How's that?

Refugees

Q. How many refugees are living in the United States?

A. According to the U.S. Committee for Refugees, in 1982 there were 849,000 refugees from all over the world living in the United States. The United States ranks second behind Pakistan as a haven for refugees. Pakistan has more than 2,600,000 Afghan immigrants living within its borders. They left their nation as a result of the Soviet invasion and occupation of their country.

Oil price plunge cyclical, says petroleum engineer

DALLAS (AP) — The oil-price plunge has created lots of economic losers in Texas, but some people are cashing in on the worldwide glut of crude, a Texas Tech petroleum engineer says.

While oil consumers are benefiting most right now, Robert E. Carlile predicted that most of today's winners will be tomorrow's losers as prices begin to rise again. "Consumers, who are the real winners today, are ultimately going to be asked to pay more for the product," said Carlile, a petroleum engineer for more than 30 years.

The real long-term winners will be petroleum engineers who will be in great demand once prices go up and oil exploration and production returns to profitability, he said.

"I believe the price will stabilize in the $17 to $20 area for a period of time," said Carlile, in a departure from some economists who expect stabilization in the $15 range.

"But I do believe that within the measurable future — and I don't know if that's three to five years — this cycle will reverse itself completely."

When prices do go up, he said, they probably will rise higher than before — to at least $30 per barrel. That will spark a resurgence in the oil industry, but by then it might be too late for some domestic producers who are shutting down wells until they can be profitable again.

The problem with shutting down wells is that many will not produce as much oil as they did before they were closed, Carlile said in a telephone interview from Lubbock.

"There's a high probability that once you've shut in a well, you've disturbed the flow patterns that brought the oil to the casing," he said.

As a result of rising prices and loss of production capacity, oil exploration will resume, he said. And that's good news for petroleum engineers and schools that train them.

He said the 29 petroleum engineering departments in the United States have a total of 3,000 to 4,000 students. As exploration resumes, he said, the 900 to 950 graduates in each of the next four years will be in high demand.

Salaries will rise and many graduates will get several job offers, he predicted.

Carlile said the supply of petroleum engineering graduates lags four years behind demand as

Fiberflex lays off 25 of 196 workers

Fiberflex Products Ltd. laid off 25 employees today even as a company spokesman announced a new marketing approach and new line of oilfield products.

The layoffs represent about 12 percent of the company's 196 employees.

Chris Christopher, chief executive officer, said in a news release the action was taken "as a prudent cost-saving measure necessitated by the continuing depression in the price of oil."

Christopher said the layoffs include both production and officer personnel. He said he expects to rehire the employees within a few months as a result of his company's new marketing strategy.

Christopher said the low price of today's oil is "an unnatural phenomena similar to the vastly inflated prices of the last few years." He said the market will eventually stabilize.

Oil prices, which have dipped below $10 per barrel in the past month, are in the $14 to $16 range today, according to the Associated Press.

On the change in marketing strategy, the firm said it will emphasize the economic benefits of fiberglass sucker rods compared to steel rods in an aggressive sales push.

Also, the company said it intends to broaden its oilfield customer base and begin field testing "a completely new oilfield product." Christopher also said the company is "finishing work on another prototype product."

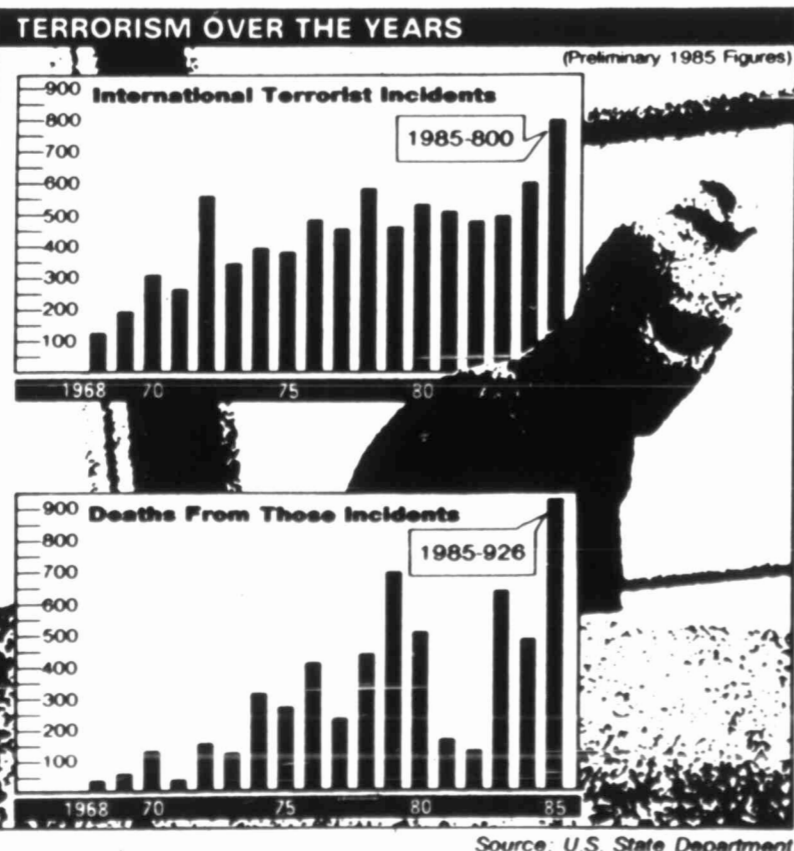

About the company's future, Christopher said: "Fiberflex is more fortunate than most oilfield companies because of its expertise (in the field). We have been able to diversify into several non-oilfield products quite quickly."

Some of the new products Christopher listed include a new line of high-performance electrical insulating rods, fiber optics cabling, and a 1 1/4-inch T-post for fencing use.

Christopher said the company is also "excited about a new product we are developing in cooperation with Texas A&M at College Station."

Assaults leave global order in disarray

EDITOR'S NOTE — "The Third World War has started," the terrorist Carlos boasted a decade ago. It has only gotten bloodier since. This is the first of a five-part international series on terrorism — the threat, the psychology and the response.

By CHARLES J. HANLEY
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — A wanton war with no rules and little pity is turning the world, bit by bit, into a free-fire zone.

International terrorism is striking in numbing waves. It left at least 926 people dead worldwide in 1985, hundreds more than in any year since the U.S. State Department began compiling statistics in 1968.

So far this year, at least 43 more have died, including five Americans killed in last week's bombings of a TWA jetliner and a West Berlin nightclub.

But terrorism has left another casualty as well: the system of global order, shaken by terrorist assaults that exposed weakspots in international law and the Western alliance, led the United States into military conflict, and made vigilantes out of governments.

A recent series of interviews in the United States, Europe and the Middle East — with security officials and diplomats, scholars and politicians, alleged terrorists and their defenders — found disagreement over how to combat terrorism and even how to define it. But almost all agreed that such "free-form" political violence will spread in the years to come.

"Terrorism is with us now, whether you like it or not. You've got to adjust your way of life to that," Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist chief, George Churchill-Coleman, said in London.

Those interviewed also generally agreed on these other points:

• As governments strengthen defenses of embassies and other official installations, terrorists will become more indiscriminate, attacking "softer" targets like the innocent civilians massacred by Palestinians at Rome and Vienna airports last December.

• Terrorists will probably escalate to attacks on computer systems, power grids and other key links of industrial societies.

• Terrorist groups often maintain practical ties with each other, but are not joined together in a "grand conspiracy" against the West.

As for defensive strategies, the security experts spoke most often of a need for better intelligence-gathering, particularly from within terror groups, and for closer cooperation among governments.

But many spoke, too, of the need to right social wrongs that spawn terrorism. The West's very concern over terrorism arouses some suspicion in the Arab world.

"There is a feeling America and Israel are trying to divert attention from the Palestinian problem and turn it to the issue of terrorism carried out by tiny groups that nobody supports," said Hazem Nuseibeh, a Palestinian who is Jordan's minister of state for prime ministerial affairs.

Reagan ends vacation

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, back from a 10-day vacation marred by terrorist attacks on Americans abroad, faces new decisions on how to combat the violence his aides say is fomented by Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy.

