Shootings mar Easter holiday

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Three city men remain hospitalized with gunshot wounds sustained in three shooting incidents as Easter in Big Spring showed a violent side Sunday.

The most seriously wounded, Raymond Calderon, 40, of 1512 Harding St. was listed in stable condition in the intensive care unit of Odessa Medical Center with a 12-gauge shotgun wound to the face, a hospital spokeswoman said today.

Enrique Calderon, 32, of 501 Abrams St. was also in stable condition in intensive care at Malone-Hogan Hospital following surgery Sunday night, said a hospital spokeswoman. Calderon was hit in the upper right leg with a close-range blast from the same weapon, said police Sgt. Ray Meek.

The two men were shot at about 5:20 p.m. near the swimming pool at Comanche Trail Park by someone in a passing truck, Meek said.

Police arrested Pedro Cantu, 38, of 1206 Main St. in connection with the shooting. He remains in custody in city jail on bonds totaling $75,000 set by Municipal Court Judge Melvin Daratt. Daratt set a $50,000 bond on an attempted murder charge and $25,000 on aggravated assault.

Initial efforts to determine facts of the shooting were hampered as onlookers refused to talk to police, Meek said.

"We got out there and nobody would cooperate," he said. Nobody would tell us where the crime scene was or where the shooting took place. There were (thousands) of people and nobody saw a thing. We finally found one lady who saw what happened and she wouldn't give us a statement, wouldn't talk to us or nothing. Turned and walked off from us."

Cantu was apprehended at his home after someone identified him to police, Meek said. "One of the people who saw it gave us a name but wouldn't come forward and give us a statement," Meek said.

Cagney's demise mourned

NEW YORK (AP) — James Cagney, who rose from one of New York City's toughest neighborhoods to become one of Hollywood's most famous toughguys during his 50-year acting career, was "the classic American success story," President Reagan said following his friend's death.

Cagney, who won an Oscar for his 1942 portrayal of song-and-dance man George M. Cohan in "Yankee Doodle Dandy," died Sunday at age 86. He suffered from diabetes and had been in declining health.

His wife of 64 years, Billie, and his manager, Marge Zimmerman, were at his side when he died at his Dutchess County farm north of New York City, where he had been taken only last week after being released from a hospital.

"We were getting him ready for breakfast and he just closed his eyes and went to sleep," Mrs. Zimmerman said. "It's Easter and it's a good time if he had to go."

"Thank God I learned of James Cagney's death in church during Easter Mass because that is where I could help him the most," Frank Sinatra said from his Palm Springs home. "Death isn't even the right word to use, especially on Easter. Jim merely changed addresses from this life into the next."

Cagney retired in 1961 after appearing in 64 films, including "The Public Enemy," in 1931 and "The Roaring Twenties," in 1939. He returned to the screen in 1981 as the police commissioner in "Ragtime."

In addition to the Academy Award, Cagney won a citation from the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts in 1980 for career achievement and the Medal of Freedom, the government's highest civilian award, in 1984.

Despite his fame, Cagney despised fame.

Library offers amnesty

Howard County Library is offering amnesty this week to tardy book borrowers, librarian Judith Gray said this morning.

That means if you've got an overdue book out, you can return it between Tuesday and April 8 without paying a fine. The free period, however, does not extend to patrons who have previously turned in library materials, but have outstanding fines.

Gray also is asking library card holders to stop by the library to re-register their cards for the new automated circulation system the

Absentee vote ends tomorrow

Absentee voting ends Tuesday at 5 p.m. for the Saturday municipal, school board and college board elections.

To cast absentee votes in the Howard County Junior College District board of trustees race and the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees race, voters must come to the Howard County Clerk's office on the first floor of the courthouse.

County Clerk Margaret Ray said this morning that her office had received 309 votes in the school board race. There are seven candidates for three at-large trustee positions.

In the college board race, Ray said she has tallied 9 votes in District 1, which has two candidates, and 85 votes in District 2, which is uncontested.

Officials won't rule out arms shipment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reagan administration officials aren't denying reports that sophisticated anti-aircraft weapons have been sent to U.S.-backed rebels in Angola and Afghanistan, but aren't confirming the reports either.

The Stinger heat-seeking missiles arrived in the countries last week, The Washington Post, quoting sources, said in Sunday's editions.

Michael Armacost, undersecretary of state for political affairs, said Sunday he would not comment "on those kinds of intelligence matters."

But Armacost, appearing on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," said administration policy was "to furnish support for indigenous sources of resistance to outposts of Soviet influence."

He added that "the means that are used — those are matters that have to be judged in each individual case." Pentagon spokesman Cdr. Bob Prucha said Sunday the Defense Department had no immediate comment on the report, but he left open the possibility that the Pentagon might issue a statement today.

An administration official told the Post the House and Senate intelligence oversight committees were notified of the Stinger decision late last week.

Administration officials have been debating for years whether shipments of such weapons would constitute a strategic escalation of U.S. involvement in Third World insurgencies fighting Soviet-backed governments, the Post said.

Up until now, the United States has resisted sending sophisticated U.S.-made weapons to the insurgent forces.

Fireworks to highlight state's independence day celebration

AUSTIN (AP) — When the state officially commemorates 150 years of independence on April 21 at the site where it was won — the San Jacinto Battleground — fireworks will explode simultaneously from the battleground and nine Texas cities.

Viewed from the heavens, the exploding fireworks will simulate a huge star across the Lone Star State, according to the Parks and Wildlife Department, which is sponsoring the "Texas 150 Celebration."

It is estimated that more than eight million Texans will be able to see the fireworks shows from the San Jacinto State Historical Park, Austin, Corpus Christi, Waco, Dallas, Lubbock, El Paso, Longview, Beaumont and Brownsville.

The fireworks show "is unquestionably the largest and most extensive ever attempted anywhere," said Gary Caimano of Pryo-Spectaculars of Rialto, Calif. The program is being financed by Anheuser-Busch.

More than 12,000 rockets will be set off over Texas skies on April 21. The largest shells weigh 50 pounds and will burst as high as 1,000 feet.

The fireworks will be choreographed to patriotic music broadcast on radio stations in each of the cities.

The display will last 18 minutes — the length of time it took the Texas Army to defeat Mexican troops at San Jacinto on April 21, 1836.

Although local Sesquicentennial events are being held throughout the year, activities at the 756-acre park are scheduled for April 20-21. About 75,000 people are expected each day. Vice President George Bush has been invited to do a "patriotic reading," and Texas Gov. Mark White will give an account of the Battle of San Jacinto.

There will be seven stages with Texas music and dance; exhibits; ethnic and regional foods; a children's pavilion; and visits to the 570-foot high San Jacinto Monument, the Battleship Texas, which is berthed adjacent to the park, and the sailing ship Elissa.

