DALLAS (AP) — A city councilman nicknamed "Clean Dean" has earned a $20 traffic citation — for courteous, safe driving. Councilman Dean Vanderbilt said he was driving to work in suburban Addison this week and came to an intersection. Even though no other cars were visible, he made a complete stop and signaled for his turn. A policeman found Vanderbilt's behavior so commendable he cited him as a courteous driver, and handed him a $20 check. The police department issued 200 safe-driving awards between Dec. 6 and Christmas Day, courtesy of the Addison Rotary Club and Vernon Savings, said Deputy Police Chief Jake Miller.

Bill gets favorable review

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Several local farm leaders had positive comments about the $169 billion farm bill signed into law Monday by President Ronald Reagan.

"I feel pretty good about the way it looks," said Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service director Tim Hall.

The bill, he said, is not designed to get farmers with serious financial problems out of debt, but rather will enable most farmers to "hold on until things get a little better."

The bill will allow farmers some flexibility in handling their farming operations, he said. "I think it will give (the farmer) more options," Hall said.

One option described in the bill allows farmers federal money to idle erosion-prone land. The bill calls for 45 million acres of highly erosion-prone land to be retired nationwide. Fields cultivated in this area are prone to a great deal of wind erosion, Hall said. There has been talk, he said, that $50 an acre would induce farmers to take land out of production. But it is uncertain if farmers will in fact get paid that much, he added.

The soil conservation portion of the bill should be viewed favorably by area farmers, said county extension agent Don Richardson. Richardson, who said he was a "little surprised the bill turned out this good," said the soil retirement program might spur reductions in cotton surpluses. A world-wide cotton glut is a major factor in the low price farmers are getting for their product. Farmers in this area are getting about 50 cents a pound for their cotton.

Times are tough for area farmers, Richardson said. "Anything right now is an improvement," he said of the farm bill.

Commodity subsidies of $52 billion over three years is another key feature of the new legislation. The subsidies are designed, Hall said, so that government price supports on crops like cotton can be lowered to make them more competitive on the world market, while keeping income for farmers at a sustained level. However, any benefits from this measure are not likely to affect farmers this year, Hall said.

Cotton Fanning, executive assistant for the Plains Cotton Growers in Lubbock, said his view of the new bill is mixed. Fanning said he was pleased the bill will protect farm income in 1986 but said he had concerns about the years down the road.

But one attraction of the bill, he said, is it shows "we don't intend to abdicate our cotton market. We intend to produce (cotton) and sell it."

Chances are, though, fewer farmers will be producing and selling cotton in West Texas. Fanning estimated that 10 to 25 percent of the area's growers will halt operations next year. "That's just a coffee shop guess," he said.

"We need an increase in producer income," he said. One way to do that is by raising the target price of cotton, he said. The target price, a rough indication of what it costs to produce a pound of cotton, will remain at 81 cents under the

Congressman feels budget trimming will hurt veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration will cut into "the very meat and bones" of the nation's health care for military veterans if it wins budget cuts of $1 billion in fiscal 1987 and more in following years, a congressman close to the issue said Friday.

The administration's general plan, though unstated in public, seems to be to cut back Veterans Administration staff, facilities and services at a time when the number of elderly veterans is growing, "and then hope the veterans will not use the system," said Rep. Bob Edgar, D-Pa. Edgar, chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee's subcommittee on hospitals and health care, said he was sending a letter to President Reagan asking for a public clarification of "behind-the-scenes" VA budget-cutting plans.

His comments followed Friday's publication in The New York Times a story which did not include a total figure for VA medical services in fiscal 1987. But congressional sources, speaking on condition they not be named, said the draft figure

Journalist's child dies in Rome raid

ROME (AP) — Natasha Simpson, one of 14 people killed Friday in a terrorist attack at the Rome airport, was the 11-year-old daughter of Victor L. Simpson, The Associated Press' news editor in Rome.

She was shot to death when five terrorists attacked people in the international departure terminal with automatic weapons and hand grenades. Simpson's 9-year-old son, Michael, suffered abdominal wounds, and Simpson was wounded in the hand by a bullet.

Simpson, 43, and his wife, Daniela Petroff Simpson, 40, also a journalist, were preparing to board a plane to the United States for a vacation when the attack occurred at Leonardo Da Vinci Airport.

Natasha was a straight-A student in the sixth grade of Marymount International School where her brother also is a fourth-grader. A natural athlete skilled in swimming and skiing, she also recently wrote a four-act Christmas play with a friend.

The two children had looked forward to their trip to the United States, where they were to go skiing and visit relatives and friends. But the day before leaving, Natasha had expressed fears about traveling, saying, "I hope we don't get hijacked."

Four people were injured when their car broke through a guardrail on the One Mile Lake overpass, falling to the sand below.

Child unhurt as car dives 40 feet

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

A 2-year-old miraculously escaped injury in a one-car accident Friday that hospitalized four Odessa adults, said Department of Public Safety trooper Bill Cooper.

The accident occurred at 2:10 p.m. on I-20 just north of Big Spring, the trooper said.

Adolfo Yera, 28, Deliz Candelario, 27, Carolina Rico, 23, and Adella Rica, 28, all of 908 Maple in Odessa, were listed in serious but stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital Friday evening, Cooper said.

Two-year-old April Mende of the same address was admitted to the hospital for overnight observation.

Cooper said "excessive speed and alcohol" were factors in the accident.

A 1980 Plymouth driven by Yera was westbound on I-20 at mile marker 176 when it veered off the road to the right, hit a guard rail and slid back across both westbound lanes, Cooper said. The car then traveled through the south guard rail, flew 100 feet into the air and landed on the ground some 40 feet below the highway, he said.

The car bounced, traveled another 26 feet, landed, threw all four adults out, bounced again and traveled an additional 13 feet before coming to a stop, he said.

None of the people in the car were wearing seat belts, he said.

Reagan, Gorbachev to trade greetings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan will speak to the people of the Soviet Union and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev will address Americans on New Year's Day in an unprecedented exchange of greetings, the White House said Friday.

The United States and the Soviet Union have sent written New Year's greetings to one another in the past, but never broadcast messages. "We, of course, believe this is an important event," said White House spokesman Larry Speakes.

He said the messages will be recorded in advance and made available for radio and television broadcast at 1 p.m. EST — 9 p.m. in Moscow.

The announcement was made simultaneously in both countries Friday. Reporters were told about it on Air Force One as Reagan flew to California for the New Year's holiday.

In Moscow, the word came at a hastily called press conference conducted by Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Vladimir Lomeiko.

The latest move toward a lessening of tensions was disclosed on the same day that the two superpowers traded bitter words about Afghanistan. Friday was the sixth anniversary of the Soviet invasion of that country.

In a written statement, Reagan accused Moscow of adopting "barbaric methods of waging war." In Moscow, the news agency Tass accused the United States and its allies of unleashing "a bloody undeclared war against the people and the lawful government of the

Clown takes his magic to 'Dallas' set

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — Last July 23 was a memorable day for Tom Alderman, a rodeo clown for some 15 years.

At 6 a.m. Alderman got a phone call inviting him to appear on the television series, "Dallas."

Later that afternoon his wife, Pat, gave birth to the couple's first daughter, Trish, after two prior births produced sons John and Adam.

Although Alderman is a father three times over, appearing on national television is an occasion that, for many people, may happen once in a lifetime, if at all.