Fire toll may rise

SAN FRANCISCO — Investigators searching for at least seven people missing after an explosion and fire that destroyed 124 businesses at a sprawling warehouse have found the remains of one person, but officials said the death toll could rise.

"It was so hot in there, it was like a crematorium," Fire Capt. Richard Crisp said Sunday of the $10 million blaze Friday at Bayview Industrial Park.

New program started

AUSTIN — Gov. Mark White has asked Mexican-American student leaders to volunteer for "College Bound," a new program he started to urge high school students to go on to college.

White spoke Saturday to a conference sponsored by the Mexican-American Student Leadership Council at the University of Texas.

"Let's not let it be said that Texas wasted one single life or a single opportunity," White said.

Man escapes prison

LAKE JACKSON — Officers at the Retrieve Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections were searching today for a prisoner who escaped from a work detail.

The escapee was identified as Michael Milton, who was serving a 10-year sentence from Tarrant County on charges of theft over $200, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, delivery of a controlled substance and forgery by passing a worthless check.

Bomb scare turns hoax

HOUSTON — A TranStarjet was forced to return to Houston Hobby Airport after a woman passenger deplaned, leaving some packages behind during a layover on a flight to Miami, an airline spokesman says.

Tim Kincaid, a spokesman for the Dallas-based airline, said the packages turned out to be harmless.

Kincaid said the incident occurred on Flight 870 from Los Angeles to Miami with a layover in Houston. He did not know how many passengers were on the plane.

Vice president George Bush meets Saudi Arabia's King Fahd prior to a dinner meeting Sunday night which lasted into the early morning hours. The two talked about concerns over the plunging oil prices, according to a U.S. official.

Bush-Fahd meet termed 'constructive'

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Vice President George Bush conferred with King Fahd until the early morning hours today and the two leaders agreed Saudi Arabia did not provoke the collapse in oil prices that has punished American producers, a senior U.S. official said.

The U.S. official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said, "I'd say what came through was he (Fahd) thought that Saudi Arabia was being — in non-royal language — given the bum rap in stories about its role in the oil world."

Bush made clear to the king "that Saudi interests and U.S. interests are not identical with regard to oil pricing," the U.S. official said, without elaborating.

Later today, Bush travels to the oil-rich Persian Gulf state of Bahrain for the second stop of a Middle East tour that also includes visits to Oman and North Yemen.

Bush and the Saudi king dined at the royal palace in this eastern province on the Persian Gulf on Sunday and then held their only meeting scheduled during Bush's three-day stay in Saudi Arabia.

The official Saudi Press Agency called the discussions "frank and constructive."

Summing up the 2½-hour session that ran past 1 a.m. today, the senior U.S. official said Fahd made no specific proposals on how to stabilize crude oil prices, which have dropped 60 percent on world markets since November, creating pressing problems in oil-producing states like Texas.

The U.S. official reported Fahd said Saudi Arabia has been widely blamed for the price plunge, but that Bush said the desert kingdom was only "responding to OPEC requests to lower production, which it had lowered and received no thanks for."

Saudi Arabia is a linchpin in the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. The kingdom is now pumping more than 4 million barrels a day, double its production last summer, but much lower than the 10 million to 11 million barrels a day it formerly pumped.

The Saudis have increased production recently in an effort to flood the market and force other producers to restrain their output by making it uneconomical to pump oil.

Aide's visit protested

MANILA, Philippines — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger met with President Corason Aquino today in the first visit by a Cabinet member to the new Filipino head of state, then drove away through anti-U.S. protesters who mobbed his motorcade.

Security beefed up

BERLIN — U.S. military installations imposed intense security precautions as police pressed their hunt for terrorists who bombed a West Berlin nightclub frequented by American soldiers, killing two people and injuring 204.

West German newspapers reported Sunday that city and U.S. military police were focusing on Arab extremists who might have crossed into West Berlin from this divided city's communist eastern sector to stage the early Saturday morning bombing.

Khadafy faces crisis

TRIPOLI, Libya — In the wake of the U.S.-Libyan confrontation in the Gulf of Sidra, Col. Moammar Khadafy has turned his attention to Libya's growing economic crisis and called for an end to dependence on dwindling oil revenues.

Khadafy has used the March 24-25 confrontation with the U.S. 6th Fleet to boost his popularity at home and with Arabs abroad.

Explosion kills fifteen

SEUL, South Korea — One U.S. serviceman remains missing after the fiery explosion of a fuel tank at Osan Air Force Base, an American military spokesman said today. Fifteen South Koreans were killed by the blast and 12 others were injured.

The spokesman, Billy Fullerton, said it has been determined that a U.S. Air Force man was missing in the explosion and fire. Fullerton said a search for the man was underway.

The missing American's identity was not disclosed.

Israel bombs Lebanon

SIDON, Lebanon — Israeli warplanes today bombed Palestinian guerrilla strongholds and refugee camps around this southern Lebanese port city for the second time in two weeks.

State-run radio reported two people were killed and 22 were wounded. Police and hospitals in Sidon, however, said six civilians were injured. There was no immediate explanation for the conflicting reports.

U.S. steps up efforts to combat terrorist activities

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence agents are tightening their ties with the security services of Israel and moderate Arab states to fight terrorism, says CIA director William J. Casey.

In a rare speech on Sunday, Casey also said Kremlin leader Mikhail Gorbachev was seeking to establish Soviet "bridgeheads" abroad, to the point of sending Soviet warplanes against government forces in a coup in South Yemen in January.

The speech by Casey marked the first time a U.S. official publicly accused the Soviet Union of complicity in the ouster of South Yemeni President Ali Nasser Mohammed.

Delivering the keynote address to a three-day meeting of the American-Israel Public Affairs Committee — a pro-Israel lobby — Casey depicted terrorist acts supported by Libyan and Syria as linked to a wider Soviet campaign to weaken American allies around the globe.

To cope with the threat of terrorism, Casey said, "the United States has strengthened and invigorated its strategic cooperation with Israel."

The cooperation, he said, "has included and features enhanced cooperation in our intelligence exchanges between the (Israeli) Mossad and the American intelligence community. And particularly in the field of terrorism and counter-terrorism."

"At the same time, we have also expanded our cooperative relationship with friendly Arab states, who also see a Soviet and radical danger. Together, we must fight terrorism, a threat which threatens all our friends in the Middle East and elsewhere," he said.

Asked to elaborate on CIA ties with Arab intelligence services, Casey said, "I'm not going to get very specific on that. But I will say that there has evolved over recent years a worldwide antiterrorist network which is based on the active intelligence exchanged among the the security services of moderate Arab, Europeans, all of our friends everywhere."

"We do a lot of training, we provide technical service to improve the capabilities of their services, and we collaborate with them in counterterrorist actions," he said.

Although U.S. officials seldom publicly disclose details of cooperation with foreign authorities against terrorism, such collaboration has been apparent over the past year.

Last Nov. 24, U.S. fighters escorted a plane ferrying Egyptian commandos who assaulted a hijacked jetliner on Malta. However, Maltese authorities reportedly prevented three U.S. officers who accompanied the commandos from taking part in the assault, an attack which resulted in 60 deaths.

Casey, describing U.S. efforts to contain Kremlin influence around the globe, said the Soviets "require bridgeheads in Cuba and Vietnam, in South Yemen and Ethiopia, in Angola and Nicaragua, in Afghanistan and elsewhere. And these bridgeheads are being linked in a growing logistical and support network, supported by a standing Soviet naval and air power."

"Having piled close to a billion dollars of arms into Angola," Casey said, "Soviet advisers and Cuban troops are feverishly preparing a campaign likely to be launched during this month, and designed to wipe out the forces resisting the Marxist government of Angola."

Heflin death marks passing of a friend

The death of Lewis Heflin last week marks the passing of a friend to a lot of people in Big Spring and Howard County. Judge Heflin, justice of the peace, had an association with the area that dates back nearly 50 years.

He had held two terms as peace justice and was likely to win nomination to a third term in the May primaries, despite a recent trial in which his secretary was convicted of a crime that involved money taken in by his office.

