Oil find may prove a gusher

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Staff Writer

If early reports on a wildcat oil and gas well discovery four miles north of Big Spring bear out, the strike has the potential to be one of the biggest discoveries in the area this year.

But the people involved in the discovery aren't talking much about their find.

Based on a 12-hour test, the well has a potential to produce 554 barrels of oil a day and 1.1 million cubic feet of natural gas.

The well, No. 1 J.R. Dillard, has been completed with production casing set. The total drilling depth of the well was 10,100 feet with production casing to 9,041 feet. The well is being operated by Union Oil Company of California on a site they own.

Union oil spokesmen declined comment on the discovery today.

Union of California obtained a portion of the mineral rights on the land from Big Spring oilman Wade Choate. Choate retained an undisclosed overriding interest in the well, according to sources at the Choate Company.

Harry Spannaus, executive vice-president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association in Midland, called the discovery "a pleasant surprise. That sounds like a good size well. Of course the well probably won't flow at that rate (554 barrels per day) the whole time, but with that much gas being produced with it, there should be sufficient pressure to maintain a good rate of production."

Spannaus said a strike of this proportion, while considered a major find, isn't unprecedented for Howard County in a given year.

"We really haven't had too much luck in the area north of Big Spring this year," Spannaus said. "We've had wells in Glasscock County near Garden City that are of comparable size to this well but nothing north of the city. I'm sure there will be a lot of activity in that area if the well turns out to be a consistent

President and Mrs. Reagan meet with relatives of the Fort Campbell, Kentucky soldiers killed in last Thursday's plane crash near Gander, Newfoundland, during a memorial service at Fort Campbell Monday.

Caskets arrive at Dover

DOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Del. (AP) — A 123-member honor guard stood vigil at a cavernous hangar today as the flag-draped caskets of more victims of a military charter crash in Newfoundland were returned to U.S. soil.

A cargo plane landed at midmorning carrying 35 bodies, and three more planes carrying 35 bodies each were scheduled to arrive later today, said Army Capt. Ken Smith.

A DC-8 chartered from Arrow Air crashed Thursday at Gander, Newfoundland, killing the crew of eight and 248 members of the 101st Airborne Division who were returning home after six months of duty with the international peacekeeping force in the Sinai.

Two shipments of 10 bodies each arrived Monday. A handful of mourners were on hand for the first arrival, during which an Army band played hymns and officers extended condolences in a solemn, one-hour ceremony in the huge hangar known as Memorial Hall.

There were no speeches for later arrivals, but the same band played at each subsequent half-hour ceremony and the entire honor guard remained on duty to salute the returning crash victims.

President Reagan and his wife Nancy attended a memorial service Monday at Fort Campbell, Ky.

DPS troopers to swoop on speeders

Motorists on Interstates 10 and 20 should keep a watchful eye on the speedometer Thursday. The highway patrol will be out in force. Department of Public Safety troopers from Howard County will participate in a highly visible patrol effort known as "Operation Plain-view."

"Our aim is to get motorists to voluntarily comply with traffic laws," Sgt. Frank Woodall of the Howard County DPS office in Big Spring said today. "We have every intention of taking enforcement action against all traffic violations we observe."

The saturation patrols will be conducted 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday on Interstate 20 from the Mitchell-Howard County line to the intersection with Interstate 20 west of Toyah in Reeves County, a distance of 206 miles. Also, the patrols will be on Interstate 10 from Sheffield to the Texas-New Mexico line, 325 miles, according to a release from the DPS.

Fifty black and white patrol cars will man 10-mile stretches along the highways. In addition to the regular units, 13 unmarked squad cars plus a helicopter will be searching for motorists who violate traffic laws.

"This is the first operation of this type in Region 4," according to Major Dudley M. Thomas, regional commander of the 49-county West Texas region. "We will have future operations that will use unmarked vehicles and the times will be unannounced. We are calling this 'Operation Plain-view' because most of the vehicles will be black and white with a high visibility."

During 1985 there were 39 fatalities on the highways included in Operation Plain-view.

Competing store buys out Whites

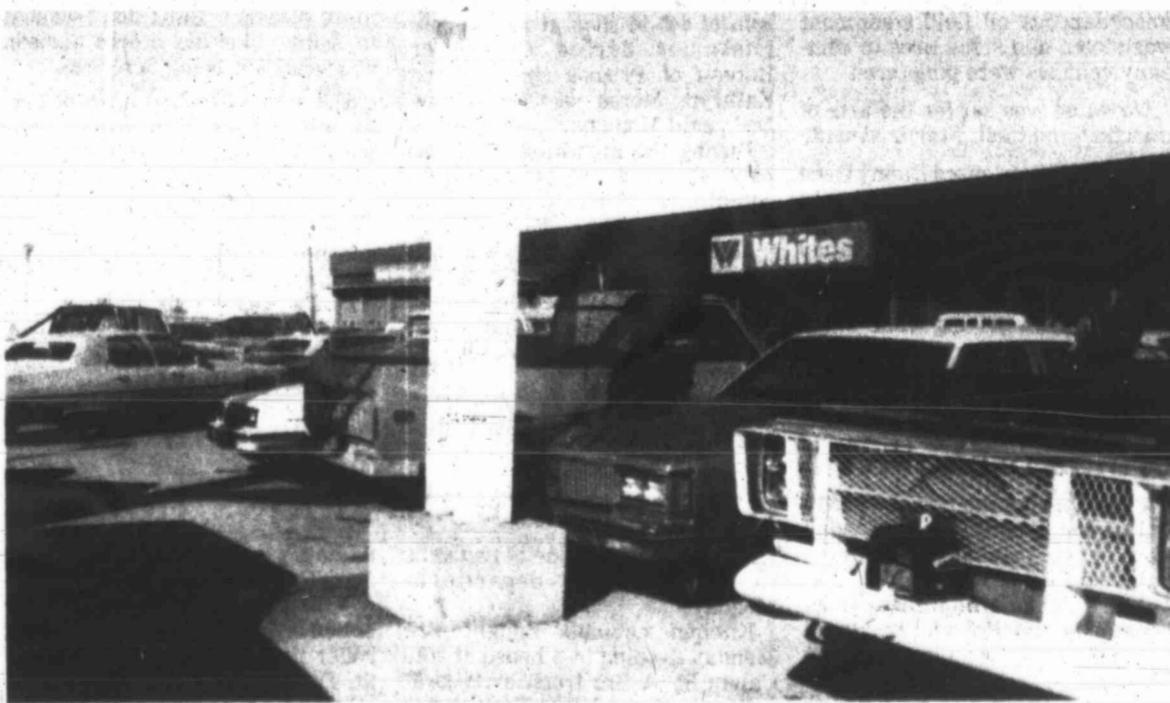

By HANK MURPHY

Local operators of Western Auto Supply and the Whites Store say they know little concerning the imminent purchase of the Whites Stores Inc. by Western Auto Supply Co. of Kansas City.

Reeves Moren, owner and operator of Western Auto, and Floyd McKeown, manager of the Whites Store, a Wichita Falls-based firm owned by Canadian Tire Corp. of Toronto, both say they do not know what implications, if any, the transaction will have on their respective businesses.

Last week, Whites, 1607 S. Gregg

Inmates allowed gifts here

From staff and wire reports
For the vast majority of the nation's federal prison inmates, Christmas gifts will come not from relatives and friends this year, but from penitentiary commissary.

Even then, the inmates will have to shop for themselves. The Bureau of Prisons, trying to prevent packages containing weapons, drugs or other contraband from getting inside penitentiary walls, has for the first time given prison wardens the option of banning Christmas packages from the outside.

Death row debate drags on for minors

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took less than an hour last September for a jury in Marion, Ark., to decide that a teen-ager should die for killing two elderly women and a 12-year-old boy.

The judge, who later said he had not expected the jury to return such a harsh punishment, set an April 12 execution date. Relatives and even some jurors were in tears as seventh-grader Ronald Ward was sent off to death row.

Ward, 15, joins 1,590 others waiting to die in the nation's prisons, and has become a member of a smaller, more select fraternity: One of 36 inmates facing death for crimes they committed while under the age of 18.

Some experts argue that young people, more than other criminals, are amenable to rehabilitation; others, including the Reagan administration's leading expert on the subject, says the age of a convicted murderer should not excuse him from the punishment provided by law.

The debate probably dates back to the first such executions in colonial America during the 1600s. It flared up anew in September with the execution of Charles Raumbaugh in Texas.

Raumbaugh, 28, was put to death by poison injection for murdering a jeweler, a crime he committed at the age of 17.

"He was awfully young and he had some tough breaks in life," said Tom Curtis, the former district attorney who prosecuted him. "But Chuckie is very violent, a really hardened killer and society has to protect itself."

According to David Bruck, a South Carolina attorney who specializes in capital cases, the youngest person to be put to death this century was a black youth, George Junius Stinney, who was 14 on June 16, 1944, when he was electrocuted less than two months after being convicted of the murder of an 11-year-old white girl in Clarendon County, S.C.

Of the approximately 13,000 legal executions in the nation's history, more than 200 involved offenders younger than 18.

More than two-thirds of those youths were black, and only one-fourth were white, according to the American Bar Association. In 1983, the ABA went on record against capital punishment for minors.

Of the 35 states that permit capital punishment, 14 have no age restrictions.

