Riders blaze trail through city

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Those who wish to recapture the frame of mind our early state ancestors possessed can participate in the Sesquicentennial Trail Ride of Texas passing through Big Spring this weekend.

The nine-member group arrived in Big Spring today and will continue on to Stanton Saturday, picking up riders who want to journey part or all of the way.

A benefit dance will take place at Players on 3202 E. Interstate 20 to help raise benefits for the non-profit group, which began blazing the trail from Houston on Jan. 1.

"Our main need is money for vehicle fuel, horse feed and hay," said rider Mary Gillett of Corpus Christi.

Players owner E.L. Terry said tonight's benefit dance will feature "The Heart of Texas Band," which plays in country western music.

A $2 donation fee paid at the door will entitle a patron to two free mixed drinks or two free beers, Terry said. The dance will last from 7 to 10 p.m.

The trail riders will camp out in the parking lot of Players tonight and blaze a trail through Big Spring beginning at 9 a.m. Friday morning.

They then will set up camp at the Howard County Fairbarns Friday night.

The group will depart for Stanton at 8 a.m. Saturday and arrive at the Stanton Community Center about 3:30 p.m.

"People are welcome to come out to the fairgrounds and visit us and look at the animals," said Cathy Martin of Houston, another member of the group.

She especially urges horseback enthusiasts interested in riding with the trail riders to be present at the fairgrounds an hour before departure.

"We really enjoy new riders coming on," Martin said, "it's always nice to have new faces to talk to."

The trail riders have been trekking across Texas on state highways since Jan. 1 in honor of the state's 150th birthday. The final destination point is San Jacinto on July 4.

Those who join the trail ride to Stanton on Saturday, can expect to travel at a 3 1/2 to 5 mile per hour pace, Martin said.

"We lope 'em a little bit," she said, "but we don't haul down the road."

"We have a good time," Martin said. "We're friendly people who try to get along with everyone."

Study credits state with five fastest growing counties

By The Associated Press
Five of the 15 fastest-growing counties over the last five years are in Texas, according to a study by a division of Dun & Bradstreet Corp.

The study of counties with populations of over 100,000 by Donnelly Marketing Information Services showed that Fort Bend County, south of Houston, was the second-fastest growing county in the nation, up 50 percent to 195,742.

The fifth-fastest-growing county was Montgomery County, north of Houston, up 32.3 percent to 169,939; sixth was Collin County, north of Dallas, up 31 percent to 189,480; 11th was Ector County (Odessa), up 29.4 percent to 149,318; and 14th was Hidalgo County, in the Edinburg-McAllen area, up 26 percent to 355,582, the study said.

The study credited the oil boom of the late 1970s and relatively depressed economic conditions in Mexico for heavy migration into Texas.

Gwinnet County, Georgia, in suburban Atlanta, was the nation's fastest growing county and Michigan had five of the counties with the greatest population loss, according to the study, which indicated that Texas, Georgia and Florida had seven of the 10 fastest-growing counties from 1980 to 1985. Gwinnet County grew 50.4 percent, to 251,025 from 166,903.

Gwinnet was followed in the top five by Fort Bend County; Anchorage County, Alaska, up 40 percent to 243,836; Marion County, Fla., up 35 percent to 165,367; and Montgomery County.

The other 10 fastest growing counties were Collin; Seminole County, Fla., near metropolitan Orlando, up 31 percent to 234,772; Arapahoe County, Colorado, by Denver, up 30.4 percent to 384,887; St. Tammany Parish, La., New Orleans, up 30 percent to 143,961; Lee County, Fla., up 30 percent to 266,058; Ector County; Brevard County, Fla., up 27 percent to 345,633; Horry County, S.C., up 26 percent to 127,586; Hidalgo County; and Palm Beach County, Fla., up 25.4 percent to 723,403.

The study indicated the U.S. population increased by 5.7 percent, or 12.8 million, to 239,355,858 from 1980 to 1985.

The counties with the most rapid population declines were led by Wayne County, Michigan, in the Detroit area, which fell 8 percent to 2.15 million from 2.34 million.

Big top is big draw in city

By HANK MURPHY

Biting mules, jumping dogs, giant elephants and wild carnivores from the deep, dark jungles of Africa gave a roaring performance Wednesday in Big Spring before thousands at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The American Continental Circus was in town, brought here for the 15th straight year by the Howard County Sheriff's Posse.

The Orange County, Calif., production is on the road for 38 weeks of the year, said Jack Rinch of the circus company. The 30-year-old company performs throughout the United States and Canada.

Proceeds from this year's gala will allow the Posse to donate to a wide range of community organizations, including the Boy's Club, the Salvation Army and the State Hospital, said Posse President Frank Knapp.

And by the looks of most of the wide-eyed kids at the circus, circus-goers got their money's worth.

Where else but the circus can a kid see the Amazing Deitrick do a handstand on a stack of five chairs piled 20 feet in the air without a net below?

Sheriff says stolen cars may be linked

Local sheriff's deputies and police are investigating a recent spree of vehicle thefts that may be related, Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said this morning.

The latest car reported stolen was involved in a high-speed chase about midnight last night on Country Club Road.

According to a sheriff's incident report, a deputy patrolling the road about 12:10 a.m. clocked a vehicle traveling 82 miles per hour.

The vehicle, according to the report, crashed into a utility pole causing power lines to fall down.

The suspect fled the scene before the deputy arrived.

The deputy with assistance of a Department of Public Safety Trooper later found the four-door Toyota belonged to Don Yates of 1909 Mittel who reported the car stolen from his residence.

Robert Ragan of Boykin Road in Silver Heals reported this morning that someone stole a dark blue 1981 Oldsmobile Cutlass from his residence sometime between 11:30 p.m. Wednesday and 6:30 a.m. Thursday.

Standard said his department is investigating the possibility the two stolen car incidents are connected.

The sheriff said the thefts may also be linked to two stolen car incidents reported to his office last week.

A 1985 Chevrolet Suburban belonging to Dr. Dickie Stanley of Driver Road stolen from the Big Spring Country Club parking lot a week ago on Thursday, he said. Deputies recovered the heavily damaged vehicle in a pasture east of Goliad Middle School.

When Stanley's car was stolen from the parking lot, another stolen vehicle was deposited in the Suburban's place, according to sheriff's reports.

That car was a 1981 Suburban owned by Jimmy Forsyth of 404 Ryan, which was reported stolen between 9 p.m. Wednesday and 5:15 a.m. Thursday of last week.

The South American Wizards of the Highwire tiptoeing along a thin wire flirting with danger with every move of a muscle?

Where but under the big top can you be bedazzled by the sequin-studded Lovely Lolita performing the incredible satellite spin high above the floor?

And just where but in a three-ring show can a youngster, along with six others, ride the hairy back of a prancing pachyderm, its trunk swinging from its huge swiveling head?

This circus varied some from the traditional pitched tent, side-show freaks, step-right-up affair. It lacked the smell of wild beasts and meandering crowds, the crafty con men.

This was a family show, an orderly progression of an ever changing display of thrills, gasps of terror and fantastic animal acts.

Still the scent of popcorn, hot dogs, candy apples and cotton candy mingled in the coiseum air attracting a throng of hungry kids at concession stands during intermission.

All told, the circus was a high-flying, thrill-a-minute, roaring-good-time for young and old.

