Pollution draws state ire

City's sewage reports under EPA, police probe

Staff and wire reports
AUSTIN — Upset with Big Spring's long history of violating state standards for sewage treatment plant discharges, the Texas Water Commission on Tuesday asked that city officials come to Austin Jan. 21 to explain the city's problems.

Water Commission staff members also acknowledged that the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the Big Spring police department are looking into the possibility that some report data had been falsified.

But commission officials said they want to allow the EPA and city to work out that problem.

An Aug. 12 memo by the commission staff noted that "discrepancies were found between self-reported data and laboratory data for the months of June-July 1984."

Big Spring officials at a press conference this morning acknowledged that an investigation is underway and that the city still is having problems with the waste water system.

The Big Spring police department initiated an investigation of the suspected falsification in January of last year, said Police Chief Rick Turner at a news conference this morning. However, Turner said the possible falsification occurred between Jan. 9, 1982, and September 1984.

City Manager Don Davis said the EPA had instructed the city not to reveal that an investigation was taking place and now the agency has told the city not to divulge any details of the investigation.

An EPA spokeswoman in Dallas, Mary Ellen Guay, said Tuesday she could neither confirm nor deny reports of the possible falsification.

But Turner acknowledged that the investigation involves a former city employee.

TOM DECCELL ... holds news conference

Employees of Lydicker Roofing of Lubbock work on the roof of the Big Spring's historic Municipal Auditorium Tuesday despite the chilly weather. Phase one of repairs to the building should be completed this week, said public works director Tom Decell.

Allies cool to Reagan sanctions

By The Associated Press
West Germany said today it would not join the United States' economic sanctions against Libya. Other American allies, including Britain, Italy, Spain and Belgium, expressed skepticism such sanctions would have much impact on international terrorism.

At a Washington news conference Tuesday night, President Reagan said he had signed an executive order declaring Libya "a threat to the national security ... of the United States," and banned all direct trade with the North African country.

"We call on our friends in Western Europe and elsewhere to join with us in isolating" Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy, Reagan said.

The United States and Israel contend Libya supports a terrorist group that has claimed responsibility for the Dec. 27 twin terrorist attacks on Rome and Vienna airports, which left 19 people dead, including five Americans.

Friedhelm Ost, chief spokesman for the West German government, said at a news conference in Bonn that the government decided today it will not participate in the boycott.

"It is our experience to date that economic sanctions do not lead to the desired results," Ost said.

He said the government would take part in U.S.-proposed consultations over the terrorist issue.

Auditorium repairs close to completion

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

The first phase of repairs to the Municipal Auditorium is nearing completion, public works director Tom Decell said this morning.

Barring weather difficulties, repairs to the roof, windows and external sealing of masonry should be complete this week, he said. The $60,000 work took 45 days of labor by a Lubbock crew, he said.

Phase two of the repairs, which involves electrical stage lighting, will cost $70,000 to $80,000, he said. No specific plans have been formulated or bids taken for phase two yet, he said.

The work is being done with a $150,000 grant from the Dora Roberts Foundation, Decell said.

Lydicker Roofing of Lubbock did the roof repairs and Western Waterproofing of Dallas repaired the windows and masonry.

The restoration project began with difficulty when the city first received no bids for the work. Later bids proved to be "excessive," Decell said.

Lydicker, which had not previously bid, was chosen to do the work when the company "had a change in internal policy that allowed them to come down to Big Spring," he said.

But the $150,000 grant will not be enough to cover all repairs needed to restore the ailing auditorium, Decell said.

"When the (City) Council can allocate the funds we can go ahead" with the work, he said. Further grants are also possible.

President orders economic boycott of Libya

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy "flaky" and "a barbarian," President Reagan ordered all American companies and workers to quit doing business in Libya and get out by the end of the month to show the United States won't tolerate terrorism.

Addressing a national television audience at his first White House news conference in nearly four months, Reagan said Tuesday night there was "irrefutable evidence" of Khadafy's involvement in the Dec. 27 airport massacres in Rome and Vienna and called on the European allies "to join with us in isolating him."

He promised unspecified "further steps will be taken" if the latest round of U.S. sanctions fails to end Khadafy's terrorist activities.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said today the United States would begin immediately consulting with friendly nations in Europe and the Middle East to encourage cooperation and would "make it clear our position is that all nations must act in concert if we are to halt terrorism."

"Europe has borne the brunt of Khadafy's latest outrages," Speakes said, adding, "Many Arab states have suffered also from terrorism."

Speakes said some U.S. ambassadors in allied capitals had begun consultations Tuesday night and others were doing so today.

As for the future, Speakes said, "I can assure you that if Khadafy strikes again, and Americans are involved, the United States will be prepared to hunt down and take drastic action against those responsible. If we can find them, we will get them."

The president refused to disclose his evidence against the Libyan leader, saying, "There are things that should not be revealed."

"But I can assure you that we have the evidence," Reagan told a questioner.

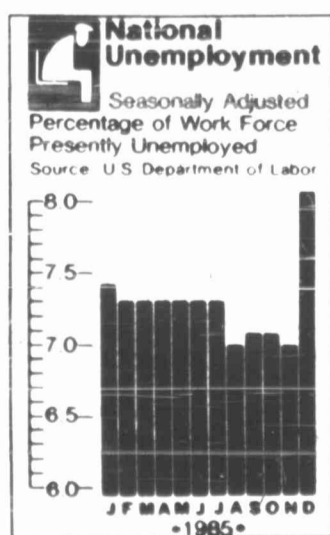

An administration official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said the evidence includes Tunisian passports that were said to have been confiscated by Libyan authorities. The passports then "found their way into the hands of those who perpetrated these acts" in which 19 people, including five Americans and four Palestinian terrorists, died.

Jobless rate hits lowest since April 1980

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian unemployment eased downward to 6.9 percent last month, the lowest rate since April 1980, the government reported today in the labor market's best showing of Ronald Reagan's presidency.

The small 0.1 percentage point improvement from November's rate resulted from the creation of 237,000 jobs, accompanied by a further reduction of 138,000 in the number of Americans officially listed as unemployed.

Total employment in December, aided by strong growth in service-related jobs such as those in retail trade, reached an all-time high of 108.2 million, the Labor Department said. At the same time, the ranks of the unemployed shrank from 8,161,000 to 8,023,000.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics did say that although two separate job surveys showed substantial job growth in 1985, the gains were less than those recorded in the prior two years, when the economy was in a more robust period of recovery from the 1981-82 recession.

In advance of today's report, several private analysts had said that modest growth in the overall economy cast some doubt as to the availability of job opportunities in 1986.

The last time seasonally adjusted civilian unemployment was below 7 percent was during the presidency of Jimmy Carter.

At the White House, spokesman Larry Speakes, commenting on today's report, said, "With this strong year-end finish, we can reasonably expect to exceed the administration's forecast of a 6.7 percent average unemployment rate for 1986."

Civilian unemployment averaged 7.2 percent last year.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., noted that a higher percentage of the labor force aged 16 and over was working last month — 60.4 percent — than at the peak of World War II.

From February to July of last year, the jobless rate was frozen at 7.3 percent, then fell to 7.1 percent in August and held at that rate through October, based on end-of-the-year revisions released today by the department.

In December of 1984, the jobless rate had stood at 7.2 percent.

Since then, total employment rose from roughly 106.2 million to the 108.2 million detailed in today's report, a net increase of virtually 2 million jobs.

Over the same period, the total number of unemployed Americans fell from 8.25 million to 8.02 million.

Granny's rockers

Grandmother is an angel for teens' rock 'n' roll band

WEST ORANGE (AP) — Although many elderly folks take to rocking chairs, 83-year-old Ethel Burton takes to rock 'n' roll.

In the past five years, Mrs. Burton has helped her grandson Joey Robinson and his friends finance a rock band called Rock Alley.

She loans the band members money to buy new and better equipment and they pay her back from money they earn playing clubs and parties.

Robinson calls Mrs. Burton, a former Orange County district clerk, the backbone of the group. The band members affectionately call her "Granny" and sometimes jokingly refer to themselves as "Granny's Rockers."

The arrangement began after Joey came to live with his grandmother when he was 19.

"I gave him some ground rules and he moved in his guitar," Mrs. Burton says. But after Joey's friend, David White, began coming over for guitar jam sessions in the living room, Mrs. Burton decided the rock had to roll in a small utility shed across the driveway from the house. She had the appliances moved into her house, and the pair moved their instruments and amplifiers into the shed.