He was likely to win renomination because he was popular. He was popular because he was a fair-minded man who said what he thought and held truth in high esteem. There aren't enough men like Judge Heflin in this world. His death is a great loss.

The LaRouchies: start and finish

Illinoisans have knowingly elected plenty of undistinguished candidates to office. None, however, were as bad as the two they unwittingly awarded the Democratic nominations for lieutenant governor and secretary of state in this month's primary. Next to the robots programmed by Lyndon LaRouche, the hapless losing pols, George Sangmeister and Aurelia Pucinski, acquire a stature verging on the Lincolnian.

This was an unusual election in more than one respect. When Jerry Brown first ran for governor of California, Republicans said that every voter he met was for his opponent. But it's hard to remember any candidate whose secret for victory was secrecy. Until the day after the election, Mark Fairchild and Janice Hart — or is it Mark Hart and Janice Fairchild? — were invisible. Comparing invisible candidates to imperfect, visible ones, the voters chose the former.

Lyndon LaRouche and his corps of clean-cut goons are crowing over this victory. "We've got potentially thousands of people behind us," said one of his losing candidates. But far from proving their ability to win converts, the election only shows their utter political bankruptcy. By hiding, they managed to win. But winning means publicity. And to know the LaRouchies is to despise them.

Not that they don't have some sense of how to choose an issue. Their public program includes all sorts of ideas designed to appeal to middle America — halting farm foreclosures, quarantining AIDS victims, cracking down on drug traffickers, expanding the use of nuclear power, building "Star Wars."

Despite red-white-and-blue themes like these, the LaRouchies have made no headway with the voters. The reason is that few of them can maintain the respectable masquerade for long. Even when they stick to the relatively innocuous issues, they manage to scare away potential allies — as when Janice Hart, with a weird gleam in her eye, envisions "Nuremberg trials" for drug pushers.

And they have trouble sticking to these issues, since their real ambitions are far stranger. Sooner or later, they revert to type, accusing Henry Kissinger of homosexual liaisons, depicting Walter Mondale as a Soviet agent or spinning bizarre theories of worldwide conspiracies involving Jews, the Rockefeller family and Queen Elizabeth.

LaRouche's movement is an odd species of homegrown fascism, complete with a fascination with violence and a penchant for harassment spots. Over the last decade, his various groups have spent millions of dollars spreading his message. He himself has run for president three times, reaching voters through paid television spots. And what does he have to show for all this? Nothing.

His main achievement is to reaffirm the American public's immunity to violent extremists. In plenty of other Western countries — France, Greece, Italy, Spain — fascists or communists are part of the political fabric. The French recently gave 10 percent of the vote to the racist National Front, and the Communist Party often gets twice that much.

Here, in good times and bad, there is an extraordinarily broad consensus in favor of democracy, individual freedom and a market economy — all anathema to LaRouche and others like him. Americans acknowledge the freedom of the most offensive political groups to propagate their views, but almost no one pays them any attention.

By subterfuge, anonymity and amazing luck, LaRouche was able to pull off a stunning upset this time, getting two of his candidates on the Democratic ticket for the November election in Illinois. But their triumph is really a monumental defeat.

From now on, LaRouche-backed candidates, wherever they appear, will be assured of withering scrutiny from the press and the public. The more Americans know about them, the more hopeless their cause. This victory is not the beginning for the LaRouche movement, but the beginning of the end.

Censors have a free hand

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — The 1983 invasion of Grenada made dramatically clear that the U.S. government can't be relied on to give the American people anything but the rosier view of its operations. With the press barred from Grenada during the actual hostilities, nothing marred the official picture of a perfectly conducted military action.

Only much later did stories leak out of imperfections in the Grenada strike: casualties from friendly fire, targets missed and other botched missions. In the glow of euphoria surrounding the invasion's overall success, the glitches that surfaced months or years later went largely unnoticed — which is just the way the Pentagon likes it.

Most Americans think of press censorship in peacetime as something perpetrated by authoritarian or totalitarian governments of the left or right, and definitely un-American. They'd be shocked to learn how certain U.S. officials have been quietly laying plans to silence the press whenever the administration in power decides there's an emergency. Our associate Donald Goldberg has been researching the issue; here's what he's discovered:

The blueprint for press censorship is the National Wartime Information Security Program, known in the Pentagon as WISP. It is patterned after President Franklin Roosevelt's censorship rules in effect from June 1941, till the spring of 1945 — covering most of the last officially declared U.S. war.

The broad sweep envisioned for WISP was described in an internal Pentagon memo prepared for a meeting of government planners on Sept. 21, 1963: "The National WISP provides for the control and examination of communications entering, leaving, transiting or touching the borders of the United States, and voluntary withholding from publication, by the domestic public media industries, of military and other information which should not be released in the interest of the safety and defense of the United States and its allies."

The memo included a perfunctory bow to the First Amendment: WISP was not to be used indiscriminately — for example, "as a guardian of public morals."

In 1963, the enforcement turf for WISP was divided up in a National Censorship Agreement. The Pentagon would handle the censors' duties in all areas "occupied or controlled by the Armed Forces." The Emergency Planning Office, a civilian agency now part of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, would ride herd on the general media, mail and telecommunications.

Two years later a Defense Department directive on censorship was promulgated. It was updated in 1971. According to the 1971 order, there were to be virtually no restrictions on the authority of the WISP director, who would be appointed by the president.

The directive assigned the censorship functions among the various armed services.

The alarming thing about the Pentagon directive is that it allows the defense secretary to set up a censorship program "if the United States is believed about to be attacked." Attacked by whom? The Soviet Union? Libyan hit squads? Killer bees? The directive does not specify. All the defense secretary needs is the president's permission and the press is silenced — at gunpoint if necessary.

There has been no congressional funding for work on the censorship program since 1974, but the Pentagon directive is still in effect. So, too, is Executive Order 11490, which outlines each federal agency's responsibilities in time of "severe emergency" — a term that former Attorney General William French Smith complained could include "routine domestic law enforcement emergencies."

The eager beavers at the Federal Emergency Management Agency have already drafted "stand-by" legislation so censorship will be ready to roll "whenever the president shall deem that the public safety demands it." Evasion of the censors' rules could bring a $10,000 fine and 10-year prison term.

THE OMBUDSMAN: A former Navy officer and CIA agent arrested by the British as a spy is desperate for publicity, but the State Department says it's his own fault he's not getting any. The accused spy, John Bothwell, vehemently denies the State Department's claim that he refused to waive his rights under the privacy act when U.S. embassy personnel visited him in prison.

"That bit is an out-and-out lie," Bothwell wrote to his brother, Ford, of Yardley, Pa., who asked for his help. Quite the contrary, Bothwell wrote, he wants all the press attention he can get to beat the espionage rap. He claims the CIA and the FBI won't "come out looking like Boy Scouts" if he gets to tell his story.

Asked about the letter, a State Department spokesman said that, at the request of a congressman, the London embassy will give Bothwell another chance to waive his privacy rights.

Bothwell was arrested after being identified as a source by former KGB agent Victor Gundarev, who defected to the United States on Feb. 15.

JUSTICE MUST PAY: Federal Judge Robert P. Aguilar's dogged effort to make the federal government obey the Constitution continues apace. When rural Northern Californians complained that overzealous lawmen looking for marijuana were harassing them, the judge ordered the drug-busters to cut it out. Then he appointed a monitor with broad authority to make sure the drug-busters behaved. Now Aguilar has ordered the Justice Department to put $50,000 in escrow to make sure the court-backed monitor is paid. The monitor will get between $100 and $150 an hour to keep an eye on the lawmen.

Trust your life to God daily

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am lying in the hospital following cancer surgery. The doctor thinks they got it all, but down inside I know I will go through life filled with fear that it will come back. At times I almost am filled with panic because I feel the future is so uncertain. How can I deal with this? — C.T.

