Reagan repeats experts meeting on nuclear tests

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — The White House declared Saturday that if the Soviet Union wants progress on limiting nuclear tests, it should accept President Reagan's "long standing proposal that we have our experts meet" on the issue.

White House deputy Press Secretary Peter Rousel said in a statement issued that the president, vacationing at his nearby ranch, "has taken note" of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's television speech Saturday, in which Gorbachev proposed the two super-power leaders meet in Europe soon to discuss bringing nuclear tests to an end.

The White House statement did not explicitly reject Gorbachev's proposal but noted that the leaders had agreed at their November summit meeting in Geneva to meet again and that Gorbachev accepted Reagan's invitation to come to the United States this year.

"In December the president indicated to the general secretary which dates would be most convenient for this meeting," Rousel said. "No reply has yet been received regarding this suggestion. Nevertheless, the president is confident that the general secretary takes his agreement seriously and that he will respond in due course."

Rousel said the president believes meetings of the two leaders "should deal with the entire range of important issues between our two countries," of which nuclear testing is only one.

"If the Soviet Union desires to make serious progress on the question of nuclear testing limitation, it should accept the president's longstanding proposal that we have our experts meet and should respond positively to the president's most recent offer."

The statement noted that on March 14 the president invited Gorbachev to send Soviet experts to observe an April U.S. nuclear test at the Nevada Test Site to examine

Oilmen cite old law to fix price

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — In the 1930s, Gov. William "Alfalfa Bill" Murray called out the National Guard to stop oil production in Oklahoma because the price of crude had dropped below 20 cents a barrel.

Now, a group of royalty owners and independent oilmen is seeking a temporary Corporation Commission order to prevent Oklahoma crude oil from being sold to refiners for less than $20 a barrel.

Citing a little-known 1921 law, an application was filed before the commission last week asking the regulatory agency to stop sale of all crude oil from the state's wells.

The law prohibits oil from being taken out of Oklahoma fields at a time when market demand is not equal "to the actual value of such crude oil."

It says the actual value of Oklahoma crude oil is determined by ascertaining the average retail value of refined petroleum products in the United States.

The petition was filed by James L. Stafford of Ada, executive director of the National Association of Royalty Owners, and the Gloria Corp., which is headed by independent oilman and attorney T. E. Kemp of Ada.

Billionaire's impact felt years after death

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Howard Hughes, who died 10 years ago this week, was a Hollywood playboy and daredevil aviator who bought and sold casinos and airlines and had the ear of presidents.

But before his death, the richest man in the United States was pursued by legal problems, wracked with pain and dogged by phobias.

The once-strapping Texan had become a 94-pound recluse, hopping from nation to nation.

Still, while ultimately disappointed in life, he might be proud today of the way his influence is still felt in high technology, aviation and medical research.

"I think it's very, very sad that his many accomplishments have been diminished by the problems he went through in his final years," said Bob Maheu, who worked for the billionaire for 16 years, running his empire for the last four, but never met him face-to-face. They communicated by phone and memo.

Hughes' rise to fabulous wealth — he was estimated to be worth more than $2 billion when he died at age 70 — began in 1923 when, at age 19, he inherited majority interest in Hughes Tool Co., plus patent rights to an oil and gas drilling bit invented by his father and a partner. The inheritance was worth about $871,000.

The tool company became what an associate called "the cash register" for the young tycoon. Clearly Hughes had a genius for the right investment, but often his money followed his heart. He moved into the movie industry in the 1920s, buying RKO Studio and selling it a short time later at a substantial profit.

Before he left the Hollywood world in the mid-'50s, saying it had grown "too complicated" for him, he had produced a checkered list of films and became known as squire to a parade of actresses.

Steady traffic helps cause of Rain Aid

Big Springers were determined to make it rain. Some 58 cars were washed at the Rain Aid car wash Saturday afternoon on Main Street toward that end.

It may work. The National Weather Service has predicted a chance of rain for Monday.

and trucks dusted with fine particles of Howard County.

They paid $3 each for a washing, but farmers got their cars washed free. The money will go to the Texas Little League, said Jimmy Campbell, who organized the event.

He got the idea, he said, when raindrops began splattering on his car as he washed it. This year, just one-third inch of rain has fallen here; average for this time of year is nearly two inches.

"A lot of people are getting discouraged" about the economic bust in both agriculture and oil, he said. "But some people don't let it get

Texas notes replace barter system

By MARC FLEISCHER

As this decade of the 1830s is coming to a close, money has taken on a very special meaning for the citizens here in this young Texas Republic, mostly because currency is so scarce. Since business conditions in the United States determine the financial condition of Texas, our financial system has many limitations. In addition, it is a time of increasing inflation.

Metallic money is scarce, and what little exists is hoarded. In addition, our imports exceed our exports, and the severe trade imbalance has drained out the gold and silver upon which our economy had initially been based. The result is that our pay claims have to be converted into merchandise because goods for personal uses were more important than gold or silver.

The main form of revenue for Texas now is farming, with cotton being the best cash crop. Planters turn their cotton or vegetable produce over to a general mercantile firm to be given credit in the firm's accounting ledger. Farmers then use their credit to buy supplies and merchants get paid when they sell the crops at major trade centers like New Orleans.

There is not one incorporated bank, private bank or banker to be found in Texas, so merchandisers in Galveston, Houston, San Antonio and Nacogdoches often provide many of the same services.

In private transactions most of us just resort to bartering. Handwritten warrants for specific amounts are issued between individuals in return for goods or services performed. You can also endorse and sign a warrant over to another person to clear a private debt. A warrant is drafted on colored paper and when it is paid, "cancelled" is written on it and a triangle cut into it.

In 1837, Texas issued 500,000 promissory notes, each bearing ten percent interest and payable twelve months from the day of issue. Since then, "shinplasters," or notes issued by private firms and corporations, have been outlawed. President Sam Houston said the issue of these Texas notes was necessary "to avoid the absolute dissolution of the government." These notes are available in denominations from $1 to $500.

Now these notes are engraved and called "Star Money" because there is a small, five-pointed star in the center of the note. Ten thousand non-interest bearing "Change Notes" have also been issued which are meant to meet the Republic's need for smaller denominations.

Cowboy sculpture gets statewide recognition

SWEETWATER (AP) — Mike Maloney, a third-generation pharmacist in this West Texas town, has a sideline — sculpture — that has won him statewide recognition as part of the state's Sesquicentennial celebration.

Maloney's "Reflections of Texas," a 25-pound sculpture of a Texas cowboy, has been selected as one of 150 bronze works to officially represent Texas during the Sesquicentennial.

"Reflections of Texas," says Maloney, depicts the Texas cowboy as he could have looked in 1836 or today. The face is rugged and weather beaten, a bandana is tied around the neck as if prepared to be pulled over the nose and mouth to keep out the range dust as the herd is driven to market. Around the base of the bust are characters telling the Texas story from the Alamo to a cattle drive and complete with a wooden oil derrick blowing out.

Members of the Texas Sesquicentennial Committee chose Maloney's bronze cowboy as one of the 150 sanctioned sculptures, one for each year in Texas' history, after ideas were submitted from all over the state.

"I submitted my idea by sending a sketch of the bust last spring, to the committee. It was chosen in May and officially sanctioned in June of last year as one of the 150 bronzes to go on display around the state for Sesquicentennial celebrations," Maloney said.

Maloney has the distinction of having the only bronze entry chosen from this West Texas area. "Most of the bronzes selected were done by artists in Dallas and Houston," he said.

Maloney specializes in western art, just as his father, Walter, does in the wood medium and his sister, Vicki Nazworth, does in creating her bronze works.

As a child, growing up in Sweetwater, Maloney watched his father carve western art figures from wood. He says this is what inspired him to begin his career in bronze. "I started doing bronze work while a sophomore at Sweetwater High School I had seen a few bronzes, and I like this medium," he said.

After graduating from the University of Texas at Austin with a degree in pharmacology, he moved back home in 1978. His sculpting for bronzing escalated.

"About ten years ago Robert Taylor of Sweetwater and now of Snyder, helped me get started in bronzing," Maloney said. He gives much credit for the finished product to his brother-in-law Darrell Nazworth, who does the actual casting.

"We were real happy with the turnout," Campbell said. "We couldn't have handled any more."

He said Rain Aid was successful in getting the city and county to pull together for a common cause. The county gave the water and the city gave the use of a fire truck and fire hydrant, he said. Firemen were on hand to help with the hydrant.

Quinones said Rain Aid itself was not a fund-raising effort. Its purpose was to recognize the plight of farmers, whose rain-starved land is being lost in the West Texas wind.

Political candidates were given a chance to speak throughout the afternoon, and State Rep. Larry Don Shaw was to kick off the event, although "we were trying not to make it a political event," Campbell said. Mel Prather and E.L. Terry were on hand with the latest liquor-by-the-drink petition in an effort to get the issue on a ballot.

Live music was also offered and a food stand was set up for hungry participants.

a new U.S. verification system. Gorbachev, in a nationwide television address, said the Soviet Union's unilateral nuclear test moratorium will expire Monday, but that no Soviet nuclear tests are planned unless the United States continues its testing.

He called on Reagan to meet him in Europe "in the nearest future" to negotiate a nuclear test ban agreement.

On Saturday morning White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan had told wire service reporters the United States still wants to host a summit this summer.

"There is still ample opportunity, ample time for a summer summit," he said. The United States has proposed a summit in June or July.

Asked whether the location had to be the United States, Regan replied: "Yes. The United States — that's where he (Gorbachev) was invited."

Regan added, however, that his statement Saturday morning was not intended as a response to Gorbachev's new suggestion for a meeting in Europe.

Meanwhile, Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., said in a statement Saturday he hopes the United States enters into a test ban agreement, but said Gorbachev's rhetoric "is hardly calculated to invite an affirmative response."

"You don't call people the kind of names he called the president and the United States if you want to persuade us to act in an agreement. There's an element of propaganda in this whole situation."

Weather

Forecast

West Texas: Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms south and isolated showers and thunderstorms. Partly cloudy southeast Sunday otherwise sunny Sunday and Monday. Fair Sunday night. Continued mild to warm temperatures. Lows through Sunday night 48 Panhandle and mountains to 56 southeast. Highs Sunday and Monday in the 80s except near 90 Big Bend valleys.

State

High cloudiness and mild temperatures were the rule across most of Texas Saturday as a high-pressure system continued dominating the state's weather.

Scattered thunderstorms were detected over West Texas from the Edwards Plateau to southeast New Mexico, according to the National Weather Service.

Late-afternoon temperatures warmed into the 70s and 80s. The 3 p.m. extremes ranged from 85 degrees at McAllen to 65 degrees at Sanderson.

A south wind of 10 to 20 mph flowed across most of Texas. A few gusts reached as high as 25 mph over North Texas, while a light wind breezed the Rio Grande Valley.

The forecast for North Texas calls for partly cloudy skies through Sunday night and sunny skies Monday. Lows should be in the 50s and highs in the 80s.

South Texas should have isolated showers in the extreme northwest but otherwise have partly cloudy, warm days and mild nights through Monday. Lows should be in the 50s and 60s and highs mostly in the 80s.

West Texas should be mostly sunny through Monday with lows in the 40s and 50s and highs in the 80s to near 90 in the Big Bend valleys.

Oil

Contract prices posted for Oklahoma sweet crude last week were slightly more than $13, or only about $1 more than the world oil market price, Kemp said.

He said the price of Oklahoma crude should not be determined solely by world market prices.