Alderman's chance came when Gerald Smith, owner of Wing Rodeo Company, of Bogata, asked him if he wanted to do his clown routine with J.R. and the good 'ole boys on "Dallas." Smith had been approached by Lorimar Productions to provide bucking stock and a few clowns and cowboys for the program.

Alderman accepted and about two weeks later, packed his gear and headed for Big D.

Working on a TV set is no piece of cake, according to Alderman. He was up by 5:30 a.m. and on the job by 7 a.m. in full make-up. But, unlike some of the stars on the series, there were no fancy limousines waiting to whisk him off to the set or air-conditioned motor homes to relax in between takes.

Filming usually ended about 8 p.m. after more than 12 hours on the set.

On Aug. 1, Alderman found himself working in a 108-degree temperature, while beads of sweat threatened to ruin his make-up.

"The make-up people there were like you would find in Merle Norman," he said. "They didn't know how to handle a clown's make-up."

He does his own make-up and said a clown's make-up is his identity.

"My make-up is my trademark," he said. "I do it the exact same way every time."

Alderman started out trying to emulate the sad-faced Emmett Kelly, the famous Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus clown, but decided that wasn't suited to his personality.

Now, sporting one white eye, one blue eye and a bulbous red nose, he dons a polka dot shirt, oversized pants held up with suspenders, and a red cowboy hat and steps into the ring to work his magic.

He said one day on the "Dallas" set he was asked to pose in a publicity picture with one of the stars after he had just eaten barbecue for lunch.

"I said 'I wish I'd have touched up my make-up' and the star, in all sincerity, said, 'You want me to get the make-up people over here?'"

Tom Alderman, who has been a rodeo clown for 15 years, recently gave a performance of a lifetime. He was invited to perform during a segment of the television show "Dallas."

Alderman politely declined, fearful he might turn out looking more like Victoria Principal if he accepted.

While doing the three-day stint, he met all the stars on the series but was most impressed with the down-to-earth personalities of Steve Kanaly, who plays Ray Krebbs and Susan Howard, who portrays Donna, his wife.

As for some of the beautiful women on "Dallas," Alderman said, after seeing them at 7 a.m. in hair curlers and without make-up, "they are just ordinary people."

Alderman was also surprised at the lack of knowledge some of the cameramen and crew had about livestock.

"Being raised around livestock my entire life, I knew there were people like that but I had never been involved with them," he said. "We had to put signs on the fence telling them not to pet the bulls."

The program aired last month and showed Alderman in a variety of situations — working the barrel, background shots and a rather unrealistic depiction of him and a couple of other clowns standing in the arena with the bucking horses.

Alderman said, in reality, clowns are not present during this event — rather, for the bull riding. But the advice of these seasoned veterans of the ring fell on deaf ears.

"We tried to tell them that's not the way it's done," he said, "but they said 'We know that, but that's how we want it.'"

Alderman declined comment on how much he was paid for the job but said one of the stunt men received as much as $2,000 for climbing on a horse two or three times during a three-day period. Extras, he said, were paid $45 a day while cowboys with Wranglers Union cards got $250 a day.

Here at home, he is employed by Stafford's Liguigas and does much of his work with the rodeo in the spring and summer when the weather is warmer. He said during a six-week period this year, he traveled about 6,000 miles and has appeared in rodeos in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and a few in Louisiana.

"When people ask me what I do, I say I am a rodeo clown," Alderman said. "That's the constant thing I have done for 15 years."

"I could make a living rodeoing — I have a lot of friends that do," he said. "But a lot of them are not married and when you have a wife and kids you just don't move around like that."

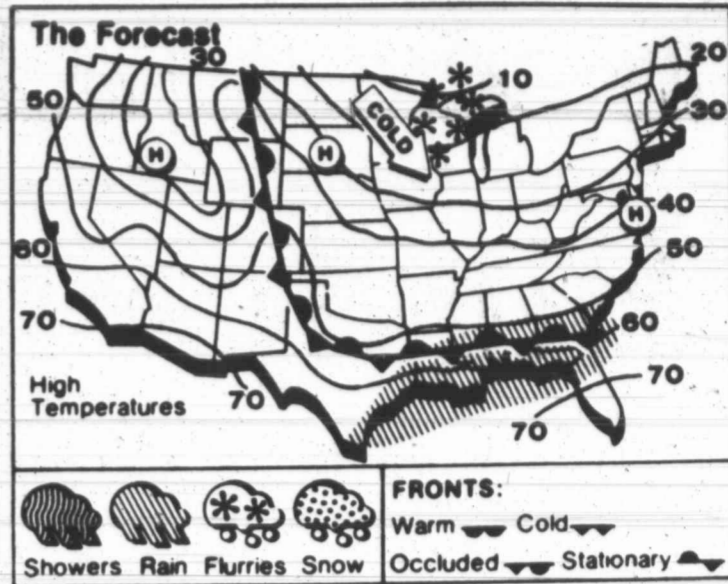

His sidekick, Rube, a registered boxer, travels with him on the rodeo circuit and does some 13 tricks, such as playing dead from a mock gunshot, jumping through a hoop, and walking backwards. And whatever is good enough for Alderman is good enough for Rube.

"I have left many hotel rooms when they said he couldn't stay in the room with me," he said. "And he has surprised quite a few maids."

Much like a professional athlete, Alderman said he knows "every year could be his last."

"In the beginning, you look at it as a lifetime career, but as you get older, you take it a year at a time."

Weather

Local

West Texas: Lows through Saturday night near 20 north to mid 30s extreme south and far west. Highs Saturday and Sunday mid 40s Panhandle to around 60 south to the mid 60s far west and extreme south.

State

By The Associated Press
Low clouds and patchy drizzle persisted over the eastern half of Texas Friday afternoon, while west of a Wichita Falls-Abilene-Del Rio line, skies were mostly sunny.

Occasional light rain dotted Southeast Texas, while heavy thunderstorms continued along sections of the upper and lower coasts, according to the National Weather Service.

Temperatures remained in the 40s over parts of North Texas westward into the High Plains. Readings were in the 50s and 60s across the rest of the state, except in South Texas, where temperatures had warmed into the 70s.

Extremes at 3 p.m. varied from 42 degrees at Dalhart to 77 degrees at Brownsville.

In the forecast for North Texas, skies should be cloudy with some late night fog east Saturday. Skies should be clear to partly cloudy Saturday night and Sunday. Highs should be in the 40s and 50s, with lows in the 30s.

West Texas should be sunny and clear through Sunday with lows in the 20s and 30s and highs ranging from the 40s in the Panhandle to the middle 60s in the west and south.

South Texas should have fair to partly cloudy skies through Sunday with lows in the 30s and 40s and highs in the 60s and 70s.

Record cold kills 15

By The Associated Press

Florida citrus growers reported scattered damage to fruit Friday from a second night of record cold, while wind gusting to 40 mph drifted snow around the Great Lakes, pushing accumulations near a December record.

But the severe weather relaxed some Friday, as Florida warmed up and a storm edged east from the Midwest. Fog that has hampered air traffic in the West for days continued to keep flights grounded.

At least 15 deaths in six states since Wednesday were blamed on weather, mostly in the Midwest.

A temperature of 2 degrees below zero Friday morning combined with 23 mph wind for a wind chill of minus 46 in Alexandria, Minn. Before moving east, the storm, an "Alberta Clipper" from Canada, buffeted northeastern Ohio overnight with winds gusting to 50 mph.

In the South, Florida Crop & Livestock Reporting Service inspectors were in groves Friday, but damage estimates probably will not be available for days. Temperatures overnight were in the mid-20s over parts of the 600,000-acre citrus belt for four hours, the level at which fruit can be damaged.