DEAR C.T.: Recently I was talking with a man who had had cancer surgery several years ago. He is a person who had always been very successful and involved in many activities. As we talked about his experience he said to me, "That one little word — 'cancer' — was very frightening when the doctor first told me. But now I thank God for the experience. It helped me see what is really important in life and to learn to live one day at a time, trusting God for the future. I know I would never have learned those things otherwise."

My prayer for you, therefore, is first of all that your experience would help you see what is really important in life. And what should that be? The most important thing in life is knowing God and serving Him. Jesus said, "But seek first his kingdom and his righteousness" (Matthew 6:33).

Most of us go through life giving little thought to God, living each day seeking only to please ourselves. But our lives are off balance if Christ is not at the center.

Civil Rights bill should be passed

To the editor:

The Civil Rights Restoration Act now pending in Congress has one simple goal — to restore the full protection of the federal civil rights laws to older persons, the disabled, women and minorities. As we approach the second anniversary of the Supreme Court decision Grove City College vs. Bell, that severely weakened these previously very effective laws, it has become clear that if the House does not pass the restoration bill immediately, there may be no restoration bill at all.

For many years, under Republican and Democratic administrations, the civil rights laws were interpreted as Congress had intended — to prohibit an entire institution receiving any federal funds from discriminating in any of its activities. The Court narrowed this to prohibit discrimination only in the specific programs in which the federal monies are spent. Thus, federal law now allows a college that uses federal monies only for the purchase of gym equipment to refuse to admit women into its science classes.

Federal money should not subsidize institutions that discriminate. H.R. 700, Civil Rights Restoration Act, will correct the discrepancy caused by the Federal Court Ruling.

The Bill should be passed in original language. The addition of amendments on controversial subject material, abortions and religious beliefs which are unrelated to the subject matter could change the full meaning and extent of the discrimination law. (Almost half of House and Senate members are co-sponsors of the Bill in its original wording.) Any amendments attached to the bill could jeopardize its passage and allow discrimination to flourish unchecked with Federal money paying the bills of these institutions.

A crime story that ends well

To the editor:

With all the unsolved crimes happening in Big Spring, I would like to tell you of one that was solved before the day was over.

Officer Benny Greene found a new bicycle going out of town. He picked up the bike and passenger. Officer Benny Greene informed the owners before 2 o'clock that day.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, April 7, the 97th day of 1986. There are 268 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On April 7, 1953, the United Nations General Assembly elected Dag Hammarskjöld of Sweden Secretary-General.

On this date:
In 1788, the first permanent settlement in Ohio — at Marietta — was founded.

In 1927, an audience in New York saw an image of Commerce Secretary Herbert Hoover in the first successful long-distance demonstration of television.

In 1947, auto pioneer Henry Ford died in Dearborn, Mich., at the age of 83.

In 1949, the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "South Pacific" opened on Broadway.

In 1957, the last of New York's electric trolleys completed its last run from Queens to Manhattan.

In 1966, the United States recovered a hydrogen bomb it had lost off the coast of Spain.

In 1980, the United States announced it was breaking off diplomatic relations with Iran in the wake of the hostage crisis.

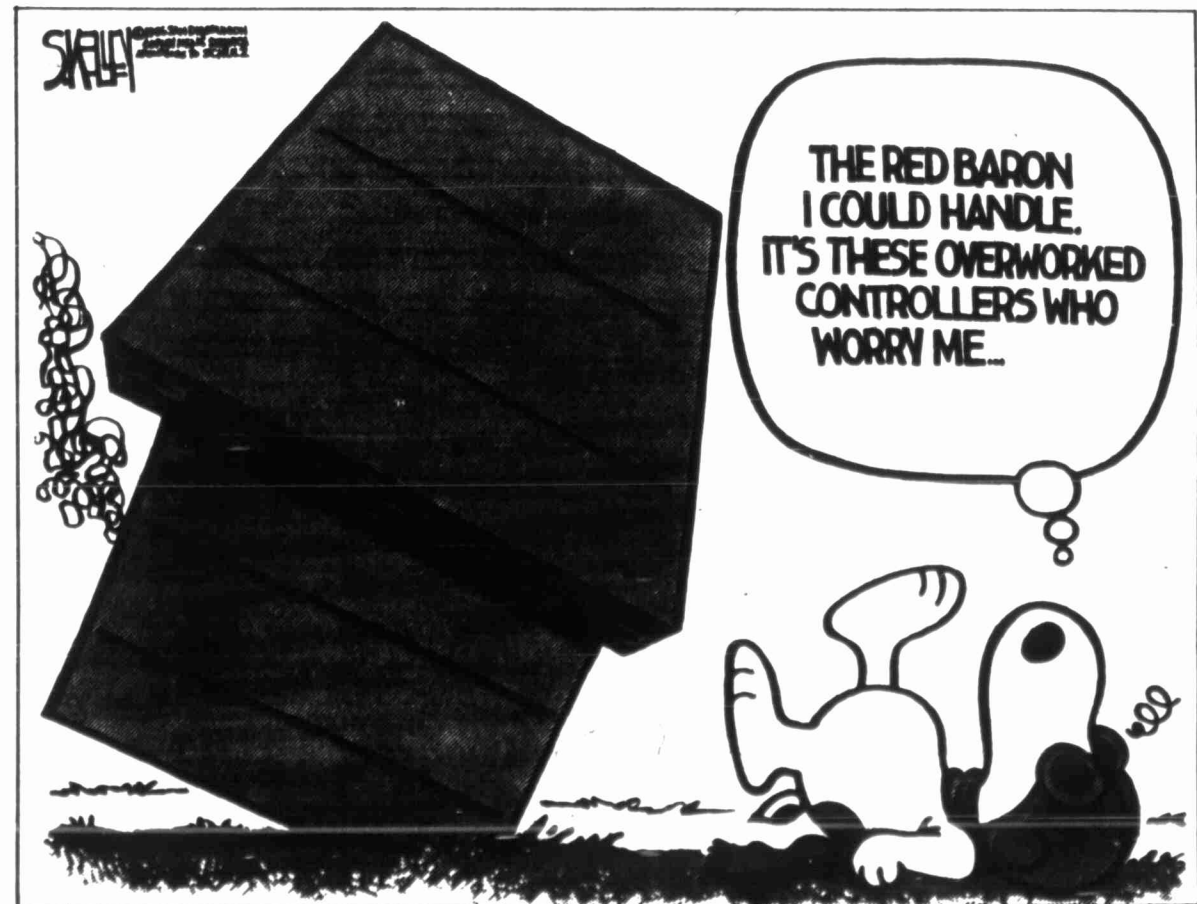

Ten years ago: China's leadership deposed Deputy Prime Minister Teng Hsiao-ping and appointed Hua Kuo-feng prime minister and first deputy chairman of the Communist Party.

For your garden

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Vines for summer accent

Vines have several advantages in the landscape. Most vines, trained on a support, require very little "ground room" in that they grow vertically. This is a real advantage for the small garden, or for limited planting areas.

Many vines are fast growing to provide a quick effect, or accent for the garden. The impatient gardener should plant vines for that fast lushness which is only achieved after a number of years with trees and shrubs. The annual, flowering vines are particularly fast growing. Abundant vine and bloom may be had from morning glory, hyacinth bean, and cypress vines in one growing season.

Evergreen vines may be used for screening for privacy, and make attractive drapes for often austere chain-link fences. English ivy will grow quickly on wire fencing when shade or partial shade is available. Asiatic jasmine will drape a wire fence for screenign sun or shade.

A flowering vine such as Carolina yellow jessamine, autumn clematis, or red honeysuckle, make an interesting and colorful accent for a wall or fence where it quickly climbs to the top of its support to cascade down with seasonal blooms.

There is a vine for every season: one that will provide a rich seasonal color. The early blooms of Carolina yellow jessamine, wisteria, and red honeysuckle greet spring. Early summer, star of confederate jasmine perfume the air, to be followed by the summer blooms of morning glory, hyacinth bean, cypress vine, and the vivid pink blooms of Rosa de Montana, or coral vine. Autumn clematis cloaks its support with white, come fall, in an effort to out do the vivid red fall color of the native and abundant Virginia creeper.