Other factors that should be considered, he said, are transportation costs and the prices oil companies are getting for refined products.

He said that while crude oil prices have plummeted from $28 a barrel to $13 a barrel in Oklahoma since January, there has not been a corresponding drop in gasoline prices at the retail pump. And consumers are probably seeing little, if any, decline in prices of other refined oil products and such byproducts as plastics, fertilizer and clothing, he said.

A hearing on the application has been scheduled April 23 before an Oil and Gas Division referee.

"It's possible at the hearing that we can show the value of our oil is several times what we are being paid," Kemp said. He said refiners will have an opportunity to prove otherwise.

Murray's successful effort to bolster oil prices in 1931 came after heavy production from new fields glutted the market, dropping prices to as low as 15 cents a barrel.

Concerned because oil taxes were the chief source of state revenue, Murray ordered 3,106 wells under martial law and production was stopped until a quota was assigned to each well.

Murray also entered into talks with governors in Texas and Kansas for a cooperative effort to control production. The effort was credited with saving the petroleum industry from collapse, and marked the beginning of interstate control of oil production.

By the close of Murray's administration, the price had climbed to $1 a barrel and the oil fields were back in production.

This year's drop in oil prices has crippled Oklahoma's economy, playing the major role in a $467 million state revenue shortfall. The Legislature is trying to rewrite the state's budget because of the funding drop.

"The only way we're going to get out of our problem is by taking extraordinary steps," said Senate President Pro Tempore Rodger Randle. "While Gov. Murray's tactics won't work today, we should be willing to consider alternatives of that magnitude."

Voiceno wakes up

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Augustine Volcano awoke Saturday after a quiet night and resumed its pulsating eruptions, but shifting winds carried most of the abrasive ash away from cities and out to sea.

Some gritty debris from the earlier blasts by the 4,025-foot volcanic island 175 miles southwest of Anchorage still hung in the air over Anchorage and nearby Kenai, making breathing a chore and stranding hundreds of Easter weekend air travelers.

Health officials said the count of microscopic particles was high and health alerts for respiratory problems remained in effect.

Police on the alert

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Police patrolled streets in this desert resort Saturday to head off any repeat of rowdiness that erupted among spring break crowds Friday and resulted in 104 arrests.

"It's very calm," police Lt. George Neesan said the morning after groups of youths ran amok, hurling rocks and bottles at officers, harassing motorists and tearing clothes off women.

Police used tear gas to disperse crowds Friday, and some youths sprayed officers with chemical Mace, authorities said.

Bush to visit Mideast

WASHINGTON — Amid aftershocks of the U.S.-Libyan confrontation, Vice President George Bush travels to the Persian Gulf this week with words of encouragement and reassurance for allies feeling threatened by the Iran-Iraq war and stunned by the plunge in oil prices.

The eight-day mission beginning Thursday takes Bush to three oil-rich nations, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain and Oman, and finally to North Yemen, a very poor country where palaces are made of mud brick instead of gilded with gold, and men still wear traditional curved daggers at their waist as a sign of virility.

Catholic priests happier

WASHINGTON — Though a 15-year "vocation crisis" has thinned their ranks, America's Roman Catholic priests are significantly happier with their lot this Easter than were the clergy of 1970, a new survey says.

Morale is up, frustrations are down and fewer men are talking about leaving the priesthood.

Shuttle pieces retrieved

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — A Navy salvage ship reported Saturday that it had retrieved several small pieces of the space shuttle Challenger, but that its divers were hampered by poor visibility and silt.

"It's very difficult," the USS Preserver radioed. "The divers have identified several pieces on the bottom, but they're heavily silted and have to be dug out."

Papal assailant Mehmet Ali Agca of Turkey gestures as he says "I'm not god, I'm son of god in human form. I am Jesus Christ," Saturday when the court gave its verdict at the end of the Pope plot trial. Agca, who is serving a life sentence for the 1981 shooting of Pope John Paul II was found guilty of illegally importing the pistol he used and was sentenced to one year in prison.

Pope plot trial

Italian court acquits Bulgarians, Turks

ROME (AP) — A court Saturday acquitted three Bulgarians and three Turks — "the Bulgarian connection" — of conspiring to murder Pope John Paul II in St. Peter's Square in 1981, saying not enough evidence was offered to justify a conviction.

The defense said the decision demolished prosecutors' claims that Bulgaria and the Soviet KGB conspired to assassinate the Polish-born pope because of his support for the Polish free trade federation Solidarity.

However, the jury of two judges and six civilians did not completely clear the defendants of suspicion. Italian courts have the option of making an outright declaration of innocence or ruling that evidence was inadequate to convict, as in this case.

The pope was badly wounded in the May 13, 1981 shooting, but recovered.

Prosecutor Antonio Marini had recommended the court acquit the Bulgarians, but said he would appeal the acquittal of the Turks.

The defense also said it was appealing in hopes of completely clearing the defendants.

"I am not prepared to say that these are definitive sentences," said Chief Judge Severino Santiapichi, who led the jury. "I think there will be a second trial."

Under Italian law, an appeals court would hold a full-fledged trial.

One of the Turks, Omer Bagci, was convicted Saturday on a lesser charge of smuggling a pistol into Italy and was sentenced to three years and two months in prison. Judicial sources said he will not have to serve the term because he already has been jailed for a longer period since being extradited from Switzerland on Oct. 15, 1982.

In addition, Mehmet Ali Agca, already serving a life sentence for shooting the pope, was found guilty on a new charge of illegally importing the pistol he used.

Sergei Ivanov Antonov, the only Bulgarian defendant in custody for the trial, returned to the building where he had been under house arrest and told the doorman, "I am a free citizen again."

However, authorities blocked his departure for Bulgaria later Saturday. The Italian news agency ANSA quoted judicial sources as saying the defendants will need approval from an appeals court before leaving Italy.

Violence mars meeting

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Factional violence that killed at least two blacks Saturday and injured about 20 marred the start of a conference at which black teachers, parents and students will decide whether to resume a big school boycott.

Police said members of Inkatha, a Zulu tribal group, attacked delegates preparing for the conference in the port city of Durban. In the ensuing clash between attackers and students registering for the conference, one Inkatha member was fatally shot and another was burned to death after a gasoline-soaked tire was placed around his neck.

Ten villagers killed

AMRITSAR, India — Gunmen identified as Sikh terrorists fired submachine guns from a jeep at residents of three Punjab villages Saturday, killing at least 10 people and wounding up to 15, police said.

Police said all or most of the victims were Hindus. The attack brought to at least 77 the death toll in 15 days of Sikh-Hindu violence in Punjab state, officials said.

Police said they clashed Saturday with angry Hindus in four Punjab cities who were on a daylong general strike to protest Friday's fatal shooting of as many as 16 Hindus by Sikh terrorists in Ludhiana.

Shultz meets Pope John

VATICAN CITY — After a long day defending U.S. policy toward Libya in meetings with Italian leaders, U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz spent a more tranquil moment Saturday evening with Pope John Paul II.

The 65-year-old pontiff received Shultz in a 38-minute private audience in the papal library. Shultz described the meeting as fruitful and wide-ranging.

Shultz, who is Episcopalian, and his wife Helena, a Roman Catholic, were greeted in the Vatican's marbled, frescoed Clementine Room by the heel-clicking salute of seven Swiss Guards.

Chinese take to books

PEKING — William Shakespeare's sonnets, Leo Tolstoy's novels, and Arthur Hailey's "Airport" and "Hotel" are among the best sellers in Shanghai bookstores, the official Xinhua news agency said Saturday.

About 90,000 copies of the Chinese edition of William Faulkner's "The Sound and the Fury" were snatched up immediately, Xinhua said.

Peres to visit U.S.

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Shimon Peres is going to the United States on Monday, seeking a break in the Mideast diplomatic impasse that might allow him to keep his job beyond the next six months.

With the looming October deadline marking the end of Peres' term, his aides are floating several ideas to revive peace efforts.

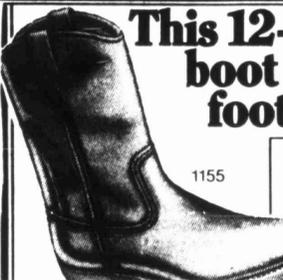

Clements favored in survey

HOUSTON (AP) — A survey of people planning to vote in the Republican primary shows former Gov. Bill Clements would win the gubernatorial nomination without a runoff if the election were held now, the Houston Chronicle reported in a copyright story Sunday.

Clements has the support of 53 percent of the voters surveyed, while U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler has 19 percent and former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance has 16 percent, according to the poll. Twelve percent were undecided.

The telephone poll has a 6 percent margin of error. It was conducted March 21-27 by the University of Houston Public Affairs Research Center for the Chronicle and KTRK-TV.

Moral imperative in Afghanistan

Soviet troops in Afghanistan, unable to defeat nationalist guerrillas, switched strategy about three years ago. To borrow the Maoist vernacular, the Soviets decided that if they could not kill the fish (guerrillas) they might at least dry up the sea (civilian supporters). Thus the Soviets began mounting deliberate attacks on civilians in areas where support for the freedom fighters was especially strong.

The horrifying cost of this barbaric warfare was suggested by the United Nations' most recent report on violations of human rights in Afghanistan. The report put the number of Afghan civilians killed by Soviet troops last year alone at 35,000. And the report concluded that Afghan civilians were being slaughtered by Soviet forces as part of a "systematic brutality." Among the forms of this assault: Aerial bombings of villages and the maiming of children via anti-personnel mines disguised as toys.

The report's author, Austrian law professor Felix Ermacora, also noted that the Soviets and their Afghan government allies continue to use torture against civilians and members of the resistance. In one case cited by Mr. Ermacora, 16 elderly Afghans were hurled to their deaths from helicopters.

Prof. Ermacora was only adding the obvious when he noted that these and other atrocities violated commonly accepted standards of humanitarian conduct plus international agreements to which the Soviets are signatories. And what should be done about these horrors? "The only solution to the human-rights situation in Afghanistan is the withdrawal of the foreign (Soviet) troops," said Mr. Ermacora.

Exactly so. And while we doubt whether that could happen anytime soon, the Ermacora report documents more of the reasons why helping the Afghan freedom fighters is a moral imperative. And why no Free World government should be craven enough to seek better relations with the Soviet Union at the price of letting the Kremlin sweep the continuing horror of Afghanistan under a diplomatic rug.

Public is wary of Nicaraguan aid

The idea of increased military spending in Nicaragua is not arousing the public's interest. In fact, people telephoning congressmen after the president's appeal to the nation two weeks ago went against him, and public opinion polls consistently show the public frowns on further involvement.

It is prudent at this point to ask why a subject of such obvious geographical and strategic concern to the U.S. has not generated deeper public concern.

It is especially prudent in light of the fact that the contras do not seem to be scoring militarily — opening the door to active U.S. military involvement if the contras fail.

Part of the public's skepticism is rooted, I think, in the public's familiarity, in a very general sense, with Nicaragua. However uninformed people may be about Nicaragua specifically, the public has a better handle on it than it did on Vietnam.

People at least know we share a common hemisphere — making Nicaragua closer to home. The closer an issue gets to home, the greater the voice people want in the matter at hand. I am inclined to believe people are showing a marked reluctance to expand a fight in the neighborhood that at this juncture does not seem to merit expansion.

The public's reluctance to follow the president on Nicaragua is based, too, it seems to me, on the president's inability to frame the Sandinistas in enough of a bad light for the public to equate them with a truly sinister force.

