Auto thefts fall into pattern

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

An auto theft this morning is similar to a recent spree of vehicle thefts the Howard County sheriff's and Big Spring police departments are investigating, Sheriff A.N. Standard said this morning.

The thefts, Standard said, follow a similar pattern in style based on time of occurrence, drop off locations and condition of the recovered vehicles.

The latest stolen vehicle incident occurred at 3:15 a.m. when Gary Calvert of Route 1 Box 527 told sheriff's deputies that someone stole a 1984 Ford sedan from his residence.

Within the hour, the sheriff's department received a call from Jim Piper of Sand Springs who said he found a 1976 Oldsmobile sedan on the North Service Road of I-20, one-fourth mile west of the First Baptist Church in Sand Springs.

Deputies, in cooperation with police officers, ran a check on the automobile and found that it belonged to Tina D. LaRue of 1211 E. 18th. LaRue later filed a stolen car report with police and said the theft occurred between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 4 a.m. this morning.

The vehicles are apparently being used for joyriding, Standard said.

Calvert's vehicle still had not been located by presstime today.

"We're dealing with several young people who may be intermingling as friends," Standard said.

He said other possible motives for the thefts may be initiation rites for membership into a "Helter-Skelter" type club.

"It's a very dangerous game they are playing," Standard said.

The sheriff said his department had interviewed three juvenile suspects and one other juvenile suspect who refused to talk. Standard said two of the suspects gave statements.

Statements from one of the suspects, Standard said, cleared up an auto theft that occurred in Silver Hills a week ago.

The sheriff said the suspects were the same persons the police department is currently investigating into possible burglaries and auto thefts occurring within

New Jersey firm to acquire Herald

Staff and wire reports

The Big Spring Herald will have a new owner, Garden State Newspapers Inc., when a transaction with Harte-Hanks Communications becomes final next month.

As part of a series of trades and business deals, Garden State will receive from Harte-Hanks its Texas dailies in Big Spring, Del Rio, Huntsville and Marshall as well as dailies in Hamilton, Ohio; Yakima, Wash.; and Ypsilanti, Mich., and a direct mail company in Salt Lake City.

The Herald has been a part of Harte-Hanks Communications since March 15, 1929.

Garden State Newspapers, an affiliate of MediaNews Group, is owned by Richard B. Scudder of Navesink, N.J.; William Dean Singleton of Woodbury, N.J.; and Media General Inc., of Richmond, Va. The group is headquartered in Woodbury, N.J.

The acquisition of the seven

Harte-Hanks dailies brings to 20 the number of dailies owned by the group in New Jersey, Ohio, Michigan, California, Texas and Washington.

Harte-Hanks plans to sell those newspapers for an undisclosed amount of cash, which will be used by the company for "general corporate purposes," a statement from Harte-Hanks said. The statement also said the transactions are expected to close in April.

"We are elated to add these fine newspapers in excellent markets to our growing group of newspapers," said Singleton. He added that the publishers have agreed to continue after the group has become a part of Garden State and that no personnel changes are planned.

Herald Publisher Tom Watson said today he has met with both Singleton and Scudder and is "impressed with them and their ideas," he said. "They are experienced and dedicated news peo-

Brush fires keep firemen on toes

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

Brush fires have been keeping the Big Spring Fire Department rolling in recent weeks, said Fire Chief Carl Dorton.

He estimated his people have fought more than two dozen such fires in the last two weeks.

Dorton said no cause has been determined for many of the blazes, but said he suspects kids playing with matches were culprits in a number of cases.

"Kids are naturally curious and they're going to play with fire," he said. He suggested parents try to keep matches away from their children.

Some pesky grass fires have burned along right of ways, Dorton said. And it's likely a few of those were started by people flipping burning cigarettes from cars, he said.

Not only must the department cope with the human factors spurring these fires, but it's also putting up with Mother Nature's fickle ways.

Undoubtedly the desert-like dryness in the area is just one more headache for the department. The last precipitation the area has seen was 0.01 of an inch in the form of snow Feb. 9, according to the U.S. Agricultural Research Service.

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

The experiment was to attach a camera to two 8-foot, helium-filled balloons and float them up into the sky to take pictures from that perspective.

The result was John Webb's aerial photography exhibit that won first place in the middle school space sciences division and was chosen outstanding middle school project at the Permian Basin Regional Science Competition last weekend. Webb also won two Air Force awards for science and engineering and space sciences.

Webb has been entering projects into the fair for seven years, he said. He has won four first place titles during that time.

"I like to design things. I come up with 50 or 60 ideas before the science fair (each year)," he said.

This year, he got his idea when he saw weather balloons advertised in a scientific equipment catalog. He had wanted to "do something with photography" for the science fair, he said. First, he thought he'd use model rockets to lift the camera into the sky, but too many technical problems arose.

The idea included attaching a remote control to a 35mm camera to enable him to take pictures from the ground. He attached two guy wires, which are thick cables usually connected to oil derricks, to steer the balloons.

The next step was to look for a "launch window," a day with ideal weather for launching, Webb said. This has to be forecast in advance, he said, and it doesn't always work out. The first launch was aborted when it rained.

Webb said he used mathematics to figure out how much helium to put into the balloons to make them lift the camera and guy wires.

Once the balloons were in the air, other problems arose. The balloons were lifted and Webb had taken about half the photographs he wanted, when one of the balloons broke, he said.

He attached the camera to the remaining balloon, but it wouldn't lift high enough. Then the wind blew it up into some tall trees.

The balloon "kept getting caught in the air currents," he said. "The wire got tangled in the trees." But he had taken all the pictures he needed by this time and called the experiment a success.

Some of Webb's other winning projects have been on

Teacher won't quit job over drug arrest

Big Spring High School teacher and coach Charles "Chas" Briscoe, arrested Feb. 26 on a charge of delivering a felony amount of marijuana, will not resign from the school district, said his Lubbock attorney, Alex P. LeFeuvre.

Briscoe's case has created widespread interest throughout West Texas because of his status as school teacher.

LeFeuvre said in a letter to school Superintendent Lynn Hise that Briscoe "has been wrongfully and maliciously accused of a criminal act for which he is neither legally nor morally responsible."

LeFeuvre said that for Briscoe to resign "would be an uncharacteristic indication of weakness and almost an admission of wrongdoing on his part."

Hise said this morning that he had a conference with Briscoe after he was released on $10,000 bond to discuss the situation, but said the teacher was never asked to resign.

Hise suspended Briscoe with pay Feb. 27 "on the basis of legal advice," he said.

Briscoe has been advised "to remain cautiously silent" about the facts surrounding his case, LeFeuvre said. "The less said, the less can be twisted, misquoted or misinterpreted, however innocently or otherwise," the lawyer said.

Briscoe's arrest was one of more than 25 resulting from a nine-month narcotics investigation by local police and federal Drug Enforcement Agency officers.

Another man charged in narcotics sweep was freed from Abilene jail Tuesday on $10,000 bond.

Law officials focus on drug problem

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Texas has become one of the main entry points for imported illegal drugs since the crackdown in Florida and California, said Big Spring police Lt. Jerry Edwards.

As part of the fight against drugs, law enforcement officials from Big Spring and other area communities participated in a drugs seminar in Big Spring Monday.

Topics covered at the seminar included pharmacy abuse, drug trafficking in West Texas, cooperative efforts between state and local agencies, clandestine laboratories, drug identification, investigation, money laundering, asset seizure and case initiation and conspiracy.

