New planet

Q. Is it true that scientists discovered another planet in our solar system farther from the sun than Pluto?

A. Scientists have evidence indicating there may be another planet beyond Pluto, but they are not sure. Pluto may be part of a two-planet system, where it and another planet revolve around each other, both revolving around the sun.

AT&T pushes for rate hike

AUSTIN (AP) — AT&T might have to "re-examine" its investment in Texas if it cannot win a major rate hike, company officials say.

It's not a threat, they say, just a practical business decision. "Unless we improve earnings in Texas, all the things we are anxious to do in Texas have to be reconsidered," Al Partoll, AT&T executive vice president, said

Wednesday. Partoll reeled off AT&T's Texas "commitment" during a Public Utility Commission meeting on the company's $114.5 million rate hike request. AT&T's $2.5 billion Texas investment now includes 15,000 employees and $100 million a year in taxes, he said.

"That kind of commitment needs to be re-examined and questioned" if a rate hike is not forthcoming,

Partoll told the commission, adding that AT&T shareholders would question further investment in a state where the company claims losses of more than $40 million a year.

But the commission was not moved to urgent action, voting 2-1 to delay a decision until next week and bar AT&T from filing additional information.

Commission Chairwoman Peggy

Rosson said AT&T shareholders should have "serious concerns over management which seems to threaten to abandon one of the most lucrative and fast-growing" states.

AT&T initially filed its rate case a year ago. On Wednesday, the company brought Partoll and John Zeglis, its general counsel, in from New Jersey to bolster its case. Both offered apologies for what Zeglis called the "most unfortunate posture" into which the case has evolved.

"We desperately need revenue relief in Texas to stem the losses of tens of millions of dollars we are losing each year," Zeglis told the commission.

The $114.5 million hike sought by AT&T would come mostly from business services such as WATS. It

Ex-prison guard gets 3-year term

LUBBOCK — Former Big Spring Federal Prison guard Eddie Roybal was sentenced to three years in federal prison Wednesday 2½ months after he was convicted of accepting an illegal bribe from convicted drug kingpin Rex Cauble.

U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward of Lubbock, who presided over Roybal's trial in October in an Abilene federal court, passed sentence.

It has not been decided which prison Roybal will go to, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger McRoberts of Lubbock. A hearing will be held Wednesday to decide if Roybal should remain out on bond pending his possible appeal.

"It is our position that he should not" remain out on bond until then, McRoberts said.

A spokesman for the U.S. District Clerk's office in Abilene said no notice of appeal has been filed for Roybal.

Roybal, 33, had been living in Weatherford after being fired from his prison job. He was convicted Oct. 23 by an Abilene federal court jury of accepting gratuities from Cauble and another inmate, Gary Marcus Gunter, and two counts of smuggling drugs into the camp for Gunter.

Witnesses at the trial said Cauble persuaded his sister, Thelma Cauble Harris of Denton, to lend Roybal $11,550 in May. Cauble told his sister Roybal was a "deserving young man" who needed the money while attending school to become a deputy U.S. marshal, she testified.

Roybal admitted accepting the loan but insisted it was a legitimate transaction unconnected with any favors to Cauble.

Roybal also admitted that he provided a controlled substance, two Darvocet capsules, to Gunter after the inmate repeatedly asked him for something to relieve back pain.

Witnesses said Roybal cashed

Industrial stocks continue plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to sell off in early trading today, a day after the Dow Jones industrial average had its biggest one-day point drop ever.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 6.31 to 1,520.29 in the first hour of trading. Declining issues outnumbered advancing ones by a heavy margin of about 8 to 1 in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Wall Street analysts predicted the market would continue to be volatile although many said they expect the bull market to reassert itself eventually.

Beatrice led the NYSE's early list of most active issues, down ¾ to 42½. American Telephone & Telegraph was down ¾ to 23½.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell 0.90 to 119.30. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 1.93 to 245.33.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrials plunged 39.10 to 1,526.61, exceeding the previous record decline of 38.33 on Oct. 28, 1929. However, in percentage terms the decline was much smaller, about 2.5 percent compared to the single-day loss in 1929 of nearly 13 percent.

The big drop on Wednesday was blamed largely on weakness in the bond market.

Declines Wednesday outnumbered advances by about 5 to 2 on the NYSE.

EPA admits sewage records probe

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

The Environmental Protection Agency acknowledged Wednesday that it has been investigating a possible falsification of city sewage discharge records since December of 1984.

EPA spokesman Roger Meacham of the agency's regional office in Dallas said the EPA has been working with the city for about a year in both investigating possible falsifications and correcting the city's sewage treatment problems.

Meanwhile, city officials began meeting today with engineers of GS&W of Dallas, the firm that designed the present sewage treatment system, to implement a strategy for repairing major components of the system and correcting problems at the plant.

Meacham said Wednesday the EPA is not "pointing any legal fingers" at anybody. At this point, the probe is focusing on information gathering before determining if any further legal action is needed, he said.

Meacham said the EPA has a policy of keeping its investigations quiet, explaining in part why the investigation in Big Spring has just now come to light. "We try to avoid trying matters in the press," he said.

Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner and City Manager Don Davis said at a press conference Wednesday that the city was instructed by the EPA not to reveal the investigation.

But the EPA, Meacham said, does not have the authority to tell municipalities what they can and cannot reveal to the public. He said city officials could have interpreted EPA requests to not go public with information as an instruction. "There might have been a misunderstanding, a misinterpretation," he said.

On Dec. 16, the EPA took legal

Water rate city pays to increase

The monthly rate the city of Big Spring pays for water will increase by more than $25,000 for 1986, said Joe Pickle of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

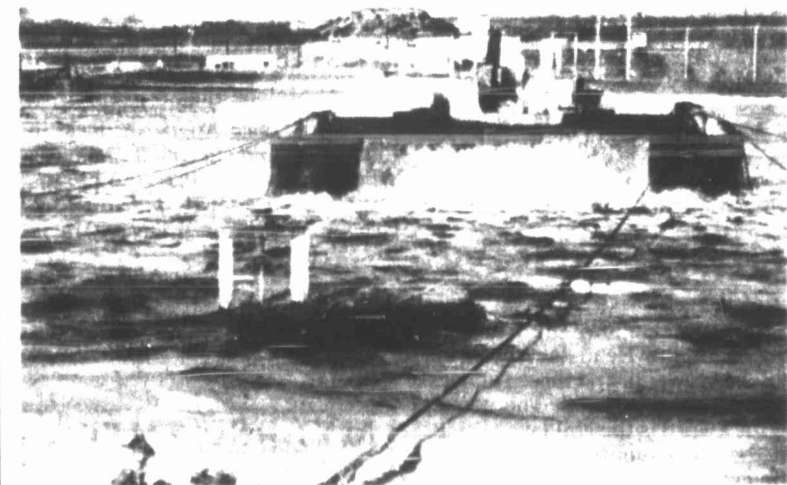

The district board met this morning to decide rates for this year for Big Spring, Odessa and Snyder.

Big Spring will pay $106,482 monthly, up from $79,451 in 1985, he said.

Although Big Spring will pay a higher monthly rate, the price per 1,000 gallons will not increase by as much as predicted, he said.

"Previously the board had indicated to them (city officials)

Raggedy Ann captivates Moscow

Ivy Austin, left, as Raggedy Ann performs with Scott Schafer as Raggedy Andy and Tricia Brooks as Marcella in "Rag Dolly," the first American stage production to be performed in Moscow since 1979. The players are members of the Empire State Institute for the Performing Arts of Albany N.Y.

MOSCOW (AP) — Muscovites are enchanted by the inaugural visitor in the new U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange program — a singing and dancing personification of Raggedy Ann, the rag doll beloved by generations of American children.

The first American theater troupe to visit the Soviet Union since 1979 is doing eight sold-out performances of a musical based on the Raggedy Ann tales.

The official premiere of "Rag Dolly" was Wednesday night at the Children's Musical Theater, a large modern complex in Moscow's Lenin Hills, but the second public performance was Tuesday afternoon.

About 1,000 Soviet adults and children packed the hall for the Broadway-style musical, a form of theater that is rare here.

The crowd gave a three-minute standing ovation to Ivy Austin, who plays the red-haired doll, after she sang the title song in Russian. She also received loud applause for translating occasional words into Russian with dramatic asides.

A narrator gave the audience an oral synopsis in Russian before each of the two acts.

"We just loved it, loved it!" said Tamara Derevyanshchikova. "I am only unhappy that I don't speak English. I've never seen a musical before, but I can say that I really like this kind of theater."

Her 12-year-old son, Alyosha, said he wanted to see "lots and lots more" American shows. A 9-year-old boy named Volodya stood in line for autographs. "I love this American theater," he said. "I especially liked the dolly."

Members of the 90-person troupe caused a sensation at intermission when they passed out letters from school children in the Albany, N.Y., area and were surrounded by Soviet youngsters eager for American pen pals.

"Rag Dolly" is a production of Albany's Empire State Institute for the Performing Arts. No other troupe has staged it.

William Gibson, author of "The Miracle Worker," wrote the musical and Joe Raposo of "Half a Brother" and "The Godfather Part II" is the composer.

Producing director Patricia Snyder said she began discussing a visit two years ago with Natalya Sats, director of the Moscow Children's Theater. The deal could not be concluded until the new cultural agreement was signed at the November summit in Geneva between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, replacing the one that expired in 1979.