It has been less than nine years since many Americans were cheering the Sandinista-led revolution against the corrupt Somoza regime. Not enough time has passed for Americans to think of Daniel Ortega as a Ferdinand or Imelda Marcos, for example. To the contrary, the public health and education gains made under the Sandinistas leave open the argument that the regime is necessarily bad for the country.

In the case of the Marcoses, the U.S. public quickly zeroed in on a government that was patently onerous. The same has not happened with the public's perception of Nicaragua.

While the Sandinistas are engaged in repressing certain segments of Nicaraguan society, few people can deny that a people, already having risen against a dictator once, will hesitate to rise against this one as time passes.

It seems the Nicaraguan people face a time problem as much as the U.S. public does. It has not been that long since some contra leaders were part of the Somoza police.

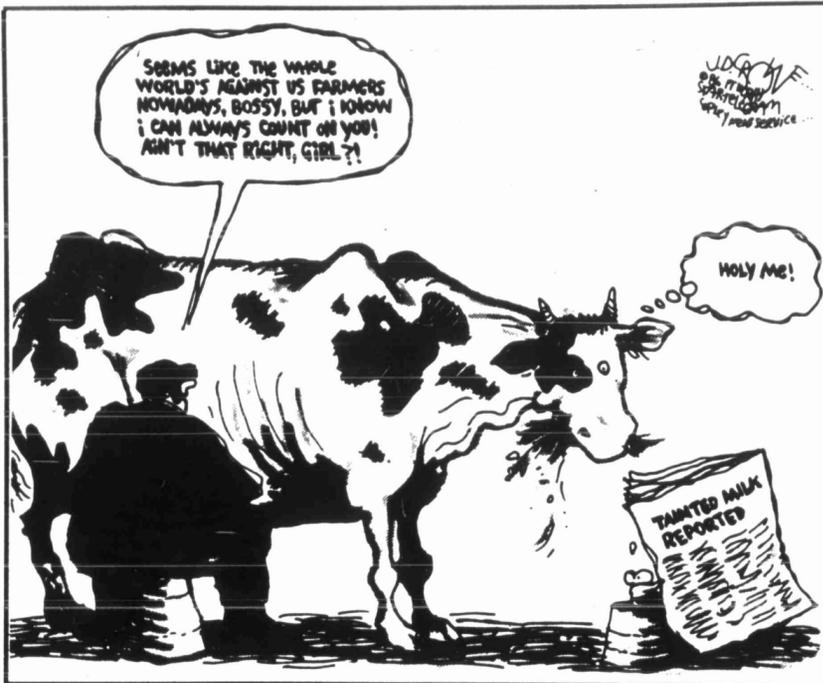

For the U.S. government to want us to believe that the Nicaraguan people are ready to support a group of people that includes their persecutors of only yesterday strains credibility.

Simply put, it is not a totally open and shut case, as the Administration claims, that the Sandinista government has lost all public support.

Perhaps the U.S. public has yet to focus on Central America for that reason alone. The public's healthy suspicions may be demanding that another alternative be brought forward because invoking images of communists making their way to Harlingen, Texas, isn't going to do it.

The close votes in Congress reflect that a great mass of Americans at the moment are not convinced as the president is that the whole deck of cards is fixing to collapse in Central America.

To the fans, sports is all

If I've learned nothing else this year in meetings with readers, I've learned that sports fans are insatiable in their appetite for sports news.

No other portion of the newspaper has drawn as sharp, albeit limited, response from members of the reader advisory committee, Friends of the Newspaper.

Recently the sixth meeting of the group was held to discuss just that aspect of publishing — sports news.

One point was clear: Readers rely on the local newspaper for local sports information. As one member summed up, "There are a number of sources for NBA (national basketball) news, for instance, but only one source for local" sports news.

The point that local sports is a priority for the newspaper is well-taken. But just as in other roles the newspaper plays, there are gray areas in achieving a balance on (1) how much space and staff to devote to news and how much to sports and (2) how best to juggle sports staff and space to accommodate competing sports interests.

One side says young players' interest in lesser-known youth sports should be encouraged by attention in newspaper, with the idea that those sports will flourish as a result.

Another interest says the sports pages are being stretched too thin by trying to accommodate too many lesser sports, thus diluting coverage of "important" areas.

Yet a third complains about the lack of space for national sports available on our Associated Press sports wire.

On several recent occasions the sports columns were crammed completely full of local sports copy — there was no national sports news published that day.

Then, also, a problem area in sports is the wide geographic area we try to cover. It's not enough that we adequately cover Big Spring schools and Howard College. Just 10 miles down the road is Coahoma and 15 miles another way is Forsan. As Howard County schools, they receive — and deservedly — a good share of sports attention.

But that's not all. The sports coverage extends to the five-county Crossroads Country area, and includes: Sands, Garden City, Stanton, Klondike, Borden County and Colorado City.

With a two-man sports staff, obviously we don't cover all these schools in every activity and we don't do what we do without the help of "eyes" out in the field — stringers, who are in many cases coaches.

So maybe this is an appropriate time to remind how dependent we are on the coaches' phone calls which let us know who won, the score and some game details. We couldn't get done what we do without their help.

Sports reporting is an imperfect art, and subject to continual refinement and evolution. We don't pretend to be able to satisfy every desire in sports news. To do so would take a staff larger than our whole reporting staff and space double or triple our current allotment. But we try to accommodate as much and as many as possible. If you can think of ways to make the newspaper better in this regard, contact me or the sports staff, or call any one of Friends of the Newspaper members listed below:

Shared woes fail to bring OPEC closer

By ROBERT BURNS

GENEVA (AP) — All OPEC members are sharing in the financial fallout from the collapse of oil prices, yet it appears highly unlikely the cartel will agree on common action to end the turmoil anytime soon.

The fundamental problem for the once-rich Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is that it no longer can afford to reduce its oil production enough to bring world supplies in line with demand.

The oil glut, combined with the collapse last December of OPEC's four-year struggle to hold down its production, has driven down prices by more than 50 percent, to the lowest levels in about 10 years.

The price crash, which began four months ago, is expected to cost the 13 cartel members about $60 billion in lost export revenue this year. That would be the biggest one-year loss in OPEC's history.

The financial pain is most intense in Venezuela, Ecuador, Nigeria and Indonesia, all of which are facing enormous debt repayment problems. But even these shared financial strains have not produced a meeting of the OPEC minds on a strategy for ending the crisis.

In nine days of exhaustive and fruitless negotiations in Geneva that ended Monday without an agreement, the 13 OPEC members were in accord on one thing: oil supplies must be cut. The sticking point, as usual, was deciding how each of the members would cut back, and by how much.

At one point during the talks, OPEC declared that its aim was to push oil prices back to the $28-per-barrel level that had prevailed as recently as last November. They are not likely to achieve a price anywhere near that unless they agree on major cuts in production. A barrel is the equivalent of 42 gallons.

The cartel leaders said they would meet again April 15 to resume their talks.

In the meantime, prices have weakened considerably.

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for May delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, closed at $11.44 a barrel Thursday. That was down $2.50 from its closing on March 21, the last full session before the OPEC meeting concluded.

The market was closed on Good Friday. OPEC accounts for only about one-third of world oil production, but it has been saddled with the full burden of coordinating any cutbacks. That is because oil producers outside its ranks either are too small to make meaningful reductions or they are unwilling to cut back at all.

Between now and the April meeting, OPEC officials plan to contact more non-OPEC oil producers in hopes of bringing them to the negotiating table.

During the Geneva meeting, OPEC tried but failed to win commitments from non-OPEC producers Mexico, Malaysia, Egypt, Oman and Angola to reduce their combined oil output by 20 percent this spring. The independent producers wanted OPEC to agree on its own cuts first.

In comments after the meeting, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said the OPEC talks had never come close to agreement on how deeply to cut its production or how to share the sacrifice.

The ministers had tried to apportion quotas for the 13 member countries within an overall production limit of between 14 million and 15 million barrels a day. That would mean sharing a total production cut of between 2 million and 3 million barrels a day.

Yamani said it was clear throughout the negotiations that too few of the OPEC members were willing to sacrifice such big amounts of production.

The Saudi minister said OPEC production would have to be cut to below 16 million barrels a day in order to reverse the collapse of oil prices, but that chances of an OPEC agreement to implement such cuts were unlikely to improve by the April meeting.

"We're not able to live with the 16 (million limit). So I don't think we'll be able to live with anything less," he said.

He and the other OPEC leaders want help from major non-OPEC oil producers such as Britain, Norway, the Soviet Union and China. All of them are expected to be approached by OPEC in the weeks ahead, but the odds of any coordinated production cuts being adopted appear slim.

Without help from outside its ranks, OPEC is likely to remain paralyzed — unwilling to make its own production cuts and unable to think of any other strategy that could bring oil prices back to the $20-per-barrel level that would ease much of the cartel's financial strain.

Robert Burns has been covering OPEC since 1982.

Seek Christ's love by words

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How can I make my husband turn to Christ? He has no interest in religious things, and it seems like every time we talk about our differences we end up in an argument. We would be a far happier couple if we agreed spiritually. — Mrs. A.A.

DEAR MRS. A.A.: You cannot "make" your husband turn to Christ, nor can you manipulate him into giving his life to Jesus — only God can convict him of his need and convince him of the truth of the Gospel. That is why the most important thing you can do is pray for him. I have known wives (and husbands) who prayed for their spouses for many years, and God rewarded their faithfulness.

Arguing with your husband may only make him that much more determined to "prove" he is right and demonstrate that he doesn't need Christ. The Bible says that "a gentle tongue can break a bone" (Proverbs 25:15). It also declares, "A gentle answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger" (Proverbs 15:1). Ask Christ to help you discipline your tongue and seek to show Christ's love by your words.

More than that, but your example show your husband that Christ makes a difference in daily living. Does he see Christ's love, joy and patience in your life? Is there anything about your life that would make him want to become a Christian? It may be, you see, that the first step you need to take is to confess your need of a deeper and closer walk with Christ and to let God's Word become your guide every day. "Wives, in the same way be submissive to your husbands so that, if any of them do not believe the word, they may be won over without words by the behavior of their wives, when they see the purity and reverence of your lives. Your beauty ... should be that of your inner self, the unfading beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit."

Billy Graham's religious column is distributed by Tribune Media Services.

New faces to fill jobs of councilman, mayor

Outgoing Mayor Clyde Angel said he wanted to see some new blood heading City Council when he announced earlier this year his intention not to run again for mayor. Councilman Larry Miller announced shortly thereafter not to seek office in 1986.

Thus, the two places on the Big Spring City Council — mayor and District 2 councilman — will be filled by new officeholders.

Voters will go the polls Saturday to elect the two representatives.

Mayoral candidates Troy Fraser, who announced Jan. 16, and Cotton Mize, who entered the race Jan. 31, have addressed issues ranging from economic growth to the city's nepotism policy.

District 2 council hopefuls are Tim Blackshear, D.W. Overman and John Whitmire.

On this page are candidate's written responses to standard questions developed by the Big Spring Herald. All candidates were given the questionnaires and asked to return them by 5 p.m. Wednesday. Candidates were asked to limit overall response to 350 words or less. Candidate John Whitmire did not return the questionnaire.

