Spring Council delays budget revision

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

With Councilmen Russ McEwen and Johnny Rutherford questioning several of the changes, the council voted Tuesday to delay its midyear budget revision.

McEwen urged the 3 percent across-the-board pay raise for city employees, if eventually approved as part of the revised budget package, be made retroactive to April 1. Budget deliberations will likely stretch on for several more questions" about the budget, some originating as late as Tuesday morning, but refused to discuss specific

Rutherford said he wants further explanation on the proposed purchase of a $4,500 word processor for code enforcement, and why a $52,000 renovation to the Municipal Auditorium was not included in the original budget.

Before delaying budget action, the council awarded a $289,677 bid to Wardroup and Assoc. of Lubbock

McEwen said he had "many for retrofiting the wastewater slated to begin April 7 with operatreatment plant.

The plant has a history of failing to treat wastewater properly and will undergo renovation to the primary digester dome, gas piping system, primary clarifier, sludge collection system and a trickling filter. Other work to be done includes removal of grit and sludge from the digester and the installation of additional control valves.

According to the plan presented to the Texas Water Commission in Austin Jan. 20, construction is tional testing and tuning conducted July 15. The project is scheduled to be completed by Sept. 1 and in permit by Oct. 1.

Public Works Director Tom Decell said this morning the time table will hold except for the digester dome which takes seven months for delivery.

In other business the council: Amended and passed on first reading an ordinance making the purchaser of a hotel liable for the city hotel tax owed by the seller of the property. The ordinance is patterned after the state law governing hotel sales, said City Attorney Doyle Curtis.

Rutherford sought and was granted changes in the proposed ordinance concerning the length of time the city secretary had to mail statements to the purchaser. His change changed the time limit from 90 days to one year. Also, the wording of the ordinance was changed so that requests for cer-

Americans fear rise in terrorist activity

WASHINGTON (AP) - A majority of Americans believe the U.S. attacks on Libyan patrol boats and a radar site will result in increased terrorism against U.S. citizens around the world, according to a poll published today.

The poll, reported in today's editions of USA Today, found that more than 76 percent of those questioned saw the potential for increased terrorist activity following the confrontations between Libyan and American forces Monday and Tuesday in the Gulf of Sidra.

The poll also found that 67 percent supported U.S. military retaliation although Libyan missiles failed to hit American planes. Sixty-four percent said the Libyan incident increases the chance of war in the Middle East, but the respondents were split over whether the incident increases the chances of war with the Soviet Seventy-four percent agreed that showing the U.S. isn't afraid to use its military strength will promote peace in the long run.

Mattox says nursing home trial sets fresh guidelines

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The murder-by-neglect trial of a nursing home company and four people ended in a mistrial after the jury deadlocked, but the state's top prosecutor says some benefits will come from the situation.

"The case has set new standards for enforcement and accountability within the nursing home industry," Attorney General Jim Mattox said Tues day after Judge Don Morgan declared a mistrial.

It "firmly established that you cannot mistreat our senior citizens without being called before the bar of justice," Mattox said.

Morgan acted after the jury reported failing to reach a verdict in 36 hours of deliberations that began March 19.

Prosecutors said they would seek dismissal of the charges against Autumn Hills Convalescent Centers Inc.; president Robert Gay, 59; vice president Ron Pohlmeyer, 43; nursing consultant Mattie Locke, 44; and former Texas City nursing home administrator Virginia Wilson, 64.

The defendants were charged with murder in the Nov. 20, 1978, death of Elnora Breed, 87, six weeks after she entered an Autumn Hills home

Names in the news

By The Associated Press NEW YORK — Eggs usually come cheaper by the dozen, but not to publisher Malcolm Ferbes, who has bought his 12th Faberge imperial Easter egg.

"The Rosebud Egg" was a gift from Czar Nicholas II of Russia to his wife, Alexandra, in 1895, and was long thought to be missing, Forbes' son Christopher writes in the April issue of Art & Antiques magazine.

But it turned up several months ago, and Malcolm Forbes shelled out an undisclosed amount for it, in one of two recent acquisitions.

In London, he paid $148,770 Tuesday for a jeweled snuff box presented by Queen Victoria to explorer Sir Henry M. Stanley, Christie's auctioneers said.

Don Garson, spokesman for Forbes, said the price for the 21/2-inch-long egg did not exceed the $1.8 million the publisher of Forbes magazine paid at a June auction for his 11th Faberge imperial egg.

The latest egg will be placed on display this week along with Forbes' other Faberge treasures at his Fifth Avenue gallery, Garson

The golden egg with rose diamonds opens to a velvet-lined interior that contains a life-size rosebud of gold. The acquisition of the Rosebud egg gives Forbes two more than the Soviet government.

LEONIA, N.J. - A teacher hoping to inspire her students to read for fun has given them an incentive: a chance to buy autographs and other mementos donated by celebrities such as Nancy Reagan and Clint Eastwood for an auction.

Students at Leonia Middle School since September have been accumulating make-believe money for leisure reading, and in May they'll be able to use the credit to bid on the items.

"The purpose was to get them to read for the enjoyment of reading," said Helene Albrecht, the sixth-grade teacher who initiated the project.

Students who read books on their own and answer a few questions about the books are given between $1 and $5 of scrip, which is deposited in a pretend bank account, Ms. Albrecht said.

The students wrote to celebrities, asking for autographs or other articles that could be auctioned, said Ms. Albrecht.

One of the most coveted items is a giant boxing glove donated by New York Mayor Edward Koch, she said. San Francisco 49ers quarterback Joe Montana sent a team T-shirt. Some of those who sent autographed pictures included Mrs. Reagan, Eastwood, Dudley Moore, Lionel Ritchie, Brooke Shields, Robert Redford, Joan Rivers, George Burns, Tony Dorsett, Chevy Chase and Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio.

Ms. Albrecht said some students had read close to 30 books since September and had saved nearly $200 worth of credits.

He said the premium was less because the company's extended coverage premium rates had gone down and because the district had not had any significant lesses. Last year, the premium went up a considerable amount, Hansen said. The lower rate this year is still not as low as it was two years ago, he said.

• Voted to purchase 25 round tables for the cafeteria for $4,000 from HBJ Beckley Cardy of Lubbock. The bid was not the lowest, but the tables are of a superior quality, Hansen said. The present cafeteria tables are over 15 years old, and they're wern out, he said.

• Voted to purchase a medium durly bus for $43,946 from Southwest Metrotrans of Dallas. The bus is the same kind as the one the college currently has, Riley said. The old bus, a 1947 Chevrolet, has been having mechanical trouble this year and has become a safety concern, he said. He said the bus will be used mainly for the women's basketball toam and other student activities.

e Voted to purchase a year's worth of copy machine paper, 200 cartons, for $4,380 from Xerox of Deltas. The price represents a savings from the usual price, Manson said. The paper is $21 percaton, and the college had been paying up to $38 per carton previously, he said.

e Voted to purchase stage drapes for Dorothy Garrett Collseum for $2,324 from Royal Draperies of Big Spring. The present draperies have been in see since the collseum opened some eight years ego, and they may disintigrate with the next cleaning, Riley said.

• Approved the hiring of John Pavolich to teach a course to train prisoners at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp to make camouflage jackets. The camp recently received a contract from the U.S. government to manufacture the jackets, Riley said.
• Approved an open-end contract for Wayland Baptist University of Plainview to use district facilities at night to teach their upper level courses.

WASHINGTON — The government is taking extra security precautions at potential terrorist targets in the United States and at embassies overseas in the face of the latest hostilities with Libya.

The General Services Administration said Tuesday it has sent instructions to security guards in the 7,200 civilian federal properties it manages directing them to be especially vigilant.

Divorce rate on the rise

WASHINGTON - Americans were about twice as likely to marry as to divorce last year, but new government statistics show the divorce rate was rising while marriage was on the decline.

There were 10.2 marriages per 1,000 Americans in 1985, down 3 percent from 1984 and the lowest rate since 1977, according to the annual statistical summary from the National Center for Health Statistics.

At the same time, the divorce rate climbed 2 percent to 5 divorces per 1,000 people to match the rate of 1983.

Research throws light

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. - New research suggests that the AIDS virus may kill key immune system cells by making them commit suicide — an idea that could lead to ways to stave off the disease, a researcher says.

