Spring White drafts anti-crime plan

State crime rate up 9 percent; local rate jumps 16 percent

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN - Disturbed by a 9 percent jump in the state's crime rate last year, Gov. Mark White on Thursday unveiled what he called a "model anti-crime program" to work at the grass roots level. In 1985, the statewide crime rate increased by 9 percent over 1984 figures, with the biggest jump in rapes, according to the Department of Public Safety.

In Big Spring, the crime rate climbed 16 percent, with 2,187 major crimes reported compared with

In 1985, Big Spring posted 2 murders, up from 0 in 1984; 14 rapes, up from 12 in 1984; 24 robberies, the same number as in 1984; 289 aggravated assaults, up from 88; 561 burglaries, up from 517; 1,213 thefts, up from 1,142; and 84 vehicle thefts, down from 101.

Despite the dollars spent on law enforcement, despite the fact that police departments are clearing more cases, and despite the fact that our prison population has doubled in the last 10 years, our crime rate continues to climb," White said.

White's program calls for local mayors to appoint a citizen's crime prevention commission to develop a citywide strategy and set up working crime prevention committees by zone.

The zone groups will identify specific neighborhood crime problems and work with a zone coordinator, a police officer trained in crime prevention techniques who will coordinate appropriate police

The climbing crime rate, White said, means that Texans cannot continue to react to crime. "We need to get ahead of the crime cycle and focus our efforts and dollars on prevention," White said. He said most criminals do not believe they will be caught. "We need to raise the level of concern about apprehension," he said.

White said he does not believe the crime program will be expensive and should be funded largely from business and individual contributions. "Actual out-of-pocket expenses will be small," White said. The cities of Longview and Victoria have agreed to implement the Seven peace officers were killed in the line of duty last year, with another seven officers dying in duty-related accidents. Also, there were 3,617 assaults on officers.

300 turn out for hearing

BALLINGER (AP) - A public hearing for a snake, Nerodia harteri paucimaculata, called by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service drew a crowd of 300 Thursday night - most of them little concerned about its future.

Written comments concerning the status of a snake whose scarcity poses a threat to the construction of the Stacy Dam and Reservoir will be accepted until May 2, an attorney said after the hearing. Stacy Dam is a project of the Colorado River Municipal Water District of Big Spring.

The few who spoke in favor of listing the snake as a threatened species here Thursday night were booed loudly by some members of the audience. The crowd, in excess of 300 people, filled the 119th District Courtroom in the Runnels County Courthouse here. More people spilled out of the courtroom into small waiting areas and onto stairs. The scene changed drastically as the night wore on, with scheduled speakers and onlookers preferring to leave as the 41/2-hour meeting

Ray Anguanio, 20, of 1511 Bluebird St. was an accident, police said.

Lt. Jerry Edwards said Anguanio was running from the National Guard Armory, 1901 W. 16th St., with a .22-caliber pistol in the pocket of his jogging suit when the gun fell out, hit the pavement and discharged. The bullet struck Anguanio in the abdomen.

Sgt. Ray Meek said Anguanio told him Sunday night that he was shot by a passing vehicle while out jogging near Farm Road 700 and Cedar Road.

"He said he was jogging and a vehicle was coming the other way

The reports of campaign contributions and expenditures does not reflect money spent after March 31. Candidates are required to file another report May 7, and a final one later in the year, said City Secretary Tom Ferguson spending. Fraser spent $2,769 on his campaign with contributions totalling $2,769. His contributors include

• Albert J. Mouton, $100. Mrs. Winston Wrinkle, $100

• Mrs. Myra Robinson, $100. • Eddie Cole, $200.

• Carl Bradley $100. The other mayoral hopeful, Cotton Mize, spent $1,107 through March and took in $1.828 in contributions. Listed as contributors to the Mize campaign are · Robert Smith, $100.

• Bee Zinn, $100. District 2 council candidate

Tim Blackshear reportedly spent $1,025 on his race, and received $1,025 in contributions. His contributors include

• A.K. Gutherie, $250. H.C. Blackshear, $100.

John Whitmire spent $31 as reported March 31 and received the same amount in contributions.

Ferguson said District 2 candidate D.W. Overman elected not to file early contribution and spending reports because he indicated he will not spend more than $500 on his campaign. Overman, however, must show his campaign expenses and contributions in a final report.

Gunman who killed two holds woman hostage

CHICAGO (AP) - A gunman who killed his landlord, a police officer and two dogs and took an elderly woman hostage expressed remorse but did not surrender, authorities said today.

The gunman prepared a breakfast of biscuits, jam and coffee for his 74-year-old hostage and was in constant contact by telephone with police, said John Townsend, deputy chief of the Chicago Police Department patrol division.

"We have a good rapport (with the gunman)," he said.

Townsend said the hostage says "she's fine. She has freedom of the house. She's in the living room dozing Earlier, John Byrne, deputy assistant police superintendent. said the gunman appeared to be tiring, but Townsend said, "He's talking strong.

Police identified the man as John L. Pasch Jr., in his 50s.

