Government aid

Q. How much is spent and how many receive subsidies to farmers? How does that compare with welfare figures?

A. The federal government spent about $9 billion in 1986 on farmer subsidies for about 2 1/2 million farmers, said Tim Hall, county director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. This includes the food stamp program.

For fiscal year 1985, $15 billion was spent on Aid to Families With Dependent Children, which most people think of when they say "welfare," said Linda Hill of the Washington, D.C. Office of Family Assistance, a department of the Department of Health and Human Services. Some 10.8 million people receive the aid, she said.

Area farmers fail to qualify

Soil retirement offer falls far short of expectation

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Scores of county farmers hoping to take land out of production for 10 years under a Department of Agriculture soil retirement program had those hopes shot down Friday.

More than 100 Howard County cotton farmers, about one in eight, sought to take out of production up to 55,000 acres of county land eligible under the department's Commodity Credit Corporation soil retirement program.

Not a single area farmer qualified for the program, said Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service agent Tim Hall.

Hall said the government would accept bids only of $35 and less per acre per year for Howard County farmers to retire land. "I don't expect there'd be any farmer that would take $35 an acre," Hall said. He said it cost farmers up to $70 to keep cover on the land. Planting a cover crop is crucial to halting soil erosion, he said.

Depending on location, land nationwide was being retired for $5 to $90 an acre, he said. The most the CCC would pay in Texas was $50 an acre in the area along the Gulf Coast, he said.

In Texas, as much as 1.65 million acres of land could have been retired under the program, Hall said. However, because state farmers felt their land was more valuable than what the CCC was willing to pay to retire it, only 31,000 acres was set aside in Texas.

Nationwide, the CCC had hoped to retire between 5 million to 10 million acres, he said. But less than 1 million will be taken out of production as of Friday, he said.

Hall said what land the government had hoped to retire and what they were willing to spend on the program obviously did not coincide.

Farmers will have another chance to sign up for the retirement program May 10, he said. However, at $35 an acre he said he expects little if any participation in the county.

Troopers nab 2,200 violators

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 2,200 Texas drivers know now that the Department of Public Safety covers the state from border to border.

That's how many traffic tickets were written Friday after more than 158 DPS troopers in as many patrol cars conducted Operation Plain View II on Interstate Highways 20 and 10.

"We did it for the same reason we did the first Operation Plain View in December," said Mike Cox, spokesman for DPS. "We wanted to make a big show of visibility and to concentrate on writing tickets on speeding and no seat belts."

"For a lot of the way on Interstate 20, there was a black and white patrol car about every 10 miles," Cox said.

The DPS operation covered I-20 from the Louisiana line west through Dallas-Fort Worth, Abilene, Midland and Odessa. It covered I-10 from Beaumont to El Paso.

More than 800 miles of Texas interstate was covered by the Border Patrol on guard against terrorists

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Unrest in the Middle East will have a federal agency on alert this weekend for travelers who fit the profile of terrorists as border traffic increases for Holy Week celebrations.

Easter week festivities have increased the flow of Mexican vacationers, U.S. students on spring break and local shoppers on the Gateway International Bridge.

But this year, Silvester Reyes, U.S. Border Patrol district supervisor in McAllen, said his agency is on the alert for anybody illegally crossing who fits the profile of a terrorist or who could be associated with terrorist activity.

"We have had communications from our central office in Washington, D.C. to exercise particular caution during this period because of the events that have occurred in the Middle East," Reyes said.

Although the Border Patrol office was put on alert for potential terrorist activity twice this year, Reyes said the Tuesday directive was the first to refer to the nationality of the potential terrorists.

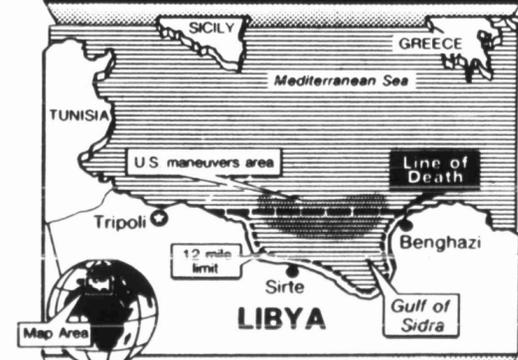

He said his office was directed to be on the alert for individuals from the Middle East, particularly Libyans.

"(We're) on increased alert for any Middle Eastern national or anybody who fits the profile of someone who would enter to commit a terrorist act," Reyes said.

Although he wouldn't comment on any precautionary measures his

Khadafy claims three U.S. jets shot down in ambush

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — "We will impose sovereignty on the Gulf of Sidra with our blood!" Moammar Khadafy shouted Friday to throngs dancing around an ox with 'Reagan' written on it. When he finished his speech they killed the ox.

The Libyan leader gave his scorecard for the confrontation with the U.S. 6th Fleet in the gulf, which he called a Libyan ambush: Libya: Three U.S. warplanes shot down.

U.S. Navy: One fishing boat attacked.

He also claimed one American missile had not exploded and said it would be given to the Soviet Union for inspection.

American officials said the Libyans fired at least six missiles soon after 6th Fleet vessels entered the gulf Monday and U.S. warplanes responded with attacks on Libyan patrol boats that sank at least two, and two raids on a shoreline missile base, with no damage to American aircraft.

Ships of the three-carrier Navy force that entered the gulf with the avowed purpose of asserting international navigation rights, pulled out of the zone Thursday. Khadafy claims the gulf as national territory, but the United States insists it is international waters beyond the generally recognized 12-mile limit.

The Pentagon said it ended the exercise several days early. The version Khadafy gave the crowd was that he sent a message to the 6th Fleet demanding its departure, and "they left in 72 hours."

Khadafy delivered his fiery message Friday evening from a balcony of his heavily fortified bunker in downtown Tripoli, shouting at the top of his lungs to thousands of people who intoned anti-American slogans and tormented the ox.

The cannons of two Soviet-built T-72 tanks jutted out on either side of Khadafy.

After the 90-minute speech, members of Khadafy's audience whirled around the black-and-white ox, waving their fists in the air. Someone slit its throat and others danced in the blood that gushed from the wound.

About 100 foreign journalists escorted to the site witnessed the spectacle.

"We will impose our sovereignty on the Gulf of Sidra with our blood!" Khadafy told the crowd, and issued a warning to Italy, Spain other countries in which U.S. bases are located.

"If this confrontation continues, Libya will attack the U.S. forces stationed in those foreign countries," Khadafy said. "We'll hit anywhere there is an American base."

He repeated Libya's initial claim of downing three American jets during what his media have called a "glittering victory over the im-

Hospital drops program

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin State Hospital officials say they will drop a program that helps small groups of mental patients live together and earn a living, a move that has angered some professionals in the mental health field.

The program has been praised as "one of the better programs we have in the state" by Dr. Gary Miller, commissioner of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Miller last year testified before U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders of Dallas that the program "has been demonstrated to reduce the incidents of hospitalization."

Sanders is overseeing a court case against state mental hospitals. Austin State Hospital officials have proposed to close the unit, which is called Capital Lodge, in an effort to save money and department officials plan to vote on the proposal next week, the Austin American-Statesman reported Friday.

The proposal is being criticized by mental health professionals in Austin, the newspaper said.

