Economic index takes dive

Analysts say declining oil prices will propel growth

By The Associated Press
A government index designed to preview economic activity fell 0.6 percent in January, the Commerce Department reported today, and analysts said the steep drop mainly reflected weakness in factory orders.

The plunge was somewhat tempered by a sharp upward revision for December. The department now estimates that the index of leading indicators rose 1.5 percent that month instead of 0.9 percent.

Despite the index's January reading, the first drop in the key gauge in nine months, many analysts think U.S. economic growth will pick up amid continuing low inflation due to falling oil prices and interest rates.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes discounted the significance of the decline, saying, "The Reagan recovery continues at a healthy pace."

"The American economy remains the model for Western economies," Speakes said in a statement that cited rising stock prices, declining mortgage interest rates and the recent drop in unemployment as evidence of economic health.

The price of the major grade of U.S. crude oil opened lower today, nearing $12 a barrel, but later regained some lost ground in speculative commodities markets.

Although Monday also had seen an oil price drop, a factor which previously has helped spur strong rallies in the stock and bond markets, stock prices dipped on profit-taking prompted by recent gains.

Teachers to appeal court ruling on test

By DANA PALMER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A statewide teachers group said Monday it will appeal a district court ruling that a controversial teacher competency test does not violate the Texas Constitution.

"Clearly we are disappointed," said Karen Johnson, general counsel for the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA). The teacher group, which challenged the legality of the new Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers (TECAT) in an Austin district courtroom last month, will take the matter directly to the Texas Supreme Court, Johnson said.

A decision by the state's highest civil appeals court is unlikely before the test is given March 10 to 210,000 Texas teachers and administrators, she noted, "but we would hope it would be before the issuance of test scores ... sometime in late April."

In a two-page letter to attorneys,

District Judge Harley Clark of Austin said despite attorneys' claims that the test requirement violates various parts of the Texas Constitution, "I have reviewed their arguments, briefs and cases and must, respectfully, disagree."

Clark also noted "to begin, this case does not involve the question and this court has not been asked to decide if professional performance testing for Texas teachers was a wisely selected tool likely to result in the improvement of teaching in this state."

"Unless otherwise restrained by law, that type of decision is one that our scheme of government places with the Legislature," he added.

During a February 21 hearing before Clark, TSTA attorney Robert Chanin argued that teacher certificates issued by the state are lifetime certificates and cannot be revoked based on the results of a competency test.

He also noted that the state's

Two more in custody following drug bust

By HANK MURPHY

Two more people were arrested Monday in the ongoing police crackdown on narcotics trafficking, and the City Council released a statement in support of police efforts.

Clifton B. Clinton, 28, of Sterling City Route Box 157 A was arrested Monday morning on a charge of delivering between one-fourth ounce and four ounces of marijuana. He was released on a $10,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace China Long.

Dennis Williams, 38, of Sterling City Route Box 102 was arrested Monday night on a charge of delivering marijuana of less than four ounces and more than one-fourth ounce. He was released on $3,500 bond.

After meeting behind closed doors for 2½ hours, the City Council Monday gave a unanimous endorsement to the police department's drug operation. A written news release signed by every councilman except Mayor Clyde Angel, who was not present, said: "Faced with mounting evidence of increasing narcotic trafficking, your City Council some years ago initiated and authorized an intensive narcotic investigation which has been continued by following councils.

"The council has endorsed the current ongoing drug investigation by the police department and fully supports these efforts. There will be additional indictments sought from the District Attorney's office for individuals involved in this activity."

Astronauts prefer escape device

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Four astronauts who hope to fly again on space shuttles would like to have a launch escape system to avoid a Challenger-like accident, but they believe such a system is not yet possible.

Henry Hartsfield, Joe Engle, Vance Brand and Gordon Fullerton, former shuttle commanders who on Monday broke a month-long silence, said launch escape systems have been studied on shuttles, but none were developed.

Early space flights had ejection seats that accommodated only two crewmembers.

"I think it would be desirable to have that capability," said Engle. "It's theoretically possible, but whether or not it would be practical is another thing."

"It would be great," added Fullerton. "But I'm enough of a realist to say that if I held out for that nobody would ever fly again with this present shuttle system."

Challenger exploded Jan. 28, 73 seconds after launch. The shuttle carried no launch escape system that could have permitted the crew to escape.

Brand said there are systems where crewmembers would be pulled from the cabin by small rockets and then parachuted to Earth.

"That level of a thing we might be able to implement in a reasonable time," he said. "If you go to something very exotic, like an escape capsule, I think you'd absolutely have to go to a new program and a new vehicle. It would take too long."

In any case, he said, "we're not going to get 100 percent safety."

Hartsfield said studies have been done on a launch escape system that would involve blowing out the top of the solid rockets to reduce the thrust to zero and slow the craft.

"We had some other studies that showed even if you did that, the orbiter would probably tear up," he said.

Hartsfield said studies were done on escape pods, where the whole cabin would be popped off and parachuted to Earth.

"To build a pod that could eject in that kind of dynamic pressure ... and to make it strong enough that it didn't tear up, and put a parachute on it, you ended up with a system so heavy that you couldn't carry any payload," he said.

None of the four astronauts said they knew before Challenger blew up that engineers were concerned about the safety of the solid rocket boosters used on the shuttle, but that they felt they should have been informed.

"I was angry about it," said Hartsfield. "Still am."

"Normally we are informed about such safety issues," Brand said. "It was an oversight that none of us know about this."

He said that pressure to fly could have played into the decision to launch Challenger, even though some engineers had misgivings.

"As long as I have been here we've had pressure from the

Loeffler: White lacks economic foresight

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer
Republican candidate for governor, Tom Loeffler, said at a press conference Monday that Governor Mark White was "a day late and a dollar short" in handling the plunge in state oil revenues.

The four-time U.S. Congressman from San Angelo said White was warned by industry forecasts before the last budget session of a possible decline in oil and gas revenues. Given the information at White's disposal, Loeffler said as governor he'd have made certain the state had contingency plans for dealing with falling oil prices.

"We need a governor who will act and not react," Loeffler said. Loeffler also noted that White had proposed a 900 percent increase in drilling permit fees at a time when the oil industry was facing serious economic problems.

While acknowledging probable opposition by non-producer states to an oil import tax, Loeffler said, "Its day has come. We must consider an import fee.

"The state of Texas needs a governor that can go to Washington and have his word heeded," he said.

While straight-from-the-shoulder in criticizing his Democratic opponent, Loeffler was less direct on how he would approach the looming budget deficit.

Loeffler said he would review all facets of the budget before recommending cuts, but he could not be pinned down on specifics. He said any raise in taxes would come only after all other avenues of budget balancing were exhausted.

Initiating any kind of income tax, personal or corporate, was strongly rejected by Loeffler. He said the current revenue base was sufficient to meet the state's needs and suggested state money was being wasted.

As an example of waste, he said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower spent $1,200 to fly to Amarillo to view a movie. Loeffler said the movie could have been sent to Hightower at a fraction of the cost.

The GOP candidate said as governor he would veto any attempt to place a federal nuclear waste dump in Deaf Smith County.

On education reform, Loeffler's main thrust was that schools needed to "restore discipline to the classroom."

Restoring classroom discipline, he said, is not addressed in House Bill 72. And the education bill suffers other inadequacies as well, he said.

One deficiency, he said, was with the "no pass, no play" rule.

"Six weeks in the penalty box is just too long," he said. The rule, he said, discourages students from taking upper level classes for fear they'll fail.

Loeffler also lashed out at teacher competency tests, calling the idea "absolutely not necessary."

"What does (the test) give us?" he asked. "Does that mean (those who pass) are the very best teachers?"

Speaking of the economic crises in agriculture, Loeffler said he's aware of the problems facing ranchers and farmers. He emphasized the need to expand export markets and said he'll work to "open up foreign markets and help build bridges to the rest of the world."

Names in the news

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK — DR. SEUSS, whose Grinch and other characters are beloved by children, has turned his attention to a new group of readers — former children.

The result, published to coincide with the author's 82nd birthday Sunday, is "You're Only Old Once," the first adult book in almost 50 years by Theodore Seuss Geisel, whose pen name is Dr. Seuss.

But is it really an adult book? The outgrowth of Geisel's trips to the hospital for heart problems and other ailments, "You're Only Old Once" tells the woe-filled tale of an elderly patient's trip to a typically Seuss-like hospital, the "Golden Years Clinic on Century Square for Spleen Readjustment and Muffler Repair."

The book adheres to the usual Dr. Seuss format, with whimsical illustrations and a cast of characters that would fit nicely in "The Cat in the Hat" or "Yertle the Turtle."

