Q. The crude oil unit at Cosden has been painted silver. Was it replaced or repainted? If repainted, why not paint the rest of the refinery?

A. The unit has always been silver, but has been recently repainted, said Ross Westbrook, manager of industrial relations. Cosden is being repainted, but "it takes a lot of time and it's also very expensive," he said.

Texas braces for budget cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas will probably be able to absorb the first wave of budget cuts under Gramm-Rudman without cutting services, says the head of the state's federal liaison office here.

Texas will likely lose as much as $45 million in federal money in fiscal year 1986, the first year the law is in effect, John Hanson, director of the Texas Office of State-Federal Relations, said Wednesday.

"That can probably be absorbed at the administrative level" through such strategies as not replacing personnel, Hanson said.

Hanson said his office was still in the process of analyzing the effect of the budget-cutting law on Texas.

A group of congressmen and a federal employees union have challenged the law in court.

Texas Republican Sen. Phil Gramm was one of the primary sponsors of the law, which sets target deficit levels beginning in FY 1986 and requires automatic, across-the-board cuts in unexempted federal programs if the projected deficit exceeds the target by more than $20 billion.

The FY 1986 target is $172 billion. On Wednesday, the Congressional Budget Office and the administration's Office of Management and Budget both predicted an FY 1986 deficit of about $220 billion.

Gramm-Rudman sets progressively lower deficit targets aimed at balancing the federal budget in 1991.

The law requires cuts in both domestic and defense spending and exempts such programs as Medicaid and Social Security.

Hanson said an earlier assessment of state impact by Federal Funds Information for the States appeared to be accurate.

FFIS, a research group that serves the National Conference of State Legislatures and the National Governors Association, predicted that Texas would lose about $43 million in federal money in fiscal 1986 and $300 million in fiscal 1987.

The FY 1987 cuts will be a problem, said Hanson, because the axe can be expected to fall heaviest on service programs where Texas depends more on federal money.

"That is going to hurt the state," he said.

Gramm has said that the measure will help the state by improving the economy. He said lower interest rates could be expected to encourage new plant construction in the Sun Belt and create more jobs for Texans.

AT&T granted rate increase

AUSTIN (AP) — Despite objections from its chairwoman, the Public Utility Commission has given AT&T Communications a $53.4 million rate hike that includes a 2.5 percent cut in the cost of some long distance calls.

Chairwoman Peggy Rosson said the company, which claims Texas losses of $45 million in 1985, did not prove it needed a penny more. She also opposed the level of business service rate hikes needed to cover the toll call reduction.

"I'm very concerned about raising other costs so rapidly, 145 percent in one fell swoop," she said. "The very small reduction in basic long distance does not outweigh that sufficiently."

The increase also includes higher prices for operator help.

The 2.5 percent cut covers intrastate long distance calls of 106 miles or more.

Company spokesman Phil Bode said the $53.4 million hike is not enough. The company wanted $114.5 million.

"We didn't come here asking for the amount we asked for because we didn't need it. It's less than we asked for and we're disappointed," Bode said.

Commissioners Dennis Thomas and Jo Campbell outvoted Ms. Rosson and approved the hike.

The increase will come from increases of up to 145 percent for

Reagan reviews Gorbachev plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today cautiously welcomed a sweeping nuclear disarmament proposal by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev but expressed concern that the Kremlin continues to tie cuts in offensive weapons to the elimination of President Reagan's "Star Wars" defensive program.

"At first glance, many elements in the new Soviet proposal appear unchanged from their previous proposals and cause us concern," presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said today.

Reagan said in a statement Wednesday that he would give the plan careful study.

Speakes cited "the continued linkage of reductions to a ban on 'space-strike arms,'" a reference to the Strategic Defense Initiative, more popularly known as Star Wars. "We believe strategic defenses can make a significant contribution to stability in a world

Steady growth expected in single-family housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apartments and starter homes will begin giving way to more luxurious houses as the Baby Boomers mature in the coming decade, a private population group says in a study that offers good news for some homebuilders, and bad news for others.

It's good news for builders of large, single-family homes who can look for a booming market among a generation that includes many two-income couples unencumbered by the expense of children.

But the outlook isn't so grand for apartment owners who will be faced with a shrinking supply of young adults newly on their own — the group most likely to want to rent, according to the study published Wednesday by the Population Reference Bureau, a private research organization.

While the huge post-World War II Baby Boom generation moves into the house-buying years, the much smaller group that followed — called by some the Baby Bust — is just getting old enough to form households and rent apartments.

This smaller group will mean much less demand for rental housing in the next few years, the study said. Renter rates are highest for young people younger than 34, a group which will decline by 1.4 million between 1990 and 1995, the report said.

The study by George Sternlieb and James W. Hughes of Rutgers University notes that the Baby Boomers, born in the years from 1946 up through the early 1960s, are about to enter their 40s, years of increasing affluence when people traditionally are married and seeking to move from apartments and starter homes into more costly surroundings.

"More fertile with income than with offspring, the maturing Baby Boom generation will edge the housing market further upscale," as the market becomes dominated by the affluent, repeat buyer, they report.

This means they will be seeking to move into larger homes, or those with more amenities such as media rooms, bedroom suites with spas and high-technology kitchens.

The recessions of 1974-75 and 1980-82 brought increased popularity for townhouses and compact homes, but each time the sales of larger units rebounded when the economy improved. The authors believe that will continue if the economy remains strong.

"We see nothing occurring in the next decade or so that should dampen Americans' desire for the best, most spacious, detached single-family home they can afford. The increased numbers of middle-aged Americans should assure even greater popularity for this type of home," Sternlieb and Hughes wrote.

Despite delays among the Baby Boomers in marrying and forming families, the two Rutgers professors anticipate the majority will follow the Ambulance attendants and law enforcement personnel from Howard County attend to the men who were injured in Wednesday afternoon's head-on collision on Callahan road. Both drivers were admitted to intensive care wards for injuries they suffered in the wreck.

2 hurt, 1 critically, in wreck

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

A Howard County man injured in a head-on collision on Callahan Road Wednesday night was listed in critical condition at Odessa Medical Center's intensive care ward this morning, said a hospital spokeswoman.

Garrett D. Burgess, 21, of Sterling City Box 5 suffered head injuries in the accident and was transferred from Malone-Hogan Hospital to Odessa Wednesday night, she said.

A second person involved in the accident was admitted to the intensive care unit of Malone-Hogan.

Jerry R. Arrick, 42, of Sterling City Route Box 9 was in stable condition this morning, said a hospital spokeswoman.

The accident occurred at 5:38 p.m., according to Department of Public Safety reports. The completed accident report was not available at press time, but a DPS spokeswoman said Arrick was driving northbound on Callahan and was exceeding the posted speed limit when he collided with the car driven by Burgess.

As a result of the collision, Arrick's car overturned and came to rest on its roof.

According to Big Spring fire department reports, firemen were dispatched to the scene and used the "jaws of life" rescue equipment to free both men who were trapped in the vehicles.

According to the DPS report, neither Arrick nor Burgess was wearing a seat belt.

Fraser is candidate in mayor's election

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

Troy Fraser, civic leader and president of Frazer Industries Inc., announced Wednesday he is running for mayor, saying one of his priorities would be the economic development of the city.

Fraser is the first candidate to announce his intention to appear on the April 5 ballot.

Current Mayor Clyde Angel announced Jan. 7 that he would not seek reelection.

"I believe that Big Spring is at a critical point in its future economic development," Fraser said. "Big Spring, like other West Texas cities, has found itself on the verge of the downturn of the (oil industry). We found ourselves in a very competitive market out trying to recruit industry to fill those jobs we've become so dependent on over the last few years."

"I feel that I can be the most effective and aggressive candidate to fill those needs for the City of Big Spring," he said.

Fraser said one thing he would like to accomplish if he was elected mayor would be "the way Big Spring looks at itself."

"I'd like to see Big Spring become an aggressive, bustling city," Fraser said.

