Drug bust in city snares five

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Five persons from Big Spring were arrested Friday afternoon on warrants for alleged delivery of narcotics to a police undercover agent.

Arrested on suspicion of delivering a controlled substance were:
• Sylvester Naranjo Becker, 30, of 1415 Sycamore St. on suspicion of delivering cocaine. He was arrested at Highway 87 Auto Sales at 2:55 p.m. He was released from county jail on $10,000 bond.

• Diane Sherry Cash, 33, of 3304 W. Highway 80 Apt. 11 on suspicion of delivering amphetamines. She was arrested at her residence at 1:30 p.m. She was released from county jail on $10,000 bond.

• Samuel Wayne Smith, 38, of 3304 W. Highway 80 on suspicion of delivering amphetamines. He was arrested at his home at 2:02 p.m. He was released from county jail on $10,000 bond.

Arrested on charges of delivering marijuana, and DPS warrants for speeding, driving without insurance and failure to appear in court was James Earl Magers, 24, of 2911 W. Highway 80 Apt. 58. Magers was arrested at 2:32 p.m. in the parking lot of his residence. Bond information on Magers was not available.

Police Chief Rick Turner said Friday that District Attorney Rick Hamby issued 11 warrants Friday for drug arrests. Turner said Friday's busts were the fruits of an intense nine-month investigation into city drug trafficking using a female police undercover agent.

Hamby's office is expected to issue more arrest warrants after he reviews additional police cases, Turner said.

White calls for import tax on oil

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White, raising the specter of gas pump lines and Air Force bombers grounded by empty fuel tanks, Friday urged President Reagan to impose an emergency tariff on imported oil.

Failure to do so risks making America again overly dependent on a tenuous Arab oil supply, White said.

"If we do nothing, we cut our own throats," White said. "We consign ourselves back to being the slaves of the Middle East and will be truly the captive of their pricing mechanism."

"We have B-1 bombers, M-1 tanks, vast numbers of ships at sea — if we don't have a reliable source of oil, we're absolute fools. A reliable source of oil is not depending on foreign oil," he said.

In a letter to the president, White said the recent plunge in world oil prices threatens to make American wells unprofitable.

Since December, oil prices have fallen by more than 50 percent. The spot price for West Texas oil this week hit $14 per barrel, down from $29 in November.

"At $14 per barrel, it is simply not economical for many domestic wells to remain in production," White wrote. At $13 per barrel, 126,000 low-output "stripper" wells would stop being viable.

White said Reagan should use the 1974 federal Trade Act to impose a

Magazine: Weather risk known to NASA

WASHINGTON (AP) — NASA went ahead with the launch of Challenger even though its tests a year ago showed that weather conditions like those overnight on Jan. 27-28 could freeze critical seals on booster rockets, an aerospace magazine says.

Aviation Week and Space Technology, a respected industry magazine, said the NASA wind tunnel tests showed that wind blowing across the super-chilled shuttle tank against the lower section of the right solid rocket booster could cause a stiffening of the rubber-like seals, making them ineffective.

Engineers believe this situation set up a deadly sequence of events, stemming from overnight cold, that eventually caused the Challenger's right solid rocket booster to break loose from the fuel tank. The solid rocket booster apparently crashed into the wing, the magazine said, illustrating its article with photographs.

The still-unused, new shuttle launch pad at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California is equipped with heaters, using the 150-250-degree exhaust from two jet engines, for warming shuttles in cold weather. NASA discussed a similar installation at the Kennedy Space Center in the 1970s, but rejected it because of Florida's usually warm and humid weather.

NASA investigators are quoted as saying telemetry data and tracking photographs show a rupture in the booster broke the lower strut attaching the rocket to the tank, whereupon the top of the rocket pitched into the tank. The resulting explosion destroyed the shuttle, its crew and cargo.

The shuttle was eight miles high and nine miles away from the coast line when it exploded in the 74th second of flight on Jan. 28.

The account appeared in the magazine as members of the presidential Challenger commission carried their investigation to Huntsville, Ala., Brigham City, Utah, and Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The temperature at launch pad 39B, which dropped to 24 degrees overnight, is suspected of causing rubber compound seals to stiffen and become ineffective on the boosters, which generate 2.9 million pounds of thrust each to propel the shuttle to orbit.

In Utah, a Morton Thiokol official said a NASA inspector read a temperature of minus 8 degrees at a lower strut which connects the right booster to the fuel tank.

Outgoing NASA shuttle boss Jesse Moore said launch officials did not know about the internal argument at Morton Thiokol, which preceded the manufacturer's recommendation that the launch be allowed to proceed. Investigators have since learned that 15 Morton Thiokol engineers unanimously recommended against launch, but that the approval of vice president Joe C. Kilminster was forwarded despite those objections.

Incumbent in college board race

Incumbent David Gomez has filed for re-election to the Howard County Junior College District board of trustees.

He was appointed to the board last year to fill a Precinct 1 vacancy left by Louis Stallings.

Another incumbent, Curtis Mullins, also has filed for re-election for Precinct 2.

The filing deadline is March 5 and the election will be April 5. Born in Colorado City, Gomez has lived most of his life in Big Spring. He and his wife, Frances, have four children, David, Mark, Julie

Teacher test termed unfair

AUSTIN (AP) — Incompetent teachers should be weeded out by local officials, not by taking a statewide competency test, a National Education Association lawyer told a state judge Friday.

Attorney Robert Chanin of Washington argued the Texas State Teachers Association lawsuit challenging the teacher test planned for March 10.

"It is not our purpose to stand up here in defense of illiterate teachers. If a teacher cannot read and write, there is recourse. It is the responsibility of the employing school board to determine whether their teachers can read and write," Chanin told State District Judge Harley Clark.

Clark said he would rule by March 3, one week before 210,000 teachers and administrators are scheduled to take the Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers. Educators who fail will lose the state teaching certificate they need to keep their jobs.

Chanin said that certificate was issued as a lifetime license, and it is unfair for the state to change the conditions.

"They teach and perform to the satisfaction of their employer," he said. Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon said the test is aimed at protecting the "students whose lives and future careers are at stake."

The lifetime license can be "cancelled for lawful authority," he said. Incompetence is sufficient reason for revocation, according to O'Hanlon.

"We are attempting to accord a preference to those teachers who can read and write before we turn them loose on the children of Texas," he told Clark.

"The test is not designed to be an all-out measure of teacher competency. It is one arrow in the quiver," O'Hanlon said.

He acknowledged that the 1984 education reform bill also called for subject exams for teachers, in addition to the basic reading and writing test. But there is no money for the subject tests, he said.

Chanin said it is unfair to administer only the reading and writing test.

"This law is not a quiver. The Legislature said there are the things you shall do. It's not a Chinese restaurant menu. Don't pick one from Column A and one from Column B," said Chanin.

Levee break inundates two towns

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Floodwaters from a ruptured levee spread across two submerged towns on Friday, leaving 28 square miles under water and as many as 26,000 people without homes, authorities said.

Trucks hauled rock 30 miles from a quarry in a frantic effort to fill in the 150-foot-wide gap in the Yuba River levee, which began to crumble Thursday at dusk after more than a week of fierce rains. And boats and helicopters searched the area for people stranded in the water.

There was no way to tell how long the 24,000 to 26,000 residents of Linda and Olivehurst would be kept from their swamped homes, but it would be "at least another day, very likely more," said Yuba County Undersheriff Dennis Moore.

"I didn't get anything out except my pictures of the family," said Joyce Pirtle of Olivehurst, who was among the many refugees at Beale Air Force Base. "After Tuesday, they said everything was fine and we shouldn't worry anymore."

The refugees will not be allowed to return home until water supplies were certified free of contamination, Moore said.

One victim of the flooding was the Peach Tree Mall, a shopping center of 35 stores in Linda near the site of the break, which began as a 40-foot gap Thursday night about 130 miles northeast of San Francisco.

"Part of it is a two-story building, and all you can see of it is the K-Mart sign on the roof," said Moore.

A series of Pacific storms which began Feb. 12 killed at least 17 people, flooded thousands of acres and homes and set off hundreds of avalanches and mudslides in the West. An estimated 20 percent of Napa County's vineyards were damaged.