Sats will take her company to the United States in June, Snyder said.

Traveling expenses and artists' fees were underwritten by the CBS Broadcast Group and the Soviet government is paying for the stay in Moscow. Snyder would not say how much the trip cost.

All the actors are Americans, but half the stage crew and 14 of the 20 musicians are Soviet citizens.

"We work through interpreters," Raposo said. "At one point, they have to sound like a mariachi band, and the Russian trumpet player didn't know what that was."

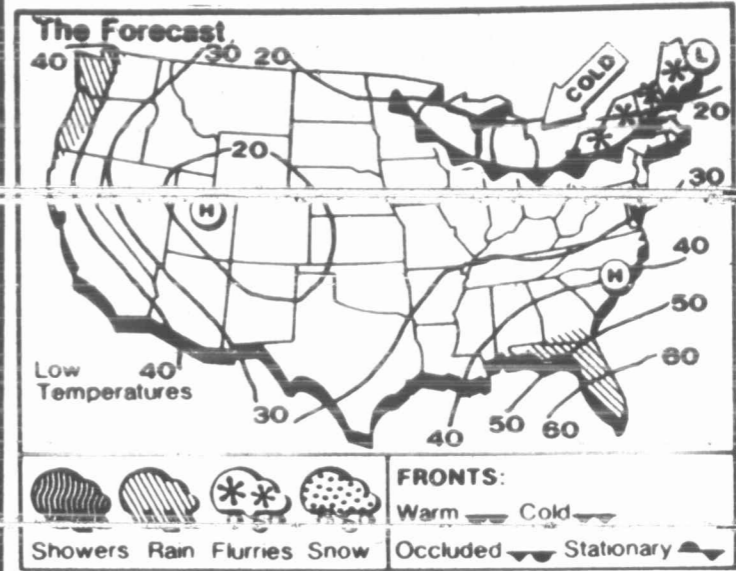

The Americans say they have had a warm reception. "I haven't been so well taken care of since I left my mother," Raposo said.

Some complained, however, of being unable to mix with Soviet colleagues.

"I get the feeling the Big Eye is on us all the time," said Sam Farkis, one of the American musicians.

Actor Gibby Brand said: "I came here to find out how Soviet actors work, how they live, but I haven't had a chance to do that. So far the only Soviet people I've really talked to are our interpreters."

Highs Friday mid 50s most sections, except low 40s mountains to mid 60s along the Rio Grande.

State

A mixture of rain, sleet and freezing rain fell over the southern and eastern sections of North Texas and the Hill Country this morning, while light snow dusted parts of the big country.

Around two inches of snow had accumulated over the San Angelo area overnight, and travel conditions across the region remained slick and hazardous in some spots, the National Weather Service said.

Elsewhere, patchy rain dampened sections of south Central Texas, the upper coast and the Gulf of Mexico. Drier air over West Texas and northern portions of North Texas brought mostly fair skies.

Temperatures before sunrise had dipped into the teens and 20s over West Texas and northern sections of North Texas. Otherwise, readings were in the 30s.

Temperature extremes at 4 a.m. ranged from a nippy 17 degrees at Midland to a cool 39 degrees at McAllen, the weather service said.

The forecast calls for a clearing trend across the state by tonight and mostly sunny skies by Friday. Highs should be in the 40s and 50s Friday, and lows tonight in the 20s and 30s.

Nation

It was warmer in the northern Plains than in southern Texas this morning, as a broad warming trend moved into the north and sleet and freezing rain glazed parts of Texas and Louisiana.

Temperatures in the 30s to 40s prevailed in the northern Plains, about 20 to 40 degrees higher than early Wednesday.

Grand Forks, N.D., was 41 degrees, compared with 39 degrees in Brownsville, Texas.

Rain spread along the Texas and Louisiana coasts and across Florida, and gale-force winds blew from the upper Texas coast to northwest Florida.

Dense fog, meanwhile, covered the central valleys of California and a storm spread rain from northwest California to western Washington and prompted gale warnings for the Washington coast.

New England's early-morning temperatures ranged from near zero to the teens, the teens to 20s prevailed across the mid-Atlantic Coast and the Ohio and Tennessee valleys, and the Deep South was in the 30s to 40s.

loan. Roybal was apprehended June 20, after Gunter, acting as an informant for the FBI, was wired with a cassette recorder for a later conversation with Roybal.

Gunter and Cauble were immediately transferred to higher security prisons after Roybal's arrest. Cauble was transferred to La Tuna. Gunter went to a federal prison in Fort Worth.

includes only tiny hikes in tolls for basic, intrastate long-distance calls.

In October, when the commission was down to two members, Commissioner Dennis Thomas voted for a $50 million rate hike, but Mrs. Rosson voted for no increase.

The tie produced a decision to send the case back for more information.

A PUC examiner said the additional information submitted so far added nothing to the case, and the commission Wednesday approved the examiner's recommendation that the case be decided on the same information that produced the October deadlock.

Mrs. Rosson remains unimpressed with AT&T's efforts.

"It has pleaded, cajoled, threatened, coerced. It has done everything, save and except for the one simple thing it needs to do — file a rate case and prove it," she said.

action against the city by issuing a 30-day compliance order for the city to meet the effluent standards of its discharge permit. This action was taken because of the city's ongoing pollution of Beal's Creek, he said.

If the city does not come into compliance with its permit or give satisfactory assurances that efforts are being made towards compliance, the EPA could issue a more stringent legal order, Meacham said. That legal order could involve fining the city up to $10,000 a day under terms of the Federal Clean Water Act.

The pollution of Beal's Creek does not now pose an imminent environmental threat or human health risk, Meacham said. However, if the situation continues unchecked, the problem could evolve into serious environmental damage and a potential threat to human health," he said.

they'd have a 5-cent increase," but the actual increase will be less than 1 cent per 1,000 gallons, he said.

"The bottom line is this: the actual charge Big Spring paid last year was 54.41 cents per 1,000 gallons," Pickle said. "If they use the amount they estimated this year, it will come out to 54.60 cents."

However, if the city uses less water than estimated, it will pay more per 1,000 gallons because they monthly rate is set regardless of the number of gallons used.

Last year the city overestimated "pretty sharply" the amount of water they thought they would require, Pickle said. This year the estimate was lowered by 230 million gallons to 2.9 billion gallons.

Pickle said rates will be held down in 1986 because the district will have $1.2 million in revenues generated in 1985 from non-municipal customers, such as industry.

Headstart group plans community talent show

The Headstart Parents Committee at Lakeview Elementary School will have a community talent show Feb. 14.

Participants must register by appearing at the first practice for the show Jan. 24 at the school, said committee president Frances Parras. Anyone from the community may participate, she said.

Also at the show, the King and Queen of the Headstart program will be crowned, and three runners-up will be announced. The winner of the award is the child who brings in the most money in pledges for the committee.

There is no fee to participate in the show, Parras said.

Tax appraisal district OKs financial report

Howard County's tax appraisal office spent $26,187.97 in December, according to a financial report approved Wednesday by members of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District.

The report was submitted to district members during their monthly meeting in the county courtroom.

Tax appraiser Gene Pereira said after the meeting that the office spent $357,636.73 for the 1985 calendar year, approximately $16,100 below the budgeted amount.

In other action, district members:

Nominated and elected current members of the district for 1986. Billy T. Smith will continue serving as chairman of the board, Rob Roberson will continue as vice chairman, and D.D. Johnston will continue as secretary-treasurer.

County Clerk Margaret Ray swore in the members for 1986.

Reappointed John Stanley and J.M. Sterling to two-year terms on the district's appraisal review board.

Members also agreed they to attend an annual conference of appraisal district operations in Austin Feb. 6-7.

Administrators quit

AUSTIN — The top mental health administrator for the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation and the superintendent of Austin State School are resigning this month, the Austin American-Statesman reported today.

Dr. Jimmie Clemons, a psychiatrist, will step down next week as deputy Texas commissioner for mental health to take a job with Republic Health Corp. of Dallas.

B.R. Walker, 54, will leave Austin State School for the mentally retarded at the end of January after 15 years as superintendent.

Burglar bars fatal

DALLAS — Flames sparked by an electric heater raced through a house early this morning, killing three children and four of their relatives after burglar-bars thwarted frantic attempts at an escape, authorities say.

Three people escaped through the home's only unbarred door, but one of them — a 7-month-old infant — was in critical condition at a local hospital.

ELK POINT, S.D. — A Farmers Home Administration supervisor who killed his family and himself was frustrated because his efforts to go by the book had failed to help farmers faced with foreclosure, friends and clients say.

Doubts cast on tests

WASHINGTON — Despite President Reagan's assurances, the order he signed secretly Nov. 1 could subject more than 100,000 people to random lie detector tests, a congressional leader says.

Other critics of the president's polygraph plan said Wednesday that the gadget can ensnare the innocent while allowing trained spies to slip through.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, said he "was stunned by the president's denial that his directive would implement a massive, random polygraph screening program."

Libyan assets frozen

President Reagan on Wednesday ordered all Libyan government assets in the United States frozen.

U.S. sources, asking not to be identified, predicted Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi would retaliate by seizing assets of U.S. oil companies, believed to be worth $400 million, in Libya. They said the Libyan government has limited holdings in U.S. banks and properties.

