Traffic lights

Q. Some traffic lights have two red lights and some only one. What's the difference?
A. Locations with a dual traffic light are set by state law, said public works director Tom Decell. If one of the lights should go out, there would be a backup available, he said. The locations for a dual traffic light are determined by such things as amount of traffic or accidents at the intersection, he said.

Sewer plant to be repaired

City to spend $175,000 on wastewater system

City Manager Don Davis and Public Works Director Tom Decell outline plans to improve and repair the city's sewage treatment plant at a news conference today.

Plant riddled with problems during 1980-81 renovation

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer
The sewage treatment plant that state officials say is now in compliance was plagued by shoddy work, component failures, busted deadlines and possible conflict of interest during $3.4 million in modification in 1980-81, according to documents of the Texas Department of Water Resources.
At one time as many as 68 electrical deficiencies were discovered by inspectors during the plant's construction and the plant's inability to handle flood-water runoff compounded renovation problems, according to internal memos written by Henry P. Day, field representative for the water resources department.

Eventually, however, Day "signed off" on the project, certifying that it met specifications. However, the city has been out of compliance with state pollution standards in certain months of 1982 and from June 1984 to November 1985. It was later discovered that discharge documents may have been falsified in months when the city appeared to have been in compliance.

The city has blamed improperly trained personnel, environmental problems and equipment failure for the pro-

The city plans to spend $175,000 to $200,000 for improvements to the wastewater treatment plant in an effort to boost the efficiency and cleansing capacity of the facility, Public Works Director Tom Decell said today.
Construction is scheduled to start April 7 with a target completion date of July 15.

modification costing $3.4 million in 1980-81, will come from funds already earmarked for wastewater improvement, Decell said.
"The money has been voted in the bond issue for wastewater improvements," Decell said. "The bonds have been sold. The money's available."

'I think we showed that we were making sincere and bonafide efforts to get the thing into compliance immediately.'
— Don Davis

On Tuesday, Decell, City Manager Don Davis, Councilman Harold Hall and Mayor Clyde Angel met with officials from the Texas Water Commission in Austin to explain why the city has been consistently out of compliance on its discharge permit and what the city intends to do about it.
The commission had delayed a routine renewal of the city's wastewater permit Jan. 7 pending the Tuesday meeting. On Tuesday, the commission voted 3-0 to renew the permit.
"I think we showed that we were making sincere and bonafide efforts to get the thing into compliance immediately as well as presenting some long-term proposals for the continuation of staying in permit," Davis said.
Davis said the commission voted to approve the permit with little probing or questioning.
The plans for improvements to the plant are being formulated by engineers and will be presented for consideration to the city council Feb. 14, Decell said.
Money being used to finance improvements to the system, which underwent extensive Decell said repair work at the plant will not come at the expense of capital improvement needs in other areas of the city.

In November, Decell cited high personnel turnover of plant operators and supervisors as one reason why the plant was not operating up to par.
Decell said this morning that the employee turnover rate is still higher than desirable, but the city plans to beef up its training regimen of operators and maintenance people.
"We've got some plans for training of our people and cross-training of our people; we're taking our maintenance team and letting them get proficient as operators," he said. "We're taking our operators and working them with our maintenance teams so they can assist" in plant maintenance.

Prices of crude oil continue to slide

NEW YORK (AP) — A continued drop in crude oil prices will have favorable consequences for the U.S. economy and consumers, but the "utter chaos in the oil business" bodes ill for oil exporters and debtor nations, analysts said.
West Texas Intermediate, the major domestic grade of oil, dropped 67 cents per barrel Tuesday to $20.60 for February delivery, while Brent North Sea crude fell to $19.70 a barrel in the cash market, down from Monday's $20.75.
The February futures contract for Brent North Sea bucked the trend, opening higher at $21 a barrel, falling to $19.50, then recovering to close at $20.20, up a nickel a barrel from Monday's close.

Still, overall crude prices have decreased by 37 percent since November and 20 percent since Jan. 15. Gasoline and heating oil prices, however, were up slightly Tuesday on the New York Mercantile Exchange, which reported its highest-ever trading volume.
"I think we've got utter chaos in the oil business and there is no confidence in anybody stepping in to restore stability," said Rosario Ilacqua, an analyst at the New York brokerage house L.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin.

"The facts are, if the producing countries cannot get together to hold the price at $27, what is to hold it at $20 or $15?" said Ilacqua. However, he joined other analysts in suggesting that price pressures would force an eventual turnaround.
Since the 1970s, fears of shortages, the high cost of oil and concern over double-digit inflation spawned by the price explosion led to conservation and fuel switching that undermined demand for oil.

That helped produce the petroleum glut that's causing prices to collapse.
The fallout also hit the stock market. Six of the most active issues Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange were oil companies and all fell. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 14.68; three of its 30 stocks are oil companies.
"It is a complex phenomenon which will affect countries differently," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said, reading a statement in Washington. "The effect of a drop in oil prices on the U.S. economy and particularly on U.S. consumers is favorable."

A one-year drop of $5 per barrel would reduce the U.S. inflation rate by one percentage point and boost the gross national product six-tenths, according to estimates by Data Resources Inc. of Lexington, Mass.

There's more to school nursing than treating cuts and bruises

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer
A tousled-haired child, tears in her eyes, limped into the nurse's office at Bauer Magnet School.
"I fell down in P.E.," she sniffled. Nurse Helen Crandall rolled up the child's jeans leg and applied a band-aid to the skinned knee.
The majority of cases Crandall treats are bruises and cuts, she said, but there's a lot more to the job than just first aid.
"I make home visits, take the (ill or hurt) child home when there's no transportation available (and) if the mother's home, pick up medication (from the doctor or drug store)," she said.
"There's a lot more to it than you think," she added. "It's a constant challenge which I really love."

School nurses are being honored nationwide during School Nurse Awareness Week this week.
Crandall started her job as school nurse this year. She divides her time between Bauer, Big Spring High School and Moss Elementary School. The two other school system nurses, Stela Ruiz and Helen Walters, handle the remaining schools.
A big part of Crandall's job is preventative medicine.
"We do some teaching in the classrooms during Dental Health Week, show some films," she said. "In the fourth and fifth grades we do the films on (adolescent) development."
Crandall also detects vision, hearing and other problems and refers parents to doctors.

"The school nurse has a great responsibility to pick up eye problems especially," she said. "A lot of children do not get routine checkups." She said she alerts parents when children need to see a doctor.
In the future, school nurses will probably have a greater responsibility in helping parents determine when a child needs medical attention, she said.
"We are seeing a change," she said. "A lot of times every time a child coughed they'd take him to the doctor." But parents are increasingly hesitant to consult a doctor because of the rising costs of medical care, she said.
Another trend Crandall sees is an blems and says now it has a plan to solve the plant's shortcomings.

There was so much concern about faulty work that on July 8, 1981, Day met with city officials who "wanted to assess their legal position concerning the possibility of liquidated damages" against Belco Construction Co. of Temple, general contractor on the project. "There was some concern that the city might have difficulty due to city employees working for Belco," Day wrote in a July 21, 1981, memorandum.

At that special session of the City Council, held six months after the project was supposed to have been finished but was not, concern was expressed about Gene Smith, plant superintendent, drawing money from both the city and a subcontractor for the project.

According to documents, Smith began working for Electric of Texarkana, the electrical subcontractor on the sewer plant work, in November of 1980 while he was still employed by the city.