At one point the woman slept on a couch while police negotiators talked with the gunman, who had sprayed the street with bullets when the siege began Thursday afternoon, police said.

Byrne said the man promised not to open fire if he wasn't fired on, and added, "He said he was sorry two people are dead.

Police cut off electricity to the house at one point during the night, but then restored it because "he seemed to be getting very excited about it," Byrne said

The woman and the gunman were in different rooms during the night, but she made no attempt to escape, the official said.

Earlier, police Superintendent Fred Rice said: "We just wait wait, wait, wait. Hopefully, he will come to his senses

More than 50 officers had circled the two-flat apartment building during the night. Area residents were evacuated, and both ends of the street were blocked off.

"He just flipped. He's paranoid. He thinks the house is bugged. He thinks we have infrared beams on him," Rice told reporters.

Two hours later, police district commander Joseph DiLeonardi said, "At this point he is saying he will only come out feet first.

"They're watching TV on the couch. He's got a 30.6 (rifle) on his lap. He's starting to talk suicide."
DiLeonardi said police were sure the gunman had at least three guns, a handgun, a shotgun and the

A Chicago policeman covers Sue Rodriguez from possible gunfire while another officer trains his rifle on a house where gunman John Pasch Jr. held an elderly woman hostage Thursday on Chicago's North Side.

"He talks like he has explosives, but we don't know," he added.

Rice issued televised appeals during the early-evening and latenight newscasts urging the man to surrender peacefully.

But he later said the gunman told police negotiators by telephone he wanted to watch the movie, "Battle of the Bulge," beginning at 3 a.m., and didn't want to be disturbed until it ended at about 5:30.

Detective Ed McCloskey said two dogs belonging to the hostage had been shot and killed and were thrown out a window of the building during the standoff.

"Seeing those dogs killed is like her children being killed before her," said Marcella Bloodworth, a neighbor.

Rice said the problem started as a "landlord-tenant dispute.

The gunman was behind in rent payments and when the landlord came to collect the rent about 3 p.m. Thursday, he was shot, the police superintendent said.

The officer was shot when he responded to reports of gunfire, and the gunman then fled to an adjacent building, Rice said. The slain officer was identified as Richard Clark, 48, an 18-year veteran of the department who was married and the father of three children.

The dead landlord was identified as Leslie Shearer, 45, of Barrington. The gunman took the woman hostage and began firing into the street when other officers arrived. As the man, in his 50s and weighing about 300 pounds, entered the house next door, the hostage's sister fled the building unharmed, The superintendent said he could confirm only that the man had one handgun and a rifle or a shotgun, although earlier police said the man, an amateur gunsmith, claimed to have several weapons and incendiary devices. Brian Kelly, who lives in the same building as the gunman, had lived in the neighborhood for more than a decade. "He's one of those people you read about all the time who shut themselves off completely from the world," he said. Rice said the gunman is a

Baker: no oil import fee

WASHINGTON — Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III said today that President Reagan has concluded that an oil import fee would be a drag on the economy and has ruled it out and might oppose an increase in the present excise tax on foreign oil for "the same reasoning."

Baker, interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" show, also denied that the Reagan administration was seeking to pressure Saudi Arabia into cutting back its oil production to end the price plunge that is devastating the domestic U.S. energy industry.

Jobless rate off, jobs up

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate, on the heels of its largest monthly gain in nearly six years, slipped a notch to 7.2 percent last month as the economy created 227,000 jobs, the government reported today.

Joblessness dropped 0.1 percentage points from February's 7.3 percent as civilian employment rose to 108.8 million jobs in March, the Labor Department said.

The decline had been widely anticipated by economists, who had viewed the 0.6 percentage point jump in unemployment from January to February as an aberration due to unusually large layoffs in the oil and gas industry and to flooding in California.

Thousands of fires blaze

Thousands of fires, many the work of arsonists, crackled through bone-dry forest and brush in the Southeast today with destruction in 13 states totaling 600,000 acres, and officials in Virginia considered closing state land.

Teams of firefighters looked to the skies for help but fire-drenching rain is not expected before the weekend in most areas. In Tennessee, officials said wind preceding a slowmoving cold front could whip smoldering ashes into new blazes.

Racketeer gets 45 years

BOSTON — A reputed former New England crime underboss described by prosecutors as an amoral outlaw has been sentenced to 45 years in jail and fined $120,000 on federal racketeering convictions.

Gennaro J. Angiulo, 67, was sentenced Thursday by U.S. District Judge David S. Nelson.

"The threat this society makes to an outlaw should be carried out," chief prosecutor Jeremiah O'Sullivan said in urging a 65-year term and a $130,000 fine for Angiulo's convictions on two racketeering, four gambling, four loansharking and two obstruction of justice schemes.

'60s revisited

Berkeley's battle lines are being drawn

By DAVE CARPENTER Associated Press Writer

Associated Press where BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Anti-apartheid protesters whose confrontation with police led to 91 arrests and nearly 30 injuries called for a student strike and vowed to rebuild their demolished shantytown.

"Violence was about as bad as anything that happened in the '60s," Chancellor Ira Michael Heyman said after demonstrators and police clashed on the University of California campus Thursday.