The AIDS virus may make the cells produce abnormally high amounts of a protein called lymphotoxin, which then kills the cells, Nancy Ruddle, associate professor of epidemiology and public health at the Yale University School of Medicine, said Tuesday.

Memorial with words

HOUSTON - Singer John Denver has penned a song in memory of the seven Challenger victims and says he hopes to perform it at a special benefit for the astronauts' children.

Denver said the song, called "Flying for Me," may make its debut at the sold-out Challenger Benefit performance scheduled for Thursday night in Houston.

"I would like very much to sing it there," Denver said in a telephone interview from Hawaii, where he was putting finishing touches on the song. The final decision must be made by the Houston sponsors of the benefit, he said.

Eight people dead in Christian East Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A car bomb exploded outside an office of President Amin Gemayel's Phalange Party in Christian east Beirut today, killing at least eight people and wounding 39, officials said.

Moslem militias rocketed two Christian neighborhoods after the car bomb exploded. Rockets crashing into the residential Ashrafiyeh neighborhood, where the car bomb exploded, and the Dikwani area killed two people and wounded 15 others, the police

Beirut radio stations also reported that earlier today a bomb exploded in a six-story apartment block housing a Phalange center in another east Beirut neighborhood, injuring six people. Police reported seven people died and 30 were wounded in overnight battles between Christians and Moslems in Beirut and the hills east of the capital.

Police explosives expert Roland Jawdeh estimated the car bomb contained as much as 440 pounds of TNT. A reporter for the Voice of Lebanon radio on the scene of the car bombing outside a shopping center said there were "dozens of casualties, and more people trapped in burning buildings." Civil defense officials said at least eight bodies had been dragged from the rubble.

The blast set the nearby building housing the Phalange office on fire.

Phalangist militiamen fired automatic rifles in the air to clear traffic for ambulances in the narrow, smoke-filled street.

The explosions were the latest in a chain of bombings in east Beirut, many of them against Phalange offices, amid a campaign by Syrian-backed leftist, Moslem and Christian factions to oust Gemayel.

Phalange chairman Elie Karameh visited the scene of the explosion and denounced the bombing as a "criminal terrorist act."

Overnight riots kill 13

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Police said today they shot and killed 13 blacks in four overnight clashes with rioters, and courts overturned banning orders against three prominent anti-apartheid activists.

Among those whose banning orders were canceled was Rowley Arenstein, a 68-year-old white communist from Durban who had been banned continuously since 1960. He also had been banned for two years in the 1950s.

Aquino action opposed

MANILA, Philippines - Members of Ferdinand E. Marcos' former ruling party today called President Corazon Aquino's interim constitution a "Magna Carta of enslavement" that has no legal force.

Meanwhile, an assemblyman said that many of Marcos' former opponents in the National Assembly also opposed the "freedom constitution" Mrs. Aquino signed Tuesday. It abolishes the assembly and gives her sole lawmaking powers.

Right for Marcos money

BERN, Switzerland — A Philippine government envoy said he would meet with Swiss officials after they ordered an unprecedented freeze on bank accounts linked to deposed President Ferdinand Marcos.

Pedro Yap, a member of the new government's Commission on Good Government, said he hoped to determine in a meeting with Justice Ministry officials today what legal action the Philippines should take to claim money Marcos is alleged to have salted away in Switzerland.

Midgetman critics have wrong logic

Getting more bang for every buck of Pentagon spending is a principle on which both hawks and doves agree. No one prefers waste over thrift. But the choice is sometimes more complicated. The growing congressional debate over the Midgetman missile illustrates how a little efficiency can be a dangerous thing.

Midgetman, which is now being developed, is a small, mobile intercontinental ballistic missile, designed to carry just one nuclear warhead. The single-warhead feature is its virtue - or, if you believe the critics, its defect. It represents a sharp departure from the policy, followed since the late 1960s, of piling more and more warheads onto each missile.

That feature, combined with the missile's mobility, makes it an expensive weapon. Deploying 500 Midgetmen would cost at least $43 billion over the life of the system. It also makes it, by conventional measurements, an inefficient weapon. Warhead for warhead, the Midgetman costs three to four times as much as the MX.

Judging from these numbers, it makes perfect sense to question the missile's value. Sen. Pete Wilson, a California Republican who is leading the fight against the Midgetmen, wants to put three warheads on each missile or else to scrap the weapon entirely.

But the numbers tell only the least important part of the story. Limiting the Midgetman to one warhead has a critical purpose or rather two. One is ensuring the missile's capacity to survive a Soviet first strike. The other is to eliminate any possibility of a Soviet first strike.

The Midgetman was conceived as a remedy for the most dangerous problem of the nuclear era - the vulnerability of American land-based missiles to a Soviet attack. Those ICBMs made tempting targets because they were fixed in silos and because they carried three (and, in the case of the proposed MX, 10) warheads. The growing accuracy of Soviet missiles made it theoretically possible for them to destroy one of our missiles, and at least three of our warheads, with just two warheads of their own - a profitable exchange.

The result was to enhance the likelihood of nuclear war. The Soviets now had an incentive to launch a nuclear attack, namely to eviscerate our retaliatory force. The U.S. also had an incentive to launch, namely to keep our landbased missiles from being destroyed

The Midgetman removes these incentives. Its mobility makes it harder for the Soviets to hit, reducing the chance that a first strike will succeed. Its single warhead makes it a less attractive target, since the Soviets would have to expend twice as many warheads as they would destroy.

If the U.S. and the Soviet Union were open to a reasonable arms control treaty, the innovation would do much to stabilize the nuclear balance. A sound agreement would restrict the two sides to roughly equal numbers of highly accurate single-warhead missiles, making it impossible for either to knock out the other side's landbased force. It would also constrain the growing accuracy of submarine-based missiles, which could upset the balance. But an agreement looks unlikely.

That is where the mobility becomes important. A Midgetman in fixed silos could be easily trumped by the Soviets, who can deploy additional warheads cheaper than we can deploy additional missiles. Absent a limit on offensive firepower, the only way to ensure Midgetman's survivability is to put it on mobile launchers that can present the enemy with an insoluble targeting problem. And the only way to keep it sufficiently mobile is to limit it to one warhead.

Scrapping the original plan for this missile means retreating from a promising advance toward a safer world. Loading more warheads onto the Midgetman or cancelling it would surely save dollars - but only by raising the risk of nuclear war. In this debate, the critics know the price of everything and the value of

Highest office insulates one from life's simple pleasures

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON - "What do the simple folk do/ To help them escape when they're blue? ... Oh, what do simple folk do (that) we do not?

Ronald Reagan, the easygoing charmer who gets along effortlessly with kings and commoners, barons and blue collars, would be the last man imaginable to sing the "Camelot" version of King Arthur. Unlike the Lerner-Loewe ruler, Reagan knows what he's missing. In a recent conversation with Dale Van Atta in the Oval Office, Reagan sounded almost wistful as he reflected on the "simple pleasures" that are denied him as president. "Yes," he said, "you miss the simple thing of — you stand upstairs there and you look out the window and see the people walking by and you say, 'Hey, you know, I can't do that anymore.'

"I can't go down there and say I'm going to walk down to the drugstore and buy a magazine, or drop in some place for a cup of coffee. And you do miss

The president added that there is another simple pleasure he misses - one that probably only someone who grew up in small-town or rural America would appreciate: "The only driving I get to do is with the Jeep at the ranch — within the borders of

This led Reagan to an interesting observation about the cocoonlike existence of a modern American president:

"I have to tell you, there is something that I'm very much aware of. I didn't get to be so much aware of it until about the time we were leaving Sacramento, but now it is true here in Washington

'Now, I've been here in Washington in years past when we'd rent a car and we'd go wherever we wanted to go: out to dinner and that sort of thing. You'd be surprised, sitting in the back seat with someone else driving, how quickly you lose any sense of where things are. I found out as the years went on in Sacramento that, by golly, if they turn me loose in the front seat of the car, I couldn't find my way even back and forth to work.

"And the same is true here. Now we go to the places where they take us, like banquets and so forth at the hotels, and I remember back when I used to drive to those places on my own. Now I have to say, you get me outside these gates, I couldn't find my way any place."