"The main concern was Gene Smith who was apparently working for a large number of hours for the contractor (Electric) while being paid for the same hours by Big Spring," Day noted.

Smith, a journeyman electrician, approached then Public Utilities Director Bill Brown in November 1980 and reported his intention to work for Electric in his spare time, according to a May 19 memo from Day.

Brown told Day he consented because he felt Smith would learn about the workings of the plant's electrical system and because Electric was having a difficult time hiring qualified electricians, Day reported. Smith resigned from the city March 31, 1981, after being reassigned to the city water plant by Brown.

Later, the plant's electrical system installed by Electric was found to be deficient and fraught with poor work.

Although the July 8, 1981, meeting, described by Day as a "special session of the City Council" was attended by City Manager Don Davis, Mayor Clyde Angel, Councilman Russ McEwen and (then) Councilmen Jack Y. Smith and Bobby Fuller, a quorum of the city council, there was no council meeting called on that date, according to records at city hall.

Also discussed at the meeting were the electrical problems that dogged the plant, which had been logged by different plant inspectors at various times, Day said. He also noted an attempt made to cover up the defective work to avoid detection. Among the sub-standard electrical work were:

- Numerous splices, bare wire and undersized relay cabinets.
- The wrong gauge wire and the wrong type of wire insulation.
- Bare wire in areas near a transformer conducting 440 volts of electricity.
- Electrical connections that were taped instead of being properly made.
- Faulty wiring to electric motors.
- Inadequate sized conduit for accommodating specified wire.

Tom White, an Electric superintendent brought in to restore quality to the project, estimated it would cost his company approximately $30,000 to make repairs — not including work to be done on faulty equipment supply by the vendor estimated at $20,000, according to documents.

During a May 12 inspection of the plant, most of the electrical problems were being ironed out, according to Day's memo. Former Councilman Bob Fuller asked how much money might have been realized by fraudulent equipment and wiring installation. Project engineer C.R. Crim of Crim Engineering answered that it might have been in the range of $50,000, according to the memo.

Another major discussion at the May 12 inspection was the problems the plant was having with infiltration and inflow. Heavy rainfall resulted in severe hydraulic overloading of the plant, according to the memo.

Numerous pieces of clay tile pipe, rusty metal, road paving materials and rocks from 1/2 inch in diameter were filtered out by the grit removal system on several occasions, documents showed. The volume of flow and the size of materials that passed through the lift pumps indicated a severe problem with the project's collection system, Day said. The material that passed through the lift pumps was large enough to have done damage to the pumps, the memo stated.

The system was designed to handle an average daily flow of 3.8 million gallons and a maximum flow of 5 million gallons per day. After heavy rains, it recorded a maximum daily flow on September 28, 1980, of 16.6 million gallons and the average daily flow between Sept. 23 and Oct. 1 was 10.11 million gallons, department documents show.

Allen White, area engineer for the state Water Development Board, said Tuesday that the very low level of pollutants in the Jan. 15 sample — upon which the Texas Water Commission based its permit renewal — gives "an indication that the plant is capable of producing a good effluent."

"I wouldn't read that to mean that everything is working properly," he said. "One sample does not a year make."

"These kids I'm seeing are not high school seniors about to graduate. It's all grades," she said. "The majority are having them (the babies) and coming back to school. Mothers or some relatives are taking care of the babies."

Crandall said she often counsels high school students on personal and medical problems.

"Something eventually is going to have to be done" to combat the rising teen pregnancy rate, she said. Solutions other school districts in the nation have offered are providing contraceptives and family planning at the school clinic and providing care for the babies of students.

The Big Spring Independent School District provides a home-bound program for pregnant students and those that have recently given birth. Schools are making an effort to keep the students in school, Crandall said.

JP's ex-secretary on trial for theft

A four-man, eight-woman jury began hearing testimony in 118th District Court today in the theft trial of a former secretary to a justice of the peace.

Lee Winchester, 44, of 538 Westover was named in a 21-count indictment by a Howard County Grand Jury in October for theft over $750 but less than $20,000. The former secretary for Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin was indicted after an investigation by Texas Ranger Charles Brune.

Assistant District Attorney Robert Morris read to jurors in his opening statement 19 various accounts of persons paying merchant debts that never were received by the creditors.

Wayne Basden, attorney for Winchester, told jurors in his opening remarks that they should pay close attention to the state's obligation to "prove beyond a reasonable doubt," that Winchester, "intentionally and knowingly committed the felony."

He further said that the state was compelled to prove that Winchester knowingly "misapplied property contrary to an agreement and the law."

Basden said the state had to prove that Winchester had an agreement to collect the debts.

Morris called nine witnesses who testified that they received letters from Heflin's office informing them they were delinquent on particular accounts and the matter would be referred to small claims court if the debts were not resolved. Each letter was dated and contained Heflin's rubber-stamped signature, according to testimony. All letters were entered into evidence.

Each witness testified that he or she received a receipt that was dated. The receipt showed the amount of money received and which merchant's account it pertained to.

Basden passed on questioning the state's witnesses.

The trial was scheduled to continue this afternoon.

Former oilfield worker loses suit for damages

A 118th District jury decided late Tuesday that negligence was not a factor in an Odessa man's oilfield accident.

Randy L. Berry had filed suit against his former employer, an oil casing company, an employee and a safety belt manufacturing company.

He had asked the court to award him $133,371.65 damages for injuries suffered in September 1983, when he fell more than 40 feet from a platform while performing on a drilling rig in Howard County.

Defendants in the suit were Tom Brown Inc., Lewis Manufacturing Co., Slough Co. and Robert D. Cockrell.

Berry claimed the fall resulted from Cockrell allowing the pickup line to get over Berry's safety line.

A seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated for more than four hours before they deciding Berry was not entitled to the money.

Man transferred to jail

Police transferred Antonio D. Hale, 23, of Hailing to county jail Tuesday afternoon after he was arrested on a burglary charge. He also is charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Bond was set at $5,000 for the burglary charge, which allegedly occurred at 900 Highland.

He is being held for Odessa law authorities on the vehicle charge, according to sheriff's reports.

Police transferred Michael Runge, 21, of Phoenix, Ariz., to county jail Wednesday morning after he was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Guards let workers in AUSTIN, Texas — National Guardsmen cordoned off one entrance for workers to use and Hormel's flagship plant reopened today in relative calm following a one-day interruption forced when guardsmen formed a human barricade to avert violence.

In ads today on local radio stations, the company told workers which entrance to use to get into the Geo. A. Hormel & Co. plant. About 25 National Guardsmen blocked off each side of the street leading to the entrance and allowed only returning workers and three union pickets in.

Israel to refund aid

WASHINGTON — Israel said it will refund $51.6 million in U.S. economic assistance to help the United States meet deficit-reduction targets, heading off the possibility other U.S. aid recipients will have to pay more than their fair share.

In what one State Department official described as "good public relations," Israeli Embassy economics minister Dan Halpern said Tuesday his government was making the refund in order to be helpful, even though it felt no legal obligation to do so.

Secret deal surfaces

WASHINGTON — A New York congressman says he has evidence that Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos and his wife, Imelda, have secretly bought hundreds of millions dollars of American real estate as a hedge against possible defeat in the country's upcoming election.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., chairman of an Asian and Pacific affairs subcommittee, presented documents Tuesday stating that a personal secretary of Mrs. Marcos paid at least $36,621 in taxes on a $19 million Long Island estate during the last two years.

