Firemen seek policy repeal

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

The Big Spring firefighters union plans to file an appeal with the local Civil Service Commission to overturn the city's personnel policy regarding nepotism. The expected action coincides with the firing Tuesday by Fire Chief Carl Dorton of a fireman whose first cousin serves in the department.

The city's policy on nepotism is discriminatory and antiquated, said John Branham, president of the Big Spring Professional Firefighters Association Local 2922. Furthermore, he said, the policy is contrary to Article 1269M of the state civil service code. The code calls for "open and free examination for all eligible aplicants to the fire department," he said. "There's no place for a nepotism clause."

The nepotism clause discriminates, he said, because only certain individuals can test. Dorton said the city retains a nepotism clause to prevent both family and departmental problems that stem from close relatives supervising one another. Despite having a brother and a cousin in the department, Dorton said he supports the city's policy.

"I know firsthand the type of problems (nepotism) can create," he said. The city has had a nepotism policy on the books for many years, said personnel director Emma Lee Bogard. The policy was expanded in November 82 to include aunts and uncles, she said. As the policy stands today a person may not be hired in the same city department when any of the following people already work in that department: immediate family, in-laws, grandchildren and grandparents, first cousins, stepparents and stepchildren, aunts or uncles, or any person living in the same

City officials asked to explain sewage violation charges

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

City officials have been formally asked to appear before the Texas Water Commission Tuesday to explain why the city is not meeting its state discharge permit, City Manager Don Davis said Friday.

Davis, Public Works Director Tom Decell, Mayor Clyde Angel and councilman Tom Hall are tentatively planning to make the trip to Austin, Davis said.

Environmental coordinator for the water commission, Max Woodfin of Austin, said Friday the commission is seeking answers to why Big Spring is consistently exceeding pollution standards in its effluent discharge into Beal's Creek.

"We are going to ask them why they are not meeting the terms of their permit and what they are doing about it," he said.

The city's discharge permit came under the authority of the Texas Water Commission in September 1985, Woodfin said. Before, the city answered to the Texas Department of Water Resources.

"We've taken a more aggressive attitude towards water pollution than that of the Department of Water Resources," Woodfin said.

He said if the city does not come up with satisfactory answers about how it intends to correct the problem, the agency has the authority to impose stringent penalties. The city could face fines up to $10,000 a day for each permit violation, he said.

The city doled out $3.2 million for modifications to the sewage treatment facility in 1980-81, city business manager Tom Ferguson said.

Soon after the modifications were in place, the plant had trouble

Terrorism dampens school trips abroad

By The Associated Press

Some American school groups have decided in the wake of recent terrorist attacks at European airports that the risks of foreign travel are not worth the adventure.

When terrorists entered airports in Rome and Vienna on Dec. 27 and fired wildly, it sent a chill through many who were planning European trips. Those attacks, which killed five Americans and 14 others, were followed by warnings that terrorists planned additional attacks on American targets.

"I'd sooner be overly cautious than sorry," said Joseph Kreskey, an Edison, N.J., school official who canceled a high school trip to the Netherlands. A debate team had been invited, along with 100 other schools from many nations, to a model United Nations in The Hague.

In East Providence, R.I., the school committee withdrew endorsement of spring trips to Spain, France and Switzerland, a decision that means the school district will not be responsible for any student groups who choose to take the trips anyway.

"The threat of terrorism never really occurred to me until the school committee did what it did," said Lorrie Kala, who signed up for her Spanish Club's trip to Spain. "I never even thought twice about it. I mean, why would terrorists pick on a bunch of high school students? We're only 18 years old."

But Dorothy Gerstenlauer, a schools official, said she was alarmed.

"My feeling is that our youngsters and their teachers traveling abroad would have 'American' written all over them and that's just what the terrorists

Wise is candidate for county judge

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

A Howard County native officially announced his candidacy Friday afternoon for county judge in this year's primary elections to be held in May.

Warren Wise of Big Spring said Friday afternoon that his "main and only allegiance as county judge would be to represent the taxpayers to their benefit."