Due to their quick growth and seasonal attractiveness, vines are often used for quick shade over sunny patios or at poolside. When a vine is selected for shading purposes, use one that will lose its foliage in winter to allow the welcome winter sun. Popular East Texas vines for overhead structures and arbors include wisteria, muscadine grapes, morning glory and Rosa de Montana.

Vines such as wisteria and common honeysuckle, as lovely as they are, are often unwelcome in the garden due to their persistence and rapid growth. Vines with fast growth often demand fast and routine control to keep them in their place.

Some large twining vines such as wisteria may injure a tree by actually choking the tree or cutting off the flow of food from the root area or trunk; therefore, they should never be planted with desirable trees as support. English ivy does not feed off of the tree. Fast growing and dense vines should not be allowed to grow over the tops of shrubs as they cut off proper light and aeration.

Dr. Donohue

RP: a leading eye problem

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Recently, I got something in my eye and went to the doctor to have it removed. He asked me how long I had been having trouble with my eyes. I told him that he was looking at the eyes of an eagle. His sarcastic reply was, "Sure." He advised me to see an eye doctor afterward. The outcome was that two specialists concurred that I had retinitis pigmentosa.

How many of us share this hereditary affliction? What is the prognosis? Blindness? Would diet change help? What about wearing dark glasses? Please just use my initials. The place I work for would toss me out on a bone-hungry pension if they learned of this. — W.H.

One person in 3,500 has retinitis pigmentosa, which may not seem a great incidence until you consider the huge population in this country alone.

Briefly, RP is a defect in the eye's retina, specifically in the retina's cell pigment. Because of this, the eye's image-capturing ability wanes.

In classic RP, night blindness is the first sign. Then side vision is lost. The person sees only straight ahead, as though looking through a tunnel.

You refer to it as an inherited ailment, and you are correct. But there appear to be different factors involved. For example, in fully 40 percent of patients no family history of RP can be found. So the genetics are not clear-cut. Nevertheless the advice to have all family members checked when one has it is sensible.

Diet plays no role in treatment or cause. RP patients wear sunglasses to screen ultraviolet rays. It's a protective measure all patients should take. Some doctors advise patients to take vitamin A supplements, although there's no proof this halts the progress of the disease.

I cannot answer the question you are perhaps most interested in: What about blindness? Some notice no visual impairment at all until age 30 or 40. Others are affected from birth. Progression of sight loss is variable, sometimes taking as long as 40 years before central vision is gone.

I know there is an active national association to help patients with RP. You probably will be able to find a local unit to help you with information and the latest in treatment research.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I read that people on lithium have to watch what they eat. Please tell me what foods to avoid. — N.N.

These kinds of questions keep my lamp burning late.

I find no reference to food avoidance while taking lithium. But I stretched my imagination thinking about food and lithium. For what it's worth, here's what I came up with:

Lithium can displace sodium from blood and from inside cells. So a low-sodium diet might cause a problem. Lithium also has an effect on iodine absorption, so a combination of lithium and a very low-iodine diet might cause problems. Finally, lithium can cause a benign thyroid gland enlargement, and so can certain foods — cabbage, broccoli, spinach, and rutabaga. You have to eat enormous quantities and in the raw state for a food effect to be noted.

Lithium is a mood stabilizer and it's used for the manic phase of manic-depressive disorders. When you take lithium, blood levels are measured from time to time and dosage is adjusted accordingly. Because of this careful monitoring, all the unlikely situations I mentioned should not be of concern to you.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can one get AIDS from using a needle along with others for injection of male hormone injections — like some athletes use? — S.S.

Indiscriminate intravenous drug use is a major mode of AIDS transmission. The hormones you refer to are injected intramuscularly. There is a warning that AIDS may be transmitted by shared needles used for intramuscular injection, as for the body-building steroids. Body builders should be warned. AIDS is not transmitted by any medically-supervised injections, where sterile needles are used.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: You missed the boat in explaining to "Dying to Know" how to tell his right hand from his left elbow.

You should have told him to face north. His right (or starboard) hand would be to the east, and his left (or port) elbow would be to the west. To help him remember, he could hang a green lantern on his right (or starboard) hand, and a red one on his left (or port) elbow. This would also help him in knowing his "rights" in heavy traffic.

If he has difficulty locating north, he can face south. His rear end will then be facing north. All he had to do in the first place was use his head, his right hand, left elbow and rear end.

ED IN DURHAM, N.C.
DEAR ED: Brilliant! Had I used my head in the first place, and graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis, I could have figured this out myself.

DEAR ABBY: I think I have the answer to "Dying to Know's" question about how you can tell the right from the left. My first-grade teacher taught me how, and it's easy as A-B-C.

First, make two fists with both hands, then extend your thumbs straight out. Next, extend your index fingers straight up while all the other fingers remain tucked under.

The hand that forms the letter "L" is your left hand. The other hand, of course, is your right hand.
MRS. ANDREA R. CAPSUTA,
POT HUENEME, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: Give us a break! Consider this: If you use your head for north and feet for south, east would be your right, and west would be your left — but you would first have to use your head.

P.G.
DEAR ABBY: Well, well, after all these years I've finally found something I can straighten you out on. Remember the fellow who wanted a way to tell his left from his right? The simple answer is that our right hand is almost always the one that we prefer to do things with. It seems far more capable and just coordinates itself into our actions automatically. So, it's the "right" hand for just about everything.

The other hand? Well, it's just "left" in reserve in case the "right" hand needs some help.

ARTHUR MASON
DEAR ARTHUR: Left-handed

people should ignore this advice because their left (or dominant) hand is the one with which they prefer to do things.

The ambidextrous person, who can use either hand with equal dexterity, should carry a compass.

Gold Star Mothers plan to help Northside Center

The Big Spring Chapter of the American Gold Star Mothers met recently in the home of Mrs. A.W. Moody.

A letter of assistance from the Northside Community Center was read and the chapter voted to bring canned foods to support their community food pantry.

Plans were made to observe the 30th year of the chapter. It was organized and chartered May 30, 1950.

Mrs. Buck Turner, hospital representative at the Veteran's Administration Medical Center, reported that 20 patients were served refreshments of coffee and cake March 20. She was assisted by Mrs. Moody and Mrs. T.D. Peacock.

Community service report showed that 16 trays of food, four vases of flowers were given to shut-ins and needy people and $125 of memorials were donated to charity.

Next meeting will be May 8 in the home of Mrs. Truett Thomas, 1608 Sage.

Terrorism

Whatever the debate over emphasis, the statistics are clear.

International terrorist incidents — those involving citizens or territory of more than one country — have doubled in number since 1975, to slightly over 800 last year, the State Department reports. Risks International, a U.S. consulting firm that tracks single-country terrorism as well, counted more than 3,000 major incidents in 1985.

Last year's TWA hijacking and Achille Lauro "seajacking" were more visible, but 1985's deadliest event was the downing of an Air-India jetliner over the Atlantic, believed to have been the work of Sikh extremist bombers. It killed all 329 people aboard.

Terrorism is not new. The French dubbed the 1890s, when anarchists tossed bombs into Parisian cafes, the "Dynamite Decade."

What is new today is terrorism practiced on an international scale, a kind of global guerrilla war that has developed with developing technology.

Jet travel and open borders, particularly in Western Europe, enable terrorists to reach far-off targets. A booming arms trade offers them the latest in compact, relatively cheap weapons in a nuclear age when traditional warfare is too costly. And instant communications, advances in the news media, give their actions a "multiplier effect."

"If you see terrorism as theater, then the ability to reach a worldwide audience enhances the tactic," said a leading theorist on terrorism, Brian M. Jenkins of California's Rand Corp. "think tank."

Terrorists' goals can be complex. West European groups, for example, are believed intent on provoking a police repression that will antagonize the public and pave the way for revolution. In other cases, terrorists hope the world will grant their demands simply to end a plague of "mindless" violence.

But, first and foremost, the experts say, terrorists crave attention for their cause. And the causes are proliferating.