Elizabeth Bouvia talks with reporters during an interview Tuesday at the High Desert Hospital in Lancaster, Calif., 45 miles north of Los Angeles, where she explained why she wants the hospital to stop force-feeding her.

Right to die

Quadriplegic wants feeding tube removed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A quadriplegic cerebral palsy victim who asked a court to let her starve herself 2½ years ago now wants a county hospital to remove a feeding tube from her stomach, but officials contend her action is just another attempt to commit suicide.

In a Superior Court lawsuit filed Tuesday, Elizabeth Bouvia, 28, said the tube is causing her pain. Superior Court Judge Warren Deering heard arguments from the American Civil Liberties Union on Bouvia's request and said he would rule today on whether to grant a temporary restraining order blocking the force-feeding.

Ms. Bouvia received national attention 2½ years ago when she sought a court order permitting her to commit suicide by starvation in a Riverside County-run hospital. The request was denied.

"I have not changed my mind on ... the way I felt as far as, you know, wanting to end my life. I feel the same way," she said Tuesday in a telephone interview from High Desert Hospital in Lancaster, her first interview in two years. "However, I know the legal means are not there, and I am taking nutrition."

Ms. Bouvia claims the hospital, operated by Los Angeles County, has been force-feeding her since Thursday through an uncomfortable tube that leads from her nostril to her stomach. She said doctors have threatened to cease morphine treatments she has been receiving for pain.

"All I want to do is, if I'm going to stay alive, is I just want to be comfortable," she said, speaking with the feeding tube in her throat.

But county attorney Don Mikesell said Ms. Bouvia's request was nothing but a "subterfuge and sham for her real purpose to end her life by starvation."

"There's a concern that she really doesn't require the morphine. If they submit the wrong dosages of morphine, those physicians could be held criminally liable.

"We are very sensitive given her history. We could be roundly criticized for letting her die in our facility."

Ms. Bouvia went to County-USC Medical Center four months ago for relief from the pain and paralysis of her disease and was fitted with a machine that automatically injects her with morphine at prescribed intervals. She was transferred to the Lancaster hospital 50 miles north of Los Angeles last month.

She said she hasn't been eating solid food since April because it makes her vomit, but is taking liquid nutrition as much as possible.

"I would not be eating at all if I were trying to starve myself," she said. "They just all of a sudden decided, you know, that I needed to be fed through the tube."

ACLU attorney Jackie Scheck said Ms. Bouvia has done her best to cooperate with hospital officials to prevent her from losing weight. She currently weighs 70 pounds, a 4-pound drop since August, Ms. Scheck said.

Co-counsel Richard Scott, who is also a physician, said Ms. Bouvia's weight is "in an acceptable range" for someone in her condition but that the hospital says the ideal weight should be 105 pounds.

"She has practically no muscle mass left. It's medically dopey to suggest that Elizabeth — completely paralyzed, completely spastic, a completely immobile person of 5 feet in length — should have something like the ideal weight for a 5-foot female who runs around playing tennis," he said.

The suit requests damages of $10,000 for each day the tube is left in place and seeks to bar doctors from taking her off the morphine injection machine.

Beirut death toll up

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Syrian-backed militia clashed today with President Amin Gemayel's forces, and police said the casualty toll from a car bombing in Christian east Beirut had increased to 30 dead and 132 wounded.

Police said three of Gemayel's Christian loyalists were killed and seven wounded in fighting during the night with leftist and Moslem militias in the central mountains.

Gandhi killers to die

NEW DELHI, India — A judge today convicted a Sikh bodyguard of assassinating Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in October 1984 and found two co-defendants guilty of conspiracy to commit murder. He sentenced all three men to death.

Judge Mahesh Chandra of the Special Sessions Court, who heard the eight-month trial without a jury, said prosecutors had proved beyond a reasonable doubt that Satwant Singh, a bodyguard of Mrs. Gandhi, shot her to death as she walked in her compound garden on Oct. 31, 1984, and that Kehar Singh and Balbir Singh were involved with him in a conspiracy.

Missile launch planned

COLD LAKE, Alberta — A B-52 bomber took off early today from a U.S. Air Force base in Michigan to launch an unarmed cruise missile on a 1,500-mile test flight over Canada that has drawn promises of protest, officials said.

The bomber left Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich., at 1:31 a.m. EST and was scheduled to launch the 21-foot-long missile on a free-flight route about 9:30 a.m., said Canadian Forces Maj. Luigi Rossetto.

African relief sought

UNITED NATIONS — Prominent businessmen have united in an effort to sustain U.S. interest in helping Africa recover from years of drought.

Former Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, now chairman of the Burroughs Corp., and former Chase Manhattan Bank Chairman David Rockefeller announced the formation of a "national support group for Africa" at a news conference before its first meeting here Tuesday.

They said the group has yet to choose a name.

Security tightened

MANCHESTER, England — The check-in counter for Israel's state-run airline, El Al, has been moved to a restricted area at Manchester airport despite objections from the airline, the British government said.

Red Cross ready to provide relief

Today is American Red Cross UnDisaster Day. No, that doesn't mean there are no disasters anywhere in the country today. Hardly. Red Cross Chapters respond to an average of more than 40,000 disasters a year. That's roughly 110 disasters a day, which means that somewhere today Red Cross volunteers are very likely helping the victims of a local or regional disaster.

Disasters will always occur. Red Cross workers will always respond.

Last March a huge fire at Cosden Oil and Chemical refining company sent flames shooting high in the air. Within minutes, the local Red Cross coordinator was at the site seeking information on whether there were any casualties of that blaze, and what the Red Cross might do to help. Luckily, the services were not needed.

But on this UnDisaster Day, we can dramatize our support for an agency that is ready on a moment's notice to give emergency relief to disaster victims. We can contact the local Red Cross Chapter and volunteer our time and financial support.

Textile protection bill is detrimental

In its effort to push through an onerous law aimed at shutting out foreign competition, the American textile industry and its labor allies have composed pictures that bear no resemblance to reality. In considering the proposal, Congress and the public have been barraged with misleading information.

A good illustration of the genre is a letter from the president of the Boston-based Northern Textile Association (NTA), criticizing a column of mine which disparaged the bill. Denying that textile firms are already protected, Karl Spilhaus asks, "If the domestic industry is so well protected, how did foreign nations manage to get 50 percent of the American clothing market?"

Spilhaus also denies that consumers choose to buy imports. "If American consumers had their way, they would purchase American, not foreign, clothing. Retailers enjoy selling foreign apparel because it affords them a higher markup and greater profits." According to a study by the Marketing Research Corp. of America, "a typical piece of imported apparel retails for 97 percent of the price of a domestically produced good."

What if this bill doesn't pass? Nearly 2 million jobs lost, a $24 billion rise in the federal deficit and a $40 billion decline in gross national product — figures attributed to "econometric analysis conducted by the highly respected Data Resources Inc." Says Spilhaus, opponents of the bill "must now tell us where the million textile and apparel workers ... will find gainful employment when their present manufacturing jobs go overseas."

Those studies sounded awfully impressive, so I called their purported authors. Christopher Caton, director of long-term studies for Data Resources, was blunt: "That's not a DRI study. It was done by Burlington Industries (a textile manufacturer). We did some econometric work analyzing what would happen under various assumptions they made. It is not accurate to say that those are the results we believe would occur."

from failure to enact the bill."