The seminar was co-sponsored by The Chemical People and the Texas War on Drugs Committee, a group appointed by the governor.

The two groups goals are to reduce drug abuse in Texas by educating and raising the public's awareness on drug abuse.

Edwards said most drugs are entering the country through South America, but clandestine laboratories where drugs are manufactured are also a major problem in the state.

"Texas has more clandestine labs than any other state, probably because we're spread out. It's hard for law enforcement agents to watch them because there's so much area," he said. "Texas has a lot of places to hide."

Since Rick Turner became police chief about 3 1/2 years ago, the police department has been involved in a continuing battle against drugs, Edwards said.

"We have had four major drug investigations with multiple arrests and indictments," he said, including the present drug investigation in which more than 25 people have been arrested on charges of dealing narcotics.

Undercover narcotics investigator Kimberly Phillips, the person behind most of the arrests this year, told the Herald last week she estimates there are five to 10 drug kingpins operating in Big Spring who distribute marijuana, cocaine, amphetamines, LSD and heroin.

Fire causes $60,000 damage

The fire department estimates that $60,000 damage was done to the home of Rannels Junior High School teacher Keith Stone by a fire Wednesday morning.

The top half of the two-story, wood-frame house was destroyed and the downstairs sustained extensive smoke and water damage.

Fire Chief Carl Dorton said this morning, Dorton said the house is not inhabitable at this time.

The cause of the blaze that 23 men battled for several hours, has yet to be pinpointed, Dorton said. However, he said the department suspects an electrical short in a northeast bedroom.

ple who genuinely want to publish quality newspapers.

"I have agreed to remain with the Herald as publisher and I am convinced that working with Garden State Newspapers we will continue to improve the Herald and to promote the best interests of Big Spring."

Bob Marbut, president and chief executive officer of Harte-Hanks, said the transactions give Harte-Hanks "the opportunity to be in areas with faster growth potential than we have experienced in the markets we are leaving, and the opportunity to concentrate our resources in fewer, bigger market areas."

The news of the trading follows a move by Harte-Hanks last month to cut payroll expenses by 5 percent.

As part of the transaction, Harte-Hanks will add 19 newspapers, including dailies in Dedham and Waltham in Massachusetts and Lewisville and Plano in Texas.

Most of the newspapers are in suburban communities near Boston and Dallas. The Dallas-area newspapers currently are owned by Taylor Communications Inc.

2 car dealers burglarized

Two used car dealers on the west side of town reported break-ins Wednesday morning.

Clay Harris of Highway Auto Sales, 1001 W. Fourth St., told police Wednesday morning that someone stole a pistol and $30 in cash after causing $150 damage to a window at the business between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 8:15 a.m. Wednesday. Also, damage estimated at $30 was done to a truck window.

Fernando Saucedo, a salesman at Carrol Coates Auto Sales, 1101 W. Fourth St., told police Wednesday morning that someone caused an undetermined amount of damage to a window at the business between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 6:45 a.m. Wednesday. Nothing was reported stolen, according to the complaint.

• Vernon Tyler, an attendant at Thurman Fina Service Station, 1604 Marcey Drive, told police Wednesday morning that someone broke into the business through a window and stole $9 in cash and items valued at $8. The theft occurred between 6 p.m. Tuesday and 6:25 a.m. Wednesday.

• Allyson Chavez, a waitress at Western Sizzlin Steak House, 309 Benton St., told police four people she knows ordered meals valued at $38.56 Wednesday night and then left the business without paying for the food.

• Howard V. Crocker Jr., 57, of 1740 Purdue St. was arrested on E. Farm Road 700 Wednesday night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

• Gary Joe Flores, 19, of 3800 Calvin St. was arrested early this morning at his residence on suspicion of assault and resisting arrest.

C-City wrestling with budget

COLORADO CITY — The City Council is experiencing difficulties in planning for next year's budget because of the economy, City Manager Brenda Tarter said at a budget workshop Tuesday night.

"This year has been worse than many other years I have experienced because of the economy we're having here in all of West Texas," Tarter said. She said various committees have been working on the budget for about four months.

The trouble has been "trying to entwine the committees and come out with the winning answer," Tarter said.

The city faces large expenses including the $1 million landfill and matching a $17,000 airport grant, Tarter said.

The general fund has $1,458,000, and $60,000 is in the water and sewer fund, she said. Expenditures in each account are under by about $1,000, she said.

Salary increases "are almost impossible," but she stressed the city wants to increase some employees' incomes. "You can only do so much with what you have on hand," she said.

Fires

Total precipitation for the year is 0.3 inches, significantly less than the normal of 1.4 inches.

The dry conditions and high spring winds fuel the fires that are "generally started by trash in the brush," Dorton explained.

Dorton said the number of grass fires and spring maintenance makes this the busiest time of year for the department.

Early spring and late fall are notorious for grass fires, he said. "Why on earth we don't have more in the winter, I don't know."

dinosaurs, tree ring growth and entomology, the study of insects. One year he made a hovercraft, he said.

"The entomology project was the hardest but the most fun because it deals with bugs," he said. "I made paperweights of every bug I could find and I raised some weavils."

Some research topics he covered were what colors insects prefer and "how ants travel if they don't have strong eyes," he said. Ants leave a kind of trail of odor to follow, which humans can't smell, he explained. He also found out "beetles walk zigzag" and a mig beats its wings 200 times per second.

"That was basically the idea — little things like that no one thinks of," he said. He also took a survey of what kinds of bugs people in other parts of the nation have in their lights.

"We had our grandparents send us through the mail all the dead bugs from their lights," he said.

Webb's sister, Christy Webb, shares his interest in science. She and Sheryl Johnson of Marcy Elementary School won second place in the life science division for fifth grade.

Her project this year was on the Doppler effect, which has to do with sound appearing to change pitch when it moves past the listener. The girls used weather balloons to lift a tape recorder and recorded sound from the air and again on the ground.

Last year was Christy's first time to enter the science fair, her brother said.

John said he already is thinking about next year's project. "I think I'll do something towards the way of electronics," he said.

Other local winners at the science fair were Adam Bacon of Kentwood Elementary School, who won first place for fifth graders in the life science division; and Jessica Smichnick and Amber Bowman of Marcy Elementary School, who won third place in the fifth grade life science division. Laura Ainsworth of Big Spring High School won the Air Force Award in Microbiology and the American Society of Microbiology Outstanding Award.

Men get credit for jail time

Two Big Spring men were credited in Howard County Court Wednesday for previous jail time served after they pleaded guilty to charges filed against them.

• Rory Jay Lawson, 22, of 606 San Jacinto was credited for jail time served in Baton Rouge, La. He had received two 30-day jail sentences from County Judge Milton Kirby after he pleaded guilty to a second offense of driving while intoxicated last August.

As a result of his arrest for the offense, he violated the terms of his probation from the prior DWI conviction and was sentenced to jail for 30 days. Kirby ordered the jail sentences to be served concurrently before crediting Lawson's prior stretch in Louisiana.

In addition to the jail sentence, Kirby fined Lawson $300, $131 court costs and suspended his driver's license for six months.

Lawson entered a guilty plea in 118th District Court moments before he appeared in county court.

He was placed on four years probation by District Judge James Gregg for unlawfully carrying a weapon at The Backdoor Lounge on Aug. 2.

• Tommie Leo Freeman, 31, of 1425 Hilltop was fined $100 and ordered to pay $96 court costs after he pleaded guilty to possessing a controlled substance. He was credited for eight days he served in the county jail.