County Judge Milton Kirby announced two weeks ago that he is seeking reelection for the position. Wise said he paid the $600 filing fee to Democratic chairman M.H. "Slick" Boatler Friday afternoon

A baby oak stands on the southeast corner of the courthouse lawn after being planted Friday afternoon by the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs and the Sesquicentennial Committee.

Oak planting marks Arbor Day

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

A baby tree stands on the southeast corner of the courthouse lawn, its roots covered with rich, coffee-colored earth. The tree, a live oak, is an evergreen and its inch-long, oval olive leaves cling hardily to its slender branches.

The live oak was planted Friday afternoon by the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs and the Sesquicentennial Committee. A brass plaque embedded in concrete for preservation will commemorate the live oak as a Sesquicentennial Arbor Day tree. The plaque should arrive in about five weeks, said committee member Katie Grimes.

About 30 people gathered on the crisp, tawny courthouse lawn Friday at the tree's planting and each spooned a spadeful of earth onto the live oak's roots.

They were "planting hope for the future," said the Rev. Keith Wiseman, pastor of the First Methodist Church, who led the group in prayer.

A mild breeze stirred the air and the branches of older, taller trees shaded spectators on the unseasonably warm winter day. The breeze fluttered the United States, Texas and Sesquicentennial flags, held by Key Club boys and community men.

Another live oak and a red oak were planted earlier Friday at the Municipal Auditorium, but will not be marked with plaques, Grimes said. The red oak was donated by the Texas Forest Department, and the Council of Garden Clubs bought the live oaks at a cost of about $140 each, said Mrs. Clyde Angel of the council.

The 8-foot tree on the courthouse lawn will eventually grow to about 16 to 20 feet, she said.

The council also plans to plant 50 pecan trees around the county this year in honor of the state's 150th birthday, she said. As its first Sesquicentennial project, the council worked with Big Spring elementary schools in the fall to plant bluebonnets, which should bloom in the spring.

New theory on moons

PASADENA, Calif. — The breakup of a larger moon that once may have orbited Uranus could explain why six moons discovered by the Voyager 2 spacecraft are clustered in similar orbits, a NASA scientist said.

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which operates America's unmanned space exploration program for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, on Thursday announced that Voyager 2's television cameras discovered the six moons during the past two weeks, doubling the number of moons known to orbit Uranus.

Four inmates escape

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. — Three killers and a burglar broke through six steel barriers blocking a steam pipe tunnel and storm sewer and escaped from the maximum-security Indiana State Prison, authorities said Friday.

Two of the inmates, convicted in a total of four slayings, were captured near Lafayette early Friday and returned, prison administrative assistant Charles W. Neary said.

The other two, including an inmate convicted in the murders of two Marion County sheriff's deputies in 1981, eluded a police manhunt, Neary said.

Reagan has checkup

WASHINGTON — After a day of fasting, President Reagan entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Friday for a routine, post-surgical colon examination to guard against the recurrence of bowel cancer.

The examination, an uncomfortable but rarely dangerous procedure, was the first thorough scrutiny of Reagan's colon since the removal of a cancerous tumor seven months ago. Blood tests and X-rays also were planned.

It was unclear when test results would be disclosed. It also was not known in advance whether Reagan would spend the night at the hospital just outside Washington or go to Camp David for a three-day Martin Luther King Jr. holiday.

Loan repayment slow

WASHINGTON — Women holding low-income jobs are having the most trouble paying off loans from college, financial aid officials said Friday.

A survey of former students repaying Guaranty Student Loans found that the typical borrower was now age 28½, had an annual income of $18,000 and was repaying $65 a month from debts for college.

Smoking ban approved

AUSTIN — The Austin City Council has unanimously adopted smoking bans for public places and offices, but with broad exceptions.

Under the ordinance, which goes into effect May 15, smoking is prohibited in public places — including stores, businesses and offices — except in designated smoking areas.

High-tech kid

Officials make exception for home care

DANVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Tiny 16-month-old Megan Demchak, whose life began 12 weeks prematurely and has been a struggle ever since, is a classic medical "Catch-22," her doctors say.

