State renews sewage permit

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Thanks mainly to a recent test showing the city's sewage treatment plant functioning well, Big Spring officials faced praise instead of tough questions when they appeared before the Texas Water Commission this morning.

An effluent quality test made by the Texas Department of Water Resources staff on Jan. 15 showed sewer plant discharges well within state minimum requirements. Tom Decell, city public works director, told the commissioners the city acknowledges problems of the past but has a timetable for solving them. Everything should be taken care of by Sept. 1, according to written information Decell presented.

That information took the edge off questions from the three commissioners, who on Jan. 7 postponed consideration of an otherwise routine wastewater permit renewal request. They asked Big Spring officials to attend Tuesday's hearing to answer questions about a long history of violating state standards.

"You have certainly turned this thing around," commission chairman Paul Hopkins told Decell Tuesday. "Excellent."

The commission then voted 3-0 to approve the delayed wastewater permit renewal.

Decell told commissioners the past problems were in three areas:

environmental, equipment and operational.

He said the environmental problems, such as flooding, and equipment problems have been identified and "we've made an effort to stop those."

He added: "The operational problem tends to be the dominant factor throughout all of our difficulties we've had." He cited damage to equipment through improper maintenance and a high turnover in personnel. "I think we've adressed that and reorganized the entire department."

After the short hearing, Mayor Pro Tem Harold Hall expressed pleasure with the hearing. "We have had problems, no question about that," he said.

"There's always maintenance problems out there and always will be," Hall said. "But we're sure going to sit on top of those. We have a lot of corrosive things that eat up all the mechanical parts of this SEWAGE page 2-A

Teachers denounce governor

AUSTIN (AP) — Leaders of the state's second-largest teacher group say teachers should vote to defeat Democratic Gov. Mark White because of White's recent call for drug testing of teachers and other workers.

Sue McGarvey, Hallsville social studies teacher and president of the Association of Texas Professional Educators, said Monday it is hypocritical for White to announce his re-election bid from the Houston classroom where his mother taught first grade.

"He told the coaches weeks ago that we educators have no business in politics and should stick to teaching. Now he wants to make a major political announcement from the desk of a career teacher," Ms. McGarvey said.

"I hope every Texas educator sees through the ruse and works instead to support a more viable option than this current governor," she said. White will announce his re-election bid Friday from the Houston elementary school where his late mother, Sarah Elizabeth Wells White, once taught.

Last week, the governor called for drug testing of public and private employees, but several included building a new gym and cafeteria, as well as remodeling and adding classrooms to the elementary school, said Superintendent J.L. Poynor.

Price of oil plummets to six-year low

NEW YORK (AP) — As weak demand and growing supply sent the price of petroleum downward to levels it hasn't hit in at least six years, some analysts and traders say "it's hard to see a bottom."

"What's to stop it?" Philip Verleger Jr., a Washington-based analyst for Charles River Associates said Monday as contracts for February delivery of West Texas Intermediate crude oil, the benchmark U.S. grade, slid $2.25 a barrel to close at $21.27 on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

That contract traded at $25.15 a barrel last Wednesday, before the latest price drop began.

U.S. oil traded on the spot market, which brought $32 a barrel in November, fell $2.25 a barrel to $21.70 on Monday. Brent North Sea crude oil to be loaded in April fell to a six-year low, closing at $19.20 on the spot market.

"There's no question there's going to be a rebound," said Peter Beutel, an analyst at Rudolf Wolff Futures Inc. "The question is when, and where, and to where?"

Heating oil fell to 59 cents a gallon from Friday's close of 63.89 cents for February delivery.

February contracts for unleaded gasoline dropped from 64 cents a gallon to 59.79 cents, and regular gasoline fell to 58.90 cents from 63.28 cents.

William Randol, an oil analyst at the investment firm First Boston Corp. called the price trend "great news for consumers," adding that he said he expected the price of crude to dip below $20 by mid-April.

However, Steven Smith, an analyst for Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass., said that for the impact to be significant, it would have to consist of a composite drop of the prices of all oil used by refineries from all sources.

Data Resources estimates that a one-year drop of $5 per barrel would reduce the U.S. inflation rate by one percentage point and boost the gross national product six-tenths of a point higher, Smith said.

In Kuwait, a member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Oil Minister Ali Khalifa al-Sabah predicted that oil producing nations would eventually reach a compromise on oil supply to end "the chaos on the international market." Several factors have combined to bring about the slide in oil prices.

In December, OPEC members announced they would concentrate on winning a "fair share" of sales, even if it meant a price war with non-OPEC nations. Several nations, especially Saudi Arabia, dramatically increased production, adding to a glut of supplies already on the market.

Warm weather in the Northern Hemisphere also has put more pressure on prices by reducing the demand for heating oil.

Rancher enters race as state legislator

A Borden County rancher who believes the state is "in a critical and changing period" announced Monday afternoon that he has filed for candidacy in the state representative race for District 69.

John R. (Rich) Anderson said he filed Friday as a Republican candidate in the May 3 primary.

Travis Floyd of Big Spring has also filed for candidacy in the Republican primary. Incumbent Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, announced last week he also seeks reelection for the state representative position.

Anderson said in a news release that because the state's general tax base is now "limited," the state populace has to decide what is necessary and important, and live within those means.

He said he opposes a state income tax; is disturbed about the loss of control by school boards and school administration because of House Bill 72; and favors a strong rural voice in administration of the state's future water plans.

Anderson also said he wants to center attention in this district to new technologies.

He served as Borden County Republican chairman for 20 years and has held several active positions in the cattlemen's industry.

County's jobless rate declines in December

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Howard County's unemployment rate decreased 0.1 percent during December, compared to November, according to figures released this morning by the Texas Employment Commission office in Big Spring.

The unemployment rate for December was 5.1 percent, said Joe Wallis of the commission. This compares to 5.2 percent for November and 4 percent for December of 1984.

"We have got about 200 more out of work this (year)," Wallis said. He attributed the increase in unemployment to the slowdown in the oil industry.

"If (the price of crude oil) goes down below $20, we're sure going to feel it," he said. "It doesn't sound good at all. It has a rippling effect" on oil-related industries, he said.

Howard County had 16,167 in the total labor force for December, compared to 16,203 in November and 16,349 last year. There were 15,348 people employed in December, compared to 15,354 last month and 15,703 last year.

A total of 819 persons claimed unemployment in December, compared to 849 last month and 646 last year.

U.S.-Soviet couples reunite after years of separation

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The reunions of three Soviet men with their American wives after years of Kremlin-imposed separation could be "part of a huge step to real friendship between Russia and America," one of the husbands said.

Two of the Soviets joyously joined their spouses Monday night at Newark International Airport after arriving on the same flight with the third couple, who reunited a day earlier in West Germany.

The three couples are among the 10 the Kremlin promised before the Geneva summit to allow to reunite in the West.

Robin Rubendunst, 25, of Brookline, Mass., hadn't seen her 38-year-old husband, Leonid Ablavsky of Leningrad, since they were married in 1963. She embraced him at the airport and they disappeared without talking to reporters. Sandra Gubin, 38, of Kalamazoo, Mich., gave spouse Alexei Lodisev, 33, a red rose as they hugged. Lodisev, who last saw his wife when she visited the Soviet Union on a tourist visa in September, would not stop kissing her.

"This is the most important day of my life," he said. "My heart goes out to those couples who still are kept apart. No one knows better how very painful their lives are and no one wishes more than I that someday they will be as fortunate as I and be reunited with their wives."

"I'm just feeling terrifically relieved," Ms. Gubin said from within her husband's embrace. "Everybody should have this moment. This is the best moment of my life."

"Today is the birthday of our family," a tearful Edith Luthi, 31, of Holliston, Mass., told reporters.

Her meeting in Frankfurt, West Germany, on Sunday with husband, Mikhail Iossel, 38, of Leningrad, was their first in more than three years. Iossel had never seen his 2½-year-old son, Gregory, and was to meet him today at their home outside Boston.

"Let's try to hope that this small moment, in itself insignificant, is part of a huge step to real friendship between Russia and America," Iossel said.

Ms. Luthi and Iossel and Ms. Gubin and Lodisev toasted their new lives together with champagne.

Alexei Lodisev, 33, hugs his wife, Sandra Gubin, 38, of Kalamazoo, Mich., upon landing at Newark International Airport Monday evening. Lodisev, a Soviet citizen, and Gubin were married in the Soviet Union in 1981 but he has been unable to leave his homeland until now.

"I just want to say that this long separation can be forgiven, that finally being together does a lot to dissolve the bitterness that I have been feeling over the last two years," said Ms. Luthi, who met Iossel while studying Russian in Leningrad.

Ms. Gubin, who had fought for 4½ years to be with her husband, said before the reunion that there are at least 20 other Soviet-

American couples kept apart by the Kremlin. "I'm hoping that over the next couple weeks people will be called in and the Soviets will gradually move on the other cases," she said.

Ms. Gubin, a social scientist, was a Fulbright scholar at Kiev University when she met her husband in Kiev in 1980.

After leaving the Soviet Union in 1981 when her visa expired, Ms. Gubin formed the Divided Spouses Coalition, which has flooded U.S. and Soviet officials with pleas to allow divided Soviet-American couples a life together.

All three men were trained as computer programmers, but Iossel, who writes, said "I just changed from a technical background to a totally humanitarian one."