Countersuit filed

LOS ANGELES — Rock Hudson's estate has filed a $2.07 million countersuit against the late actor's lover, contending the man blackmailed Hudson, had sex for money while Hudson was away and stole $60,000 worth of the actor's possessions, according to court records.

The suit filed by Wallace Sheft, the estate's executor, names Marc Christian, who filed a $14 million suit after Hudson's death, contending the actor might have given him AIDS.

Nader picks insurance

AUSTIN — The "safety rights" of American citizens are being threatened by an insurance industry that is stampeding businesses into demanding laws that make it more difficult to win personal injury lawsuits, consumer advocate Ralph Nader says.

The rights to life and limb, protected under tort law, are among the things that make the United States different from other nations, Nader said.

Gas line caused blast

FORTWORTH — Demolition workers accidentally severed a natural gas line, triggering an explosion and fire that injured 22 people and destroyed $1.5 million worth of new cars, officials said.

"It seemed like a volcano or something," said James Taylor, a seventh-grader who was on a bus passing the site when the explosion happened Wednesday. "I was real scared."

He and 21 other people were treated at hospitals and released.

Court rules on estate

AUSTIN — The Texas Supreme Court has ruled that Ugo and Enrico diPortinova, who each gets $15 million a year from the estate of their wealthy grandfather, are not entitled to any more.

The brothers are the grandsons of the late Hugh Roy Cullen, a Houston oilman who amassed a fortune before he died in 1957. The diPortinovas said in their lawsuit that relatives cheated them out of valuable stock in the Quintana Petroleum Corp., a Houston-based holding company set up by Cullen to oversee about 40 oil and gas firms.

New tax plan proposed

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee is unveiling a far-reaching plan for overhauling the federal income tax — a proposal that would be paid for in part by regular increases in taxes on gasoline, cigarettes and alcoholic beverages.

The proposal by Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., which was still undergoing revision late Wednesday, would reduce the income taxes of most Americans and raise the burden on corporations.

Second wave of storms sweep South

By The Associated Press
A wave of violent thunderstorms swept through the Deep South today, and cleanup continued after three days of deadly storms that spawned more than 55 tornadoes from the Gulf Coast to the Great Lakes.

Tornadoes and gale-force winds raked the South on Wednesday, killing two people in Alabama, injuring dozens and flipping mobile homes, trucks and cars. Five twisters were sighted in Alabama and eight in Mississippi, Bill Barlow of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., said today.

Other storm-related injuries and damage Wednesday were reported in Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee.

At least eight people have died in tornadoes and high winds since the first wave of storms rolled across the Plains on Monday, injuring more than 100 people in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana, and doing nearly $30 million damage.

Barlow estimated there had been 57 tornadoes through Wednesday night.

"It looks like the area today will be parts of the Southeast," he said in a telephone interview. "It's not really that early for the Gulf Coast. It's their peak season now, March and April."

Heavy and severe storms spun out today across parts of the Southeast from a storm system centered over Missouri, the National Weather Service said. The worst storms were in northwestern Georgia and in southern Alabama, where high winds blew down a barn and damaged a house near Pine Level, the agency said.

Two people died Wednesday when a twister struck near rural Carrollton, Ala., knocking a chimney onto them, Pickens County officials said.

"It hit several homes. We have houses blown down on people. We have a row of mobile homes that was blown over," said Virginia Kennedy, a sheriff's spokeswoman.

Officials estimated that the twister damaged 30 houses, 10 extensively, but few people were injured, said sheriff's spokesman Tim Poole.

At least four people received minor injuries Wednesday night when their car was flipped "four or five times" by a tornado that ripped through Arab, Ala., 35 miles south of Huntsville, said police Lt. Rudy Wooten.

"We had a total of six trailers destroyed and 10 more damaged," Wooten said. "We've got three houses destroyed and two more damaged."

About five tornadoes hit around Meridian, Miss., on Wednesday afternoon, injuring at least five people, leaving more than 30 families homeless and knocking out power to 2,000 utility customers for several hours.

A tornado skipped through the small east Texas town of Pineland early Wednesday and destroyed three small businesses, took the roofs off two mobile homes and knocked out electricity, but no injuries were reported.

Baseball-sized hail smashed windows in Breckenridge, Texas, and hail piled up 2 inches deep on Interstate 55 north of Memphis, Tenn., the weather service said.

China revives cartoons

PEKING — Political cartoons are making a comeback in China and their targets mainly are official corruption and ineptitude.

"It's not only a revival, but a new development of the cartoon," said Ying Tao, editor of the satire and humor supplement of People's Daily, the Communist Party newspaper.

Ying, 61, who has been drawing cartoons since Communist rule began in 1949, said amateurs send more than 100 cartoons a day to the official newspaper, which pays contributors 30 yuan ($9.37) for an acceptable cartoon.

Macos cash unearthed

MANILA, Philippines — A government commission created to recover wealth allegedly plundered from the Philippines by Ferdinand E. Marcos has discovered a $800 million Swiss bank account held by the ousted ruler, a commission official said today.

MADRID, Spain — Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez said today that voters won a victory over isolationism and a success for the whole country by surprising pollsters and approving Spain's continued membership in NATO.

Party feuds in Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel — A populist faction of Israel's biggest right-wing party led by Ariel Sharon suddenly grabbed control of the party convention during a recess early today, causing fistfights to break out among confused and angry delegates.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched two cosmonauts into space today in the first manned space shot since the space shuttle Challenger exploded Jan. 28, killing all seven astronauts aboard.

streaked into a slightly overcast sky above the Baikonur Space Base in Kazakhstan, Soviet central Asia, carrying commander Leonid Kizim and engineer Vladimir Solovov. The cosmonauts hold the endurance record for time spent in space — 237 days.

The official news agency Tass said they are to link up with the Soviet space laboratory, the Mir (Peace), in two days. The Mir was launched without a crew Feb. 20 and is designed as a permanent space platform with docking facilities for six spacecraft.

Soviet television viewers could hear Kizim and Solovov reporting back to Earth 50 seconds after their craft blasted into the sky trailing orange flame.

In footage shown on Soviet television, Kizim and Solovov could be seen strapped in their seats, with Kizim reading what appeared to be sheets of instructions. A television announcer said the pictures came live from inside the craft as it headed for orbit.

Before the launch, Soviet television showed the cosmonauts undergoing final medical checkups and heading out to their craft.

Kizim, 44, a colonel in the air force, was shown saluting to an unidentified space official not shown on camera, and reporting that his crew was "ready to fulfill its tasks." The two men then boarded a bus and clambered into their rocket.

The Soviets announced Wednesday that Soviet television would carry the launch live on the nation's main evening news program. The launch also was televised in the United States.

Disclosure of the names of the cosmonauts and the planned launch time marked a break with the usual secrecy applied to Soviet space missions that do not include foreigners.

Only once in the history of the Soviet space program has there been live television coverage of a launch that involved a purely Soviet crew — the 1975 blastoff of a craft that later linked up with the U.S. Apollo spaceship.

Crime wave grips vending machines

In Concord, Calif., a customer became enraged at an automated teller and kept punching it because the machine refused to dispense $80 from the man's account.

The customer was arrested and charged with "malicious mischief." This is not an isolated incident. According to police reports, so many people are beating up on automated machines that it has become this nation's most serious crime problem.

Johnny Hawke, who runs a home for battered machines, told me more than 50 percent of all aggravated assaults are committed against coin machines.