The "traditional" groups are well-known: Palestinian militants, Irish Republican Army Provisionals, Basque separatists, anti-Turkish Armenians, Colombia's M-19 guerrillas, Italy's right-wing railway bombers, Lebanon's multi-stripped car-bombers.

But now, ominously, more obscure causes are exploding into the headlines as well — the cause of Tamil separatism, for one, in whose name 150 bystanders were massacred by gunmen at a holy place in Sri Lanka last year.

In the United States, too, new-style terrorists strike: "right-to-life" militants who firebomb abortion clinics, for example, and terrorist bombers — possibly Jewish extremists — who killed an Arab-American activist last year.

By 1984, Jenkins reports, the citizens of 60 nations had become the targets of terror attacks.

Terrorists are also becoming deadlier. Lebanon's anti-Western Shiite Moslem extremists are working with bombs of power unparalleled for a non-military organization.

"The ferocity is escalating," a U.S. Air Force security officer in West Germany said of anti-American terrorists there. "They are not getting the kind of attention they used to get, and they apparently feel they have to find new ways to get it."

The U.S. administration traces much of terrorism's spread to state sponsorship, particularly Libyan and Syrian support for Palestinian terrorists, such as Abu Nidal's widely feared group, and Iranian support for extremist Shiites.

The Rome and Vienna airport atrocities, blamed on Abu Nidal, began a new spiral of U.S.-Libyan tension that last month led to military clashes between the two countries in the Mediterranean.

But the notion of "government terrorism" has two sides.

"What do you call Israeli air attacks on our refugee camps? Isn't that official state terrorism?" Khalil al-Wazir, the Palestine Liberation Organization's deputy military commander, asked in an interview in Jordan.

Inevitably, terrorism's definition is politically colored.

U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz says that "wherever it takes place" terrorism "is directed against us, the democracies."

But the State Department's own "Patterns of Terrorism" annual report notes that U.S.-supported guerrillas in Angola regularly take foreign hostages and attack Soviet-bloc civilians — actions generally viewed as terrorist.

While East and West, Arab and Israeli debate just what terrorism is, its impact can be seen everywhere:

Triple-layer security surrounds presidents, whether American or Iranian. Britain is buying a new, "rocket-proof" royal train for the queen. Fear of traveling has cut untold billions of dollars from tourism and other business. The U.S. government plans to spend more than $4 billion to "harden" its embassies against attack.

The world is intimidated: Top West German anti-terrorist police, briefing a reporter, sit in a darkened room — lighted windows offer targets.

But the world is also mobilizing: The 138-nation Interpol police network, long reluctant to deal with politically sensitive crime, set up its first anti-terrorist unit in January.

"It was totally unacceptable, with the way international terrorism was developing, that an organization like ours should appear hesitant ... to take action," said Raymond E. Kendall, Interpol's secretary general.

As for the immediate future, the interviews found two major concerns: the recent coming together of West European terror groups in an anti-NATO alliance, and the potential for a greater explosion of Mideast terrorism as the Palestinian cause reaches a dangerous crossroads.

Howard cowgirls finish second

The Howard College cowgirls turned in a bright performance at the Howard College-Frank Phillips Rodeo. But it wasn't enough to overtake the Western Texas cowgirls for the team championship as the four-day rodeo concluded Sunday afternoon at the Howard County Rodeo Bowl. Coach Dusty Johnston's cowgirls finished second to the powerful WTC team. WTC and Howard both outpointed current Region V leader Eastern New Mexico University.

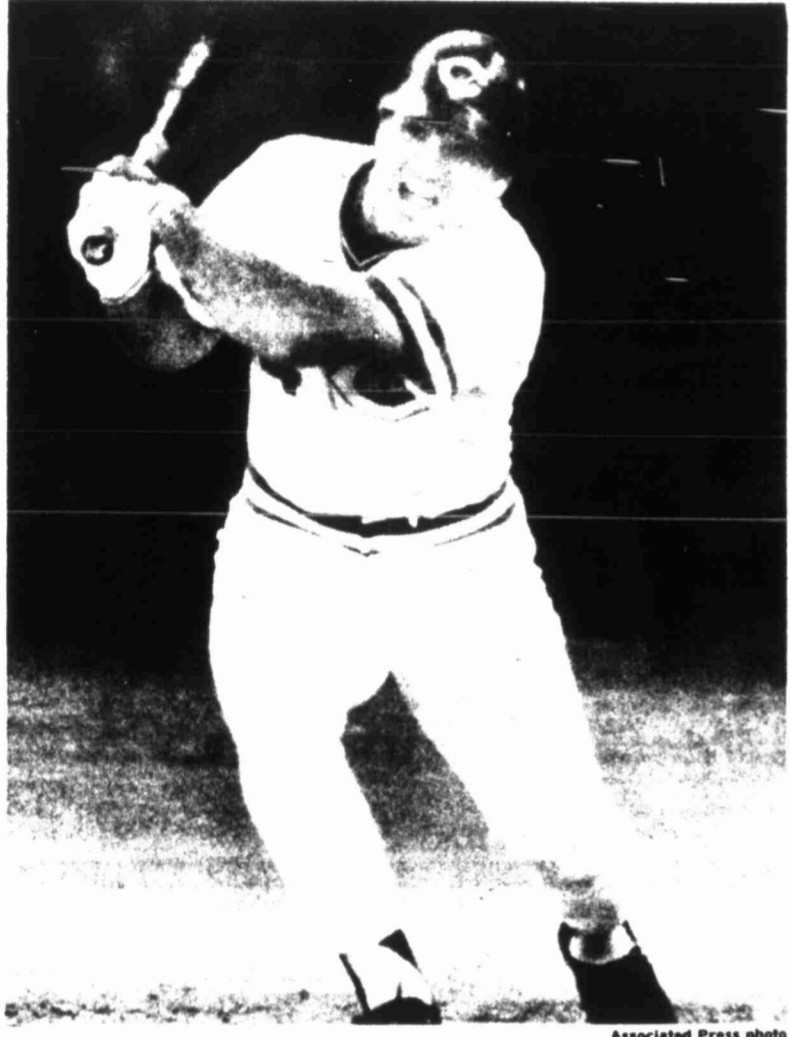

In a bit of an upset, Sul Ross University finished ahead of Western Texas in the men's division. WTC was leading the region going into the rodeo. The Howard College women got two first places in the rodeo. Breakaway roper Lisa Berry recorded a 3.8 in the long go and lowered her time by two-tenths in the short go to win with a 7.4. The other Howard win came from Johanna Puckett in the barrel race. Puckett raced to a 17.05 in the long go. She improved her time to 16.90 in the short go to win the average in 34.03. Annette Overby also picked up points for the HC cowgirls in the goat tying event. Overby placed fourth in the long go and short go to finish fourth in the average. Shelly Hodge added more points in the barrel race. She finished fourth in the long go, second in the short go to finish third in the average.

Karen Cochran finished first in the long go of the breakaway roping. Bill Berry (Lisa's brother) was the only Howard College cowboy to score points in the rodeo. In the bareback bronc competition, Berry was first in the long go and finished fifth in the average. Nicki Moist led the Western Texas women to the team championship. Although she didn't finish first in an event, she scored enough points to win All-Around Cowgirl honors.

Bull rider Todd Watkins paced the winning Sul Ross men's team. Watkins scored a 79 in the long go, 71 in the short go to win the event with 150 average points. It helped earn him All-Around Cowboy honors.

Batter Up!