The 11-pound-5-ounce, 24½-inch baby has spent her entire life in the hospital, trying to recuperate from the severe lung problems associated with her premature birth. Finally, she is well enough to go home.

However, because doctors were able to wean Megan from the breathing machine that kept her alive for a year, neither federal nor state money will cover the cost of her at-home care, unless an exception is made.

In Megan's case, that exception came Friday.

Denise Niedzielski, the Legal Services attorney who represents Megan's mother said she had received a letter from the Department of Public Welfare saying it had agreed to abide by a hearing officer's decision to make an exception to Megan's case and pay for the private-duty nursing the little girl needed to go home.

Another section of the welfare department could appeal the decision, dated Jan. 15, within 15 days. However, Miss Niedzielski said she believed that was unlikely.

Megan is one of thousands of so-called "high-tech" children — no one is sure of the exact number though one national organization estimates there are about 10,000.

Their lives are literally dependent on medicine's machines, but because public funds don't generally cover their at-home care, they remain hospitalized at a higher cost. Only about 10 states have programs in place to deal with the issue, officials say.

Several bills introduced in Congress are trying to address the problem, including one that calls for flexible use of public money to allow for home care when it can be proved equal to or cheaper than the hospital. But none of that helped Megan.

For Megan, the red tape meant life confined to a hospital ward for sick children.

For Megan's mother, 21-year-old Maryellen Demchak, it meant months of sleeping in waiting-room lounge chairs and shutting the 53 miles between her home and the Geisinger Medical Center. The trip that brings her together with Megan separates her from her 3-year-old son, David.

Miss Demchak, a single mother, supports her family on $493 a month in welfare and food stamps. She can't afford home care, and Tiny 16-month-old Megan Demchak has spent her entire life in the hospital trying to recover from severe lung problems. Doctors are finally ready to release her. Her mother cannot afford the necessary nursing and equipment on her welfare income.

Megan's doctor says releasing a child with a tracheostomy and no at-home nursing help is a risk.

"It's becoming a very, very recurring theme, not just here but all across America. ... we have the ability to take care of these kids at home at a more cost-effective way of doing it," said Dr. Stephen Wolf, Megan's physician.

Megan's hospital bill so far is about $550,000 and growing daily.

The bill is expected to be a minimum of $225,000 a year from now on, the hospital said.

By contrast, Megan's home care would cost between $36,000 to $49,000 a year, depending on the duration and intensity of care, said

Sandy Wright, the hospital social worker assigned to Megan's case.

Home care would include the liquid oxygen that feeds through the hole in Megan's throat helping her to breathe, a heart monitor and other equipment and a fulltime nurse. Wolf anticipates Megan will need this care about 18 more months.

But Pennsylvania's Medicaid program doesn't cover the cost of a heart monitor and nursing, the bulk of home-care costs. Although the state Department of Public Welfare had agreed to compromise on the $3,000 monitor, it took the department about six weeks to rule on the nursing issue, according to Miss Niedzielski.

5 Spaniards kidnapped

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Five Spanish diplomats were kidnapped by gunmen in Moslem west Beirut Friday in apparent retaliation for Spain's establishing diplomatic relations with Israel, police reported.

Four were quickly released but one diplomat and two Lebanese employees of the Spanish Embassy were missing, police said.

The Spaniards, with their drivers, were in two cars when they were stopped and seized by the gunmen in the Shiite Moslem Cocodi quarter near Beirut airport, an area notorious for kidnappings, according to police.

Foreigners evacuated

LONDON (AP) — The royal yacht Britannia joined other ships Friday night in evacuating foreigners trapped in South Yemen by a factional war for control of the Marxist Arab nation, the Foreign Office announced.

More than 200 were believed endangered by the fighting, which centers around Aden, the capital. The British, French, Italian, West German and Soviet governments had been reported in consultations about a rescue operation.