Upright law-abiding citizens now think nothing of kicking a Coke machine in the groin, or shoving an index finger down the throat of a coin return slot. Priests have been known to punch out the glass panel of a cigarette machine over a two-bit misunderstanding. Vending machine hospitals are filled with broken candy bar racks and fractured Kleenex dispensers, while the perpetrators of these dastardly crimes are walking around scot-free.

I tried to defend the man in the street. "It's true that people shouldn't assault coin-operated machines. But you have to blame some of the violence on the public's frustration when they don't get the product they paid for."

"What kind of country would this be if everyone kicked a vending machine that didn't work?" he cried.

"What do you suggest people do?"

"If you can't get your money back write a letter to the company," he replied.

"I tried that once," I protested. "I couldn't spring a Sprite out of the machine and it wouldn't give me my money back. So I wrote a letter on the spot to the soft drink people. Then I went to buy a stamp and damned if that machine didn't work either. So I drove a stake right through the heart of the word 'Sprite.'"

"Why did you stab the Sprite sign?"
"So there wouldn't be any witnesses to what I did to the stamp machine."

Hawke said the assaults are getting so serious that many machines are refusing to work unless they have guards. This defeats the whole idea of mechanical devices replacing people.

"Why so many attacks on automated tellers?"

He told me, "The automated teller muggings are acts of pure spite. People used to rob banks, now they would prefer to beat up their teller machines. Things have gotten so bad that people kick an ATM whether it makes a mistake or not."

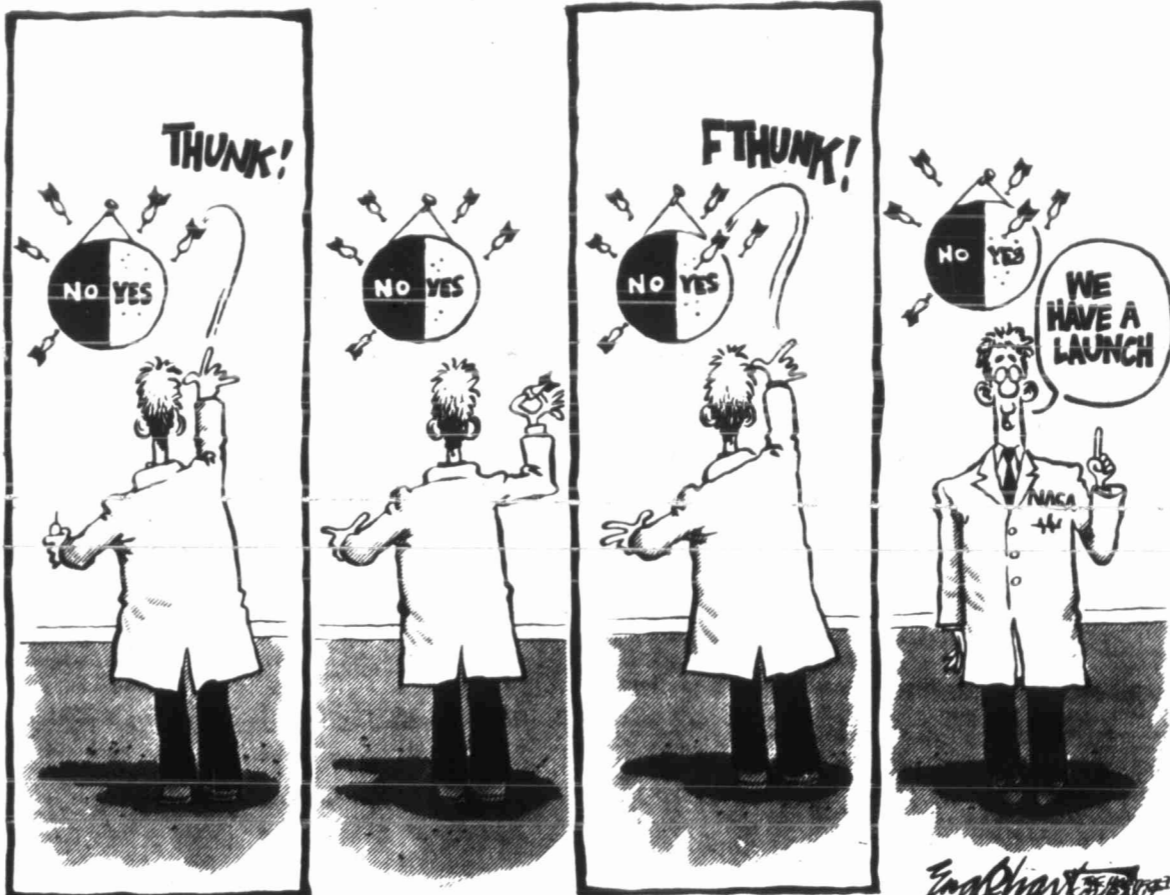

"How do you stop the violence?"
"We want tougher criminal penalties for any premeditated attack on an automated teller and we are insisting that anyone who hits the bulletproof glass with an umbrella be charged with assault with a deadly weapon."
"Will you get them?"

"People are starting to wake up to the vending machine crime wave in this country. They are furious at the bleeding heart judges who will not hand out tough sentences to abusers. Just the other day a man was accused of putting a bullet through a Laundromat machine because it missed the rinse cycle. He was sentenced to 20 years for involuntary manslaughter. The man will be out in 14 years to shoot another washer. When he does we will ask, 'Why did it happen again?'"

"Do you find people beat up machines more in the daytime or at night?" I asked Hawke.

"It doesn't seem to matter. They beat the machines up in the daytime to get their money back. And they beat them up at night to hear them scream."

Fire safety compromised at nuclear power plants

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON—Several nuclear power plants in the United States probably could not be shut down in case of a bad fire, because their control rooms are not adequately protected, federal safety inspectors have reported. This means, in effect, that a nuclear "bomb" could go off in somebody's back yard in case of a serious fire.

The danger of fire at nuclear plants is no Nervous Nelly's nightmare. In 1975, a fire at the Browns Ferry nuclear power facility in Alabama almost caused a meltdown. And, since then, more than 100 potentially disastrous fires have occurred at other nuclear plants.

"Many of these fires affected systems and components important to safety," one Nuclear Regulatory Commission inspector wrote in a report we've seen. The "safety" he referred to was the elaborate system of precautions that make sure nuclear power plants will not spew deadly radiation into the atmosphere. Based on the record of fires so far, the inspector concluded that "the threat of fire damage to systems and components important to safety is significant."

Yet the safeguards against fire are neither uniform nor adequate in the nation's nuclear plants; in a few, fire precautions are practically nonexistent, according to sources at the NRC and agency documents obtained by our associate Corky Johnson.

For example, a recent, unpublicized fire at the Dresden nuclear plant in Illinois burned without being detected for four hours after toxic polyurethane foam was ignited. Fortunately, the plant was not in operation at the time, but nuclear agency sources said the fire could have been catastrophic if the reactors had been running.

Widespread fire safety violations have plagued the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for years. A 1984 memo from NRC reactor safety director Richard Spessard noted at least 738 "fire protection deficiencies" in the previous several years, in three of four regions across the country.

Most appalling of all the "deficiencies" was the failure of several plant operators to provide adequate protection against fire in the control room. Spessard's memo pointed out that this meant "the plant could not be brought to and maintained in a safe shutdown condition."

