Twister batters Sweetwater

Tornado kills one, hurts 100

By DAVID SEDENO
Associated Press Writer
SWEETWATER (AP) — Twin tornadoes that became one shredded part of this West Texas city Saturday before alarms could be sounded, killing one person, injuring nearly 100 others, destroying hundreds of homes and causing millions of dollars in damage.

Two twisters dipped from the clouds in succession, then came together to cut a swath of destruction a half-mile wide and two miles long, said Mayor Rick Rhodes.

More than 2,000 of the city's 12,000 residents were affected by the damage the storm did to about 800 homes, about 75 percent of which were destroyed, Rhodes said.

At an evening news conference, Red Cross spokeswoman Lynn Carlson said the five people earlier reported missing were not injured and had been accounted for, and that as many as 150 people had sought refuge in a Red Cross shelter.

Gov. Mark White, who was to tour the damaged areas Sunday morning, granted Rhodes' request to send in the Texas National Guard to keep order, Department of Public Safety spokesman David Wells said. Rhodes also said a curfew would be imposed from 7:30 p.m. Saturday to 7 a.m. Sunday.

More than 100 guardsmen from nearby Abilene and sheriff's officers on horseback guarded against the sporadic looting that began shortly after the tornadoes struck the town's business district, officials said.

No arrests had been made, however.

One man died when a twister struck homes on the outskirts of Sweetwater about 7:30 a.m. and cut power and some communications in the city.

Rhodes identified the dead man as 87-year-old Henry Earl Tatum, who lived in a retirement community. Numerous modular homes were overturned and trees uprooted, he said.

Nine people, all of them in stable condition, were still in Sweetwater's Rolling Plains

Robert Kamer pulls out the mattress that he credits with saving his and four other lives from a Saturday tornado. Kamer's mobile home was destroyed but the only injury was a bruised arm on his 14-year-old daughter Tina, left.

The roof of the bathroom area of a house where an elderly woman lives was torn off. The woman had checked into the Sweetwater hospital Thursday and luckily was not at home when the Saturday tornado struck.

Survivors tell tales of terror

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer
SWEETWATER — When Richard Kamer heard the wind roaring near his home about 7:30 Saturday morning, he had an idea of what was coming. "The wind stopped; it was dead calm for about 10 seconds before I saw it," said Kamer of 1203 Pease. "It was a frightening experience."

What Kamer saw was a tornado approaching his trailer house from the southeast. The twister struck a neighbor's house causing it to explode before it hit Kamer's trailer home. The 38-year-old Sweetwater man grabbed a mattress and shielded himself, his two daughters, son and a son-in-law in the kitchen.

"I was hanging on so they wouldn't get taken by the wind," he said. Kamer said the structure rolled once before they were all thrown out. "It sounded like a freight train coming down," he said. "I didn't know whether I was coming or going."

From what the victim could recall of the episode, the trailer rolled twice more before it came to a rest. Kamer said he and the children had managed to land in an earthen depression which he said was created from the twister's force. Even though the roof of the trailer landed on top of them, the family escaped serious injury.

One of his daughters was due to deliver a child. "She's in the hospital having her baby right now," he said. "I just thank the Lord we're all alive."

Another daughter, Tina, 14, helped pick through the rubble. Her arm was in a sling, the result of a deep bruise. "We thought it was broke," her mother said.

"The salt and pepper shakers are OK," Tina said as she picked through the kitchen area. China was untouched and a microwave oven was saved. Everything else was scattered across the yard.

A neighbor who fled to her car didn't fare as well, Kamer said. "She's paralyzed in the legs. Something hit her. We don't

Health fair to feature look at the past

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer
"Health Through the Ages" is the theme of this year's health fair Saturday, and visitors will see exhibits of old medical equipment, artifacts and a fashion show, featuring nurses' costumes dating as far back as ancient Egypt. The fair will be open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Big Spring Mall, with the fashion show beginning at 2 p.m. Admission is free. This year's fair is dedicated to Dr. P.W. Malone, founder of Malone-Hogan Hospital, who has practiced in Big Spring since 1930.

Much of the old medical equipment for display is no longer used, and the pieces that are still used have a different design, said fair chairman Alice Haynes.

One of the exhibits will be an old dental anesthetic capsule that contains, among other ingredients, cocaine and morphine, she said. The capsule came with a dental anesthetic syringe, undated, that a friend found for her at a garage sale. Those attending can visit a variety of exhibits and free health screenings at the fair.

New this year are water hygiene; the Vial of Life; a Howard College cosmetology department exhibit on hair, skin and facial care and its relationship to health; and a bicycle registration by the police department, Haynes said.

The Vial of Life is a plastic vial people tape to the under side of their refrigerator's top shelf. It contains a form with medical emergency information such as blood type, allergies and who to inform in an emergency. In case of an emergency, medical technicians will know where to find the information.

At the bicycle registration, members of the Big Spring Police Department will rivet to the bikes a small metal plate with a number inscribed. The number, a description of the bike and its photograph will be placed on file with the police.

Screenings available at the fair will be for colon-rectal cancer, diabetes, anemia, blood typing, blood pressure, hearing, asthma, and height and weight. Screening for children can be done to see if they need physical, occupational or speech therapy.

A coordinator for the Southwest Organ Bank will be there to answer questions on donating organs for transplants, including determination of death, legal requirements for donation and religious considerations, according to a news release.

Also, members of the Lions Eye Bank of Midland and the Big Spring Lions Club will host the "Gift of Sight" exhibit, discussing the donation of eyes. Human eyes are used for cornea or grafting transplants. If a donated eye is diseased or cannot be used for grafting, it is used in research to help find causes and cures for blindness, according to a news release.

Sara Rycroft was in Big Spring Saturday at the time a tornado hit Sweetwater. Her vending supply business was heavily damaged, and three cars parked under a covered area there were destroyed.

A 2-by-4 board was slung through the front windshield of this car parked at the Sweetwater Housing Authority apartment complex where one man died in Saturday's tornado.

know what. They took her to the hospital."
Debra Johnson, 25, of 500 W. Oklahoma said her mother saw the tornado strike Kamer's mobile home. "It picked the trailer up out of the ground and put it back in the alley," she said of her mother's description.
Kamer's narrow escape was repeated across the city's southeast side as people went to work Saturday sorting through the debris of their homes. The tornado damaged 800 homes, killed one person, injured nearly 100 and affected 2,000 of the city's 12,000 residents.
Sara Rycroft of Sweetwater was with her husband, James, in Big Spring Saturday when the tornado struck their vending supply business, Vending Varieties Inc. at 1113 Lamar St.

The Rycrofts were staying at The Park Inn and were in Big Spring to attend a Lion's Club convention. They received an 8:10 a.m. phone call from one of their employees who told them of the tornado damage. The phone went dead during the call, Rycroft said.
Rycroft said three persons had parked their cars in the warehouse's covered parking area to protect the vehicles from hail damage. But the ceiling collapsed, flattening the vehicles.
The twister struck a house directly behind the warehouse where Rycroft's 82-year-old mother lives. "Luckily she was in the hospital," Rycroft said.

She said her mother had checked into Sweetwater's Rolling Plains Hospital on Thursday.
Kirk Foster, Rycroft's grandson, stood in his great-grandmother's devastated home and pointed at body lotion and shampoo bottles resting on a bureau table.
"The force of the wind was incredible," he said, "and these little bitty light things stayed where they were." Foster had driven over from Abilene where he attends Hardin-Simmons University.
Rycroft said her and her husband's vending business did not lose any merchandise, but water from the storm and broken pipes drenched the building's interior. Friends helped them move their inventory to a vacant building.

"God blesses us in mysterious ways," she said.
Sweetwater police officer Ray Carnathan said Saturday afternoon he assisted in pulling an elderly man from rubble earlier in the day.
The man, identified as 87-year-old Henry Earl Tatum, was the tornado's only casualty. He lived in the Sweetwater Housing Authority apartment complex, a federally subsidized housing project located on Jack Lambert Drive south east of downtown.
He was pronounced dead at the scene, Carnathan said.

Memorial Hospital Saturday night, spokesman Bud Neff said. Twelve others were in Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene, four of them in critical condition, officials said.
Dr. Preston Nash, director of radiology and chief of medical staff at Rolling Plains, said 67 people had been treated and released.
"The most common injuries were lacerations, the next most common were fractures. We had a few head injuries," Nash said. "All the serious injuries have been seen, evaluated, stabilized, treated here or transferred to larger facilities.

People coming in now would be coming in with minor injuries." Hendrick spokeswoman Jo Thompson said those in critical condition included 4-year-old twins and a 6-year-old boy, while a 10-month-old infant was in serious condition.
The hospital sent a medical team to Sweetwater, where officials from Rolling Plains hospital also set up two areas to treat victims, said Kloyece Irvin, nursing administrator at Humana Hospital in Abilene.
DPS spokesman August Koenning said, "It was a miracle there weren't more people hurt or killed because some of it is just total devastation out there."
Cots, bedding, blankets, clothing and food were taken to the Broadway Baptist Church family center, where the American Red Cross opened a temporary shelter. Red Cross volunteer Marianne Brown traveled from Big Spring to lend assistance.