Meet spurs speculation

LONDON — Treasury chiefs and central bankers from the five major industrial democracies plan to meet privately this weekend, and world financial markets are already jittery over hints they might agree to lower interest rates.

Last September the officials met at the Plaza Hotel in New York and broke their usual practice of secrecy, announcing their decision to drive down the value of the U.S. dollar. The dollar promptly slumped on foreign exchange markets.

This time they promise to be silent. "There won't be a press briefing or a communique," said a British official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Hanoi promise on MIAs

HANOI, Vietnam — A Foreign Ministry official told a U.S. congressional delegation Friday that next month the government hopes to turn over the remains of up to 50 of the nearly 1,800 Americans still missing from the Vietnam War.

Deputy Foreign Minister Hoang Bich Son also repeatedly assured two senators and two congressmen there are "absolutely no" living Americans under Vietnamese control, said Sen. Frank Murkowski.

Porn gone wild

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Hard-core pornography has gone beyond all limitations of decency in liberal-minded Sweden, with scenes of violence and brutality toward women more and more commonplace, officials say.

Hosting bed and breakfast new way to win friends

HURST, Texas (AP) — Would you be interested in an alternative to hotel and motel lodgings when you travel?

Many people want to try something different, according to Bob and Blanche Goebel of Hurst. That's why they have opened their home to the "bed and breakfast" trade.

The Goebels have joined an association of Texas homeowners who provide overnight accommodations in their homes. They socialize with the guests before bedtime and serve breakfast in the morning.

About 10 guests have stayed in the Goebel's home since they joined the association in April 1984.

"We could have had a lot more, but we travel a lot," Blanche Goebel said. "If you want to have them, you can; if you don't, you don't."

The reservations are made through Bed & Breakfast Texas Style, a Dallas-based agency that maintains a list of homeowners throughout Texas who want to share their homes with travelers. The costs range from $25 to $60 per night, and visits can be one night or longer.

The Goebels joined the association because they like to travel and meet new people. The experience is like traveling in reverse, Mrs. Goebel said.

"The people so far have been super," she said. "Most are here just for the night. They eat and leave."

Visitors from as far away as Sweden and Puerto Rico and as close as San Antonio have stayed with the Goebels. The proximity to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport makes the Goebel home a desirable location for travelers, she said.

For a small fee — much less than the $14 charged by taxis — the Goebels will pick up guests at the airport.

After their arrival, the guests are welcome to watch television in the Goebels' country-style living room and have refreshments. There is a hot tub in the back yard and a glassed-in garden room available for relaxing.

Sometimes, the guests want to go out to eat at one of the area's restaurants.

Recently a guest from Minnesota developed a Texas allergy, and Mrs. Goebel gave him a remedy to relieve his suffering.

"His wife asked, 'Where can you get that in a motel?'" Mrs. Goebel said.

Guests may have all the privacy they want, but most like to socialize with the hosts.

"If you don't want to talk, and you want to be alone, you better go to a hotel," Mrs. Goebel said. "The object of it is to be economical and friendly."

The breakfast is a hearty affair. Mrs. Goebel said she serves traditional food like eggs, bacon, sausage, pancakes, toast and orange juice, and special treats like home-grown figs, pumpkin bread and blueberry muffins.

Income is not a motive for catering to travelers, Mrs. Goebel said. It is an atmosphere they enjoyed while traveling in Europe and wanted to create at their own home.

"We had so much fun," Mrs. Goebel said. "We just enjoyed bed and breakfast."

Blanche Goebel poses in the patio breakfast area of her home in Hurst where she and her husband are members of an association of Texas homeowners who provide overnight accommodation in their homes. They socialize with the guests before bedtime and serve breakfast in the morning.

Analysts say housing enjoyed good year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction of new homes and apartments fell 1 percent last year, the first decline since 1982, but analysts said the housing industry still enjoyed a good year.

Housing construction totaled 1.73 million units in 1985, down slightly from the 1.75 million units started the year before, the Commerce Department said Friday.

The small decline was the first since a 2 percent drop in 1982. In 1983, housing construction surged 60.3 percent as builders recovered from four dismal years in which construction starts had plummeted by 47 percent.