Mrs. Burton made certain the arrangement would not disturb the neighbors and still insists the band quit practice at 10:30 p.m. When the group practices, Mrs. Burton says she turns up the volume on her television. But at the commercials, she turns the sound off and listens to the band.

"When they first started, I hated to hear it (rock music), but you know, it kind of grows on you," she says. "I guess it's the beat."

When she hears a song she likes, she asks about the songwriter and sometimes asks the group to play it again. Joey says his grandmother likes music by the Eagles and John Cougar Mellencamp.

"I like all kinds of music, but I don't like that hard rock," she says.

Mrs. Burton enjoys gospel music most of all. She was choir director at two Baptist churches in Orange and plays the organ occasionally for her own enjoyment. Robinson says Rock Alley did not sound very good when it started. At times, the group had to run vocals and bass guitar through the same amplifier.

But because of Mrs. Burton's backing, Rock Alley steadily improved its sound, he says. The loans allowed the group to acquire new instruments, more amplifiers, better speakers and even a truck to haul their equipment. With a better sound, the group got better bookings and earned more money. The group also has a regular, secure place to practice new material.

Mrs. Burton put air conditioning in the shed and had the front section fixed after it rotted a few years ago. In return for the rent-free space, the band members take turns mowing Mrs. Burton's lawn.

Skies had cleared in the far West and across the northern portions of North and West Texas. Otherwise, a low cloud cover blanketed the remainder of the state.

During the predawn hours, readings in the 30s and 40s were common across East and South Texas, while the teens and 20s chilled the north and west.

Also, brisk winds and cold temperatures were combining to dip the wind chill index into the single digits over much of the Plains and North Texas, the weather service said.

Two Republican challengers may enter 69th District race

A second challenger to State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, may enter the race for the 69th District spot, which includes Howard County.

County Clerk Margaret Ray said Tuesday afternoon that Travis Floyd of 805 Edwards had picked up application forms to file for candidacy as a Republican in the state representative race.

Charles Cox Harris, a Republican from Garden City, said last week he may also challenge

Shaw. In Howard County, Paul Allen, D-Coahoma, officially filed for candidacy Monday, said Democratic chairman M.H. "Slick" Boatler. Allen seeks a third term as County Commissioner in Precinct 2.

Ray said her office this week received filings for designated treasurers from Telesforo Fierro in his reelection bid as county surveyor and Boatler, who wishes to retain his position as Democratic chairman of Howard County.

The person responsible for applying data to the reports is the laboratory technician at the water treatment plant, said Director of Public Works Tom Decell. "The report is then forwarded to the supervisor of the plant who reviews the data and signs the report before forwarding it to the EPA," he said.

Decell said both he and City Manager Don Davis also review the report before it is sent to the EPA. The ultimate authority for what is on the report is the person who signs the report, that being the plant supervisor, Decell said.

"I think like any other operation of the city, I'm the one ultimately responsible," Davis said. Because of the various problems involving Big Spring, the water commission postponed consideration of an otherwise routine wastewater permit renewal request.

For some time, the city has had trouble meeting state standards on the quality of the effluent discharged from the treatment facility on 11th Street, commission officials said.

A state order calling for the city to meet those standards by Jan. 1, 1981, went out in the summer of 1977. Despite new facilities and improvements that cost the city $1.95 million, problems remained in meeting the standards, and the EPA called for the city to be in compliance by July 1, 1985. Finally in mid-December, the federal agency's regional office ordered the city to submit a compliance schedule or meet the permit standards by this month, according to commission documents.

In November the city was cited by the commission as a consistent polluter and was placed on "the worst of the rest list" of state polluters.

Decell said this morning that the city fell short of meeting effluent discharge standards set forth by the commission in both November and December of this year. He said the recent action by the commission is probable response to that. The commission is taking a hard line on all state-wide water pollution, he said.

The commission's district office is now preparing a notice that the city is being put on the list for mandatory compliance hearings later this year. The only stronger action available to the commission is to assess administrative penalties against the city or to refer the matter to the Texas attorney general for possible legal action.

EPA spokeswoman Guay said Tuesday the latest 30-day compliance order was sent to Big Spring Dec. 16. "They still have some time," she said, adding that the city has made no comment so far.

At the commission meeting Tuesday, chairman Paul Hopkins asked, "Would it be helpful if we invited the city manager and mayor and city fathers to come to Austin and explain what the problem is?"

When he received some assurances that it would, Hopkins ordered that the city's wastewater permit renewal request be postponed until Jan. 21 and that the invitation be made.

Davis said if city officials are invited to Austin they will indeed go. Decell said in a prepared statement at the news conference that the current investigation is limited to information gathering "which may or may not lead to further action."

"The city is cooperating with the investigation to the furthest extent possible in providing all the information requested by the EPA," he said.

The engineering firm of GS&W of Dallas, which designed the present waste treatment facility, is due in town today to work with city officials on repairing the major components of the system, Decell said. "We have accomplished a number of in-house improvements in the waste water treatment plant," he said.

but declined to say what measures West Germany would consider supporting. Ost said the Bonn Cabinet's decision was based on West Germany's extensive economic and trade ties with Libya.

A spokesman at the British Foreign Office, speaking on condition of anonymity, told reporters today, "Our general attitude towards sanctions is that they don't bring about the desired results." Britain's trade with Libya was about $650 million in the first 10 months of 1985, with $290 million in exports to Libya and $360 million in imports from Libya.

In Rome, the Italian foreign ministry said Italy would consider economic or political measures against countries involved in terrorism only in "strict association" with other Common Market nations.

Foreign Minister Giulio Andreotti called for an immediate meeting of foreign ministers of the 12 member countries of the European Economic Community to draw up a response to Reagan's call.

The Irish government said it would consider Reagan's appeal in consultation with the Common Market.

Australian Foreign Minister Bill Hayden said in a radio interview before Reagan announced his proposals, "If there were to be an international trade boycott, that is, supported internationally, then I would expect that Australia would be a part of it."

Block action no surprise

Few farmers or farm-state officials expressed surprise at U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block's announcement that he would resign, and Block's father said he didn't expect his son to return to the family hog farm in Illinois.

Block, 50, who joined President Reagan's Cabinet in 1981, told a news conference in Washington that he would leave office next month, but declined to say what he would do next.

The elder Block said his son, who visited the farm over the Christmas holiday, gave no hint that he was planning to step down.

Film on oil a winner

DALLAS — With eyewitness accounts of major oil discoveries, a Dallas couple has produced an award-winning film about Texas oil that is eligible for an Oscar nomination.

The idea for the film was planted when Robert Tranchin took his Boston-bred wife, Laurie, on a tour of his native state and they visited the East Texas Oil Museum.

Austin tops in spending

WASHINGTON — The Austin city government spent the most per resident among Texas cities last year, almost a third more than second-place San Antonio, according to a U.S. Census Bureau report released Tuesday.

Two Texas cities, Houston and San Antonio, raised over $1 billion in revenues, according to the agency.

Dallas had the highest per capita property taxes, collecting $188 per resident. Houston was second, collecting $177, and Plano was third with $173 in per capita property taxes.

Sales pitches planned

WASHINGTON — The new postmaster general, a former airlines president, says he plans to introduce airline-style sales pitches to help the U.S. Postal Service attract more business and compete with overnight delivery services.

Former American Airlines president Albert V. Casey, who took over as postmaster general on Tuesday, told reporters "the post office is selling services to the public... the post office is involved with all forms of competition today."

Space launch undecided

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Technicians today readied oft-delayed Columbia for Thursday's sixth launch attempt in less than a month, but the space agency said approaching bad weather could scrub the flight again.

NASA spokesman George Diller said today that a weather system in the Gulf of Mexico was expected to produce clouds, showers and high winds in the Cape Canaveral area at launch time.

Mathews, the overnight DJ, was outraged at Khadafy's threats against U.S. citizens and urged listeners "to send your unused garbage" to Libya's representatives in Washington. The station received hundreds of calls supporting the campaign.

Trash for terrorism

Radio listeners make a point to Khadafy

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — It's anybody's guess how much trash actually has been neatly packed up and mailed to Moammar Khadafy.

But whether it's enough to fill a wastebasket or a landfill, an unmistakable point has been made, says the manager of a Maine radio station that called on its listeners to use parcels of "clean garbage" to send the Libyan leader an anti-terrorist message.

"I think we've been on every talk show in America," said Jack Roberts of WGUY-FM in Bangor on Tuesday, five days after the campaign began.

From as far away as Brazil and Europe, hundreds of calls have poured in on the station's listener line, 90 percent expressing support, said Roberts. Broadcasters in Georgia also picked up the campaign and reported strong support.

