Japan pledges more imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone agreed today that the Japanese government is committed to a fundamental restructuring of Japanese society to satisfy the country's western trading partners.

After talks between the two leaders at Camp David on Sunday and a brief White House meeting today, Reagan acknowledged that setting a new course involving drastic changes in the Japanese lifestyle and culture "will take time, vigorous effort and patience."

But he said Nakasone "is determined to implement fundamental policy changes, and I applauded the prime minister's commitment to leading his nation toward an economic future more in harmony with the needs of the global economy."

"There are no quick or easy fixes, but we do know protectionism is not the answer," Reagan said.

Nakasone said he told the president that "Japan must effect an historic turn, and I am determined to accept the challenge. The president wholeheartedly welcomed this approach."

U.S. and Japanese officials, speaking prior to their leaders' final meeting today, said Nakasone expressed his determination to rid Japan of its long-coveted trade surplus and convert its people into more leisurely, higher-living and import-hungry consumers.

After the closing session, a U.S. official speaking on condition he not be quoted by name, said Nakasone had promised "a work schedule" to implement the vast changes contemplated.

"We accept the prime minister and his government's commitment to move ahead on this," the official said. But he said the United States would wait "to see what they come up with" regarding a timetable for change.

Reagan and Nakasone also discussed Japan's 1983 decision to consider lowering barriers to imports of products in four major areas where the United States excels in manufacture — telecommunications, sophisticated electronics, forest products and medical equipment and pharmaceuticals.

The U.S. official said no new categories were added to the list but that trade negotiators would discuss that issue later.

After years of concentrating nearly all their commercial efforts on developing an economy built on exports, the Japanese now realize that policy "is having a serious and adverse impact on relations with this country and others in the world," said one U.S. official briefing reporters after the meeting.

And a Japanese official, who, like the American, described the talks on condition he not be identified, said Reagan spoke of "mounting frustration in the United States" over the inability of U.S. firms to compete with Japanese products in either country.

Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone waves as he walks with Secretary of State George Shultz after he arrived in Washington Saturday. On Sunday, Nakasone met with President Reagan at Camp David.

Center voices concern over fund cuts

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Faced with a $30,000 cut in federal funding, representatives of the area Senior Citizens Center asked county commissioners for help at a meeting of the commissioners court this morning.

The center currently receives $120,000 a year in federal funds, but center director Carol McCarty expects that subsidy to dip to $90,000 under terms of Gramm-Rudman, she said.

"I just don't see how it can remain open," she said of the center that currently serves 500 county residents and has served as many as 800 since last October.

McCarty told commissioners she has been able to find just $4,000 that can be sliced from next year's budget.

Also, she said the center is already raising $50,000 on its own to help its funding.

The center provides a range of activities for the elderly as well as meal and transportation services. "It would be a shame to lose all this," she told the court.

Commissioners advised her to submit the center's budget for review by the court and said they will consider helping with financing during their budget deliberations later this year.

Besides hearing concerns about the center, the commission acted on the Precinct 1 Place 2 Justice of the Peace vacancy left by the April 3 death of Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

After hearing arguments by three people wanting appointment to the job and Place 2 Justice of the Peace China Long, the court decided to take resumes for the position until May 12, the first court

U.S. seeks European support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today pressed its diplomatic campaign for European support of some action against Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy as a leading Republican senator was called to the White House for consultations with President Reagan on the latest developments.

Meanwhile, Libya's official news agency, JANA, and Tripoli radio, both monitored on Cyprus, reported that 30 U.S. F-4 Phantom jets and three

C-130 transport planes had arrived at the British base at Akrotiri.

JANA and Tripoli radio said the C-130s unloaded "long boxes, which may have contained missiles." The reports could not be independently verified, and attempts to reach the base spokesmen were unsuccessful.

U.S. Ambassador Vernon Walters, a key Reagan, diplomatic troubleshooter, was in Paris for meetings with President Francois Mitterrand and Premier Jacques Chirac, said to be leading the opponents of military action against Khadafy's renegade regime. Walters was to be in Rome later in the day.

Meantime, West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher, delayed by an urgent session of European Community officials in The Hague, is hurrying to Washington for talks with Reagan and Secretary of State George P. Shultz on Tuesday.

Budget builders eye Social Security cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Low inflation is pushing Social Security back into the Congressional budget-cutting struggle, only a few months after the benefits were exempted from the automatic cutbacks of the new deficit-reduction law.

Congress may soon face the choice of skipping a cost-of-living increase for Social Security and related programs, or cutting $4 billion or more from other programs to pay for it.

The consumer price index must rise more than 3 percent in the year ending Sept. 30 to trigger the automatic cost-of-living raise in January for Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, veterans pensions or the federal railroad retirement system.

Recent decreases in oil prices and interest rates threaten to drop the year's inflation below the threshold. Consumer prices rose only 1.1 percent in the first quarter of this year. Skipping the COLA for a year could allow Congress about $4 billion more money to spend in fiscal 1987, when the government is required to stay under a $144 billion deficit ceiling because of the Gramm-Rudman deficit law. The law exempts Social Security from the automatic cutbacks — but savings in that area would still count toward reaching the goal.

Congress passed and President Reagan signed a bill in 1984 requiring the inflation increases even if the threshold wasn't met that year, although it later was reached. But this year there's no assurance the politicians will ride to the rescue again.

"If you give the COLAs (cost-of-living adjustments), you've got to pay for it somewhere else" under Gramm-Rudman, said Rep. William H. Gray III, chairman of the House Budget Committee.

Opponent of Shaw raises election fund

AUSTIN — John R. Anderson of Gail is the only Republican candidate raising money in an effort to unseat Texas House District 69's incumbent, Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring.

Shaw, who has no opponent in the May 3 Democratic primary election, does not have to file a campaign finance report with the secretary of state until October. However, Anderson's report for the period of Jan. 16 through March 24 shows he has raised $2,050 in contributions and made a loan to himself for $3,712. He also reports spending $3,934.

For the same period, fellow Republican Travis C. Floyd of Big Spring shows no contributions and only one expenditure of $600. No explanation of the $600 expenditure is given. However, the filing fee for the office is $600.

Anderson's major contributions include $500 each from John Taylor, Truman Jones and A.K. Guthrie, all of Big Spring; and $100 each from John T. Evans of Progresso, Joe M. Evans of Meceada and O.S. Womack of Big Spring.

His expenditures include $1,050 to Clark Straughn of Austin for political consultant work; $661 for rooms and food on trips; $235 for newspaper ads; $150 for Texas Republican campaign materials; and $116 for food at a rally. District 69 includes Borden, Crane, Culberson, Glasscock, Howard, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Loving, Reagan, Reeves, Upton, Ward and Winkler counties.

The next campaign finance report is due April 28.

Pilots launch own cargo venture

SHERMAN (AP) — A strange sight greets passers-by on Airport Drive at Grayson County Airport — two cigar-shaped, silvery aircraft, stripped of paint, sit on the tarmac with propellers missing and parts exposed.

During the day, workers usually are fixing one thing or another. Perched on ladders, their deft hands rattle inside 1,500-horsepower engines. They add a bolt to a wing here, a rivet to the cabin there, and generally work to get the aircraft ready to fly.

One of the mechanics is Doug Norred, 41, a licensed aircraft and power-plant repairman. Often, he is accompanied by Earl Davis, 44, a Braniff pilot who holds similar licenses.

Those two aircraft represent an unusual and budding business for Norred and Davis.

Together, they own MM Aircraft, which repairs planes, and Custom Air Transport, which eventually will haul cargo for companies on an unscheduled, contract basis.

The businesses, according to Davis, started when Braniff went bankrupt three years ago. "I was a pilot for Braniff when they folded," Davis said. "I talked to Doug, who was working as chief inspector for Falcon (an air-transport company), and we decided to go into business together."

The two men have known each other since 1965, when both received their pilot's licenses at Addison airport. In the ensuing years, they have remained friends, often hunting together.

The pair decided to go into the used airplane market and bought a couple of planes, which were resold at a profit. Then, Davis said, they made an unusual find. At an auction in Alabama, he and Norred bought an airplane with a rather uncommon history.

"The gentleman who was flying the plane," Davis recounted, "got into some weather, and had to make an instrument landing. The only airport with an instrument landing system happened to be

Montgomery (Ala.)

"So he landed the plane, and taxed. By the time he stopped the airplane, he realized he was parked on the Department of Public Safety Airwing's ramp," Davis said, a smile on his face. "He bailed out, and the next morning the airwing found themselves with an airplane full of dope."

Rosita's asks debt restructure

A motion has been filed in federal bankruptcy court in San Angelo asking that three Chapter 11 petitions, including one for Rosita's restaurant, 404 E. FM 700, be combined for joint administration.

Chapter 11 filing seeks reorganization of debts under federal bankruptcy laws. Ken Fedor, manager of Rosita's, said this morning that the Mexican food restaurant will remain open. The Chapter 11 petition was filed March 31.

Joint administration is sought "in the interest of convenience of the parties and reduction of costs of administration," according to the motion filed with the court.

The cases involve Landmark, doing business as Rosita's in Del Rio and Big Spring and Seawings in Lubbock; Concho Corp., operating as Rosita's in San Angelo; and O'Malley's Restaurants and Pubs Inc., operating an O'Malley's Restaurant in Abilene.

The petition says all three entities share common directors, elected officers and "the same persons perform substantially all of their record-keeping functions."

Fedor said a meeting of creditors would be held in San Angelo within 60 days.

Local creditors named in the motion are radio stations KBYG, KUFO, KIOF, KBST and KWKI; the Big Spring Herald; Midway Plumbing; Big Spring Savings; Texas Coca-Cola of Big Spring; Big Spring Hardware; Culligan Water Condition; L.H. Office Center; Keen Electric; Jane's Flowers and Gifts; and Hester's Supply.

Sheriff's Log

Burglar uses unlocked door

Someone stole $100 from Ellen Anders of Sand Springs between 4:30 and 7 p.m. Saturday. The burglar entered her residence through an unlocked front door while Anders was away and stole the money from a dresser drawer, she told sheriff's deputies.