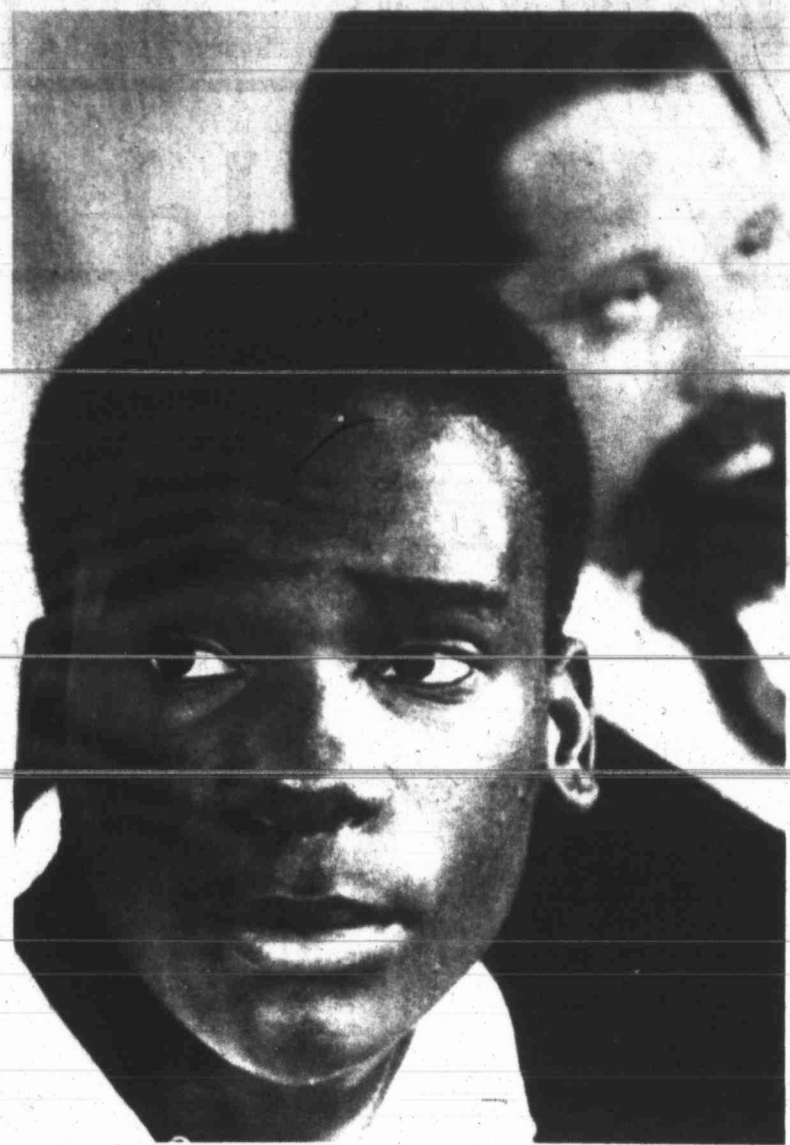

"I'm against the death penalty for anybody. I'm especially against it for juveniles," said Bruck. "I think it's a sorry commentary that society can't think of anything to do with their children (other) than killing them."

Richard Brody, director of a capital punishment project of the Legal Defense Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, agrees with Bruck.

Since the 1960s, the NAACP has argued against capital punishment, contending blacks are disproportionately represented on Death Row. In the Arkansas case, Ronald Ward is black; the jury which convicted him was all white.

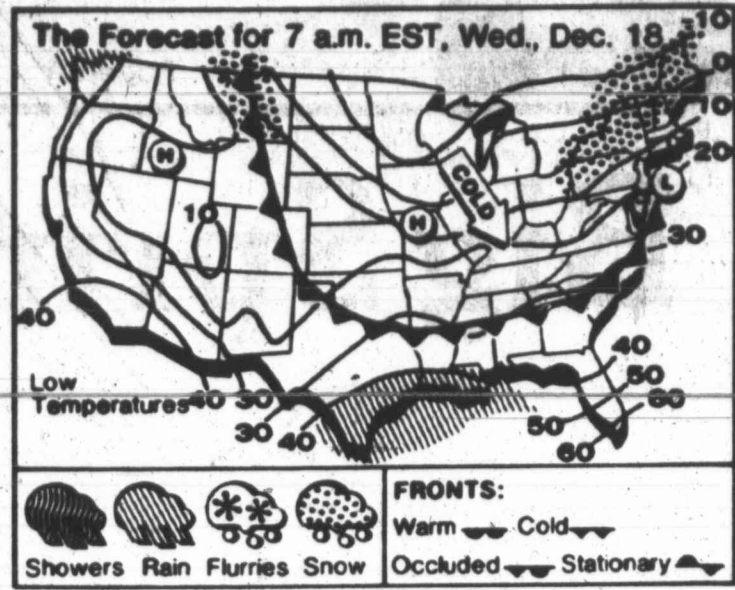

Brody, citing studies on capital punishment over the last 40 years, said that the threat of death does not deter juveniles. The death penalty, he says, is used only for "retribution and public safety."

"People just want to feel safe in their home. The escalation of crime during the 1970s has made people more concerned. Since then there is a greater acceptance of violence in terms of the death penalty," he said.

It took less than an hour last September for a jury in Marion, Ark., to decide that a teenager should die for killing two elderly women and a 12-year-old boy. That teenager is Ronald Ward, 15, who was sent off to death row and is only one of 36 inmates under the age of 18 that are facing death for crimes they committed. Ward is scheduled to die on April 12, 1986.

St., closed down its automotive repair center and laid off five mechanics. And since last Wednesday, the store has run a 30 percent sale on all non-auto related items. By Thursday, toys were reduced to 50 percent off.

The shelves in some parts of the store are bare, but additional freight arrived at Whites Monday, McKeown said.

A few of White's employees said they were uncertain about the future of the store and their jobs. McKeown said, however, that he was thinking of hiring additional people to help with the onslaught of business the recent sale has generated.

Moren could only speculate on what plans Western Auto had for the Whites Store. He said it was doubtful that Western Auto would keep two stores in Big Spring, but he would not rule it out. The Western Auto store is at 504 Johnson.

Of the Whites Stores, Moren said: "We consider them our No. 1 competitor in Texas. They sell everything I sell. Their approach to business is the same as mine. The tools they sell are for the homeowner. The auto parts are for people to put on themselves."

A spokesman for Whites in Wichita Falls said company officials would be meeting with people from Western Auto over the next several days to study what implications the sale would have on the stores and employees.

Dean Grossman, chief executive officer for Whites Stores, said last week the sale is subject to the parties settling a formal agreement and the expiration of a waiting period under U.S. laws.

If the transaction is without snags, Whites will become a Western Auto company Dec. 31, said Canadian Tire executive Robert Law Tuesday in Toronto.

The sale for an undisclosed amount was announced in a brief statement by White's Dec. 11. According to an Associated Press story, White officials gave employees a letter last week saying they planned to meet Saturday in Kansas City with Western Auto officials to discuss the transition of the firm to Western Auto ownership.

Whites was founded in 1930 by Tom C. White, W. Erle White and George Adams in Clinton, Okla. Its headquarters were moved to Wichita Falls in 1938.

The firm was sold to City Products, a division of Household Finance Corp., in 1966 and purchased by Canadian Tire Corp. of Toronto, Canada in 1981.

The last two years, Whites has been shifting its emphasis away from a general line to automotive products in an effort to cut costs. Whites Stores now have about 239 employees in Wichita Falls.

Oilfield theft reported

John Delagarza of Pool Well Servicing Company on Lamesa Highway told a Howard County sheriff's deputy Monday morning that someone stole two tubing elevators from a City Service oil rig sometime between 7 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Monday.

The value of the stolen items was undetermined, according to a sheriff's report.

County Judge Milton Kirby fined Nonato Ramon Holguin Jr., 48, of 3620 Calvin $400 and placed him on a 60-day jail sentence probated for two years. He is also required to pay $131 in court costs.

Holguin was stopped two miles north of Big Spring on Birdwell Lane by Glenn Redmon, a Department of Public Safety trooper.

Chamber board adopts $303,663 budget for '86

Board members of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Monday unanimously approved a $303,663 budget for 1986.

According to a balance sheet that was revised during the meeting, the total projected expenses of the Chamber in 1986 are $303,663. The Chamber is expected to generate an income of $308,513 next year.

The budget was prepared by the Chamber staff and submitted to the executive committee for review prior to submission to the Chamber board for approval.

"We are still presenting a conservative but balanced budget," said Granville Hahn, chamber president.

Chamber board members also approved:

- These people to direct the following councils in 1986: Troy Fraser, Economic Development Council; Bruce Hogenmiller, Community Development Council; J.D. Nelson, Organizational Affairs Council and Clyde McMahon Jr., Public Affairs Council.
- Approved a request by Frank Hardesty of Governmental Affairs to support a ruling to include the Internal Revenue Service under the "Equal Access to Justice Act" which allows small businesses to recover attorney's fees when they win a case.

producer."

Three offset well sites have been staked near the No. 1 J.R. Dillard, but none are planned to be drilled before the end of the year, according to a Midland land man contacted this morning who spoke only on condition his name not be used.

During a 12-hour test, the well reportedly flowed 54 gravity oil. "Gravity" is a way of grading oil. A 40- to 45-grade is good quality for this area. Oil traders usually subtract one and a half cents per gravity degree over 45 for West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude. The December price for WTI crude was approximately $29 a barrel.

Union of California has 30 days from the time the drilling permit was issued to file a completion report on the well to the Texas Railroad Commission. According to Caroline Morgan of the Railroad Commission, a report has not been filed yet.

hasn't banned Christmas gifts, says Lloyd McMillan, assistant superintendent, but delivery of the presents must be authorized in advance.

Only one other of the 46 federal prisons has decided not to discontinue the practice of allowing relatives and friends to send Christmas gifts to the about 37,000 federal inmates. However, in prisons where the practice is banned inmates will be given a one-time sum of $40 to shop at prison commissaries during December, Bureau of Prisons spokeswoman Kathryn Morse of Washington, D.C., said Monday.

During the month of December only, she said, the prisoners' $90 commissary allowance will be increased to $130.

McMillan said inmates may still receive gifts at the Big Spring camp as long as they have been planned in advance. Inmates will not receive packages sent in "willy-nilly" he said.

"They have to have prior staff authorization," he said. That is the practice for sending packages throughout the year, he said.

In Morgantown, W.Va., where the federal penitentiary houses some 380 minimum-security prisoners, inmates also will be permitted to get gifts.