Special ceremonies include a service to honor black heroes of the Texas Revolution, with a single rose "placed commemorating the contributions of each of 20 black men who served Texas' cause in 1836," according to the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Names in the news

The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Two months after cartoonist Berke Breathed broke his back in a flying accident, his comic strip "Bloom County" is returning to the nation's daily comic pages.

Breathed says in an article in today's Washington Post that he's feeling fine and has gotten lots of get-well wishes from "people I regularly ridicule" in the strip.

"I've got three pounds of steel rods in my back, which makes airport metal detectors go bananas. Sometimes I'll wear an "I love Khadafy" button," Breathed told his "interviewer," the Bloom County cartoon character Opus.

The 28-year-old cartoonist also announced that he plans to get married in May to a "wonderful large-footed photographer named Jody," adding: "Maria Shriver proposed last year, but always one to buck a trend, I turned her down."

The Sunday "Bloom County" strip is to return on April 20, Breathed said. Most papers that carry the strip have been rerunning old ones.

NEW YORK — Sen. Gary Hart, following in the footsteps of House Speaker Tip O'Neill, is to make a cameo appearance on the television show "Cheers."

Hart, a Democrat from Colorado and former presidential contender, will play himself in the television barroom in May, he told Time magazine.

EDWIN MEESE
...medal causes flap

"It helps my reputation. It'll probably ruin the show's," Hart told the magazine.

LOS ANGELES — Entertainer Rudy Vallee remained hospitalized at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center while recovering from surgery two weeks ago, a hospital spokesman said.

"He showed some improvement last week, but he still hasn't been moved to a private room," spokesman Ron Wise said Sunday, adding that the 85-year-old Vallee remains in stable but guarded condition.

Wise didn't know if the singer received any special visitors, flowers or telegrams to commemorate Easter Sunday. Because Vallee is in intensive care he cannot receive flowers or participate in any chapel services, Wise said.

Vallee, who rose to fame as a band leader in the late 1920s, is often remembered for crooning "Vagabond Lover," "The Whiffenpoof Song" and the "Maine Stein Song" through a megaphone and for his trademark salute, "Heigh-Ho!"

Vallee's wife has requested that no details about his condition be released, but Daily Variety columnnist Army Archerd reported that Vallee underwent throat surgery two weeks ago.

Wise said recovery is going slowly because of the entertainer's age.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The award of a medal to Attorney General Edwin Meese has raised a flap at Harvard University about whether it is a favor for his services or an "honorary medal for distinguished public service," as the school originally called it.

The award to Meese, from the John F. Kennedy School of Government, has been criticized by some professors and Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass.

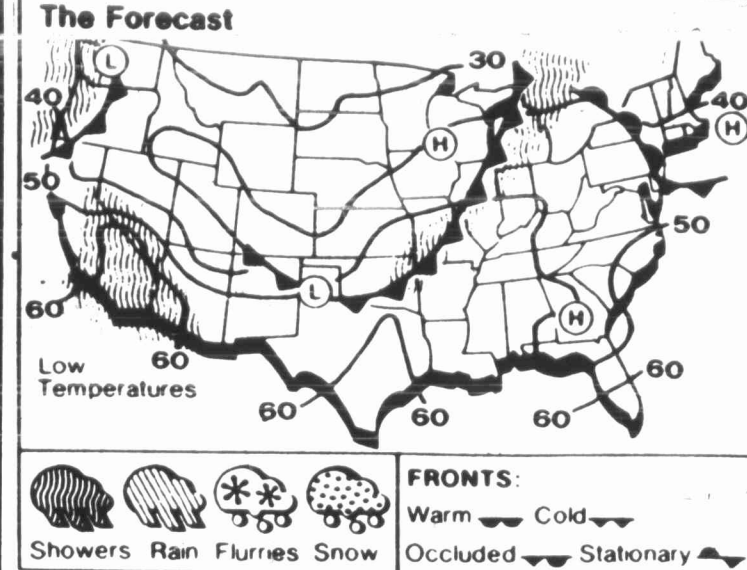

Kennedy School spokeswoman Naomi Chase said Sunday that she considered the award to Meese a "a nicer party favor" because he has agreed to speak April 9 at the government school's 50th anniversary celebration.

NEW YORK — Mikhail Baryshnikov took a break from the American Ballet Theater's six-city tour to do some dancing with whales.

At San Diego's Sea World aquatic park, he donned a wet suit and jumped into a tank with two 900-pound Pacific whales, fed them some fish and did a ballet routine of sorts with them, Time magazine reported.

Baryshnikov, a supporter of the Save the Whales Campaign, said after last week's plunge, "They're so powerful, yet so gentle."

Weather

Forecast

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy and warm except turning a little cooler in the Panhandle on Tuesday. Isolated thunderstorms panhandle late tonight becoming more numerous most sections Tuesday afternoon. Lows tonight upper 40s pan-handle to upper 50s Concho Valley. Highs Tuesday lower 70s in the Panhandle to the mid 80s in the Concho Valley and lower 90s in the Big Bend valleys.

State

Skies were mostly clear over Texas today, although a small band of showers and thunderstorms stretched from southern Oklahoma across the Red River into extreme North Texas.

South to southeast winds were common across most of the state at speeds generally in the 5 to 15 mph range, although higher winds were reported at a few places in North Central Texas and the Edwards Plateau.

Early morning temperatures were in the 50s and 60s, with readings overnight ranging from 51 at Amarillo to 69 at Corpus Christi.

The National Weather Service said chances would increase for isolated thunderstorms in the Panhandle late tonight, becoming more numerous over the western half of the state by Tuesday.

Otherwise, the weather service called for skies mostly fair to partly cloudy through Tuesday.

Rain was scattered across the Rockies, southwest Plains and the southern Florida Coast today as temperatures rose in New England.

Mariah to perform

Mariah, the award-winning color guard from Big Spring, will perform a dress rehearsal open to the public tonight at 7 p.m. at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The color guard won the state championship March 22 in Houston and departs April 4 for national finals in Dayton, Ohio. Among the performers are, from left, Rachel Tedesco, Glenn Mellinger and Robin Butler.

Sheriff's Log

Gasoline theft reported

Charlene Holsenbeck told Howard County sheriff's deputies Saturday night that at 8:55 p.m. a man left the Fina Truck Stop station on Interstate 20 without paying for $10 worth of gasoline he had purchased.

● Francel Adams of Galan Adams' residence on Highway 350 across from Mt. Olive cemetery told sheriff's deputies around 11 p.m. Saturday night a new videocassette recorder was missing from the residence since 4 p.m. Deputies are still investigating.

● Deputies released Ricardo Uranga, 26, of 706 Douglas from county jail Sunday morning after he served two days for a driving while intoxicated judgment he recently received.

Police Beat

$1,500 lost in burglary

Emma Leeson of 806 Pine St. told police Sunday night that someone stole a $300 engagement and wedding ring set and $1,200 in cash from a dresser drawer at her home between 4:16 p.m. and 8:20 p.m.