He praised the 4x4 Cleanup Campaign spearheaded by councilman Johnny Rutherford and the recent hiring of a Main Street project director as steps in the right direction.

Talking computer teaches reading

LUFKIN (AP) — Garrett Elementary School student Katie DeVries recently wrote the following composition:

I can jump. I can ride a bike. I can rubacat. I can petacatdog. I can Et

That doesn't sound like much unless you know she is in kindergarten and is writing phonetically.

Katie is one of the stars of "Writing to Read," an IBM program that teaches kindergarten and first grade students to read and write with talking computers, typewriters and other enticements.

Four Lufkin schools have the program, and two more are expected to have it soon.

Jerry Campbell, assistant superintendent for curriculum, says the federal government picks up the cost in Lufkin's Chapter I schools — those classified as economically disadvantaged. These schools are Garrett, Coston, Herty, Redland and, starting this school year, Kurth and Slack.

Some 400 students — about 95 percent of those in kindergarten and 12 percent of first-graders at the four schools — spend an hour a day in the Writing to Read laboratory.

The program was created by John Henry Martin — a teacher, principal, superintendent and author.

To be eligible, a Lufkin kindergarten student must have a mental age the equivalent of 5 years, 2 months or below, according to the Peabody Picture Vocabulary Test. A first-grader must rank in the lower half in reading on the California Achievement Test.

A study of two groups of 54 kindergarten students shows that students in Lufkin's Chapter I schools improved an average 1.4 years while students in non-Chapter I schools improved 1.1 years during their kindergarten year.

In recent months, educators from Longview, Marshall, Waskom and schools in Louisiana have visited the program.

Like children in other Lufkin schools, the students learn to read by phonetics — the use of word sounds.

According to an IBM brochure, "The goal of Writing to Read is to lead students to the discovery that they can write anything they can say and read anything they can write."

"The first 'act of reading' encountered by early writers is reading back the words they have written on paper. Students soon understand that the words and sentences they see on paper is 'talk' written down. They then understand that reading has meaning."

Katie's Writing to Read teacher,

Kindergarten student Richard Edwards III uses a computer in a "Writing to Read" class at Garrett Elementary School in Lufkin. The IBM program teaches kindergarten and first-grade students to read and write with talking computers.

Candace Faison, said most students on entering school will say they can't read, but that they can write, even if it's just scribbling.

"The program tries to build on this confidence. 'We don't correct their spelling, and we don't correct their handwriting,'" says Faison. "Everything is supposed to be a positive atmosphere where they are encouraged to try."

The process begins with a computer that shows a picture representation of a word to be learned, spells the word normally and phonetically, and issues speaking commands to the student. In learning the word "cat," for example, a student will hear the three phonemes, or letter-sound combinations, that make up the word: "cuh ... ah ... tuh."

After saying the word, the student types it as it's spelled phonetically. In the case of "cat," the phonetic and actual spellings are the same. Learning is reinforced at the Work Journal Station, where the child listens to tapes and writes sound symbols and words.

Next is the Writing/Typing station. "Typewriters emphasize the details of writing such as spacing, punctuation and left-right progression," the brochure says. "Typewriters also enable students to produce letters that look like the print they see in books."

One boy, said Faison, has trouble writing with a pencil but can operate a typewriter. "He just doesn't have the coordination yet to do the pencil work, and he would feel like such a failure if we had told him to just write 'rabbit.'"

At the Listening Library, students listen to recorded stories and follow the text, spelled normally, in a book. And at the Make Words station, students learn to combine the letter-sound combinations to make new words.

Faison's class has a Writing to Read bingo game, and sandpaper letters that foster learning through touch.

Doris Charlton, a kindergarten teacher at Garrett, says her students look forward to going to Faison's class. "When I say it's time to go to Writing to Read they get all excited," she says. "I think the machines have a lot to do with it. They really love the computers, and they love the typing too." Campbell predicted that "by the end of the year, many of the kindergarten students will be using punctuation rules, capitalization rules, and will have more than 50 percent of the words they use spelled correctly."

He said that if results of the program continue to be good, "this would be an incentive to try to expand that to the other campuses but I don't know when that would be. I'd love to see every kindergarten in the district in the program."

He said the main financial consideration would be yearly salaries. Start-up and first-year equipment costs total about $13,000 per laboratory, with the expense small after that.

Faison's counterpart at Coston, Sharon Collins, said that though phonetics is the accepted way to teach reading, she was originally skeptical about applying it to writing instruction.

"They told me to give it a chance: 'When they get to the first grade they would change over automatically to the book way.' And they do."

Former JP secretary to be tried on theft

A former secretary for Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin will stand trial for misapplication of fiduciary funds Monday in 118th District Court.

Also scheduled for next week are an aggravated sexual assault trial and a civil trial.

Lee Winchester, 44, of 538 Westover, former secretary for Heflin, was indicted on a theft charge last May, but the indictment was annulled.

A second Howard County grand jury indicted her in October for theft of more than $750 and less than $20,000. She was arrested in November by Texas Ranger Charles Brune on the charge.

She will be represented by local attorney Wayne Basden. Heflin said he asked Brune to conduct an investigation of his office in October 1984 after the judge noticed irregularities in the bookkeeping.

Howard County auditor Jackie Olson had brought the irregularities to Heflin's attention.

Winchester's indictment contains 21 counts charging her with holding monies "as a fiduciary but not as a commercial bailee" and "in a manner that involved substantial risk of loss to those persons for whose benefit the property was held."

The charge involves thefts against seven persons for a total of $1,240.10.

Another criminal case set for trial next week involves a Big Spring man suspected of committing aggravated sexual assault in November 1984 at the Sandra Gale Apartments.

Robert Luis Salazar, 19, of 1403 Mesa was indicted on the charge in February.

District Judge James Gregg on Tuesday denied a motion by Salazar's attorney, Robert Miller, to suppress a confession Salazar allegedly made to the police after his arrest in January 1985.

The civil case involves a former employee of Bob's Casing Crew who was injured at a drilling rig site in Howard County in September 1983.

Randy Len Berry asks the court to award him an unspecified amount of damages from Tom Brown, Inc., Lewis Manufacturing Co., Slough Company and Robert D. Cockrell. The suit alleges negligence by the defendants.

Gregg said juries for the three cases will be selected Monday.

Three transferred to TDC

Howard County sheriff's deputies Wednesday transferred to the Midland County sheriff's office where they were to board a bus bound for the Texas Department of Corrections.

Jose Angel L. Martinez, 23, of 808 Magnolia will serve 30 years in the state penitentiary for the beating death of 80-year-old Maurine Terrell in her home last March.

He pleaded guilty to the charge last November in 118th District Court and received the sentence in a plea bargain with the district attorney's office.

Roy Rodriguez, 19, of 908 E. 15th will resume serving a burglary sentence he was convicted for last April in district court.

He was released on parole in October by the TDC and was arrested in December on an emergency parole warrant charging him with aggravated assault in an apartment at 1009 N. Main.

Gary Allen Peterson will resume serving a three-year sentence for a March 1983 forgery conviction in Howard County.

He recently was arrested by police and charged with evading arrest. The state Board of Pardons and Paroles also issued a warrant for his arrest for failing to report to his parole officer.

Peterson served eight months in TDC before being released on parole in November 1983.

Man admits weapon violation

A 27-year-old Stanton man pleaded guilty Wednesday morning in county court to carrying a prohibitive weapon on July 12 in Howard County.

Douglas E. Cohan, 27, was fined $75 and required to pay $96 in costs by County Judge Milton Kirby.

But their late decisions to have children — including smaller families or no offspring among many Baby Boom couples — means their incomes do not face the heavy demands

"This giant generation has redefined consumer markets at each stage of its life cycle," Sternlieb and Hughes observed.

"First financed by parental pocketbooks, the spending spree began with diapers in the 1940s and 1950s," they said.

Also approved was a 50-cent charge for long-distance directory assistance calls. Two free calls will be allowed per month.