Police moved in during pre-dawn hours, tearing down shanties, arresting dozens of demonstrators and loading them onto buses heading for Alameda County's Santa Rita jail, said university spokesman Ray-Colvig.

Hundreds of other protesters surrounded the buses, preventing them from moving, officials said. Anti-apartheid emotions "have

Anti-apartheid emotions "have been building up for a long time" on campus, said senior Sheryl Denker, 21, of Los Angeles, predicting that the demonstrations would continue. "They tear the shanties down, we build them up again — it's a never-ending circle. If they just let (the shantytown) sit there, they wouldn't have more and more people getting angry and showing up here every day."

Fighting broke out when police in riot gear cleared a path through the crowd and demonstrators hurled bottles, rocks and eggs and blocked the buses by hurling trash cans, setting up makeshift barricades and sitting in the way.

Police tore down shanties under a temporary restraining order obtained by the university a day earlier. The order maintained that the cardboard and plywood structures were fire hazards and blocked access to buildings.

Protest leaders told about 1,000 people, who gathered for a peaceful rally Thursday afternoon, they would rebuild the shantytown, that already has been torn down twice by university police, and call for a student strike Monday.

Heyman said the university has been willing to negotiate over shanties and that he would prefer to see them built on Sproul Plaza. He did not specify how many might be allowed.

Two men wearing bandannas over their faces were arrested and booked for possessing Molotov cocktails, while 89 others, including a juvenile, were booked on seven other charges, including a felony charge of resisting a police officer and six misdemeanor charges: illegal lodging, trespassing, resisting a university official, violating a court order, rioting and failing to disperse, university officials said. Arraignments were set today.

The injured included 18 police officers who were hit by the flying objects as well as 11 civilians who received cuts, scrapes and bruises from police batons, university spokesman Tom Debley said. None were hospitalized.

Frank Papilia, 23, who graduated from UC-Berkeley last December, attended a rally with a bandage on his head. He said he was hit on the head three times by police and had to have five stitches. "I was sitting on the ground obstructing a public pathway —

Bomb suspect sought

ATHENS, Greece — Police hunted today for a woman suspected of concealing under her plane seat the bomb that later ripped open a TWA jet and killed four Americans. An Egyptian official was quoted as saying she had been searched before boarding in Cairo.

Greek police sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, identified the woman sought in the attack on Wednesday's Trans World Airlines Flight 840 as May Elias Mansur. Earlier, officials had identified the suspect as a man

Gorbachev 'interested'

MOSCOW — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev definitely wants a full summit with President Reagan, but it is unclear what agreements he expects to reach at the meeting, two U.S. congressmen said today.

Reps. Dante B. Fascell, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and william Broomtieid, a Michigan Republican who is a minority member of the committee, met for nearly three hours with Gorbachev in the Kremlin.

Broadcast assails Tutu

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The government-controlled broadcasting company said today that Bishop Desmond Tutu's call for economic sanctions against South Africa brought him closer to the "forces of revolution."

In a commentary entitled "Bishop Tutu and the Revolution," the South African Broadcasting Corp. described the Nobel Peace Prize winner's call this week for punitive sanctions as "callous foolishness."

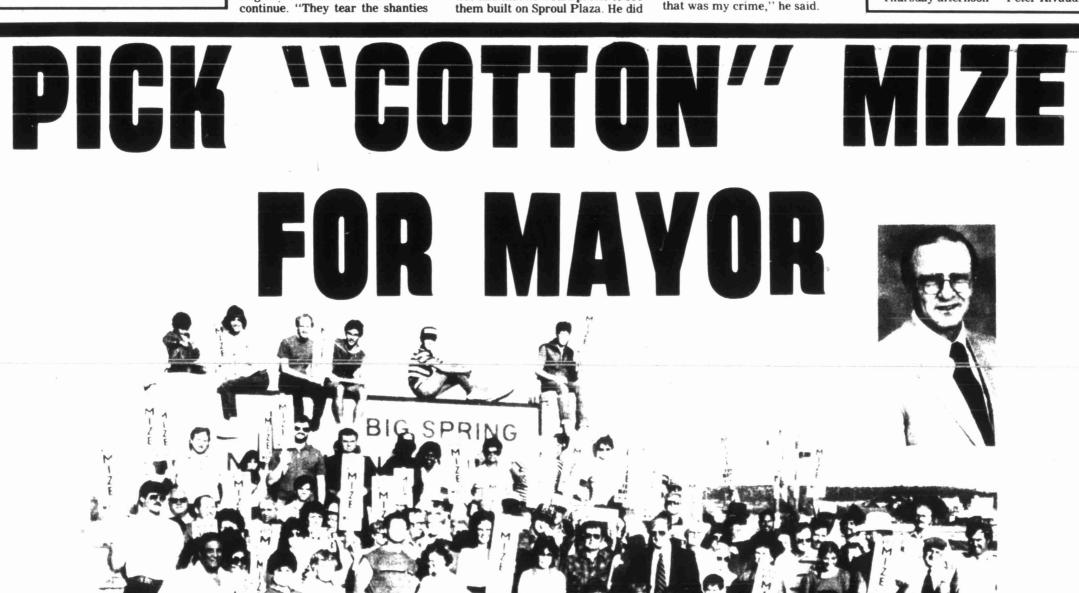

"He is evidently completely indifferent to the miseries that would be inflicted on the mass of blacks, on whose behalf he claims to speak, if the kind of sanctions he demands should materialize," the commentary said.