Police Beat

Several homes burglarized

Rubin Garcia of 1602 E. Fifth St. told police Monday night that someone entered his residence Monday night and stole a video cassette recorder valued at $943.88, a $400 sewing machine and an $80 roll of leather lining.

Kenneth Townsend of 709 E. 12th St. told police Monday night that someone broke into his home and took a $500 microwave oven, a $200 television and a $100 bicycle between 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Monday.

Bobby Joe Kirby of Route 1 Box 374 told police early this morning that someone backing up a car struck him while he was riding his bike on the 500 block of Franklin Street at 12 a.m. Tuesday. The driver of the car drove off without offering aid to Kirby, according to the complaint. Kirby suffered an injury to his inner thigh but refused treatment, the report stated.

James White of 412 Bigler St. told police Monday afternoon that someone entered his home and stole clothes valued at $280. The burglar caused $25 damage to a door in the break-in between 4 p.m. Sunday and 2:45 p.m. Monday, the complaint shows.

Bill Croft of Cowtown Boots in the Big Spring Mall told police Monday afternoon that someone bought a $63.05 pair of boots from the store and then stopped payment on the check used to purchase the boots. The boots, he told police, were not returned.

Bob Goodwin, division manager of Texas Electric, told police Monday morning that someone caused damage totaling $600 to three glass window panes at the business between noon Sunday and noon Monday.

Clifton Griffin of 605 McEwen St. told police Monday afternoon that someone stole a $50 television and a $50 cable box from his residence Monday afternoon.

Gene Nabors, owner of the 11th Place Automatic Laundry, told police Monday morning that someone stole a $34.97 cordless drill from the business between 9 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Gary Hull, owner of the Giant Food Store, told police Monday morning that someone tried to enter the store between 6 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. Monday by prying back a metal door at the rear of the building. The attempt to enter the building was unsuccessful; however, damage estimated at $50 was done to the metal door, according to the report.

Randy Howell, manager of Permian Distributing, told police Monday morning that someone caused $250 damage to a wall in the business and stole 21 cases of beer valued at $250 between 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 5:45 a.m. Monday.

James Balios of Energas told police Monday morning that someone caused an undetermined amount of damage to a glass window pane during a break-in of the business sometime last weekend. Energas employees did not report anything missing, according to the police report.

Danny Ray Reese, 22, of Gail Route Box 15 was arrested Monday on an assault charge.

Daniel Flores, 17, of 1408 W. Second St. was arrested Monday evening on N. Scurry Street on suspicion of driving without a license and failure to appear in court.

Former JP secretary to be tried tomorrow

An eight-woman, four-man jury is scheduled to begin hearing testimony Wednesday morning in the trial of a former justice of the peace secretary accused of misapplication of fiduciary property.

The trial is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. in 118th District Court. Lee Winchester of Big Spring was indicted by Howard County grand jurors in October after her initial indictment last June was quashed by District Judge James Gregg on a motion made by her defense attorney, Wayne Basden. Basden made a motion Monday times specifically mentioned teachers. Those remarks angered ATPE members, some of whom said it was only the latest in a lengthy list of blame White has focused on teachers.

I think they were just lazy, but we've got good management out there now. I think we've got the situation well under control."

"First, he says education is the reason for a $4.6 billion tax bill of which we received $800 million. Second, he claims we're all illiterate until proven otherwise by a basic skills test. Now, he plants the seed that we're all drug addicts until we take a test to prove differently," said Hazel Moye of McAllen, chairman of the group's policy and curriculum committee.

In response, White sought to clarify his remarks from last week. "I see no need to require drug testing of teachers, except in those infrequent instances where there is some obvious outward evidence of drug abuse impairing job performance," he said.

In other political news Monday: • White's campaign committee issued instructions to television and radio stations on how to obtain a no-charge broadcast of White declaring his candidacy for reelection.

White's announcement was offered via satellite to TV stations statewide, with the costs for satellite air time and related production expenses picked up by the governor's political fund, the Texas Committee.

Radio stations also are being offered a tape-recorded copy of the governor's announcement by phoning into a Houston number Friday afternoon.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Kent Hance said a Texas Department of Corrections' decision to place criminals in private homes for up to six months before their release "is an outrageous idea few sensible Texans could support." Calling on the governor to urge the TDC board to reverse the decision, Hance said such action would keep more than 200 criminals a year "from being placed in homes all over the state."

Man sentenced to 10 years

for manslaughter charge

A Big Spring man who pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter Monday afternoon in 118th District Court was sentenced to 10 years in the Texas Department of Corrections by District Judge James Gregg.

Bobby Lee Edmondson, 25, of 608 Goliad was indicted by Howard County grand jurors in August after he was involved in a two-car collision that killed a man.

He was arrested May 29 by Department of Public Safety trooper Mike Dawson at the scene of the accident on Birdwell Lane, one mile north of Big Spring.

He was charged at that time with a second offense of driving while intoxicated, driving while license suspended and failure to maintain financial responsibility.

According to a DPS accident report, Edmondson attempted to pass a car driven by William Ray Hankins of Big Spring, who was traveling south on Birdwell Lane.

Edmondson misjudged the distance between the two cars and struck Hankins' automobile in the left rear bumper. Hankins' vehicle veered into the west bar ditch and overturned, according to the report.

Hankins died three days later in Lubbock General Hospital from injuries suffered in the accident.

In addition to the prison term, Gregg ordered Edmondson to pay $14,534.66 in restitution. Of that, $1,596.75 will go to Pam Good, $6,937.91 to J.B. Hankins and $6,000 to Larry Hollar Insurance, according to records in the district clerk's office.

Sheriff's Log

Backhoe loader is stolen

Glasscock and Howard County sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft of a backhoe loader that occurred between 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. Sunday, according to a sheriff's report.

The loader was stolen from the parking lot of a Conoco Lease station at the intersection of Highway 87 and Highway 821 in Glasscock County.

Johnny Mills of Forsan reported the theft.

Sheriff Royce Pruitt of Glasscock County said the value of the loader had not been determined.

Police transferred Austin

George Sherill, 31, of 1500 E. Cherokee to county jail Monday morning after he was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

He was released on $1,000 bond. Deputies Monday night arrested Daniel Jay Baldwin, 26, of Interstate 20 Trailer Park Lot No. 1.

He was charged with criminal trespass, criminal mischief, simple assault and public intoxication. He was released on bonds totaling $1,900.

Baldwin was arrested at the Bill Bennett Trailer Park.

Fishermen protest

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. — Dozens of striking fishermen today threw rocks at cars carrying fish buyers to an independent auction, and an undetermined number of people were arrested, police said.

No injuries were reported, but several car windows were smashed by rocks outside the Yellowbird Trucking Co. on the city's waterfront, police said.

"There are about 200 striking fishermen in the immediate area and as the fish buyers were going into that auction their vehicles were stoned," said Officer Ray Furtado, police spokesman.

Hormel strike goes on

AUSTIN, Minn. — Dozens of National Guardsmen, riot clubs in hand, stood shoulder-to-shoulder outside Geo. A. Hormel & Co.'s flagship plant today, facing angry, jeering strikers as some meatpackers reported to work.

Gov. Rudy Perpich activated about 600 Guardsmen on Monday after local officials requested help in controlling the strikers.

Union members and their supporters had blocked plant gates with their cars and pickup trucks Monday and yelled "scab" at people entering the $100 million meatpacking plant, which reopened Jan. 13. Police Chief Donald Hoffman said a pickup truck leaving the plant was struck by a bullet Monday, and a Hormel photographer was kicked.

Blacks losing ground

WASHINGTON — An Agriculture Department study of 10 southern Georgia counties shows that not only did economic growth in rural areas help white people more than blacks, but that blacks in some ways became worse off than before.

The department's Economic Research Service said that during the period of economic growth between 1976 and 1981, the percentage of white women examined with jobs increased, while the percentage of black men with jobs decreased.

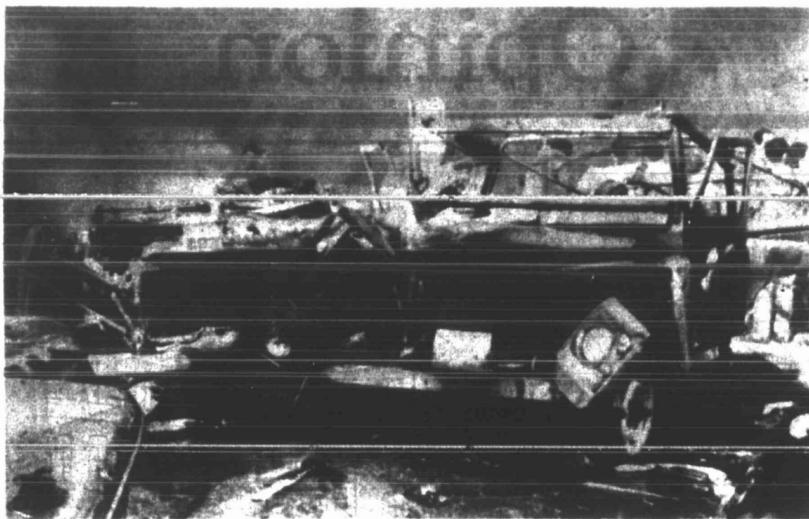

The report said the 10 counties studied, while not typical of rural areas throughout the country, "typify substantial segments of the non-metro South."