Tim Blackshear of 2604 Carol told deputies someone stole a submersible pump from a water well on some land he owns near Coahoma. The well was also damaged. Total loss was estimated at $500. The theft occurred between February and Saturday night, he said.

Department of Public Safety troopers arrested Clifford Stanley Barnhart, 23, of Fort Worth at 9:15 p.m. Sunday on Interstate 20 at mile post 176 on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, according to sheriff's reports. Bond was set at $1,000 by Justice of the Peace China Long.

Jesus Manuel Gonzales, 38, of 212 N. Goliad was arrested by the Stanton sheriff's department at 4:32 a.m. Sunday on three Howard County Department of Public Safety warrants. He paid $183 in fines.

The DPS arrested Robert L. Contreras, 28, of Lamesa at 6:30 p.m. Sunday in the Big Spring City Park on a warrant, according to sheriff's reports. He was released on two $200 bonds.

Glen Eugene Meek, 29, of 1012 W. Third St. was transferred from city custody Sunday afternoon on a warrant for delivery marijuana, according to sheriff's reports. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Richard Dias Flores, 32, of 209 N. Goliad, was confined on a writ of attachment at 1 p.m. Sunday, according to sheriff's reports.

Mike Moreno Ortega, 28, of 603 Bell was transferred from city custody at 9:30 a.m. Sunday on suspicion of unlawfully carrying a weapon, according to sheriff's reports. He was released on a total of $3,000 bond.

Trinidad Montanez Morales, 59, of 1109 W. Sixth St. was transferred from city custody at 3 p.m. Saturday on suspicion of DWI, according to sheriff's reports. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Commissioner O.L. Brown moved the court take this approach in the interest of fairness to the people who seek the temporary assignment.

Heflin's clerk Melinda McCann said she should be appointed to the post because the law allows for the first assistant to assume responsibilities in the event of a justice of the peace dying in office.

However, Precinct 1 Place 2 Justice of the Peace China Long said she would be willing to handle Heflin's caseload until the winner of November's election is sworn in in January.

Former sheriff's deputy Eddie Owens and businessman Jerry Roach also told commissioners they wanted the position.

Until a person is appointed, Long will continue signing Place 2 citations and McCann will continue to handle the paper work of the office.

The court also authorized McCann to any sign checks coming through the office.

The court will also weigh the option of appointing the winner of the Democratic primary in May as temporary justice of the peace. No Republicans are running for the seat.

In other business the court: On a 3-2 vote hired Lyn Carpenter as county trapper. Carpenter's salary was not discussed.

Heard county engineer Bill Mims' recommendation for sand blasting, re-caulking and re-sealing mortar joints on the outer walls of the courthouse. Mims estimated the work will cost $25,000.

Heart attack causes wreck

A 36-year-old Big Spring man died Sunday night after he suffered a heart attack and lost control of his car near his home in the 700 block of East 18th St.

Kenton C. Vickery of 1410 E. 18th St. was pronounced dead on arrival at Malone-Hogan Hospital, said a spokeswoman there this morning. Justice of the Peace Willie Grant of Coahoma ruled the cause of Vickery's death was cardiac arrest. Witnesses told police Vickery's car began to swerve back and forth across 18th Street striking a traffic sign, a parked car and finally a tree.

Captain Lonnie Smith said a doctor at the hospital told police Vickery suffered the heart attack while driving.

Services for Vickery are pending at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

State

By The Associated Press
A strong cold front moving through Texas lowered temperatures and triggered thunderstorms in northeastern parts of the state and forecasters predicted the precipitation would continue.

The front stretched along a line from Texarkana through Dallas and San Angelo to south of Midland and was moving southeast. Scattered showers dampened the Hill Country of Central Texas. Thunderstorms brought high winds that snapped the arm of a railroad crossing in Camp County, blew down signs in Morris County and caused power outages in the community of Jenkins.

Lake levels reported low

Lake Thomas is 38 1/2 feet below spillway, only 12 percent of capacity, and Lake Spence is 39 percent of capacity at 29 feet below spillway, the Colorado River Municipal Water District reported today.

During the first quarter, 11,221 acre feet of water was withdrawn from the two lakes, and there was no inflow, the district said. Spence is at elevation 1868.96 and Lake Thomas is at elevation 2219.24.

Income of the Colorado River Municipal Water District is 1.7 percent over budget and expenses are 1 percent under anticipated for the first quarter of 1986, according to a district news release.

Of the $3 million revenues, $2.95 came from the sale of water. Expenses for the first quarter were $1,576,045, of which $1,330,144 was for operation and maintenance. Electric power charges of $926,260 accounted for most of operation costs. The figure is about $49,000 under projections.

Most of the water delivered during the first quarter came from lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence. They totalled 3.65 billion gallons, or 88 percent of total deliveries. Diversion works accounted for 450 million gallons, or 11 percent. Wells yielded only 62 million gallons, or 1 1/2 percent.

Victim remembered

DETROIT — Army Sgt. Kenneth T. Ford, killed in the terrorist bombing of a Berlin discotheque just a week before he was scheduled to come home for a visit, was remembered at his funeral as a happy person who liked basketball and put others before himself.

"You never saw him in an angry-type mood. He kept things within himself," said Daniel Moore, who like Ford was a deacon at Flowerly Mount Baptist Church in Detroit.

Ford, 21, died in the April 5 explosion at the La Belle nightclub a week before he was scheduled to return to Detroit and see his family for the first time in 2½ years.

Mobster killed in blast

NEW YORK — A reputed mobster believed to have endorsed the slaying of the alleged head of the Gambino organized crime family was killed by a bomb that shattered a parked car, authorities said.

Frank DeCicco, 52, identified by officers as the No. 2 man in the Gambino family, died Sunday in the blast, which also critically injured another man, believed to be a member of the Lucchese crime family, police said.

A federal law enforcement source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press Sunday night that DeCicco was "believed to have acquiesced" to the shooting deaths on Dec. 16 of Paul Castellano, 70, former reputed Gambino boss, and an associate, Thomas Bilotti, 45, on Dec. 16.

Feud for spot in history

EL PASO — The tamale-hush puppy food feud between Ysleta-EI Paso and Nacogdoches to prove which community is oldest has just gotten spicier.

Nacogdoches Mayor A.L. Mangham still claims his town is the oldest in Texas, has been and always will be — yesterday, today and tamale. Mangham is so sure his city is the oldest, he is doing all he can to hush EI Paso Mayor Jonathan Rogers' claim that Ysleta is the oldest.

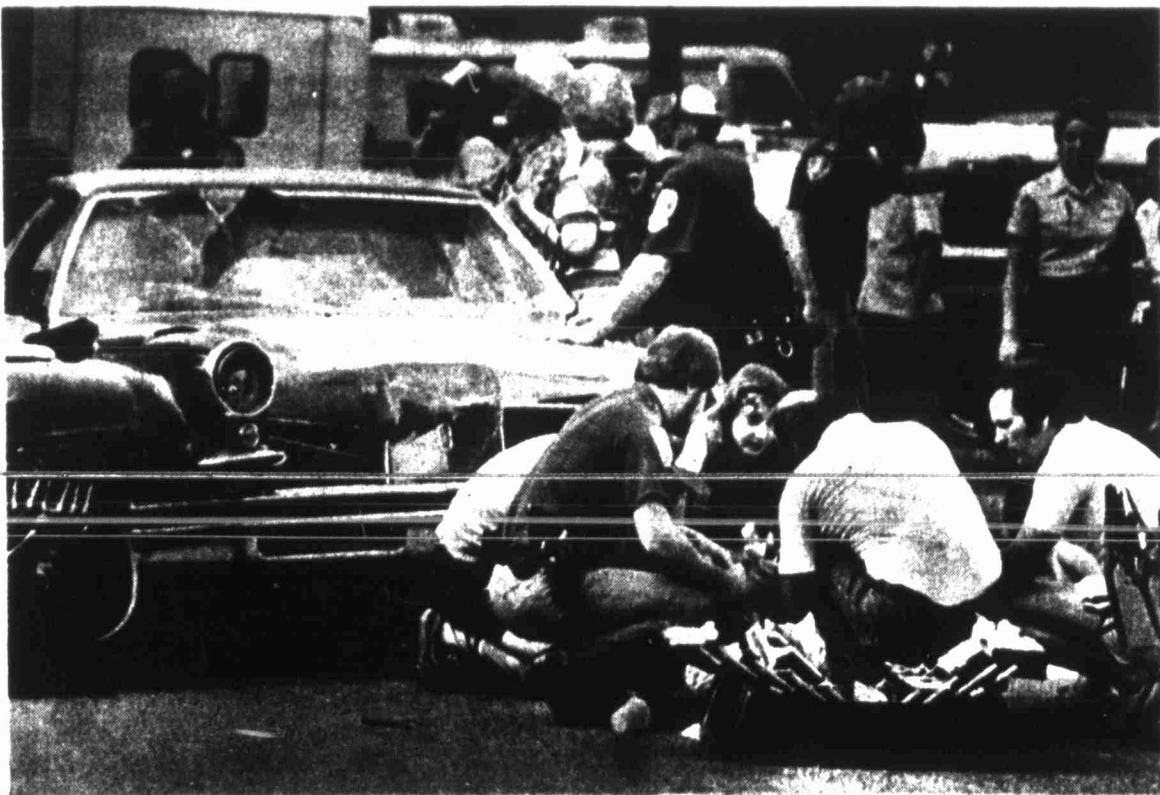

Ysleta is a community within EI Paso that once was its own city, while Nacogdoches is an East Texas city 800 miles away from EI Paso.

Bomb theory rejected

NEW YORK — Investigators have found evidence that last month's Mexicana Airlines crash in which 166 people died was caused by a mechanical problem rather than by a terrorist bomb, The New York Times reported today.

Indications are that an explosion in a wheel well for the landing gear led to the crash March 31, the newspaper said.

It cited sources close to the investigation as saying that none of the normal signs of sabotage, such as explosives residue or telltale patterns of structural rupture, have been detected in the wreckage of the Boeing 727.