Cold facts

Generous recluse dies of hypothermia

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) —

to death in his unheated home within feet of more than $188,000 in cash willed more than a half-million dollars to a church he seldom attended, officials say.

"I can't understand why a person of his means would choose to live like that," Washington County Coroner Farrell Jackson said Wednesday.

Joseph Heer had been dead for "at least a couple of days" when his body was found Dec. 31 in the icy house, said police Lt. Ted Zets.

At Heer's request, gas service to the three-story brick house had been cut off two years ago. An electric space heater in the room where his body was found was unplugged.

"I can tell you it was so cold in that house I couldn't stand it," Jackson said. "I went in with just my suitcoat on and I had to come back out and get my topcoat."

Heer, who died of hypothermia, was found fully clothed in bed in the sitting room, Jackson said. Neighbors called police when they noticed the storm front door of his home was locked but the interior door was open, Zets said.

There was only one electric light bulb in the house and no television or radio, Jackson said.

Heer, who lived alone and whose only relatives are nieces and nephews, willed his estate to the Immaculate Conception Church of Washington, Jackson said.

Jackson and police found money stashed in an unlocked safe, a steel box under the bed and a steel box bolted to a table in the sitting room.

"It was in bags and envelopes. Some of the bills were very old and some were brand new. There was $1,000 in 50s in an envelope, $1,000 of 20s in another, other envelopes with $1,000 in each," the coroner said.

"Some were Social Security envelopes where he had just cashed the check, stuck the money in the envelope and put it away."

The money, which was taken to Jackson's office to be counted, totaled $188,545.99. Heer's estate also included a bank account with a balance of $400,000, Jackson said.

The unheated house in downtown Washington, Pa., in which Joseph Heer froze to death a few feet from $200,000 in cash a few days before the New Year stands just a block away from the Washington County Courthouse, in right background.

Heer and his brother, George, had owned and operated the Washington Plumbing and Heating Co. and had retired from the business decades ago, said Grace Skoog, Heer's niece and executrix of his estate.

The two brothers lived together until October, when George died of a cerebral hemorrhage at age 95. Jackson said Ms. Skoog told him she offered to help her uncle "because he couldn't do a lot for himself anymore, but he refused."

"Apparently he managed to keep his money a secret," Jackson said. "I think his relatives knew he had some money, but I don't think they had any idea of how much."

The Rev. Joseph Beck, associate pastor of the church, said Heer was a member but was not known to the clergy there.

"He did not attend church in recent years and most of us did not know him," he said. "He did not even request shut-in visits, as is common with elderly parishioners."

Reagan message handed

FEZ, Morocco — A senior U.S. diplomat gave a conference of Islamic foreign ministers a written message from President Reagan, explaining why he imposed economic sanctions against Libya and asking for their support, conference sources said.

Meanwhile, Libyan Foreign Minister Ali Abdussalam Treki held individual meetings Wednesday with fellow conference delegates in an effort to solidify the support they expressed in a unanimous resolution the previous day.

Cabinet official resigns

LONDON — Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine storming out of a meeting of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Cabinet resigned today, apparently in a dispute over the sale of an ailing helicopter manufacturing company to American and Italian buyers.

Press Association, the British national news agency, and the British Broadcasting Corp. said Heseltine stormed out of a Cabinet meeting saying he had resigned.

Ver vows neutrality

MANILA, Philippines — Armed forces chief Gen. Fabian C. Ver today pledged "absolute neutrality" by the armed forces in the Feb. 7 special presidential election.

Ver, who is known for his deep loyalty to President Ferdinand E. Marcos, did not respond directly when asked if the military would have difficulty accepting opposition candidate Corazon Aquino as its commander-in-chief if she defeats Marcos in the election.

Hanoi shows readiness

HANOI, Vietnam — Vietnam appears ready to resolve the issue of American servicemen still listed as missing in the war that ended in 1975, but Hanoi's hopes of diplomatic ties with its former enemy are getting little encouragement from Washington.

Both governments publicly insist the MIAs are a humanitarian issue which is not linked to normalizing relations or other bilateral problems.

Vietnamese officials say progress on the problem will lead to greater trust and better feelings that will develop into diplomatic relations.

Protest invites arrest

MOSCOW — Two members of Moscow's only known unofficial peace group said a teenage girl who took part in two unsanctioned demonstrations last month has been detained and sent to a mental hospital by Soviet authorities.

Nikolai Khramov and Alexander Ruchenko said in separate telephone calls to Western reporters on Wednesday that Irina Pankratova, 17, was arrested in central Moscow on Tuesday and taken to a mental hospital in the southern part of the capital.

Common cold cure is closer to reality

BOSTON (AP) — The next best thing to a cure for the common cold — a way to prevent this wintertime misery — has been successfully tested in two major studies, and a drug company promises the drug will be affordable.

Researchers said in a report published today that their work provides "convincing evidence" that a nose spray made from the hormone interferon can keep people from catching the common cold.

In the experiments, people used the sprays only when children and other relatives brought colds into their homes. The approach was not foolproof. But overall, they suffered 40 percent fewer colds than usual.

Nevertheless, the outcome was far better than any other medical approaches to cold control, which have been uniformly worthless.

"This is, to our knowledge, the first instance where it has been possible under natural field conditions to show prevention of transmission of colds in the household," said Dr. Frederick G. Hayden, chief author of one study.

The interferon spray is not available to the public and Schering Corp., which makes the spray, isn't sure when it will be. Schering has asked the Food and Drug Administration for permission to sell the spray as a prescription drug.

Hayden said more research will be necessary to learn whether interferon sprays are safe for people with breathing disorders, such as asthma.

Will religious division ever cease? Will the time ever come when all believers will unite under one Lord, in one faith, in one church, in one hope, in one spirit, and in adorning one God and Father of all? We can, by abandoning opinions, creeds, party spirits, by stop loving what religious traditions the Lord did not set up, and by basing all works upon the Bible facts, and churches with their members doing only, but all, of what the New Testament teaches, and when we find our fulfillment in applying ourselves to obedience of the Word of God. The questions are: Does the love of God and His truth incline your heart to seek only His glory, though it be at the expense of your own honor and glory in this world? Does the love of souls, to save them from sin and misery, to make them holy and happy in time and eternity, influence your heart to be zealous to teach, exhort and pray for them to be reconciled to God and not to some party or group other than the Lord, seeking no honor for your name? Does the love of truth influence your heart so completely that you will search for it and embrace it though it cost you everything?

No mistake, so no confession

At the end of each year a pundit must examine his work and confess to any mistakes he or she committed by accident or through malice. Having searched through my scrapbook for 1985 I was amazed to discover I had made none. Every prediction was right on the money and every story not only checked out for authenticity but read better than the original. It was indeed a banner year, not only for myself, but also the readers.

The first major prediction which got me off to a good start was that Reagan and Gorbachev would never attend a summit conference in Geneva because both men were afraid to fly.

This was followed by another scoop when I wrote last February, "Teddy Kennedy will throw his presidential hat into the ring before '86, causing all the other Democratic candidates to withdraw." I bet my life on this story because I got it while bowling with Tip O'Neill.

Not all the columns had to do with politics. Early in April I wrote an open letter to Coach Mike Ditka of the Chicago Bears, warning him that he would become the laughingstock of football if he ever sent in a lineman called "The Refrigerator."

Probably the one most people laughed at was my prediction that once the British royal yacht neared U.S. shores, Princess Diana would jump overboard and seek political asylum. Well, people aren't laughing anymore, particularly since U.S. Immigration turned her down.

You didn't have to be a genius to foresee what would happen in the Justice Department. I said as early as July that the first time Attorney General Ed Meese misinterpreted the intentions of the founding fathers when they wrote the Constitution, Reagan would force him to resign and become the U.S. Ambassador to Ireland.

I guess there are not many pundits who take as much interest in the economy as I do. Therefore I can point with pride to a tip I gave my readers in March. "Sell all your stocks because the Dow Jones will plunge below 500 points by the end of the year." I still get letters from grateful investors who got out of the market in time.

I don't take credit for everything written about Jerry Falwell in 1985. But I can't help reminding people that it was I who foretold that Rev. Falwell would go to South Africa and hug Bishop Tutu to dramatize Falwell's anti-apartheid stand. I also predicted that when Falwell returned to the states he would urge all his followers to dump their gold Krugerrands down the toilet, until Premier Botha came to his senses.

It wasn't a crystal ball, but just plain shoe leather that made me write in May that Defense Secretary Cap Weinberger would turn down any increase in the defense budget so domestic spending would not suffer.

People think I'm some sort of seer because a few months ago I predicted that National Security Adviser Bud McFarlane would be safe in the White House as long as Don Regan was Chief of Staff. An unnamed inside source in the Administration confirmed this and told me the President told him if he had to choose Regan would be the one to go.

How many of you were aware of this one before I wrote it? "The Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh will sell all his Rolls Royces so he can buy the CBS and fire Dan Rather."

I'm sorry to say many of my colleagues prefer to sit in their ivory towers rather than go out and scramble for the facts. Does being 100 percent right in 1985 make a person perfect? I don't believe it's my place to say. Let the record speak for itself.

Snooping is widespread

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON — Is Smokey the Bear hiding a transmitter in his hat and using that famous shovel for an antenna?