A killing freeze made 1983 a financial disaster for growers.

Another freeze hit in January 1984.

"We are hoping there is not any major, extensive damage and it doesn't look that way," said Ernie Neff of Florida Citrus Mutual, which maintains a cold-weather alerting system. "It looks like just scattered locations may have been hit."

Temperatures in Florida should be normal by Saturday as the cold air moved into the Atlantic, said Bill Sammler, a meteorologist at the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Horticultural and ornamental nurseries in northern Florida experienced "substantial damage," said Earl Wells, executive vice president of the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association. And there was "probably some heavy damage" in broadleaf plants like azaleas, viburnum and ligustrum in nurseries in central Florida, he said.

Records were broken early Friday in at least six Florida cities, including the 23 degrees at Daytona Beach that broke a record of 27 degrees set in 1935; the 34 degrees at Fort Myers that broke by 4 degrees a 1977 record and the 44 degrees in Key West that broke by 4 degrees a record set in 1906.

Police Beat

Bullet damage put at $500

Judy Robertson, owner of D.J.'s Soda Shop, 1003 E. 11th Place, told police Friday morning that someone fired a bullet through a picture window at the business between 10 p.m. Thursday and 9:15 a.m. Friday. Damage was estimated at $500, according to the report.

Lucy Bell Robinson, 804 N.W. Fourth St., told police Friday morning that someone burglarized her residence between 3 p.m. Thursday and 11 a.m. Friday. Door windows sustained $50 damage, and a $30 camera and five men's suits valued at $300 were stolen, according to the complaint.

Myrtis Sims of 1002 Runnels St. told police Friday morning that someone caused $35 damage to the window of a vacant apartment below her residence. The vandalism occurred between Dec. 20 and 1 p.m. Tuesday, according to the complaint.

Joseph Lesueur, manager of Bill Cranes Auto on 1300 E. Fourth St., told police Friday morning that someone damaged two cars parked at the business between 6 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday. Damage was estimated at $55 for each car, the complaint stated.

Greetings

Democratic Republic of Afghanistan.

Not since Richard Nixon did it in 1972, has an American president talked to the Soviet people on television. Reagan addressed the Soviets in a November radio speech that was broadcast by the Voice of America. It was heard clearly on some frequencies in Moscow and Leningrad but was jammed on others.

"By mutual agreement, President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev will exchange New Year's greetings," said the announcement. "The president will address the people of the Soviet Union and the general secretary will address the people of the United States on Jan. 1, 1986."

Speakes said both addresses will be about five minutes long, and the subject is "basically open." But both leaders are expected to extend New Year's greetings "in the spirit of good relations," he said.

A network crew will record Reagan's speech Saturday in his hotel suite here and a copy of the videotape will be delivered by an Air Force jet to Soviet diplomats in Washington, Speakes said. The Gorbachev videotape will be delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and carried by diplomatic courier to Washington.

Neither Reagan nor Gorbachev speaks the other's language, so each will speak in his native tongue and written translations will be provided with the videotapes, Speakes said.

The agreement was a result of a U.S. proposal made through diplomatic channels during preparations for the November summit between the two leaders in Geneva, Speakes said. The Soviets sent a "positive response" in the last three to four days, he said.

Speakes said Voice of America also will carry Reagan's address at the specified time. He noted that 9 p.m. Moscow time is prime time in the Soviet Union when that country's main news program normally is broadcast.

new law.
The target price was frozen, Fanning said, to keep the bill within spending limits and safe from a presidential veto. Washington is concerned about the budget deficit, he said, and many in Congress feel "clearing away the deficit will do more for agriculture than any bill ever could."

The fate of many area growers depends on how they are treated by the Farmers Home Administration, Fanning said. The FmHA is under the auspices of the ailing $70 billion Federal Credit System the new legislation is designed to bolster. A healthier credit system will help lower borrowing costs, Fanning said. Interest rates are an extremely significant part of the cost of cotton production, he said.

Overall the bill "could have been a lot worse," Fanning said. But the way it is interpreted and administered by bureaucrats will determine how much it benefits farmers, he said.

is $9.08 billion, down from $9.14 billion in the current fiscal year and down more than $1 billion from the $10.11 billion the administration estimated one year ago for fiscal 1987, which begins next October.

"It will have quite a devastating impact, not just in 1987 but through 1991," Edgar said of the proposal, which is part of the administration's broader effort to drastically reduce the federal budget deficit, which was $211.3 billion in fiscal 1985.

He called such a VA reduction "a major shift in the direction of health care for America's veterans," and he said he was asking Reagan for a full public explanation so there could be open discussion of any such move.

His subcommittee will hold hearings on the matter after Congress reconvenes next month, with or without VA administrator Harry Walters, who was forbidden by the White House to testify at such a hearing last fall, Edgar said.

Walters was quoted in the Times story as responding to Budget Director James C. Miller III, whose agency actually proposed the draft's VA cuts, that they could "ultimately result in a reduced quality of medical care" for veterans.

But congressional sources said Walters was not objecting to the overall amount of the cuts, just some of the specifics.

VA spokeswoman Donna St. John said the agency would have no comment on the report or VA-White House discussions on the agency's 1987 budget. Administration officials also declined to comment.

Trimming the system seems to be the overriding goal, Edgar said in a telephone interview from his suburban Virginia home.

"I think that's the direction they want to go — a reduction of beds of 6.5 percent per year, a reduction in staff of 45,000 by 1991, a major change in the way health care is delivered," he said.

Congressional committees approved less-stringent versions of those two measures this year, but Congress went home for the year without approving the major bill that contained the provisions.

Agent Orange study

SAN ANTONIO — Servicemen who were exposed to Agent Orange during the Vietnam War are dying at about the same rate as the general population, according to the latest figures from a 20-year study of people who worked with the herbicide.

"We find no reason for anxiety (about Agent Orange)," said Dr. William Wolfe, who heads the epidemiology department at the School of Aerospace Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base.

Prison officials blamed

DALLAS — One of the lawyers representing Texas prison inmates said Friday that state prison officials "don't have a great deal of competence" and have failed to carry out court-ordered reforms.

William Bennett Turner, a San Francisco lawyer appointed by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice to represent prisoners in the state's 13-year-old prison suit, said he will ask Justice to find the Texas Board of Corrections in contempt of court.

Robbery suspect held

SAN ANTONIO — The last of five men wanted for a Louisiana bank robbery in which a helicopter was used as the getaway vehicle was arrested in San Antonio, FBI officials said Friday.

Russell Ray Kelly, 35, was arrested Thursday at a residence in the northeast part of the city, Julian de la Rosa, assistant agent in charge of the San Antonio FBI office, said. He offered no resistance but was armed, the agent said.

Reagan decries raid

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration on Friday condemned the deadly terrorist attacks on air travelers in Rome and Vienna as "criminal and cowardly" and called on other nations to work together to end terrorism.

"We certainly deplore and condemn the violence. This underscores the need for nations to work together to put an end to terrorism. We would hope that those that are responsible for this cowardly act would be apprehended and punished to the fullest extent," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said.

Budget planners busy

WASHINGTON — While much of the Pentagon is quiet during the holidays, budget planners are busy trying to figure out how the Defense Department will fare under the historic deficit-reduction passed by Congress and signed into law by President Reagan two weeks ago.

The consensus, according to congressional and defense officials, is that while Reagan's defense buildup is likely to be slowed, no major weapons systems are likely to be canceled.

