Teachers take appeal to Austin

By DANA PALMER

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN - Big Spring teacher evaluations submitted at a hearing Thursday showed that two special education teachers were left off the school district's career ladder list last year despite high marks.

The two left off the list -Mariann Heffington and Gwendolyn Craig — had checklist ratings that were better than almost half the people placed on the career ladder, said Austin attorney Lynn Rubinett during a Texas Education Agency (TEA) represented by Rubinett as they education reforms instituted by the appealed to the state agency to force the local school board to add them to the career ladder list.

In cross-examination, former Big Spring High School principal and career ladder committee member William McQueary said interviews of supervisors and principals were used for about 30 percent of the 116 teachers considered for the career ladder.

Rehiring of city official termed 'unwise' step

By HANK MURPHY Staff Writer

To a man, mayoral and city coucil candidates said City Council's March 3 decision to retain former City Manager Don Davis as a 60-day city consultant at full pay Mayoral candidates Troy Fraser and Cotton Mize, and District 2 council hopefuls Tim Blackshear and D.W. Overman aired this and other views at a candidate's forum Thursday night sponsored by the League of United Latin American Citizens.

Council candidate John Whitmire was not present.

Overman, Blackshear and Mize said they agreed with Fraser's assessment that rehiring Davis was "counterproductive."

As for the council's statement that Davis acted properly in authorizing an $18,000 overtime payment to former employee Bill Windham, Blackshear said: "The slip-up was the council not being able to anticipate this happening. I believe it's what the problem was and whether it was right or wrong, I feel like they probably did what the policy said to do at the time."

"I think everybody knows how I feel about it," said Overman. "It was not the right thing to do. The city manager and two councilmen and possibly the mayor were the it, and they acted on it, leaving the rest of the council out." Overman still maintains the payment was 'hush money'' involving the falsification of Environmental Protection Agency records.

School board candidates were kept busy answering questions at the candidates forum Thursday night at the courthouse, sponsored by the local chapter of League of United Latin American Citizens.

School board challengers Jaime Baldwin and Dock Voorhies and incumbents Bill Brooks and Dan Wise were present, as was college board candidate Bill Sprinkle. No questions were addressed to Sprinkle, however.

School board candidates Teddy Griffin, Larry Phillippe and Jerry Myrick and college board incumbents David Gomez and Curtis Mullins did not attend the forum.

After each candidate was given three to five minutes to speak, citizens asked questions on what teachers can do to fight teacher competency testing, the candidates' willingness to respond to citizens' individual problems, the wisdom of suspension, reducing the dropout rate and whether the superintendent position should be elected. They questioned district rules on dress codes, attendance, board meeting times and giving the school notice before a parent visits his child's classroom.

On what teachers can do to fight the TECAT, Baldwin suggested 'going as a group to talk to someone who can help us." Wise said "the only way to change a law is to appeal it." Brooks said the fault lay with the appointed board in Austin. "They were appointed because they all went along with the governor," he said, and as long as they're there no changes will be made Voorhies said changes need to be made, but they would occur more easily if the public were in agreement with the teachers who are op-BOARD page 2-A government's main forecasting gauge of future economic activity rose a sharp 0.7 percent in February as the economy continued to send out signals of better days ahead.

The Commerce Department said the increase in its Index of Leading Indicators was the largest since a 1.5 percent December rise, which had been the biggest surge in two

The February increase and the

The economy, as measured by the gross national product, rose at a barely perceptible 0.7 percent annual rate in the final three months of the year, a weak change that helped push growth for all of 1985 down to 2.2 percent, the slowest performance since the 1982 reces-

The new-found optimism comes from the steep declines in oil prices of recent months. The price of West Texas crude has plunged by almost $20 a barrel since November, reflecting similar declines in worldwide oil prices.

The dramatic plunge in oil prices has already helped to push interest rates down and the combination of lower interest rates and lower oil economy a significant boost in the months ahead, most analysts feel. The leading index is designed to predict economic activity six to nine months down the road. Many analysts believe that the rebound in growth will really pick up steam in the second half of the year.

Some economists believe that growth in the first three months of 1986 rebounded only slightly from the weak 0.7 percent rate in the final three months of 1985.

With the January revision, the index has now gone without a decline for 10 straight months.

products. He said if businesses can be revitalized along those corridors "change the look" and bring people into town, a tourism industry can take hold and help "fill up some of the spaces" downtown. He said he has raised $180,000 in the community for that effort.

Mize said neighborhoods and not just "boulevards" need to be renovated.

The four hoping for a council chair also second-guessed the council's handling of the Fair Labor Standards Act's provision for overtime pay and compensatory time.

Earlier this year the city council decided to do away with compensatory time and pay straight overtime.

The council took an approach that was easy, Fraser said, "but it's not in the best interest of the city."

Fraser said if comptime had not been in force last year, the city would have spent an additional year for overtime. "I've found that overtime is by far the biggest enemy to a budget," he said. "If management tools are used correctly, and you have a proper amount of employees working for you, you can avoid having Mize also said comptime would be a benefit to the city.

However, Overman said it was important to realize the necessity of paying overtime in certain situations. He cited the freeze several years ago when a number of employees worked long hours fixing broken water lines. "You couldn't get all those people to take comptime within a two-week period," he said. "You wouldn't have anybody working for the

As for the incident where former firefighter Rudy Rubio was fired after it was learned he had a cousin in the department, Overman, Mize and Fraser said Rubio's firing was unfair, and that the city's nepotism policy needs adustment. Blackshear made no reference to Rubio but agreed the rule was too stringent.