QUESTIONS

- BACKGROUND: Age, address, marital status, work and educational background, religious preference, social and charitable activities, any past public offices sought or held, etc.
- LEADERSHIP: What three things would you expect a new city manager to accomplish in his first year on the job?
- LAW ENFORCEMENT: How would you assess the city's efforts to enforce narcotics laws? How about crimes against property?
- RECREATION: What is the city's role in providing recreational facilities for its citizens?
- QUALITY OF LIFE: How would you improve the city's efforts to eliminate unsightly lots and unsafe structures?
- GENERAL: Feel free to address any issue not mentioned above or to explain why you are the most qualified candidate.

Troy Fraser

Age: 36.
Address: 606 Mathews Ave.

Family: wife, Linda; children, Chase, Sunny and Andrew; Employment: president, Fraser Industries, manufacturing plants Big Spring, Amarillo, Brenham and Foreman, Ark.; Lumber mill, Foreman, Ark.

Religious affiliation: First United Methodist Church administrative board; Organizations: director, YMCA and Industrial Foundation; past director, United Way; chairman, Economic Development Council, Industrial Team and Downtown Steering Committee; past president, Ambassadors, Greater Big Spring Rotary Club and Men's Industrial Softball Association; coach, Little League (seven years), YMCA soccer and basketball, Pee Wee football; Rotary Youth Exchange coordinator for West Texas.

2. The new city manager's first job would be to establish an open door policy of communication with city workers and the citizens of Big Spring.

The second accomplishment would be to complete the capital improvements program and sewer system renovation.

The third area would be to set up an aggressive program to clean up the city with emphasis on the Highway 80 and 87 corridors.

3. I support the council's funding of an aggressive program to combat a growing drug problem and would encourage an even more effective effort.

Many of our crimes against property are drug-related and a strong drug enforcement program helps to curtail that problem.

4. The most important thing the city can do to promote the family unit is to provide quality recreational facilities for its citizens. We need to continue to improve and add to our existing facilities.

5. The code enforcement department must get tough on weed abatement and work to condemn and demolish unsafe structures. The city moved forward last year by installing Jim Ryals as code enforcement officer.

6. I feel I am the best qualified candidate because of my business background and past civic activities. I daily make sound financial decisions for a company with approximately the same number of employees and the same size budget as the city of Big Spring. Fiscal responsibility will be our greatest challenge during the next three years. My extensive civic involvement has given me valuable insight into the needs of the community and I feel I have developed a reputation as an innovator who makes things happen. Big Spring desperately needs this type of leadership.

Cotton Mize

Age: 59.
Address: 1907 Nolan.

Family: wife, Billie; children - Brenda Mize Toner, Carol Mize Pate and Johnny Mize. Employment: Owner and operator of food distributorship for 30 years and owner The Corral blue jean outlet.

Lifetime Big Spring resident. Graduate Big Spring High School. Honorably discharged U.S. Air Force.

Religious affiliation: member Church of the Nazarene, Deacon and Chairman of the Board of Christian Life.

Organizations: Sponsor the Chippers fast-pitch softball team. The Chippers have brought Big Spring statewide recognition, having won the state championship twice; past president, Evening Lions Club; past chairman of Texas Eye Bank.

2. The new city manager (1) should encourage citizens to take an active role in city government by establishing an open door policy, (2) should encourage each elected official's involvement in major decisions and (3) should assist the mayor and council in aiding existing business and in attracting new industry, as we must create new jobs in our community.

3. The city's efforts to enforce narcotics laws are very good. I agree we should do everything possible to curb the use of drugs in our community and feel strongly that the majority of crimes committed are triggered by the use of drugs. If we can slow down the consumption of drugs, we will curtail a lot of crimes committed to support this habit.

4. Any progressive, growing community must have adequate recreational facilities to be attractive to industry or individuals desiring to move here. We live in a society that functions better and has a better outlook, with more reasons to be proud of their community, if they have a broad range of recreational facilities. To have the needed facilities, it could necessitate increases in user fees.

5. I would work with the council and city attorney to more aggressively enforce present laws to eliminate unsightly lots and unsafe structures in our city.

Also, we need to instill pride in our citizens to encourage our neighbors to clean areas in which they reside.

Citizens of Big Spring deserve and have every right to expect more efficient spending of their tax dollars. City government is your business, it's your money entrusted to others to spend for your benefit. I would strive to see this accomplished.

City council, District 2

Tim Blackshear

D.W. Overman

Age: 27.

Address: 2602 Carol, approximately five years. Family: wife, Terri; one son, Shane. Second child due in May. Religious affiliation: active membership, College Baptist Church.

Lifetime resident of Big Spring. Employment: I graduated from Big Spring High School and am currently employed as general manager of Earthco.

Past public office: The City Council election is my first bid for public office.

2. The city manager should establish communications between all departments, the City Council and the citizens of Big Spring. He should continue with capital improvements.

3. I feel the city is putting forth a good effort to enforce narcotic laws. The city should take more effort in controlling crimes against property and keep an ongoing program in both these areas.

4. Big Spring should provide recreational facilities for its citizens. I feel a fee should be charged in order for the facilities to become partially self-sufficient.

5. The city of Big Spring currently has an excellent litter ordinance. I feel that strict enforcement of this ordinance is the only way to improve in the area of unsightly lots and unsafe structures.

6. As a citizen of Big Spring, I am concerned about the problems facing our city for the years ahead. In a time when our population is declining and stores are closing, we need leaders that will have an open mind and seek new ways to improve the efficiency of city government. As a citizen concerned for the city as a whole, I feel that I can keep an open mind. I have no axes to grind and feel I can devote the time necessary to do a good job as city councilman.

Age: 50.

Address: 2719 Larry, for past 16 years. City resident 34 years. Family: Married, children and grandchildren. Employment: Sid Richardson Carbon Co. Education: Big Spring High School graduate, attended Howard College. Worked for the city nearly 20 years, resigning in 1979. Held Double B certificates in water and wastewater treatment.

Religious affiliation: 14th and Main Church of Christ.

Organizations: past president of Permian Basin Utilities Association; participated in various charitable organizations.

Past office: Ran for council in 1985.

2. Hire a staff on which he can depend to get a job done. Survey this city's situation and formulate a plan that will reduce the size of the budget as well as the spending in proportion to our declining population and economy. Open lines of communication from his office to all citizens and all city employees. I would hope that he will encourage cooperative efforts between the staff and other tax-supported agencies in Howard County.

3. The chief's desire to combat drug trafficking in Big Spring is commendable; however, better communication and coordination with other law enforcement agencies would probably enhance his efforts. A lower employee turnover rate and a more experienced police force would help combat crimes against property as better investigations would result in more crimes being solved with convictions.

4. Public recreational facilities should be maintained by the city, but not at the expense of needed services or employees. Increased user fees may be necessary if the economy continues to decline.

5. The code enforcement officer is doing a good job, but he needs the support of all citizens in the enforcement of existing ordinances. A crew of city employees should work full time on weed, trash and abandoned vehicle control.

6. The recent controversies in our city have resulted in more citizens taking an interest in city politics. This is good as I believe they are becoming informed of the bad as well as the good. If elected, I intend to represent the citizens as I have no obligations to those now in office, or to the city manager who resigned in the heat at the exposure of a questionable $18,000 overtime payment.

School board election has 7 candidates

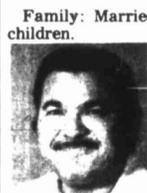

Seven candidates are running for three at-large positions on the Big Spring School District board of trustees in an election to be held Saturday.

Candidates were given a questionnaire developed by the Big Spring Herald and all seven responded. Answers to all questions were limited to 300 words or less.

QUESTIONS

- BACKGROUND INFORMATION: Age, address, marital status, work and educational background, religious preference, social and charitable activities, children now or formerly in school, and any past public offices held or sought.
- What single capital improvement project would you rank as No. 1 priority?
- What changes would you make in the career ladder criteria?
- Would you favor raising the local supplement pay for teachers?
- GENERAL: Feel free to give your views on any issue not noted above and to tell voters why you are the best candidate.

Jaime Baldwin

Family: Married 19 years, five children. Background: Army veteran, five years in law enforcement, three years in management-sales, coach of the Howard County Boxing Club, sponsor of the Ebony Culture Club, director of the West Texas Boxing Association.

2. We must draw intelligent students into teaching. We must encourage the experienced teachers to remain in the profession. New and enlarged buildings, containing the best of modern equipment, will be useless without adequate teaching staff.

3. The career ladder was initially introduced as an instrument that would show everybody. The process to evaluate and single out the best, most proficient and qualified teachers and to reward them with monies. I have talked to students, teachers, parents and retired school teachers. There is so much dissent, it has an unhealthy attitude (cold war effect.) There is no easy way to change this, everyone knows that we do need money.

I believe we should throw it out the back door and start at point A again. Big Spring didn't decide on the career ladder. It's mandated in House Bill 72. The locals' responsibility is to implement its own tool and administer it. I for one want teachers that are caring and human, not "textbook teachers." Wouldn't it be great if we could and would send the money back to Austin and say, thanks for the thought but we care for all of our children.

4. To be competitive for the best teachers, higher local supplements should always be a high priority of the school board.

5. As a teacher working in the public school system every day, I system renovation.

The third area would be to set up an aggressive program to clean up the city with emphasis on the Highway 80 and 87 corridors.

3. I support the council's funding of an aggressive program to combat a growing drug problem and would encourage an even more effective effort.

Many of our crimes against property are drug-related and a strong drug enforcement program helps to curtail that problem.

4. The most important thing the city can do to promote the family unit is to provide quality recreational facilities for its citizens. We need to continue to improve and add to our existing facilities.

I daily make sound financial decisions for a company with approximately the same number of employees and the same size budget as the city of Big Spring. Fiscal responsibility will be our greatest challenge during the next three years. My extensive civic involvement has given me valuable insight into the needs of the community and I feel I have developed a reputation as an innovator who makes things happen. Big Spring desperately needs this type of leadership.

Education: bachelor's and master's degrees from North Texas State University. Eleven years teaching experience, most of which was in Big Spring.

2. We presently have some classes meeting in portable buildings. Some time in the near future it would be well if we built new classrooms for those programs. Aside from this, with our current economic conditions in mind, I believe the district's capital expenditures at this time should be directed toward maintaining and upgrading the facilities we have rather than in new construction.

3. I would of course like to see all of our outstanding teachers placed on the career ladder but, unfortunately the state allocates only limited funds for this purpose. There are strict state guidelines

2. I have no single priority at this point.

3. Only one change needs to be made in the career (ladder). Either fund it fully so that all who qualify can be put on, or do away with it completely. As it stands now, there is state funding for only about one-third of those who qualify to be put on. As a result of this, teachers are forced to work against each other to try and get an edge rather than work together. The ones who really pay for this poor piece of legislation are our children.

4. To be competitive for the best teachers, higher local supplements should always be a high priority of the school board.

5. As a teacher working in the public school system every day, I

2. Reduction in state and federal revenues and reduced tax base locally should indicate less importance of capital improvements in the short term.

3. Career ladder is mandated by law; however, it is very difficult to determine the rewardable qualities of a teacher. In the business world, productivity is measured in units, sales or something accomplished

2. I believe that an indoor Olympic size swimming pool should be considered at Big Spring High School and also a renovation of the high school gym with air conditioning or some type of cooling system should also be considered.

3. I believe that the career ladder needs a complete overhaul and I believe the board needs to make this a priority. I also believe the local board should make all decisions without any requirements from the state.

4. After reviewing the salary schedule, I would be in favor of raising the supplement pay. This

2. The No. 1 priority in capital improvements at this time would be the continued work on upgrading the roofs of the schools throughout the district. We must maintain our buildings to guarantee continued use in the years to come.