● Allen Dean Auant of the Kwickie food store, 510 N. Lamesa Highway, told police Saturday night that a young man came into the store Saturday night and tried to pass a forged $15 check.

A juvenile was arrested in connection with the incident.

● Valentine Lopez Quintana, 30, of 1506 Robin St. was arrested at the county fair barns late Sunday night on suspicion of assault on a police officer.

An off-duty officer told police Sunday night that he told a man who had been drinking to go home with a responsible adult. At that point the man became belligerent and struck the officer in the left side of the face, according to police.

● Everett Bender, owner of Miss Royale, 1508 S. Gregg St., told police early this morning that someone caused $150 damage to a plate glass window and damage to a door at the business shortly after 2:30 this morning. Nothing was taken in the break-in, according to police.

Shootings

"It just so happened we had traffic warrants on him and an officer went to his house. He came out of the house ... We warned him of his rights and talked to him and he gave us a verbal statement."

Meek said Cantu told police he was "in the park riding by the swimming pool and these two guys were hollering at him telling him to get out of the car. He drove off and he went around the swimming pool and came back and one of them, at this time I don't know which one, had a tire tool. He came at his car and was yelling at him to get out and he (Cantu) pulled a 12-gauge shotgun and shot both of them."

Meek said Cantu is "more or less claiming self defense."

The huge size of the Easter crowd stymied efforts by authorities to remove the victims from the park, Meek said.

"We couldn't get through the traffic out there. I couldn't get through in my unmarked car and the ambulance couldn't get through. The police officers had a heck of a time getting through the crowd. The traffic was backed up, nobody was moving, nobody was getting out of the way." The two men were finally taken to Malone-Hogan in private vehicles, Meek said. Raymon Calderon was later transferred to Odessa.

In another shooting Sunday, Miles Ray Anguiano, 20, of 1511 Bluebird Ave. was hit in the abdomen by a small caliber bullet as he was jogging down the street shortly after 8 p.m., Meek said.

A hospital spokeswoman listed him in stable condition in intensive care at Malone-Hogan this morning following surgery Sunday night.

Anguiano, who also goes by the name Miles Ray Diehl, told police he was shot at the intersection of Farm Road 700 and Cedar Road by someone in a passing vehicle.

"He said he was jogging and a vehicle was coming the other way and as it got to him he heard a bang and he felt something hit him," Meek said.

However, Detective Bill King said a witness to the shooting told police he heard gun shots at the 800 block of W. 17th Street.

Anguiano was found by police at the home of the man who reported the shooting, David Hildebrand, 805 W. 17th St., according to police.

Meek and King said Sunday night they did not know if the shootings of the Calderons and Angiano were related. They also said they knew of no link between the shootings Sunday and the murder last Saturday of 23-year-old Albert Gonzales Jr.

But police said a link has been established in still another shooting incident Sunday night at 1407 Young St. between 6 and 7 p.m. in which shots were fired at the house but nobody was injured.

King said no suspects were named in the statement taken from a 12-year-old who was in the yard at the time, but a woman at the police station who identified herself as Ramona Edmondson, Pedro Cantu's sister, said her nephew was shot at by a relative of the Calderons. The shots were fired from a handgun by someone in a passing truck, police said.

Edmondson said she thought some bad blood existed between the Calderons and Cantu that "runs back a little ways."

When asked if the incident appears related to the shootings at the park earlier, King said, "That's what I've been told, yes."

Absentee

To cast absentee votes in Big Spring's City Council, District 2 and the mayoral race, voters must report to City Secretary Tom Ferguson's office on the first floor of City Hall.

Ferguson said this morning his office had received 234 votes in the city election races. Voters will select from among two candidates for mayor, and from among three for the council seat.

According to stipulations defined by the Texas Code of Elections, those who qualify as absentee voters are persons who are over 65; are incarcerated in jail; have a physical handicap; have a religious reason; or will be out of the county the day of the election.

Accident injures woman, 85

An 85-year-old Big Spring woman was injured Sunday night in a two-car accident in the 1000 block of South Goliad St.

Ellella Helm of Golden Plains Nursing Home was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital where she was treated and released, said a hospital spokeswoman.

She was a passenger in a car driven by 60-year-old Agnes White of 2507 Cindy Lane. The driver of the other car was Manuel Rodriguez of Ago, Mexico.

According to police, White's car was stopped for a red light while the car driven by Rodriguez was approaching from behind. When the light turned green, Rodriguez accelerated and hit the rear of White's car, according to the accident report.

Rodriguez was arrested at the scene for driving while intoxicated. He was also cited for failing to maintain financial responsibility and failure to stop and identify himself.

The riders in White's vehicle were wearing seatbelts; Rodriguez was not, according to police. Rodriguez received no visible injury, police reported.

18 blood donors make 'club'

Eighteen people were inducted recently into the Quiet Heroes, an organization of hospital and clinic employees who have given a minimum of a gallon of blood at drives at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

The club has 93 members, some accounting for as much as 15 gallons each, according to a press release. The sixteen inducted Thursday were given Quiet Heroes mugs.

Deaths

"Coy" Thomas

Services for Ples McCoy "Coy" Thomas, 85, of 2300 Merryly Drive, are pending at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

He died Sunday morning at his home. Justice of the Peace China Long ruled that Thomas died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the chest. A 38-caliber revolver was found next to the body, police said.

Thomas' body was discovered at about 9:30 a.m. by a neighbor who had gone to his home to check on him, police said.

Austerity hits Falwell

LYNCHBURG, Va. — The Rev. Jerry Falwell says construction projects at his university caused financial problems that will force the layoff of about 225 employees from his ministries.

The layoffs are part of an austerity move that includes plans to drop his toll-free telephone lines, increase fees at Liberty University and cut scholarships.

Falwell, founder of the Moral Majority, said the cuts are in response to $14 million in construction over the past two years at Liberty University.

While the changes will save millions of dollars, Falwell said he isn't trying to cut a specific amount. "We're just looking at the ministry to see what we can do," he said.

Marcos comes to open

HONOLULU — Ferdinand Marcos, greeting about 1,000 wellwishers on his first venture into public since he fled Manila, said he has not resigned as president of the Philippines and described the government of Corason Aquino as "dictatorship, pure and simple."

Marcos and his wife, Imelda, faced reporters as they mingled with supporters outside the Phil-American travel agency, which is owned by a supporter.

Earlier, the Marcoses and about 100 guests attended Easter Mass at the couple's rented $1.5 million beachfront home, where a small group of demonstrators outside encouraged passing cars to honk in protest.

Shultz wants diplomacy

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George P. Shultz has notified the Soviet Union that only private diplomacy — not public proposals for summit meetings — will break the stalemate in U.S.-Soviet arms control talks.

"Until that happens, we're not going to get anywhere," Shultz said after the administration rejected a proposal by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev to meet with President Reagan in Europe and negotiate a ban on all nuclear weapons tests.