The oversights in many cases were basic. "Licenseses failed to properly install, test and maintain fire suppression systems in accordance with established codes," one NRC summary stated. Several dozen agency reports indicated that certain plants hadn't even bothered to coordinate with local fire departments.

In Michigan, federal inspectors found so many fire safety violations at the D.C. Cook nuclear plant that they found it pointless to proceed. A grand jury is investigating the matter.

In Massachusetts, Robert Ferguson, a former fire protection section chief for the NRC, filed an objection to the granting of an exemption to the Haddam Neck nuclear plant, which wanted to be excused from installing a separate control facility in case the main control room was crippled.

Despite the safety expert's objection, the exemption request was granted by the NRC. Haddam Neck has the dubious distinction of being the only nuclear plant in the country without a backup control room to shut down the reactors in case of emergency.

Footnote: Richard Volmer, the NRC's deputy director, of inspection and enforcement, insists the nation's nuclear power plants are safe. He said he has found the plants' fire protection "far above" that of other industries.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY—What does it cost to fly a dethroned dictator into exile? Well, Baby Doc Duvalier and his retinue were relatively cheap. As near as our Air Force and State Department experts could estimate, it cost $47,410 to fly Duvalier and his family from Haiti to France in a single C-141 jet. Ferdinand Marcos and his extended family required a C-141 and a smaller jet over a longer stretch of territory. Estimated cost: $151,180, not including the expense of the four helicopters that plucked him from his palace for the 50-mile trip to Clark Air Force Base. All things considered, we'd say both trips were dirt cheap.

SILENT SUPREMES—After a quarter century of scholarly listening pleasure, tapes of lawyers' oral arguments before the Supreme Court (including, of course, the justices' questions) were abruptly denied in 1979 to the National Archives, which had made the recordings available to the public. Archives sources say Chief Justice Warren Burger was apparently outraged by the commercial use made of one tape and refused to send over any more.

MINI-EDITORIAL—We're not sure how that hoary communist tradition of hours-long speechifying got started; we suspect it goes back to the chaotic days of the revolution, when a speaker was afraid to relinquish the podium for fear the crowd would follow the next demagogue. At any rate, the spectacle of Mikhail Gorbachev haranguing the Moscow party congress for 5½ hours (by no means a rhetorical record) made us happier than ever with our own political system.

Billy Graham

God's love offers constant growth

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is there really such a thing as love? All my life I have been searching for it, but every time I only end up with a broken heart. I am becoming very disillusioned and cynical about it. —Y.K.

DEAR Y.K.: Yes, there certainly is such a thing as true love — although it is quite different from what is usually portrayed in movies or popular songs. Love, in our culture, is often seen only as an emotional feeling or attachment toward another person, or it may be little more than physical attraction. In the minds of many, it also has a selfish element to it. These people go into marriage only because of what they hope to get out of it from the other person.

But there is another kind of love — the kind of love that God has. It is a self-giving love, a love that includes a commitment toward another person that will not be shaken by the years or by a change in circumstances. It is a love that can deepen and grow across the years because it is constantly asking, "What can I do to help you and make you happier?"

I invite you, therefore, to discover God's love. You see, God loves you — and the proof is that He was willing to come down in the person of His Son, Jesus Christ, and die in your place as a sacrifice for your sins. The Bible says, "This is how we know what love is: Jesus Christ laid down his life for us" (1 John 3:16). Thank God for His love for you, and commit your life to Christ today.

Then ask God to help you discover more of what it means to love others. Ask Him to keep you from relationships that are not right and to guide you to ones that will honor Him. God has a wonderful future for you. Begin to discover it today by turning your life over to Christ. "We love because he first loved us" (1 John 4:19).

Mistakes are back to haunt

By SPENCER SANDOW

It's no secret that the government can no longer afford to pay all its bills, and that cutbacks are being made. One of the first areas to feel cutbacks is services to the poor, and this time is no exception.

As of Feb. 10, the federal government will no longer provide the 75 percent matching funds to the Texas Department of Health for social workers, according to the Texas Association of Homes for the Aging.

This means state social workers in the Dallas area, for example, will be cut from some 100 to 120 workers down to seven, to serve 19 counties, said a Dallas social worker who works for a privately owned nursing home.

The elderly, a population growing rapidly because of the aging baby boomers and prolonged life, will be among the hardest hit by the changes.

Studies show 80 percent of the people in nursing homes in Texas are funded by Medicaid. Medicaid is money that pays for the medical care of people who are very poor.

One thing the workers in question did was evaluate people applying for Medicaid. Now the service will no longer be available and fewer people will be able to get Medicaid, the social worker said.

"The private sector will have to come through in some way or the needs won't be met," the social worker said.

But others say the private sector can't afford it either. It appears that no one is able to support such a large, non-productive group of people who have such expensive needs, like large medical care bills.

That's a sad thought, especially in thinking of one's own grandparents. No one wants the elderly to be poor. But sad facts must still be faced.

Many of those who are now old are those who set up government policies leading to the overwhelming deficit and supported candidates that would give them monetary security. That was a mistake.

They might not have known they were mortgaging their grandchildren's futures, but the effect was the same. Now the grandchildren — the present generation of adults — are tired of paying through the nose for something that doesn't benefit them.

Now the elderly are having to pay for their own mistakes.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Concho water snake hearing set for April

BALLINGER — The impact of the Stacy reservoir project on the Concho water snake as an endangered species will be the topic of a public hearing April 3.

The hearing was set by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for 7 p.m. at the Runnels County district courtroom in Ballinger.

The hearing is part of the Colorado River Municipal Water District's efforts to get an environmental permit from the U.S. Corps of Engineers, according to a district news release. The Stacy project cannot begin without the permit.

Representatives from the Albuquerque, N.M., office of the wildlife service will conduct the hearing.

Anyone may appear and make statements concerning the claim that the snake and its critical habitat are threatened by the Stacy project, the release said.

Congressman Charles Stenholm plans to appear at the meeting, said O.H. Ivie, general manager of the water district.

Another threatened species, the Texas poppy mallow plant, has "dropped out of the picture," according to the release. The corps has determined that none of the fine alluvial soils essential to the plant are in the Permian Basin and that the plant's two habitat areas are upstream well above the maximum flood level for the reservoir, the release said.

Water deliveries up

Water deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District increased substantially in February over the same month last year, according to a district news release.

The total of 1,167,061,908 gallons was up by 11.68 percent, or 122,113,185 gallons.

Of the total, 1,018,398,300 gallons were in municipal deliveries, up 11.07 percent. Oil company deliveries amounted to 148,663,500 gallons, up 16.13 percent.

March deliveries rose 21 percent for municipalities. The March total is expected to outdistance the February total.

In February, Big Spring used 174,083,000 gallons, down 6.35 percent although its municipal demand was up 5 percent. Midland used 282,470,000 gallons, up 4.65 percent; Odessa used 376,538,000 gallons, up 6.67 percent; Snyder used 67,298,000 gallons, up 6.67 percent; Stanton used 7,318,800 gallons, up 5.38 percent; San Angelo used 110,619,000 gallons, an increase of 71,865,000 gallons over February 1985.

Japanese deny dumping computer chips

TOKYO (AP) — Four Japanese semiconductor makers today denied the U.S. Commerce Department's allegation that they were selling computer memory chips in the United States at below-production costs.

Fujitsu Ltd., Hitachi Ltd., Toshiba Corp. and NEC Corp. said they believe their semiconductors are not being sold at unfair prices on the U.S. market. The companies commented in separate statements reacting to the Commerce Department's preliminary ruling Tuesday concerning the computer chips.