The coordinator of the Austin-based panel assigned by Sanders to monitor mental hospitals has asked the department for "an explanation of what is going on."

"I have no reason to want it permanently dropped," said David Pharis, coordinator of the monitoring panel. "Any program that has demonstrated its effectiveness is useful, and I think that this program has."

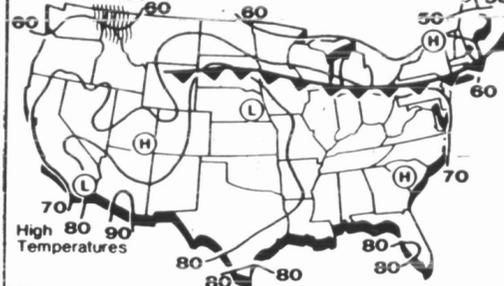

Capital Lodge "is the most effective program for the chronically mentally ill that the system has right now," said Sam Shore, director of the community program that supervises the Capital Lodge patients after their discharge from Austin State Hospital.

"I have yet to see any documentation on any program that is as effective," said Shore, who works for the Austin-Travis County community mental health center. "To close it down doesn't make much sense when you know you're doing a good job. I'm for expanding this kind of activity instead of reducing it."

Mental patients in the Capital Lodge program live in a building that is isolated from the general adult psychiatric wards. Being away from acutely psychotic patients allows Capital Lodge patients to learn more quickly and to form lasting personal bonds that will continue after they leave the hospital.

Fair to partly cloudy skies and balmy temperatures in the middle 70s and lower 80s were the rule for all of Texas Friday as a high-pressure system dominated the state.

Partly cloudy skies covered much of the area from the upper Texas coast north into north Central Texas and near Del Rio, the National Weather Service said. Elsewhere, skies were generally clear.

The late-afternoon temperature extremes ranged from 77 degrees at Amarillo to 83 degrees in Laredo.

Winds were mostly southerly between 10 and 15 mph, except over parts of West Texas and the lower coast, where occasional gusts to around 20 mph were noted.

The forecast for North Texas calls for fair skies with warm days and mild night through Sunday. Highs should be in the 80s and lows in the upper 50s and lower 60s.

West Texas should have isolated afternoon thunderstorms in the far west Saturday but otherwise should see sunny to partly cloudy skies through Sunday. Highs should be in the 80s and 90s, with lows in the 40s and 50s.

South Texas should be mostly clear through Sunday with lows in the 50s and 60s and highs in the 80s.

Fair skies and mild temperatures prevailed across the nation Friday, with rain falling only in southern Florida and parts of the Pacific Northwest coast.

Record high temperatures were recorded in seven cities from Wyoming to Michigan, with readings mostly in the 70s and 80s. Similar temperatures prevailed across the rest of the nation, except in the Northeast, where afternoon readings climbed into the 40s and 50s.

Seminar on reading impairment slated

SAN ANGELO — A seminar called "Dyslexia and Your Child" will be offered in San Angelo, beginning April 1.

Dr. Bernard M. Patten, associate professor of neurology at Baylor Medical Center, will explore the myths, misconceptions and current research of the reading disorder in part 1.

Millions of children with dyslexia are labeled as slow learners or retarded, he said, but with the proper help and understanding, children with dyslexia can learn to overcome the disability and live a normal life.

Part 1 will be April 1, 7 to 9 p.m. at the San Angelo Convention Center.

Part 2 will be April 3, 7 to 9 p.m. at St. John's Hospital auditorium. A panel of experts will give a presentation on identifying and helping the child with dyslexia through school.

Another 1,369 warning tickets were issued.

agency is taking for the alert, Reyes said no extra agents have been called in to assist the local Border Patrol office.

He said Border Patrol agents have apprehended five Israelis, four Egyptians, three Iranians, three Pakistanis, two Italians, a Lebanese, a Jordanian and a Turk so far this year.

He said the last Middle Eastern apprehended was either a Jordanian or Iranian caught illegally crossing the border earlier this month.

Meanwhile, the local U.S. Customs office says it is handling the heavier traffic routinely.

"During Easter week ... there are a lot of people from the interior of Mexico coming across on their vacations," said Francis Legere, U.S. Customs chief in Brownsville.

Pedestrian traffic across the bridge this week had increased to more than 15,000 people a day by mid-week, Legere said. More than 9,000 vehicles crossed the bridge on Wednesday, he said.

Despite the Washington-mandated search for terrorists, Legere said customs inspections have been handled without incident so far this week. He added that his office is not on alert for traffic other than ordinary travelers.

"We're still doing the job we have to do, but we have to do it faster," he said.

peralist invaders." "The Americans deny the planes were shot down," he shouted. "They are lying. They ask how can three planes be shot down by a small country? But their planes were shot down and they know it."

"America has gone mad in the last two days. They attacked a fishing boat and claimed it was a gunboat. An American helicopter was allowed to cross the 'line of death' to collect one body and one dying man," crew members of the downed aircraft.

Khadafy claimed the American ships never crossed the 32nd parallel, the 'line of death' he defines as the outer limit of Libyan rights in the gulf.

Libya has said little or nothing of its casualties, but the Madrid newspaper Diario 16 quoted Capt.

Luis Asiain of the tanker Castillo de Ricote on Friday as saying his vessels rescued 16 Libyan sailors and "12 (Libyan) crewmen were killed when their patrol boat was hit by a U.S. missile."

"The war with America will increase," Khadafy said, and told the admiring crowd: "We allowed the Americans to come into our airspace so we could ambush them."

Cheers arose, and he devoted a few comments to Americans who live in Libya: "They live in peace. We are not killing them. They like it here."

After terrorist attacks at the Rome and Vienna airports Dec. 27, in which 20 people were killed, Reagan ordered all Americans to leave Libya by Feb. 1.

Traffic fines up in Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — Running red lights or illegally passing school buses will cost Austin motorists a lot more in the future.

New traffic fines have become effective, with increases for all moving violations.

"The fines hadn't been revised in four or five years," presiding Municipal Court Judge J. David Phillips said Thursday. Judges hope to curb violations with the penalties, he said.

"We especially wanted to raise the ones" for violations "that were dangerous or intentional," Phillips said of the fines.

The fine for running a red light went up to $60 from $37. Police issued thousands of tickets for the violation during a crackdown in 1983, but it remains one of the most frequent causes of traffic accidents, Phillips said.

"Austinites have a slight problem with red lights," he said. "Maybe we'll get people to stop at yellow lights. A red light lasts about 30 seconds, and if they'll stop, they'll save 60 bucks."

The fine for illegally passing a school bus has been raised to $115 from $67. Cars are prohibited from passing a school bus that is stopped, with its lights flashing, when schoolchildren are getting on and off the bus, according to the state motor vehicle code.

Fines for fictitious or altered license plates or inspection stickers were increased to $85 from $49. The fine for driving without a license was increased to $60 from $22. If the driver obtains a license or renews an expired license within 12 days of getting the ticket, the fine is reduced to $11.

Phillips and four other Municipal Court judges approved the revisions in December, but new tickets were not issued until Wednesday after the old tickets had been used up, Phillips said.

Fines for all other traffic violations were increased at least $3 to pass a new state tax on the violators, Phillips said. The new tax goes into the state fund for crime victim compensation, he said.

DENVER — Two hundred photographers from around the world will have their cameras ready May 2 to capture a day in the life of America from its first sunrise at Maine's Mt. Desert Island to its final sunset at Kauai, Hawaii.

