Christmas tree farmer in Eugene.

The Douglas fir has been a bestseller so far, he said. He also sells Scotch pines and evergreen wreaths.
Douglas fir is "a fuller, more fragrant tree," he said. "The trees have sold themselves so far. We've had real good comments about how pretty the trees are, how nicely shaped."
Alley said he custom flocks trees on customer request, but flocking has not sold well in Big Spring. In Oregon, flocking was quite popular with businesses, he said, because the "snow" has a fire retardant. Oregon law states trees in public places must be fire retardant, he said.

Some grocery stores also are selling trees. Although the trees are not enticingly displayed as in other lots, being tied up in bundles and stacked against the store walls, the grocery store trees are selling well, said Winn Dixie manager David Parker.
"We've sold more so far this year than last year," he said. "We are anywhere from $10 to $30 per tree cheaper. That's the only way we can compete."
Parker said he expects to sell about 450 Scotch pines and douglas firs this year.

Analysts predict falling mortgage rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — In good news for home buyers, interest rates are likely to continue falling at least until spring as the nation's central bank throws its support behind a new deficit-cutting law, many economists predict.
Mortgage rates, which already are at their lowest levels in six years, could dip into the single-digit range, some analysts believe.
Much of the optimism stems from a belief that the Federal Reserve Board will be pushing rates lower as a way of showing support for the law passed last week by Congress which pledges to shrink the huge federal budget deficits to zero by 1991.

Federal Reserve policy-makers were meeting today and Tuesday behind closed doors to map strategy. While the results of those deliberations will not be made public until February, many analysts said they detected signs the central bank already has embarked on at least a modest loosening of controls over the money supply.

A key barometer of Fed policy, the federal funds rate, the interest that banks charge each other for overnight loans, dropped below 8 percent last week.
This decline, in part because of its timing, was widely interpreted as a signal that the Fed was easing monetary policy. It came as Congress was passing the Gramm-Rudman amendment, which sets a series of declining deficit targets over the next five years.

Fed Chairman Paul Volcker often has called for greater efforts on the part of Congress to get control of the deficit, Volcker complained that as long as the federal government crowded out private borrowing needs, there was little the Fed could do to lower interest rates.

"The Fed is taking the position that Gramm-Rudman represents real progress in reducing the deficit, and the central bank is keeping its part of the bargain by lowering interest rates," said Michael Evans, head of a

Texas A&M researchers build sensor to identify wind shear

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — A wind shear sensor that could detect the deadly weather condition and immediately alert airplane pilots is being developed by Lockheed-Georgia Co. by researchers at Texas A&M.
Officials of the aviation company said they hope to test the device next year on a Lockheed airplane.
Wind shear is a violent and sudden change in wind speed or direction that often is associated with thunderstorms. It has been cited as a possible cause of several airplane accidents, most notably the Aug. 2 crash of a Delta Air Lines jet in Dallas that killed 137 people.
Other mechanisms exist to detect wind shear, but the one being worked on at Texas A&M — a cylindrical tube mounted on the front of an airplane — differs in that it is not ground-based.

The new sensor would measure the degree of the wind change and provide visual and audio signals to the cockpit, Lockheed-Georgia spokesman Joe Dabney said.
"It would buy the pilot some time to respond," he said. "It may be just a few seconds but that could make the difference."
Claude Williams, an engineering manager at Lockheed-Georgia's Flight Systems Department, said the Marietta-based company, a major military contractor, became interested in the on-board aspects of the device because its airplanes must have the ability to land in "austere locations" — far from air traffic control facilities.

Dabney said development of the device originally was funded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which recommended that it be further investigated. Lockheed-Georgia picked up the project, awarding a $30,000 contract to Texas A&M to evaluate the device this year.
Work on the project currently involves tests on its effectiveness and the best way to display the sensor's signals in the cockpit.
He said the device will be installed next year in Lockheed's High Technology Test Bed, a flying laboratory for aerospace systems.

Highway rifle shot hits woman trucker

A Tennessee woman was treated and released for injuries she received Saturday night from a shooting on Interstate 20 near Big Spring.
Sheriff Dan Saunders of Martin County said Darlene Walker of Parsons, Tenn. was treated and released from Martin County Hospital for glass fragments in her right eye, arm and neck.
Saunders said she was driving an 18-wheeler semi-truck westbound on Interstate 20 around 6:30 p.m. when someone fired a .22 caliber rifle at her near the 175-mile marker of Interstate 20.

The mile marker is located between the Homestead Inn and the I-20 Exxon station west of the Big Spring.
Saunders said Walker drove the truck to the Fina Truckstop in Martin County and requested help.
The sheriff said the bullets entered the right side window of the truck on an upward path and were fired by "someone off to the side of the road."
"Once in a while we get these things," Saunders said. "It's either someone messed up on dope or a pervert."

Ms. Judge

San Angelo appointee guides her court with a soft touch

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Judge Marilyn Aboussie speaks softly in the courtroom, but everyone knows she carries a big stick.

With a bang of her gavel, Aboussie can send a person to the penitentiary, award big bucks to an injured party or grant divorces. She has forced the Tom Green county government to quit dragging its feet and build a juvenile justice center.

She is the first woman judge in Tom Green County, and one of fewer than a dozen female district court judges in Texas who regularly hear matters of general jurisdiction.

"She adds a nice touch to the court," said Assistant District Attorney Thomas McCoppin III. "She is an excellent judge."

Appointed by Gov. Mark White to the newly created 340th State District Court in 1983, Aboussie has earned top marks from the legal community in the two years she has served on the bench.

"She was a pleasant surprise," said attorney Tom Gossett. "I did not expect her to be as judicious as quickly as she did. She stepped in and acted like a judge very quickly."

But there are touches, as McCoppin said. A crystal water decanter and glass sit next to the gavel on the bench. Instead of the usual tie and short collar above the judicial robe, there might be a strand of beads.

Aboussie often pressures attorneys to settle cases rather than spend two or three days in hearings, attorney Max Parker said. In criminal cases, Aboussie has helped attorneys work out plea bargains when neither side believed a plea bargain was possible, Parker said.

Aboussie takes pride in settlements over which she has presided.

"The mark of an above average

Judge Marilyn Aboussie is judge in the 340th State District Court in San Angelo.

attorney is not to just represent the client, but to see all angles of the client's position — to inform the client of the strengths and weaknesses of the case," Aboussie said.

Guiding a client to a reasonable compromise that brings a fair settlement is another task of an attorney, Aboussie said.

"One of my strengths as an attorney was that I was willing to play devil's advocate with a client, to show how the other side or the judge might view the situation. I often encouraged a client to settle with less than perfect circumstances, if it was a fair resolution. Some attorneys are more active in that direction."

In the courtroom, while attorneys take firm positions regarding their clients, Aboussie is still interested in a fair resolution. "That's why the podium is raised. The judge is above all that (one-sided arguments)."

Finding a middle ground is an easy task, Aboussie said. A complicated lawsuit which requires her to be attentive is Aboussie's idea of fun. "I like something full of briefs to study and arguments to hear," she said.

Does she take hard cases home with her? "No," said the judge. "Well, I might be less attentive that evening. I might be in a crummy mood."

Aboussie thought a little longer. "It's impossible to leave the work completely behind. It's hard not to think about a heart-rending decision."

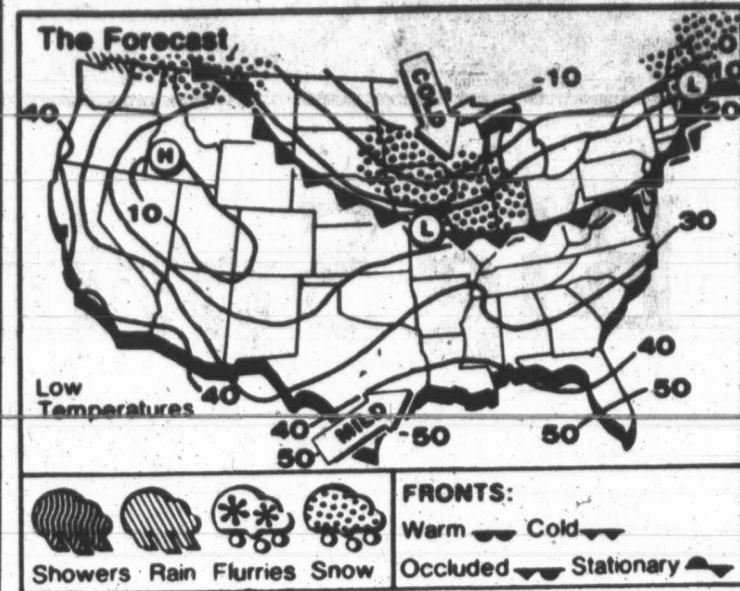

"At first I thought 'I'll never be able to send them down' (convicts to prison). But then I would remember I didn't cause them to commit the crime."

In court, Aboussie is courteous and kind to defendants. Viewers get the feeling the judge sympathizes with their plight. "I do. I guess it's the human interest part of what we do. If you divorce yourself from that — though I have to be detached — you become cold-hearted. I often am not in a position to do anything about it (their situation) or improve it for them."

"One of the things you learn is that it's impossible to please everyone. You will always make someone unhappy. People want a fair trial. If I consider the factors people think are important — if they feel they were treated fairly — then they're satisfied."

Most times Aboussie feels good about her decisions. "I seldom brood. Even a legally right decision doesn't bring the best results."

City posts retail sales well above 1984 levels

Big Spring and Midland continue to show increases in retail sales so far this year as compared to Abilene and San Angelo, according to sales tax rebate information released by the state's comptroller's office.

Big Spring has recorded a 6.5 percent increase year-to-date from 1984. Midland tops the area list at 13 percent. Abilene had less than one-half percent decline from 1984 while San Angelo posted a 5.8 percent increase.

The payments cities will receive soon from the state represent a 1 percent tax collected on sales made from July through October and reported to the state's comptroller office by Nov. 20.

Big Spring will receive a sales tax rebate of $80,626 compared to $112,091.66 for the same time period in 1984.

Coahoma continues to show a decline in total sales rebates received so far this year compared to 1984.

The city of Coahoma will receive a check for $2,007. So far this year, Coahoma has received $33,976 in sales tax revenue compared to last year's amount at this time of $35,926.

Forsan posted a huge percentage increase of 67 percent, racking up $20,478 so far this year compared to $12,227 in 1984. The current payment is $869.

Howard County has received sales tax revenue in the amount of $1,611,440 so far this year. This is a 6.7 percent increase from last year's $1,509,866.

This year's increases, however, are not a precise measure of retail sales growth because the 1984 Legislature approved a major increase in the sales tax base. Officials projected about a 5 percent increase due to the lifted tax exemptions.

Washington forecasting firm. Others analysts said that unless the Fed loosens credit conditions, it runs the risk that the big cuts in federal spending could plunge the country into a recession.