PORTLAND, Maine — Actor ROBERT WAGNER is planning to produce a film on the life of Samantha Smith, the 13-year-old who played one of his two daughters in ABC's "Lime Street" series before she died in a plane crash last summer.

BOB HOPE ...Swedish performance still on

"It's in the preliminary stages and nothing has been done as yet," Lucille Maross of Rogers & Cowan, the firm that handles Wagner's publicity, said Monday.

She said Wagner intends to meet with Soviet officials to discuss plans for the two-hour movie, which will portray Samantha's 1963 tour of the Soviet Union as a young peace advocate and her emergence as an international celebrity. She was returning home from filming a "Lime Street" episode last August when she, her father, Arthur Smith, and six others died in a Bar Harbor Airlines crash in Auburn.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — An internationally televised comedy program starring BOB HOPE will go on as scheduled despite the assassination of Prime Minister Olof Palme, but a brief tribute to the slain leader will lead the show, organizers said.

The show, which will be broadcast March 19 in the United States, was taped in Stockholm because Hope is here for a stage show featuring Glen Campbell, Omar Sharif, Boy George and Culture Club, Norwegian actress Liv Ullmann and tennis star Bjorn Borg. The show is a command performance before King Carl Gustaf and Queen Silvia.

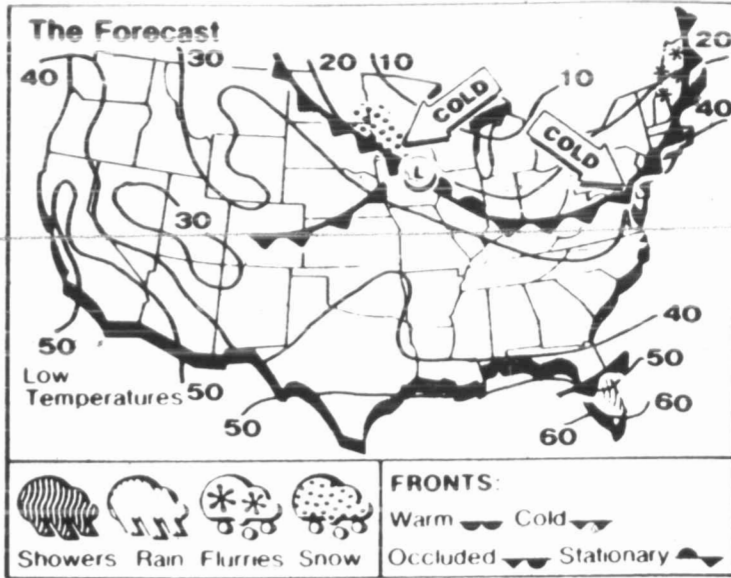

Hope, 83, asked by Swedish reporters Monday for the secret of his success at his age, replied, "I lie about my age."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — About 2,200 senior citizens turned out in this Gulf Coast retirement haven to applaud CLAUDE PEPPER, 85, dean of the U.S. House of Representatives and champion of the nation's elderly people.

To the cheers of the audience, Gov. Bob Graham proclaimed Monday "Claude Pepper Day" in honor of the veteran Democrat.

"I'm proud to say I'm of the older generation," said Pepper, who has served in the House since 1962. He was one of Florida's U.S. senators from 1936 to 1950.

Forecast

West Texas: Sunny Wednesday. Fair tonight. Warmer Wednesday. Lows tonight mid 30s north to mid 40s Big Bend plateaus. Highs Wednesday upper 60s Panhandle to upper 70s far west, except upper 80s along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend.

State

A weak high-pressure mass centered over the western Hill Country brought some showers to South Texas today, and forecasters predicted more precipitation in the Rio Grande Valley later.

Low clouds lingered over South Texas while most of the state enjoyed fair skies and seasonably cool temperatures.

The National Weather Service said winds were 10 to 15 mph in southern sections of the state and a light west to northwest breeze filtered across East, North and West Texas.

A weak cold front shifted winds to the north at near 10 mph north of a line from Wichita Falls through Abilene to Midland.

Early-morning temperatures were in the 40s and 50s across most of the state, while the 30s chilled the High Plains and 60s warmed much of South Texas.

Extreme readings were Amarillo with 34 degrees. Brownsville and McAllen were the warmest at 64.

Showers and thunderstorms that rumbled across the upper Gulf coast late Monday moved into the northwest Gulf. Another area of light rain and showers moved out of the middle Rio Grande plains.

Police Beat

Sexual assault is reported

A woman was sexually assaulted and threatened with a pistol on the east side of town at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Police described the assailant as a black male and said the assault took place in a parking lot.

Tina Arguello, operations manager at Canterbury North, told police Monday night that someone stole $1,315 in checks and $244 in cash from the office between 3 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. Monday.

Simon Terrazas of 1001 S. Bell St. told police Monday afternoon that someone broke into his business at 700 Lamesa Drive between Sunday and 11 a.m. Monday. Nothing was determined missing, according to the police report.

Brian Arceneux of 902 E. 14th St. told police Monday night that someone stole a $60 bicycle from 1003 E. 11th Place at 6:10 p.m. Monday.

Michael Seitz of Winn-Dixie told police Monday morning that someone attempted to leave the store with $49 worth of food without paying for it Sunday night.

Mary Louise Mitchell of Apache Bend, Building 11, Apt. 2 told police Monday morning that someone fired a bullet through a window at her apartment. The amount of damage done to the window was unknown, the complaint stated.

Carlos Ovalle of 1310 Utah St. told police Monday evening that someone stole a $90 stereo and an $8 cassette tape from his home Monday afternoon.

Rudolph Avalos, 26, of Brownfield was arrested Monday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, driving with a suspended license and driving without insurance.

Sammy Ventura, 17, of 904 N. Gregg St. was arrested Monday night on suspicion of driving without a license.

John Baldwin, 21, of 120 Trailer Park was arrested Monday morning on suspicion of a third offense of driving without a license and a second offense of driving without insurance.

Sheriff's Log

Three probationers arrested

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested three men Monday on warrants charging them with violating their probation.

All three were detained in county jail this morning with bond denied for their release.

Shane Forguis, 18, of Wasson Road is suspected of violating his probation for a burglary of a motor vehicle conviction.

Jackie D. Acuff, 32, of 1002 N. Main is suspected of violating his probation for a theft conviction he received from Tarrant County. He was indicted by Howard County jurors in May on a forgery charge.

Robert Ramirez Gozaies, 20, of 907 S. Rannels is suspected of violating his probation for burglary and driving while intoxicated convictions.

Audrie Coleman of 1905 Johnson told sheriff's deputies early Tuesday morning that a man pumped $18.24 worth of gasoline into his small pickup at the Fina Station located on the north service road of Interstate 20 near Cosden Refinery. The man, she said, then departed without paying for his purchase.

Police transferred William H. Higgins, 28, of 607 Rannels to county jail Monday morning after he was arrested for failure to maintain financial responsibility — a second offense. He was released on $500 bond.

Police transferred John Baldwin, 21, of Interstate 20 Trailer Park No. 14 to county jail Monday afternoon after he was arrested for failure to maintain financial responsibility and no driver's license — a third offense.

He was released on bonds totaling $1,000.

Police transferred Rudolph Avalos, 26, of Travel Inn early Tuesday morning to county jail after he was arrested on suspicion of DWI, driving with a suspended license and failure to maintain financial responsibility — a second offense.

He was released on bonds totaling $2,000.

Shuttle

Hartsfield said he's never felt any pressure to launch and, in fact, was allowed to postpone his August 1984 mission by a day out of safety concerns.

All four said morale in the astronaut corps was high now, recovering from a period in which as Engle put it: "We went to far too many memorial services."

They said everyone wanted to fly, but not until the problem that destroyed Challenger is found and corrected. They said they would insist upon repair of a seal design that is suspected of causing failure of a solid rocket booster. The seal should be redesigned even though it has not been proven that it was the primary cause of the Challenger accident, they said.

"Before I get on that sucker again," said Hartsfield, "I'd like to get the seal problem fixed."

Amber Bowman, left, daughter of Mrs. Rene Dalton, won first place in the Marcy Elementary School spelling bee last week after spelling the word "flipper."

Pamela Porter, right, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Porter, was the second place winner. She missed on the word "flabby."

Top spellers

The two will compete in the Howard County bee on March 17.

Fund set up for 2-year-old

A special fund for a 2-year-old Big Spring girl to help offset medical costs for treatment of a rare colon disease has been established at State National Bank.

Juanda Simpson of 3600 Calvin said Monday afternoon her daughter Ashley was recently diagnosed in Lubbock as having Hirschsprungs disease, which affects the large colon.