Instead, weapons costs will probably rise as the Pentagon "stretches out" the purchases, buying the same number of weapons over a longer period of time. This would result in higher "per unit" costs for planes, tanks, and ships.

James and Anne McDonnell pose together at their home in Larchmont, N.Y., Thursday. James McDonnell, who disappeared 15 years ago, appeared at Anne's doorstep on Christmas Day, saying he had suffered from amnesia until he hit his head Christmas Eve and remembered who he was.

Just remembered

Amnesia victim reunited after 15 years

LARCHMONT, N.Y. (AP) — A man declared legally dead after he suffered amnesia and vanished 15 years ago hits his head, recovers his memory, returns home and embraces his faithful wife on Christmas Day.

How corny can you get? Ask James and Anne McDonnell, who played that script in real life this week.

"It's like a fairy tale," Mrs. McDonnell said Friday in the thick brogue of her native County Cork, Ireland. "I'm still realizing it."

Ever since her husband vanished on March 29, 1971, and even though she had him declared dead in 1976 in order to get on with her life, she says she kept "hoping, hoping, hoping, maybe some day" he would return. She stayed in the same house in this New York City suburb and kept her telephone listing under his name.

On Christmas morning, Mrs. McDonnell had returned from church and was fixing a late breakfast when the doorbell rang.

"Hello Anne," said the 64-year-old man at the door. "It was something out of the blue," Mrs. McDonnell said. "He had a beard and looked like Santa Claus. I thought it was a joke, then I recognized him... He's so thin now. He's been neglected, I know."

McDonnell told his wife he had spent the past 15 years in Philadelphia as Jim Peters, short-order cook, bartender and seasonal Santa for kids in an orphanage. He lived quietly in a house he bought, and occasionally played poker with friends.

On Christmas Eve, he said, he bumped his head in the cellar of the luncheonette where he worked. The lost memories of his life in Larchmont flooded back and home he came on the next train.

"I've always felt right from the beginning that he had to be a victim of amnesia," said George Mulcahy, a former detective who had investigated McDonnell's disappearance.

Mrs. McDonnell said she also thought of amnesia as a possibility through the years she waited, supporting herself as a nurses' aide.

"He had two accidents and had head injuries. I thought, maybe, that was it," she said.

The McDonnells, who are childless, had been married 11 years when, on Feb. 24, 1971, McDonnell fell down the back stairs of his home.

The next day, in a violent fit of sneezing, he lost control of his car and crashed into a pole.

A day later he complained of a headache at work and fell down a flight of stairs after a dizzy spell.

On March 11 he suffered a mild concussion and brief unconsciousness in another car accident.

Then on March 29, he recalled, he began walking home from an errand because he had a headache and thought some fresh air would fix it.

"The next thing I knew I was in Philadelphia," he said. "I don't know how I got there."

He didn't know anything about himself, either, except that his first name was Jim. He took the name Peters from a storefront.

"When people asked me where I was born or where I came from, I would say: 'Oh, somewhere, someplace,'" he said.

He said it didn't occur to him to go to police or see a doctor.

Now that he's home, McDonnell would like to get his old job back as chief letter carrier in the Larchmont Post Office.

There's also a lot of paperwork: getting himself restored officially to the ranks of the living and working out something with the insurance company that paid benefits to his wife.

Verbal war continues

TEL AVIV, Israel — Syria and Israel accused each other Friday of deliberately escalating tensions arising from Israeli spy flights and Syrian missiles in Lebanon.

Israeli Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Syria's purpose was to spoil Israel's chances for making peace with Jordan. Syria's state media claimed Israel was trying to sabotage Syria's peacemaking efforts among warring Lebanese groups.

The latest exchanges in the five-week-old war of words followed Prime Minister Shimon Peres' disclosure on Thursday that Syria had sent mobile SAM-6 and SAM-8 missiles back into eastern Lebanon.

Protest march thwarted

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Riot police and security agents clubbed and beat hundreds of demonstrators in breaking up a protest march by Afghan students on the Soviet Embassy in Islamabad on Friday, the 6th anniversary of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Police and plainclothes agents repeatedly charged into the estimated 1,000 marchers about a half-mile from the embassy, arresting many and driving the rest back into the center of the capital.

Kremlin renews stand

MOSCOW — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told foreign diplomats at a holiday gathering Friday that the United States should "follow the Soviet Union's good example" and halt nuclear testing.

The Kremlin campaign for a superpower test ban intensified in December with the approaching Jan. 1 expiration of the Soviet's unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests. Gorbachev said earlier this month the Kremlin would extend the moratorium in 1986 only if the United States joins the test ban.

Tribal tension adds fuel

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Fierce tribal fighting this week added its toll to that of the black-white confrontation in South Africa, reflecting a reality that rumbles throughout the largely black-ruled continent.

It is a cornerstone of the white-led government's contention that South Africa doesn't really have black majority, despite the fact that there are 24 million blacks and only 5 million whites. The government maintains that the country consists of different "nations" — whites, Indians, mixed-race and 10 black tribes.

Group claims attack

MALAGA, Spain — A telephone caller claimed Friday that the terrorist attacks at the Rome and Vienna airports were the work of the extremist Palestinian group headed by Abu Nidal, a spokesman for radio station SER said.

The man, who spoke Spanish with a heavy foreign accent, told the Malaga radio station that he belonged to an Abu Nidal group in Spain's Costa del Sol, the radio station spokesman said.

There was no way of verifying the claim.

Benefits big during 1985

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Benefit concerts were definitely in, in pop music, 1985. It was the year for Live Aid — which raised more than $100 million to fight famine in Africa — Farm Aid, benefits to fight AIDS and many performers' favorite charities. And it was the biggest year yet for the Boss — Bruce Springsteen.

Bills went before Congress which pitted the $4 billion-a-year recording business against the $7 billion-a-year audio equipment business. They would impose a royalty on blank audio tape and tape recorders, the idea being to reimburse those who believe sales are lost when music is taped at home. More publicity accompanied Senate Commerce Committee hearings considering regulating rock lyrics via labels warning of "undesirable" song lyrics. Frank Zappa, Dee Snider of Twisted Sister and John Denver testified.

Best-selling single of 1985 was U.S.A. for Africa's "We Are the World." Michael Jackson and Lionel Richie wrote it; 43 stars sang it, proceeds to African famine relief. More than three dozen leading pop musicians recorded Steve Van Zandt's anti-apartheid "Sun City," with proceeds to aid families of South African political prisoners.

Half the singles out, it seemed, were from movies. Lots of musicians acted, played and composed for films. "Miami Vice" had the first TV soundtrack album to hit No. 1 on the pop charts since "Peter Gunn" in 1959. Jan Hammer wrote the theme and Glenn Frey wrote "You Belong to the City." Frey, one of the rockers guest starring, did the episode inspired by his "Smuggler's Blues."

John Cougar Mellencamp's star rose high. So did the stars of Tina Turner, Sade, Phil Collins, Madonna, Sting, Sheila E., Bryan Adams, Dave Stewart, Whitney Houston, U2, Bob Geldof.

Foreigner, Z.Z. Top, Barbra Streisand, Joni Mitchell, Bob Dylan, Aretha Franklin, Stevie Wonder came on stronger than they'd been doing lately.

"The Boys of Summer" swept the MTV Video Music Awards and Don Henley said, "I had very little to do with this video." The first hit song attacking worship of video stars was Dire Straits' "Money for Nothing." Videos were increasingly important to record sales.

John Fogerty made his first album since 1975.