The PUC action effects only intrastate rates.

Thomas said the 2.5 percent toll cut should be the beginning of cheaper long distance service for Texans.

"We'll begin to see some of the benefits of divestiture and some of the benefits that competition can bring about," he said.

AT&T, which favors long distance toll cuts, claims it is being hurt in Texas by unregulated competitors with lower prices. Austin lawyer Don Butler, representing cities served by AT&T, also said he was "disappointed." The increase is excessive, he said.

The new rates, which could be appealed to state court, should take effect by early February.

Thomas said the increase might not be sufficient, but it was all the company justified.

"I'd be surprised at this level if AT&T makes any money ... but they simply didn't make a case for any more," he said.

The decision ends commission deliberations on a year-old case that travelled a rocky regulatory road.

In October, the commission, then down to two members, deadlocked when Ms. Rosson favored no increase and Thomas voted for a $50 million hike.

But the spokesman reiterated that the administration considers it "a serious proposal worthy of further study" and said "there may be some constructive steps" in the area of verification of each side's compliance with existing arms agreements, particularly with regard to proposed on-site inspections of weapons tests.

"Other parts of the Soviet offer also require more concrete detail, and we hope Soviet negotiators will explain their proposals promptly and fully in the proper negotiating forums," Speakes said. He added those details should be explored at the bargaining table in Geneva, where U.S.-Soviet arms talks resumed today.

Reagan, in his Wednesday statement, said, "We, together with our allies, will give careful study to General Secretary Gorbachev's suggestion."

The president did not specify which elements in the Gorbachev proposal he found encouraging. But two U.S. officials singled out for praise the Soviet leader's call for scrapping the more than 500 intermediate-range nuclear missiles the two superpowers have deployed in Europe.

Also, one official said, the White House was cheered by Gorbachev's proposal to negotiate a 50 percent reduction in the globe-circling U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles, bombers and submarines.

The two officials insisted on anonymity in discussing the U.S. reaction.

The Soviet leader sent a letter to Reagan that was delivered at the State Department less than an hour before Moscow announced the three-stage plan to rid the world of all nuclear weapons by the 21st century, a U.S. official said.

Woman gets jail term

HOUSTON — A 36-year-old East Texas woman was sentenced to one year in prison for allegedly running a multi-state prostitution ring by soliciting women to work as prostitutes.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald sentenced and gave a stern lecture to Cieta Barrington of Gilmer on Wednesday. Barrington was convicted in November of transporting the teens — two 14 and one 16 — to work as prostitutes at roadside parks and truck stops in Longview and Vicksburg, Miss.

There was only one landing opportunity here today, and NASA said another attempt will be made Friday, when conditions are expected to be better.

"A nation attacked by terrorists is permitted to use force to prevent or preempt future attacks, to seize terrorists or to rescue its citizens when no other means is available," Shultz told a Pentagon-sponsored "Conference on Low-Intensity Warfare."

Generic drugs save

WASHINGTON — Although they only chose the lower-priced generic drugs about 15 percent of the time, Americans still saved between $130 million and $236 million in 1984, a new government study says.

Use of generic drugs — when available — increased from 7.3 percent in 1980 to about 15 percent in 1984, Alison Masson of the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Economics reported Wednesday.

Ellen Lieberman of Denver sits in her wheelchair in front of a Dallas Area Rapid Transit bus Wednesday after members of American Disabled for Accessible Public Transportation blocked several buses in downtown Dallas to press their demands for wheelchair-lift buses.

Plight of disabled

Protesters jam roads to drive home point

DALLAS (AP) — About 20 demonstrators hoped to tie their struggle for handicapped rights to the civil rights movement by blocking two downtown streets with wheelchairs and chaining themselves to buses on Martin Luther King's birthday.

While the four-hour protest over the lack of buses with wheelchair lifts succeeded in calling attention to the problem, it also agitated non-disabled citizens who called to ask police to arrest the protesters who were mostly from out of state.

Seventeen people were arrested on a misdemeanor charge four hours after they began creating havoc Wednesday by jamming traffic and delaying bus service, police spokesman Bob Shaw said.

The streets were cleared in time for rush hour traffic.

George Cooper of Irving was the last to be arrested, as police used chain-cutters to unchain his wheelchair from a bus about 4:40 p.m.

The protesters had wanted to remain in place until midnight in honor of King because they considered their plight to be a matter of civil rights.

"This day really is symbolic because of Martin Luther King's birthday," said Bob Conrad of Denver, shortly before he was put in a police car and driven away.

He said the issue of accessibility to public transportation for the disabled is "very much a civil rights struggle."

"The disabled are angry enough to subject themselves to arrest, subject themselves to jail," said Conrad.

But the protest apparently made other bus-riding citizens angry as well.

Kennedy stresses debt

SANTIAGO, Chile — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, backed by the military government and backed by its supporters, was an issuer of the opposition that Latin America's $360 billion foreign debt threatens the region's return to democratic government.

Kennedy, a critic of President Augusto Pinochet since the general came to power in a September 1973 coup, also suggested that the protesters who heckled him when he arrived Wednesday morning, and later pelted his car with rocks and eggs may have been hired by the government to embarrass him.

Yemen fight continues

Western diplomats and shipping sources said the capital of South Yemen was rocked by loud blasts and "sky-high balls of flame" today, the fourth day of violent struggles between two Marxist factions for control of the pro-Soviet country.

On Wednesday, a Kuwaiti news agency reported that rebellious armed forces had been largely isolated by the government. In New Delhi, India, South Yemen's prime minister, Heider Abu Bakr al-Attas, said the revolt was "under control and getting better."

Khadafy raises war cry

TRIPOLI, Libya — Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy offered to train and arm Arabs for suicide attacks, and condemned President Reagan as a "Hitler No. 2" for imposing economic sanctions on Libya.

Speaking Wednesday before a packed hall of cheering young people in downtown Tripoli, Khadafy again raised the spectre of a possible U.S. attack, and said superior American military strength could not defeat "the spirit of the nation" and its "readiness for sacrifice."

Talks resume in Geneva

GENEVA — U.S. and Soviet negotiators resumed talks on limiting nuclear and space weapons today, with the chief Soviet delegate carrying details of Mikhail S. Gorbachev's proposal to ban all nuclear weapons within 15 years.

Gorbachev's plan, announced Wednesday night, calls for halving the superpowers' strategic missile arsenals and eliminating their European-based medium-range rockets within eight years, followed by a universal nuclear weapons freeze and, finally, worldwide nuclear disarmament.

Taxpayers win in consolidation

Big Spring's school district has joined the ranks of most taxing entities in the county, using the Howard County Tax Assessor-Collector's office to collect their taxes. The school district will save at least $20,000 a year by making the change, according to a school official, and that's good news for taxpayers.

All but two county taxing agencies are under the umbrella of consolidated tax collection in Dorothy Moore's county tax office. Those taxing entities include Howard County, City of Big Spring, City of Coahoma and City of Forsan. Coahoma and Forsan school districts are the only agencies which continue to do their own collection.

In some counties, it's every man for himself: school district, city and county each do their own billing and collection. That means each agency maintains its own tax office to generate bills, paying people and postage costs to send out a separate tax statement.

The poor taxpayer, then, is faced with three or more separate bills that he has to keep up with.

Under consolidated tax collection, the taxing governments can send their respective tax rates and exemptions to one agency, which then compiles all the tax statements onto one bill.

The cost of generating the bills is a lot less, and the taxpayer gets one statement instead of several. Under consolidated tax billing, the taxpayer wins because government costs less, and tax collection is simplified. That's what good government is all about.

Now, if Coahoma and Forsan schools will get with the program, Howard County will have accomplished a great deal toward economy in government.

Fantasy verges on palpability

Every New Year I change fantasies. Last year's had to do with football commissioner Pete Rozelle coming to me and saying, "We'd like you to sing the 'Star Spangled Banner' at the opening of the Super Bowl." To which I reply, "I can't sing." And he responds, "Then hum it."