The storms drove the Yuba River to a depth of 76.5 feet on Tuesday, well above flood stage, although it had dropped significantly when the levee broke.

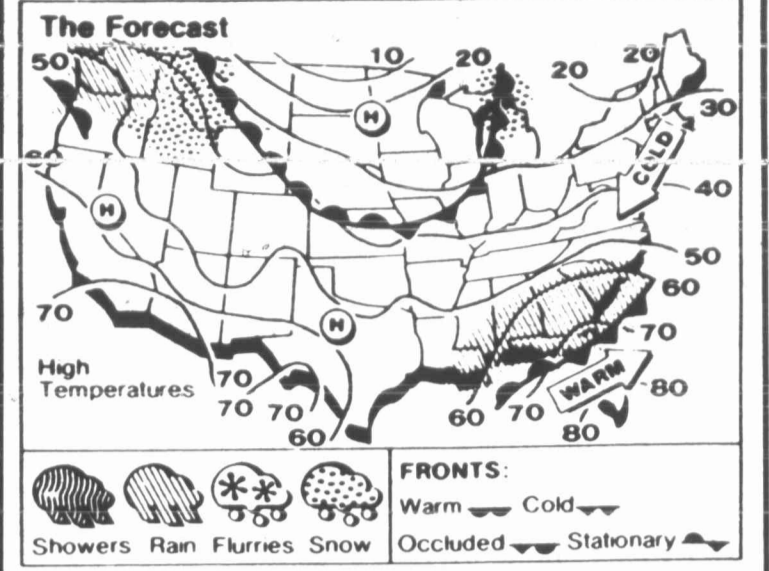

"In the summertime, it's just a trickle," said Capt. Joseph Saxon, a spokesman at Beale. "You can walk across it."

"This is my third flood — one in Arkansas, the big flood (in Yuba City) in 1955 and now this," said Connie Dickens, 67, of Olivehurst.

Three dogs on top of a structure in the Marysville, Calif., suburb of Linda wait to be rescued Friday after a levee on the Yuba River broke Thursday night.

Weather

Forecast
West Texas — Partly cloudy central and southeast, fair Panhandle and Far West Saturday. Partly cloudy southeast, fair elsewhere Saturday night and Sunday. A little warmer east of mountains Saturday through Sunday. Saturday lower 50s Panhandle to upper 70s Big Bend. Lows Saturday night lower 20s Panhandle to near 40 Big Bend. Highs Sunday mid 50s Panhandle to near 80 Big Bend.

State
A ridge of high pressure built southward across the state Friday behind an arctic front that stretched across the lower Rio Grande Valley into the Gulf of Mexico.
Low level cloudiness spread northward from the coastal plains into the Piney Woods of East Texas. Clear skies dotted parts of the Hill Country while mid- to high-level clouds covered the remainder of the state.

North to northwest winds generally from 10 to 20 mph breezed behind the front, except for light and variable winds over the Panhandle. Over the lower Rio Grande Valley ahead of the front, east to southeast winds prevailed.
Temperatures reached into the 80s south of the front while readings in the 60s were noted over the coastal plains and parts of South Texas. The 40s and 50s were common across the rest of the state. Late afternoon extremes ranged from 40 at Childress to 83 at McAllen.
The forecast called for partly to mostly cloudy skies Saturday with a chance of scattered light rain or drizzle over parts of East and South Texas. Highs will be mostly in the 40s and 50s, except for lower 60s in extreme South Texas and low 70s in the Big Bend.

He was released on $200 bond.

Parole hearing right waived

A Big Spring man will return to the Texas Department of Corrections as a result of waiving his right to a parole hearing Friday.
Donald Timothy Taylor, 27, of 800 Marcy No. 22 pleaded guilty Feb. 10 to assaulting Jackie Lee of Sweetwater in the Silver Bullet Lounge on Feb. 2.
He was fined $225 for the offense by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt. The assault was violation of his parole.

Taylor was sent to the state penitentiary in November 1984 after he was convicted of burglary in 118th District Court.
Taylor owes the state two years and three months of his sentence.

Hance, formerly a conservative Democrat, switched to the Republican party last spring. He served as a congressman for six years and made an unsuccessful bid for the Senate in 1984.
Hance's record in Congress includes co-sponsorship of the 1981 federal tax cut, one of the cornerstones of President Reagan's economic policy. Throughout his political life he has been a champion of conservative causes.

Deaths

Martha Ann McKay

DRAW — Services for Martha Ann McKay, 76, of 2009 Virginia in Big Spring will be at 3 p.m. today at the First United Methodist Church in Draw, with the Rev. Elmer Lard, pastor of First United Methodist Church of O'Donnell, officiating. Burial will be in Draw Cemetery, directed by White Funeral Home of Tahoka.
She died at 11:45 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 20, at Malone-Hogan Hospital after a long illness.
She was born May 15, 1909, in Hillsboro. Her family moved to Lynn County in 1911 and to the Draw community in 1913, where she attended school. She married Louis McKay Nov. 24, 1927, in Draw. They moved to Lamesa from Draw in December 1972. McKay died June 1, 1982, and she moved to Big Spring in December 1982.
She was a retired homemaker and a member of Northridge United Methodist Church in Lamesa.
She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Leon (Irene) Gillespie of Midland and Mrs. W.A. (Maurine) Burchell of Big Spring; a son, Louis Daniel McKay of Odessa; a sister, Ileta Vinyard of Odessa; three brothers, T.J. Pallbearers will be Kenny Wilson, Mark McKay, Steve McKay, David Caldwell, Jimmy Whitley and Bob Taylor.

Thelma Neal

COAHOMA — Services for Thelma Neal, 84, of Mountain Home, Ark., a former longtime resident of Big Spring, will be 10 a.m. Monday at the Coahoma Church of Christ with Jack Colgrove, minister, officiating.
The body will lie in state Sunday and Monday prior to services. Burial will be in the Coahoma Cemetery directed by Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.
She died Wednesday evening, Feb. 19, in Mountain Home, Ark., after a long illness. She was born Nov. 23, 1901, in Killeen and married Hollice Neal in 1920 in Coahoma. He died June 19, 1938. She had lived in Arkansas for the past seven years after moving from Big Spring. She was a member of the 14th and Main Church of Christ. She served as a volunteer at the Senior Citizens Center.
She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. L.F. (Vera) Anderson of Coahoma, Bonnie Miller of Houston, Jo Rowell of Yellowville, Ark., and Patsy Hudson of Whiteville, Ark.; two brothers, Putman Cramer of Houston and Burl Cramer of Midland; a sister, Eva Wheeler of Big Spring; 20 grandchildren, 39 great-grandchildren, and five great-great-grandchildren. She was preceded by a daughter, Dixie Balding, and two brothers.
Grandsons will serve as pallbearers.

Convicted spy kills self

WASHINGTON — Larry Wu-tai Chin, the first American ever convicted of spying for China, killed himself in jail Friday, two weeks after a federal jury found the retired CIA employee guilty of crimes that could have led to life imprisonment.

Prosecutors said his spying career spanned 30 years and introduced documents portraying the Peking-born Chin as a heavy gambler — in contrast to the quiet, scholarly image he presented in court.

Reagan policy exposed

WASHINGTON — The General Accounting Office says the Reagan administration has used an almost continuous series of military exercises in Honduras to skirt congressional intent and build large facilities in that key Central American nation.

The report by the congressional watchdog agency was requested by Rep. William Alexander Jr., D-Ark., and is part of a dispute between the Reagan administration and Alexander and other critics over U.S. policy in Central America.

Two held for murder

GLENDALE, Calif. — The 17-year-old son of Philippine News executive Oscar Salvatierra and the son's girlfriend were arrested for investigation of murdering him and faking a threat of political assassination to cover it up, police said Friday.

Officers said 18-year-old Teresa Kay Deburger, a Glendale High School student, and son Arnel Salvatierra were taken into custody Thursday night in the shooting death.

Glendale Police Chief David J. Thompson said police had recovered the gun used in Wednesday's shooting.

