Spring Dems air views at local rally Board

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

Sixteen state and local Democratic candidates were on the stump Friday night in the Big Spring High School cafeteria hammering away at both Republicans and one another.

The forum, sponsored by the Howard County Democratic Club, gave an opportunity for more than 100 area people to hear the views of Democrats running for offices ranging from governor of Texas to county commissioner. Andrew Briscoe, party challenger to incumbent Governor Mark White, said he's the most diversified candidate running for the office with experience in farming, marketing, newspaper publishing and state employment.

Briscoe said the state's economy needs to become more diversified. He blamed White's lack of business leadership and misguided judgment of the oil industry as one of to be producing twice as much." the reasons for the state's economic crisis

"He signed into legislation last session an 800 percent increase in drilling permit fees in the state of Texas," Briscoe said. "That discouraged exploration... There's two ways to meet the bottom line, you can either charge $30 a barrel for oil or you can produce twice as much. When you're discouraging exploration you sure aren't going

Briscoe also jumped on what he called a $4.8 billion tax increase instigated by the governor, and the loose and ragged condition of the law by White. Another gubernatorial hopeful, Dan Crowder, said he would lead the state out of its dangerously narrow financial straits by hoisting the sail of a state lottery.

education reform bill signed into

"The State of Texas is broke,"

Crowder said. "I see nothing but despair and despondency.

He said instituting a state lottery is the centerpiece of a revenue production plan that would pour $2 billion into the state's coffers.

Crowder said the he would designate 30 to 35 percent of the lottery money to education and support of social programs that he warned will be axed under Gramm-Rudman.

Snake round-up today

The 24th Annual Rattlesnake Round-up sponsored by Coors and the American Business Club gets underway at 10 a.m. today at the county fair barn with the weigh-in of rattlers and reptile exhibits.

Admission to this year's roundup is $3 for adults and $2 for kids 6 to 12 years old. Besides weigh-ins and exhibits, the event will feature a snake sacking contest, handling and milking demonstrations, a skinning exhibition and an arts and crafts show. Saturday's viper fest will wind down at 8 p.m.

On Sunday, folks can snakethrough the festival starting at noon. The round-up will culminate at 5 p.m. with the award of trophies and cash for the heaviest rattler.

All venom collected at the roundup will benefit cancer and serum research. Proceeds from the event will be used for AMBUC's Scholarship Fund and the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Chamber explains conflict

By SPENCER SANDOW Staff Writer

Chamber of Commerce President John Arrick cited personality conflicts and lack of communication as causes of recent dissension within the chamber and its committees.

There's a communication problem between the chamber staff, the board and committees," he said Friday afternoon.

Company recalls tampered products

Trace amounts of rat poison found in five cold, diet capsules

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -SmithKline Beckman Corp. on Friday withdrew its best-selling cold and diet medicine from the market after trace amounts of rat poison were found in five capsules.

Consumers also were warned not to use any Contac, Dietac and Teldrin that had been purchased since mid-March because the capsules may have been tampered with, FDA Commissioner Frank Young said at a news conference in Washington.

Warfarin, an anticoagulant used in rat poison, was discovered in two Contac and three Teldrin capsules in Houston and Orlando, Fla., during new tests by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration laboratory in New York, said SmithKline President Henry Wendt

No injuries have been reported. The traces of rat poison couldn't kill a person, but would possibly sicken someone who took the tainted capsules, Wendt said.

'In addition to the news from the laboratory, the individual who claims to be responsible for these terrorist acts contacted USA Today and repeated his warnings that several of our capsules have been poisoned with cynaide, and recently placed in selected retail outlets," Wendt said. While the three products have been withdrawn, the company would continue production, and reintroduce them later, Wendt

'We take this action most regret-

"following the continued assualt on public safety and the public welfare

On Thursday, officials disclosed that threats had been made against the over-the-counter drugs, that some of them had been tampered with and that flour and cornstarch had been found in them in two

The company said it had received telephone threats against the products in Orlando and Houston, as well as St. Louis and Chicago. The telephone calls to SmithKline, at least one storekeeper, the news media and police made no demands for money or anything else, but the male caller claimed cyanide and rat poison were placed search to find out the source of the tampering 'We're dealing with a deliberate, terrorist, criminal act," Young

He cited information from the FBI that a man identifying himself as "Gary" had made anonymous calls to radio stations and newspapers identifying specific stores where capsules that had been tampered with could be found in the two cities. He would not name the stores.