Statue may be delayed

AUSTIN — The March of the Goddess celebration will have to go on without the new Goddess of Liberty statue. She won't be ready for the Capitol dome until June.

Delay in selecting the right metal for the new Goddess, and concerns about March winds combined to postpone completion of the statue, Capitol architect Roy Graham said Monday.

"When you look at March, it's wonderful historically but it has all kinds of problems with wind and weather problems," he said at a Capitol news conference.

Smoke still rises from the wreckage after a powerful car bomb exploded in a busy shopping district in East Beirut Tuesday. Reports said at least 22 people were killed and more than 100 injured in the explosion.

Car bomb

Beirut blast kills 22, injures more than 100

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A car bomb exploded today near an office of President Amin Gemayel's Phalange Party in a crowded commercial district of Christian east Beirut, killing at least 22 people and injuring more than 100, police said.

The blast was caused by an estimated 550 pounds of explosives and damaged several buildings, set fire to others, and destroyed more than 30 cars, police said.

Chief Warrant Officer Yussef Bitar said that besides explosives, the car, a Mercedes, was loaded with gasoline tanks and oxygen bottles to turn it into a massive firebomb.

Blood-spattered Red Cross rescuers carried out scores of blackened bodies from the smoldering wreckage of buildings, and other corpses lay in ruined automobiles.

Bitar had earlier put the death toll at 25, but police later changed the figure to at least 22 dead and 102 known wounded.

Rescue officials said bodies were still lying inside the fire-blackened buildings, and that the death toll could rise.

The forces of the blast shortly before noon hurled parked cars into buildings, broke windows in a four-block radius and gouged a 19-foot-deep hole in the street. Rescuers searched the rubble of damaged buildings for casualties as thick black smoke billowed over the district.

Police declined to say if the target was the Phalange office, which was 30 yards from the explosion. The only damage there was shattered windows.

"It was a big, huge explosion," said Badieh Khoury, a shoe shop owner, as he surveyed blood-spattered boxes in his wrecked store. The blast hurled a blue Volkswagen car into his store, seriously wounded three of his employees.

"I escaped because I was in the back room," he told The Associated Press.

Police said they did not know who parked the Mercedes on a corner near a cluster of movie theaters, restaurants, a department store and a gas station.

The car bombing was the first in Beirut this year and followed a week of fighting between Gemayel's supporters and Syrian-backed Christian and Moslem rivals which severely damaged prospects for a recent Syrian-brokered peace plan.

Phalange fighters and other Christians loyal to the 43-year-old Maronite Catholic president crushed a pro-Syrian Christian rival last week and now are facing other leftist Christians and Moslem militias that blame Gemayel for wrecking a Syrian-sponsored plan to end Lebanon's 11-year-old civil war.

The blast occurred as crack Syrian army units were reported to have deployed in the central mountains facing Christian forces loyal to Gemayel.

Sources in the Lebanese army command said at least 1,100 paratroopers of the Syrian Special Forces had moved from eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley into a string of villages overlooking Gemayel's hometown of Bikfaya in the last 48 hours.

The build-up about 10 miles northeast of Beirut appeared designed to buttress Syrian-backed militias in the villages of Dhour Shweir, Ayroun and Dowwar, the sources said. Those three villages form the eastern gateway to Lebanon's Christian heartland and Gemayel's power base.

The sources spoke on condition of anonymity in keeping with army regulations.

Syria, the main power in Lebanon, did not confirm the reports Monday that its soldiers were facing Christian army units and militiamen loyal to Gemayel, and there were no clear signs that the Syrians were planning a major push against the mountains.

U.S. delegation returns

BANGKOK, Thailand — A U.S. congressional delegation headed home today with two Vietnamese children released into their custody by the Vietnamese government for a reunion in the United States with their mother whom they have not seen in six years.

The delegation, headed by Sen. Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, were on a brief fact-finding mission in Vietnam and Laos to seek information on the 2,441 Americans listed as missing in action from the Indochina War.

The Vietnamese assured delegation members they were free to return and personally investigate any reports of living Americans sighted in Vietnam.

Calm returns after coup

MASERU, Lesotho — State-run radio reported "peace and calm" throughout this mountain kingdom after the paramilitary force ousted a prime minister who had angered neighboring South Africa by his militant opposition to its racial policies.

Paramilitary commander Maj. Gen. Justin Lekhanya, who is described as a political moderate, apparently is seeking more amicable relations with South Africa. Lesotho is surrounded by South Africa and is dependent on it for most of its food, fuel and other commodities, as well as many jobs.

Yemen fight unabated

Warring Marxist factions in South Yemen reportedly were discussing a cease-fire even as they claimed on radio broadcasts to be in control of the Soviet-allied Arab nation. Refugees said more than a week of fighting had turned the capital, Aden, into a "city of death."

Official Addis Ababa radio in nearby Ethiopia on the Horn of Africa quoted South Yemen President Ali Nasser Mohammed on Monday as saying he pardoned "all those who were incited by a few adventurists and narrow tribalists" and appealed to them to follow him.

Peace talks hopeful

THE HAGUE, Netherlands — Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres says his country has gone "most of the way" toward agreeing with Jordan's King Hussein on the preconditions for Middle East peace talks.

In an after-dinner speech Monday in the 17th-century Dutch Parliament building, Peres said Israel was "very, very serious" about the effort.

"I think we have opened widely the chances of making peace with Jordan and solving the Palestinian problem," said Peres, speaking in English before an audience that included Dutch Prime Minister Ruud Lubbers.

Cold computer puts mittens on account

The envelopes with the little cellophane windows have been pouring in the house for three weeks. They're the computer bills from our Christmas binge.

Before computer billing I never doubted the charges. But now I feel differently. Computers lie. I'm not saying all computers lie, just as I'm not saying all credit managers tell the truth.

Take this bill from the Donation Department Store: "Six golf club mittens — $50."

Do you see anything wrong with that statement? Well, what would you say if I told you I have never bought golf club mittens in my life?

I called the Donation Department Store and was turned over to the credit division.

"I'm phoning about a set of golf mittens I didn't buy."

"You forgot you bought them. Most people do."

I wasn't going to let him bully me. "I didn't buy them and no one in our family bought them, because we don't play golf."

"What did your family buy in the sports department?"

"As far as I know, a tennis sweat-band for my wife."

"Your wife plays tennis?"

"No, but it helps her to see better when she's working around the house."

"It's your word against the computer's. Who do you think I believe?"

"You have to take my word. I'm a customer."

"All you people who threw your money away like drunken sailors this Christmas would love to blame a computer. Ours never makes a mistake, but let's say for argument's sake it did. Our hands are tied. You can't expect us to go back into the system and rectify the error."

"Give me an alternative."

"We might let you have the mittens for $25."

"I never received any golf mittens. Why should I pay for them?"

"Because our computer says otherwise."

"Why don't you find the person who bought the golf club mittens and charge him?"

"We would if we could find her. But our computers are not programmed to separate the golfers from the tennis players."

"Do you admit this is the Donation Store's problem?"

"It is now yours. If you fail to pay, our computer will notify every computer in the world what a slimy credit card holder you really are. My advice is send in the $50 and be grateful you're not the victim of a serious mistake."

"Why can't you just pull my name and transaction out of the memory?"

"Our computer can't spend all its time tracking what a customer bought for Christmas."

"What's the solution?"

"We've found when a computer makes a mistake by charging for an item you didn't buy, it forgets to bill you for something you purchased. So it all evens out at the end of the year."

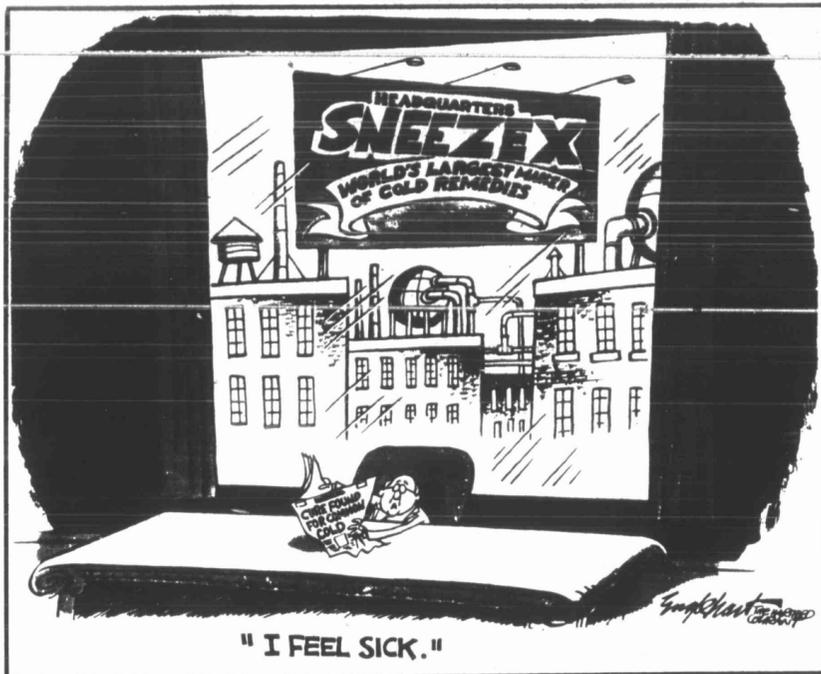

"For me?"

"No, for the computer. The only thing I can suggest is that you bring the golf mittens back and we'll give you a $50 credit."

"I don't have the mittens."