"If you are going to tighten fiscal policy, you had better loosen monetary policy or we will have a recession next year," said David Wyss, senior economist at Data Resources Inc., another private forecasting firm.

The Fed, through its control over monetary policy, seeks to allow the money supply to grow enough to provide for steady economic expansion while guarding against higher inflation.

Dog alerts couple to fire

A barking dog is credited with alerting a Big Spring couple that their brick home at 2803 Goliad St. was ablaze early Sunday morning, said Fire Chief Carl Dorton.

Firefighters were summoned at 1:26 a.m. and arrived at the home of Maurice and Maxine Collier as flames shot from the north side of the house, according to a fire department report. Firemen entered the home through the garage and battled the blaze for 40 minutes before getting it under control, Dorton said.

The couple told him that their pet dog's barking woke them in time to escape the blaze.

Despite dousing the flames with more than 2,000 gallons of water, Dorton said the house received relatively little water damage. Smoke damage, however, was heavy and the kitchen, utility room and garage were gutted by flames, Dorton said. A Cadillac parked in the garage was also damaged extensively, he said. The department estimated damage to the house and car at $100,000.

Dorton and Assistant Fire Chief Burr Lea Settles investigated the blaze later Sunday but could not determine the cause of the fire, Dorton said. But he did say the fire apparently started on the top of a bar in the kitchen area.

Dorton said a pattern connecting house fires with cold weather has become evident.

"When we have a cold spell that lasts four or five days, we have a house fire," he said. "We expect them during a cold snap."

The Colliers were the victims of another house fire about 3 1/2 years ago when they were living at Highland Drive, Dorton said. Maxine Collier told him she had just gotten over the last fire, he said.

City living hazardous

WASHINGTON — City-dwellers are about twice as likely as their suburban counterparts to become crime victims, according to a Justice Department analysis of 1983 crime reports.

Suburban residents also were more likely to be victims of violent crime in the nearest city than city dwellers were to be victims of such crimes in the nearby suburbs, the Bureau of Justice Statistics said in a survey released Sunday.

Twelve percent of violent crimes against suburbanites in 1983 happened in the nearest city, while only 5 percent of violent crimes committed in the suburbs involved people from nearby cities.

Arms package approved

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon finally has won approval to build new chemical weapons for the first time since 1969, a green light granted as part of a congressional deal which halted tests of the U.S. satellite-killer missile.

The agreement cleared the way for Congress to approve the Pentagon's budget as part of a huge catch-all appropriations bill providing money for a variety of government agencies.

Plane part falls off

REVERE, Mass. — A man who was attending a Hanukkah party at a home here says the "whole house shook" when a section of wing flap from a British Airways jet landed in the driveway as the plane approached the airport in Boston.

The section was one of two that fell from the jet Sunday afternoon. The other fell into the ocean.

The Boeing 747, carrying 254 passengers and 17 crew members, landed safely at Logan International Airport and there were no reports of injuries, an airport spokesman said.

Good looks an asset

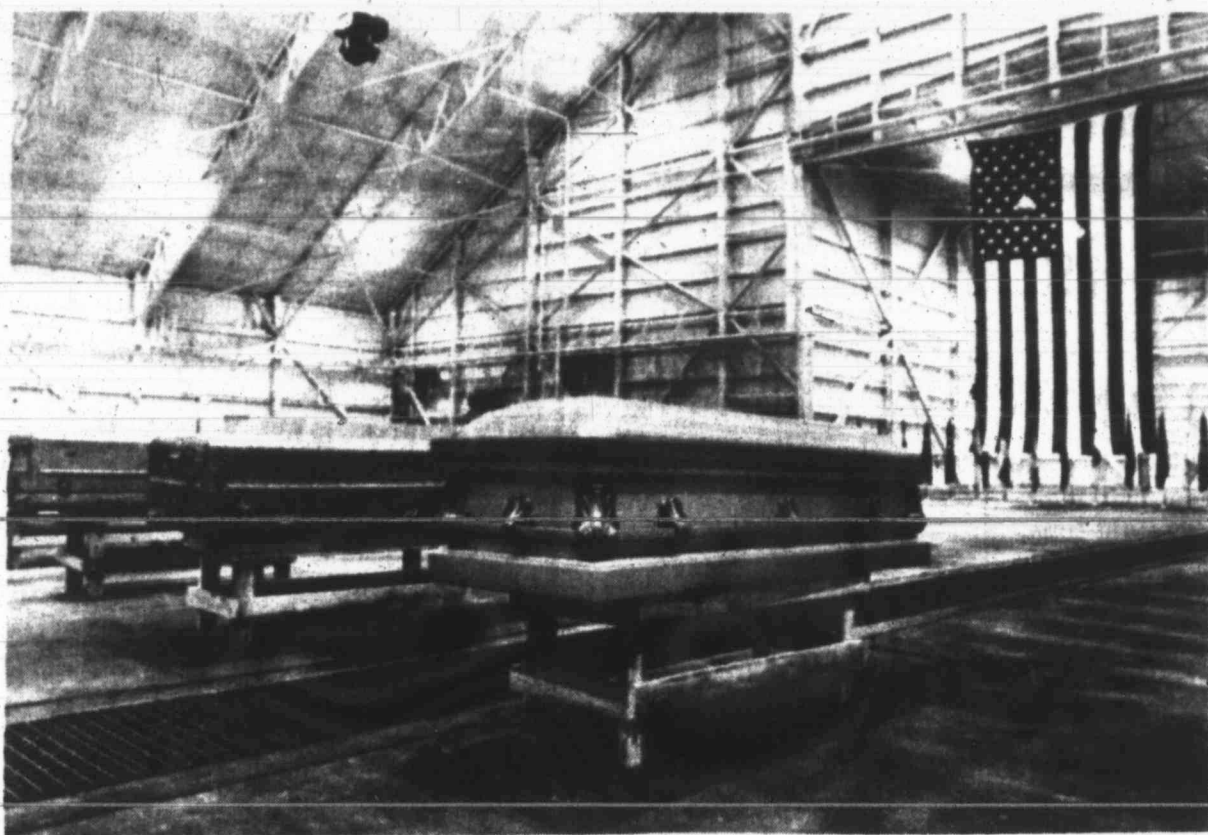

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — Good-looking children do better at school and athletics and get along better with other children than ugly kids, says a Pennsylvania State University study.

Richard M. Lerner, director of Penn State's Center for the Study of Child and Adolescent Development, said a child's self-concept, temperament, sexual development and other factors played much less of a role than did attractiveness.

Arson suspect on trial

EMHOUSE — Emhouse is a small Navarro County town with only 197 people, but it has suffered through a virtual epidemic of arson fires that created a reign of terror and destroyed the town's only store.

One of three men arrested in connection with some of the 15-16 arson fires here during the past two years was scheduled to go on trial at Corsicana today.

Reagan leads mourners of 'peacemakers'

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — President Reagan, saying "we grieve as a nation, together," led this military community today in mourning the deaths of 248 members of the 101st Airborne Division killed in an aircraft crash as they returned home from peacekeeping duties in the Middle East.

Reagan and his wife, Nancy, flew here from Washington to attend a memorial service honoring the 245 men and three women of the "Screaming Eagles" who died along with eight aircraft crew members Thursday in the crash of a chartered DC-8 in Gander, Newfoundland.

"Some people think of members of the military as only warriors, fierce in their martial expertise," Reagan said. "But the men and women we mourn today were peacemakers."

"They were there to protect life and preserve peace, to act as a force for stability and hope and trust."

"Their commitment was as strong as their purpose was pure," the president said. "And they were proud. They had a rendezvous with destiny, and a potential they never failed to meet."

The troops were killed as they returned home for Christmas after six months' duty with peacekeeping forces in the Sinai desert.

"You do not grieve alone," Reagan told families and friends of the victims.

"We grieve as a nation, together, as together we say goodbye to those who died in the service of their country," he added.

"In life they were our heroes; in death our darlings," he said.

Offering a prayer, the president said, "Receive, O Lord, into your heavenly kingdom the men and women of the 101st Airborne, the men and women of the great and fabled Screaming Eagles:

"They must be singing now, in their joy, flying higher than mere man can fly, as flights of angels take them to their rest."

Afterward, the Reagans were meeting with several families of the dead soldiers.

Because the hangar where Reagan was speaking accommodates about 500 people, only immediate family members and soldiers who had served in the Sinai force were being allowed to meet with the president and Mrs. Reagan, said Maj. Jim Gleisberg, a public affairs officer for the base.

The first 10 of the 248 bodies were to be flown later today from Canada to Dover Air Force Base, Del., where positive identifications will be made.

On Sunday, about 1,000 mourners, many weeping, gathered in the nearby town of Clarksville, Tenn., for an interdenominational service for the victims.

Sobbing women and men in uniform filled the church.

"The last song to be sung, the last sound to ring down through the corridor of this universe, is not going to be a funeral dirge and it's not going to be the nauseating sound of crashing of jets, it's going to be a hallelujah chorus," the Rev. George Gracey of the First Presbyterian Church of Clarksville said after reading the 23rd Psalm.

Spec. John Bishop said that he lost his best friend, Scott Gerdes, but that the community's drawing together has helped him with his personal grief.

"Seeing the president, the chief of staffs, all our chain of command, all the billboards outside — it's helping somewhat," Bishop said.

Diplomat Romulo dies

MANILA, Philippines — Former Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo, the last living signatory of the original U.N. charter and one of the world's best-known diplomats, died at age 86 in Manila's Kidney Foundation Hospital.

Romulo, who died Sunday, served all nine Philippine presidents, was the first Asian president of the U.N. General Assembly and three times held the post of U.N. Security Council president.

Agents to be returned

WELLINGTON, New Zealand — Prime Minister David Lange today said he may consider handing over to France two French agents who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the bombing of a Greenpeace ship if he has guarantees they will remain in prison.

But he told a news conference that given the concurrent 10- and seven-year sentences given the agents, there was no possibility of negotiation for early release.

Tass attacks Shultz

MOSCOW — The Soviet news agency accused Secretary of State George P. Shultz of dashing hopes of detente raised by the Geneva summit and charged Shultz made "anti-Soviet and anti-communist" remarks after a visit to the Berlin Wall.

In one of the harshest Soviet media attacks on a U.S. official since the summit, the official news agency Tass on Sunday also accused Shultz of misrepresenting the Geneva meeting as a U.S.-inspired effort that had resulted only from American firmness.

Cyclone kills seven

NEW DELHI, India — A cyclone that lashed southern India killed at least seven people, caused flooding and forced thousands to evacuate, the United News of India said.

The cyclone, with winds gusting up to 75 mph, struck Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu states early Saturday with strong winds and heavy rains, the news agency said Sunday.

An overflowing river cut off four villages in the Nellore district of Andhra Pradesh, it said. Electricity to hundreds of villages in the coastal districts has been disrupted following the downpour.