Ms. Carlson said the facility could accommodate only 200 people and that she hoped other residents left homeless could find a place to stay quickly.
A Nolan County sheriff's officer in Sweetwater said emergency crews were hampered by disrupted power and communications.
"It was a total surprise. I believe as it was going down, we received a call from the national weather bureau in Abilene, telling us that there was a tornado over Sweetwater," Nolan County Sheriff James Blackley said. "But it was already in progress and tearing things up at that time."

Adam Gutierrez, 12, said he watched the tornado as it cut across the city, picking up cars that "looked like they exploded" as they were lifted into the air.
"Glass was flying everywhere," Sweetwater resident Ann Steakly said after riding out the storm in her car. "We kept looking back and it was in front of us, then behind us. Just all this debris twirling around us."
She said she thought her car was going to flip over when the winds finally subsided.

their present state of health by taking "the wellness inventory," provided by Malone-Hogan Hospital's department of wellness. Director Craig Brace said the inventory gives a quick picture of how current lifestyle patterns are shaping future well-being.
Another wellness screening will determine one's ideal weight and help people understand the relationship of calories to energy and the roles nutrients play in fueling the body.

United Blood Services will be conducting a blood drive.
Local dentists will have an exhibit on smokeless tobacco and oral cancer. Dental hygienists and students will demonstrate proper toothbrushing and the use of dental floss.

Gramm-Rudman review

WASHINGTON — The fight over the Gramm-Rudman law to force a balanced federal budget by 1991 moves this week to the Supreme Court, where justices will hear arguments that it is unconstitutional.

A capacity audience is expected Wednesday when the court is scheduled to hear two hours of arguments in the confrontation over governmental powers and federal spending.

The case has been placed on a fast track, with the court expected to announce its decision by early July.

At the urging of the Reagan administration and others, a special three-judge federal court struck down a key provision of the law Feb. 7. The law remains in effect, however, pending the high court's review.

The first $11.7 billion in spending cuts required by the law took effect March 1, unaffected by the decision of the three-judge panel that suspended its own ruling.

The law calls for deeper cuts until all red ink in the federal budget is eliminated by 1991.

Kissinger blasts debate

WASHINGTON — Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, speaking at what he thought was a private symposium, says both sides are spouting nonsense in the debate over aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

Kissinger also said President Reagan is not the "trivial" figure most scholars think, although "when you meet the president ... you ask yourself, 'How did it ever occur to anybody that he should be governor, much less president?'"

Kissinger made the remarks Friday to a small group of scholars at the Library of Congress. Afterwards he expressed surprise that a reporter had been invited to cover the session, saying, "Did I kill myself in there?"

Kissinger, national security adviser and secretary of state in the Nixon and Ford administrations, said the Reagan administration "in many ways has been personally more offensive to me ... than any others."

Shuttle search is over

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The ocean search for remains of the space shuttle Challenger's crew ended Saturday, almost three months after an explosion destroyed the craft and killed the five men and two women, including teacher Christa McAuliffe.

"Remains of each ... have been recovered," said a statement from Richard H. Truly, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"Final forensic work and future planning in accordance with family desires" are to be completed and an announcement made in a few days, Truly said.

Mother throws children into muddy bayou

HOUSTON (AP) — The husband of a woman who threw six of her seven children into a muddy bayou said Saturday his wife is mentally disturbed but he couldn't believe she had tried to drown them.

"I didn't believe it," a 34-year-old man said when a friend told him his wife threw their children, ages 1 to 11, into a downtown bayou about 4:30 Friday afternoon. "Why? I asked myself. I don't know why she did it."

The unemployed maintenance worker said he was at a friend's house when the incident occurred. At his home Saturday morning, he asked The Associated Press which of his seven children had died and about the condition of the others.

"Which one died?" he asked with tear in his eyes.

Five-year-old Juana Maria Leija died about 7:30 p.m. Friday at St. Joseph Hospital, spokeswoman Debbie Purrazzella said. The couple's 7-year-old son, Judas Dimas, was listed in critical condition at the hospital Saturday.

The two children, who were recovered by police divers in Buffalo Bayou, had been under water 30 to 40 minutes, said police Lt. R.H. Bielstein.

Three girls — Esperanza, 4, Rosa Maria, 3, and 1-year-old Elvira — were listed in fair condition at Ben Taub Hospital, a spokesman said Saturday.

The two oldest children, Esther, also known as Wendy, 11, and Eloisa, 9, were placed in custody of the Harris County Children's Protective Services, officials said.

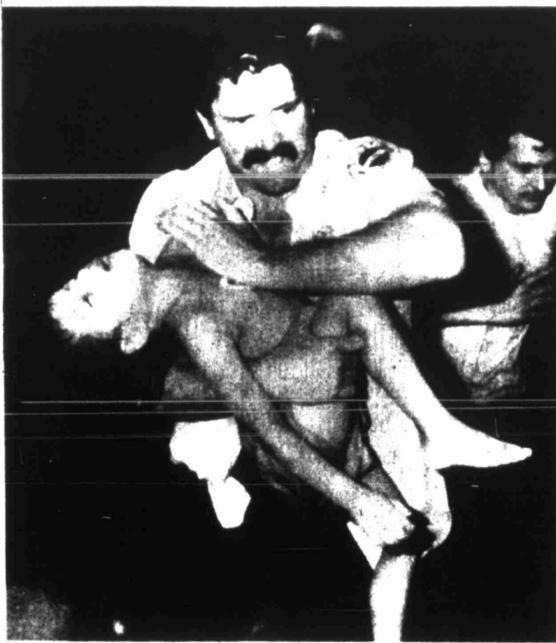

Charges against the mother were pending Saturday, police said. She is being held in Houston City Jail.

The man said his 29-year-old wife had been admitted into Ben Taub Hospital last August to undergo mental tests.

"The doctors said there was nothing wrong with her," he said from the cluttered front porch of his wood-frame home in the shadows of downtown Houston. "But I knew there was something wrong."

"She would leave the house and come back maybe three, four days later with no shoes and she hadn't bathed," the man, who is from Monterrey, Mexico, said in Spanish. "Sometimes she would go to Ben Taub to get treated and would use a different name so we couldn't find her."

He said a social worker had been trying to help his wife by taking care of the children so she would go to a doctor, but she made excuses not to go.

Despite her problems, he said his wife of 13 years had never abused the children, and neighbors and friends agreed.

"She loved her children," said Arturo Leara, 34, a friend of the family. "She was always caring for them and she'd take them everywhere even if she walked."

Martha Rodriguez, a neighbor, whose daughter is friends with one of the girls, said she was not aware of the Leija children being abused.

"We always see her there with her children, but we don't really know her that well," Mrs. Rodriguez said.

The suspect's husband said he was not aware the mother had any problems "but after what she did she must have mental problems."

The mother was arrested after she walked across the street to police headquarters to say her children "fell" into the bayou.

Police said the mother was standing on the west bank of the bayou, about three blocks from their home, when one of the children either fell or was pushed into the deep water.

"She then apparently went berserk and began throwing them in," Bielstein said. One of the children who figured out what was happening ran to the police station across the street.

"I saw one little boy screaming," said Chris Sweet, a city public works computer programmer who was walking by the bayou and jumped into the water when he realized what was happening.

"The struggling was taking place," Sweet said. "I knew something was up. I saw the mom actually physically throw the kid into the water. At that point, I knew it was time to get some help or help out."

"They were just laying in the water. A few were face down. When I jumped into the water, the ones who were face down I tried to flip over."

Gilbert Chavez, a security guard, said he helped pull four of the children to safety.

Protests aimed at U.S.

Tens of thousands of demonstrators marched and burned American flags Saturday in Britain, West Germany, Italy and Sweden to protest the U.S. air raid on Libya.

In London, police said they arrested 67 protesters after clashes in which three officers were hurt and the city's busiest shopping street was paralyzed.

In Turkey, authorities said a bomb was defused outside an Istanbul bank partly owned by American Express and that four Libyans were being questioned in connection with an attempted attack on a U.S. military officers' club in Ankara.

In Dublin, Ireland, Danny Morrison, national director of Sinn Fein, the legal political wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, extended sympathy to Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy and pledged Irish nationalism's solidarity with Libya.

Body to return to U.S.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Red Cross workers transported the body of slain American kidnap victim Peter Kilburn across embattled Beirut's Green Line today, and a U.S. Embassy official said arrangements were under way to fly the remains home.

The body of the 62-year-old librarian, the first American hostage confirmed killed in civil war-torn Lebanon, was taken at midnight from the American University Hospital in Beirut's Moslem-controlled western sector to Hotel-Dieu Hospital in the Christian east, said a Lebanese Red Cross spokesman.

S. Africa hotel bombed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — A bomb exploded in a bathroom at a crowded Indian Ocean resort hotel, wounding three white guests and a black employee, the South African Press Association reported.