"No problem, I'll transfer you to the sports department and you can order them over the phone."

Landlords, government are force-feeding poor tenants

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — Elderly renters in several states have complained that the federal government is helping their landlords force unwanted food down their throats.

The unhappy tenants live in federally subsidized apartments. They pay 30 percent of their incomes in rent, and the feds pick up the balance. Fair enough. What some tenants object to, though, is the landlords who insist on a mandatory additional charge for a meal a day, whether the tenants want it or can even eat it.

Most federal-subsidized tenants are free to choose what they want to eat and where they want to eat it. Hundreds of housing projects have cafeterias where low-cost meals are served.

But in 98 subsidized projects with almost 7,000 elderly, low-income residents, the tenants are required to buy one meal per day provided by the landlords, according to a recent congressional survey. Dozens of tenants have written complaints to the House subcommittee on housing and community development which is looking into the problem.

One woman wrote that the mandatory meals actually make her sick, but she still has to pay for them. Several low-income tenants complained that the required meals eat up most of their monthly budgets, leaving them with almost nothing for other necessities. Obviously, the subsidized renters can't afford to move elsewhere.

The General Accounting Office, which conducted the survey for the House subcommittee, agreed with the landlords, however. The GAO concluded that meals must be mandatory to make them financially feasible for the landlords, and to make sure that the elderly tenants get at least one nutritionally balanced meal a day. The GAO, therefore, decided no changes were needed in the rules that allow mandatory meals.

The controversy isn't new. We first reported on it in 1983, and little has changed since then.

In one New York City housing project, Randall Smith and 19 other tenants have refused to pay the $110 a month demanded for the one daily meal, which they don't eat. The landlord, a non-profit corporation founded by the Episcopal Trinity Church on Wall Street, responded with eviction notices. A court order has blocked the evictions temporarily.

"The meals are terrible," the 70-year-old Smith told our reporter Vic Kolenc. Even assuming he could stomach the chow, Smith said, he prefers to cook his own meal, which "most of us" have been doing for many years.

The project manager said most tenants were satisfied with the meals, and many wouldn't be able to eat properly without the program. The tenants have filed a lawsuit against the landlord and the Housing and Urban Development Department seeking an end to the mandatory meals. They argue that since meal charges are included in the leases, the total cost must be considered rent — and thus cannot exceed 30 percent of their incomes.

Landlords and the federal government have already won cases in California, Colorado and Minnesota, where judges ruled that mandatory meal charges are not part of the rent. But a California judge last summer ruled that the government must publish guidelines for mandatory meal programs.

HUD officials said they have been using unwritten guidelines, which will soon be published. They are also working on new rules that are unlikely to exempt tenants on grounds of financial hardship. It is precisely those tenants the mandatory meal programs are intended to help, one official said.

DISAPPEARING ACT: Was President Franklin Roosevelt secretly operated on for a skin cancer during World War II? Photos of FDR began to show a spot over his left eyebrow starting in 1932 and growing bigger and darker over the next 10 to 11 years. The spot mysteriously disappeared in November 1943. Dr. Joseph Treat of Georgetown University speculates that the pigmentation could have been either a basal carcinoma, like President Reagan's skin cancer, or a melanoma — a malignancy that spread virulently throughout the president's body. There has long been speculation that FDR had inoperable stomach cancer.

Billy Graham

Heaven waits for believers

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: We are good church members, but recently a friend of mine who has become very religious asked us if we know for sure we would go to Heaven when we die. Well, I hope so, but I don't know for sure. Is it possible to know we will go to Heaven? — N.L.

DEAR N.L.: There is no more important question than that of where we will spend eternity. And yet millions of people never give more than a passing thought to this question. Millions more are like you — they "hope" they will go to Heaven, but they have no assurance or reason to expect it. But the Bible makes it clear that we can have assurance.

The key is to understand what God has done to make our salvation possible, and then to accept what He has done for us and rely on it. You see, the basic problem that keeps us out of the Heaven can be summarized in one word: sin. We have sinned against God, and sin makes us impure and unable to abide with God in Heaven because "Your eyes are too pure to look on evil; you cannot tolerate wrong" (Habakkuk 1:13).

How can we be forgiven and cleansed of our sin? We can never be clean in God's eyes by our own efforts. But He has made it possible, by sending His only Son, Jesus Christ, to die on the cross as the perfect sacrifice for our sins. Christ came to give us salvation as a free gift — if we would accept it.

Have you accepted God's gift for eternal life, by inviting Jesus Christ into your heart and trusting Him as your Savior? If not, commit your life to Christ right now. Then know that He has taken your sins away, and trust the promise of His Word: "God has given us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son of God does not have life" (1 John 5:11-12).

Today

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 21, the 21st day of 1986. There are 344 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 21, 1924, Russian revolutionary Vladimir Ilyich Lenin died of a stroke at age 54.

On this date:

In 1793, King Louis XVI of France was sent to the guillotine.

In 1861, Jefferson Davis of Mississippi and four other Southerners resigned from the U.S. Senate.

In 1908, New York City enacted an ordinance that made smoking in public by women punishable by a fine of $5 to $25 and up to 10 days' imprisonment.

In 1915, the first Kiwanis Club was founded in Detroit.

In 1950, a federal jury in New York found former State Department official Alger Hiss guilty of perjury.

Also in 1950, George Orwell, the author of Nineteen Eighty-Four and Animal Farm, died in London.

In 1954, the first atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus, was launched at Groton, Conn.

In 1959, motion picture producer Cecil B. DeMille died in Hollywood.

In 1976, the supersonic Concorde jetliner was put into service by Britain and France, with flights from London to Bahrain and from Paris to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

In 1984, actor Johnny Weissmuller, known for playing Tarzan in the movies, died in Acapulco, Mexico.

Ten years ago: President Gerald R. Ford sent Congress proposed reductions of $20 billion in federal programs, promising a tax reduction if his plan was accepted.

Five years ago: The 52 Americans who'd been held hostage 444 days in Iran arrived at a U.S. Air Base in West Germany after a transfer that took them from Teheran to Algeria, which had negotiated the release, and on to the base near Frankfurt.

South Mountain is being 'ruined'

To the editor:

When my husband and I bought the lot at 504 Highland Dr. to build our home, we asked to have something in writing saying no one could ever build behind us, since the back of our property is on the city line.

Mr. Robb said there is no need for that. As long as I own the property behind you, the mountain will never be disturbed. We were relieved. Mr. Robb was a young man. We know he would keep his word and he did.

Now the property has been sold to Mr. Christopher.

One morning I heard machinery up behind my house and began investigating. A wide cut was being made all the way across South Mountain, about the only pretty landscape left in Big Spring since Kentwood has been ruined by cutting away the hills there. The white caliche cut can be seen for miles and it isn't pretty. West Texas needs to preserve all the beauty it has.

After going up to see what was going on behind me, I cried all the way home. South Mountain was in our back yard, so to speak, and it breaks my heart to see it ruined.

Since South Mountain isn't in the City Limits, I wonder if Mr. Christopher has considered where he will get utilities — water especially. Some months, the pressure here in Highland South is very low and I'm wondering who will occupy the many houses, offices and hotel he tells of building up there.

There are more houses for sale in Big Spring right now than we have buyers, houses of all classifications.

I'm afraid that people in Highland South who have invested their life savings in homes here will always remember the white cut across South Mountain and the white sand sifting down us, because the economy of Big Spring can't take care of Mr. Christopher's pipe dreams.

Car fire brings out Good Samaritans

To the editor:

On Friday, Dec. 27, 1985, we were returning to Midland from Colorado City. While approaching the city limits of Big Spring we noticed smoke emerging from under the hood of the car. Fortunately we were near a wide median near the service road and were able to pull over on it. (Thankfully, we were not within the dangerous concrete median provided by the state, and where two accidents had occurred that day.)

Also, fortunately we were near the business place of some wonderful people, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Rorick. Their daughter, Mrs. Dockery of Colorado City visiting the Roricks was the first one there to offer us help — she immediately called the fire department.

Though the fire trucks were there within a few minutes much of the contents under the hood had been destroyed, due to the electric wiring creating the fire.

The point of this letter is to praise the Roricks who called Midland to send us a wrecker. Since it would be at least one and a half hours before it would arrive ... the Roricks took care of us and were a most hospitable family until the wrecker arrived to take us and the totaled car safely to Midland.

Yes, in all our news stories concerning violence, murder and many other sorrowful stories we still have some happy stories of people like the Roricks. In all my 83 years this has been one of my loveliest experiences in meeting with strangers. A happy story of Good Samaritans.

Lottery is fun way to raise money

To the editor:

Texas needs more and better prisons. Texas needs more money for education. Texas needs a state lottery to pay for these needs.

This way will be painless and those that don't want to play the game need not. It is a fun way to get money, better than taxes that all would have to pay.

A lottery must work for a great number of states have it.

'Look-Say' system ruins young minds

To the editor:

In 1978 I gave a paper on the prevention of mental retardation. I made a point that with proper conception and pre-natal care, mental retardation and high blood pressure would be drastically reduced in blacks.

A good many decades ago the National Education Association embarked on a policy of the "Look Say" system of teaching children to read since if they did this they could produce a generation incapable of participating in the economic life of the United States and thus dependent on a paternalistic government for survival.

Now comes Ross Perot who extends this crippling process into kindergarten. How much toughness and bravery does it take to cripple the brain of a five year old black child?