R.J. Verdeyen, the warden at Morgantown, said, "We saw this as a very important part of the rehabilitation process, so we opted to continue. This is just one touch that might make their lives a little more pleasant. But I don't want it to sound like the others (prison wardens) are being Scrooges."

She said, "We had a lot of problems" with Christmas gift packages, including narcotics and other contraband hidden in packages, the perishable food in many packages and the time-consuming task of inspecting the packages.

"Last year, this program (of allowing prisoners to do their own shopping at commissaries) was piloted at a penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., and they had good success with it," Ms. Morse said.

Kitchen fire damages house

A house fire was one of two calls to the city fire department Monday.

Kitchen cabinets caught fire Monday evening in a house at 3615 Calvin St. A fire truck arrived at 7:22 p.m. to find that the house's occupant, Larry Moore, had already put out the flames. Firemen used equipment to exhaust smoke from the structure. The department estimated $4,000 in damage to the house owned by John Hamilton of 2211 Cecilia St.

At 1:51 p.m. firefighters were called on to extinguish a street roller that caught fire at 1600 Bell St. The roller, owned by Price Construction on Snyder Highway, incurred $1,000 damage from the blaze, according to a department report. Leaking diesel and hydraulic fluid may have started the fire, the report stated.

Accident injures woman, 74

A two-car accident on the 300 block of E. 24th Street, sent a 74-year-old Big Spring woman to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital Monday morning.

Myrtle Clay was released from the hospital this morning, her husband said.

Mrs. Clay was hurt when a car driven by her husband, Charles Clay, 81, of 1811 Donley St., strayed over the center line and struck a car driven by Hugh Lee, 72, of 2908 Stonehaven, according to the police accident report.

The report indicated that all were wearing seatbelts at the time of the accident.

Changes in works at KUFO

KUFO radio, formerly KIOF, is making some personnel changes, but owner Dick Fields says he isn't ready yet to give details.

He said today no one is being fired because of the changes. He is reassigning some employees to different job descriptions, he said.

"To protect the employees' interests and until I make sure everything goes according to plan" he said he would not release information for "a few days," until "we've accomplished what we're trying to accomplish."

AIDS center planned

HOUSTON — A hospital corporation says it hopes to convert one of its Houston facilities into a hospital dedicated solely to the research and treatment of AIDS.

Richard D'Antoni, vice president for the Houston region of American Medical International Inc., said Monday he believes the AIDS center would be the first of its kind in the country.

Mob boss shot

NEW YORK — The daring rush-hour street shooting of the reputed boss of the nation's most powerful crime family and his bodyguard could "determine the future of organized crime in this country" and touch off a battle for control within the Mafia, authorities said.

Paul Castellano, the reputed mob boss, and Thomas Bilotti, a reputed captain in the Gambino crime family, were shot in the head and body by three men who walked up to their car, pulled semiautomatic weapons from under trenchcoats and opened fire, said Chief of Detectives Richard Nicastro.

Shuttle launch reset

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The launching of Columbia was postponed 24 hours, after the countdown team fell far behind today in readying the flagship of the fleet for its first flight in more than two years.

The launching was reset for 7 a.m. EST Thursday, with Columbia carrying a crew of seven that includes a Florida congressman and the first Hispanic-American astronaut.

Crash probe may drag

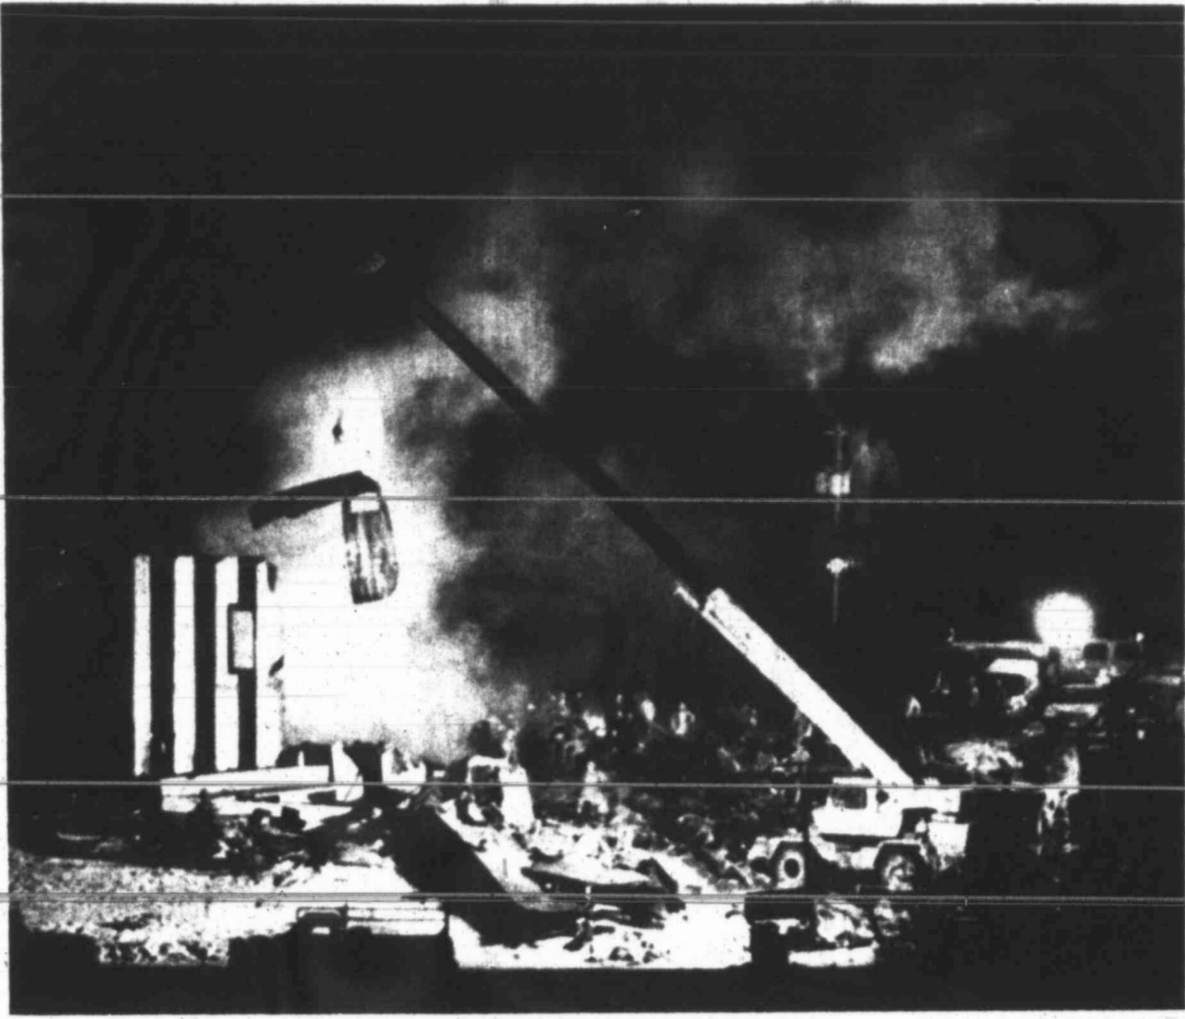

GANDER, Newfoundland — The chief investigator into the crash of a chartered DC-8 that killed 256 American soldiers and crew members says it may take a year or more to determine the cause.

"A big problem is a large portion of the aircraft was consumed by fire and it's just not there," Peter Boag, the Canadian Aviation Safety Board's investigator-in-charge, told The Associated Press in an interview Monday night.

Dallas to pay victims

DALLAS — The city of Dallas has agreed to pay as much as $169,000 to the victims of two police shootings, although the officers involved were cleared of any wrongdoing by police and grand jury investigations.

According to documents now under seal in Dallas federal court, two sons of an armed man shot to death by police in 1980 received $25,000 each. An armed 66-year-old man who survived a 1981 police shooting received $20,000.

Welding torch sparks propane tank blast

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Firefighters searched the smoldering rubble of a leveled two-story gas company today for a missing person after a propane tank explosion and fire that killed 11 people and injured 13.

Twenty-seven employees of the Rocky Mountain Natural Gas Co. in this west-central Colorado town were believed to be in the building when the explosion occurred Monday morning. Two people escaped injury.

A welding torch that was lighted near an almost empty 1,000-gallon propane tank apparently triggered the blast in a garage where repairs were done, said Les Sitter, a company vice president at its Denver headquarters.

Fire still burned under the wreckage at nightfall. "We'll continue to look in the rubble in case there were people there who were not Rocky Mountain employees," city manager Mike Copp said late Monday. Since the office did not take payments, Copp said, visitors were unlikely.

Company president Don Parsons refused to speculate on the cause of the blast, and said he would wait for an investigation. He confirmed that a propane tank on a flatbed trailer apparently was undergoing repairs. "I doubt if the tank was full, but I expect it had some propane in it," he said.

Parsons described propane as more hazardous than natural gas, and said the practice of welding near gas "would be abnormal."

No natural gas was stored at the building in an industrial park at the western edge of this resort town of 5,000, police said. The combination billing office-maintenance garage was reduced to rubble by the 9:16 a.m. explosion.

"Within 10 seconds, the building was basically demolished," said Arthur Purdy, owner of a nearby restaurant who saw the building explode.

"There's going to be no bodies in there except dead ones," said Keith Gilstrap, a heavy-equipment operator driving past when the plant blew up. "The walls looked just like an exploding pop can, then you couldn't see anything but the smoke."

When rescue crews first arrived, they heard some buried employees screaming for help, said Police Chief Bob Halbert.

Uganda signs treaty

NAIROBI, Kenya — Uganda's government today signed a peace treaty with guerrillas who have been waging a civil war for almost five years, apparently agreeing to give them almost equal power on the governing Military Council and in a restructured army.

The Ugandan head of state, Gen. Tito Okello, and Yoweri Museveni, commander of the rebel National Resistance Army, both called the treaty a victory for the Ugandan people.