Emergency personnel work on victims of an accident that killed one person and injured 29 Sunday in Ponchatoula, La. A car driven by an elderly woman crashed through a crowd of people walking to the Strawberry Festival. The car in the background is the vehicle driven by the woman.

Ill at wheel

Wayward vehicle mows down fairgoers

PONCHATOULA, La. (AP) — A car that plowed into a crowd of fairgoers and mowed down people for a block, killing a man and injuring 24 others, sounded like repeating fireworks as it hit them, a witness said.

Teacher Kim Zabbia, who was in her front yard nearby when she heard what happened, said "It sounded like fireworks — pop, pop, pop. People were yelling, telling people to get out of the way."

The car, driven by an 83-year old woman who apparently became ill at the wheel, smashed into a crowd of people Sunday as they were going to or coming from the popular Strawberry Festival.

"She got to the corner where she would normally turn, and something happened, possibly she had a seizure or possibly a heart attack," said Tangipahoa Parish Chief Deputy John Dahmer.

He said the car, traveling at 20 to 25 mph, knocked down people for a block along the roped-off street near the festival's main entrance. It stopped only when it smashed into a parked car.

Byron Ragan, 14, said he was walking down the street when he heard people screaming and saw the car coming toward him.

"My first reaction was just to grab people and throw them away from the street," he said.

"It all happened so fast," said fair-goer Margie Price. "With all the screaming, I thought it was like a riot over there."

"It was about a half a block away from the festival itself, and a lot of the people who lived right there whose houses were right in that area, their driveways and yards were used as emergency stations," said Laura Mauffray, 21, a disc jockey who was broadcasting live from the festival.

"They were dragging people up there. They were putting people in pickup trucks and driving them off to the hospital," she said. "It was really a sad scene; a lot of people were crying."

The driver, Inez Layrison, was hospitalized for observation and tests, Dahmer said. Mrs. Layrison, who suffered cuts and bruises in the accident, is the mother of Sheriff Ed Layrison.

The dead man was identified as Michael Meyer, 45, of suburban New Orleans. Three people were critically injured, hospital authorities said.

Sunny weather and temperatures in the low 80s brought what appeared to be a record crowd, estimated by fair officials at over 100,000, to the festival on Sunday. Ponchatoula, about 35 miles northwest of New Orleans, is in a major strawberry-growing area.

John Berault, spokesman for Seventh Ward Hospital, said 17 of the victims were treated there. "The injuries ranged from minor abrasions to one fatality," he said. One of the critically injured people, he said, was a 17-month-old boy.

Dahmer said despite early reports that as many as 50 were injured, the casualty total was 26, including Meyer and Mrs. Layrison. He said no charges were filed and the matter was under investigation.

Marcos backers clash

MANILA, Philippines — Police clashed today with supporters of a pro-Marcos politician, and at least 15 people were reported injured. Both sides accused the other of using firearms.

The fracas took place in the Manila suburb of San Juan, where Joseph Estrada, the mayor under ousted President Ferdinand E. Marcos, relinquished his post on Friday to Reynaldo San Pascual, the appointee of President Corazon Aquino.

Estrada, a popular Tagalog-language movie actor, gave up the San Juan mayor's post after holding out in the city hall out for three weeks, but his supporters refused to yield control of the building.

Military buildup seen

LONDON — Eyewitnesses say many U.S. Air Force tanker and transport planes have been flying into Britain for the past three days, and British media reported today that the movements indicate a U.S. military buildup for a possible strike at Libya.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman, however, refused to confirm that any buildup was taking place.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher remained silent on the possible use of British bases for any attack on Libya, but reporters said that at one point Sunday, KC-10A tankers were landing every 20 minutes at Mildenhall base, 3rd U.S. Air Force headquarters in eastern England.

Stampede causes death

NEW DELHI, India — A news agency report said at least 46 people were killed early today in a stampede by Hindu pilgrims seeking to bathe in the holy waters of the Ganges River.

The stampede occurred early this morning as millions thronged the city of Hardwar on the banks of the Ganges on the climax of the Khumbh Mela, a religious festival held only once every 12 years.

The United News of India news agency quoted police sources as saying the stampede occurred when one of the pilgrims fell down in the crush of people, dragging others down with him.

It said 32 of the dead were women and two were children.

Cabinet crisis ends

JERUSALEM — Israeli Cabinet officials approved a plan to have the finance minister and justice minister switch jobs, ending a six-day crisis that had pushed the shaky coalition government to the brink of collapse.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres, who had demanded the resignation of Finance Minister Yitzhak Modai because of his criticism of government economic policies and his personal attacks on Peres, announced the agreement after a Cabinet meeting late Sunday.

Stockman critical of Reagan's 'reckless' fiscal policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — David A. Stockman says President Reagan is living in a "dreamland," holding America hostage to a reckless fiscal policy that threatens to send inflation soaring again.

The former budget director rakes Reagan and his inner circle over the coals in his new $2.4 million book, "The Triumph of Politics: Why the Reagan Revolution Failed."

Stockman says the Reagan revolution never had a chance because Reagan lacked the stomach to make a direct attack on "the American welfare state" and was ill-served by aides such as Michael Deaver and Edwin Meese who "never read anything. They lived off the tube."

Newsweek is publishing excerpts from the book in the issues on newsstands today and next Monday.

By 1984, Stockman writes, the White House "had become a dreamland. It was holding the American economy hostage to a reckless, unstable fiscal policy based on the politics of high spending and the doctrine of low taxes."

Stockman, who quit the Cabinet to join the Wall Street investment firm of Salomon Bros. last summer, said that instead of facing up to staggering $200 billion-a-year deficits, "the White House proclaimed a roaring economic success."

"It bragged that its policies had worked as never before when, in fact, they had produced fiscal excesses that have never before been imagined."

Stockman does not absolve himself of blame for doubling the national debt to $2 trillion on Reagan's watch.

He did not "appreciate the vast web of confusion and self-delusion I was creating" during the heady days in 1981 when he concocted the tax and budget cuts Reagan pushed through Congress.

Stockman says he and his fellow supply-side revolutionaries "made our own bed of political misery" by highlighting "the easy part — the giant tax cut."

Stockman expressed frustration at Reagan's inability or unwillingness to grasp the situation.

"What do you do when your president ignores all the palpable, relevant facts and wanders in circles?"

"He was a consensus politician, not an ideologue," Stockman says. Revolution "wasn't in his bones."

Harper & Row is publishing Stockman's book April 23. Stockman says that to camouflage the shaky economic assumptions the administration built its budgets around, he "became a veritable incubator of shortcuts, schemes and devices to overcome the truth now upon us — that the budget gap couldn't be closed, except by a dictator."

But administration officials went along with it. "The more I flopped and staggered around, however, the more they went along. I could have been wearing a sandwich board sign saying: 'Stop me, I'm dangerous!' Even then they might not have done so."

Stockman, who favors both "a lot of new taxes" and more budget cuts, warned, "If we stay the course we are now on, the decade will end with a worse hyperinflation than the one with which it began."

A new Stockman biography by journalist Owen Ullmann says the budget director was contemptuous of Reagan's intellectual capacity and sometimes joked that Reagan might be getting senile.

Both Stockman's own account and Ullmann's book, "Stockman: The Man, The Myth, The Future," tell of bruising battles inside the Cabinet.

Stockman complained of Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's "stubborn and rigid" efforts to protect what Stockman saw as a bloated Pentagon budget.

Stockman became so aggravated at one Cabinet meeting, he writes in his memoirs, "I actually slapped a hand over my mouth to prevent myself from committing an indiscretion. It wouldn't have been right to shout b—— in front of the president of the United States."

He also says his trip "to the woodshed" where Reagan was said to have chastised him for indiscreet remarks in Atlantic Monthly concerning the administration's economic policies was a stage-managed affair in which chief of staff James A. Baker III chewed him out at the insistence of Deaver and others before a low-key private lunch with Reagan.

White House spokesman Peter Rousset said the Reagan administration would have no comment on the book.

Stockman wrote that Meese, chief of staff in Reagan's first term, "entombed himself beneath a pyramid of paper and disorganization. He never met a committee he didn't like."

Meat ax at parks is not necessary

We take a dim view of the National Parks Service's plan to increase its park fees five-fold and to close some parks because of Gramm-Rudman budget cuts. There's more to this than meets the jaundiced eye.

At least 400 million visitors enjoy 330 national parks, recreation areas, and historical zones scattered across the country. For millions of Americans, the use of national park areas for a nominal fee has been one of the few enjoyable dividends in their relationship with the federal government.

It was the unpleasant task of William Penn Mott, director of the National Parks Service, to bring us this bad news. He is the point man for the Department of Interior, to which the parks belong. Actually, our problem is with Interior Secretary Donald P. Hodel, who apparently has imposed an across-the-board cut throughout his department.

Instead of going after bureaucratic fat and wasteful practices, Mr. Hodel plans to impose budget cuts where they will hurt the American people the most. He is not unique, of course, in such public punishment. Instead of thinking in terms of the most good for the most people, the average federal department head or bureaucrat translates a mandatory budget cut into the doctrine of how many can be harmed by it. The obvious purpose is to stir up sufficient public protest to persuade Congress to restore the money.

The national parks come as close as anything in the federal government to being the property of the American people, and for their personal enjoyment. The parks, therefore, should be available on as free a basis as possible. They should not be a handy vehicle for the Interior Department to raise funds lost in the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction plan.

Bond tax break got side-tracked

That guy in the Nuveen ad who says, "For me, April 15 is just another day" can relax a little. The Senate Finance Committee has scotched the bad idea of applying its minimum tax to the interest on existing municipal bonds, which are now tax-free — though they may apply it to bonds issued after this year. Fortunately for our non-taxpayer, the committee hasn't really addressed the more deserving problem, which is the promiscuous use of tax-exempt bonds for unjustified purposes.

This tax break, originally provided when the federal income tax was established, is dubious in the best of circumstances. The point was to buttress federalism by making it comparatively easy for states and municipalities to raise money for capital projects — roads, schools, sewers and the like. The provision gave them an advantage over other borrowers by lowering the rate they had to pay to sell their bonds.