The chips are a major component in computers and telecommunications equipment. They can be programmed, erased and reprogrammed. U.S. imports totaled $168.9 million in 1984, the Commerce Department said.

The Commerce Department said a final ruling was expected by May 27. A final finding that Japanese manufacturers were flooding U.S. markets with low-cost chips could lead to high tariffs on future sales of Japanese semiconductors in the United States.

U.S. semiconductor makers filed the complaint with the Commerce Department last September, claiming the Japanese companies were selling the chips at below-production costs to force U.S. companies out of the market.

Taro Okabe, general manager of Fujitsu's international sales support division, said the preliminary ruling was "highly regrettable."

He said his company "cannot but suspect that the ruling was the result of an irrational method of calculation" in investigating pricing of Fujitsu products made in the United States.

The Commerce Department ruling resulted from one of three U.S. investigations into allegations of unfair trading practices by Japanese semiconductor makers.

Dear Abby

Sex education is too advanced for youngster

DEAR ABBY: I am truly frightened that someone might report my daughter and her husband to the authorities, but I cannot get them to listen to reason.

Somewhere they got the idea that if they exposed their daughter to nudity in the home, she would not have any sexual hang-ups when she got older. So my daughter and her husband have let their baby shower with them since she was tiny. "Amy" is 2½ and she's aware that her father's body is different from hers and her mother's. This bothered my son-in-law at first, but my daughter said he should let Amy look at (and even touch) him, so nudity would be no big deal.

This doesn't seem right to me. My daughter insists it's OK because their motives aren't bad. I say if Amy tells someone outside the family what is going on, the police will probably be called.

My daughter is college-educated and thinks she knows everything. Please answer in the paper, as my husband says I should stay out of it, so I don't want to get mail at home about this. Thank you.

WORRIED GRANDMA
DEAR WORRIED: Children raised in societies where nudity is an accepted part of their culture may have fewer hang-ups about sex, but I think your daughter has carried that theory too far. A child's curiosity about the differences in male and female anatomy is natural. Questions should be answered verbally, but touching should not be permitted.

Children should be taught to allow no one to touch their private parts, and they should not be encouraged to touch the private parts of others.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see the letter in print from the lady whose husband had severe headaches caused by the heavily perfumed envelope their department store bill came in.

We mail carriers also get headaches from perfumed envelopes, only it's 100 times worse because we have to carry a whole bagful. Some stores enclose samples of a new perfume with every bill. Then there are seed companies who sell rose plants and mail out samples. The smell of those samples really does overpower me. Do the people who send them realize this? Or don't they care? Some people on my route say, "Please do not deliver them to the house; throw them in the trash!"

One solution would be to put a sample of the fragrance in a sealed foil packet. The recipients could then decide if they want to open it or not.

You would do the mail carriers a big favor if you printed this.

OKLAHOMA MAIL CARRIER
DEAR MAIL CARRIER: It's the least I can do for the mail carriers. They do so much for me.

Dr. Donohue

Walking can ease leg pain

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm a 68-year-old woman with a condition officially listed as intermittent claudication, which I understand refers to bad leg circulation. The calf pain begins when I walk a certain distance. I have to rest until the hurting subsides, which it always does. My doctor said he has the same thing and that he just walks right through the pain and that this actually helps the situation. I don't know about that. Have you any experience with the method of "walking through the pain." It sounds dangerous to me. Please comment. — A.G.

Exercise can help overcome intermittent claudication, which, as you say, is poor leg circulation. The leg vessels are a bit closed and extra muscle use demands more blood than is available there. Pain results.

If your doctor approves, which he seems to have, the exercise idea is simple to pursue. Walk a few times a week and try to resist the urge to stop at the first sign of discomfort. Stop when the pain becomes very noticeable. But most importantly, stop on the first sign of chest pain. That's always a danger signal.

The effect of the leg exercise is to encourage non-blocked vessels in the pain area to dilate to better serve the leg. Oh yes, if you are a smoker, stopping that will help this problem. There's a fuller discussion of this in the booklet "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Food Pains," which I'm sending along. Other readers may obtain a copy by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 20 years old. The problem is that I have never had a monthly period. I've been told this is because I am overweight. Can that have anything to do with it? Is it true that if you don't have a monthly period you will go crazy? Several people have said this. I am wondering what to do. — B.K.

We can get one problem out of the way immediately. The absence of your menstrual periods will not make you go crazy.

Have you seen a doctor yet about your amenorrhea? It's possible for obesity to be the cause of absence of menstruation, but one would not assume that in a woman who has "never" had a period. That is primary amenorrhea, and a thorough exam is in order. For example, there may be an anatomical quirk in how the genital tract formed, and correction of it can bring about normal periods.

Now if you did at one time have periods and they've stopped, that's secondary amenorrhea. Causes are different. For example, ovaries that once produced sufficient hormones may now be deficient, causing loss of menstruation. You need a functioning pituitary gland, a normal pair of ovaries, a normal uterus, a normal genital passageway, and proper body weight to maintain normal monthly cycles.

You must seek out a gynecologist and begin investigating amenorrhea, from whatever cause. I won't feel easy unless I hear that you've taken this step.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Should parents keep track of cholesterol in their youngsters? Is it wise to have it checked? — Mrs. S.C.

This is an idea that is catching on, for a high blood cholesterol level is just as dangerous in a youngster as it is for an adult.

Acceptable cholesterol levels vary, rising somewhat with years. Generally, a level above 190 in a child, according to one reference, should be an indicator of a future cholesterol problem. For a person 25-46, the acceptable level is 200, and for an older person it should be no higher than 220 (milligrams per decaliter of blood).

Sure, I think it would be a good idea if we started taking a closer look at children's cholesterol status, especially in those who have a family history of such problems. A high level might indicate a pattern of poor dietary habits, which if altered early can save future medical problems.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Cash award for quilts

Quilt makers, take note. The Howard County Sesquicentennial Committee plans to post a cash award for the winning entry in a special category among quilts at the 1986 Howard County Fair.

To qualify for the competition, quilts in this division must incorporate emblems of some of the landmarks in the county's history over the past 150 years.

Janell Davis, of the committee, said the announcement of this segment of the county's celebration of Texas Sesquicentennial is being made early so that artisans can begin planning their designs in ample time. She noted that Captain Marcy's discovery of the big spring, taming of prairie into cotton farms and cattle ranches, the coming of the railroad, discovery of oil and the birth of a refinery are only a portion of the subject matter that could be featured in the quilts.

Steers ready for best in West

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

Big Spring High School track coach Randy Britton doesn't know what to expect from his teams when they compete in the West Texas Relays at Odessa's Ratliff Stadium this weekend.

The Steers and Lady Steers will be in some fast company and Britton says this week's turn of events has left him puzzled about his team's performance this weekend.

"This has been a really bad week," he said Wednesday at the Steers workout. "Monday we teachers had to take the TECAT and we couldn't have workouts. Tuesday was so windy that we didn't get in much of a workout, in fact the girls didn't workout at all. Today (Wednesday) is our only decent workout because Thursday we have to taper off because we have to run Friday. To tell the truth, I really don't know how we'll do."

But the eight-year Big Spring coach does have a few performers that are good bets to fare well in the 17-team AAAAA Division.

One is sophomore high jumper Brian Mayfield, who soared to a school record 6-8 last week at the Mustangs Relays in Andrews. "Six-ten is like whole other dimension to Brian. He just has to mentally get it in his head that he can do it," said Britton.