Pilots support strike

MIAMI — Eastern Airlines pilots voted overwhelmingly to support a strike, despite resumption of contract talks with management and the carrier's threat to shut down if a strike occurs, union officials said today.

The strike authorization was approved by union and non-union pilots 3,502 to 154. The count was completed today with the tally of ballots mailed in by members of the Air Line Pilots Association, which represents 4,300 Eastern pilots.

Beware of sales trap

AUSTIN — The State Health Department said Friday some companies selling water conditioning equipment are implying or stating directly that public water supplies are not fit for consumption.

The department said public drinking water systems must meet state and federal standards, and it added, "Consumers are cautioned to thoroughly check out the claims and statements made by water conditioning sales people."

Some 2,000 students and supporters of opposition leader Corazon Aquino gather at the gate of Malacanang Palace in a protest march Friday against the Marcos government. The group was protesting alleged fraud in the recent presidential elections in the Philippines.

Marcos assails 'modern-day imperialists'

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos said Friday that sore losers and "modern-day imperialists" in foreign capitals are trying to taint his election victory. The critics he castigated say he won by fraud.

Leftist groups pledged support for boycotts, strikes and demonstrations planned for next week by Corazon Aquino, who claims she won the Feb. 7 election. Marcos was declared the winner by the National Assembly, in which he controls two-thirds of the seats.

A national police captain resigned in support of Mrs. Aquino, calling the Marcos government "illegitimate, repressive, unjust and corrupt."

Lt. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, designated as the new armed forces commander, asked Marcos to stop the last-minute appointments being made by Gen. Fabian C. Ver, whom he is to succeed March 1.

Ver is a close ally of the president, who has been in power 20 years, and was one of 24 soldiers acquitted last year in the August 1983 assassination of Benigno Aquino, Mrs. Aquino's husband. The United States had been urging Marcos to dismiss him.

The inauguration is scheduled for Tuesday, but who will be there remains a question.

Belgium and Canada plan not to send anyone, and the Belgians said they doubted that other nations of the European Community would send representatives of ambassadorial rank. Britain has not yet been invited, but officials said privately it probably would decline.

The U.S. Senate and European Parliament have passed resolutions accusing Marcos of election fraud, and criticism has come from the Reagan administration and other governments.

Only the Soviet Union sent a message congratulating Marcos on the election victory.

Philip Habib, Reagan's special envoy, met with Mrs. Aquino on Friday for the second time. Her spokesman said she told him, when asked where her protests might lead, "Wait and see."

Marcos said in a statement that Filipinos will defend with their lives what he called foreign attempts to interfere. He made no reference to Habib or a particular country.

"Sadly, there are those in foreign lands who for their own reasons have willingly picked up the theme, impugning the integrity of our recent presidential election and have even called for foreign intervention in our national affairs," the president said.

"We deplore these actions as the acts of ungracious electoral losers and of modern-day imperialists who evidently think that a nation like the Philippines would willingly submit to their dictates and wishes."

The Japanese news agency Kyodo quoted Marcos as saying he would replace about half the members of his Cabinet.

The leftist group Bayan (Country), which has held successful strikes in several larger Philippine cities, announced Friday that it was backing Mrs. Aquino's call for a nationwide shutdown next Wednesday. Bayan boycotted the election.

"We recognize her as the president of the Philippines, and it is our duty to follow her," said former Sen. Lorenzo Tanada, who took a leave as head of Bayan to support Mrs. Aquino's campaign.

Ariane launch slated

KOUROU, French Guiana — After nearly eight months of delays, the European rocket Ariane was set Friday for re-entry into a commercial satellite market clouded by the U.S. space shuttle disaster.

Ariane is a conventional three-stage unmanned rocket. On Friday's launch — its 16th — it was to carry a Swedish scientific satellite and a French-built Earth observation satellite, Spot 1, which will compete directly with the American Landsat series of satellites.

Ex-Navy officer nabbed

LONDON — British authorities lodged an espionage charge Friday against a man they identified as a former U.S. naval commander and intelligence worker. Police said he was arrested while trying to flee the country.

John Bothwell, 59, identified in court as a retired Navy commander who quit the military 22 years ago and then worked in a U.S. intelligence agency for 10 years, was arraigned on a charge of violating Britain's 1911 Official Secrets Act.

Libya feels fiscal pinch

TRIPOLI, Libya — An already ailing Libyan economy is being squeezed by plunging world oil prices, and the U.S. economic embargo could make things worse.

Libyan oil exports have fallen to less than 600,000 barrels a day, or half last year's rate, according to estimates from foreign diplomats and oil company sources. At the same time, world prices have dropped from about $26 a barrel in January to about $16 now.

The combination could cut Libya's revenues from its main cash export to less than $5 billion this year, from $8 billion last year and a peak of $22 billion in 1980.

Botha sets new rules

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The government Friday opened the downtown districts of Johannesburg and Durban to non-white traders and professionals, the first break with apartheid policy segregating business areas by race.

The new regulations allow Asians, blacks and people of mixed-race to legally run restaurants, sell wares or practice law in the city centers. Rules barring hotels and restaurants in those areas from admitting all races also were repealed.

Chinese pilot defects

SEOUL, South Korea — The Defense Ministry said a Chinese air force MiG-19 jet-fighter landed at a South Korean air base today under the escort of South Korean warplanes, and government radio said the pilot had defected.

Gift shop opens on Fourth

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

The Stage Coach gift shop, formerly located in Sand Springs, is set to open today at a new location in Big Spring, 912 E. Fourth St.

Owner Jason Campbell said there just wasn't enough population in Sand Springs and Coahoma to support the store.

"I just didn't get enough traffic out there," he said. The shop is a "middle income" gift store, he said.

"We don't carry expensive stuff, but we don't have cheap stuff either," he said. "We are trying not to duplicate other gift stores in town."

Campbell said the store carries "a little bit of everything, from nice gifts to gag gifts." Half of the store is devoted to serious items and half devoted to fun.

On the serious side, Stage Coach carries collector's items such as gnomes, Don James animals and Precious Moments; Christian decorations; candy; greeting cards; and small posters.

The other half has novelty items such as a combination pen and picture frame, a hairbrush for bald heads (it has terry cloth instead of bristles), stuffed animals, and pepper and garlic gum.

The shop also carries party favors, Texas souvenirs and Marketing teams often neglected

By TOM PETERS

Harvard business professor Tom Bonoma coined the term "global mediocrity." He argues that a sharp marketing plan is compromised when "management attempts to make up for poor-quality distribution relationships with more distributors."

Most firms make the mistake of paying too little attention to the somewhat attenuated members of their marketing team. "Sales" staffs who work with distributors or franchisees are too few in number and too low in the corporate pecking order. By such treatment, a golden opportunity is lost.

Companies that mind their distribution channels reap tangible rewards. Steelcase Inc. in Grand Rapids, Mich., has $1.2 billion in sales and a 20 percent market share in the highly-fragmented and competitive office furniture market. Its products are fine, but it really distinguishes itself from the pack by having earned a solid reputation for delivery, timeliness and service quality. Steelcase works exclusively through dealers, and lavishes exceptional attention on them.

By contrast, American auto makers have sorely neglected their dealers in the past few years, compounding a poor quality record (in the consumers' eyes) with poor delivery via the dealers. I criticized one auto company for its poor ratings in a consumer satisfaction survey. An executive's lame excuse was that the survey was weighted heavily with dealer satisfaction measures, and after all, they couldn't be held responsible for that end!

Can you imagine McDonald's responding: "Our Big Macs are great; the cleanliness of the stores is not our responsibility?" Contrary to the auto experience, Deere & Co., Caterpillar Tractor Co. and Clark Equipment Co., among others, have been buffered a bit by their superb dealer relations. All three, like Steelcase, have poured attention on their dealers even in the worst of times.

Attention is one part of it; the willingness to weed out bad actors is another. I believe that one's distribution channel should be purged of the bottom 5 to 10 percent of performers every year. David Ogilvy, the advertising legend, bragged that he fired many more accounts than had fired him. At some point the behavior of these clients began to seriously affect his staff morale. Likewise, franchisees or distributors whose quality and service are sub-marginal can pollute the entire company and its customer base.