At this point, White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan chipped in: "I doubt that the president recognizes the front door or the entryway of any ma-

The president laughed in agreement. For security reasons, he is usually taken in and out the side or rear entrance to a hotel or auditorium.

'What was it," the president said, "that Kitty in 'Kitty Foyle' - what was the line that they used about what I now see in hotels? She was using it to describe coming into Chicago on the train, and she said it's like seeing civilization with its pants down."

The president's reference was to a 1940 tearjerker, for which Ginger Rogers won an Academy Award in the title role. (Ironically for a conservative president, the screenplay — and presumably the line Reagan remembered — was written by the late Dalton Trumbo, one of the Hollywood Ten, who went to prison for refusing to answer congressional questions about their allegedly pro-communist sympathies.)

AIDS & SWINE FEVER: Dr. John Beldekas of Boston University reports in the British medical journal Lancet that he has detected what may be African swine fever virus in blood samples of 921 victims of AIDS. This could mean that other factors are involved in the deadly AIDS virus than have previously been reported. It could also mean that despite vehement government denials — the African swine fever virus is present in the United States. This could be disastrous for the U.S. pork industry. As we reported earlier, Beldekas claims the government has tried to block his research, but he expects the study to continue.

It's an abomination! Our namesake, the watering hole of West Texas, the only spring of its size for 100 miles, is ringed by crud. It isn't bad enough the town's litter bugs have transformed fences into bulletin boards, empty lots into garbage dumps and our streets into glass depositories; the slobs have gone so far as to desecrate a natural phenomenon that has been central to our heritage for more than 100 years.

But griping and belly-aching, while useful in venting frustration, does nothing to restore beauty to the banks of the spring. And all the pleading in the world won't make a leopard change its spots or a litter bug to change his ways.

But something can be done about the Big Spring and on April 12 those who care about the splendid pool will have a chance to pitch in and pick up the mess that circles its shores.

The clean-up is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee and it's suggested you come with a rake, a hoe and/or pruning shears and the determination to make a difference in the appearance of a great natural resource.

The spring spruce-up will begin at 9 a.m. and end at noon with refreshment on hand. See you

Both sides gain from Gulf of Sidra clash with courage makes a majority.' By R. GREGORY NOKES Andrew Jackson, U.S. president WASHINGTON (AP) - Although U.S. officials insist they didn't try to pick a fight with Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy, the confrontation over the Gulf of Sidra must have provided rich satisfaction to American policymakers eager to settle old scores with

The decision to send one, two and then a third aircraft carrier to patrol the waters off the coast of Libya was a clear challenge to Khadafy.

The battle lines were unmistakeably drawn after the Libyan leader drew his so-called Line of Death across the mouth of the gulf, which the administration claims is in international

The Americans, after claiming the legal right to be there, proceeded to test their claim and, at the same time, to test Khadafy's will to carry out his threats against supposed trespassers. If the U.S. forces were looking for a fight, the Libyans obliged by firing rockets at the Navy planes flying above the Mediterranean.

When the Americans ventured into the Gulf of Sidra in August 1981, there also was a clash, with Libya losing two aircraft after attacking American planes.

Again, Khadafy dared the Americans to cross the line, and the Americans promised they would in a counter-dare to Khadafy. The outcome was predictable, and it happened Monday.

American planes ventured across the line. The Libyans fired at the Americans, and the Americans fired back again with devastating firepower from their three-carrier task force. There was widespread support in Congress for the action. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said the administration's "actions in protecting America's armed forces in international waters are justified." But there were dissenters. "I don't understand what we're trying to prove by risking the lives of American servicemen," said Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore. He said the administration was "engaging in child-like games of dangerous clown." While the surface issue was the sanctity of outside access to international waters, the reasons for Monday's clash went far deeper The administration has seen the hand of

'dare and double-dare' with a sick and Khadafy behind global terrorism throughout the Middle East and his presence in anti-American turbulence ranging as far as Nicaragua. Reflecting the American contempt for Khadafy's Libya, President Reagan warned in his March 16 speech on Nicaragua that the Sandinista government in Managua was becoming "a second Cuba, a second Libya, right on the doorsteps of the United States."

The clash would have occurred much sooner if the State Department had had its way. Secretary of State George P. Shultz wanted to strike at terrorist training camps in Libya after the massacres at the Rome and Vienna airports last December in which five Americans were among the 20 dead. But Shultz was overruled by the White House and Pentagon.

The Palestinian terrorists who committed the massacres carried Tunisian passports said to have come from Libya. Using that as the evidence of Libyan complicity in the attacks, the administration imposed trade sanctions against Khadafy and urged other nations

However, other nations did not join, and many flatly told the administration they thought the administration's evidence of Libyan involvment in the airport attacks was inconclusive. Israel, the ultimate target of the attacks, said the terrorists were trained in Syrian territory in Lebanon, not in Libya, and that the Libyans were not directly responsible.

Nonetheless, the Americans wanted to teach Khadafy a lesson, and did so Monday. Like the earlier Gulf of Sidra clash in 1981, it may quickly die down. But also like the earlier incident, it may not have any lasting effect in making Khadafy's behavior any more acceptable to Washington.

Despite all the administration attempts to put "Khadafy in his box" — as Shultz once described the American goal — the Libyan leader has continued to defy the United States. He forged an alliance with a pro-U.S. government in Morocco, and applauded as a pro-U.S. government in Sudan fell last year.

Militarily, Libya was the loser Monday. It inflicted no apparent damage on American forces, while losing two patrol boats and sustaining a damaging attack on a missile installation. But politically, it remains to be seen who will gain. Perhaps both will.

The administration could show the world that it is not a helpless giant in the face of terrorism, that sooner or later it will make socalled "outlaw regimes" pay a price for their

But Khadafy might gain too. Like the United States, he seemed to want the fight. As before, other Arab governments who dislike his erratic behavior may feel compelled to rally to his side in the face of American military

Plunging oil prices take toll on Texas companies

HOUSTON (AP) - More headaches are in store for oil companies and oil-dependent Texas because OPEC oil ministers have again failed to stablize the price of the precious crude.

'Ît's all a big mess right here, right now," Houston independent oil analyst Dale Steffes said Monday. "We've got to worry more about import oil to keep the U.S. industry viable."

The 13 Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries oil ministers, meeting in Geneva, failed after nine days to agree on a comprehensive plan to boost the declining price of oil. The ministers are set to meet again April 15 to try to agree on cutting back on oil production.

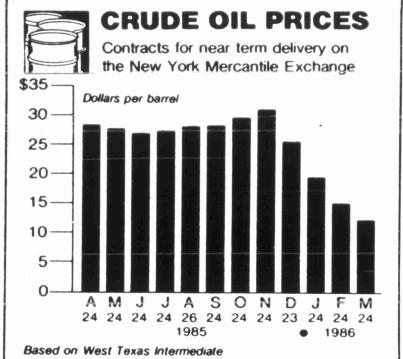

Meanwhile, Texas and especially Houston, which boasts that it is the oil capital of the world, are having to tighten to their belts. Every time the per-barrel price of oil drops $1, the state loses $100 million and 14.000 to 23.000 jobs - about two to three jobs per 1,000 workers, officials said.

There were 59,300 fewer oilrelated jobs in the Houston area in January than in 1982, when the oil industry was booming, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics Steffes and other oil analyst say OPEC's indecision is not surprising.

"They just can't come together with their set of morality and their set of individual needs," Steffes said.

Jack Carney, project manager for short-range forecasts at Houston's Pace Consultants Inc.,

"It's hard to believe that OPEC would react in such a time frame,' he said, predicting that the earliest OPEC would agree on a stabilized price of oil would be in about three

Oil futures prices dropped sharply after the conclusion of Monday's OPEC meeting. On the New York Mercantile Exchange, the May delivery price of West Texas Intermediate, the main U.S. crude and an important market indicator, dropped to $11.20 a barrel, down $2.74 from Friday's closing price, before recovering to just Barney White, a spokesman for Zapata Corp., said the unpredictable price of oil may cause a halt in production.