As he returned home Sunday from a 10-day trip to France, Turkey, Greece and Italy, Shultz complained that U.S. and Soviet proposals on weapons reductions had been aired publicly.

Crash kills two pilots

DEL RIO — An Air Force pilot instructor and a student pilot scheduled to earn his wings this Friday were killed, along with two women companions, when the single-engine airplane they had rented crashed into a hillside and fell into Lake Amistad just northwest of this border town.

The cause of the Sunday afternoon crash was unknown, but witnesses reported seeing the Cessna 172 Skyhawk flying very low over the lake less than a half hour before it went down, the Val Verde County Sheriff's Office said.

Firemen pour water into the roof of Hampton Court Palace Monday, when fire raced through several floors of the 16th century building, 12 miles from central London. Three people were reported missing as more than 75 firefighters tackled the blaze.

London fire

Priceless royal art treasures damaged

LONDON (AP) — Fire raced today through part of Hampton Court Palace, a sprawling residence of kings and queens dating from the reign of Henry VIII, and officials said priceless art treasures received "considerable damage."

Authorities were looking for one person who was reported missing.

Flames poured through the roof of the 16th century palace, one of Britain's most popular tourist attractions, and smoke was visible miles away. The palace is located on the banks of the River Thames 12 miles from the heart London.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said the fire was "raging quite fiercely" in parts of the Tudor palace more than three hours after it began shortly before 6 a.m.

"There is still a great deal of smoke and a flickering of flames, but it certainly does not now seem to be spreading," said the police spokesman, who by tradition spoke on condition he not be identified.

The Fire Brigade initially said three people were missing but later reported that only one was still unaccounted for.

London Fire Brigade spokesman Brian Clark said: "Some art pieces were salvaged at the start of the fire, but there is damage to others. We don't know how much, but considerable damage."

More than 100 firemen were fighting the fire, which seriously damaged the south wing, and were searching for the missing person, said Clark.

Hampton Court is owned by Queen Elizabeth II and contains 1,000 apartments, many offered at low rent to court retainers and retired civil servants. The palace also houses a historic royal collection of paintings, tapestries and furniture.

It is occasionally used for official state receptions, including one given Mikhail S. Gorbachev, now the Soviet leader, when he visited London in November 1984.

Gerry Clarkson, deputy chief of the London Fire Brigade, said many of the palace's art treasures had been rescued in an emergency operation carried out by fire officials and palace staff.

He said firefighting was difficult because the roof of the palace's south wing had collapsed and floors had been so badly burned that they were unsafe.

Security tightened

LONDON — Libya's call for attacks on Americans following the armed conflict in the Gulf of Sidra has prompted an increase in security at airports in Paris and Zurich.

In other major European cities, precautions remain at already high levels in the aftermath of the Dec. 27 terrorist attacks at the Rome and Vienna airports in which 20 people, including five Americans, died.

The Italian news agency ANSA said security was increased on the perimeter of the Comiso base in Sicily, where U.S.-made cruise nuclear missiles are deployed under a NATO agreement.

Ortega justifies attacks

WASHINGTON — Nicaragua President Daniel Ortega justified last week's government attacks against rebel bases across the Honduran-Nicaraguan border as "totally defensive operations" in response to rebel forces from Honduran sanctuaries.

Ortega also reiterated his government's willingness to negotiate with the United States, but refused to say whether his government would meet American demands to negotiate with the U.S.-backed rebels.

"We want a dialogue with the Contras, with the chief of the Contras, which is President Reagan," Ortega said.

Four bodies recovered

VALEMOUNT, British Columbia — Searchers using metal detectors and dogs recovered the bodies of four people killed in an avalanche that dumped as much as 33 feet of snow on their snowmobile party.

The victims were from two families who came from the oil town of Drayton Valley, Alberta, to join about 300 people from Alberta and British Columbia in the weekend snowmobile rally along an alpine valley trail in the Cariboo Mountains.

Quintuplets doing well

LONDON — Five tiny boys believed to be the world's first test-tube quintuplets were in stable condition today, linked to respirators to help their immature lungs work, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The quintuplets, delivered on Wednesday by Caesarian section, were in intensive care at University College Hospital after being born 10 weeks premature.

Khadafy brings changes

TRIPOLI, Libya — Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy has launched a bureaucratic shake-up that apparently gives his top deputy more power, including exclusive authority over the security police.

The changes reduced the number of ministries by half and have been portrayed in Libya as administrative steps designed to save money. Diplomats say the shake-up has increased the personal prestige of Khadafy's top deputy, Abdel-Salam Jalloud.

California earthquake third in the region in as many days

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — A strong earthquake early today rocked skyscrapers in the San Francisco Bay area, knocked down power lines and roused tens of thousands of people from their sleep. Three minor injuries were reported.

The earthquake, the third in the region in three days, struck at 3:56 a.m. and had a magnitude of 5.3 on the Richter scale, said Willis Jacobs of the U.S. Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo. The state Office of Emergency Services estimated it at 5.6, meaning it was capable of considerable damage.

It was centered 10 miles east of Fremont, or about 45 miles southeast of San Francisco, Jacobs said.

Three aftershocks, with estimated magnitudes of 3.6, 3.7 and 3.8, followed within minutes of the initial jolt, said Tom Mullins, spokesman for the state emergency office.

The quake was felt as far north as Santa Rosa and as far south as San Luis Obispo, a range of about 350 miles, and to the east as far as Stockton, about 60 miles east of San Francisco.

Alexian Brothers Hospital in San Jose reported three minor injuries. The victims, who suffered cuts or were hit by objects falling in their homes, were released after treatment.

There was no report of serious damage.

Police switchboards were jammed with calls from people awakened by the temblor.

"I've lived here all my life, and this one scared me," said Gary Edwards, a resident of Walnut Creek, about 20 miles north of the epicenter. He said dishes rolled off the shelf.

"It woke me up and sloshed the water in my swimming pool," said Jim Hushaw, managing editor of the Stockton Record.

Several power outages were reported in the southern San Francisco Bay area, where the quake knocked out transformers and downed a 21,000-volt power line, police and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. officials reported. Police said the temblor also set off burglar alarms throughout the Bay area.

Utility Chuck Peterson said the downed power line, in Fremont, cut service to 18,000 customers until 4:47 a.m. He said there were several other local outages caused by falling lines and transformer problems.

At least 2,010 people were killed in the 1906 earthquake, according to San Francisco archivist Gladys Hansen.

Life in Chicago is out of this world

For those of us born and raised south of the Mason-Dixon line, life in the North country is a continuing education. The experience is something like that of Margaret Mead in Samoa, residing among a people who practice curious folkways, speak an unintelligible language and heed an unfamiliar political ideology. To survive, we are forced to become amateur anthropologists, endlessly striving to make sense of an alien culture.