The man who had been calling about the tampering was demanding that officials publicize the fact the capsules could and were being fully," he said of the recall, in packages on shelves in the four tampered with, and he demanded the capsules be withdrawn from the market in general as a way of delivering medication, Young said.

"I liken this situation to the takaing of hostages or the placement of a bomb on an aircraft," Wendt said. "I'm outraged at the sitsuation. But we must first think of the safety of the public. In human terms, our first priority, we have no other choice

Company spokesman Alan Wachter said options the company is considering include changing packages for better security or halting the production of easily opened capsules entirely, a marketing route taken by Johnson & Johnson two months ago

Names in the news

By The Associated Press BOSTON — Gov. Michael S. Dukakis thanked the crew of the television series "Spenser: For Hire" for filming in Massachusetts and gave star Robert Urich a "SPENSUH" T-shirt.

Dukakis traveled to a construction yard in Watertown on Thursday with commemorative pitchers for producer Dick Gallegly and the crew. The crew was near completion of shooting for the current season. He said the filming of 21 episodes gave the state national exposure and pumped $40 million into the state economy. The governor also presented

Urich with a T-shirt bearing the legend: "SPENSUH - Boston, Massachusetts, 1986.' Dukakis said he hoped filming people didn't appreciate director Steven Spielberg in Hollywood, but people in Wadesboro loved his work in "The Color Purple." Spielberg won the "Felix" for best director at the first annual Anson County Academy Awards on Thursday. In fact, all the awards went to "The Color Purple," based on Alice Walker's Pulitzer Prizewinning novel.

Anson County, where much of the movie was filmed, didn't want Spielberg to feel he wasn't appreciated. He was not a nominee for best director in this year's Academy Awards in Hollywood, although the film has 11 other nominations.

Spielberg and none of the major stars were in the standing-roomonly crowd of more than 250 at Twin Valley Country Club, but that didn't dim the audience's enthusiasm

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese III will be honored at Harvard University this spring, but some professors call his award a "joke" and "an absolute disgrace.

The John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard will give a public service medal to Meese. Dean Graham Allison said he decided on the award for Meese after recommendations by a panel ANNAPOLIS, Md. - Gov. Harry Hughes took up the trumpet in the sixth grade, and he never really put it down.

Hughes will open a benefit celebrity performance at the University of Maryland on Saturday to help sponsor a series of chamber music concerts. He'll be accompanied on piano, and will play "I'm Just Wild About Harry,"
"When the Saints Go Marching In" and other old favorites.

Hughes took up the trumpet in the sixth grade and went on to play in the Caroline High School orchestra, said Hersh Goldberg, Hughes' press secretary. He said Hughes served as a bugler in the U.S. Naval Corps during World War II.

"I'm having fun with it," the governor said. "I play by ear. It's got to be in E flat. I hope everyone who hears me takes it as lightly as I do, and doesn't expect another Harry James.'

State

By The Associated Press A high pressure centered over the Mississippi Valley Friday continued to dominate Texas weather.

Meanwhile, a few small bands of high clouds streaked skies over the South Plains and the piney woods of East Texas and a few small puffs dotted north Central Texas.

Thursday afternoon temperatures remained in the 50s across Northeast Texas while the Coastal Bend and Lower Rio Grande Valley reached the 70s.

By Associated Press Firm to appeal award

CHICAGO — E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. says it will appeal a $39 million award to a man who contended the use of a drug made by the company led to the amputation of his legs. A Circuit Court jury made the award Wednesday to George Chelos, 68, Park Ridge, whose legs were amputated after he developed a skin irritation following a double coronary artery bypass operation in 1977.

OPEC efforts continue

GENEVA — OPEC stepped up pressure Friday on five non-member nations to sharply reduce their oil production in a desperate bid for help in pushing up prices.

No official agreements were struck in a morning round of negotiations, and one OPEC minister suggested officials would need far more time to complete any deal. Another round of talks started in the early evening.