Deployment confirmed

DAMASCUS, Syria — State-run media said today that Syria is deploying Soviet-supplied surface-to-air missiles along its border with Lebanon despite warnings from Israel that the batteries would interfere with Israeli surveillance flights.

Syria also disclosed that it had acquired new Soviet naval vessels for President Hafez Assad's campaign to match Israel's sea power.

The world is beating up on Willie. So Willie's about to beat up on Willie Jr.

Willie hasn't worked in eight months. He stays home every night now, watching Willie Jr. while Sally waits tables down at the corner bar and grill. TV's busted. The fridge is empty. The bills are piling up. And now the kid is crying his head off at 1:30 in the morning. That sends Willie flying from his chair.

Time out, Willie.

Time out to cool off. Punch a pillow. Do some sit-ups. Get hold of yourself before you take hold of the kid. Sure you got problems. But he isn't one of them. So why make things worse by hurting a 6-month-old who's just asking for a dry diaper in the only way he knows how? Think about it, Willie. Think about it hard.

Congress' mail is shameful waste

The cost of franking privileges and government-paid mailings by the U.S. Senate has been revealed for the first time, and it is appalling.

In three months of this year, 100 senators have managed to spend $11 million, sending "junk mail" flyers to constituents. Most of the material is out-and-out campaign propaganda, issued by senators coming up for re-election in November. This is material that should come out of privately donated campaign funds, not the pockets of the taxpayers.

Worst of the Senate spendthrifts was California's Alan Cranston. His government-paid mail for the three-month period cost $1,632,832.

Cranston says his expenditure is justified because it is important to communicate with 26 million Californians — and that his mailing cost was only 6 cents per constituent. It won't wash. The total still is $1.6 million and it can't be excused.

Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., chairman of the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration, has been working for some time to get the closely guarded mailing costs opened to the public. He says the 1985 cost of the free-mail privilege in both the House and the Senate will run $144 million.

Mathias says the misuse of the mailing privilege is an embarrassing example of the waste of the taxpayers' money. We say the senator from Maryland is so right.

Cranston should be ashamed to lead this rip-off list.

Steve Chapman

Senate's sausages should go on TV

When the flyer for cable service arrived in the mail, I knew I shouldn't look. Life is too short for watching TV. And most of the programming would be wasted. Just $9.95 a month would bring into my home countless things I would never watch, except during a blizzard — rock videos, round-the-clock sports, continuous weather, country music. The cable firm could have thrown in free installation and an all-Bogart channel and it still wouldn't sell me.

But in this offer, the cable operator had played his ace: the Cable Satellite Public Affairs Network, known as C-span. For the modest monthly fee, I could ignore everything else and watch my Congress in action nearly every day. Committee hearings and floor debates on everything from offshore fishing rights to ambient air quality standards could be mine at the touch of a button.

There's just one hitch. Though the House of Representatives has allowed TV cameras into its chamber since 1979, the world's greatest deliberative body still conducts the public's business shielded from view. Anyone who wants to watch the Senate perform has to go to Washington. To the average citizen, its proceedings are no more accessible than the Politburo's.

But that may change. The chief obstacle to a televised Senate, Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, will be removed at the end of next year by voluntary retirement. And a recent C-Span poll found 67 members in favor of letting the cameras roll.

Still, there are doubts. Democrat Sen. James Exon of Nebraska told the Wall Street Journal that if the cameras show what really takes place during most floor debates — which is two or three members alternating at delivering monologues to an otherwise empty chamber — "we'd be exposing ourselves to unnecessary ridicule."

David Boren, an Oklahoma Democrat, scoffs that "most of what the Senate is doing is not on the Senate floor. It's in the committees or in Bob Dole's office." Others fear that senators, never inclined to shun the limelight, will behave even more insufferably on television than they do now. Majority Leader Dole is willing to admit cameras but demands rule changes to head off that threat.

Of course, many senators will probably conduct themselves abominably in front of the cameras, seeking to impress credulous constituents who mistake grandiloquent oratory for concrete achievements. But the sum total of obnoxious behavior isn't likely to rise.

The cameras will merely reallocate it. The Senate's existing privacy provides a cover for all sorts of dilatory and obstructive tactics. Putting it on TV will discourage these somewhat, since nobody wants to look like a jerk in front of the folks at home. That could speed the Senate's often glacial pace.

At the same time, the coverage will encourage those members who love publicity. It was said of one member that there is no more dangerous place on Capitol Hill than the one between him and a TV camera. He and any number of his colleagues will not be rendered more modest by additional opportunities to preen.

Still, publicity-hungry politicians are one of the bearable costs of our system. It may underestimate the judgment of the nation's C-Span addicts to presume that they can't separate the show horses from the work horses. Senators who get carried away by being beamed coast-to-coast may not do themselves any good at home.

Bismarck said no one should see how sausages or laws are made. But the operating assumption of a democracy is that exposing either to public view is bound to improve the ingredients. If the public is permitted to view the Senate through the foggy lens of the Congressional Record, it ought to be allowed the better look provided by modern technology.

Letting cameras on the Senate floor is a modest concession to the legitimate interest of the public in matters of government. Once that's done, we can figure out how to televise what goes on in Bob Dole's office.

Hostage Buckley, CIA chief, has been killed by Iranians

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — William Buckley, one of the six American hostages kidnapped by Shiite Moslem extremists, is dead.

The State Department's official position is that "we assume that he is alive and have been operating on that principle." But the CIA, for which Buckley worked, has highly sensitive intelligence information that leaves no doubt of Buckley's death.

From our intelligence sources, we have pieced together the gruesome details of Buckley's captivity and death, and can disclose the nation responsible: Iran. In fact, he died in a Tehran hospital from a heart attack brought on by months of torture.

The 57-year-old Buckley was officially listed as a political officer with the American Embassy in Beirut. Actually, he was the CIA station chief. A brave and effective intelligence professional who had served earlier in Vietnam, Buckley was painfully aware of the risks that were an inescapable part of his job. Friends say that's why he never married — he didn't want to cause suffering to a wife and children in the event of his death.

Ironically, Buckley devoted much of his time and energy to developing information that might prevent terrorist attacks on Americans in the Middle East. He did not hire local contract agents for missions of violence.

Buckley was kidnapped by Shiites on March 16, 1984, and taken initially to the eastern Bekaa Valley, a Syrian-controlled hotbed of Iranian terrorists and revolutionary guards. One source says the CIA believes it was the Syrians who disclosed Buckley's true identity to his captors, the Hezbollah (Party of God).

There is no doubt that Buckley was brutally tortured over a long period. His appearance had changed shockingly in a videotape released by his captors last January.

Because anyone can be broken under severe enough torture, the CIA had to assume that Buckley may have revealed some information eventually. Some undercover operations were changed or curtailed as a result.

Buckley was taken to the Iranian revolutionary guard (Pasdaran) headquarters at Baalbek, Lebanon, for repeated interrogations. Then, in early March 1985, the Hezbollah, apparently fearing the Syrians would turn Buckley loose, arranged to transport him secretly to Iran. He was disguised as an injured Pasdaran soldier and flown with several wounded revolutionary guards to Damascus in a Syrian army helicopter.

The same day, Buckley and at least one authentic Iranian soldier were put aboard an Iran Air 727, which had just brought a high Iranian official to the Syrian capital, and were flown to Tehran. The American agent's first place of captivity was a house on Fereshteh Street in a northern suburb of Tehran.

Buckley was interrogated — and tortured further — in the basement of the Iranian foreign ministry. He required frequent medical treatment, which included at least one stay in a Tehran hospital. In late March, an Iraqi bomb landed in Fereshteh Street, narrowly missing the house where Buckley was being held. He was hastily moved to a revolutionary guard camp (called Salehbad), near the Shiite holy city of Qom.

It was there, probably between April 10 and 15, that Buckley suffered a heart attack induced by torture and captivity. He was taken to a hospital in Tehran and died soon after.

Even in death, Buckley's murderers tried to use him. The Islamic Jihad, a group closely linked to Hezbollah, announced last October that they had "executed" Buckley. They released a grisly Polaroid picture of him in a coffin, and tried to trade his body for 100 Palestinian prisoners held by Israel.

Footnote: The U.S. government is still denying the only thing William Buckley can now claim as his own: his death. We hope the American people won't allow the country's forgotten hostage to remain forgotten. He deserves the Medal of Honor, not obscurity.

PROPAGANDA'S PRICE: The extent of the U.S. Information Agency's worldwide propaganda effort may surprise you. Here's just one indication: The air freight bill for the agency's regional service center in the Philippines is $250,000 a year. It's one of three such facilities. Described in a State Department inspection report as "an enormous printing and shipping operation which is located in a huge factory-type building on the embassy's sea-front compound," the Manila plant produces the color magazine Dialogue, and the picture magazine Amerika for distribution in the Soviet Union.

READER FEEDBACK: Joe Brand of Stanton, Miss., took offense at our recent report on the National Rifle Association's political contributions. "To use campaign figures to insinuate that a congressman has been bought off is reprehensible. ... If you condemn the NRA for this practice, then you should do likewise to Handgun Control Inc.," he wrote. Fair enough: Handgun Control's political action committee donated $97,323 to congressional candidates in 1983-84; the National Rifle Association's Victory Fund gave candidates $700,324.

Billy Graham

How do I take Christ?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do I have to go forward in a crusade (such as you have) in order to have my sins forgiven? I think I've heard it said that if we don't accept Christ publicly He will not forgive us. — Mrs. E.W.

DEAR MRS. E.W.: No, you don't need to go forward in a crusade; you can come to Christ by yourself right where you are. The only thing that's necessary is for you to turn to Jesus Christ in repentance and faith, trusting Him as your Lord and Savior and committing your life to Him. When you do that, He has promised to come into your life and give you eternal life.

One of the most important truths of the Bible is that God knows what's going on in our hearts and minds. The Bible says: "Nothing in all creation is hidden from God's sight. Everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give account" (Hebrews 4:13).

On the one hand, that means we cannot hide our sins from God — whether they're wrong actions we have committed, or evil thoughts or motives. But it also means that when we truly turn to Christ, God knows what our honest desire is and He receives us by His grace.

The Bible promises, "If you confess with your mouth, 'Jesus is Lord,' and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. For it is with your heart that you believe and are justified, and it is with your mouth that you confess and are saved" (Romans 10:9-10).

At the same time, the Bible commands us to take a public stand for Christ. If we don't it means our faith is not real.

How do we do that? We take a public stand for Christ as we live for Him every day, following Him in the midst of the pressures and temptations of the world. Don't delay any longer. Turn to Christ right now and accept Him as your Savior and Lord.

In 1982, Environmental Protection Agency head Anne M. Gorsuch (later Burford) became the first Cabinet-level officer to be cited for contempt of Congress.

Ten years ago: Sara Jane Moore's guilty plea in the attempted assassination of President Gerald R. Ford was accepted in federal court in San Francisco.