Recently Morva Collins showed that with a minimum of expenditure the problem black children of Chicago's South Side could be taught to enjoy reading and improving their minds.

Let's put an end to racism and male chauvinism by making Mrs. Morva Collins person of the year.

Dr. Donohue

She's overdoing Tylenol

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please settle something in my family. My daughter takes 12-14 Extra Strength Tylenol per day. She says she has a headache and is nervous. I say it is bad for her. She says there is no harm. Are there dangers in this? — Mrs. V.T.

Your daughter isn't acting rationally about this. The manufacturer states clearly on the label that you're not supposed to take daily doses totaling more than 4,000 milligrams. An extra strength tablet has 500 mgs. You can do your own arithmetic. Also, the label will tell you that you aren't supposed to take it for more than 10 days.

I hope you've settled this on our own before now. High doses, such as your daughter is taking, can cause a drop in the white blood cell count, and that can lead to infection. It might even cause some kidney damage.

But there's another matter of concern, and that is the headache. You must realize that daily headache is not the norm. Pain is a gift, a stop sign that's saying something is wrong, take care of it. The answer isn't pain medication. It's finding out what's wrong.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please explain hypoglycemia. — S.S.

Hypoglycemia means too little (hypo) sugar (glyco) in the blood (emia).

In a very few people this can be traced to disturbance of the pancreas, which produces insulin, a hormone that "burns" blood sugar. For example, a tumor of the pancreas, if it is producing insulin, might cause too low a level of sugar in the blood.

Most hypoglycemia arises from a different scenario. The pancreas is basically OK, but it tends to produce a bit too much insulin when it encounters carbohydrate from foods. The result is the same from this "reactive" form as from the tumor kind.

For people with reactive hypoglycemia, the answer often lies in diet manipulation. For example, they can take more frequent meals that emphasize protein over carbohydrates. See the booklet "Help for Hypoglycemia" (Low Blood Sugar)." Other readers may obtain a copy by writing me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How does a doctor determine whether or not scoliosis (spine curvature) is serious enough to treat? — Mrs. R.U.

An X-ray of the child's spine will tell how serious the curvature is. If the angle of the side-to-side deviation in the spine is less than 200 degrees, he will probably recommend postural exercises and periodic checkups to see how well that is working out. If the deviation angle is greater, bracing will probably be needed.

Another reader, Mrs. T.V.L., asks about electrical stimulation of the spine for this problem. This can be used in cases where bracing isn't needed. The little electrical device is worn only at night. It sends electrical current to the back muscles in hopes of strengthening them that way. Stronger muscles might resist the curving pressure of the backbones.

On the subject of bracing, the "Milwaukee" was once the brace of choice in most cases of scoliosis. It is somewhat cumbersome and meets with a lot of child resistance, for the child has to wear a brace for almost 24 hours. Today, there are less cumbersome braces, the Boston model, for example. Many severe cases of scoliosis have been detected through school screening examinations, a program I applaud.

Headaches — you can beat them! Write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Tame Headaches." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.00.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Smart shopping will cut down on food bills

Don't get mad when your food bill goes up — get smart.

Smart shopping strategy helps you save money at the checkout counter without sacrificing taste, nutrition or convenience, according to food and consumer experts in an article in the February issue of Redbook. The key is to devise a shopping plan.

Assess your spending habits. Pinpoint where you are overspending. Heinz Biesdorf, professor in the Department of Consumer Economics at Cornell University, suggested keeping a record of all food purchased, with prices, to compile a workable profile of your grocery spending. Or save supermarket tapes.

Many families overbuy meat, stock up on produce that spoils before it is eaten, or overspend on specialty items.

Consult the weekly food specials. Since 30 percent of the average food dollar goes for meat and poultry, check these items carefully. Stock up on sale-priced canned or packaged goods — but only those items your family likes. Don't buy too much produce or it will spoil.

"Not every special really represents substantial savings," Biesdorf said. "Be familiar enough with average regular prices to spot the good deals."

Make meal plans. Dianne Odland, home economist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Human Nutrition Service in Hyattsville, Md., said meal planning helps cut down on both impulse buying and extra trips to the supermarket.

Always go with a list. Odland said you can either go with a complete list of all specific foods needed for preplanned menus, or with a partial list of general categories such as cereal, bread, main courses and so on. That way you can buy bargains and plan meals based on what you bought.

Avoid impulse buys. Stick with your list, except for specials you can use or items you need but forgot to write down. Snack before you shop — never hit the supermarket hungry.

Use coupons wisely. Don't expect major savings with coupons — they seldom cover perishables that make up the lion's share of your food dollar. Check to see if the coupon requires a minimum purchase (often no bargain), and if the couponed item is cheaper than one on special. Don't buy a product you may not like just because you have a coupon.

Pick your supermarket carefully. Biesdorf advised shopping where the specials are. Odland said if time is tight, shop around for a consistently reasonably priced convenient store.

Consider warehouse stores. Biesdorf said they offer low prices on some items, but their stock is not consistent from week to week. To find a warehouse store, check newspaper food ads or your local Chamber of Commerce.

Follow these food shopping strategies, Maggie Morrison wrote in Redbook, and you will be able to buy more — for less money.

Dear Abby

Electrologist smells trouble when patient walks in

DEAR ABBY: I am an electrologist. A woman came to me to have the hair on her upper lip removed by electrolysis. I just finished her fifth treatment, and I do not think I can give her another. Abby, this woman has the worst body odor I have ever encountered! I noticed that her hair is always filthy. I don't believe she bathes at all. She smells so bad that it's impossible for me to work on her. Also the room smells after she leaves.

Her husband drives her to her appointments, and I cannot for the life of me understand how he can live with her and let this go on.

How do dentists, physicians, opticians and other health-care professionals handle a problem like this?

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: You assumed that because the woman's hair is filthy and she smells bad, she doesn't bathe. A reasonable assumption, but it may not be true; she may have a serious medical problem of which she is unaware, so it would be a kindness to recommend that she see her physician about her chronic body odor.

Health-care professionals should (and most do) instruct patients with chronic body odor due to carelessness to bathe and wear clean clothing for their next visit.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for two years and have one child. We live on the East coast. My in-laws, who live on the West Coast, visited us this last Christmas. When she was here, my mother-in-law made it clear that she wants all her children to be with her next Christmas. My in-laws are in their early 50s, in good health and quite well-off financially.

I think her request is outrageous and beyond our means. Although I have a good job, we are heavily in debt: $5,000 for a new car, $7,500 for my university loans, and $5,000 for other debts to begin our new home. I mentioned that it might be too expensive for us to be with them next Christmas, and my mother-in-law put us on notice to start saving now so we could make it!

Her other children are also struggling to make ends meet, but she informed them that they are expected to start saving now!

Abby, is this woman within her rights to make such demands? And am I within my rights to tell her I think she's asking too much?

FURIOUS SON-IN-LAW

DEAR FURIOUS: She is within her "rights" to issue any kind of invitation she wishes. And you are within yours to decline if you feel it's beyond your means. Whether you permit yourself to be manipulated is still your choice.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Can't Win," who received a telephone call (from Europe) informing her that a mutual relative had died suddenly. She was asked to notify the immediate family who had already left town to attend a family wedding. "Can't Win" did as she was told and was severely criticized for having "spoiled" the wedding. Some relatives thought she should have waited until after the wedding to convey the sad news.

A similar incident happened to me — in reverse. My best friend's father passes away suddenly while I was vacationing in California. His friends and family thought it would be better not to notify me since there was nothing I could do about it, and it probably would ruin my vacation.

Although I appreciated their good intentions, I regret that I was not notified.

NEW YORKER

NARVRE names new officers

The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees met recently for a pot luck supper and a business meeting with Tip Anderson presiding.

A minute of silence was held for J.T. Allen who died Jan. 11 in Tyler.

Reported ill were: John Jackson, C.A. Smauley, Mrs. H.R. Scott, Mrs. Ruth Pittman, B.F. McCreary, A.J. McClinton and Mrs. E.D. Appleton.

January birthdays present were: Mrs. O.O. Brown, Mrs. C.T. Clay and Mrs. W.N. Wood.

G.P. Morrison presented the year's audit report.

Several new officers were named. They included Mrs. J.H. Eastham, chaplain; W.C. Cole, audit committee and legislative representative; C.C. Nichols, D. Boyd and Ray Scott, trustees; Mrs. W.C. Bell, Bill Marin; audit committee; J.J. Richardson, publicity; Mrs. J.J. Richardson, sick committee; Mrs. J.T. Anderson, card committee; S.A. Wilson, entertainment committee; Mrs. J.T. Anderson, Mrs. Ethel McCannless, Mrs. O.O. Brown and Mrs. Mattie Glenn, telephone committee.

The next meeting will be a potluck supper Feb. 20 at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. J.W. Weidel, Mrs. Bill Marlin and Mrs. J.T. Culpepper were hostesses.

Group plans Valentine ball

Alpha Phi Delta had their first monthly meeting Jan. 14 at the Coors Hospitality Room. Plans were made for the annual Valentine ball, which will be held Saturday, Feb. 15, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Dora Roberts Community Center. The band "Night Shift" will be featured.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of Beta Sigma Phi. Anyone interested in attending can call 393-5733, 267-5967, or 263-8830 after 5 p.m.

A vote was taken for chapter sweetheart. Sweethearts will be announced at the ball. Plans were discussed and made for a rush social.