Hotel manager Alberto Chiranda was quoted by the news agency as saying that two of the injured were badly hurt in the blast, which he said happened at about 10 p.m. Friday at the resort, in Transkei black homeland near Port Edward on the eastern coast.

The other two victims reportedly suffered minor injuries.

El Al suspect released

LONDON — An Irish woman seized by police as she tried to board an Israeli jetliner with a bomb hidden in her luggage was released Saturday with no charges lodged against her, a Scotland Yard spokesman reported.

Police had said earlier they believed the woman, Anne-Marie Murphy, 32, was an unwitting pawn of a Palestinian arrested after Miss Murphy was stopped as she tried to board an El Al jumbo jet Thursday at London's Heathrow Airport.

Police wearing bulletproof vests ringed a high-security jail in London where anti-terrorist detectives questioned Nezar Hindawi, 35.

Q.: What is the best way we can protect or enhance the investment we've made in our home?
 A.: A house is an investment in living as well as in savings. If neglected, it may pay no dividends in the future and with today's price increases, a house is potentially the greatest investment a person can make as a hedge against inflation. If well maintained and consistently improved, it pays a high yield in comfort and usefulness for the family and avoids costly repair bills caused by neglect. Home improvements raise neighborhood standards and, as a result, property value. From an economic viewpoint, home improvements mean higher employment, increased markets for materials and home products and even a more thriving community.

Sweetwater sees a few miracles

Big Spring residents awoke Saturday to gray skies and a promise of rain. Just 60 miles east, however, the day dawned with a rainstorm that turned to ominous silence and finally to the howl of "five freight trains" as one Sweetwater resident described the tornado to a Big Spring Herald reporter.

Saturday bore a twister through Sweetwater that ripped the city's east side, destroying a mobile home park and a housing project populated by senior citizens. There was devastation in the affected area, injury and death, but there were miracles, too.

By a miracle, a family of five survived the tornado in a mobile home, even though it was rolled as many as three times and smashed flat by the winds. Robert Kamer said he doesn't have insurance, but possessions can be replaced. "I can't replace my family, though. I just thank the Lord we're all alive."

As the family sorted through the debris, they found delicate china unbroken. "The salt and pepper shakers made it, Mom," said a daughter, Tina, 14.

Elderly residents sorted through rubble that had been their apartment homes. Destruction was widespread but by a miracle only one life was lost.

A Sweetwater couple was spared the storm because they were, by a miracle, in Big Spring at a Lion's Club convention.

A man at a convenience store talked to passersby through the frame of a window scattered to the four winds. A gasoline pump was twisted and bent flat to the ground. By a miracle, the pump's line didn't rupture; there was no explosion or fire.

There are miracles made every day in this life. Sweetwater's afflicted found some Saturday.

Education reform deserves support

Mexican-American teachers who are part of the move to force a retreat on education reform — specifically teacher literacy and competency testing — should get off that train at the next politically advantageous stop.

At the political mid-year leading up to the May primary, teacher groups are wrongfully twisting a political tourniquet around the political careers of incumbent legislators who voted for the education reform package. They are attacking Gov. Mark White personally as well.

So, incumbent legislators, eling the heat and worrying about their political survival, may ve to retreat from defense of the standards.

Mexican-American teachers parting in this offensive are going against the grain of the community's historical fight to obtain solid education for Hispanics in Texas, and they are endangering new educational opportunities as well.

By isolating the infamous TECAT test as a single issue and perceiving it as direct attack on teachers, Mexican-American educators ignore the historic breakthroughs H.B. 72 provided to Hispanics in Texas. They fail to realize the reforms are but part of a new foundation for future educational gains.

Ever since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1973 in the Rodriguez case that Texas' unequal method of school financing was not unconstitutional, Hispanics have had reason to be glum about their educational prospects.

But what the Supreme Court failed to do, Texas legislators accomplished 12 years later — with the crucial assistance of the state's highest public elected officials. These, of course, are the legislators the teacher groups want to bounce from office.

Overall, $666 million in equalization money will be spent to bring state spending in poor districts — many of them Hispanic — up to the state average.

For years, Hispanics grumbled that the disparity in school finances constituted the primary obstacle to Hispanic social and political progress in Texas.

But the impoverished state of Hispanic schools was only part of the real issue: the real issue was — and always has been — the quality of education given students by, specifically, the teacher.

Increased funding has begun the long process of attracting better teachers to the public schools — and competency testing must insure that the quality of instructors be maintained at as high a level as possible.

The whole thrust of the educational reform program was to get education off on a different track because Texas — with its large Mexican-American student population — stands at a crucial juncture in its history.

Mexican-American students will reap the benefits of the educational reform package only if the whole package — teacher competency testing, no-pass, no-play and the career ladder system of promotion — is implemented fully.

They will stagnate while technology takes society into the future in quantum leaps if they continue to get the same education they are getting today.

As for future educational opportunities, Mexican-American leaders and businessmen are putting their heads together to figure out a way, in these financially difficult times, to upgrade the public institutions of higher learning located in those areas in Texas where most Hispanics live.

Mexican-American students must have easy access to schools of higher education if they are to help secure the economic future of Texas. But they must have the necessary skills and knowledge going into colleges and universities in order to succeed and to cut the cycle of education that breeds mediocrity.

The spectacle of Mexican-American teachers resisting competency and literacy examinations may make the case for upgrading institutions of higher learning difficult in the minds of many legislators.

Legislators facing the wolves today are not soon to forget their tormentors.

Learn to help terminally ill

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have an elderly uncle who has always meant a lot to me. I am his nearest living relative, and he has been told recently he has a slow-growing but inoperable cancer. What can I do to help him at a time like this? I feel very awkward and helpless. — W.B.L.

DEAR W.B.L.: I suspect many of us would have the same feelings in a situation like yours. But don't let your feelings keep you from seeking ways to help your uncle; he needs your help and the worst thing you could do would be nothing. In addition, through this experience God will teach you more about the meaning of love, and make you a better person.

Begin by asking your uncle, gently and yet openly, what you can do for him. There may be many practical things he needs help with, from housework and shopping to making sure he gets the necessary medical care. Often these things are overlooked — and yet they can make an enormous difference. Let him know you want to help. He may be reluctant to express his needs to you, therefore, as much as possible try to put yourself in his position and make a list of what your practical needs would be. Then think of ways you can meet them — either by yourself or with the aid of others. Remember also that your companionship means as much as your practical help.

Liquor statistics already too high

To the editor: According to Officer Dave Spillman of the Big Spring Police records department in 1985 there were 1,512 arrests in the city of Big Spring. Of these, 600 were for public intoxication and 255 were for driving while intoxicated. There were 1,301 traffic accidents with 385 personal injuries and 6 deaths. These records are available at the police department for anyone interested in this or other information.

If the "liquor by the drink" issue passes these statistics are sure to increase and with figures like these do we really need more readily-available liquor? I SAY NO!!!

P.M. BURCHAM, JR.

No rain on the plain's a pain

It's a statistic that is blunt in its message: More than one out of every six farmers and ranchers surveyed in Texas recently expect to leave agriculture before the end of this year. Eighteen percent cited bad financial conditions as the reason.

That is according to a survey conducted for the Texas Department of Agriculture by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Such a bleak outlook from Texas' 180,000 farmers and ranchers fits a notion dramatized in movies like "Country." It's symptomatic of fitful weather conditions, high interest rates, trade imbalances and depressed pricing that dogs the agriculture industry.

Take our own situation. In 1983 and 1984, the Crossroads Country suffered a drought that knocked the cotton crop to nothing and left pasturelands barren. In 1985, a bountiful cotton crop produced under nearly ideal weather conditions was undercut by depressed prices.

Interest rates began their decline, a boon to credit-dependent farmers, but oil prices meantime fell to a shadow of their previous strength. That put small-production wells, a source of lease income to many farmers, in jeopardy. Some are being capped to await the return of higher prices.

Now the weather has gone awry again, too. Normal rainfall for this far into the year is 2 3/4 inches. Our rainfall in 1986 has been a mere three-tenths of an inch. And this is the time fields are being readied for planting. The preparation plowing only serves to aggravate dusty fields by laying them open to wind erosion.

I feel like I've got a high-stress job. But I don't cope with anything like the conditions under which the American farmer works.

We need a good long gentle rain. That might save some of the estimated one-in-five Panhandle farmers who told surveyors 1986 will be their last year to farm. A news release from the agriculture department says Texas percentages on abandoning agriculture "are about double the level of Iowa farmers now experiencing economic problems," according to a similar survey in that state, "suggesting that the worst of the farm depression is moving into the Sunbelt."

There are some bright spots. One of them, FarmAid, is coming home to Texas. Singer Willie Nelson is planning to stage a Farm Aid II benefit concert probably at Memorial Stadium on the University of Texas campus in Austin.

The benefit for family farmers in economic trouble will be July 4 in combination with Nelson's annual Fourth of July Picnic.

An agriculture department spokesman told the Associated Press that more than $100,000 in Farm Aid funds has been channeled through the Agriculture Department into two programs, a crisis hotline for Texas farmers and aid for small South Texas farmers setting up marketing cooperatives.