Shultz in Belgrade

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said he would express to government officials today U.S. concern about Yugoslavia's decision to release PLO official Mohammed Abbas, who the United States suspects of masterminding the Achille Lauro hijacking.

The secretary of state flew to Belgrade from Budapest, Hungary for a day of talks with Premier Milka Planinc, who is seeking increased trade with the United States to help her country improve its weakened economy.

UN support likely

UNITED NATIONS — The Security Council is likely to give unanimous approval to a draft resolution with both U.S. and Soviet support that calls for the release of all hostages, a Western diplomatic source says.

U.S. Ambassador Vernon Walters requested an urgent meeting of the Security Council "upon instructions of my government and in view of the serious situation created by acts of hostage-taking and abduction."

Lawyers want election

MANILA, Philippines — Three prominent lawyers, including a former vice president and a retired chief justice, told the Supreme Court today that it should allow a special presidential election, even if it is unconstitutional, to prevent political chaos.

The court heard from the three during the first day of its hearing on a dozen challenges to the constitutionality of the election President Ferdinand E. Marcos called for Feb. 7, a year ahead of schedule. The hearing will continue Wednesday.

British producer safe

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A British freelance documentary producer who was reported missing apparently is safe in east Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, a British Embassy spokesman said today.

The producer, Chris Wenner, "is well and staying with a family in the Bekaa where he's working on a story," said the spokesman, saying the information came from people who know Wenner.

'Star Wars' comic ad is misleading

High Frontier, the private group promoting President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI), has been running a TV cartoon ad showing missiles bouncing off a rainbow shield that covers a house and family. The clear purpose is to persuade viewers that Reagan's so-called Star Wars plan can protect every American home from Russian nuclear rockets. It's blatantly misleading, of course, as none other than Lt. Gen James Abrahamson, the administration's SDI director, and Richard Perle, the assistant secretary of defense, have conceded.

Questioned sharply by members of a Senate committee recently, both officials acknowledged what everyone close to SDI knows full well: There's no such thing as a perfect shield, and that even if SDI worked effectively enough to allow penetration by only a limited number of enemy missiles, American cities would still be devastated and millions would die.

The High Frontier people know that as well as anybody. They also know that most viewers don't understand SDI's complex technology well enough to see through their flimflam. And while TV cartoon ads opposing Star Wars likewise take some liberty with the facts — implying that SDI space weapons, in the process of stopping enemy missiles, would incinerate the earth below — those ads contain at least a grain of truth: SDI X-ray laser beams would in fact be powered by nuclear explosions in space whose consequences are entirely unpredictable. The pro-SDI ad hasn't even a saving note of accuracy; it's a flat-out lie.

Despite the Abrahamson and Perle disavowals, the phony High Frontier pitch is still on the tube. Any soap seller is required to have more respect for the truth.

A multi-colored nuclear holocaust

I was over at Barry Israel's the other night when his 8-year-old daughter Alison came into the living room.

"Have you done your homework?" her father asked.

Alison handed him a sheet of paper with a crayon drawing on it. "What is it?"

"It's Star Wars," Alison said. "This is the sun and this is the house and this is the mommy and this is the daddy and this is the little child, and this is the cat and this is a tree."

"That's fine, but how do you get Star Wars out of that?"

"This blue circle over everyone is Star Wars. The rockets can't get through to kill the mommy, the daddy, the child and cat."

"I don't see how that blue arc can stop missiles from hitting your family," Barry said.

Alison pointed to three red missiles bouncing off the arc. "You see? The bombs are stopped and can't hit anyone."

"Where did you get the idea that a blue crayon can stop a red one?"

"I saw it on television. It said if everyone supports Star Wars we will be safe from getting killed."

"Don't lie to me," Alison's father said.

"She's not lying," I told him. "I saw the same TV commercial. It's put out by some outfit called 'Peace Shield' to convince people the President's Strategic Defense Initiative works. They're hoping if they make it simple enough Americans will buy it."

Barry said, "What a crock. They're using a kid's drawing to sell a pie-in-the-sky idea."

I said, "Don't jump to conclusions that a child was the artist. I know several scientists who could easily have drawn it."

"The drawing doesn't convince me we should spend zillions on Star Wars."

"It's not intended to convince you — it's supposed to convince Alison. After all, it's her generation that is going to have to live with laser beams and enhanced deterrence. If kids believe a blue crayon can stop a red one then they won't be afraid."

Alison was just standing there sheepishly. Finally she said, "Is my drawing all right?"

Her father replied, "As far as it goes it is. Hand me a red crayon and a black one. Okay, now watch carefully. The red crayon can't get through the arc, and the house and family are perfectly safe. Right?"

"Uh-huh," Alison said, not knowing where her father was going.

"Now I take the black crayon, and it slices right through the shield and knocks out the sun, the house and the family of three."

"Why?"

"Because black crayons can always go through blue ones. Even a nuclear umbrella won't stop them. That's why a blue crayon is not going to save us."

Alison looked at me for some help.

"I have to agree with your father," I told her. "There are too many different colored crayons for one blue arc to stop. Even if only one color got through it would wipe out your mommy, daddy and child."

Barry said, "Did you hear what your Uncle Art just said? Listen to him. He knows everything."

Alison's lower lip was quivering. "You ruined my drawing."

Her father replied, "I just wanted to teach you a lesson. Don't believe everything you see on television."

2nd hostage may be dead

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
 WASHINGTON — Last June, when the 39 American hostages from TWA Flight 847 were set free in Beirut, President Reagan said he would not forget the seven other Americans who had been kidnapped in Lebanon.

But even as he made that assurance, the CIA had reliable intelligence that two of the seven Americans were already dead. We reported Monday the evidence that CIA agent William Buckley, 57, died earlier this year of torture-induced heart failure.

Now we have learned that 60-year old Peter Kilburn, librarian at the American University of Beirut when he was kidnapped last December, also died of a heart attack in captivity. Unlike Buckley's death, however, Kilburn's was not caused by torture; he wasn't a prisoner long enough to be abused to death by his Shiite Moslem abductors.

Here's the chronology of terror as we've been able to piece it together from intelligence sources:

March 16, 1984: Buckley, the CIA station chief in Beirut, was kidnapped at gunpoint near his apartment in the Lebanese capital. He was transported to the town of Baalbek in the eastern Bekaa Valley. This is Syrian-controlled territory, but there is a strong Iranian presence. Buckley's captors were Hezbollah (Party of God) extremists closely linked to the Islamic Jihad. Both get directions from Iran.

Dec. 3, 1984: Kilburn was kidnapped in Beirut and driven to Baalbek. He had a history of heart disease and hypertension, and a stroke had left him partially paralyzed. According to our sources, Kilburn died shortly after being seized, possibly on the day he was spirited away to Baalbek.

Jan. 22, 1985: Buckley was videotaped holding a dated newspaper. He gave a message from his kidnappers and mentioned two other American hostages — but not Kilburn.

March 1985: Buckley, disguised as a wounded Iranian volunteer from the Lebanese religious fighting, was flown in a Syrian helicopter to Damascus, where he was put on an Iranian airliner and taken to Tehran. He was subjected to renewed torture; some of it took place in the basement of the Iranian foreign ministry.

March 22: Secretary of State George Shultz privately called the family of one of the hostages and assured them "we are using quiet diplomacy" to secure the hostages' release. At the same time, Shultz sent a secret message to the Iranians via a Swiss diplomat in Tehran, warning that Iran would "suffer the consequences" if any American hostages were harmed. The torture of Buckley continued.

April: Buckley suffered a heart attack brought on by torture, and died in a Tehran hospital.

May: The Islamic Jihad released a picture taken earlier of five of the hostages. It included Buckley, but not Kilburn.

September: The Rev. Benjamin Weir, one of the "Lebanon Seven," was released. He, too, had been held in the Bekaa Valley, and reported seeing and talking with three other hostages — but not Buckley or Kilburn.

October: The Islamic Jihad announced it had executed Buckley in retaliation for the recent Israeli raid on Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in Tunisia. Actually, Buckley had been dead for months. A photo of Buckley in a coffin was presented as proof of his death. The Shiites demanded the release of 100 Palestinian prisoners in Israel in return for Buckley's body.

November: A letter appeared signed by four American hostages asking for help in their release. Buckley's and Kilburn's names were not on the letter.

December: The State Department still continues to tell anyone who inquires that it "assumes" Buckley and Kilburn are still alive, along with the four others. But the State Department knows better.

MANILA MAINLINE: The U.S. government has more to complain to Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos about than continuing corruption, suppression of human rights and economic bungling. A recent internal State Department report discloses that the Philippines is a vital link in the shipment of heroin into the United States. The Drug Enforcement Administration "concentrates its activities in the Philippines, which has now become the primary transit point for heroin from Thailand to the United States." U.S. agents work with local Philippine authorities "to interdict drug traffic and to develop related intelligence," but they need more cooperation from the top.

UNDER THE DOME: Who says Congress can't economize when it wants to? Why, just the other day our penny-wise legislators decided to change the backing of the two-year House wall calendars from cardboard to less rigid material, for a saving of $250,000.

MINI-EDITORIAL: The Pentagon's cheerful optimism in the face of disastrous failure is sometimes maddening. The Army recently fired an anti-tank gun at its $1.5 million-a-piece Bradley Fighting Vehicle, and the armored personnel carrier burned up. But were the brass hats downhearted? Not a bit. "We're thrilled with the results," crowed an Army spokesman. "The notion that if you kick the tires of a Bradley the whole thing's going to go up in a glowing fireball just didn't pan out." Congressional critics were not amused by the hyperbole. They recalled that when the Bradley was first proposed, the generals said it would fight right alongside the tanks.

Astrology is false religion

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What astrological sign were you born under? I am fascinated by astrology and feel the stars can tell us a lot about our personalities and our futures. I just wondered if you had ever thought about how the stars have influenced your life. — Mrs. B.B.N.

DEAR MRS. B.B.N.: It is of no concern to me what astrological sign I was born under, because the stars have no influence on our lives. I know this contradicts what you and many others today believe, since astrology and similar practices have become increasingly popular in recent years.