A program on literature was given by Tonita Reid.

The next meeting will be Jan. 28 which will begin with a visit to the club's adopted grandmother. The group will then go to Cindy Jones home.

Pledge training was held after the closing ritual.

Sesquicentennial discussed

The Elbow Extension Homemakers Club met in Dorothy Fowler's home recently and heard a speech by Johnnie Lou Avery on the Sesquicentennial.

Avery said each community will celebrate the Sesquicentennial in their own way. Howard County is planning to plant trees and flowers.

Avery suggested that county events be tied to the Sesquicentennial, such as the county fair, club programs and other events.

Avery said that $7 million has been spent overseas in advertising and $3 million in the U.S. and the thrust of tourists is expected to begin in April.

In a business meeting, the club members elected Myrl Soles as a nominee for delegate to the District 6 convention April 3 in Rankin. Each Extension Homemakers club in the county may elect a nominee. Three delegates will be elected by the Howard County Extension Homemakers Council.

In other business, members were appointed to work at the concession stand during the 4-H FFA Stock show Jan. 23-25.

The next meeting is Feb. 6 in the home of Zula Rhodes. Naomi Hunt, extension agent, will present the program.

Club distributes yearbooks

The Center Point Extension Homemaker Club met Jan. 14 at the Kentwood Center for the first meeting of the new year. New club books were distributed.

Deloris Norred installed new officers. They were Lucille Petty, president; Jen Davidson, vice president; Lennis Couch, secretary-treasurer; Bettie Cordes, reporter; and Hazel McCrary, delegate.

Members were reminded to bring cookies for the Big Spring State Hospital. Money for the club's adopted state hospital patient was collected.

Workers for the stock show were assigned. Workers will be Mary Leek, Lennis Couch and Ireba Griffith on Jan. 24; Lucille Petty, Ireba Griffith, Bettie Cordes and Hazel McCrary, Jan. 25; Frankie Walker, Olga Stamps, Cleo Eggleston, Mary Leek, Lennis Couch and Ireba Griffith, cookie suppliers.

The next meeting is Jan. 28 at 2 p.m. at the Kentwood Center. Hostesses will be Lennis Couch and Bettie Cordes.

Lila Holland is noble grand

Lila Holland was installed as noble grand during a recent Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 meeting.

Other officers installed were: Emily Ray, vice grand; Gertrude McCann, recording secretary; Juanita Hamlin, financial secretary; Lucille Brown, treasurer; Mary Cole, junior past noble grand; Lillian Rhyne, warden; and Callie Bennett, conductor.

Assisting with the installation were: Gladys Sudberry, Mary Stewart, Janel Barnhill, Myrtle Gring, Margie Norwood, Lucille Petty and Olean Melton.

Members having birthdays in January were honored during the business meeting.

The second week in May and October were the dates voted on to give cookies to the Big Spring State Hospital.

The next meeting is at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Howard gains split with Clarendon

• Queens rally in second half

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

It was a night when the Howard College Hawk Queens played Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. After lethargic first half, where at one point the Queens were down by as much as 17 points, Don Stevens' women responded with a complete turnaround in the last half to collect a hard fought 79-77 victory over Clarendon College Monday night.

"I can't repeat what I told the girls at halftime, but I guess it worked," said Stevens following his first Western Junior College Athletic Conference win of the year. "We came out pressing in the second half and I think that made the difference. We had to get the intensity up somehow, because we had nothing in the first half."

The two teams actually played fairly evenly through the first half of the opening period with Clarendon holding a slight 18-15 lead with 9:34 remaining. But Howard began turning the ball over, 12 times alone in the first half, and the Lady Bulldogs started to build a commanding lead.

Led by forward Aretha Brown, who had 17 first half points, and posts Sheila Adams and Vicki Peacock who both tallied nine points in the period, Clarendon scored almost at will against the glassy eyed Queens. At the 2:47 mark, Clarendon opened its biggest bulge of the game, 40-23.

Luckily the Lady Bulldogs got into foul trouble just before the half, sending freshman reserve guard Trina Allen to the line three straight times where she meshed all six free throws to pull Howard to within 45-33 at the half.

Following Stevens' tongue lashing, the Queens came out in an aggressive full-court press and quickly chipped away at the lead.

Again the catalyst was Allen, a 5-5 ball of energy scored 10 points and pulled down three rebounds in a five minute spurt before fouling out at the 14:39 mark. Then the Queens trailed only 55-49.

A minute later, Howard starting point guard Pam Franklin joined Allen on the bench via fouls and the Queens looked to be in trouble. But freshman Queens page 2-B

• Hawks nipped in double OT

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

The Howard College Hawks went to the well one too many times against Clarendon College.

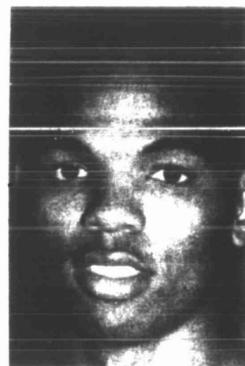

After failing to put the game away on final shots during regulation and the first overtime period, Clarendon built up a seven point lead in the second overtime and held on to upset the Hawks, 84-82, Monday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

It was a heartbreaking loss for the Hawks, who dropped their third close conference game in a row and now stand 2-4 in Western Junior Athletic Conference play.

The Hawks and Bulldogs played nip and tuck through most of the first half. Clarendon opened up its biggest lead of the game, 25-16 at the ten minute mark of the first half. But Howard quickly cut the lead back to four, 30-26 with 5:01 left in the half.

Freshman forward Mike McCall hit his first four shots and sophomore center Walt Reynolds connected on all six of his first half shots to keep the Hawks close.

The lead changed hands several times in the final minutes of the half with Clarendon taking a slim 38-37 lead into the lockerroom at halftime.

The Hawks came out strong in the second half, scoring the first six points to regain the lead, but the Bulldogs never let the home team out of their sights.

Foul trouble began to plague several Hawk starters in the second half as has been the case in all of the recent losses. McCall picked up his fourth foul early in the period as did guard Nate Archibald and post Mike Duran, leaving Reynolds as the only consistent scorer on the floor for Hawks page 7-B the Hawks through much of the second half.

The 6'7 1/2 sophomore responded with a career-high 31 points on the night and kept Howard in the lead through much of the second half.

Duran came back in with eight minutes left in the game with the Hawks up by four, but picked up his last foul at the 6:12 mark again leaving the burden on Reynolds, who didn't leave the floor the entire night.

Lendl tops in 1985

LONDON (AP) - Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia officially was named world champion for 1985 by the International Tennis Federation Monday.

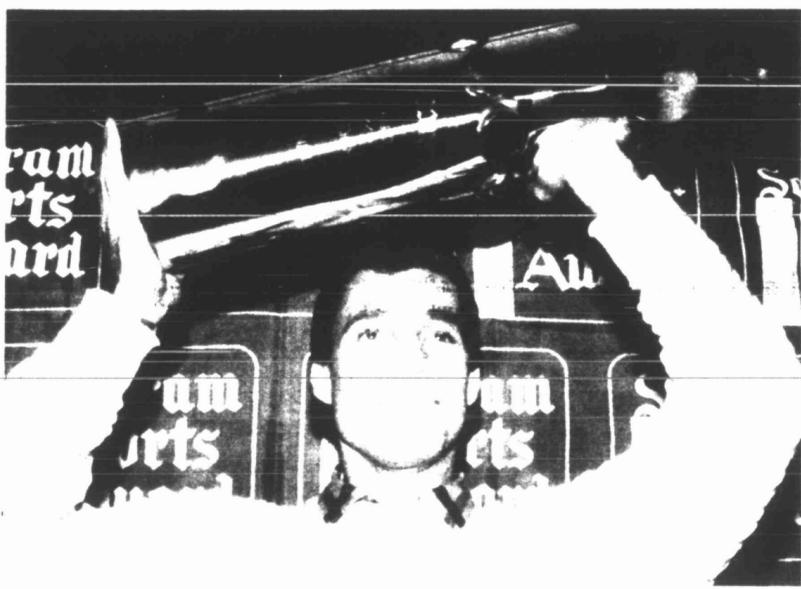

The American-based Czechoslovakian unanimously was chosen by the ITF world champions panel of former greats, comprising Don Budge - the first ever winner of the Grand Slam - Fred Perry, who won three successive Wimbledon singles finals from 1934 to 1936 without dropping a set, Frank Sedgman and Tony Trabert, the last American winner of the French championships 31 years ago.

Lendl, 25, swept West Germany's Boris Becker in straight sets Sunday to win the Nabisco Masters in New York for the third time and confirm his position as the world's No. 1 player.

He is the first former ITF junior champion, the title he held in 1978, to go on to become the senior world titlist.

Lendl will be guest of honor when the presentation is made at the world champions dinner during the French Championships in Paris from May 26 to June 8.

Budge, summing up the decision to nominate Lendl as world champion, said, "I do not see how you could fail to vote for Ivan. He won more tournaments (10) on more surfaces than anyone else. The records of other players do not even come close to matching the great year he enjoyed during 1985."

Trabert said Lendl's head-to-head record against the other top contenders underlined the fact that he was the best player.

"What impresses me most is the way he has improved his game. He moves so much better than he used to, has gained a great deal of self confidence and earned the right to be number one," Trabert said.