3. The basic structure for selection to the career ladder is sound. There are statewide criteria that must be adhered to, then each local district can add its own criteria. I believe our selection process and criteria are as fair as any in the state, and the selection committee has done a good job. But it must be teachers. You sitting up there drawing up plans left out the one most important thing. Our teachers are human, not robots.

4. My answer

5. I will represent all citizens. This is tax money financing this extensive operation for their benefit. As a taxpayer I will see that you're getting your money's worth. As a citizen I will see that the community is getting the best representation possible.

Brooks

governing the disbursement of these funds and the local district must stay within those guidelines. One change I would support would be for the state to give the local districts more freedom in the disbursement of this money.

4. On the question of raising the local supplement pay for our teachers, I know of no board member or candidate that would personally be against such a raise. This question might be better directed toward the taxpayers of the district: Would they favor raising the supplement pay? If the funds were available I would support increasing the local teachers' pay.

5. I would encourage the citizens of this community to attend more board meetings, to be aware of the issues and policies being voted on, to visit the schools more often to stay informed on what is happening in education today.

Griffin

that is measured by the bottom line. There is no way to put on a bottom line the effect a teacher might have in the life of a child. Career ladder is a law that will be obeyed by the school board until the legislature is convinced to change it.

4. ESISD, for the most part, has a good quality teaching staff, and they deserve all the support the school board and this community can give them. This support should include the highest supplemental pay we can possibly afford.

5. I was quoted, "I don't want teachers that fail the TECAT exam teaching my children."

The whole statement was "The teachers I have talked to said that the preparation for the exam was a good review, but the test was too easy and did not test competency. I agree it did not test competency, but it did test basic skills. If a teacher is given at least two opportunities to make 75 percent on a basic skills test and is not successful, I do not want that person teaching my children."

Myrick

should be done only after a careful study by the board. Big Spring is still below average in this area. We need to offer our teachers the best so we can have the best for our children.

5. Texas education reform is a must. Texas is ranked 46th in the nation in education. We must learn to accept House Bill 72 because it is law now. Higher education is our No. 1 PRIORITY. I have the time to devote and the eagerness to work hard for a better school system. I would like Big Spring to be the best in the state. I hope to have the opportunity to work with the parents, students and teachers.

feel that I am uniquely qualified to serve on the school board. I will be able to bring the insight of the classroom teacher as issues are addressed that directly affect them. Our schools today are facing many problems. They must try and restore the pride and respect to the teaching profession that has been devastated in recent months by our state government. Excited, motivated students can only be produced by excited, motivated teachers. I hope you will let me put my experience to work to achieve these goals.

House Bill 72 mandated physical education for all grades to improve gross motor skills. Additional hard court playground facilities are needed.

3. Due to the lack of funds, the career ladder is "broken." As implemented, the career ladder structure is destructive to the educational process. The program should be adequately funded to include all qualified teachers or totally eliminated.

4. With the advent of Gramm-Rudman-Hollis, a dramatic reduction of educational funds is anticipated. This situation will necessitate an austerity program. Therefore, if local supplementation is needed to retain and recruit the most qualified teachers, I support the concept.

5. Other issues of concern include improved patterns of communication between parents, teachers and the general public. Many times misinformation and lack of information are our greatest problem. The competency test at a cost of over $24 million has no correlation with teaching ability, and the pre-kindergarten program mandated by House Bill 72 is a duplication of the more comprehensive and effective Headstart program. We must never forget that our children are our most valuable natural resource and we owe them our BEST!

remembered, we are still at the mercy of funds available.

4. I have always been in favor of upgrading the pay system for our teachers. But realistically, there is not sufficient monies available at present to raise the local supplement. The loss of revenue from state funds combined with lowered tax base on the local level has put the district in a "holding pattern." As soon as we are more stable financially, I would encourage an increase in pay for our teachers.

5. I am proud to have been able to have served my community for the past three years. My greatest asset has been my understanding of the issues and dependability (one missed meeting in three years.) Your vote for me will not be wasted.

Johnny Dawkins of Duke prepares to shoot as Danny Manning of Kansas tries to block during first half action in the NCAA semifinal game at Reunion Arena in Dallas Saturday.

Duke holds off game Kansas bid

DALLAS (AP) — No. 1 vs. No. 2 lived up to its billing but it was the wrong Danny who made the difference at the end.

Thus top-ranked Duke, survivor of a 71-67 semifinal battle with Kansas, is in the NCAA Tournament championship game and the college basketball record book.

With Danny Manning, Kansas' second-team All-American, held to a career-low four points, it was Duke freshman Danny Ferry who wore the hero's mantle. Ferry rebounded a missed shot by Mark Alarie and scored with 22 seconds left to break a 67-all tie.

Ferry then drew a charging foul that thwarted Kansas' chance to tie.

"I was at the dotted line, I came up with it and went up with it," Ferry said of his winning basket. "I was just in the right place at the right time."

The victory was Duke's 37th in 39 games this season, one more than the 1948 Kentucky team that finished 36-3. Kansas, which finished 33-4, could also have broken the record had it gone all the way.

Now the Blue Devils still need one more victory, against Louisville Monday night, to win the national championship. The Cardinals solved Louisiana State's "freak defense" and ran away in the second half with an 88-77 victory in Saturday's first game.

The second game was tight throughout. Neither team led by

Louisville explodes over LSU

DALLAS (AP) — Billy Thompson's rebounding and near-perfect shooting ended unheralded Louisiana State's run through the NCAA playoffs as Louisville beat the Tigers 88-77 Saturday and charged into the championship game.

Thompson hit 10 of 11 shots from the field, scoring 22 points and backing freshman center Pervis Ellison's 13 rebounds with 10 of his own as Louisville came back from a 44-36 halftime deficit and ran the tired Tigers off the Reunion Arena court.

"We didn't do anything different. We just came out with more intensity," Thompson said after the Cardinals outscored the Tigers 52-33 in the second half. "I'm a senior. My shot was there. I felt I had to maybe get things going."

Milt Wagner added 22 points and 11 assists for the Cardinals, seeking a second national basketball championship for Coach Denny Crum, who led Louisville to the 1980 title.

"We knew we had to come out and play good defense in the first five minutes of the half, go for the steals and rebounds," Wagner said. "Our guys did a great job."

"I think you've got to give LSU credit for that first half," Crum said. "They got all the loose balls. They didn't let us get started. They didn't let us get any runs. Maybe we were a little tight. We didn't shoot real well."

Crum said he had some strong words for his players at halftime. He said he told them: "This is our last shot. Let's give it our best effort."

Wagner said the key to the second-half surge was the Louisville defense.

"We played good defense and put pretty good pressure on them and made them change their shots," he said. "That made the difference for us."

The statistics showed that. LSU shot 57.1 percent in the first half, but just 35 percent in the second. Louisville, meanwhile, improved from 46.9 percent before intermission to 63.9 percent after it.

It was the 16th consecutive victory for Louisville, 31-7 and champion of the Metro Conference and the West Regional, in which it was seeded No. 2 to Louisville coach Denny Crum sends in a play while members of his team begin to celebrate on the bench during the closing minutes of their semifinal 88-77 victory over LSU Saturday at Reunion Arena.

St. John's. LSU, 11th seed in the Southeast Region, closed its with a 26-12 record.

"I think these guys still know that they can dream," said Coach Dale Brown. "I thought we played as hard as we possibly could. We can't expect any more."

He said LSU was unable to shake the Louisville offense in the second half the way it had in the first. "We tried every defense we had in the book. And we might have been too anxious to shoot in the second half. Maybe it was our fault for not being patient enough," he said.

John Williams, LSU's star forward, had 12 points in the first half but only two the rest of the way. Don Redden had 22 for LSU.

The Cardinals came out running at the start of the second half, running off 13 consecutive points and 17 of 18 as LSU was unable to match the preachings of their inspirational coach against the flying feet of the West Regional champions. Louisville outscored the Tigers 29-11 in the first 10 minutes of the half.

With guard Anthony Wilson canning a pair of jumpers, LSU managed to maintain its tenuous lead in the opening five minutes of the second half. Then Louisville began limiting LSU to one shot and roared downcourt past the exhausted Tigers.

Thompson's jumper 5:15 into the second half began the 13-point run by the Cardinals, with guards Wagner and Jeff Hall feeding each other on fast-break layups — the second one tying it 54-54 at 6:05 of the half — and Hall scoring again 62 seconds later with a five-foot jumper to give Louisville its first lead of the game.

The streak continued with a 20-footer from the left side by Wagner and ended when junior forward Mark McSwain tipped in a follow shot, was fouled and sank the free throw.

It was now 61-54. Redden hit a foul shot for the Tigers, then Wagner canned two more 20-footers from the same left-side location to give the Cardinals a 65-55 lead, a 10-point bulge that was matched twice more and exceeded only when Herbert Crook hit a jumper at the buzzer.

In that 17-1 spurt by the Cardinals, LSU was held without a field goal for 5:07, missing 13 consecutive shots.

But Redden scored nine of 11 LSU points to bring the Tigers back to within four before Louisville pulled away again.

LSU built a quick 11-4 lead two minutes into the game with Redden's three-point play to open the scoring and baskets by Williams and Derrick Taylor off steals.

With Thompson suddenly asserting himself, getting Louisville's next three field goals, the Cardinals began establishing inside control.

They pulled into the first of seven first-half ties at 19-19 after 5½ minutes.

The Cardinals managed their last tie of the opening half at 33-33, then LSU outscored them 11-3 in the remaining 7:02, getting a fistful of second shots in scrambles under the rim.

Big Spring's Sherman not short on speed

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

The phrase "dynamite comes in small packages" best describes Big Spring thincled Dewayne Sherman. The 5-6, 140-pound, senior has been making a name for himself around West Texas circles.

Sherman has been making the headlines in an unlikely fashion. The smooth running Steer has converted from a hurdler to a sprinter to become one of the top competitors in District 4-5A. He owes it all to sound logic and unlimited potential.

Last year Sherman was just a mediocre hurdler trapped in a highly competitive district. His best time of 40.2 in the 300 intermediate wasn't fast enough to compete with the 37's and 38's turned in by 4-5A competition. This year was much of the same. The district has the second fastest 300 hurdler and the third and fourth-ranked high hurdlers in the state.

The diminutive speedster realized that "I was getting a lot of competition in the hurdles. Some of the best people in the state are in our district," he said. "I thought I could do better running another event."

Since this wise decision Sherman has produced outstanding times in the 100, 200 and legs of the 1600 meter relay. This leaves Steers coach Randy Britton with a pleasant predicament. "I really don't know what I'll run Dewayne in at the district meet," he commented. "For sure he'll be on the 1600 relay because he's the best 400 man I've had in my eight years. I don't know if I'll run him in the sprint relay, 100, 200 or 400. But he'll run the 300 hurdles next week in Carlsbad so he'll have a chance at the school record, 38.5."

Either way Sherman will place high. But the main thing is getting him to regional. His times of 10.70 in the 100 ranks him sixth in a close district race where two-tenths of a second separates the first seven runners. The only time he ran the 200, he recorded a respectable 22.77. He has turned in an outstanding 48.3 on his anchor leg in the 1600 relay.

"I'd kind of like to run the 400 meters in district, but it all depends on what coach Britton thinks. "If he thinks we have a chance in the 400 relay then I'll run that; if not I'd like to run the 1600 relay, 100 and 400."

Whatever he elects to run him in, Britton knows his senior leader will do well; mainly due to good work habits. "This year and last year has been entirely different for Dewayne," said Britton of his runner who got a late start because of basketball.