Nevertheless, the Bible — which is God's Word to us and, therefore, conveys God's truth to us — makes it clear that astrological signs have no legitimacy.

The prophet Isaiah in the Old Testament spoke of God's coming judgment against his nation (which had rebelled against God) and rebuked the leaders for taking their guidance from astrologers instead of from God: "Let your astrologers come forward, those stargazers who make predictions month by month... Surely they are like stubble; the fire will burn them up. They cannot even save themselves" (Isaiah 47:13-14).

Instead, we are told to seek God, who made both us and the stars. "Seek the Lord and live... who made the Pleiades and Orion" (Amos 5:6,8). Nowhere is there any indication that God reveals the future to us by the stars; we are to seek His will, which He will reveal to us if we are willing.

Have you ever asked yourself why you are so fascinated with astrology? I am convinced that deep down inside you are really looking for God, and you long to have the security and hope that comes from knowing Him. But you are seeking Him in the wrong place.

Turn to Jesus Christ and ask Him to come into your heart. Then let His Word, the Bible, be your constant companion and guide. With Christ you will not face the future alone.

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

Water district says income, costs drop

Both income and expenses for the Colorado River Municipal Water District fell below projections for the 11 months of the year. Income of $11.5 million was 2 percent below projections, primarily because less water was sold than anticipated, according to a water district news release.

A savings of $6.5 million — 13 percent below estimate — came from reductions in electricity costs due to less demand and a lower-than-anticipated rate.

At the end of the November, lakes were 34 percent of capacity, the water district reports. Lake Spence was at 42 percent and Lake Thomas was at 15 percent. Almost 900 acre-feet of water flowed into the two lakes in November, but 4,189 acre-feet was withdrawn.

Montford backs highway project

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

A proposed lane expansion for a 42-mile stretch of U.S. Highway 87 between Big Spring and Sterling City has the support of state Sen. John T. Montford of Lubbock.

Montford journeyed to Big Spring Monday to meet with Chamber of Commerce members to ferret out his support.

Montford, who represents Howard County in the State Legislature, said he would begin working on getting support for the project referred to as "filling the gap." Montford said he planned on meeting soon with the chairman of the Highway and Public Transportation Commission to discuss the project.

The chamber's transportation committee chaired by Arnold Marshall met initially with Montford before a regularly scheduled board of directors meeting at noon.

The committee has been active in trying to expand the roadway to four lanes and met last month with Ray Stoker of the state's highway and transportation commission.

Stoker said then that the commission based proposed road projects on traffic counts and said he would submit the "filling the gap" project to the commission's 10-year plan.

Montford said yesterday that the project would have to be submitted to the commission by "need terminology, not car counts."

"They (the commission) have money specifically categorized for need terminology projects," he said, "if we go on a car count theory, we'll never get it."

Stoker said last month that requests where car counts hit 10,000 on a specified roadway per day were given serious consideration. The commission's latest data on Highway 87 between Sterling City and Big Spring indicated 6,000 vehicles per day.

Counties should provide the commission with rights-of-way when submitting road requests, Montford advised the committee.

He later told chamber board members that right-of-way purchasing by counties "greatly facilitates and enhances" road project proposals submitted to and reviewed by the commission.

Montford earlier asked members of the transportation committee what Howard, Glasscock and Sterling counties would have to pay for a right-of-way purchase on the proposed "fill the gap" project.

The committee did not have any cost estimates on right-of-way expenses.

Montford again defended his initial proposal in requesting that a "Port to Plains" highway from Lubbock to Houston be routed through Midland.

Big Spring's Chamber of Commerce had raised a hub-bub of protest in September upon learning that Montford had communicated with Lamesa, Amarillo and Midland-Odessa about routing the proposed highway through those locations.

Montford said yesterday that he has since withdrawn the request and initially made the proposal in response to Sen. Grant Jones' resolution that "slipped" through the last legislature.

The resolution, Montford said, designated that the proposed highway be routed through Snyder and Abilene, bypassing West Texas counties of Midland and Howard.

"I didn't feel Abilene should have a fix on the Port of Plains," Montford said, "and I made the proposal to get other cities such as Midland-Odessa involved."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, DEC. 18, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are confused about how to make an important plan work as you wish. You must forego some pleasures and concentrate your time and energies on the tasks at hand.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have many private affairs to handle so persevere in a positive fashion. Don't go off on any tangents tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Friends are busy with own affairs so do not ask favors at all now. Handle your own affairs more intelligently and get good results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Apply yourself to problematical affairs and solve them well. Follow through with what bigwigs expect of you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You had better study that new venture and clear up the problems in it before you commit yourself to it.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have taken on more responsibility than you can handle, but do only whatever you can best handle.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Postpone a discussion with a partner since it would prove endless today, but tomorrow brings better results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The work ahead of you seems endless, but carry on in the best way you can. Schedule your time and activities wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more willing to do what your mate desires. Help a friend, but keep aside time for yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If an argument is brewing at home, try to stall it off. This is not a good day to invite guests in.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Improve travel matters today so that everything works smoothly. Get communications well handled.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good day or evening to reach a decision about property or money matters, since your judgment is not so good.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to stop thinking so negatively and get better results. Others are feeling depressed so concentrate on something pleasant.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will need charming surroundings around him or her, otherwise your progeny will develop a martyr complex. One who would do well in trouble-shooting professions, so slant the education along those lines. Have many books and also puzzles around to work out early in life

Dear Abby

Holiday charity should continue all year long

DEAR ABBY: The approach of the holiday season prompts us to write this letter. As residents of the Freeport Manor Nursing Center in Freeport, Ill., we read "Dear Abby" daily and discuss your column. Beginning in late November and all through the month of December, volunteers come out of the woodwork. Already our calendar is filling up with all sorts of organizations who want to visit the lonely, put on a program, pass out treats and gifts, or sing Christmas carols in the halls.

preciate it. But Abby, where are these generous people between the months of January and October? We have a few faithful volunteers who come on a regular basis, but we could use more. So to all you nice people who come in large groups during the holiday season, we say, "We love you and thank you for caring, but please don't pack us away along the rest of the Christmas decorations."

MAUDE, RUTH, HENRY, MADELINE AND MANY MORE
DEAR MAUD, ETC.: I'm glad you wrote. The point you raise is a good one. Freeport volunteers, and volunteers everywhere — take note.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more letter about how to eat a banana? I hope so, because there is one and only one way to eat a banana: Take a slightly overripe banana and roll it back and forth between your hands until the pulp is mushy and practically liquefied inside the skin. Bite off one end — it doesn't matter which one — then suck the pulp out of its container.

It's easy, simple and requires no utensils.

ANDREW HUDGINS, DEPT. OF ENGLISH, UNIVERSITY OF CINCINNATI
DEAR ANDREW: It's also unique. If it catches on, yet another expression will be added to our language: "Go suck a banana!"

DEAR ABBY: This is for that smarty-pants Smith grad and her equally know-it-all teacher. I got this right out of Emily Post: "Although it is not bad manners to peel the skin halfway down and eat the fruit bite by bite at the table, it is better to peel the skin all the way off, lay the fruit on your plate, cut the banana in slices and eat with a fork."

whole banana with a spoon or fork. That's the way I taught the young ladies to eat a banana at the table.

RUTH H. BIRD
DEAR ABBY: I was taught to eat a banana with a teaspoon at Wilson College in Chambersburg, Pa. We split the banana in half, placed the two halves beside each other and ate the banana with a teaspoon!

DOROTHY S. KINTZEL
DEAR DOROTHY: Banana case dismissed; I hope nobody appeals it.

Dr. Donohue

Aged need tetanus protection

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I read an article (how many of your letters begin with that phrase?) that said tetanus boosters do no good unless the person has had the original series of three shots. I have had a booster shot, but I have no clear memory of ever getting the three-shot series. What should I do? — C.M.

If serious doubt exist about the completeness of your protection, then you have to start from scratch. The vast majority of people have had that initial series — two shots a month apart and a third six to 12 months later. Thereafter, protection is maintained with boosters every 10 years.

Let me go on a bit more at length about this. Granted, tetanus (lock-jaw) has become rare because of the protective program to eradicate it. But if you have witnessed a patient with it you would need no greater motivation for maintaining protection the rest of your life. And I mean that literally, for age confers no protection against the infection. In fact, of the tetanus cases reported each year in the U.S., most happen in people 60 or older who have neglected booster protection.

The writer of the article was correct. For people who never had the earlier series, the boosters leave inadequate protection, and starting from the beginning is the only practical answer.

Yes, many of the letters I receive begin the way yours did. One writer began that way, then cited a statement she'd read, asking me to verify its validity. She was not aware that the statement had appeared in this very column. I checked it out again, and was happy to learn it was correct. I don't believe everything I read, either.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: The ad said, incredibly, that you can firm up sagging breasts with a simple massage using certain creams. You are supposed to use a circular motion 20 times each massage. It increases blood supply to the breasts and that firms them up. Comment? — R.R.

The breast is suspended by ligaments. Increasing blood supply does nothing at all for ligaments. I'm with you. The idea is incredible, in the closest definition of that word.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been advised to take water pills for my fluid retention prior to menstruation. Do you recommend this? — Mrs. R.X.

Retention is a classic part of premenstrual syndrome. Water pills are a good way to prevent it. Other things I've mentioned include salt reduction, avoiding alcohol, exercise, and going easy on caffeine products.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dolphins move closer to title with 30-27 win over Patriots

MIAMI (AP) — Miami's bend-but-don't-break defense could have snapped, but Glenn Blackwood would have none of it against New England.

With Monday night's National Football League game between the Dolphins and Patriots on the line, Blackwood came up with his second interception of Tony Eason to preserve a 30-27 triumph that carried Miami a step closer to claiming its third straight AFC Eastern Division title.

"The ball was just a little overthrown," the veteran safety said of the last-minute pass intended for New England tight end Derrick Ramsey. "It wasn't really a great play, just a good play at a great time."