Analysts noted that despite the small drop last year, 1985 marked the third consecutive year that construction has surpassed the 1.7-million mark.

"We have just finished the most stable three-year production period in the history of the housing industry," said James Christian, chief economist for the U.S. League of Savings Institutions. "The drop in 1985 was minuscule compared to the booms and busts that have been characteristic of housing in the past."

Christian credited the growth in adjustable rate mortgages for this stability. These mortgages are extremely popular during times of rising interest rates since they offer rates below the level of fixed-rate mortgages.

Last year finished on a strong note with a sharp 17.5 percent jump in housing starts in December, the biggest monthly increase in more than two years.

Analysts said this big gain reflected sharp declines in mortgage rates at the end of the year and was a good sign that construction should remain strong at least through the first half of 1986.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said the December housing gain was "another sign of a booming economy."

"Anyone who doubts that 1986 will be a good year clearly is not abreast of the continuing good economic news," he said.

In other optimistic news, the Federal Reserve Board said Friday that U.S. industries operated at 80.5 percent of capacity in December, a healthy 0.4 percentage point gain over November.

Fixed-rate mortgages dropped to 10.75 percent in early January, the lowest level in almost seven years, according to a survey by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

Warren Lasko, executive vice president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, said that the dramatic fall in mortgage rates has sent home buyers out in droves.

"It has almost been like springtime in the home loan business. Applications for loans are up sharply," he said. "We are off to a good start in 1986 and housing is the brightest spot on the economic horizon."

Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Homebuilders, said when 1985 began he had expected construction would decline by about 5 percent, but he said declining mortgage rates through the year had helped to bolster sales and building activity.

For 1986, he predicted construction would fall by about 7 percent with most of that decline coming in multifamily units, where he said a good deal of overbuilding exists.

But Glenn Crellin, vice president for economics at the National Association of Realtors, predicted a 7 percent rise in housing starts this year as builders rush to meet increased demand.

"As interest rates stabilize at the lower levels, I expect to see a surge of homebuyers who finally are satisfied that financing conditions are not going to get much better," he said.

For 1985, construction of single-family houses dipped a slight 1.3 percent to 1.07 million units but construction of apartments with five or more units rose by 4.6 percent, bolstered in part by a big increase in use of tax-exempt revenue bonds by cities and states to offer low-cost housing financing to developers.

The Northeast, bolstered by a strong economic revival, outperformed every other section of the country last year with housing starts totaling 250,600 units, a 25.7 percent gain over 1984.

By contrast, the South, which had been the boom area, saw starts fall by 10.2 percent last year to 777,900 units, still 45 percent of all new housing built last year.

Construction totaled 466,400 units in the West, a 7 percent gain over 1984, while construction in the Midwest dropped to 238,000 units, a 2.2 percent decline over 1984.

In December, construction of single-family units rose by 15.8 percent while construction of multifamily units posted a 20.2 percent gain.

For the month, starts shot up by 41.1 percent in the Midwest, but analysts said much of this was the result of unusually bad weather which had depressed the November figure.

For the month, housing starts were up 25.7 percent in the Northeast, 13.4 percent in the West and 11.3 percent in the South.

IRS handling delays blamed for payment of interest

AUSTIN (AP) — Interest paid to taxpayers in five states as a result of delays in handling returns at the Internal Revenue Service regional service center here increased 79 percent last year, the IRS says.

However, Larry G. Westfall, who took over five months ago as director of the center, told a news conference Thursday that the computer and personnel shortages and computer programming problems that caused last year's delays and increased interest payments have been corrected.

The Austin center, a 409,000 square-foot facility, handles returns from Kansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas.

Economy by the numbers: information oversupply

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Were the U.S. Bureau of Printing and Engraving and the U.S. Mint to continue working at their combined pace, it would take more than 600 years for them to print and coin $2 trillion.

This nugget is from the National Taxpayers Union, which is understandably disturbed by the calculation, since $2 trillion is what the size of the national debt soon will be, it having reached $1.94 trillion this week.