I've replaced last year's model with a new one and it concerns Libyan leader Moammar Kadafi. Make no mistake, I wish only good for the Colonel, but I have to dream.

My fantasy starts as I am taking my morning jog in the Libyan desert. I pass a tent and hear moaning from inside.

"What's up?" I ask one of the guards.

"Colonel Kadafi has a toothache," he replies.

"That's terrible. Kadafi shouldn't suffer like this after what he has done for the world. I have an Uncle Herman in New York who is the foremost specialist in tooth pain."

Kadafi comes out of the tent. "How soon can he get here?"

"Twelve hours if you don't hijack his plane."

The Colonel says, "All right. But if he hurts me I'm going to blow up 12 department stores."

"Don't worry about Uncle Herm. He did all of the Ayatollah's root canal work."

"Well, hurry and call him."

"Here he comes now," I say. My uncle steps out of a plane with his black bag. After being introduced to Kadafi, Uncle Herm says, "It's a great honor to be working on your mouth, Colonel. I've seen it on television many times, and I've said to my wife, 'Boy would I like to get a crack at his teeth.' So sit over here on this ant hill in the blazing hot sun and let me take a look. Oh, is this bad, oh is this bad."

Uncle Herm stuffs all the cotton he possibly can down Kadafi's throat and starts to drill. It doesn't take long for Herm to hit a nerve, and for the Colonel to shriek. When Herm wears of drilling one tooth he goes to the next one. Then he pulls a few to break up the monotony.

Every time Kadafi complains Uncle Herm tells him to "spit."

Two hours later Uncle Herman says, "Okay we got all the preliminaries out of the way; we better break your jaw now and rewire it."

"Why wire?" Kadafi mumbles.

"Because if we don't wire, every tooth will fall out of your head. I hate to say this Colonel, but you've been so busy training terrorists to blow up innocent women and children that you're not brushing your teeth twice a day. I have to break your jaw to do the job you should have done with your toothbrush."

Uncle Herm breaks Kadafi's jaw and then rewires it. Unfortunately the wire Herm uses is rusty and the Colonel develops lockjaw.

"Don't worry Kadafi," Uncle Herm says. "I know the greatest specialist for lockjaw in the world."

Herm suggests he fly to London and see him. When the Colonel gets to the clinic the lockjaw specialist turns out to be Uncle Herm.

"This is a terrible mouth," he says to Kadafi. "Who broke it?"

"You fffffdid," Kadafi says through clenched teeth.

"The work does look familiar. I think I'll have to break it again."

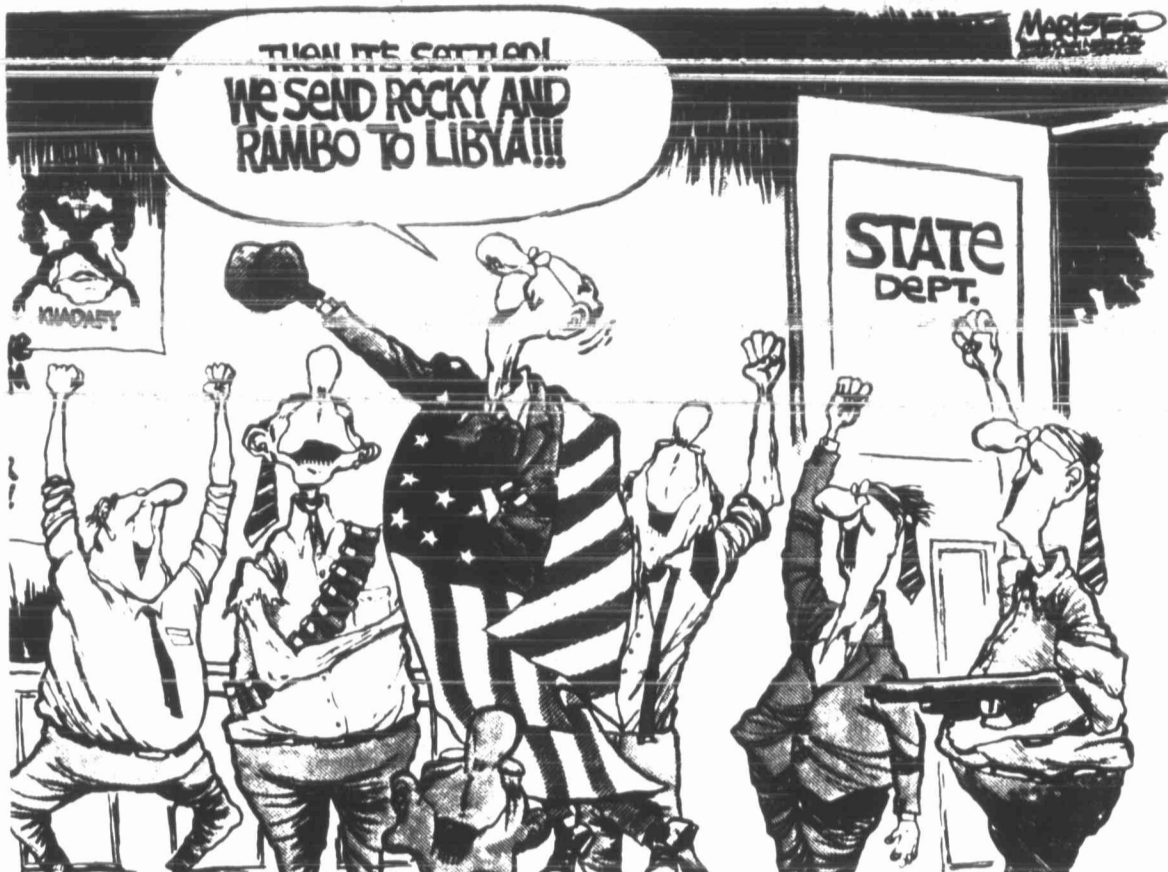

Kadafi dashes out of the clinic and takes the next plane back to Tripoli. As he is being escorted out of the airport the whole plane blows up. Unbeknownst to the Colonel, the bomb was planted by terrorists who had been trained and financed by Libya.

As Kadafi lies on the floor, full of glass shards, Uncle Herm shows up. "You look terrible. I guess we're going to have to operate right here. I hope it's all right if I don't use anesthesia."

"Why no anesthesia?" gasps Kadafi.

Uncle Herm responds, "The guy whose fantasy this is asked me not to."

Analysts portray Arafat in 'unflattering' terms

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH STEAR
WASHINGTON - The hope for peace in the Middle East rests heavily on an Arab leader who, like a desert mirage, is more apparition than substance. He is the ubiquitous Yasser Arafat, a leader with few followers, a spokesman without answers, who can't even control the Palestine Liberation Organization that he purports to head.

Intelligence analysts have examined the man behind the scraggly beard and have come up with a disturbing psychological profile. He is described as a "moderate, not steeped in one particular ideology," whose voice is drowned out by the obstreperous voices in the PLO's high council.

An unsurpassed operator at the subterranean level of diplomacy, he resorts to subversion and terrorism when he thinks it is necessary to maintain his leadership. "He will seek ways in which others can do his dirty work..." suggests the analysis, "and, although moderate in his own views and behavior, cannot or will not control dissenters in his own ranks..."

The analysis offers this unflattering portrait: "There is more to Arafat than the general summary statement used by most Western writers, but there is less than some of his comrades see. He is not really a productive thinker, man of action or incisive decision-maker."

"He is intrinsically an inadequate personality who has received and seized opportunities to reach a political power level that would not be gained had there been a contest of competence."

"He is a vacillator, a compromiser. ...He is confused with the multiplicity of information. He must maintain the themes with which he is acquainted and depend on others for unique and innovative ideas."

"He does, at times, behave without consultation and by feel and can be dangerous to any plan. Anyone who must concentrate on himself so much is insecure psychologically and must be watched and guided while holding so much public attention."