Five years ago: President-elect Ronald Reagan chose General Alexander M. Haig to be his secretary of state, and Raymond Donovan his labor secretary; hundreds of thousands of people in Gdansk, Poland, dedicated a workers' memorial; and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided to let crude oil prices rise as much as $4 a barrel.

El Paso stores put culprits on notice

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Several major department stores are presenting arrested shoplifters with written notices informing them they are no longer welcome — and could face arrest for simply walking in the front door.

Using provisions of the state's criminal trespass law, the Popular Department Store has compiled an unwelcome list of hundreds of people, including employees dismissed for theft, said Jorge Hernandez, security director for the three-store chain.

"We use it almost every day. It's a store policy and there have been several convictions," Hernandez said. "It's the law."

The misdemeanor criminal trespass charge carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Police Lt. Gary White, a supervisor in the district covering the city's largest mall, said use of the statute is widespread in this far West Texas city, especially during the Christmas shopping season.

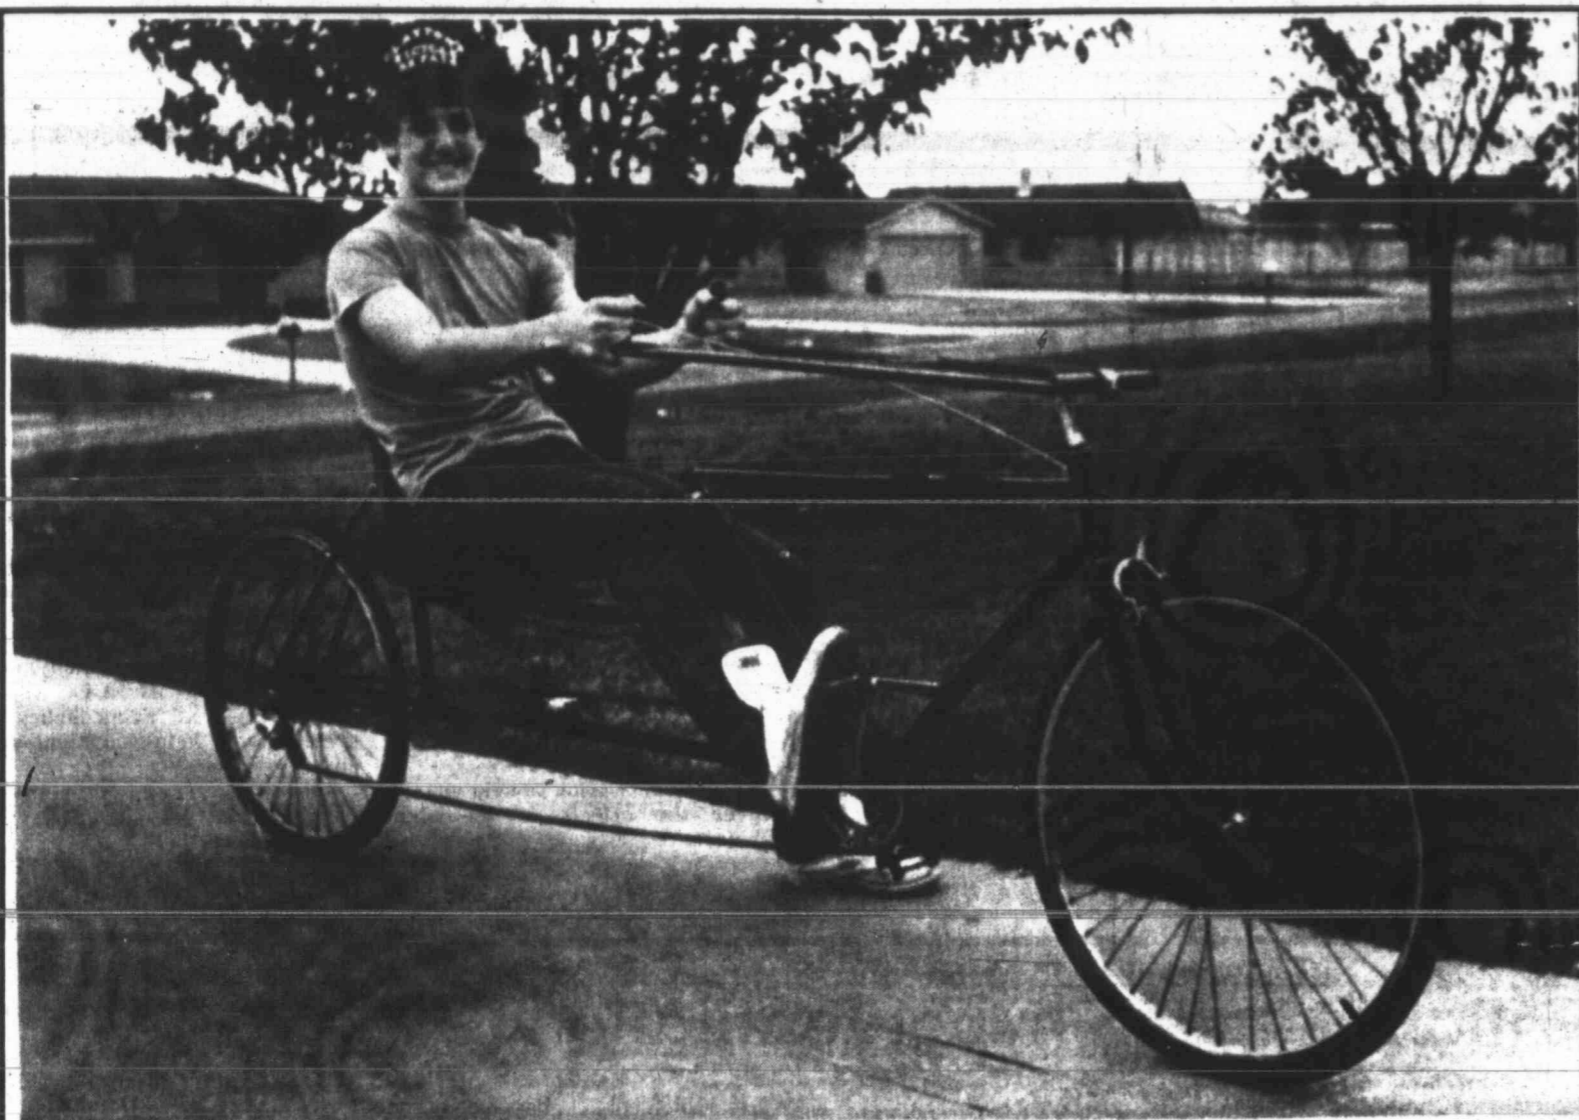

"They do it quite a bit at Cielo Vista Mall and at the discount houses," White said. "They take the shoplifters' pictures and advise them they are not welcome back in the store again."

"When they come back in the store and they have been advised, then we press charges on criminal trespass, even if they are not shoplifting," he said. "It's helped us make cases against people who were giving out false information."

Some outlets, including Dillard department stores, use a modified version of the tactic. Security director Shirley Perdue said her store gives offenders verbal notices, does not take pictures and rarely calls police if the suspects return.

Instead, Dillard's security staff members remind the suspects of the previous warnings about criminal trespass and escort them out, she said.

A security worker at Sears, Roebuck & Co. said his store's written notice to shoplifting suspects is effective in keeping them out "99 percent of time."

Fifteen-year-old Shane Clayton of Sulphur Springs sits on his revolutionary 8 1/2-foot long bicycle. The purpose of the new design, Clayton said, is to make the bike more aerodynamic and more efficient.

Boy's invention has modern features

SULPHUR SPRINGS (AP) — The old saying goes, "Build a better mousetrap, and the world will beat a path to your door." But if you build a better bicycle, will the world also hasten to knock down your door?

No, says Shane Clayton, but interest is trickling in.

Clayton, a Sulphur Springs eighth-grader, recently put the finishing touches on a revolutionary new bicycle that is 8 1/2-feet long and uses the rider's body as an aerodynamic shield.

The handlebars and pedals are designed so that the rider leans back in the chair-like seat, making the bicycle more aerodynamic than when a rider hunches over the handlebars, said the inventor, the son of Danny and Elaine Clayton.

"You kind of lay back on it, and it's easier," Clayton explained. "On my bike, you use your back, your arms and your legs because of the way you sit on the bike. On a regular bike, you just use your legs."

Clayton, who runs his own bicycle repair shop in a shed behind his house, said the idea for the bicycle just came to him because of his cycling experience.

"I got the idea just from myself really," he said. "I've been cyclist all of my life."

His experience dates to the age of 7, when he started "tearing apart bikes." Learning the detailed workings of the two-wheeled creatures at such an early age made it possible for him to piece together in his mind the structure of his new bicycle, and then transfer that idea into a metal reality, he said.

The bike uses four regular chains put together — 901 links — and is a three-bicycle conglomeration. "All of the bike is alloy, except for two bars, which are steel," Clayton said. One of the bikes that went into manufacturing of the prototype was his own racing bicycle.

"I used to do a lot of racing but not any more since I used my racing bike to make this one. But this one is faster than a regular 10-speed, anyway."

He raced a conventional 10-speed once, he said, and although the regular bike led him at the start, Clayton said he breezed past the conventional cycle near the end of the race.

The energetic 15-year-old said that although he hasn't gotten an opinion from a large bicycle manufacturer, he has been offered $600 for his prototype from a local resident.

"I turned that down," he said. "My dad and I were talking about making some more, but I would like to see what the bicycle shops have to say."

Designing the bike was no quick process: Clayton said it took six months to design it and get the parts together. Clayton's friend, Pete Gregory, welded the pieces together.

"We spent a couple of hours in the garage and then he brought it in the next day," Clayton said. "I just told him where I wanted everything."

The end result is sort of a two-wheeled Cadillac — a long and low, laid-back riding machine. Although his invention looks difficult to steer, Clayton said he has had no problems with the steering, the elongated chain or any other bicycle part.

But he has had to make a variation. Originally, the bike had two brakes: one for the back wheel and one for the front wheel. Clayton, however, took the back brake off when he found it inconvenient. He added that he plans to redesign the brake and put it back on.

"Sure it's practical," Clayton insisted. "I ride it all the time."

Dear Abby

Have a little drink? Use a little sense

DEAR ABBY: Our 16-year-old son brought his high school newspaper home, and an article titled "Have a Little Drink?" appeared on the front page. It was from your booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know," and printed with your permission.

My husband agrees that it should be run in your column so that children all over the country can read it. Please do, Abby.

JIMMY'S PARENTS,
MILWAUKEE

DEAR PARENTS: Here's the piece:

HAVE A LITTLE DRINK?

Now about drinking:

Are you afraid to say no when someone in the crowd says, "Aw, come on, have one..."? Don't be. If someone offered you a Coke, and you didn't like Coke, you wouldn't hesitate a second to say, "No thanks."

It's just as easy to turn down beer, wine or liquor, and far, far wiser. Those in the crowd who really count will respect your refusal. Why should you care what the others think?