Nelson's first Farm Aid concert was Sept. 22 at the University of Illinois stadium in Champaign-Urbana. The concert, attended by 78,000 and telecast live by The Nashville Network, drew about $9 million in donations. The funds are being distributed by Nelson and a committee of his business associates.

An orderly crowd of about 78,000 attended Farm Aid to hear 57 entertainers including Charlie Daniels, Merle Haggard, Alabama, the Beach Boys and Sammy Haggard.

The benefit may be more a symbol of hope than hope itself. A fund of $100,000 is like a drop of rain on a vast dry field of debt and dependency. Ultimately, even good weather and better economic conditions won't be enough for many. The fact is that the American farmer is overproducing by a mighty amount and political considerations are keeping him from efficiently working the world markets.

There will be a thinning of the ranks of farmers, a purging of the occupation. It's already happening and in the long run, it's inevitable, even though it means a terrible dislocation for people who in many cases know no other way of life.

Switching parties might help White

AUSTIN — In stressing education reforms, Gov. Mark White has the right political issue, but maybe the wrong political party.

Several public opinion polls show overwhelming support among the general population for the 1984 education reforms passed by the Legislature and signed into law by White. About two-thirds of those polled side with the governor on reforms that include such issues as the no-pass, no-play rule, class-size limits and even teacher testing.

Since the incumbent governor is making those reforms the cornerstone of his 1986 re-election campaign, it would seem reasonable that he would be riding high toward another four years in the Governor's Mansion.

That would seem reasonable, but it's not true.

Instead, we have worried Democrats looking forward to the November election with little eagerness.

Some Democrats are even having nightmares about White being forced into a runoff with one of the five political lightweights who oppose him in the May 3 party primary. A runoff would be embarrassing and would cause other top Democratic officeholders who face re-election in November to put even more distance between themselves and White than they already have.

The principal cause of the Democrats' worry, of course, is the growing bad news from those same polls that make education reform sound so popular. The bad news, at least for Democrats, is that White has a very high negative rating for an incumbent governor.

Breakdowns of some polls show that many of the same people who favor school reforms oppose White.

One reason for this is that many of those same people who stress education also are Republicans or GOP-leaning independents who live in the suburbs or nice inner-neighborhoods of our Texas cities. They often are well educated or have worked hard to see that their children will be.

They may like their kids involved in sports, but they want them on the honor roll, too.

In contrast, the greatest opposition to the 1984 education reforms seems to come from rural areas, which historically have voted Democratic.

Education is stressed in these areas, too, but in a less demanding way. Social and spiritual values are more important than in the cities.

The local high school is a social center and its sports scores are to be savored or suffered in person rather than simply caught on the 10 o'clock news. The quarterback who had to sit out the final games last year because he flunked biology isn't just a name in the newspaper; he's the nice young man who says hello on the streets or goes to your church.

In the rural areas and small towns, the voters are more likely to know teachers and coaches personally, and are therefore more likely to have heard grumbling about teacher testing and the unfairness of no-pass, no-play.

Hardly anyone attacks the education reform idea, of course. Even the strongest critic usually supports the principle while picking apart the particular provisions.

That's easy to see in the current Republican primary battle for the nomination for governor. At GOP meetings, Bill Clements and Kent Hance express their support for HB 72 (the principal reform legislation) but call for fine tuning. That usually draws applause or nods of approval from the audience. U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler tends to be more critical of the legislation but still supports it in principle.

The beauty of the issue from the GOP standpoint is that the candidates, as current outsiders to state government, can praise the reforms in one breath and attack the tax increase that made them possible with the next breath.

White, in the meantime, finds his key campaign issue falling flat among many Democrats but doing well with the GOP crowds. Is it too late for him to switch parties before the May 3 election?

Odessa man who lived in Libya says Khadafy has 'ego problem'

ODESSA (AP) — Libyan Col. Moammar Khadafy suffers from an "ego problem" that forces him to take more and more desperate measures to gain the fame he craves, says an Odessa man who lived in Libya four years.

Khadafy first attempted to gain fame by building the Libyan military shortly after he overthrew former Libyan King Idris in 1969, said Gene Walls, now the owner of Odessa's Cemaw Sparkle Water.

"He said back then that he wanted to get his picture on the cover of Time," Walls said.

The attempt to gain a reputation for military leadership failed because none of the other Arab leaders took Khadafy seriously, said Walls, a former Halliburton Co. well-servicing field engineer in Libya.

The Libyan strongman at first relied on a "Bedouin tribal method" to rule the country, said Walls, who added that Khadafy and his advisers would gather in a tent, and Khadafy would rule on an issue, then turn to his advisers and ask, "Is that not a great ruling?"

Khadafy soon realized that even Libya required better-informed decisions, and so he began trusting advisers more and more for determining the details about a situation, Walls said.

About 1971, the Libyan leader began disliking U.S. policies.

"There was kind of a gradual leaning against the West," Walls said. "It wasn't anything specific."

Walls theorized the split with the West occurred because Khadafy next tried to gain fame by adopting fundamentalist Moslem religious beliefs. The Libyan aimed to become a religious leader in the style of Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini, Walls said.

When that goal also failed, Khadafy turned to supporting terrorists in his continued search for fame, Walls said.

Walls spent time in the Libyan capital of Tripoli — and in the oil-rich desert 600 miles inland from the Mediterranean — from 1969 to 1973 and again from 1980 to 1981, he said.

About 5,000 Americans were living in Tripoli at the beginning of the Odessan's stint there, but the number declined by half by the early 1980s, Walls said.

American oil companies had paid royalties to the Libyan government for desert-produced oil, Walls said, and those payments initially smoothed relations between the United States and Khadafy.

"It wasn't apparent, so early, that he was going to be such an enemy of the United States," Walls said.

Walls in 1969 was a 39-year-old husband and father trying to raise four children on the outskirts of Tripoli.

The younger children attended a school organized by major oil companies operating in Libya, while the older children attended high school on Wheeler Air Force Base — a former American stronghold seized by Khadafy and one of the targets of U.S. bombing raids on Monday.

Gene Walls' stepson, John Hall, 31, recalled that Khadafy soon urged demonstrations against Americans in Libya.

Hall recalled being chased from Little League baseball fields several times by stone-throwing Libyan youths.

Another son, Rocky Walls, 27, remembered getting into fights with the Libyan children — or getting out of fights by claiming to be a Canadian instead of an American.

"They had a totally different attitude toward Canadians," the younger Walls said.

Rocky Walls claimed the Libyans even then felt "jealousy" toward Americans because of their better jobs and dress and the freer attitudes of U.S. women.

Hall explained that Libyan children wore loose-fitting pajamas all day. Libyan men treated women "lower than animals. Men bought their women.

RE-ELECT

PAUL H. ALLEN

Saturday, May 3, 1986

County Commissioner, Pct. 2

I have been a resident of Howard County and Pct. 2 for thirty years. During this time I have been associated with the farmer and rancher, oil field producer, the teacher, businessmen, and wage workers. I feel confident that I know many of their problems and needs. Therefore, with seven and a half years of experience in our County government, being a landowner, and taxpayer — I believe I can continue to do a better job in controlling our tax dollar.

If you plan to be out of town on May 3 — Please consider voting absentee by Tuesday, April 29.

Comanche Peak delays costly

FORT WORTH (AP) — Electrical and piping deficiencies at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant will force further delays and add millions of dollars to the plant's estimated $5.44 billion cost, utility officials said.

Texas Utilities Electric Co., the plant's principal owner, have for the second time in the facility's 11-year construction history said it could not estimate when the plant near Glen Rose would open or how much it will cost.

Utility company officials said Friday they could not meet the projected mid-1987 plant opening because of uncertainties surrounding a federal operating license, the scope of a plant re-inspection and repairs to defective equipment.

Most of the modifications were minor, officials said.

The utility company will seek to pass all the plant's construction costs to electric customers. But each month the plant stands idle adds $35 million to the final construction cost, they said.

Final costs to customers cannot be determined until electric rates are set by the Texas Public Utility Commission, said utility spokesman Dave Fiorelli.

The company will spend $10 million to repair 120 defective electrical sleeve penetrations that carry cables through the dome-shaped reactor containment building.

Plant inspectors in the current re-inspection found that the pre-manufactured seals of the sleeves were inadequately designed, said Fiorelli, adding that replacements should be installed by year's end.

Utility officials also were trying to repair about 2,700 large-bore pipe supports, about 30 percent of the total.

Officials said the supports were designed to prevent pipes from rupturing and spraying radioactive water inside the plant.

Fiorelli said he could not estimate the cost of pipe support repairs. He said the re-inspection included locking devices on electric cable trays and a further review of the electrical sleeves.

He said the inquiry could be widened to include other plant areas if the review revealed serious "programmatic" problems, he said.

Garden City, Forsan claim titles

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

FORSAN — Garden City girls coach Jimmy Fine put his "stock" in the relays, Forsan boys coach Steve Park put his "stock" in the field events. In the end both coaches got the same results — a District 6-A track and field championship.