Could be. Incredible as it seems, hikers, campers, climbers, anglers, hunters and other Americans who like to get away from it all in government parks, forests and wilderness areas may not be getting away at all. No matter how remote the site, they may be well within range of federal employees using sophisticated surveillance systems.

In fact, according to a recent congressional study, some of the unlikeliest federal agencies are enthusiastic users of super-snooper devices. The National Park Service, National Forest Service, even the Fish and Wildlife Service, all make extensive use of electronic-surveillance technologies.

The solitude you seek could be shared by rangers many miles away without your knowledge.

The congressional Office of Technology Assessment did a study of federal agencies that have electronic-surveillance systems and found that their use has begun to encroach on citizens' privacy. Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., wants to bring legal protections into the high-tech age. Some of what the congressional investigators told him was puzzling. For example:

• The National Park Service — those benign folks who run the guided tours, answer your kids' questions and keep the traffic moving — use nine different electronic-surveillance technologies to keep track of who does what on the 79 million acres under its control, according to the OTA report. The devices included: radio scanners, miniature transmitters, night-vision systems, vehicle trackers, satellites, and hidden sensors.

An official of the Rangers Activities Branch told our associate Donald Goldberg that many of the gizmos were used for building security and law enforcement functions. But he added candidly: "I can't imagine an application for some of these."

• The Fish and Wildlife Service, with more than 90 million acres to oversee, including wildlife refuges, fish hatcheries and research areas, uses or plans to use nine surveillance systems, and will probably add more to its observation arsenal. The ones already in use include satellites, telephone taps, miniature transmitters and vehicle-tracking devices. Officials also want to use "pen-registers," which monitor numbers called from targeted telephones, and voice-recognition apparatus. ("Hello, that you, Bambi?")

• The Forest Service favors eight snooping systems for its 229 million acres, including mail interception, telephone taps and closed-circuit television. Most are used for law enforcement, the service told congressional investigators. In addition, sensors are used to monitor forest land where "costs of physical protection are excessive."

• The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration uses six different electronic surveillance technologies, including the dial-reading pen registers, body wires and telephone taps.

• The Agriculture Department has other sub-agencies besides the Forest Service that use electronic surveillance systems. Its inspector general uses nine technologies, including satellite interception, mail monitoring and the ever-popular telephone taps. The Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, "in support of ongoing criminal investigations," uses nine techniques, including satellite interception, electronic mail monitors, pen registers and closed-circuit TV.

SIGN OF THE TIMES: The Coast Guard has borrowed a wartime morale-boosting technique from the fly-boys, who used to paint little skull-and-crossbones flags on their planes for each enemy aircraft shot down. To keep score of their war on drug smugglers, Coast Guard cutter crews paint a marijuana leaf on the bridge for every dope bust made on the high seas. The antique cutter Ingham, which saw duty in World War II and operates out of Portsmouth, N.H., had nine pot leaves with red slashes on its bridge at last count.

CHRISTIAN CANDIDATE: The prospect of evangelist Pat Robertson as a presidential candidate is giving political pros the skitters. He has a larger field organization and more contributors than any other presidential prospect. He speaks daily to millions of Americans through his variety television show, "The 700 Club." He has an amiable, middle-American appeal that could rally America's 22 million christian fundamentalists behind his candidacy.

MINI-EDITORIAL: The new balanced-budget law has already spawned its own special jargon. "Sequestration" is the term being used to describe the mandatory budget cuts that will be made if Congress and the president fail to balance income and spending. One definition of this $2 word is the legal writ that lets a sheriff seize property of a defendant who is in contempt. In this case, though, it's Congress and the White House that will be in contempt of the law when the budget is breached, and the taxpayers "property" — defense items and domestic programs — that will be confiscated as punishment.

Illiteracy rate affects us all

By SPENCER SANDOW A near deadly incident in 1983 serves to point out the cost of a widespread lack in American society, illiteracy.

"Without warning, on May 5, 1983, an Eastern Airlines jumbo jet enroute to Nassau from Miami, crowded with passengers, dropped three miles in the sky," wrote Jonathan Kozol in his book Illiterate America.

"Three engines had gone dead. By luck, one engine came to life just as the pilot had prepared the passengers to ditch. The cause of the engine failure was at length discovered. Nothing was wrong with the mechanical equipment.

"Two members of the ground crew had neglected to insert three tiny oil seals described as 'O' rings into the fuel line during the routine check that took place prior to departure. The lives of several hundred people came within three minutes of extinction.

"The maintenance men, it was reported, 'hadn't read' the manual of instructions that the airman had prepared. Eastern Airlines never reported, and perhaps has never learned, whether the maintenance men had failed to look at the instructions or whether they were unable to decipher them."

Illiteracy, a growing problem in the U.S., is usually described in terms of its detriment to individuals. However, society as a whole can also be greatly affected by a large illiterate populace, in ways most people never imagine, such as that incident indicates.

The incident raises some important questions.

How easily could it happen again? Could a similar incident occur among those who make our nuclear missiles? What about manufacturing plants? An accident in a plant in Bhopal, India, caused some 2,000 deaths December of 1984. How easily could such a thing happen here?

Also, amid the often incoherent mass of statistics, a new number stands out. Eighty-five percent of the juveniles convicted of crimes are functionally illiterate, and 60 percent of prison inmates cannot read above the grade school level, according to Kozol's research.

The number is highly disproportionate to the percentage of illiterates estimated in our society. That could mean a link between crime and illiteracy.

Evidence like that serves to point out that illiteracy affects not only those who cannot read, but all of us. Next time, the several hundred plane passengers might not be so lucky.

Lee Iacocca for president

To the editor:

There is an article in Newsweek, Dec. 23, 1985, that I feel I should bring to the attention of all your Big Spring Herald readers and anyone interested in the political state of America.

The article is entitled, "The Fine

Art of Compromise," by Lee Iacocca. It is a splendid article and in my opinion, should have a lasting impact on all voters regardless of political party.

In the event the Republicans don't try to utilize this man's ability, I think we Democrats should do everything in our power to get Lee Iacocca to be our next candidate for President of our United States of America.

Today

By The Associated Press Today is Thursday, Jan. 9, the ninth day of 1986. There are 356 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 9, 1793, what's generally regarded as the first successful balloon flight in the United States took place as Frenchman Jean Pierre Blanchard traveled between Philadelphia and Woodbury, N.J.

On this date: In 1788, Connecticut became the fifth state to ratify the U.S. Constitution. In 1861, Mississippi seceded from the Union. In 1942, the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff was created. In 1945, American soldiers led by General Douglas MacArthur invaded Luzon in the Philippines during World War II. In 1964, anti-U.S. rioting broke out in the Panama Canal Zone. In 1968, Surveyor VII made a soft landing on the moon, ending the American series of unmanned explorations of the lunar surface. In 1972, reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes, speaking by telephone from the Bahamas to reporters in Hollywood, said a purported biography of him by Clifford Irving was a fake.

Ten years ago: More than 300 people were hurt when a Chicago rapid-transit train struck the rear of another train at the Addison Street Station.

Five years ago: Alexander M. Haig, Ronald Reagan's nominee for secretary of state, testified for six hours at his Senate confirmation hearing.

One year ago: President Reagan told a news conference that 1985 should be "a year of dialogue and negotiations" with the Soviet Union. But he said he intended to press ahead with research for his space-based Strategic Defense Initiative.

Today's birthdays: Author Simone de Beauvoir is 78. Former President Richard M. Nixon is 73. Football Hall-of-Famer Bart Starr is 52. Actor Bob Denver is 51. Folk singer Joan Baez is 45. Actress Susannah York is 45. Singer Crystal Gayle is 35.

Thought for today: "Reason has never failed men. Only force and oppression have made the wrecks of the world." — William Allen White, American writer (1868-1944).

Embarking on embargo may be symbolic

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's "total ban" on doing business with Libya is likely to have little economic impact on the regime he denounced for supporting terrorism. But the president faced the frustrating choice of taking largely symbolic action or doing nothing at all.

In fact, the economic impact of the sanctions Reagan announced on Tuesday may strike far harder at the American oil companies operating in Libya than at the regime of Col. Moammar Khadafy.

Over several years, dating back to when Jimmy Carter was president, United States' anger against Khadafy led to an end to all official contact and most business between the two nations.

Carter closed the U.S. embassy in Tripoli in 1979 after a mob sacked and burned the facility. Reagan broke diplomatic relations two years later.

After the United States halted oil purchases from Libya in 1982, imports from the north African country dropped from $5.3 billion to $9 million in 1984.

But U.S. oil companies — Occidental Petroleum and Marathon Oil, among them — continued to have government permission to operate in Libya. Reagan ended that with his executive order.

There was little likelihood, though, that European nations would heed Reagan's call to deny Libya "the normal economic and diplomatic privileges of the civilized world."

Italy, West Germany, France and Great Britain continue to do business with Libya and made it clear they saw no reason to stop. When the United States tried to punish Libya economically three years ago, the Europeans rebuffed the move.

Did the president think it might be different this time in the wake of the terrorist incidents two weeks ago at airports in Rome and Vienna?

"I don't know," said Reagan. "We're going to consult with them."

But from his tone, it was clear the president was not optimistic.

"Doesn't it frustrate you?" a reporter asked.

"It may be frustrating, but we're going to go on with what we think has to be done," replied Reagan.