Some dead may miss ID

MEXICO CITY — Some of the 166 people killed in the worst air crash in Mexico's history may never be identified because their remains are too badly mutilated, a medical service spokesman said.

Soldiers, Red Cross workers and others continued Thursday to search the site where the Mexicana airlines Boeing 727 crashed Monday, killing all aboard. Workers were looking for remains and passengers' personal effects to aid in identifying the victims.

The U.S. Embassy has said nine Americans were among the victims of the crash, but embassy spokesman Vince Hovanec said the remains of only one had been identified by Thursday afternoon — Peter Rivaud, 5.

School board endorsements

Best bets: Brooks Griffin, Voorhies

The field of seven candidates for school board offers diversity in styles, ideas and approach. It's heartening to note that this many people are willing to devote the time and energy necessary to serve the educational system in Big Spring. There are three seats to be filled on the Big Spring Independent School Board in at-large (districtwide) voting. We believe the best three candidates are Bill D. Brooks, Teddy Griffin and Dock Voorhies.

These three can bring the best blend of experience and fresh approach to the issues facing local school districts.

e Brooks has both tenure on the board and a solid educational experience prior to serving as a trustee. He holds a master's degree from North Texas State University and he was a teacher for 11 years, most of that time here in Big Spring. He has a daughter in the school system and one just graduated from it. He has a calm, logical and responsive approach to problem-solving.

• Teddy Griffin is a 35-year-old loan officer for a savings and loan here. He has been active in community civic and charitable events such as March of Dimes and United Way, including service as president of the United Way. He has one child in the school system. He is a man of conviction and ideas. He will bring a fresh outlook and vigor to the school board.

 Dock Voorhies, a clinical social worker at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, is active in a wide variety of endeavors. Indeed, if there is any concern for Voorhies' candidacy, it's that we hope he can squeeze yet another activity into his schedule. He gives his time to the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Rape Crisis Center and the United Way, to name a few. He is also active in his church. He is a thinking individual who will bring an extra dimension to the Big Spring school board.

request to send help to rebels fighting a regime bent on expansion, the Democrats on Capitol Hill have had some trouble explaining the inconvenient Nicaraguan invasion of Honduras that followed. The opponents of aid to the contras have spent several years denying the obvious about the Sandinistas. But as Thoreau said, some facts are hard to ignore, like a trout in the milk.

The Sandinistas have not built up the biggest armed force in Central America, as they insist, simply to guard against an invasion by the United States, a nation that agonizes over sending medical supplies to the regime's opponents. They aim to dominate the region. One way to achieve that is to give your neighbors a first-hand acquaintance with your military might.

Nor could Managua have found a better time, militarily speaking, to try to crush the contras, against whom this attack was directed. Only days before, the rebels had been denied a single dime by the House of Representatives, leaving them exposed, short of supplies and possibly dispirited.

The risk was that the invasion would turn the House around. The attraction was that an assault now might so cripple the contras that American help, if it ever comes, will be moot.

If the Sandinistas were as eager to negotiate as the Democrats claim, and if a rejection of aid to the contras were the prerequisite to meaningful negotiations, then last week's vote should have pacified them considerably. This new display of martial fervor sorely inconveniences the congressmen who want to believe that the real obstacle to peace is the Reagan administration's intransigence

Three lines of reasoning dominated the Democratic reaction to the invasion, all of them revealing. The first was to question whether the invasion had occurred at all, even after the government of Honduras had publicly requested help to repel it.

The administration's opponents are quick to believe Honduran of-

After spurning an administration ficials when they criticize President Reagan's policies, but fiercely skeptical when they claim to be invaded. These hard-headed skeptics were most inclined to accept the contention of the Sandinistas that this was just "one more lie by the Reagan administration.

> When the evidence of an invasion became hard to deny, the Democrats questioned the Sandinistas' wisdom. House Speaker Tip O'Neill, who takes his guidance on geopolitical strategy from the Maryknoll Sisters, allowed that Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega was "a bungling, incompetent, Marxist-Leninist communist" and that the action was "a tremen-

Well, yes. Just as Hitler's attack on Poland turned out to be imprudent. But that is the least of the criticism that springs to mind, unless your concern is to excuse the Sandinistas. Ortega also "blundered" when he made a pilgrimage to Moscow last year, shortly after the House had voted down aid to the contras. He just won't follow the Democrats' script maybe because he has his own.

The third approach was to suggest that the real fault lay not with Ortega but with Reagan. Rep. Daniel Bonior, a Michigan Democrat, said the invasion 'demonstrates again the price of the contra war" and proves that its 'clear and certain outcome is an ever-widening regional war."