Both Mize and Fraser said the city needs to offer incentives to attract industrial growth.

Mize said the town needs to diversify its economy and train people to "do something besides n and drill for oil

Fraser stressed the need to recruit new industry but noted that '80 percent of all growth in a community has to come from within. Howard County judge candidate

All four candidates expressed disfavor with suspending students because it hinders them from getting an education, but Wise and Brooks added that it might be necessary if the student was hindering the others from learning.

"Usually there's a reason for the suspension. You have an entire class to consider," Brooks said.

Wise said in-school suspension is the answer, but "some kids just don't want to be there and they'll do anything they can to get out of Voorhies said, "It can amount to a paid vacation. I don't see the merit of that (suspension) provided discipline is enforced.

Baldwin said he favors in-school suspension. He said if elected, he'd examine the matter. "If it needs to be changed and if it's feasible, it will be done," he said.

The question of reducing the number of dropouts was addressed to Voorhies, who said if students' needs are being met there will be fewer dropouts

'We have to do an assessment of gravated assault and is ordered to what needs are and what needs are not being met," he said.

On whether the candidates would be responsive to citizens' input, Baldwin said people's questions should be addressed immediately.

Wise said people should be aware of and follow the procedure for getting on the school board agenda. Voorhies said he favors cutting down on the red tape it takes to get on the agenda

Brooks said most citizen problems were with a particular teacher or principal. In that case, the citizen should go first to the principal, then to the superintendent, then to the school board for Another question was whether the board would be responsive to student input. All four candidates said a student could come before the board or to them individually. and they would listen. "We need to keep the lines of communication open between students and the school board," Voorhies added.

On whether the superintendent position should be elected, Wise said "it wouldn't work" because the superintendent needs to be an expert in the field to cope with the job. Baldwin said if it were an elected position, applicants would have to be thoroughly researched.

One question asked why parents must give a day's notice if they want to visit their child's classroom. Brooks said if parents were constantly visiting without notice, it would disrupt the classroom. With notice, a teacher can be prepared not to be in the middle of a project, he said.

Voorhies said the rules could be bent sometimes, but it would be too disruptive to break the rules all the time. Baldwin said an hour's notice should be enough.

All the candidates said a dress code was needed. Baldwin said people should take pride in their appearance, but schools must take into account the clothing people can afford. Brooks said dress codes are drawn up by officials of the individual schools and that the student council's recommendations are taken into account. Voorhies said the matter can be brought before the school board.

Citizens questioned the regirement of a doctor's note if a child is absent, and the rule that a child will not be promoted a grade if he has more than five unexcused absences. Brooks said the district's policy on unexcused absences follows state guidelines

Baldwin said, "I don't think people's pride or integrity should be questioned" if a parent says his child is sick but he can't afford to pay for a doctor

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -An Azle businessman accused of selling a briefcase bomb to undercover agents faces possible federal charges Monday.

The man was arrested at a Fort Worth shopping mall, federal agents said Thursday, and the bomb he is accused of selling is similar to one that killed three Lake Worth residents last Thanksgiving.

Volcano spews debris nine miles into air

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Clouds of corrosive ash carrying the rotten-egg stench of sulfur drifted today from the erupting peak of Augustine Volcano after the restless mountain spit debris more than nine miles into the air, triggering health alerts and sending Anchorage workers home early.

The 4,025-foot volcano, quiet since 1976, erupted early Thursday on its uninhabitated island 175 miles southwest of Anchorage and by late Thursday had spread ash as far away as Skwentna, about 75 miles northwest of Anchorage Anchorage authorities issued a health alert urging

Tax amnesty is misinterpreted

The best thing to be said for the There are more complications. question of a tax amnesty is that it Proponents argue that combining skirts the debate that has the amnesty with the hiring of addidominated fiscal policy for the past tional IRS agents, to scare scofflaws into paying up, would yield sitll more revenue. True, but hiring few years: whether to have tax cuts or tax increases. That's why more agents would yield more the idea is attractive. Given the revenue even without an amnesty, deficit, Congress is in no mood to by enabling the IRS to catch more reduce taxes; given political reality, it's not eager to raise them tax evaders and encouraging either. An amnesty is supposed to raise revenues without antagonizing voters.

Nonetheless, there's some merit in considering whether it amounts to a tax increase or tax cut for the group affected, namely tax evaders. One argument for regarding it as an increase is that it induces these people to pay money to the Treasury that they otherwise would not. Anything this side of the Laffer Curve that raises total federal revenue can be regarded as an increase in taxes.

This argument renders the amnesty not only fiscally profitable but morally defensible. The scofflaws, though they're spared the usual punishment, have to cough up the back taxes they owe, plus interest, easing the load on the rest of us.

It's a clever argument, but not persuasive. In fact, the amnesty is a tax cut for tax evaders, which is why they would be inclined to come forward. A prison term is a very high tax rate. Sparing the deadbeats that risk makes them better off.

Ah, you reply, but most of them never get caught, which means they bear no burden at all. No so. Even those who don't get caught have to live with the chronic fear that, sooner or later, the IRS will get them. For some, that's a considerable penalty.