They'll be taking pictures for "A Day in the Life of America." The book is the brainchild of Rick Smolan, 36, who has done similar portraits of Australia, Canada, Japan and Hawaii.

"If this book succeeds, what it will have done is create a visual time capsule," said David Cohen, 31, co-director of the $5 million project, with headquarters in Denver.

Louisiana leads nation

BATON ROUGE, La. — Louisiana, a rural state propped up for 60 years by energy-related industries, has lost its prop and replaced West Virginia as the No. 1 state in the nation in unemployment.

When it was announced Thursday that Louisiana's unemployment rate hit 13.2 percent in February, this Deep South state's problem prompted excitement in the Appalachian state where Gov. Arch Moore decided to gild the Capitol dome to celebrate.

AIDS virus produced

NEW YORK — Scientists have produced an inactivated form of AIDS virus that points toward possible new anti-AIDS drugs and could lead to a vaccine, according to two new reports.

The virus resembles the normal, deadly AIDS virus in all respects except one — it lacks a single microscopic gene, and in doing so is unable to reproduce and cause disease.

Such a virus might serve as the basis of a vaccine, its discoverers said Friday. The theory is that the immune systems of people deliberately infected with the altered virus might produce antibodies that would protect against infection with lethal AIDS virus.

Cost-saving ideas listed

AUSTIN — The Texas State Employees Union, looking for ways to save state money and jobs, Friday released a list of cost-cutting ideas submitted by its members.

At the top of the list is a recommendation to require only one license plate — instead of the current two — per vehicle. Some states currently require only a back plate.

Texas could save $3.5 million a year by going to one plate, according to the TSEU report.

'Black tar' highly potent

WASHINGTON — A form of Mexican heroin now spreading across the United States is unusually potent and led last year to dozens of drug overdose deaths, says a federal study released today.

The heroin, known among users as black tar, sells for one-tenth the price of heroin previously available and could cause the first general increase in overall heroin use in more than five years, the Drug Enforcement Administration says in the report.

War on hunger

Campaign to raise $100 million in U.S.

By The Associated Press

In a reprise of last year's "We Are the World" global sing-along, promoters of a coast-to-coast hand-shake to fight hunger unveiled a new charity anthem, "Hands Across America," in a nationwide Good Friday broadcast.

Hundreds of people gathered on the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York to join in the singing of "We Are the World," followed by the new song. Radio stations in Los Angeles, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, D.C., Albuquerque, N.M., Kansas City, Mo., Little Rock, Ark., and Rome, Ga., among others, also broadcast the songs.

Some stations reported a good response to the program, which also offered celebrity pitches for the May 25 coast-to-coast lineup. However, other stations said it appeared to be weak, especially compared to the success of "We Are the World."

Hands Across America organizers are asking the public to contribute at least $10 for the chance to join hands in a line that will cross 16 states and the District of Columbia. They hope to raise up to $100 million to fight hunger and homelessness in the United States.

"The feedback we got was extremely positive, and in fact, we had the phones ringing off the hook here. But more importantly, the phone lines for the national toll-free number (to join in the lineup) were jammed once it was broadcast," said Janis Burenga, a spokeswoman for United Stations Radio Network, which put together the program. She said at least 1,000 stations were hooked up to the network for the broadcast.

"We were all very gratified by the response," she said.

In remarks starting off the 10:15 a.m. EST broadcast, comedian Lily Tomlin said the campaign would give people "the ability to link up, feel they can make an impact."

It's a "possibility for us to put an end to hunger in the United States in our lifetime. It's an opportunity for us as Americans to set an example, show what a difference it makes when we get involved," said entertainer Susan Anton, who also promoted the project, along with actresses Mariel Hemingway, Kathleen Turner and Glenn Close, and musicians Quincy Jones and Michael Jackson.

"Hands Across America," a lavishly mixed production by singers and musicians performing as Voices of America, has verses emphasizing brotherhood and a grass-roots chorus:

"Hands across America, hands across the land I love. United we stand, united we fall. Hands across America."

In some areas, calls to participate in Hands Across America began right away, but in other places, the response was cool.

Mark McCain at KKYK-FM, Little Rock, said: "Immediately following the event, the announcer had a lot of calls asking how to get involved in the event. He said the phones just lit up during the next 30 minutes."

"It's not as strong as a year ago with 'We are the World,' not by half in excitement. The public certainly did not respond at all," he said.

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II, praying before a crucifix shrouded in purple in St. Peter's Basilica, led thousands of Roman Catholics in ceremonies commemorating Good Friday.

Shultz warns Khadafy

ROME — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Friday the United States would continue to confront Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy's "outrageous behavior" even though this week's 6th Fleet maneuvers have ended.

Greek, Italian and U.S. fighter jets flew escort for the secretary's Boeing 707 Air Force plane during Shultz's one hour and 50 minute flight from Athens.

The escort was ordered after Libya threatened to attack U.S. diplomats and facilities in retaliation against this week's action.

Libya holds out threat

VALLETTA, Malta — Malta's prime minister was quoted Friday as saying Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy is prepared to attack NATO bases in Italy if the United States holds more military maneuvers off the Libyan coast.

"I told (Italian Premier) Craxi two months ago ... Khadafy has repeated this many times: all NATO facilities are hostile to Libya. And yesterday the colonel repeated that. Categorically," Mifsud Bonnici was quoted as telling the Milan newspaper Corriere Della Sera in Malta during an interview Thursday.

Soviets air displeasure

MOSCOW — A Foreign Ministry official said Friday that Moscow "cannot fail to take into account" recent U.S. actions, including a nuclear test, in agreeing to a date for a new U.S.-Soviet summit.

The official, Valery Sukhin, deputy chief of the ministry press department, also said the Soviet Union has not decided whether to extend its unilateral test moratorium, which officially expires Monday.

In a highly unusual advance announcement, television schedules published in the Friday evening edition of the government newspaper Izvestia showed that Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev would make a nationally televised speech Saturday night.

Girl Scouts greet Soviet visitor

HOUSTON (AP) — Soviet schoolgirl Katerina Lycheva on Friday brought her message of peace to Texas where her tour coordinators were scrapping some public appearances so she could catch up on some rest and avoid the crush of the press.

The 11-year-old Katerina was making her fourth stop on a U.S. tour which began on March 20 in Chicago and included stays in New York and Washington, where she met briefly Thursday with President Reagan. She was scheduled to leave Houston on Sunday for Los Angeles.

Katerina's trip commemorates the 1963 visit to Moscow by Maine schoolgirl Samantha Smith, who died last year in a plane crash. She has been accompanied by her mother and by Star Rowe, 10, of San Francisco, who won an essay contest held by the trip's sponsoring group, Children as Peacemakers of San Francisco.

More than 150 Girl Scouts greeted Katerina's entourage at Houston Intercontinental Airport, presenting her with a Texas flag and yellow roses.

"I'm sure I'll like it very much here in Texas," she said.

She also was scheduled for a news conference, a mule-drawn wagon ride in downtown Houston and a fashion show at a department store, where she was to be given jeans, a Texas shirt, a pair of cowboy boots and a cowboy hat.

Tour spokeswoman Marian Slavin, however, said an ambitious weekend schedule was being curtailed at the request of Katerina's family.