Let's see if we've got this straight: the Sandinistas were provoked to attack by the Reagan administration, even though the House just voted against providing any help to the contras, and even though we have given them no arms since 1984. I've heard of blaming America first, but this is ridiculous

The problem with this thinking is that it denies both the real character of the Sandinistas and the role of the House in stimulating their bellicosity. Actions have consequences. The House acted last week. This is a consequence.

Reagan fares worst in book written by ex-aide Stockman

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON — Only a few trusted and bonded editors, sworn to strict secrecy, will be permitted to read ex-budget director David Stockman's memoirs before the first excerpts are published next month in Newsweek magazine.

The New York publisher, meanwhile, is anticipating a gush of money — and the Washington establishment is anticipating a gush of blood - as Stockman tattles on his one-time colleagues. But it also appears that some of the blood that'll be spilled will be Stockman's

Sources close to Stockman tell us his book will savage such antagonists as White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan and Attorney General Edwin Meese. Stockman reportedly will say that the volcanic ash from Regan's temper tantrums scorched everything he did and will question how Meese ever convinced the president he knew what he was

Stockman will also take the Republican Party to task for failing to reduce the deficit, according to our sources. Stockman will tell of his backstage efforts eliminate revenue sharing. He was undercut by President Reagan, who listened to other advisers, Stockman reportedly will complain.

The person who will be hurt the worst by the Stockman castigations, at least indirectly, will be the president, our sources say. He will be portrayed as less than bright - an unfair characterization according to those who work directly with Ronald

But Stockman himself can expect a backfire. His book is due out about the same time as another one that tells the stories he left out. It's titled "The Real David Stockman," and it quotes not only such predictable critics as Ralph Nader, but many of Stockman's former colleagues in the Reagan administration

Our associate Les Whitten got hold of a bootleg copy of the manuscript, written by best-selling veteran Washington free-lance John Greenya and congressional aide Anne Urban, who works for Rep. Barbara Kennelly, D-Conn. It contains some eyeopening quotes from such normally diplomatic types as Drew Lewis, former transportation secretary.

Like others quoted in the book, Lewis praises Stockman's talent. But then he says that Stockman 'was very political and very devious," and accuses him of trotting out false figures at Cabinet meetings to make a point. "He manipulated whatever he was doing to serve his own purposes," Lewis said. Some other Stockman critics quoted include:

• Dr. Shelby Brewer, former assistant secretary of energy: Stockman had "an irresistible itch ... to recast the president's agenda ... Having him on the Reagan administration." Brewer also opined at one point that Stockman "was out of his wigwam."

• Former Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas: "He lacks in humaneness. ... He is not a man of good judgment." This about a former divinity student.

• Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif.: Stockman is "absolutely not" compassionate, and shares the blame for "incredible budget deficits." At least, Waxman added, Stockman was honest enough to admit that he "has put six generations in this country in debt.'

• Wendell Belew, former chief counsel of the House Budget Committee: Stockman "created the budget deficits." He'll get away with it, though, because, in a controversial Atlantic magazine article, "he confessed before the crime was regarded as at least as conservative as Stockman: "He is a man who is able to change his views to match his coat. ... I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see David emerge in later life as a liberal.

• David Cohen, former head of Common Cause: "I developed a very strong mistrust, dislike and skepticism about what he was really about."

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: The Islamic fundamentalist regime of the Ayatollah Khomeini has pretty well succeeded in putting Iranian women back into the Middle Ages — certainly wiping out whatever gains they had made under the late shah. But now it seems the long and bloody war with Iraq has given Iranian women an unexpected boon: a better chance at higher education. Because so many young men have been conscripted as cannon fodder, the percentage of women in the universities has soared. Our sources suspect that women may outnumber men at some institutions. What the women will be able to do with their education, of course, remains problematical.

MINI-EDITORIAL: The world of big-time professional sports may be beyond the comprehension of us less gifted mortals, but we don't think pro athletes should have to sacrifice their First Amendment rights to free speech just to make a million or two. Yet Mac O'Grady has been fined for daring to criticize Professional Golfers Association tour commissioners Deane Beman for various injustices on the PGA circuit. The PGA should be given an elementary civics lesson on the Constitution. It might even up the game's TV ratings by adding a little excitement.

Big Top style of basketball

Louisville had upset No. 1 seeded Duke 72-69 to put an end to four weeks of NCAA carnival madness.

Hall took a few steps away from Ferry, wound up and threw the ball at his nemesis which perfectly summarized the aura surrounding this event which television has blown completely out of proportion.

It is no longer a tournament it's a media carnival under the big top complete with goofy coaches, too many games and a ridiculous frenzy which is sure to rattle the minds and composures of young men entering adulthood.

Don't believe that nonsense about the NCAA expanding its tournament field this year to include 64 teams. Try doubling that figure because remember, each league now holds its own tournament at the end of the regular season just to determine a league champion whatever relevance that has.