In economic terms, this amounts to a federal subsidy to lower units of government, since it requires Washington to sacrifice some tax revenue. Unfortunately, it also subsidizes bondholders, most of whom are wealthy. This defect makes it an expensive way to assist states and cities. But it probably ought to be kept, just to avoid the uncertainty, red tape, aggravation and loss of independence that would result from making them rely on direct federal appropriations.

That's no excuse, though, for allowing states and cities to use their tax exemption to raise money for projects that have nothing to do with its original purpose. In 1984, only about 25 percent of the money borrowed through tax-exempt bonds went to finance public goods like roads, schools and sewers. The rest was used for private purposes like business investment, hospitals, home mortgages and student loans.

These are perfectly good uses for borrowed money. The question is why their recipients deserve the advantage conferred by the tax exemption, which has to be made up by other taxpayers. Why should some corporations get cheap loans to make money for their shareholders? Why should some people get discount mortgages and others not? Why should people who have the chance to go to college, a generally lucrative investment, get their education paid for partly by those less fortunate?

Pollution controls are a perfect example. No one doubts the need to protect the environment. But this doesn't justify granting a tax exemption to such investments. A better approach is to make the polluter pay for the controls. Ultimately, the company's customers, whose purchases make the controls necessary, would bear the cost. Letting corporations borrow money at tax-free rates only shifts part of the cost to taxpayers at large.

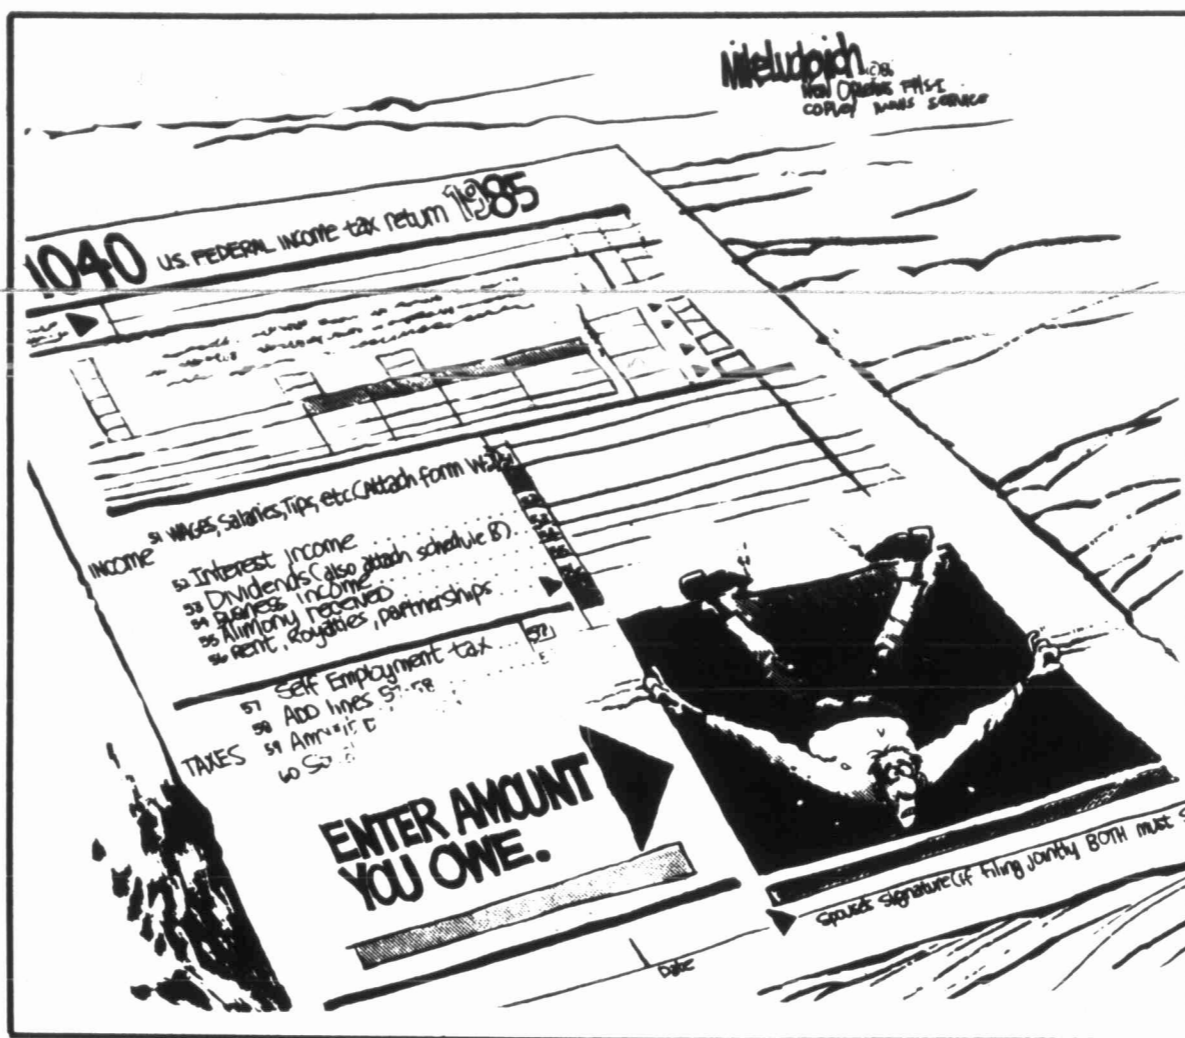

The process can also be self-defeating. Cities competing to attract business are under pressure to offer tax-exempt financing as a lure. But if they all offer it, none gets an advantage. Only the favored companies profit — at the expense of taxpayers, who have to make up the lost receipts. Local and state governments also suffer, because a higher volume of bonds tends to raise the interest rates they have to pay.

Even if it made sense to subsidize activities like these, this tax exemption is a poor way to provide the subsidy. The Treasury Department figures that for every $1 of benefits received by the borrower, the federal government loses up to $1.50. It would be cheaper to revoke the exemption and simply give the favored groups the money.

That would also solve much of the problem troubling Senate Finance Committee chairman Robert Packwood, namely that the exemption allows some wealthy Americans to escape taxes on much of their income. If it were limited to its original purposes, as the Reagan administration wants, the volume of bonds issued each year would drop by 75 percent. The benefit to bondholders would fall as well. Revenues would rise by some $3 billion a year.

It's not every tax increase that not only raises money but promotes efficiency and equity. When one like this comes along, Congress should adopt it.

Maureen may have meddled in Daddy's foreign policy stance

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Did Maureen Reagan try to have an official guest sent home because the visitor opposed the administration's aid to the Contras? The president's daughter denies any such attempt, and the visiting Nicaraguan finished her stay as scheduled. Here's what government sources told our associate Lucette Lagnado:

Azucena Ferre is a politically active intellectual, a member of the wealthy Nicaraguan landowning family. She was selected by U.S. Embassy officials in Managua to come to Washington as part of the U.S. Information Agency's cultural exchange program.

Ms. Ferre was known to be an opponent of the Sandinista regime. What apparently was not so well known is that she also opposes the Contras. Her views coincide with those of an alternative anti-Sandinista group, the coalition that includes the Costa Rica-based guerrilla force of Eden Pastora, the onetime Sandinista hero known as Commandante Zero.

When she arrived in Washington a few weeks ago, Ms. Ferre told her USIA hosts she wanted to meet members of Congress and tell them her anti-Sandinista, anti-Contra views. Someone involved with the trip had the bright idea that Ms. Ferre should also meet Maureen Reagan, the president's politically active daughter. Both women had attended the international women's conference in Nairobi last year.

Instead of reminiscences of Kenya, however, there was a passionate discussion of Nicaraguan politics, with each woman taking pains to make her opinion known to the other. The scheduled 30-minute meeting stretched to more than an hour, sources said, causing Ms. Ferre to miss an appointment with officials of the Republican National Committee.

Ms. Reagan admitted to our associate that she was upset by Ms. Ferre's anti-Contra views. She also acknowledged that she called her father's good friend, Charles Z. Wick, head of the U.S. Information Agency.

Ms. Reagan said she merely told Wick that Ms. Ferre was not the "political organizer" she was thought to be, and added that Ms. Ferre could be in danger back in Managua if her anti-Sandinista views were publicized. For her own safety, Maureen Reagan said, she urged that Ms. Ferre be kept from meeting the Washington press corps.

At no point, Ms. Reagan insists, did she suggest that the USIA send Ms. Ferre packing back to Nicaragua.

Officials involved with the Ferre trip put a different spin on the episode. They insist that they got word from "the top" that Ms. Ferre was to be sent home forthwith, that she be kept from press contacts — and that Maureen Reagan was behind it all.

Sources said the officials were called on the carpet by USIA officials and told to "terminate" Ms. Ferre's visit. But they pointed out that the Nicaraguan visitor already had an appointment with the editors of the New York Times, and her failure to show up could be more embarrassing than anything she might say at the meeting.

"What should I tell these people, that she dropped dead?" one official reportedly asked.

On this pragmatic basis, the information agency officials reportedly relented, and Ms. Ferre completed her USIA-sponsored visit as scheduled.

