How's that?

Tornados

Q. Should people unplug appliances during a tornado watch or warning?

A. It's not necessary to unplug appliances because of a tornado, said J.D. Bilbro of the U.S. Agricultural Research Service in Big Spring. However, they should be unplugged during storms with lightning, he said, because they could be damaged if lightning strikes a power line nearby. Cable television should also be disconnected during lightning storms, he said.

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

Murder suspect Felix Zamora testified this morning in 118th District Court that he didn't remember fatally shooting his estranged wife Nov. 16 at the Latin Quarters club

Zamora took the stand this morning as the trial entered its second day. The 37-year-old Knott man is accused of murdering Maria Isabel Zamora with a .38 caliber gun.

Zamora testified through the aid of a court-appointed translator that he didn't remember leaving the club after firing the shots. "I was drinking pretty hard and pretty fast," Zamora said. "I guess lost my head. Zamora told jurors he left the club after a scuffle with his wife on the dance floor and someone in the parking lot gave him a gun. He said he could not remember who gave him the gun nor if anyone told him what to do with it.

Zamora denied earlier testimony by Sara Molina that he threatened to kill his wife four days before the Nov. 16 incident.

To clarify a report about Molina's testimony in Tuesday's Big Spring Herald, the man she "ran around" with Zamora's wife was Salvador Garcia. His first name was inadvertently omitted from the story.

In Tuesday afternoon's testimony, a married couple told

Alfonso Arevalo said the murder victim asked to join him and his wife, Trinidad, at their table two hours before the shooting.

Zamora approached the table and asked his wife to dance with him, Arevalo said. He said Isabel Zamora consented to dance with the defendant if he wouldn't ask to dance with her again.

While they were on the dance floor, the couple began to struggle and Zamora "tore the front part of her blouse," Arevalo said.

Zamora was asked by the owner to leave the club, but he returned about 12 minutes later and again approached the table where Arevalo, his wife and Isabel Zamora were sitting, Arevalo said.

Arevalo told jurors he "halfway stood up" while hearing Zamora say he was going to straighten out "this business." Moments later Zamora fired three shots at his wife. Arevalo said.

Jobless claims double

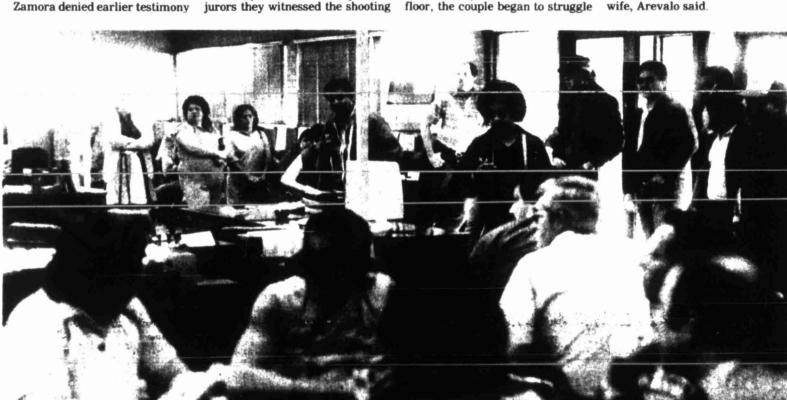

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Layoffs in the oil industry and a depressed agricultural economy have resulted in twice the number of newly unemployed in Howard County this year over the same period in 1985, said Joe Wallis, manager of the local Texas Employment Commission office.

Year-to-date figures show 529 initial claims of unemployment this year, compared to 264 last year, Wallis said. The number represents people who are newly unemployed.

In addition, 214 claims were filed from people who are unemployed again, compared to 91 filed at the same time last year, he said.

"I think oil and agriculture went to pot," Wallis said. "Everybody is Layoffs page 2-A

Income, expenses up in revised city budget

By HANK MURPHY

Staff Writer The mid-year city budget revision shows an increase in both available funds and city expenditures, city councilmen were told at a budget work session Tuesday afternoon.

The revised budget prepared by City Secretary Tom Ferguson denotes a $174,000 jump in expenditures over the original budget hammered out last October. But it also indicates a projected $293,000 increase in total operating capital.

Ferguson said the rise in expenditures is due primarily to a $52,000 renovation to the Municipal Auditorium, a $40,000 purchase of police cars, non-budgeted items requested by the fire department and a 3 percent across-the-board raise for city employees

The enhanced revenue comes from better than anticipated delinquent tax collection, funds left over from retired city bonds and an assortment of smaller revenue sources, he said. The council is expected to act on by telephone wires, he said.

the revised budget at the next council meeting March 25 and take final action April 8, Ferguson said.

One target for spending is the installation of 11 radio-controlled warning sirens left behind with the closing of the airbase, said acting City Manager and Airpark Supervisor Hal Boyd.

Boyd said the civil defense sirens have been refurbished by the city, and $12,500 is needed to convert them to radio-controlled units. The present warning system is serviced

The new warning system should substantially enhance the city's capability to warn citizens of dangerous weather and other emergencies, Boyd said.

The council also was informed by city consultant Don Davis of a proposal to refinance $3.8 million in city bonds approved for sale by voters in 1980 but not yet traded.

Davis told the council the city's fiscal agent, Joe Smith of First Southwest Co. in Abilene, will present a refinancing scheme today that could mean substantial sav

College to stage humorous play

Howard College theater department will give a dinner theater production of "Greater Tuna" Thursday through Saturday. Serving time is 7:15 p.m. in the student union building. "Greater Tuna" is "a funny play about Texas people, involving some characters we have met and know from our past," said director Tim Haynes

The story takes place in Tuna, Texas, and involves a radio station, people who call in to the station, and some Tuna families, he said.

"The thing I like most about it is it lets us laugh about ourselves, laugh about things that make Texas great, Havnes said The play has no main characters, he said, but "the characterization is hysterical." Fourteen Howard College drama students play 20 characters in the play, he said.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. - Entertainer BARBARA MANDRELL is selling her palatial lakefront estate and has bought a 100-acre property on which she plans to build a log cabin dream house.

"She's always wanted a log cabin and she preaches to me about them all the time," said Miss Mandrell's mother, Mary Mandrell.

But Miss Mandrell, who is asking $1.25 million for her estate outside Nashville, is not the only family member trying to sell a lakefront home, family spokeswoman Jeannie Ghent said Tuesday.

Her sister, country singer Louise Mandrell, is trying to sell hers and reportedly is asking $975,000.

Ms. Ghent said Louise hopes to move closer to Nashville to reduce the 45-minute commute to Music Row, where record industry offices are located.

By The Associated Press Rain stretched from the South to the Ohio Valley and across broad sections of the West today while winter storm warnings were in effect in the upper Midwest. The winter storm warnings were posted for northwest Michigan and extreme north central Wisconsin, along with snow-prompted travelers' advisories, and gale warnings were issued for lakes Superior, Michigan and Erie. A band of showers and thunderstorms stretched from south central Louisiana through the Tennessee Valley to the lower Ohio Valley. A mixture of rain and snow spread from Iowa and southeast Minnesota through northern Michigan and rain extended from southern Michigan through the upper Ohio Valley.

Elsewhere, rain and snow showers dotted New Mexico; light rain spread along the northern Pacific Coast; and scattered rain and snow extended from Montana through North Dakota.

A storm that left heavy snow from South Dakota through northern Michigan made travel difficult. Marquette, Mich., had 13 inches of snow from the storm; Park Falls, Wis., 10 inches; and southwest Minnesota, as much as 10 inches.

Snow also prompted travelers' advisories in southeast South Dakota, where snow since Monday afternoon piled up 18 inches at Cedar Butte; 17 inches at Murdo; and a foot in other locations.

Temperatures around the nation at 2 a.m. EST ranged from 13 degrees at Warroad, Minn., to 79 at Homestead, Fla.

Lab screens mothers' milk for pesticide

DALLAS (AP) — Analysts at a suburban Dallas lab that specializes in gauging levels of toxic substances in the body are screening samples of nursing mothers' milk for the pesticide heptachlor, a biochemist said.

"We've just gotten our first shipment of samples in. There may be half a dozen," said Dr. John Laseter, president of Enviro-Health Systems Inc. in Richardson.

Laseter said he has talked to state physicians about the dangers to nursing mothers who are exposed to the pesticide.