I'm upset with sports writers jumping on the bandwagon claiming the NCAA tournament is now a sporting event ranking up there with the Indy 500 and Kentucky

It's music for the ears of an 18-year-old kid who can stuff that melon through the hoop. Keep it up kid 'til they come around with the draft and the pro contract. See that money flow and you'll meet an old boy soon who'll keep that carnival fervor intact 24 hours a day

Former Houston Rocket John Lucas and former New York Net Michael Ray Richardson can attest

And as always, a buffoon emerges from the shadows to become a definitive spokesman. Ladies and Gentlemen - Billy

Packard. I don't know where this guy came from, but he sure has the definitive answer for everything. CBS and NCAA must have searched high and low to find their appropriate rah rah man. Packard fits the bill and then some.

A carnival isn't complete without an elephant around. Look for CBS to take care of this necessity when next year's carnival under the big top takes place in New Orleans.

Bentsen urges cooperation with Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) - U.S.Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas. said Thursday the United States and Mexico should cooperate to promote exports from "twinplant" industries to other parts of the world.

"What we are seeking are these kinds of deals that are mutually advantageous," Bentsen said at a news conference at the U.S. Embassy here. He said the industries in the border zones should concentrate on expanding exports to Europe, Asia and other parts of the developing world.

"I think that we can work together ... to assist in that regard," the senator said.

The "twin plants," also known as "maquiladoras," assemble goods from raw materials or parts brought into Mexico under special duty-free regulations for assembly here. Most of the finished products then are exported, the majority to the United States.

"It is important that the products of the maquiladoras not be sold only in the United States,' Bentsen said, adding that he presented his views to President Miguel de la Madrid earlier in the day.

The industries have become one of Mexico's major sources of foreign exchange.

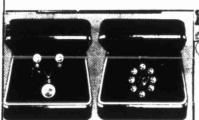

Bentsen, who noted that he was "born and reared on the Mexican border" in Texas' Rio Grande Valley, said the main purpose of his visit was to discuss trade issues

He said he found in a meeting Wednesday night with a group of Mexican industrialists "a dramatic change" from previous attitudes about allowing freer trade in Mexico, modernizing to increase competitive ability in the international marketplace and understanding the need to attract foreign capital to Mexico.

"I was encouraged by that," Bentsen said.

Last Saturday, however, a card arrived for Carrie and it was personally signed by Mickey Mouse and Pluto among others, saying Carrie's picture had been selected for viewing in April.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a "spring cleaning day" April 12 to clean the Big Spring for which the city was named.

The cleanup is scheduled for 8 a.m. and noon, and refreshments will be served.

Volunteers should bring a rake, hoe or pruning shears to the cleanup area in Comanche Traill Park, according to a chamber news release. Chamber executive vice president LeRoy Tillery said wading boots, pruning saws and large pruning shears for cutting limbs off trees would also be useful.

Volunteers should register with the chamber so organizers can get an idea of how many will participate, Tillery said.

Crew leaders can be identified by fluorescent orange ribbons.

In conjunction with the cleanup, the City of Big Spring will be picking up large trash items on Saturdays from April 19 through May, he said.

Chamber beautification committee chairman Hayes Stripling II is on the agenda for next week's City Council meeting to urge banning the sale of drinks in glass bottles, Tillery said, because of the problem with broken glass littering the city.

Another alternative would be to require a deposit on all glass bottles, particularly beer bottles, he said, because that would make them valuable and people would pick them up instead of breaking them in the streets.

Keep America Beautiful week is April 21-26, and the chamber will have several other activities to promote beautification in Big Spring, according to the chamber newsletter.

Volunteers will be asked to 'Adopt an Eyesore' and clean it up in a new program. The Council of Garden Clubs will identify the public eyesores, and the chamber will take individual suggestions of eyesores for the program, Tillery said.

A beauty spot of the month will be selected, beginning this month. The public is invited to recommend residential and nonresidential spots for the program, the newsletter said. April's beauty spots of the month are Robson Drilling of Texas at 607 Main St. and the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Horton at 1723 Yale Ave.

Dallas team develops test for cholesterol disorder

DALLAS (AP) — In a spinoff of work by two Nobel Prize winners, researchers here have developed a new, relatively convenient test to detect a genetic disorder that causes high levels of cholesterol.

The development could make it possible to check all patients at risk of inheriting the disorder, doctors say.

The test detects heterozygous familial hypercholesterolemia, or FH, which affects about half a million Americans and can lead to coronary artery disease.

It was developed by researchers at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, the home of prize-winning scientists Drs. Michael Brown and Joseph Goldstein, genetics prefessors at the health science center.

The two doctors won the 1985 Nobel Prize for physiology or medicine for discovering cholesterol-grabbing molecules called LDL receptors, used in the test.

Drs. Jennifer Cuthbert, Cara East, David Bilheimer and Peter Lipsky described the new test Thursday in The New England Journal of Medicine.

The only other way of detecting FH is expensive and takes two months to complete, Cuthbert, of the health science center's liver unit, said. She said a diagnosis usually is based on high blood cholesterol levels, a family history of high cholesterol or heart attacks at an early age and the presence of yellowish cholesterol deposits under the skin.

The new test requires less than half an ounce of blood and results are available within a week, Cuthbert said. She said the test has been 100 percent accurate so far in distinguishing 12 to 15 FH patients from normal people and those with other cholesterol disorders.