Ashley will undergo her fifth surgical operation in Lubbock this Friday, her mother said.

She has had a colostomy and also had corrective surgery on her eyes to offset cross-eyed vision problems, Simpson said.

To help raise other funds to defray medical costs, Simpson said a benefit garage sale will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday at 1003 11th Place.

Persons who wish for items to be picked up and sold at the sale can call 267-4844 or 263-2379.

Test

education reform laws specified that teachers be tested on subject knowledge and literacy, but the state funded only the literacy portion of the test. That makes literacy the only factor in determining competency, something the Legislature had not intended, Chanin argued.

However, Assistant Attorney General Kevin Thomas O'Hanlon said the certificates are not contracts, but licenses that are "revocable at the state's pleasure." Teachers who cannot reach and write should not be teaching, he added.

In his decision, Clark said he upheld the legality of the test based on O'Hanlon's legal arguments.

Both the lifetime certificate question and funding of only one portion of the test will be argued to the Supreme Court, Johnson said.

In addition, TSTA will be challenging a requirement that currently certified teachers who are not working must pay a $30 test fee. That fee is not authorized in any state statute, she said, and, therefore, should be eliminated.

Jeri Stone, executive director of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association, acknowledged that the judge's decision "basically was not something that was unanticipated. I think the suit was as much a gesture as anything else."

Most of the teachers in her organization, she said, have prepared for the test. "I think they're ready to get the test over and get it behind them," Stone added.

Commissioner of Education W.N. Kirby said he was pleased with the decision, which allows the Texas Education Agency to administer the test as scheduled.

"As I've said before, I am confident that 95 percent of our teachers will pass this test. Only a very few do not have adequate reading and writing skills to teach our children.

Once this test is behind us, we will have shown the citizens of Texas that we have highly qualified people in our classrooms," Kirby added.

Economy

companies put posted domestic oil prices for West Texas Intermediate crude below $20 a barrel for all of the domestic oil producers. That marked the first time since 1979 that all domestic producers had a posted price below $20 for the main grade of U.S. crude.

On Monday at the New York Mercantile Exchange, West Texas Intermediate for April delivery finished above its lows for the day, but still closed at $12.27 a barrel, down 99 cents from Friday's close.

The last time West Texas Intermediate sold for such prices was in 1978.

"The market is definitely not convinced that this thing has stopped falling," said Peter Beutel, an oil trading analyst at the commodities firm Rudolf Wolff Futures Inc.

On Wall Street, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials — which jumped 138 points during February — fell 12.39 to 1,696.67, while declining issues slightly outnumbered advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

The rally in bonds continued, however, with prices of long-term government bonds rising $15 to $20 for each $1,000 in face value.

Reward up for hit-and-run

A reward for information in the hit-and-run death of a Sand Springs boy last month has increased to $2,000, Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said this morning.

Armando Jesus Soto, 13, died after being struck by a vehicle about 9 p.m. Feb. 8 while riding his bicycle on the south service road of Interstate 20 near Moss Creek Road.

Friends of the sheriff's department have contributed an additional $1,000 to the Crimestoppers' initial reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the driver, Standard said. Deputies and Department of Public Safety troopers have been pursuing leads since the accident, but Standard said no new leads have developed. Initial suspicions that the vehicle was red in color have been refuted, he said.

Law enforcement officials who investigated the accident said Soto was dragged approximately 80 feet after being struck.

The sheriff said his department is awaiting further DPS lab results taken of evidence collected at the scene.

Meeting focuses on crime

About 50 residents of the Jonesboro addition attended a meeting Monday night to establish a neighborhood watch program.

Sheriff's deputy Barney Edens met with the residents and spoke about the need for citizen involvement in the fight against neighborhood crime, according to a news release from the sheriff's department.

Edens also discussed drug awareness and displayed exhibits of the drug culture for public view.

Deaths

Mrs. Fred Butler

Services for Mrs. Fred (Alyce) Butler, 67, of 2500 Cindy will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. at Myers & Smith Funeral Home with the Rev. Keith Gibbons of College Heights Christian Church officiating. Graveside services will be at the Avery Cemetery in Avery Thursday at 3 p.m. with the Rev. Paul Burkhalter, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Avery, officiating.

She died Sunday, March 2, at 2:15 p.m. in St. Mary's of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock after a brief illness. She was born Sept. 15, 1918, in Kansas. She had been a Big Spring resident since 1967, having moved here from Carlton. She married Fred Butler Dec. 5, 1944, in San Antonio. She was executive secretary for the United Way for over 10 years. She was a member of Big Spring Chapter 67 Order of Eastern Star and of the American Business Women's Association for 25 years.

She is survived by her husband, Fred Butler of Big Spring; and two brothers, Glenn and Truman Carter, both of Florida. She was preceded in death by her parents, two brothers and a sister.

Farmers face action

BISMARCK, N.D. — The Farmers Home Administration may start action against thousands of delinquent borrowers nationwide as long as the agency, a lender of last resort for farmers, protects their rights to appeal, a federal judge has ruled.

The decision Monday by U.S. District Judge Bruce Van Sickle clears the way for the agency to begin foreclosures for the first time since he ordered the FmHA to overhaul its repayment and foreclosure policies in 1984.

Eastern creditors relent

MIAMI — Eastern Airlines' 60 largest creditors are likely to lift a declaration of technical default soon, the company said after a nine-hour meeting between carrier executives and creditor representatives.

Eastern, which last week averted strikes by its pilots and flight attendants and is being purchased by cost-cutting Texas Air Corp., went into default on $2.5 billion in debt Saturday because it was unable to obtain concessions from its third labor union, representing ground workers.

Baby food jars return

DALLS — Grocery store employees returned thousands of jars of Gerber baby food to Texas store shelves this week following inspections of 8,200 unopened jars by federal investigators.

U.S. Food and Drug Administration officials, who inspected unopened jars from stores of the Kroger Co. and warehouses in three states, found no glass inside the containers.

Price violation studied

AUSTIN — The attorney general's department said Monday it is looking into possible antitrust violations in the sale of gasoline by major oil companies in Texas.

Ron Dusek, spokesman for Attorney General Jim Mattox, said the investigation began after his office received complaints from the Texas Service Station Association and the Lone Star Gas Station Association.

The complaints said there was a major price difference in gasoline sold in Oklahoma and in Texas. "Major oil companies are selling gas in Texas at higher prices than in Oklahoma," Dusek said.

Dusek said the associations also said gasoline was selling for more in major urban areas than in rural areas.

"There is sometime a difference of 15 and 20 cents," he said.

Bank to get inventory

Science winners

Two take top honors in talent search

WASHINGTON (AP) — High school students who juggled numbers and tracked fruit flies were twin first-place winners of $20,000 college scholarships this year in the country's most prestigious young scientists' competition.

In announcing the winners of the 45th annual Westinghouse Science Talent Search contest Monday night, organizers said it was only the second time in the history of the competition that there has been two first-place finishers.

It also marked the first time that the top five of 10 scholarships were won by teen-agers born in Asia or of Asian parentage.

The first-place winners announced at an awards banquet were Wendy Kay Chung, 17, of Miami, and Wei-Jing Zhu, 16, of Brooklyn, N.Y.

The two taking top honors, both ranked first in their high school classes, each will receive a $20,000 scholarship for successfully completing their science projects and scoring well in interviews with a panel of scientists.

Chung, who attends Miami Killian Senior High School, studied the behavior of the Caribbean fruit fly, an agricultural pest in her home state, while attempting to determine at which stage of ripeness fruit is most likely to be attacked. She is a member of her school's math and science clubs, and her hobbies include singing and playing the piano, organ and clarinet.

Zhu, who was born in Canton, China, attends Brooklyn Technical High School. Senior captain of the school's math team with hobbies including photography and chemistry, his project involved algebraic number theory and developing different representations for a class of numbers.

Yoriko Saito, 18, a native of Kyoto, Japan, who attends Homewood High School in Homewood, Ala., won the third-place $15,000 scholarship. The student, whose hobbies include voice and piano, established a new line of plant tumors from other tumors grown on tomato plants infected with a bacterium.

George Jer-Chi Juang, 17, of Queens, N.Y., won the fourth-place $10,000 scholarship for a physics experiment retracing the trajectories of beams of light in liquids with solids suspended in them. The Benjamin Cardozo High School student, a native of Taiwan, is editor of his school's science magazine and a member of its fencing and

The fifth-place, $10,000 scholarship was awarded to Arh Tuan Nguyen-Huynh, 17, of Cleveland, the top-ranked student at University High School in Chagrin Falls, Ohio. A native of Vietnam who plays chess and varsity tennis, he submitted a project examining the effects of age on cell cultures.