Baseball season officially begins

By the Associated Press
"Anybody hates to miss Opening Day as a player. It's a great tradition in Cincinnati. But then I won't actually miss it," said Pete Rose, baseball's all-time hit leader (4,204), who in any event would have penciled in right-handed-hitting Tony Perez to start at first base against Philadelphia's Steve Carlton. Rose had stomach pains for a week early in spring training and doctors diagnosed a hiatal hernia. "I feel fine. I'm getting better every day," Rose said. "I have the right medication now. I feel behind in terms of games played and stuff like that, but I'm swinging the bat pretty well now, my legs feel good, my arm feels good and I have an extra week or so to really work hard to get ready." The Reds are considered contenders in the NL West after finishing a surprising second to Los Angeles a year ago. During the winter, they acquired pitchers John Denny from Philadelphia and Bill Gullickson from Montreal to join Soto and 20-game winner Tom Browning in the starting rotation. But, says Rose, "If I had to pick, I'd pick the Dodgers because they're the defending champions." Of course, he said that before Los Angeles slugger Pedro Guerrero suffered a knee injury last week that will sideline him for at least three months. "It's a tragic loss," said Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda, who plans to platoon youngsters Franklin Stubbs and Reggie Williams in left field. "Pedro means so much to our club. But we still have a season to play. We'll fight and do the best we can without him." The Dodgers are seeking to become the NL's first repeat division champs since they won in 1977-78. Today's pitching matchup is Fernando Valenzuela for the Dodgers, Eric Show for the Padres, who won the NL West in 1984. San Diego unveils a new manager in Steve Boros, the former Oakland skipper who was hired at the start of spring training shortly after Dick Williams resigned. Valenzuela, who will be making his fifth Opening Day start in six years, yielded only two earned runs in 31 exhibition innings. "I hope for the same thing during the season," Valenzuela said. "The last two games, 14 innings and no walks, good for me. Better control than ever." Seaver had hoped he would not Philadelphia Phillies left-hander Steve Carlton will be the starting pitcher in today's season opening game against the Cincinnati Reds. Carlton is one of few active pitchers that has won over 300 games.

Doctor ends Celtics' streak

By the Associated Press
The Boston Celtics, riding a 14-game winning streak, were holding a two-point lead with seven seconds left and had Larry Bird at the free-throw line. The Philadelphia 76ers, with Moses Malone, Andrew Toney and Bob McAdoo sidelined by injuries, almost needed a miracle to win. Or was it three miracles? First Bird, hitting nearly 90 percent of his free throws, missed two. Then 6-foot-6 Charles Barkley beat 6-10 Kevin McHale on a jump ball with three seconds left. Finally, Julius Erving grabbed the tip and swished a three-pointer at the buzzer to give the 76ers a 96-94 NBA victory over the Celtics on Sunday.

single-season record of 69-13. The Celtics are now 64-14. "Obviously, we're disappointed to lose, but we made some mistakes down the stretch and Philadelphia played real hard," Bird said. "Right now, all we want is the regular season to be over and get on with the playoffs." The 76ers, who have clinched the No. 3 seeding position in the Eastern Conference, have won four straight games despite the loss of Malone, their All-Star center. "I've felt that we could keep on winning since last Sunday, when we beat Dallas," Guokas said. "If we continue to play together the way we've been playing, we can beat anybody. It's building our confidence to play this way." Boston led by as many as 11 points in the fourth quarter after ending the third period with an eight-point advantage with the help of two technical fouls. Celtics guard Danny Ainge, after being knocked down on a Philadelphia basket, shoved the 76ers' Sedale Threatt, who responded with a hard right-hand punch to the mouth and was ejected. Ainge hit two free throws after Clemon Johnson also was whistled for a technical for protesting when Ainge remained in the game. "That is just something that happens with the rivalry between these two clubs," Guokas said. "We had two good veteran officials (Darell Garretson and Mike Mathis), who I thought did a great job." Despite the deficit, Erving and Cheeks, who scored 23 and 20 points, respectively, brought the 76ers back. But even after Bird's misses, the 76ers appeared on the verge of defeat when McHale forced the jump ball with Barkley. "In the huddle, we talked about sealing off our man and going after the ball," Erving said. "Charles got the tap and sent it over to where I was. Ainge challenged me but I floated it up there and things worked out just right." Rockets 109, Lakers 103

Houston won this battle of division champions, snapping a streak of 14 consecutive home losses to Los Angeles and setting a team record with 50 victories. Akeem Olajuwon scored 25 points and Ralph Sampson, making his first start since injuring his back and neck in a fall at Boston two weeks ago, added 19 points and 17 rebounds. Houston led 104-92 with 3:45 left, but the Lakers scored eight straight points to get within four with 44 seconds to play. But a jumper by Robert Reid and three free throws by Mitchell Wiggins sealed the outcome. Earvin "Magic" Johnson led the Lakers with 20 points and 20 assists. Nuggets 124, Spurs 106
Denver solidified its hold on the No. 3 Western Conference playoff spot as Alex English scored 29 points against San Antonio. The Nuggets, who lead fourth-place Dallas by 2½ games, hit 58.7 percent of their shots against the Spurs, who lost for the 21st time in 24 games but still have a 1½-game lead over Phoenix for the last Western Conference playoff berth. English, who was 14-for-22 from the field, scored four points during a 9-0 Denver streak in the fourth quarter that extended a nine-point lead to 116-98. Mike Mitchell paced San Antonio with 33 points.

NBA

"We don't want to get too emotionally high before the playoffs, but that was a great win for us," Philadelphia Coach Matt Guokas said. "This is probably our most satisfying win of the year." In other NBA games, it was Houston 109, the Los Angeles Lakers 103; Washington 106, Cleveland 95; and Denver 124, San Antonio 106. Bird said the failure to take his time at the foul line caused the rare double miss that helped the 76ers end the longest winning streak in the NBA this season. "When you don't concentrate at the foul line, that's what happens," said Bird, who had 18 points and 10 assists. Bird indicated that he and his teammates were not concerned with equalling the 1971-72 Los Angeles Lakers' all-time best span of the second and third quarters gave Washington a 71-59 lead, and Cleveland got no closer than 10 the rest of the way. Robinson, Malone and Williams scored all 26 points during the streak. Roy Hinson led the Cavaliers with 24 points and World B. Free had 22.

Boston Celtics' Danny Ainge (left) goes backward after taking a punch to the face by Philadelphia 76ers' Sedale Threatt.

Bullets 106, Cavaliers 95
Washington got 33 points from Cliff Robinson, 25 from Jeff Malone and 21 from Gus Williams in its victory over Cleveland, which tightened the Eastern Conference playoff scramble. The Bullets now are tied with New Jersey for sixth place, with the winner of that race to be paired with injury-hobbled Philadelphia and the seventh-place finisher facing Central Division champ Milwaukee. The Cavaliers' loss dropped them into a tie with Chicago for the final Eastern Conference spot. A 26-14 streak in a 9½-minute

Lyle holds off Bean for Greensboro Open win

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Sandy Lyle doesn't consider his adjustment to American golf complete. It is, however, a lot closer after the Scotsman overcame a nagging stigma by holding on to capture the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament. "I've worked very hard for it. There's been a lot of sweat lost over the last few days," said Lyle, a winner by two shots over Andy Bean, the 1984 GGO champion. "It's very rewarding. The money's good, too." Lyle had never won a tournament on U.S. fairways, although he has established himself as one of the top players on the European circuit. But the 1985 British Open champion ended his drought in this country by taking the victory and a $90,000 paycheck. "You've just got to keep banging on," Lyle said after his final-round 70 gave him a 72-hole total of 275, a 13-under-par score that tied the Forest Oaks Country Club record. "The only way you can do it is work. There's no easy way out. "It's been one of my big problems, believing that I could do it over here," Lyle continued. "I've done it everywhere else but America. This time, it's come right." Lyle's work was made difficult because Bean was on his heels for the final nine holes. Starting the day at 6-under-par, Bean overcame a bogey on the third hole and finished the last two holes on the front nine with consecutive birdies to close within three shots of the lead. Lyle started the day with par, but dropped a shot when he pulled his tee shot on the second hole, hit a cameraman on his second shot and left his third shot short of the green. He two-putted for a bogey 6. "It was a little bit unsettling there," Lyle said. "And then I played fairly solid golf from there on. Meanwhile, I've got Andy Bean breathing down my neck." Bean's charge continued with birdies at 10 and 11. Lyle also birdied 9 and 10, but his comfortable edge was down to two shots with seven holes to play. "Even when I birdied 10, it was still pretty wide open," Bean said. "I birdied 11 and left it short on 12." Bean was within birdie distance on the par-5 13th hole, but he missed the opportunity and felt the momentum he had built was starting to fade. At the 15th hole, Bean birdied to close the gap to one shot, but he couldn't clear the final hurdle. After par at 16, Bean missed 12-foot birdie putts at 17 and 18, thus closing the door on his chance at a second GGO.