The effort was billed by WGUY as a way to direct the public's attention to Khadafy's threats against the United States and his alleged support of terrorism.

"Obviously, sending trash to (Libya's) U.N. mission won't stop terrorism. But it does show people that Americans are concerned, that they do care," Roberts said.

The mischief began at the 3,000-watt rock music station following a news report in which U.S. officials accused Libya of helping terrorists and Khadafy reacted angrily.

"What a bunch of garbage," exclaimed disc jockey Brian Mathews. And before long he, his listeners and other announcers dreamed up the rubbish mailing plan.

So far, Libya's U.N. mission in New York has apparently received only a handful of candy wrappers, cigarette butts and a wadded napkin.

That refuse spilled from an envelope sent to the mission, said a secretary who refused to give her name during a telephone interview Tuesday.

There have been no foul-smelling packages, no suspicious parcels, and, as far as she knew, no requests to postal authorities to intercept any such mail addressed to the Libyans.

"If we get anything, we'll just toss it in the trash can without opening it," she said.

In Bangor, Maine, post office window supervisor Joyce Brown said Tuesday that only one package had been sent to the Libyan mission. Weighing just under two pounds, it was sent Friday.

In Washington, word of the trash campaign reached the State Department, and a spokeswoman there referred a reporter to the United Arab Emirates Embassy, which houses the Libyan interest section in the capital.

No garbage had reached the Persian Gulf nation's embassy, an official there said.

A "Trash for Terrorism" program was announced Monday on Savannah, Ga., music radio stations WIXV-FM and WBMQ-AM, and the response has been "phenomenal," said Dana McIntyre, a reporter in the news department of the stations, which had heard about the Maine broadcasters' idea and liked it.

"If they send us terrorism, we'll respond by sending back our trash," Ms. McIntyre said.

"A lot of the callers want the address and want to know what kind of garbage they can send," she said.

"We're being very careful about that. It can't be filthy, vile or indecent. It can't leak, smell or spoil. I guess that leaves out things like dead fish guts."

"We tell them to package it like they're sending a present, because that's what it is."

Moslems back Khadafy

FEZ, Morocco — The Moslem world has thrown the collective support of its 45 member states behind Libya, including itself, united against what it says are saber-rattling threats from the United States and Israel.

The declaration of support Tuesday by the Islamic Conference Organization for the radical government of Col. Moammar Khadafy follows approval over the weekend of a similar resolution by the Arab League.

Mandela appeals order

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Anti-apartheid activist Winnie Mandela went before a high court today to appeal a government order that bars her from living in her home near Johannesburg.

In other developments, a six-member U.S. congressional delegation met with President P.W. Botha in his home town of George on the Indian Ocean. The group said Tuesday it hoped Botha would give them permission to visit jailed black guerrilla leader Nelson Mandela, Winnie Mandela's husband.

China remembers Chou

PEKING — Thousands of people, many wearing white flowers as a sign of mourning, gathered in Tiananmen Square today to pay silent tribute to communist China's first premier, Chou En-lai, on the 10th anniversary of his death.

Despite the lack of any official commemoration, ordinary citizens left paper-flower wreaths and poetic tributes to Chou at the base of a monument to the people's heroes.

Raid proof 'lacking'

VIENNA, Austria — Foreign Minister Leopold Gratz said Tuesday there are "indications but there is no concrete evidence" of Libyan involvement in the terror attacks at the Vienna and Rome airports.

Gratz talked to reporters following the first Cabinet session after the Dec. 27, 1985, assaults.

Three people, including one terrorist, were killed in the attack at Vienna's Schwechat Airport and 39 were wounded.

Protest march stopped

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — A participant in an international peace march said Nicaragua authorities stopped the marchers from traveling to neighboring El Salvador in small boats.

Lynette Thorstensen, one of the marchers, said Tuesday the group was told El Salvador might consider it a provocation by Nicaragua's leftist government if it allowed the approximately 85 peace protesters to enter Salvadoran waters. El Salvador already has said it will not allow the protesters to march across its border, as have Honduras and Guatemala.

Mayor did well in serving public

Clyde Angel has done his job at city hall and, as he said Tuesday, it's time for someone else to carry the baton. Public officials sometimes take a battering for their efforts. Many times it is the mayor's task to stand at the forefront to field the questions and mollify the critics.

Angel has done that for six years. He's managed to perform his duties with diplomacy and statesmanship, to steer the ship of state through stormy seas and around the rocks. Perhaps his harshest criticism came when he was party to a decision to extend the terms of some on the city council past their expiration dates and beyond their election mandates.

The action was taken to satisfy a minority voting rights lawsuit and succeeded in that purpose. While the extension of terms was no doubt done with good intentions, it produced a firestorm of protest.

Though emotions ran high during that time, the mayor dealt with the controversy as diplomatically as possible. To his credit, he refused to let the single issue sidetrack the work that needed to be done by government.

Better roads, a cleaner city, substantial progress toward turning around a declining downtown. These are just a few of the achievements during his six years. Angel has acted the way he felt best served the people. He has served well.

Steve Chapman

Clamor for law has innate flaw

When feminists converge with more traditional organizations and "pro-family" groups, the naive may take it as evidence that their cause is irreproachable. In fact, it is only a signal to beware. What these unlikely allies share is an impulse to achieve their vision of a good society by force.

Here they are united behind a bill drafted by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, a Colorado Democrat, requiring employers to provide four months' unpaid leave to parents of newborn, newly adopted or seriously ill children. When these employees return, they are guaranteed their old job or a comparable one. Among the diverse groups listed as supporters are the National Organization for Women, the Catholic conference of Bishops and the Junior League.

The bill starts with an uncontroversial proposition: that it is good for parents to spend time with their newborns. It proceeds to a wrong conclusion: that what is good ought to be law.

One problem with the latter idea is that all goods can't be enjoyed at once. Choosing one means sacrificing others. A worker who wants a high income, for instance, may have to give up much of his free time to the company. In the absence of government compulsion, firms and workers work out mutually agreeable bargains reflecting their preferences and constraints. This law forbids such bargaining, forcing the same standard on all.

Cynics assume that workers, with no leverage, must accept whatever they are given. The evidence contradicts them. A survey of 384 large firms by Catalyst, a non-profit women's organization, found that 95 percent give paid disability leaves to new mothers. More than half offer additional unpaid leave to mothers; 37 percent provide it to fathers.

That's not enough for Schroeder, who says the leaves are usually too short anyway. "It is crazy to think that the relationship between parent and child can mature in less than four months," she complains.

"All the knowledge we have tells us that four months is what you need." Don't take this pseudo-scientific precision too seriously. If scientists decide next year that anything longer than two months is positively destructive, Schroeder will not rush to outlaw four-month leaves.

She declares that "if you are concerned about families, there is no way you can avoid this type of legislation." Here is the insidious flaw. Like most laws regulating voluntary relations among adults, this one will have harmful unintended consequences.

The most important is to discourage the hiring of married people of child-bearing age. If a manager has a choice between a 50-year-old widower and a 25-year-old husband, Schroeder's law will encourage her to hire the former. Why? Because the 25-year-old is more likely to use the parental leave, which costs the firm money in lost output.

The bill works as a tax on the employment of people who bear children, and as such will tend to raise their unemployment rate. A "pro-family" purpose; an anti-family result.