About 100 dairy farmers in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri are under a quarantine banning milk sales and a federal task force is investigating contaminated milk in eight states

The task force was on tour Tuesday, talking to worried farmers about the contaminated herds. Dairy products have been taken off supermarket shelves in Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Missouri, Tennessee and Texas.

Enviro-Health Systems analysts run tests to measure the level of toxic chemicals. Laseter said the lab routinely screens blood samples but does not usually test mothers' milk.

Charlotte Alger, the firm's lab supervisor, said it would be 48 hours before the first results become available.

Laseter said the lab has conducted about 4,000 tests that include screening for the posticide heptachlor and probably has the largest database on the chemical of any laboratory. Officials say the milk contamination occurred when herds ate a mash feed contaminated by heptachlor, which was banned by the Food and Drug Administration in 1983 after it was linked to cancer in laboratory rats. The contaminated mash feed was a byproduct of gasohol production.

Laseter said he expects to receive several more samples of milk for screening because of growing concern about the pesticide. He said heptachlor is particularly dangerous for nursing mothers because the substance becomes toxic when it is broken down by the body.

The broken down substance, call-

Michael Antoine transfers a portion of a sample of a mother's breast milk for testing at the labs of Enviro-Health Systems in Richardson. After the sample has been prepared, it is tested in the gas chromatograph, the instrument in the background. The company is involved in testing for contamination of the milk consumed by nursing ed an epoxide, is what is passed on to the nursing child, he said.

"When the mothers ingest it, they convert the heptachlor to epoxide and the epoxide is what ends up in the milk," he said.

Heptachlor has been linked to cancer in experiments with labotory rats. He also said experiments in which rats were given huge doses of heptachlor resulted in cataract problems for the offspring.

"There is evidence it can affect the offspring," he said.

Laseter said the lab has a worldwide clientele and has tested samples from as far away as China and Australia ${\tt GENEVA}$ — The ${\tt OPEC}$ cartel, desperate for help in trying to reverse the most dramatic oil-price slide in history, opened talks today with five independent oil producing nations.

The meeting with representatives of Mexico, Oman, Malaysia, Egypt and Angola followed three days of inconclusive OPEC talks on ways to stabilize oil prices.

Wedding plan revealed

LONDON - Buckingham Palace announced today that Prince Andrew, the second son of Queen Elizabeth II, will marry Sarah Ferguson, a red-haired commoner with close family ties to the monarchy.

No date or place for the wedding was set, but Andrew said he hoped it would be in the summer at Westminster Abbey. Both the prince and his bride-to-be are 26 years old.

The couple granted interviews today to British correspondents at Buckingham Palace. The prince said he proposed to Miss Ferguson "some weeks ago," but put off an announcement until his mother returned from a tour of Nepal, New Zealand and Australia.

Mulroney confident of 'substantial action' on acid rain issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever it is the United States is going to do for Canada about acid rain, it is "substantial action," according to Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulronev

Mulroney, other Canadian officials and their U.S. counterparts were cagey all day Tuesday after a senior U.S. official, briefing reporters at the White House on condition of anonymity, said the prime minister and President Reagan had reached "agreement" on combating acid rain. In their own briefings on the same condition of anonymity, Canadian officials said there was no "agreement," and that the United States had used tne word "ambitiously.

They said the two leaders would make separate statements on acid rain after a private lunch today, the windup of Mulroney's two-day official visit.

Mulroney, one said, had not seen Reagan's statement. But asked if the prime minister knew what was in it, this official would say only, "I guess he has

The prime minister, interviewed on ABC television, said details would have to await today. Noting that Canada had been trying to get the United States to act for five years, "All of a sudden there is action, substantial action," he said.

One of the Canadian briefers had said earlier, "Any movement on acid rain at this particular juncture in the discussion is a real accomplishment," and another had said Canada was still trying to decide what to say in its statement.

Acid rain is formed from pollutants - sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen - emitted by the burning of fossil fuel, notably coal in utility boilers.

Special envoys appointed by Reagan and Mulroney a year ago recommended that the United States commit $500 million a year, to be matched by industry over five years, to put "clean coal" technologies to use.

It was this report Canada wanted Reagan to endorse, including the $5 billion plan, and that Reagan planned to endorse in principle at a lesser amount.

The Energy Department already is soliciting proposals for a smaller demonstration program totaling $800 million over three years, half from industry.

McCarthy era act lacks rationale

The McCarran-Walter Act of 1952 is one of the last intact relics of the McCarthy era - a law that allowsthe U.S. government to forbid visits by foreigners whose crime is to hold unpalatable political views.

It is an embarrassment to a nation founded on a faith in the ability of free people to arrive at sound policies through untrammeled debate. Rep. Barney Frank, a Massachusetts Democrat, has introduced a bill to repeal the law's obnoxious provisions, a measure both parties should embrace.

The idea has been raised before, but recently the Reagan administration has suggested that, at last, it may be willing to go along. Speaking last month to the International PEN Congress, 66 of whose members had signed a public letter criticizing the administration for, among other sins, its use of the law to exclude several foreign writers. Secretary of State George Shultz declared, "We will never deny physical access to anyone because of the beliefs he or she may espouse." Attorney General Edwin Meese said he agreed.

Some parts of the law are not controversial. Among the 33 categories of aliens who can be denied entry into this country are criminals, psychopaths, stowaways, deportees and carriers of contagious diseases. There are good reasons for turning these sorts of people back. Under Frank's bill, anyone who is clearly dangerous would still be barred.

What his bill removes are the prohibitions based on opinions. The existing law allows the government to refuse admission to anyone who is an anarchist or communist, who advocates overthrowing the U.S. government or who, in the State Department's estimation, may engage in "activities prejudicial to the public interest," as defined by whatever whim may seize some State Department bureaucrat.

are banned, as is anyone who has ever suffered from mental illness, cured or not. If these aren't dubious enough, the law also per- natives. mits the exclusion of anyone preaching the attractions of polygamy.

Mailbag

Provisions like these might be tolerable if the law were a dead letter. But in recent years it has been used to keep out people who pose no apparent threat beyond their ability to persuade, including such writers as mexico's Carlos Fuentes, Colombia's Gabriel Garcia Marquez and Canada's Farley

The absurdity here is the exclusion of people for advocating things whose advocacy is perfectly legal in the Untied States. The Consttution doesn't allow the government to silence Americans simply because they evangelize for disfavored causes, even ones fundamentally hostile to the government. Only if the adherents take action that would be illegal regardless of the motive - taking over government facilities, say, or shooting people - can they be prosecuted

Thus we have the odd situation of Americans being legally entitled to advocate beliefs that they are not entitled to hear foreigners come here to advocate. Another paradox is that the foreigners are perfectly free to communicate their views by other means, like books, tape recordings or television appearances. Americans can't be blocked from access to ideas - only from the specific foreigners holding them.

The only possible rationale for enforcing that policy is to punish foreigners for their opinions. But if the government has no right to define acceptable opinion for American citizens, it has no business demanding political orthodoxy from foreigners as the price of crossing our border.

It is the obligation of the government to keep out anyone who wants to come here to commit terrorism, spy for our enemies or otherwise endanger people living here. But the operating premise of American democracy is that the dangers Homosexuals and alcoholics also presented by bad ideas can be amply combatted by better ones. That premise applies to ideas advocated by foreigners as well as

Mexican president picks up entrepreneurial idea

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — In a desperate attempt to save his country from economic collapse, Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid appears to be following some advice President Reagan gave him in a private meeting early this year: Give private enterprise a chance to pull Mexico back from the brink of

The one-on-one meeting between the two heads of state took place Jan. 3 in Mexicali, Mexico, just across the California border. The 75-minute discussion dealt with Mexico's crushing $97 billion foreign debt — and the need for U.S. help just to pay the annual interest of nearly $10 billion.

Mexico is the world's fourth largest oil producer, and oil accounts for 70 percent of its export earnings. As the price of oil continues to plummet, de la Madrid's initial austerity measures are pathetically inadequate In a recent interview, Reagan gave us his account of what he told the Mexican president, starting with Reagan's assurance that "they are a neighbor and we have too much in common for us not to be concerned about their situation.' The president continued: "I was talking to him about how the secret of successs or greatness in any country has literally been based on their willingness to import money and people. And it's the secret of the United States — the people who have come to us, but also the investment from abroad when we were a pioneer nation with nothing but raw resources to go Reagan, who has been selling private enterprise successfully since his days with General Electric, appeared to have struck out with de la Madrid — at first. The Mexican president, Reagan said, "cited to me the fact that so much of their structure is based on ancient Spanish laws.