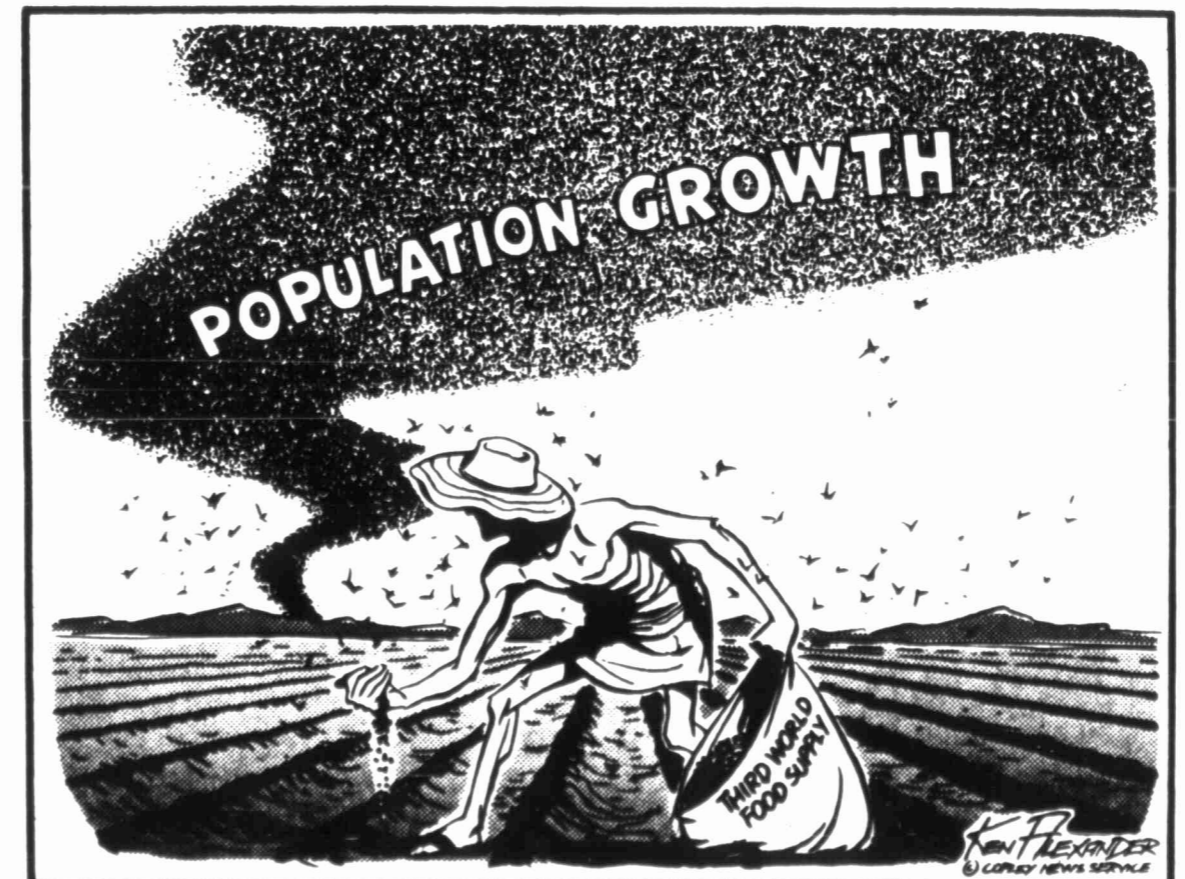

How persuasive the Nicaraguan woman was at the New York Times is not known. But it is clear that she failed to sway Maureen Reagan. The president's daughter told us it is "naive" to suppose there can be an effective dialogue with the Sandinistas, as Ms. Ferre insisted is possible. Military defeat of the Managua regime is the only solution, the president's daughter said.

Footnote: A USIA spokesman would offer "no comment" concerning Ms. Ferre's visit or the discussions between Maureen Reagan and Charles Wick.

BICENTENNIAL BOONDOGGLE: Our recent report that the commission on the bicentennial of the Constitution is considering a $150 million monument didn't sit well with Ron Mann, the commission's deputy staff director. In a memo to his staff, he denied the story, explaining: "At present our main efforts are dedicated to getting organized and developing the necessary organizational paper," he explained. In other words, after months of existence, the commission isn't organized enough to consider anything. Our sources still insist the monument will be a top priority — if the commission ever gets its act together.

CHILD'S PLAY: Military experts tell us it was a piece of cake for the Navy to evade the missiles that the Libyans fired at its pilots over the Gulf of Sidra last month. The missiles were fooled by electronic countermeasures that sent them zooming off miles from their targets. The reason it was so easy is that the Pentagon has been secretly using captured or stolen missiles to train its pilots to avoid the Soviet-made weapons. So the Navy was more than ready when the real things came along.

Around The Rim

How I got fit, by Tim Appel

By TIM APPEL
It only happens early in the morning.

After several months of watching television for entertainment and popping tops for exercise, I awoke one morning to the agonizing screams of my body. It was telling me: "You gotta get fitness."

So one evening, after a televised hockey game and a few Stroh's, I decided to join the YMCA. And no more beer for me, thank you. Milk and Gatorade would now become my fluids of health.

So I suited up in old gym clothes that had long been forgotten in the back of a dresser drawer and a pair of high-top shoes that had served me well through many college P.E. courses.

The warrior was now in his armor, ready to do battle on the basketball court.

But then again, college was many years ago, my health is not as well as before, I have been out of practice all these years, my shoes have lost their grip, the sun is in my eyes ... and whatever other excuse I could think of came to mind.

For there on the basketball court, waiting for a game to start up, were 15 or so humanoid mutants, probably the product of drinking unfiltered Big Spring water. They were divided into two groups; those that were about 7 feet tall, with a 4-foot vertical leap, or those that were my size, but who could gun the ball from 45-feet into the hoop and not even give it a second thought.

So as I rambled onto the court to join into a game, it quickly became apparent that I was outclassed. There was no possible way to rebound over these giants who camped out in the lane. My feet could not keep up with these younger players when I was on defense. And with the hot-shot shooters out there, I knew I would never see the ball in my hands.

But yes, the exercise was there. After two games of simply running up and down the court, it was time to give up for the night, go home and drink a big glass of milk.

The next morning, I woke up feeling awful. Every muscle hurt to the point that even moving my little toe was a painful experience. And to top it off, my stomach ached from the milk I had the night before.

So now I'm wondering which is the less painful life; that of fitness, or that of being lazy?

Wait, is that a Dirty Harry movie on TV?

Pope draws praise from Jewish leaders

ROME (AP) — Jewish leaders say Pope John Paul II's historic visit to a synagogue was reassuring on theological issues but that they still are waiting for the Vatican to acknowledge the importance of Israel to Jews.

Applause erupted Sunday from the 1,000 people packing Rome's main synagogue when the pope declared, "You are our dearly beloved brothers and in a certain way it could be said that you are our elder brothers."

John Paul, making the first recorded visit by a pope to a synagogue, cited the Second Vatican Council's revolutionary 1965 document on non-Christian religions, which was a turning point in Catholic-Jewish relations.

Quoting from the document, John Paul said the church "deplores the hatred, persecutions and displays of anti-Semitism directed against the Jews at any time and by anyone."

"I repeat, by anyone," he told those assembled at the synagogue on the Tiber River.

John Paul pointed to the "common spiritual patrimony" that exists between Christians and Jews and said each religion "wishes to be respected in its own identity."

The pope condemned anti-Semitism and pledged to "deepen dialogue in loyalty and friendship."

Tullia Zevi, president of the Union of Italian Jewish Communities, said, "He swept away apprehensions that he was moving away from the letter and spirit of Vatican II and was moving back toward a conservative theology."

"Jews have been trying for at least 20 years to have the Catholic Church see the Jewish community on its terms and not through the glasses of Catholic theology," said Mrs. Zevi, whose organization represents Italy's 40,000 Jews.

On Israel, however, she said, "The dimension of people, history and land through which the Jews define themselves is ignored. Israel is where this unity finds its realization."

"We shall have to wait for this. This is for the future," she said. The Vatican does not have diplomatic relations with Israel.

Henry Siegmund, chairman of the commission for inter-religious affairs of the New York-based World Jewish Congress, said in a statement released here that the pope's visit and remarks "constitute an important and hopeful new chapter in the history of Catholic relations with Judaism."

But he called the lack of formal Vatican relations with Israel "a grievous wound" in relations between the Roman Catholic Church and Jewish people.

Giacomo Saban, president of Rome's Jewish community, said in a speech before the pope spoke that Israel is "central to the heart of every Jew."

The Vatican never has explained formally why it has not established diplomatic relations with Israel since the Jewish state was founded in 1948, but Vatican officials have indicated the question of unsettled boundaries and regional disputes are sticking points. The Holy See does not have formal ties with Israel's neighbor, Jordan, either.

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample write today to: Department 65922 Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, IL 60646.

'Wet' proponents gain when coffers run dry

SEMINOLE (AP) — The dry cities of West Texas may not be quite so dry after an upcoming election on liquor sales.

After decades of proudly outlawing the sale of liquor, some Permian Basin cities are pursuing the sale of legalized booze as one way to fill tax coffers that are running dry because of plunging oil prices.

"I don't think beer's a savior," said Seminole businessman Derral Henderson, who led a petition drive for a wet-dry vote in Gaines County. "But this is not a moral issue anymore. It's an economic one."

Seminole voters will decide May 10 whether to allow package liquor sales and stop the flow of local dollars to Hobbs in neighboring New Mexico, currently the closest place to buy liquor.

Liquor sale drives also are under way in Big Spring, Levelland and Morton.

PTA district conference set

The District 17 PTA spring conference and awards luncheon will be Thursday in Big Spring.

The event will begin at 9 a.m. at the First Methodist Church's Garrett Hall.

Ted Kepple, regional vice president, will speak, and officers will be elected. Awards will be presented after lunch.

District 17 covers Martin, Glasscock, Howard, Midland, Upton, Andrews, Ector, Winkler, Crane, Pecos, Terrell, Brewster, Reeves, Loving and Ward counties. Pat Humes of Midland is the district president.

Super Dream Pill Guaranteed Weight Loss

Eat Your Favorite Foods

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH — According to the latest review of customers' files, here's what some people are saying about the remarkable Dream Pill System for guaranteed weight loss:

"I lost 25 lbs. with a 30 day supply." Mrs. J.N.S., Ft. Payne, Alabama "Losing 1 lb. per day."

Mr. J.G., Pineville, Kentucky "Your Dream Pill is working for me. I'm ordering another supply."

Mrs. G.W., Fort Gay, West Virginia "I have been on Dream Pill for one month and feel great...have lost 27 lbs." Mr. A.D., Anadarko, Oklahoma

The System's Dream Pill combines the natural substances L-arginine and L-ornithine which can stimulate the body's production of growth hormone. Dr. Robert Harris, a specialist in nutritional medicine in Stafford Springs, Connecticut, was recently quoted as explaining: "Growth Hormone may be what's responsible for allowing teenagers to down thousands of calories in hamburgers and other foods and still be thin as a rail."