A second call was also illuminating. Bill Sorsby, director of business development for what is now called MRCA Information Services, said his firm's survey found little difference in the prices of foreign and American-made clothing, but he admits it didn't allow for the differences in quality. An imported shirt might cost the same as a domestic one, but the fabric and stitching might be much better.

Other investigations reach opposite conclusions. One study by the International Business and Economics Research Corp. (commissioned by a retailers' group) found that the textile bill would cost consumers more than $3 billion a year in higher prices — or $66,000 for every apparel job saved.

On the other questions, the NTA is no more reliable. The rise in imports doesn't prove the industry isn't protected. It only shows that, despite tariffs averaging 22 percent — four times the average for manufactured goods — foreigners often have outdone U.S. firms.

This isn't because retailers get excessive profits on imported clothes, competition prevents that. If Store A is inflating its profit margin, Store B can take away its customers by charging less, and Store C can take away B's by charging still less. Though they'd like to, retailers don't decide their margins. The forces of supply and demand do.

Retailers sell foreign-made clothing because Americans want it — regardless of what they tell pollsters. Why? Because it carries a lower price — or higher quality for the same price.

Where will those textile workers go if their jobs disappear? No one knows, but that doesn't justify expensive measures to save them. Despite this industry's woes, the U.S. economy has added 17 million jobs in the last decade. No one knew where stagecoach drivers would go once the railroads appeared, but that was no reason to ban trains.

The key to those workers' fortunes lies in sound economic policies aimed at promoting competition, efficiency and growth, which assure employment and prosperity not just for them but for generations of workers to come. The textile protection bill is exactly the opposite of what is needed.

Austrian deal in making for plastic guns to Libya

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Libyan dictator Muammar Khadafy is in the process of buying more than 100 plastic handguns that would be difficult for airport security forces to detect.

Incredibly, the pistols are made in Austria — where Khadafy-supported terrorists shot up the Vienna airport during Christmas week.

"This is crazy," one top official told us. "To let a madman like Khadafy have access to such a pistol! Once it is in his hands, he'll give it to terrorists throughout the Middle East."

The handgun in question is the Glock 17, a 9mm pistol invented and manufactured by Gaston Glock in the village of Deutsch-Wagram, just outside Vienna. It is accurate, reliable — and made almost entirely of hardened plastic. Only the barrel, slide and one spring are metal. Dismantled, it is frighteningly easy to smuggle past airport security.

In fact, one Pentagon security expert decided to demonstrate just how easy it would be to sneak a Glock 17 aboard an airliner. He stripped the gun down and disguised the metal parts in his carry-on luggage. For example he wrapped the spring around a pair of eyeglasses.

The Pentagon man tested his system twice at Washington National Airport, and successfully got past the security checks both times.

The Pentagon official subsequently alerted airport security personnel, and taught them how to spot the elements of the pistol. Security measures have been tightened as a result.

Intelligence sources tell us Khadafy has nearly completed a deal to buy more than 100 Glock 17s, possibly as many as 300. They explain that Austrian arms merchants hoping to sell Khadafy big-ticket items — such as tanks — are using the Glock 17s as "sweeteners" for future transactions.

A marketing official for Glock in Austria assured us that the company has not sold Libya any of the guns — at least not yet. He offered no information on current negotiations.

An Austrian Embassy official made this discouraging observation: "If there had been a deal with pistols to Libya, we would not have a record."

He explained that Austria does have a law requiring a government license to export war material, but said pistols "are not covered by this law." And even if the government did learn of such a sale, he said, "we could not comment on the private (business transaction)."

Austria's past dealings with Khadafy suggest that even the obvious danger of such a sale would not be enough to bring government intervention. It was the first European country in nine years to entertain Khadafy on an official state visit, in 1982. He used the platform provided by the Austrians in Vienna to denounce President Reagan as a "terrorist" and "destructive person."

The Austrians were rewarded for their supine gemullichkeit toward Arab extremists in 1981 when Palestinian terrorists assassinated Heinz Nittel, a prominent Austrian Jew and close friend of then-chancellor Bruno Kreisky.

When Kreisky complained to Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yassir Arafat, the latter pointed the finger at his rival, Abu Nidal, and even offered to send a pair of "anti-terrorist specialists" to Vienna to assist Austrian police. But Mossad, the Israeli secret service, learned that the two Palestinians had actually been sent to assassinate Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Vienna, and to kill Kreisky, too, if he got in the way.

Austrian authorities arrested the two Palestinians at the Vienna airport, and found sharpshooters' weapons and grenades in their luggage. Follow-up searches of PLO safe houses in Austria turned up maps and plans for the Sadat assassination. The two gunmen were packed off to Beirut. Once again, Abu Nidal was blamed.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: At a closed-door conference in Moscow, Soviet economic experts chided their U.S. colleagues on the difficulties the United States would have converting defense industry to private enterprises, because of the famous military-industrial complex.

Jobless Soviets become critics of system

By CAROL J. WILLIAMS

MOSCOW (AP) — Maria Radyukevich takes exception to official proclamations that there is no unemployment in the Soviet Union. The Byelorussian barber says she hasn't had a job for 2½ years.

Nadezhda Zavalnyuk of the Ukraine claims her husband Vladimir was fired in October because he refused to forge records covering his bosses' theft of meat and eggs intended for sale.

Serafim Yevsukov, a 23-year-old Muscovite whose family has tried to emigrate for eight years, was fired just before the new year from his chauffeur's job and threatened with imprisonment if he doesn't enter the army.

Officials and the state-run media often say unemployment exists only in capitalist countries. But Soviet workers who find themselves at odds with their bosses maintain that dismissal is sometimes used as a threat and that thousands are fired each year for views or behavior that offend higher-ups.

Refuseniks, the term for Soviets who are refused permission to emigrate, often are fired after applying for exit permission and can only find menial jobs like janitorial work.

Joblessness also may become a problem under Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's drive for efficiency and technological advances in industry.

A recent article in Sovietskaya Kultura, an organ of the Communist Party's Central Committee, acknowledged that as automation reduces need for industrial workers, the situation no longer exists where "work looks for the worker."

Since the official position holds that unemployment doesn't exist, no figures are available here on how many people are out of work or in jobs below their professional ability or outside their expertise.

But Soviet joblessness more than likely is a fraction of that in the West.

The constitution says citizens "have the right to work, including the right to choose their trade or profession, type of job, and work in accordance with their inclinations, abilities, training and education, with due account of the needs of society."

Soviets who lose their jobs in the provinces often travel to Moscow believing their problems lie with hometown authorities, and that national officials may be more sympathetic. Some contact Western correspondents in hopes that publicity will draw official attention.

Mrs. Radyukevich, a 41-year-old mother of two from the Byelorussian town of Molodechno, traveled to Moscow in late December.

She said she was dismissed in the summer of 1983 after complaining that her boss did not keep adequate stocks at the barber shop where she worked for 17 years.

With only three years left until retirement, Mrs. Radyukevich said she would lose pension benefits if she took another job.

After her labor union refused to help and letters to local party and government officials went unanswered, she said, she decided to appeal to Kremlin officials.

She added that before returning home in early January, she tried to get into Central Committee headquarters, but was denied access by uniformed guards who threatened to have her sent to a mental hospital if she returned.