Rocket options studied

WASHINGTON — Reagan administration officials are preparing a multi-billion-dollar request for Congress to replace the lost Challenger and to build unmanned rockets to help launch satellites held Earth-bound by the grounded shuttle fleet, congressional and administration sources say.

These sources, who spoke Wednesday only on condition of anonymity, said the overall price tag for the space shuttle, related equipment and at least 10 new Titan rockets could be as much as $4 billion.

Aid request defeated

WASHINGTON — Congress dealt President Reagan a pair of first-round defeats in the fight over whether to provide $100 million in aid to the U.S.-backed guerrillas who are battling the leftist government of Nicaragua.

Two Democratic-controlled House panels generally followed party lines Wednesday as they voted against Reagan's request for aid, which includes $70 million that could be used for military help and $30 million in non-lethal aid.

The votes came after Reagan, leading a lobbying blitz, said the money is needed for the Contra guerrillas "so we will never have to send our own American boys" to fight the Sandinista government he says is a menace to democracy in Latin America.

Eastern recalls workers

MIAMI — Eastern Airlines, which has record bookings after it cut fares, will recall laid-off flight attendants, give them a raise and hire more, the company said.

The nation's third-largest carrier, which has agreed to a $676 million buyout by cost-cutting Texas Air Corp., laid off 1,010 flight attendants Feb. 4 during contract negotiations with the Transport Workers Union.

By April 1, all the laid-off flight attendants who want to return will have jobs, and 735 have said they would return, Eastern President Joe Leonard said Wednesday.

The system fails family

LEBANON, N.H. — A couple who drugged and shot her children, torched their house, and killed themselves were "tired of fighting the system" over veterans benefits, according to letters they apparently wrote, citing the state motto: "Live Free or Die."

The letters purportedly written by Michael De... a... delivered Wednesday to WMUR-TV in Manchester and the Valley News here, say that the couple were "totally sane" Tuesday when they carried out the murder-suicide pact that ended their lives and those of her three children.

Smoking ban approved

HOUSTON — Smokers attending Houston indoor sporting events may think twice about lighting up after the Houston City Council voted to ban smoking at indoor events.

The new regulations, approved Wednesday, cover everything from major-league events to indoor ping-pong matches at the Astrodome, the Summit and the Sam Houston Coliseum, but does not include rock concerts. The regulations, which take effect March 15, also apply to other city arenas — including high school gyms.

Sarah Brady wages gun control campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five years after her family's life was shattered by bullets intended for President Reagan, Sarah Brady is waging a personal lobbying campaign for gun control.

Deliberately and calmly, Mrs. Brady, the wife of White House Press Secretary James Brady, set out last September to work against a hotly contested bill on Capitol Hill and, over time, educate the public about gun control.

Gun control was on Mrs. Brady's mind long before her husband was shot during the 1981 assassination attempt on President Reagan. Back in the 1970s, one of her girlfriends was shot to death with her own revolver in a lover's spat.

It is Brady's situation, however, that makes Mrs. Brady's appeal so poignant. "Our happy lives were changed forever," she said in a fund-raising letter for Handgun Control Inc.

The Senate's passage of the so-called McClure-Volkmer bill, which would generally weaken the 1968 federal gun control law, "mocked my husband's suffering," she said. "And it mocked the survivors of those 20,000 handgun victims each year who were not as 'fortunate' as Jim was."

Brady, who has brain damage and wears a leg brace as a result of the shots fired by John W. Hinckley Jr.'s .22-caliber pistol on March 30, 1981, is not involved in his wife's lobbying.

"It's your show," he told her in refusing to be photographed during an interview at their house in Arlington, Va., a few miles from the Washington Hilton, where he and Reagan were shot.

Mrs. Brady's outspoken stand against the McClure-Volkmer bill, named after its chief sponsors, Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, and Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Mo., puts her at odds with the Reagan administration's support of the measure.

But that doesn't bother Mrs. Brady, who, as a volunteer for Handgun Control Inc., has written letters and editorials, testified before a House committee, appeared on television and buttonholed Republican friends at social functions.

"I have not run into Ed Meese (the attorney general) recently, but I have written to him... He himself has admitted there are problems with the bill," she said.

Mrs. Brady, 44, said she's not completely comfortable with the public spotlight.

"My husband's accident made me more visible," she said. Since the shooting, she has spent most of her time caring for her husband, who cannot be left alone, and running her household. Although Sarah Brady, wife of White House Press Secretary James Brady who was shot by a bullet intended for the president, seen in her Arlington home recently. Mrs. Brady has become a visible lobbyist for gun control.

The Bradys have lent their names to causes benefiting the handicapped, gun control is the first "issue-oriented" campaign Mrs. Brady has undertaken.

The McClure-Volkmer bill was passed by the Senate and is pending in a House committee. Among other things, the measure would permit currently banned interstate sales of firearms and ease record-keeping.

The National Rifle Association, a principal backer of the bill, contends the 1968 law is unduly burdensome for law-abiding gun owners and dealers. Police groups oppose the bill on the grounds it would make it easier for criminals to buy guns.

Mrs. Brady said she has urged a "common sense" approach to gun control, and she finds few people disagree with her position. "One guy called me a communist and told me to go back to Russia," she said. "Other than that, most people have agreed with me."

"I am trying to say, 'Look, nobody is trying to take your guns... What we are trying to do is... tighten up,'" she said, claiming that many people have a "cavalier, careless attitude with guns."

Audrey Benson, a spokeswoman for the NRA, said the organization is sympathetic to Mrs. Brady's situation, but doesn't believe the defeat of McClure-Volkmer or other Handgun Control Inc. positions could have stopped the Reagan assassination attempt.

Mrs. Brady disagreed. Besides the defeat of the McClure-Volkmer bill, she wants manufacturers to register all guns so they can be traced. She also advocates a "cooling off" period for officials to check police records after someone applies to buy a gun.

Such a waiting period, she contended, could have stopped Hinckley from buying a gun in Dallas. "He just walked into a pawn shop, purchased a cheap 'Saturday Night Special' with no questions asked of him," she said.

"Had there been a federal law requiring a waiting period, police would have stopped him from buying a handgun in Texas," she said.

At trial, Hinckley was found innocent by reason of insanity and is incarcerated at a mental hospital.

The composite picture, the first such depiction, was distributed to newspapers and television as the nationwide manhunt for the man who killed the Swedish leader entered its sixth day.

Cairo riots kill 107

CAIRO, Egypt — A semi-official newspaper today quoted authorities as saying 107 people died in last week's riots, triple the number first reported, and that more than 21,000 unfit troops would be purged from the security force that started the violence.

The daily newspaper al-Ahram quoted police Maj. Gen. Farouk el-Heini as also saying the number of injured in the rioting totaled 712, almost 400 more than first reported.

El-Heini was quoted as saying 104 people were killed in greater Cairo, including the suburb of Giza, where security force conscripts mutinied Feb. 25 after hearing rumors their tours of duty were being extended by one year.

Dobrynin voted to party

MOSCOW — Mikhail S. Gorbachev added another full member to the ruling Politburo today and named Anatoly Dobrynin, the Soviet Union's long-serving ambassador to Washington, to the party organization that runs day-to-day Soviet affairs.

Gorbachev, the Communist Party general secretary, also eliminated a pair of candidate members of the Politburo who had been appointed by former President Leonid I. Brezhnev — 81-year-old Boris N. Ponomarev and 85-year-old Vasily Kuznetsov.