Sedgman said he was disappointed that Lendl did not have a better year in the Davis Cup while Perry described him as "a workhorse who has tackled the things he needed to work on and really improved over the last 12 months."

Bobcats hit boards to drop Lady Steers

SAN ANGELO - The San Angelo Central Bobcats took advantage of their strong rebounding to drop the Big Spring Lady Steers 55-41 in District 4-5A basketball here last night.

Kathy Klepac, Terri Washington and Pam Rose led the Bobcats board attack, combining for 22 offensive rebounds. That was one rebound less than the Lady Steers grabbed the entire game.

The win was the third straight for the Bobcats, now 12-10 for the season and 5-4 in district play. Big Spring falls to 7-13 overall and 2-7 in loop play.

In other 4-5A games last night, Midland Lee downed Midland 42-35, Abilene High squeaked by Cooper 68-66 and Permian downed Odessa 62-51.

Rose was the leading force for Central as she hauled down 14 rebounds, including five on the offensive end. Washington pulled down 9 rebounds and scored 14 points.

After leading 27-23 at the half, Central came on strong in the final two quarters to win going away. Central padded its lead to 42-32 going into the final quarter.

Central's Bonnie Campbell led all scorers with 15 points.

Big Spring was led by forward Sheri Myrick and reserve guard-forward Priscilla Banks with 9 points each. Teresa Pruitt added seven rebounds and eight points.

Oilers give Glanville head coaching position

HOUSTON (AP) - Jerry Glanville, who took charge of the Houston Oilers on an interim basis for the final two games of the 1985 season, Monday was named head coach of the National Football League team.

Glanville was chosen after a lengthy search by Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog and the scrutiny of owner Bud Adams. The other two finalists were San Francisco 49ers quarterback coach Paul Hackett and Dick Coury, former head coach of the United States Football League's Portland Breakers.

"Glanville's knowledge and aggressive and enthusiastic approach to the game was certainly important in the final analysis," Adams said.

"Jerry has proven himself as a winner as he played an integral part of the Atlanta Falcons organization between 1977 and 1982, which saw the Falcons compete in the NFL playoffs in three of those years," Adams said.

Herzog said that Glanville, an NFL assistant coach for 12 years, could get the "maximum potential from our football talent in the shortest possible time."

Herzog said Glanville fit the three standards Oilers' executives considered: He had NFL experience, confidence in himself and the football team, and indicated he would hire veteran NFL assistants for his coaching staff.

"I'm very happy that the Houston Oilers' ownership and management has the confidence that I can be a quality coach in the NFL," Glanville said. "Of course, being the head coach of an NFL team is a position that I've always dreamed of having, and now I look forward to proving worthy of my position every time we step out onto the field."

Glanville is the 13th head coach in the 27-year history of the franchise, replacing Hugh Campbell, who was fired Dec. 9 with two games remaining in the 1985 season.

Glanville, the team's defensive coordinator for the past two seasons, replaced Campbell on an interim basis for the remainder of the season, both losses, leaving the Oilers with a 5-11 record.

Herzog, before naming his fourth head coach in five seasons as general manager, promised an exhaustive search before making his latest selection.

The Oilers have not had a winning season since 1980, when former Coach Bum Phillips was fired on

New Year's Eve following an 11-5 season.

Herzog named Ed Biles, the defensive coordinator under Phillips as coach. Biles resigned six games into the 1983 season with an 8-23 record and Chuck Studley, Biles' defensive coordinator, finished the season.

Herzog then hired Campbell and signed quarterback Warren Moon to a five-year, $5.5 million contract in what he later said was a package deal.

Houston finished 3-13 in Campbell's first season and the team's offense was criticized at the end of the year.

The Oilers won three straight games at mid-season in 1985, but then lost six of their final seven games and Campbell was dismissed following a 35-14 loss to the New York Giants.

Glanville's youthful defense was a team strength through much of last season but it gave up big yardage over the final six games.

Herzog fired all Houston assistant coaches at the end of the season except Bill Walsh, who was given permission to talk with other NFL clubs. Walsh has been the Oilers' offensive line coach the past three seasons.

Pats, Bears laid Super Bowl foundation in '83

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Forget that the calendar says 1986. The groundwork for Sunday's Super Bowl meeting between the Chicago Bears and New England Patriots was laid in a New York hotel ballroom on April 26, 1983.

That was the date of the 1983 draft and a quick look at the rosters of the Bears and the Patriots shows its impact.

When the Bears take the field in the Superdome Sunday, six of their 22 starters will be players who were chosen that day.

Left tackle Jim Covert and wide receiver Willie Gault were taken on the first round; left cornerback Mike Richardson on the second; strong safety Dave Duerson on the fourth; and defensive end Richard Dent and left guard Mark Bortz on the eighth.

Another starter, wide receiver Dennis McKinnon, went undrafted, but made the team later that year as a free agent.

The Patriots picked up five Super Bowl starters the same day.

Their first pick was quarterback Tony Eason, one of six quarterbacks taken in the first round that day.

They got right tackle Steve Moore and wide receiver Stephen Starring on the third; running back Craig James on the seventh; left cornerback Ronnie Lippert on the eighth; and Johnnie Rembert, who alternates at inside linebacker, on the fourth.

James, New England's leading rusher, was a bonus. Projected as a first-round pick, he signed with the Washington Redskins of the United States Football League before the draft and was allowed to pass all the way through the first six rounds.

Despite low-round bonuses like James and Dent and no-round bonuses like McKinnon and free safety Gary Fencik of the Bears, however, both teams are built on quality athletes. There are nine first-round draft choices on each roster; the Patriots have seven second-rounders and the Bears have six.

Steers host Central

The Big Spring Steers will try to get back on the winning track when they host the San Angelo Central Bobcats tonight at 8 p.m. in Steer Gym.

The Bobcats come into the game with a 11-11 overall record and 3-3 district mark. They have lost three-in-row, the last being a 53-51 decision to Abilene Cooper. Chris Lowery leads Central in scoring with a 23.2 average. They have scored 68.3 points per game with a 10.2 average.

The Steers, 2-4 in district play and 3-15 overall, are coming off a 89-69 setback to Abilene High last Friday in Abilene. In that game forward Brian Mayfield and guard Kevin McKeown combined for 40 points.

Queens

guard Lisa Iden, a local product of Sands High School, came in and ran the offense without a hitch, enabling the Queens their surge toward the lead.

After a terrible first half of shooting, Howard forward Terri Powell caught fire midway through the second half hitting five long jumpers to pull the Queens within two, 63-61 with eight minutes remaining in the game.

The Queens inside game also came alive behind the excellent play of post Carolyn Willandt, who crashed the boards for a game-high 15 rebounds. The six-foot freshman canned a turnaround jumper at the 6:42 mark to give the Queens their first lead of the half, 67-65.

The lead changed hands several times during the final five minutes of play as the team's post personnel began to dominate play. Clarendon's

Brown and Willandt each hit two buckets before Queens forward Lorri French tied the game at 77-77 on a driving jumper with 45 seconds left.

Clarendon failed to score on its next possession and the Queens worked the clock down to 28 seconds when Powell nailed the game winner on a beautiful 20-foot jumper.

Clarendon called time out with 26 seconds remaining to set up for a final shot. The Lady Bulldogs got off two shots in the ten seconds but both clattered off the iron to preserve the Howard victory.

"We had got some strong play from our bench tonight," commented Stevens. "Trina (Allen) had an outstanding game while she was in there and Lisa (Iden) took care of the ball and hit some important shots. Terri (Powell) and Carolyn (Willandt) also had fine performances in the second half."

Hawks

The Hawks had a 64-60 lead with two minutes remaining in the game but could not extend the lead on two opportunities. Clarendon knotted the score at 64-64 on a LaVert Bizzle jumper with 48 seconds remaining and the Hawks called a timeout to set up the last shot.

Unfortunately, the Hawks never got their offense in motion for a good shot, turning the ball over on an inside pass to Reynolds with 21 seconds.

Clarendon's Tim Moore, who was one of four Bulldogs in double figures with 13 points, missed a jumper in the lane with seven seconds remaining.

Howard got the last shot in regulation when Reynolds grabbed Moore's errant shot and threw an outlet pass to reserve guard Tim Cope, who pulled up for a 25-foot jumper at the buzzer that clattered off the iron.

Reynolds and Clarendon's Virgil Reagins each scored three baskets in the first overtime period and again the Hawks had an opportunity to ice the game on a last shot with 35 seconds left.

But the Howard guards could not penetrate the tough Clarendon defense, squandering a golden opportunity as point guard Vernard Goode missed his off-balance jumper at the buzzer with the score tied 74-74.

The Hawks sealed their own grave in the second overtime period, missing a crucial front end free throw opportunity and giving up two easy baskets on turnovers. Roderick Davis iced the game for the Bulldogs with a pair of free throws with 20 seconds giving his team an insurmountable 84-77 lead.

Atlanta keeps winning ways

By The Associated Press

The Atlanta Hawks, a non-playoff team in 1985 that was not expected to improve much this season, continue their surprising rise in the

NBA

The Hawks won for the 10th time in 12 games Monday night, defeating first-place Milwaukee 101-98 in a matchup of Central Division leaders. It was only the third loss in 13 NBA games for the Bucks, who still lead Atlanta by four games, but the Hawks now have a four-game edge on third-place Detroit.

Kevin Willis had a season-high 24 points and 17 rebounds for the Hawks, including a jumper with 42 seconds left that snapped a 97-97 tie.