"Growth Hormone is present in people up through the teenage years, then slowly diminishes with age. But L-arginine and L-ornithine make the body 'think' it belongs to a teenager again, allowing adults to eat [their favorite foods] — and still be thin and wiry."

Life Extension Authors Confirm Results

Durk Pearson and Sandy Shaw, graduates of MIT and UCLA respectively, introduced these miracle substances to the public in their runaway best selling book, Life Extension. They discovered the weight-loss effects by accident. Sandy fell and broke her foot and started taking L-arginine because of its well-known healing qualities. Much to her amazement Sandy lost 25 pounds of fat and put on 5 pounds of firm-toned muscle in six weeks. According to Durk's calculations, the pill caused Sandy to lose 400 times as much fat as she would otherwise have lost — without dieting!

Lose Weight 24 Hours A Day
One beautiful thing about the Dream Pill System is the ease with which it works. The pounds melt away 24 hours a day. You wake up every morning, slimmer, happier and feeling younger. The best time to take the pills is just before you go to bed at night. That way, the pounds melt away even as you sleep. You wake up every morning, slimmer, happier and feeling younger!

The Super Dream Pill System is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again. Naturally, individual weight loss results (like those above) may vary depending upon initial weight, metabolic differences and adherence to the Dream Pill System.

Extraordinary Guarantee

Place your order now. If you are not completely satisfied with the thinner "new you" simply return the empty container for a full refund of your entire purchase price. No questions asked. Now what could be fairer than that?

You can order the Dream Pill System and a 30 day supply of the remarkable Dream Pills for $19.95 or a 60 day supply for $34.95.

To order simply call Dream Pill TOLL FREE (1-800-453-4810) and use your VISA or MasterCard. Operators are standing by 24 hours a day, seven days a week. If you don't have a VISA or MasterCard, Dream Pill will also accept C.O.D. orders right over the phone! But please don't wait. Order today. You won't risk a thing. Either you get a slender new you — or you get a full refund of your purchase price.

9:00 a.m. — Depart; Cow Calf Operation — Wallace Hereford Ranch; Feed Lot — Rodney Brooks Farm; Marketing — Big Spring Livestock Auction; Processing — Hubbard Packing Company; Consumer Marketing — Safeway store.

Each tour will be completed by 12 noon. $1.00 per person will be charged to cover cost of transportation.

Contact me at the County Extension Office 267-8469 to register.

Coping With Unemployment information packet available. Unfortunately, unemployment imposes on family life. Extension specialists in the areas of family resource management and family life with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service have developed the guide, "Coping With Unemployment." The goal of this Extension packet is to help individuals and families deal with the stresses — both emotional and financial — associated with unemployment.

The materials focus on three main areas: Dealing with the stress of unemployment; Handling financial commitments and reducing family expenses; and increasing income.

In addition, this guide provides suggestions on job hunting including evaluating skills, writing a resume and application letter, knowing where to look for jobs, and preparing for an interview.

The Packet includes five informational sections:

Coping With Unemployment Stress; Techniques for a Healthy Adjustment; Maintaining Financial Control During Unemployment; Decreasing Expenses; Looking for a Job; Ways to Increase Income.

To obtain a copy of these materials, contact the County Extension Office 267-8469. Or come by for a visit in the basement of the Courthouse.

Dear Abby

Child molester's ex-wife should alert new wife

DEAR ABBY: When I learned that my husband was a child molester, I feared for the safety of our grandchildren and the neighborhood children, so I divorced him.

He has recently married and is no longer required to report to his probation officer. My concern: Am I morally obligated to make sure that his wife is aware of his weakness in order to protect her children and the children in the neighborhood? This is worrying me sick.

CONCERNED IN ILLINOIS

DEAR CONCERNED: Yes, you have a moral obligation to be sure his present wife is aware of his weakness — which is more than a "weakness"; it's an illness that must be controlled.

Inform him that if he doesn't tell his wife, you will. Then advise that it is your intention to check back with her to confirm that she knows.

DEAR ABBY: One of the best and least expensive gifts a parent can give a child who is leaving home is a book of recipes of the meals he or she grew up with.

Buy a bound notebook with blank pages, and record each recipe as you prepared it — not necessarily as it was originally in the cookbook. Indicate your substitutions, flavorings, and the cut of meat used. If you added something to a box cake mix, write it in — plus the brand name of the mix.

Few restaurants can duplicate the flavor of home cooking, and when away from home, that familiar taste is comforting. My children have appreciated their books, and I'm sure others would, too.

CARING MOTHER IN BELLEVUE, WASH.

DEAR CARING MOTHER: Nothin' says lovin' like something from the oven. And no one said it better Than you did in a letter.

Dr. Donohue

Chronic runny nose needs attention

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My daughter's 7-year-old son has a runny nose. Besides being disconcerting, I'm sure, to him, it is terribly unsightly all the time. He is a lovely child, active and bright. My concern is that the running is constant, and the discharge is heavy, not watery. I can't be any more graphic than that. Grandfather (my husband) says it's common, that all kids have runny noses. Yes, but to run on like this? What is your word on this subject? — Mrs. R.H.

Children's noses, as your husband observes, do seem to be perpetually turned on, and that's from constant exposure to minor viral infections. Also, children's noses are being constantly bombarded by a new world of irritants — cigarette smoke, various allergens, and others.

A chronically-irritated nose can create a setting for nasal infection, like sinusitis. That might produce a heavier discharge. And always, the possibility that some foreign object has been introduced into the nasal passage has to be entertained. So there are several good reasons to want to check out the youngster.

called chronic rhinitis of childhood.

You mention medication being used by the child's father (another part of your letter). If it is an antihistamine, caution must be observed. Indiscriminate use of antihistamine can damage the still very delicate hairlike cilia of a child's nasal membrane. The doctor probably should be prescribing at this age.

For your garden

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Container planting can be creative

Not too many years ago the yard gardener was about the only kind of gardener there was. The reason for this was no doubt due to the fact that more people lived in houses where there were large yards and plenty of room for spacious gardens.

With changing times and changing living trends in our country, more people are choosing apartments and townhouses as their permanent residences. Limited gardening time and gardening space encourages more controlled planting. The large yard and garden that grandmother once had is slowly vanishing from the modern American scene. But the urge to grow and enjoy living plants has not changed. In fact, plants have assumed an even more important role in our current society.

For people in apartments and limited garden areas, gardening in containers has become the answer. But container gardening is not limited to the apartment and small areas. Container gardening is for everyone.

Gardening in containers is as old as biblical times. Gardening in pots offers continuous rewards for the inventive gardener. Indoors or out, month in and out, one can enjoy beauty and pleasure from plants grown in containers.

Nearly any plant will thrive in a container as well as it will in the open garden; and some will perform even better. Take your pick — from azaleas, to citrus, from petunias to pine trees — all will thrive in containers, provided they are given the type of growing conditions they require.

The advantages of growing plants in containers are many. Container plants can be moved to take advantage of seasonal color where it's needed. When the plants are in full bloom they can be displayed in the high-traffic areas of your garden and later be moved to an out-of-sight corner when the blooming peak has passed. Or, if you have a sunny garden with acid soil, you'll be able to enjoy shade-alkaline-loving plants in containers.

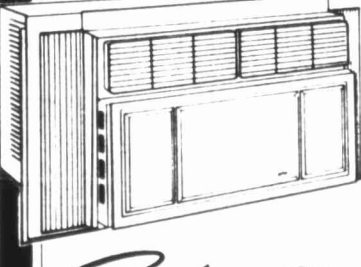

If you are trying tropical plants which require frost protection during the winter months, container-grown plants can be easily moved in a hurry to a protected spot when there is danger of hard frost.

In such difficult spots as paved areas, patios, balconies, or terraces, about the only practical way to get color and successful plant growth is by growing plants in containers.

Naturally, plants growing in confined areas will need more water and fertilizer than those in the open ground. For that reason, it is a good idea to periodically give container plants a thorough soaking with a diluted fertilizer solution. Plants in clay pots will even appreciate an occasional dunking in a tub or bucket.

BIG SPRING TRAVEL TALK

by Mary Valli

BEACH BONANZA

It has been said that the Caribbean island of Antigua has a beach for every day of the year. Whether this is the truth or not, beach lovers certainly could spend a year combing the island's coastline. It has numerous little coves and even an offshore isle or two. English Harbour, site of Nelson's Dockyard, abounds with historical interest. It is also some of the prettiest and safest ports in the Caribbean and is thus a favorite haven for yachtsmen. Hotels offer traditional West Indian hospitality and a few are well-known for their cuisine. There is plenty of sightseeing and all the expected sports activities with the accent on water sports. Antigua also is host to many international regattas and tournaments in fishing.

From sunbathing to fishing, discover the beautiful getaway pleasures in the Caribbean. Device increases gas mileage by 22%

WASHINGTON — With the oil glut worse than ever and OPEC wringing its hands on July 11, the government awarded National FuelSaver Corp. of Boston $22,000 for developing a simple automotive accessory that increases gas mileage by 22 percent.

Called the Platinum GasSaver, it injects microscopic quantities of platinum into the airstream entering the engine.

The injector takes only 10 minutes to install, while the platinum itself increases the percentage of fuel burning inside the engine from 88 percent of each gallon to almost 90 percent.

Normally, that 22 percent of each gallon of gasoline would not burn until it came in contact with the platinum-coated surfaces inside the catalytic converter. But with GasSaver, platinum (with its ability to catalyze combustion) is present inside the engine. The fuel that is usually only burnt by platinum catalysts in the converter to reduce pollution is now burnt in the engine and harnessed to drive the vehicle.

With 22 percent more of each gallon burning in the engine, 22 percent fewer gallons are required.

The process works on both leaded and unleaded gasoline, and meets EPA and California standards.