We are on difficult terrain - lots of treacherous rapids, deep ravines, even quicksand," Indonesian Oil Minister Subroto told reporters. "It's going to be a slow and maybe rather cautious trip.

Schools are choosers

DALLAS - Dallas school administrators say they don't have enough room for the record number of failing middle school students and recommend that only students with a chance of passing be admitted to summer school.

Last semester, 61 percent of middle school students failed at least one course and district officials predict that at least 40 percent of the districts seventh and eighth graders will fail this year and be forced to attend summer school or repeat the grade.

Students who do not pass three out of four required courses and do not have an overall grade average of at least 70 are retained unless they go to summer school and make up the work in the six-week program.

Soviet girl gets a taste of life in U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) - Katerina 'Katya'' Lycheva, an 11-year-old Soviet girl on a peace mission to America, wished two dozen new friends "blue skies, bright sun and peace" Friday as she sat down to her first breakfast in the United

"I'm very glad to see you all, very glad to come to the United States and tell you how all our children want peace," said Katya before she and 25 sixth-graders from the LaSalle Language Academy tucked into a lavish breakfast in the chef's kitchen of her hotel.

Katya was greeted by Michele Gaza, 11, who was shaking as she handed the young Soviet visitor a bouquet of sweetheart roses. "I'm excited — I'm nervous," said the American youngster. Katya addressed the students briefly in the chef's kitchen, reserved for the most important dignitaries, and then helped scramble eggs to go along with the pancakes, waffles, sausages, bacon, hash brown potatoes and mounds of exotic fruits.

While she spoke English at times, Katya generally spoke Russian and used an interpreter.

Her two-week, five-city visit akin to the 1983 Soviet tour by Maine schoolgirl Samantha Smith. who died last fall in a plane crash is sponsored by the San Francisco-based Children as the Peacemakers. Katya is to leave Chicago on Sunday for New York ad also plans stops in Washington, Houston and Los Angeles.

President Reagan was not scheduled to meet with Katya during her visit to the capital Wednesday and Thursday.

After breakfast, Katya and her new friends took two buses to the LaSalle Academy, a magnet school on the near North Side that draws outstanding students.

As they stepped off the buses into the schoolyard, the day crisp and sunny, the children sang together, "We shall live in peace, we shall live in peace someday."

Inside, where signs declared "Welcome Katerina," Katya received a backpack and a T-shirt, both emblazoned "LaSalle Academy" in the blue-and-gold

Then they headed off to class. Katya, accompanied by Star Rowe of San Francisco, her 10-year-old traveling companion and a Peacemaker scholarship winner, started with math.

Katya worked on a board used to construct mathematical figures and did well until she was asked to construct a baseball home plate. Somewhat baffled, she completed the figure with help.

In a social studies class, teacher Luba Markewycz surprised the group by speaking Russian.

'I'm Ukranian, all the way," said Markewycz, who left her homeland in 1950.

Asked what she had learned in her studies about America, Katya said, "Not so much the history, but we have studied the American writers. I'm going to learn American history while I am here.

She then moved to another classroom and received a scrapbook of letters the LaSalle students had written to her before she left MANILA, Philippines — The Presidential Commission on Human Rights will investigate reports of mass graves that are believed to contain foes of deposed President Ferdinand E. Marcos or his cronies, Chairman Jose Diokno said Friday.

Diokno told a news conference his committee received reports that the graves might hold remains of some of the more than 500 people believed abducted by the military or by private troops of provincial strongmen.

Three quit government

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti - Three members of Haiti's provisional government resigned Friday following a transportation strike, and police fired on protesters disrupting traffic with flower planters in the capital's main boulevard.

There were no reports of injuries. The government's Radio National announced the resignations of Alix Cineas, and army colonels Max Valls and Prosper Avril from what had been a six-man, civilian-miitary National Government Council. Another council member, Gerard Gourgue, who also served as minister of justice, resigned Thursday.

The radio report gave no reason for the resignations and there was no immediate comment from the departing council

PARIS - France's new conservative leaders are expected to emphasize fighting terrorism as much as changing the economy at their first meeting Saturday, but they may face the same frustration that dogged their leftist predecessors.