BRIAN MAYFIELD
... approaching 7-foot mark

PHILLIP MATTHEWS
... long jump threat

Senior sprinter-hurdler Dewayne Sherman is also a good bet to score points for the Steers. Sherman, who anchors the 400 and 1600 meter relays, will run the 400 this week. Last week he turned in a 10.8 in the 100, good for third place. The week before he raced to a 22.79 in the 200 at the ABC Relays. "Dewayne is just getting into some kind of shape after coming from basketball. This week we'll work on his endurance."

Junior long jumper Phillip Matthews will also push for a top place in his event. Last week he leapt a career-best 21-10 to win the Mustangs Relays. "Phillip might have been the most impressive performer for me last week," Britton said. "He had four jumps over 21-feet and he's still jumping about six inches from the board."

The Steers will also have legitimate shots to score in the relays. Last week the Steers knocked almost a second off their 400 time to 43.2. Britton was disturbed over his team's time of 3:29.65 in the 1600 relay last week, four seconds slower than their time the previous week.

"We can't have our time go up and everybody else drop theirs. Our time better cannot go up again or we'll make some mass changes."

There will be one division in the girls division where the Lady Steers are entered with 16 other teams. Sprinter Pam Palmer, who has a personal best 12.74 in the 100 meters, is Britton's main hope along with weight person Amanda Solis.

Action gets underway Friday at 2:30 p.m. with field events and running prelims. Prelims in the distance events will be held at the Odessa High track. Action starts noon Saturday with field events. The 3200 meter finals begin at 12:30 p.m. and the 400 relay finals starts at 1:25 p.m.

The 1600 relay concludes things at 4:45 p.m.

San Jacinto runs past Midland

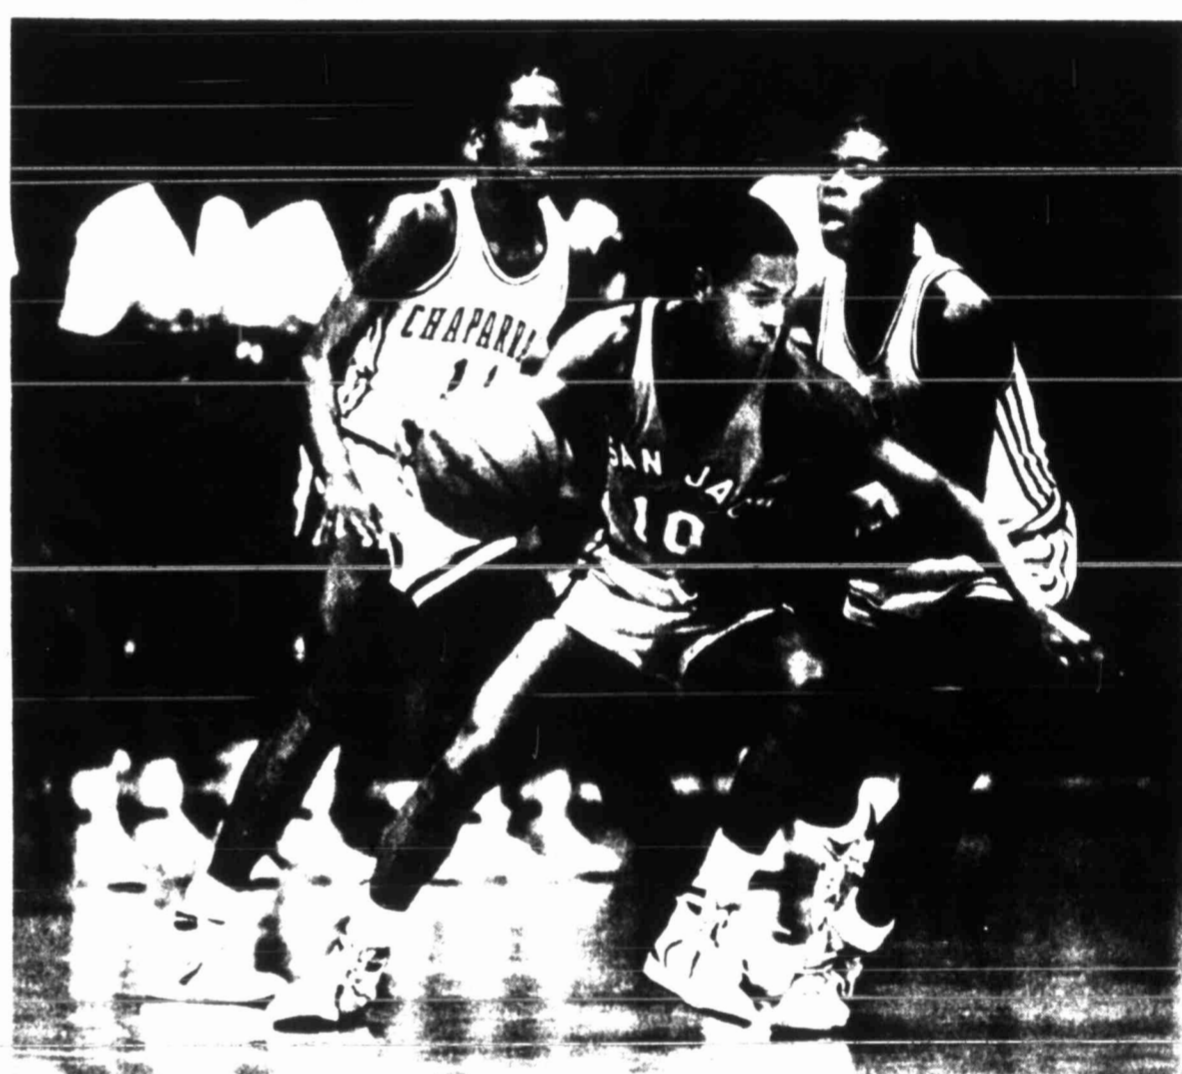

MIDLAND — Consistent rebounding and pinpoint shooting by posts Ledell Eackles and Tyrone Shaw of top-ranked San Jacinto produced a 107-92 victory over Midland College in the state junior college match Wednesday night in Fort Worth.

The win gave Ronnie Arrows' Ravens their third trip in the last four years to the National Junior College Basketball Tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas.

The contest pitted the Number 1 ranked Ravens, who raised their record to 33-0 on the season, and the Number 2 ranked Chaps, who finished their season at 33-1.

Shaw hit two free throws to give the Ravens a 29-28 lead they would never relinquish midway through the first half. San Jacinto pulled to 50-43 halftime advantage.

San Jacinto continued their scoring pressure, opening the second half by hitting their first seven shots to run the score to 72-58 with 13:58 left to play.

Midland Junior College guards Lincoln Minor (11) and Mookie Blaylock (right) defend against San Jacinto JC guard Boo Harvey (10) in the state junior college championship game Wednesday night in Fort Worth. The top ranked San Jacinto team went on to defeat the previously unbeaten Chaps 107-92.

Sub-regionals offer homecourt edge

By The Associated Press

Half of the 64-team field will be going home after the first round of the NCAA Basketball Tournament. Syracuse and LSU are already there.

Ninth-ranked Syracuse and unranked LSU will be playing on their home courts in the sub-regionals, which start today. Syracuse, the No. 2 seed in the East, meets Ivy League champion Brown on Friday night while LSU faces Purdue in the Southeast sub-regional tonight.

It's a case of deja vu for Purdue and Coach Gene Keady isn't thrilled about it.