Jessica Louise Boklan, 17, of East Hills, N.Y., won the sixth-place $10,000 scholarship for a math project. First in her class at Roslyn High School, she is a member of the math and science clubs, and includes writing poetry and coin collecting in her interests.

Seventh to 10th-place scholarships of $7,500 were awarded respectively to William Edward Bies, 17, of Pittsburgh; Mary Elizabeth Meyerand, 17, of Glastonbury, Conn.; Andrew Lawrence Feig, 18, of Los Angeles; and Allen Wallis Ingling, 17, of Delaware, Ohio.

The 30 other national finalists, who won state and regional competitions before coming to Washington for the final interviews, each were awarded $1,000 in cash.

The judges also selected alternates from among the remaining students who would get scholarships in the event some of the top winners were unable to accept their prizes. The first alternate is Jung-Pu Lin of Elmhurst, N.Y., and second alternate is Todd Harrison Rider of North Little Rock, Ark.

The contest, which has had five former winners receive Nobel Prizes since 1972, is sponsored by the Westinghouse Electric Corp. and administered by Science Service, a non-profit science education organization.

Emergency to be lifted

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — President P.W. Botha announced today that the state of emergency imposed to quell anti-apartheid unrest in South Africa last July would be lifted soon, probably on Friday.

Botha told Parliament conditions have "improved sufficiently to enable me to announce that a proclamation will be issued in the near future, most probably this coming Friday, which will lift the state of emergency in those magisterial districts where it still applies."

Office fire kills 15

CARACAS, Venezuela — A fire engulfed a 14-story downtown Caracas office building and 15 people died, including the Chilean ambassador and nine other embassy employees, police said.

Two of the embassy employees, unable to escape the smoke and flames from the fire Monday, jumped to their deaths from the top floor, state television said.

Police said a short circuit in the building's first-floor electrical plant caused the fire, and that they had "in principle" ruled out the possibility of foul play.

Explorer's food found

WELLINGTON, New Zealand — New Zealand Antarctic researchers have found a food dump left by British explorer Capt. Robert Scott during his 1912 quest to be the first person to reach the South Pole, a government spokesman said today.

A field party found several boxes of food on Ross Island during the summer season just completed, said the spokesman for the Science Department's Antarctic division.

The cache included candles, tins of cocoa, egg powder, jam, sardines and matches. Some items were dated 1910.

Radicals retaliate

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The radical Shiite Moslem group Hezbollah announced Monday it had killed nine men and two women it said admitted involvement in 32 bombings purportedly plotted by U.S., Israeli and Lebanese intelligence.

But the Hezbollah, or Party of God, organization, which is believed loyal to Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, gave no details of how the 11 were killed.

The statement said the bombings since 1981 killed 277 people and wounded 1,111.

Soviets to boost output

MOSCOW — Soviet leaders have vowed during the Communist Party Congress to make their economy the world's most productive by the end of the century, but have provided few details about how they plan to make the leap from the abacus to the computer age.

Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov outlined Monday what he called a "grandiose" plan to vastly increase the grain harvest by 1990, and the goal of doubling factory output by the year 2000.

Old worn needles can scratch & damage your records. Diamond needles last as long as 600 hours of play, while sapphire needles last 80 hours. After that the worn needle begins to scratch the record. Old needles will often skip over a new record. That's one way of letting you know it's time to replace the needle. Another is to keep track of the number of hours it has been used. Cleaning the abrasive dust & grit off the record & the needle prolongs the life of both. Timely replacement & proper cleaning will let you hear the music the way it was meant to sound. Scholarships go to help our own

An ambitious and important program is under way in the community. It seeks to offer the economic incentive of college to every graduate of Howard County schools. Any graduate, regardless of personal wealth, from Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma or Sands high schools would have an opportunity to begin higher education at Howard College.

The Howard County Graduates Scholarships program, as it is called, would broaden the scope of college attendance by funding tuition and fees for all graduates.

For anyone inclined to help, there are 60 options available for sponsorship. They range from a one-semester scholarship given one time to a perpetual endowment of 10 scholarships under which only the interest would be used.

Limit on the scholarship money is $400, which would carry a student through the first year's tuition and fees. The money would go to graduating seniors without regard to income level, sex, race, color, religion, national origin or handicap.

Would-be philanthropists can get in on the action for as little as $400 or as much as $40,000. It's a novel idea, and an excellent way to strengthen quality of life while supporting local education.

Faith causes family tension

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Since my husband and I made a firm commitment to follow Christ, a lot of tension has developed between ourselves and other members of our families, since they have no religious faith. We have tried to maintain our relationships with them, but they look at us almost as if we were crazy for believing in God. Is there anything we can do? — Mrs. T.I.

DEAR MRS. T.I.: Certainly you should do all you can to maintain your relationship with them (without compromising your faith, of course). The Bible sets forth a clear principle: "If it is possible, as far as it depends on you, live at peace with everyone" (Romans 12:18). This indicates there may be some situations in which we simply will find ourselves rejected by others, because they want nothing to do with Christ. But we must do all we can to be at peace with others.

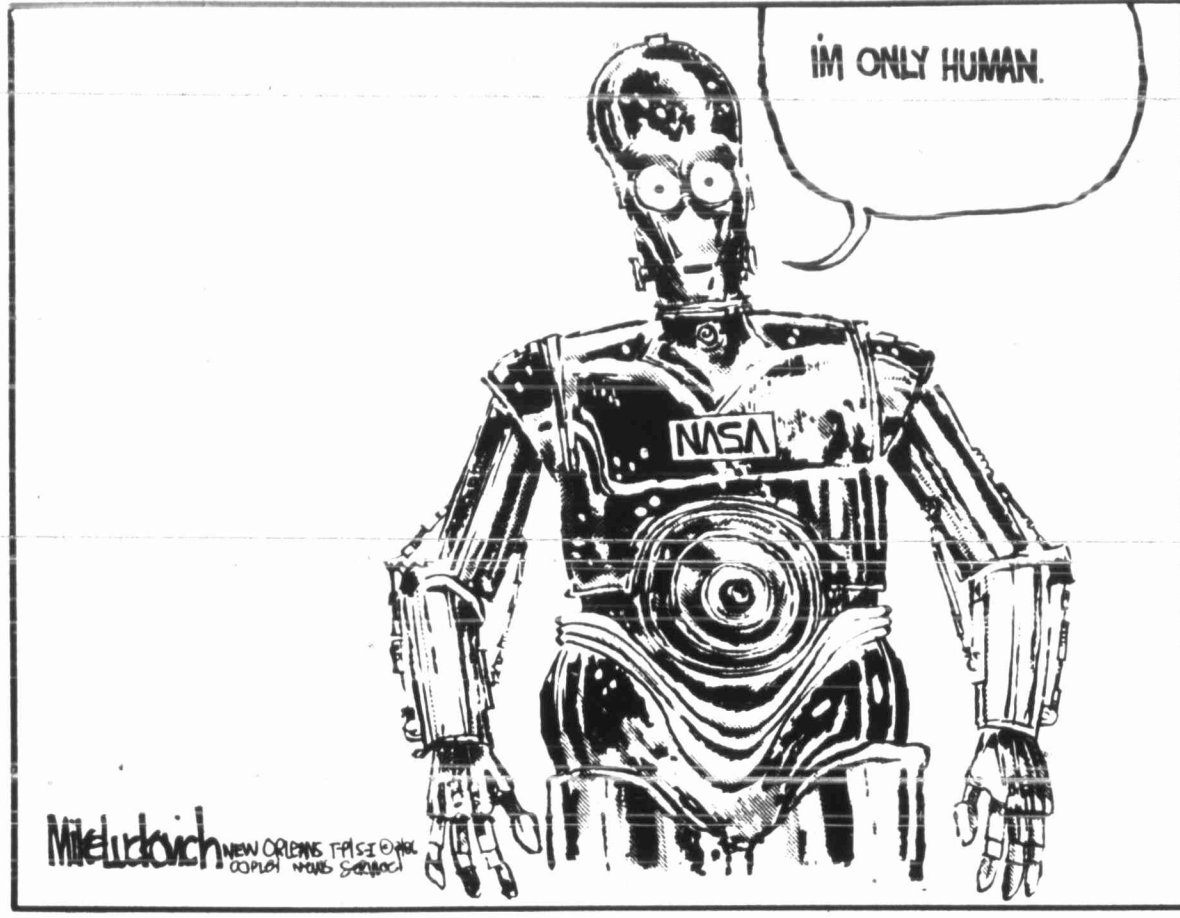

Ask God to give you wisdom to deal with your relatives. For example, perhaps at times you have — without intending to do so — seemed judgmental and self-righteous. That is, they may have thought you were saying to them, "We are now better than you are." But Christians can never be self-righteous, because they know it is Christ who has saved them by grace.