Since oil companies don't know what the price of oil will be, they are not spending any money on production, he said. White said drilling companies like Zapata are getting hit the hardest since production is

"Spending for exploration drilling has come to a standstill," White said. "If it continues for a few more months it'll destroy more drilling

Spring break fatal for five students

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Hotel officials are asking the state attorney's office to crack down on rowdy spring-break activity that has resulted in the deaths of two college students in falls from hotel balconies in Daytona Beach.

Two other students have fallen to their deaths this spring at hotels in Fort Lauderdale and Sanibel. A fifth student fell to his death from a drawbridge in Miami. 'We want to make an example of some of these students," said Dick Moores, president of the Motel-Hotel Association of the Daytona Resort Area. "Maybe if we parade them around the pool deck with of the shenanigans."

Blistering sunburn doubles cancer risk later

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) A person who suffers even one case of blistering sunburn in adolescence may double his risk of developing a serious skin cancer later in life, a researcher reported

Tuesday.
Another study reported Tuesday suggested that psychological factors may influence the course of the skin cancer called melanoma. That idea has been advanced for other forms of cancer and has ignited debate in medical circles.

Melanoma is fatal in about one in

The sunburn study followed research indicating that melanoma, unlike other, milder skin cancers, does not seem to be closely related to an individual's lifetime exposure to the sun, said Dr. Arthur Sober, associate dermatology professor at Harvard Medical School.

But studies have shown that people living closer to the equator have a higher risk of melanoma. For example, the 1980 melanoma rate in Connecticut was about a third the rate in Arizona, Sober

So investigators have wondered whether intense exposure, or bad sunburn, during early life might be a factor in later development of the disease, he said.

His study matched 111 melanoma patients with 107 healthy people of similar ages and same sex, and compared their memories of sun-related experiences during childhood and adolescence.

Results showed that people who had suffered a blistering sunburn in adolescence ran twice the risk of later melanoma. About half the melanoma patients had experienced such sunburns, while less than a third of the other group did, Sober

The study also found that people who took vacations of a month or more in sunny areas during adolescent years ran a risk of melanoma 21/2 time greater than those who had not.

Sober blames such vacations and other short-term sun exposure for a dramatic rise in melanoma rates. which he said have increased 700 percent between 1940 and 1980, and nearly doubled in the past seven years. The cancer society expects 23,000 melanoma cases this year and 5,600 deaths.

"Our feeling is people probably are spending a lot more time in-doors in their work and their schooling, and a lot more time outdoors in intense exposure situations," Sober said.

"It's now becoming more popular to go down to the Caribbean for a tan, and you only have a week" to do all the tanning, he

Melanoma is a cancer of the pigment-producing skin cells, and sunlight may nudge those cells or moles toward cancer, Seber said. "I would like to see all children protected from traumatic sun exposures," especially those at higher risk, such as those with light complections, tendency to sunburr or relatives who've had melanoma Sober said.

Protection can include avoiding sunlight during its maximum intensity, between 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., he said. A good sunblocker with high protection factor and wearing a shirt at the pool when not swimming are other steps, he said.

New shuttle boss pledges redesign of rocket booster new shuttle boss promised NASA workers Tuesday that every element of the spaceship will be reexamined and, if necessary, redesigned before it flies again, and said when launches do resume the emphasis will be on "conservative flying.

In addition, Richard H. Truly, a former astronaut and NASA's associate administrator for space flight, said in a speech that he will direct a reassessment of NASA's management, and a redesign by "this nation's best talent" of the rocket booster suspected of causing the destruction of the shuttle Challenger.

Space shuttle flights have been suspended since Challenger exploded on Jan. 28, killing its sevenmember crew

Truly said he could offer no date when flights will resume, or say how many flights would be planned initially.

But he said "the safest, best way to get started again" would be with a daylight launch of an allastronaut crew and a payload of the type that has flown before. Landing, he said, would be at Edwards Air Force Base in California, considered the safest runway for the

Even with this plan, Truly said, spaceflight always will be a "bold" venture with dangers.

'We cannot print enough money to make it totally risk-free," he said. "But we will correct any mistakes we have made in the

At a later news conference, Truly said the only way to be "perfectly safe is to stay on the ground and I think that's too darn safe.

Truly was appointed director of space flight for the National > Truly said there would be a thorough review of the NASA management structure, including the "commit to launch process" and that any changes needed "to assure confidence and safety' would be made.

The investigation of the Challenger accident is focused on the joint between sections of a solid-fuel rocket booster and Truly said. "I am confident we can nail it down to a finite number of problems that we can fix and move

The investigation has eliminated other space shuttle elements as the cause of the explosion, but Truly said all critical parts on the shuttle will be re-evaluated and, if necessary, re-designed.

"We intend to get this nation's best talent" to re-design and test the rocket booster "to assure (it) is again safe to launch," he said.

Truly said a team of engineers would be organized at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Alabama to redesign and test the rocket booster joint.

He said there also would be a reexamination of launch techniques, along with means of returning the crew safely to Earth if there are

In response to a question, Truly said he did not expect to build crew escape pods into the shuttle, as some have suggested, but added, "if the presidential commission says we should do that, we would

Mixed drink petitions being circulated again

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

Another petition drive to collect signatures to call a Precinct 1 referendum on the sale of liquor by the drink — the third effort in two years — is underway.

County Clerk Margaret Ray said an application for the petition was filed with her office Thursday with 12 signatures. She said petitioners have until April 21 to come up with 2,421 signatures representing 35 percent of the votes cast in Precinct 1 in 1982's gubernatorial election. Precinct 1 encompasses nearly all of Big Spring.

If enough valid signatures are collected, Ray said county commissioners have 30 days from the day when the last signature is verified to call an election.

A similar drive spearheaded by Citizens for Choice was shot down last summer when as many as 300 signatures were found unusable because they did not appear exactly as written on the signee's blue voter registration card.

Attorney Ben Bancroft, active in how a signature appears.

this year's drive, said he expects difficulty again this year with attaining enough valid signatures. He said signatures must now appear exactly as written on the new, yellow voter registration card.

Should enough valid signatures be placed on the 300 petition documents circulating, Bancroft said he was "optimistic that people would vote in favor" of being allowed to buy and sell mixed drinks in Big Spring without being required to have a club membership.

Bancroft said he respects the views of opponents to the measure, but he said the issue is one that should be submitted to voters.

Bancroft said he does not fault County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore who last year ruled hundreds of signatures as invalid.

"Mrs. Moore was subject to unjust criticism," he said. She had no choice but to disallow the signatures, he said.

"If there's fault, it's with the statute," he said. The law, he said, leaves no room for discretion on

Dr. Bruce Caruth, a Little Rock, Ark., social worker who works with families recovering from chemical addiction, will teach the seminar. In addition to his practice, he leads workshops and is the editor of Alcoholism Treatment Quarterly.

The seminar will examine problems faced by families with a member addicted to a chemical substance and how family problems perpetuate the cycle of addiction. It emphasizes the need for treatment of the whole family when the addicted person enters recovery programs. Treatment techniques useful in early recovery for family members will also be

Delicious entrees for your Easter dinner

By CARLEEN EVERETT Lifestyle Editor

For a traditional Easter dinner, I have included traditional entrees with a hint of cultural flavor. Instead of buying your bread this Easter, try the Portuguese Sweet Bread. Take a tip from Solon, one of the seven wise men of ancient Greece, for this year's Easter festivities — "nothing in excess." The Marinated Roast Leg of Lamb accompanied with the Pilaf-Stuffed Tomatoes and Braised Onions are Greek favorites and light on the tummy

If you're looking for a special recipe or have one to share, please write to the Herald Recipe Exchange, Box 1431, Big Spring, cups flour, yeast, sugar, salt and 2 tbsp. honey lemon peel; mix well. In saucepan, heat milk, butter and lemon juice until very warm (120-130 F; butter does not need to melt). Add to flour mixture. Add eggs. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand gradually stir in raisins and enough remaining flour to make a firm dough. Knead on floured surface 5 to 8 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place until double, about 30 minutes.