Mrs. Zavalnyuk, 34, said she experienced the same rebuff when she visited the Central Committee offices to seek review of her husband's firing as a clerk in a regional procurement office and his expulsion from the Communist Party.

Yevsukov was fired in late December after 18 months as a driver in a government car pool. He previously worked as a taxi driver, after his 1983 release from 2½ years in labor camps for refusing to enter the army.

He said he refused the obligatory two-year service because he opposes Soviet military policy and because army service is often a reason cited for denying permission to emigrate.

Reader questions hospital procedure

To the editor:

I need some questions answered that I can't understand. I am not trying to be ugly but I think what I am interested in is of interest to a lot of people.

If someone receives a death certificate that says "dead on arrival" when they reach the emergency room, what privilege does a hospital have to take that body in away from the spouse and keep it for an hour or more and doesn't let the spouse in to see what is taking place?

Then in ten or twelve days send the spouse a hospital bill stating what all was done to a party that was DOA?

It seems to me this is taking advantage of a person in sorrow and sudden grief that doesn't know where to turn.

Lunch cooks want recognition, too

To the editor:

I would like to know why it is never mentioned in the paper about the employees of the Big Spring State Hospital who put out the luncheon for the volunteers. I'm talking about the Food Service Department.

We work really hard to fix the food for the luncheon plus fixing the meal for our clients of the hospital!

It is always mentioned about who gives the awards and who make the speeches but not who fixes the meals and provides the food.

Without the food and food service there would probably be no luncheon. We would like to be acknowledged too!

Fans mob doorway of one of world's most famous widows

NEW YORK (AP) — For Yoko Ono, the five years since John Lennon's murder have been complicated by a small group of fans, star-gazers and would-be intimates who gather outside "the second-best known address in America," hoping to meet one of the world's most famous widows.

This week, police say, one of them got too close, fastening a rope to the roof of the Dakota apartment building, slipping down three flights, crawling 30 feet along a 12-inch-wide ledge and slipping into Ono's apartment through an unlocked window.

The intruder left several notes, a photograph and a letter for Ono before departing early Sunday.

Police arrested Omer Travers, 29, at his hotel room nearby and charged him with burglary. Travers is "one of those groupies who hangs around outside" the Dakota, said Sam Havadtoy, a friend of Ono's who was asleep in the apartment during the intrusion, like Ono and her son, Sean.

None of the occupants saw the intruder and nothing appeared to have been taken, but Ono "was pretty shaken up," said Elliot Mintz, another friend.

Built in 1884, the Dakota has long been one of Manhattan's most luxurious cooperative apartment houses. For millions of people, though, it recalls one sad night:

Dec. 8, 1980, when Lennon, Ono's husband, was fatally shot outside its dark, arched Gothic entranceway.

Mark David Chapman, who had hoped to gain fame by killing the former Beatle, is serving a term of 20 years to life in a state prison.

Fans gathered outside the Dakota after the assassination, and have been gathering, off and on, ever since. Crowds of 50 or 100 appear on the anniversary of Lennon's death and on special occasions, such as John's — and Sean's — birthday.

"Most of them are nice and kind," said Havadtoy. "You can't generalize." But police and Mintz said some of those outside the Dakota are obsessed with Ono and her late husband.

"We've had experiences with disturbed or deluded people who make the pilgrimage from various locations to that spot," said Mintz, who called the apartment house at 72nd Street on Central Park "the second-best known address in America" after 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. — the White House.

Travers, who police said first came to New York from San Diego about six years ago, has "tried to contact Yoko for a couple of years. He's a fan, and like a lot of other fans he's wanted to get close to her," Mintz said.

Couples see hope for U.S.-Soviet future

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The reunions of three Soviet men with their American wives after years of Kremlin-imposed separation could be "part of a huge step to real friendship between Russia and America," one of the husbands said.

Two of the Soviets joyously joined their spouses Monday night at Newark International Airport after arriving on the same flight with the third couple, who reunited a day earlier in West Germany.

The three couples are among the 10 the Kremlin promised before the Geneva summit to allow to reunite in the West.

Robin Rubendunst, 25, of Brookline, Mass., hadn't seen her 38-year-old husband, Leonid Ablavsky of Leningrad, since they were married in 1983. She embraced him at the airport and they disappeared without talking to reporters. Sandra Gubin, 38, of Kalamazoo, Mich., gave spouse Alexei Lodisev, 33, a red rose as they hugged. Lodisev, who last saw his wife when she visited the Soviet Union on a tourist visa in September, would not stop kissing her.

"This is the most important day of my life," he said. "My heart goes out to those couples who still are kept apart. No one knows better how very painful their lives are and no one wishes more than I that someday they will be as fortunate as I and be reunited with their wives."

"I'm just feeling terrifically relieved," Gubin said from within her husband's embrace. "Everybody should have this moment. This is the best moment of my life."

"Today is the birthday of our family," a tearful Edith Luthi, 31, of Holliston, Mass., told reporters.

Her meeting in Frankfurt, West Germany, on Sunday with husband, Mikhail Iossel, 38, of Leningrad, was their first in more than three years. Iossel had never seen his 2 1/2-year-old son, Gregory, and was to meet him today at their home outside Boston.

"Let's try to hope that this small moment, in itself insignificant, is part of a huge step to real friendship between Russia and America," Iossel said.

Luthi and Iossel and Gubin and Lodisev toasted their new lives together with champagne.

"I just want to say that this long separation can be forgiven, that finally being together does a lot to dissolve the bitterness that I have been feeling over the last two years," said Luthi, who met Iossel while studying Russian in Leningrad.

Gubin, who had fought for 4 1/2 years to be with her husband, said before the reunion that there are at least 20 other Soviet-American couples kept apart by the Kremlin.

"I'm hoping that over the next couple weeks people will be called in and the Soviets will gradually move on the other cases," she said.

Gubin, a social scientist, was a Fulbright scholar at Kiev University when she met her husband in Kiev in 1980.

After leaving the Soviet Union in 1981 when her visa expired, Gubin formed the Divided Spouses Coalition, which has flooded U.S. and Soviet officials with pleas to allow divided Soviet-American couples a life together.

Dr. Donohue

Joint pain relief

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is the TENS treatment for joint pain relief superior to other forms? — K.L.J.

TENS (transcutaneous electrical nerve stimulation) has its place. It may be a suitable alternative for elderly people unable to tolerate certain relief medicines. Or it might be used when other pain relievers don't work well. In cases of chronic unrelieved pain it could be used to avoid potential habituation to drugs. You just can't say it is better or worse than other forms of pain relief. About all you can say is that if it works, it's great.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Man wants another chance

DEAR ABBY: To get to the point, I blew it, but I have only myself to blame.

I'm a 40-year-old man. In the three years since I've been divorced, I've dated many women, but none of them caused sparks to fly — until I met "Kathy" at a singles club. She's 35, great looking, a wonderful personality, intelligent and has two children. I have one.

It was love at first sight — for me, anyway. The next weekend we went shopping at a mall. Just being with Kathy thrilled me. We laughed and joked, and I felt like a teenager again. I know she liked me, too. She was very open and wasn't afraid to show affection. She spontaneously took my hand, and hugged me a couple of times. I wanted to be close to her, so on the way home we stopped (in broad daylight) and I kissed her just once and she didn't fight me. Then I made the mistake of my life. I said, "Your place or mine? Or should we stop at a motel?"