"For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith — and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God — not by works, so that no one can boast" (Ephesians 2:8-9). If this has been the case with you, you need to confess it to God — and also to your relatives.

Ask God also to help you live a life before them that is attractive and honors Christ. "Let your light shine before men, that they may see your good deeds and praise your Father in heaven" (Matthew 5:16). Above all, pray for them. Remember: God is able to do what we can never do. Only the Holy Spirit can touch their hearts and help them see their need of Christ.

Mengele identification hinges on presence of disease as teen

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — Serious differences of professional opinion have split the team of forensic experts who traveled to Brazil last June to determine whether skeletal remains exhumed there were, in fact, those of Dr. Josef Mengele, the Nazi war criminal.

In its preliminary verdict last summer, the team expressed confidence that the remains — a skull, bones and seven teeth — were Mengele's. But in the eight months since, some members of the team have admitted privately to doubts that the remains were Mengele's.

If the discovery of the bones was simply a hoax planned by the old Nazi and his accomplices, it has already achieved at least partial success. The concerted worldwide search for Mengele was called off when the experts proclaimed their "scientific certainty" that Mengele was dead. If he's alive, the trail is now eight months colder.

The principal sticking point — the most serious doubt that will not die — involves the lack of any evidence of osteomyelitis, a bone-marrow disease that Mengele's S.S. records show he had suffered from as a teenager.

Osteomyelitis, caused by infection, can be treated today with antibiotics. But in the 1920s, when Mengele claimed to have had it, the disease was treated by surgery and there would have been some traces that would be detectable even half a century later.

One member of the team of experts, Dr. John Fitzpatrick of Cook County Hospital, Chicago, has publicly stated that if it were proved through X-rays that Mengele had had osteomyelitis, "we would have to change our tune."

Another team member, who requested anonymity, told our associate Lucette Lagnado that if Mengele's osteomyelitis could be established, the investigation of the Brazilian remains "would be thrown wide open."

Team members who cling to their initial verdict that the remains were Mengele's recognize the crucial importance of the osteomyelitis factor. Fitzpatrick suggested recently that Mengele had never had the disease and that his S.S. records were the result of a "misdiagnosis."

But the information came from Mengele, and by the time he entered it on his S.S. records he was both a physician and an anthropologist. He was also curiously narcissistic, and would have been more likely to cover up than exaggerate or make up a disease he hadn't had — especially when applying for membership in the ranks of Hitler's supposed supermen. Furthermore, he had told friends for years that he had once suffered from the disease.

The Justice Department's Office of Special Investigations was concerned by the team's inability to find any evidence of osteomyelitis in the bones dug up last June, and it sent a Smithsonian Institution anthropologist, Dr. Donald Ortner, to Brazil for an independent investigation. He had specific instructions to check for the disease, taking his own X-rays of the skeletal remains.

Ortner found no obvious trace of osteomyelitis. What it boils down to is a matter of choice. Either you believe the remains in Brazil are Mengele's and therefore his S.S. records were wrong, or you believe the S.S. records were correct and the bones may not be Mengele's.

Professional reputations and egos are involved. The experts ducked the osteomyelitis mystery the first time around by making no reference to it in their preliminary report. But the final report is a different matter. Coupled with the bone disease question, enough other doubts have arisen to make some members of the team leery of a rush to judgment that could allow the Auschwitz "Angel of Death" to cheat the hangman.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Latin is a dead language, and quite frankly, we'd rather bury it than praise it. The danger of showing off one's learning by Latinizing things was made painfully clear when the Tennessee House voted to ban the sale or possession of jimson weed seeds on school grounds. Someone had to go and gussy up the bill by inserting the plant's Latin name. You guessed it: They wound up with the wrong name, banning some perfectly non-poisonous plant called Gentiana lutea, which doesn't even grow in this hemisphere. It's a tall yellow flower that thrives in the Alps and the Pyrenees. O tempora! O mores! O shucks!

3-man race rules out niceties

By JIM DAVIS
AUSTIN — Rules were made to be broken, as the saying goes, and the Republican golden rule is no exception. Thus, look for the GOP gubernatorial competition to heat up drastically as we move closer to the May 3 party primaries.

The Republican golden rule — "thou shall not speak ill of another Republican" — has been practiced in Texas for decades as the GOP struggled to overcome the historic dominance of the state's Democratic Party.

In recent years, however, that dominance has been severely dented. First, John Tower, a Midwestern State University professor, won a U.S. Senate seat in a 1961 special election. That was supposed to have been a fluke, aided by liberal Democrats who thought he'd be easier to beat the next time than his Democratic opponent. But Tower held the seat until retiring in 1984. He was replaced by Phil Gramm of College Station, another professor and another Republican.

Bill Clements broke the barrier to the Governor's Mansion in 1978, and record numbers of Republicans are serving in the Texas delegation to the U.S. Congress and in the Texas Legislature. The number of GOP officeholders at lower levels is still small, but it's growing.

Running as a Republican no longer is an exercise in futility by party purists trying to build for the future. Republicans know they still are outnumbered by Democrats in Texas, but they can win with organizational skills, expensive media campaigns and get-out-the-vote efforts.

Nowhere is this new confidence more evident than in the current race for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. Clements, Kent Hance and Tom Loeffler are like three hungry cats competing for the same small feeding dish. And they wouldn't be pushing and shoving for the dish if they thought there was nothing in it.

Recent polls are showing Mark White, who took back the Governor's Mansion for the Democrats in 1982, is in political trouble. The recent Texas Poll, for example, showed White has a high negative rating and is running neck and neck with Clements in a two-man raceoff.

Teachers, whose strong support helped White lick Clements four years ago, are angry about the 1984 school reforms and are likely to either sit out the '86 campaign or work for his opponent.

The sense that White is vulnerable only intensifies the GOP primary race. More and more, Republicans are coming to feel that the winner of their primary will be the next governor of Texas. They may be too optimistic. White always has managed to pull out a victory against the odds. But that's how they feel. Clements definitely is the fat cat in the GOP race at this point. The polls show he retains a high name recognition with Texans, with Hance and Loeffler following far behind. That also makes him the biggest target in the next two months of the campaign.

Hance and Loeffler deny any desperation in their campaigns, but they must be realizing they can't continue being Mr. Nice Guys.

Hance recently began chipping at Clements' high-road campaign as the most experienced candidate. The voters seldom take back someone they've rejected in the past, he says. The message is: Clements was a loser in 1982, and he'll be a loser in 1986.

Hance also has made references to Clements' negative image and his broken campaign promises of 1978. How can Clements attack White for raising taxes after promising not to if the former governor himself ignored a promise to cut the state payroll? Hance asks. The barbs will get sharper as the campaign progresses, and Clements will be hard pressed to keep his temper and not lash back at his attackers.

Those dull golden rule GOP primaries of the past apparently are just that: things of the past.

Arrest message: 'tough on drugs'

To the editor:

I am writing in reference to a series of articles which ran in your newspaper from Wednesday, Feb. 26 to Friday, Feb. 28. The articles concerned the arrest of Big Spring High School teacher, Charles Briscoe. Mr. Briscoe was charged with selling marijuana to a police undercover agent. This arrest was made as a part of an ongoing police operation initiated nine months ago.

I am a concerned resident, having lived in Big Spring for 36 years. I was surprised and saddened to hear of the arrest. I was even more surprised to hear of the action taken by the school system. I am very concerned about the narcotic problem facing many of our communities today. Being a parent and grandparent, I am also concerned how this problem is affecting our youth. I could not understand why Mr. Briscoe was suspended with pay. Why didn't our school administration take a stronger stand?

It is amazing to hear of the controversy arising from his arrest being made at the high school. Especially, that the media was singling him out because he was a teacher. He was arrested at his place of employment. If people are upset at the amount of coverage given him, they should consider the impact of his arrest. He works on a daily basis with the youth of our community. He has a moral obligation toward his students. His actions seem to question whether he was meeting this obligation or not.

It is my sincere wish that the stand we take on the use of drugs and the subsequent sale or distribution of them is a clear one. Drugs will not be tolerated in our community or schools.

Drug hoopla is knee-deep

To the editor:

I was distressed when my daughter came in from school and reported that a teacher had been "busted" for drugs at school. Make no mistake about my opinion of drug dealers and I certainly have chills thinking about a teacher being involved (in an arrest) but was it genuinely necessary to arrest Mr. Briscoe at school?