The decision to weed out is a tough one. It is a vote against a customer and a vote against volume, the Holy Grail for so many. Examination of the long-term successful franchisee operations, though, clearly suggests the winners focused as much on quality of operation as on volume. When franchisees didn't measure up, they were canned or their territory was bought back.

And yet time and again I find hotel or fast food chain managers who haven't dumped a franchisee in years. In the auto business, General Motors Corp. is moving belatedly to rectify the problem, exercising rights that have been theirs all along. To gain the right to apply for a Saturn dealership, for instance, any current GM dealer must have a superb customer satisfaction rating. It's about time.

Incidentally, this prune-and-focus-on-quality strategy applies to the middlemen, too. The smart (profitable) wholesalers or manufacturers' representatives will weed out brands and companies that offer suspect quality products or fail to meet warranty claims. The rep who allows a portfolio to be marred by a poorly performing supplier is at risk.

The process of focusing on the relationship between producers and consumers was nicely summarized by the head of a $60 million electronics company. Explaining his decision to quit some of his biggest customers, he says, "Our focus is on value rather than price. Customers who squeeze their suppliers to get the maximum price discount are the same ones who give us the most problems after they purchase. They cut corners on maintenance and cleanliness. They push equipment beyond its specifications. In short, they run the rest of their business in the same fashion as their purchasing."

I've written several times about profits associated with producing and delivering the highest value-added products and services. The logic that guides such a strategy is exactly transferable to relationships with distributors, franchisees and the trade in general. Frito-Lay found it could afford nearly 10,000 salespersons to nurture its relationships with retailers of all sorts and sizes. Its nearly half-billion dollars in pre-tax profits on $3 billion in sales suggests it's on to something.

How much are you investing in your staffing to support your distribution channels? Are you focusing on the quality of performance your channel members offer as much as, or more, than on their volume? Do you regularly prune poor performers from your franchisee or distributor lists, even if their volume is high? Answering these three questions — and looking for bold new approaches to channel management — are vital keys to your future profitability and growth.

Women avoid used cars, survey shows

By EDWARD MILLER
AP Auto Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Women account for more than 40 percent of new-car purchases in the United States, tending to be younger and less likely to be married than their male counterparts, according to a recent survey.

Women also show a strong distaste for used cars, even though their incomes lag behind men's, because they fear mechanical breakdown, said the survey by Conde Nast Publications Inc., which publishes nine magazines including Vogue, Vanity Fair and Glamour.

Practicality plays a bigger role in women's car-buying decisions than in men's, with women paying closer attention to fuel economy, loan financing rates and operating costs, said the survey of about 1,000 men and 1,000 women.

"We set out to prove what had been obvious to the French for a thousand years: That women and men are different," marketing director Eckart Guthe told a news conference.

Guthe said the company nevertheless was surprised at the number of women who buy cars on their own and the differences in taste with men.

The information was gathered from long questionnaires sent to 2,000 men and 2,000 women who registered new cars in the past few months. About half the men and half the women replied, he said.

Women's preferences for certain models are so great that they make or break the success of those cars, he said, naming the Nissan Pulsar sporty car, with nearly 70 percent female ownership, and the Buick Skyhawk, nearly 60 percent.

More female new-car buyers are single, divorced, separated or widowed than males, the study said.

"Women working — this has led to a total revolution in terms of Detroit," Guthe said.

Recent internal auto company data say about 15 percent of new cars were sold to women 20 years ago compared with 42 percent in 1985, roughly matching the Conde Nast findings.

The average woman pays more than $12,000 for her new car, meaning women spent more than $55 billion on domestic and foreign cars last year.

Generally, the smaller the car the greater the percentage of women buyers, apparently because of price.

A study last year by Redbook magazine said women either make the choice or influence in some way the purchase of 82 percent of new cars.

Guthe said he agreed with another Redbook finding — that while carmakers are recognizing the importance of women, many car dealers hold on to old values and treat women poorly in the showroom.

"When it comes to the dealer level, a lot of work needs to be done," he said.

Conde Nast found that budget-minded women buyers and those wanting basic transportation tended to be hostile toward foreign cars. Those women in the category "driving enthusiast" were skeptical of the purported advantages of foreign cars and those seeking comfort also preferred American brands.

"These are people concerned with American workers having jobs," Guthe said. "There's a lot of patriotism in that group, and there's no difference there between men and women."

Dionne revels in golden days

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — It was after midnight when a sleepy Dionne Warwick heard her doorbell ring one recent night. She asked wearily over the intercom who it was.

It was her excited cousin, Whitney Houston, fresh from winning two American Music Awards.

"My feet never touched the ground," Miss Warwick said. "I went to answer the door. She was so excited and thrilled. Her mom, Cissy Houston (Miss Warwick's aunt) was with her along with her agent. I got a bottle of champagne and we just laughed and giggled."

Champagne nights and golden days are back for Dionne Warwick, who is enjoying a stupendous hit with "That's What Friends Are For," a single that's managed to be No. 1 on the black, pop and adult charts for three weeks. Her LP, "Friends," is in the Top 20.

She also has reunited with her favorite songwriter, Burt Bacharach, after a 10-year split, and anchors TV's hit record review show, "Solid Gold."

All royalties from "That's What Friends Are For" are going to the American Foundation for AIDS Research. So far the easy-going tune has raised $500,000.

The music is by Bacharach and was originally recorded by Rod

Stewart and included in the soundtrack for the 1982 comedy movie, "Night Shift."

However, despite the ensemble cast of friends Stevie Wonder, Gladys Knight and Elton John and altruistic lyrics, the song was not originally intended to raise funds.

It was Elizabeth Taylor who persuaded Miss Warwick to donate the royalties. She had been attracted to the lyrics by Carol Bayer Sager about friends being around when you need them.

"When she literally sat me down and explained a few things regarding this ugliness of AIDS, there was no doubt in my mind that I was going to say 'yes,'" Miss Warwick said in an interview. The other singers followed.

There was nothing but confidence from Miss Taylor. "I know it's going to be a No. 1 record," Miss Warwick quoted her as telling the recording artists. "And we all said, 'Oh, from your lips to God's ears.'"

The song has introduced Miss Warwick to another generation of listeners. Her songs over 26 years include several standards from the songwriting team of Bacharach and former lyricist-partner Hal David: "Don't Make Me Over" in 1962; "Alfie," and "I Say a Little Prayer" in 1967; "Do You Know the Way to San Jose" in 1968; and "I'll Never Fall in Love Again" in 1970.

In 1974, the Bacharach and David hit-writing machine broke up. Miss Warwick sued, saying the pair had failed to meet a songwriting contract. The suit was settled out of court, with terms undisclosed.

However, Miss Warwick and Bacharach could not come to terms with one another.

Miss Warwick's first No. 1 single without Bacharach came in 1974 when she did "Then Came You" with the Spinners.

In the late 1970s came the disco sound, shoving aside several popular artists. Miss Warwick managed to ride out the end of the period with the 1979 album "Dionne," produced by Barry Manilow. It turned out two Grammy-winning singles for her: "I'll Never Love This Way Again" and "Deja Vu." She has won four Grammys during her career.

Miss Warwick was born 53 years ago in East Orange, N.J., in what she called a "very, very powerful singing family." Her mother and aunts formed The Sweet Inspirations, the first gospel group ever to perform at the Newport, R.I., Jazz Festival.

"We were brought up never to get too big for our boots," she said.

"We always had that assurance that someone in the family will say 'Hey, wait a minute. Back up.' There was never that moment when your head got bigger than the door."

While on a music scholarship at the Hartt School of Music in Connecticut, Miss Warwick formed her own gospel group. It was when she was singing backup in 1960 on The Coaster's "Mexican Divorce" when young composer Bacharach noticed her distinctive voice.

Last year, he called.

"As a matter of fact, I did say 'Burt, who?'" Miss Warwick recalled. Bacharach and Miss Sager had written the song "Finder of Lost Loves" for a TV show, and the producers wanted Miss Warwick to record it. Bacharach decided it was time to call.