This is only one way to analyze the issue. Another is to ask how much revenue it will produce. Answer: Pick a number, any number.

The evidence from states that have tried amnesties doesn't tell us much. Missouri's take was barely detectable, amounting to one fivethousandth of its anual receipts. Illinois got 1.7 percent of its yearly haul, which is proportionately about 85 times what Missouri got. Taking those yields as the upper fiscal payoff, it comes at too high a and lower boundaries, the price. Treasury could net anywhere from $156 million to $13 billion.

everyone to obey the law. Another problem is that the initial harvest doesn't measure the full effect of the amnesty. Advocates say that it would raise receipts in later years as well, since tax evaders who accept the pardon will continue to pay taxes. Having confessed to the IRS, they won't push their luck by cheating again.

But there is likely to be a revenue loss too. No doubt some previously law-abiding taxpayers will be so nauseated by the sight of deadbeats going free that they will start doing some chiseling of their own. Bolder sorts will try their hand at wholesale evasion, betting that this amnesty won't be the last.

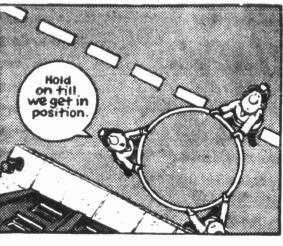

The paradox is that the more money it brings in, and the more people take advantage of it, the more it will erode voluntary compliance with the tax laws. The invisible loss from the amnesty may exceed the visible again — though there is no way to tell, even after

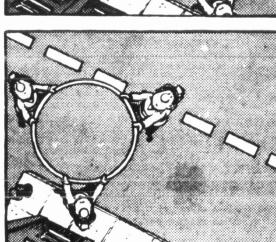

Given the rampant uncertainty, the best approach may be to ignore the fiscal impact and consider the larger implications. An amnesty makes sense when it implies — as Jimmy Carter's amnesty for Vietnam-era draft evaders did that the government, too, was at fault. This sort of forgiveness promotes social healing and official humility.

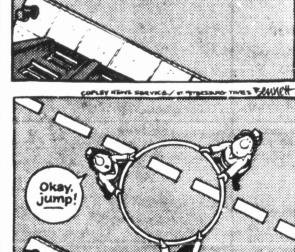

But this is not one of those cases. The chief message of a tax amnesty is that it is sometimes excusable to break even legitimate, indispensable laws. This is not the message a crime-plagued society needs. It can only corrode the bonds of a free society and invite a wider disregard for the law

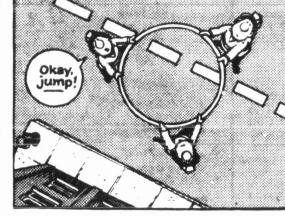

We can't know whether the amnesty will save or cost money. What we should be able to see is that, even assuming the highest

Defamation suits set trend

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON — A citizen files false arrest charges against a police department and loses; the city sues him for damages Protesters demonstrate peacefully against construction of a nuclear power plant; the county sues them for "interference.

A man writes to President Reagan opposing a candidate for U.S. attorney; when the nomination falls through, the letter writer is sued for libel by the would-be nominee.

These cases are part of an ominous trend in our litigious society: lawsuits filed against citizens who exercise their constitutionally guaranteed right "to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

What's particularly alarming about this trend is the growing number of suits that are filed by officials or employees of government agencies, according to Professor George Pring of the University of Denver Law School. Pring heads the school's "intimidation lawsuit project," which has documents nearly 100 cases of legal actions brought against citizens engaged in discussion of public various levels of government.

In none of the cases studied did the plaintiff win any money. But even when they lose, the intimidators win — by punishing the defendants with costly legal fees, and by "chilling" future complaints or criticism as word spreads that it's dangerous to cross the plaintiffs. Here are some of the cases Pring cites in his study

• John Miner, a deputy sheriff in Maryland, arrested Joseph Novotny on a drunken-driving charge. He also charged him with battery after Novotny spit in the deputy's face. Two days later Novotny complained of police brutality. Miner was cleared of the charge — and sued Novotny for defamation, intentional infliction of emotional distress and abuse of process. The courts dismissed the case on First Amendment grounds

 Two citizens invited to testify at a city council meeting in the Midwest charged that a certain police officer had been writing false speeding tickets to meet a quota. The officer sued them for $1.5 million;

the case is still being fought.

• Richard Bozek filed false arrest charges against the city of Long Beach, Calif., and two of its police officers. He lost his case. The city then sued Bozek to recover its legal expenses. The state supreme court dismissed the city's case, stating that "the bringing of suits against the government is absolutely privileged."

Even when government officials and employees have the best of motives, such legal response to citizens' complaints will undeniably make others reluctant to bring charges against police officers. This was acknowledged by a member of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers several years ago when he said: "Where we have struck back, the number of police brutality complaints dropped

San Luis Obispo County, Calif., sued a number of nuclear power protesters for nearly $3 million when their peaceful demostrations delayed opening of a power plant. Pring, who filed a friend-of-the-court brief in the case, said it is typical of the trend toward FUDDLE FACTORY: Penny-wise and pound foolish, Congress axed a modest $1 million FBI budget request that would have been used to identify and expel Soviet diplomatic personnel engaged in electronic eavesdropping on government agencies' telephones. Meanwhile, the Pentagon this month has ordered 500,000 "secure telephone units" scramblers — for a cool $1 billion. Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., who pushed in vain for the FBI's $1 million, says that scrambler phones merely treat the symptoms of the electronic espionage problem.