Alcohol dissolves almost anything — including your judgment. Under its influence, you may do things you shouldn't and wouldn't do normally.

Most people think of an alcoholic as a smelly old bum sleeping it off in a doorway.

But would you believe there are alcoholics as young as 10 years old?

Or that automobile accidents caused by drunken driving are the No. 1 cause of death among teenagers?

Or that teen-age alcoholism is so bad a problem that many states are upping their drinking-age limits?

It's true.

Alcoholism is now considered a disease, not a character flaw to be ashamed of. Just why one drinker becomes an alcoholic and another doesn't is still a puzzle. But one thing is certain: Alcoholism is self-induced and self-destructive.

This is not to say that a can of beer or an occasional cocktail will start you on your way to skid row. For the vast majority, it won't. But for a few, alcohol can be a bomb, a time bomb.

How can you tell? There are clues: If...

You're having three while others are having one...

You need a drink to make you feel more relaxed, comfortable and at ease with people...

You drink because it gives you self-confidence and courage...

You turn to alcohol in times of stress or trouble — to "forget" ...

You drink alone...

You take a drink to help you get over the effects of the night before...

Then you could be an alcoholic, and shouldn't drink at all. Even if you drink only beer, you can become an alcoholic. It's not what you drink, but how much.

If you think you've got a drinking problem, help is as near as your telephone. In every city, even in small towns, there's an organization called Alcoholics Anonymous (better known as AA) whose members — all ex-alcoholics — are ready to help you night and day.

And it's free. It's also "anonymous." No one will say he saw you there.

Dr. Donohue

Relaxation helps in hyperventilation

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a hyperventilator and at times I think I am going to have a heart attack. Is it true that hyperventilating can mean a person is more prone to heart attack? My husband dismisses the idea. Can you comment? And have you heard that biofeedback can be good for a hyperventilator? — Mrs. N.N.

Hyperventilation is overbreathing, and it has nothing to do with the heart. People who hyperventilate are not at any greater risk for heart attack than others.

When we overbreathe we release too much carbon dioxide from the lungs. This alters the blood's chemical balance. It becomes alkaline.

Most people overbreathe in response to emotional stress. Those who are more sensitive to such stress are more prone to hyperventilation. Are you that type of a person?

Now, although I said the hyperventilation imposes no special risk of heart attack, you can never dismiss your symptoms whenever they occur. Often they are very similar to those experienced in heart disturbance.

In hyperventilation, the change in blood chemistry causes strange sensations — numbness, especially around the mouth, dizziness, even chest pain. These subside as soon as normal respiration returns.

But, even if you have been told that you are a hyperventilator, you should not automatically interpret symptoms that I've mentioned as a consequence of that problem. And I am assuming here that your problem has been diagnosed.

Relaxation techniques, including use of biofeedback, have been used in hyperventilation. You can learn how to control your overbreathing episodes that way. The often-mentioned technique of breathing into a paper bag works, but it should be a temporary measure only. It helps restore the blood acid balance during attacks by getting some carbon dioxide back into the blood. If you can learn to use your breathing muscle (diaphragm) better through relaxation or some other way, so much the better.

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age.

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample write today to: Department 65:25, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, IL 60646.

Dallas Cowboys team members Dennis Thurman (32), Ron Fellows (27), Everson Walls (24), and John Duffton (78) react to wide receiver Mike Renfro's (82) 33-yard catch against the New York Giants Sunday afternoon in Irving. Making the stop for the Giants is cornerback Ted Watts.

NFC East champions

Pokes hold off Giants

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Take years of championship experience, mix it with Too Tall Jones' long arms, Jim Jeffcoat's opportunistic hands and blend it with clutch defense and an abundance of luck. What do you have?

The Dallas Cowboys' first NFC East title since 1981 and the New York Giants without a championship for 22 years and still needing a win next week to clinch a National Football League playoff spot.

The Cowboys won their championship Sunday by beating the New York Giants 28-21 in a game that turned on two touchdowns in a 46-second span of the second quarter just as New York seemed to be ready to take a two-TD lead at intermission.

The key play was a 65-yard touchdown ramble with an interception that Jones swatted out of the air and directly into the hands of his fellow defensive end. "We could not have won on offense alone," said Coach Tom Landry, who before the season had predicted a fourth-place finish for his Cowboys, who failed to make the playoffs last season for the first time in a decade.

"This is as good a team effort as a Cowboys team has ever had. We had to have it from every area because we were running out of gas on offense. You can't measure it in terms of games that you won to get to the Super Bowl, but it's a big one to win after the disappointments of the last few years."

"This is the biggest win I've had in four years," said Tony Dorsett, whose 92 yards in 19 carries constituted much of the Dallas offense. The Cowboys won despite losing to injury their top two quarterbacks, Danny White and Gary Hogeboom and they won despite being outgained 396 yards to 273. Yet Steve Pelluer, who took his first regular-season snap in two seasons, moved Dallas 72 yards in 11 plays for what proved to be the winning touchdown with 4:06 left in the game.

They also had some good fortune, starting with Phil McConkey's drop of a sure touchdown pass all alone on the Dallas 20 on New York's first series.

But most important was the Jones play.

Dallas took a 7-0 lead on Hogeboom's 58-yard scoring pass to Mike Renfro on the final play of the first period. But New York came right back, scoring twice on a 7-yard touchdown pass from Phil Simms to Bobby Johnson and a 10-yard TD pass from Simms to Tony Galbreath that was set up by Elvis Patterson's interception.

Then the Giants drove smartly from their own 20 to the Dallas 22 at the two-minute warning. But on the first play after the stoppage, Jones swatted the ball out of the air directly to Jeffcoat, who had nothing to do but ramble into the opposite end zone to tie it.

Added Simms, who finished the day with 24 completions in 50 attempts for 329 yards:

"Those things happen. There's nothing you can do about it. I looked for the ball and didn't see it. I found it about 10 seconds later and 60 yards down the field."

They kept happening.

On the next series, the Cowboys registered two of their five sacks — one each by Jones and Jeffcoat — and backed the Giants to the 12. On fourth down, Everson Walls came straight at Sean Landeta, who couldn't get the punt off, and finally just heaved the ball away to give the Cowboys the ball at the 12.

Then, on the first play, White, back in the game briefly, hit Renfro over Patterson for a touchdown.

Most of the second half was controlled by the Giants, who had one point had outgained the Cowboys 125 to 10 in the half as Dallas was down to Pelluer.

But with 8:38 to go in the game, the Giants faked a field goal from the Dallas 25. But holder Jeff Rutledge, trying to run, was dumped and fumbled and Michael Downs recovered for Dallas.

Eleven plays later, Tim Newsome batted in from the one and Dallas seemed safe with a 28-14 lead.

"I never had any trouble sending Pelluer in," Landry said of the man who engineered the final drive. "He never changes expression. He's worse than I am."

But the Giants weren't finished. Simms moved the Giants briskly down the field and Joe Morris, who gained 80 yards in 21 carries, capped the 73-yard drive by taking it in from the one with 2:09 left.

Then after an out of bounds play and an incomplete pass stopped the clock, New York got the ball back again on its own 39 with 1:37 left and Simms promptly hit Byron Williams for 45 yards to the Cowboys 16.

But Randy White sacked Simms on third down and Victor Scott picked off a desperation fourth-down pass and that was it.

Los Angeles claims two NFL winners

By BARRY WILNER

AP Sports Writer

Call Los Angeles the City of Winners — at least for this week.

Throw in Dallas and, of course, Chicago.

That's where four of the National Football League's six division titles sit after the 15th weekend of action. Another crown — the AFC East — could be decided tonight if New England wins at Miami.

Other than that, things remain somewhat muddled heading into the final weekend of the season. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Denver and the New York Jets still hold playoff hopes in the AFC, while the New York Giants, Washington and the defending champion San Francisco 49ers are alive in the NFC wildcard scramble.

A couple of rookie quarterbacks and the league's leading rusher were among the heroes Sunday as the Rams, Raiders and Cowboys clinched their respective division championships. Dieter Brock, the 34-year-old refugee from the Canadian Football League, had his best day as an NFL quarterback by tossing for four touchdowns in a 46-14 rout of St. Louis that gave the Rams the NFC West title, their first since 1979.

Marcus Allen grabbed the NFL rushing lead with 109 yards on 27 carries, including on a 7-yard run with 6:09 to play for the only touchdown, as the Raiders took the AFC West with a 13-3 win over Seattle, eliminating the Seahawks from playoff contention. It was the eighth consecutive 100-yard rushing game for Allen.

Steve Pelluer, Dallas' third-string quarterback, took over when Danny White and Gary Hogeboom were injured and engineered a 72-yard drive in the fourth quarter for the winning TD as the Cowboys knocked off the Giants 28-21 for their first NFC East crown in four years.

The other division champ, the Bears, upped their record to 14-1 by stymying the New York Jets 19-6 on Saturday. Chicago has the homefield advantage throughout the NFC playoffs.

Cleveland took sole possession of the top spot in the AFC Central with a 28-21 win over Houston, while Cincinnati was beaten 37-24 by Washington. The Browns will win the division if they beat the Jets next Sunday or if either Pittsburgh or Cincinnati loses next weekend.

Denver remained in the wildcard hunt on Saturday when it edged Kansas City 14-13.

Also on Sunday, it was Pittsburgh 30, Buffalo 24; Green Bay 26, Detroit 23; Indianapolis 31, Tampa Bay 23; Atlanta 14, Minnesota 13; San Francisco 31, New Orleans 19, and San Diego 20, Philadelphia 14.

Rams 46, Cardinals 14
Brock was helped by Eric Dickerson, who ran for 124 yards and two scores, as Los Angeles broke the game open with a 36-point first half. Brock threw touchdown passes of 13 yards to Ron Brown, 47 to Tony Hunter, and 43 to Henry Ellard as the Rams' topped their previous game-high this season of 35 points with their big opening half. Brock also hit Hunter on a 3-yard TD toss.

"We're the Western Division champs and we deserve it," said Coach John Robinson. "I think the 49er game (a 27-20 victory last Monday) got the monkey off our back. And we won the division championship over the world champions, the 49ers."

Raiders 13, Seahawks 3
The Raiders won their fifth straight game as Allen continued to motor through opposing defenses. Allen's touchdown run came on the first play after Marc Wilson connected on a 49-yard bomb to Dokie Williams.

The Raiders defense held Seattle to 201 total yards and forced four turnovers.

"We wanted to win the Western Division and we want to get the home-field advantage," said Allen.

"We're still not satisfied. We still have a lot to accomplish."