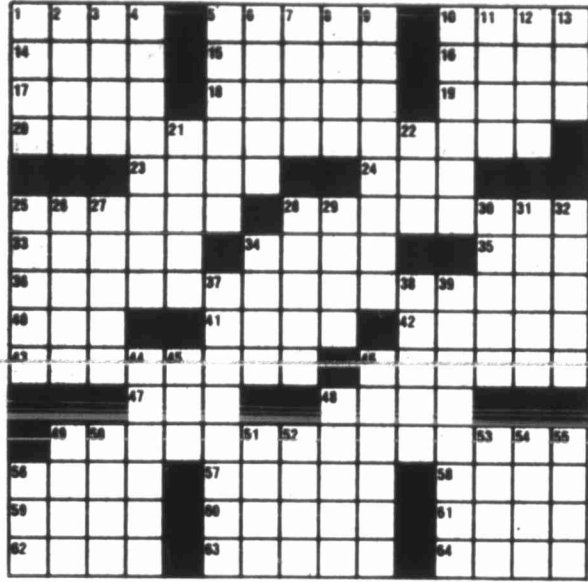

Federal Judge Walter Jay Skinner concluded the five-year administrative procedure studying the GasSaver by stating,

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 15, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A confusing and complex day. The morning is good for making big plans where home, family, property are concerned. Arguments may ensue and feelings may get hurt.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over some interest with family that could bring much profit for all, but later avoid a tiff with an important person.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Associates and friends can be very helpful during the day. Don't take on any new interests yet.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Spend whatever is necessary to improve conditions at work and forget some secret anxiety. Attend some civic function.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) The morning can be enjoyable provided you keep out of the way of an irate associate.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Have a conference with those who dwell with you early in the morning, and later avoid a fellow worker who is irate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) See a friend who can give you fine suggestions to gain your ambitions, and later don't go off on any tangents.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Look to an expert for assistance with some monetary problems, but don't let a close tie interfere.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Some new outlet can be your best bet now and can make headway in your career. Have fun tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can come to a far better understanding with your mate today, but then tighten your purse strings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Talk future plans over with an outside partner in the morning, but later don't lose your temper with anyone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get your work done efficiently early in the day, and then don't take on any unnecessary new burdens.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Confer with a successful person who has fine ideas for you to follow. This can be a banner day for you.

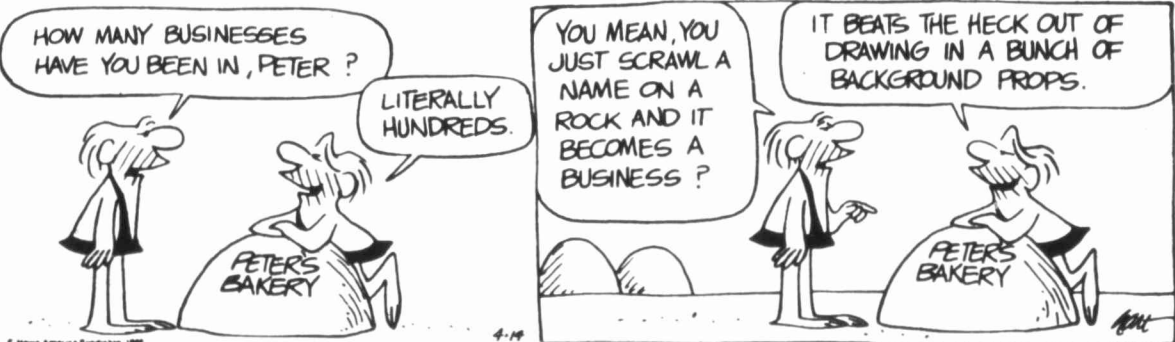

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be clever early in life to use the home as a base for making good friends of influential persons. The ambition to get ahead in life manifests itself very early, so be sure to plan now for a good education.

Masters number six

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus walked down the middle of the 18th fairway at historic Augusta National, striding purposefully and powerfully, like a man on a mission.

You would never know there was a tear in his eye. Nicklaus had made this trip many times before, but never with more emotion. At 46, in the twilight of one of the greatest careers in golf history, he was reaching back for one more sunrise, one more Masters championship.

On each side of the ropes, his fans were packed as far as the eye could see, fans who had seen him win the coveted green jacket a record five times, fans who wanted him to take home one more for what it would represent, the triumph of will by an American hero.

Their cheers thundered around him and he walked proudly through the canyon of sound cascading down around him. It was a noisy tribute to what he has accomplished since he started coming here 27 years ago, and to what he was accomplishing on this brilliant spring afternoon.

Logic tells us that 46-year-old players don't win as demanding a golf tournament as the Masters. Even Nicklaus acknowledged that. But logic took a day off Sunday and in its place was a neat little fairy tale, a story of an old hero, spurred on by his fans and his sons to a spectacular, unlikely victory.

He began this day in the hunt, but only barely. He was four shots behind, tied with six other players, locked behind eight other names on the leader board when he awoke to a phone call from one of his sons, Steve. Nicklaus recalled the conversation.

"He said, 'Well, Pops, what do you think it will take?'"

"I said, '66 to tie, 65 to win.'" "He said, 'Those were the numbers I had in mind. Now, go to it.'"

Nicklaus pretty much wasted the first eight holes, making no progress on the lead. Then, bent over a birdie putt at No. 9, he pulled up, stopped by the roar of the gallery at the eighth hole where Seve Ballesteros and Tom Kite had both scored eagles.

When he went back to the ball, it was as if a fire had been lit within him. He made that birdie and two more on the next two holes. Suddenly, his name appeared on the leader board and the word spread around the course: "Nicklaus is charging."

On each hole, he consulted with his caddy son, Jackie, on the shots. Once, after a good drive, he asked Jackie if the ball had reached the green.

"I'm missing the pleasure of seeing my golf ball finish," Nicklaus said. "I can't see that far anymore."

Hole-by-hole, he closed the gap, passing other golfers, gathering momentum and gallery.

As each birdie — in the case of No. 15, an eagle — dropped, the fans roared. "The sound, green to tee, was deafening, unbelievable," said the man who has heard a few cheers before. "I had no clue what I was shooting, just that I was getting birdies and I'd better keep doing it."

By the time he reached No. 18, he had the lead by a stroke. The tournament was there for the taking and he knew it.

"Several times, I had tears in my eyes," he said. "I get pretty emotional. I sort of well up."

He missed another birdie by no more than four inches on that hole and with Greg Norman staging a late charge of his own, the victory was in doubt. Nevertheless, he hugged his caddy son in a poignant scene.

"It was just a great feeling to share that moment with him," Nicklaus said.

It got even better a few minutes later when Norman's last-hole bogey clinched the tournament for Nicklaus. He had reached for that sunrise and grasped it proudly.

What made it so sweet for him and his fans is that they know the whispers are true. He is past his prime and there won't be many more wins.

"I'm not as good as I once was," he said. "But occasionally, I want to be."

"Today, I was."

Golden Bear catches prey

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus' sixth Masters championship was one for scrap books, one which evoked memories of golf's classic confrontations, its great accomplishments down through the years.

Golf historian Herbert Warren Wind likened it to Bobby Jones' Grand Slam in 1930.

There were mentions of the 1913 feat of Francis Ouimet, the little ex-caddy who beat the British giants Harry Vardon and Ted Ray in the U.S. Open and started the American era in golf.

It also was likened to Ben Hogan winning the U.S. and British Opens and the Masters in 1953, and to Arnold Palmer at his peak beating the young amateur Nicklaus and the aging Hogan in the 1960 U.S. Open at Denver.

Then there was the last Nicklaus title on Augusta National, in 1975, when he beat Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller, the two biggest challengers to his supremacy. And in 1977, Tom Watson emerged as the game's dominant figure by beating Nicklaus in the incredible British Open shootout at Turnberry, Scotland.

And now there is Nicklaus, the 46-year-old Golden Bear, winning again after a six-year hibernation in major championships in one of the most dramatic performances in the history of the ancient game.

This one came when many were wondering if Nicklaus ever again would challenge for a title in any tournament, let alone a major event.

"I keep reading in the papers all the time about no chance," Nicklaus said. "People 46 don't win the Masters."

"Done. Through. Washed up, huh?"

Not on your life.

Trailing by four shots at the turn, Nicklaus ripped apart the back nine of this famed 6,905-yard layout with a record-tying 6-under-par 30. He had a final 65 for a 279 that moved him past the eight players he trailed at the start of the final round.

They were an international cadre of the world's greatest players — Seve Ballesteros of Spain, Bernhard Langer of West Germany, Greg Norman of Australia, Nick Price of South Africa, Tommy Nakajima of Japan and Americans Tom Kite and Watson, plus a longshot American, Donnie Hammond.

And, he beat them all. Norman, the third-round leader who could have forced a sudden-death playoff, missed his 16-foot par putt on the final hole and fell into a second place tie with Kite at 280. Norman had a closing 70 and Kite a 68.

Ballesteros bogeyed two of the last four holes and finished fourth at 70-281 and Price, who set a course record with a 63 on Saturday, finished 71-282 in fifth place.

Nicklaus did it with a resurgence of the shotmaking that once prompted Jones to say, "The young man plays a game with which I am not familiar."

But it had been six years — the 1980 PGA Championship — since Nicklaus won his last major championship.

On Sunday Jack's surge started at No. 9 when he knocked in a 10-foot birdie putt.

He birdied the first two holes on the back side with putts of 25 and 20 feet. Then he bogeyed the 12th when he missed a 6-foot par putt — a bogey he said got him going.

"I knew I needed to be aggressive coming in from that point," he said.

He two-putted from 30 feet to birdie the par-5 13th and parred the 14th.

He nailed his drive on the 500-yard 15th and sent a 4-iron 12 feet from the cup, knocking that in for an eagle-3.

The magic was still there at 16. A nice little 5-iron came to rest three feet from the pin and he turned it into a birdie-2.

"When I was on the 17th tee, I heard a roar," Nicklaus said. "It was a funny sound. It wasn't a sound of cheer, but it was a sound of cheering. I knew something had happened."