Both Crossroads Country teams captured impressive wins on a cool windy day at the Forsan High School track field. The Forsan boys' championship was the most impressive as they amassed 151 points, outdistancing second place Roscoe by 85 points. Sands finished third with 62 points, four points behind Roscoe.

The Buffaloes made a strong surge to win the meet in the field events alone. By the time Friday's field events had been tallied up, Forsan was well on its way to winning with 50 points. "Going into the meet I thought we had a good chance to win. When we did so well in the field events I knew we were in the driver's seat," said Park.

"We got an outstanding effort from all our field event people Friday."

The Buffaloes won three field events and placed in all five. Senior weight person Bruce Strickland was a double winner in the shot and the discus. He uncorked a season-best 50-11 in the shot and had a toss of 140-1 in the discus.

"I'm glad to be going to regional but I wasn't happy with my throw in the discus," said Strickland. "I threw about five feet under my best. I was shooting for 50 feet in the shot. When I threw 50-11 on my second throw in the prelims, I was going after the school record of 51-4."

"I've got two weeks to get ready for regional. I want to throw 53 in the shot and 150 in the discus."

Forsan also got a first place leap from sophomore Brant Nichols in the high jump. His leap of 6-4 was a career best.

Forsan really put the meet away after the first two running events were over. The 400 relay team ran a 46.18 to win the event and sophomore Freddie Rodriguez followed suit by winning the 800 meters.

By then the Buffaloes had 80 points and second place Roscoe had 38.

The Sands Mustangs got some top performances from hurdlers Jay Fryar, Leland Bearden and sprinter-long jumper Arnold Velasquez to gain third place in the meet. Fryar, a 6-4 high jumper, was upset in the high jump as he finished fourth (6-0), came back to nose out Bearden in the 110 high hurdles. Their times of 15.70 and 15.86 were season-bests.

Velasco, a transfer from Grady, finished second in the long jump with a leap of 19-9. He also ran a 23.84 to finish fourth in the 200.

Highland's Gary Light was a triple gold medalist. The senior won the pole vault with a mediocre jump of 12-6, well under his season best of 14-0. He then swept the sprints by running a 11.07 100 and a 22.53 in the 200.

Garden City 1600 runner Jesse Morales easily won the metric-mile

Spinks decisions Holmes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Michael Spinks came on after a slow start, then escaped serious trouble in the final two rounds Saturday night and retained the International Boxing Federation heavyweight championship with a 15-round split decision over Larry Holmes.

Spinks almost went down from a right hand in the 14th round but fought back with a flurry of his own at the bell.

In the 15th round, both fighters were on the point of exhaustion, throwing everything they had to the head and body. With 50 seconds to go, Holmes crashed a right to the head that buckled Spinks' knees.

But Holmes was too tired to follow up, just as he was in the 14th round.

It was a much better fight than the first bout between the two. Spinks won the IBF title and handed Holmes his first defeat in 49 fights when he scored a unanimous decision here last Sept. 21.

Judge Frank Brunette scored it 144-141 and judge Jerry Roth 144-142, both for Spinks. Judge Joe Cortez favored Holmes 144-141.

The AP card favored Holmes 143-142.

Spinks had himself to blame for the closeness of the decision. The 29-year-old champion, now unbeaten in 29 fights, did little in the first four rounds as Holmes controlled the action with his left jab and occasional rights to the head.

But Spinks, who weighed 205 to 223 for Holmes, got back into the fight in the fifth and sixth rounds, when he scored well to the body and was effective with left hooks to the head.

As the fight progressed, Spinks would move in, throw flurries and move away as Holmes doggedly pursued him.

As the fight drew to a close, Spinks had an ally in the ring with him. Father Time seemed to have caught up with 36-year-old Larry Holmes or the former champion might have carried out his prediction of scoring a knockout in the last two rounds.

With a full house crowd at the 8,350-seat Convention Hall in the Las Vegas Hilton roaring, Spinks scored with a series of jabs and head punches in the first half of the 14th round. Holmes then suddenly hurt Spinks badly with a right high to the head. Spinks bent at the knee and almost went down but he straightened up and went into the ropes.

Holmes plodded after him, landed a couple of punches but could not get in the finisher. As the round drew to a close, Spinks, seemingly still hurt, threw a series of head shots that backed Holmes across the ring.

In the final round, both men threw numerous barrages of punches to the body and head, missing as many as they landed. The best punch was the right that buckled Spinks' knees and sent him to the ropes, his eyes glassy.

Again, Holmes, who was badly battered about both eyes, could not put away the champion.

"I fight well under pressure," Spinks said, and he did. "You back me into the corner and I will fight out of that corner."

The tough victory kept Spinks in an HBO series of fights to determine a single heavyweight champion next year.

Lakers dump Spurs

By The Associated Press
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — When the defending NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers seemed in trouble, it suddenly became Magic time.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson, taking control of what had been a tight game, scored 10 points in the closing 4½ minutes of the first half Saturday afternoon and the Lakers went on to a 122-94 playoff victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

The win gave the Lakers a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series, and they can end the first-round matchup with a victory at San Antonio Wednesday night.

"I just realized it was my time to get involved, and I took it on myself to generate offense," Johnson said of the Laker rally from a six-point deficit midway through the second quarter.

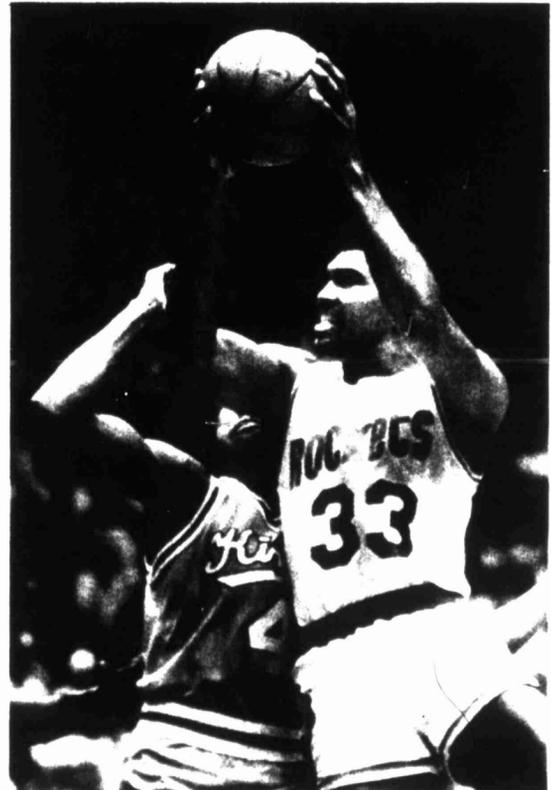

"San Antonio was more aggressive than we were until then, and the game turned around around when we became the aggressors," added Johnson, who finished with 30 points and 13 assists.

"We started doing to them what they'd been doing to us. We started just giving them one shot and that set up our fastbreak."

The Atlanta Hawks, with Dominique Wilkins scoring 50 points and Randy Wittman a career-high 35, and joined the Los Angeles Lakers in taking 2-0 leads in their first-round NBA playoff series Saturday.

The Lakers, who beat San Antonio by 47 points in the series opener on Thursday night, had a tough time for awhile in the second game before pulling away to defeat the Spurs 122-94 in Game 2.

Hawks 135, Pistons 125
Wilkins tied a team playoff record held by Bob Pettit for the Houston Rockets Robert Reid (33) goes up for a shot as he is guarded by Sacramento Kings LaSalle Thompson.

Hawks, who defeated Detroit 137-125. Wilkins got strong support from Wittman and Spud Webb, who had 19 points and 18 assists.

On Sunday, Chicago is at Boston, Washington at Philadelphia, Portland at Denver, Utah at Dallas and New Jersey at Milwaukee. The Celtics, Bulls, Nuggets, Mavericks and Bucks have 1-0 leads in those series.

Rockets 111, Kings 103
Houston's Robert Reid scored 29 points, including two crucial baskets in the closing minutes, as the Rockets blew a 24-point third-quarter lead but held on to defeat Sacramento 111-103 Saturday night in their NBA first-round playoff game.

The victory gave the Rockets a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five playoff series, which moves to Sacramento for the third game Tuesday night.

Trailing by 24 points with 6:26 to go in the third quarter, the Kings battled back in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter on the shooting of Reggie Theus and Eddie Johnson.

Houston led by 100-96 with 4:22 to play after a three-point play by Johnson. Reid hit a basket at 3:19 and another with 1:29 to go to help the Rockets stay ahead in the final minutes.

Johnson, held to six points in the first game, scored 17 points for the Kings, and Larry Drew returned from a Thursday neck injury to hit 20 points.

Houston's Akeem Olajuwon and Lewis Lloyd played much of the fourth quarter with five fouls. Olajuwon hit 17 points and Ralph Sampson hit 20 for the Rockets.

High School Roundup

Steers down Odessa High

ODESSA — The Big Spring remained in the playoff hunt by taking a 9-6 win over the Odessa Bronchos yesterday in District 4-5A baseball.