Commitment is most crucial

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I guess you could call me the prodigal son (except I'm a woman). My parents made sure I went to Sunday school and church, I joined the church when I was young, and so forth. But I have been on my own for a few years and have nothing to do with it now. Why do you think I got away from the church? - R.O.

DEAR R.O.: I can only speculate on why you have chosen to leave God out of your life - for that, after all, is what you are doing. In all likelihood, your religious activity was only that — empty activity without a true commitment to Christ to motivate you. As you have grown older, you also may have tended to rebel against some of the things for which your parents stood. But whatever the reasons. you have decided you do not really need God.

The real question, however, is not why you have left God out of your life, but what you should do about it now. You are still young, and ahead of you are important decisions that will determine the course of your life. In addition, although you may not think about about it much right now, life is uncertain and the day will come when you will face death. The point am making is this: You need Christ, both for the rest of your life and for eternity. In effect, you are acting as if God did not exist. But the Bible bluntly declares "The fool says in his heart, 'There is no God''' (Psalm 14:1). Don't live foolishly. The Bible warns, "There is a way that seems right to a man but in the end it leads to death" (Proverbs 16:25). You need Christ, and giving your heart to Him is the most important step you will ever

God loves you and more than anything else He wants you to become His child and have a personal relationship with Him through faith in Christ. Give your heart to Him, and build your life on the solid foundation He alone can

Combine county, city governments

To the editor:

Just recently there have been arguments, accusations, and backbiting between the city police department and the county sheriff's department. From time to time other departments have their arguments as to computers (time sharing), tax collections, etc.

A few years ago I owned a business on Country Club road which was in the county but later taken into the city. When I reported a thievery to both the city AND the county enforcement departments, with license numbers of the vehicle involved, neither knew in whose jurisdiction I lived. Consequently, nothing was done toward solving the problem until two weeks later when I went to the city police with some emphatic words. Some weeks later the thief was traced to San

The above leads to the subject at hand: COMBINING CITY AND COUNTY GOVERNMENTS! Much has been said in small groups of taxpayers over the years but nothing seems to move us; the taxpayers, the voters. Now, with the cry of failing property values along with lower oil production and income therefrom, is a good time for voters to start a push for combining government functions

Some will say "it can't be done." Well, it is being done in El Paso county and some other counties.

Consider the fact that we have four levels of law enforcement in Howard County with population of around 30,000: Texas Rangers, State Highway Patrol. Sheriff's Department, and City Police.

I would estimate the state could save taxpayers $10,000,000 in doing away with Rangers. Howard County has one Ranger, or may share one with another county.

My last knowledge of the number of employees by city police department was 63, several years ago. I would hope that would be less with our lower population. I estimate around 75 total employees in law enforcement in the county.

We have $100,000 plus expenses for county executives; over $100,000 in salaries for three top city executives. Three Hawaiian Islands with combined population of over ten times Howard County's, draw about the same salaries as our commissioners. This county does NOT need two sets of executives.

It is my understanding that the legislature would have to pass an enabling act permitting the voters of any county less than 100,000 population to vote on combining city and county governments.

Arab nations voice support for Khadafy

By ROBERT H. REID

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — U.S. attacks on Libya have boosted Col. Moammar Khadafy's image in the Arab world and forced America's Arab friends to remain silent or support a leader many of them despise.

Arab newspapers, even those in pro-Western countries such as the United Arab Emirates and Jordan, denounced the U.S. attacks and urged solidarity with Libya

Khadafy's image in the Arab media is not the "mad terrorist" getting what he deserves, but of a brave Arab leader defending the honor of the entire Arab world.

An Arab proverb summarizes such feelings 'My brother and I against my cousin. My cousin and I against the outsider

Many Arab governments shun Khadafy and dismiss him as an eccentric, quick to finance guerrillas from Northern Ireland to the Philippines or meddle in neighboring countries such as Chad, where 5,000 Libyan troops support Chadian rebels.

Still, all 21 Arab League foreign ministers unanimously condemned "American aggression against Libya" and demanded an immediate withdrawal of the U.S. Sixth Fleet from waters off Libva.

The English-language Jordan Times expressed a widely held view when it wrote Wednesday that President Reagan "ignored or overlooked the fact that picking a fight with Khadafy at this time might make him more of a hero in this country and in the Arab world." Khadafy has also won support outside the Middle East. India termed the U.S. attacks "a serious threat" to peace, and China accused the Americans of aggravating tensions.

No pro-U.S. Arab leader has openly supported the United States in the conflict. None has reminded his people of alleged Libyan support for terrorism, some of it directed against fellow Arab countries like Egypt, or of Libyan backing for non-Arab Iran in its war with Arab Iraq. Instead, King Hassan II of Morocco declared his pro-Western country would take

"all action necessary so that the territorial integrity of Libya be respected. Egypt's President Hosni Muharak, who has previously accused Khadafy of sponsoring terrorism, merely called for mutual restraint without mentioning the United States or Jordan's minister of information, Mohammed Khatib, said King Hussein's Westernoriented government opposed aggression against any Arab country and honed "this situation will be minimized." With pro-Western leaders shying away from comment, most public comment is from Libya's friends and newspapers that often express views more radical than those of the governments in countries where they are

Syria's Al-Baath newspaper spoke of "flagrant American provocation and aggression," while the Palestinian extremist group led by Abu Nidal, whose real name is Sabry al-Banna, threatened to attack all American interests in the Middle East.