We have visited with Arafat and can attest to his ability to beg the embarrassing questions while seeming to answer them. He lives a spartan existence, which may be merely making a virtue of necessity. He has to keep on the move, living out of a duffel bag and staying in different locations almost every night - to keep his myriad enemies from blowing him away.

If he has no apparent personal wealth, the profile cities "rumors" that "PLO funds are in Arafat's personal bank account in Switzerland." Perhaps as a result of his nomadic lifestyle, he has some minor but persistent health problems - like hemorrhoids and kidney stones. But at age 56, Arafat's health is endangered more by external violence than internal disorders.

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST - Trouble may be brewing in paradise. Inhabitants of the Pacific island group of Palau are concerned about the possibility that their homeland may become a U.S. naval and air base in the event that American military bases in the Philippines are lost. As we reported earlier, the Pentagon is investigating Palau as a replacement military bastion in the Western Pacific. Now we hear that some Palauans would prefer to keep their island nuclear-free and unutilized, and they have asked for help from Greenpeace, the anti-nuclear group whose protest ship Rainbow Warrior was sunk by French saboteurs.

WIDENING THE NET - Canada may soon lose some of its charm for the unknown number of Nazi war criminals who found refuge there after the Holocaust by covering up their background as SS members or concentration camp guards. The Canadian government is considering establishment of a special bureau, like the Justice Department's Office of Special Investigations, to identify the war criminals among the thousands of Eastern European refugees who settled in Canada after World War II. Ukrainian and Baltic emigre groups are strenuously opposed to such a move, while Jewish groups are just as adamantly in favor of setting up a Nazi-hunting office.

MINI-EDITORIAL - A computer whiz in Atlanta, upset when his elderly mother began contributing more than she could afford to television evangelists, wreaked costly revenge. He arranged for his computer to dial Rev. Falwell's toll-free number every 30 seconds, at a cost to the Moral Majority of about $500,000 before he was found out. Falwell is understandably sore, and the FBI is checking to see if the stunt was illegal. It may seem like an over-reaction, but frankly, in an age of unbridled, computer-directed telephone solicitations, we can't help admiring the phantom phoner's revenge.

Gandhi party losing to regional groups

BY BRAHMA CHELLANEY
NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Recent election setbacks for Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's Congress Party signal a growing trend in India toward regional parties formed on sectarian and ethnic grounds.

Gandhi and several other Indian political leaders contend that the growth of regionalism could undermine unity in this fractious nation of 750 million people of myriad ethnic, linguistic, religious and caste groups.

Leaders of regional parties maintain, however, that the trend reflects the failures of national politicians to satisfy the aspirations of local people and underlines India's unity in diversity.

Election results in the strategic states of Assam and Punjab and in by-elections in nine other states also indicate that Congress has lost substantial support among its traditional vote banks: Moslems, untouchables and peasants.

The Congress Party, which led India's independence struggle, has governed the nation for all but three of the 38 years since gaining independence from Britain.

Eight of India's 22 states now are governed by opposition groups, based mostly on regional support. The states are Tamil Nadu, Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh in the south; Punjab in the north; West Bengal in the east, and Assam, Tripura and Sikkim in the northeast.

Congress was ousted from power in oil-rich Assam in the last week of December by a student-led group of native Hindus seeking the expulsion and disenfranchisement of mostly Moslem immigrants from neighboring Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan and before part of British-colonial India.

In late September, the Sikhs' Akali Dal Party swept to power in Punjab following a peace accord between the government and Sikh moderates.

"This will have served a useful purpose if it teaches him (Gandhi) and his self-assured aides that it takes more than just good will and textbook morality to manage the country's affairs," the influential Times of India said in a recent editorial.

Referring to the election setbacks, Gandhi told a party gathering that Congress was "preoccupied with governance and falling prey to the ills that the loss of invigorating mass contact brings."

"There is no doubt that the party's traditional bases have been eroded," said Kamlapathi Tripathi, a top Congress leader. "The minorities are feeling alienated from the Congress. We have to work to regain their support."

One reason for Moslem alienation is a recent Supreme Court judgment entitling Moslem women to alimony from divorced husbands. Leaders of the conservative Moslem community say the ruling was an attack on Islamic tenets and they demand special legislation to reverse the decision.

Moslems, who make up 11 percent of India's population, voted against Congress in the recent special elections. In Assam, most Moslem votes went to a new minorities party opposed to a settlement reached with anti-immigrant agitators.

The returns also indicate a sharp drop in support for Congress from the Hindu majority, which rallied behind Gandhi following the Oct. 31, 1984, assassination of his mother and predecessor, Indira Gandhi.

"The Hindus are having second thoughts," claimed Atal B. Vajpayee, a top opposition leader and former foreign minister. "They no longer consider Rajiv Gandhi as a leader who can effectively combat the menace of terrorism."

The election setbacks pose no immediate political threat to Gandhi, who governs with a three-fourths majority in the 544-seat national Parliament. The next Parliament elections are not due until late 1989.

Gandhi has indicated, however, that he plans to take steps to regain the confidence of the party's traditional supporters. He has called for a purge in the party, saying it had become "a hollow shell from which the spirit of service and sacrifice had been emptied."

"Instead of a party that fired the imagination, we have shrunk, losing touch with the toiling millions," he said, charging that power brokers had reduced the party to a "feudal oligarchy."

On Jan. 4, leaders of regional parties met in Hyderabad city and agreed to forge an alliance for greater political and economic powers for the states. The meeting was called by the chief minister of Andhra Pradesh, Hama Rao, a former movie star whose Telegu Desam Party unseated Congress in state elections last year.

Around The Rim

Headlong toward what?

By SPENCER SANDOW
Individuals often ask why society seems so inhumane at times. Especially they wonder after a special such as "Protecting the Children," which aired Tuesday.

Science fiction author Spider Robinson introduced a whimsical answer to the question in his book Callahan's Crosstime Saloon: a superior alien culture was fattening up humans for the kill, inducing them to butcher themselves for the aliens' tables.

While not to be taken seriously, Robinson's book does raise questions:

"Your whole history makes sense only by positing the four most far-fetched twistings and contradictions to human nature," Robinson's alien character said. "Could any race be so suicidal and have lived for this long? Do you really think it's accidental that your people went from outhouses to zero-gravity toilets in half a century? From the Merrimac to the space shuttle) in one short century?"

"Do you believe it blind chance that physics has leaped vast spans while psychology muddled off into blind alleys? (Is) man so incurious about himself that it has taken himself thousands of years to even begin a science of sociology? (Was) it simply bad luck that the technology of your survival systems, your food and water and power distribution networks, consistently fail to keep pace with population increase and are already strained to the failing point, even in the face of a technical revolution?" Robinson's alien continued.

We need not look far for the answer to such questions.

While vastly superior in intelligence and development, human beings, like other meat-eaters, are fierce. We fight each other a lot; we like to fight and we are good at it. Witness the popularity of Rambo and other fighting heroes.

Perhaps humans were not made to live in such large groups as we often do now. Much of the violent crime takes place in large cities, especially in the poorer sections, where people live closer together and often under disagreeable conditions.

Dr. Donohue

Exercise plus calcium equals good bones

Dear Dr. Donohue: My wife has been a milk and dairy product hater all her adult life. Now she's concerned, as I have been over the years, about osteoporosis. I studied nutrition and was not surprised at the sudden realization that people needed calcium for good bones. Now here is my problem. My wife is on an exercise kick because she's heard that exercise helps prevent osteoporosis. She is regular with her program, and I cannot convince her that she still needs proper amounts of calcium. Please lend the weight of your authority to my argument. — O.N.N.

It is fact that exercise can help strengthen bones by increasing the bone balance of calcium and other minerals. But the person still has to have the minerals for those bones to use. If your wife is not getting calcium from food or supplements, she should be. Does that sound authoritative enough?