"Her family has asked that she be given some time to rest," Ms. Slavin said. "She has only two days in Los Angeles and then it's a long flight back to Moscow."

As a result, a planned department store appearance Saturday morning was cancelled, along with her attendance at an Easter Sunday church service and dinner Sunday with a family in Katy, west of Houston. Instead, the family which planned to host the Easter feast was being invited to the Houston hotel for brunch with her.

"Everything was too scattered," Ms. Slavin said. "We would be spending too much time getting to places. Some of the things scheduled were too far away from the hotel and she's gotten very tired."

Still on tap for the weekend was a tour of the Johnson Space Center and a visit to a Girl Scout camp in Seabrook. Both events, however, were being put off-limits to the press, Ms. Slavin said.

On Thursday, Katerina reminded Reagan of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's proposal "that all nuclear weapons be abolished before I grow up. I said that would be a very good thing."

"Mr. Reagan said he will do his best to do it and to make (the) world free of nuclear arms," she said of her brief White House visit with the president.

Katerina has said she was selected by the Soviet Peace Committee to make the American journey, adding that she has acted in anti-war plays in her native Moscow and organized an exhibit in honor of Samantha Smith.

Book strengthens grip on life

Strengthening Your Grip. By Charles Swindoll. Word Books, Waco. $10.95.

This is not a book on improving your golf game. Neither is it a set of exercises to make your arm muscles stronger. It is, however, a book about grabbing onto the essentials of life. Defining what he means by this, Swindoll says:

"We need biblical fixed points to hang onto — firm, solid handles that will help us steer our lives in a meaningful manner. What we really want is something to grab — believable, reliable truth that makes sense for today's generation, essential principles for our aimless world."

This is the author's purpose and he achieves it. There are biblical principles given to help you evaluate life and strengthen your grip in regard to: priorities, encouragement, money (something more slippery than oil these days), integrity, aging, leisure (yes, it is OK to relax!), godliness, attitudes, authority, family, and many more.

One could not have chosen more needy areas than these for the times in which we live. In writing about these things, the author's style is excellent. The book is descriptive and sprinkled liberally with illustrations, anecdotes, and real-life experiences.

The chapters are short, easily read in one sitting over a cup of coffee or before retiring for the night. A book like this is better read in short doses with time for assimilation before going on to the next chapter. Discussion questions are provided at the conclusion of each chapter to help the reader review and digest the principles given. These questions can be used individually, for family devotion time, or in a group study.

If you are seeking meaning and direction in an aimless world, this book will strengthen your grip on life.

Gould casts opposite Hepburn

Actor's long wait turns into plum

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harold Gould waited nearly 25 years to play his first romantic role, and he got a real plum — leading man in a television movie with Katharine Hepburn.

The character actor, distinguished by his white hair and moustache, stars with Miss Hepburn in the CBS movie "Mrs. Delafield Wants To Marry."

The movie airs at 8 p.m. Sunday on Channel 7-KOSA.

He plays a Jewish physician of humble origins who falls in love with a wealthy widow from an aristocratic WASP family.

It's the first romantic leading role for Gould, who at age 37 gave up a college teaching career to become an actor in 1962.

"I've played a few things close," he said. "In 'Golden Girls' I was Betty White's date. But it wasn't a lead. So now that I'm in my 60s I play a romantic lead. I don't know if this will open up anything or not. Maybe this is it. But it's nice to do."

Miss Hepburn, the winner of four Academy Awards, was cast first and given a choice of leading men.

"She looked over a number of people," Gould said. "I had to fly to New York to talk to her. She didn't know who I was. She's outspoken and frank and thorny. She doesn't mean to be cruel. We hit it off from the beginning. We found our ideas on the play and the approach to our characters coincided."

What was she like to work with? "You just recognize a pro. It was quite wonderful. It was fun."

Gould said that as he did the romantic scenes, there were always visions in his

Harold Gould, well-known character actor distinguished by his white hair and moustache, stars with Katharine Hepburn in his first romantic role, a CBS movie "Mrs. Delafield wants To Marry." Gould waited nearly 25 years to play his first romantic role.

head of Miss Hepburn's famous leading men: Spencer Tracy, Cary Grant, Henry Fonda.

"Once you get past these legends she's played with, you just follow the script and respond to one another," he said. "She's very giving and doesn't hold back."

"The whole idea of acting and make-believe still has a sense of childlike wonder for her, as it does for me. We had a scene where we were eating. She insisted that the plates be warm. No one watching at home would ever know, but it's just part of her process of make-believe."

Gould, the son of a postal worker, got his doctoral degree in theater arts at Cornell University. He taught acting at Cornell, UCLA, Stanford and Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Virginia. He was teaching at the University of California-Riverside when he made his decision to try acting.

"I was getting close to 40 and I knew it was now or never," he said. "I gave myself a year to make it. I lived in a $7-a-week attic room in Hollywood and my wife stayed in Riverside and supported the kids. I had an old second-hand car that leaked oil and smoked."

Gould soon landed guest parts in "The Virginian" and "The Fugitive." He performed in TV shows and movies. His major films included "The Sting," "Silent Movie," "The Front Page," "The Arrangement," "Inside Daisy Clover," and "Harper."

He was Valerie Harper's father in "Rhoda," and also starred in the series "Father and Father," "Park Place," "Foot in the Door," and "Under One Roof."

Gould also does voice-overs for commercials.

"It's just exploded the last year or two," he said. "It changes your perspective, too. It gives you a solid base and you don't have to grab at things desperately. But there's a danger, too. You can fall asleep. You can say I'll just do voice-overs and forget the rest. That's the danger. It's not what I want to do with my life."

Local opera house performs prize winner 'On Golden Pond'

COLORADO CITY — The story of an elderly couple returning to their beloved summer home will come to life on the stage of the Colorado City Opera House Thursday when "On Golden Pond" opens.

A host of Opera House veterans has been cast for the six roles the play offers. Tandy Curlee plays the part of Norman Thayer Jr. while Marie Jackson has been cast in the role of Ethel Thayer. Elaine Kelly plays the part of Chelsea while Tom Kelly plays the part of Bill Ray, Chelsea's fiancé. Ruben Hurt is Billy Ray, Bill Ray's teenage son who spends the summer with the elderly couple and finds himself growing close to the cantankerous Norman. Kent Womack is cast as Charlie Martin, the postman who delivers the mail by boat on Golden Pond.

Walter Hearin, director of the prize-winning play, describes it as a "masterpiece of entertainment."

adding that "this is a play most people can relate to."

"On Golden Pond" was written by Ernest Thompson and first appeared on Broadway in 1979. It was later made into a movie which starred Hery Fonda, Katharine Hepburn and Jane Fonda.

Six performances will be presented in two consecutive weeks — Thursday, April 3; Friday, April 4; Saturday, April 5; Thursday, April 10; Friday, April 11; and Saturday, April 12.

Performances begin at 8 p.m. The box office will open Monday at the Opera House, 337 Walnut. Tickets are $5 each and may be reserved by calling (915) 728-3491. Senior citizens will be admitted half price at the Thursday, April 10 performance.

The Opera House is a turn-of-the-century facility which has been restored by the local theater group.

Music award guarantees acclaim

NEW YORK (AP) — The seven recipients of the Avery Fisher Prize in music are among the world's most sought-after virtuoso performers.