"Two years ago we had to go to Memphis State," he said. "That's fine to do it once, but I think once every 10 years is enough to go and play on somebody's home court."

LSU's Dale Brown agrees, but his suggestion is out of the question — at least for the time being.

Says Brown: "Play it on a neutral court — Saturn."

Heavily favored Syracuse probably doesn't need any extra advantage against Brown but the Orangemen have it in their cavernous 32,000-seat Carrier Dome, where they were 16-1 this season, 85-17 over-all.

Syracuse Coach Jim Boheim says that any coach would rather play at home, but added that not all home-court advantages are equal.

"The smaller places are tougher (for visitors) to play in," he said. "I think our home court is good, but it's such a big place that it kind of diffuses the noise. I'd move back to Manley (Field House, Syracuse's old home court) in a minute."

The Orangemen had a 57-game winning streak at 9,000-seat Manley, which ended the year before they moved to the Carrier Dome.

Syracuse ran into the road blues last year when it beat DePaul 70-65 in the subregional before running into Georgia Tech, a 70-53 winner of their meeting in Atlanta.

Boheim said he didn't think it was fair for teams to play on their home courts, but said nothing could be done.

NCAA spokesman Dave Cawood said the association has studied the success of home teams in the tournament and concluded that "it doesn't make a heck of a lot of difference."

Home teams are 27-17 in NCAA play but Dayton and Notre Dame both lost at home last year in early regional games.

The tournament begins today with four quadruple-headers, followed by four more on Friday. Thursday's schedule:

East, at Greensboro, N.C., No. 1 Duke vs. Mississippi Valley State, Old Dominion vs. West Virginia, No. 15 Oklahoma vs. Northeastern and Virginia vs. DePaul.

Southeast, at Baton Rouge, La., No. 6 Georgia Tech vs. Marist, Virginia Tech vs. Villanova, No. 12 Memphis State vs. Ball State and Purdue vs. LSU.

Midwest, at Dayton, Ohio, Jacksonville vs. Temple, No. 2 Kansas vs. North Carolina A&T, No. 13 Georgetown vs. Texas Tech and No. 18 Michigan State vs. Washington.

West, at Ogden, Utah, No. 7 Louisville vs. Drexel, No. 14 Bradley vs. No. 20 Texas-El Paso, Alabama-Birmingham vs. Missouri and No. 8 North Carolina vs. Utah.

Friday's schedule:
East, at Syracuse, St. Joseph's vs. Richmond, No. 16 Indiana vs. Cleveland State, No. 17 Navy vs. Tulsa and No. 9 Syracuse vs. Brown.

Southeast, at Charlotte, N.C., No. 19 Illinois vs. Fairfield, Alabama vs. Xavier of Ohio, Western Kentucky vs. Nebraska and No. 3 Kentucky vs. Davidson.

Midwest, at Minneapolis, No. 5 Michigan vs. Akron, Iowa State vs. Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State vs. Iowa and No. 10 Notre Dame vs. Arkansas-Little Rock.

West, at Long Beach, Calif., Notheast Louisiana vs. No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas, Maryland vs.

Pepperdine, No. 4 St. John's vs. Montana State and Auburn vs. Arizona.

The Duke-Mississippi Valley game not only matches two schools but two different environments.

All but two of the MVSU players are natives of Mississippi and most grew up in the Delta. Several Duke players come from the nation's urban centers.

The Delta Devils represent a school battling extinction and dwindling expenditures while Duke cringes because a two-year drive to raise $250 million is not going as quickly as anticipated.

Pitt sprinter favored

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Lee McRae is only a sophomore at the University of Pittsburgh, but the young speedster says he's "not afraid of any sprinter in the world."

McRae can make that comment, because already this year, he has beaten the sprinters ranked 1-2 in the world for 1985 — Carl Lewis and Canada's Ben Johnson, respectively.

This weekend, in the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships at the Myriad, he will get a shot at No. 3 — Chidi Imoh of Nigeria and the University of Missouri, and another standout, Sam Graddy of the University of Tennessee and the 1984 Olympic silver medalist in the 100-meter dash, behind Lewis.

In the battle for the team championship, Arkansas is favored to capture a record-tying third straight men's title, with Texas, last year's runner-up to Florida State, the No. 1 choice to win the women's crown.

Since the NCAA men's indoor championships began in 1965, only one team — Texas-El Paso — has won three consecutive team titles. The Miners did it twice — from 1974-76 and 1980-82.

McRae is coming off two smashing victories — he won the 60-yard dash in the USA-Mobil Indoor Track and Field Championships Feb. 28 in 6.06 seconds, only one-hundredth of a second off the collegiate record set by Houston McTeer in 1978, and last Sunday, he won the ICAA 55-meter title in 6.13, a meet record.

In capturing the national championship two weeks ago, with the fastest time by an American this year, McRae handed Johnson his first defeat of the season in 10 races.

 Walter Davis was a perfect 10. The veteran NBA guard scored Phoenix's first 10 points in overtime and the Suns held on to nip the Milwaukee Bucks 127-126 Wednesday night.

After Davis scored the Suns' first 10 overtime points for a 122-115 lead with 1:53 remaining, the Bucks went on a 11-3 streak to pull ahead 126-125. Davis followed with his game-winning jumper. Davis scored 26 points after the intermission.

How to recognize a quack when you see one.

Quack medical products. They're everything from baldness remedies to cancer cures. All eventually prove to be a waste of money, many actually pose a serious threat to your health. How do you distinguish a quack medical product from the real thing? For a start—if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Quack medical products usually claim simple solutions, miracle cures, or amazing scientific breakthroughs. Many faint testimonials from satisfied users. To be sure whether a medical product is a quack, check with your doctor or pharmacist first. Because the next dead duck could be you.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time to consider all phases of your practical and financial interests and to make them operate more to your satisfaction; this will bring greater abundance and more financial efficiency.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A fine day for working on financial and other statements so that you can have more security in the days ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your reflection in the mirror and think of ways to improve your appearance. Be clever.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be more practical and you can clear up any problematical affairs wisely now. Tonight is fine for working out any differences you have.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Be more concerned with important matters and recreations and forget a small personal slight that means nothing.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Get right at the heart of outside affairs, and you can make them work like a charm for you. Get your facts straight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study every angle of some plan you have in mind if you want it to be a success before you put it in operation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A fine day to keep any promises you have made to others, be they of a personal or business nature.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more willing to cooperate with a partner and you get better results instead of arguing. Be careful of what you say and do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep rooted to responsibilities at hand and get much accomplished. Don't be tempted to go off on tangents.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan for recreation with congenials, but be sure to first count the cost well. Be more sure of yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have procrastinated at some duties at home and this is the day to get them handled efficiently.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can handle your shopping and correspondence work very nicely today if you plan your time wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have a great ability at whatever is of a practical and financial nature and would do very well in business. Be sure to add philosophy and psychology to the curriculum to offset the highly materialistic nature here and make for a well-rounded life.

Excessive dust on the magnetic heads, pinch roller & capstan causes tangling & wear. A good schedule is to clean the player every 30 hours of playing time.

What is the purpose and where is the scriptural authority for such assemblies as "Associations", and "Conferences" and such like with it's officers, messengers, and creeds? Are they authorized in the Bible? Most supporters of such use the text of Acts 15 for sufficient warrant to establish their authority, but upon proper study such cannot be the case, and it is evident that such institutions are strictly from human authority in opposition to Divine authority.