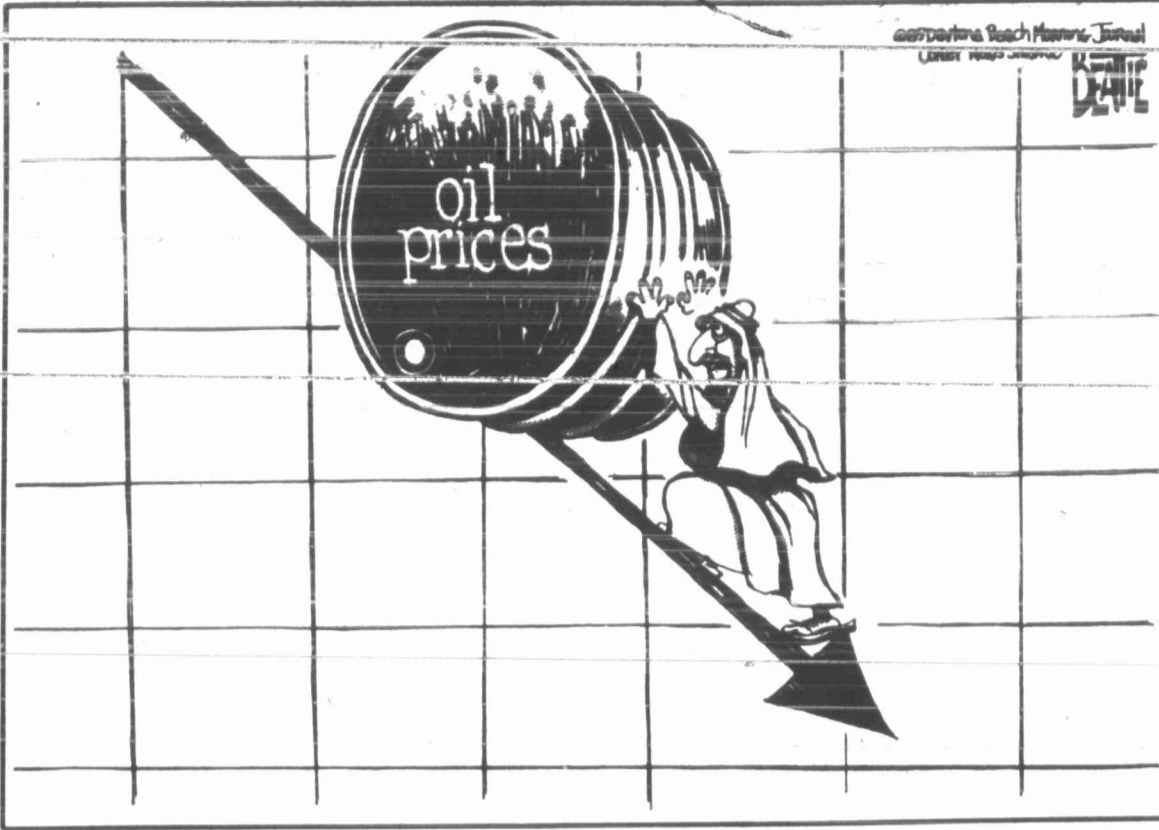

There are other bad consequences. An employer can't provide unlimited wages and benefits. If he provides four-month leaves to all new parents, he will have to pay for it by cutting back elsewhere — say, in pension contributions. The benefits of the change are enjoyed by employees who bear children. The costs are borne mostly by those who don't.

And the redistributive effects are regressive. Unskilled workers earning $5 an hour generally can't afford long periods without income. The perk may be available to all employees, but it will be exploited mostly by the higher-paid ones.

All this is the opposite of how it should be. If a firm's cost to provide such leaves exceeds its saving in lower turnover and higher morale, it shouldn't be forced to eat the difference. The parents are the ones profiting from the time off. They ought to bear the costs — whether it is the risk of getting a lower-paying job with the old firm, or the time and money needed to find employment with a different one.

Scientists and their allies may be inspired by the purest of motives. But the interstate highway of bad laws, like the road to hell, is paved with good intentions.

Delving into surveillance

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — If you think Big Brother is watching you, it doesn't necessarily mean you're paranoid. One thing is certain: Federal agencies have the latest, super-sophisticated surveillance equipment, and they're using it.

What bothers civil libertarians is that federal laws regulating the use of surveillance devices and techniques are hopelessly out-of-date. State-of-the-art technology has not been matched by state-of-the-art legislation.

The result, according to a recent study by the non-partisan Office of Technology Assessment, is that millions of Americans are effectively unprotected from the abuse of their constitutional rights by overzealous — or merely curious — federal investigators. The study was conducted at the request of Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., who chairs a House subcommittee on civil liberties.

The congressional technology office surveyed 142 federal agencies to determine which ones were using what surveillance equipment. The CIA, the National Security Agency and the Defense Intelligence Agency were excluded, for obvious reasons.

The agencies' detailed responses were not published by the Office of Technology Assessment. But Kastenmeier provided our associated Donald Goldberg with the raw responses prepared by the agencies. They disclose how many kinds of surveillance technologies the various agencies employ — and the answers are scary. For example:

• The FBI is already using or plans to use 18 of the 19 different surveillance techniques the congressional questionnaire asked about. The only snooping devices the G-men don't use are satellite-based visual surveillance systems.

As the federal government's chief investigative agency, the FBI might very well have a legitimate need for the 18 technologies. But the bureau was disturbingly secretive when the congressional evaluation team asked it to explain the use of each technology.

"Due to the sensitive nature and specific application of the equipment and techniques by the FBI, detailed information regarding the specific technology, application, user, locations etc., cannot be disseminated outside the FBI," the FBI replied.

Among the 19 different technologies being used by the G-men are: radio scanners, miniature transmitters, "pen registers" that keep track of numbers dialed on a targeted telephone, night-vision equipment, microwave interception and other devices that keep tabs on where people are, whom they're talking to and what they're doing.

• The Drug Enforcement Administration uses 11 of the 19 technologies, including a $2 million computer in El Paso, Texas, to monitor electronic mail and other communications for development of suspect "profiles."

• The Internal Revenue Service uses nine of the 19 technologies, and stated that there has been "an increasing use of electronic surveillance since 1980." From 1983 through 1985, the IRS spent nearly $3 million on electronic surveillance equipment.

Kastenmeier and others in Congress acknowledge that the use of sophisticated technologies often means the difference between making a solid case and letting a criminal walk. What concerns them is that innocent Americans are not now protected from unwarranted intrusion by federal agents.

The legal safeguards for "old-fashioned" means of communication, like first-class mail, don't exist for electronic mail or wireless telephones. Kastenmeier has introduced legislation that would keep individual protections abreast of government surveillance techniques, by requiring court approval for the new technologies' use.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: Some State Department people took umbrage at our recent report on security problems at the American embassy in Khartoum. But after our disclosures, Foggy Bottom issued a warning against travel to Sudan, and withdrew 10 percent of the embassy staff because of terrorist danger. Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., wrote to one security expert who blew the whistle: "I feel certain that these actions were taken in part due to the impact of your meeting with the State Department and the subsequent Jack Anderson article."

DEAR BARRY: We don't know if CIA Director William Casey actually wrote to ask the advice of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., but we've seen a recently released document that shows he got some in 1982. Goldwater, who was then chairman of the Senate intelligence committee, wrote Casey urging him to put his substantial investment portfolio in a blind trust. "Our lives have pretty well been spent," Goldwater, now 77, wrote to Casey, who is four years younger, "although we both look forward to many more years, as the saying goes, 'You can't take it with you.' So why don't you put it in a trust?" Shortly afterward, Casey agreed to do so.

MINI-EDITORIAL: We offer a New Year's toast to Secretary of State George Shultz for losing his temper recently in very becoming ways. In Belgrade, a clearly irate Shultz interrupted the Yugoslav foreign minister's mealy-mouthed defense of his nation's despotic policy of allowing safe passage for known terrorists. The kidnapping, torture and murder of Americans, Shultz snapped, "is not justified by any cause that I know of." Several days later, when asked if he would submit to a polygraph test as the White House had proposed, Shultz said "once." Then, he said, he'd quit. "The minute ... I'm told I'm not trusted is the day that I leave." Bravo.

Rocky course for Khomeini's successor

By CHARLES J. HANLEY
Once his iron grip on Iran finally loosens, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini will leave behind a country facing a shaky future under an untested clergyman newly designated to succeed him, Iran analysts say.

The formal selection of Ayatollah Hussein Ali Montazeri to take over as supreme leader when the 85-year-old revolutionary patriarch dies gives the Islamic revolution a look of continuity, the analysts acknowledged in a series of interviews.

"But, as with any revolutionary government, replacing a charismatic revolutionary leader with one who lacks that charisma will lead to many difficulties," said Shaul Bakhash, a Washington-based authority on Iranian politics.

Khomeini's departure, the specialists say, would heat up a simmering debate in Iran between left and right, between those favoring clerical leadership and those against, and between hawks and doves on the five-year-old war with Iraq.

The armed anti-Khomeini resistance sees his eventual death as pivotal.

"Without the personal supervision of Khomeini, the ruling elite will fall apart," asserted Ali Safavi, a U.S.-based spokesman for the opposition People's Mujahedeen.

The Islamic socialist Mujahedeen say they are preparing for a "generalized mass uprising" when the old leader dies. Outside analysts question the insurgents' strength, but none doubt that Khomeini's death would jolt the political landscape.

Montazeri, 63, a veteran Khomeini disciple, had long been recognized as the revolutionary leader's handpicked successor. But when the 74-member Council of Experts — the body established to name a successor — met hastily in November and formally designated Montazeri as the future "Velayate Fagih," or religious guide, it prompted rumors about Khomeini's health.

Analysts say, however, they see no evidence the chronically ailing Khomeini is seriously ill. Instead, they say, the Iranian leader apparently was seeking to put Montazeri firmly on top before any transition crisis.