I will certainly stand corrected if I am wrong, but weren't the (other) people arrested in this current round-up "nabbed" at home? I do not pretend to be educated in police procedure but was this man such a risk that he could not have been apprehended at home? Would he have been arrested at work if he had been a white dishwasher? Or was that to complete the BS Vice episode?

I thought the front page picture of the Herald and the Big 2 News camera made the hoopla truly knee deep!

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, March 4, the 63rd day of 1986. There are 302 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On March 4, 1789, the Constitution of the United States went into effect as the first Federal Congress met in New York. However, the lawmakers had to adjourn for the lack of a quorum.

On this date:
In 1681, England's King Charles II granted a charter to William Penn for an area of land that later became Pennsylvania.

In 1791, Vermont became the 14th state.

In 1837, the Illinois state legislature granted a city charter to Chicago.

In 1861, the Confederacy adopted the Stars and Bars flag design.

In 1917, Republican Jeannette Rankin of Montana took her seat as the first woman elected to the U.S. House of Representatives.

In 1933, in his inaugural address, President Franklin D. Roosevelt pledged effective leadership to pull the country out of the Great Depression, saying, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

In 1933, the start of the Roosevelt administration brought with it the first woman to serve in the Cabinet: Labor Secretary Frances Perkins.

In 1952, actor Ronald Reagan married actress Nancy Davis in San Fernando Valley, Calif.

Dear Abby

Male rape is difficult to face

DEAR ABBY: Please publish some information about adult male rape. My 18-year-old son (I'll call him Randy) was beaten and gang-raped. Going to the police was awful for him. They were not prepared to cope with a male rape victim.

The criminals who raped Randy are in custody, but they were not charged with rape — only assault and battery, even though the officers know they raped my son. Randy is a fine young man who never associated with people of questionable character. He had never seen these men before; they just forced him off the street and did this terrible thing to him. He was so upset he wasn't able to tell me about it; the chaplain at the hospital where he was treated told me.

Almost every city has a rape crisis facility where female rape victims can go for counseling, but there's no help in our town for male rape victims.

Please print this. The public needs to know.

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Because rape is as much a violation for a male as a female, male victims should be as entitled to care, treatment and counseling as female victims.

Unfortunately, because male rape victims are more reluctant to report the crime, the general public is not aware of their numbers. Some, but not nearly enough, rape crisis centers are equipped to handle male victims. This is a plea to male rape victims: Report the crime. It is also a plea to rape crisis centers to provide services for males as well as females.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the letter from the man who had gotten bald: it's not always vanity or the desire to look younger that makes a man buy a hairpiece. My husband is a minister who became bald. He's out in the cold without a hat, at funerals, visiting, etc. After preaching, his head is wet from perspiration. He'd get colds, sinus headaches and earaches, all because his bald head was exposed to the cold. He bought a hairpiece to keep his head warm, and he hasn't had a cold, a sinus headache or earache since.

The hairpiece is the same color as his own hair used to be and it looks nice. People compliment him on his new look, and he loves it. He's not trying to fool anybody. Once when it was hot outside, he took it off.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Now that's a hair-raising story.

DEAR ABBY: The reason many older women are no longer interested in marrying is as follows: When eligible men in their early 60s and 70s are out there playing the field, having a great time, they rarely think of marrying and sharing those good years with a wife.

As soon as the doctor gives them the news that they have a serious health problem, such as an enlarged prostate or a heart condition, they start shopping for a wife.

They aren't even subtle. I've had men suddenly ask me what my blood pressure is, if I have any health problems and what my approximate income is. Once they are assured of my health and finances, they ask if I have ever thought of getting married.

Some actually admit that they need someone to take care of them. I tell them to check into a retirement home, as that is what I plan to do when I need care.

When they could travel, dance and enjoy life, they weren't willing to share those years with a wife. Now they're looking for an unpaid nurse.

NO WAY, JOSE

DEAR ABBY: (Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dr. Donohue

Special tests reveal mono

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I read the letter from the lady with mononucleosis and was particularly interested in your discussion of the recurring problem some people apparently have with it. It so happens that I have been having a siege of some sort and I, too, am a former mononucleosis patient (many years prior). It seems really as though I am having a repeat of it. I wonder how one could find out whether the old mono bug has returned to haunt me? What about treatment of recurring mono? — Mrs. R.V.

If I didn't mention this, I certainly should have. Special blood tests are required to see if a person still has the virus (Epstein-Barr) in his body. I have to tell you, though, that we cannot do any more for recurring mono than we can for the primary kind. Rest and support of the patient to make him feel comfortable is about all one can do.

But discovering recurring mono is as important as diagnosing the primary (earlier) infection. It is worth knowing if only to rule out other possible causes of the lethargy and ill feeling characteristic of mono.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is lithium used for migraine headaches? — Mrs. O.U.

It's not usually used for migraine, it has been used for a very special form. That form is "cyclic" migraine, in which the headaches occur for a few weeks, then disappear for a few weeks. It's not common. Lithium has been also used in cluster headaches that don't respond to regular treatment. If it is used, it's for relatively brief periods. The booklet "Headache: Causes, Symptoms, Cures" discusses the various forms. Other readers may obtain a copy by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.00. (Cyclic migraine is not discussed).

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What can be done to avoid a skin disorder, actinic keratosis? It has started on my face. Is this limited to faces? What causes it? Can it be cured with medicine? Can diet have any effect? — Mrs. C.Z.

The sun causes actinic keratosis. To prevent it you stay out of the sun. And if you go into the sun for any period, use shade hats and screening lotions. But it can appear on any sun-exposed area of the body. The face, arms and neck are the most common sites.

It's one of those skin conditions that is not cancer in itself, but which can turn into cancer if not removed. That is why the keratosis (the growths) are removed. They can be frozen off with liquid nitrogen or by applying a cream containing 5-fluorouracil. Diet has no effect on this condition.

Wedding

MILLER-SELL

Carol Ann Miller, of Oklahoma City, Ok., formerly of Big Spring, and Jason Craig Sell of Petersburg exchanged wedding vows March 1 at the Trinity Baptist Church with Dr. Claude Craven, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Miller of Big Spring. Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sell of Petersburg.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with a brass kneeling bench in the center with two 15-branch candelabras entwined with ivy and accented with peach rosebuds, bows and white doves on each side.

Mrs. Lila Adkins was the organist. Shauni Vaughn, of San Angelo, and Steve Moses, of Big Spring, were vocalists.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white silk organza overlaid with chantilly lace fashioned with a victorian neckline and yoke of schiffli embroidery and seed pearls. Mouton sleeves of chantilly lace were buttoned at the wrist. The semi-cathedral length train was made of cascading layers of silk organza ruffles. She wore a matching hat and veil.

She carried a cascade of white orchids, bridal stephanotis, green ivy and peach roses backed with lace and streamers of peach and silver ribbon.

The matron of honor was Sheila Wood of Plainview. Julie McPhaul of Colorado City, cousin of the bride, was the bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaid was Meredith Miller, sister of the bride.

Flower girl was Anna Jones, cousin of the bride. Ring bearer was Andy Neel, cousin of the bride.

Best man was Eric Sell of Kingfisher, Ok., brother of the bridegroom. Groomsmen were Troy Sell of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom and Shane Miller, brother of the bride.

Candlelighters were Eric and Hayley Thurman of Longview, cousins of the bride.

Ushers were Roby Upchurch, Thomas Escalon and Jody Oldfield of Plainview.

After the wedding, a reception was held at the Fellowship Hall at the Trinity Baptist Church. The bride's table was covered with a white floor length cloth draped with peach foil edged in rosebud lace. It was centered with a silver candelabra with peach candles and rosebuds. A three-tiered wedding cake with a flowing fountain were decorated with peach roses and topped with a Precious Moments bride and groom.

The groom's table was covered with a silver floor length cloth centered with an arrangement of peach roses. A heart shaped German chocolate cake was decorated with chocolate roses.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Lipperts Court Reporting College in Plainview. She is employed as a court reporter by Peterson and Associates of Oklahoma City.