Dear Dr. Donohue: You told a woman with stomach ulcer that she would need follow-up examinations to be sure the ulcer healed, and that only if it wasn't healed was it dangerous for cancer. I am 33, a female, and have had three ulcers. Each healed in about a month. I still have problems off and on, but then I've always had a lot of stomach problems. Should I be concerned? I've only had upper GIs at the onset of an ulcer and directly afterward. — C.C.

If a stomach ulcer heals, everything is OK. If it doesn't heal, then that is a concern; an unhealed ulcer can be cancerous.

I believe you're asking me if I think all your ulcers have healed and that your recurring "stomach problems" are from some other conditions. I can't from this distance comment on those things. You should find out, because an unhealed ulcer has to be biopsied.

Now let me range into an area I studiously try to avoid, that of suggesting a diagnosis. I am a bit concerned that someone your age should have so many ulcers in the first place.

Has consideration been given to checking you for Zollinger-Ellison syndrome? This condition is due to a tumor on the pancreas that makes that gland secrete gastrin. That hormone can cause excessive release of stomach acid and provoke ulcer formation.

Recurring ulcer, like yours, brings this syndrome to mind. Other readers with ulcer questions may find the booklet "Peptic Ulcers: The Modern View and Treatment" of help. The booklet may be ordered by writing me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00.

Do you often have a "stomach ache"? If so, your stomach may not be the real trouble spot. The booklet, "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains: A Checklist," tells you why. For a copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00.

Dear Abby

Lonely wife

DEAR ABBY: My problem is growing, and I am going crazy. My husband pursues the following throughout the year: hunting, fishing, football, basketball, baseball, golf, softball (two teams) and bowling!

I am home with two children. One is 3 1/2; the baby is 5 months old. Some of my friends say, "Go to work; you've got to get out of the house and do your own thing." Wrong! I tried it when my firstborn was a year old. I worked as a secretary for peanuts, cam home dead tired and had to do 90 percent of the work at home because either my husband wasn't home or he was watching sports on TV.

Thank God he doesn't drink or chase other women. He does bring home a good paycheck, but Abby, I'm tired of being ignored while he's away at a game or participating in one.

I considered hiring a sitter and taking classes, but that's expensive, and besides what I really want is a family life with him and our children. I've told him how I feel about this and he doesn't argue or get angry, he just ignores me.

I'm attractive, I'm a good housekeeper and cook, and I'm good company.

I hate to give him an ultimatum, but I have such deep resentment building up inside me. What should I do?

MARRIED WITH NO HUSBAND

DEAR MARRIED: It's not enough to tell him how you feel; he already knows that. Tell him that if he wants a family he will have to join you in marriage counseling because although you love him dearly, your marriage is coming apart at the seams. If he refuses, go without him. You need professional help now. Don't wait until this selfish man is too set in his ways to change.

Home buyers ready to pay more up front

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home buyers are willing to pay the larger down payments demanded by lenders in order to increase their equity, a savings and loan official said Wednesday.

With property values increasing more slowly than during times of high inflation, lenders require the larger down payments to protect themselves from borrowers who default on mortgages.

The larger down payment also leads to a lower monthly payment.

"They're paying it willingly," said Joe C. Morris, vice chairman of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, a trade group.

"Many home buyers are turning to shorter-term mortgages as a way to build equity fast. Nearly 14 percent of the home mortgages savings institutions wrote last year were for 15-year terms. That's more than double the percentage of just two years ago," Morris told reporters.

The league said its survey of 16,300 conventional mortgages showed that Americans are devoting a smaller portion of their monthly income to mortgage payments, because of lower interest rates, higher down payments and larger incomes.

The survey covered conventional mortgages underwritten in the second quarter of 1985.

"The use of shorter-term mortgages represents a counter trend to declining personal savings rates," the league said.

The league's study also included figures on bigcity housing expenses.

San Francisco had the highest housing costs in the country with a median sales price of $152,000 last year and monthly housing expenses of $1,370. At the other end of the scale, the cheapest housing in the survey was found in Pittsburgh with a median sales price of $54,152 and monthly housing costs of $673.

Morris said higher down payments makes it harder for first-time home buyers to obtain financing and predicted a decline in home ownership rates over the next few years.

James W. Christian, chief economist for the group said that down payments may go to as high as 25 percent of the purchase price.

Here are other highlights of the league's survey:

- The number of home buyers spending more than 25 percent of their monthly incomes on housing — the benchmark for affordability — dropped sharply from 40.4 percent in 1983 to 33.5 percent in 1985, the lowest figure since the league began its series of studies in 1977.
- The median price of homes sold last year rose to $75,000, up from $65,000 in 1983, translating into a median monthly housing expense of $770. This figure, which includes the mortgage payment, real estate taxes, utilities and insurance, was up from $709 in 1981.

The median is the midpoint, with half the homes costing more and half less.

- Condominiums staged a modest comeback, accounting for 13.4 percent of all sales, up from a low of 10.9 percent in 1983 but below their peak of 21.5 percent of sales in 1981.

- The home ownership rate declined to 63.9 percent, its lowest level since 1968, and down from a peak of 65.6 percent in 1980.

VA surgical supervision inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Requirements for supervising surgical interns at Veterans Administration hospitals are being met with "a lack of compliance throughout the VA system," says a government report made available Wednesday.

The study, prepared by the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, said the problem is especially severe in the days just before and after operations by the residents — doctors who have just completed medical school and are considered still in training.

It said that in nearly half the cases examined, supervising surgeons failed to write or counter-sign notes before surgery showing agreement with residents' diagnosis and treatment plans.

In nearly a third of the cases reviewed, the senior surgeons failed to see the patients within 24 hours after surgery, it added.

In a letter in the report, VA Administrator Harry N. Walters said he agreed that the VA needed to change some of its criteria for overseeing the residents.

Marvelous wants 'The Beast'

NEW YORK (AP) — There was some question whether Marvelous Marvin Hagler was really ready, mentally or physically, to defend his undisputed world middleweight title against John "The Beast" Mugabi last November.

He was coming off an emotional fight in April with Thomas Hearns, in which Hagler absorbed and survived some powerful blows before putting Hearns on the canvas to stay in the third round. And his back had been bothering him.

Ironically, a broken nose suffered in a butting incident during sparring postponed the Nov. 14 fight, giving Hagler time to get himself really ready.

Now, he says, he can't wait to climb into the ring with Mugabi on March 10 in Las Vegas as part of a card with fellow middleweights Hearns and North American Boxing Federation champion James Shuler that was officially announced at a news conference on Wednesday.

Hagler and Hearns would earn a rematch if both win. But Hagler knows he can't think ahead to Hearns.

All four fighters were introduced Wednesday, with loud music, cheerleaders and plenty of hype.

Schuler, the 26-year-old who will put his title and 22-0 record on the line against former champion Hearns, was introduced first, moving into the spotlight in a Philadelphia 76ers warmup suit as "The Eye of the Tiger," the theme from the "Rocky" movies, blared over the public address system.

Hearns, the World Boxing Council super-welterweight champion from Detroit, came to the podium, in a dignified three-piece suit, to the strains of the University of Michigan fight song.

Hearns, 40-2, said beating Hagler in a rematch is very important to him because "1986 is definitely my last year in boxing. After 1986, the Lord will have given me 19½ years of boxing. That's enough."

Next up was Mugabi, a devastating puncher from Africa who now lives in Tampa, Fla. He goes into his championship battle with Hagler with 26 knockouts in as many professional fights.

He came to the podium wearing a cowboy hat and listening to the recorded beat of African drums. As he walked past a large poster of Hagler, Mugabi smacked it once on the face with his right hand, then put his left hand through it with a sharp jab to the paper chin.

Finally, Hagler, wearing a dark suit and a black fedora, strode casually to the front, with Stars and Stripes Forever as his theme.

Once the front table was filled and actor Burt Young, who plays the brother-in-law of fictional heavyweight champion Rocky Balboa in the now-famous boxing movies, had finished introducing the fighters from the dais, it was time for the usual posturing by the fighters as they hyped their upcoming bouts.