The win, the Steers seventh in the last eight games, kept the Steers in the playoff race. San Angelo Central's 2-1 win over Odessa Permian moved Big Spring into a tie for third place. Midland High and Abilene High's game was cancelled because of rain. Abilene Cooper leads the league with a 11-2 record. Midland High is second with a 8-3 slate. Permian falls to third place, tied with Big Spring with a 7-5 record.

The Abilene High-Midland High game will be made up at the next open date for each team.

The Steers blew a 3-3 game wide open in the fifth inning by scoring five runs. That coupled with a strong pitching performance by Carey Fraser led to the win. Fraser went the distance while allowing 9 hits and striking out three.

Matt Garrett started the Steers big fifth inning by getting a base hit. Eli Torres, who went three-for-three in the game, followed with another single. Aaron Allen grounded out to second and Garrett scored on the play. Randy Hayworth and Mike Dodd walked to load the bases.

Felix Olivias walked to score Torres. Charlie Ogle grounded to second and Hayworth was thrown out at the plate. Raymond Ontiveros walked, scoring Dodd with the Steers' sixth run. Second baseman Chad Wash then singled, scoring Olivias and pinch runner Marcos Ramos. This gave Big Spring a 8-3 lead.

Big Spring added its final run of the game when Torres led off the sixth inning with a homer over the right field fence, his second of the season. Odessa High added three runs in the bottom of the sixth but it was too little, too late.

Jeff Wright took the loss for Odessa. He went four and two-thirds innings and allowed eight runs. He was relieved by Jerry Luncefeld.

Big Spring is now 10-9 overall. The Steers will host Abilene High Tuesday at Steer Field at 4 p.m.

Thompson fires perfect game

The Big Spring Steers junior varsity took a double-header from the Odessa High Bronchos Saturday at Steer Field. But the highlight of the Steers double win was a perfect no-hit game by freshman hurler James Thompson in the first contest.

The Steers took a 8-0 win behind Thompson's masterpiece. In five innings he faced the minimum 15 batters, struck out 12 and didn't walk any. Shortstop Brent Hartfield led the Steers as he got two hits and scored four.

The second wasn't as easy as Big Spring rallied in the bottom of the seventh inning to take a 7-6 win. (In junior varsity double-headers the first game is five innings and the second game is seven innings).

Trailing 6-5 with the bases loaded and two outs it all rested on Matt Burrow's shoulders.

Burrow rose to the occasion by banging out a triple, scoring the two winning runs.

David Kilgore, who came on in relief for John Olson in the fifth inning, got the win. Olson allowed four runs in five innings work.

The Steers are now 10-10 overall and 8-10 in district play. They will play their last game of the season Tuesday when they travel to Abilene to take on Abilene High at 4 p.m.

Lady Steer golfers finish fourth

SAN ANGELO — The Big Spring Lady Steer golfers shot a 391 to finish fourth in the final District 4-5A tourney held Thursday at the San Angelo Country Club.

San Angelo Central, which held a 35-stroke lead over the nearest competition, won the championship by firing a 377. This gave them a three-tournament total of 1077. Odessa High finished second (1144) and Midland Lee finished third (1154). Big Spring, led by Michelle Cox's 92 and Pam Martinez' 91, shot finished with a total score of 1154. Their 391 was second only to Central's 377 for the afternoon.

Cox and Martinez were named to the All-District Second Team.

Expos beats Cards in marathon

By The Associated Press
Pitcher Tim Conroy's first major-league at-bat earned him his first National League victory.

Conroy drew a bases-loaded walk in the 17th inning that forced home the tiebreaking run and led the St. Louis Cardinals past the Montreal Expos 9-6 Saturday.

"The last time I hit in a game was eight years ago in high school," said Conroy, acquired by St. Louis in the offseason from Oakland. "But that's a good way to get over the hump."

Baseball

Conroy got his chance in the 5-hour, 22-minute game when Terry Pendleton singled with one out and stole second. With two outs, loser Floyd Youmans intentionally walked Ozzie Smith and then unintentionally walked Jose Oquendo.

Conroy walked on a full-count pitch to make it 7-6, and Willie McGee followed with a two-run single.

In other National League games, Pittsburgh ripped Chicago 14-8, Atlanta blanked Los Angeles 3-0, New York tripped Philadelphia 3-2, Houston edged Cincinnati 4-3 and San Francisco rallied past San Diego 6-5.

In American League games, Milwaukee nipped New York 4-3 in 11 innings, Cleveland beat Detroit 8-6, Toronto defeated Kansas City 6-5, Boston topped Chicago 3-2 and California stopped Minnesota 6-5.

Texas was at Baltimore and Oakland played at Seattle in AL night games.

The Cardinals sent the game into extra innings when Vince Coleman's two-out single in the ninth off Jeff Reardon drove in Smith from second.

Pirates 14, Cubs 8
R.J. Reynolds celebrated his 26th birthday by hitting a grand-slam homer and driving in five runs, powering Pittsburgh over Chicago.

Joe Orsulak, Bill Almon and Sid Bream also homered for Pittsburgh, while Leon Durham, Shawn Dunston and Ryne Sandberg connected for the Cubs. Dunston went 5-for-5 in the slugfest at Wrigley Field.

Braves 3, Dodgers 0
Zane Smith pitched a two-hitter and Terry Harper hit a two-run single in the first inning as Atlanta sent Los Angeles to its fifth straight loss.

Smith, 1-0, gave up a single to Bill Russell in the second inning and Enos Cabell in the ninth. Orel Hershiser, 1-2, took the loss.

Mets 3, Phillies 2
Gary Carter singled home the tiebreaking run in the eighth inning and Dwight Gooden pitched a six-hitter, leading New York past Philadelphia.

Gooden, 2-0, struck out 10 and walked two. Shane Rawley, 1-1, did not give up a hit until the fifth inning, and left after allowing six hits over 7 2-3 innings.

Giants 6, Padres 5
Chris Brown hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning, helping San Francisco overcome an early 5-0 deficit.

Brown's first home run of the season came on the first pitch by San Diego reliever Lance McCullers, 1-1, and gave the Giants a 6-5 lead. San Diego led 5-0 in the second inning.

Astros 4, Reds 3
Phil Garner's two-run double sparked a four-run first inning that paced Houston over Cincinnati.

Garner, who went 2-for-4, has driven in 11 runs with 11 hits in 18 at-bats over the past five games.

Bob Knepper, 3-0, won his 100th career game. Dave Smith got his fifth save of the season.

Brewers 4, Yankees 3
Charlie Moore's triple with one out in the 11th inning drove in Jim Gantner from first base and gave Milwaukee its victory over New York.

The Brewers, who tied the game 3-3 in the eighth on Rob Deer's two-run homer off Dave Righetti, won it when Gantner drew a walk from Rod Scurry and Moore tripled to center.

Blue Jays 6, Royals 5
Lloyd Moseby hit a two-run homer and drove in four runs and Doyle Alexander gave up three hits over 7 1-3 innings, leading Toronto over Kansas City.

Kelly Gruber hit a two-run homer for the Blue Jays, his first major-league blast, while Darryl Motley homered for Kansas City.

Indians 8, Tigers 6
Tony Bernazard and Julio Franco homered in the sixth inning after Brook Jacoby's two-run double keyed a three-run fifth, enabling Cleveland to beat Detroit.

Chet Lemon hit two home runs and Alan Trammell also homered for the Tigers.

Indians rookie Scott Bailes improved to 2-1 and Ernie Camacho got his third save.

Red Sox 3, White Sox 2
Don Baylor's bases-loaded forceout drove in the tying run, and the go-ahead run scored on the play when Chicago shortstop Ozzie Guillen threw wildly, rallying Boston past the White Sox in the eighth inning.

The Red Sox loaded the bases on a double by Wade Boggs, who broke an 0-for-15 slump.

Angels 5, Twins 4
Dick Schofield hit a three-run homer in the fourth inning that led California past Minnesota.

Schofield, who has been injured and played only part-time this season, drove in his first runs of the season. He connected off John Butcher.

The Garden City girls had a little tougher time winning their crown. It took a sweep of the relays for them to pull off the trick as they outpointed second place Sands 113-85.

The foursome of Dianna Garcia, Michelle Pechacek, Jacque Jost and Gena Schaefer pulled off wins in the 800 and 1600 relays. Carol Hoelscher teamed with Garcia, Pechacek and Jost to win the 400 relay.

"For us to win the meet we had to win those relays," said Garden City coach Jimmy Fine. "I've got all my fastest girls on them."

"I know the girls would be good in individual races, but they all believe in the team concept. They all performed well in these conditions. I'm extremely proud of all the girls."

Schaefer turned in perhaps the meet's top performance in winning the 800 meters. The senior clocked a 2:28.31 in winds gusting up to 20 miles per hour. "I hate days like this because the times makes you feel like you didn't do well," she said.

Schaefer got a run from her money on the anchor leg of the 800 relay. She barley held off a fast-closing Shana Hale of Grady, who made up a 10-meter deficit. "I knew she was coming because she did the same thing last week at the Klondike meet. Luckily my teammates gave me a big enough lead."