Given the limited impact sanctions have had in the past, not only against Libya, but also when directed at the Soviet Union and Cuba, among others, what could be done in this case?

"To sit by and do nothing would be sending the wrong signal," said Henry M. Schuler, of the Georgetown Center for Strategic and International Studies, an expert on Libya and the oil business. At the same time, Schuler said past sanctions "have had no impact because terrorism clearly hasn't diminished."

David Newsom, a former U.S. ambassador to Libya who later served as undersecretary of state for political affairs, the number three slot in the department, said, "I don't think there is very much we can do to accomplish anything with sanctions other than to show our disapproval of what Khadafy's doing."

But Newsom also pointed out that "it is generally very, very difficult for a political figure to avoid reacting to a situation like this, particularly one in which Americans are killed."

As a ranking official in the Carter administration State Department, Newsom recalled the grain embargo imposed against the Soviet Union after its move into Afghanistan.

"The grain embargo is the perfect example of the kind of problem you face (with sanctions)," he said. "You impose a grain embargo, nothing happens. Without any change in the situation you're forced to cancel the embargo because the objective was an unrealizable one."

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Complete unfinished work and then plan a better way of operating in the future. A newcomer could be of great help.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study what is best to do about some very important matter even if you have to make a dramatic change to get the best results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Put new life into your alliance and concentrate on the more practical ones for good results.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) While you are completing one job, look around for something more important to take its place.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be on the alert for some new form of recreation now that you have put aside another kind of pleasure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more concerned with various things that have to be done around the house and don't concentrate on one duty alone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get at those unfinished letters and then take care of new ones. Later make the visits to helpful individuals you want to see.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle pressing responsibilities and pay bills on time, and later accept an opportunity to make big money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't harp on the past so much, and you have an opportunity to get ahead fast now, so seize it quickly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan a new course of activity that will be lucrative so forget something you cannot do anything about.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get prepared for extending your position in life and show that you are an A-1 citizen.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will want to hold onto the past too much, but teach to go along with the times and become as up-to-date as the next fellow and keep up with the advancing age, at least. Your progeny will have a fine ability at organizing things and will also be able to keep secrets well.

Dear Abby

Refusing to tip is matter of money, not principle

DEAR ABBY: I never leave a tip at a restaurant. Not a dime! It's not the money, it's the principle of the thing.

Everyone else who is in business has to pay his help a living wage, but restaurant owners pay ~~because they know their customers will make up the difference in tips.~~

And when you take a look at the prices they charge, you know darned well they can afford it.

Print this. Maybe it will wake up the eating public.

AGAINST TIPPING

DEAR AGAINST: Whenever someone says, "It's not the money; it's the principle of the thing," it's usually the money. Let me explain something to you. (Watch my lips.)

The government, also known as Uncle Sam and the IRS, assumes that every person who eats in a restaurant will leave a tip totaling at least 8 percent of the bill, so the waitress must pay the government that amount whether she gets it from the customer or not.

So, in the future if you do not tip at least 8 percent of your check, you are cheating the waitress out of that amount. (P.S. The usual tip for good service is 15 percent; for exceptional service a little more. For poor service, no tip — and tell 'em why.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a charming person who does not usually complain about things like this because my motto is "Live and let live."

However, I have been annoyed by people in church who decide to unwrap a peppermint wrapped in noisy cellophane. If it were a cough drop needed in a hurry, fine. But just a peppermint?

Last Sunday, this lady began to unwrap her peppermint just as the silent prayer began. She continued unwrapping these candies through-out the preacher's entire sermon, and you know how long that can be!

I would like to offer a positive suggestion: Please do this while the choir is singing, or while the collection is being taken up, or while the organist is playing a loud solo — or unwrap it fast!

I've talked to several friends who are as irritated as I over this.

I hope you will use this in your column as a much needed relief from letters about adultery, teen-age pregnancy, child abuse and rape. Thank you.

IRRITATED IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

DEAR IRRITATED: I'm glad you wrote. See? I do listen to my readers.

DEAR ABBY: Jill Turner's statement, "Just because you are against something doesn't give you the right to decide for everybody else," has been blown up and displayed in two places in our office: (1) Behind my desk and (2) next to the anti-smoking cartoons in another cubicle.

No doubt you will say that this statement doesn't apply to smoking. I think it does.

MOLLIE B.

DEAR MOLLIE: Just because you are against smoking doesn't give you the right to decide that everybody else should not smoke — but you have the right to insist that smokers may not smoke around you.

DEAR ABBY: To "Her Loving Daughter," whose mother is an "incurable" backseat driver, my advice is to give up.

I tried for 30 years to get my wife to stop telling me how to drive, but one day while passing a military air base where the largest planes in the world routinely take off and land, I surrendered to the inevitable.

One of those monsters was coming in for a landing as we drove down the interstate near Charleston, S.C., and I heard my wife say, "You'd better get your wheels down; you'd better get your wheels down."

Now that's backseat driving!

Dr. Donohue

Gout medicine depends on cause of attacks

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had my first gout attack years ago and took Colchicine, which relieved it. I have since been on Zylorim, and for the last two years, Colbenamid as well. Can you explain these drugs, and will I be able to get off Colbenamid? — N.R.S.

Generally, gout drugs are keved to the cause of the high blood uric acid. It is this acid that gets into joints, where it crystallizes and causes the pain.

A high blood level means either the kidneys aren't getting rid of enough acid or the body is overproducing it to begin with. Urine testing tells which it is.

If urine levels are low the problem lies in the kidneys; if high, the body is overproducing. Now to your medicines.

Benemid (probenecid) helps kidneys filter acid better. (Your Colbenamid is really a combination of that medicine and the Colchicine you started off taking years ago.) The Zylorim (allopurinol) acts to cut the body's acid production.

Why are you getting both? It's because sometimes the doctor wants to cut production no matter what the chief cause of the high blood level. So he prescribes both drugs.

As to the Colchicine, it doesn't alter blood uric acid levels, but it does relieve attacks by reducing inflammation. It also helps thwart recurrent attacks.

I believe what you're asking me is will you eventually be able to stay on the Zylorim alone. Perhaps. If the doctor sees the blood uric acid staying low and that you haven't had an attack in three to six months, he may take another look and modify your program.

Future blood tests would then keep track of the blood uric acid situation. Maybe the booklet "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It" will help you. Other readers may obtain a copy by writing me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 61 and seemingly healthy. I will wake up in the middle of the night feeling paralyzed. I cannot move. This lasts seconds, up to a minute. I am always able to go back to sleep. These episodes occur several times a night. I really do need advice. I have no doctor. — L.M.

You describe sleep paralysis, a sudden awakening with the inability to move or speak. Sometimes, sleep paralysis is part of narcolepsy. That's excessive daytime drowsiness to the point where the person falls asleep in mid-sentence. That isn't happening to you, is it? You need an explanation in any event. In your area there is an excellent sleep disorders clinic.

What are ulcers? How can you help yourself get rid of ulcers and stay rid of them? Read the booklet, "Peptic Ulcers: The modern view and treatment." For a copy write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Luncheon, rice bag party honors Moffitt

Tracey Dawn Moffitt, the former Tracey Dawn Estes, was honored with a bridesmaids luncheon recently at the Big Spring Country Club.

Hostesses included: Mrs. Auriel LaFond, Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith, Mrs. Jim Cowan, Mrs. Dee Thomas, Mrs. Paul Allen, Mrs. John Richard Coffee, Mrs. J.W.

Tipton, and Mrs. Wesley Deats.

Guests were seated at tables arranged in a "U" shape with arrangements of terra cotta lilies and jade green spider mums and freesia tied with colored ribbons and streamers.

Corsages of the jade freesia tied with terra cotta ribbons were given to the bridegroom's mother, Barbara Robertson, of Salida, Colo., to the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Bill Estes, and to the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. E.W. Winters.

The couple married Jan. 4 at the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Moffitt was the honoree at a rice bag party on Jan. 3 in the home of Clovie Shirey, 612 Highland. Co-hostess was Mrs. Roger Coates.

Road Riders review holiday activities

Big Spring Road Riders threw more than 9,000 pieces of candy during the Christmas parade, members were told during a recent meeting.

The candy was donated by club members. Participating in the parade were 20 motorcycles, two other vehicles and about 40 members.

Road Riders also entered a Christmas tree in the first annual Heritage Museum Christmas Tree festival. A Christmas party was held Dec. 19 at a local restaurant.

The group went Christmas caroling at the Mountain View Nursing Home, the Big Spring Mall and Herman's Restaurant during the holidays.

The group also donated money to the Dora Roberts Rehab Center, the Association of Retarded Citizens, the Rainbow Project, and Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

The next meeting is Feb. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce.

Elbow Homemakers install 1986 officers

The Elbow Extension Homemakers Club met in the home of Ethel McKinnon recently. Addie Hill installed officers.

New officers include: Wanda Lee, president; Ruth Morton, vice president; Zula Rhodes, secretary; Sybil Duffer, treasurer; and Myrl Soles, council delegate.

Hill used the apron as her theme for the installation. She said, "A is for action, P is for purpose, R is for reason, O is for opportunity, and N is for necessity."

Miniature aprons were presented to the officers and members. A large apron was presented to the president to "cover up the mistakes of the group," according to Soles, club reporter.