The prize was first given in 1975, and went to cellist Lynn Harrell and pianist Murray Perahia.

Harrell won a Grammy award in 1981 with Vladimir Ashkenazy and Itzhak Perlman for "Tchaikovsky's Piano Trio in A minor." Perahia was the first American to record all the Mozart concertos.

In 1978, the prize went to cellist Yo-Yo Ma, who won a Grammy in 1984 for "Bach: The Unaccompanied Cello Suites."

The 1979 prize went to pianist Emanuel Ax, who has performed with nearly all the major orchestras in the Americas, East and West Europe and the Orient. In 1980, pianist Richard Goode, who is currently recording the complete Beethoven sonatas, was the prize recipient.

In 1982 pianist Horacio Gutierrez, a silver medalist at the Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow, won the award.

The most recent Avery Fisher Prize was awarded in 1983 to Elmar Oliveira, the first American violinist ever to win a gold medal at the Tchaikovsky Competition.

Actress wants her own success

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mariska Hargitay is more interested in becoming a good actress than being a movie star as her mother, the late Jayne Mansfield, was.

"I saw all my mother's old films on television," she said. "And my father always spoke a lot about her. But I remember almost nothing. My feeling is she was a lot smarter than people gave her credit for being. She knew what she wanted."

Miss Hargitay was 3 years old when her mother was killed in an automobile accident. She was raised by her father, Mickey Hargitay, a former Mr. Universe, and his second wife.

New company helps cut government red tape

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

A fledgling Midland company is offering to help untangle the winding knot of red tape that stands between many businesses and the federal spending pie.

The Permian Basin Bid Center is a government bid resource service that covers the 17 counties, including Howard, encompassed by the Permian Regional Planning Commission. It's supported by the Midland and Odessa Chamber of Commerce and the private industry council of Midland and Odessa.

Basically, the center exists to assist and expedite the procurement of government contracts — contracts that amount to $170 billion a year, said center director David Thayer.

"You have no idea what the government buys," he said. About 2,000 federal agencies buy everything from armadillos to dog collars, he said.

He said the non-profit company he heads can speed paper work nine months. The ability to obtain hard copy of government regulations and specifications in 48-hours instead of the usual four to six weeks is just one time-saver the center has established.

First the center gets a company on the federal government's bid list. Then it assists the firm with the reams of paper work involved in government contracting, he said. Along with rushing specification and regulation data to companies, the procurement service helps in actual completion of the bid package, he said.

The service costs 1 percent of the gross revenue generated by a contract secured through the bid resource center, Thayer said. So far 15 area companies have submitted bids with assistance from the center, he said. No contracts have been awarded yet, but Thayer said several firms are close to nailing one down.

Executive Director of the local Chamber of Commerce, LeRoy Tillery, said three Big Spring firms have signed on with the bid center since Thayer's presentation Tuesday. They are: Fraser Industries, Co-ex Pipe Co. and Gamco.

Business briefs

• Doyle L. Lamb, administrator of Malone and Hogan Clinic, has been elected as a Fellow of the International Academy of Medical Administrators.

The academy has some 1700 worldwide members, but only 136 who have attained fellow status. He joined the academy in 1964 as a nominee.

• Eddie Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reed of Coahoma, has been named controller of St. Mary's of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock.

St. Mary's is a 300-bed acute care hospital with specialties in open heart surgery and cardiac catheterization, he said. Reed is president-elect of the West Texas chapter of Healthcare Financial Management Association.

• Advanced Telephone Systems, a locally owned telephone equipment company, has recently entered into an agreement with Dash Long Distance Service to market and service its long distance network in the Big Spring area, said Robb McKenzie, ATS vice president. Dash, a Midland based company, offers long distance service nationwide at a discount, he said. The agreement makes Dash the only long distance company serving Big Spring with local 24-hour technicians, he said.

• Traffic to Anthony's clothing store in College Park will be somewhat diminished with TG&Y's imminent closing, but Anthony's is not going out of business, said manager Farris McDonald. The store may be upgraded for a new look, he said, in a year.

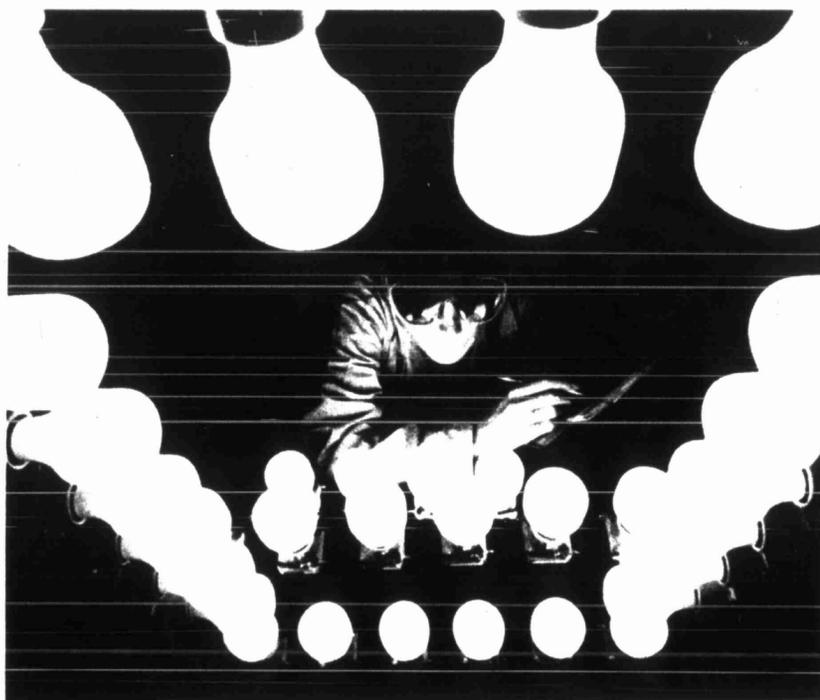

TG&Y's closing is another chapter in the College Park saga. This year, National Video and the Dragon Gate restaurant have moved in to the shopping center and the Rain Barrel and Gold Mine restaurant have moved out. Good Fortune restaurant, formerly located there, is no longer in business and several retail spots remain empty.

• Four clinics to help small business owners and operators will be offered at the Midland College Allison Fine Arts building from 7 to 9 p.m. April 28-30 and May 1. Topics covered will be marketing potential for the future, current trends in financing, computers and accounting. The fee is $5 per person per session. Those interested may register at the college from April 7-18 or at the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

• Ten percent of small businesses in the United States can't get liability insurance coverage and the rest of the small business community is experiencing premium increases of 50 to 500 percent, according to a recent survey conducted by a national small business association. Over 25 percent of small businesses are electing to operate without coverage and another 10.5 percent are closing their doors, the survey said. Some 85.5 percent of the survey respondents have never had a claim filed against their businesses.

• There were 70 rigs actually making holes in District 8 Far West Texas, including Howard County, as of March 24, according to Hughes Tool Co. This compares to 79 rigs March 17, 84 rigs Feb. 24 and 129 rigs March 25, 1985.

Drilling report

These are the latest oil and gas activity reports filed with the Texas Railroad Commission for the five-county crossroads country.

The No. 1 Dillard "A" has received state Railroad Commission recognition as discovery well of a new Howard County field 4 miles north of Big Spring. Union Oil is the operator.