She said "I don't want to be rushed into anything. Please take me home." Then her attitude changed completely. She turned very cold. I apologized and asked her to forgive me, but she stayed cold. I'm sure she thought I acted that way with every woman I met, which isn't true.

I called her the next day, apologized again for the way I acted and asked if I could see her again. She said, "No, I don't think so."

Now what do I do? I have never felt this way about a woman in my life. Should I call her again? I don't want to make a pest of myself, but I can't get her off my mind.

DEAR BLEW IT: Wait a few days, then write a note to be delivered with flowers. Apologize again, assuring her that if she gives you another chance, your relationship will progress at the rate of her choosing. Then call her.

If she's still cold, you'll know you really blew it, and call it a good learning experience.

This is Herb?

Analysts say ads may have fallen short

NEW YORK (AP) — Herb, the missing character on which Burger King has based a $40 million advertising campaign, is about to come in from the cold.

But some investment analysts who follow the fast-food business say they wonder if the public will notice.

The nation's second-biggest hamburger chain has been looking for Herb, described as someone who had never tasted a Burger King hamburger, in an advertising campaign over the last two months.

Herb will be introduced formally in two 30-second commercials that the Miami-based company has purchased during the Super Bowl football game Sunday.

In advance of those commercials, Burger King had Herb make an appearance Tuesday on NBC's "Today" show and planned to answer questions from reporters today at a Burger King restaurant here.

"It will be important for the rest of the campaign that people know what he looks like," said Joyce Meyers, a company spokeswoman.

She declined to offer more details, however.

Advertising Age, a trade journal, reported Monday that for the next stage of the ad campaign, Herb will be sent on a cross-country tour of Burger King restaurants, offering the person who spots him first in each of the eateries a cash prize of $5,000, free lunches for everyone else and a chance to enter a $1 million sweepstakes.

But some analysts questioned whether many consumers were interested.

"The campaign has been a flop, and the licensees have been unhappy with it," said Edward Tavlin, restaurant industry analyst in the Miami office of the investment firm Prescott, Ball & Turben.

He said it is unclear whether the fault was the concept or because it coincided with an advertising blitz by its bigger rival, McDonald's Corp., for its newest hamburger — the McDLT.

McDonald's, based in Oak Brook, Ill., sells the new sandwich in a special package that permits it to keep the hot hamburger patty separate from the cool lettuce and tomato until the customer puts them together. It became available nationwide Nov. 4, shortly before the Herb campaign was launched.

"The McDonald's McDLT campaign certainly stole some of Burger King's thunder," said Donald Lupa, the restaurant industry analyst for the investment firm Duff & Phelps in Chicago.

Lupa said the Herb campaign "is obviously floundering" because it has not improved sales per store.

But Burger King said it is satisfied with the campaign because it has increased awareness of Burger King among customers who will now be more likely to think of it when deciding where to get a hamburger.

Harold Friedman, a senior vice president at the advertising agency J. Walter Thompson USA in New York, which created the Herb campaign, acknowledged last week that the campaign was slow to catch on because of unexpectedly heavy competition from the new McDonald's ads. But he said January sales had perked up.

A&M, UT Austin retain most minority students

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M University and the University of Texas at Austin retained more undergraduate minority students than any other Texas college or university, according to a report released by the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System.

The report indicates that 406 black students enrolled at Texas A&M in the fall of 1983 and 331 returned to school the following year for a 81.5 percent retention rate. The school had an 83 percent retention rate for its Hispanic student population with 1,081 of 1,302 students returning from the fall of 1983 to 1984.

"We are proud to be the leader in having minority students succeed to the point that they want to continue their studies and work toward degrees," A&M President Frank E. Vandiver said Monday.

The University of Texas at Austin was second state-wide with 1,134 black students enrolled the fall of 1983 and 870 returning the fall of 1984 for a retention rate of 76.7 percent. Of 3,260 Hispanic students registered during the fall 1983 semester, 2,587 returned for the fall semester of 1984 for a 79.4 percent retention rate.

The fall 1984 statistics were the most current figures available, according to the report. Sam Houston State University ranked third in retention of black students, with 72.2 percent, and the University of Houston-Clear Lake was third in Hispanic retention, with 77.3 percent.

The averages for the 31 institutions included in the report were 63.1 for black students and 66.3 for Hispanics.

The University of Houston's University Park campus had the most black students, with 2,206 enrolled in 1983 and 1,349 returning the following year.

Pan American University had the largest number of Hispanic students, with 6,512 enrolling in 1983 and 3,880 returning for the start of 1984-85 classes.

Texas A&M also had the best record in the state for keeping white students at the undergraduate level, with 86.5 percent returning. The University of Houston's downtown campus placed second with 83.6 percent, followed by UT-Austin, with 83.3 percent.

The state average for returning white students was 72.7 percent.

The University of Texas at El Paso enrolled 321 black students during the fall 1983 semester and 211 returned the following year for a 65.7 percent retention rate. The school, which enrolls more Hispanic students than any other race, had a 69.7 percent retention rate for Hispanic students with 6,479 in 1983 and 4,517 in 1984.

Big Spring center Brian Mayfield goes up for two of his career-high 37 points against the San Angelo Central Bobcats Tuesday night at Steer gymnasium. Despite Mayfield's stellar performance the Steers dropped the game, 88-69.

Despite Mayfield's 37 points

Central rebounds over Steers

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

The Big Steers were probably entertaining thoughts of catching visiting San Angelo Central in a slide. The Bobcats, who were touted as a dark horse contender for the 4-5A district title, came into Tuesday night's game at Steer gym in the midst of a three-game losing streak.

Unfortunately for the Steers, Central picked this night to rebound from their poor play, handing Big Spring a decisive 88-69 loss despite a career-high 37 points from Steer sophomore center Brian Mayfield.

It was a fast paced game with both teams using full court pressure resulting in plenty of fast break and transition baskets.

"Big Spring jumped to an early lead behind three straight Mayfield baskets and held the margin through most of the period. Senior forward Sydney Parker canned four free throws to give the Steers a 10-6 lead at the 2:07 mark. The Bobcats responded late in the quarter with six unanswered points to take a 14-12 lead they would never relinquish into the second quarter.

The aggressive Central full-court pressure began giving the Steer ball handlers problems in the second period resulting in a rash of turnovers and allowing the Bobcats to build their lead to eight, 20-12.

Big Spring rallied midway through the period on baskets by Parker and Billy Cole. Mayfield could have cut the Central lead to three with four minutes remaining in the half but his attempted dunk bounced off the rim.

In the final minutes before the half Central ran off a string of unanswered points, most on transition baskets after breaking the Steer press, to take a commanding 41-30 lead into the lockerroom at halftime. San Angelo was led by 6'7" center Chris Lowry, who pumped in 18 first-half points and fellow post Ricky Ryan who added 12 points in the first half.

The Bobcats opened the third quarter with a ten-point streak that all but put the game out of reach before the Steers could respond. At the 5:37 mark of the quarter, Central had opened its biggest lead of the game, 51-30, and would not be seriously challenged the remainder of the contest.

Another factor in the early third quarter streak was the fine defense of Lowry and Skip Bartek on Mayfield, denying him the ball down low and forcing the Steers to take low percentage shots from the outside.