MANILA, Philippines — U.S. Rep. Stephen Solarz met today with President Corason Aquino and pledged support for her government's efforts to recover billions of dollars allegedly plundered by Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Solarz, chairman of the House of Representatives subcommittee on Asian affairs, arrived in the Philippines late Tuesday to sound out Mrs. Aquino and other officials on the amount and type of assistance her government needs from the United States.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Police patrols searched throughout Beirut today but found no trace of the French researcher a pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem faction claimed it had killed, the police chief said.

Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, which has said it held six American and four French hostages, claimed Wednesday evening it had killed Seurat in revenge for France's extradition of two Iranian-allied Iraqi activists to Baghdad.

Soviet spacecraft makes closest approach to Halley's comet core

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet space probe beaming live pictures to a Moscow space center swept past Halley's comet today, giving scientists from around the world what they believe is their first view ever of a comet's icy core.

The images from the spacecraft Vega 1 arrived at the Soviet Institute for Space Research nine minutes after the probe made its closest approach, passing about 5,555 miles from Halley's nucleus of ice and dust at 10:20 a.m. (2:20 a.m. EST).

This is the latest picture of Comet Halley, taken on March 5, 1986, by the U.K. Schmidt Telescope at Siding Springs Observatory in New South Wales, Australia. On the original plate, the comet's tail was in excess of 4.5 degrees as projected on the sky, which means that the comet's tail is in excess of 18 million kilometers in length.

It was the first of five probes scheduled to fly by the comet in the next nine days, and scientists burst into applause when the images appeared on the television monitors.

"It is a triumph, it is truly a triumph," said Fred Whipple, of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass. "It's the first time in history we have had this sort of imaging system this close to a comet."

Scientists hope all five probes will provide clues about the origin of the solar system, since comets are believed to be pristine remnants of the solar nebula, the swirling cloud of dust and gas out of which the planets and the sun are believed to have been formed.

Color-enhanced television monitors showed an image of a fiery red-brown center surrounded by yellowish gases on a blue background. Halley's nucleus is believed to be a dirty snowball of dust and ice about four miles in diameter.

The images also were transmitted by the space institute to ABC News program "Nightline."

Cornell University astronomer Carl Sagan, who was among 12 Americans joining scientists from around the world at the Soviet institute, told "Nightline" this morning that the Vega 1 had successfully penetrated the comet's huge coma, or cloud of dust and gas, and apparently took the first pictures ever made of a comet's nucleus. Karoly Szego, assistant director of the Vega mission, agreed, saying, "My idea is that really what we saw was the nucleus."

Scientists thought at first they might have spotted a second nucleus, but later said it could have been a "dust jet" spinning away.

Roald A. Sagdeyev, head of the Moscow space institute, explained in a live Soviet television broadcast that the space probe was being bombarded by "a huge number of dust particles. Each one is registered in the window of (special recording) devices so we can get an immediate chemical portrait," Sagdeyev said.

The pictures "gave us the opportunity to look at (the comet) as if through a magnifying glass and see a lot more details," he said.

However, it will take time for scientists to analyze Vega's pictures to get a better idea of the size and composition of the nucleus. Sagdeyev said there were about 15 special devices aboard the space probe to study the comet cloud, its gases, plasma and dust.

Halley's, which is named after the English astronomer Edmund Halley, swings around the sun every 76 years and last was seen in 1910. Today, it was about 105 million miles from Earth and 74 million miles from the sun, traveling at about 104,000 mph.

In the United States, the comet is now visible from latitudes south of the northern tier of states just before dawn, low above the east-southeast horizon. The comet should be visible as a white blur about a fist's width to the left of the moon.

The four other probes that will study the comet during the coming days are Japan's Suisei, which will approach within 93,960 miles Saturday; the Soviet Vega 2 probe, which will fly about 4,986 miles from the comet 18 hours later; Japan's Sakigake spacecraft, which is to study the comet from a distance of 4.3 million miles Monday (Tuesday in Tokyo); and the European Space Agency's Giotto probe.

Giotto is now on a course that will take it within 565 miles of the comet next Thursday (Friday at the ESA mission control center in Darmstadt, West Germany). But a mid-course correction planned for Saturday or later should take the craft within 300 miles of the comet.

Scientists say Giotto's instruments could be damaged by dust or other particles, but one of Vega 1's instruments showed much less dust around the comet than earlier thought.

Potholes provide decorative value

"The Pothole Man" is happy to report the mailbox has been overflowing with letters. Thanks to a cold and wet winter, potholes are now flowering in neighborhoods that have never seen them before. Unfortunately there is still a lot of ignorance about the care and feeding of potholes — and that's where The Pothole Man comes in.

Our first letter is from Laurie Kramer who writes:

"I have a beautiful pothole in front of my house measuring two feet by two feet, and one-and-a-half feet deep. What would you advise me to plant in it?"

Dear Laurie: What you plant in your pothole depends on whether you want to use it for show or eat from it. Since I assume it will be run over at least 200 times a day, I would plant something low to the ground, such as petunias for show or dwarf pear trees for food. Make sure you have a good drainage system in your pothole, or it will fill with water and become a breeding ground for malaria mosquitoes.

The second letter, from Connie Coopersmith, asks us to discuss pothole ownership:

"We bought a Home last month with an art deco pothole that the previous owner insisted was at least 50 years old. Actually, we bought the house for the hole. Now it turns out we do not own the pothole — the city does. Can we still fertilize it and treat it as our own?"

Dear Connie: It is interesting that the city would claim ownership of a pothole on your street. Municipal authorities, when called, not only deny they own the pothole, but attempt to prove your street is not even within the city limits. Consider the street hole your own.

A letter from Joey Fontana deals with fixing up potholes:

"My hobby is finding run-down potholes in the neighborhood and improving them so they look almost brand-new. I drive a cement truck so I think I do as good a job as anyone. The other day at Cathedral and 44th Street, I made beaut — I mean a Greyhound bus could disappear in it and never be heard from again.

"Well, this guy Charlie Guggenheim, who owns a house right there, said I was getting too close to his pothole. He told me to fill it in or take it somewhere else. I'm not taking it anywhere. Am I right?"

Dear Joey: You certainly are. Guggenheim should be pleased with having your pothole in front of his house. If he had any class he'd fill it up with humus and plant some tulips. Recently the courts have ruled that a pothole belongs to all the people. Our founding fathers wanted America's potholes to be shared by everyone — from sea to shining sea. By enlarging and widening the pothole in front of Guggenheim's house you enhanced all the real estate values in the area.

Dana Williams wrote one of the most interesting letters:

"There was this pothole at the end of the block and it kept getting larger and larger. Every time a car went 'kerplunk,' an axle broke. Then one day a neighbor planted a bush in it so people could see it. The following Friday, for no reason at all, the bush caught on fire and burned. The next morning a city repair truck came by and filled in the hole. My question: Was the burning bush a miracle?"

Dear Dana: I'm not sure about the burning bush, but the city truck showing up to repair the pothole sure as heck was.

EPA contradicts own rule

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — Like the pointy-headed bureaucrats Gov. George Wallace used to deride for being unable to park their bicycles straight, the State Department's global thinkers sometimes can't get their priorities straight. They're willing to risk American consumers' health to keep from upsetting a few mango growers in Mexico, Haiti and Belize.