The well flowed 300 barrels of oil per day from Canyon formation perforations at 9008 to 9041 feet into the hole. Flow pressure was gauged at a sturdy 1,655 psi. Oil tested at 52-gravity.

Union bottomed the well at 10,100 feet with plugback to 10,000. In addition to oil, the well made 4 barrels of salt water.

The state has approved BC (Canyon) as the field name.

North American Royalties of Midland is preparing to conduct a work-over operation at the No. 1 Leora R. Flanagan in Howard County's Spraberry Trend Field.

Located four miles southeast of Big Spring, the well was originally drilled in March of 1981, with Turner Petroleum as the original operator. The well flowed 30 barrels of oil per day from perforations in the Mississippi Formation, 9,290 to 9,510 feet into the hole. The original total depth of the well was 9,660 feet.

North American Royalties will be seeking production at approximately 6,500 feet.

At a location eight miles southeast of Big Spring, Samedan Oil has finalized a new oil producer in Howard County's Howard-Glasscock Field.

The well is designated as the No. 1 Cole, pumping 168 barrels of oil per day.

Location is in a lease in the W&NW Survey. Bottomed at 4,325 feet, the well will produce from perforations in the Middle Clear Fork Formation, 3,121 to 4,036 feet into the hole.

The same operator has staked location for the No. 3 and No. 4 Cole in the Howard-Glasscock Field about 13 miles southeast of Big Spring.

Both wells carry permit for 4,400-ft. maximum hole and will be aimed at Middle Clear Fork Formation pay. The operation will be in a 320-acre lease in the W&NW Survey.

Enduro Oil of Houston has driven stake for four 3,600-ft. developmental wells in the Moore Field, Howard County, five miles northwest of Big Spring. Located in a 100-acre lease in the T&P Survey A-1349, the wells are designated as the Nos. 1, 2, 4 and 5 Roy Phillips "D."

Texaco is preparing to conduct a re-entry and workover at a 38-year-old well in Howard County's Vealmoor (Cisco) Field, 16 miles north of Big Spring. The well is designated as the No. 2 Tora Campbell. It was completed in August of 1948 flowing 320 barrels of oil per day from Pennsylvania perforations at 7,780 to 7,830 feet into the hole.

The new operation is earmarked for completion at a depth of 7,700 feet or above.

First production figures have been filed for a pair of pumping oilers in the Guitar Estate lease of the Moore Field eight miles northwest of Big Spring.

Rosewood Resources Inc. completed the 3017 and 4017 Guitar Estate, pumping 16 and 28 barrels of 35-gravity oil daily, respectively. The wells were drilled to depths of 3,310 and 3,300 feet, respectively, with plugbacks to 3,258 and 3,226 feet up the hole. Production intervals ranged from 3,172 to 3,192 feet in the San Andres Formation.

The 3017 made 85 barrels of water daily, and the No. 4017 made 129.

Howard County's Parallel-Wolve Field will see more developmental action when the No. 1 McNew is spudded three miles northeast of the Knott townsite. With Parallel Petroleum of Midland as the operator, the well carries authority for 10,700 feet of hole making. It is in a 164-acre lease in the T&P Survey Sec. 10 Blk 33.

Dallas-based Rosewood Resources has staked location for a pair of 3,600-ft. developmental wells in the Moore Field 10 miles northwest of Big Spring. The wells have been designated as the No. 1011 Massingill and No. 1011 Love. They are in 40 and 80-acre units in the T&P Survey A-383.

Partee Drilling Inc. has finalized the No. 1 Jordan in the Howard-Glasscock Field one mile east of Forsan.

It showed ability to pump 12 barrels of oil with 55 barrels of salt water daily on open choke. Oil tested at 33-gravity.

The well was drilled to total depth of 2,450 feet and was plugged back to 2,410.

Managers must change with the times

By TOM PETERS

Are your sales consistent with your forecasts? Did you exceed budget? Are your projects on schedule? These are standard questions for performance appraisals or quarterly reviews. They deal, as the experts say they should, with results that presumably are under the manager's control.

But I believe these are the wrong questions for the times. Perhaps we should ask something more fundamental: That is, "What have you changed?"

The question is deceptively simple, and most often goes unasked. Yet it may be the most crucial question we should ask all managers, at all levels, given today's radically changing environment. A vice president of IBM suggests it has become the most frequently asked question in all levels at his firm.

From computers to retailing to health care, managers of all functions are confronted with a drastic degree of turmoil. New competitors pop up daily. New arrangements are made between vendors and buyers. Joint ventures are launched to explore and exploit surprising new opportunities. Technology is altering every element of product or service design, manufacturing and delivery.

This new environment calls for new forms of evaluation. To be sure, making budget is a valid objective. But while it may be a necessary condition for survival, it is no longer sufficient.

The IBM executive continues, "We must reexamine every relationship, every system and subsystem, and every element of doing business. The only plausible criterion for success is 'are you changing enough and rapidly enough to successfully confront the future?'"

Are you looking for new opportunities to use technology — opportunities, for example, to link some of your data bases electronically with those of your key suppliers and customers? Have you launched new training programs with new content aimed at preparing all hands for an altered future? It is no longer adequate to boast: "We processed 738 people in basic sales training." It is better to ask: "How have you changed sales training to match possible future scenarios? How much material in the sales refresher course has been updated in the last six months? How many new case studies are you using? Why these new cases? Have you asked anyone to advise you in course design whom you've never asked before? Are you sure your advisers have diverse enough backgrounds?"

I am impressed by the assiduous efforts of most American managers to grapple with their wildly oscillating world. But despite their best efforts, I despair at the pace of change. To compete with imports and take advantage of our onshore position, delivery cycles must be reduced by at least 90 percent. Product development cycles and inventories must be slashed by equal amounts. To achieve radical results, all systems and relationships must fundamentally be reassessed from the ground up — and changed.

The query "What have you changed?" must become a ritual. Begin each staff meeting by devoting 15 minutes to going around the table; posing the question to each colleague. Devote a special section of the company newsletter to a summary of changes — significant and not so significant — being made in every function. Be sure automatically to include a laundry list of things changed in the opening paragraphs of every internal speech and every informal talk.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Use only tried and proven systems in dealing with others today and get good results. STICK to proven pleasures with your mate.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): A blunt partner will expect you to keep some promise, so do so before going off on a pleasure jaunt.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Be thoughtful of those who have done you favors in the past and don't waste your time and money on newcomers.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Get into pleasures that have been enjoyable in the past with friends. Don't feel you have to do anything unusual to gain affection.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Do something today that can be helpful in the community in which you reside. Make sure you do it with care.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be most interested in modern inventions and the like but will do best in whatever is of a conventional nature, and elders will appreciate this ability. Be sure to give a good education and to add foreign languages to the curriculum, since much travel is denoted here.