Hale pulled off a double for her team by winning the 3200 on Friday and winning the 1600 Saturday. She lapped the field in the 3200 and won by well over half a lap in the 1600.

"Shana is one of those runners who don't come along very often," said her coach Ted Bedwell. "She got a lot of talent but the main thing is she works so hard. Whatever I ask her to do she won't think twice about it because she knows it will help her win."

Sands was led by a first place throw of 89-10 by Pandey Grigg in the discus and a second place finish by Michelle Hall in the 3200.

Forsan sophomore sprint star Robin Soles pulled a double by taking the 100 and 200. She also anchored the second place sprint relay team.

Highland's Cheryl Fullwood turned in a good performance by winning the long jump, triple jump and placing second in the 100 hurdles.

"Come in and hear the difference."

WHY AN IN-THE-EAR-AID?
 Modern audiological research has shown that locating the hearing aid in the ear the place provided by nature offers the best possible help for hearing impairment. By means of an in-the-ear aid, sound is received at the most natural place. An in-the-ear aid is very comfortable, and since there are no dangling cords or tubes, the user has a feeling of unlimited security in everyday life, even during sporting activities.

Pen pals meet after 40 years

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

After 40 years of being pen pals, Mary Smart of Enfield, Middlesex, a suburb of London, and Marilyn Knight, of Big Spring finally met. "When we met, I felt like I had known her all those years. It was a dream come true," Knight said.

Smart recalls when she got Knight's name "like it was yesterday," she said. "I was working in an office in 1946," Smart said, "and a friend of mine asked if anyone wanted a pen pal from America. I said I did and I wrote to Marilyn at about Christmas time in 1946."

"We were about 16 years old then," they said. Smart, the former Mary Bigglestone, lived in Palmergreen, London and Knight, the former, Marilyn Carmack, lived in Big Spring.

The women recall the early days of their pen pal friendship. "We used to write regularly, at least two or three times a year."

"We watched each other get married and have kids," Knight said. Knight married in 1949 and has four children: Joan, 35; twins Scott and Gregg, 32; and Ruth, 29. "I still have the bonnet and sweater Mary knitted for my first baby and the tablecloth she sent me for my wedding," she said. She's also a grandmother of six.

"That's my next ambition," Smart said. Smart married in 1955 and has three children: Linda, 27; Derek, 24; and Tim, 19. "I still have the 'nappies' (diapers) that Marilyn sent for my kids and I use them as dust cloths now," she said. "As we've grown older, we've written about our families; the special times, the weddings and the sadness. I sent her notices when the grandchildren came and she wrote about her 'holidays' (vacations) in Spain and Scotland," Knight said.

Smart says she has one regret about the whole thing. "About four or five years ago, I threw away all the letters that Marilyn sent to me. Thirty-five years of letters! I thought I'd never see her so I just threw them away. I'm so mad at myself. We could have had so much fun reading those old letters together."

"I have just about everything Mary sent me," Knight said.

The meeting of the penpals was prompted by the Knight's visit to Greenhamcommon, England to see their daughter.

The penpals met for the first time May 4, 1985. "It was Mary's birthday," Knight said. "It was the best birthday present I could have had," Smart said.

Mary Smart, left, and Marilyn Knight reminisce as they read letters that were written during the forty years that they've been pen pals.

"The first time we spoke, I called Mary and she answered saying '2751,'" Knight said. (They answer with their number in England in case the person has dialed incorrectly.) "I was caught by surprise and almost hung up. I expected her voice to be different. It was lower than I expected," Knight said.

While the Knights were there Smart showed them London. "She's an expert guide," Knight said. "Then when we left Mary got on the wrong train to go home. It was so funny," she said.

Smart lives at the top of London on the greenbelt where nothing else is allowed to be built. "They're preserving their country," Knight said. "I can see London from my back window and country from the other side," Smart said.

"White Marilyn and her husband were in England, they told me to come to see them in the United States. I never thought I would come," Smart said.

Not even a year passed and the women were reunited. But this time in Big Spring.

"The people are so friendly and casual here. You speak to strangers, we don't. We just speak to people we know," Smart said. "I'd love to go to a doctor's office," she said, "Do you speak to people there, too?" In London, they sit there and don't say a word to anyone and wait until they get called in, Smart said.

There were also other things she liked in Big Spring. "The service is terrific here! In London, we bag our own groceries. Everything is so spacious here. In London, it's all high rise buildings with lots of people. I live in a semi-detached house (like a duplex or townhouse). To live in a detached house you really have to be something," she said.

During their first encounter, the pen pals toured London together. Marilyn Knight, left, and Mary Smart stand in the National Gallery square in London in May 1985.

Knight was impressed with London. "Marilyn was so fascinated by our modes of transportation, the rapid transit system which goes underground, and with the punk rockers," Smart said.

"Big Spring is just as I imagined it — a small community," Smart said. "But, I miss the green in London," she added. In England they don't get much warm weather.

Sometimes in the summer it will get into the 80s," Smart said. "But not often."

"I never dreamed I'd ever get here and Marilyn never dreamed she'd have gone there. But it worked out," Smart said.

"We seem to enjoy being together. We do a lot of talking and my husband fits right in," Knight said.

Gardeners beautify Big Spring

The Council of the Big Spring Garden Clubs has joined efforts in its dedication to "beautify Big Spring." Mrs. Clyde Angel, president of the council, said.

"We're the ones who landscaped the courthouse lawn when everyone else wanted a parking lot," she said.

The council is made up of the president and a representative from each of the four garden clubs: Big Spring Garden Club, Rosebud Garden Club, Planter's Garden Club and the African Violet Garden Club.

The council's theme this year is "The Sesquicentennial Spirit Grows Green," Angel said. "We want to implant pride in our city," she said.

Since January, the council has planted 31 trees, Angel said, spending more than $1,200 in plants at the Dora Roberts Community Center, she said. The group has planted nine pecan trees, five pines, and 10 ligustrums, she said. "Plus we hauled off dead shrubs and mesquite trees that were there. We plan to replant the entrance planter at the center." They also plant memorial trees in the park.

The council will "continue the beautification of Big Spring," Angel said, and plant trees at the fairgrounds soon.

They also plan to continue with their litter projects. Their recent clean-up project at Comanche Trail Park, which preceded the citywide effort to clean the Big Spring, was a "great success," according to Edna Womack, representative of the Rosebud Club and council secretary. "I think the whole town was out there helping us clean up."

In addition to the cleanup project, members of the garden clubs are to report "eye sores" to the Chamber of Commerce, Angel said. "We report the location and the owner's name," she said.

Besides their accomplishments with making Big Spring beautiful, they have received recognition for their hard work. They were the first place winners for the district for their yearbook and received a state award April 16 in Galveston.

Each year the clubs give three $500 scholarships to Howard College students majoring in landscape design, parks, horticulture, land management, agronomy, entomology, botany, or any related subject.

The council is also involved in civic projects, Angel said. Each year they decorate for the Chamber of Commerce banquet, replace plants in downtown planters, landscape Dora Roberts Community Center in Comanche Trail Park, the "Big Spring," Johnny Johansen Circle, the Open Air Amphitheater and the Hike and Bike Trail, she said.

'Old lady of the sea,' 56, ready to challenge the Atlantic Ocean

By JOHN PLATERO
Fort Lauderdale News
Sun-Sentinel

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Stella Taylor doesn't object when she's referred to as "the old lady of the sea." After all, the 56-year-old marathon swimmer has been challenging the Atlantic Ocean for nearly eight years.

"I'm going to try it again," she vows, standing on the sandy beach, her blue eyes looking east over the horizon toward the Bahamas. "This time, I'm going to make it."

Taylor's elusive goal is to swim from the island chain to Florida's Gold Coast, an arduous task she has tried and failed three times.

To prepare for an attempt in May, the 5-foot-5 athlete has gone into full-time training, exercising, bicycle riding and swimming 7,000 meters daily under the eye of her trainer, Bob Duenkel, swimming coach of Northeast High School.

Also planned, for August, is another English Channel swim, a feat she accomplished in 1973 and 1975. Taylor was 46 when she made her second crossing, giving her the record for the oldest women to ever conquer the 21-mile distance.

"I'm going to do the Channel again so no one can take my record," says Taylor, for whom marathon swimming is an obsession. However, it has provided little material gain for her other than plaques, mementos, some guest appearances and media attention. Presently unemployed, she subsists on meager savings from jobs that, over the years, have allowed her to train for her swims.

"Financially, it hasn't been rewarding," she admits. "I've never been able to cash in on my fame."

Surprisingly, Taylor didn't get involved with marathon swimming until she was 40, a time when most people gravitate to less strenuous sports. Born in Bristol, England, she came to the United States when she was 19. She spent four years in a convent, but left before taking her vows to become a nun.

Despite her late start in the sport, some of Taylor's swims were exceedingly difficult.

In 1971, she swam a 14-mile closed course at the Aswan Dam in Egypt. "It was a very hard swim because of the currents and it was 100 degrees overhead and 54 degrees in the water," she recalls. Later that year, she swam another long-distance event in the Nile River.