"Now I foresee a relatively smooth succession when Khomeini dies," said Gary Sick, a former U.S. National Security Council specialist on Iran, now with the Ford Foundation. "But then the real internal power struggle will begin among the insiders for control."

Around The Rim

A little shine can do a lot

By HANK MURPHY
Big Spring has a mess on its hands.

The mess is found in isolated pockets of residential housing and along the twin corridors of junky lots and dilapidated buildings along Third and Fourth streets. The blight infestation doesn't stop there; it has crept and settled into downtown areas occupied by vacant buildings replete with broken windows and crumbling walls.

It's too bad. Big Spring has the makings of a good looking town. Clear away the junk and you'll see some eye-pleasing architecture like the City Hall and courthouse buildings, the Municipal Auditorium, the Ritz Theatre, a menagerie of elegant structures on the campus of Howard College and a host of fine looking churches.

Wipe away some grime and you'll see a town with some of the best recreational facilities of any town its size: the Figure Seven Tennis Courts, beautiful Comanche Trails Municipal Park and the rolling splendor of Big Spring State Park.

All of this is built on and nestled in a series of hills and ridges geologically unique to West Texas.

Big Spring is like Cinderella, a lovely maiden swathed in rags. The metaphor, however stops there. No fairy Godmother will wave a magic wand and transform this town into the West Texas beauty it could be. That task, if there is the political and psychological will to do it, rests on the shoulders of the citizens of this town.

Recently, sounds have come from City Hall that signal an imminent crack-down on violators of the city code pertaining to the upkeep of property. And while moves in this direction are applauded, the city, too, has property, the appearance of which would fall short of its own standards.

Ultimately, it is the citizens of Big Spring who must decide what they want to see done. Things are rough economically for a lot of people in the area; things like weeds, piles of rusty metal and heaps of rotting lumber might not seem very important to people struggling to make a car payment or squeezed to buy new shoes for their kids.

But, in the long run, the stock in Big Spring can only go up as the city sheds a few tons of debris and makes the town look more attractive to companies looking for a place to locate — a clean, pleasant place.

The city has a few businesses on the outskirts that buy scrap metal. It also has a spanking new multimillion dollar trash compactor. It would be in everyone's best interest if these places suddenly became busier.

Dear Abby

Fiance's affair is a worry

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my mid-50s. I recently became engaged to a fine gentleman I'll call Clyde. He has been an eligible widower for many years. Our wedding plans are made, but something happened a few days ago that makes me wonder if I should go through with this marriage.

My daughter, "Lydia," 32 and married, took me aside and told me that she and Clyde had a "little affair" before he met me. (She and Clyde's daughter were college friends.) Lydia said it was nothing serious so I shouldn't even mention it to Clyde. She was so casual about it, I was stunned.

Now I don't know whether to go through with the wedding, discuss it with Clyde, or what.

I love this man and want to marry him, but I don't know if I can keep quiet about this even though it happened before we met. What do you advise?

HEAVYHEARTED: First tell Lydia that you intend to clear the air and discuss the matter with Clyde because although it meant nothing to her, it weighs heavily on your heart. Then discuss it with Clyde.

Since all this occurred before he met you, there is no betrayal involved, so it shouldn't change your feelings about him.

I fail to see why Lydia felt compelled to disclose this episode now. It served no good purpose.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem in my bedroom. My wife snores. Sometimes it's so disturbing that she wakes me up and I can't get back to sleep again, so I go downstairs and watch late movies on TV.

She went to our family doctor, who told her that nothing could be done for her, but she could buy some earplugs for me. Abby, can't something be done for the snorer? Or should I just move into another bedroom? The latter would make me very angry. (I'm 67 and she's 5.)

J.K.J.: Your wife should consult an ear, nose, and throat specialist. In some cases, a relatively simple surgical procedure will eliminate snoring. Now, isn't that music to your ears?

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for suggesting that there should be a national holiday to honor the native American Indian. I feel that abolishing Columbus Day as a national holiday would be a good first step. To honor a white man for 'discovering' land on which people were already living seems ridiculous.

Hyperions ready gifts for patients

The 1905 Hyperion Club met in December in the parlor of the First Baptist Church to gather gifts for nursing homes and the Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Corinne Elliott read the Christmas story of the birth of Jesus from Luke 2:26-28.

Annie Matt Angel gave the three C's of Christmas. She said they include concentrating on what Christmas is about; consecrating Christmas to the One for whom it began; and continuing Christmas in spirit and in giving all year long.

Members shared memories of Christmas past when trees were not brought home until Christmas Eve and were not seen until Christmas morning. Trees were then decorated with popcorn, cranberries and paper chains.

The next meeting is Jan. 16.

Dr. Donohue

Diet may not be cause of anemia

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have iron deficiency anemia. My blood count stays low. I've had all the tests to find out where I'm losing blood. Now the doctor suggests I go for a bone marrow test.

What is a bone marrow test? My diet has been quite restricted from red meat and eggs, for I had to bring my cholesterol down. I did that, from 325 to 195. I am 62, female, and don't wish to take the bone marrow test. What do you think? Please answer about the iron deficiency. — Mrs. A.W.

I think you should have the marrow test. I had all the tests to detect any source of internal bleeding, which is often the cause of some anemias. You can't lay your low red blood cell count to your meatlessness. Vegetarians don't develop iron deficiency from their diets.

The problem must lie elsewhere, and the likely place to turn is the bone marrow. Perhaps your anemia is not of the iron deficiency sort. If iron supplements were tried and they didn't bring improvement, then iron deficiency is not likely. The bone marrow is where blood cells are manufactured. The marrow test will tell much. A bit of marrow is retrieved (via needle) for microscopic examination. I know that sounds horrible, but be assured it is safe and should not be very painful.

I wrote once before and said that I heard from irate readers who had the test and assured me it was not a pleasurable highlight of their lives. Let me just say that it doesn't hurt enough for you to worry to the point of refusing it. And at this point, it is the most logical step for you and your doctor to take.

FOR J.F. — A benign essential tremor is the kind that becomes noticeable when a person is under stress or is trying to do close work. Your doctor used the term familial not to imply heredity, but only to explain that it sometimes occurs in families. That doesn't mean every member of that family will have it or even that it must occur in each generation.

ries, drain and reserve juice
3 1/2 to 4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 pkg. quick-rising yeast

1 cup milk
1/2 cup butter, melted
1 large egg, slightly beaten
Cherry Glaze, see recipe
1/2 cup slivered blanched almonds
Drain and halve cherries; reserve juice to use in Cherry Glaze.

In a large mixing bowl, stir together 3 cups of the flour, the sugar, yeast and salt. In a small saucepan, heat milk and 1/2 cup of the butter to 120 degrees; stir in egg; stir into flour mixture to form a ball. Turn out on a prepared pastry cloth and knead, adding only enough of the remaining flour to form a soft dough, until smooth and satiny — 5 to 10 minutes. Cover and let rest 1/2 hour.

With a stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll dough to an 18 by 15-inch rectangle. Brush with remaining melted butter to within 1/2-inch of edges. Arrange cherries over buttered dough. Roll up from 18-inch side; pinch edge to seal. Cut into 20 slices.

down over Cherry Glaze. Let rise until double in bulk — 30 minutes. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until golden brown — about 30 minutes. Cool 5 minutes; invert on a serving platter; let stand 1 minute; remove pan. Serve warm. Makes 20 buns.

CHERRY GLAZE — In a small saucepan heat 1/4 cup butter, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tsp. grated lemon rind and 1/2 cup reserved cherry juice. Boil, stirring occasionally, until mixture thickens — 5 to 10 minutes. Makes about 1 cup.

NEW BAKED BEANS
2 lbs. dried navy (pea) beans, picked over and rinsed
3 large green peppers, coarsely chopped
1 large onion, finely chopped
1 cup chili sauce
1 cup dark corn syrup

1/2 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1/4 pound salt pork, sliced

In an 8-quart saucepot, cover beans with 3 quarts water. Soak overnight; drain beans; measure soaking water and discard. Replace discarded soaking water with an equal amount of fresh cold water. Bring to a boil; skim off foam. Simmer, covered, just until tender — about 1 hour.

Drain beans; measure liquid and discard. Replace discarded water with an equal amount of fresh hot water; stir together well with the fresh hot water, beans, green pepper, onion, chili sauce, corn syrup, brown sugar, salt, pepper, mustard and ginger. Turn into a 17 by 11 by 2-inch roasting pan. Top with salt pork. Bake uncovered in a preheated 300-degree oven for 1 hour. Stirring occasionally, continue baking uncovered until beans are completely tender and of desired consistency — 1 to 1 1/2 hours longer. Makes about 3 quarts.