"Once we got over the initial shock of literally speaking to each other, it was easy," Miss Warwick said. "We were also able to clear the air and literally express the fact that neither of us did anything derogatory toward each other."

"I think that because of what we feel and what we felt at that time — well, it was just too strong to let attorneys destroy. I feel very safe in saying that he has a great deal of respect for my musicality that never died."

Dionne Warwick, enjoying a return to the top of the charts with her hit single, "That's What Friends Are For," says that the tune was not originally meant to be the fundraiser it is. The song's royalties are earmarked for the American Foundation for AIDS Research and has raised $5 million for the cause.

'Murphy's Romance'

Brian Kerwin, shown in a scene with Sally Field from the movie "Murphy's Romance," nearly steals the romantic comedy from veterans James Garner and Miss Field. Kerwin says he nearly turned down the role, but is extremely pleased on how it turned out. The movie is currently showing at the Cinema in College Park.

MOVIES

The Cinema in College Park Shopping Center is showing "Murphy's Romance" starring James Gardner and Sally Fields at 7:10 p.m. and 9:10 p.m. nightly with Saturday and Sunday matinee performances at 2 p.m.

The film is a witty, urbane diatribe about a woman who moves to a small town and falls into a love triangle.

The Cinema is also presenting "Uphill All the Way" starring Mel Tillis and Roy Clarke at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. nightly with Saturday and Sunday matinee performances at 2 p.m.

This raucous comedy western is about two varmints up to their ears in trouble and features guest appearances by Glen Campbell and Burt Reynolds.

The Ritz Theater, 401 Main, is showing two action-packed films through Thursday.

"Iron Eagle" starring Lou Gossett Jr. is an adventure drama about an American pilot who gets shot down in a third-world country by terrorists. Showtimes are 1:15, 3:15, 5:15, 7:15 and 9:15 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Weekday night performances are 7:15 and 9:15 p.m.

Chuck Norris heads an all-star cast in "Delta Force" that attempts to rescue American passengers who have been hijacked to Beirut by religious terrorists.

Showtimes are 2, 4:30, 7:10 and 9:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Weekday night performances are 7:10 and 9:30 p.m.

Tickets for both performances are $2.50 for children and $4 for adults.

Saturday's weekday kiddie show is "Space Hunters" and begins at 10 a.m. Admission is $2.

EXHIBITS

The Heritage Museum at 510 Scurry will hold a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. today for the opening of the Kids Corner exhibits. Included in these exhibits are hands on activities dealing with architecture, archaeology and dinosaurs. Refreshments will be served. Admission is free.

• "Heart of Texas Band" plays country & western in addition to rock tunes from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. tonight, Wednesday and Friday at the Lamplighter Club in the Homestead Inn. Admission is $2 for non-members.

• "Eagle Creek Band" from Midland will play country & western tunes at Players, 3202 E. Interstate 20, tonight and Tuesday through Friday nights from 9 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. Admission is $2 for non-members.

• "Rocky Bottom Band" of Big Spring will perform rock 'n' roll tunes from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. tonight and 8 p.m. to midnight Wednesday at The Silver Bullet Lounge at 802 W. Interstate 20. Admission is $3 on weekend nights and $2 on weekday nights.

New books

ADULT BOOKS

THE HIDDEN MYSTERY OF THE BIBLE, by Jack Ensign Addington. In this book Dr. Addington shows how the Bible is a storehouse of inspiration designed to fit every human need, an infinite source of wisdom and most of all a book of life. Non-fiction.

ARE YOU HUNGRY? by Jane R. Hirschmann and Lela Zaphiropoulos. The books gives us a completely new approach to raising children free of food and weight problems.

WOODROW WILSON AND WORLD WAR I by Robert H. Ferrell. This deals with the crucial role of President Wilson as a wartime president and his inability to get the Senate to go along with the Treaty of Versailles and thereby gain U.S. entry into the League of Nations. Non-fiction.

THE PARTY KILLER, by Hugh Pentecost. This Julian Quist mystery is full of suspense and surprises about secret hatreds that lead to murder. Fiction.

IS FOR BURGLAR, by Sue Grafton. The author has her detective, Kinsey Millhone, involved in a house destroyed by arson, a brutally murdered woman, a missing lynx coat and many other puzzles before the murder is solved. Fiction.

OUTLAW EMPIRE, by Ray Hogan. A double-barreled Western with plenty of hard riding, and hard fighting. Riley Tabor is a cowboy who's out of a job and running low on luck. He comes to Dodge City and gets mixed up in another man's fight, getting himself into more trouble than he bargained for. Fiction.

BROTHER by Dean Marney. Harry's computer takes on a life of its own and zaps his obnoxious older brother whom he believes to be "the worst possible slime to ever walk the face of the earth." Fiction. Middle elementary to junior high.

MAKING MONEY WITH YOUR HOME COMPUTER by Dana K. Cassell. After you've had fun and kept your records with your home computer, you can put it to work and make money for yourself — by working for small business owners, organizations, clubs, etc. Non-fiction. Young adult.

SUPERCOUPLE by Mary Towne. A cheerleader and football hero are pushed into a romance but until there is an accident they don't realize how little they know about each other. Romance. Teen.

GROWIN' PAINS by Mary Blount Christian. Twelve-year-old Ginny feels stifled in her small Texas town and finds a kindred spirit in physically handicapped Mr. Billy. Fiction.

The following are new acquisitions by the Howard County Library, located at Fourth and Scurry:

THE COMPUTER THAT ATE MY

Film to depict ship hijacking

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer Tamara Asseyev has acquired the movie rights to the story of Marilyn and Leon Klinghoffer and the terrorist hijacking of the cruise ship Achille Lauro.

Asseyev, who is under exclusive contract to New World Television, will develop the movie, "Siege at Sea," for NBC.

The Klinghoffers were vacationing aboard the Italian cruise ship when it was seized by terrorists in October 1985. Klinghoffer was the only passenger killed. Mrs. Klinghoffer recently died of cancer.

"We are committed to presenting an accurate and sensitive account, done with dignity and taste, of this ordinary man who was victimized by foreign terrorists," said Asseyev. She co-produced "Norma Rae" and has produced other theatrical films.

Film censors derail movie in Finland

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Renny Harlin says he is "shocked and disappointed" that his first feature film, "Born American," has been banned in his native Finland.

"The head of the censorship board told me that my film might hurt relations between Finland and another country, said Harlin, 26. "Obviously the other country is Russia."

The movie was banned by Finnish censors because of its violence and political material. Harlin said it was the first film ever banned in Finland, which shares a common border with the Soviet Union. Finland is also bound to the Soviet Union by strong economic ties and a 1948 treaty of friendship and cooperation.

The movie tells the story of three young and foolish Americans who deliberately cross the border from Finland into the Soviet Union. They fight it out with the Soviet army, are captured and thrown into a Gulag prison.

The publicity over the banning has helped the picture in this country. But Harlin said, "I am a Finn. My whole career is in Finland. It wouldn't make sense for me to make a film not seen there."

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

HOROSCOPE FOR SAT., FEB. 22 PAPER!

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, FEB. 23, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You get a sudden inspiration on how to put yourself in a more expanded consciousness and to gain the aspirations that mean the most to you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): In the morning, get busy contacting those who are far away, but later some anxiety crops up and requires your time and attention.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Your intuition tells you how to have a good time today, but soon a new acquaintance can bring some annoyance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Morning can be pleasant in the company of a partner, but later some outside situation can cause you anxiety and takes time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21): You now know how to gain more money for whatever work you perform. Avoid someone who wants to change you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21): Set up appointments for amusements during the week, but later do not start any arguments with your mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Be happy with your mate early, but later some situation may arise at your home that needs quick handling.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Be with a good friend at a place where high-minded ideas are expounded in the morning. Later conditions may not be so good.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A prominent person could open doors of opportunity for you, but take care later you do not overspend for pleasure.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): In the morning, you get excellent ideas for advancement, but later the situation at home could be tense.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): During breakfast, you get fine ideas how to enjoy greater well being in the days ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A good morning to discuss the future with home ties and associates so that it can be more harmonious and profitable.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You work quite hard trying to make your environment more charming, but later do not feel satisfied because you are tired.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be appreciative of own environment and will do very well at school. Upon reaching adulthood, there can suddenly be a need for hard work and could easily develop a martyr complex if you do not teach that life is full of changes. Don't neglect physical education.