This is not easy. In my native Texas, like the other states of the old Confederacy, courtesy and friendliness are not only esteemed but expected. Southerners arriving in Chicago get a shock when they find that the daily routine features endless affronts of the sort that, in a Dallas courtroom, would be treated as grounds for justifiable homicide. It's easy to spot expatriate Southerners: look for people grinding their teeth.

I once thought most Chicagoans were rude. In fact, I once wrote a column disparaging the general lack of courtesy here, earning me torrents of abuse that validated my thesis. But further study has convinced me I was badly mistaken.

Far from being the inconsiderate bores they generally appear to be, Chicagoans are exquisitely polite. In some cultures, people signify agreement by shaking their heads instead of nodding — the opposite of what most of us are used to. Similarly, Chicagoans show their consideration for others in ways that can be misinterpreted by outsiders.

Consider the case of a Texan who, passing a native Chicagoan in a hallway at work, smiles and says hello. The Chicagoan will keep eyes forward, maintain a grim expression and say nothing.

Now, in Texas, such a response would be regarded as unfriendly and probably hostile. But Chicagoans have been taught that it is rude to return a friendly greeting. They regard a response as an imposition on the patience of the greeter.

By refusing to say hello in return, they demonstrate their respect. Their demeanor means: "I am honored to be addressed by someone of your station. But I am not worthy of notice. Please do not bother yourself by acknowledging my existence."

Other gestures whose intent is equally thoughtful can likewise be misread by the uninitiated. Anyone standing in line for a bus, for instance, will find himself endlessly jostled and pushed.

I used to assume that the people doing the shoving were impatient jerks trying to get in ahead of me. How wrong I was. This sort of conduct is actually meant as an expression of concern.

To cope with a cold climate, Chicagoans have learned to huddle together to keep warm. If they see someone standing slightly apart from his fellows, they quickly snuggle up to him lest he get chilled. By elbowing his ribs and stomping on his toes, they stimulate his circulation, thus warding off frostbite.

Another example: If you go to see a movie here, you will find yourself surrounded by people who insist on chattering incessantly. It is a mistake, though, to resent this behavior.

These people are actually looking out for your welfare. They fear that you may not understand the film, that you may be unacquainted with the off-screen exploits of the stars, that you may not anticipate the ending. So, ignoring their own comfort, they labor to supply you with a continuing stream of information on these topics. Some of your fellow moviegoers are nicer still. They bring along dinner so that, if you get bored with the movie, you can watch them eat.

Once an outsider like me comes to understand the nuances of Chicago behavior, life becomes much more pleasant. Why, as I was driving down the expressway the other day, a truck driver pulled up behind me, drew his rig up just a few feet from my rear bumper and, when I moved over to let him pass, brandished his middle finger at me.

A lot of my fellow Southerners would have taken that the wrong way. I know the guy was only signaling, in the inimitable Chicago fashion, that he'd like to get to know me better. It really made my day.

There's still way to spare taxpayers from Stealth

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Groaning and grimacing over the budget like a professional wrestler on camera, Congress is about to cry "Uncle!" to the Pentagon and approve the Air Force's crackbrained, $80 billion new toy: the Stealth bomber.

We've already reported Stealth's long list of deficiencies, including the most serious flaw of all: the acknowledged fact that the bomber, supposedly invisible to radar, won't be able to fool the old-fashioned radars the Soviet Union still has deployed.

Now we've unearthed an 8-year-old Pentagon study, still classified Secret, which shows that a souped-up commercial jetliner, with refinements, could do a better job than Stealth at a fraction of the cost. Yet this possibility isn't even being considered.

With its customary rigidity, the Defense Department, from Secretary Caspar Weinberger on down, is insisting that it must have its planned 132 Stealth bombers. Here's why this program is such a particularly wasteful and wooden-headed boondoggle:

Unlike the B-1 bomber, which was designed for use in either nuclear or conventional warfare, Stealth will be treated like the crown jewels. Sources told our associate Donald Goldberg that Stealth is to be used strictly as a second-strike weapon — that is, after an exchange of missiles.

The super-secret bomber will be rolled out of the hangar only after the nuclear holocaust has already begun. It can't be used before then because it's too expensive to lose and for fear that merely flying it will give away its design secrets.

Never mind that the invisibility to radar would hardly be necessary in the confusion and conflagration that follow a nuclear missile attack. Overlook the fact that even in peacetime, with nothing better to do, the Soviet air defense in 1983 took two hours to locate and shoot down the unarmed Korean Air Lines plane that had been wandering around in Soviet air space. Ignore the possibility that the KGB will find at least one vulnerable employee among the 30,000 who'll be working on the Stealth bomber, and be able to buy its secrets long before D-Day.

Why does the Air Force insist on the Stealth bomber, then? It's hard to escape the confusion that the ex-pilots who run the Air Force are still hypnotized by the glamor of manned aircraft. Even under this Dr. Strangelove spell, there are few who will argue that a cruise missile with a small radar signature is an infinitely better penetrator than a slow-flying plane (which the Stealth must be to make its supposed invisibility work at all).

What the Pentagon should be buying is a simple plane that is hardened against some of the byproducts of a nuclear exchange — like electromagnetic pulse — and can get up fast enough to be safe in the air, where it could drop air-launched cruise missiles to devastate the Soviet Union. A plane like that would be a credible deterrent; Stealth is not.

The still-secret Pentagon study found just the plane that could do the job. The CMCA, or "cruise-missile-carrying aircraft," could be a Boeing 747 or a Lockheed L-1011 simply redesigned to meet the Pentagon's second-strike requirements. But no one in the military-industrial complex will lobby for this simple solution, which would produce few profits or promotions.

EYE ON THE ECONOMY: Government economists are studying international currency fluctuations with more than usual interest. They're looking for signs that panicky OPEC countries are withdrawing their deposits from American banks to generate the cash they need. With their oil revenues plummeting so drastically, the oil-producing countries may have to tap into their dollar reserves. If investors around the world become spooked by the specter of a worldwide depression tied to oil's downfall and begin shifting to cash and precious metals, interest rates and inflation will soar as the dollar's value falls.

PRESSING PRESSER: The President's Commission on Organized Crime has had no luck at all trying to squeeze information out of Teamsters union President Jackie Presser. According to a crime commission draft report, Presser has been deposed twice, but he took the Fifth Amendment more than 250 times. One question he refused to answer on grounds that it might tend to incriminate him: "Are you the general president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters?"

MINI-EDITORIAL: Former Education Secretary Terrel Bell's stock has always been high with us, but right now it's soaring. In the current issue of Phi Delta Kappan magazine, he lambastes the fanatical but mercifully minuscule faction of right-wingers who, he says, tried to impose "radical and off-the-wall ideas" on his department. Ultimately, he says, the zealots wanted to eliminate the public school system altogether. Terrel Bell is a conservative Republican, and it probably pained him to take on those who are on the same side of the political fence. We applaud his courage and common sense.