There haven't been many like it for the Miami defense this season. While the unit has started to jell during the team's current six-game winning streak, it's been a Dan Marino-led offense that's repeatedly bailed the club out of tough situations.

Marino did his job again Monday night, directing a fourth-quarter drive leading to Fead Reveiz' 47-yard game-winning field goal after New England scored two touchdowns in 15 seconds to erase a 14-point deficit.

But in the end, it was inspired defense that prevented New England, 10-5, from clinching its first AFC East title since 1978 and extended the Patriots' losing streak in the Orange Bowl to 18 games.

"When we had to come through we did," said Marino, who completed 17 of 33 passes for 192 yards to become the second quarterback in NFL history to throw for more than 4,000 yards in a season twice.

Rookie fullback Ron Davenport also scored touchdowns on a pair of 1-yard runs set up by Marino's passing.

"Early in the second half, we made some mistakes," added Marino, who tossed a 6-yard scoring pass to Joe Rose in the first quarter. "But we didn't make mistakes with the game on the line."

"It was a tough loss for us and a heckuva win for the Dolphins," Patriots Coach Raymond Berry said. A victory over Buffalo in their regular-season finale would give the 11-4 Dolphins the AFC East crown for the 13th time in 16 years.

The defending conference champions have not yet clinched a playoff berth, however, although the triumph over New England virtually assures them a spot.

The Miami defense, ranked 24th when the night began, was dominating at times. New England fought back from a 17-7 halftime deficit with help from a 72-yard touchdown drive that set the stage for an exciting finish.

Mosi Tatupu's 1-yard TD plunge sliced the Dolphins' lead to 27-20 with 7:37 remaining. The Patriots tied it 15 seconds later when Cedric Jones picked up a Joe Carter fumble on the ensuing kickoff and ran 16 yards for another score.

"With the Patriots, you can never relax," Marino said. "I knew the game wasn't over no matter how big a lead we had."

Marino launched a 39-yard drive leading to Reveiz' third field goal of the night with a 17-yard pass to Mark Duper and followed with a 9-yarder to Mark Clayton and a 8-yarder to Bruce Hardy that left Marino with 4,001 yards passing this season.

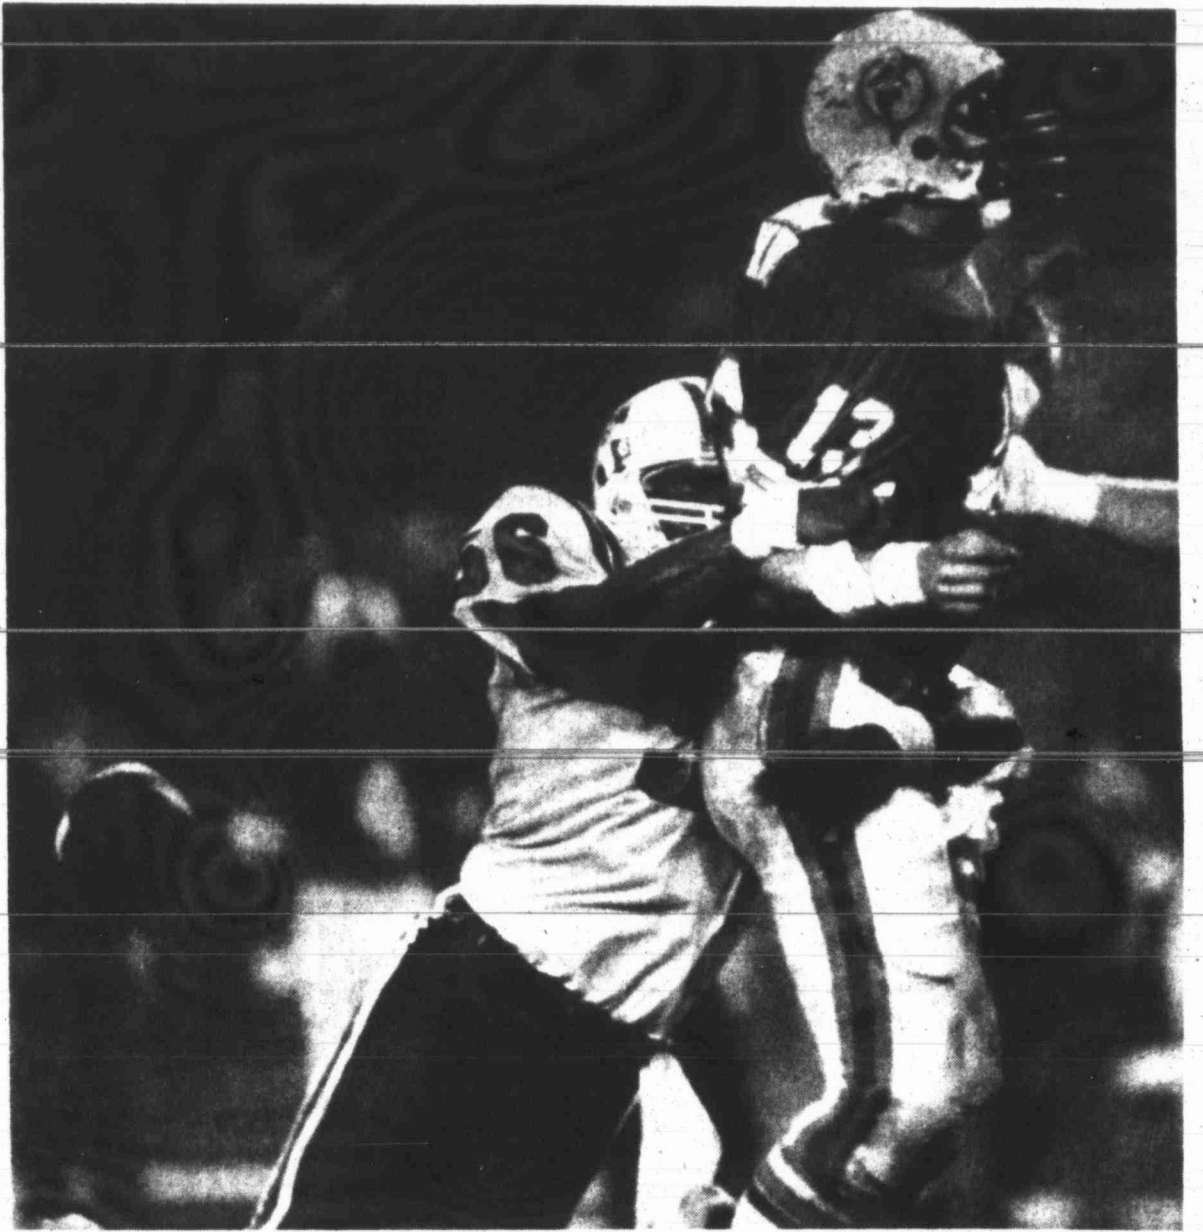

Reveiz, a rookie who also booted field goals of 44 and 49 yards, calmly kicked the game-winner despite steady rainfall that drenched an Orange Bowl crowd of 69,489.

"You have to put the weather out of your mind," Reveiz said. "If you don't, you start putting things in your head you don't have too."

Eason brought New England back, but fell short after moving the club from his own 24 to the Miami 34. Blackwood's second interception came with 56 seconds to go.

"I just messed up," the third-year quarterback said. "I overthrew it. We were trying to score a touchdown."

Eason finished with 14 completions in 26 attempts for 217 yards, including a 10-yard scoring toss to Irving Fryar in the first quarter. He was intercepted three times.

Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino (13) fumbles the ball as he is tackled by New England Patriot linebacker Andre Tippett (56).

Abilene High downs Lady Steers, 50-42

ABILENE — The Abilene Eagles got a strong second half spurt and went on to defeat the Big Spring Lady Steers 50-42 last night in the District 4-5A opener for both teams.

Sophomore guard Jody Anderson keyed the Eagles second half barrage, filling in for Abilene High leading scorer Trena Jackson, who was on the bench in foul trouble. Jackson came into the contest averaging 27 points, Big Spring held her to six.

But it was Anderson's outside shooting that paced the Eagles to outscoring Big Spring 27-20 in the second half.

AHS built up a 11-10 lead after one quarter of play but the Lady Steers moved ahead with the first basket of the second quarter to take the lead for the last time in the contest.

The Eagles responded with four consecutive baskets to pull to a 19-12 lead. Behind the scoring of junior forward Teresa Pruitt, Big Spring pulled to within 23-22 at the half. Pruitt had a game-high 24 points. She was the only Lady Steer in double figures.

The Eagles hit the first three baskets of the third quarter, and the Lady Steers never did recover.

The win moves the Eagles to 8-5 for the season while Big Spring falls to 5-7.

Eagles ax Campbell; want Shula

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Marion Campbell wasn't owner Norman Braman's favorite coach from the day the Miami automobile dealer bought the Philadelphia Eagles last spring for $65 million.

So it wasn't exactly a surprise Monday when Braman fired Campbell and listed 26-year-old David Shula, son of Miami Dolphins' coach Don Shula, as a major candidate for the job.

Shortly after Braman purchased the team, he visited with his friend, Don Shula, to get the elder Shula's opinion of Campbell as a coach. Shula praised Campbell, so Braman resisted his inclination to start fresh with a new head coach.

But Braman set high standards for a team that hadn't had a winning season since 1981. He said he expected the Eagles to be a playoff team.

The Eagles started off 1-4, then won five of six to become a playoff contender at 6-5. But they lost the next four to slip to 6-9, and Braman decided he wanted a new coach.

The owner wanted to wait until the end of the season to make the change, but Campbell forced his hand.

Campbell learned that Braman and Eagles' General Manager Harry Gamble had visited with David Shula a week ago Monday to discuss the coaching job.

On the flight home Sunday night from San Diego, where the Eagles lost 20-14 to the Chargers, Campbell told Gamble that if a decision was going to be made to fire him he wanted it done as soon as possible.

When the team arrived in Philadelphia, Gamble drove Braman to the owner's hotel and informed him of Campbell's request.