The easiest way to keep fruit flies from spoiling the $20 million worth of mangoes imported into the United States each year is to dust the yellow-red tropical fruit with ethylene dibromide, or EDB. But EDB can cause cancer in humans.

Describing the chemical as an "extremely high cancer risk," the Environmental Protection Agency banned the use of EDB domestically effective Sept. 1, 1984. It gave Caribbean mango growers a one-year break to find another way to combat the fruit flies. Instead, the nations got their friends in Foggy Bottom to ask for an extension on their EDB exemption.

Incredibly, the combined clout of the mango and cookie pushers succeeded in battering the EPA into submission. The agency now intends to let American consumers eat poison-dusted mangoes for up to two more years.

At first the agency held firm on its decision to ban EDB-treated fruit on Sept. 1, 1985. On Aug. 28, an internal EPA memo said: "Since the risks for U.S. consumers of treated mangoes are not changed from EPA's 1984 estimates, which found one year of further exposure to be the limit of acceptable continued exposure, the agency feels that additional exposure to EDB in the diet is not in the public interest."

Then, on Sept. 21, the mango growers brought up their heavy artillery: Deputy Secretary of State John C. Whitehead. He wrote to EPA Administrator Lee Thomas, expressed "concern" about the EDB ban, and asked the agency to "take another look at this issue."

Laying it on with a spreader, Whitehead almost seemed to say it was a patriotic duty to eat EDB-laden mangoes. Deprived of the pesticide, Caribbean mango-growers would wither and go broke, with apparently calamitous effects on their countries — and on U.S. regional strategy.

"These countries are of great strategic interest to the U.S.," Whitehead explained. "Our interests in Mexico are enormous. ... We also have major strategic and economic interest in the Caribbean Basin."

Acting Assistant Secretary of State James Michel chimed in with the dubious claim that "360,000 peasant producers" in Haiti alone depend on the mango crop for survival. He added that the American ambassador in Belize had warned the State Department that the EDB ban would "significantly harm the delicate economy" of that tiny Central American country.

How all these supposed thousands of Caribbean mango growers subsist on roughly $20 million worth of total exports a year is not clear. What soon became clear was that the EPA succumbed to the pressure.

EPA officials drafted new rules that completely contradicted their previous expressions of concern about EDB. It held out hope that an extension for EDB dusting would lead to development of an alternative method of thwarting the fruit flies. Just three months earlier, the agency reported it "found no assurance that given two more years of EDB use, acceptable alternatives would be fully available."

Incredibly, the EPA even concluded that the risks of eating EDB-tainted mangoes are "acceptable." An agency official told our associate Corky Johnson this applied to "short-term exposure." The two-year extension is considered "short-term."

The EPA argued that EDB residue on new mango imports would be lower than the tolerance level of 30 parts per billion the agency set for the first extension.

But just a few weeks before that, the agency said that EDB was a killer at almost any level. And spot checks by the Food and Drug Administration last year showed that mangoes from Mexico and Haiti had EDB levels 10 times higher than the EPA's new limit.

PENTAGON PRANKSTER: A fictitious memo has been circulating in Air Force offices recently, ostensibly instructing personnel on temporary duty or traveling between posts how to save expense money. It recommends staying in YMCAs, halfway houses or jails, and cutting food costs by eating leftover flight meals. "If the above procedures are followed," the spurious memo explains, "no advance payment will be required and all travelers should be able to live within government-allowed per diem rates." The memo was signed by a non-existent assistant secretary of the Air Force. Some people actually thought the memo was authentic, and protested.

Lie-detectors invite deceit

By SPENCER SANDOW

The growing popularity of polygraph or "lie detector" tests among employers has led to a small but strong, vocal anti-polygraph element among employees, and rightly so.

Forcing employees or prospective employees to submit to a polygraph is a demeaning and hostile act. Actions like that assume the employees are dishonest or that they are out to exploit the company if given half the chance.

Most people wouldn't object to taking a polygraph if asked, but they don't think lie detectors should be used by businesses in most circumstances, according to a Media General-Associated Press poll. I agree.

A problem with polygraphs is that they're not a valid means of determining whether people are telling the truth. At least that's the view of a psychology professor at Boston University who authored a study on the subject, according to an Associated Press story.

The polygraph has an accuracy rate of between 50 percent and 95 percent in criminal investigations, experts say, but there is no scientific evidence that it is useful for screening those seeking sensitive jobs or security clearances.

With so poor a success rate, and so inaccurately measured, the polygraph has no place in the job market. In the long run, polygraphs will hurt society more than they will help it. They will foster further distrust and intolerance.

They will further widen the gulf between management and employees. It is no secret that if you treat someone as if you don't trust them or they're inferior, they won't be too fond of you.

Policing one's business is a necessary task at times, but not to that extent. Another way should be found, one that doesn't so reduce the dignity of those forced to submit or find another job.

Today

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, March 6, the 65th day of 1986. There are 300 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On March 6, 1836 — 150 years ago — the Alamo in San Antonio, Texas, fell to Mexican forces after a 13-day siege. All 187 defenders of the mission compound were killed, including Davy Crockett and James Bowie.

On this date:

In 1806, poet Elizabeth Barrett Browning was born in Durham, England.

In 1834, the city of York in Upper Canada was incorporated as Toronto.

In 1853, Verdi's opera "La Traviata" made its debut in Venice, Italy.

In 1857, the U.S. Supreme Court issued its Dred Scott decision, in which the justices held that Scott, a slave, could not sue for his freedom in a federal court.

In 1933, a nationwide bank holiday declared by President Franklin D. Roosevelt went into effect.

In 1944, U.S. bombers staged a daylight raid against Berlin during World War II.

In 1967, the daughter of Josef Stalin, Svetlana Alliluyeva, appeared at the U.S. Embassy in India and announced her intention to defect to the West. She returned to the Soviet Union in November 1984.

In 1981, Walter Cronkite signed off for the last time as anchorman of "The CBS Evening News."

Ten years ago: Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan stepped up his attack on President Gerald R. Ford with a speech in Port Charlotte, Fla., in which he criticized Ford's foreign policy.

Five years ago: President Reagan told a news conference he had no thought of sending U.S. troops to fight in El Salvador. (This was the first and last Reagan news conference in which the reporters were chosen by lot to see who would get to ask questions — a process the president nicknamed "Reagan roulette.")

One year ago: Authorities in Mexico found the body of kidnapped U.S. drug agent Enrique Camarena Salazar and a Mexican pilot at a ranch about 60 miles east of Guadalajara.

Today's birthdays: TV personality Ed McMahon is 63. Conductor Sarah Caldwell is 62. FBI director William Webster is 62. The first woman in space, Soviet cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova, is 49. Actor Ben Murphy is 44. Actor Rob Reiner is 41.

Why is nothing done in murder?

To the editor:

In regards to the murders committed for which no account has been given to the citizens, we submit these questions. When are we going to get justice? What must we do to achieve justice? Isn't justice one of our basic Constitutional rights? If so, why are we deprived of it? Is it justice to value material items than a human life?

Concerning the murder of Jimmy Yanez, why has nothing been done to prosecute his killer as there was no motive and Jimmy was not armed? What valid reason was there for cold-blooded murder? Being shot in the back is cold-blooded murder, isn't it?

To date, we have not been given an adequate answer as to what is holding up the proceedings. There is no lack of evidence, after all, the circumstances speak for themselves. Let us assume that this incident concerned a public administrators, would all this foot-dragging be prevailing or would the assailant already be arrested and prosecuted? We, the citizens, would appreciate an answer to our questions.