THE SECRET ARMIES, SPIES, COUNTERSPIES, AND SABOTEURS IN WORLD WAR II by Albert Marrin

The secret history of World War II in Europe is described through the activities of famous spies, counterspies, double agents and saboteurs. It's the story of how agents and saboteurs. It's the story of how British spy Intrepid and a four-man Norwegian team prevented the Germans from manufacturing an important ingre-dient for the atom bomb. The enigma machine, the key to German coded messages, the French resistance move-ment and the Csech Nationals' assassination of their Nazi leader are all stories in-cluded in this book.

Author explores murders

By JULIE AMPARANO Associated Press Writer

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) - A man who constantly professes love for his wife snaps one night. He grabs a knife and stabs her 15 times — once for every year of their marriage.

An overprotective mother, preparing to commit suicide, poisons and suffocates her two teen-age sons. She insists she didn't want them to be orphans — but never finds the nerve to take her own life.

To Dr. Martin Blinder, these shocking and puzzling cases in which the killer loves the victim are the stuff of daily life. As a leading courtroom psychiatrist who has testified in a succession of cases, he has distilled 20 years of work with nearly 300 killers in his book, "Lovers, Killers, Husbands and Wives" (St. Martin's Press, $12.95)

"In this country, the bedroom is second only to the highway as the scene of slaughter. Nothing that I had learned in psychiatry prepared me for that,' Blinder said in an interview.

"It doesn't take a genius to figure out why some bank robber blows away a guard that stands between him and the safe. But why, for heaven's sake, would a man kill the most important person in the world to him?'

Blinder's best-known case was Dan White, who murdered San Francisco Mayor George Moscone and city Supervisor Harvey Milk

At White's trial, Blinder testified White was suffering from diminished capacity, in part because of the large amounts of junk food he was eating.

The so-called "Twinkie defense" saved White from a murder conviction. He was found guilty of manslaughter, served about seven years in men as dissociative killers, prison and committed suicide because the conscious mind about a year after he was becomes "dissociated" from feelings of anger. His book discusses four other categories of killers as well:

 Powerless killers; inspired, ironically, by feelings of utter impotence.

Psychotic, or "crazy" killers; they invariably catch their victims completely by surprise, and are usually astonished at their actions when the episode passes.

 Masochistically dependent killers; people who feel they cannot live without someone, although the relationship is unsatisfactory. Psychopathic, or "cold-said. The situation blooded" killers; people who precipitated a dramatic simply have "a piece missing" in their minds, who feel psychological escape in no empathy for other people which the conscious minds and feel no remorse for goes blank and the unkilling.

In his book, the 47-year-old Blinder describes the lives of the killers, the events that crimes they committed.

One of the most heinous of Blinder's cases involved Michael and Darlene, whose sadomasochistic sex play got out of hand one day when they decided to live out one of their gruesome fantasies, Blinder said.

Michael had persuaded Darlene to help him murder her male friend, Corky. They went to his house, Darlene massaged Corky and, when he wasn't looking, Michael bashed in his skull with a hammer. They left several false clues, cut off his genitals and fled to the mountains.

Darlene was a powerless killer, Blinder said. She had no self-esteem and existed only to make her man happy.

When Blinder is not questioning killers, he teaches law at Hastings College of the Law and psychiatry at the University of California Medical Center. He also runs a family counseling practice.

"But this is boring," Blinder said of those jobs. "These killers, though, they're not. They're fascinating."

He found that the killers were not mutants or monsters.

"These people were very normal. You would be surprised to learn that they were killers, as were their neighbors," he said. "Once their moment has passed, you can have a very ordinary conversation with them, except, of course, for a few."

Most were eager to talk. "Unlike the criminal type, they are desperate to talk to someone, to learn about what they did," Blinder said. Years of experience have made him proficient in categorizing killers.

"After speaking with a killer only 30 minutes, I can tell what classification he belongs in," Blinder said. "That's the easy part. The difficult part is treating

Peters on excellence

Economic chaos building

By TOM PETERS

Do you clearly understand your competitors' sales compensation schemes and selling costs? Do you know the weighting of certain variables in their executive compensation formula? What about the way they measure customer service? Can you trace the career paths of your competitors' top 10 executives? How many of their careers are rooted in marketing, sales, finance, or operations backgrounds?