MONDAY, MARCH 31, 1986
GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when you want to act with swiftness and alacrity in expressing your views and ideas, especially if they are new and require some change.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19): You have fine ideas which can be made to work now, particularly since you are dynamic at this time.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Try to do what the one you love desires of you, and please this person. A clever person comes into your life now.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Sit down with outside partners and plan future dealings wisely, and you can become more successful.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Get an early start on whatever work you have to do and gain fine benefits from it.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Take your finest talents to bigwigs and commercialize well on them. Be especially happy tonight.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Get all arranged at home in a constructive way and begin the new week wisely. Raise your level of consciousness.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Get your desk work handled wisely in the morning, and you can insure a better existence for yourself.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Be sure to clear up last vestige of all old matters before you tackle that new outfit that will mean a new beginning.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Listen to what long-time associates have to suggest now for greater benefits in the future.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Get the right idea how best to gain your fondest desires, so follow it. Feel contented this evening.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You have set up a new course for yourself and should not permit a gossip to keep you away from it.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Trust associates now since your judgment is not so good today. Avoid social nonsense that merely wastes your valuable time.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will maneuver older persons in order to gain more knowledge and benefit from traditions and will thereby possess real wisdom early in life. The interest does not lie in the ultra modern and short-lived, and the education should be classical for best results. Much travel is indicated.

DESTINATION DALLAS

Brown's Tigers love tourney 'dog status

DALLAS (AP) — Dale Brown says he's happy with the role of Final Four underdog, but he's obviously been doing a lot of thinking about the role of national champion.

"All my life has been a struggle," he said. "I've got to get used to being on top."

Louisiana State, the only unranked team left in college basketball's championship tournament, has never won an NCAA title. Brown thinks that might change, too.

"My wife said to me the other day, 'I hope you're as gracious at winning as you have been at losing.' I hope so too."

Brown says he feels it is an advantage that seventh-ranked Louisville is favored to win Saturday's semifinal game on Saturday at Reunion Arena.

"I'm more comfortable in that position. I guess I'm more familiar with the territory."

And, in keeping with that underdog image, the Tigers arrived at their hotel on Thursday with no fanfare.

Brown says he feels more confident this year than he did in 1981, when his Tigers entered the Final Four with the best record in the nation.

LSU bowed to Indiana in the opening round that year, but Brown says he has a better team this time.

"There are some things that aren't figured in the polls or the latest line," he said. "Your image and reputation are only what other people think of you. Your character is what you are."

It wasn't superior size or talent that let LSU beat Top 10 opponents Georgia Tech and Kentucky in the regional, he said, but a combination of intense defense and high emotion.

Brown has talked a lot in recent days about the "magic" his team has, about its "character" and "mental toughness."

Meanwhile, he's been drilling his players on the fine points of the guerrilla-warfare defense he developed to cope with the midseason loss of some key starters.

The constantly changing zone defense Brown calls "the freak" has proved its ability to stymie stronger teams. He concedes Louisville will be a tough team to defend, however.

"They're very mobile. They all can score. There's no one man to stop."

His estimation of the Cardinals is polite, but his voice rings with conviction when talking about his own team.

"We were the hunted when we started out 14-0. Now, we are the hunter. We will be the hunter through Monday night. I hope we will be the hunted from then on."

During the past week's daily nationwide telephone news conferences, reporters have tried to bait Brown into launching one of his famous attacks on NCAA rulemakers.

"I don't want to detract from the Final Four," he demurs. However, "There will be a time and a place for that."

Brown has worked hard this season to calm his temper, curb his tongue and not let his team's setbacks get the best of him. But his natural flamboyance can't be stifled.

"I don't want to sound arrogant, brash or abrasive," he said, "but we got here doing it my way. Nobody owns me."

Blue Devil assistant leads charmed life

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Bender continues to pile up his share of space in the NCAA basketball championship's trivia book.

"The fact that we made it to the Final Four and the championship as a player, then to come back as a coach makes me even more appreciative of having gotten here as a player," says Bender, one of three assistants to Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski.

Bender is about to participate in his third Final Four after two stints as a player. He was a member of Bobby Knight's Indiana team which downed Michigan for the 1976 title.

Bender was a junior on the 1978 Duke team that lost to Kentucky in the championship game. He is the only player ever to participate on two Final Four teams.

"I think I'm very fortunate in that when I started in coaching I was able to start at my alma mater," Bender says. "If there's one goal you have to have as an assistant coach, it's maybe to be able to coach where you played."

He says coaching is not necessarily aided by playing.

"Now I know all the work that goes into the coaching part of it," Bender says. "It is amazing. I don't care how knowledgeable you are as a player, or how much you think you know, once you become a coach you really get your eyes opened."

Bender started his coaching career at the same time as Duke's current senior class descended on the Durham campus as freshmen. They struggled that season to an 11-17 finish, but Bender was encouraged.

"I was very fortunate to come into a situation where the talent was there already," he said. "I think all of us as a coaching staff felt that the chemistry of this team came together in France."

Almost to a man, France is the popular choice as the turning point for Johnny Dawkins, Jay Bilas, Mark Alarie and David Henderson after their first years at Durham. The Blue Devils toured France after the 1983 season and returned home to post a 24-10 mark and earn their first NCAA appearance under Krzyzewski.

"We were in a situation where we had to depend on each other," he said. "It was just a matter of time before the playing part of it came together with all of the little personalities. This is the final result."

It might be enough for some teams to make the four-year transition from doormat to contender, but Bender says the Blue Devils have to develop an even greater desire this weekend to reach the top.

"You've got to be selfish at this point," he said. "Nobody can take away from you that you got here. That's over and done. But somebody can take it away if you want to get to that championship game."

Getting to the championship game involves beating a Kansas team which the Blue Devils knocked off in the finals of the Big Apple NIT last December.

"I think both the teams are quite different now," Henderson said. "I think that was a really big offensive game. Now, we've played more games and gotten more experience. I think it will be another one of those great ball games."

Cards taking 'freak' in stride

DALLAS (P) — Louisville Coach Denny Crum is ready for Dale Brown and his traveling "freak show."

Crum is busy playing down — and Brown is just as busy playing up — Louisiana State's "freak" defense, which Louisville will face Saturday in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Brown describes it as a combination of changeup and matchup zones that quickly changes to a box-and-one, diamond-and-one, or triangle-and-two based on various cues.

The LSU coach credits the defense with holding Kentucky All-American Kenny Walker to just four points in the second half of the Southeast Regional finals after the 6-foot-8 forward had scored 16 points in the first half.

"There's nothing they can throw at us we haven't already seen," Crum said. "We've seen all those things a number of times."

Not exactly true, Coach Crum, says Brown.

"Maybe Coach Crum is trying to make his team feel good telling them not to be confused because they've seen it before," Brown answers. "I doubt if he has seen it."

Crum said the defense would be especially hard to play against his seventh-ranked Cardinals, who have all five starters averaging in double figures.

"I think it would be very difficult for them to play that kind of defense against us because we're a well-balanced team," Crum said. "If you rely on that type of thing, especially when a team has had a week to prepare, it usually hurts you more than it helps you."

Louisville is on a pace for a school record in field goal percentage. The Cardinals have hit 52.9 percent from the field, ahead of the 52.1 percent performance of the 1980 NCAA championship team. All but one of Louisville's starters is shooting 50 percent or better from the field. The one exception is guard Milt Wagner, who is at 49.8 percent.

"We do feel the team that plays the best defense will win," said Louisville senior guard Jeff Hall, the Cardinals' zone buster with his outside shooting. "We're not concerned with the freak defense. It's just a name for defenses we've played against."

"Whether Denny has played against it or not, I don't know," Brown said. "I do know this: You don't need any psychological warfare to know they're one of the greatest teams in the country and he's one of the greatest coaches."