By the time the Steers did manage to get the ball to Mayfield, who hit three jumpers late in the quarter, the Bobcats were cruising into the final period with a comfortable 58-42 bulge.

The final quarter was highlighted by Mayfield who missed but two shots while collecting fourteen points and five rebounds. The Steers cut the lead to twelve, 64-52 with 4:42 left in the game, but sent Bobcat guard Darryl Lewis to the line twice in the bonus and he meshed all four free throws to put a damper on the Big Spring rally.

Big Spring outscored Central

17-14 in the final minutes but could never cut the lead substantially as the Bobcats cruised to the 88-69 final tally.

Lowry led four Bobcats in double figures with 22 points. Ryan and guard David Hulse dropped in 13 apiece and Bartek finished with 12 for the 12-11 'Cats whose 4-5A record now stands at 4-3.

Big Spring dropped to 2-5 in 4-5A play and 3-17 overall.

Coahoma sweeps doubleheader from Colorado City

• Girls win 1st-half title

By STEVE BELVIN

COAHOMA — In the absence of their leading scorer and rebounder the Coahoma Bulldogettes have been through the rough times and have withstood the test. With a very young squad, the Colorado City Lady Wolves are going through rough times and the Bulldogettes made things even rougher with a 67-49 shellacking of the Lady Wolves last night in District 7-3A play.

With the win over Colorado City, first year coach Ken Kelso's Bulldogettes have won the first half of the district race with a sparkling 5-0 record. This assures them of their third consecutive trip to the state playoffs, which is beginning to be a tradition with Coahoma girls basketball.

The contest was an anxious moment for Kelso and his team since it marked the return of senior post player Leslie Kirkpatrick who had missed the last three weeks with an injured knee. Kirkpatrick returned to play wearing a protective brace. Kelso used her sparingly, to see how the knee would respond.

He didn't need the 6-1 senior much against the outmanned Lady Wolves. Like they have been doing the past three weeks, fellow post players Shana Fowler and Brandi Kloss took up the slack. The duo combined for 35 points and led Coahoma to a decisive rebounding edge of Colorado City.

"It's really the best we've played in the last three games," said Kelso after the win. "Of course I was worried when we lost Leslie three weeks ago. But the girls got it together and won without her. It's a good feeling knowing we won those important district games without her."

The game was never in jeopardy as Coahoma jumped out to a 15-5 lead as Kloss and Fowler combined for all the Coahoma points in the half. Ten of their points came from the charity line. Coahoma ended the night sinking 23 of 32 attempts for 72 percent.

"With the exception of the two games before this we've always been a pretty good free throw shooting team," said Kelso of his 13-6 squad. "We usually shoot in the 60 percent range. Shana (Fowler) is our best shooter at 82 percent." Shana and Brandi (Kloss) has really taken up the slack with Leslie out. Lisa Riley and Elena Himes have done a fine job filling in for Leslie."

For Colorado City, who falls to 0-5 in district play, senior forward Denise Jackson scored a game-high 22 points.

COAHOMA (67) — Jancy Cunningham 2 0 4; Teri Tucker 2 3 7; Nancy Hardison 4 0 8; Brandi Kloss 6 7 19; Shana Fowler 4 8 16; Lisa Riley 1 2 4; Lois Hardison 1 0 2; Elena Himes 2 0 4; Leslie Kirkpatrick 1 1 3; totals 23 21 67.

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs didn't shoot free throws all that well last night in their District 7-3A matchup with the Colorado City Wolves. But they made made them when it counted the most, resulting in a 54-53 squeaker over the Wolves.

The Bulldogs shot an under-par 50 percent from the foul line in the game, connecting on 20 of 40 attempts. But in the final quarter when things got sticky, the Bulldogs found their mark at the charity stripe, sinking 8 of 13 attempts.

Colorado City also struggled from the line, hitting 9 of 19 attempts for 47 percent. Particularly important was that they made five of their first six attempts in the final quarter, turning a 41-39 deficit into a 46-41 advantage.

Forward Ben Neel got the Coahoma free throw barrage going by sinking three of four attempts in the opening minutes of the quarter. Colorado City had made a 12-8 run in the last four minutes of the third quarter to take a 41-39 lead going into the final period.

But the Wolves, who had two starters foul out in the game, hit a cold streak and went scoreless the first three minutes of the quarter. By the time Ruben Rivera broke the dry spell with a jumper, Coahoma had a 46-41 lead.

The game was nip-and-tuck until the final buzzer as C-City battled back behind the play of Terry Jackson and Rivera, tying the game at 51-51 at the 1:18 mark on Rivera's fourth consecutive basket.

But Coahoma quickly went ahead on a driving layup by Brian Calaway. Calaway played a strong second half after missing much of the first half because of foul trouble. He scored 8 of his game total 10 points in the second half while ending the game with 8 rebounds.

After Calaway's basket the two teams exchanged possessions on missed baskets. Coahoma's Dale Hodnett was fouled in the act of shooting with 14 seconds left. The senior missed the first attempt but sunk the second try, giving Coahoma a 54-51 lead.

Hodnett was instrumental in the Bulldogs win. He and Neel were the main forces in Coahoma having a 24-23 halftime lead. Hodnett ended the game with 16 points and 9 rebounds. Neel added 10 points and 5 rebounds.

Rivera and Jackson were the main workhorses for the Wolves. Rivera ended the night hitting 8 of 11 field goals for 16 points and 6 rebounds. Jackson scored 11 points while hauling in a game-high 11 rebounds.

Both teams now have 1-2 district records.

COAHOMA (54) — Brian Calaway 4 2 10; Ben Neel 2 6 10; Scott Earnest 2 2 6; Dale Hodnett 6 4 16; Gary Vaughn 2 3 7; Louis Salazar 0 2 2; Jimmy King 1 1 3; totals 17 20 54.

Raider's miracles finally run dry

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Tech is 3-1 in miracle finishes.

The Red Raiders just hope tonight's game against Southern Methodist can help the defending Southwest Conference basketball champions forget the one that got away.

The Red Raiders had specialized in winning last-second thrillers until the fates turned against them Saturday in friendly Municipal Coliseum.

They were 4-0 thanks to three, last-second, game-winning shots from Tony (the Buzzer Beater) Benford.

It appeared the Texas Aggies were on the verge of falling victim to the Red Raider magic.

Leading by two points, Dewayne Chism stole a pass and drove uncontested for a slam dunk. However, he missed and the Aggies converted the error into a three-point play that won the game 58-57.

Texas Tech Coach Gerald Myers slammed his fist into the floor but later recovered his poise.

Myers said "People have to remember that Chism didn't miss the shot on purpose. Nobody feels worse than he does.

"There were other circumstances that led to the loss. We'll have to forget about it."

Myers added "We've had some miraculous wins and this is one that was miraculous the other way. I guess everything evens out."

Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf said "It was the greatest comeback I've ever seen and I've been coaching quite awhile."

Raiders visit Moody Coliseum alone in second place behind the Aggies.

They'll face a revived Southern Methodist team that may have found itself in a 63-56 upset of the Texas Longhorns on Saturday night.

SMU is 3-2 and broke a two-game losing streak by defeating the Longhorns for the eighth consecutive time.

SMU Coach Dave Bliss has been tinkering with his lineup and apparently found the right combination against the Longhorns.

The insertion of 6-9 sophomore Glenn Puddy of Houston into the lineup has solidified the Mustangs' frontline. He had nine points and three rebounds in 27 minutes against Texas.