Competitive analysis is considered supreme by corporate strategy experts. Their concern is valid, but the models they profer to guide analyses are so complex they frighten most managers away. So most firms know pitifully little about their competitors.

A common pitfall is to assess yourself against yesterday's arch rival. For instance, if you're J.C. Penney, should you always be on the lookout for Sears? Or should you primarily be eyeing the new specialists, such as The Limited. Toys R Us or discounters such as Wal-Mart?

Besides ignoring new smaller firms, U.S. companies tend to ignore foreign competitors. One company in the chemical industry talks ceaselessly about import issues. and rightly so because it is losing market share to foreign competitors. Yet despite the generic awareness in its business-bybusiness competitive analyses, it fails to focus on day-to-day operating practices of specific offshore rivals.

IBM offers a better approach. It assesses itself against the very best competitor in each market segment in which it participates. The only danger is it, too, could miss those new arrivals. For years Xerox underestimated the significance of the early intrusion by Savin, Cannon, and others into segments that at the time were insignificant and in lower-ended

My advice, then, is to be sure to compare yourself: (1) with today's and tomorrow's rather than yesterday's competitors; (2) with specific international competitor firms; (3) with emerging small firms or small, highly-competitive pieces of larger firms that are not otherwise rivals and (4) against the keenest rivals in every market (geographic and product) in which you compete.

Even after the appropriate competitors are identified, the typical shallowness of analysis is alarming. Gross indicators such as market share, sales and earnings are conventional comparative yardstick. But they do not help you ferret out sustainable strategic opportunities. A second level of analysis is usually to assess competitive cost structures. But even this is not nearly enough.

Then there's the trap of focusing only on the technical product traits. Companies tend to spend large sums of money on "reverse engineering." The great 1984 cookie war is an extreme case, where Procter & Gamble sued competitors for flying over a plant in an effort to analyze smokestack effluent for clues to P&G's "soft inside, crunchy outside" cookie formula. Such efforts downplay factors that are more important to predicting future marketplace skirmishes. Frankly, Coca-Cola can learn more about the course of its future wars with Pepsi Co by thoroughly studying PepsiCo's nonbureaucratic, no-nonsense, "test it, try it ... now" environment than by chemical analysis of any new soft

Thus it is far more important to focus on common sense business queries. How do competitors organize for R&D? How high in the pecking order are the service manager and the sales manager? How much training is given to the people who answer the phones? How high is the division manager's spending authority?

The answers to such questions are terrific indicators of potential competitor responsiveness. For instance, if the competitor has a many-layered structure with low general manager spending authority, it's likely to be slow in responding to change.

But do not heed the temptation to unnecessarily complicate the quest. Keep it simple. I was delighted recently to meet a General Motors plant manager who purchased several Japanese cars, brought them to his plant and encouraged all his people to test drive them. This might have been grounds for dismissal not long ago. The point is to bring the competitor to life and to debunk the myths. The common practice is to confine all competitive analysis to a CIA-like "competitive in-telligence unit." That's better than nothing, but it misses a superb opportunity to engender widespread involvement in the business problems and solutions

So, a second set of adviced is: (1) routinely use competitors' products, shop at competitors' stores; (2) make sure the competitive analysis focuses as much or more on the organizational structure and style of management as on the cost of making the product or providing the service and (3) get everyone involved - educate the factory team, the MIS bunch, the product designers and sales persons about the best competitors' ways of doing 20-year-old instruments are still in use and are sent back occasionally to be calibrated.

It took two years after Ludlum set up shop in Sweetwater to make and sell the first instrument. Since then, the number of workers employed by Ludlum has grown from one to about 80. New products have been developed and added, such as a geiger counter that talks.

In 1962, Ludlum and his father, George, were looking for a place for the business.

They considered Big Spring, where they stayed at a motel without heat and ate at a restaurant without coffee.

Giving up on Big Spring, they headed east. They stopped for coffee at Sweetwater, liked what they saw, and eventually chose the town for the business. Ludlum Measurements has more than 4,000 customers, which includes practically every hospital and university in the country, federal and state agencies and nuclear power industries.

A native of Tulsa, Okla., Ludlum was reared in Kansas and Colorado. He graduated from Kansas State in Manhattan, Kan., and took a job with Eberline Instruments in Santa Fe, N.M. He was with the company five years before leaving to start his own business.