"It's a test with great potential that needs to be looked at on a wide population basis," she

People with heterozygous FH have on their cell surfaces only half the normal number of molecules needed to remove cholesterol from the blood. As a result, cholesterol builds up in the arteries, often leading to heart attacks in people under age 60.

The cholesterol-removing molecules are called LDL receptors. LDL stands for lowdensity lipoproteins.

In the new test, white blood cells called lymphocytes are placed in a laboratory dish with low-density lipoprotein. A drug that stops cells from producing their own cholesterol is added to the lymphocytes. So, to survive and multiply, the lymphocytes need to take in the LDL Lymphocytes with a normal number of LDL receptors require only a small amount of LDL to survive in the laboratory dish. But lymphocytes from a person with heterozygous FH need twice as much LDL.

Bent septum hinders breathing

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am writing you in regards to my husband. He has been diagnosed as having a deviated septum. According to the first doctors, he has blockage in both nostrils. It is more severe at night. He has to breathe through his mouth and wakes up with a dry mouth. He has almost total blockage in the left nostril. It prevents him from getting a good night's sleep, and at times he has to gasp for breath. His snoring wakes

This first doctor says he should operate. A second opinion doctor says he would try medication first to see if that helps, and leave the surgery for last resort. What is your opinion? Would the medication have a harmful effect on him? Would the surgery his solve his problem, or would this reoccur in a few years? - K.L.P.

There's no question that some corrective measure has to be taken, since this is a threat to his health, if only as a disturber of his

I can't give you a sight-unseen opinion with regard surgery vs. medication as the answer. I would assume the medicine would be in the nature of a decongestant to clear the nasal passages. Most often, that is a temporary measure. It would not seem to be the answer for the deviated (bent) septum that's blocking the two nostrils.

I see no reason not to try the medication for a short time, but these are not the kinds of medicines you want to have to use that, with the degree of blockage you describe, surgery will be the permanent answer, or a large part of it. The operation to clear away the blockage has gratifying and enduring results. Once the septum is straightened it won't become crooked again.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a cigarette smoker and plan to switch to a pipe. What's the chance of my succeeding? - P.L.

Not too good, if I can offer in widenes my own experience and that of some friends who tried this route. And even were you able to switch successfully to a pipe, the long-term health effects are dubious. Former cigarette smokers tend to inhale the pipe smoke as avidly as that from their cigarettes. The same is true, in fact, of those who switch to cigars.

Even if you avoid inhaling you can still absorb nicotine via the linings of the mouth, and the tars in the tobacco can harm those linigs in the process. Pipe and cigar smokers have a greater incidence of mouth cancers. Four bowls of pipe tobacco or four cigars can be the equivalent of smoking 10 cigarettes.

I think you'll find, as I did, that total abstention from tobacco in any form whatever is the only sure route to a smokeless life.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been putting off surgery I need because I am reluctant to have another encounter with a catheter (urinary). A few years ago, I had surgery and got irritation from the catheter and found it painful for a week. The surgery I am now put-In short, I think you will find ting off would be very brief. Is it hospital procedure to always make use of such a catheter, or could I request it not be used? I'm embarrassed to ask my doctor this. -

Such a catheter (for other readers) is a soft rubber tube inserted into the bladder for drainage of urine. It's not routine procedure in all surgery, but done only when the person would be unable to relieve himself should occasion arise. And, even then, it is a last-resort measure.

Because doctors realize that there can be discomfort involved, and because of the potential for irritation and even infection, the catheter is used only when absolutely needed. For this brief kind surgery you won't need a catheter. I see no cause for embarrassment and no reason why you shouldn't discuss this and get the doctor's reassurance, which I'm certain he will be able to give you. Explain your previous experience, ask him whether he plans to use a catheter, and tell him you'd just as soon he not.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is it true that vitamin C is being recommended for treatment of cancer? - Mrs. P.L.

I'm sure you might find people recommending it and a lot of other substances for cancer treatment. I am not sure about the rationale behind the vitamin C claims, but some people have looked into it. The Mayo Clinic tested the idea on 100 patients with a common cancer (colorectal cancer) and found it had no effect. A group of control patients was given placebo tablets

Ten years from now Bob Hope wants to be working on the moon, George Burns wants to confront a jealous husband, and Phyllis Diller just hopes to be breathing.

Hope, Burns and Diller were among the celebrities polled for an article in the April issue of Cosmopolitan that asked the question, "Where will you be 10 years from now?

"Hosting the first TV variety special from the moon," Hope said. "I'd like to be accused by a jealous husband," Burns said, and Diller responded with one word, "Breathing!"

Some of the celebrities ducked — including Dudley Moore, who said, "I barely know what I'm doing 10 minutes from now. I'm afraid that I

In celebration of the 100th anniversary of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, a series of activities at the Canterbury Center, St. Mary's School and St. Mary's Church are planned.

The Canterbury Retirement Center will feature a Tea and Vintage Style Show April 6 from 2-4 p.m. in Canterbury South at 1700 Lancaster. Residents of the home will be hosting the reception and will be wearing Gay '90s apparel.