This may be questionable history: Since at least 1910, Mexico, wary of exploitation and foreign domination, has had strict rules prohibiting foreigners from majority ownership of Mexican companies. That has had an understandably discouraging effects on would-be foreign investors. In addition, the Mexican government has expropriated many industries over the years, and in 1982 nationalized a large part of what private enterprise was left.

But Reagan was not put off. He told de la Madrid 'about places where, if investors could be assured that they could own property, that they could control it as they could in this country," they would be eager to invest. The president told us he mentioned "places like Baja — what a great resort that could be.

De la Madrid again demurred, said Reagan, citing "the tradition of these ancient laws that made it difficult for government to give this freedom of private ownership and all."
"Well," Reagan told us, "until they're ready to challenge these laws, I think they're going to have problems in today's world of readjusting and having the kind of economic growth that they could have. The potential is there.

Since their January meeting, de la Madrid appears to have had second thoughts. In a television speech Feb. 21, the Mexican president announced that his government will divest itself of even more state-owned companies than the 236 it sold last year.

He said trade will also be liberalized. RELUCTANT RECRUITS: The Persian Gulf war, now well into its sixth year, continues to be a bloody stalemate with appalling casualties: more than a quarter-million Iranians, perhaps 100,000 Iraqis. Under the frenetic religious fervor of the Ayatollah Khomeini, the Iranian war machine has had little trouble getting volunteer cannon fodder. But the secular Baathist regime of Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein has no such recruiting tool, and Iraqi young men have shown a healthy distaste for the glory of war. As a result, Hussein has sent out "press gangs" to sweep eligible males off the streets and into

UNDER THE DOME: The administration's foreign-policy salesmen, urgently scouring Capitol Hill for supporters of their $100 million aid plan for the Nicaraguan contras, ran into an unexpectedly vehement response from Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., whose sometimes conservative views had given them hope. Zorinsky listened politely to the White House pitch, then said, "Gentlemen, you cannot rent an army. You cannot buy loyalty. You cannot purchase friends." End of sales talk.

MINI-EDITORIAL: There's a movement afoot in Congress to designate as the national anthem something more easier to sing than "The Star-Spangled Banner." We've been stirred too many times by the incumbent anthem to support such a move, however badly we quaver on "the rockets' red glare." Why, there are even some folks who want to drop the bald eagle as our national bird, pointing out. n Franklin did, that the eagle is a poor role model, preferring to steal its food from other birds in midair. The eagle may indeed be "a bird of bad moral character," as Franklin said. But remember this: Franklin's choice was the turkey.

Oil shocks shake Middle East sheiks

By ROBERT H. REID

Insight

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The oil price collapse, hailed as a blessing in the industrial world, is bringing economic hard times to the Middle East and is teaching high-rolling oil sheiks a lesson in thrift.

Gone are the heady days of overnight oil wealth and boom-town construction that transformed mud-walled backwaters like Kuwait, Riyadh and Muscat into gleaming,

The spectacular oil price increases of the 1970s brought unfathomed riches to the desert lands of the Persian Gulf. The boom created markets and job opportunities for people from countries without vast petroleum reserves like Egypt, Sudan, Syria and Jordan.

Oil money fueled economic activity, much of it based on construction, in countries that otherwise lacked the diversity of resources, industrial bases or large, skilled populations to match development patterns of the industrial world.

But with the price of oil now about $15 a barrel - half the level of four months ago - hundreds of thousands of workers are losing their jobs or taking pay cuts. Construction projects are being canceled, and payments to other contractors are being delayed

The slump began in the early 1980s with the glut on the oil market. It accelerated after the December decision by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to defend its share of the market and lift production As prices tumbled, Oman devalued its currency and delayed announcement of its new five-year plan. Kuwait asked the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank to draw up plans for restructuring its economy. The United Arab Emirates, which in 1982 boasted the world's highest per capita income at $23,000 for each of its 1.1 million residents, struggled to overcome a projected budget deficit of $995 million. Even in Saudi Arabia, the kingdom that holds 25 percent of the world's proven petroleum reserves, King Fahd warned last week of "extremely critical circumstances" if petroleum prices remain low Persian Gulf economic sources, speaking on condition they not be further identified, estimate that Saudi Arabia's budget for fiscal 1986-87, which has been delayed for five months, will be about $40 billion - 25 percent less than the previous year.

Petroleum exports account for more than 90 percent of the kingdom's budget revenue.

Although the price collapse is forcing belttightening by the oil giants, most Western and Arab economists believe the wealthiest producers like Saudi Arabia and Kuwait will weather the crisis by practicing frugality.

'A few years ago, I would buy a television set and a video for each of my servants," said a Saudi government official who owns a construction company in Jidda. "Now, I buy one and let them all watch it together." He spoke on condition his name not be published

Kuwait, with a population of about 1.6 million people, is still believed to have financial reserves of more than $80 billion, most of it invested abroad.

For the less prosperous countries of the Middle East, however, economists fear the price collapse could spell serious economic trouble.

Egyptian officials estimate recent cutbacks in oil production because of the price slump will cost the government $700 million this year at a time when the country is struggling to repay about $32.5 billion in debts.

Western diplomats expect the Egyptian government will have to impose economic austerity measures and possibly seek to reschedule some of its foreign debt.

Before the price collapse, North Yemen had expected to earn about $1 billion a year from oil sales following discovery of new reserves. Economists now believe the government will have to rely for years on foreign aid and remittances from workers abroad to pay its

Last year Jordan, which trades heavily with Iraq and Persian Gulf producers, was forced to impose import restrictions after foreign currency reserves fell so low the country had only enough for 40 days of purchases.

Western economists estimate that Libya's financial reserves fell last year to about $3 billion from a 1980 high of $13 billion

Educators hope the program will keep the youngsters off drugs and alcohol and off the streets, reduce teen-age pregnancies and perhaps prevent suicides.

Experts who planned the course say it was designed to get children to deal with deep feelings such as anger, hurt and frustration that can be destructive if held inside. Children are taught to discuss their problems and to try to be aware of those of their peers.

"A lot of the kids who get into problems with drugs and alcohol are kids whose self-esteem is very low, kids who don't know how to deal with their emotions, kids who have not such good communication with their parents," said Conrad Shultz, who taught the classes at Braintree East and South middle schools. "These are some of the areas the curriculum addresses."

The lessons are simple but poignant. They got 11-year-old Chad Smith to notice a friend who was "A kid named Matt, he was feeling sad," said Chad. "I told him 🥦 that he was good at baseball, and I asked him to play baseball with Janelle Sampey, 12, said she liked the "happy grams" provided in their workbooks. These half-sheets of paper encourage the children to say nice things to other kids as well as teachers, custodians and other members of the school community

"I sent one to a friend," Janelle said. "We were in a fight. The next day she called me up and apologized. So now we're friends.'

The lesson plan suggests questions such as: "Why is it important to reach out to others when they're feeling sad, discouraged, lonely or rejected? What does it do for them? For you? How many of you , have ever wanted to share your feelings with someone but were afraid to? What makes it difficult to share feelings?" In one recent class here, the sixth-graders were asked to list some of the good and bad things that had happened to them. "When someone said you are good at hockey. When someone said I stink at hockey," wrote 11-year-old Jeff Maguire.

"Bought my brother a candy bar. Beat up my brother," said Jason Williams, 11.

'When my friend invited me to her cottage in the Cape (Cod). When my friend ignored me,' wrote 11-year-old Danielle LaFountain.

'What are some of the things that get people to feel scared at this age?" Shultz asked the class.

"Horror movies." "What about real-life type created by the Quest National Center in Columbus, Ohio, a nonprofit organization that develops educational programs. Quest was started 11 years ago by Rick Little, then a 19-year-old freshman at Anderson College in Indiana. An auto accident had broken Little's back, leaving him partially but temporarily paralyzed and in braces for a year. Three weeks after he came home from the hospital, his alcoholic mother attempted suicide.

"That series of events," Little said, "gave birth to Quest, born out of real pain for me and for our family as well as the pain I saw in friends in my school and other schools in the area.

"I became aware of my mother's alcoholism when I was in the eighth grade," he said. "I never shared that with a teacher or friend. Part of the reason was anger and guilt. I felt like nobody really understood. My school had no systematic, thoughtful approach to helping students deal with some critical issues.