"Business has been flat for a couple of years, he says, but I expect to see growth again in the coming year."

Hawks get 1st region win; squeak by Hill County 14-13

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Writer

It was a long time coming and by no means was it easy, but the Howard College Hawks won their first Region V baseball game, a 14-13 nail-biter over the Hill County Rebels yesterday at Jack Barber

One could call it a "sweet and sour" win for the Hawks, who entered the encounter with a 0-5-1 region slate. Sweet is the fact that coach Bill Griffin's team, who had made the state playoffs the past two years, finally got the elusive win; and sour because the Hawks didn't play very well.

Eight errors is sound proof. Griffin was livid after the game. "That's about the sorriest we've played," said the Howard mentor. Eight errors, we played just about good enough to get beat.'

The Hawks didn't lose but they had their hands full when the final out was registered. Reliever John Wiles got Jimmy Newman to ground out to shortstop Steven Keller with a runner on third.

Wiles came on in relief of starter Bryan Willis, who got his fifth win of the year against one loss. Willis went seven-and-two-thirds innings, allowing 11 runs. Howard errors had to do with about half of the tallies

Howard led 14-10 going into the top of the ninth. But a double by Trey Gimbley and a triple by Ben Prodo helped the vistors score three runs before Wiles got out of

It's a good thing he did because the next Hill County batter was catcher Bubba Walters. Walters, who attented Howard for a semester last season, had a field day against Hawk pitching. He banged out two fence ringing doubles and a solo homer in the seventh, driving in

The game was tied 5-5 going into the botom of the fifth. Joe Cuellar's two-run homer in the third was the big blow for Howard. Howard took a 8-5 lead in the fifth thanks to two Hill errors, a single by Roland Gonzales and two wild pitches by Hill

In fact the Hawks' base running ability came into the spotlight in the win. Not normally a gambling team, Howard swiped nine bases.

Hill cut the lead to 8-7 in sixth but Howard rallied for four runs in the bottom half of the inning. The big blows were a base-clearing double by Joel Chimelis, who was thown out trying to stretch it into a triple. Frank Medina also had a single in Howard added two more unearned runs in the seventh. Gonzales got two RBI's on a fielding error by the shortstop. The miscue scored Bruce Smith and Ramces "The reason we won the game is because we stole nine bases," said Griffin. "I tell you v'at, we'll never beat a good ballclub playing like that. The win gives Howard a 16-9-1 overall record. Hill County falls to 0-6-1 in region play. The two teams will meet today in a double-header starting at 1 p.m. at Jack Barber game for the Hawks.

Thad Webber will hurl the first Howard College Hawks' Bruce Smith slides safely into second base after stealing the base in Region V action yesterday at Jack Barber Field. It was one of nine Howard steals in the game. Howard won the contest 14-13.

N.Y. Giants linebacker admits to drug problem

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — All-Pro linebacker Lawrence Taylor, fresh from tackiing his own problem, plans to become a spokesman in the fight against drugs.

The New York Giants player on Thursday admitted in a written statement that he has been undergoing treatment for "substance abuse."

"I do realize my responsibility to my family, my teammates, the NFL and most importantly to the youth of America to portray the proper image," Taylor said in a statement released by the team. "I will make the most determined effort of my career to restore that image and to ensure everyone that I still retain those same original aspirations.

The disclosure by Taylor comes one month after reports that the 27-year-old five-time All Pro had voluntarily entered a drug rehabilitation center. Neither Taylor, the Giants nor the National Football League commented on those reports.

Giants Coach Bill Parcells said Taylor would have his support, and he said he expects his troubled star that Taylor "is one of my players.

to be at a mid-May minicamp.

"We came here together," said Parcells, who joined the Giants as defensive coordinator coach in 1981, Taylor's rookie year. "We've had a good relationship.'

Parcells admitted he has talked to Taylor by telephone "from time to time" since reports of his entering a treatment center, saying only

He said Taylor had asked him to for how long he has been undergohave the Giants release the statement, but Parcells would say little

"It's his statement," he said. "I thought it was pretty conclusive.'