Punch down dough. Set aside a dough ball about 3 inches in diameter. Divide remaining dough into two parts. Shape each half into a round loaf. Place in greased 8-inch cake pans. Cover; let rise in

½ cup butter 1/3 cup chopped walnuts

¼ tsp. nutmeg Cut bacon into 1-inch pieces. Cook in skillet on medium-low until crisp. Drain on paper toweling; combine with Parmesan cheese and parsley. Set aside. Cook vegetables according to package directions. Drain and remove to serving dish. Cover with foil to keep warm. In same saucepan, combine butter and walnuts. Heat over medium until butter iust begins to brown. Add nutmeg. Pour over vegetables; top with bacon

MARINATED ROAST LEG OF LAMB 1 tbsp. minced fresh parsley 4 garlic cloves, chopped tsp. oregano leaves ¼ tsp. grated lemon peel mixture. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

1 tbsp. EACH lemon juice and red wine vinegar 7 to 8-pound leg of lamb 1/4 cup dry vermouth

2 tbsp. chopped fresh mint Garnish: fresh sprigs of mint

Using a mortar and pestle combine parsley, garlic, oregano and lemon peel, mashing to combine; add lemon juice and vinegar and continue mashing until mixture forms a thin paste. Using point of paring knife, cut slits all over lamb, about 1/2 inch deep, and fill with paste; spread any remaining paste over lamb. Place lamb in large stainless-steel or glass pan or bowl, add vermouth, and turn lamb to coat. Cover with plastic wrap and let marinate in refrigerator overnight.

Preheat over to 450 F. Transfer lamb to rack in roasting pan, discarding marinade; sprinkle with chopped mint. Insert meat thermometer in center of largest muscle, not touching bone. Roast for 15 to 20 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350 F and continue to roast until lamb is done to taste. Thermometer should register 140 F for rare (about 10 minutes per pound); 150 F for medium (12 to 15 minutes per pound); and 160 F for well-done (about 20 minutes per pound). Single women might find good moves at chess club

DEAR ABBY: You have often been asked a question like this: I am a 26-year-old female who would like to meet a decent, eligible man. I've tried the bar scene, but most men are after a one-night stand. I've tried church groups, but the few men who are present came because their wives made them go So where do I go from here?

Abby, I have a suggestion: Join a chess club. Women are always welcome. Furthermore, they will find that men outnumber women 10-to-1. Not bad odds! Also, from 25 percent to 40 percent of the men will be unmarried. Men who play chess on a regular basis are usually of good character. The game requires that the player make individual, intelligent, patient and logical decisions. These attributes carry over into everyday life. For example, I estimate that 95 percent of steady tournament players do not smoke, and I have never met one who abuses alcohol or drugs. They are almost always employed, are high achievers and have a

A woman could counter with, "But I don't know anything about chess." Well, that could be to her advantage. What better way to break the ice than to ask a man of her choice to show her the moves? If you print this, some women

I realize that not every chess player is necessarily an ideal prospect for marriage, but it's a good way to meet eligible men.
LYLE PROSTERMAN,

COLUMBUS

DEAR LYLE: It's a novel idea for a place for women to meet decent men, but the typical chess player (as I perceive him) is not exactly a barrel of laughs. He's apt to be quiet and pensive, more of an introvert than an extrovert, highly competitive, and slow to make decisions - which isn't all bad. The moves in chess have often been compared with those made by two opposing generals on a battlefield. A chess game resembles a war in that it consists of attack and defense, whose object is making the "king" surrender. On second thought, it could be a good training ground for marriage.

DEAR ABBY: You selfappointed soothsayers are a comical lot, but your anti-male bias tops all the others.

You presume to explain why a man will pick up a tramp and treat her better than he treats his wife who is a lady. How do you know his wife is a lady? She may be as big a tramp as the prostitutes he picks

There's no difference between the wife who holds her husband's sex life hostage with her 'headaches'' and/or demands for new clothes than the prostitute who settles for cash only. For most men, a prostitute is much cheaper

Brain blood deficit causes fainting

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Lately I have had fainting spells. I am 75. Most recently I was walking on the street and had a spell. The last one, though, came when I awoke and had to get up for the bathroom. When I came to, I was lying on my back on the floor. I sprained my back that time. I'm getting worried because I like to drive my car. Could it be because of my heart skipping? - C.F.

Yours is not the run-of-the-mill faint that can happen to even healthy people in certain situations of tension and stress. Therefore, you shouldn't dismiss it without getting a firsthand explanation from your

As you know, every faint, no matter the cause, happens ultimately because of a diminished blood flow to the brain. In the common faint it's a combination usually of a slowed heartbeat and a pooling of blood in the legs.

There are deeper causes of faint and it is to look into them that you need a thorough examination. You are correct in saying that an erratic heart can lie behind a faint. To find out you might have to wear a Holter heart monitor for a day or two or three. Or you might have some blockage of flow in the large Orthostatic hypotension could lie behind your most recent experience — the faint that occurred when you got up from bed to visit the bathroom. That happens when the person cannot adjust his blood pressure quickly enough from the sleeping to the upright position.

I suppose I could list dozens of contributors to faints. I'd like to have a list of drugs you are taking. Some medicines can be tolerated for long periods, then all of a sudden begin to cause symptoms, like faint. Take your medicine list in to the doctor you see. It's not unusual for an older person to feel faint when arising and urinating at night. The combination of stresses overcomes the ability of the body to maintain equilibrium. That's called micturition syncope, another thing to look into.

Are you getting my point? It is that only a careful observation and study, perhaps even including brain-wave tests, will do to unravel the mysteries causing the onset of fainting spells. The sooner you find the reasons for the problem, the sooner you can feel safe driving your car again.

The booklet "Dizzy Spells" discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Such gift-giving would be violations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association extra-benefit rules

In two months of interviews with 28 former Texas players, whose careers spanned 1978 to 1985, 11 told the News they accepted cash payments - in some cases amounting to more than $10,000 — while they played football at Texas.

Seven of the 11 former Longhorn players who admitted accepting money said they established long-term relationships with boosters - whom they called their "sugar dad-dies" or "sweet daddies."

Darryl Clark, a UT running back from 1980 to 1982 who went on to play two seasons with the Arizona Wranglers of the USFL, said "It's like a dream for a lot of players. They never knew they could live like this."

Head football coach Fred Akers, interviewed by the News in his Austin office on Friday, said he was unaware his players had received benefits beyond the tuition, room, board and books provided by their athletic scholarships.

"I am really, I am surprised," Akers said. "I am surprised, and I intend to turn this over to Tony Degrate, who signed recently with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League, said his relationships with alumni didn't begin in earnest until his senior year, when he won the Vince Lombardi Award as the nation's outstanding college lineman.

"My senior year just got hotter and hotter," Degrate said. "From alumni walking up to me in the locker room, to my room, shaking my hand and giving me a bill (money).

Degrate added, "I never pursued a sugar daddy. If I had wanted something, I could have had it. But my senior year made up for all those years I

The News reported Sunday that some players had sold complimentary game tickets to boosters for inflated prices. Shortly after the article appeared, UT Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds said he had reported the allegations to the NCAA, and announced that he had retained Houston lawyer Knox Nunnally, a former UT football player, to conduct the university's own investigation.

Maurice McCloney, a wide receiver and a letterman on the 1930 and 1981 Longhorn teams, aid he received cash from two boosters, one from Dallas, the other from Beaumont, his hometown.

"Over three years," Mc-Cloney said, "I got about $10,000 from them.

An Austin dentist, who in 1977 founded a black professionals' organization to befriend black UT football players, said he and some colleagues have provided free legal, medical and dental services to some black football players - many of whom, he said, would have had no other way to pay for it.

"As far as medical care, they haven't had it," said Dr. Norman Mason. "If he comes in here with real pain and needs a tooth pulled or something, I'll just do it and send him back to school. But now a root canal, where I would have to sit down and spend some time, we get an understanding. Maybe he'll come over to my house and cut the lawn, wash the car."

Degrate said his senior season in 1984 was full of free dinners, nights on the town, cash handshakes, free clothes and jewelry, and offers from agents.

"I had one agent come in and say, "Sign this contract - for $30,000 cash, and it also guarantees you a house and a car,' "Degrate said. "I turned it down.

But when Degrate did take money from boosters or agents, he said, he knew it was against NCAA rules. He said he was cautious when taking money because "... the guy offering me $1,000 could be an NCAA investigator."