He has worked much harder this year. He realizes this is it. Last year he couldn't run eight 200's in 27 seconds. The other day he ripped off six 200's in 25."

Sherman whole-heartily agrees with his coach.

"I think I've worked harder this season," he said. "Last season I could always say; well I've got next year. This season I know I can't wait until next year. I know our 1600 relay has a good chance of getting to regional. That's coach Britton's event and we want to make it. I also feel I've got a chance to make it to state in the 400. If I can get in the 47's I might make it to state."

A dream Sherman says he has had since watching his uncle Herman Evans run the sprints for the Black and Gold while gaining berth in the state meet in Austin.

"I use to run with Herman when I was real young. He was a big influence on me. I figured someday I would be able to run as fast as he could. I want to make it to the state meet very badly. I'd love to get my name in the record books so that people will remember me for long time."

At the rate he's going, people will have a hard time forgetting the 5-6 dynamo from Big Spring High.

Big Spring sprinter Dewayne Sherman heads home with the baton during practice for the sprint relay during the Steer's recent Spring Break. Sherman, a senior, has clocked an impressive 10.7 in the 100 meters and 48.3 on his anchor leg in the mile relay.

Top-rated Lady Horns set for ambitious USC

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Top-ranked Texas and ambitious Southern California, a pair of star-quality teams in a high-stakes rematch, meet Sunday for the NCAA championship in what the coaches hope will be a showcase for their sport.

Texas, at 33-0, places a perfect record as well as the No. 1 ranking on the line. Third-ranked Southern Cal, 31-4, is led by former Olympian and four-time All-American Cheryl Miller.

Each team made it to the final with lopsided victories in Friday's semifinals — the La Longhorns stampeding past local favorite Western Kentucky 90-65 and Southern Cal whipping Tennessee 83-59.

"This is a dream come true for women's basketball. You couldn't ask for two finer teams," Southern Cal Coach Linda Sharp said Saturday.

"I was hoping this game would be worthy of women's basketball and I think it truly will be," said Texas Coach Jody Conradt.

The Lady Longhorns pummeled the Women of Troy 94-78 in a game at Austin, Texas, in December. But everyone involved at a news conference Saturday said the first game should be disregarded as either an indicator of Southern Cal's talent or a motive for vengeance.

"We played at home and we played about as well as a team could play," Conradt said.

Miller, a 6-foot-3 senior forward who averages 26 points per game and scored 31 against Texas, said the loss "has nothing to do with this game coming up."

"shows me how good I can play defense."

"Annette has to be one of the best small centers in the country," Miller said. "She's a great defensive player, a great offense player and she's right when she says I bring out the best in her."

Smith, a 10.6-point scorer on the season, had 22 in the December game.

Kamie Ethridge, a 5-5 senior, and Beverly Williams, a 5-8 sophomore, team at guard for Texas. They average 5.3 and 11.6 points, respectively.

Smith's partners on the front line are 6-2 junior Andrea Lloyd and 6-foot senior Fran Harris. Lloyd averages 9.4 points and a team-high 7.6 rebounds. Harris is the team's leading scorer at 13.8 points per game.

The top reserve is Clarissa Davis, a 6-1 freshman forward who averages 13.2 points and 7.5 rebounds. Davis came off the bench to roll up 32 points and 18 rebounds against Western Kentucky, but Conradt said she would not subject her freshman star to the pressure of a starting job in the NCAA final.

"She has to perform well for us to win the game, but she will not start the game," Conradt said.

Cynthia Cooper, a 5-9 senior averaging 16.9 points, and Rhonda Windham, a 5-5 junior averaging 8.9 points, form the backcourt for the Women of Troy.

With Miller on the front line are 6-3 freshman center Cherie Nelson, averaging 13.3 points and 8.7 rebounds, and 6-foot sophomore Holly Ford, who averages 7.8 points and 3.6 rebounds. Miller leads the Women of Troy in rebounding with 12.4 per game.

Sharp said Southern Cal would open with a man-to-man defense and try to use its quickness to control Texas' shot selection.

"We have to match up and stop Texas' offense-minded players, keep their number of shots down," Sharp said.

Cincinnati picked to overtake Los Angeles in NL West

By JOHN NELSON
AP Baseball Writer

The talent is there, so the key may be attitude. And Cincinnati Reds player-manager Pete Rose has a jump on the others in that department.

"I think if our guys come back with the same attitude they left with in '85, we have a good chance of winning the West," Rose said.

The Los Angeles Dodgers won the National League West by 5 1/2 games over Cincinnati last year, but with almost all the teams in the division on the rise, it's time for a shakeup.

"I just feel we're going to be a lot stronger ballclub with Bo Diaz for a whole year, with Buddy Bell for a whole year, and John Denny and Bill Gullickson," Rose said. "With those four guys, we ought to be able to make up the games the Dodgers beat us by last year."

In 1985, the Reds closed to within four games before falling back another 1 1/2 games at the finish. They were followed, in order, by Houston, San Diego, Atlanta and San Francisco.

In 1986, the division will look more like this:

Cincinnati Reds
Bell, the third baseman, and Diaz, the catcher, came to the Reds in midseason 1985. Then, the Reds went out and got Denny from Philadelphia and Gullickson from Montreal to help out rookie 20-game winner Tom Browning and Mario Soto.

"I don't want to go out on a limb," Rose said. "But I'll be very disappointed if we don't win the West."

Even with this new talent, however, the real key could rest with two holdovers, Dave Parker and Nick Esasky. Parker had 34 homers and 125 RBI last year; he needs another year like that. At the same time, Esasky needs to improve from the 21-homer, 66-RBI season of 1985.

"There's a lot of teams that can win the Western Division," Rose said. "It's just a matter of what team stays the healthiest and what teams get the most breaks."

Los Angeles Dodgers
"We've managed to do very well in the pitching department over the years," Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda said. "This year will be no different."

In fact, on the strength of their pitching, many are picking the Dodgers to repeat in 1986, something no West team has done since the Dodgers in 1977-78.

With Fernando Valenzuela, Orel Hershiser, Bob Welch, Jerry Reuss and perhaps Alejandro Pena in the rotation, and Ken Howell, Tom Niedenfuer and newcomer Ed Vande Berg in the bullpen, the Dodgers are undeniably strong.

And, he reminds, he is better in other areas. He has Bill Madlock from the start, so Pedro Guerrero won't have to dodge grounders at third. And Mariano Duncan will be the opening-day starter at shortstop.

"The division has really changed," Lasorda said. "It's gotten stronger. I believe each club has improved a great deal. I definitely think it will be stronger and more entertaining."

It could be a close race — one of the most hotly contested in baseball — but not too close to call.

Atlanta Braves
There was a changing of the guard in Atlanta. Bobby Cox took over as General Manager, and Chuck Tanner was brought in to manage. Both have made immediate impressions — Cox with two key trades and Tanner with his infectious optimism.

If it weren't for some uncertainty on the staff of starting pitchers, the Braves could give either Cincinnati or Los Angeles a good run.

Problem is, however, that after opening-day starter Rick Mahler and young left-hander Zane Smith, the rest of the starting jobs still are in a state of flux. Tanner, as always, has a bright side.

"We've got a lot of arms with equal major league ability," he said. "We had 13 or 14 pitchers trying to make the team, and we could only take 10. I can't complain. Some other teams are hunting for pitchers."

The most positive note on the staff: Reliever Bruce Sutter is recovering nicely from shoulder surgery and should be a force again.

Cox made two important trades in the offseason, getting Ozzie Virgil from Philadelphia to catch and Ted Simmons from Milwaukee to strengthen their No. 1 pre-season priority, the bench.

With Bob Horner healthy and Dale Murphy a model of consistency, the Braves are good enough for third.

San Diego Padres
The Padres can't help but be a little disorganized this year, at least early on. Manager Dick Williams dug his trenches for a battle with the front office, then went AWOL. He quit during spring training, leaving the job of finishing what he started to Steve Boros.

Boros has at least one bright side — some pretty good pitching with starters LaMarr Hoyt, Andy Hawkins, Eric Show and Dave Dravecky, and a strong bullpen with Goose Gossage and comer Lance McCullers.

On the field, the Padres must fill some infield spots, like third base, but the real problem is speed. Leon "Bip" Roberts, whom the Padres drafted out of the Pittsburgh organization last December, may help in that area if he can hold onto the second base job.

After a slow start, the Padres will have trouble finishing any better than fourth.

Houston Astros
Playing in the Astrodome, the Astros generally have been a team built for speed. Not last year, though.

In 1985, the Astros stole only 96 bases, better in the league than only San Diego and Atlanta. First-year Manager Hal Lanier spent five years as a coach with the St. Louis Cardinals before coming to Houston, so he recognizes the deficiency.

"If you're going to live by being aggressive, you have to take chances," he said. "You can't wait for two or three hits in one inning."

To that end, Lanier will be asking Bill Doran, Kevin Bass, new acquisition Mickey Hatcher and even veteran Jose Cruz to start running.

Another problem: pitching. After Mike Scott, Nolan Ryan and Bob Knepper, there aren't any proven major league starters.

No better than fifth.
San Francisco Giants
There doesn't appear to be any way out of the cellar this year for the San Francisco Giants, despite some player moves that could help. They got Candy Maldonado from the Dodgers to help Chili Davis, Dan Gladden and Jeff Leonard in the outfield, and Juan Berenguer has been added to the pitching staff. The starting pitching probably will give new Manager Roger Craig fits, but at least he has a good bullpen with the lefty-righty combo of Mark Davis and Scott Garreiss. Alas, last again.

Progress reports are given out

Mid six-weeks progress reports were handed out Wednesday to students with an average below 70 in any class.

Students will be out of school for spring break March 31 through April 4.

The junior high tennis team traveled to Odessa Saturday, March 23. In eighth grade boys' doubles, Chad Freeman and Danny Whitehead had a tough day and got all the way to the semifinals, where they were defeated by a team from Odessa. The team fared well in the tournament.

Scholarship competition open

Big Spring Savings Association is sponsoring a scholarship competition open to Howard County graduating seniors, said branch manager Bruce Hogenmiller.

To qualify, the student must be in the upper 25 percent of his graduating class and must not be a recipient of any other type of grant or scholarship. Students will be considered on an overall basis of scholastic achievement and non-academic involvement, Hogenmiller said. Parents' income will not limit the consideration for the recipients.

Last year's scholarship winners were Julie Miller and Quang Mai, both from Big Spring High School.

For more information, contact Nell Harris at 267-7443.

Time bomb.

An employee inspects damages at the American Luggage Center caused by a time bomb which exploded early Saturday. An anonymous caller claimed the attack for the revolutionary command "Omar Mukhtar Unit," a historical Libyan hero, and was "in response to the American aggression against Libya" in the Gulf of Sidra.

Maker says capsules not tainted

CINCINNATI (AP) — There is no evidence that any Encaprin capsules have been tainted with cyanide, despite a claim by an anonymous caller that led two store chains to pull the pain reliever from their shelves nationwide, government and company officials said Saturday.

"There is no evidence that any tampering has occurred," said Patrick Hayes, a spokesman for Cincinnati-based Procter & Gamble Co., manufacturer of the aspirin substitute that Kroger supermarkets and Walgreen drugstores have stopped selling. U.S. Food and Drug Administration spokesman Jack Martin said he had nothing to add to an agency statement saying officials "would initially agree that this may be another hoax."