Syria described the attacks as "an act of provocation" and an example of "political and military terrorism practiced by the United States against the entire Arab people.

'When it comes to conflict with America, Arab sympathy for Khadafy is undivided," said an Arab diplomat based in the Persian Gulf, speaking on condition of anonymity. "The Americans are turning Khadafy into an Arab hero par excellence," the diplomat added, "with the situation projecting him as a (militarily) weak but brave leader facing the strong but impetuous Reagan."

Western diplomats with long experience in the Middle East say the Arab reaction was predictable. Despite the bitter and bloody conflicts that divide Arab governments, brotherhood still runs deep in the Arab character.

That feeling of brotherhood has been fueled by common language, culture and historical experiences such as domination by the Ottoman Turks and European colonialists and by the conflict with Israel.

"The first reflex of people is to support any Arab country when it is involved in anything, said a Western European diplomat based in Amman, Jordan, who spoke on condition he not be named.

Despite Arab backing for Libya in the conflict, it remains unclear if Khadafy will be able to capitalize on his new-found support.

Egypt suspects Libya of haboring anti-Egyptian terrorists; Tunisia believes Libya organized a 1980 raid on the town of Gafsa; Jordan and the Persian Gulf sheikdoms resent his opposition to monarchies; and Lebanon's resurgent Shiite community blames him for the 1978 disappearance of its spiritual leader, Imam Mousa Sadr.

All Arab countries except Syria disapprove of Khadafy's support for Iran in its 51/2-yearold war with Iraq.

"A first rule is that everybody has to support him now," said the Amman-based diplomat, referring to Khadafy. "A second is that not everybody wants to.

Dear Abby

Man's non-commitment bothers woman

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love with a guy who says he can't give me a commitment. We've been together for three years. I'm 24 and he's 27. When we first met, we lived together. It was fine for a few months, then whenever we'd have an argument, he'd tell me to get out. Well, I finally did, which he didn't like too much because I took all the furniture, which was mine.

Now I'm at his place most of the time anyway. He's a traveling salesman, and I take care of his cats, take his mail in, cook his meals occasionally, etc., on the weekends. He rarely takes me out because he says he has enough of the bar scene all week long.

My mother says, "It's the old story; why should he buy a cow when he gets the milk for free?" Do you think there is any future with this guy? (He says he loves me.) My decision depends on your BIDING MY TIME DEAR BIDING: What kind of "future" do you want? If it's marriage, the only way to find out is to set a deadline. Give him six months to make up his mind. That's long enough to plan a wedding - or a cattle sale.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for five years. We slept together before marriage. He wasn't the only one, but I wouldn't call myself a loose woman or anything like that because I only did it with a guy I was in love with and I can love only one guy at a time.

Well, I have never had an orgasm. I'm not complaining because I really do enjoy sex; I've just never had an orgasm, which I understand is not all that unusual. I do a very good job of faking it, which my husband doesn't know about because I don't want him to feel inadequate.

We want children and I've been trying to get pregnant for two years, but no luck. Abby, can not having an orgasm be the reason I am not getting pregnant?

WANTS KIDS DEAR WANTS: No. A nonorgasmic woman can conceive. One thing has nothing to do with the other. First see a fertility specialist. Then see a sex therapist. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My name is Lisa and I am 9 years old. I want you to know that my mom quit smoking because of you, with a little nagging from me. Last November she read a letter in your column reminding people that the next day was National Smokeout Day. That is when she quit smoking and she has not smoked since. Thank you, LISA IN MADISON, WIS. DEAR LISA: Thanks for letting me know. Please congratulate your mom for having raised a very caring daughter.

married a few weeks ago. I was her matron of honor. She wants me to 'help' her write thank-you notes for her wedding gifts. To "help" means I should write them all myself. I know this because I 'helped'' her write thank-you notes for her shower. (She licked the stamps.) When I objected, she told me that Bride's Magazine said it was my duty. Friends tell me not to, and I feel I shouldn't have to her husband could help. Is this my duty? Please answer before she gets back from the honeymoon.

TRAPPED DEAR TRAPPED: A bride should write her own thank-you notes, and if she needs help, her husband should pitch in. Is it your duty? Not in my book.

Dr. Donohue

Women's fertile time brief

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm getting advice from all sides about when to become pregnant. What is the simplest formula for determining my fertile period? I just got married and we have decided on a family right away. Some tell me you have to chart your periods for a year or more. Is that correct? Please simplify. We don't have a home computer. — Mrs. R.T.

You don't need a computer. In fact, most couples don't even need a pencil and paper. Formulas are for couples who have failed to conceive after a reasonable time of leaving it up to nature.

Charting monthly cycles takes about eight months, during which time you are trying to arrive at the mathematically ideal day for ovulation, the release of an egg from the ovaries.

During that eight months you chart the lengths of each cycle, using the start of menstrual flow as Day 1 for each cycle. (All this assumes the woman is having more or less regular cycles to begin with.)