Cosden to consolidate, relocate Carville plant

Cosden Chemical, a division of Fina Oil and Chemical Co., plans to relocate its polystyrene plant in Calumet City, Ill., to Carville, La., as part of an ongoing consolidation and modernization program for its polystyrene operations, according to a news release.

The program is designed to increase efficiency by concentrating production around Cosden's large styrene monomer facility in Carville, the release said. The improved efficiency in Carville will lead to long-term stability of supply, said Cosden president Kenneth W. Perry.

The consolidation plan will be completed in 1986. By increasing polystyrene production prior to the plant's relocating, customers will not experience interruptions in product supply, the release said.

The company's further investment in the polystyrene business follows two years of aggressive activity by Cosden in realigning itself as a major factor in the plastics business.

Since 1983, the release said, the company has purchased Arco's polypropylene operations, expanded the Carville facility to one of the largest, most efficient plants in the world, constructed a research and development center in LaPorte for work in plastics and rubber, taken over the Finaprene rubber sales in the U.S. and expanded aromatics production at Fina's Port Arthur refinery. Cosden operates a refinery in Big Spring.

Zeebos Rock and Roll Shop opens near Big Spring High

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Zeebos Rock and Roll Shop opened Saturday on 11th Place.

The shop is one of several opened in that area recently, some designed to take advantage of the teen market from nearby Big Spring High School.

Dee J's Soda Shop, featuring many types of soda as well as sandwiches and video games, pool and a jukebox, opened Dec. 2 across the street from Zeebos. The Rainbarrel General Store and the Gold Mine restaurant recently opened a block away on 11th Place. Next door to Zeebos is The Place T-shirt shop.

Zeebos owner Michelle Bolding said she didn't choose the location to take advantage of the high school market.

"We just found the building," she said. Bolding said she is a former Rainbarrel employee.

The shop sells records, tapes, T-shirts, buttons and key chains, all with the heavy metal theme. Rock posters and T-shirts, depicting black-leather clad musicians and rock group themes, adorn the walls. Soft rock music plays in the background.

"We just thought we needed something for the kids. All there is is the Record Shop," Bolding said.

In spite of school holidays this month, Zeebos has had "pretty good" business since its opening, she said.

Peters on excellence

American cars going strong

Five years ago, the American auto industry was being relegated to permanent decline. Gas prices were up, big car sales were down, imports were at record levels and Chrysler Corporation, despite a federal bailout, still was flirting with bankruptcy. But Detroit has eluded the oblivion that everyone expected, and it's giving the imports a good fight.

The trends in automobile sales over the last five years illustrate Detroit's new strength. In 1981, in the wake of the Iranian revolution, which sent gasoline prices into the stratosphere, imports captured more than 27 percent of car sales here. Japan's share alone was 22 percent of the market.

But instead of continuing, the import surge slackened. In 1984, imports were down to 23 percent of all new car sales, with Japan getting just 18 percent of the total. They did slightly better in the first 11 months of 1985, but not enough to offset past attrition.

Washington's trade policies have played a role in this reversal. Japanese car sales have been limited by "voluntary" limits imposed by Tokyo, and trucks pay a 25 percent import tariff. If not for fear of a protectionist backlash, Tokyo could sell more vehicles here.

But other forces are also at work which suggest that in the long run, the U.S. car makers can hold their own with anyone. One is improvements in quality. In first-year reliability, Ford models now surpass the Japanese. The Big Three have made great progress on the old "fit and finish" headache.

In ride and handling, they are converting skeptics. Road & Track magazine says the latest Buick Electra is "at least the equal to the Jaguar XJ6." Car & Driver says, "Even the best German sedans are not better" than the new Ford Taurus. Consumer Guide ranks Chrysler's minivans the best on the market.

Not only are U.S. cars exceeding the Europeans in performance, writes economist Alan Reynolds of Polyconomics, "but they are doing it at half the price."

Shorter TV ads gain foothold

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifteen-second television commercials have established a foothold in network television despite fears that shorter but more frequent ads will drive some viewers away.

The development follows two years of experimentation during which all three networks permitted companies to split their standard 30-second commercials into advertisements for two different products.

On Oct. 1, the CBS television network began accepting 15-second commercials standing alone. The network requires that the shorter ads run back-to-back and limits them to no more than two in any commercial break.

"We responded to marketplace demand by advertisers who wanted to get on network TV at a lower cost," said CBS spokesman George Schweitzer.

He said the shorter commercials have attracted new advertisers who have never been able to afford network television and lured back some advertisers who were priced out of network advertising in the past few years.

Network commercial prices have risen rapidly in recent years. The trade journal Advertising Age estimated in late September that the average cost of a 30-second commercial on prime time network television had risen 14 percent over the preceding year to $118,840.

The other two major networks refuse to accept stand-alone 15-second commercials generally, although ABC began accepting them for its nightly news breaks in September. NBC plans to allow them during its nightly news digests beginning in January. Both networks have accepted split 30-second commercials by the same advertiser for about two years, however.

Critics of the 15-second commercials have contended that the shorter ads will clutter the television airwaves and drive viewers away from the medium. And they say 15 seconds is too short to do much more than remind a viewer of a product's name.

But participants in a recent seminar sponsored by the Advertising Research Foundation, a New York-based trade organization, said the preliminary evidence indicates that 15-second commercials have no adverse impact on the ratings for the television shows on which they appear.

At the same time, they said shorter commercials can provide some significant benefits to advertisers.

Researchers from five separate firms cited statistics indicating that 15-second commercials are about 70 percent as effective as their 30-second counterparts in terms of persuasiveness and viewers' recall of them.

Since the networks have generally priced 15-second ads at about half the price of 30-second ads, it appears advertisers may be getting more for their money with 15s for the time being.

Donald Wilde, group creative director for the advertising agency SSC&B Lintas Worldwide, said it should come as no surprise that 15-second commercials are more than half as effective as 30-second ads.

Young viewers have grown up with music videos that make liberal use of quick-cut editing techniques, he said, and are better prepared than audiences 15 years ago were for shorter commercials.

Business briefs

• Mike Barker of Big Spring has been appointed to the position of sales manager of industrial products with Fibertex Products Ltd. Barker joined Fibertex in May as personnel director.

• Fred Bowlin, owner of Bowlin Tractor & Implement, a John Deere dealership in Big Spring, was named one of the top 15 agricultural dealers for an area including Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Arkansas, Louisiana and Southern California. Bowlin was elected to the Manager's Club of the John Deere Co. of Dallas based on superior performance in all phases of the dealership's operations, according to a news release.

• Kim Wrinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam R. Wrinkle of Big Spring, has joined the sports marketing department of Rodale Press and will serve as associate program coordinator for Road Racing. Before accepting the position, he was race co-sponsorship coordinator for Runner's World magazine.

• E.B. "Barney" Hooper was honored for 32 years of service to Trinity Memorial Park. He and his wife, Lee, have been caretakers of the cemetery. Hooper's son, Kem Hooper, now follows in his parents' footsteps as assistant caretaker for the cemetery.

• Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home was chosen for the 28th consecutive year to be a member of the International Order of the Golden Rule.

To earn membership, the funeral home had to receive written recommendations from local residents, clergy and other area funeral directors.

• Coca-Cola Foods, makers of Maryland Club coffee, announced plans to co-sponsor the renovation of the Goddess of Liberty statue atop the Capitol building in Austin as part of the company's participation in the Texas Sesquicentennial celebration.