But other than a few pointed remarks, spoken almost solemnly by each fighter, the news conference came off as rather dull.

Questions to Mugabi were mostly answered by Manager Mickey Duff, who warned Hagler repeatedly about his fighter's vaunted punching power.

"Everybody who has fought Hagler has hit him," Duff said. "Nobody is going to hit him as hard as John will."

Hagler, who at 31 is five years older than Mugabi, is 61-2-2 with 51 knockouts. It has been more than 10 years and 36 fights since his last loss, and he has fought 11 successful title defenses during that time.

He answered Duff quietly but ferociously, saying, "I'm not expecting to stand in front of him and trade punches with him like I did with Hearns ... the name of this game is to hit and not be hit. That's what I plan to do."

The fights will be broadcast only on closed circuit and pay-per-view television.

McEnroe upset in Masters

NEW YORK (AP) — A year ago, he was the undisputed king of tennis. Today, John McEnroe is struggling to find that magic touch.

"I'm not moving as well as I normally do. I'm not serving as well. I'm not hitting the ball as solid. I'm making too many mistakes, and my concentration isn't what it used to be," McEnroe said Wednesday night after being ousted from the $500,000 Nabisco Masters tennis championships by hard-hitting Brad Gilbert.

Ivan Lendl has none of those problems.

"I feel good about my game," Lendl said after blasting fellow Czechoslovak Tomas Smid 6-1, 6-0 in his first-round match in the season-ending tournament at Madison Square Garden. "I feel that if I play well, everything is going my way."

"If I don't play well, I keep trying and eventually start playing better."

Gilbert's 5-7, 6-4, 6-1 victory over McEnroe made sure that this year's tournament final won't be a repeat of the last three, when Lendl and McEnroe clashed for the title. Lendl, the reigning U.S. Open champion and top-seeded in this select 16-player field, won in 1983, while McEnroe was victorious the last two years.

Also advancing into the quarterfinals with victories Wednesday were Tim Mayotte, who stopped Yannick Noah of France 6-4, 6-4, Brad Gilbert of Piedmont, Calif., makes a return to John McEnroe in the Nabisco Masters Tennis Championships in New York Wednesday night. Gilbert, ranked 18th, upset the defending Masters champion 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

and Anders Jarryd, who outlasted fellow Swede Joakim Nystrom 6-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Tonight's quarterfinal pairings will send Ecuador's Andres Gomez against Johan Kriek and Wimbledon champion Boris Becker of West Germany against French Open winner Mats Wilander of Sweden.

On Friday, Lendl will take on Mayotte and Gilbert will face Jarryd.

The cavernous 18,880-seat

Garden was only half filled Wednesday night, and the crowd was decidedly in Gilbert's corner. At one stage, McEnroe had a heated exchange with one beer-drinking spectator who was heckling him between points.

Final Horseman succumbs at 83

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Jim Crowley, the last surviving member of Notre Dame's fabled "Four Horsemen" backfield immortalized by sports writer Grantland Rice, died Wednesday. He was 83.

Crowley, known by football fans for his nimble feet and by friends for his nimble wit, had been ill for several months. He died about 3 a.m. at the Holy Family Residence, according to Sister Patricia, director of the home.

It was in 1924 that Rice wrote of the Notre Dame backfield in terms that would go down in sports history:

"Outlined against a blue gray October sky, the Four Horsemen rode again. In dramatic lore, they are known as famine, pestilence, destruction and death. But these are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden."

The Four Horsemen led the Fighting Irish to their first national football championship in 1924 and a victory over Stanford in the Rose Bowl. That was Notre Dame's only bowl appearance until the school administration permitted postseason trips again in 1970.

Coach Knute Rockne wrote that Crowley won his spot in the legendary backfield when he "astonished Purdue a great deal and me a great deal more with the liveliest exhibition of cutting, jumping, side-stepping, change of pace and determined ball-carrying I had seen in many a day."

Rockne said Crowley had a "nimble wit that made him as celebrated for repartee as for broken-field running."

Crowley said being the last of the Four Horsemen left him with "a very lonesome feeling."

"We used to get together quite often," Crowley said in 1980. "The last time I saw Don Miller was at Yale when we were honored in the winter of 1979." Miller died that year.

Rice first referred to the Four Horsemen in his New York Herald Tribune story of the 1924 Army-Notre Dame game.

Aggies, Red Raiders headed for showdown

By The Associated Press
Neither Texas A&M nor Texas Tech was expected to be undefeated after four Southwest Conference basketball games, but there they are — and they'll clash in Lubbock in a televised match Saturday afternoon to leave one team alone at the top of the conference standings.

SWC

The Aggies defeated Texas, previously unbeaten in league play, 55-54 Wednesday night, while Tech knocked off Baylor 62-48.

Both Tech and A&M are 4-0, and the defending SWC champion Red Raiders have 11 straight victories in conference play.

In other games involving league teams Wednesday night, Texas Christian pulled into a tie with Texas for third place at 4-1 by defeating Southern Methodist 63-54; Houston took an 87-85 overtime decision over Arkansas in a game between two previously winless teams in SWC play; and Rice defeated Sul Ross 93-50 in a nonconference contest.

Texas Tech 62, Baylor 48
Center Kent Wojciechowski scored a game-high 15 points for Tech.

Baylor trailed 23-19 at halftime, came within two points of Texas Tech twice during the second half, but could never caught up.

Texas A&M 55, Texas 54
Texas led 29-28 at halftime and 46-40 with 8:17 left and held a 54-50 edge with only 1:51 remaining. But Todd Holloway went the length of the floor with a steal to cut it to 54-52 and then Gary Lewis made another quick steal and fed Don Marbury for the tying goal with 1:09 remaining.

In the waning seconds, Texas' John Brownlee missed a short jumper and the rebound before Marbury came down with the ball and called a timeout with five seconds left.

Holloway took the inbounds pass and was driving down the side when he was fouled by Patrick Fairs with two seconds remaining.

TCU 63, SMU 54
Carl Lott scored 16 points and TCU used a tough man-to-man defense to subdue SMU. The Horned Frogs led 26-23 at the half and quickly stretched that to a nine-point lead, 32-23, in the first three minutes of the second half.

Although SMU got within four points, 40-36, with 10 minutes left, TCU tightened up the defense and used Lott's outside shooting and never allowed the Mustangs to get any closer. TCU hit 19 of 23 free throws in the second half after not going to the line in the first half.

SMU was led by Kevin Lewis with 14 points and Butch Moore with 12.

Houston 87, Arkansas 85 (overtime)

Arkansas' loss was the first time since 1971 that the Razorbacks have lost three straight games in Barnhill Arena.

Arkansas led 55-50 midway through the second half, but Houston scored the next seven points to take the lead.

Rickie Winslow's 15-foot jump shot gave Houston a 69-67 lead, but Arkansas' Kevin Rehl sent the game into overtime with his 18-footer with seven seconds remaining.

Houston's Cougars never trailed in overtime. A layup by Alvin Franklin and a soft jumper by Jerry McGee gave Houston a quick four-point advantage.

Rice 93, Sul Ross 50

Greg Hines scored 23 points in just 19 minutes of action to lead Rice to its one-sided victory.

Charges dropped against Rozier

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A $2 million lawsuit in which former University of Nebraska Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier was accused of alienating the affections of a married woman has been dismissed by a federal judge.

Judge Warren Urbom on Wednesday ordered the suit dismissed without prejudice, meaning that the suit could be refiled if the plaintiff wishes. Charles Waldron of Lincoln filed the suit last January in U.S. District Court in Lincoln.

According to the suit, Waldron alleged that his wife, Ann, and Rozier had numerous sexual relationships in Nebraska, Florida, Pennsylvania and Colorado during 1983 and 1984. Waldron said he and his wife were married from Nov. 4, 1977, until Dec. 7, 1984.

Waldron alleged that he divorced his wife and obtained custody of their child because of Rozier's alleged actions.