In other National Basketball Association games, it was Los Angeles Lakers 133, Chicago 118; Philadelphia 103, New York 93; Cleveland 108, Phoenix 93; and Indiana 105, Detroit 99.

Sidney Moncrief, who shared with Paul Pressey the scoring lead for Milwaukee with 23 points, said the Bucks went into the game hoping to reassert their longtime dominance over the rest of the division.

Lakers 133, Bulls 115

Los Angeles continued its streak of not losing two straight games this season as James Worthy scored 33 points, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 27 and Magic Johnson 24 against Chicago.

The Lakers extended a 68-52 halftime lead to 20 points early in the third quarter, but 10 points each in the period by Orlando Woolridge and George Gervin cut the deficit to 97-85 going into the final 12 minutes.

Pacers 105, Pistons 99

Wayman Tisdale scored 11 of his 29 points in the third quarter as Indiana snapped an eight-game losing streak by defeating Detroit.

The two teams were tied 54-54 at halftime, but the Pacers outscored the Pistons 25-7 in the first 9:07 of the second half to take an 81-63 lead. Detroit, which got 27 points from Vinnie Johnson and 23 from Isiah Thomas, cut the deficit to 87-82 with 8:54 left, but a 9-2 Indiana spurt expanded the margin to 12.

76ers 103, Knicks 83

Philadelphia's 1-2 punch of Moses Malone and Charles Barkley was too much for New York to handle.

Malone had 30 points and 12 rebounds and Barkley 24 points and 18 rebounds to lead the 76ers to their 15th victory in 17 games.

The Knicks turned the ball over 24 times leading to 31 Philadelphia points.

Cavaliers 106, Suns 93

Cleveland took an 18-5 lead in the first five minutes, established a 66-41 halftime margin and coasted to victory over Phoenix.

World B. Free led the Cavaliers' first-half surge with 18 of his 31 points as Cleveland outshot the Suns 58 percent to 33 percent in the first two periods.

ed with the 1963 NFL championship team and 1975, when Walter Payton came along, Chicago's first-round picks were distinguished by mediocrity.

For every Gale Sayers and Dick Butkus, both No. 1s in 1965, Chicago's top choices included such forgettable names as George Rice (1966), Mike Hull (1968); Joe Moore (1971); Craig Clemons (1973) and Dave Gallagher (1974).

But the tide turned in 1975, when Chicago took Payton, of Jackson State, with the fourth pick of the draft. Payton simply became the leading rusher in NFL history and ran for 1,551 yards this season at age 34.

More blue-chippers followed Payton as Chicago's top picks.

There was defensive lineman Dan Hampton in 1979, linebacker Otis Wilson in 1980, offensive tackle Keith Van Horne in 1981, when All-Pro middle linebacker Mike Singletary was taken No. 2, quarterback Jim McMahon in 1982, Covert and Gault in 1983, linebacker Wilber Marshall in 1984 and defensive tackle William Perry in 1985. All are starters, and the 300-pound-plus Perry — also known as The Refrigerator — has become the season's major media event for his occasional running and pass receiving.

That seems to be the result of Chicago's willingness to take a chance.

"Coming out of college, I was 6-5, 225 and a lot of people thought I would be too small," says Dent, who beeped up to 255 and became an All-Pro two years after his eighth-round selection.

"You've got to give Mike Ditka a hand for giving me that chance to prove myself. The same for 'The Fridge.' People thought he was too big."

The Patriots never shared Chicago's reputation for mediocre top picks. The rap on them was the inability to mold those blue-chippers into a team with better than an 8-8 or 9-7 mark. Since Raymond Berry took over as coach midway through last season, things began taking on a more positive look.

"I give the credit for what we've done to Raymond and his staff," says Dick Steinberg, the Patriots' director of personnel and one of the most respected talent scouts in the NFL.

New England's core included such first-rounders as guard John Hannah (1973), center Pete Brock (1976), right cornerback Raymond Clayborn and wide receiver Stanley Morgan (1977), safety Roland James (1980) and tackle Brian Holloway (1981).

There also were such other acquisitions as Julius Adams (second round, 1971), linebacker Steve Nelson (second, 1974), quarterback Steve Grogan (fifth, 1975) and linebacker Larry McGrew (second, 1980).

The Pats also have two players who were the first taken in the draft — wide receiver-punt returner Irving Fryar (1984) and defensive end Kenneth Sims (1982). Sims has been on injured reserve after breaking a leg and will probably miss Sunday's game.

But without that 1983 draft, probably none of them would be here.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JAN. 22, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Changes are still the main influence in your life today but they are for the best and if you go along with them, you will be able to have a far greater amount of expansion of your talents.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good friends can give you the information you need so go after it, and give them a helping hand.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Go to a person you know who will be prosperous in the days ahead. Don't confide in others for they will try to spoil your plans.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A modern thinking individual understands your needs and will help you to satisfy them.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Talk your interests over with experts and gain good advice for improving them. Have an intimate talk with your mate.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to join some good friend at some special site and discuss important affairs while having a good time as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A higher-up can give you good ideas on how to get rid of some situation that has been bothering you for some time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can gain your wishes now if you are willing to make things a little different than you had planned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can now comprehend your family's aims and will help them to achieve them. Don't be stingy with your time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be with an outside partner and reach a fine meeting of minds. Later you have greater success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study into whatever is up-to-date and apply it to your own operations in the future and gain more success.

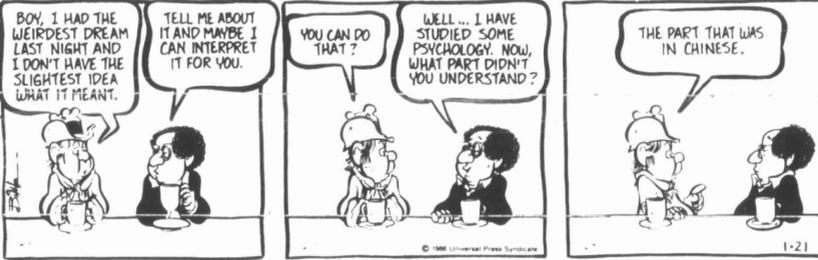

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan recreations that appeal most to you and make arrangements for them. You have an innate talent that should be brought out.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Gain further cooperation from those who dwell under the same roof by doing something unusual. Buy a thoughtful gift.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she is apt to have much luck during the lifetime since the mind is sharp and the personality very likable. An inventive ability is here that will impress bigwigs. Make sure you plan for a fine education early in life and teach good manners. One who will attract many fine friends.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Sportman's "Hall of Fame" full of tape-measure trophies

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Baseball fans go wild over tape-measure home runs. But a deer hunter's adrenaline will flow when a tape-measure trophy is sighted.

A tape-measure, and possibly a calculator or at least a note pad, are the main tools that official scorers of big-game trophies use to determine which animals enter the sportsman's "Hall of Fame."

While most of us are satisfied to count the points on trophy deer, when it comes to the record book the methods for listing rack size are a bit more complex than just counting how many points jut out from an antler. The most accurate way of comparing trophies is to have them measured by either of two systems that are recognized worldwide as official.

The oldest, started in 1932, is the Boone & Crockett (B&C) Club's measuring program which certifies trophies taken on the North American continent — including sheep, goat, bear, pronghorn, cougar and, of course, antlered animals. In 1947 the first trophy competition was held which resulted in the publishing of updated record books about every four years since.

The B&C scoring method was also adopted by the Pope & Young (P&Y) Club which only concerns itself with game animals taken by bow and arrow. B&C confines its listings to animals taken with firearms. The two listings use exactly the same criteria but are coordinated by different organizations.

Relatively new on the scoring scene is a system that some hunters claim will surpass both of the others in popularity — and may already have. It's run by Safari Club International (SCI), a Tucson, Arizona-based organization with more than 100,000 members. Three Pennsylvania chapters, in the Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Lehigh Valley regions, boast nearly 1,000 members.

The SCI record book is easier to enter than the other two and more hunters stand a chance at having their kills registered.

Dick Laros, an Allentown taxidermist, is familiar with the scoring techniques used in the two systems and is an official scorer for SCI. I met with him recently to seek an interpretation of the "numbers game" for the average deer hunter, like me, who may be confused by the whole thing.

"The scores in the two systems have absolutely nothing to do with one another," explained Laros, taking official B&C score sheets for mule deer and white-tailed deer from his file.

"You can't even compare the scores of two trophies of different species like mule deer and whitetails, he said. "Each has its own criteria."

Although the scoring system seems, at first, complex, by following the instructions on official score sheets issued by B&C, anyone who can add and subtract can come up with a close score for his or her trophy.

Although it's too involved to explain here, the B&C score is based on an antler's inside spread, total lengths of all the points and varied circumferences of the points at their bases plus the circumference of the burr (where the antler grows from the skull).

Subtractions are then made for abnormal points which jut from varied places on the rack. If the inside spread of the main beams exceeds the longest antler, then the difference is also subtracted from the total score. You get the idea.

A totally different set of rules is used for judging mule deer heads, primarily because of the differing antler structure on mule deer which breaks off into Y-shaped tines.

To make the B&C record book, a whitetail rack must measure at least 160, recently reduced from 170. Pope and Young's minimum for record book entry is only 125; based on the premise that getting a trophy bowhunting is more difficult than in hunting with a rifle.

The world record whitetail, shot in 1914 in Wisconsin, scored 206½ points.