Just as you recover from this bewilderment of numbers, the outraged folks at the taxpayers' union hit you in the face with another bushel of numbers, the better to reinforce the shock and guarantee you'll never forget.

Do you realize, they ask, that to recite a sum this large, counting off the numbers 24 hours a day every day of the year, would consume 390,000 years?

Two trillion dollars, they calculate, is enough to paper Washington, D.C., with $100 bills, corner to corner, and still leave enough to make every spendthrift U.S. senator a billionaire three times over.

This is an age of numbers, made so in part because of the ease and celerity with which electronic computers can produce them in confetti-like volume.

The economy is run by the numbers — the gross national product, consumer price index, retail sales, money supply, industrial capacity, housing starts, employment, unemployment, trade balances, inflation and interest rates.

Markets are run by the numbers — the Dow Jones industrial average, the numbers of gainers vs. losers, the percentage of trading by institutions and by individuals, the volume of trading, the numbers of highs and lows.

And business is run by the numbers — the number of automobiles produced, the level of retail sales, profit margins, returns on equity, the level of sales in relation to a year ago, a month ago, a week ago.

Numbers have always been the measure of condition or performance, but since the boom in electronic computers they are revised, regressed, adjusted, corrected and almost made to dance in previously inconceivable ways.

While the ultimate users might not have an insatiable appetite for the numbers, the machines do. And as a consequence, desks everywhere are piled high with treasuries of numbers that only archaeologists will ever appreciate.

The computers produce such figures quickly and effortlessly, but a random survey of users suggests the latter might be getting overwhelmed finding proper uses for them, or in fact finding places in which to store them.

In spite of this, billions of decisions are made each day on the basis of such numbers, and the effects are felt by every person alive, if only to a degree that only a computer could determine.

An intriguing feature of the new numbers, which give the appearance of being chiseled in stone, especially when carried out to decimals, is that they are constantly being revised and adjusted by the new machines.

The Commerce Department, for instance, recently completed a massive revision of economic numbers, some going back decades.

And that brings up another mind-boggling question:

Can the computer compute how many decisions were made on the basis of these numbers that are now revised from reality?

Peters on excellence

Faster changes key to success

By TOM PETERS
I am an avowed incrementalist. Try, test and experiment are among my favorite words. I still fervently believe that a pragmatic, incrementalist approach to progress is sound. But I also believe the visions to which we aspire must be grand ones.

Not so much because inspiring visions are superb motivators (which they are), but because we must markedly pick up the pace of change in our businesses over the next five years. If we don't we face the prospect of a permanently reduced standard of living.

SPEED OF INNOVATION: A recent Wall Street Journal article proclaimed the textile and apparel industries are testing productivity tools that will reduce their product development cycle (from gleam in the eye to fully stocked on the retail shelf) by two-thirds — from 66 weeks to 21 weeks. If we are to master the new competitive environment, shortening the product development cycle is imperative in every industry.

Raychem Corp., a Menlo Park, Calif., maker of high-technology connectors, regularly develops fully-tested new product samples or prototypes in one or two weeks. That's one-tenth to one-twentieth of the industry average. The Limited Stores, Inc., of Columbus, Ohio, radically changes the variety and displays of goods offered in its over 600 outlets weekly — more than 10 times faster than the industry average.

Bold Objective No. 1: Whether retailer, banker or science-based company, reduce your product development cycle time — this year — by 50 percent.

PREMIUM PRODUCTS: Curtis Mathes Corp. of Dallas, Texas, offers unparalleled service, and often commands a 25 percent unit-price premium in television sales — and is growing rapidly. Perdue Farms Inc.'s slavish devotion to quality permits the fresh chicken producer to garner a 10 percent to 15 percent price premium in that commodity-like business. The specialty steel, specialty retail, specialty chemical and specialty forest product companies outperform the diversified and generalist members of their industries by 50 percent or more.

Bold Objective No. 2: Through service, quality and enhanced innovation, shift half of your product or service portfolio to differentiated, higher price and higher value-added plateaus in the next two years.