Browns 28, Oilers 21

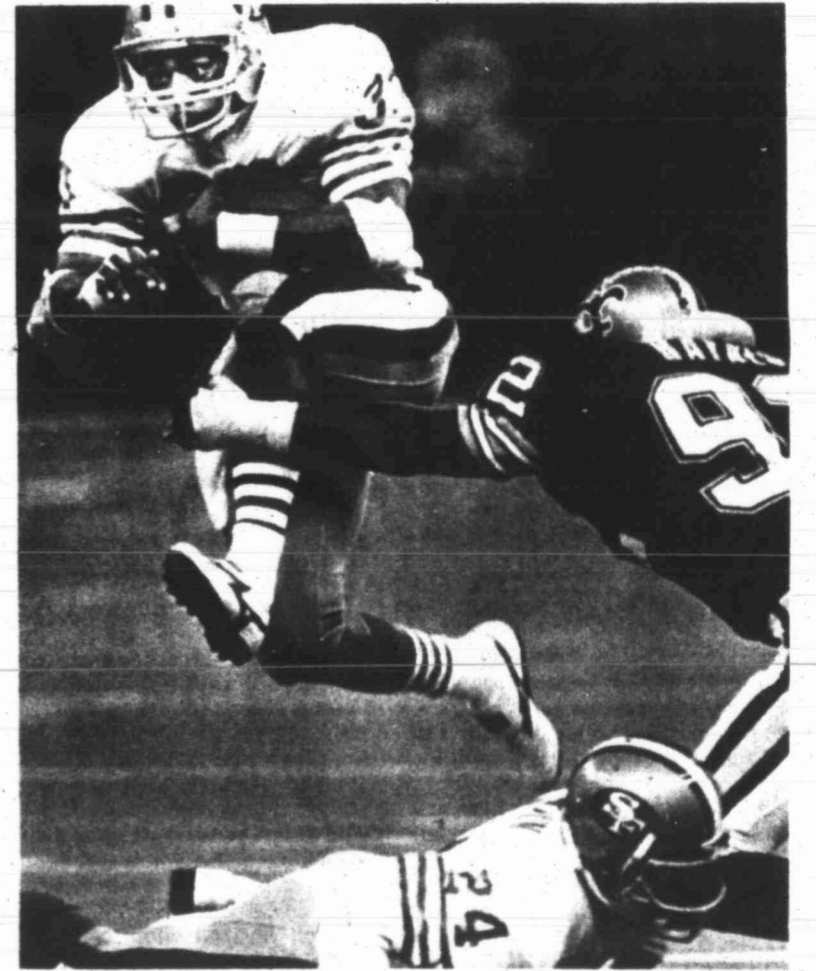

Bernie Kosar, another rookie quarterback, had his best performance as a professional with three short touchdown passes and a 2-yard scoring run. Kosar completed 14 of 28 passes for 161 yards without an interception.

Cleveland is 8-7 and can only lose the Central crown if it finishes in a three-way tie with the Bengals and Steelers at 8-8. Then Cincinnati goes by virtue of a better record in game played between the three teams.

Redskins 27, Bengals 24
Cincinnati built a 24-7 lead as QB Boomer Esiason passed for two touchdowns and halfback James Brooks for one. But Washington QB Jay Schroeder, playing with damaged ribs, led a stirring comeback.

Schroeder, who at one point called a timeout when he went down to hold for a field goal attempt only to find he couldn't stand up because of the pain, completed 18 of 35 attempts for 273 yards and one touchdown. Monk caught 13 passes for 230 yards, both Redskins records.

"He was an inspiration to me, to the whole team," said Monk. "He had a lot of pain. He stuck in there. See NFL page 3-B

Permian, Yates set for 5A title game

By CHARLES RICHARDS

Associated Press Writer

Odessa Permian and Houston Yates, two teams with rich football tradition, headline a slate of five championship games next weekend that will wrap up the 1985 high school football season in Texas.

Permian and Yates will meet at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in Texas Stadium at Irving for the Class 5A title that Permian shared with Beaumont French last season.

A victory would give the Panthers their fifth state title and third of the past five seasons. It also would make Permian the first team to repeat as state champion in the state's big school classification since Austin Reagan in 1967-68.

Yates, which finished the regular season atop the Associated Press 5A rankings, wants to become the first Houston school to win state since Lamar captured the trophy 32 years ago, in 1953.

In other state title matches next weekend:

— Tomball and Sweetwater play for the 4A championship at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Amon Carter Stadium in Fort Worth.

— Daingerfield and Cuero fight for the 3A crown at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Baylor Stadium in Waco.

— Electra and Groveton clash for the 2A trophy at 7 p.m. Saturday at UTA Stadium in Arlington. — Goldthwaite and Runge meet for the 1A title at 8 p.m. Friday at Georgetown.

Tomball, the No. 1-ranked team in 4A at regular season's end, advanced to the championship game by beating New Braunfels 32-21. Sweetwater scored late in the game for a 21-21 tie with Austin Westlake and advanced on a 7-4 penetration edge.

In the 3A semifinals, Daingerfield defeated Vernon 20-12 while Cuero was rallying from a 36-14 deficit in the third quarter to beat Van Vleck, 38-36, on a field goal in the game's final second.

In 2A, Electra lived up to its season-long No. 1 ranking by easily defeating Hamlin 35-19, and defending state champion Groveton beat Shiner 21-8.

In 1A, Goldthwaite eliminated No. 1-ranked and defending champion Monday, 23-7. The Moguls, who had won 30 straight games encompassing all of the 1984 and 1985 seasons, had to play without quarterback Dent Offutt, who suffered a separated shoulder in Monday's quarterfinal victory over Wheeler. Runge won the other berth in the 1A championship game by beating previously undefeated Italy 7-0.

Lewis Feild, of Elk Ridge, Utah, holds on during saddle bronc riding competition in Sunday's final round of the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas. Feild won the All-Around cowboy title edging out 1983 champion Roy Cooper.

Feild captures first All-Around title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Lewis Feild thought he had blown his chance to win rodeo's top cowboy award when he failed to qualify for the saddle bronc competition.

But Feild, of Elk Ridge, Utah, made the most out of his main event, bareback riding, in the National Finals Rodeo to win the coveted all-around cowboy award Sunday with $130,347 in season earnings.

"I was wrong and I'm happy," Feild said. "I didn't think my chances were that good for the all-around."

Feild edged roper Clay O'Brien Cooper of Gilbert, Ariz., by about $3,500 to win the award as the NFR concluded after 10 sessions by paying competitors a total of $1.79 million.

The world's richest rodeo ended with a spectacular bull riding competition that saw the first nine cowboys thrown violently from their bulls before Lane Frost of Lane, Okla., managed to hang on for the full eight seconds.

Ted Nuce of Manteca, Calif., the only other rider to stay on his bull, won the bull riding world championship with $107,871 in total winnings. He edged Tuff Hedeman of El Paso, Texas, who finished with $102,327 after leading the event most of the season.

Eight-time bull riding champion

Don Gay of Mesquite, Texas, announced his retirement after he was thrown in his last ride. Gay, 32, was the defending champion in the event. A crowd of 15,603 watched the final round of the rodeo, which was moved to Las Vegas this year after 20 years in Oklahoma City after promoters doubled the prize money.

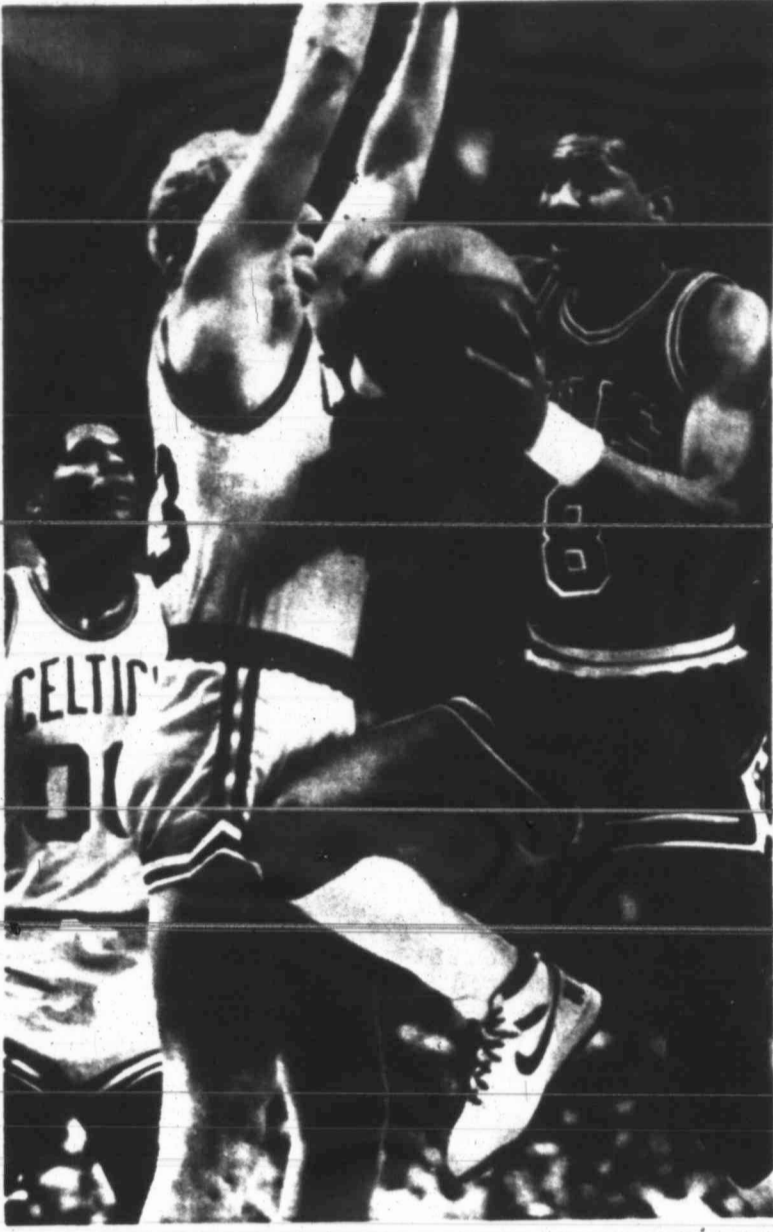

The added money allowed seven cowboys to go over the $100,000 amount in total earnings for the year. Some contestants more than doubled their earnings of the previous 11½ months of the year.

Feild, second in total earnings going into the rodeo, used steady performances in the bareback riding event to win the all-around cowboy title, rodeo's most coveted award.

Feild didn't win any of the 10 bareback competitions but finished in the money five times to earn $36,764 in the finals.

Other results: — Calf roping — Joe Beaver of Victoria, Texas, who already won the rookie of the year award, added a world championship in this event by winning the last go around and $42,824 in the finals. Beaver had total earnings of $95,889 to finish ahead of Roy Cooper of Durant, Okla., who finished with $85,520 in earnings.

Milwaukee destroys Sacramento, 140-82

By The Associated Press
After watching 222 points scored in a sloppy defensive game, Milwaukee Bucks Coach Don Nelson called it "a real long night."
Think of how Sacramento Coach Phil Johnson must have felt — his team lost by a franchise-record 58 points.
"It was one of those games when nothing goes right for you," Johnson said after Sunday night's 140-82 National Basketball Association whipping by the Bucks. "I don't think this is a game we can ever forget."
The Bucks didn't gloat.
"It's one of those things. I don't know what to say," said Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson, who said he told Johnson after the game he was "sorry he (Johnson) had to sit through such a whipping."