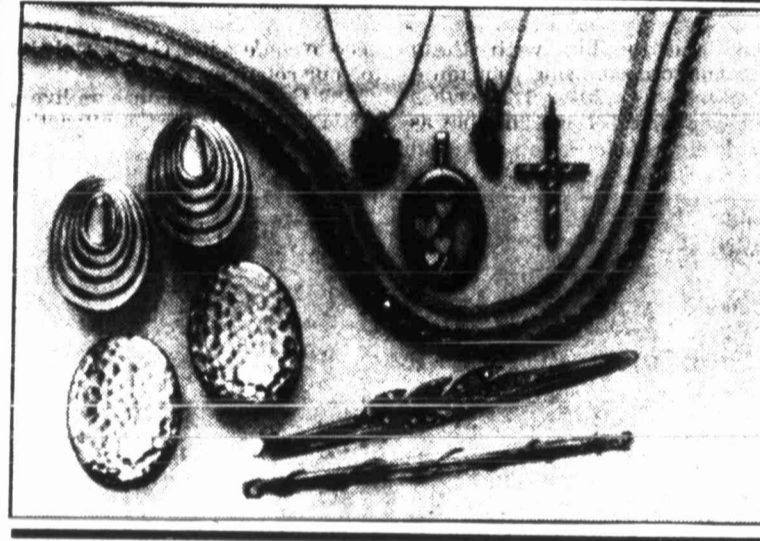

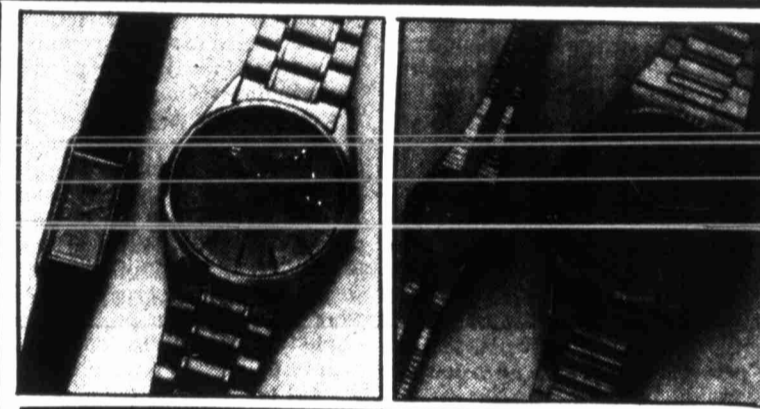

The bridegroom is a graduate of Petersburg High School and is presently employed by Gear, Clutch and Joint in Lubbock.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Oklahoma City.

Region V hoop tourney to open

SNYDER — The Region V women's basketball tournament begins today in Scurry County Coliseum with eight teams competing for a trip to the National Junior College Athletic Association national tournament in Senatobia, Mississippi.

The top four teams from the Western and Northern junior College Athletic Conferences are represented. Odessa College defeated Western Texas College in last year's tournament championship game and took second at the national tournament.

The Lady Wranglers of OC are again the tournament favorite. They have been ranked No. 1 in the nation throughout the 1985-86 season and bring a 28-0 record into the tournament. OC won the WJCAC regular season title with a 12-0 record.

Howard College was eliminated from tournament consideration in the final game of the season with a loss to New Mexico Junior College.

Odessa, led by All-American Doretha Conwell's 28 points and 17 rebounds a game, plays Grayson County at 9 p.m. in its tournament opener. Grayson finished fourth in the NJCAC.

The Region V men's tournament begins on Thursday and continues with semifinal games on Friday and the championship on Saturday.

The eight-team field includes unbeaten Midland College, the No. 3 nationally ranked team. The Chaps bring a 30-0 record into the tournament after winning the WJCAC regular season title with a perfect 16-0 record.

Met only suspension holdout

By The Associated Press
Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets is now the only one of 11 major-league baseball players who has not agreed to comply with penalties that will allow them to avoid suspensions for drug use.

Dave Parker of the Cincinnati Reds said Monday he would pay 10 percent of his salary to drug rehabilitation programs, accept periodic drug testing and perform public service work. The penalty, in lieu of a one-year suspension, was handed down Friday by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth.

At the Reds' spring training camp in Tampa, Fla., Parker, wearing a handband that said, "Ueberroth," said he plans to play this year and would leave any challenges to the commissioner's decision to the Major League Players' Association.

Parker, who hit .312 last year with 34 homers and 125 runs batted in, testified in a federal drug trial in Pittsburgh last year that he used cocaine while with the Pirates. He said he stopped using the drug before signing with the Reds in December 1983.

At the New York Yankees' training camp in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., pitcher Al Holland said he would accept Ueberroth's penalties as an alternative to a 60-day suspension.

Holland was one of four players who faced a two-month suspension under the commissioner's action on drug involvement. However, those players can instead agree to donate five percent of their 1986 salaries to a drug prevention facility or program, random drug testing for the remainder of their careers and 50 hours of drug-related community service this year.

"I wanted to wait until I had all the ins and out of it," Holland said. "Now, I have a grasp of everything that happened. I feel part of it isn't fair, but you can't have your cake and eat it, too. The most important thing is we want to put it behind us. We were wrong."

Parker was one of seven players with the heavier penalty. Of the 11 with the two levels of penalties, Hernandez is the only one to announce his intention to file a grievance.

"A grievance will be filed through the players association," Hernandez said. "When a decision is made by the arbitrator, I will make my decision on what I do."

Cincinnati Reds
In another baseball development, Reds outfielder Eddie Milner suffered an injured left wrist in a minor two-car auto accident while en route to a team workout. After undergoing X-rays at a hospital and having the wrist wrapped in a plastic bandage, Milner participated in most of the daily workout, skipping batting practice.

Houston Astros
First baseman Glenn Davis, who set an Astros' rookie record with 20 homers in 100 games last year, signed a one-year contract with Houston, leaving the club with three unsigned players — catcher Mark Bailey, infielder Bert Pena and pitcher Julio Solano.

Boston Red Sox
Veteran second baseman Jerry Remy, trying to make a comeback after seven knee operations, reported to the Boston Red Sox training camp at Winter Haven, Fla. with swelling in his left knee.

Atlanta Braves
Atlanta Braves Manager Chuck Tanner said his spring-training experiment of using outfielder Billy Sample at third base is working well so far.

"He has shown us during infield drills he can throw well enough from third," said Tanner. "It gives us versatility if he can play the position, plus it would give us added punch with the bat, especially against left-handers."

Sample, who has been an outfielder exclusively during his major league career, was obtained by the Braves from the New York Yankees during the winter in exchange for minor league infielder Miguel Sosa.

Texas Rangers
The Texas Rangers signed third baseman Steve Buechele to a one-year contract for the 1986 season.

Ed Correa, Jose Guzman and Dwayne Henry — all rookie right-handed pitchers — also made one-year deals.

New York Mets' first baseman Keith Hernandez talks with reporters about his conditional suspension Saturday in St. Petersburg, Florida. The former NL Most Valuable Player has been excused from spring training while he files a grievance against Major League Baseball.

Globetrotters sold

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A Minneapolis-based company has agreed to buy the Harlem Globetrotters basketball team and Ice Capades Inc., an ice skating entertainment company, for $30 million, the company's president said Tuesday.

"I'm thrilled with this opportunity to be associated with two of the pre-eminent entertainment and sporting attractions in the world," said Thomas Scallen, president of International Broadcasting Corp.

The sale by Metromedia Inc. is subject to regulatory approval and completion of financial arrangements, the companies said in a joint announcement.

Both the Globetrotters and Ice Capades will continue to be based in their current locations — Hollywood, Calif., for the Ice Capades and Sherman Oaks, Calif., for the Globetrotters.

Ice Capades is one of America's leading touring ice entertainment shows. Each year Ice Capades' three touring companies perform in 102 cities throughout the United States and Canada. Founded in 1940 by John H. Harris, Ice Capades was purchased by Metromedia in 1963.

The Harlem Globetrotters, a world renowned touring basketball team and entertainment troupe, are often referred to as America's Goodwill Ambassadors. Currently in their 60th season, the Globetrotters have played in 101 countries and territories on six continents. The Globetrotters were founded in 1927 by Abe Sapperstein and have been part of Metromedia since 1976.

Scallen for many years was president and producer of Shipstad & Johnson's Ice Follies, a touring ice skating show, and served in the same capacity with Holiday on Ice.

Four teams clinch NCAA tourney bids

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

After finishing last in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference last year, the Fairfield basketball team had nowhere to go but up.

That's exactly what they did, climbing from last to first in the short space of one season.

"It's just been a tremendous year," Coach Mitch Buonagura said after his Fairfield team defeated Holy Cross 67-64 Monday night to win the MAAC basketball tournament and advance to the NCAA playoffs. "When the season started, we never expected to go to the NCAAs."

The Stags started out the season with only two wins in five games, then won 21 of the last 24 en route to their first NCAA tournament berth. For Monday night's game, Buonagura got some advice from an old friend — Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino. Buonagura, an associate coach under Massimino when the Wildcats won the NCAA championship last season, talked to his former boss before the game against Holy Cross.

"He told me to keep the kids relaxed and to have them play to win as opposed to playing not to lose," Buonagura said.