If nothing is done to deter this kind of deed, are families supposed to subject themselves to this agony and be expected to endure it? There will be a petition circulated, to collect signatures of citizens interested in this issue and want to know what the outcome will be.

Classroom 'bust' taught a lesson

To the editor:

In response to the letter written by Jesse Rios and Jason Eyskens: As far as busting him (Charles Briscoe) in class I personally think Rick Turner was right! He just might have taught one of those students in class what would happen to them if they get involved with drugs. If a lesson was taught, then everyone in this city should pat Rick's back!

If Coach Briscoe was humiliated in front of his peers then that's too bad! The Big Spring Police department deserves our gratitude instead of our scorn.

Overtime by any other name...

To the editor:

Sir — well it seems as if our city council has made another giant boo boo. I would like to call for a public city hall meeting. I would like for someone on the City Council to stand up face to face and explain how to get comp time — if not by working overtime. Gentlemen overtime is documented by any company in the world and paid at the end of a pay period.

Management does not get paid for overtime to start with. They hire out to do a job for a yearly salary. I believe Mr. Windham was hired as management.

The $18,000 paid Mr. Windham means nothing up beside the city council believing the good people of Big Spring stupid enough to believe this hogwash.

If a mistake was made, as it obviously was, admit it and let us get on with our business, but don't insult our intelligence by trying to cloud the issue. Call a town meeting and explain the difference between comp time and overtime, that is if you can.

It is time during this economical crisis for everyone to work together. It is the responsibility of the city council to lead everyone toward this goal. You cannot do this by making giant boo boos and then trying to cover them up.

Gentlemen the people of this town are not as dumb as you must think we are. Please help us instead of pushing us further down.

Dear Abby

Doubting diner doesn't give tips

DEAR ABBY: Please lay off your one-woman crusade to make waiters and waitresses filthy rich. Now you come out with the ridiculous statement that if you don't leave at least 8 percent of the bill, you are cheating the waitperson! You haven't convinced me that they are living on the verge of starvation. I've heard of a Philadelphia waitress who raked up $80 in tips in one night, and a waiter in the Washington, D.C., area who averages $45 to $50 an hour in tips!

Anyone who pays $14 for fish and fries for two and leaves a $2 or $3 tip yet needs to have his head examined.

This hoax you're perpetrating about the "poor" waitress has just about run its course.

I'd sign my name, but there are a lot of dingbats out there, so I'm taking no chances.

FED UP WITH TIPS
IN EBENSBURG, PA.

DERA FED UP: You are misinformed and sadly mistaken. I've never known a "filthy rich" waiter or waitress, but I've known a few who were lucky to break even.

With your attitude, please do them all a favor and restrict your dining out to fast-food places where you serve yourself. Or have a pizza delivered to your door. On second thought, forget the pizza; you may have to tip the driver.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning disclosing one's religion and marital status on a hospital form for a goiter X-ray: You are correct in stating that a patient does not have to answer those questions.

Any patient or potential patient told that "unless you complete the form there will be no X-ray," should ask to see the employee's supervisor. If the supervisor has no better answer, one should request to see the department supervisor. No luck? Go all the way to the top and report to the facility's administrator. Health-care facilities in today's competitive health-care environment are not turning away potential patients simply because they refuse to indicate religious preference and/or marital status.

Many of your readers are not aware that such a profession (medical record administrator/health information specialist) exists.

MEDICAL RECORD
CONSULTANT, TUCSON, ARIZ.

DEAR CAMILLE: This writer was also not aware of it. Thanks. There is no end to the things I learn from my readers.

DEAR ABBY: I have a physiology question that has me completely stumped. How do humans distinguish between "left" and "right"? For instance, I can explain "up" and "down" using words alone: "up" is toward the sky, and "down" is toward the ground. However, "left" and "right" defy explanation using reference points, so how do we remember which is which after a parent or someone else shows us?

I would be eternally grateful if you can find an answer to this baffler.

DYING TO KNOW

DEAR DYING: Live. One's left side pertains to the side of the body in which the heart is mostly located. The left-hand side is located on the side closer to one's heart. The right side is the opposite side. When an object is said to be on the left, it is located on the left of an observer facing in the same direction as the object specified.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: If you have ever been diagnosed as "seriously or chronically mentally ill" and have experienced problems with your treatment, program or care system, I want to hear from you. Your first-hand experiences of your illness and treatment are needed for an important mental health study. Your identity will be held in the strictest confidence.

Minerva Lewis, owner-manager of Country Flowers, was guest speaker at the February meeting of the Big Spring Art Association.

Lewis spoke of how she began painting and doing art work. She has painted on everything from old barnwood pieces to florals on canvas. She has incorporated her artistic talents into country items that are for sale in her shop.

Business discussed at the meeting included current art shows in the West Texas area and ideas for the association show to be held later in the year.

Dr. Donohue

Achalasia: a swallowing disorder

DERA DR. DONOHUE: Just what is achalasia? I have been told this is my swallowing problem. My doctor suggested that perhaps an alcoholic drink with a meal might help. I did notice an improvement. What can be done for it? What makes it so difficult for some people to swallow? — V.E.

Achalasia is failure of the esophagus to empty properly. It's a dual problem. Peristalsis, the involuntary waves of muscle contractions that propel food down to the stomach, is faulty, and the sphincter muscle at the stomach opening does not relax properly after a swallow.

We can't give a precise cause for these deficiencies, but they are thought to be nerve-related. There may be a genetic predisposition to achalasia, for it does occur in families sometimes.

Achalasia patients often adapt with special techniques — for example, taking extra fluids with meals. You have found that an alcoholic drink brings some improvement. Other doctors have suggested this in hopes it will help relax the sphincter muscle I mentioned. Of course, this would not be appropriate for everyone, and this is in no way a blanket "prescription" for such therapy.

Many people suffer with this unpleasant condition for years until disturbing symptoms, like chest pain or regurgitation, bring them into a doctor's office. X-rays establish the diagnosis. Treatments for achalasia include dilation of the esophagus with special instruments and medicines that help relax the muscles.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Due to circumstances not under my control I have contracted herpes, the genital herpes. My husband had an affair and obviously got it from a girlfriend or in some other "lovely" place. I am concerned about passing this on to my children when I go to live with them for six months while my impending divorce is in the works. Can you assure me that I cannot pass this on by just normal living around them? I do not plan to ever again have sexual relations with anyone. Emotionally, I sometimes wish I could "get off the world," so to speak. — H.J.

I'm sorry this incident has shattered your marriage. I'm sure you'll put things back together.

I can assure you that you will not pass along genital herpes by normal living with your children. It's not spread by towels, soap, toilet seats, glassware or dishes, even were someone to eat from your plate. Kissing can spread herpes labialis (when sores present), the kind presented by the common cold sore.

I do hope you have a talk with your doctor about your chances of spreading herpes through sex. Your attitude unnecessarily closes off prospects for a successful remarriage, should you decide to try again.

And about having sex: Genital herpes is mostly spread only when there are active sores present. But it is also true that we cannot give 100 percent assurance of that. There is just the barest outside chance of it happening when no sores are present. That slim chance is further reduced through use of the condom.