NBA Roundup

"We do have sympathy for fellow coaches," Nelson added. "A 20-point loss is tough enough. But 50 points? That's a real long night for all of us."
In other NBA games, it was Boston 109, Chicago 104; Golden State 112, Chicago 105, and Los Angeles Lakers 132, Detroit 119.
Terry Cummings scored 21 points to lead eight Milwaukee players in double figures. Milwaukee gained the lead for good with 7:59 left in the first period. The margin of victory — 58 points — was the second largest in Bucks' history.
The NBA record for the biggest margin of victory is 63, in a 162-99 Los Angeles win over Golden State on March 19, 1972. Milwaukee's largest margin was 59 points — 143-84 over Detroit Dec. 26, 1978.
Milwaukee fans at times chanted "Defense, defense" when Sacramento had the ball.
"I expected to be part of history, but not this way," said Kings forward Eddie Johnson.
Asked if the Bucks "rubbed it in," Coach Johnson answered: "Of course. . . It comes around."
Celtics 109, Bulls 104
Larry Bird scored 34 points, Kevin McHale 27 and Dennis Johnson 23 as Boston rallied with 12 consecutive points down the stretch to beat Chicago.
Trailing 103-94 with just under five minutes remaining, the Celtics exploded in providing Coach K.C. Jones with his 300th NBA victory.

The Bulls, 4-15 on the road this season and 2-9 in their last 11 starts, shocked the Celtics by charging to a 31-26 first-period lead and then widening the margin to as much as 12 points, 42-30, in the second quarter before settling for a 61-52 halftime advantage.
Johnson, playing with a heavily taped left thumb and wrist to protect a hand injured last Wednesday, then ignited the Celtics, hitting for 17 points in a torrid third quarter.
"It was a night the Celtics could have been beaten," said Chicago Coach Stan Albeck. "We got the ball to the right people, but the shots just didn't go in."
Warriors 112, Sonics 105
Joe Barry Carroll scored four points for Golden State in the final 15 seconds and the Warriors ended a five-game losing streak by beating Seattle.

Carroll, who outbattled Seattle's Tom Chambers for a rebound with 15 seconds remaining, was fouled on the play and made two free throws to make the score 108-105. With four seconds left, Carroll stole a pass and drove for a layup.
The Warriors had lost 12 of their last 14 games to sink to within half a game of last place in the Pacific Division.
Carroll finished with 24 points, second to forward Purvis Short, who had 27, among Golden State scorers. Short had 20 of his points in the second half.

Lakers 132, Pistons 119
James Worthy scored 25 points and Earvin "Magic" Johnson added 19 to lead Los Angeles over Detroit.
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 18 points and Byron Scott tallied 17. Kurt Rambis added 10 points as all Laker starters scored in double figures without playing during the fourth quarter. Rambis led Los Angeles with 11 rebounds.
Isiah Thomas had 16 points and dished out 11 assists for Detroit, while John Long added 16 and Bill Laimbeer and Vinnie Johnson each scored 15 points. Rick Mahorn scored 12 points and pulled down 12 rebounds.

"It was a good offensive win for us tonight," said Laker Coach Pat Riley. "Our forwards played outstanding. James (Worthy) had an exceptional night. It seemed like he hit most every shot."

The other 1985 champions are 106, Brian Lonon, Army; 112, Arthur Johnson, St. Louis; 125, Runnell Doll, Army; 132, Vincent Phillips, Army; 139, Nick Kakouris, St. Louis; 147, Kenneth Gould, Rockford, Ill.; 156, Timothy Littles, Flint, Mich.; 165, Darin Allen, Columbus, Ohio; 178, Loren Ross, Army; 201, Jerry Goff, Saucier, Miss.; and super heavyweight, Wesley Watson, Army.

Texan wins 119 lb. title

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Michael Collins had a gold medal around his neck and a smile on his face — a boxing champion at last.
He held up the gold for a group of reporters to see and said, "I can go to a pawn shop now."
Of course, he was joking. A super heavyweight couldn't have gotten that gold medal away from 1985 U.S. amateur 119-pound champion.
The 21-year-old Collins of LaPorte, Texas, won the title with a 5-0 decision over Johnny Vasquez of Phoenix on Saturday at the USA-Budweiser Boxing Championships.
Now he's looking forward to the World Championships May 8-18 at Reno, Nev., and beyond them to 1988.

"My plan is to win the Olympics," he said. "That's my goal."
Collins has been to a world championship, but not an Olympics.

The other 1985 champions are 106, Brian Lonon, Army; 112, Arthur Johnson, St. Louis; 125, Runnell Doll, Army; 132, Vincent Phillips, Army; 139, Nick Kakouris, St. Louis; 147, Kenneth Gould, Rockford, Ill.; 156, Timothy Littles, Flint, Mich.; 165, Darin Allen, Columbus, Ohio; 178, Loren Ross, Army; 201, Jerry Goff, Saucier, Miss.; and super heavyweight, Wesley Watson, Army.

A&M booster admits to slush fund

DALLAS (AP) — A Texas A&M booster testified in a deposition during his 1983 divorce suit that he gave about $5,000 a year to an Aggie football slush fund, the Dallas Times Herald reported.
John Tom Poyner, a Beaumont oil and gas producer and 1952 A&M graduate, made the sworn statement in a deposition taken Aug. 26, 1983, during divorce proceedings for him and his ex-wife, Sharon Poyner, the newspaper said in its Sunday editions.
Poyner's canceled check to Harold Turner, also an A&M booster, for $2,000 was entered into evidence with the court at the time of the divorce, but it has since disappeared from the official court file, the newspaper said in its copyright story.

Sharon Poyner's lawyer in the divorce case, Tom Fibich of Houston, declined to comment on the case, but confirmed that the canceled check that was entered into the public record was from Poyner and made out to Turner.
The check was dated Nov. 18, 1982, 10 months after Jackie Sherrill became A&M football coach and athletic director.
Fibich asked Poyner about the slush fund as part of an extensive deposition about the oilman's finances and personal life, the Times Herald said. Questions about the fund were discussed because the money involved could be considered community property.
Poyner declined to elaborate on his deposition, the newspaper said.

"I'm not telling you it's not true, but I am not going to comment. I really consider it none of your business," the newspaper quoted Poyner as saying.
Turner, also a 1952 A&M graduate, said he and Poyner are friends and own one-fourth shares of a $30,000 "sky box" at A&M's Kyle Field. But Turner denied receiving money from Poyner for a slush fund.
"I have never been involved in a football slush fund, and I'll be glad to take a lie detector (test)," Turner said.
Told that Poyner had linked him to such a fund in a sworn statement, Turner said, "The guy was getting divorced. I don't know what he said."

Turner, vice president and co-owner of a Houston insurance agency, said he did not recall the $2,000 check but said Poyner occasionally sent him checks to pay for the box at Kyle field or "furniture."
The Times Herald reported last week that some A&M football players got thousands of dollars in signing incentives and bonuses, weekly allowances, performance payments, car deals and other favors from A&M coaches and boosters.
Evidence exists, the Times Herald said, that much of the money came from slush funds in Houston and Dallas and that the NCAA has looked into the fund in Houston.

World Cup soccer draw announced

MEXICO CITY (AP) — England and Poland griped loudly for being shunted off to the hot northern city of Monterrey. But coaches from virtually all the other 1986 World Cup soccer teams expressed satisfaction with the draw that determined where they will play next year.
Some, like Argentine Coach Carlos Salvador Bilardo, even predicted that next year's World Cup, pitting at least a dozen evenly matched teams among the 24 entrants, may produce "some great soccer."
Other results from the draw were that host Mexico will play in what appears to be the easiest of the six four-team groups and West Germany the hardest. Italy, defending champion from the 1982 World Cup in Spain, and Bulgaria kick off the 1986 tournament May 31 at Mexico City's Aztec Stadium.

Monterrey, a dusty industrial city about 600 miles north of the Mexican capital and just a three-hour drive from the Texas border, has been the coaches' nightmare because of its low altitude. Surviving teams will have to play at a much higher level after that, and adapting in a matter of days can tax even the best of players.
All the other sites are at least three times as high as Monterrey, with the highest Mexico City at 8,800 feet above sea level and Toluca at 10,500 feet. Monterrey is some 2,200 feet above sea level.

On Sunday, the nightmare became reality for English Coach Bobby Robson, who said that "the teams playing in Monterrey are going to have greater difficulty in trying to win in this Cup."
Robson and his assistants immediately went into a huddle to re-plan strategy in an attempt to overcome what has become known as "the Monterrey problem." One way to get around it is to live in the nearby city of Saltillo, where the climate is more temperate, and train in Monterrey.
The coaches of Morocco and Portugal, the other teams assigned to Monterrey-based Group F, preferred not to comment and left early to avoid reporters. But Polish official Waldemar Krajewski, whose team was seeded earlier this week to head group F, was loud with his complaints.

"It is going to be very, very difficult," he said, shaking his head.
Paraguayan delegate Jesus Maria Pallares said he "didn't see what the fuss is all about. Paraguay would have loved to play in Monterrey. We are used to the heat. Paraguay is very hot all year round. As to the altitude change, we can take it."
Paraguay is playing in Group B in Mexico City, headed by host team Mexico and with Belgium and Iraq.

STEER WRESTLING — Ote Berry of Gordon, Neb., ripped off a 4.6-second time to win Sunday's final session and take the world championship in this event. Berry, making his first appearance in the finals, won $35,754 in Las Vegas to push his season earnings to $97,273. Finishing second for the world title was Marty Melvin of Holabird, S.D., who won $77,730.

TEAM ROPING — Clay O'Brien Cooper and partner Jake Barnes of Bloomfield, N.M., easily won the world title with earnings of $99,047. Defending all-around champion Dee Pickett of Caldwell, Idaho, and Mike Beers of Rufus, Ore., were the next best team with earnings of $58,607.

BARRECK RIDING — Feild won $36,764 in the finals to take the world title in this event with total earnings of $103,247. Clint Corey of Silverdale, Wash., finished second with $99,270. Chuck Logue of McKinney, Texas, won Sunday's final session and the overall to cap a spectacular week with $51,914 in winnings for the finals alone. Logue finished third for the world title.

SADDLE BRONC — Brad Gjermondson of Marshall, N.D., used a third place overall finish in the finals to win his fourth world championship with earnings of $84,651. Hawkeye Henson of Mesquite, Texas, was second with earnings of $80,467 while Bud Pauley of Shepherd, Mont., was right behind with $80,032.