Tom Power, a team spokesman, said the Giants would not have any other comment on what he called 'a private matter." Taylor did not indicate where or ing treatment, saying only, "I have just completed the first phase in what I know will be a difficult and ongoing battle to overcome these problems.

'In the past year, due to substance abuse, I have left the road that I had hoped to follow both as a player and as a public figure,'

Wolfpack advances

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) -Chris Washburn and Charles Shackleford supplied North Carolina State with an unstoppable one-two punch inside and the Wolfpack used their size advantage in a 70-66 victory over Iowa State Friday night in the semifinals of the NCAA Midwest Regional.

Washburn, North Carolina State's 6-foot-11 sophomore, scored 20 points and Shackleford, a 6-10 freshman, had 22.

In the other semifinal. seeded and second-ranked Kansas went against Michigan State, with the winner dueling North Carolina State, 19-12, in the Midwest title game Sunday. The winner of that game advances to the Final Four in Dallas on March 29.

Washburn scored 16 points as the Wolfpack took a 40-29 halftime lead. Iowa State's Jeff Grayer and Sam Hill sparked a 14-4 Cyclone run at the outset of the second half that sliced North Carolina State's lead to 44-43

Iowa State pulled even briefly at 47-47 on a 20-foot jump shot by Jeff Hornacek. But Ernie Myers, with mostly 12- and 14-foot jump shots. helped North Carolina State break the Iowa State momentum and regain control midway through the second half

A 15-foot jump shot by Hill brought the Cyclones to within sion, hit a jump shot, a three-point play and a free throw that gave the Wolfpack a 70-61 lead with 55 seconds remaining

Iowa State, which beat Miami of Ohio and Michigan in the first two rounds, got 21 points each from Grayer and Hill. The Cyclones end ed their season at 22-11.

Myers added 16 for the Wolfpack

Middies keep rolling

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — David Robinson hit a fivefoot jump shot with six seconds remaining to thwart Cleveland State's second-half comeback and give the 17th-ranked Middies a 71-70 victory Friday night and a berth in the NCAA East Regional

In Sunday's final, Navy, 30-4, will meet the winner between topranked Duke and DePaul in Friday night's second game of the 64-61. Then Shackleford, in succes- Meadowlands Arena doubleheader.

Clinton Smith missed an 18-footer at the buzzer as Cleveland State had its 14-game winning streak snapped and finished 29-4.

Navy has won 16 straight games. Cleveland State had gone ahead 70-69 on Smith's steal and layup with 27 seconds remaining. Robinson, a 6-foot-11 junior center who when he picked up three personal fouls, finished with 22 points, one behind his teammate, senior guard Kylor Whitaker.

Navy held 11-point leads four times in the first half and led 39-30 at intermission. But the Vikings came out charged up in the second half, outscoring the Middies 8-2 at the start, eventually pulling ahead 56-55 on Ken "Mouse" McFadden's jumper with 8:40 remaining.

With McFadden and Smith leading the way, Cleveland State stayed in front but never by more than three points. Robinson's jam cut the deficit to 68-67 with 2:25 remaining and Vernon Butler scored on a drive with 1:15 to give NNavy a 69-68 lead.

Butler added 16 points for Navy, while McFadden and Smith each finished with 16 for the Mid-Continent Conference champions, had only five points in the first half who were the 14th seed in the East

By The Associated Press Kentucky, having established one 4-0 record, would like nothing better than to post another one. Not so fast, says Don Redden of Louisiana State

"I think you can just throw out the prior three games because this is for the Final Four and I think this is going to be a great basketball game," Redden said, looking back at LSU's three losses to the Wildcats this season and ahead to their meeting Saturday in the NCAA basketball tournament's Southeast Regional final at Atlanta.

Also Saturday, Louisville plays Auburn for the West Regional championship at Houston.

Third-ranked Kentucky, the No. 1 seed in the Southeast Region, polished off Alabama 68-63 Thursday night to finish 1985-86 at 4-0 against the Crimson Tide. And the Wildcats would like nothing more than to wind up the same against unranked LSU, a 70-64 semifinal winner over Georgia Tech thanks to Redden's 27 points.