Finally, you should know that herpes is not always forever. As time goes on, recurrence of the active sores diminishes. I want you to read my booklet on herpes. I hope it will change your attitude. Other readers concerned about this may order by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611 enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1.25. Ask for "Herpes: Don't Panic."

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I was interested in the item about baking soda being used by a person and erupting in the stomach. I believe there have been actual cases of this on record. Have you by chance heard more on this subject? — F.N.S.

There have been rare isolated cases in medical history apparently linked to this. A woman reader wrote relating such an incident involving a family member. In that case, it was theorized that the baking soda reacted with stomach contents, causing an eruption. The patient suffered infection of abnormal organs, from which he recovered. The best advice is to stick to proven remedies for stomach upset and don't resort to kitchen concoctions, whether of baking soda or other substances.

The booklet "Dizzy Spells" discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

One thing is concluded: the various church rule books, creeds, and church disciplines which oppose each other, invented by the various kinds of churches and their leaders are unauthorized by God in Bible scripture, and thus are contrary to the will of God because they advocate things and ways contrary to the Word of God, and because they cause division among the believers in Christ. All creeds, religious rules, and church disciplines are based upon some supposed deficiency within the word of God, otherwise they would not be advocated. But such a deficiency does not exist! The will of God is that all believers be one in thought, practice and teaching, so then to make rules contrary to the Word of God is rebellion against God and His Word. From what source then does a person get the authority to make such laws? The departure from simple New Testament Christianity came when: the church government was changed, equal rights and privileges and responsibilities were taken from each believer, the system of the doctrine was changed from the New Testament standard and human legislation was given equal authority with divine legislation. WHEN THEY SAY 'BIG AS TEXAS,' THEY'RE NOT TALKING ABOUT ELECTRICITY COSTS. Average Residential Electricity Costs Hard-working, dedicated employees have helped us keep electricity costs lower than many other places in the United States. You pay less for the electricity you use than many people in the United States, which is an important factor contributing to the economic growth of the area. How have we succeeded in keeping the price of electricity reasonable? Through hard-working, productive employees who provide quality service 24 hours a day, every day; with strict cost-control management; low-cost strategies for meeting future needs; maximum use of lower-cost Texas lignite coal for fuel; and by taking advantage of current market conditions to lower the cost of natural gas. We're working to meet the increasing electricity needs of one of the fastest-growing areas in the nation, while keeping costs down. Thursday Notes

By Charlie Alcorn

We start this week's Notes with some powerful news from the San Angelo YMCA Bench Press Competition held last Sunday.

Kena Burcham, 14, won the women's overall title in the San Angelo competition with a press just over 100 pounds. Miss Burcham beat out a 25-year old aerobics instructor for the overall crown.

Kena's brother Jay, who will be one of the mainstays for the Big Spring Steer football team next year, finished second in the 18 and under division with a lift of 350 pounds. Jay missed the victory when his nearest competitor lifted 365 and young Burcham decided to jump to 395 pounds and barely missed on three tries.

George Hudson, Cosden Credit Union manager, brought an interesting note by the office this week. His son Scott, who graduated from Colorado City HS and now lives in Dallas, recently ran in the Fort Worth Cowtown Marathon. At 34, Scott doesn't run with the swiftness he used to as a quarter miler for the Wolves, but then who cares about running 26.2 miles fast?

Any way, Scott finished the marathon, his first, in 4 hours and 10 minutes. He placed 468th out of over 700 runners. No small accomplishment for a novice runner, who happens to be legally blind.

Big Spring cowboy Wacey Cathey fell from first place in the PRCA bull riding standings to second behind rival Lane Frost of Oklahoma. But Cathey is still enjoying his best season to date with $18,091 in earnings through February 25.

In other rodeo news, Howard College will be participating in the first intercollegiate rodeo to be held in Odessa March 6-9.

The Hawk rodeo men and women will be competing with over 400 other cowpokes from 20 colleges and universities around the southwest. Odessa College will host the nine-event schedule at the Ector County Coliseum 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday and a short-go competition 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 9.

The Early-Bird Slowpitch Softball Tournament will be held March 14-16 at Goodfellow Air Force Base.

There is two divisions; Class B and C. Entry fee is $80 per team plus one blue dot ball. Entry deadline is March 2 at 4:30 p.m.

To enter call: 653-5571, 657-3242 or 655-3522.

The Big Spring Sports Booster Club will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Special guest will be Spencer Johnson, Public Relation Manager of the Shooting Stars.

Everyone is encouraged to attend and help support Big Spring athletics.

The Texas League of the Big Spring Little League Association will be having a meeting Thursday, March 6 at 6 p.m. at the Westside Community Center.

All league officials and interested parents are encouraged to attend.

The Chicano Golf Association will have a meeting Friday, March 7 at 7 p.m. in the La Vadera Club.

All members and perspective members are encouraged to attend.

The Boys Optimist Relays will be held here Saturday, March 8 at Blankenship Field. The meet will be composed of seventh, eighth and ninth grade teams.

Competing in the meet will be host schools Goliad, Runnels and the freshmen Steers. Other teams include Odessa Ector, Lamesa, Midland San Jacinto, Sweetwater and Midland Bowie. Other teams entered include San Angelo Glenn, Midland Alamo, Midland Goodard, San Angelo Lincoln, Midland Crockett and Midland Trinity.

Field events get underway at 9:30 a.m. Running prelims get started at 11 a.m. Running finals get started at 12:45 p.m.

Tulsa ends Bradley streak

By The Associated Press
As the longest winning streak in the nation came to an end, Bradley Coach Dick Versace found reason to be proud.

"I am proud to be associated with a team that has tasted defeat only twice this season," he said.

The ninth-ranked Braves lost 74-58 to Tulsa on Wednesday night in the championship game of the Missouri Valley Conference tournament, giving the MVC's automatic NCAA berth to the Hurricane. Forwards Brian Rahilly and David Moss had 22 points apiece for the Hurricane.

With the best record in the nation at 31-2 and, until Wednesday night, the country's longest Division I winning streak of 22 games, Bradley also was expected to be picked for the 64-team tournament field.

In the only other game involving ranked teams, No. 16 Indiana defeated 17th-rated Michigan State 97-79.

Bradley's loss, its first since Dec. 28 against Clemson, came at Tulsa, and Versace said the crowd of 6,300, primarily Hurricane fans, played a role.

"We had three games in three days, and we needed the adrenalin boost from the crowd," Versace said, "and of course we didn't have that today."

Bradley trailed by 10 or more points most of the second half until pulling within 50-42 with 13:25 left. At that point, Tulsa outscored Bradley 14-3 to take a 64-45 lead with 4:15 to play.

Tulsa Coach J.D. Barnett agreed that the crowd helped. "It doesn't mean much at times, but it helped tonight," he said. "I hope it doesn't take away from the glitter of the win. This team played a great basketball game."

Hersey Hawkins led the Braves with 16 points and seven rebounds.

Indiana 97, Michigan St. 79
Indiana took a half-game lead over idle Michigan and eliminated Michigan State from the Big Ten race. Steve Alford had 31 points and freshman Ricky Calloway added 19 for the Hoosiers, 13-4 in the Big Ten and 21-6 overall.

Scott Skiles scored 33 points and became Michigan State's all-time leading scorer, needing 21 points going into the game to break the old mark of 2,014 by Greg Kelsler. The Spartans dropped to 11-6 in the conference.