Let's say a woman did this for eight months and found that her shortest cycle was 25 days and that her longest one was 30 days. Now you apply the 18-11 rule. To find the earliest day on which ovulation would occur, this woman would subtract 18 from the shortest cycle (25 minutes 18). The result (7) means that the earliest day on which she ovulates is Day 7.

To get the latest day of ovulation, the woman would subtract 11 days from the longest cycle (30-11), giving her 19. The latest day of ovulation would be the 19th day of the cycle. Her likely fertilize period is between Day 7 and Day 19.

Thereafter, within those 13 days the woman can zero in on a more precise fertility period by temperature-taking. Many women have a slight drop from normal basal temperature immediately before ovulation. It rises again in 24 to 72 hours. This is a relatively high fertility period. Temperature is taken before arising in the morning.

So far as actual conception is concerned, there's not a wide margin of assurance. The egg survives only about a day and the sperm two or sometimes three at most. Can you see why most couples are content to allow nature to take its course before turning to calculations? My advice is to give yourself time, about a year, at least, before pushing the panic (or computer) button.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is it OK to use oil on an infant after the bath, rather than powders? I seem to have trouble with the dust and end up choking over the bathinette. — D.L.

Sure, it's OK. In fact, some authorities are now suggesting abandoning talcs, suggesting possible danger to the infant. It's felt that what happens to you might just as easily happen to the child. Overuse of powder can be especially bad if the child has a respiration problem to begin with. Authorities suggest that oils and lotions are as

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am an elderly man with no outward health problems. I am having trouble with my eyelids turning under, if you know what I mean. How can Usually it occurs when the age there is a slight slackening of the eyelid support muscles. The person can induce the in-turning by rubbing the eyes closed, as in the gesture of fatigue. But entropion can also be a sign of eye infection. Or sometimes the problem may life with eyelashes themselves, which may begin growing inward, giving the impression that the entire lid is involved. That is trichiasis.

Because of these possibilities, you should be examined. If entropion becomes intolerable and can't be treated with simple lubricants, the answer is surgery to tighten the lid structure. The opposite condition, ectropion, is the outward turning of the lid. It, too, can be treated surgically, if need be.

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210. Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and one dollar.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever

Yeats speaks to Elbow Extension Club

County Attorney, Tim Yeats spoke to the Elbow Extension Homemaker's Club about wills recently. Yeats said without a will the spouse and children will inherit the estate. But, if one has stocks, bonds real estate and a sizeable bank account, one should have a will. Without a will, problems can arise if money is involved.

There is also an expense to probate a will. If there is a will and everything is left to the spouse there usually isn't a need to go through probate. Handwritten wills are legal but are more expensive to probate. When minor-children are involved one should have a will and name a legal guardian and a true can be put in the will. He also said that couple's should have separate wills.

The club made plans to travel to Rankin April 3 to attend the Extension Homemakers district six meeting.

Next club meeting will be April 17 in the home of Ruth Morton. A program will be presented on Texas

Berry, Sutton named player, coach of year

DALLAS (AP) - St. John's junior Walter Berry today was named winner of the 15th Adolph F. Rupp Trophy as the Associated Press college player of the year.

Berry, a 6-foot-8, 215-pounder who was the only unanimous selection on this year's AP All-America team, received 66 of 192 votes in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters conducted before the NCAA tournament.

The award, named for the late University of Kentucky coach, is sponsored by the Commonwealth Athletic Club of Kentucky, a group of businessmen who formed a notfor-profit organization to establish the trophy and care for it and other Rupp memorabilia at Rupp Arena in Lexington, Ky.

Kenny Walker of Kentucky finished second with 50 votes, followed by Johnny Dawkins of Duke with 18 and Len Bias of Maryland with 12.

Playing out of position at center on a team that lost All-American Chris Mullin and 7-footer Bill Wennington to graduation, Berry averaged 23 points and 11 rebounds game and shot almost 60 percent from the field in leading the Redmen to a share of the Big East Conference regular-season crown and the league's tournament title.

Berry, from the Bronx, N.Y., spent a year at San Jacinto, Texas. Junior College which he paced to the national junior college championship.

A left-hander with an unorthodox style, a soft touch and great leaping ability, Berry has scored 1,424 points in two seasons at St. John's to rank 10th among the Redmen's all-time scorers

This past season he set school records with 76 blocked shots, a 58.6 field goal percentage and 327 field goals.

The Redmen were seeded No. 1 in the NCAA West Regional, in which they lost in the second round to Auburn, 81-65, to finish the

DALLAS (AP) - Eddie Sutton, who took over Kentucky this season and led the Wildcats to the Southeastern Conference title, today was named college basketball's coach of the year by the Associated Press It was the second AP award for Sutton, who won in 1978 when he guided Arkansas into the Final Four, where the Razorbacks were beaten by Sutton's current employer. He is the sixth coach to win the award more than once -UCLA's John Wooden won it five times — but the first to win at different schools.

Sutton, who stepped into a pressure situation by replacing Joe B. Hall as coach of college basketball's winningest team, attracted 35 votes from a panel of 192 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Wildcats were 18-13 in Hall's 13th and final season and returned only two senior starters, one being All-American Kenny Walker. But Kentucky posted a 17-1 record to win the SEC regular-season title and then won the SEC tournament.