MINCEMEAT TURNOVERS
9-ounce package condensed

mincemeat, crumbled
3/4 cup orange juice
1/2 cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
1 tsp. grated orange rind
11-ounce package pie crust mix
Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese, cut up

Milk
In a small saucepan, over medium heat, bring mincemeat and orange juice to the boil and boil, stirring for one minute. Off heat, stir in walnuts and orange rind; reserve. In a large bowl, cut cream cheese into pie crust mix until crumbly; add 1/4 cup water and stir with a fork until a ball is formed. Divide in half, shape each half into a ball. Roll each ball into a 12-inch square and cut into four 6-inch squares. Place a scant 1/2 cup mincemeat mixture slightly off center on each square. Fold squares in half diagonally; press edges together with a fork to seal. Cut a slit near center of each; brush with milk. Bake on an ungreased cookie sheet in a preheated 375-degree oven until golden brown. Serve warm. Makes 8 large turnovers that may be cut in half.

CHILI CHICKEN
4-pound chicken
14 1/2-ounce can stewed tomatoes
4 1/2 tps. chili powder

1 tsp. dried oregano leaves, crushed
1/4 tsp. ground cumin
1/2 tsp. salt

Have chicken cut into 12 pieces — 2 thighs, 2 drumsticks, 2 breast halves, 2 wings and 2 pieces of boned back. Remove visible fat. Wash and dry on paper toweling.

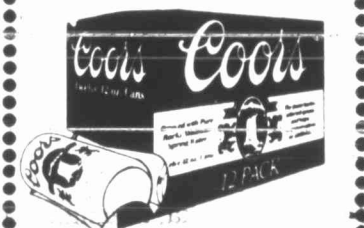

In a shallow 3-quart baking dish (about 13 by 9 by 2 inches) stir together tomatoes, 3 tps. of the chili powder, oregano and cumin. Mix salt with remaining 1 1/2 tsp. chili powder; rub over skin of chicken. Arrange chicken skin side up, over tomato mixture. Bake in a 400-degree preheated oven, uncovered, until skin is crisp and chicken is cooked through, about 45 minutes. If you like, spoon off excess fat. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Steve's Stuff

By Steve Belvin

Let's go bowling

Now that all the bowl games are over and the final Associated Press Football Poll is out, lets take a look back and see how the powerhouses fared in bowl competition.

Remember I said maybe. Our boys in the dear old Southwest Conference came out smelling like a rose this bowl season.

Arkansas nipped Pac-10 foe Arizona, Baylor walked over Southeastern Conference power LSU and A&M picked Auburn in the Cotton Bowl.

The sports writers of America also liked what they saw of the SWC. A&M finished sixth in the final poll while Arkansas (19) and Baylor (17) made the Top 20.

This gives the SWC pretty good braggin' rights for the toughest conference, although the claim would get lots of objections from folks in the SEC and Big 10.

The SEC finished the season with four teams ranked in the Top 20, including No. 5 Florida, which was unable to compete in post-season play due to probation.

Tennessee finished a strong fourth by virtue of its convincing Sugar Bowl win over Miami. Alabama finished No. 13 and LSU was No. 20. Pretty impressive wouldn't you say?

What wasn't so impressive is the fact that SEC teams went 2-2-1 in bowl play. LSU and Auburn each suffered losses, while Georgia barely managed a 13-13 tie with the Pac-10's Arizona in the Sun Bowl.

The Big-10 did a little better than the SEC in bowl play. They went 3-3 in the competition. Minnesota in the Independence; Ohio State in the Citrus and Michigan in the Fiesta; saved the day for the conference.

The Big-10 placed only two teams in the final poll, but both were in the top 10. With it's exciting 27-23 win over Big-8 power Nebraska, Michigan finished a well-deserved second. With its upset loss to UCLA in the Rose Bowl, Iowa plummeted to No. 10.

While on the subject of UCLA, the Pac-10 broke even with a 2-2-1 bowl record.

UCLA's victory and Washington's win in the Freedom Bowl helped pull the West Coast boys through. UCLA at No. 7 was the only team to make the Top 20.

Although it has the national champion in its conference, the Big-3 did not have what you'd call a banner bowl season.

The OU Sooners brought respect to the conference with a impressive 25-10 win over Penn State in the Orange Bowl. Other than that, it was tough bowling for conference.

Although they finished ranked No. 11, Nebraska was cut down by the Big-10's Wolverines. Colorado fell to a Pac-10's Huskies in the Freedom, independent Florida State suprised Oklahoma State in the Gator Bowl.

It was also a rugged bowl season for independents as they struggled through a 2-3 record.

Penn State had the highest finish at No. 3, despite being dropped by OU. Miami (No.7) was simply outclassed in the Sugar Bowl while No. 15 Florida State finished up on a winning note.

Syracuse fell to Maryland in the Cherry and Army nipped Illinois in the Peach.

Although it is best known for its basketball prowess, the Atlantic Coast Conference did well in bowl play with a 2-1 record.

Maryland and Georgia Tech made the ACC proud. The Ramblin' Wreck gunned down Michigan State in the All-American Bowl. That, along with Maryland's win, gave the ACC its big moment. The only blemish was Clemson's 20-13 loss to Minnesota in the Independence Bowl.

What's also impressive is that two teams finished in the Top 20. Maryland was No. 18 and Georgia Tech No. 19.

The Western Athletic Conference, finally getting recognized for its fine football programs, finished the bowl season at 1-1 with both teams being ranked.

Defending national champion Brigham Young (No. 16) was nipped 10-7 by Ohio State and Air Force (No. 8) flew by Texas.

Let us not forget lesser known bowl teams from the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference and Mid-American Conference. Or maybe if you're a Bowling Green fan you'd just as soon forget.

MAC champion Bowling Green went into the California Bowl against PCAA champion Fresno State with a sparkling 10-0 record and ranked No. 20 in the nation. The first time in the school's history that it has made the NCAA-Division I Top 20.

The game turned out to be the worst bowl of the season as the West Coast boys bombed the Midwestern lads 51-7.

So there you have the bowl season for the 1985-86 season and it was every bit as exciting as it has been in the past. This information may or may not have helped one decide which conference the best competition lies in.

Truthfully you can elaborate on the subject for days and not come up with a clear-cut decision. But it was fun trying.

But I must admit I'm very pleased that the dear ole Southwest Conference came through in fine style this season.

Now if we can only find a bowl the Longhorns can win.

End 31-game 4-5A drought

Steers outlast Cougars, 70-66

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Writer

It was a long time coming, but the Big Spring Steers finally won a District 4-5A basketball game.

Urged on by a vocal home crowd, including the return of the Bleacher Bums, the Steers hung on for a 70-66 upset win over the Abilene Cooper Cougars last night in Steer Gym.

The win breaks a 31-game district losing streak for Big Spring. In fact, it was Steers coach Mike Randle's first district win in three seasons at the helm.

The last time Big Spring won a district game was February 16, 1983. It defeated Odessa Permian 61-47 under the direction of coach Archie Myers, now head coach at Odessa College. The stars of that team was Jerald Wrightsil, now playing for the University of Hawaii, Tony Randle and Fred Rubio.

If the trio had been watching the Steers last night, they would have been proud because some new stars strutted their stuff for the Black and Gold in their upset win.

Brian Mayfield, Charles Young, Dewayne Sherman and Kevin McKeown were just a few that helped carry the Steers to the victory table. But it was consistency and a total team effort that earned Big Spring its first district win in three tries.

Mayfield again proved that he's one of the top forwards in the league, damaging the Cougars zone with his soft turnaround jumper and strong rebounding. The 6-4 sophomore turned in a 23-point, 16 rebound effort. He was particularly deadly in the second half with 15 points.

BRIAN MAYFIELD great second half

KEVIN MCKEOWN clutch baskets

Young also turned in a fine second half performance. The junior guard scored 12 of his 14 points in the second half. He got his outside shot working and made six of six shots in the second half.

If there was a Unsung Hero award it would have to go to point guard Sherman and forward McKeown. Although neither will appear as individual stat leaders, both came through with big plays.

McKeown hit five big points in the waning moments of the game, keeping the Cougars from making a big surge. He ended the game with 11 points and two steals.

Then there was Sherman, all 5-6 of him. The senior guard did a good job of working the ball inside to Mayfield and he also pestered Cooper ball handlers throughout the contest. He led all defenders with four steals.