For the most part, Degrate said, he came to rely on Houston agent and UT booster Tony

Degrate said he and Herry had an understanding during Degrate's senior season that Herry would represent him in the 1985 NFL draft — a violation of NCAA rules

Herry and Degrate's relationship peaked in December 1984. Degrate said, when he won the Vince Lombardi award

"During Lombardi week, the alumni spent $6,000 on me," Degrate said. "Me and my friends had a limo. We went everywhere. Bar bills were preset. They was a dinner for my friends that cost over Herry acknowledged paying the expenses for Degrate's family during Lombardi week, the News reported.

"That week was a real high for me, because it was worth the money I spent to entertain the Degrates," the newspaper quoted Herry as saying.

Degrate said there was a traditional cash handshake between him and Herry after every game. Degrate, asked if there was a $100 bill in those handshakes, replied, "I was worth more than that.

During the week of the Lombardi award presentation in Houston, Degrate said, he and several other UT players went to a strip bar.

"There were three or four alumni there, and they gave us a stack of 100 $1 bills to, you know, give to the girls. I'd never been to one of those places, and I never will again. It was kind of funny," Degrate said.

Texas booster Jon Teer, who also is a professional sports agent, also acknowledged that he gave players money, the Morning News said.

Yeah, I violated NCAA rules. but please don't put that (in the newspaper). You don't understand how important football is to this town. It will ruin me in Austin, it really will.'

Teer, who currently represents former UT players Mossy Cade and Fred Acorn in the pros, confirmed he helped former player Ray Hutchinson, a member of the 1983 and 1984 UT teams.

But Teer said Hutchinson exaggerated when he said Teer must have given him $15,000 to $20,000 during the two years.

'Maybe I'd give him a little money to run down to San Marcos and see a little girl. I would say four bus rides home and $10 one day he helped me move. ... Maybe we're talking about

He added, "I don't have the kind of money he's talking about. If I get killed in the paper, what I did for Ray is worth it. I cared about him.

McCloney, who transferred to Texas from Nebraska in 1979, said he was introduced to two boosters shortly after his arrival on campus.

Because boosters helped him while he was on an athletic scholarship, McCloney said, he gave apartment discounts to football players after he became a property manager in Austin upon completion of his football career. "If a regular person had to pay $400, I got it for a player for $200," he said, "because I know, as an ex-athlete, how it is in the summertime, having no

Jeff Leiding, a UT linebacker from 1980 to 1983 who played two years with the USFL's San Antonio Gunslingers, said the flow of money started flowing for him his first season with the Longhorns, after he made a spectacular leaping tackle that flattened an Arkansas player who was returning a punt. Boosters never forgot it, he said. From that game on, Leiding said, the cash flowed steadily

"I really don't know how much money I got. I really don't," Leiding said. After the Arkansas game his senior year, he and two other UT players spent $440 just on liquor for what they got in the locker room, he said

"It's use and get used. Once your name isn't in the newspaper, you're nobody. never felt I owed anybody anything," Leiding said.

Steers rally over Odessa, 4-3

By CHARLIE ALCORN Sports Writer

It's been a long time coming, but the Big Spring Steers baseball team finally got some breaks. Or more accurately, made their own

Eli Torres capped a three-run seventh inning rally with a two-RBI double lifting the Steers to a 4-3 victory over visiting Odessa High Wednesday afternoon at Steer Field. It was the first district win for Big Spring, who raised their record to 1-4 and 3-8-1 on the year with the victory.

"Eli has been hitting the ball hard all season, but up until today it had been right at somebody," head coach John Velasquez said. 'He hit hard again today and this time it fell in the gap. Eli, and the whole team, were due.

Though Torres was the Steers most productive offensive threat going two-for-two with three RBI's on two doubles, it was starting pitcher Aaron Allen and some fine defensive play that kept the Steers in position for their final inning

Allen, a young pitcher of unquestionable talent but inconsistent control, shook off rude treatment by the Broncho batsmen in the first two innings. The sophomore lefty gave up ll five hits and three runs in the early going, but settled down to shut out the Bronchos the rest of

ELI TORRES game winning double

Allen finished his six inning performance with six strikeouts and only four walks before Mike Dodd came on in relief in the top of the seventh inning Odessa started the game with a two-run double by Rodney Roman that drove in Junior Valenzuela and Paul Chavez, who score when centerfielder Matt Garrett lost the handle on Roman's line drive. The Broncho's got their final run of the game in the second inning after Joe Urias led off with a double that he turned into a stand up

bobbled the ball. Next batter Dan-

... strong pitching ny Sarabia lined an RBI single off Allen to give the Broncho's a 3-0 lead.

AARON ALLEN

Odessa could have added more to their lead when they loaded the bases with two outs, but Allen forced shortstop Paul Chavez to ground out to end the inning.

Odessa starting pitcher Hilbert Annaya was working on a onehitter through the first four innings using good control and off-speed pitches that left the Steers batters frustrated through the early going.

After three scoreless innings, Big Spring got on the board in the bottom of the fifth on the first of Torres' two RBI doubles. The Steer first baseman drove in Chad Wash, who had reached first safely on a error by Chavez to bring the Steers to 3-1

The Steer defense tightned in the late innings helping Allen keep a lock on the Odessa batters. Catcher Charlie Ogle had an outstanding day behind the plate, throwing out three Broncho baserunners attempting to steal second base. Third baseman Randy Hayworth also contributed with a pair of timely stabs and long throws to keep the Bronchos of the base

The Bronchos staged a seventh inning rally with men on second And third and no outs, when Dodd came on in relief of Allen. Dodd immediatly forced Valenzuela into a double play, a fine effort by second baseman Wash, then forced a short pop-up to end the inning with the teers still behind 3-1.

DH Billy Franklin, who went two-for-three for the game, led off with a sharp double in the left-center gap. Wash followed with a short bloop into left field but Urias dropped it, allowing Franklin to score and pull the Steers to 3-2.

UT extends Weltich's contract

AUSTIN (AP) — The Men's Athletics Council at the University of Texas has recommended extending basketball coach Bob Weltlich's

ing on a five-year contract.

Weltlich, who came to Texas from Mississippi, had one year remain-

UT Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds said he had suggested that the council recommend the salary extension to school administrators, who must approve it.

Dodds said no proposed salary was included in the recommendation. Weltlich's current salary is $74,475 a year.

"He's done a good job," said Dodds. "We continue to improve. That is the bottom line. He's also done a good job on the academic side. We're graduating three this year from the program.'

Weltlich's record the first two years at Texas was 13-43 but improved to 15-13 last season. This season the Longhorns finished 19-12, tying for first in the Southwest Conference and losing in the second round of the National Invitational Tournament to Ohio State.

Mets picked over Cardinals in NL East

AP Baseball Writer

St. Louis Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog operates under no delusions. The New York Mets likely will be favored to wrest the National League East crown from the

The Mets still "can't outrun us or outfield us," Herzog says, "but they can throw a good pitcher out there every day.

And that could well be the difference in the NL East this year. Last year, the Cards finished three games ahead of New York, followed by Montreal, Chicago, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Here's how they will finish in

New York Mets With 90 victories in 1984 and 98 last year, the Mets have the best record in baseball over two seasons, yet they have finished second two straight years. In 1986, the Mets believe they can stop 'knocking on the door," as catcher Gary Carter says, if they stay healthy.

The Mets have made some moves that fortify their optimism. Acquisitions of pitcher Bob Ojeda. infielder Tim Teufel and infielderoutfielder Tim Corcoran strengthen the bench

In the power department, the Mets have Gary Carter, Darryl Strawberry and George Foster all healthy, and Keith Hernandez should drive in 100 runs in the No. 3

Cy Young winner Dwight Gooden, 24-4, heads a starting staff that certainly is one of the best in the majors. It also includes Ron Darling, Sid Fernandez, Bruce Berenyi, Bob Ojeda and Ed Lynch. "We've improved if for no other reason than experience," says outfielder Mookie Wilson. "We're not looking at it as if it's this year or no year, but we feel like we can win.' Had Strawberry not missed seven weeks of the season and Berenyi virtually all the year with injuries, the Mets may well have won it in 1985. St. Louis Cardinals Although shortstop Ozzie Smith is rehabilitating an injury to his throwing shoulder, Herzog believes the Cards are "the best defensive team in the history of the game.' And he doesn't usually make outlandish remarks. Third baseman Terry Pendleton sparkled in the World Series. Tommy Herr is better than solid at second, and Jack Clark has turned into a good first baseman. The Cards traded 21-game winner Joaquin Andujar to Oakland for catcher Mike Heath, one of the best in the business behind the plate.