Canterbury is an outreach of St. Mary's Episcopal Retirement Homes Inc. which offers housing to those over 62 and to those who are handicapped and over 18. Pat Johnston, assistant director of Canterbury, said. There are 120 apartments in the original Canterbury and 59 apartments in the recent addition, referred to as Canterbury North.

Father Harland B. (Steve) Birdwell, rector of the church at that time, conceived the idea of Canterbury in 1976, Johnston said. "His idea, many donated services, $25 in the bank and hours of selfless efforts resulted in the reality of Canterbury in 1979," she said.

"The Canterbury Retirement Centers do not just provide apartments, but a total environment with a large print library, Sunday evening worship services, arts and crafts room, game rooms, TV area and a staff dedicated to providing residents with total living opportunities. Canterbury has been hailed by many as the greatest single enhancement to the quality of life for the elderly in the history of Howard County," Johnston said. Canterbury is a non-profit organization, she said.

Among the other activities is an Ice Cream Social hosted by the Church Women and Altar Guild in the courtyard of St. Mary's Church. The social, April 11 at 7 p.m., will feature ice cream, lemonade and cookies. There will will be put on by St. Mary's School. This "Texas Celebration," honoring the 100th anniversary of the church and the 150 years of Texas, will be held April 18 at St. Mary's School by the students. They will perform in a musical program at 10

During the month, students will study the history of the church and state and decorate their rooms, Bebe McCasland, member of the church, said. There will be displays of Texacana, to provide an atmosphere of what Big Spring looked like 100 years ago, featured on the front lawn, in the library and throughout the school, she said.

Pre-kindergarten and kindergarten students will also participate in the program. They will represent the symbols of Texas. First graders will entertain the Texas way with square dancing. Heroes of Texas will be presented by the second graders and third graders will concentrate on the religions of early Texas, Mc-Casland said.

The friends of St. Mary's, a parent-teacher group, will dress in costume so the children will be able to see what the pioneers wore. A picnic lunch at noon highlighting Texas foods will be provided for the children, she said.

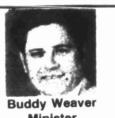

St. Mary's Church will have a day of family worship and fellowship recreating a Sunday in 1886 on April 19 at 11:30 a.m. followed by a box lunch on the grounds. That evening, from 6-8, the Vestry of St. Mary's will host a party in the courtyard for all visiting clergy, guests and

The grand finale of the celebration will be held April 20 at 10:30 a.m. the Rt. Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, Bishop of Northwest Texas, will be the celebrant for the Holy Eucharist service followed by a reception in the parish hall. Former rectors and bishops of St. Mary's have been invited to attend.

DENVER - Seven more nuns who signed the controversial 1984 New York Times ad about abortion have been cleared by the Vatican. removing its threat to expell them if they didn't recant.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Closet Dropout," the young married woman who had never graduated from high school. She wanted a high school diploma but was afraid that if she enrolled in a local school the whole town would know it, and it might embarrass her husband—a prominent businessman.

My situation was a bit different. Sixty years ago, when I completed grade school in a one-room country school, my parents thought I had enough education for a girl, so I went to work instead.

Years passed; I married, but never gave up my dream of a higher education I heard that I could take a correspondence course by writing to the American School of Correspondence, 850 E. 58th St., Chicago, Ill. 60637 (telepnone: 312-947-3300). I wrote for the particulars and enrolled. I was 42 at the time. I was allowed five years to complete the high school course, but I finished in a year and a half. After I got my high school diploma, I applied for college, passed the entrance exams, earned a college degree and taught school for 15 years.

I'm retired now, but I never get bored. I'm too busy.

Tell "Closet Dropout" to let nothing stand in her way. Anyone who really wants a high school diploma can get it.

LENA STEPHENS,
ANDERSON, IND.
DEAR LENA: Congratulations.
Many wrote to say they received their high school diplomas through

DEAR ABBY: There are more than 25 million high school dropouts or folks who never attended high school in our country—many of whom would really love to earn a high school diploma. A great many either feel embarrassed or find it inconvenient to attend resident school programs.

correspondence courses. Read on:

I served 51 years in the field of education and have a suggestion for your readers:

Anyone who wants to earn a high school diploma should write or phone the National Home Study Council, 1601 18th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009 (phone: 202-234-5100), and ask for information on accredited home-study high schools. (For university courses: National University Continuing Education Association, One Dupont Circle, Suite 420, Washington, D.C. 20038.)

Correspondence by mail is a very effective method of learning. The prime advantage is that students can study at the time and place of their choice and proceed at their own pace. And correspondence courses are generally far less expensive than resident programs.

I served as the director of education at the American School of Correspondence for 34 years, then left to become tream of fracticy School for the Blind in Winnetka, Ill.—the only school that offers correspondence courses for the blind, tuition-free, to students throughout the world.

E.C. ESTABROOKE, WINNETKA DEAR ABBY: Don't you think it's rude to ask a woman what size carat her engagement ring diamond is? Why would anybody ask such a personal question?

DEAR LUCY: They probably want to know how much lettuce it took to buy it.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)