"If we can't confuse them throughout the game, they'll play Monday for the championship because we don't have the firepower they have. If we can confuse them and neutralize their superior talent, there's a good chance we can play for the title."

Kansas bench may prove vital

DALLAS (AP) — Kansas Coach Larry Brown says his second-ranked Jayhawks are in the NCAA Final Four because they turned a liability into an asset.

"The development of our bench has been a major factor," Brown said Thursday. "We wouldn't be here if it wasn't for our bench."

The Jayhawks will take a 33-3 record and 16-game winning streak into Saturday's semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament against the top-ranked Duke Blue Devils.

Leading scorer Danny Manning, Ron Kellogg, second in scoring and assists, and top rebounder Greg Dreiling have fueled the Jayhawks to their first Final Four appearance since 1974.

But the bench emerged as a force as the season progressed.

"Early in the (Big Eight) conference we played a lot of road games and I've never felt that the bench played well on the road," Brown said. "But as we got into conference play they played better and received more attention. "Greg's early fouls and Ron's injury also focused more attention on our bench."

Kellogg suffered a sprained arch in his left foot in a Big Eight Tournament semifinal victory over Oklahoma. He has practiced sparingly since the injury but he has continued to play in the games with relief help from Archie Marshall.

"He says it's getting better which is the normal case with rest," Brown said of Kellogg's injury.

Chris Piper, a 6-foot-8 sophomore, has stepped in to help the 7-1 Dreiling, who has had early foul problems this season, and guard Mark Turgeon has also helped off the bench.

"They've done what we asked them to do," Brown said. "In the Temple game (NCAA second round) Piper didn't score but we needed defense in that game."

"There are games when Archie needs to go more to the boards or another game Calvin (Thompson) is what we need."

Brown hopes Kellogg, who has managed to play 28 to 30 minutes per game since the injury, can hold up for two more games.

Kansas must rebound well and avoid turnovers against Duke, Brown said.

"We've got to get on the boards because Duke will shoot quick and you can't give them the second shot," Brown said. "And we can't have turnovers because they're a great running team and they can hurt us on the fast break if they get to running."

Brown is the seventh coach to reach the Final Four with two different teams. His 1980 UCLA team lost to Louisville in the championship game.

"I didn't really appreciate what was happening in 1980," Brown said. "Now it's a sense of pride and I don't want the kids to take it too lightly."

"But I wanted preparation for this to be like a normal road trip. I didn't want to shield the kids. I wanted them to come here and not be afraid to fail."

Jackson loses eligibility

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Bo Jackson, the 1985 Heisman Trophy winner, ended his baseball career at Auburn University after an "inadvertent rules violation" when he accepted an airplane ride from the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Auburn athletic officials said Friday.

Jackson, whose speed and strength have made him a possible No. 1 pick as a power-hitting baseball player as well as a pro football tailback, flew on a plane provided by the National Football League club to go to Tampa for a physical examination last Tuesday.

The Bucs have the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft April 29, and Jackson, a senior tailback last fall, is regarded as the top prospect. The United States Football League draft is April 22, while the major league baseball draft is in early June.

Jackson, whose free plane ride was an apparent violation of Southeastern Conference rules, was held out of Auburn's Thursday night baseball game against Alabama-Birmingham because of uncertainty over his eligibility.

Under NCAA rules, a college athlete can be a professional in one sport and still participate at the college level as an amateur in another sport. But under SEC rules, an athlete who is a professional in one sport is ineligible for collegiate competition in all sports. "I regret very much that this has happened," said Jackson. "It was an honest mistake. Had I known it would jeopardize my eligibility, I never would have gone. I was under the impression that it was within the rules."

"I know now I should have contacted someone in authority at Auburn before I went to Tampa, but at that time, I didn't realize I was doing anything against the rules," he said.

Northwood sweeps Howard series

DALLAS — Northwood Community College swept a two-day, three-game Region V series from the Howard College Hawks with a 6-5, 6-3 sweep of their doubleheader Friday afternoon at Northwood Stadium. Northwood also won the nine-inning Thursday afternoon game, 12-4.

In Thursday's game, Howard losing pitcher Bryan Willis was tagged for eight runs on eight hits but gave up only five earned runs due to five Hawk errors in the game.

In the first game of Friday's doubleheader, Northwood took an early 4-0 lead off starter Joel Chimelis but fell behind when Howard scored three runs in the top of the sixth inning for a 5-4 lead.

Northwood responded with two more runs in the bottom of the sixth and held the Hawks scoreless in the seventh inning for the one-run victory.

In the nighcap, Northwood jumped out to a 6-0 lead against Howard starter Thad Weber, who gave up all the runs on five hits in the first two innings. Northwood starter Allen Wood had a no-hitter going until the final inning when Howard got three runs on two hits to leave the final score, 6-3.

A bright spot for the Hawks was the plate performance of designated hitter Joe Cuellar who went seven-for-twelve in the series with five extra-base hits.

Howard dropped to 2-9-1 in Region V play with the losses and to 18-13-1 on the season.

Pistons outlast Rockets, 116-107

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Bill Laimbeer scored 27 points Friday night to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 116-107 NBA victory over the Houston Rockets.

The victory was the second in the last seven games for Detroit, which returned home after losing five of six games on an 11-day road trip. The defeat dropped the Rockets to 2-3 on their current six-game road trip.

UT blasts W. Kentucky

By HANK LOWENKRON AP Sports Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Freshman Clarissa Davis came off the bench to score 32 points and Fran Harris added 20 as top-ranked Texas downed No. 5 Western Kentucky 90-65 Friday to reach the title game of the NCAA Division I women's basketball tournament.

The victory sends Coach Jody Conradt's 33-0 team into Sunday's championship game at Rupp Arena against the winner of Friday's other semifinal, matching No. 3 Southern California and No. 15 Tennessee.

Texas squandered a 13-point first-half lead, allowing Western Kentucky to tie the game 39-39 early in the second half. Davis then hit a jumper with 16:56 to go, and Texas began to pull away.

Harris, a 6-foot senior forward, scored eight consecutive points to cap a 10-4 surge that gave Texas a 58-47 lead with 9:49 to play.

The game was only seconds old when Harris hit her first basket. She scored eight points as Texas built a 10-4 lead on the way to a 35-22 advantage with three minutes left in the first half.

But Western Kentucky, plagued by 14 first-half turnovers to just three by Texas, rallied to cut the deficit to five at halftime. Lillie Mason, the Hilltoppers' All-American senior forward, scored six unanswered points and Clemette Haskins scored twice in the final 38 seconds to reduce the Texas lead to 39-34.

The Lady Toppers, 92-90 winners over top-ranked Texas in regional play last season, scored the first five points after the break to pull even. But they were powerless thereafter to stave off elimination in the semifinals for the second consecutive year.

Mason, who led her team in scoring and rebounding for the season, was in foul trouble throughout. The game was only 3½ minutes old when she picked up her second foul and she went to the bench a few minutes later.

In the second half, Mason picked up her fourth foul with 11:47 go on a Harris basket, then fouled out with 7:18 to play. Mason finished with 15 points.

Haskins, daughter of Western Kentucky's men's coach, Clem Haskins, led the Lady Toppers with 21 points.

Western Kentucky, the only member of last year's Final Four to advance that far this season, finished 32-4.