Show business aspirants get started in Houston

Houston talent agent Sharon Wilner on the phone hunting jobs in television commercials and other work for actor clients. Wilner says actors abandon Broadway and Hollywood to come to Houston for work "to build HOUSTON (AP) — Why would actors abandon Broadway and Hollywood and come to Houston looking for work?

Simple. In those show business capitals, they get paid for strutting and fretting their hour upon the stage. In Houston, they can work for free.

That may not sound like much of an incentive. Their presence may not seem a particular blessing to Houston either, enlarging a segment of the work force that's chronically underemployed.

But what they're doing here is investing for an eventual, but not immediate, payout, and while they're doing it for themselves, they're doing something similar for Houston, culturally and economically, people in show business here say.

Performers with credits in places like Los Angeles and New York would be making a mistake to leave permanently. By all accounts, it's still virtually impossible to make a living as an actor in Houston. But it's getting better. A few more actors than before can make part of a living here, in commercials or movies and TV shows shot here. While they're waiting for a job that pays, many of them take to the stage.

"They come here to build a resume," said Houston talent agent Sharon Wilner. Those she has seen here are relatively inexperienced, some of whom got big eyes, went to Los Angels of New York and found out that getting work was harder than they Actress Gretchen Sween found that out for herself, returning to Houston in July after spending three years studying acting at New several shows, all done in connection with the school. One, however, deal, but it comes down to a choice though organized by NYU, was theater and ran for four weeks.

That was about as good as it seemed likely to get, at least at the time being. She went to "cattle calls," or auditions open to anyone. But those were for unpaid roles in community theater, shows in New Jersey or, at best, for chorus parts in musicals. The best auditions were the ones she couldn't get into for good parts in Broadway shows or workshop theater that are cast through talent agents or personal contacts between producer and performers.

That frustration of being a waitress instead of an actress is really trying," Ms. Sween said. "It's much more accessible here and easier to do, something for free. Big birthday bash planned for Lady Liberty in summer

NEW YORK (AP) - A jubilee of sight and sound as diverse as the nationalities welcomed by her torch will make the Statue of Liberty the guest of honor at the biggest birthday bash ever this

New York harbor, other sections of the city and neighboring New Jersey will host a parade of majestic tall ships, dazzling fireworks displays, folk music celebrations and classic philharmonic productions the veekend of July 3-6.

Liberty Weekend will feature 20,000 performers, 40,000 spectator boats and up to 300 sailing vessels, including tall ships from 17 nations. Foreign heads of state and royalty will visit New York, the first stop for millions of their countrymen who immigrated here in earlier generations, promoters say.
City officials have conservatively estimated that as many as 5 million visitors will jam into the metropolitan area for the Statue of Liberty centennial Though all eyes will be focused on Liberty and her $66 million facelift, the task of putting the four-day party together falls on filmmaker-producer David L.

Liberty Weekend spokesman Jonas Halperin says Wolper plans to build the razzle-dazzle to a glittering crescendo, ending with a three-hour spectacular at Giants Stadium in the nearby New Jersey Meadowlands.

President Ronald Reagan and France's President Francois Mitterrand, aboard the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy, will formally begin the celebration at dusk on July 3. The statue, a gift from the people of France to the United States, was created by sculptor Frederic Auguste

With the push of a button, the president will send a brilliant stream of light across the water. As the robed lady is slowly illuminated, a 300-voice choir backed by a 100-piece orchestra will perform "America the Minutes later, Chief Justice Warren Burger will swear in 2,000 new citizens on Ellis Island, Liberty Island's neighbor in the harbor, and 38,000 others in St. Louis, Los Angeles, Miami and Washington via television satellite.

The opening ceremony will be televised worldwide by ABC which paid $10 million for the right to broadcast 10 hours of prime-time coverage and six hours of daytime events, said ABC President Fred Pierce.

The celebration will be funded through the television fees paid by ABC and foreign countries and ticket sales, Halperin said.

Free daughters from bullys

DEAR ABBY: I read with horror the letter from "Worried Mom," whose 17-year-old daughter suffered repeated beatings by her boyfriend. A few years ago I, too, was a worried mom with the same problem. I pleaded with my beautiful, blond-haired Laura to break up with her boyfriend, who had hit her with his fists and knocked out her front teeth. Once he rolled up her arm in a car window and drove off, dragging her down the street!

I also learned that he went to her dorm at college and terrified her when he held her over three flights, threatening to drop her. This kind of abuse continued for two years. I hegged her to guit seeing him, but she "leared" him.

On May 31, 1984, my precious daughter was found dead in a field. She was killed by repeated blows to her head. The crime still "unsolved" (insufficient "Worried Mom," my daughter did not have the emotional strength to free herself from this monster. And neither does yor daughter. You must help to free her by whatever means it takes — and do it immediately. Take legal action against her boyfriend and do not let him near her!

I pray that God will give you the strength to do whatever it takes, so you will not have to write such as I am writing, and will never have to sign your name:

PARENT OF
A MURDERED CHILD.

MURFREESBORO, TENN.
DEAR PARENT: Thank you for writing. I would like to repeat some advice to all women who have tolerated, first, repeated verbal abuse from a lover, then a few punches, slaps, shoves, and finally a full-scale beating: If you think you can change him, forget it. First charge him with assault, then run as though your life depended upon it, because it does.

DEAR ABBY: A good friend of mine in Farmington Hills, Mich., recently sent me some of your columns from the Detroit News. The subject: "Where do the people of Scotland, Great Britain and Wales get their strange eating habits?"

Wales get their strange eating habits?"
I think the question should be, "Where did you Americans acquire yours?" Although I am a Welshman, I believe I know the answer.

Much of the early eating in the States was done on the trail. Since it was probably more comfortable to eat in the saddle than to sit on the ground, the cowpoke remained mounted, feeding himself with his right hand while using his left hand to prevent his falling off his horse. This undoubtedly counts for the predominant use of the right hand in the United States.

Further on the subject of insularity, while on a flight from Chicago to Akron, Ohio, I was engaged in a conversation with a matronly woman. After some time she asked, "What is your mother tongue, young man?" She looked at me with astonishment when I replied, "It's English."

After she had recovered her composure, she drawled grudgingly, "Well I guess, they can speak it over there, too."

No doubt, Shakespeare turned in his grave.

Favorite recipes from the British West Indies

By CARLEEN EVERETT

Lifestyle Editor This week Karen Edwards of Big Spring has sent in some of her favorite recipes from the Grand Cayman Island in the British West Indies to share with us," "We have a home on the island and spent a lot of time there. We have discovered some wonderful food," she said.

If you have a special recipe to share, please send it to the Herald Recipe Exchange in care of the Spring HeraldP.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas, 79720

> LOBSTER C.I. STYLE

Z or 3 lobsters

- 1 large onion
- 1 sweet pepper, sliced

1 large tomato Pinch of thyme 2 tbsp. butter or cooking oil Salt, pepper to taste

Parboil the lobster for five minutes to make the flesh easy to remove from shell. Cut the meat into chuncks or medallions. Dice onion and tomato. Saute in butter with shallots, sweet and hot pepper (if desired) until onions are transparent and tomato has shed its skin. Add lobster and thyme. Cook 5 to 10 minutes over medium heat. Be careful that you don't overcook the delicate lobster. Serve over white rice.

> LOBSTER PATTIES cooked and shredded

1 large onion, diced

1 sweet pepper, diced 1 tsp. tomato paste 2 tbsp. butter 2 tsp. water 1/2 country pepper

Saute onions and peppers in butter until onions are limp. Add tomato paste and water, mix well and cook until thick. Toss in lobster meat, stirring to coat well. Place 2 tbsp. filling in the middle of a short pastry round, fold over and bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes or until pastry is bronzed.

Gourmet dining enjoyed by students -

Each week, they scramble for reservations and a chance to sample international gourmet foods at bargain prices in this tiny and unusual restaurant in Allen Hall.

"What a way to end the week," one guest wrote on the comment card. "The food was excellent, the service was impeccable and the ambiance was delightful." Another said Reservations Only "is a nice place to have for poor college students.

On a typical Friday night, diners might select the Chinese shiu-bow appetizer, steamed buns stuffed with pork, egg and sausage in oyster sauce; an orange and jicama salad; pears with grated cheese, topped with a raspberry; a spicy African chicken groundnut stew; carrots and grapes sauteed in butter with a sweetened vodka sauce; crepes suzette; and a beverage.