Rozier, in an answer filed by his attorneys last March, said he didn't know that Ann Waldron was married during the time period stated in the suit. He said he was "actively misled" into believing she was a single person.

Pearson joins San Antonio station

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dallas Cowboys' all-time leading pass receiver Drew Pearson will join a television station's sports staff as weekend anchor, officials announced.

Pearson, who retired after the 1983 season, will join the KENS-TV sports staff as weekend anchor, starting Feb. 1, said KENS Sports Director Dan Cook.

The announcement was made by Cook on the station's 10 p.m. show Wednesday. Pearson will start offering commentaries next week on the weekend show.

Knicks 116, Mavericks 112
New York won its fourth road

Detroit won for only the third time in 15 games as Isiah Thomas scored 28 points and Bill Laimbeer 24 against Chicago.

The Pistons made 63 percent of their field goals to take a 68-62 halftime lead, but the Bulls cut the deficit to 94-91 despite 13 third-quarter points by Detroit rookie Joe Dumars.

Trail Blazers 100, Pacers 104

Portland handed Indiana its sixth straight loss as Kiki Vandeweghe scored 31 points.

The Pacers trailed only 106-104 when Vern Fleming, who scored 24 points, hit a 10-foot jumper with 32 seconds remaining. But a free throw by Clyde Drexler and two foul shots by rookie Terry Porter with nine seconds left sealed the victory for the Trail Blazers.

Clippers 110, SuperSonics 103
Marques Johnson had 20 points and 10 rebounds and rookie center Benoit Benjamin scored seven of his season-high 15 points in the fourth period to pace Los Angeles over Seattle.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"When you're wearin' a snowsuit you can fall down without crying."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JANUARY 17, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until shortly after noon, you have a good opportunity to get in your ideas and plans of action that interest and intrigue you, so be up early and be positive in doing them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Discuss your ambitions with good friends who can be helpful to you, but don't expect any favors.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle outside affairs that are pressing early in the day, but forget that secret anxiety later. Get the future planned wisely.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) New friends have good ideas for recreational pleasures early in the day, but later be most thoughtful of your mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A clever person gives you good ideas on how to solve a dilemma that is troubling you. Don't take on added responsibilities.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Come to a better meeting of minds with a clever partner in the morning, and then you can make deals and solve problems well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The morning is fine for handling new enterprises, but later make sure you handle your work wisely and avoid any criticism.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You come to a better understanding with a charming person in the morning, but later be more careful in spending money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Family may have excellent ideas for you to follow and should do so, but later work on something different.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get invitations out early to your good friends, but later do not get into talks about money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get home affairs handled early since later you have personal problems to take care of. Take care of your health.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) State your wishes to outsiders and they can be of assistance to you now. Don't create a problem that could arise in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep rooted to financial affairs, and you can improve and add to them, but don't permit an older person to deter your progress.

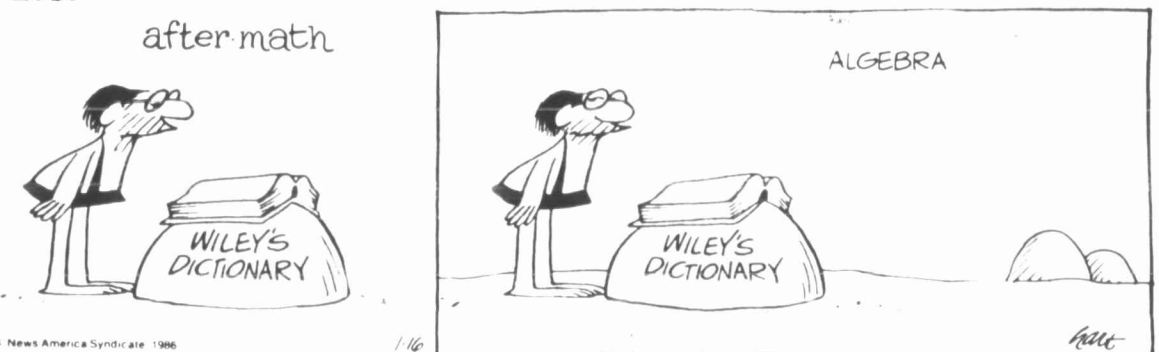

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who gets new ideas and follows through on them without much trouble, as others might not do, so encourage in this and much success can come early in life. Be sure to give as comprehensive an education as you possibly can and add foreign languages to the curriculum for best results.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

PUBLIC AUCTION

C-City landfill study cost is higher than expected

COLORADO CITY — The $12,000 bill for a site development plan for the city's new landfill was much higher than expected, said City Manager Brenda Tarter.

The City Council was handed the charge for the plan, which must be filed with the Texas Department of Health, at its meeting Tuesday night.

Gary Gregory of Freeze and Nichols Engineering Firm of Fort Worth told council members the plan is almost ready and said he would check on getting the cost lowered.

Tarter gave several reports to the council, but spent most of the time patting the city on the back for being able to stay below budget. "We are $153,000 under budget in the general fund and about $57,000 below budget in the water and sewer fund," she said.

She attributed the financial condition to department heads' ability to keep spending under control and "pure luck."

"We haven't had any big tragedies or anything to really require us to have extra expenditures," she said.

Also, Tuesday night the council approved a zone change on a lot owned by Raymond Fuller, which will enable Cee-Jay's Package Store on Hickory Street to expand.

No action was taken on a subdivision plat submitted by J.O. Dockrey. Tarter said the plat appeared to meet all requirements, but she wanted it reviewed by City Attorney Pete McKinney. The subdivision is northwest of Dairy Queen and involves almost two acres.

The council decided not to advertise for a heating or cooling system at City Hall on Tarter's recommendation that there is not enough money in the budget for it.

Mayor Elmer Martin said plans are underway for a hike-and-bike trail below the low river crossing of Lone Wolf Creek.

Chamber outlines plans

Big Spring Chamber of Commerce councils set goals for 1986 and discussed their hopes for Gregg Street and the proposed superconducting supercollider Wednesday night at a planning retreat.

Each council formulated three to five goals for the year, said LeRoy Tillery, chamber executive vice president. Among the goals were conducting a community forum for political candidates; forming a partnership between local businesses and schools, in which business people help teachers in the classroom; continuing efforts to revitalize the downtown area; and continuing efforts to locate a new prison here, said Tillery.

Several ideas were discussed in the effort to get Highway 87 upgraded from Big Spring to Sterling City. No action was taken, but if upgrading the highway "creates a problem in town," then action may have to be taken, said Arnold Marshall, chairman of the transportation committee.

Tillery suggested widening Gregg Street to put in a turning lane, as had been done with Third and Fourth Streets.

Outgoing president Granville Hahn suggested creating an extension from FM 700 to I-20 on the west side of town, passing around Big Spring instead of through it. That would "de-bottleneck the bottleneck" of Gregg Street, he said.

In discussing the superconducting supercollider, Troy Fraser, director of the Economic Development committee, said the man the federal government would pick to do the tunnel is a Big Spring native, Louis Gene Thompson. That gives Big Spring an edge over the many other communities competing for the atom-smasher, he said.

The Gramm-Rudman-Hollings bill has cast its shadow over the project, Fraser said, explaining the budget-cutting bill would mean "no new funding" for the project. But he said he is confident the smasher will be built and said Garden City is the most economically feasible place in the state to build it.

"There's one in Switzerland and several other European countries and one is being built in Russia. That makes it real interesting to the government," he said.

Also at the planning session:

- The board granted $4500 to match a grant from the Texas Commission on the Arts for the presentation of "The Oldest Living Graduate." The play will appear in the Big Spring city auditorium in April.
- Bob Smith was re-appointed as a board member for the next three year term.
- Crimestoppers awarded a total of $500 for information that led to the solving of 44 burglaries last year.
- The American Business Club was granted $750 to be used with $750 of its own to hire a professional consultant to advertise the Rattlesnake Roundup.