For every cents-off coupon for coffee that consumers redeem, the company will make a donation to the renovation.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1985
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is fine for making plans to do those generous actions you enjoy and for being with older friends, but the afternoon and evening bring tensions and strain.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) The morning is fine for enjoying pleasures and elevating your consciousness. Show more thought for your mate.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can have much pleasure at home in the morning, but try not to argue with rambunctious youngsters later.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Friends may give good ideas in the morning, but afternoon is not good for suggestions. Make telephone calls that are worthwhile.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You have plenty for you needs but need not make unnecessary investments. Analyze your assets.
LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Handle the personal affairs that give you the greatest satisfaction in the morning, but later you find that others are not very cooperative.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Meditation is wise in the morning, so that you can elevate your consciousness to greater abundance.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) See a friend who can give you a fine favor, but later keep away from groups of all kind. Get busy with another hobby that you like.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into the outside world and handle public duties wisely. Avoid arguments in the evening. Enjoy radio.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day to make use of knowledge you have attained during the day. Do nothing that can get you into trouble.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) The morning can be happy with your mate, but later avoid trouble of some kind. Tonight is not good for handling business.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A partner can prove to be most loyal to you today so be appreciative. Avoid others who are not very true in the evening.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Early get busy making your surroundings more charming. Later, improve your health in some way.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be born with the proverbial smooth in the mouth, which is fine, provided you teach early that reverses can happen within the lifetime. A good education is important so as to better maintain the right position in life. Faith is the greatest lesson that can be taught early in life.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1985
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Don't allow a condition from the past keep you from using your talents and special abilities to forge ahead now. Be openminded in selecting people to help you in your progress.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Forget a quarrel with a partner yesterday and be more cooperative. Home matter can improve considerably.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle dealings with outsiders, and get rid of confusion. Important things first is the best rule.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get together with associates to handle business affairs and routines wisely, and establish a better relationship.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get your finances better organized so that you can have greater abundance in the coming year.
LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Find new outlets to add to your daily living and get them into operation quickly. Dress nicely this evening.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Have discussions with experts and associates and improve family relations. You can entertain at home in the evening.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being more direct with others and showing more affection for them is wise. Take more time for social life.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Something disappointing that could have happened yesterday should be forgotten. New enterprises should be entered into now.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may have to change plans with good friends, but it will lead to something better.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to sit out delays where your friends are concerned, and then all works out fine.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A good day to see many persons and gain fine benefits all around. Enjoy recreations that mean a great deal to you.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are about to get at the amusements that have been difficult to enjoy lately. Your friends can be very affectionate toward you.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will have an even temper and will be very affectionate and kind toward others and will not be disappointed during early youth. The pride must not be hurt so treat lightly on your progeny. Be sure to provide a good education and then this becomes a successful life.

Game will come down to trenches

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The trenches. The tight battleground where so many football games are won.

Several of the New York Jets and New England Patriots — including the linemen who scratch and claw each other for every inch — believe their AFC wild-card game at Giants Stadium Saturday will come down to who does the better job blocking or avoiding being blocked.

"Pete Brock on Joe Klecko is the key matchup in this game," said Patriots running back Craig James, a 1,000-yard rusher this season. James was referring to the war between New England's center and the Jets' Pro Bowl nose tackle. "In all the films we've seen of the Jets on defense, Klecko is in the backfield. We can't let him get that kind of penetration."

Klecko punctuated one of his best seasons in a nine-year National Football League career with a superb performance against Cleveland last Sunday as the Jets clinched the homefield advantage for this game against their AFC East rival, which also finished 11-5. Klecko, the only player ever voted to the Pro Bowl at three different positions (defensive end and tackle and nose tackle) had 62 tackles and 7½ sacks this season. Against the Browns, he spent almost as much time in their backfield as Cleveland runners Kevin Mack and Earnest Byner.

"Against Cleveland," said Patriots guard Ron Wooten. "Klecko made a couple of hits in the backfield before anyone had a chance to stop him. That does a lot to destroy a line's confidence."

Klecko's fellow Pro Bowl lineman Mark Gastineau also was sensational in that game and the Former SMU football star Craig James (32) has emerged as the New England Patriots leading rusher this season with over 1,000 yards. James is counting on his offensive line to control the Jets defensive front.

Patriots are leery of what that pair can do to stop an offense dead in its tracks.

But New England's defense can be just as intimidating, led by Pro Bowl linebackers Andre Tippett and Steve Nelson. And the Jets' offensive line has been porous, with quarterback Ken O'Brien suffering 62 sacks.

"We know there's a burden on us to keep the defense off of Kenny, to give him the time he needs," said Jets tackle Marvin Powell. "The Patriots come at you hard, with a lot of blitzes, and it's always a punishing afternoon against them."

Jets center Joe Fields, who is bothered by a bruised chest and ribs, noted that in uncomfortable weather, the play of the lines takes on added importance.

"Both teams like to run, both teams have good running games, and in the cold, it's easier to keep the ball on the ground," said Fields. "That means you have to control the line of scrimmage and drive through your blocks to open holes for the backs."

Conditions figure to be chilly for the 4 p.m. EST start, with temperatures in the low 30s. All of which means that James and Freeman McNeil, the Jets' 1,000-yard man, will carry the ball plenty.

"That will be fine with me," said McNeil, who has a bruised left knee but is expected to be healthier for this game than any in the second half of the season. "It's a challenge I'd welcome."

So would James, who along with Tony Collins gives the Patriots a backfield tandem at least equal to New York's McNeil-Johnny Hector combination.

"If it takes my running the ball 30 times to win, that's OK," said James. If it comes down to a passing game, the Jets' O'Brien is the top-rated passer in the league and hit for 25 scores. He threw only eight interceptions but fumbled 12 times and was nailed those 62 times.

New York Jets defensive end Mark Gastineau has been one of the mainstays of the Jets defense this season. Gastineau and his teammates feel the game will be decided in the offensive and defensive lines.

Tony Eason, who began the season as No. 1 quarterback and then was replaced in Game 1 by Steve Grogan, returned when Grogan suffered a broken leg in a 16-13 overtime loss here. Eason wound up only 11th in the AFC but played well after a slow start.

Let the Bowl Parade begin!

• Healthy Simmons big plus in Bluebonnet

HOUSTON (AP) — After three frustrating knee operations, doctors told University of Texas running back Edwin Simmons to give up football.

Outsiders told him he was washed up and Coach Fred Akers had just about given up the idea of ever being able to tap the full potential of Simmons, the state's most intensely recruited schoolboy in 1982.

But Simmons had something working in his favor — stubbornness and Tom Williams. As a result, Akers is having to rethink his lineup as the Longhorns prepare for Tuesday's New Year's Eve battle against 10th-ranked Air Force in the 27th Bluebonnet Bowl.

"I like to prove people wrong and I guess I've done that to this point," Simmons said. "Lots of people outside the program told me I was washed up. No one expected anything from me this year. But I never thought of quitting."

Simmons compared his situation with that of the 1985 Longhorns.

"I'm kind of like our team," he said. "Nobody thought our team would do anything this year and no one thought I'd do anything either."

Akers said he had to reluctantly take the advice of doctors prior to the start of this season.

"We told Edwin we had to go on without him," Akers said. "He said 'Coach, I'm going to play again.'"

"I told him we had to say we weren't counting on him but for him to keep working. He did and although he's not all the way back, he's made an amazing comeback."

Simmons spent two hard summer weeks working out in Houston before the start of this season.

He trained under Williams, a former Houston Oilers assistant coach, who now operates a training facility frequented by numerous pro athletes.