"I talked with Mr. Braman briefly and left," Gamble said Monday after announcing that Campbell had been fired.

Gamble said Campbell came in Monday morning and requested the decision be made that day.

Gamble said he telephoned Braman, who had returned to his auto dealership business in Miami and informed the owner of Campbell's request.

"I put Campbell on the telephone with Braman and I left the room," Gamble said. "When I came back, Campbell said he had been released."

Campbell then left the Eagles' office and Gamble went to the coach's weekly Monday news conference, which had been delayed 90 minutes, to make the firing announcement.

Gamble said the Eagles planned to interview other coaching prospects besides Shula and hoped to select a successor to Campbell after the end of the regular season.

Campbell's assistant head coach, Fred Bruney, was named interim coach for the final game of the season Sunday at Minnesota.

Bruney said he met with the players and asked them to return to practice Wednesday mentally ready to go to work and prepare to play as "manly an NFL game as could be."

Campbell in a statement said, "I feel at peace with myself because I know my coaching staff and I put every ounce of effort we had into making the Eagles a better team."

"And I feel we succeeded. There is no question in my mind that this year's team is considerably better than the one I inherited three years ago."

"It does not need an overhaul like the one that took place following my first season as head coach." He said he left with "no animosity" toward anyone in the Eagles' organization.

Braman said over the telephone from Miami that he wasn't concerned that Shula at 26 would be the youngest head coach in the NFL if he gets the job.

Penn State dominates All-East team

NEW YORK (AP) — Penn State, the nation's No. 1-ranked college football team, dominates the Associated Press All-East team with eight representatives, including repeater Michael Zordich, a strong safety, and five others on the defensive unit.

The other Penn Staters on the defensive squad are end-outside linebacker Shane Conlan, tackle Tim Johnson, inside linebacker Rogers Alexander, back Lance Hamilton and punter John Bruno. The only Nittany Lions named to the offensive unit, announced Monday, are quarterback John Shaffer and placekicker Massimo Manca.

Running back Paul Palmer of Temple, defensive tackle Tim Green of Syracuse and nose guard Mike Ruth of Boston College were named to the All-East team for the third year in a row.

The other repeaters are tight end Scott Gieselmann of Boston College, running back Napoleon McCallum of Navy, offensive tackle Brian Jozwiak of West Virginia and guards John Rienstra of Temple and Don Smith of Army. Gieselmann and McCallum missed out last year after being named to the team in 1983.

The rest of the offensive unit consists of wide receivers Kelvin Martin of Boston College and Scott Schwedes of Syracuse, tackle Randy Dixon of Pitt and center Ron Rice of Army.

Rounding out the defensive team are outside linebacker Fred Smalls of West Virginia, inside linebackers Bill Romanowski of Boston College and Tyrone Stowe of Rutgers and deep back Doug Pavsek of Army.

McCallum, who became the first redshirt in Navy history after suffering a leg injury early in the 1984 campaign, finished 1985 as the nation's leading all-purpose runner with an average of 211.8 yards a game. For the season, he rushed for 1,327 yards — finishing seventh nationally at 120.6 yards per game — and added 358 reception yards, 157 on punt returns and 488 on kickoff returns.

Palmer finished second nationally in both rushing (193.7 yards a game) and all-purpose running (168.4).

Pelluer comes through

IRVING (AP) — Steve Pelluer's biggest claim to National Football League fame until last Sunday was the fact that his brother, Scott, plays linebacker for the New Orleans Saints.

No more. Pelluer is firmly entrenched in Dallas Cowboys' lore now as the third-string quarterback who brought Dallas a division-clinching 28-21 victory over the New York Giants.

The 1984 fifth-round draft pick from the Washington Huskies had never taken an NFL snap until Sunday. But he drove Dallas 72 yards for the game-winning touchdown in the fourth period.

Pelluer was needed after starting quarterback Danny White had been sidelined with a shoulder bruise and Gary Hogeboom had suffered a concussion.

With Dallas leading 21-14, Pelluer took the Cowboys on a 72-yard touchdown drive highlighted by a 28-yard pass to rookie Karl Pove on third and 15. The completion to the Giants' 24 set up Timmy Newsome's one-yard scoring run.

As a sophomore at Washington, Pelluer led the Huskies to the PAC-10 title and a 28-0 victory over Iowa in the Rose Bowl.

Pelluer said "I didn't feel like all the pressure was on me. I just went into the huddle and told everybody to do their job."

"It's just an unbelievable feeling."

Dallas running back Tony Dorsett said the completion to Pove "was the biggest play of the game. That enabled us to go down and score our last touchdown."

Pelluer didn't even practice with the first team during the week. He was busy impersonating Giants' quarterback Phil Simms on the scout team.

Pelluer could see some more action in San Francisco on Sunday.

White said Sunday he doubted he would play.

"It's a painful injury and I'd like to sit out for awhile and rest," said White.

Hogeboom has a slight concussion, but was expected to recover for the 49ers.

The Cowboys will meet the Los Angeles Rams either Jan. 4 or Jan. 5.

They must beat the 49ers on Sunday and the Rams must lose to the Los Angeles Raiders on Monday for the game to be played at Texas Stadium.

It was Dallas' first division title since 1981.

Sports Briefs

Robertson NBA's top player

NEW YORK (AP) — Guard Alvin Robertson of the San Antonio Spurs, the National Basketball Association's leader in steals, was named Monday as the league's player of the week.

Robertson averaged 22 points, six rebounds, five assists and four steals per game and shot 59 percent from the field. He opened the week with a career-high 29 points in a 109-107 victory at Chicago and in two games he posted a career-high seven steals.

Refrigerator in longjohns

YANCEYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The Refrigerator strikes again, now Chicago Bear defensive lineman William "The Refrigerator" Perry, will appear in an underwear ad. Unlike Jim Palmer of baseball who wears sexy briefs in his ads, Perry will appear in longjohns, size double Extra Large.

McEnroe gets suspension

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe, ranked No. 2 in the world, was given a 42-day suspension Monday, the Men's International Professional Tennis Council announced.

McEnroe's suspension, which began immediately, resulted when he accumulated fines of more than $7,500 in a 12-month period.

Polish teams boots off top skiers

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish twin sisters who are among the top women's slalom skiers in the world have been expelled from the Polish national ski team for contract violations, the official Polish news agency PAP reported Monday.

The sisters, Dorota and Malgorzata Tialka-Magore have been living in France and recently married two French brothers.

Coach wants no sympathy

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers interim coach Jerry Glanville seeks no sympathy for the precarious nature of his first head coaching assignment.

"If I don't get the job next year, there won't be any tearful goodbye speeches," Glanville said Monday following a 28-21 loss to Cleveland in his first game since replacing Hugh Campbell.

"In our first meeting, I told the players not to go out and win one for the coach. I told them to win for themselves."

Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzog fired Campbell last Monday and said the permanent job would be Glanville's if the Oilers won their last two games.

Glanville remained optimistic Monday despite his 0-1 start. "I've got one of the best coach's wives in the business, a great son and a dog that still hunts," Glanville said. "I've got a car that's down to 36 more payments and I belong to a helluva church."

"So I'm better off than most of the people in Houston even if I don't get the job."

He may even rate an asterisk in the Oiler record book as the coach with the shortest tenure in the team's history.

The Oilers fire head coaches at the rate of every two years and former interim coach Chuck Studley had the previous record of 10 games.

The Oilers, 5-10, close out their season Sunday at Indianapolis.

Glanville missed chances in 1977 and 1984 for head coaching assignments at Detroit and was passed over at the last minute to become head coach of the United States Football League Philadelphia Stars in 1983.

Although his chance with the Oilers came under almost impossible circumstances, Glanville jumped at it and says he's not looking back.

"I don't worry about that because I'm just worried about making this a good football team," Glanville said.

Asked if Herzog had any comments to him following the game, Glanville said "He said it was a good job. But Ladd is no different from anyone. A good job can only be judged if you win the football game."

Glanville had only six days to prepare for his first game as a head coach and there were certain adjustments. Glanville, as a veteran defensive coordinator had spent most Sundays in the press box calling defensive signals.

Spurs change from Gervin-era

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

The San Antonio Spurs without George Gervin are not the same team that always seemed to win 130-125 and lose by the same score.

In the late 1970s and early 1980s, when Gervin was the National Basketball Association scoring champion four times, the Spurs won five division titles. The team's philosophy was simple: put up more shots than the other team and try to outscore them.

But over the last two seasons, that method didn't work. The Spurs lost more games than they won and even failed to make the playoffs once. At 33, Gervin's once-smooth moves were showing some hard edges, and in a bitter preseason separation, the Iceman was traded to Chicago.

"You can't just outscore other teams anymore; the NBA is changed," said veteran center Artis Gilmore. "The organization saw that coming and did something about it."

"There is more emphasis on defense around the league. The teams that are most successful — Milwaukee, the Lakers, Boston — are excellent defensive teams. We had to start playing defense, too."

The Spurs undoubtedly are scrappier on defense and more physical than the old days, but can they be as successful?

San Antonio now is 14-12; the Spurs were 41-41 last season, so the answer is in doubt.

"I think we're better," said the Spurs' leading scorer, Mike Mitchell. "We're a more physical team and we don't have to rely on one guy scoring 25 points to win."

"We can be a better team than we were last year if we can be more consistent," said Gervin's replacement at guard, second-year man Alvin Robertson. "Our division is strong, so there's no telling how far we can go. I think we a harder team ... by that I mean that we have guys at every position who play hard."

The 6-foot-4 Robertson epitomizes the changed emphasis of the Spurs. While Gervin was almost effortless in his ability to score, effortless is not in Robertson's vocabulary — on offense or defense.

"I'll never be the scorer Gervin was, but I can do a lot of things he couldn't do as well — like rebound, pass and play defense," Robertson said.

Only the 7-2 Gilmore has more rebounds on the Spurs than Robertson, who also leads the entire NBA in steals.