"Because of the hoaxes and tampering that have occurred in recent weeks, our advice to consumers remains that they should examine non-prescription products for breaks in the package or unusual appearance or color," he said.

The caller Thursday told the company's consumer-information telephone service that he had placed cyanide-filled capsules of the pain reliever in Walgreen drugstores in Chicago and Detroit. However, the caller gave a non-existent lot number for the medication he claimed to have tainted. Also, Walgreen does not have stores in Detroit.

The nationwide drugstore chain decided to remove Encaprin from the shelves of its 1,170 stores, said spokesman Tom Mammoser. He said it would be kept off the shelves until it is proved safe.

Cincinnati-based Kroger Co., which operates more than 1,300 grocery stores, also decided Friday to take the pain reliever off its shelves.

In Tennessee, SuperX drug stores, a subsidiary of Kroger, halted sales in the Nashville area of the chain's own extra-strength acetaminophin caplets after a customer noticed a turned-back foil seal in a bottle, and found a prescription depressant capsule inside.

"It's going to take more than $100 million in aid, probably about $500 million," McFarlane said in the interview published in the April 7 issue of the magazine that was released Saturday. "They can win, in my judgement, because they enjoy the support of the people. But they need training, equipment."

"The training could be done in six months time, because you really have some very motivated people down there who want to win," he added.

The Senate on Thursday approved Reagan's plan to give the rebels, called Contras, $70 million in military aid and $30 million in non-lethal humanitarian aid in their efforts to oust the Sandinistas. The House had rejected a similar proposal the week before, and now must vote again on the Senate-passed version.

McFarlane said American advisers, working from a third country, also are needed to help the Contras.

"This is a bellwether case that's being watched very closely in Moscow as a measure of whether the U.S. can sustain a strategy for dealing with Soviet efforts to dominate key developing countries," McFarlane said.

Tax & financial planning

ESTATE PLANNING QUIZ

Are you one who thinks estate planning is only for the wealthy? Actually, anyone who owns one possession or has one dollar has an "estate," and only he can "plan" what to do with it. "Estate planning" can assure your family of financial security after your death. It can cut taxes and administrative costs, and it allows you to dispose of your estate as you see fit. Try taking this quiz to see if you need estate planning.

- | | | |
|---|-----|----|
| 1. Do you have minor children? | YES | NO |
| 2. Do you have a child with a special need; i.e., with a handicap, serious illness or other problem? | — | — |
| 3. Would your family have to struggle financially if you died? | — | — |
| 4. Was your will drawn before January 1, 1982, when major changes occurred in federal estate and income tax laws? | — | — |
| 5. Have you moved from one state to another since your will was drawn? | — | — |
| 6. Has the total value of your assets changed substantially since your will was drawn? | — | — |
| 7. Have you and another person put any property in your names jointly, with right of survivorship? | — | — |

A YES answer to any of these questions could be a danger signal. There are new wills and family financial planning which should be considered. Even the best of financial plans is subject to obsolescence and needs periodic revision to accommodate changing circumstances.

Remember, all financial planning — including that for estates — is a process, not a single event.

 more than seven points and Kansas, despite losing Manning and 7-foot-1 center Greg Dressling on fouls, out of 40 with 2:04 to go.
 Then All-American guard Johnny Dawkins, who scored 24 points, rebounded a missed shot by David Henderson to tie it at 67 and set up Ferry's heroics.
 "It was a terrific game," Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "You know, sitting on the court side you can just feel the emotion, hear the bodies banging. Rightfully so, we won it with a loose ball, taking the ball off the floor and scoring."
 Asked why he brought in Ferry at the end, the Duke coach joked, "To pick up a loose ball."
 "We had our chance, we got 'em to miss," Kansas Coach Larry Brown said of the decisive basket. "We had everybody blocked out. Ferry made a great play. Manning, who brought a 17.1-point scoring average into the game, played just 23 minutes and shot just two for nine — the first basket of the game and one with 4:00 to play that put the Jayhawks up 65-61.

 "That's the way I coach," Brown said. "If we had gotten down by six or eight, Danny would have been back in the game. But I wanted to save him, if possible."

Becker breaks Connors

CHICAGO (AP) — Third-seeded Boris Becker of West Germany broke second-seeded Jimmy Connors in the second game of the third set Saturday and went on to a 7-6, 4-6, 6-4 semifinal triumph in the $315,000 Volvo-Chicago Tennis tournament.
 With the 18-year-old "wild card" entrant collecting 11 aces and 14 service winners in the nationally televised two-hour, 43-minute marathon, Becker advanced to Sunday's final in the race for the $50,000 first prize.
 Becker will meet the winner of Saturday night's semifinal between top-seeded Ivan Lendl and unseeded Scott Davis.
 With the partisan crowd at the University of Illinois Chicago Pavilion chanting, "Come on Jimmy, let's go Jimmy," Connors rallied from a first-set tiebreaker loss to win the second set.
 But in the third set, Connors became unraveled, making three unforced errors to fall behind 2-0. Connors came back to break Becker in the ninth game and trail 5-4, but the 33-year-old left-hander then lost his own service in the 10th game when he netted a shot.
 Earlier, a frustrated Becker had asked umpire Frank Hammond, "Where should I serve it?" when called for a service fault in the crucial fourth game of the first set, which found Becker falling behind 3-1.
 But Connors got into difficulty on his service in the fifth game, committing two unforced errors and allowing Becker to break him back.

Washington, a 6-foot senior forward from North Charleston, S.C., averaged 22.9 points and 11.5 rebounds for the College of Charleston of the NAIA. She powered the Lady Cougars to a 24-6 season, but Charleston forfeited eight victories and officially finished 16-14 due to an ineligible player.
 Conwell, a 6-3 freshman center from Los Angeles, averaged 27.1 points and 16.4 rebounds as Odessa Junior College rolled to a 36-0 season. She was the leading scorer, rebounder and shot blocker for Lady Wranglers.

Miller, Conwell named Player of Year

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Cheryl Miller, the force behind the University of Southern California's talent-laden women's basketball team, was named the Champion Products major college Player of the Year for the second consecutive season on Saturday.
 Miller, a senior from Riverside, Calif., who rewrote the record book for the Women of Troy, was chosen for the award by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association.
 Miller headed a list of five honorees representing the three divisions of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and the Junior Collegiate Community College Association.
 Joining Miller at the awards ceremony held in conjunction with the Women's NCAA Basketball Tournament were Vickie Mitchell of Cal Poly Pomona, Jane Meyer of Elizabethtown College of Pennsylvania, Lisa Washington of the College of Charleston, S.C. and Doretha Conwell of Odessa Junior College of Texas.

 Saturday's award was the latest in a series of honors for the 6-foot-3 Miller, who averaged 26.1 points and 12.5 rebounds per game as Southern California rolled up a 31-4 record.
 Miller scored in 17 points Friday night, giving her 3,002 points for her career, as Southern California demolished Tennessee 83-59 in a semifinal of the NCAA tournament. Southern California meets No. 1 Texas Sunday for the national championship.
 In addition to last year's Champion Products trophy, Miller is a two-time winner of the Naismith Award as outstanding player and was a gold medalist on the United States' 1984 women's Olympic basketball team.

 Mitchell, a 6-foot senior center from Los Angeles, averaged 15.4 points and 11.8 rebounds for Cal Poly Pomona, 30-3, of NCAA Division II.
 She set a school record with 1,107 career rebounds and was voted most valuable player of the Division II quarterfinal and national tournaments.
 Meyer, of Palmyra, Pa., spent two years at Bucknell University before transferring to Elizabethtown College, 24-6, of NCAA Division III. But the 5-7 senior guard managed to break the 1,000-point barrier in less than two years.

 She averaged 23 points per game and twice scored 38 points in a game. Meyer also averaged five steals and five assists per game.

Steers trounce Abilene

ABILENE — The Big Spring Steer baseball team took their second District 4-5A win over Abilene High, 7-2 at Blackburn Field in Abilene Saturday afternoon.
 The Steers were led by junior right-hander Carey Fraser, who pitched four innings of shut-out ball, while his teammates built a 4-0 cushion. Fraser was helped by some outstanding fielding from by third baseman Randy Hayworth and left fielder Felix Olivas.
 Aaron Allen and Raymond Ontiveros swung the big bats for the Steers on the day, collecting two RBI's apiece. Ontiveros went two-for-three on the day.

Senior relief pitcher Mike Dodd picked up his second straight save in relieving of Fraser in the top of the fifth inning. With the bases loaded and no outs, Dodd retired the side with two strikeouts and a pop-fly to snuff the rally.
 Big Spring raised it's 4-5A record to 2-4 with the victory and to 4-8-1 on the season.

Economy affects Northside Center

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

A phone call from a woman who is hungry. A man in pain who needs immediate dental care. A panic-stricken mother whose child is suffering. These are all scenes in a typical day in the life of Marianne Brown, co-founder and director of the Northside Community Center located at 108 N.E. 8th St.

As a result of the oil crunch and unemployment, the center is suffering a financial crisis, Brown said.

"As the economic situation in the Howard County area becomes more acute, more people are becoming aware of the needs that Northside Community Center has been trying to cope with for many years," George von Hassell, board member of the center, said.

There are more people who are jobless, therefore there are more people who need the services the center provides. But, because money is so tight, the center isn't receiving ample donations to provide for all the people in need, Brown said.

"There are a lot of hungry people," Brown said. "I can't turn them away hungry."

Brown held a conference with all the local ministers recently to try to unite efforts in helping the needy. "Instead of everyone giving their individual donations, we could all work together and become more effective," she said.

"Several churches have elected to help by donating money and food stuffs," von Hassell said. One of the major concerns of the center is the many requests that churches and the center get for food. A new effort has begun to consolidate this service by purchasing and storing food and maintaining files for the distribution of the commodities, he said.

The new project is called the Community Kitchen Cupboard. "If someone is hungry and doesn't have the money to buy food, I'll fix him a sandwich and a bowl of soup," Brown said.

"The project is not meant to replace any existing food distribution centers," von Hassell said. The organizations that haven't joined in the project will still send the needy to the pre-existing centers. Persons applying for food assistance from a contributor of the Community Kitchen Cupboard will be given a voucher which will enable them to collect food at the Northside Community Center, von Hassell said.

The center began three years ago from the joint efforts of Marianne Brown, Chestnut Brown and Rev. Isroe Cooper.

"We started the center for the northside people so they could have a place to come to get help. The people who came to us used to be all minorities," Brown said. "Because of the economy, everyone is feeling it and we are servicing the entire community now," she said.

Brown remembers the early days of the center. "We started out with $27. I worked the first year for free because we didn't have the money to pay me a salary."

The center is a community supported center and Brown says without the understanding of the community, "we could have never made it." But more help is needed, she said.

When considering sources to receive more financial aid,

Brown says she doesn't want to get too much from the government. "If I do then there will be too many rules and red tape. When the government subsidizes an agency there is a list of guidelines that must be followed and a lot of needy people would be excluded from receiving help," she said.

Those who receive help to pay for their utilities only get help once in a lifetime from some agencies or they can only receive food once a year. Brown says that that isn't enough for those who have lots of children, "their food stamps don't provide enough food and it doesn't last them for a whole month sometimes."

People who are victims of alcohol abuse are also exempt from receiving federal help. "I just can't turn a hungry child away just because its mother is an alcoholic. It's not the child's fault," Brown said.

Other programs that assist the needy who meet low-income criteria and are not eligible for other types of aid are:

- The Community Closet, seven pieces of new and used clothing for each family member is given free of charge.