"He just encouraged me and told me that if I worked hard I could be one of the best backs in the nation," Simmons recalled. "There's no question about it, he saved my career."

Liberty Bowl

At the time of deadline the Baylor Bears led the LSU Tigers 10-7 at the half in the Liberty Bowl.

• Dogs, Cats set for Sun Bowl scrap

EL PASO (AP) — It has been described as the 'Cats and the Dogs in the Sun.

Translated, that means the 8-3 Arizona Wildcats against the 7-3-1 Georgia Bulldogs in the Sun Bowl on Saturday. At the request of CBS-TV, the kickoff has been moved up two hours to 11:45 a.m. CST so as not to conflict with a National Football League playoff game on NBC.

A CBS official predicts the change could mean 4 million to 6 million more viewers for the Sun Bowl, which expects a capacity crowd of 50,000.

"The Sun Bowl always had good ratings for us until last year when they went head-to-head with an NFL wild-card playoff game," says CBS official Peter Tortorici. "We knew there was the possibility of this happening this year, and we wanted the option of working around it, so we planned for it. The Sun Bowl was given the choice, and they chose to move the kickoff time."

The problem arose when the New York Giants and New York Jets, who share the same stadium, became the hosts for the wild-card playoff games, which originally were scheduled for Sunday. The Jets-New England game was switched to Saturday.

Almost 8,000 Arizona fans have flooded El Paso hoping to see the Wildcats come away with their first victory in five bowl games. The Wildcats sold 7,900 tickets, approaching the combined record of 8,700 for both schools set by Nebraska and Mississippi State in 1980.

"We want to get respect," says free safety Allan Durden. "This is a challenge for us to play a big-name team like Georgia."

The Wildcats lost to Centre (Ky.) 38-0 in the 1921 East-West Christmas Classic in San Diego, 14-13 to Drake in the 1949 Salad Bowl, 34-10 to Auburn in the 1968 Sun Bowl and 16-10 to Pitt in the 1979 Fiesta Bowl. The first two games no longer exist.

Arizona has resurrected the Blue Brigade, the name given its teams in the 1930s when the school enjoyed some of its most consistent success in football. Two El Paso businessmen have donated blue pom-poms for distribution to Arizona fans.

Georgia brings an 11-11-2 bowl record into this first meeting between the two schools.

• Big name teams in Aloha Bowl clash

HONOLULU (AP) — Rodney Peete has become a scrambler — out of necessity. The Southern California quarterback can throw the football, but there's really nobody of note out there to catch it.

His four top receivers are out of action with injuries or other personal problems, leaving sophomore Ken Henry and junior Lonnie White as starters against Alabama in Saturday's Aloha Bowl. Henry and White have one reception between them this season.

"You could say, 'Well, you have inexperienced receivers, so don't throw the ball,'" Trojans Coach Ted Tollner said. "But you can't do that against Alabama and win."

The Trojans also will play without tailback Fred Crutcher, nose guard Tony Colorito and offensive guard Tom Hallock, all starters who were lost during the season.

Southern Cal will have a massive offensive line led by All-American guard Jeff Bregel, a 6-4, 280, junior. Peete and running backs Kennedy Pola, Ryan Knight and Aaron Emanuel hope to benefit from its blocking.

Alabama is adding to its national record of bowl appearances with its 38th. Southern Cal will be trying to add to its records, 21 bowl game victories and the best winning percentage in postseason play, .750.

The Trojans, 6-5, and 15th-ranked Alabama, 8-2-1, are coming off strong finishes after midseason slumps. Southern Cal was in danger of a rare losing season, but knocked off Pacific-10 Conference champ UCLA 17-13, then finished the regular schedule with a 20-6 victory over Oregon in the Mirage Bowl in Tokyo.

The Crimson Tide's only losses were consecutive setbacks to national powers Penn State, 19-17, and Tennessee, 16-14, after four straight victories to open the year. Alabama and Louisiana State settled for a 14-14 tie when Tide Coach Ray Perkins made a controversial decision to go for a one-point conversion after a touchdown with 1:24 to play.

But the Tide finished the season on the upbeat, with a 25-23 victory over archrival Auburn and Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson.

Alabama has been installed as a five-point favorite over Southern Cal.

The Tide's offense is built around junior quarterback Mike Shula, the son of Miami Dolphins' Coach Don Shula. The younger Shula came of age as a quarterback this season, completing more than 60 percent of his passes, for 2,009 yards and eight touchdowns.

"In short, Mike is a winner because he knows how to win," Perkins said.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — When facing the nation's top passing team, it stands to reason that pass defense would be emphasized.

But Ohio State defensive coordinator Gary Blackney says his squad is doing the exact opposite while preparing for the showdown with No. 9 Brigham Young in the Florida Citrus Bowl at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Blackney said the Buckeye defense will be out to stop the BYU running game almost as much as its vaunted passing attack.

Brigham Young has passed for 4,608 yards this season, with quarterback Robbie Bosco accounting for 4,273. The Cougars are the No. 1 passing team in the country.

On the other side of the coin, BYU is averaging 145.7 yards per game rushing.

In comparison, No. 17 Ohio State, considered one of the top four passing teams in the suddenly pass-happy Big Ten Conference, is 42nd in the nation in passing. The Buckeyes, behind quarterback Jim Karsatos, passed for 2,209 yards, less than half of the BYU total.

"We just want to control Robbie Bosco," Ohio State linebacker Chris Spielman said. "We need a good rush, we need the backs in good coverage and we need the linebackers moving to the ball. We can't let them establish the run and the pass or they'll hurt us."

"Their offense scares me," Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce added. "How can a team get that much of a game, something like 380 yards (actually 354.5) passing?"

Bruce admitted that the Buckeyes have had their share of problems on pass coverage. "Our pass defense has been up and down. We have got to show what we can do."

Bosco completes just about two of every three passes he throws, destroying the myth that two of the three things that happen on pass plays are bad. He has thrown for 30 touchdowns while ranking seventh nationally in passing efficiency and second in total offense.

"We will not force them to pass," Blackney said. "I'm saying they run the ball a lot better than a lot of people realize. If you forget the run and worry about the pass, they'll beat your defense. There is no question that the passing game is as good as any team in the United States. But unlike some people that we've played, they can move the ball on the ground, too."

MIKE DITKA Bears mentor

Bears coach finally hushes critics

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Ditka, who coaching the Chicago Bears amid criticism that he was picked because of team loyalty — not skill — has another argument to silence the carpers.

Ditka was named National Football League Coach of the Year by The Associated Press on Friday.

The one-time Bears star end won the honor easily in a vote of a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters after coaching the team to a 15-1 record, the best in the league this year, and delighting even the most casual football fan by occasionally transforming a 300-pound defensive lineman, William "The Refrigerator" Perry, into an offensive weapon.

Ditka accepted the news of his award with appreciation but an awareness of how tenuous success can be in his profession.

"The award is shared by the football team as well as the assistant coaches. And I'm not just saying that to be idealistic or flattering to anybody."

When Ditka came to the Bears after a coaching apprenticeship in Dallas under Tom Landry, critics called him unimaginative and untested. They said the late George Halas picked him out of a sense of loyalty to the Bear tradition. Halas, the storied founder of the team, was coach when Ditka played for the Bears.

Ditka ran into more controversy last year when he was nearly fired after his old-style, tough-guy image clashed with President Mike McCaskey's Ivy League background. But he grew to be not only the NFL's most successful coach but also its most innovative.