Around The Rim What's in a new name?

By SPENCER SANDOW

People in West Texas are more isolated from the rest of the world than those in Dallas, where I grew up. The point is brought home to me a dozen times a week, when I meet someone new or leave my name for a phone message.

"Your name is what? Spencer? Is that your last name?" The other party will invariably ask. They are always curious "where I got the name" or if it's my husband's or a family name. It isn't.

In Dallas, perhaps one of ten people would ask — there it is more common to have an unusual name. But in Big Spring, it's virtually unheard-of.

For the record, Spencer is my nickname. I chose it myself when I became aware that Laurie, the name my parents gave me, was so common there were always five other people named that everywhere I went. It was too anonymous.

I thought about having it legally changed, until I learned court costs alone came to $85, not counting lawyer's and other fees. Maybe someday, when I'm rich and famous...

Changing your name can change a lot more about your life than what people call you. It changes the way people respond to you and the way you respond to them. "Spencer" tends to be treated and respected as an adult, while "Laurie" is often regarded as little more than a child. I have heard others say the same after they changed their names.

The move was not without opposition, though. My best friend didn't like my new name because it was different than what she was used to. My father and grandfather didn't like it because they believe a woman shouldn't have "a boy's name."

But I kept my new name because I like it and I like the way it's changed my life. Moving to a new environment and being introduced to new people who weren't used to calling me by my old name helped the change take root.

Sometimes it is a good thing for a person to choose her own name. A name is a very personal thing; it's who you are. People choose less personal things for themselves, like clothing. Why always let someone else choose your name?

Faction fights feed crime in Beirut

By ED BLANCHE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Along with constant factional fighting, the people of west Beirut also live with virtually unchecked crime.

A large part of it is traced to Lebanese who normally would never have thought of becoming muggers, car thieves or bank robbers.

In one recent example, a young gunman held up a middle-aged woman in an elevator. The woman related later that she handed over her purse with about 5,000 Lebanese pounds ($205).

The gunman peeled off 2,000 pounds and handed the rest of the money back.

"I only need this," the woman quoted him as saying. "I've got medicine to buy and I don't have the money."

Dozens of people in west Beirut, the Moslem sector, are robbed daily or have their cars stolen and the police are powerless to stop it. One reason is that many robbers and thieves are attached to militias that rule west Beirut.

The sector's wave of lawlessness is attributed to the collapse of state authority, an erosion of social values and a crumbling economy that has driven many Beirutis to crime.

Samir Ghanoum, an interior decorating student at Beirut University College, was one of four students charged with holding up five banks, six shops and two restaurants in west Beirut.

Police estimated they stole 1.5 million

Lebanese pounds ($70,000) before they were caught trying to hold up the Pakistani Bank.

Ghanoum told at a news conference arranged by the police after the capture: "I got into this because I desperately needed money. I'm married. My sister has four children. Her husband isn't around and I have to support her family and my elderly parents."

"It was good to have money. We spent some and then put the rest in the bank and quit school."

Police said Ghanoum, 22, and his companions were armed with silencer-equipped pistols, Soviet-made AK-47 assault rifles, pump-action shotguns and hand grenades.

A detective who worked on the case said: "Youngsters are turning to crime because they believe that in the lawlessness and chaos in west Beirut the police can't function. They believe they can get away with it, and generally do."

The only effective control in west Beirut are the various militias and the so-called security forces they tolerate as the only symbol of authority.

Across the Green Line that divides Beirut into rival Christian and Moslem territories, the Christians are also ruled by militias, but the army and police still have some authority there.

Lebanon's prisons long ago ceased to function. Militiamen have emptied them three times over, freeing friends and relatives or usually just letting everyone out.

More than 5,000 convicted murderers, rapists, gunmen and thieves have been freed in that way since civil war began 1975, when Lebanon's hostilities began. Most of the 27 prisons now are either occupied by refugees or used by the militias.

Lebanon's judicial system also has virtually collapsed in the civil war. Courts have been idle for years. Most offenders, including shopkeepers accused of overcharging, are tried by militia tribunals and their justice often is stiff.

Last May, Soviet-made Grad rockets hit the central law courts in the Palais de Justice in east Beirut, starting a fire that destroyed all legal records.

Amin Nassar, president of the Higher Judicial Council, said the loss of the records, including police files on criminal trials, was "the greatest disaster in Lebanon since the eruption of the civil war."

Drugs are increasingly a factor in the lawlessness. Lebanon, one of the world's major sources of hashish and marijuana, for the first time has a thriving domestic market as youngsters who have grown up amid the bloodletting turn to drugs, police say.

The chaos of the war also has brought lesser forms of illegality.

Taxes go unpaid. The poor steal electricity by hooking into overhead power cables. And drivers tear up parking tickets as traffic police officers watch helplessly.

Cut food costs

More Texans are now feeling the effects of the depressed economy with unemployment hitting record highs in some areas. Everyone is looking for ways to cut living expenses out of a necessity.

For most families it may seem hard to cut back on food since our need for it doesn't stop just because there is less money coming into the family budget. But you can have nutritious meals even if you have to make a severe cut in your food budget.

By taking the time to plan, cook "from scratch," and take advantage of food bargains, you can serve good food with less money than you think. Here are some suggestions for ways to cut food costs.

Start by making a list of what is already stored in your kitchen, freezer and pantry. Plan meals around these foods until you have more money coming in. Use these foods as a basis for planning the other foods you will need to buy. This can help you keep new purchases to a minimum.

Decide how much money you can spend on food each week. Plan daily menus, including snacks for a week ahead so that you can see what you will need to buy. Also plan meals around plentiful and less expensive seasonal produce, either from your own garden, local truck farms or the store.

Make a shopping list. This will keep you from forgetting the things you need, and help you resist buying things you don't need. Place a shopping list in your kitchen to write down foods as you run out, and check your week's menus for the foods you need to put on the list.

Go shopping as few times as possible. Frequent trips can add to your monthly bill since it is easy to buy extra items. Don't go shopping if you are hungry or in a hurry, because it makes it harder to stick to your list. Also, leave the children at home if possible. It is harder to say "no" to your children's favorite foods if they are shopping with you.

Use the unit pricing tags on the grocery shelves to find the cost per unit, such as the price per ounce. This can help you find the least expensive brands, and compare the actual cost of different-sized packages. Try store brands or generic foods which are usually less expensive than brand name purchases.

You can save money by avoiding single serving snack packages which usually cost more than larger packages and convenience foods such as frozen pizza or frozen vegetables in sauce. You can also prepare nutritious snacks at home instead of buying expensive items which may have little nutrition. And turn leftovers into "planned overs" by storing cooked foods properly to make them last longer.

Take a close look at spending habits. Our high expectations and lifestyles revolving around convenience have not been free. Cutting food costs is something that all of us — employed and unemployed — can accomplish by simplifying our shopping and cooking.