'If the pressure's on anybody, it's Kentucky," Redden said. "They're the No. 1 seed and all their fans will be disappointed. They're supposed to get to the Final Four. We're kind of like the Cinderella team. ... We're the 11th seed. We don't have any pressure. We're just going out, playing hard and having fun.

John Williams figured to be the key to LSU's game against Georgia Tech. The sixth-ranked Yellow Jackets held him to five points, 13 below his average. But Tech didn't count on Redden.

'Redden was the guy I think that hurt us," said guard Mark Price.

who led Yellow Jacket scoring with time shots. That's tough to beat.' Alabama knew it would have to control Kenny Walker if it hoped to pull off an upset. It couldn't do the job, so Walker did, scoring 22 points to lead the Wildcats within one victory of a berth in the Final Four. "Kenny Walker is ready when all the marbles are on the line," he said of himself.

Coach Sonny Smith thinks his unranked Auburn Tigers will be in Dallas next weekend. "I have a Final Four feeling about this team. Much more than I had last year," he said following the Tigers' 70-63 victory over Nevada-Las Vegas. A year ago they lost to North Carolina in the Southeast semifinals.

If Auburn hopes to make it to the Final Four, it will have to do it against a seventh-ranked Louisville team which, Coach Denny Crum says, has no intention of taking the Tigers lightly.

"They are a strong team and rebound as well as any team we've played," Crum said after the Cardinals defeated North Carolina for the first time in 57 years, 94-79.

A year ago, the Final Four was little more than a Big East festival with three teams from the conference - Villanova, Georgetown and St. John's - in attendance and Villanova beating Georgetown for the title

This year the NCAA tournament has become a showcase for the Southeastern Conference, with three of its teams - Kentucky. LSU and Auburn - among the final eight survivors.

Thomas grabs WFS gold; gets best of East German

GENEVA. Switzerland (AP) -American Debi Thomas won the women's World Figure Skating Championship Friday night, using a colorful program in the finale to beat defending champion Katarina Witt of East Germany.

The 18-year-old Thomas, of San Jose, Calif., was edged in the night's long program by Witt, who staged the night's most dramatic skating to the score from "West Side Story.

But Thomas' elegant and exciting performance was good enough for second in the long program. And that, coupled with her first-place showing in Wednesday night's short program, gave the United States winners in both men's and women's categories. Brian Boitano of Sunnyvale, Calif, won the men's competition Thursday night.

Thomas, a pre-med student at Stanford University, also became the first black to win a world title. American Tiffany Chin won the bronze medal

"I don't believe it," a tearful, ecstatic Thomas said as she sat with her coach Alex McGowan, her arms filled with flowers. "I even landed that double axel."

Wearing a sleek sequined black. silver and purple dress with a fringed skirt, Thomas came out skating hard to a combination of Duke Ellington and ballet music. She landed four triple jumps, including the tricky triple-double toe loop combination. Then came a beautiful double axel that seemed to float on air.

But Thomas, who knew that a first or second-place showing Friday would give her the championship, fell just shy of the finesse and panache that made Witt the star of the long program.

Thomas had the crowd's roaring approval, but Witt also brought the fans to their feet by unfolding the hopes and sorrows of a young woman to the Leonard Bernstein

With her skating displaying a wide range of emotions, Witt launched into the strains of "I Feel Pretty" with a big smile and a sparkling triple-double toe loop combination. She then played the tough street woman with some brash and electric footwork, followed by a dramatic flourish of despair, draping her body and black flowing dress down toward

The performance got her the night's only two perfect scores of 6 from the West German and Soviet judges — along with six 5.9s and a 5.8 for composition and style.

Thomas finished with an overall factored placement total of 3.6. followed by Witt at 4.4 and Chin at Thomas was fifth in the Worlds last year.

Chin, the 1985 U.S. champion and bronze medal-winner at last year's World Championships, maintained her third-place spot overall with a sprightly program featuring lots of jumps and a spectacular spin combination at the end

But she was beaten in the long program by Canadian Elisabeth Manley, who put on the night's cleanest series of triple jumps to win four of the top nine scores. Her third place in the long program moved Manley up five positions to finish fifth overall behind Soviet Kira Ivanova. Ivanova had an 11 0 score, while Manley came in at

"Hey," Thomas had said after watching Boitano skate his prizewinning number, "I just got inspired