"The game was kind of the way I thought it would be," Indiana Coach Bob Knight said. "It was an offensive game more than anything else. I knew they would score, so I just told our kids they would have to score also and not get knocked out of the box."

Bradley University's Trevor Trimpe fights for control of the ball against University of Tulsa's Brian Rahilly in the championship game of the Missouri Valley Conference tournament. Tulsa went to beat Bradley 74-58, ending Bradley's 22 game winning streak. Rahilly was voted the most valuable player.

In some other conference tournaments:

Big East
In New York, Sophomore center Mark Bryant scored 18 points, and Seton Hall won its first Big East post-season game, 76-66 over Connecticut, to earn a berth in the tournament quarterfinals Thursday night against eighth-ranked St. John's.

The Pirates, who had lost three in a row, led 45-38 when they outscored Connecticut 20-7 to boost their lead to 20 points. Bryant scored nine of his points in the run, and Connecticut lost its eighth straight game. Both teams were 3-13 in the Big East.

Southeastern
At Lexington, Ky., Mississippi State and Mississippi both advanced to Thursday's quarterfinals of the SEC tournament. Chauncey Robinson scored eight of his 14 points down the stretch as Mississippi State rallied to beat Vanderbilt 62-54 in one first-round game. Raymond Brown had 20 points for the Bulldogs, who will meet Auburn in the next round.

Southwestern Athletic
At Jackson, Miss., Prairie View A&M and Alcorn State won first-round games in the SWAC tournament. Reginald Jones scored 23 points to lead Prairie View over Southern University 75-67, and David Whitney Jr.'s 21 points paced Alcorn State over Grambling 71-53.

Schoolboy teams start state title chase

AUSTIN (AP) — The 66th annual state schoolboy basketball tournament starts Thursday without a clear favorite in the Class 5A division, which was won last year by Houston Madison.

In the tournament opener Thursday in Class A, Nazareth, whose girls' team lost in the finals last weekend, will play Laneville, making its first tournament appearance since 1957. Nazareth was runner-up in 1984 and 1985.

The second semifinal game in Class A pits Livingston Big Sandy, a champion in 1952 and 1957, against Archer City, which has lost three times in the semifinals. Big Sandy ousted No. 1-ranked Snook in the regional playoffs.

The 5A pairings match newcomer Dallas Kimball, 30-3, against Houston Wheatley, perhaps the best team in 5A over the past 20 years, on Friday afternoon.

Although Wheatley's record is 21-13, the worst of any of the 20 teams in the tournament, the Wildcats have had a history of success at the state tournament, winning five titles — 1968-70, 1973 and 1978, which is a division record.

Austin Johnston, a semifinalist in 1970, will play Amarillo in the other 5A semifinals Friday night.

Johnston, 34-2, is led by Jason Shead, a 6-foot-1 guard who scores from all over the court and received much of the credit for Johnston's success in the San Antonio regional.

Johnston is the first Austin team to gain the tournament since Lanier, which lost in the 1979 semifinals.

Amarillo, 29-5, returns to the tournament for the first time since 1948. The Sandies, paced by coach Allen Simpson's son, 6-2 Sammy Simpson, have never advanced past the semifinals in four previous appearances.

Port Arthur Lincoln, a champion in 1981 and 1984, has the best record in 4A — 31-1, and also defeated highly touted Bay City in regionals, 57-52.

Dimmitt in 3A returns to the tournament for the 13th time, breaking its own record in that division.

Two former champions are in the 2A field — Gladewater Sabine, 1980-81, and Morton, 1972, 1977, 1983 and 1985. Morton also lost in the finals last year.

Atlanta completes Cerone for Simmons trade

Atlanta traded catcher Rick Cerone and two minor leaguers to the Milwaukee Brewers for catcher-first baseman Ted Simmons. The minor leaguers are pitcher David Clay, who was 4-5 with a 3.57 earned run average at Class AAA Richmond last year, and Flavio Alfaro, a shortstop who batted .193 at Class A Durham.

The 36-year-old Simmons, an eight-time All-Star, has been a catcher for most of his 15-year career, although Milwaukee used him mostly as a designated hitter last year when he batted .273 with 12 homers and 76 RBIs. Simmons has a career average of .287 with 238 home runs.

"We'll use him mostly as bench strength and occasionally at first base," said a Braves spokesperson.

Simmons had to consent to the trade. After doing so, he left for his home in St. Louis.

"It was a good move for Teddy," said Brewers General Manager Harry Dalton. "He's going back to the league he started in and with a club that has plans to use him in several roles. Plus, he'll get to visit his home twice a year. He understood why the deal was made."

Cerone, meanwhile, said he welcomes his new role as a backup player in Milwaukee's youth movement.

"At this stage of my career I can adapt to anything," the 31-year-old catcher said. "It'll be a better opportunity than I had (at Atlanta). I'm willing to be the backup catcher."

Cerone, hampered by injuries, batted .216 with three homers and 25 RBI in 96 games last year, his only season with the Braves. His career average is .226. The Braves acquired Cerone in December 1984 from the New York Yankees. His best year was 1980 when he hit .277 with 14 homers and 85 RBIs.

"He's a little better hitter and has more knowledge about the American League pitchers and hitters," Dalton said.

He said the trade turned the Brewers' DH role over to first baseman Cecil Cooper, who is coming back from elbow surgery.

"This is a big part of it, the fact it does open up the DH spot for Cecil, particularly in the early part of the season," Dalton said.

St. Louis formally renewed the contract of National League Rookie of the Year Vince Coleman, who called the move "almost like a slap in the face." Although contract figures were not disclosed, Coleman, who stole 110 bases in 1985, is expected to earn about $165,000 this season. He earned the major-league minimum $60,000 last year.

"I don't like it," the outfielder said. "I thought they would treat me better than they did. It doesn't matter what the numbers are. It's not what I wanted."

Coleman had been seeking about $400,000. He was not eligible for arbitration.

The Cards also signed third baseman Terry Pendleton to a one-year contract leaving them with just one remaining unsigned player, pitcher Kurt Kephart.

Veteran left-hander Steve Carlton, who has won 314 games, begins his comeback today from a serious shoulder injury. He is scheduled to work two innings of an intrasquad game.

Colorado City senior forward Denise Jackson was also named to the squad for the second consecutive season. She led the Lady Wolves in scoring with a 22 point average.

Sub leads Bucks past Nets

By The Associated Press
Ricky Pierce wanted to prove that Sidney Moncrief wasn't the only reason the Milwaukee Bucks have the third-best record in the NBA this season.

Pierce, making only his third start of 1985-86, gave Moncrief's sore ribs a rest Wednesday night and scored a career-high 32 points as the Bucks won for the 12th time in the last 13 games, 119-106 over the New Jersey Nets.

"The big guys were setting picks for me and I was in my rhythm," said Pierce, whose previous high of 30 points came when he was with the San Diego Clippers in 1983-84. "With Sidney out, I knew we all had to pull together, work a little harder and execute well to make up for those 20 points we were missing."

Pierce came out firing from the start, scoring 11 points in the first quarter and 12 more in the third period. The 6-foot-5 guard was 13-of-18 from the field for the game. "Ricky's got no conscience," said Bucks forward Terry Cummings, who scored 24 points. "He's a great offensive player, who came into this game with his mind prepared. We got him the ball and he knew what to do with it."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Boston 108, Chicago 97; Los Angeles Lakers 130, Utah 84; Atlanta 122, Philadelphia 114 in overtime; Cleveland 115, Phoenix 100; and Indiana 120, Seattle 112.

Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson said Pierce also was a standout on defense against the Nets. He helped limit Otis Birdsong to 12 points.

"Ricky rose to the occasion," Nelson said. "You can talk all you want about the 32 points he scored, but what I want to talk about is the defensive job he did. He's developed a dedication to defense since he's come here."

Pierce came to Milwaukee from the Clippers before the 1984-85 season, along with Cummings and Craig Hodges in a trade for Junior Bridgeman, Harvey Catchings and Marques Johnson.

Pierce and Cummings had six points each during a 16-2 second-half spurt that turned a five-point deficit into an 88-79 Milwaukee lead with 10:44 left. Pierce put Milwaukee ahead to stay at 78-77 with a free throw with 3:06 to go in the third period.

New Jersey's Albert King scored 12 of his 27 points in a four-minute span to help close the gap to 97-93, but Pierce, Cummings and Paul Pressey, who had 21 points and 13 assists, led a Milwaukee run that carried the Bucks to a comfortable 109-98 advantage with 2:47 remaining.

Mike Gminski added 20 points for New Jersey.

Hawks 122, 76ers 114
Atlanta won its fourth straight against Philadelphia this season and second in two nights as Dominique Wilkins scored 37 points, including seven in overtime.

After the 76ers took a 110-108 lead to start the extra period, the Hawks took control with a 14-2 streak that made it 122-112 with 53 seconds remaining. In the third period, Atlanta had scored 14 consecutive points for a 74-68 lead, but Philadelphia had a 14-2 run later in the quarter to lead 82-80.

Moses Malone paced the 76ers with 29 points and 20 rebounds, while Kevin Willis had 20 points and 12 rebounds for the Hawks.

Celtics 108, Bulls 97
Boston won its seventh straight and 18th in a row at home as Larry Bird scored 15 of his 26 points against Chicago during a 29-6 streak that started with 7:29 left in the second period and ended 11 minutes later.

Bird had 11 consecutive points at one stretch for the Celtics as they turned a 43-41 deficit into a 70-51 advantage with 8:24 to go in the third quarter. The Bulls closed the gap to 97-91 with 4:10 left in the game, but could come no closer.

Sidney Green scored 25 points and Kyle Macy 22 for Chicago. Danny Ainge had 21 points for Boston.

Cavaliers 115, Suns 100
Cleveland broke an 0-10 streak in Phoenix by outscoring the Suns 22-7 in last 6:12 of the game.

NCAA

checking up on UT

AUSTIN (AP) — An investigation concerning a University of Texas football player's car has been launched by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, a university official says.

Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds said Wednesday the university has not been officially notified of a full-scale investigation, but the NCAA is looking into how junior tailback Edwin Simmons obtained his car.

"We've had phone conversations and other correspondence with the NCAA," Dodds told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "The NCAA has talked to us. We have told the NCAA everything we know. We are sharing our information from our internal investigation with the NCAA and they are looking into it."

An internal investigation has been under way by the university into Simmons' car for some time. Austin attorney Knox Nunnally is conducting an investigation at the request of the university.

Dodds said the university expects to release the results of Nunnally's investigation within the week.

"We don't know anything yet," Dodds said, "except the kid made a bad deal."

Simmons said he leased the 1984 BMW from Tee Bowman, an Austin certified public accountant. Simmons said he has paid $4,210 as part of a lease-purchase agreement with Bowman.

Bowman said he leased the car to Simmons last April after Simmons answered a newspaper ad for the car.

"I had a BMW and I was desperate to get rid of it," Bowman said.

Cassette tape players need regular cleaning and demagnetizing. Daily accumulations of West Texas dust should be cleaned out of the cassette players. Excessive dust on the magnetic heads, pinch roller & capstan causes tangling & wear. A good schedule is to clean the player every 30 hours of playing time.

Demagnetizing the tape heads is important too. Friction causes magnetic particles to stick to the tape heads. Magnetic particles can harm the tape & actually erase it. A tape cleaner that can demagnetize too can eliminate this problem.

The Record Shop has a large selection of tape maintenance items, cleaners, demagnetizers & cleaning fluid.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a very good day to make whatever changes may be necessary in order that you gain progress in deciding upon just what your long-range plans are.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Seek out older individuals whose ideas are different from yours and can do something worthwhile for you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are inspired how to have a more abundant life, so plan it now and put your best ideas to work quickly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A dynamic partner can do something nice for you now since you have rendered a favor in the past, so accept readily.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Do that seemingly dull routine work efficiently and enthusiastically and gain fine benefits.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be happy with the one you have been romancing for some time and show that you are devoted to him or her.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have work to do at home and should complete it before evening and then be satisfied with what you have accomplished.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Early make appointments and keep them on time and get good results thereby. Take time to see close friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A project you had put aside can now be picked up again and made profitable at this time. Become more economical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Pursue that goal you had put aside and reach it successfully now to make your life easier. Socialize this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) By added application, you can now rid yourself of some situation that is very limiting. Channel your energies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although a friend usually takes too much of your time, listen carefully to suggestions given you. They can be helpful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Gain more prestige by handling some public duty well and higher-ups will be appreciative. Avoid overspending on recreation.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have the ability to get into outmoded activities and update them and make a big success of them, so be sure to give a good education that will combine the old-fashioned or standard with the new.

Martina caught packing heat

WEST WINDSOR, N.J. (AP) — Martina Navratilova, who had an unloaded handgun confiscated from her luggage at San Francisco International Airport Sunday, said Tuesday she had been advised to carry the gun because of a series of murders and a rape in her Texas neighborhood.

The Czechoslovakian-born tennis star, who now resides in Fort Worth, Texas, said that she didn't intend to carry the gun on the airplane and that the incident was an unfortunate mistake that she would "like to forget."

"I can't believe that it has caused such a stir," she said at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center after winning a first-round match in the U.S. Women's Indoor Tennis Championships.

Navratilova said she had been carrying a pistol for off-court protection for more than a year.

She was leaving the San Francisco airport Sunday, hours after losing to Kathy Jordan in the semifinals of the Virginia Slims of California tournament, when the gun set off a metal detector.

"She was not arrested and no citations were issued," said airport duty manager Lamont Foster. "However, the gun, which I think was a small-caliber weapon, was taken away."

Karen Marzotto, deputy district attorney for San Mateo County, Calif., told USA Today that she will decide within a few days whether to charge Navratilova.

Carrying a concealed weapon is a crime in California and carries a maximum penalty upon conviction of six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Navratilova said the gun, a .38-caliber Smith & Wesson, was accidentally packed into her carry-on luggage by a friend.

"I'm glad they found it when they did," she said. "I would have been mortified if they had found it on the plane."

"I was advised to carry the gun for protection after a series of murders and a rape in my neighborhood. There was even a woman beheaded and the murder hasn't been solved," Navratilova said.

Asked why she took the gun on the tennis circuit, she said: "I kept it on the road for protection because so many people know where I stay at the tournaments. I've never taken it out of the country."

Navratilova had told airport officials she had a permit for the gun in Texas but not in California, Foster said.

However, David Hess, a spokesman for the Texas attorney general's office, told USA Today that Navratilova was "misinformed" about a permit, which is neither required nor issued in Texas.

Foster said Navratilova can petition the San Mateo County courts to get the gun returned.