Planning Low-Cost, High-Protein Main Dishes
Protein foods add important nutrients to our diets. So even if you're trying to save money, you'll want to keep these foods in your diet.

But there are some things you can do to plan low-cost protein main dishes:

- Use more low-cost protein foods, such as dry beans, eggs, peanut butter, turkey and chicken. Hamburger and liver are good buys in red meats.
- Include meat combined with other foods so it goes further.
- Serve eggs as a main dish.

For your garden

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Groundcover: Plants substitute lawn grasses

Although grass is generally regarded as the most desirable groundcover for the home landscape, there are situations where it may not be the most practical.

In steeply sloping or heavily shaded areas of the landscape where grass will not grow well, other methods of covering the soil must frequently be selected. Dwight Hall, landscape horticulturist says one of the most satisfactory methods is the use of groundcover plants.

Some of the more prominent uses of groundcovers in typical situations are to cover bare areas of ground, prevent erosion of the soil, give variety in the yard or garden, regulate foot traffic in the yard or garden when used as edging for pathways, and to unify unrelated shrubs and flowerbeds in the landscape.

In addition, groundcovers are frequently used under or around trees where grass grows poorly or where exposed tree roots make mowing a problem. Groundcover plants eliminate the need for mowing as well as concealing the exposed tree roots.

According to Hall, many possibilities for living groundcovers are now available locally. For shade or partial shade, Hall lists vinca, Algerian ivy, English ivy, monkey grass, liriope, ajuga, and hypericum. For sunny locations, he recommends Asiatic jasmine, monkey grass, creeping junipers, purple leaf honeysuckle, liriope, daylilies, santolina, sedum, dwarf yaupon, and dwarf nandina.

Proper soil preparation is needed before groundcover plants are planted. Dig the soil at least six inches deep. Rake thoroughly to remove grass roots. Spread two to three inches of organic material such as peat, well-rooted manure, or leaf mold over the ground and spade it into the soil.

On rocky or uneven soil where the entire area cannot be so worked, Hall advises digging individual holes. Dig these deep enough so you can back fill partially with the soil mixed with organic material before you set the plants.

Groundcover plantings will profit from a mulch such as pine needles or pine bark to hold the soil in place until the planting is established.

Groundcovers can be planted anytime during the growing season. Fall and spring plantings give best results if potted or canned plants are used. Keep the new planting well watered until it becomes established.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A new attitude brings you more of this world's goods from a confidential source, so follow it up and don't let a person who does not carry through keep you from attaining your goal.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get into the business world early and listen to what an expert has to suggest, and then follow this advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy and pursue your career without fear, and don't permit a pessimistic person to keep you from making progress.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you listen to the advice of a good friend who has your interests at heart, you can improve your life considerably.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Join a group of friends in some project that can be very profitable to you all. Use tact and all will go well for you.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) One in high position will take note of fine work you do today, and you could easily gain benefits. Take it easy tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can expand your horizons since the planets are favorable and you can add to present activities that are worthwhile.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't permit a partner to take up too much of your time, and then you can solve some family affair very easily.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go with an associate and a creative friend to a place where you can talk over an important project and get help.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to work harder if you want to make added money at your job, so don't let a playmate take all your time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to be more charming with new contacts if you want to make a project really successful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Have quiet talks with kin at home so that conditions there can be improved and more harmony established.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Join with partners and friends so that some practical aims can be reached. Find better ways of communicating with them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a born organizer and be very practical and thereby gain much success in life. Give as fine a business education as you can and stress banking and investments for best results. Add courses in psychology and ethics.

Texas ends perfect season with first NCAA title

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Jody Conradt believes her Texas Longhorns have set the standard by which future women's basketball teams will be measured.

Texas put the perfect ending on a perfect season Sunday, running past Southern California 97-81 in the NCAA women's basketball championship game. The Longhorns finished with a 34-0 record, the first team in the five-year history of the tourney to go through a season with a perfect mark.

"I don't think it can be topped," Conradt said of this year's accomplishment. "It's perfection. It is something we will strive for next season when we play our first game."

Texas already has a head start on a lot of teams next season because of brilliant freshman Clarissa Davis. The 6-foot-1 forward came off the bench to score 24 points and pull down 14 rebounds in leading the Longhorns over two-time champion Southern Cal.

"Our team has so many good people," said Davis, voted the tourney's outstanding player. "I just wanted to get into the game."

It proved to be an all-out team effort for the talent-rich Longhorns, whose bench outscored Southern Cal 58-4.

"Texas continued to bring in players, and bringing in fresh players helps," said Southern Cal Coach Linda Sharp, whose team finished 31-5. "We didn't get from our bench what Texas did from theirs."

Another Texas reserve, senior center Cara Priddy, ignited the Longhorns to the biggest point margin in a championship game.

After Southern Cal went ahead 30-29 on Cheryl Miller's two free

Texas players Annette Smith (15), Carla Priddy (44), and Paula Moegle (21) celebrate following their 97-81 win over the University of Southern California at the NCAA Women's Basketball Championship at Rupp Arena in Lexington, Kentucky Sunday afternoon. The top-ranked Lady Longhorns finished their season a spotless 34-0.

throws with 5:29 left in the half, Priddy completed a three-point play 17 seconds later to give Texas a 32-30 advantage, a lead it never relinquished.

The Longhorns scored seven more points, with Priddy tallying four, to go up 39-30 at 2:06. Miller broke Southern Cal's scoring drought with a 20-footer at 1:50.

"When you get to the national championships, you have to be ready to play," said Priddy, who also had five rebounds in 18 minutes of playing time. "I was happy she put me in. It's not degrading to sit the bench at Texas."

Texas, leading 45-35 at the half, hiked its lead to 51-37 on Davis' 10-footer in the lane with 17:56 left in the game. Southern Cal came back to within 70-61 on Cynthia Cooper's layup at 9:30, but after a Texas timeout, the Longhorns scored seven straight points and pulled away over the final minutes.

"We kept wanting to celebrate and celebrate too soon," Conradt said in explaining the timeout. "The only problem was that USC wasn't willing to join our victory celebration. I just wanted to bring us back to reality."

Miller, a four-time All-America, never got untracked in the game, eventually fouling out with 7:30 to go. She scored 16 points, hitting only two of 11 shots from the field and 12 of 13 free throws, grabbed six rebounds and handed out four assists.

"I was a little frustrated," Miller said, "but we were playing a great team. It wasn't one of my better games."

Texas made 40 of 68 shots for 58.8 percent and held a 42-32 edge in rebounding. Southern Cal hit 29 of 65 shots for 44.6 percent.

"We didn't shoot well and couldn't get into the rhythm of the game," Sharp said. "I knew the score would be fairly high."

Forward Fran Harris contributed 14 points, guard Beverly Williams had 13 and Wimbush added 10 for the Longhorns. All-America guard Kamie Ethridge handed out 10 assists in directing a splendid floor game.