Hawks start season today

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

The 1986 Howard College baseball regular season will begin today with a 1 p.m. doubleheader against Paris Junior College but head coach Bill Griffin is uncertain if his Hawks will soar to traditional heights or take a dive. The series will be apart of this weekend's Homecoming at Howard College.

The Hawks are definitely rebuilding in 1986 after losing the bulk of the starters from a 1985 team that went 31-14 and earned Griffin a third straight trip to the state playoffs.

Nine players off that team are now starting for senior colleges. Heading the list are former All-American Jimmy Garcia, who led the nation in hitting with a .468 average and is now starting shortstop for St. Mary's University in San Antonio. Last year's top pitcher, Chuck Ashcraft (10-1), is now starting for Division II power Northern Alabama.

Shortstop Mike Byrd will join Lamar University in the Spring. Catcher Joey Ortiz is now starting for Pacific University in California. First baseman Eddie Citronelli is starting catcher for the University of Southwestern Louisiana. Outfielder Steve Carrasco joined Garcia at St. Mary's. Pitcher Kris Segrist is with Texas Tech. Outfielder Mark Howell and pitcher Doug Myres are both starting for the University of Texas-Arlington.

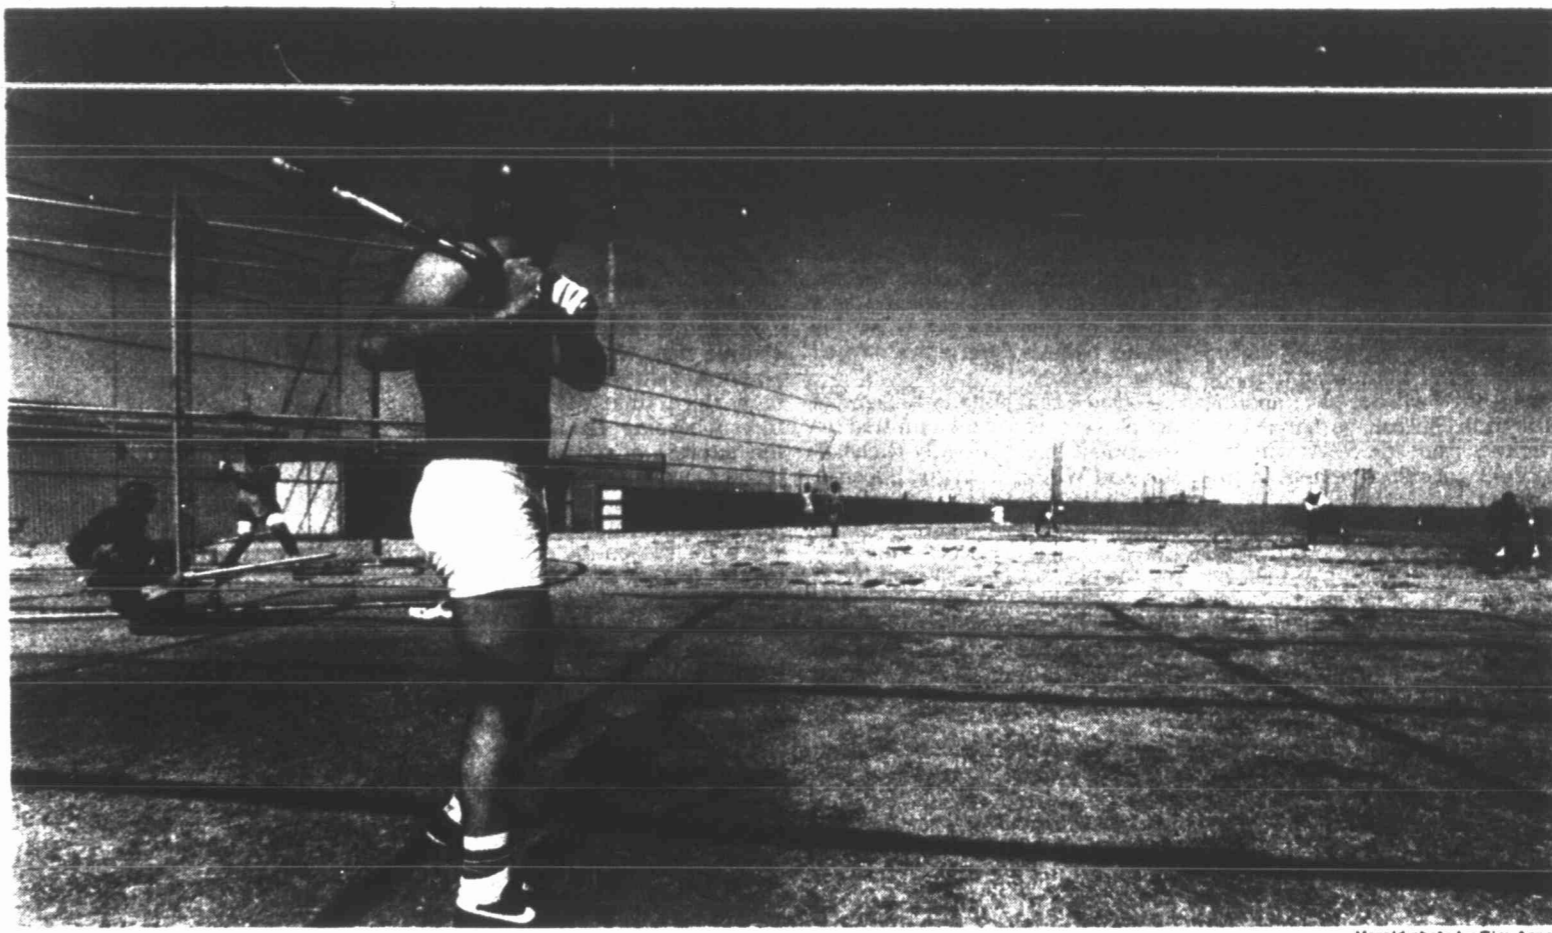

But all is not lost for Griffin, who like most coaches is taking a very conservative stance on his prospects after early season evaluation. "Right now all our players are consistently inconsistent," joked Griffin. "That's not unusual at this point in the season, but we're going to have produce during this home stand or it might be the start of a long season."

Though pre-season scrimmages have been deemed less than satisfactory by the fourth-year head coach, Griffin is still optimistic about the freshman recruiting class he calls "as good a bunch of players as I've ever had here."

Griffin's traditional recruiting base, San Antonio, again produced the majority of the recruiting talent. Ten players from the Alamo City are now wearing the red and grey and Griffin is hoping that they will make their presence felt in the near future.

"Right now I'm in a position where I can start 18 ball players in the doubleheader this weekend without the quality of play dropping off," explained Griffin. "It's good to have that kind of competition for starting positions, but I haven't seen anybody really prove that they can play consistently day after day. We've got some experienced players on the roster who just are not where I thought they would be by this time."

Knowing that his team would only return seven players from last year's squad, Griffin enlisted five transfers from senior colleges to try to fill the leadership void.

Heading the list of transfers is Damon Amaya, a strong armed pitcher-infielder from Oklahoma City University, who should find a place in the starting rotation for the Hawks.

Greg Landry is another pitcher transfer from the University of Southwest Louisiana who should also provide some immediate help to the Hawk mound crew.

The top returning pitcher for the Hawks is sophomore Alex Lopez, who was the chief stopper in the Hawks bullpen last with a 4-0 record. Griffin is undecided whether Lopez will be a starter this season or continue to relieve.

Sophomore Bryan Willis is the other returning Hawk pitcher. He started fifteen games for the Hawks finishing with a 3.68 ERA and a 4-4 record.

"The pitching staff will be adequate. We've got some strong-armed freshman and transfers that have the potential to be very tough and some experienced pitchers who will have to carry the load while the others develop," Griffin said.