The Stags were one of four college basketball teams Monday night to earn berths in the NCAA tournament. St. Joseph's advanced with a 72-64 victory over West Virginia in the finals of the Atlantic 10 tournament. Drexel won the East Coast Conference playoffs by defeating Hofstra 80-76 and Arizona nailed down a berth by winning a Pacific-10 battle from UCLA, 88-76.

In other league playoffs, ninth-ranked Bradley beat West Texas State 61-55, Illinois State held off Wichita State 78-70, Drake routed Creighton 82-56 and Tulsa stopped Indiana State 68-50 in the first round of the Missouri Valley Conference tournament.

In first-round play of the Ohio Valley Conference tournament, Tennessee Tech edged Youngstown State 71-68, Murray State turned back Austin Peay 78-66 and Middle Tennessee trimmed Eastern Kentucky 88-65.

Navy, the nation's No. 18 team, nipped North Carolina-Wilmington 62-60 and George Mason edged Richmond, also 62-60, in the semifinals of the Colonial Athletic Association playoffs.

McNeese State tripped Texas-Arlington 84-71 in a first-round game of the Southland Conference tourney.

In other action, No. 12 Notre Dame cruised past the University of New Orleans 75-67 and Oklahoma State upset No. 15 Oklahoma 87-84.

Tony George, the MAAC player of the year, scored 27 points to pace Fairfield. The Stags had to hold off a furious second-half rally by Holy Cross led by Jim McCaffrey, who scored 24 of his 25 points in the second half.

"I decided to take charge myself in the second half," George said. "I knew it was just a matter of time before McCaffrey caught fire."

Maurice Martin scored 22 points and Rodney Blake added 17 as top-seeded St. Joseph's defeated West Virginia for the Atlantic 10 championship. Blake scored seven of his points in the final 4:41 when the Hawks broke a 59-59 tie, outscoring the Mountaineers 13-5 down the stretch.

"I've been coaching for 23 years and I told our team he (Martin) was going to play 40 minutes," West Virginia Coach Gale Catlett said of Martin, the Atlantic 10's player of the year. "He had to play that much for them to beat us."

Michael Anderson, the ECC's most valuable player, scored 21 points and had eight rebounds to lead Drexel over Hofstra. The game wasn't decided until Hofstra's Leroy Allen missed two crucial free throws in the last minute.

University of Texas center John Brownlee, left, and Texas guard Karl Willock, left, were named Offensive and Defensive Players of the Year by the Associated Press and head the list of All-Southwest Conference players for the 1985-86 season.

Longhorns head All-SWC team

DALLAS (AP) — Texas center John Brownlee, who transferred to the Longhorns after an unsuccessful stint at North Carolina, rebounded to win a unanimous spot on The Associated Press 1985-1986 All-Southwest Conference basketball team and earn Offensive Player of the Year honors.

Brownlee, a 6-10 senior from Fort Worth, shot 55 per cent from the field and averaged 16 points and almost nine rebounds per game for the Longhorns.

Other players on the mythical first team, selected by SWC coaches, included seniors Alvin Franklin of Houston, Don Marbury of Texas A&M, Kevin Lewis of Southern Methodist and junior Carl Lott of Texas Christian.

Marbury was the leading scorer with an average of 22.5 points per game with Franklin just behind at 21.1.

The second team includes Greg Anderson of Houston, Greg Hines of Rice, Jimmie Gilbert of Texas A&M, Tony Benford of Texas Tech, and a tie for the fifth spot between Karl Willock of Texas Tech and Carven Holcombe of TCU

Blue Devils retain top ranking

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Sports Writer

Duke, the top seed in this week's Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, remained No. 1 in The Associated Press college basketball Monday and missed being a unanimous selection by one vote.

The Blue Devils, 29-2, received 62 first-place votes and 1,259 points from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Kansas, 28-3 and champions of the Big Eight, received the other first-place vote and 1,195 points to hold second for the second consecutive week.

Duke held the top spot by winning the ACC regular-season title with an 82-74 victory over then-No. 3 North Carolina, which dropped one spot in the poll.

Thus, with one week of voting remaining before the NCAA tournament gets underway, the only teams to hold the No. 1 ranking this season have all come from the ACC. Georgia Tech was No. 1 in the preseason poll and North Carolina began its reign with the first week of the regular season.

Kentucky, 26-3 and champions of the Southeastern Conference, jumped from fifth to third with 1,080 points, 35 more than the Tar Heels, 26-4, who held the No. 1 spot for 13 weeks before being dethroned by Duke in last week's balloting.

St. John's, 27-4, moved from eighth to fifth with 938 points, 12 more than Georgia Tech, 23-5, which finished between Duke and North Carolina in the ACC standings.

Michigan, 25-4 and currently tied for first place with Indiana in the Big Ten, improved from 10th to seventh with 829 points after victories over Wisconsin and Northwestern last week.

Syracuse, 23-4 and co-champions of the Big East with St. John's, fell two spots with 805 points after losing to the Redmen 86-79 in the showdown for the top spot in the conference.

Bradley, with 719 points, became just the second team this season — along with St. John's — to crack the Top Ten after not being ranked in the preseason poll. The Braves, 30-1, jumped from 11th to ninth after finishing as regular-season champions of the Missouri Valley Conference.

The Top Ten was rounded out by Memphis State, 25-4, which fell three spots from last week's poll after falling to No. 11 Louisville 70-69 in the game that decided the Metro Conference regular-season title. The Cardinals, 24-7, finished with 604 points.

Following Louisville in the Second Ten are Notre Dame, Nevada, Las Vegas, Georgetown, Oklahoma, Indiana, Michigan State, Navy, Illinois and North Carolina State.

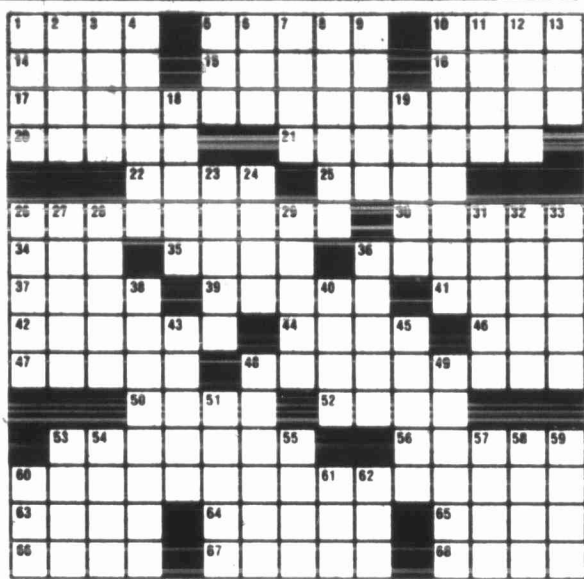

Last week's Second Ten was Bradley, Notre Dame, Louisville, Oklahoma, Georgetown, Indiana, Michigan State, North Carolina State, Navy and Purdue.

Illinois, 20-8, rejoins the Top Twenty after a seven-week absence. The Fighting Illini beat Purdue, the only team to fall from the rankings, 81-72, before registering an impressive road victory over Georgia Tech, 59-57.

Coahoma girls win Stanton Relay title

STANTON - The Coahoma girls track team, led by Nancy Hardison's 32 points, captured the team title at the Stanton Relays held Saturday.

Hardison scored her meet-high total by winning the 400 meter dash with a time of 67.55 seconds, placing second in the triple jump and long jump and finishing third in the 100 meter dash. She was also a member of Coahoma's winning 400 meter and 1600 meter relay teams.

Coahoma tallied 156 team points, outdistancing second place Ropes with 136 points.

In the boys' division, Denver City won both relays and got a meet-high 28 points from Larry Berry to take the team title over second place Coahoma.

Coahoma got first place performances from Ben Neel in the 10

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

METAL STRUCTURE — Independent Welding constructs metal buildings and carpports. Gary Faulkner, owner, has extensive experience in the metal building field and can custom design a structure to fit a customer's needs.

Independent Welding constructs metal buildings

Independent Welding would like to thank all the customers who gave it the chance to furnish them with the benefits of carport protection. Now the firm would like to offer a new service in its field — metal buildings. Gary Faulkner, owner, has extensive experience and background in the metal building field and customers can have confidence in his product. Quality materials and craftsmanship are put into every product produced. The construction of metal buildings meets all professional standards. "Welded frame buildings are economical and have no hidden engineering fees," he says. Faulkner has been constructing metal buildings for about 10 years. He would like to serve farmers and ranchers in the area with their building needs. Faulkner stands behind his work, and Independent Welding strives for reliability and sincerity in all business matters. A satisfied customer list is available for any customer. Independent Welding provides free estimates, and size and design suggestions for every situation can be given. To contact Gary, call 267-5378 and leave a message or call 263-6346 at night.