Nothing falls in the outfield with Vince Coleman, Willie McGee and Andy Van Slyke from left to right Coleman and McGee led a team that stole 314 bases last year, and they may steal even more this Todd Worrell anchors a good bullpen, but Herzog admits it may not be easy to replace Andujar. He has 21-game winner John Tudor and 18-game winner Danny Cox returning "and five or six other pitchers trying for the other spots. Coleman is coming off a rookie of-the-year campaign during which he stole 110 bases, McGee led the NL hitters with a .353 average that earned him the MVP and Herr had 110 RBI

Herzog now is hoping for a little more from Van Slyke, who had 55 RBI and 13 homers last year.

Good enough for second. Chicago Cubs

The Cubs made a couple of acquisitions — Manny Trillo and Jerry Mumphrey that could help, but the biggest boost to their club is that the pitching is healthy again.

At different times during last season, the Cubs had all five starters - Rick Sutcliffe, Steve Trout, Dennis Eckersley, Scott Sanderson and Dick Ruthven — out with injuries, and some for long periods

If they all stay healthy and if Shawon Dunston can hold down the shortstop job, the Cubs could be in it until the end.

A problem area is age. Left fielder Gary Matthews is 35, and third baseman Ron Cey is 38. Mumphrey can back up in the outfield, and Trillo could play third. But even Trillo is 35.

If it all holds together, third Philadelphia Phillies

Again, the Phillies are an enigma. They have a lot of talent, and they seem to have gotten some of it straightened away during the winter. But they are short a pitcher or two, and catching is weak. Only three players, second baseman Juan Samuel, shortstop Tom Foley and right fielder Glenn Wilson, remain at the same positions. Gary Redus and Milt Thompson, offseason acquisitions, will fill in the rest of the outfield. Von

Haves will move to first from the outfield, and Mike Schmidt is going back to third Pitcher Steve Carlton has a bad shoulder, and his effectiveness is in doubt, and John Denny was traded Thus, the Phillies are left with Kevin Gross, Shane Rawley and Charles Hudson in the rotation with the rest of the spots up for grabs. The Phillies also traded catcher Ozzie Virgil, leaving the job to Darren Daulton and John Russell.

On offense alone, fourth place Montreal Expos

Here is a team that has totally rearranged its pitching staff. Gone are Bill Gullickson via trade and Bill Lea via injury. That leaves Bryn Smith and Joe Hesketh as the top two starters, while youngsters Jay Tibbs, acquired from Cincinnati, and Floyd Youmans take up two more spots.

Offensively, the Expos may have been overachievers last year, but they still have two of the game's most potent weapons in Andre Dawson and Tim Raines. Manager Buck Rodgers is hoping shortstop Hubie Brooks can duplicate or improve upon 1985 numbers of 13 homers and 100 RBI.

Looks like fifth place.

Pittsburgh Pirates When the Pittsburgh Pirates got first baseman Sid Bream and outfielder R.J. Reynolds from the Los Angeles Dodgers last season for third baseman Bill Madlock, it actually improved them. That's how bad they were. Only two veteran players, second baseman Johnny Ray and catcher Tony Pena, are assured of their jobs. The rest are open to competition. Two veterans, Jason Thompson and Steve Kemp, are coming off bad seasons made worse by

Rick Reuschel, 36, may be the best pitcher the Pirates have after saving a sliding career with a 14-8 campaign in 1985. The silver lining is their youth. They could get better, but not good enough this season

Dominique deadly to Cavs

By The Associated Press minique Wilkins, who missed Atlanta's previous game because oning, returned to action and gave the Cleveland

Cavaliers a touch of indigestion.

The NBA's second leading scorer tallied 34 of his 36 points in the first three quarters as the Hawks defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 97-91 Tuesday night. The setback sliced Cleveland's lead in the race for the final Eastern Conference playoff spot to 1½ games over Chicago, which defeated New York 111-98, and Indiana, which was idle.

"I was very surprised. When the game started I was in my rhythm and felt very good," Wilkins said.
It also another was business as usual for the Sacramento Kings, who climbed out of the Midwest Division cellar by recording their 11th consecutive Tuesday night home-court victory, a 116-99 rout of the Portland Trail Blazers.

NBA

Wilkins scored 22 points as the Hawks took a 51-40 haltime lead and added 12 in the third period as Atlanta led 79-67. After Cliff Levingston put the Hawks ahead 81-67 with a basket off a rebound, Cleveland scored 10 straight points, cutting its deficit to 81-77 with 8:20 remaining.

But Wilkins, who missed all six of his floor shots in the final period, made two free throws and Randy Wittman and Johnny Davis hit jump shots to open the lead to 87-77 with 6:04 to play. Cleveland, which suffered its seventh defeat in the last eight games, was paced by Mel Turpin's 26 points and World B.

"Down the stretch I was kind of dragging. A little fatigue set in,"

The victory lifted Atlanta within two games of Philadelphia for the third best record in the Eastern Conference. "We're working for position and building our confidence. We want to win all of our remaining games," Wilkins said. "We've set our goals high, but we want to go into the playoffs with momentum and confidence.

"We've come so far with the young team we have. A lot of people wrote us off at the start of the season as not being a top team. But we knew if we paid attention to our work we had a chance to play as well as we are.

Kings 116, Trail Blazers 99 Reggie Theus scored 18 points and dished out 17 assists, the most for the Kings in the last 13 seasons. Terry Tyler and Larry Drew also had 18 points each for Sacramento, which moved into fifth place, onehalf game ahead of San Antonio in the Midwest Division. Kiki

Vandeweghe topped Portland with

23 points

Lakers 121, Nuggets 115 James Worthy scored 11 of his 30 points in the final seven minutes as the Lakers ended Denver's threegame winning streak over the defending NBA champions. The Nuggets still won the season series 3-2, the only team besides Boston to claim that distinction, but fell 11/2 games behind idle Houston in the battle for the Midwest Divison

Los Angeles led 81-66 early in the third period but Denver pulled within 111-108 with 4:02 remaining. Magic Johnson, who had 19 assists, then scored on a drive and the Lakers were able to stave off the Nuggets' rally.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 24 points for Los Angeles while NBA scoring leader Alex English hit his season average of 29 for Denver but had only two points in the final

Bucks 118, Nets 105

Craig Hodges scored 24 points and Sidney Moncrief added 22 in leading Milwaukee to its fifth consecutive triumph. The Bucks took control of the game at the beginning of the fourth quarter when they outscored the Nets 10-5 for an 86-81 lead with 8:44 remaining on a long jumper by Hodges. Albert King led New Jersey with 34 points and Terry Cummings added 20 for the Bucks.

Warriors 125, Pistons 121

Joe Barry Carroll scored 24 points, Terry Teagle 23 and Eric Floyd 21 as Golden State won for the fifth time in six games in a lateseason battle to escape from last place in the Pacific Division. The Warriors trail the Los Angeles Clippers by one-half game.

Isiah Thomas, Detroit's leading scorer, played only about half the game and scored six points. Kelly Tripucka and Vinnie Johnson scored 24 apiece for the Pistons and Bill Laimbeer had 20.

The Warriors did not commit a foul for the first 14 minutes and were charged with only 10 for the

Bulls 111, Knicks 98

Orlando Woolridge scored 22 points, Gene Banks added 20 and Michael Jordan had 19 as Chicago snapped a five-game losing streak. The Bulls, who had a 14-4 run late in the first half, put together a 14-6 spurt at the start of the second half to take a 66-55 lead. A three-point goal by Kyle Macy early in the fourth quarter made it 85-72 and the Bulls coasted the rest of the way. Ken Bannister led New York with 20 points.