The Hawk outfield will also be experienced with captain Bruce Smith returning in left field and sophomore starter Dan Lanfear manning right field. Smith was the Hawks second leading hitter at an even .400 last year while Lanfear led the team in walks with 46 while batting .306 for the year.

Richard Messer, a sophomore transfer from the University of Texas-Arlington, and freshmen Thad Weber and Jeff Shults are all vying for the center field spot.

Griffin will use returning letterman Scott Smith's outstanding base running and defense in the outfield as well.

Anchoring the infield will be returning third baseman Roland Gonzalez, who was the third leading hitter last year with a .360 batting average.

Lady Steer golfers fourth

Behind Pam Martinez's 89 and a 92 by Michelle Cox, the Big Spring Lady Steer golfers ended up in fourth place at a golf tournament held at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

The Lady Steers, coached by Don Cook, finished the first 18 holes of play with a score of 398. Odessa Permian's 367 leads the way. Amarillo High and Snyder and second and third respectively.

Martinez, a three year letterwoman for the Lady Steers, is currently tied for third in the medalist competition. Stephanie Box of Lubbock Monterey leads all golfers with a 83.

Other members making up the Lady Steers team is Karen Brodie, Heather Varley and Becky Read.

Final round action will get underway this morning at 8:30.

Big Spring Lady Steer golfer Pam Martinez rolls a putt towards the hole during action yesterday at Comanche Trail Golf Course. Martinez finished the round with a 89, tied for third place in the medalist competition.

Abernathy defenses Owls

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

After last night's regional playoff game with the Abernathy Lady Lopes, it's no doubt Reagan County guard Leslie Gooch won't forget Abernathy's Mary Cooper's face.

Gooch was staring at Cooper face all game long as Cooper's defensive heroics helped carry the Lady Lopes to a easy 48-36 win over the Owls last night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum in the Region I-2A tournament.

Gooch came into the contest leading the undefeated, high-flying Owls with a 27 point scoring average. But it was not to be her night as Cooper, designated to cover Gooch all over the court, did just that. Cooper's constant defensive pressure limited Gooch to 12 points. Something not many teams couldn't find a way to do.

Cooper did have plenty of help from her teammates in the contest. The Lady Lopes' sticky man-to-man defense held the Owls 24 points under their scoring average. With the likes of Mikki Webb and Phoebe Dunn, the Lady Lopes simply outclassed Reagan County with its overall team speed and slight height advantage.

But if one major point of their victory had to be singled out, it would be the defensive work of Cooper, a 5-3 senior guard.

Gooch had to earn every single point she made. Cooper's quick feet took away her drives to the basket and when Gooch did get by her, there were always a couple of Lady Lopes stepping in to help out.

Thus Gooch made just 5 of 24 field goal attempts and seemed to be totally frustrated by the end of the game. In fact, her last five points of the game came with Cooper was sitting on the bench and Abernathy in "cruise control" with the game well in command.

In fact it was a miserable night for all Reagan County ball handlers as Cooper and fellow guard Webb controlled everything out front. Despite sitting out most of the second half in foul trouble, Webb ended the contest with five steals. Cooper ended the game with five steals also.

While Webb and Cooper did the kept the Owls outside game in check. Dunn, a 5-8 senior forward, held things down inside defensively. There was no driving the lane on the jumping jack as she blocked seven shots. She also made 10 points and pulled down a game-high 13 rebounds.

Abernathy's inside offensive scoring came in the form of 5-9 junior forward Anita Hood, who led all scorers with 15 points. She benefited from her teammates timely passing as she made 6 of 11 field goals from inside the paint. She also hauled down 11 rebounds as the Lady Lopes held a 36-31 rebounding edge over their shorter opponents.

For all practical purposes, Abernathy had this contest, which turned out to be a very sloppy one, salted away after the first half.

Gooch hit the first two baskets for Reagan County as the Owls took a 4-2 lead at one minute of play. In the next three minutes, Abernathy got two baskets by Webb and two by Cooper, outscoring Reagan County 9-2 to take a 11-6 lead with 4:30 left in the first quarter.

The lead was 19-6 at the end of the quarter as the Lady Lopes sunk 9 of 12 shots in the period.

In the first five minutes of the second quarter Abernathy got three baskets from Hood and stretched its lead to 31-10.

From there on the Lady Lopes cruised in for the win.

Reagan County, using a trapping press, forced 30 Abernathy turnovers. In return the Abernathy defense caused 30 Reagan County turnovers.

LEVELLAND — The O'Donnell Eagles dropped the Garden City Lady Barkats from the state playoff ranks by taking a 58-44 win over the District 16-A champs last night in the opening round of the Region I-A girls tournament at the Texas Dome.

The Eagles jumped out to a 16-9 first quarter lead and never trailed after that. Using a pressing defense, the Eagles forced numerous Garden City turnovers. That along with strong rebounding and the ot shooting of Cindy Bessire keyed the O'Donnell win.

Bessire ended the contest with a game-high 31 points. By halftime she had led her team to a 32-20 lead.

"The girls played hard," said Garden City coach Jimmy Fine of his squad after the loss.

PECOS — The Stanton Buffaloes season came to an end in their bi-district clash with the Clint Lions as the Lions escaped with a narrow 58-56 win.

The Buffaloes fell behind early in the game and made a furious last half rally, only to fall short by a field goal.

The Lions, winners of District 7-2A, jumped out to a 13-6 first quarter lead behind the scoring of Randy Accord and Fostina Ontiveros. They stretched the lead to 36-22 at the half.

Accord was the main thorn in Stanton's side as he scored a game-high 25 points. Ontiveros added 18.

Big Spring tracksters fare well

FT. STOCKTON — The Big Spring Steers and Lady Steers had some good showing in the opening day of the Comanche Relays here yesterday.

The Lady Steers scored 28 points behind a second and fourth place finish by freshmen Susan Garza in the 3200 meters (13:48) and 1600 (6:31). Manuella Bernal placed fifth in the 3200 (14:18) and fifth in the 1600 (6:39).

Other Lady Steers scoring points were: Pricilla Banks, fifth in the triple jump, 31-10; Aramand Solis, third, shot, 34-0; Maria Sanches, fourth, discus, 97-0.

The Steers only points came from Brian Mayfield in the high jump. The sophomore leaped 6-4, good for second place. The winning jump was also 6-4 but Mayfield got second on misses.

Steers who qualified for today's finals include: Phillip Matthews, 100, 11.1; Brian Reid, 300 hurdles, 40.4; 1600 relay (Wimberly White, Cedrick Banks, Sean Jackson and dewayne Sherman) 3:25.4. This is three second faster than the Steers' best time last season.

The girls qualified the 800 relay team of Tracy Shafter, Julie Salazar, Aretha Isiah and leslie Rodriguez (2:14). The 1600 relay team of Connie Swinney, Melanie Payne, Angie Dees and Michelle LeGrande made the finals with a time of 4:46.

O'Grady jumps into LA Open leader's role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mac O'Grady, the golf tour's rebel with what he feels is a cause, knocked in a hole in one Friday en route to a 68 that gave him the lead midway through the Los Angeles Open.

O'Grady, feuding with PGA Commissioner Deane Beman for the past two years, matched his opening 68 to stand at 6-under-par 136 through 36 holes at Riviera County Club.

Dennis Trixler, who shared the first-round lead at 66 with Jay Deising, was one stroke off the lead with a par 71 for the second day. He bogeyed the final hole to drop out of a tie with O'Grady.

Still flaws in NBA drug program

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

Though it has the toughest drug policy in major professional sports, the National Basketball Association found that problems among its players didn't disappear after the no-nonsense program was adopted.

Announced jointly in October 1983 by the NBA Players' Association and then-Commissioner Larry O'Brien, the league's plan gives players two chances to voluntarily come forward for treatment of drug problems.

The first time a player is treated, he is paid his full salary during rehabilitation; the second time, he is suspended without pay; and the third time, he can be banned indefinitely from the NBA, with the possibility of reinstatement in two years.