Hill was the first member of the Elbow club and has been active in it since it was organized in 1929.

The next meeting is Jan. 16 in the home of Dorothy Fowler.

The Texas Celebrity Recipe file is a continuing series during the 1986 Sesquicentennial.

Roger Staubach provided this week's recipe. He said, "Our family has lived in Texas since 1969 and now consider Dallas our home. We have appreciated the warmth of the people, like the school systems for our kids, enjoyed the recreational programs available and the business opportunities are unending. We all speak "Texasese" fluently and are proud to be a part of the Texas Sesquicentennial celebration."

His recipe is for Spinach Salad.

Notes

By Charlie Alcorn

We start this week's Notes off with an incredible fishing report from Lake E.V. Spence. It has been reported that over 1,900 crappie have been caught in the lake over the past fortnight, most in the 1 to 1/2 pound range. There were also numerous striped bass, the biggest weighing 16 pounds and 18 1/2 pounds, and black bass weighing up to 6 pounds 6 ounces. There was also one big blue catfish caught weighing 35 pounds.

Sounds like its high time to break out the rod and reel over yonder E.V. Spence way.

Here are the winners from the 14th annual Elks Lodge Hoop Shoot, the national free throw shooting contest for youngsters age 8 through 13. Twenty-one contestants participated this year at Steer Gym.

- Girls 8-9 — Kari Blausler, 1st; Laurie Light, 2nd.
- Boys 8-9 — Christopher Lewis, 1st; Richard Thompson, 2nd; Jim Lewis, 3rd.
- Girls 10-11 — Meagan Honea, 1st; Sarah Cranford, 2nd; Jennifer Dugger, 3rd.
- Boys 10-11 — David Park, 1st; Andy Carmichael, 2nd; Jackie Lynn, 3rd.
- Girls 12-13 — Kelley Burdette, 1st; Kara Evans, 2nd; Pamela Gill, 3rd.
- Boys 12-13 — Cort Peterson, 1st; Gerald Cobos, 2nd; Shayne Sayles, 3rd.

First place winners will now advance to district competition.

Big Spring Steer sophomore center Brian Mayfield is currently the third leading scorer in District 4-5A with an impressive 27 point average per game. He trails San Angelo Central's Chris Lowry at 32.5 and Elvin Mackey of Midland High at 30 points a game. Senior forward Billy Cole is 18th on the scoring list at 11.5 points per game.

The Big Spring Civic Council recently donated $250 to the Big Spring High School Athletic Department earmarked for the girls volleyball program with proceeds gathered from the club's "Fill the Stadium Night" during the Steers home opening football game against the Snyder Tigers.

McCovey Hall of Famer

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie McCovey's first major league assignment, in 1959 at age 21, was Hall of Fame pitcher Robin Roberts. He went 4-for-4 with two triples and two singles against the Philadelphia pitcher, and now McCovey joins Roberts in baseball's most prestigious circle.

McCovey, the National League's top left-handed home run hitter with 521 in his career, on Wednesday became the 16th player elected to the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility.

The former San Francisco Giants first baseman was named on 346 of 425 ballots returned to the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He needed to be named on only 319, or 75 percent, of the ballots. The 47-year-old McCovey spent 19 seasons with the Giants, 2 1/2 with the San Diego Padres and a half year with the Oakland A's.

"It's great to be thought of as an all-time great," McCovey said. "It's not only an honor for me, it's an honor for all of San Francisco. I'm sure there are people there who are happier than I am."

Jerry Coleman, who managed the Padres in 1980, the year McCovey retired, called him "the most remarkable athlete in the history of baseball. I can't believe a man at 42 can be as productive as he is."

McCovey, a native of Mobile, Ala., who lives in the San Francisco area, ended his career with 2,211 hits, 1,155 RBI and a National League record 18 grand slam homers.

Billy Williams, who spent the first 16 seasons of his 18-year career with the Chicago Cubs, missed being elected by four votes. He was named on 315 ballots for a percentage of 74.1. This was his fifth year on the ballot, and he has 10 years of eligibility remaining.

Williams, who hit 426 career homers, also narrowly missed election last year, falling 45 votes shy of 75 percent with 252.

Pitchers Jim "Catfish" Hunter and Jim Bunning were third and fourth, respectively — Hunter with 289 votes, Bunning with 279. Roger Maris, a sentimental outsider to make the Hall after his death last month, was fifth with 177 votes.

"I certainly thought that with the competition I had this year, I really had a chance," Williams told ABC Radio. "I knew the big competition was Willie McCovey. I knew he was going to get some votes, but I saw no other player that I should have competed with. And after I started getting calls from the writers all over the country, I certainly thought that this was the year."

Said McCovey about Williams: "Actually, I'm disappointed he didn't make it."

Lou Brock and Hoyt Wilhelm were inducted last year. Balloting is done by writers with at least 10 years in the BBWAA.

McCovey will be officially inducted into the Cooperstown, N.Y., shrine in August. He was one of 14 players on the ballot for the first time. A total of 41 players were listed on the ballot.

The other players elected in their first year of eligibility were Ted Williams, Sandy Koufax, Mickey Mantle, Bob Feller, Jackie Robinson, Ernie Banks, Willie Mays, Warren Spahn, Al Kaline, Bob Gibson, Hank Aaron, Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson, Stan Musial and Brock.

McCovey, whose 521 homers places him ninth on the all-time list, drove in 100 or more runs four times, in 1963, '68, '69 and '70. In his most productive season, McCovey hit 320 with a career-best 45 homers and 126 RBI to win the NL's 1969 Most Valuable Player award. He also hit two home runs in the All-Star Game that year.

He broke into the majors in 1959, batting .354 in 52 games, including his debut against Roberts, who was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1976. McCovey was traded along with Bernie Williams to the San Diego Padres for pitcher Mike Caldwell on Oct. 25, 1973. In August of '76, the Padres sold his contract to Oakland, and he rejoined the Giants the following season as a free-agent.

Former San Francisco Giant, Willie McCovey, watches the flight of the ball after he made a pinch hit that gave him his final major league RBI against the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1980.

The year he rejoined the Giants, McCovey hit two home runs in the same inning of a 14-9 victory over Cincinnati, becoming the only player to do so twice in his career. He hit .280 with 28 homers and 86 RBI that year, at age 39. Williams played the last two of his 18 major league seasons with the Oakland A's in 1975 and '76. He had a career average of .290 and 2,711 lifetime hits.

Queens start new season in Odessa College Classic

By CHARLIE ALCORN Sports Writer

Howard College Hawk-Queen head coach Don Stevens welcomed his squad back from the Christmas break Sunday hoping to reverse their fortunes after struggling to a 5-10 season mark and 0-3 start in Western Junior College Athletic Conference play.

The Queens are scheduled to get back on the hardwood this afternoon in the opening round of the Odessa Women's Chamber of Commerce Tournament in the Odessa College gymnasium. The Queens will play Temple Junior College at 2 p.m.

The Queens will be trying to avenge an early season loss to Temple, who are led by the nation's fourth leading scorer, former Howard standout Joyce Boudreaux, with a 22 point average. Boudreaux was the Queen's leading scorer in the first half of the 1984 season before being placed on academic probation and transferring to Temple.

Stevens will try to counter the powerful Boudreaux's inside game with freshman Sophia Ish, a 6'0" post from Fort Worth, who Stevens says is developing into first-rate player.

"Sophia improved a great deal during the first half of the season. I took my time with her early in the season, letting her learn the system and she seems very comfortable with it now," Stevens said. "I'm expecting a lot of minutes from her the rest of the season. She has always had fine defensive instincts and her offensive game is

SOPHIA ISH improved post player coming around too.

The Queens need help inside on offense. Through the first half of the season most of their scoring punch came from guards Lorri French and Terri Powell, who possess fine perimeter games but lack the height to score consistently in the paint.

The Odessa tournament promises to be a tough one for the Queens. The hosting Lady Wranglers are ranked number one in the nation and are heavily favored to win the three day event.

Other high powered teams in the bracket include sixth-ranked Central Arizona JC, Cochise College (Arizona) and Hobbs, N.M. JC.

"There isn't a paty in the group," commented Stevens. "We really just want to play some good basketball, win or lose. The girls have had great enthusiasm since coming back from the break and I think our intensity level will be much better than the last couple of weeks in December. I think the girls are ready to turn this season around."

Tennessee quarterback busted

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The arrest of Tennessee quarterback Tony Robinson on cocaine charges has shocked this campus community and brought Volunteer fans back to earth following a championship season.

Robinson, 21, and his roommate, former Vol fullback Kenneth "B.B." Cooper, 22, were arrested Wednesday and charged with the sale and delivery of an ounce of cocaine to undercover narcotics officers.

Police said the pair had been under investigation for two months, but that no other members of the Tennessee football team had been implicated as suppliers or purchasers of the cocaine.

Neither Robinson nor Cooper could be reached for comment. The phone at their Knoxville apartment went unanswered Wednesday.

Robinson, a senior who had completed his college eligibility, and Cooper were arrested at their off-campus apartment at 8:45 a.m. EST and then questioned by narcotics officers. Bullen said the two were "nice and courteous."

The men then were moved to the Knoxville City Jail, where each posted $1,000 bond and was released shortly after noon. A preliminary hearing was set Feb. 5 in Knoxville City Court.