Also, center Terry Williams is coming back after a slump.

Williams had 19 points and 8 rebounds in the triumph over the Longhorns.

"Terry has been a different center than the one we've seen play in the last two games," said Bliss.

Tech swept SMU in two regular season games last year.

"Gerald has done a great job with a young team this season," said Bliss. "It's going to be a fun game."

Myers said he hoped the Red Raiders could shake off the tough loss to the Aggies.

"SMU is getting it going again and it's hard to win at their place," Myers said.

In other games tonight, Rice is at Baylor, Texas A&M is at Houston, and TCU is at Texas.

Arkansas thinclad sets world's best

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Sophomore sprinter Roddie Haley of the University of Arkansas set a world's best Friday night by running the 500 meters in one-minute, 1.18 seconds at the Razorback Pentagonal Indoor Meet.

The previous world's best of 1:01.24 was set by Willie Caldwell at last year's NCAA indoor championships.

Haley ran third most of the race before overtaking Devan Morris of Wayland Baptist, who finished second in 1:01.35, and Harold Spells of Southern Methodist.

It was the first time the 5-foot-10, 145-pound Haley had competed in the 500 meters.

Foster sets hurdles mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Greg Foster rewrote one of the standards set by old nemesis Renaldo Nehemiah, running a world best of 5.88 seconds in the 50-yard hurdles Friday night at the Sunkist Invitational indoor track meet.

Foster, who won the silver medal in the high hurdles in the 1984 Olympics, topped the previous indoor world best of 5.92 set by Nehemiah in 1982.

Foster owns the second-fastest time ever, 13.03, in the 110-meter hurdles outdoors. He clocked that time while running second in a 1981 race as Nehemiah set a world record of 12.93.

Jones, Benoit "Runners of Year"

GREENBRAE, Calif. (AP) — Steve Jones of Wales, who came within one second of equalling the fastest men's marathon time ever, and Joan Benoit, who broke her American record in the women's marathon, have been named Runners of the Year for 1985 by Runner's World magazine.

Last October, Jones won America's Marathon-Chicago for the second consecutive year, his time of 2 hours, 7 minutes, 13 seconds just missing the world best of 2:07:12 set last April by Carlos Lopes of Portugal.

Benoit, the gold medalist in the 1984 Olympic women's marathon was the first woman's finisher in the America's Marathon in 2:21:21, the second-fastest clocking ever.

Horford enrolls at Miami

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — Basketball star Tito Horford enrolled at the University of Miami Tuesday, saying he just wants to be a normal college student and play a little basketball for the Hurricanes.

Horford, a 7-foot-1 center from the Dominican Republic, originally signed a letter of intent to attend the University of Houston, but the National Collegiate Athletic Association ruled he couldn't play for the Cougars because they had violated guidelines while recruiting him.

U of H's Lewis plans retirement

HOUSTON (AP) — It took Guy Lewis 33 years to get enough of what he never intended to be — a basketball coach.

But after five NCAA Final Four appearances, participating in the "game of the century" against UCLA and becoming the No. 11 all-time winningest Division I coach, Lewis called it quits at the University of Houston Tuesday, effective at the end of the season.

"When I got out of the service (in 1945) I thought I was a hot pilot," Lewis said. "I never intended to be a coach. I thought I was going to be a pilot the rest of my life. It didn't work out that way."

Lewis' tenure at Houston did work out though.

After playing three years for the Cougars in the 1940s, Lewis returned as an assistant in 1953 and became head coach in 1956.

In the past 30 years, he's had only three losing seasons, the first three, and has a string of 26 consecutive non-losing seasons still intact.

Lewis will go into tonight's Southwest Conference game against Texas A&M with 586 victories, second among active coaches. Lewis teams have had 14 20-victory seasons and 29 of his players have been drafted by the pros.

His teams were ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press final polls in 1968 and 1983.

But enough was enough. "I went in to see Tom (Ford, athletic director) last week and told him 33 years at Houston was enough," Lewis said.

"I never thought of this as a job. To me, it was a crusade to build it into a great basketball program and a great school. It is known all over the nation as a great school. Unfortunately, the people of Houston don't know it."

Ironically, Lewis' retirement announcement came one hour after former Houston recruit Tito Horford announced he would enroll at the University of Miami.

Horford, a 7-footer from Houston Marion, signed with the Cougars but was ruled ineligible by the NCAA because assistant Coach Donnie Schverak violated recruiting rules.

Lewis said the controversy over Horford had nothing to do with his decision. A last second loss to Texas Tech earlier this season, did weigh in his decision, however.

"That was one of the toughest losses I have ever had," Lewis said. "It was very tough on me. Those one-point losses hurt more the older you get."

No pass, no play spells team doom

WAEELDER (AP) — The basketball team's plans for small Waelder High School for the 1985-86 season have ended abruptly because all five players on the squad became ineligible this week under Texas' no-pass, no-play rule. Under the rule, any student with a failing grade in any class at the end of a six-week grading period is barred from extra-curricular activities for the following six weeks. Coach Lester King's Wildcats had compiled a 6-8 record for the season with just five players. Two other candidates dropped from the squad before the season began.

"We don't have a basketball team any more. All five of our boys failed one course each, and that means the season is over for us," King told the Austin American-Statesman. Waelder is in Class 1A, the smallest of Texas' five enrollment classifications. Only 11 boys are enrolled in high school, school officials said. The town of 940 people sits off Interstate 10 about 90 miles east of San Antonio. King said he assumes Waelder will forfeit all the games on its district schedule. He said the Gonzales County school will try to resume basketball competition next season.

STANTON — The No. 10 Stanton Buffaloes got a scare from the Wall Hawks before they pulled out a 68-64 overtime win over the upset-minded Hawks.

The District 8-2A game was an up-and-down affair. Each team had 10-point leads in the second half. Wall's Tim Romans, who scored 15 points, hit a basket with five seconds left, sending the game into overtime at 60-60.

Greg Avery pulled the Buffaloes out of the fire by scoring six points in the overtime period. Avery finished the game with 19 points. Derek Sorley added 18.

The win give Stanton the first half district championship with a 5-0 record. Wall finished the first half with a 3-2 mark. Wall won the girls game by a 66-53 count, assuring themselves of second place in the first half race, behind No. 6 Reagan County.

Chemical dump found near creek in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — State and federal authorities say barrels of chemicals were found dumped in a wooded area in southeast Dallas County after a nearby resident complained about foul odors near a creek.

Investigators from the Texas Water Commission, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Dallas County fire marshal's office are trying to determine the contents of 55-gallon barrels found near Ten Mile Creek, about 14 miles south of Dallas.

County Fire Marshal Jim Badgett said authorities do not believe chemicals in the four barrels are toxic, but they have erected barricades blocking off the site.

Tuesday's discovery was the second time in two weeks illegally dumped substances have been found in the area.

"We think the chemicals are probably some type of saline solution, like that used by hospitals for dialysis treatments," said Badgett. "But it may be a few days before we know for sure, because the chemicals have to be sent to the lab for analysis."

Badgett said illegally dumped substances are being found about once every three weeks with more than half the sites in the southern part of the county.

An off-duty Ferris police officer found 80 barrels of flammable, toxic chemicals two weeks ago in a half-mile stretch along a road near Hutchins. Water commission investigators said the contents included paint thinner, cement sealer and toluene.