PEOPLE AND ORGANIZATION: Nucor Corp., the highly profitable Charlotte, North Carolina, mini-steel mill company, runs a three-quarter-billion-dollar business with just three layers of management and a corporate headquarters staff that numbers only nine.

Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. have successfully eliminated the first-line supervisor's job in large parts of their companies, often replacing it with elected team coordinators.

At Worthington Industries, Inc., the successful Columbus, Ohio, specialty steel maker, 40 percent of the average employee's paycheck comes from a profit-sharing program.

Bold Objective No. 3: Reduce the number of layers of management at any operating activity to two. Pare corporate staff by 80 percent over the next three years. Eliminate all first-line supervision jobs during the next three years. Get 100 percent of the people on the payroll into a profit-sharing program in the next 18 months.

PAPERWORK REDUCTION: A long-time colleague runs 25 remarkably profitable Burger King franchises. To enhance service, he believes that minimizing distracting paperwork is vital. Last year he reduced the length of his restaurant manuals by two-thirds. He plans to repeat the process again this year, to reduce the manuals by another two-thirds. Years ago, Marcus Sieff, chairman of Marks and Spencer Ltd., the outstanding British retailer, reduced his store managers' written guidance from thousands of pages to just two booklets, 12 pages each.

Bold Objective No. 4: Reduce the paper work and procedures in every operation by half in the next year.

TIME AND ATTENTION: Sam Walton, America's richest man according to Forbes, has created efficiency and customer friendliness throughout his 800-store, $8 billion Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. To underscore the importance he places on every store, Walton, age 67, visits each one annually.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A good friend will do something nice for you in the morning, but later worldly affairs are a bore to you. LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) An out-of-town call from a pal can gain you the information you require, but steer clear of a friend who is apt to criticize. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen to what a sensitive friend has to suggest so that you can improve relations with others. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Seek an expert in the morning who can assist you with some financial problem that is bothering you. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Change your attitude with an ally and you can make the relationship more meaningful in the future. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You get fine ideas for handling your work more efficiently in the morning, but later carry through with what's been started. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Have a meeting with an associate in the morning, and come to a fine understanding. Do not argue at home with kin. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) Agree with some plan a home tie has for improving conditions at your residence, then be most careful in motion. PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) Enjoy some form of entertainment with your partner in the morning, but later don't take any risks with present security. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be blessed with good health and a sunny disposition during childhood so be sure that the surroundings are as ideal as you can make them, otherwise your progeny can become very depressed. Give a fine education. Teach not to jump into new ventures out of sheer boredom. * * * The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Landry says no one 'untouchable'

IRVING (AP) — Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry said he will consider trading anyone on the club — including previous untouchables Randy White and Tony Dorsett — if it results in the acquisition of an explosive offensive player.
 "This year for the first time we don't have the luxury of saying that these guys are untouchables," Landry told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "We don't have any untouchables any more, names that wouldn't fit in a trade."
 Dorsett, who for years has been one of the top runningbacks in the National Football League, and White, a perennial all-pro defensive tackle, were the only players that Landry put off limits to a trade last year.
 But Landry said the Cowboys now need to try and land an impact running back or wide receiver and would consider dealing anyone on the team.
 However, blockbuster trades in the NFL are rare, Landry noted.
 "It would take a tremendous trade to get a Dorsett or a White," Landry added.

Two tied for Hope Classic lead

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Donnie Hammond played the front nine in 33 and moved into a share of the lead Friday halfway through the third round of the $600,000 Bob Hope Chrysler Classic.
 Hammond, playing in warm, sunny weather at Bermuda Dunes, reached the turn with a 45-hole total of 166, 14 strokes under par.
 With nine holes to go in the day's play, he was tied for the lead with Larry Mize. Mize was out in 34 at La Quinta.
 Craig Stadler, a playoff loser in this 90-hole, five-day event last year, entered the day's play with a share of the lead but dropped back with a 35 at Bermuda Dunes. He had a 167 total for 45 holes.