After 27 games, he has 90 thefts, and four times he has recorded seven steals in a single game. Meanwhile, Gervin has only 12 steals for the Bulls.

In scoring, where Robertson seemingly takes a back seat to Gervin, the gap is not as wide as expected.

Gervin went into this season with the highest career scoring average (27.3) of any active player, including all-time leading scorer Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. For the Bulls, however, Gervin is scoring just 15 points per game, less than a point higher than Robertson, who has improved his average in his last four outings with 29, 17, 23 and 19-point games.

"If I can make my outside shots, I'm pretty hard to stop," Robertson said. "But I have to hit my outside jumpers to be effective."

Robertson isn't the only reason the Spurs have changed their image this season. Mitchell, among the league leaders in scoring, said he has taken on a much heavier defensive load.

Two Rangers now free agents

ARLINGTON (AP) — Texas Rangers pitcher Dickie Noles and outfielder Ellis Valentine will become free agents Friday, bringing the American League teams' major league roster to 38, a club official said.

Noles and Valentine were not offered 1986 contracts, said Tom Grieve, vice president and general manager.

Major league baseball players must be offered 1986 contracts by Dec. 20 or they automatically become free agents. Grieve said both Noles and Valentine have been invited to the Rangers' major league spring training camp as non-roster players.

Noles, 29, was 4-8 with a 5.06 earned run average in 28 games and 13 starts during 1985. He was acquired from the Chicago Cubs on July 1, 1984, and has a major league record of 29-36 in six seasons.

Valentine, 31, signed with the Rangers July 10.

Legendary prep coach is hero to one and all

By DAVID CASSTEVENS Dallas Morning News

BROWNWOOD (AP) — When Jim Wood was in the third grade, each member of his class was asked to write a letter to his hero. One kid chose Johnny Unitas. Another Don Meredith.

"It was easy for me," Wood recalled. "My hero was my dad."

Jim Wood grew up. He is 26 now, married, the father of a 13-week-old son.

But Wood never outgrew the boyish admiration he held for his father. His dad never gave him reason to. So it wasn't easy for him. Nor was it easy for Jim's mother, with whom he sat, the two of them tightly clutching each other's hand, sharing the tie that binds.

Both knew this day would come. One day, someday, the old man would retire. No one can coach forever. Not Paul Brown. Not George Halas. Not Vince Lombardi. Not even Gordon Wood, who has won more football games — 405 — than any other coach at any level, ever, the aforementioned included.

Writing about the life and times of Brownwood's Gordon Wood is a little like standing before a banquet buffet with only a salad plate in your hand. You're frustratingly unequipped. There is more to be sampled than space allows.

He grew up near Abilene, the son of a farmer. As a kid, he picked cotton. Although poor, his father was proud, and told his son the day he died, "I don't owe a dime to any man. But if you find one I do, will you pay him?" As Gordon recalls, "I never did, 'cause I never found one."

It was not riches Gordon dreamed about. If money was his motivation, he never would have gone into high school coaching — or remained there for 45 years. His first job, as assistant coach in Spur, paid $900 a year. Wood took home $73.25 a month, less $1.75 for teachers' retirement. He coached football, basketball and track. He taught four classes. He also drove the bus.

The jobs he held during his early years sound like a conductor's call of stops along the railroad line. Rule. Roscoe. Winters. At Stamford, he won two state titles.

In 1960, the year after Jim was born, Wood became head coach at Brownwood, where he immediately produced a state championship. A lot of coaches are victims of high expectations. You know fans: Give them an inch and they want a first down. After Brownwood won the state title, the locals decided they liked it. They called for another. Wood gave them six more, the last in 1981.

Times change. Attitudes change. Wood began his career in simpler, less complicated times. Years ago, what the coach said was law. No ifs, ands or buts. He could tell a kid to get a haircut without the Civil Liberties Union getting into it. "No pass, no play" was a warning the coach gave his quarterback who refused to throw the ball, even on third and long.

Although the social climate has changed, Wood has remained an enduring constant. He has not compromised his principles. His formula for success was no different this year than it was back in the mid-1970s when his son played for him.

"I think a lot of coaches know Xs and Os better than him, and he would probably tell you that," Jim Wood said. "But nobody knows more about people than he does."

Jim thought back to his schoolboy days and smiled. "When you mess up, he can make you feel THAT small," he said, holding thumb and index finger an inch apart. "He makes you feel like you're disappointing him, the school, the whole community. He appeals to your pride."

The younger Wood recalled a practice the week before a big game against Vernon. That day, nothing went right. One player after another missed his assignment. Finally, Wood had his fill. "Get off the field!" Gordon screamed. Jim and his teammates looked at each other, then at the coach, dumbstruck.

"I said, get off the field!" Wood bellowed, his big jawline flushed with genuine rage. Timidly, the players silently filed into the locker room, cowering beneath the coach's thunder. Jim dreaded going home that night, so fearful was he that his dad might vent his wrath on family members, which the head of the house never, ever did.

Next day, Wood called his players together and told them that if they made just one mistake he was going to leave the team home. He would play Vernon with his junior varsity. Practice went perfect. Brownwood won the game, 25-0.

Years later, Jim asked his father if he was serious about his threat. Would he really have played the JV? "Son," Wood said, "that's something you'll never know, will you?"

Wood kept the community guessing this week as to whether he would retire. The school board had offered him a four-year contract. If Wood coached one more year, he would receive an additional $250 a month in retirement pay.

But money has never been that important to this man. Until three years ago, Wood was among the lowest paid coaches in the district.

He is 71. His wife has been ill. He has a grandchild, who is named for him, Thomas Gordon Wood.

So the winningest coach in history did what his heart told him to do Saturday, although it was obvious that announcing his decision at a press conference was not easy for him. Eyes brimming, Gordon Wood said that because of "family considerations" he was reluctantly retiring as a football coach. To Jim, now himself a coach, the old man never stood taller.

Tide rolls over Florida St.

By The Associated Press

It's not exactly an exclusive club these days but you won't hear anybody at the University of Alabama complaining about that.

Alabama became the 35th school to win 1,000 college basketball games when it rolled over Florida State 100-89 Monday night.

Buck Johnson scored 23 points, leading five Alabama players in double figures as the 6-0 Crimson Tide earned win No. 1,000. Wimp Sanderson, now in his sixth season as head coach, has been a part of 420 triumphs in his career as an assistant and head man at Tuscaloosa.

College Hoops

"It's a great moment for our program," said Sanderson, who was forced into some unusual substitution patterns when Alabama got into serious foul trouble. He rotated three players at center in the second half, and he saw the Seminoles grab a brief lead before the Tide rallied.

"We didn't do a very good job with the zone so I decided to gamble a little early in the second half and put Derrick McKey back in there when he was in foul trouble. I wanted to win so bad I just put everything on the line."

The Crimson Tide hit 62 percent from the field in the opening half, after which it led 51-37.

McKey contributed a 14-point, nine-rebound performance in the opening 20 minutes, but then went to the bench with foul problems in the second half. Johnson saw some duty at center with McKey sidelined and he hit two free throws to give Alabama the lead for good with 7:50 left.

Jim Farmer scored 19 for Alabama, while Terry Coner had 18, McKey 16 and Mark Gottfried 14. McKey grabbed 13 rebounds before fouling out.

Pee Wee Barber led Florida State, 4-2, with 23 points.

Only one ranked team played Monday night, with No. 11 Louisiana State downing Lamar 74-57.

Elsewhere, it was Clemson 89, Baptist 63; Northeastern 75, Stetson 61; Marshall 72, E. Michigan 65; Missouri 72, Southern Illinois 44; Murray State 70, Bowling Green 63 in overtime; New Orleans 84, Oregon Tech 70; Creighton 92, Austin Peay 64; Drake 74, William Jewell 66; Iowa State 95, South Dakota 58; Texas-El Paso 69, Centenary 63; Fullerton State 91, Seattle 39, and Nevada-Reno 92, Santa Clara 61.

LSU 74, Lamar 57

Guard Don Redden scored 19 points and had eight rebounds to pace a balanced Louisiana State. Before a record crowd of 9,432 at Lamar's Montagne Center, the 6-foot-6 senior scored 11 of his game-high total in the first half as LSU built a 41-31 lead.

John Williams scored 16 points and grabbed 13 rebounds for the Tigers, 8-0, while Jamus Guley and James Nance each had 17 points for 5-2 Lamar in the Cardinals' worst loss at home in 10 years.

"This was our most consistent performance of the year," LSU Coach Dale Brown said. "I can think of only 1 1/2 minutes in the second half where we did not play well."

Unranked

Reserve guard Glenn Corbit scored 10 points in the final five minutes of the first half to send Clemson past Baptist, S.C. It was the eighth win without a loss for the host Tigers, who got 22 points from Larry Middleton.

Forward Reggie Lewis scored 19 points to lead visiting Northeastern over Stetson. Marshall, another visitor, was paced by Tom Curry with 24 points, and never trailed Eastern Michigan.

Derrick Cingevins scored 17 points and Dan Bingenheimer added 15 in Missouri's runaway victory. Murray State, led by Chuck Glass' 20 points, survived a late comeback in regulation and defeated Bowling Green. Brian Miller hit a 15-foot shot for Bowling Green with 30 seconds left to send the game into overtime.

Ronnie Grandison had 14 points and 11 rebounds to lead New Orleans, 4-0. The Privateers never trailed the Owls, who were forced into 27 turnovers.

Gary Swain scored 20 points to lead Creighton, which outrebounded Austin Peay 21-5 on its way to a 42-25 halftime lead. Iowa State cruised to its seventh victory in eight starts, with Jeff Grayer's 23 points leading the way.

Center Dave Feitl and guard Quintan Gates had 16 points and six rebounds each to lead Texas-El Paso past Centenary. The Miners, 7-1, led all the way.

Kevin Henderson scored 20 points and Richard Morton added 16 for Fullerton State, 7-3. Senior guard Rob Harden scored 25 points, with all 12 of his field goals from long range, to lead Nevada-Reno past Santa Clara.