The charges are felony counts which could bring sentences of 4 to 10 years upon conviction, said Bullen, who estimated the cocaine's value at $1,500 to $2,400.

Robinson was regarded as a fallen hero at Tennessee after a knee injury suffered Oct. 19 against Alabama ended his season and cast doubt on what seemed a promising pro career.

Majors had often praised him as the best passer he'd ever seen or coached, and Robinson was paraded in front of the fans on a golf cart before Tennessee's regular season finale against rival Vanderbilt.

A 6-foot-3, 187-pound senior from Tallahassee, Fla., Robinson rewrote several Tennessee passing records during a year and a half as a starter and was featured on the cover of Sports Illustrated after the Vois upset then top-ranked Auburn on Sept. 28.

He set Tennessee's single-game records for total offense and passing yardage against UCLA in 1985 and for most completions in a 43-30 loss to Florida in 1984.

Before his injury in the Alabama game, Robinson had completed 91 of 143 passes for eight touchdowns and seven interceptions in 1985 and was being offered as a possible Heisman candidate by Vol officials.

He underwent surgery for torn knee ligaments Oct. 21, saying later he hoped to rehabilitate his knee and give the National Football League a try.

Cooper, of Huntsville, Ala., came to Tennessee on an engineering scholarship and played during the 1981-84 seasons, first as a walk-on and later under a football scholarship.

Can a Hill hold off a Fridge?

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Even when the game's at its most exciting, Kent Hill will be hanging around the Fridge.

The Rams' left guard draws the duty of blocking William "The Refrigerator" Perry when Los Angeles battles the Bears in Chicago Sunday for the National Football Conference title and a Super Bowl berth.

Hill, generally acknowledged as one of the best blockers in the NFL, said he's going to feel small by comparison when he lines up against the 6-foot-2, 306-pounder.

"I'm going to be the gnat Sunday," Hill, 6-5 and 260, said with a laugh.

"You know he's a load. We've all heard of him," said Hill, who has yet to face the Bears' rookie defensive tackle because the two clubs didn't play during the regular season.

"He's been phenomenal. There are so many things he's done. It's not so much the novelty of his size," Hill said. "It's his running out of the backfield, scoring, catching passes.

"And, watching the films of the Bears, he's really, really strong. That's the main thing.

"What he's accomplished is really a great credit to him."

Hill said the game shapes up as a battle of linemen. "It's a game that I feel is going to be won up front," he said. "It's the Rams' type of game, two teams that play very physical.

"I think it's a game fans will be able to appreciate. It won't be for the faint at heart. It'll be one of those games where two teams slug it out and see who's standing at the end. There won't be a whole lot of razzle-dazzle, not a lot of passing."

Hill and the rest of the Rams' offensive line got some recognition in 1984 when they cleared the way as running back Eric Dickerson set an NFL single-season rushing record of 2,105 yards.

Hill has had a distinguished seven years in the league, being selected by his peers to the NFC Pro Bowl team five times, including the last four years.

A soft-spoken, articulate man, Hill said that if the Rams beat Chicago, they'll be "beating the best."

Freak accident dooms Fryar

MIAMI (AP) — The New England Patriots have talked all season about the quality of their backup players. Now, just one victory away from the Super Bowl, they have another unwelcome chance to prove it.

They arrived here Wednesday for Sunday's AFC championship game against the Miami Dolphins, but starting wide receiver and National Football League punt return leader Irving Fryar wasn't with them.

Earlier in the day, Fryar cut a deep tendon in his right little finger while putting a kitchen knife in a drawer at his home, said General Manager Patrick Sullivan. Fryar had a less severe cut on his ring finger and both fingers were placed in a splint.

Coach Raymond Berry said Fryar wouldn't play even if the Patriots reach the Super Bowl by beating Miami.

It's happened several times to the Patriots. Injuries to quarterback Steve Grogan in the 12th game and defensive end Kenneth Sims in the 13th game sidelined them for the rest of the regular season. But Tony Eason and Garin Veris, respectively, have played well as their replacements.

The loss of Fryar, the top pick in the 1984 draft, is more likely to be felt in his role as a punt returner than as a wide receiver. Fryar led the NFL with a 14.1-yard average and returned two punts for touchdowns. Berry said starting safeties Roland James and Fred Marion would handle those duties.

Fryar, tied for second on the Patriots with 39 catches this season, including seven for touchdowns, will be replaced at wide receiver by Stephen Starring, who started all 16 games last season when he was second on the club with 46 receptions.

The loss of Fryar leaves the Patriots dangerously thin at wide receiver. The injury came 11 days after Derwin Williams suffered a season-ending knee injury. Without them, New England's wide receivers are Stanley Morgan, Starring and Jones. Greg Hawthorne, who also plays running back and tight end, can fill in at wide receiver.

Aggies pull upset of Ponies, 73-61

By The Associated Press
Another Southwest Conference favorite has been bitten by an underdog.

Texas A&M surprised the surprise of the night Wednesday by whipping heavily favored Southern Methodist 73-61 in Moody Coliseum.

SWC Roundup

The Mustangs had beaten Arkansas and Baylor on the road and expected to treat a homecoming crowd of 7,000 to a victory over the Aggies, who had been struggling with injuries.

Guard Todd Holloway scored a season-high 26 points in the finest game veteran Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf said he had ever seen one of his guards play.

In other games Wednesday night, Texas handed Arkansas its third straight loss 59-55, defending champion Texas Tech nipped Rice 51-50 and Texas Christian ripped Baylor 64-48.

TCU and Texas lead the SWC with 3-0 records, while A&M and Tech are 2-0. SMU dropped to 2-1 and Arkansas, Baylor, Rice and Houston have yet to win a conference game.

Arkansas is now off to its worst start since 1970-71 as new Coach Nolan Richardson still looks for his first SWC victory. So is new Baylor Coach Gene Iba.

But in A&M's bout with SMU, Metcalf said Holloway "played as fine a game as I've seen a point guard play at Texas A&M since I've been here."

Holloway got 23 points worth of scoring help from guard Don Marbury, the leading scorer in the SWC.

"We played just a great game," said Metcalf.

SMU Coach Dave Bliss agreed: "I think they showed what kind of team they can be tonight. Their experience just wore us out. We were never in the game."

Texas Coach Bob Weltlich said his Longhorns "are an underrated group. It was a big win for us to come from 11 points down like we did."

Arkansas went 17 straight possessions without scoring a field goal.

"I suspect Arkansas might feel it's in a little trouble now," said Weltlich.

In Houston, Texas Tech's Tony Benford sank a basket with 11 seconds to play for his second game-winning bucket in as many games. It was Benford's shot at the buzzer in overtime that gave Tech a 69-68 victory over Houston

Saturday.

Benford scored 18 points to lead the Red Raiders and helped nullify a game-high 19-point performance by Rice's Greg Hines, playing despite a sprained ankle.

Meanwhile in Waco, Norman Anderson pulled down 14 rebounds to help Texas Christian defeat Baylor TCU never trailed, leading 24-19 at the half.

Baylor's Brandon Taylor outscored all players with 12 points, while Larry Lott led TCU players with 11.

Michigan survives score

By The Associated Press
Michigan Coach Bill Frieder is tired of his players believing everything they read.

Frieder blasted his players after the 15-0, second-ranked Wolverines lost a 20-point lead before Robert Henderson's buzzer shot defeated No. 18 Illinois 61-59 Wednesday night.

"I don't want anybody talking to them this week or next week, because these kids have got to work on their concentration," Frieder said. "It's my job to make them concentrate."

In other games involving Top 20 teams, it was No. 3 Duke 84, St. Louis 58; No. 4 Syracuse 90, Fairfield 67; No. 5 Georgia Tech 72, Wake Forest 58; No. 7 Oklahoma 109, Denver 64; No. 11 Kentucky 75, Mississippi 58; No. 13 Georgetown 70, Connecticut 66; and No. 19 Virginia Tech 88, Southern Mississippi 72.

Michigan led by 20 late in the first half, but Illinois cut the deficit to 42-28 at halftime as the Wolverines started getting sloppy. The Illini continued to whittle the lead in the second half as they held Michigan to 19 points in the last 20 minutes.

Illini guard Bruce Douglas registered seven steals, including Joubert's last inbounds pass. Douglas' layup tied the score 59-59.

Center Ken Norman led all scorers with 19 points for Illinois, 10-4, while Roy Tarpley had 16 points and 12 rebounds and Henderson 12 points for Michigan.

Top Ten

Duke stayed unbeaten after 13 games, matching the Blue Devils' best start ever, as Mark Alarie scored 21 points and Johnny Dawkins 20 against St. Louis.

Alarie scored seven points as Duke started the game with a 13-0 spurt and shot 71 percent from the field en route to a 51-31 halftime lead. St. Louis, 6-6, was led by Monroe Douglass with 16 points.

Syracuse improved its record to 12-0 as Rafael Addison and Wendell Alexis scored 14 points each against Fairfield, 8-4, which had its six-game winning streak snapped despite 22 points from Tony George.

Duane Ferrell scored the first five points of the game and finished with 16 as Georgia Tech, 12-1, never trailed against Wake Forest, 6-8, in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. The Yellow Jackets, who had all five starters in double figures, led by as many as 18 points.