Rewarm hypothermia victim carefully

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: There is an elderly gentleman who has occupied one of our small apartments. It's on the lower level and inn't quite as warm as the upstairs. We don't cheat on heat and have encouraged him to be sure he keeps it up to where it will be comfortable. But lifelong habits of economy are difficult to shed, and he seems to sit there turning into an iceberg.

I go down and scold him, and he is a little better about it. In summer, he gets on fine. I am fearful of hypothermia. You write about it every year, but I must have missed the item where you talk about rewarming an older person who has it. Please repeat. - Mrs. B.P. I don't recall discussing specifics. If I did, it bears repeating. Many factors dictate how hypothermia comes about in the first place. The brain's temperature control mechanism in an older person is not quite as efficient as is a younger one. A young person can note a change of a single degree of temperature, whereas the older man's margin of sensitivity can be up to three degrees. That's a tight margin of safety when you consider that ef-

I don't want to try to outline specific things to do. Generally, it is best to let the person's body warm itself without external aids, like electric heating devices. Usually, covering with appropriate blanketing lets the body warm itself. Doctors like to see rewarm-ing occur gradually, say about one degree an hour. But even this isn ot set in concrete. The problem with rapid rewarming is the potential for shock.

The first reaction, then, when you have aperson whose body temperatureis at or flirting with 95 degrees is to get covering and make sure the room is warm. Then seek professional advice. > The dreaded free throw. A player has to be accurate 15 feet away on this uncontested shot. It has been the worst enemy of some of the best basketball players in the world. Good free throw shooting is a knack some players have, whether it's God-gifted or from rigorous work.

> One person who possesses the ability to make a free throw is 11-year old David Park of Forsan. The son of Forsan High assistant coach Stephen and Judy Park recently finished second in the Elks Lodge Hoop Shoot Southwest Regional Semi-Finals.

> Sounds impressive doesn't it? Well it is because it marks the first time that Park has been beaten in a competition that pits contestants in a best-out-of-25 shootout.

> Now don't get me wrong, young Park is no old hand at this competition. In fact this is the first year that he's ever entered the hoop shoot for boys and girls 8-13 years of age. That's because it's the first time students from Forsan have had entry forms at their school.

> "David brought the note home one day from school and wanted to know if he could enter," said mother Judy. "We told him it was fine but I didn't have any idea he could shoot that well. By the time he reached the area competition in Pecos, we decided this kid was a pretty good free throw shooter," she laughed.

His parents assumptions were correct.

David easily won the school competition, qualifying him to the local competition in Big Spring. There he made 15 of 25 to win, one less than he made in the school competition.

With his win David advanced to area competition in Pecos, where he again came away with the blue ribbon. Just like the local competition, he sunk 15 of 25 attempts.

The next stop was the State Finals in Temple. There David was at his very best, sinking 20 of 25 attempts. For you stat freaks out there, that's 80 percent. There's a lot of high school and college coaches out there that would settle for a 80 percent free throw shooter.

Just think, if Guy Lewis had David, the Houston Cougars would have two national championships. Anyway the Cougars still don't have any national championships and David advanced to the Regional Semi-Finals in Lawton, Oklahoma.

Now this sudden turn of success is also something very new to David. This ranks right up there with watching his dad help the Forsan Buffaloes to two years of football greatness.

"This was all somthing new to me," admitted David. had always shot at'the gym during practices, but I had no idea I would do this this good.'

After winning the local competition David said he began to take it more seriously. "I started to practice at the gym more. I'd practice a hour or longer every day. How does a 11-year old master the shot that has troubled some of the great ones in the game? David says he observes what other good shooters do but his biggest help has been words of wisdom from his dad.

"Dad told me just to stay relaxed and shoot the best I can and that's what I try to do."

I wonder if Guy Lewis ever offered that sound advice to his Houston squads.?

David traveled to the Sooner State last week to compete against the best that New Mexico, Louisiana and Oklahoma had to offer. For the first time he came up second best. Toby Wilmont of Lindsay, Okla. won the competition sinking 21 attempts, three more that David. Wilmont will now compete in the National Semi-Finals in Indianapolis, just one step from the elite National Finals.

If for some reason Wilmont can't go, then David, as runnerup, would take his place.

But it has been a four month success story for young David. He modestly looks back at it as a great experience, one that he hopes that will continue into next year's competition. The local Elks Club chapter in Big Spring generously paid for all of Park's travel expenses and afforded the young man an invaluable opportunity to meet lots of other kids, "I'm just happy I did this well this year. Next year I think I'll enter again."

Maybe then, this hot shot from Forsan will go all the way.

Cooper belts Big Spring, 14-3

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Writer

With the exception of one inning, Abilene Cooper pitcher David Tollison was perfect. In that inning the Big Spring Steers managed four hits and three runs. But it was not enough as the Cougars drove the Steers 14-3 in a five inning game that was called because of the 10-run rule.

Tollison, a senior right-hander, gave up all of his hits in the fourth inning. Other than that, his fastball and breaking pitches kept the Steers out of the game. Tollison was also one of many Cooper offensive stars, slamming a two-run homer in the fifth inning off Big Spring reliever Mike Dodd

For the first three innings, Tollison had the Steers eating out of his hand, allowing one man to reach base on a walk while striking out five. In the meantime, his teammates built up a commanding 10-0 lead with some timely hitting and aggressive base running.

Big Spring starter Aaron Allen lasted two innings against the defending district champs, now 11-0 for the season and 3-0 in 4-5A play. Allen was pulled in the third with no outs and one man on base.

AARON ALLEN stops no-hit bid

He got the loss, allowing eight runs on six hits and six walks. Dodd came in and did a good job retiring the Cougars without another run in the third

Cooper scored two more runs in the top of the fourth thanks to a Steer error, a double by catcher Chris Moore and a infield hit by Chris Feris. Moore had a banner day against Steer pitching, getting MATT GARRETT .drives in two runs three hits in four trips; scoring two runs and driving in two more.

This set the stage for Big Spring only offensive output of the game in the bottom of the inning. Allen, now in a designated hitter's role, ruined Tollison's no-hit bid with a single up the middle. Randy Hayworth followed with an single. Dodd added Big Spring's third consecutive single, scoring Allen with Big Spring's first run of the game. Pinch runner Jimmy Rogers, running for Dodd, promptly stole second, putting two runners in scoring position. Center fielder Matt Garrett banged a long single down to left field, scoring Hayworth and Rogers with the Steers final runs of the game.

Cooper made sure the game would be a short one by scoring four runs in the top of the fifth. Two came off Tollison's left field blast. Moore scored the third run on a fielder's choice and the final Cooper run scored when first baseman Scotty Pugh stole home.

In the bottom half of the inning Tollison retired Felix Olivas, Eli Torres and Allen to end the game as Big Spring's district record falls to 0-3. The Steers are 2-7-1 for the

By The Associated Press Omar Moreno had his best years playing for the Pittsburgh Pirates under Manager Chuck Tanner.

He led the National League with 71 stolen bases in 1978 and 77 in 1979 and led NL outfielders in total chances with 514 in 1979 and 499 in

He also hit a career-high .282 in 1979 and then hit .333 as the Pirates won the World Series

It has been mostly downhill since then in unproductive stints with Houston, the New York Yankees and Kansas City and the 32-yearold Moreno is a nonroster player he signed a minor-league contract Feb. 28 — trying to catch on with the Atlanta Braves, whose new Tanner.

Moreno continued his strong spr ing peformance Tuesday — he's hitting .313 -with a three-run double and a two-run single, leading the Braves to a 7-1 exhibition victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Besides his five RBIs, he scored twice and stole his sixth base in nine spring games as Atlanta improved its exhibition record to 8-2.

With the score tied 1-1, Glenn Hubbard doubled with two out in the sixth inning. Bruce Benedict was hit by a pitch and pinch-hitter Paul Runge walked to load the bases. Moreno then doubled into the right-field corner to give the Braves a 4-1 lead. Two innings later he added his two-run single off Joe Boever.

smallest member Ekaterina Gordeeva, a 14-yearold, 77-pounder, appeared to dance through the air, her arms out like wings, as she and partner Sergei Grinkov, 19, skated a lively, wellharmonized long program Tuesday to win the first gold medal awarded at the championships

The world pairs title capped two days of Soviet success in competition at Vernets Sports Center in this lakeside Swiss city

Kira Ivanova, 23, took an early edge in the women's singles over 18-year-old American challenger Debi Thomas of San Jose, Calif., by earning the lowest score in the compulsory figures. And compatriot Alexander Fadeev, 22, continued to zero in on his second world title, winning high marks for a fast, high-flying short program.