Knicks Coach Hubie Brown remained at home in New Jersey with the flu while Richie Adubato and Bob Hill, the assistant coaches, took over for the Knicks' 51st loss

Rangers' rookie hot

This year's spring training phenom is Pete Incaviglia, a 22-year-old outfielder who is about to join the New York Yankees' Dave Winfield and Atlanta's Bob Horner as the only three active players to jump directly from college to the major Incaviglia, who has been named Texas' right fielder, hit two more home runs Tuesday, one of them traveling an estimated wind-aided 600 feet, as the Rangers trounced the Cincinnati Reds 14-5 in an exhibition game.

Incaviglia hit his home runs in the seventh and eighth innings after Larry Parrish capped a sevenrun fourth against Mario Soto with a three-run shot. Before Parrish unloaded, Soto walked in two runs and O'Brien hit a two-run double. Curtis Wilkerson also homered for Texas and Eric Davis hit one for Another spring sensation, Detroit's Mike Laga, hit his seventh home run and then tripled home the winning run in the eighth inning as the Tigers downed the St. Louis Cardinals 9-8. Frank Tanana gave up 13 hits and all eight St. Louis runs in the first six innings. Chet Lemon hit a three-run homer for Bill Langston went six scoreless innings and allowed one hit while fanning eight as the Mariners trounced the Chicago Cubs 12-2. In 16 innings, he has been nicked for just one run — unearned.

Barry Bonnell hit a three-run homer for the Mariners and drove in another run with a sacrifice

Darling blanked Baltimore on three hits over five innings as the Mets defeated the Orioles 4-2 behind home runs from Darryl Strawberry and Tim Teufel. Darling has pitched 19 consecutive shutout innings and has a spring ERA of 0.90. Teufel's tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning followed a single by rookie Stan Jefferson, who had four hits and raised his average to .500 on 13-for-26. Braves 7, Expos 2

Dale Murphy had two key hits and Ted Simmons, Brad Komminsk and Claudell Washington drove in two runs each for Atlanta, which broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth on Murphy's RBI single and Simmons'

Pirates trailed 5-4 entering the inning but tied it on Mike Brown's two-out RBI single off Joe Sambito. Dwight Evans had three hits as Boston scored five times in the first four innings off Lee Tunnell. Blue Jays 7, Twins 1

After Frank Viola limited the Blue Jays to two hits over the first six innings, Toronto erupted for all seven runs in the eighth off Roy Smith, Pete Filson and Ron Davis. Rick Leach doubled home the go-ahead run and Willie Upshaw hit a two-run homer. The Twins scored in the fifth on Mark Davidson's sacrifice fly off Toronto starter Jimmy Key, who had pitched 12 consecutive scoreless

Dodgers 8, Phillies 2

Ken Landreaux, Mike Marshall, Greg Brock and Mike Scioscia followed an error by Philadelphia first baseman Von Hayes with hits as the Dodgers got four unearned first-inning runs. After Rick Honeycutt allowed three hits and two runs in the first and another run in the second, Philadelphia was held hitless until the ninth by Honeycutt, Carlos Diaz and Tom Niedenfuer.

Angels 6, Giants 5 Jack Howell singled with one out in the ninth inning to score Rufino Linares from second base with the winning run. Linares led off with a single against Mark Davis and was sacrificed to second by Reggie Jackson. Ruppert Jones homered for California

A's 2, Brewers 1

Steve Henderson's one-out ninth-inning triple scored Tony Phillips from first base. Veteran Rick Langford, trying to make a comeback from arm trouble, struck out seven batters in three innings and finished with eight in six shutout innings for his most impressive outing of the spring for Oakland. Indians 12, Padres 9

Brook Jacoby hit a three-run homer and drove in five runs for Cleveland. Jacoby, who had three hits, homered off Ed Wojna during the Indians' five-run first inning. The Padres got two-run homers from Kevin McReynolds and Graig Nettles.

Astros 3, White Sox 2 Craig Reynolds singled home the winning run in the seventh inning following Billy Hatcher's double. The victory gave the Astros (5-12) their first twogame winning streak of the spring. Houston took a 2-0 lead on Jose Cruz's RBI single in the first inning

Wyoming, Ohio State set for NIT championship tilt

NEW YORK (AP) — Wyoming and Ohio State will be meeting on a basketball court for the first time in 41 years when they decide the championship of the 49th National Invitation Tournament.

Whether the Buckeyes win or lose tonight, it will cap the 10-year Ohio State coaching career of Eldon Miller, who was fired Feb. 3, effective at the end of the season. Miller already has been hired by Northern Iowa, while Gary Williams will be Miller's replacement at Ohio State.

"Winning would be a great way to end my career as a Buckeye,' ler said Tuesday. "Winning your last game of a season is a great feeling.

But Miller said he has thought little about the end of his Ohio State

"I have no special emotion about this being my last game other than wanting to win this tournament and knowing that my players want to win it." Miller said. "I recruited these kids and want them to get everything out of the game that they can.

In that first and only meeting between the two teams on Jan. 5, 1945. Ohio State won 42-36. Based on Monday night's semifinals at Madison Square Garden, the two teams might have that many points by halftime in tonight's championship game.

Ohio State whipped Louisiana Tech 79-66 and Wyoming defeated Florida 67-58 in games that saw both winners dominate the opposition inside.

Brad Sellers, who plays forward at 7-foot while shorter but heavier Keith Wesson and Clarence McGee share the center spot, had 23 points, 13 rebounds and nine blocked shots for Ohio State. Guard Dennis Hopson also had 23 points for the Buckeyes

Broad-shouldered sophomore guard Fennis Dembo had 23 points on 10-for-15 shooting for Wyoming, with nearly all of his field goals coming inside against a Florida team with no player taller than 6-7. Eric Leckner, a 6-11 center, added 19 points and 12 rebounds for the Wyoming Coach Jim Brandenburg called Ohio State "a typical Big 10 team — big, strong and aggressive. Ohio State will present many different problems from Florida. It will be a different show on Wednesday. We will have to do some shooting from the perimeter. It will be important to keep Sellers away from the inside on offense and I hope we can stay away from n he's on de Miller agreed that the game will be aggressively played, but he said the Big Ten's reputation for toughness is overblown.

'The Big Ten is not as physical a conference as everyone believes,' Miller said. "Don't let Jim fool you. He's going to take the ball inside. He'll only shoot outside if he has

Dembo, who has a sister named Fenise and admitted he was often called Dennis Fembo while growing up, continued a postseason hot streak with his big game against Florida

Dembo has led Wyoming to a 20-6 record after a 4-5 start, and a victory over Ohio State would give the Cowboys their first 25-win season since 1952. They are 24-11 and Ohio State is 18-14.

"We were irked at not getting into the NCAA tournament, but we didn't spend any negative energy worrying about it," Brandenburg said. "We are very pleased to be in the NIT and in New York. We have 2,000 fans in New York and it may be 3,000 by Wednesday. Seventy percent of them are in New York for the first time.

"I wanted to come to the NIT," Dembo said. "I'd rather be here than Dallas (site of the NCAA Final Four). We have a better shot

"Why didn't Chicken Little check her news sources?"

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTIT

FORECAST FOR THURS., MARCH 27, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon, you have a big chance to contact those persons you would like to have for associates, and, by your own cleverness, make them partners for some time to come.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) The morning is fine for reaching new accord with associates and then get busy handling your part of any deal.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make your surroundings neater and more harmonious during the daytime. Improve your relationship with co-workers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Complete matters of a policy nature, and then work on improving natural talents. Be kind with a good friend. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Take time to brighten up your home in the morning, and then later show your finest talents to prominent persons.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You can communicate well with others in the morning, and later do likewise with family. Show more affection for them. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put those added touches to your home and make it look more charming in the morning. Study your financial status. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An ideal morning to pursue whatever you desire the most and gain it if you are more practical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Devise a new course that can bring you greater prosperity in the morning, and then later start putting it to the test.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ask those persons who can assist you in gaining personal goals in the morning, and they are willing to help you. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Bring your talents to the attention of a bigwig you know and you find out how best to utilize them. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) One from a distance is very cooperative and gives good ideas for your advancement. Get the okay from an expert for them. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) See what it is in the morning that your mate expects of you and try to please.

Later seek out those who can add to your knowledge.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she can understand others and want to be helpful to them in gaining goals, so be sure at school that subjects are given along such lines. Upon reaching adulthood, your progeny will know what motivates others and would do well in investigative or research work.