The Steers had to offset good performances turned in by Cooper guard Terriance Bell and forward Jay Estes, whom kept Cooper in the game most of the way. Bell finished the contest with a game-high 25 points. Estes tallied 14 points. But the Steer defense did a banner job in the second half, limiting him to one basket.

The game was tight all they way as Big Spring took a 15-14 first quarter lead only to see Cooper take a 32-29 lead at the half. One of the main reasons Cooper had the lead was because the Cougars shot a hot 67 percent from the floor in the period.

Big Spring dominated the boards in the first half as Mayfield and Sidney Parker, who was hampered by a ankle injury, kept the Steers close. Big Spring ended the contest by outbounding their taller opponents 34-23.

The Steers took charge in the third quarter as Mayfield simply dominated things inside. Young hit a couple of long jumpers and Cedrick Banks added a three-point play enabling Big Spring to take a 45-40 lead into the final quarter.

JV'S FALL TO COOPER

In the junior varsity game Abilene Cooper got the best of the Steers by a 54-40 count.

Rudy Odom led Big Spring with 16 points. Dewayne Anderson added 9 points.

BC upsets Redmen; Notre Dame cruises

By DAVE O'HARA AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Boston College hardly is ready to crack the Top 10 or even the Top 20, but the Eagles are showing that they belong in the tough Big East Conference basketball race after just three games.

"I thought it was there for us tonight," Coach Gary Williams said Tuesday night after his Golden Eagles upset 10th-ranked Big East power St. John's 79-77 in overtime. "We knew we could play with a team like St. John's. We saw some real confidence in our players."

St. John's, now 14-2, flirted with danger for the third time within a week. The Redmen had escaped with overtime victories against Thursday against Providence and Saturday against Pittsburgh.

In the only other game involving a ranked team, No. 16 Notre Dame beat Providence 78-72.

Senior co-captain Roger McCready scored 29 points, including five early in overtime, and grabbed a team high nine rebounds in leading the BC upset. The game figured to come down to a duel between McCready and St. John's junior forward Walter Berry, who had a 25.2 average while leading the Big East in overall scoring and rebounding.

McCready came out ahead. Berry, plagued by four fouls with just under eight minutes left in regulation, had 18 points but pulled down 14 rebounds.

McCready got plenty of help as freshman point guard Dana Barros hit for 18 points, center Troy Bowers for 14 and co-captain Dominic Pressley 13.

Willie Glass also had 18 points, Mark Jackson 15 and Shelton Jones and Ron Rowan 10 each for St. John's, which had a 34-33 edge in field goals and a 36-31 advantage in rebounds.

The game was tied three times with six lead exchanges in the first half which ended with St. John's ahead 35-34. There were seven ties in the second half, including a 65-65 standoff on Barros' jumper from the corner with 2:55 left in regulation.

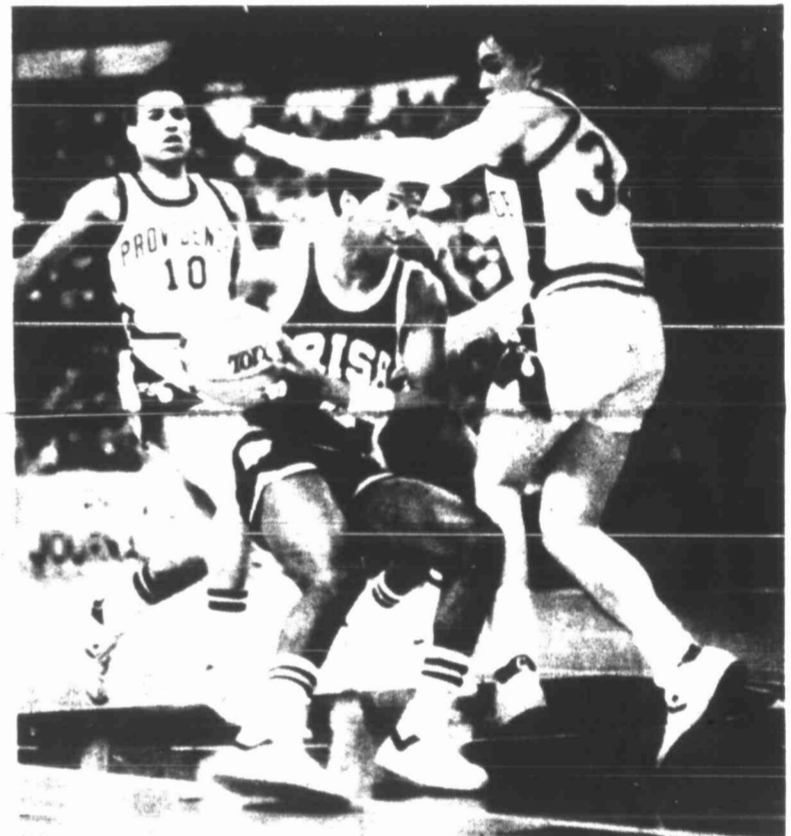

Neither team scored after that until Pressley stole the ball after the overtime tipoff and went in for an uncontested layup.

"If we had any doubts entering overtime, we proved right there that we could still score," Williams said.

The Eagles went on to build their biggest lead 75-71, but St. John's refused to concede. Finally, Barros cashed two free throws when fouled on an attempted pass with six seconds left, nailing down the victory.

"We got beat by a tough team, but we sure didn't help ourselves along the way," Jackson said.

"We were very generous on second shots," St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca said. "We gave up a lot of easy shots, especially underneath. We can't afford to be generous to a BC or any other team, not in the kind of league we're in."

The victory improved BC's record to 10-3. Like St. John's, the Eagles are 2-1 in the Big East.

Top Ten Sophomore guard David Rivers scored a game-high 22 points, including six free throws in the final 2:14 as visiting Notre Dame won for the eighth time in nine games. For the night, Rivers was 10 of 12 from the line.

Hot-shooting Harold Starks led Providence with 18 points, including eight of 10 from the floor. Dave Kipfer added 16 for the Friars.

McCovey leads HoF list

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie McCovey made a big splash on th first day of his major league baseball career, and he's in a position to do the same thing in his first year of eligibility for the Hall of Fame.

McCovey, on a sunny day in San Francisco in 1959, got four hits against Hall-of-Famer Robin Roberts of the Phillies.

The most prolific left-handed home run hitter in National League history with 521 — mostly with the San Francisco Giants — McCovey and Billy Williams, who hit most of his 426 homers for the Chicago Cubs, are the big names who are eligible for enshrinement in the Hall of Fame for the first time.

They, along with 38 others were on the ballots of baseball writers, whose votes will determine enshrinement. Results of voting conducted by writers will be announced tonight. To be elected, a player's name must appear on 75 percent of the ballots.

Excluding Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson — the players enshrined when the Hall of Fame was opened in 1936 — only 15 have made it in their first year of eligibility.

Pitchers Catfish Hunter and Jim Bunning, two of the 27 holdover candidates, came closest to election last year, when 297 votes were needed. Bunning received 214 and Hunter 212.

Hunter, Bunning and 1956 World Series hero Don Larsen, who also is on the ballot, share the distinction of having pitched perfect games.

Another former pitcher, J.R. Richard of the Houston Astros, is one of 14 players on the ballot for the first time. His career was cut short by a near-fatal stroke suffered during the 1960 season. He led the NL in strikeouts during 1978 and 1979. The 313 he racked up in 1979 set a league record for the most strikeouts by a right-hander.

Roger Maris, who died last month, has been on the ballot every year since 1974 and has never come close to election. In 1961, Maris hit a record 61 home runs.

Also appearing on the ballot are infielders Dick Allen, Ken Boyer, Dave Cash, Orlando Cepeda, Bud Harrelson, Bill Mazerokis, Ron Santo, George Scott and Maury Wills; outfielders Paul Blair, Jose Cardenal, Vic Davalillo, Curt Flood, Willie Horton, Harvey Kuenn, Minnie Minozo, Tony Oliva and Vada Pinson.

Also, pitchers Jack Billingham, Lew Burdette, Elroy Face, John Hiller, Ken Holtzman, Darold Knowles, Mickey Lolich, Jim Lonborg, Dave McNally, Andy Messersmith and Wilbur Wood; and catchers Elston Howard, Tim McCarver, Thurman Munson, Manny Sanguillen and Joe Torre.

ODESSA — John Wilkins, the highly successful football coach at Odessa Permian for the past 10 years, resigned his post Tuesday night. Wilkins will replace Jack Brewer as the athletic director for the Odessa Independent school district. Brewer is retiring at the end of the school year.

Wilkins' resignation leaves both coaching jobs in Odessa open. Odessa High coach Jerry Millsaps resigned after the ninth game of the season.