Dick Versace, who guided Bradley to the Missouri Valley Conference regular season title, finished second with 32 votes. Mike Krzyzewski, coach of Atlantic Coast Conference champion Duke, was next with 30.

St. John's Lou Carnesecca, whose team surprised by sharing the Big East regular season championship and winning the tourney crown, drew 26 votes. Dean Smith, whose North Carolina team was No. 1 for 13 weeks before injuries struck, got 23, while Larry Brown of Kansas' Big Eight champions,

The voting was conducted before the NCAA tournament. Kentucky, seeded No. 1, made it to the Southeast Regional final before losing to Louisiana State 59-57.

With no legitimate center, Sutton installed a three-guard, twoforward offense. It resulted in a No. 3 ranking nationally and a 32-4

Borden Co.'s Williams rigmed 1-A All-State

GAIL - Borden County Lady Coyotes player Kelli Williams was recently named to the Class A All-State Girls Basketball Squad.

Williams, a 5-4 junior guard, was named to the Second Team. She was the only Crossroads Country female player to be named to the elite squad. She was named to the Second Team along with O'Donnell post player Stacy Bessire. Coach Bill May's star guard led per game while shooting 46 percent rom the floor.

The honor caps off a very successful basketball season for Williams. She was named to the 10-A All-District Team for the second consecutive year. She was also named to the Region I-A Second Team.

Williams is also a top singles tennis player. Last year she competed in the state meet before losing in the Lady Coyotes to a impressive the semi-finals. This season she 17-7 record. She averaged 17 points has won two tournaments.

Final Four fever hits 'Big D'

DALLAS (AP) - What we have therefore, is, who will win the nahere is a Final Four with all of the tional championship? There is song-and-dance — and no theme.

The NCAA basketball championships of recent years have become, like the Super Bowl, a four-letter word — hype. More a pageant than a sporting event.

There's plenty of that here, too, but what's missing here, with Duke, Kansas, Louisville and Louisiana State, is a common denominator, the kind of story that binds two or more teams or players together.

Last year in Lexington, Ky., it was the Big East Feast, with Georgetown, St. John's and Villanova.

This year's four teams represent four conferences. Last year had the possibility of a repeat champion. Georgetown missed by one victory, losing to Villanova.

This year, Villanova didn't make it past the second round.

Two years ago in Seattle it was the Battle of the Big Men — Georgetown's Patrick Ewing against Houston's Akeem Olajuwon.

This year's "Big Man," Danny Manning of Kansas, is measured more by reputation than by his 6-foct-11 frame.

Three years ago, Houston's Phi Slama Jama fraternity owned the headlines. This year, there's more dunking going on in the coffee shops. Four years ago, North Carolina Coach Dean Smith came to the Final Four bearing a monkey on his back. In six tries, he had never won a championship. Would he finally succeed? He did. This year, neither Kansas Coach Larry Brown, nor Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski nor Louisville's Denny Crum nor LSU's Dale Brown wears anything resembling a millstone. The only angle to all of this, none of the fabricated foolishness that so often pervades these events.

No headbands. No refrigerators.

Just basketball. And money.

This is, of course, Dallas. But it could just as well be Lexington or Seattle or any other city fortunate enough to become the college basketball capital of the nation for a few days each March. On Saturday and Monday night in Reunion Arena, more than 16,000 spectators won't have so much as one thought about the Texas Longhorns' I-formation, about the Dallas Cowboys' Super Bowl chances.

This may be football country, but for now basketball is king.

Duke, champion of the East, comes here hoping to prove that its No. 1 ranking is justified, and 6-2 guard Johnny Dawkins seeks to cement his position as one of the top two or three draft choices next

Ann Meyers of UCLA was the first and Lynette Woodard of Kansas, now a member of the Harlem Globetroters, was second. "I'm very excited that we're

"I really don't want to dwell upon being sad and it (her basketball career) all coming to an end." She has no ambition to follow

Woodard to the Globetroters.

Lady Longhorns feel no pressure in championship bid

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Texas is undefeated, topranked and feeling no pressure in its bid for the NCAA Division women's basketball championship.

"This team generally has more fun when they play to win, so I can't imagine them doing anything different from that."

Western Kentucky upset Texas in regional play last year, 92-90, on a last-second shot by Lillie Mason.

"I'm confident," Conradt said at a news conference Thursday. "I think this team has proven themselves through the course of the season."

Coach Paul Sanderford of Western Kentucky is also confident. The Lady Toppers, 32-3, are Southern California, 30-4, and 24-9 Tennessee met earlier this season. The Californians recorded an 85-77 victory.

The Lady Longhorns, who failed to make it to the Final Four the past two years despite being ranked No. 1 in the season's final poll, have become familiar with the adversity of injuries.

Two years ago Annette Smith injured her knee two days before the regular season ended and was out of action for 19 months. The 5-foot-11 senior "I think that the experience has slowed some, but Conradt credits her return with producing the trip here. 'This year I have to play a

I can't jump as well as I used to. But with the help of a lot of my teammates, a lot of this also comes easier.'

"Texas, this year, has a year of experience, which I think is a number one factor that makes every team better," Sanderford said. "I think (freshman forward-center) Clarissa Davis adds a new dimension to the Sanderford wouldn't mind if Texas thinks about avenging last year's loss.