- Emergency Food Relief, a $25 grocery order is issued by visiting the home.

- Emergency Housing Relief, funds are allotted to avoid eviction and to aid those who need emergency housing for a more prolonged period of time.

- Utility Assistance, when the utility company notices a family who can't pay their bills, the center is notified. The center intervenes financially to keep the services from being shut off. A payment plan is set up with the family to keep the utilities on.

- Emergency Medical Assistance, emergency medication is paid for by the center. There are also physicians who will render emergency care free if the patient is referred by the center.

Brown is also trying to eliminate giving to the "professional needy," people she says who get duplicate aid by going to all churches and organizations. "We could reserve the donations to those who really need it."

Brown is in the planning stages of a Fund Raiser Banquet to be held in conjunction with the third anniversary of the center, which will be June 5.

"We have a wonderful board of directors who really work hard," Brown said. They are Judge Milton Kirby, Johnny Lou Avery, Sidney Clark, Victor Sedinger, George von Hassell, Pat Hardy, Viola Barraza, Sandy Burroughs, Ted Zobeck, Bill Crocker, Clint Holloman, Marianne Brown, Hal Boyd, Cleve Forward, Johnny Rutherford, Lloyd McMillan, Jim Weaver, Elfriede Palassio, Tommy Welch and Cynthia Weeks.

By CAROL BALDWIN
Special to the Herald

COMMERCE — On a recent, sunny afternoon, Martin Solis comes scurrying across the campus of East Texas State University, bound for another appointment in what has already been a busy day.

The Big Spring senior, son of Vicente and Maria Solis of Big Spring, is dressed in a blue ROTC (Reserve Officers Training Corps) uniform, required wear for ROTC members. He stops briefly to talk with a visitor, but he constantly watches the clock, ever mindful that he has a lot to do before the end of what, for him, is a typical day.

The computer science major is president of the United States Students' Association (USA) at ETSU. He is active in both ROTC and the Arnold Air Society, an honorary service organization. His involvements at ETSU don't stop there, however. Solis is also a member of Phi Mu Alpha, a music fraternity, and an associate member of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity.

Although he has recently ceased competition, Solis is also a state and international title holder in rifle corps competition. He is the standing state champion in rifle competition and joined an Arlington corps to take the fifth place title in international competition on the rifle corps line.

Oh, yes. And when he's not in the USA office, the ROTC office, at a fraternity meeting or in a class, Solis can usually be found at the local movie theater, where he's assistant manager.

Solis is a busy man. His many activities often leave him "with a conflict of time. I weigh my priorities and take the top priority first," he said with not a trace of fatigue in his voice. He admits that he usually has "a pile of work" waiting for him wherever he goes.

But Solis enjoys keeping busy. Although it was his love of rifle corps competition that brought him to East Texas State University, Solis has expanded his interests considerably since graduating from Big Spring High School.

While a student at Big Spring, Solis was a member of Mariah, an acclaimed color guard and rifle corps that performed with the Big Spring High School Steer Band. While in high school, Solis lived for Mariah.

"I had tunnel vision," he admits. "I grew up" in the rifle corps. "I didn't want to give it up. I wanted to go to school that had a rifle corps." Upon learning that ETSU had a rifle corps that marched with the university band, Solis knew where he would go to college.

There is no longer a rifle corps at ETSU, but Solis found his horizons widening with an introduction to a number of activities which appealed to him.

Although he at first wanted nothing to do with anything outside of the rifle corps, Solis eventually got involved in the students' activities board because of his love for movies.

"One of my favorite pastimes is watching movies. I heard about this committee (the Vizart committee) which concentrates on getting movies to campus," Solis decided to work on the committee. That was introduction to the work of the United Students Association at ETSU.

Solis decided to try out for a student senator. "I made senator by one vote," he said. "I voted for myself," he said, adding with a smile that he's glad he voted in his favor.

Solis was a sophomore when he began serving as a USA senator. Within two years, he was elected vice-president of the USA. Throughout his years with the student government association, Solis has seen a lot of changes at ETSU.

He decided to seek the presidency because of some of those changes. He wanted to make his mark at ETSU and feels now, looking back over the past year, that there have been a number of changes for the better.

But deciding to run was "one of the hardest decisions of my life. It was a hard election. There was a run-off." But Solis has enjoyed his tenure as president so much that he may seek a second term next year. He plans to do some graduate work before leaving Commerce.

As president of the USA, Solis is a "liaison between the USA and the administration. I keep the administration in touch with the student senate."

ETSU administrators meet once a week in what is called the President's Administrative Council. Solis is proud of the fact that the PAC regularly invites the USA president to sit in on the meetings.

"That is a privilege. That's not common in all universities in Texas. And it's an invaluable asset to the student government. We've put many presentations forward at the PAC meetings and received many top-level resolutions," Solis said.

Solis said the student senate has bounced back recently after a period of low morale.

"I've been in the senate for four years, and I've never seen morale this high. People are enthused and happy about what they are doing. I can remember a time when we had trouble getting a quorum."

Solis attributes the new morale to "the executive officer leadership and the quality of the senators elected" recently.

Hoefft-Medlin

Susan Loraine Hoefft, of Louisiana, and Phillip Dean Medlin, of Big Spring, exchanged wedding vows December 14 at the Mooringsport Methodist Church in Mooringsport, La., with Rev. George Cunningham officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Hoefft, of Oil City, La. Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Medlin of Big Spring.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with red roses and Christmas greenery highlighted by arched candles.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Dan Grove, organist, and Mrs. L.V. Powdrill, pianist. Vocalists were Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Ward.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of imported white embroidered satin enhanced with pearls. The fitted bodice featured a scooped neckline outlined in pearls and leg-o-mutton sleeves encircled with pearls at the wrist. A small peplum edged in pearls accented the waist. The full Q.: Is it necessary to use the real estate agent's selling price estimate and, if not, what's the best method of setting our own price?

A.: Although a reputable real estate agent's suggested asking price for your home is much more than an educated guess, it is a suggestion. If you want to set your own price, do what the agent did. Make a good, knowledgeable market survey. Check listings of homes currently on the market in similar areas. Compare size, location, age, physical condition, etc. You may also engage a professional appraiser for a non-written, non-detailed appraisal. Managers of local title insurance companies are also good sources of information. Your agent will be happy to list your home at your price and work towards getting that price while supplying you with valuable experience and knowledge.

Doctors honored today

Today has been set aside by the Texas Medical Association (TMA) Auxiliary as Doctor's Day to pay tribute to physicians. "Approximately 75 physicians live in Big Spring, this includes four who are retired," Carol Owen, publicity chairman of the TMA Auxiliary, said.

Fifty of these medical doctors belong to the Permian Basin Medical Society, she said. Officers of the medical society are Dr. John R. Fish, president; Dr. William B. Allensworth, vice-president; and Dr. R.K. Reddy, secretary-treasurer.

The TMA Auxiliary has 8,500 members, all wives or husbands of physicians, Owen said. The Texas delegation of the American Medical Association Auxiliary is the country's largest. The national group has 80,000 members, she said.

The local TMA Auxiliary has been involved in community projects for the Rape Crisis Center, the Big Spring State Hospital and Howard College. The Auxiliary also participates in the community health fair each Spring, distributes holiday baskets to the needy, and has an annual fund raiser to support a community project. Last year proceeds went to the Rainbow Project.

Officers for the local TMA Auxiliary are Jane Thomas, president; Gaye Cown, vice-president; Mary Joy Cowper, secretary; and Rosemary Mathews, treasurer.

Dear Abby

The saga of grammar misuse

DEAR ABBY: Here's another for your continuing saga of grammar misuse: The misuse of I, me and myself. One does not answer the question, "How are you?" with, "Fine — and yourself?" That's like asking, "How is yourself?" The answer would have to be, "Myself is fine!"

To elaborate further, making a statement such as "My mother had three children — John, James and myself" is also wrong. Remove John and James, and you've said, "My mother had myself," instead of the correct, "My mother had me." One must be mentioned earlier in the phrase to qualify for the use of a "self" word later in that phrase. Thank you!

JONA DENZ,
RADIO ANNOUNCER,
SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: Please resume your pet peeves in language abuses. My nomination for the most abusive misuse of the English language is the phrase "free gift." This is a redundancy because, by definition, a gift is something given without cost or obligation. Otherwise, it's not a gift.

How many times a day do advertisers promise us a "free gift?" The phrase is not only redundant, it's false, as when the "free gift is inside a box of breakfast cereal." If you want the gift, you must buy the cereal.

STEVE INGRAM,
PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: I'm delighted that you continue to pass along common errors in the use of words. Here's my contribution: The misplacement of the word "only."

The following four sentences contain the same words, but the placement of the word "only" gives each sentence a different meaning:

Only I can tell you how to make this trip.

I can only tell you how to make this trip.

I can tell you only how to make this trip.

I can tell you how to make this trip only.

GLEN B. SMEDLEY,
COLORADO

DEAR GLEN: I can tell you only that your letter was a "trip." But apropos misplaced "onlys," remember the old favorite: "I Only Have Eyes for You?"

Since the composer obviously meant "I have eyes for you and you only," the title should have been, "I Have Eyes for Only You."

To say, "I only have eyes for you" means, "All I can offer you are eyes," which would be a big disappointment for the loved one.

DEAR ABBY: Two words, "capitol" and "capital," are often confused. My fifth-grade teacher taught us that we should think of a government building with a dome on it as the capitol.

Every other kind is spelled with an "a" — capital letter, capital in referring to money, and, of course, there's capital punishment, which is what happened to you if you confused "capitol" and "capital" in that class.

STANFORD '62

DEAR ABBY: Between you and me, the most irritating mistake in grammar is "between you and I."

I have heard some very well-educated people make this mistake, and I mean schoolteachers, talk-show hosts, radio and TV announcers and clergymen.

Please print this to let people know that nothing is ever between you and I — it's between you and me.

OFF MY CHEST
IN LONG BEACH

DEAR ABBY: Please add "further" and "farther" to your language abuse column. Many people don't know there is a difference. Is there a simple rule to remember to prevent further confusion?

FLORIDA FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Yes. Use "farther" to denote distance in space, and "further" for everything else. (Any further questions?)

A scholarship to Howard College for every high school graduate in Howard County?

Scholarships go to help our own

An ambitious and important program is under way in the community. It seeks to offer the economic incentive of college to every graduate of Howard County schools. Any graduate, regardless of personal wealth, from Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma or Sands high schools would have an opportunity to begin higher education at Howard College.

The Howard County Graduates Scholarships Program, as it is called, would broaden the scope of college attendance by funding tuition and fees for all graduates.

For anyone inclined to help, there are 60 options available for sponsorship. They range from a one-semester scholarship given one time to a perpetual endowment of 10 scholarships under which only the interest would be used.

Limit on the scholarship money is $400, which would carry a student through the first year's tuition and fees. The money would go to graduating seniors without regard to income level, sex, race, color, religion, national origin or handicap.

Would-be philanthropists can get in on the action for as little as $400 or as much as $40,000. It's a novel idea, and an excellent way to strengthen quality of life while supporting local education.

Yes! Here's how you can help make it happen —

Think what it would mean to the quality of life in Howard County if every graduate could be assured the opportunity to begin a college education. The goal is to raise enough money to start the Howard County Graduates Scholarship Program this fall by awarding a scholarship to every Spring '86 graduate of Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan and Sands High Schools. This program has been endorsed by the Economic Development Council and the Industrial Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. There are 60 options available for sponsorship. Contact one of these volunteers and say you'll help!