"Our goal is rehabilitation," Commissioner David Stern said. "It would be easy to say that we should give the druggies — as some commentators call them — one shot and they're out. We take a more compassionate view, but we also want to send the message that our patience has some limits."

Former All-Star John Drew was banned last month from the NBA because of what the league said was his three-time involvement with cocaine.

However, Tom Rasmussen of Salt Lake City, Drew's lawyer, said Drew's stay in a drug treatment center wasn't linked to cocaine, but was mandated by a judge after Drew was charged with writing bad checks.

"The league is not making an example of John Drew," said Larry Fleisher, general counsel of the NBA Players' Association. "We have a collective bargaining agreement and he fit the category of those who had had too many bites of the apple. He has come forward not once, not twice, but three times. Our position is clear. We have examined the evidence and there's nothing we can do under the agreement."

The NBA has had to deal with three problem areas connected with the drug program:

— Wiping the slate clean for drug offenses before the October 1983 agreement was reached. Micheal Ray Richardson of New Jersey, Quintin Dailey of Chicago and John Lucas of Houston got what the public believed were two "free" drug relapses.

— Quick rehabilitations. Some of the players who were admitted for treatment, most recently Richardson and Walter Davis of Phoenix, were in hospitals only a matter of weeks before returning to action. Fans ridiculed the league for allowing the players back so soon.

— So-called last chances. Is it realistic to expect a player who had two strikes against him to come forward a third time, knowing he faced permanent expulsion?

Stern said the drug policy's amnesty clause, which forgives problems before the October 1983 program started are ignored. "is our most difficult public relations problem. But we have an agreement with the players' association that is being lived up to."

Now that Richardson, Dailey and Lucas have had their two extra chances, "we're not kidding them."

"They are out if it happens again. But we had to temper that seriousness with compassion," Stern said.

Concerning what some regard as quick rehabilitation, Stern said, "Anyone who pronounces a player as cured after a month is presenting the facts wrong. The players' association and the league do not do that. We recognize the problem is chronic."

"Hospital treatment is only part of the drug rehabilitation program," Fleisher said. "Aftercare is a major part of rehabilitation and part of the aftercare therapy is returning to work. Aftercare without working is counterproductive. That's true whether you're a basketball player or a shopkeeper."

Russell Granik, the NBA's executive vice president, said when a player is reluctant to turn himself in a third time, "a player's interests become less important and the interest of the league's well-being more important."

If a player who has been through rehabilitation misses a game, for whatever reason, he can be called by the league to undergo a drug test. If he does not show up for the test, the NBA would regard that as a relapse, Stern said.

This policy was invoked recently when Richardson had the flu and did not show up for a doctor's appointment. He was tested for illegal drugs the next day; the test was negative.

The NBA's drug program, however, does not include a comprehensive testing program for players until after they have volunteered for treatment.

Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson said a testing system is needed to make the drug program more effective.

"I don't know of any other way," Nelson said. "I would think the athletes themselves, the innocent athletes, would demand testing."

Hawk Profile

Since he started playing for the Howard College Hawks after the Christmas break, Vernard Goode has played an important role for the Hawks as point guard.

The 5-9 sophomore transfer from Hampton Institute, Virginia, has been playing organized basketball six years. The 20-year old is the son of Roby and Curtis Goode.

He says his parents are the most influential people in his basketball career. "My mom had the understanding and my dad did the teaching," he said. "Basketball is a game of action. I love the quick decisions you have to make out there on the court."

Goode's favorite subject is math. His hobbies are television and joking around.

His future plans include becoming a marketing major

Queen Profile

Brandye Owens has been playing basketball 10 of her 19 years. The 5-10 freshman guard-forward for the Howard College Hawk-Queens has done a fine job in a reserve role this season.

The Roscoe native is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Owens. She credits her high school coach Ronnie Kincaid as the main person in her basketball career. "He made me realize what I was playing for and he gave me determination." I play basketball because I love the challenge. It helps build agility and... confidence.

Owens' favorite subject is english. Her hobbies are all outdoor activities.

Upon departure from Howard she plans to attend Angelo State University where she'll play basketball and take up floral designs.

Connors defaults in Lipton tennis semis

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Connors, enraged by what he felt were "incompetent" lines calls, was defaulted Friday for refusing to play in the fifth set of his semifinal match against Ivan Lendl at the Lipton International Players Championships tennis tournament.

With Lendl up a service break and leading 3-2, 30-0 in the fifth set, Connors made a half-swing at a Lendl volley that the left-hander thought was long.

When the ball was called good, giving Lendl a 40-0 lead, Connors stormed the umpire's chair and screamed at Jeremy Shales.

"That was not a judgment call," he said. "I didn't even play the ball, it was so far out."

"I'm not going to play under these conditions."

The women's title match — pitting top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd against second-seeded Steffi Graf of West Germany — will be held Saturday. Both finals will be nationally televised on ABC-TV.

Connors now faces fines ranging up to $20,000 and a suspension of up to one year. Farrar said he will make his initial decision on the punishment soon and turn the matter over to Marshall Happer, administrator of the Men's International Professional Tennis Council, who was in attendance at the tournament.

Lendl, who also argued several line calls during the 3-hour, 43-minute match, said he felt Connors had taken the wrong approach.

"I don't think a professional should default on a bad call," Lendl said. "I've had a thousand bad calls and he's had a thousand bad calls. You can't quit because of a bad call."

But Lendl also felt some sympathy for his opponent.

"I think the umpire lost control of the match right away," he said. "I'm always having problems with this umpire. I get very upset the minute I see him in one of my matches. I don't think the guy is very consistent."

Farrar said he and Mills walked out on the court even though they didn't feel there was a question of a rule interpretation, which is the on-average.

A trio of New York freshmen are also in the hunt for starting infield positions. Raphael Diaz, Ramces Guerro and Joel Chimelis all have had promising pre-season starts. "These New York kids are hard workers. Once we smooth out their technique they'll all be excellent ball players," said Griffin.

"Our strength this year will be our fielding and base running," explained Griffin. "I've got more speed this year than ever before so our base running should be a factor. But it's not going to do much good if we can't hit the ball."

Griffin is worried about the Hawks' apparent lack of power at the plate, a Hawk tradition in the past. "We've got some big boys with the potential to hit the long ball, but so far they are not making contact. It's been kind of frustrating, especially for guys like (Roland) Gonzalez and (Designated Hitter Joe) Cueniar because they hit with power last year."

So it looks like a year of good glove, decent pitch, and no hit at least at the start. "I'm afraid to think what will happen if we fall behind in a game with our hitting like it is. We'll just have to be patient at the plate and see what happens the next five days."

Griffin and the Hawks will need patience but they don't have a whole lot of time to solidify their starting lineup. Following the eight game home stand, they will travel to Waco for a conference opening three game series on April 4 with rival McLennan JC, who is rumored to be the class of Region 5.

The Hawks will need solid flight plan by that time.

Connors

ly reason they are supposed to intervene.

"When it reaches that stage, the supervisor and the referee usually go out to try to straighten things out," Farrar said. "I told Connors it wasn't a matter of law so we couldn't do anything about it. I also told him, 'You don't want to go out like this.'"

Farrar and Mills said they felt Shales, an Englishman who is one of two MIPTC chair umpires, had done everything properly.

"I think the whole situation was handled by the book," Farrar said. "The victory enabled Lendl to pull even in his career series against Connors after 26 encounters."

So complete was Connors' domination of the first set that he trailed in only two games, and not at all until losing the first point of the fifth game. Lendl double-faulted on his first serve and never got in the groove in the opening set.

In the second game of the second set, Lendl vented his frustration by kicking a ball into the stands. He was cited for a code violation, but it seemed to calm his nerves. In his next service game, Lendl won all four points with his serve — an ace, a serve-and-volley point and two service winners — to go up 2-1.

In the women's final, Lloyd has a huge advantage in experience. At 31, she is 15 years older than Graf. She has won 143 professional tournaments, while Graf has yet to win a women's tour event.

Lloyd has won all five of their head-to-head matchups, never losing a set. When they met in the final of the Virginia Slims of Florida just three weeks ago, Lloyd won nine of the final 10 games to take an easy 6-3, 6-1 victory.