"Most any year, with a par on 18, you've got a pretty good chance," Bean said. "But when you've got someone who hits it as long as (Lyle) does, and you're playing as well as he's playing, you don't make too many bogeys..." As Bean watched a television in the official's tent off the 18th green, Lyle closed his round with a 15-foot putt for birdie. Bean gets $54,000 for second place and also has an added bit of confidence going into next week's Masters. "My chances are as good as anybody who tees it up," Bean said.

Isao Aoki shot a final-round 66 for a 72-hole score of 279. Leonard Thompson's 69 tied him with Aoki and both men pocketed $29,000. "Larry Wadkins, who played his collegiate golf at nearby Wake Forest University, was alone at 8-under-par 280, good enough for $20,000. Lyle gets one more chance to overcome his problems on American courses when he travels to Augusta, Ga., this week. But that's after what he hints will be a few days of celebration. "Well, if I can sober up by about Thursday, I should feel good for it."

Bradley wins another title

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Pat Bradley shot a 1-under-par 71 Sunday to win the Nabisco Dinah Shore for the first time and collect the richest prize on the women's golf tour.

Bradley also anchored the winning 800 freestyle relay team, but his team finished second behind Stanford in the final accounting.

Wallace wins Winston Cup

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — Rusty Wallace, flashing past Darrell Waltrip on lap 400 to take the lead for good, notched his first career Winston Cup victory Sunday in the Valleydale Meats 500 at Bristol International Raceway.

Wallace was 11th different winner in the past 11 Winston Cup races, establishing a modern-day record for parity on the stock car circuit.

Stanford men swim champs

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Stanford's Skip Kenney, the eighth coach to win the NCAA men's Division I swimming and diving championship in successive years, thinks the man who made it possible was overlooked.

Stanford junior Pablo Morales and University of California junior Matt Biondi, two of America's brightest swimming stars, each won three individual events and set an American record during the three-day meet at the Indiana University Natatorium.

Biondi was voted the college swimmer of the year award by the NCAA coaches.

Biondi, who last year became the first to swim the 100-meter freestyle in under 49 seconds (48.95) was more excited about his split in Saturday's 400-yard freestyle relay.

Earlier Saturday, the 6-foot-6 Biondi became the first to sweep the three sprint freestyle races in the meet since 1930. He matched Northwestern's Al Schwartz in winning the 100 free in 42.03, finishing more than a second ahead of Iowa State's Scott McCadam.

Biondi also anchored the winning 800 freestyle relay team, but his team finished second behind Stanford in the final accounting.

Stanford had four individual winners on the final night to finish with 404 points, easily outscoring California's 335 total. Texas was next at 325½. Florida, which was seeking its third title in four years, was fourth with 321.

about a dynasty even though he'll have Morales back — along with sophomore Sean Murphy, who won the 200 backstroke for a second consecutive year, and junior Jeff Kostoff, who won the 1,650 free while lowering the U.S. Open, American and NCAA record he set in the event two years ago.

Morales, Moffet, Murphy and Kostoff each scored victories as the meet concluded Saturday.

Kostoff finished nearly 10 seconds ahead of runner-up Matt Cetlinski of Florida in 14:37.87, taking the lead at about 800 yards and steadily pulling away.

The list of winners Saturday also included freshman Li Hongping of China, representing Southern California, on the 3-meter board. Li, who finished fourth in the event at the Los Angeles Olympics, won the championship 2 points over Doug Shaffer of UCLA. Shaffer, who won the 1-meter competition Thursday, was voted NCAA diver of the year by the coaches.

Vince Panzano of Ohio State was recognized as the diving coach of the year.

Morales won the 200 butterfly for the third consecutive year, giving him eight individual career victories in NCAA competition. His 1:43.05 was just under his performance of 1:42.85 that gave him the NCAA, U.S. Open and American mark in the event last year.

Murphy repeated in the 200 backstroke in 1:45.90. Runnerup Andy Gill of Texas was more than a second slower at 1:47.27.

Moffet took first in the 200 breaststroke in 1:56.91.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISCHARGE PERMIT AMENDMENT
UNION CARBIDE CORPORATION, LINDE DIVISION, P.O. Box 3130, Big Spring, Texas 79721 has applied to the Texas Water Commission for an amendment to Permit No. 02908 to authorize an increase in the daily maximum discharge of cooling tower blowdown from 45,000 gallons per day to 80,000 gallons per day at its air separation plant. The proposed amendment is to allow for the increased cooling tower blowdown after periodic dust storms. All other effluent limitations and monitoring requirements remain the same.

The plant is located about 600 feet north of Interstate Highway 30 near Refinery Road and adjacent to the west side of the Cadden Oil Refinery near the City of Big Spring, Howard County, Texas. The effluent is discharged into a natural swale southward to Beala Creek, thence to the Colorado River, Segment No. 1412 of the Colorado River Basin.

Legal Authority: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, and 31 TAC 338 of the Rules of the Texas Water Commission.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application has requested a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address and phone number of the person making the request; and (2) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the permit decision, or that a public hearing would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Requests for a public hearing and/or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing to Michael E. Field, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 463-7905.

Issued this 24th day of March, 1986.

Baseball

be the White Sox pitcher on Opening Day, or any other day. He wants to play for a team closer to his Connecticut home but possible deals with the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox didn't materialize.

Seaver, 16-11 last year and winner of 304 major-league games (7-1 in openers), will be opposed by Milwaukee's Teddy Higuera, who was 15-8 as a 1985 rookie.

Detroit's Jack Morris will pitch his seventh opener while it's No. 2 for Boston's Bruce Hurst.

"Opening Day is always fun," says Morris. "I think the first part of every season is relatively boring because the kids are still in school and there's not much attendance. "But Opening Day, everybody is there. It's fun. I like it when we line up on the foul lines and they introduce both teams. I still have flashbacks of when I played Babe Ruth League ball. I used to dream what it would be like on Opening Day in the big leagues. I often reflect that this is the exact same feeling I thought it would be."

"I guess it brings out the little boy in you. It's something special," echoes Boston Manager John McNamara.

Mike Flanagan, recovered from his second major injury in three years, will be Baltimore's starter against Cleveland, a game Ueberroth is expected to attend.

Flanagan, 4-5 in 1985, missed last year's opener with a torn Achilles tendon suffered in a charity basketball game.

Flanagan's mound opponent will be Ken Schrom, a 31-year-old right-hander acquired by Cleveland in an off-season deal with Minnesota after a 9-12 record with the Twins. Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver will be at the Opening-Day helm for the first time since 1982.

The other major-league teams get under way Tuesday — Kansas City at New York, Toronto at Texas, California at Seattle, and Minnesota at Oakland in the AL; New York at Pittsburgh, Montreal at Atlanta, Chicago at St. Louis, and San Francisco at Houston in the NL.

A TUNE-UP SHOULD BE MORE THAN A NEW SET OF PLUGS

When we do a basic electronic ignition tune-up at Goodyear, we give you a lot for your money — a lot more than just a new set of spark plugs.

COMPUTERIZED ENGINE ANALYSIS***
First, we discuss your car's symptoms with you. Next, an experienced Goodyear mechanic gives your car a comprehensive computerized engine performance analysis and provides you with a computer printout that identifies your car's specific problems... no guesswork!

EXPERIENCED TECHNICIANS
Goodyear mechanics receive specialized technical training to enable them to evaluate your car's problems and the test results.

A BASIC TUNE-UP MAY NOT BE ENOUGH
All of this is included in the cost of a basic engine tune-up. And sometimes this thorough analysis uncovers additional needs that can't be corrected by a basic tune-up.

WITH YOUR PERMISSION
If a basic tune-up is all your car needs then we think you'll find that ours is the most thorough in the industry. And when it needs more than just a basic tune-up, we're equipped and trained to detect the problem and, with your permission, fix it right!

*Now available at most locations nationwide.