Rockets extend streak

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets had just extended their unbeaten home winning streak to 18 straight games with a 124-115 victory over Golden State, and Aksem Olajuwon had just scored a rare triple double.

Olajuwon scored 26 points, blocked a career high 11 shots and grabbed 12 rebounds, but it still took a 17-2 surge in the fourth quarter for the Rockets to pull away from the Warriors.

"It was just not a ball game that we can be real happy with," Fitch said. "You want to be proud of the way you played, but when you go out and have a chance to put them away and play the way we did, you don't feel good."

Olajuwon scored 26 points, blocked a career high 11 shots and grabbed 12 rebounds, but it still took a 17-2 surge in the fourth quarter for the Rockets to pull away from the Warriors.

"I don't think we realized that we had to play," Fitch said. "Maybe we were playing Mr. Blaze or Mr. Cool. But we didn't play with much intensity."

Ralph Sampson assisted Olajuwon with 22 points and 17 rebounds, and John Lucas added 18, including 16 in the second half.

Eric Floyd and Chris Mullin led the Warriors with 26 points each and kept charging the Rockets in the second half.

Trailing by 16 points at the half, the Warriors exploded behind Floyd, who hit 14 points in the quarter. Golden State outscored the Rockets 38-28 for the quarter and narrowed the gap to 91-85 going into the fourth period.

(Nuggets 132, Mavericks 110) Denver, which had lost five of its last six games after leading at halftime in all but one of them, had no second-half slump against Dallas.

Alex English, the NBA's leading scorer, scored 33 points and Calvin Natt added 26 points and 10 rebounds for the Nuggets, who expanded a 65-48 halftime lead to as much as 28 in the fourth quarter.

Mark Aguirre led Dallas with 22 points, and Sam Perkins added 20.

Knicks 83, Pacers 85
Rookie center Patrick Ewing scored 24 points, and New York outscored Indiana 15-4 in the final 3 1/2 minutes to snap a four-game losing streak.

Ewing got half of his points in the first quarter, six of them during a 17-0 run that gave the Knicks a 30-12 lead. But New York scored only 12 points in the second period as the Pacers got back into the game.

Oil firms affirm boycott support

Staff and wire reports
 U.S. oil companies said they'll sever business ties with Libya but declined to assess any financial impact of the sanctions President Reagan called for in response to the North African nation's support for terrorism.

But Harry Spannaus, president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, said sanctions won't have an effect on local oil business because "we already have had sanctions on Libyan crude oil."

He said some products have been coming into the country through "back door tactics" but President Reagan's sanctions should end the practice.

"We don't need them (Libya's oil products). We don't want them," he said.

He said he doubts the forced sanctions will have a big effect on Libya because "we don't have that many products coming here from Libya."

Big American oil companies no longer operate in Libya because they had been nationalized by the Libyan government, he said.

"Italy can buy Libyan crude oil, manufacture it into automobile gasoline and sell it to the U.S., so we in fact are using Libyan crude in our autos bought through another country, but we don't know it," he said. There is probably no way to stop that practice, he said.

An Israeli diplomat, meanwhile, said the sanctions are "the only hope against" international terrorism if adopted by other industrialized countries, while a leader of an Arab-American group said they would only increase Libyan leader Muammar Khadafi's popularity in the Moslem world.

Reagan said in a nationally televised news conference Tuesday night that he had invoked national emergency powers and signed an order saying that companies and individual Americans who remain in Libya or conduct business with the country will be subject to prosecution.

Reagan also said there was "irrefutable evidence" Khadafi was involved in the Dec. 27 airport attacks in Rome and Vienna.

Occidental Petroleum Corp., Marathon Oil Co. and Conoco Inc. said Tuesday night that they had no American employees in Libya.

"Occidental is an American company and, as always, will comply with all applicable U.S. laws regarding Libya," the Los Angeles-based company said.

Occidental's Libyan operations have fallen to about 1 percent of total assets of $12 billion, or about $120 million, it said in a statement. It has had no American employees in Libya since a presidential directive in 1981.

"We really don't know what is expected of us at this point," said Marathon spokesman Bill Ryder. "We have not yet seen a copy of the executive order. But we will comply. We always follow the law."

Ryder said it was unclear what financial effect the order would have on Marathon, which holds a 16.3 percent interest in The Oasis Oil Co. of Libya.

Conoco, which also owns 16.3 percent of Oasis, will "conform to the wishes of the United States government," said Clint Archer, a spokesman for Du Pont Co., Conoco's owner.

Ryder said Libya holds a 59 percent interest in Oasis, which extracts an average 70,000 barrels a day of crude oil in Libya, and that Amerada Hess Corp. of New York owns the rest of the company, about 8.3 percent. Archer said the Libyan national oil company "is responsible for all field operations."

"If you compare it to other Conoco operations, say in the North Sea, it's significant," he said, adding it's too early to tell exactly what the company's response will be because Reagan "was not specific."

Amerada Hess officials did not return a telephone call Tuesday night seeking comment.

Occidental's Libyan operations provided about half the company's net income in 1979 and 1980. But income from Libya slipped to less than 20 percent of the company's total in 1984. Figures for 1985 are not available.

Last June, Occidental agreed to sell 25 percent of its Libyan operations to the Austrian state oil company, OMV AG, for an undisclosed price.

The president of the American-Arab Relations Committee, Dr. M.T. Mehdi, predicted Reagan's move would backfire.

Jury splits damages in car wreck case

A six-man, six-woman jury ruled Monday that each party in a comparative negligence suit should pay half the damages resulting from a two-car accident in Big Spring in September 1982.

The 118th District Court jury deliberated for about three hours Monday night before deciding that both parties were to blame in the accident.

Plaintiff Lyndon Trent Fraley had asked the court to award him $7,967.59 in damages from Walton Ray Burchell Jr., according to a petition filed in the 118th district clerk's office in August 1984.

Burchell was the driver of a car involved in an accident with Fraley on night of Sept. 4, 1982.

According to a police accident report, Fraley was driving northbound on S. Gregg and was attempting to turn left when he was struck by Burchell, who was driving southbound on Gregg.

No citations were issued because of conflicting statements.

Police department honors go to three

Drew Bavin, a two-year veteran of the Big Spring Police Department has been named "Officer of the Year" by the Big Spring Police Association.

Also, David King, a 1985 graduate of Big Spring's police training academy, was selected as "Reserve Officer of the Year," and Doris Smith, Police Chief Rick Turner's secretary, was named "Civilian Employee of the Year."

Bavin "is a professional in the truest sense of the word," said police Sgt. Bobby Armstrong. "He is punctual and proficient in all aspects of his duties. He is a mature and responsible individual who can and does do an outstanding job for the department."

Armstrong also praised Bavin as a model citizen and family man. "He maintains a lifestyle that is consistent with and expected of a police officer," Armstrong said. "He is an officer of the city, this department, and all of its officers can be proud of and look to as an example of a professional."

King works in the department's identification and records department and is trained in crime scene photography and evidence gathering.

"Without a doubt, I believe Mr. King has been and is of great value to this department..." wrote Sgt. Juan Palacios in recommending King for the award.

Smith was selected because "she helps everyone in the department," said Sgt. Fred Pace. "She's kind of the office boss," he said.

Three men pleaded guilty in Howard County Court this week, two to driving while intoxicated and one to evading arrest.

Larry Billingsley, 53, of Gail Route Box 912 was given a two-year probated sentence and fined $400 for driving while intoxicated. County Judge Milton Kirby also ordered him to pay $131 court costs.

He was arrested Dec. 5 at FM 669 and Highway 350 by a Department of Public Safety trooper.

Herman Dale Austin, 25, of Gail Route Box 205 also pleaded guilty to DWI. He was stopped Dec. 15 1/2 mile north of Big Spring on Birdwell Lane by a DPS trooper.

He was fined $400, ordered to pay $131 in court costs and received a two-year probated sentence.

Sammy Gamboa Lara, 22, of 909 N. Gregg pleaded guilty to a second offense of DWI and violation of his

Probated sentence for DWI guilty plea probation received from his first DWI offense.

Kirby sentenced him to 30 days in jail and ordered him to pay $431 in fines.

Gary Peterson, 33, of 1002 N. Main pleaded guilty to evading arrest. A warrant was issued for him on the charge in May.

He was sentenced to 10 days in county jail and ordered to pay $92 in court costs.

Peterson earlier this week waived his right to a parole hearing and will return to the Texas Department of Corrections to resume serving a three-year sentence for a forgery conviction.

He was released on parole from the TDC in November 1983.