Oklahoma manhandled Denver of the NAIA as Anthony Bowie scored 24 points and Darryl Kennedy 22. The Sooners, 14-0, topped the century mark for the third consecutive game and the 45-point triumph was their second-largest victory margin of the season. The Sooners dropped the Pioneers to 6-9.

Second Ten

Kenny Walker scored 31 points, including two baskets that started an 18-4 second-half spurt that lifted Kentucky past Mississippi.

The Rebels trailed 32-28 at halftime, but they pulled ahead 36-34 with 15:02 left on a go-ahead call by Walker, who then scored two straight baskets that triggered the Wildcats, 11-2, to a 52-40 lead with 9:17 to go. Mississippi, 7-5, which was led by Roderick Barnes with 15 points, got no closer than eight points the rest of the way.

Reggie Williams and Michael Jackson each scored 16 points as Georgetown edged Connecticut in a fight-marred Big East game.

76ers nip Clippers

By The Associated Press
Moses Malone spent much of the game at the free-throw line, but when the Los Angeles Clippers tried to foul him, they couldn't.

Malone scored 17 of his game-high 31 points on foul shots Wednesday night and added 15 rebounds to lead the Philadelphia 76ers to their 10th NBA victory in 11 games, a 116-114 decision over the Clippers.

Los Angeles, which scored the last seven points of the game, cut a nine-point deficit to two on Benoit Benjamin's basket with 10 seconds left. But the 76ers were able to run out the clock although Cedric Maxwell tried frantically to foul Malone.

NBA

Maxwell, who scored 20 points, said the call might have been made if he was still playing for the powerhouse Boston Celtics instead of the Clippers, who are 11-25 this season and have lost seven of their last eight games.

Malone and power forward Charles Barkley combined for more than half of Philadelphia's points and rebounds as Barkley posted 29 points and 16 rebounds.

Julius Erving scored 22 points for the 76ers, while Norm Nixon had 19 points and 12 assists for Los Angeles.

Celtics 126, Cavaliers 95

Boston won at home against Cleveland for the 20th straight time as Larry Bird scored 25 points, Kevin McHale 24 and Robert Parish 22.

The Celtics, who haven't lost to the Cavaliers in Boston since 1978, pulled away in the first quarter with a 17-3 streak and then extended their advantage to 64-45 at halftime with a 25-11 run in the second quarter.

Lakers 125, Trail Blazers 121

Los Angeles had to put its starters back in the game when Portland scored 48 points in the fourth quarter to cut a 24-point deficit to three.

The Lakers led 97-73 after outscoring the Trail Blazers 36-17 in the third quarter. Then Portland outscored Los Angeles 48-28 in the fourth period to make the game close.

Kiki Vandeweghe led Portland with 21 points.

Nets 106, Bucks 99
Albert King scored 24 points and sparked a late run that carried New Jersey past Milwaukee, snapping the Bucks' seven-game losing streak.

The Bucks, who were led by Sidney Moncrief with 25 points, led 89-88 midway through the fourth quarter before King scored five points during a 9-2 spurt that put the Nets ahead 97-91 with 3:06 left.

Kings 88, Pacers 87

Sacramento, last in the Midwest Division, won its fourth straight game by rallying from a 20-point deficit in the second half against Indiana.

The Pacers scored only 10 points in the fourth period after leading 77-57 late in the third period. Mike Woodson led the Kings with 25 points, and Eddie Johnson hit three straight buckets down the stretch.

Johnson tied the score 86-86 on a fast-break layup with 3:42 left before Quinn Buckner's free throw at the 1:21 mark gave Indiana its last lead at 87-86. Another basket by Johnson completed the scoring.

Suns 109, Bullets 97

Larry Nance scored 29 points, 11 of them in the final 7:41, to help Phoenix hand Washington its fourth consecutive loss.

The Bullets, who were led by Charles Jones with 17 points, cut a 14-point third-quarter deficit to 87-80 with 8:53 remaining, but Nance got a three-point play with 7:41 left to make it 92-82 and he added eight more points in the final six minutes.

Kodak loses 9-year war with Polaroid

By The Associated Press
Polaroid Corp. effectively regains its U.S. monopoly today as the only domestic maker of instant cameras, but company officials are not gloating about court rulings in its favor in a 9-year-old fight against Eastman Kodak Co.

For Kodak, losing its estimated 20 percent share of the instant photography market won't be crippling, but what could hurt is a damage award that might be at least $1 billion, analysts say.

This week, the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington, D.C., denied two motions by Kodak that would have allowed it to keep making and selling instant camera products while it appealed an October decision in Polaroid's favor.

Kodak appealed further to the Supreme Court, but Justice Lewis Powell on Wednesday rejected an emergency request.

"We are pleased with every favorable development so far ... but we try not to speculate on what the future may hold," said Richard deLima, vice president and secretary of Polaroid, whose stock rose $1.25 to $44.50 Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

In the October decision, a judge ruled that Kodak had infringed on seven U.S. patents owned by Polaroid and barred it from making or selling the instant products, such as film, effective today.

Kodak said Wednesday it will allow consumers stuck with the more than 16 million instant cameras to trade them in for its newest disc camera and two film cartridges, a coupon book with $50 worth of rebates on Kodak photographic products, or one share of Kodak stock, which closed Wednesday at $48.625 a share, down $1.375 a share.

Kodak also will accept unsold cameras and film from dealers and issue refunds to them, said company spokesman Charles Smith.

About 800 full-time and 3,700 part-time workers will be affected by the action, which will idle more than $200 million worth of equipment, Rochester, N.Y.-based Kodak has said.

"We're ready to begin moving people to new jobs right away, or as soon as we get things cleaned up here," said Katharine M. Hudson, general manager of the Instant Photography division.

Industry analysts estimate that Kodak's instant photography business was, at best, marginally profitable, and said the segment of the industry is declining.

Instant photography sales peaked in 1978 with 8.2 million cameras sold in the United States according to the Wolfmann Report, a statistical survey of the industry. They slipped to 3.1 million in 1984.

But Polaroid, based in Cambridge, Mass., intends to rejuvenate the market soon with the introduction of an instant camera that makes pictures as good as those taken with a 35mm camera.

It also offered two free packs of instant film, worth about $7.50 each, to anyone who buys an LMS or 660 Polaroid instant camera, and a book of 10 coupons giving $1 discounts on Polaroid film to anyone who turns in an old camera. The old camera can be any model, including a Kodak instant camera, and need not be in working order, said Polaroid spokesman Harry Johnson.

"Polaroid will have a monopoly position" in the U.S. market, said Regina Wiedenski, an analyst with Adams Harkness and Hill in Boston. "You couldn't ask for too many better circumstances. You have this decision. You have a new camera coming out and new film and you have the foreign exchange working in your favor."

Polaroid could use the boost. Its sales slid from $1.4 billion in 1980 to $1.2 billion in 1984 and earnings per share dropped from 95 cents to 84 cents.

What's worse for Kodak than Wednesday's developments is the damages it might have to pay.

Glowing tributes paid to teen heart donor

PATERSON, Calif. (AP) — The funeral for a teen-age boy who donated his heart to his ailing girlfriend was a celebration of "a moment that is both joyful and sad," the boy's priest told 400 sobbing relatives and schoolmates.

A single red rose surrounded by baby's breath, tied with a scarlet ribbon on which was written, "With Love, Donna Ashlock," rested on the white coffin of Felipe Garza Jr. as mourners crowded into a church here to remember the boy who wanted to make sure Donna would live.

"Today, we have a concrete example of a heart being left behind. Let this death, let any death that touches us, be just as much a hope to let life continue," the Rev. Thomas Cargo said in his funeral sermon Wednesday.

Donna, 14, and Felipe, 15, attended the same high school in this farming community 75 miles southeast of San Francisco.

Felipe's half-brother, John Sanchez, 20, said the Garza family believes Felipe had a premonition of death when he told his mother about three weeks ago, "when I die, I want to give my girlfriend my heart." He had just learned that Donna had heart disease.

On Saturday, a blood vessel burst in Felipe's head, leaving him brain dead. He was placed on a respirator until the transplant the next day.

Donna was reported in "very good" condition late Wednesday at Pacific Presbyterian Medical Center in San Francisco.

Plane safety threatened

POMONA, N.J. (AP) — An irate man aboard 19-seat commuter airplane grabbed a control stick in the cockpit, causing the plane to dive 2,000 feet in seconds before he was knocked unconscious by other passengers, officials and witnesses said.

Three of seven people aboard the Allegheny Commuter plane sustained minor injuries.

Passengers said the man had been told earlier by the pilot to extinguish his cigarette, but authorities said they did not know if the order prompted the assault.

The man, John G. Johnson, 33, of Newark, was held overnight at the Atlantic City Medical Center's Mainland Division after Wednesday's incident, FBI officials said.

If his doctor says he can be released, Johnson will be arraigned ed today in U.S. District Court in Camden and charged with interfering with a flight crew, said Michael McDonnell, a spokesman for the FBI's Newark office.

"The information I have at this time is that the crew and the passengers were in jeopardy," McDonnell said.

The incident occurred about a half hour after the twin-engine Otter took off from Atlantic City for Islip, N.Y., said Dennis Flath, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman.

Michael Chamicke, one of the five passengers aboard, said Johnson rose from his seat and lit a cigarette near the cockpit. When the pilot asked him to stop, he extinguished it, said Chamicke, 62, of Selden, N.Y.