BARREL RACING — The only women's event, barrel racing was dominated by 15-year-old Char-mayne James of Clayton, N.M., the defending champion. James won five of the 10 finals events and finished with total winnings of $92,585.

and I think this win goes to him." Denver 14, Chiefs 13

The Broncos remained in the playoff chase with a last-ditch rally. QB John Elway, suffering through the worst day of his three-year career — he was intercepted five times — completed three key passes on a drive in the closing minutes, leading to Sammy Winder's 1-yard dive for the winning TD with 22 seconds remaining.

For Denver to make the playoffs, one of the three AFC East contenders must finish with six losses while the Broncos, 10-5, beat Seattle on Friday night.

Steelers 30, Bills 24
Buffalo jumped to a 21-0 lead, helped by a 77-yard TD run on the first play from scrimmage. But Scott Campbell, another third-string signal-caller, led the Steelers back with one touchdown pass to Louis Lipps and a 44-yard pass to Lipps to set up Walter Abercrombie 2-yard run with 47 seconds to play.

Despite the victory, the Steelers, 7-8, missed the playoffs for only the third time in 14 years.

Packers 26, Lions 23
Green Bay eliminated Detroit from playoff contention, handing the Lions their first home loss this year on Al Del Greco's fourth field goal, a 27-yarder as time ran out. The Lions had tied the game with 1:01 remaining on a 30-yard TD pass from Joe Ferguson to Leonard Thompson, but Eddie Murray's extra point try was wide.

Colts 31, Tampa Bay 23
George Wonsley scored first-half touchdowns on runs of 7 and 3 yards and Mike Pagel and Albert

Bentley added scores in the fourth quarter as Indianapolis broke a six-game losing streak and won for the first time on the road this season. Tampa Bay dropped to 2-13 before a crowd of 25,577 — smallest in the Bucs' 10-year history.

Bucs owner Hugh Culverhouse said Sunday that John McKay will resign as team president following the season.

Falcons 14, Vikings 13
Jan Stenerud missed the extra point that would have tied the game following Anthony Carter's 49-yard touchdown pass reception, something nobody could remember seeing him do in two decades of placekicking. Atlanta tackle Dan Benish set up a touchdown with a fumble recovery and blocked a Stenerud field goal try.

49ers 31, Saints 19
Following a cold first half, Joe Montana got the 49ers moving, going 12-for-14 for 204 yards in the second half with two touchdowns. He hit Mike Wilson with a 52-yard scoring pass on the fourth play of the second half, then hit tight end Russ Francis on a 17-yard touchdown throw.

San Francisco makes the playoffs by beating Dallas next Sunday. The 49ers also would make it if they lose and Washington also loses.

Chargers 20, Eagles 14

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 17, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Think out the most imaginative and idealistic course of action that appeals to you and then decide how to make it work. Think in terms of your biggest potentials.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact an advisor and quietly plan some time to extend your activities wisely. Plan a trip that can bring good results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can gain the assistance of good friends where personal wishes are concerned. Don't be dramatic with your mate in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Pursue public and worldly activities and gain them. Don't follow a demanding partner. Take it easy later.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Be in the company of artistic and precise people who can make the future brighter.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure you keep promises you have made during the daytime, but avoid a dangerous gamble later.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get out and buy presents for your partners early and then sit down to discussions with them about new projects.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get your surroundings more charming and functional and be happier at home. Avoid tensions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into the recreations that mean the most to you during spare time, but don't overpart.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to get the situation improved at home. A family tie is acting rather strangely, but keep under control.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy handling communications cleverly during the daytime. Don't let a private worry bother you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can add to present assets and later avoid pals who like to criticize. Let business come first on the agenda.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get your personal ideas working in the morning, but avoid an argument with a bigwig later. Relax in the company of good friends.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have excellent ideas on how to make the greatest success of life and can whittle them down to a practical level. Give the finest moral and ethical training early so that your progeny will not go on the primrose path. Teach to be more objective as it will avoid a lot of confusion.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Abducted infant traced

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A smiling Jennifer Sutton cuddled her 3-month-old daughter and said today she was overjoyed to have her abducted child was back in her arms.
"Her tummy is a little bit sick. But other than that she is nice and fat and happy, real content," the 20-year-old mother from Coppell, Texas, told reporters at an airport news conference before heading home.
Mallory Elizabeth Sutton was discovered missing in their Coppell duplex on Nov. 13, the first day the infant was left with a newly hired woman baby sitter.
Through a tip to the National Center for Missing and Abused Children, FBI agents and police in Texas tracked the baby to a Tampa home Friday night.

As television cameras rolled at the airport, Mallory dozed in her arms of her mother, who said she was surprised the child was located in Tampa.
"I thought she was still in Texas," she said.
Coppell Police Chief Tom Griffin said the baby sitter was a woman who answered a newspaper ad and gave her name as Bernice "Bernie" Kelley. He said no motive for the kidnapping has been established.
But he speculated "there's always the money factor — somebody wanting to sell a baby ... or someone who always wanted a baby and could not have one."
Griffin said, "an arrest will be apparent pretty quick in Houston."

He refused to elaborate on that statement or say who the suspects were.
The baby sitter had answered a classified ad Mrs. Sutton had placed, and provided references. However, the mother admitted tearfully after the kidnapping that she had not checked the references.
A telephone number provided by the baby sitter turned out to be that of an answering service in Houston.
FBI agent Woody Specht said the tipster became suspicious when a woman left Houston for a trip to Dallas and returned "with a baby whose sudden presence she was unable to reasonably explain to friends and relatives."

Austin studies smoking ban

AUSTIN (AP) — City officials are pondering an ordinance that would limit smoking in public buildings and private workplaces, rules a councilwoman says are proposed on the premise that "everyone has the right to breathe clean air."
Supporters of the ordinance say passive exposure to tobacco smoke — such as breathing smoke from someone else's cigarette — is a hazard to nonsmokers.
Limiting smoking in offices, restaurants and other gathering places would follow action taken by Dallas and several other major cities, backers say.
"The ordinance operates under the basic premise that everyone has the right to breathe clean air," said Councilwoman Sally Shipman, who proposed the ordinance along with Mayor Frank Cooksey.
"I want to start the public hearing and get some reaction," she said.
A public hearing has been scheduled for Thursday evening.
The plan submitted by Ms. Shipman and Cooksey would forbid smoking in all public buildings and private workplaces, except in areas designated for smoking.

The effort is supported by Friends of Austin Nonsmokers and other groups, including the local chapter of the American Lung Association.
Dr. James F. Pohl, a spokesman for the local lung association, said the city council has "the responsibility for making the city a safe place to live and work."
"To eliminate a public danger or nuisance, regulations need to be enacted ... Concentration of tobacco smoke in the workplace is often very high, and innocent bystanders suffer the consequences," said Pohl, a pulmonary disease specialist.
One group opposing a no-smoking ordinance in private workplaces is the Texas Association of Business.
Ronnie Volkening, spokesman for the group, said it hasn't studied the city council's proposal. "But our feelings are pretty much the same as when a similar law was introduced in the last session of the Legislature."

The business group argued that the state proposal, which never reached the floor of the Texas House, was unnecessary.
"We feel there is already broad-based participation by employers and employees alike in policing smoking in their workplace. Anytime you try to make a general law, it doesn't provide for a lot of unique situations that don't apply to various types of businesses," Volkening said.
The Dallas City Council adopted an ordinance recently to restrict smoking in most restaurants, offices and retail stores. The law applies to retail businesses with 500 or more square feet of floor space.
Many restaurants in Austin already have non-smoking sections. Ms. Shipman said the law being considered by the Austin City Council is just the reverse.
"Instead of non-smoking areas, you'll have smoking areas. The airlines have been doing it for years," she said.

Man may enter insanity plea

AUSTIN (AP) — A San Marcos man accused of planting a bomb on a commercial flight that carried his wife and three children might enter an insanity plea, his lawyer said Monday.
"He's in a state of depression. He's not responding very well," attorney Rip Collins of Austin said of Albert Lee Thielman.
Thielman, 34, was arrested Dec. 7 in Las Vegas, a day after he was named in a federal charge alleging he put a bomb on an Oct. 30 American Airlines flight from Austin to Dallas-Fort Worth.
The bomb, traced to Thielman's wife's luggage, exploded in the luggage compartment while the plane was at the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. There were no injuries among the 154 people on board.
Thielman made a brief appearance in an Austin courtroom Monday. U.S. Magistrate Philip Sanders set a Wednesday bond hearing. The case is expected to go to a federal grand jury later this week.

If convicted, Thielman, a salesman, could face up to 20 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.
Collins said "the whole facts of the case" probably would prevent Sanders from allowing Thielman to be freed on bond.
U.S. Magistrate Philip Pro of Las Vegas, before whom Thielman was initially taken refused to set bond, saying Thielman was a "threat to society."
Thielman has not yet entered a plea. His lawyer said an insanity defense is a "clear possibility."
"He is not in a good mental or emotional state at this time," said Collins. "He's pretty much dulled by all the circumstances and the charges against him."

An affidavit filed by the FBI said Thielman faced big gambling debts. Those debts could have been covered by the life insurance Thielman carried on his wife Mary and their three children, investigators said.
Thielman made only one brief remark in the courtroom Monday, responding, "That's fine," when Sanders asked about the Wednesday bond hearing. Thielman is being held at federal prison in nearby Bastrop.
As he was brought into the courtroom by federal marshals, Thielman winked and smiled at a front-row spectator who later identified himself as Drake Bellamy of San Antonio. Bellamy said he has known Thielman for 12 years.

Upset father kills sons, self

GEORGETOWN (AP) — A distraught father facing an impending divorce killed himself and his two sons by attaching a hose from the exhaust of his vehicle, Williamson County officials say.
Deputy Sheriff Richard Elliott said the rubber hose had been shoved through a hole rusted in the side of the old vehicle.
"The car was in neutral, the ignition was on and the gas tank was empty," said Elliott. "The windows were rolled up."
The bodies of Juanito Salinas, 31, and his two sons, Zachary, 4, and Brandon Lee, 9, were found Sunday on the front seat of a car in an isolated spot in Williamson County, about eight miles east of Georgetown.

A fisherman found the bodies in the car, which was parked on a dirt road about 100 yards from a low water crossing of the San Gabriel River. The area is a popular fishing spot.
"This is about the hardest thing I have ever been out on," said D.W. Hays, a Williamson County justice of the peace. "If a man wants to kill himself that's one thing. Why did he have to kill his two boys? It disturbs me."
Elliott said that once the hose was placed in the car and the engine started, the three people would have passed out from carbon monoxide fumes within minutes.

The trio had been dead several hours when found. Officers said plastic bags had been placed over the faces of the children and one boy had bruises.
Authorities said Salinas, who apparently was upset over an impending divorce, picked up his sons about 9 a.m. Saturday at their grandparents' home in northeast Austin after saying he planned to take them to a movie.
The grandparents became concerned when they were not returned home Saturday night.
Officers said dishes and other personal items in the car indicated that Salinas had been living in the vehicle.