Soviet ice dancers Natalia Bestemianova, 26, and Andrei Bukin, 28, were also favored to win their second straight world championship in the event that began today with compulsory dances

Later tonight, the women's skaters were to skate their short program.

In the pairs finals, eight of nine judges awarded the top score to Grinkov and the 4-foot-10 Gordeeva, who ousted reigning world champions and fellow Soviets Elena Valova, 23, and Oleg

Vasiliev, 26, who finished second. The new world champions finished with a factored placement of 1.4, followed by Valova and Vasiliev

Coull, 20, and Mark Rowsom, 26, moved up into third place at 4.6 with a playful, skillful routine to Gershwin's "American in Paris."

Soviet couple Larisa Selezneva and Oleg Makarov slid down into fourth, at 5.2, after an innovative space-age routine that won over the audience but lost points with the judges. Denise Benning and Lyndon Johnston of Canada were fifth with an 8.4, while close behind at 8.6 were Americans Jill Watson, 22, of Bloomington, Ind., and Peter Oppegard, 26, of Bloomfield Hills.

Gordeeva and Grinkov, wearing peppermint-candy colored outfits, soared through dazzling throws, triple Salchow jumps, dizzying lifts and fluidly coordinated fancy footwork to the music of Duke Ell-

In other action Tuesday, Ivanova, who placed second at last year's championships, skated the cleanest compulsory figures to lead Thomas and defending world titlist Katarina Witt, 20, of East Germany

Fadeev held a two-event lead in the men's singles, but had to confront stylish upstart Brian Orser, 24, the six-time Canadian champion who skated away with the night's short program by reeling in five of the nine top scores

American national champion Brian Boitano, 22, of Sunnyvale, Calif, kept hold of his fourth-place spot. The men's finals will be held

It's business as usual for Boston's Larry Bird, but a new role for Houston's Allen Leavell.

Bird played just 29 minutes but scored 43 points Tuesday night, 34 in the first half, to pace the Celtics to a 126-96 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers. It was the fifth time this season and the 18th time in Bird's career he scored more than 40 points.

Bird didn't play the whole game, just 29 minutes. In that time he scored 43 points on an assortment of layups, running one-handers and bombs, including five of six from three-point range. He also had eight rebounds.

"Larry was all over," teammate Danny Ainge said of the Boston star, who was 5-of-6 from threepoint range and also grabbed eight rebounds. "He just got rolling in those three-pointers. When he starts hitting those shots he's impossible to stop. You come out and check him, he'll drive by you, penetrate, dish off to other people. If you double-team him, you're leaving someone else open.

Meanwhile, Leavell scored a season-high 23 points as the Rockets beat the Phoenix Suns, 112-109.

"Before, my job was to come of! the bench and get something started fast. Now, I've got to have our game plan in mind all the time," said Leavell, who, became Houston's starting point guard three games ago after John Lucas was released following a drug relapse. "I always play as hard as I can for as long as I can, but now I've got to think more about getting our team in tempo and getting our offense running.

Elsewhere, it was the Los Angeles Lakers 128, Portland 122; Sacramento 117, Denver 113; Dallas 120, San Antonio 113; Golden State 126, L.A. Clippers 122; Milwaukee 116, Washington 87; Utah 107, Seattle 104; and New York 107, New Jersey 103 in overtime.

Boston's triumph was its fifth in a row and 30th in the last 35 games. The Celtics lead runner-up Philadelphia by 11½ games in the Atlantic Division. The Cavaliers have lost five straight, including both games since Gene Littles replaced George Karl as head

"Getting blown out was the last thing I wanted to happen," Littles said. "We played close against Philly, but Bird brought us back to reality. He was unconscious. If he played the whole game he would have had 60 points. He didn't miss

The Celtics trailed 22-21 with 3:56 ; left in the first quarter but gradual-: ly built up a 64-48 lead.

Rockets 112, Suns 109 Houston led 100-85 lead with 8:15 to play. The Suns, behind the scoring of Walter Davis and Alvan Adams, cut the lead to 106-104 with seconds left when Leavell made a pair of key free throws

Ralph Sampson added 23 points for Houston while Akeem Olajuwon and Lewis Lloyd each had 19. The victory gave the Rockets a twogame lead over runner-up Denver in the Midwest Division. Phoenix was led by Davis with 28 points and Adams with 25.

Lakers 128, Trail Blazers 122 Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 26 points and added 11 assists as Los Angeles equaled its season high of nine consecutive victories. Los Angeles, which led 99-96 after three quarters, ran off a 9-2 spurt to open the final period and Portland could not move within eight points until the final minute.

Kings 117, Nuggets 113 The Kings trailed by 12 points with 10:35 to go in the second quarter. Terry Tyler sparked a 21-point scoring spree in the final 3:16 of the first half, scoring 10 of his 20 points to put the Kings on top 61-58 at halftime. Eddie Johnson scored 24 points to lead Sacramento to its 10th consecutive Tuesday night home victory.

Mavericks 120, Spurs 113 Reserve forward Jay Vincent scored eight points within 21/2 minutes midway in the fourth quarter as Dallas handed San Antonio its sixth consecutive setback. The Mavericks regained the lead 94-93 on a 20-foot jump shot by Vincent with 9:34 to play. Dale Ellis, who had a season-high 28 points, made the fifth of his six three-point baskets and Vincent scored three consecutive baskets to put the Mavericks up 103-99. Mark Aguirre capped the run with a flying onehanded stuff.

Warriors 126, Clippers 122 Terry Teagle scored a seasonhigh 32 points and Larry Smith grabbed 14 rebounds. Los Angeles was ahead 60-44 midway in the second period before the Warriors turned things around. Golden State pulled within 71-67 at halftime and went ahead to stay late in the third period on a three-point shot by Teagle.

Bucks 116, Bullets 87 Former Bullet Charles Davis came off the bench to score 11 of his 26 points in the second quarter as Milwaukee built a 58-39 halftime lead. The Bucks led 26-17 after the first quarter, then began the second quarter with an 11-2 streak that made the score 37-19 with 9:22 remaining in the first half and stretched it to 87-63 at the end of the third quarter. Cliff Robinson had 29 points for Washington, which has lost four in a row.

Jazz 107, SuperSonics 104 Rickey Green scored 10 points in the final 71/2 minutes to rally Utah from an 11-point deficit. Seattle led 96-85 with 8:35 to play but Green went 5-for-5 from that point to get the Jazz back in the game.

Knicks 107, Nets 103

James Bailey scored a seasonhigh 31 points, including eight in overtime, as New York snapped an eight-game losing streak as well as an 11-game losing streak against New Jersey

Comeback.

Angels 8, Giants 2

Bob Boone doubled home the tying and lead runs with the fist of six consecutive California hits in a five-run seventh inning. California erupted off Jim Gott, who had retired the first seven batters he faced.

Ken Forsch, trying to battle back after missing the last two seasons with arm miseries, pitched four innings for the Angels, allowing one run - Chris Brown's homer - and five hits.

Expos 1, Royals 0

Montreal's Bryn Smith, who has been troubled by a sore elbow, pitched three strong innings in his spring debut. Jeff Parrett, Randy Claire and Jack O'Connor followed Smith to the mound and each pitched two innings.

Blue Jays 5, Red Sox 2 Rance Mulliniks hit a pair of solo homers and Ernie Whitt added a two-run shot for Toronto while Dave Stieb, making his third preseason start, blanked Boston on one hit for five innings, extending his scoreless streak to 12. Mulliniks hit his homers off Al Nipper and Whitt connected off Rob Woodward

Reds 5, Pirates 4

Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly scored Paul O'Neill from third base in the top of the 11th inning with the winning run. O'Neill led off the inning with a double and was sacrificed to third by Wayne Krenchicki. The Reds erased a 4-2 deficit in the eighth inning when Eric Davis and Dave Parker hit solo home runs off Pat Clements. Junior Ortiz homered for

Pittsburgh. Brewers 6, Padres 5

After San Diego took a 5-3 lead in the top of the 12th, the Brewers rallied for three runs, capped by rookie Glenn Braggs' two-run triple. The Padres had a 3-2 lead in the ninth inning when Brewers rookie Dale Sveum singled off Rich Gossage with two out. After Rick Cerone walked, Jim Gantner tied the game with a single.