"I hope Texas plays for revenge," he said. "We're playing for the national championship.

Conradt is trying to downplay the revenge factor in preparing

"The biggest thing going for the revenge factor is that it gives you a headline," she said. 'We're not going to talk about it because I think we have all the motivation in the world to play this game, to play it hard and to play well without getting tack with a 14.1 mark.

"Those people who were associated with last season's season ending loss certainly are never going to forget it. But it is counterproductive to spend time on that.

Texas presents a balanced scoring attack. Senior forward Fran Harris leads the club with a 13.6 average and Davis has a 12.6 average. Sophomore guard Beverly Williams is averaging

Mavericks victory clinches playoff berth

NEW YORK (AP) - While the Dallas Mavericks have continued to improve every season of their six-year existence, the New York Knicks' situation seems to get worse every day.

The Mavericks, who got 38 points from Mark Aguirre en route to beating the Knicks 110-105 Thursday night, clinched a playoff berth with the victory and also won their 11th game in one month for the first time since coming into the NBA in Knicks guard Rory Sparrow suffered a broken ankle in the first quarter and became the sixth New York player to be lost for the season because of injury. The team's 22-52 record is the worst in the NBA.

NBA Roundup

"I don't believe in iinxes." Knicks Coach Hubie Brown said. 'We're a positive thinking team and we come to the arena every night thinking we're going to win. It's a credit to the staff and players of this team that they compete to the best of their abilities and don't give up.

In other NBA games, it was Golden State 121, San Antonio 118 and Sacramento 103, Seattle 101.

Five victories in their last nine games will give the Mavericks one more win than last season and mark the fifth consecutive year they've improved from one season to the next, a feat last accomplished by Philadelphia from 1973-74 to 1977-1978.

"I don't think the players knew going in that we needed a win to clinch, and I'm glad, because if they did, they would have played tentatively," said Dallas Coach Dick Motta, whose team is in fourth place in the Western Conference.

Aguirre scored 21 points in less than 10 minutes of the first quarter as Dallas outscored the Knicks 37-26. In that period, Aguirre was 8-for-11, including three three-point goals, the last of which was a 30-footer well behind the threepoint circle.

"We clinched the playoffs with this victory, but I hope Mark stays hot because we need to keep winning to protect our homecourt advantage," Motta said. "He was in a Sparrow joins Patrick Ewing, Bernard King, James Bailey, Bill Cartwright and Pat Cummings on the disabled list for the Knicks. Sparrow, the only guard on that injury list, collided with Dallas' Derek Harper, then apparently stepped on a teammate's foot and fell to the floor in pain.

"I planted my foot and ran into someone (Harper)," Sparrow said after returning from the hospital in a cast. "When I went down, I landed with the full weight on my bone.

Bannister scoring 35 points, 11 more than his previous career high, stayed in the game despite falling behind 75-56 in the third quarter.

But a 17-5 spurt for the Knicks, with Bannister scoring six and Trent Tucker seven of his 19 points, narrowed the deficit to 80-73 later in the third period. A 10-2 run in the fourth quarter helped the Knicks get within four on two occasions. but that was as close as they got as Aguirre hit three key baskets down the stretch.

PPEETE, Tahiti (AP) -American Brian Crouser set a world outdoor record for the new-style javelin Thursday night with a throw of 262 feet.

Running St. Mary's Bargain Box, 109 Main, has been a grand experience for the women of St. Mary's Episcopal Church. Riette Kionka and Mary Joy Cowper, members of the church, said.

"This volunteer undertaking has brought the workers together in a relationship they would not otherwise have shared, and unlike some church women groups, this one has functioned without rancor or jealousy," Cowper said. It has offered opportunities to serve the church to many members who might never have volunteered for choir or as a Sunday School teacher, she said.

The idea of the Bargain Box came in 1968 when Lou Ann White Davis spoke to St. Mary's Guild about her experience with thrift shop operations, Cowper said. A committee of women, Norma Wade, Mary Caton and Judy Talbot and Cowper went to Abilene to see a shop in action. When they returned, plans for the Bargain Box began and it opened on November 2 of that year at 101 Gregg.

"Moves were frequent," Cowper said, but the Bargain Box survived. They changed locations six times. Finally on June 14, 1979, St. Mary's purchased the property that the Bargain Box sits on today.

Merchandise such as clothing and household items are donated to the store from the community. "The Bargain Box has been a fine service to its customers," Kionka said. Clothing is priced very reasonably, hardly anything is priced for more than $50, she said. 'It's not uncommon to see a designer dress being sold for $4," Dene Sheppard, church member,

The idea of the Bargain Box is to make available products at low cost "so people can feel independent," Kionka said. "We've also given away clothing to those who've experienced disasters such as fires and other catastrophic

Louise Hamilton, Liza Bowman and Riette Kionka, chairpersons of the Bargain Box, serve as supervisors of the store during business hours. "All our time is volunteered," Kionka said. Store hours are Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 10 a.m.- 12 noon and Saturdays from 1-4 p.m.

The Bargain Box has been a blessing to the church, Cowper said. Over the years, money made by the corps of volunteers has paid the final installment of the church mortgage, contributed heavily to the purchase of the Casavant organ for the church, helped with church carpeting and paving, financed the new kitchen at the church, bought choir robes, music, and furniture. The store also paid for itself and for its remodeling, she said.