Cooper topped Southern Cal with 27 points, tying Miller's championship game record set in 1983, while center Cherie Nelson had 13 and guard Rhonda Windham scored 12.

Duke, Cards set for title game

DALLAS (AP) — Four years ago, they were considered the best-recruited freshman basketball class, the kind on which national championships are built.

Tonight, all that stands in the way of Duke's destiny is Louisville.

The Blue Devils, ranked No. 1 in the nation and at 37-2 the winningest single-season college team ever, can fulfill the dream that Jay Bilas, Mark Alarie, Johnny Dawkins and David Henderson envisioned when they first set foot on the campus at Durham, N.C.

"We didn't make a sealed-blood pact to win a national championship. We felt that was something that didn't need to be said," Bilas, Duke's 6-foot-8 center, said.

There is, of course, the matter of Milt Wagner, of Jeff Hall, of Billy Thompson — of the Cardinals who, although ranked only seventh, are considered just about the equal of the Blue Devils.

"I think the public and the media believes Louisville is playing the best basketball in the country right now," Alarie said. "Their record (31-7) doesn't indicate that they've played the best basketball all year. Obviously ours is better, but they're on a roll as a team."

If the Blue Devils don't win it all, they'll be remembered as good but not great, "but even if we do win, people will still knock Duke. That's just the way it is," Alarie said. "We're not an intimidating team on paper. We don't have a 7-foot center. We don't block a lot of shots. We don't dunk a lot. People translate that into us being just a very lucky team."

"I think that lack of respect makes us play harder. Nobody likes to be bad-mouthed."

Because Duke doesn't have that one fearsome, in-your-face superstar (Dawkins is more finesse than power), the Blue Devils, for all their accomplishments, still are looked upon with less than awe.

"Everybody says they're not that good," Louisville Coach Denny Crum said. "I don't buy that. When we played the preseason (Big Apple) NIT in New York, I told everybody that there probably wouldn't be any better teams in the country than those four. Kansas beat us and Duke beat St. John's. Three of us were in the Final Four of the NCAA and the other one (St. John's) was a No. 1 regional selection."

"Duke's won 21 games in a row (to Louisville's streak of 17), they're ranked No. 1 in the nation and rightfully so. They do everything you'd want a basketball team to do, and they do it very well. ... People say they're not very big, but you go stand next to Alarie or Bilas and tell me they're not very big. They're MEN."

"Physically they're a lot bigger and stronger on their front line than we are," Crum went on. "Our guards are taller, but we don't have the strength and size inside that they have. And they have the great combination of great outside players, ballhandlers with quickness, as well as the strength on the inside."

The Blue Devils come in with the chance to be the first top-ranked team since North Carolina in 1982 to win the championship.

Mahaffey wins TPC after Mize demise

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) — The Tournament Players Championship was in Larry Mize's hands. It was his to win or lose. He lost it.

He lost it to veteran John Mahaffey, who needed only a final round of 71, one under par, to come from four strokes back and beat Mize by a shot Sunday in the annual championship of golf's touring pros.

Mize lost it on a final round of 76, including bogeys on four of the last five holes. The last of those was on the 18th, where a three-foot par putt missed and Mahaffey nailed a slightly shorter one for the winning par.

"Choke is a word a lot of us don't like. But, yeah, I guess I did," said Mize, who has an unhappy history of letting last-round leads slip away.

"They say that every time you get in this position, you gain something, you learn something. I don't know right now. I'm too disappointed to think about it," he said, his head down, his shoulders slumped, his wife beside him with tear-streaked face.

"I know just how Larry feels," Mahaffey said. "I've been in those shoes. And I can tell you it's no fun."

He knows very well. Mahaffey let the U.S. Open titles in 1975 and 1976 slip through his grasp. Those bitter disappointments sent his career — and his personal life — into a tailspin.

"I had started to lose everything I had. I was taking this game for granted. I realized that if I wanted to be competitive, I had to turn my life around. I did."

"I looked at the guys I admire, Tom Watson and Tom Kite, and how hard they work, and I knew I had to start doing some hard work, too."

The work paid off in the ninth victory of Mahaffey's 16-year career. He won with a 275 total, 13 under par on the Players Club at Sawgrass.

UT allegations mount

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An Austin lawyer has confirmed that he represented "20 or 30" University of Texas football players without charge "over the past five or six years" after referral from Ken Dabbs, an assistant UT athletic director, a newspaper reported today.

The attorney, Alfred M. Walker Jr., said he agreed to represent Texas football players, at no cost to the players or the university, after meeting Dabbs socially about six years ago, the Dallas Morning News reported.

National Collegiate Athletic Association rules forbid student athletes from receiving any benefits beyond the tuition, room, board and books provided by their athletic scholarships, unless they are available to all students.

Dabbs, Texas' recruiting coordinator until November 1984 and now a special assistant to athletic director DeLoss Dodds, could not be reached Sunday for comment about free counsel provided football players arrested for driving while intoxicated and cited for traffic violations.

However, Dabbs, responding to earlier reports in which players said he and other UT coaches lent them money and arranged bank loans for them, said he lent money to a former UT All-American.

Dabbs told the Austin American-Statesman Saturday night that he gave former Longhorn linebacker Jeff Leiding less than $100 about three years ago to pay off two traffic tickets. Leiding repaid him within the week, Dabbs said.

Leiding was being held in the city jail and "I couldn't leave him there overnight," Dabbs said. "Did I know it was against the rules? Yes."

Dabbs also said he had sent players to two Austin banks for loans on several occasions, after they came to him in need of cash.

The News reported that 16 former football players said they knew they could go to UT coaches when they had money problems, and nine former players claimed they received cash, bank loans, bail money or promises of a loan from Texas coaches.

The newspaper, in an earlier report, said 24 of 28 players interviewed during its two-month probe into UT's sports investigation program routinely sold their complimentary tickets to boosters at inflated prices, some saying they earned $4,000 per season through the sales.

But unlike the boosters and sports agents who reportedly gave cash and gifts to star players, Texas coaches apparently meted out small amounts of money when players claimed they had nowhere else to go, the newspaper said.

Fifteen of the 28 players interviewed specifically mentioned Dabbs as a coach who gave them money or helped them in other ways when they went to him with an emergency, the newspaper reported.

"We used to go by the coaches' office all the time because we were running short. ..." said Don Holloway, a Longhorn tailback from 1981 to 1983. "We'd go to Dabbs. Sometimes he'd give you the money, or sometimes he'd say, 'Come back later,' and he'd be gone."

Wunderkind

West German Boris Becker, 18, eyes his trophy Sunday in Chicago after taking first place in the Volvo-Chicago Tennis Tournament, defeating Czech Ivan Lendl, 7-6 (7-5), 6-3. Becker fell behind Lendl 3-1 in the tiebreaker but recovered, taking the next five straight points.