Rangers 12, Dodgers 9

Oddibe McDowell's grand-slam home run and Bobby Jones' threerun shot highlighted Texas' sevenrun fifth inning. Jones' homer came off Orel Hershiser and McDowell's off Jerry Reuss. Ken Landreaux, Bill Madlock, Reggie Williams and Greg Brock homered for Los Angeles. Williams, challenging Landreaux for the starting center field job, had four hits and four RBIs.

Indians 6, Cubs 4

Former Cub Dan Rohn singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and Junior Noboa doubled home an insurance run. In the fourth, the Cubs put together six straight hits off Keith Creel, scoring four times for a 4-3 lead. Twins 2, Astros 1

Mike Hart homered off Frank DiPino in the bottom of the 10th inning to win the game.

Head football coach Bill Yeoman forbade his players Monday from talking to the news media about the claims of under-the-table cash that former wide receivers Lonell Phea and David Roberson told The Houston Post they and others received from Yeoman and other coaches in the late 1970s and early 1980s.

Roberson's transcripts show he was under academic suspension for five of his nine semesters at UH, yet continued to go to class and play football.

Lawrence Wolf, dean of the University of Houston's College of Technology, said Monday that he himself readmitted Roberson the first time he was suspended because "he was still young in his academic career, and I made a good-faith attempt to give him a second chance."

Roberson, however, was subequently readmitted three more times despite being suspended.

Dr. Carole Goodson, associate dean of the UH College of Technology, told the newspaper Tuesday she was responsible for allowing Roberson to re-enroll after his third suspension despite the fact Roberson didn't have a high enough grade point average.

Ms. Goodson said she considered the fact that he was a football player and "I could see that it was the end of the fall season and he would not have the pressures of football on him the next semester" because the season would be over.

"But I wish you wouldn't say that he was readmitted because of football," she told the newspaper. "We consider a lot of circumstances that can influence a student like if a student has been working and had difficulty going to school at the same time or if he has had an emodescription of Pervis Ellison, Louisville's freshman center. It was in his recent memory.

"Ellison is built a lot like Sam Perkins," said Smith, whose eighth-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels play Ellison and his teammates in the West Regional of the NCAA basketball tournament on Friday in Houston. "He shoots a little like Sam, and (in attitude) he seems a little like Sam -'What, this is an NCAA tournament? So what.""

Perkins, of course, was the center on Smith's only national champion, in 1982.

Smith is just as impressed by the rest of the Cardinals, who have won 13 straight games. "They're a confident team, but I have said momentum is built during the course of the tournament, not going into a tournament," Smith said. "But we really have to play better than we're playing. Smith knows he will need a big game from Brad Daugherty, his 6-113/4 center, and from Kenny Smith, Steve Hale and Jeff Lebo, the guards who must handle the Louisville press and the Cardinals' star guard, Milt

The Tar Heels slumped at the end of the year as injuries to Hale and backup center Warren Martin proved costly as North Carolina split their last 10 games and lost three of four entering the NCAA. But North Carolina apparently got back in the groove with NCAA victories over Utah and Alabama-Birmingham.

The other game at Houston features No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas — the only true Western team left in the regional against unranked Auburn, one of four Southeastern Conference teams still alive.

In the Southeast, No. 6 Georgia Tech plays Louisiana State and No. 3 Kentucky takes on Alabama.

has used for some of its games.

"I would hope that it gives us Dean Smith didn't have to a slight advantage, but you search very hard to find an apt never know. I certainly hope it doesn't hurt us," Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins said recalling that heavily favored Svracuse lost last Sunday to Navy 97-85 in the Carrier Dome.

> Cremins didn't think LSU would be intimidated, especially the way the SEC team has been performing in the postseason.

"LSU is playing smart," Cremins said. "They have a lot of character, are on an emotional high and I just think people are overlooking them.

Nobody is overlooking Kentucky, which is ranked third in the nation and is the top seed in the Southeast. The Wildcats had little trouble with Davidson and Western Kentucky in their first two tournament games.

Now the SEC champs must beat Alabama for the fourth time in as many meetings this season. Kentucky won 76-52 at home and 73-71 at Tuscaloosa, Ala., during the regular season and 83-72 in the SEC tournament final at Rupp Arena.

Does that give Kentucky a mental edge over the Crimson

"I can't answer that," Kentucky Coach Eddie Sutton said. "I'll tell you after Thursday's game.

'We beat them here when we played one of our two or three best games of the season, in Tuscaloosa when they didn't shoot free throws very well, and in the SEC tournament when they got into early foul trouble.

'Alabama and Kentucky are very evenly matched in makeup. The chemstry is good on both clubs.'

Sutton said the Wildcats are approaching the regional in good shape, particularly with the emergence of 6-foot-9 reserve center Cedric Jenkins.

"The team believes they can win," he said. "They also know that if they don't play well, any of those 15 teams can beat us.

Riggins announces release from Redskins

Riggins, one of the National Football League's all-time outstanding running backs, says he has been released by the Washington Redskins, though the team's coach and general manager deny it.

The 36-year-old Riggins, slowed by physical problems last year, said Tuesday night that Coach Joe Gibbs told him during a meeting earlier in the day that "he'd reviewed the films and I'd lost a step."

Riggins, who three years ago led the Redskins to a Super Bowl victory and wes the game's Most Valuable Player, said he told Gibbs, "I think that's absurd. I want to play, and play for the Redskins this year. But I understand what you've got to do, and if you've got to fire me, you've got to fire

Riggins, appearing at a March of Dimes banquet, said he decided to announce his release himself rather than wait for the team.

"It's very unusual for a player to announce that a player is being waived," he WASHINGTON (AP) — John said. "Have you ever heard of a player making the announce-ment? I'm doing it because I feel it is important for the public to know how I feel. That's important.

"So many teams sweep players under the rug."

Gibbs and Redskins General Manager Bobby Beathard both denied that Riggins had been

"John has not been released," Gibbs was quoted by the Washington Post today as saying. "He and I did talk today. I thought the conversation was just between me and him."

Beathard said, "We absolutely have not released Riggins." He refused to comment when asked if the team planned to release Riggins, saying only, We have a decision to make. As of this date, we have not released John Riggins. Joe (Gibbs) and I will meet again tomorrow."

Riggins hit his peak with the Redskins when he rushed for a then-record 166 yards during Washington's Super Bowl XVII victory over the Miami Dolphins. Riggins, broke that than 1,200 yards in both 1983 and 1984, Riggins began to be plagued by chronic back and hip problems that landed him in traction in the hospital on a number of occasions.

The Redskins acquired running back George Rogers, and the team's need for an aging $825,000-a-year running back who rushed for only 667 yards last season diminished.

Riggins admitted he wasn't too surprised by Gibbs' decision. "I'd have to have my head in the sand to be shocked," he

But the running back, who was drafted by the New York Jets in the first round in 1971, has left his mark in football. In 14 National Football League seasons, he has rushed for 11,352 yards, the fourth most in history, and 104 touchdowns, second only to Jim Brown's 106.

Riggins has long been known for his antics off the field, from sporting a Mohawk haircut in an early season with the Jets to game open with a 43-yard sitting out the entire 1980 season with the Redskins because of a contract dispute. But after rushing for more He returned the next season with the statement, "I'm bored, I'm broke, I'm back."

Riggins' antics became a source of concern for the Redskins in the last couple of years after he told Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Conner at a Washington banquet, "Loosen up, Sandy Baby!

He was arrested for public drunkenness in suburban Virginia last July, but the charge was later dropped.

Riggins said he wished the Redskins well and isn't quite sure what he'll do next.

"I'll wait and see what comes along. I told Joe (Gibbs), 'It'd be difficult to play for another team. Ten years here. Super Bowl. This is home for me.

"Until my banker gives me another call, I'll stay unemployed."

Judge clears Dorsett in ex-agent's lawsuit back Tony Dorsett did not breach his contract with a Pittsburgh lawyer, who claims he helped negotiate seven one-year contracts for Dorsett in 1980.

U.S. District Judge Donald E. Ziegler, ruling in the suit filed in 1983, said Dorsett does not have to pay Stephen Sokol because Sokol did not successfully renegotiate Dorsett's contract.

Ziegler ruled Tuesday that a "mutually agreed-to condition" of the two men's oral contract was that Sokol was entitled to be compensated only if he renegotiated a contract.