After making another 10-footer for a birdie at 17, he learned what that roar was all about. Ballesteros, playing the 15th at nine under par, had found the water with his approach.

The Spanish star bogeyed and suddenly Nicklaus was in the lead.

It was later in the round when Norman moved into the title chase with birdies at 14, 15, 16 and 17, matching the 9-under total Nicklaus was sitting on with his round completed.

When Norman's par putt at 18

Jack Nicklaus reacts as he finished on the 18th Sunday, winning the 1986 Masters. It was his sixth Masters win.

failed to drop, Nicklaus had his 18th major professional championship.

Norman had gotten into trouble when his approach missed the green and landed right of the green in the gallery.

"I tried to hit the second shot too high and too hard," Norman said. "I wanted to be aggressive for a three (birdie) and the win. My style is to try to win and win as soon as I can. I let my ego get the best of me and I rifled it at the flag."

Norman then paid tribute to the champion.

"His score was phenomenal. The emotion on this course with Jack is something special. The people love him so much. He owns this place."

The victory didn't surprise Kite. "Some said Jack not only wouldn't win this tournament but probably wouldn't win another," he said.

"I said, a player of his magnitude, you never could count him out."

Hawks split double-header with Ranger

RANGER — The Howard College Hawks got strong pitching performances from Thad Webber and Bryan Willis in the first game but got bombed in the second game as the Hawks had to settle for a split with the Ranger Rangers Sunday in Region V baseball.

HOWARD 6, RANGER 4

Webber went five strong inning for Howard before giving way to Willis in the sixth. Howard held a 6-4 lead and Willis gave up two hits and no runs in his relief stint. Webber allowed five hits and four runs. All of Ranger's runs were scored on solo homers.

Howard had one big inning in the game, the second, which it scored all six of its runs. Bruce Smith started off the big inning by reaching base on a fielding error by the shortstop. Smith advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored when Roland Gonzales singled. Ramces Guerrero singled, putting men on first and second. Catcher Kevin Hays cleared the bases with a home run, giving Howard a 4-1 lead.

Joel Chimelis kept the inning going with another single. Richard Messer gave Howard a 6-1 lead when he blasted his second home run in the series.

RANGER 17, HOWARD 1

The Rangers took advantage of their 295-feet left field wall as they bombed Howard pitching for seven home runs in a game that was called after five innings because of the 10 run rule.

Howard starter John Wiles lasted only one-and-a-third inning. He gave up six runs before being relieved by Chimelis. Julio Jimenez and Robert Rodriguez also pitched for Howard.

Leading 8-0, Ranger hit four round trippers in the third to take a commanding 16-0 lead. Howard's lone run was a homer by Fred Lopez in the fifth.

The Hawks are now 4-13-1 in region play and 24-19-1 overall. They will play Lubbock Christian College Thursday in a double-header at 1 p.m. at Jack Barber Field.

Spurs, Mavericks get season ending wins

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Pundits and fans in Los Angeles and Boston have already begun planning for a rematch for the NBA championship.

But San Antonio Spurs forward Steve Johnson wants to remind folks that the Los Angeles Lakers must beat his club in the first round before making plans to play anywhere else.

"Anything can happen once you get there," Johnson said after combining with Mike Mitchell for a total 60 points to lead the Spurs to a season-ending 123-118 win over the Portland Trail Blazers Sunday.

The Spurs finished the year 35-47 and face the Lakers in the first round of the playoffs.

The win gave San Antonio its first set of back-to-back victories since mid-February. The victory also provided a needed boost for the team that has seen much of its team sit out portions of the season because of injuries and illnesses.

Only Mitchell and guard Alvin Robertson have played all 82 games for the Spurs, but the team is healthy going into the playoffs.

Mitchell led all scorers with 40 points in Sunday's game, including 10 in the last eight minutes. The Trail Blazers got 28 from Kiki Vandeweghe and 23 from Clyde Drexler.

San Antonio led by as many as 18 points early in the third quarter, but watched its lead dwindle to three points later in the period after Gilmore went to the bench with his fifth foul.

Mavericks 124, Lakers 107 INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — With the formality of the final game of the regular season out of the way, as both the Los Angeles Lakers and the Dallas Mavericks immediately turned their attention to the upcoming playoffs.

The Mavericks defeated the Lakers 124-107 in their NBA regular-season finale Sunday, but Laker Coach Pat Riley hardly noticed.

As far as Sunday night's game was concerned, Jay Vincent scored 19 points and Sam Perkins came off the bench to add 18 for the Mavericks, who wound up the season with a 44-38 mark, the same record they had a year ago.

Lakers guard Byron Scott led all scorers with 24 points and Peter Gudmundson added 15.

Los Angeles finished the season 62-20, the same record as last season, tying the second-best record in club history.

Bill Wennington had 15 points and nine rebounds for Dallas and teammate Derek Harper added 17 points.

It was Dallas' first win over the Lakers this season after four defeats.

Byron Scott of the Los Angeles Lakers trips as he goes after the ball during Sunday night's game against the Dallas Mavericks at the LA Forum.

With both teams using bench players almost exclusively in the final quarter, Dallas built its lead to 107-94 with 7:18 remaining, then ran off 10 consecutive points to ice the game with three minutes left.

Expos hand defending champs first loss

Expos 3, Cardinals 2

Mitch Webster and Herm Winstrom hit solo home runs off Kurt Kepshire in the fifth and sixth innings, respectively, and Bryn Smith scattered three hits over six innings. The homers gave Montreal a 3-1 lead and Jeff Reardon, who led the majors with 41 saves last year, pitched two scoreless innings for his first save of 1986.

Dodgers 3, Giants 2

The Dodgers have had their early-season troubles, but not because of Pedro Guerrero's absence. Franklin Stubbs, who has replaced Guerrero in left field, hit a tie-breaking two-run homer in the seventh inning, his third home run in as many games, to back Orel Hershiser's seven-hit pitching. Stubbs connected off Scott Garrelts, who also gave up a fourth-inning homer to Mike Marshall.

Padres 7, Reds 6

San Diego got a couple of long balls from an unexpected source — Marvell Wynne, who had hit only nine home runs in his three previous major-league seasons. Wynne, acquired from Pittsburgh just prior to the start of the season, hit a pinch homer in the seventh inning to trigger a three-run uprising and hit another in the bottom of the ninth to win the game. The left-handed hitter teed off on a pair of lefties, Tom Browning and Joe Price.

Braves 8, Astros 7

Billy Sample had three hits — including a controversial three-run homer — Ken Oberkfell drove in four runs and Gene Garber pitched out of a ninth-inning jam. Despite a heated protest by Houston Manager Hal Lanier, third-base umpire John McSherry ruled that Sample's fourth-inning homer, which gave Atlanta a 4-0 lead, went just inside the foul pole.

Indians 8, Tigers 2

In Cleveland, Scott Bailes picked up his first major-league victory with 5 1-3 scoreless innings of two-hit relief and Andre Thornton's two-run homer highlighted the Indians' five-run first inning.

A's 11, Angels 7

In Oakland, rookie Jose Canseco drove in five runs with a single and his second home run — the only two Oakland has this season. The 21-year-old outfielder hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning and added a two-run single in the sixth against the Angels.

Red Sox 12, White Sox 2

Wade Boggs had three singles and drove in four runs as the Red Sox pounded Chicago pitching for 16 hits. Jim Rice added three runs batted in, two on a home run, and Bill Buckner and Dwight Evans each had two RBI.

Mariners 4, Twins 2

Danny Tartabull snapped an eighth-inning tie with a two-run homer, his third extra-base hit of the game, to lift the Mariners past the Twins. Mike Moore checked the Twins on four hits over the final eight innings.

Orioles 3, Rangers 2

Cal Ripken hit a tie-breaking two-run single in the top of the eighth inning to boost Baltimore past the Rangers. Alan Wiggins walked, was singled to third by Lee Lacy, who stole second, then both runners came home on Ripken's looper down the right-field line. Scott McGregor scattered eight hits, struck out two and did not allow a walk in 7 2-3 innings.

Help is waiting for your child April 21-25 at a special Dyslexia Screening Clinic.

Dyslexia. It's a word most people don't understand. But, if your child is one the millions who suffer from dyslexia, you understand the pain and frustration this disability can cause.

You know your child isn't lazy . . . stupid . . . or disobedient, as many have said. Although the strict definition of dyslexia is "a disturbance of the ability to read," you realize that it affects every aspect of your child's life.

This is the way a dyslexic sees the word. Letters are often transposed and backwards. Reading and writing can be nearly impossible.

Dyslexics find reading almost impossible.

Aside from difficulty with reading and composition, your child shies away from sports involving eye/hand coordination. He has trouble following directions and is often clumsy and insecure. These are just a few of the symptoms that can make the life of a dyslexic child confusing and miserable.

Now, a special Dyslexia Screening Clinic, affiliated with Dyslexia Centers of America, offers you and your child hope for a normal life.

Sponsored by Boyd Chiropractic Clinics of Midland, who have served the health care needs of West Texans for over 40 years, the clinic will feature Dr. Carl A. Ferreri, a world renowned expert in the treatment of dyslexia.

A doctor of chiropractic, Dr. Ferreri has practiced for 29 years and has developed a highly effective method for treating basic learning dysfunctions. During the Clinic, Dr. Ferreri will instruct other professionals in his treatment methods which involve no drugs or anesthesia. The treatment, which centers around adjustments of the spinal and cranial structures, along with kinesiological and muscular balancing, has brought about a marked improvement in a majority of cases.

Call 684-5436 to schedule an appointment for your child's free screening and examination. The initial meeting determines whether your child will benefit from the procedure. In most cases, a correction is performed in conjunction with the free exam. If your child is diagnosed as receptive to future care, a reasonable one-time fee will cover all exams and treatments related to dyslexia. Treatment is covered by insurance in most cases.

For convenience and accessibility, the Clinic will be held at the Holiday Inn — Country Villa in Midland. Appointments may be scheduled Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

HOTLINE
(915) 684-5436

A doctor of chiropractic will be available to answer any questions you may have regarding the Clinic or the dyslexia treatment.