Innovative is one of the adjectives being used to describe the 46-year old Ditka's use of Perry as a running back in goal-line situations. Perry ran for two touchdowns, caught a pass for another and did wonders for NFL's television ratings.

The Bears advanced to the NFC title game last year before losing 23-0 to the eventual Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers.

The 1984 season probably saved Ditka's job. McCaskey, Halas' grandson and successor, was openly critical of Ditka on several occasions, including one incident when the coach injured a hand banging it on a locker after a loss.

This season, however, there were no clashes.

Syracuse basketball a big hit

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Twenty years ago, Jim Boeheim was a skinny senior on the Dave Bing-dominated Syracuse University basketball team.

Bing, a future National Basketball Association star, scored 794 points his senior year. Boeheim's 409-point effort the same season was only third best on the squad although it was the 12th-best in school history at the time.

When he took over as head coach at his alma mater a decade later, Boeheim landed in another shadow — that of Roy Danforth, whose 1974-75 team made the only Final Four appearance in the school's history.

Boeheim, in 22 years, has created his own aura. His record is 211-71, a percentage topped by only six other Division I coaches.

He was the first big-time coach to win 100 games in four seasons, and he reached the 200-victory plateau in nine.

When Boeheim arrived on the campus in 1962, an intense 18-year-old, he was a walk-on and he fought his way into a starting role.

Even then, he was known as a tactician, a coach-on-the-floor who dissected and analyzed while others rode the flow of the action.

After a tryout with a NBA team and graduate work, he returned to coach freshman basketball for one season before moving up for six seasons as an assistant to Danforth.

At 41, his volcanic obsession with winning seems to be easing to the level of mere passion.

"As you get older, you can see where it (winning) could be a little overrated (as an end in itself)," he says.

Boeheim at first was regarded as the beneficiary of an established program who lived off its momentum.

Later, his team hit the skids, meaning — in his case — failure to win at least 20 games in the 1981-82 season. Critics pulled out all the stops: He couldn't control the pace of a game; he couldn't recruit; he couldn't coach.

Seething inside, Boeheim never answered the complaints. At least not in public.

With Syracuse starting off this season with seven easy victories, the carping now has to do with the lack of strong opponents before the Big East Conference schedule.

Proof that he is establishing a national program lies in his recruiting. Where the signing of junior point guard Dwayne "Pearl" Washington in 1983 was an event, blue-chip players no longer are a rarity, nor are they coming only from Big East country.

Boeheim this year recruited two guards from California, Earl Duncan of Santa Monica and Steve Thompson of Los Angeles.

They and two other November signees were listed in Basketball Weekly's Top 50, causing the magazine to rank Syracuse No. 1 in recruiting for the period.

A class ahead of them are freshmen Sherman Douglas, who likely would be promoted to first string if Washington gave up his last college year for the pros, and Rodney Walker.

Douglas was the Washington Post's player of the year in the District of Columbia, and Walker, a Baltimore native, was named to a national high school honor team.

Boeheim agrees he has one of the nation's best teams but says the nature of the challenge hasn't changed from the early 1980s, when his squad couldn't buy a ranking.

"In coaching, the key is — no matter what kind of material you have — you want to be the best that material can be," he says. "If they're only good enough to be (ranked) 20th, then you want to be 20th, not 30th."

"If they're good enough to win it all, you want to make sure they do."

The attitude has been his trademark. It's an attitude he learned from his father, who never let up in competition.

"If he could beat me 21-0 in ping-pong, he'd do it," Boeheim said. "I finally got so I could beat him, but anything that we did was always tremendously competitive, a knock-down, drag-out thing."

Bing said he wished Boeheim would loosen up along with winning games. But Boeheim, whose team drew crowds of more than 32,000 three times last season, knows he is set until he starts to lose.

"This year, our season ticket sales are running close to 24,000," he said. "That's tremendous for a relatively small city ... compare that with NBA crowds. We're big, the biggest there is (in college basketball)."

Sports Briefs

Cram, Slaney net honors

LONDON (AP) — Track stars Steve Cram of Britain and Mary Decker Slaney of the United States have been chosen as international sportsman and sportswoman of 1985 by the sports writers of The Associated Press in Europe.

Cram had a sensational season, smashing three world records in just 19 days and narrowly missed a fourth while Slaney was unbeaten throughout the season from 800 to 5,000 meters and broke the women's mile record at Zurich, Switzerland.

Second in the men's category was Boris Becker, the West German tennis ace who became the youngest player ever to win the men's singles title at Wimbledon. East German sprinter Marita Koch, who set the world record in the 400 meters, was runner-up to Slaney in the women's category.

6 inducted into Texas Hall of Fame

WACO (AP) — Six former standouts in Texas schoolboy football ranks, including three who won All-America recognition in college football, have been named to the Texas High School Football Hall of Fame.

They will be inducted in ceremonies that will be held here Feb. 14 in conjunction with the Hall of Fame coaches' clinic.

Chosen for induction by special selection committee were Wilson Whitely of Brenham, Steve Worster of Bridge City, Ronnie Bull of Bishop, Randall Clay of Pampa, Bill Stages of Fort Worth Masonic Home and Charles Leyendecker of Waco.

H.N. (Rusty) Russell, who coached with success at both Masonic Home and Highland Park and later served as head coach of the Southern Methodist Mustangs, was chosen for induction from the coaching ranks.

Dave Campbell, sports editor of the Waco Tribune-Herald for the past 32 years and also editor, publisher and founder of Texas Football magazine, was chosen as a representative from the Hall of Fame's special category.

Racer dies in railroad mishap

LE MANS, France (AP) — Frenchman Jean Rondeau, who in 1960 became the first racing driver to win the Le Mans 24 Hour classic in a car of his own construction, was killed Friday in a railroad crossing accident, police said.

Rondeau died when a train hit his Porsche, which was trapped between crossing barriers at Champagne, about 6 miles from Le Mans, according to police.

They said the barriers had been lifted after another train went by moments earlier, allowing three or four cars through before they were lowered again, blocking Rondeau's cars on the tracks.

The accident occurred less than a mile from Rondeau's factory, where he built Formula Ford racers.

Rondeau was 39. He started racing in 1968 and first entered his "home" race, the 24 Hours, in 1972.

He finished the tough race for the first time, 19th, in 1974. His own Rondeau racers appeared for the first time in 1976 and were consistent finishers, Rondeau himself taking fourth place in 1977.

Cooney facing charges

HARRISBURG, Pa. (A) — Heavyweight boxer Gerry Cooney and four companions face a Jan. 13 hearing on charges stemming from an altercation at a hotel bar, a magistrate's clerk said Friday.

The five men entered innocent pleas through an attorney, said Molly Dorman, a clerk for District Justice Michael A. Stewart.

Cooney, 29, of Huntington Station, N.Y., and Daniel Gallagher, 28, of Camp Hill, were charged with disorderly conduct after the Dec. 9 incident. George Munch, 29, also of Huntington Station, and George Kaplan, 61, of Woodside, N.Y., were charged with public drunkenness.

The four face maximum penalties of 30 days in jail and a $300 fine if convicted of the summary offenses, Dorman said.

Court rules against Oldfield

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal appeals court rebuffed shotputter Brian Oldfield's damage suit over his exclusion, as a professional, from the 1984 U.S. Olympic trials.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the 1978 Amateur Sports Act, which reorganized amateur athletics in the United States and authorized the U.S. Olympic Committee to determine Olympic eligibility, did not allow an athlete to sue over the denial of eligibility.

Oldfield lost his amateur standing when he joined the professional International Track Association in 1972.