Sokol, of Consolidated Management Enterprises Inc., claimed he worked as PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Dorsett's agent for two federal judge ruled that weeks before Dorsett and his Dallas Cowboys running previous agent signed new contracts on Aug. 21, 1980. Sokol claimed the firm should be paid $81,000, or 3 percent of the total value of Dorsett's contracts negotiated in 1980.

Dorsett testified Tuesday that he was angry that Sokol told the press that the running back was considering leaving the Cowboy's training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., because he was unhappy with his contract.

Dorsett, a native of nearby Aliquippa and a rieisman Trophy winner at the University of Pittsburgh, said Sokol suggested the leak as a way to stimulate negotiations. Dorsett said he then turned to another agent.

They are celebrating the annual rites of winter when 200,000 retired people pour into the Lower Rio Grande Valley between Mission and Brownsville. Midwesterners and Canadians claim the Valley as their winter territory much the same way New Yorkers and other Northeasterners head for Florida.

Recreational vehicles pop up like aluminum mushrooms between November and April. The occupants stay in densely populated parks with views of their neighbors' quarters on all sides, in a flat, often treeless countryside.

Yet they enjoy a huge peer group with plenty to do daily. It's childhood revisited year after year and the Valley is a playground where they spend millions of dollars doing whatever they want.

"We're just a bunch of teenagers," says one member of the motorcycle group that meets regularly at the Fun N Sun Resort. an RV park in San Benito. License plates on their bikes almost exclusively represent Midwestern

They plan to spend five months in Texas this year, and have started riding with the Fun N Sun group.

A sign in Bluetown, Texas, welcomes around 200,000 retired people that pour into the Lower Rio Grande Valley between Mission and Brownsville each year. Midwesterners and Canadians claim the valley as their winter the somewhat negative label of "snowbirds," but now usually call them the "Winter Texans." The northerners' dollars have gained new respect since the peso devaluations of 1982 made U.S. shopping trips prohibitive for most Mexican tourists.

Retirement plays an important role in the Valley's economy.

"The only thing that kept us from chaos since the peso devaluations has been the steady growth in the ding with the Fun N Sun group.

Locals used to give such tourists winter population," says Carl H.

Rush, who has performed annual surveys on the Winter Texans for the past 10 years.

Most of them come to the Valley at first to escape cold winters, but soon start returning because they miss the fun they had the year before, Rush says.

"They're on a fling when they come down here," says Rush, director of the Bureau of Business and Economic Research at Pan American University in Edinburg.

Harry Cade, a retired Canadian truck driver from Oshawa, Ontario, says, "Some of them get a little out of hand as far as I'm concerned. They just go, go, go, go,

His wife, Norine, a former General Motors Corp. employee,

"A lot of these people are farm people who were always tied down," Norine says. "Now they have all this freedom and get involved in all the activities and dances and pancake breakfasts and everything, then they wonder why they have heart attacks."

Resort in Mission, the city with the highest concentration of Winter Texans. The city of 22,000 has 12,000 spaces for recreational vehicles and mobile honics

The Valley Winter Texan survey for the 1984-85 season showed then median age was 65.1 years old for females and 67.3 for males in Cameron and Hidalgo counties. where they are concentrated. More than 80 percent reported previous annual visits for as many as 30 vears.

visitors Fifty-seven percent lived in RVs and spent a median total amount of 1.63 per week for things such as food, housing, utilities, gasoline clothing and other needs. More than 19 percent surveyed indicated they pranned to buy property to the Valley, and to percent each year see de to stay in the area

Some amor's have gone hankrupt, however, when developed learned it takes more Along with their dollars, Winter

Texans bring their culture into the mosts Hispanic Valley Nearly all of the long term fourists are Anglos who speak little Spanish.

They remove Angle than the Angle people we have here now,

Some have complained in the Pan Am salvey that Spanishspeaking store clerks probably are talking about them. Another respondent faulted the Valley for having too many Mexican restaurants

Their habits are already set, based on their all-Anglo exposure up North." he adds.

But most get along with the local population and some work for local charities during the winter, in between leisure activities.

Canadians tend to stay the longest, because their winter lasts longest. Some parks cater to the Canadians and fly the maple leaf flag along with the U.S. and Texas flags. Places like the Pine to Palm Resort in Weslaco and the W & I Resort in Mission, are virtual Canadian enclaves.

A recurring theme at the Winter Texan resorts is Canadian and Midwestern pride in what they consider a more easy-going culture than that of the Northeasterners in Florida

Al Stark, from Independence, Mo , said he and his wife rode their motorcycles to Florida this season, and stopped at a resort to pick up some brochures. "They told us, You can stay, but the motorcycles

FORECAST FOR THURS., MARCH 20, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early morning upsets and rebelliousness are soon followed by the ability to turn what appear to be adverse conditions to your advantage, especially if you adopt a better attitude.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be kindly with those who live with you, and soon they will be very accommodating toward you. Entertain friends this evening. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You may receive a letter that could get you angry, but calm down and answer it in a way that could become beneficial to you. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are faced with unexpected bills and could get upset, but cool down and find the right way to handle them. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Even if someone has been playing tricks with you, rise above it, and by evening something nice occurs for you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't permit an early morning annoyance to spoil your equanimity since later you have an opportunity to gain a desired wish.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Kick that stumbling block away that is in the path of your progress toward gaining a cherished goal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Some situation may be upsetting in the morning. Don't forget to handle important credit and civic matters. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A new plan may seem farfetched, but you have only to go after it early and it can be put into motion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You and your mate have differing points of view on some plan you have concocted. Do something social tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A mundane affair could get you quite upset in the morning, but by further study, you find it has its beneficial side too. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your work may seem tiring in the morning, owing to atmospheric conditions, but soon you get more enthused than ever about it. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may have to wait until later in the day to have that pleasure you've been anticipating. Do something constructive.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she is apt to have many bizarre events occur during the early part of life and it is important that whoever is in charge of this individual be poised at all times and be helpful and loyal. Upon reaching maturity, this child will have fine judgment and can bring only good things to life.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will hold a public hearing to discuss the January 22, 1986 proposal (51 FR 2923) to list the Concho water snake (Nerodia harteria paucimaculata) as threatened species and designate critical habital for it, under the Endangered Species Act of 1973. as amended. The hearing will be held on April 3. 1986, from 7 to 9 p.m. c.s.t., at the Runnels County Courthouse, second floor courtroom. Ballinger

All interested parties are invited to attend. For mal oral statements will be accepted, as well as questions regarding the proposal. Those wishing to make statements for the record should have vailable a copy of their statements, to be resented to the moderator at the start of the neeting. Written statements or comments will be meeting, written statements or comments will be accepted at the hearing, or may be mailed to the Regional Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Regional Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 1306, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87103. The comment period for this proposal originally closed on March 24, 1986. To accommodate this hearing, the comment period will be reopened on April 3, 1986, and will remain open until May 2, 1986. Comments received after the closing date may not be considered in the final decision on this proposal.

The purpose of this hearing is to receive comments and answer questions regarding the proposal to list and designate critical habitat for the comments and information posal to list and designate critical habitat for the Concho water snake. Comments and information solicitied at this hearing include whether or not the Concho water snake should be listed as threatened and any biological information you have to support that position. Listing decisions are made on strictly biological ground, as required by the Endangered Species Act. Designation of critical habitat considers economic as well as biological information. Economic information includes the effects of designating the critical habitat on economic activities.

The Concho water snake is found in the Colorado economic activities.

The Concho water snake is found in the Colorado and Concho Rivers in west-central Texas. It is presently found in 199 miles of those rivers with the majority of the snakes concentrated in only 105 miles of that range. Twenty-eight percent of this anake's historic range has already been destroyed by dam and reservoior construction and water diversion. The limited range, low numbers, and narrow habitat requirements of this riffle-dwelling snake make it vulnarable to further habitat loss from proposed water development and other activities. Critical habitat is proposed for 131 miles of the Colorado and Concho Rivers in Runnels, Tom Green, Concho, McCulloch, and Coleman Counties, Texas

If this proposal is made final, the Concho water

Culloch, and Coleman Counties, Texas. If this proposal is made final, the Concho water snake would receive the full protection of the Endangered Species Act, which prohibits Federal agencies from funding, authorizing, or carrying out actions that would jeopardize the survival of a listed species, or would destroy or adversely modify its critical habitat. Also prohibited would be taking commerce imprort and express of this