She swam round-trip around Fort Lauderdale in 1976 and on June 13, 1977, she set a record for completing the 40-mile distance across Lake George in New York.

In 1981, Taylor swam the 24 miles of Loch Ness in Scotland in less than 19 hours while the water temperature was 48 degrees and, that same year, she swam 40 miles across Lake Okeechobee from Moore Haven to Belle Glade. The following year, she established the fresh water endurance record of 65 hours at the Swimming Hall of Fame pool in Fort Lauderdale.

It was August 1978 when Taylor took on the Atlantic Ocean for the first time, diving into it off Riding Rock, 20 miles south of Bimini. Twelve miles from the Florida coast, she had to give up. Unpredictable currents of the Gulf Stream had started to pull her back out to sea.

Undaunted by failure, she tried it again six weeks later; this time from Orange Cay, 30 miles south of her previous start. Without any flotation gear and minus the protection of a shark cage, Taylor made it to about a mile of Fort Lauderdale. The Gulf Stream again defeated her. This time, however, she set a world endurance record for open water — 51 hours. She had endured six shark scares, Portuguese man-of-war stings, sunburn, seasickness and dehydration.

The Bahamas-to-Florida swim was successfully completed Aug. 20, 1979, by marathon swimmer Diana Nyad. She traveled an estimated 89 miles in 41 hours and 41 minutes. Nyad was 30 at the time, while Taylor was 48 on her two attempts.

Taylor prefers the Atlantic challenge to all others.

"It's the sharks and the dangers," is how she analyzes her goal. "I like some danger for it to be a challenge. Once I've made it, I'll be happy."

VENTILATING THE BATHROOM

A ventilation fan is needed, and often required by building codes, in most bathrooms, especially in those without windows. Fans are especially necessary in humid climates. The fan should discharge directly to the outside, either through specially built ducts or a passage that is part of a purchased fan unit. Suggested minimum capacity rating is 12 complete air changes per hour. An exhaust fan can operate on its own switch independent from bathroom light fixtures, or it can be on the same switch as the light. Some codes specify that, in a windowless bathroom, a ventilator must go on automatically when the light switch goes on.

Fans may also be combined with a heat lamp or ceiling light fixture. Before you remodel your bathroom or any other room in the house, consult the specialists at BOB'S CUSTOM WOODWORK. We design, build and install new baths and kitchens from floor tile to custom cabinetry. Come to 613 North Warehouse Road in the Industrial Park, or call 267-5811. Dr. Donohue

Swimming OK for osteoporosis

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 47-year-old woman, I'm 5 feet, 6 inches and I weigh 135 pounds. I go to a 45-minute aquanautics class three days a week. My doctor told me that exercise in water will do nothing to prevent osteoporosis. When I mentioned this in class another woman said her doctor recommended it for that. Which doctor is right? Should I find another kind of exercise? — S.S.

Stick with your aquanautics. I don't know why your doctor expressed that opinion. Water exercises certainly will provide the same kind of stimulus for osteoporosis prevention as any other kind does.

Everytime you contract a muscle, as you do with each swimming movement, the muscle pulls on the bone to which it is attached. This constant tugging on bone is a stimulus for that bone to incorporate more calcium into its substance. You use many muscles to propel yourself through water and you prompt many such contractions.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a believer, as a mother, in my sons preserving and improving their health. Tell me about steroids, please. One of my sons, the 23-year-old, is using the male steroid injections. He's been "into" this (as they say) for several months now. I have detected a personality change. Do the steroids act this way? I want so much for him to consult our family doctor before he continues. Maybe you can help by filling me in, and I might try to make sense of it to him. — Mrs. M.B.

His fitness is going to be his undoing unless he gives up those steroids. Anabolic steroids are the kind we are talking about here, not the kind that you hear about as being given to control illnesses. The anabolic kind certainly do have an effect on the personality. Studies show that they do, indeed, make the user more aggressive. Tantrum-like behavior has been noted. Anabolic steroids can harm the liver, cause jaundice; and even though they are male hormones, they can cause feminization, increasing breast size and leading to testicle shrinkage.

Because of the effect on the liver, they can interfere with the normal metabolism of other drugs, and many drugs need a healthy liver for proper elimination from the body. It can be a vicious circle.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My 32-year-old husband is weightlifting. I am concerned about the advice he is getting from his coach. For example, he increased from 155 to 175 pounds in one day on the inclined bench press. He has suffered headaches lasting several days. Once he hurt his shoulder muscles badly. He is small-framed, but has built up to a 16 1/2 inch shirt neck. I am scared.

The coaches tell him vitamin B should give him more energy, so he now takes megadoses. I am proud of my husband's concern for good health, but I fear that this weightlifting could hurt him. He recently ruptured his Achilles tendon, and the other one is weak, so he can't jog as much as he used to or play basketball. — J.M.N.

I believe he needs a better coach for his lifting program. He should not add more than five pounds of weight at a time. And he should be able to lift that added weight total comfortably for eight consecutive repetitions. And he should stay at that weight until he can lift it comfortably for 12 repetitions. Then he can add another five pounds and go back to eight reps.

I don't know what kind of leg exercises he's doing to cause the Achilles tendon problems, but he should probably limit increase in leg weights to 10-pound increments. He should never have to strain.

Your husband's record of injuries is testimonial to all the bad things that can occur in a poorly-conceived weight program. If fitness is his goal, he's going about it in the wrong way. This program has already removed his ability to perform aerobic exercise (jogging).

His coach is all mixed up on the vitamin B also; it's not going to give him any extra strength.

FOR R.J. — Lifting weights quickly is like throwing them. Your muscles don't get good exercise. There's a lot of effort at the start, but the powerful effort carries the muscles through the rest of the movement. For proper benefit, take a second and a half to lift and take three seconds to lower. You'll feel the muscle benefit.

King-Gill

FT. STOCKTON — Stacia Elaine King, of Ft. Stockton, and Dalton Mitchell Gill, of Big Spring, were united in marriage March 29 at the First Baptist Church in Ft. Stockton with Pastor Howard Schutt, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce King, of Ft. Stockton. Bridegroom's parents are Mr. Dalton Gill, of Sweetwater and Mrs. Deanie Hughes, of Big Spring.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with a brass arch, two spiral brass candelabras on each side of the arch and a 15 branch brass candelabra behind the arch. Potted mums decorated the floor of the altar.

Wedding music was provided by Donna Nix and soloists were Donna and Walter Nix.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white wedding dress made of tulle and trimmed with alençon lace and motifs accented with pearls on a V-neckline, tapered sleeves with puffed shoulders, a basque waist and a semi-cathedral length train. Her headdress was made of a wreath of white silk flowers and fingertip veil.

She carried a cascade of white roses surrounding dusty pink and burgundy sweetheart roses.

Matron of honor was Belinda Burton, aunt of the bride, of Moore, Okla. Bridesmaid was Jana Elliott, of Ft. Stockton. Flower girl was Leslie Hughes, niece of the bridegroom, of Big Spring.

Best man was Jim Shoults, of Forsan. Groomsman was Allen Nichols, cousin of the bridegroom, of Big Spring. Ushers were Monty King, cousin of the bride, of Crane; Kelly Kinnard, of Odessa; Darrell Yarbrough, of Forsan; and Lewis Boeker, of Midland.

Candle lighters were Billy Wayne King, brother of the bride, of Ft. Stockton; and Cody King, cousin of the bride, of Crane.

After the wedding, a reception was held at the church. Each tier of the four tiered wedding cake was decorated differently. The first tier featured champagne glasses; the second and third tiers featured doves and a small fountain with a cupid and a porcelain figure of a bride and bridegroom under a crystal arch was centered the top tier. Cloths of white satin and lace overlay draped the table and the bride's bouquet was used as the centerpiece.

The bridegroom's table was draped with a beige satin and ivory lace overlay and featured a German chocolate cake. An arrangement of dusty rose, burgundy and ivory flowers was the centerpiece for the table.

The bride is a graduate of Ft. Stockton High School and attended Angelo State University.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Forsan High School and Western Texas College. He is a firefighter with the Big Spring Fire Department.

After a wedding trip to Odessa, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Help is waiting for your child April 21-25 at a special Dyslexia Screening Clinic.

Dyslexia. It's a word most people don't understand. But, if your child is one of the millions who suffer from dyslexia, you understand the pain and frustration this disability can cause.

You know your child isn't lazy...stupid...or disobedient, as many have said. Although the strict definition of dyslexia is "a disturbance of the ability to read," you realize that it affects every aspect of your child's life.

That's why a dyslexic sees his words. Letters are often transposed and backwards. Reading this writing can be nearly impossible.

Dyslexics find reading almost impossible. Aside from difficulty with reading and composition, your child shies away from sports involving eye/hand coordination. He has trouble following directions and is often clumsy and insecure. These are just a few of the symptoms that can make the life of a dyslexic child confusing and miserable.

Now, a special Dyslexia Screening Clinic, affiliated with Dyslexia Centers of America, offers you and your child hope for a normal life.

Sponsored by Boyd Chiropractic Clinics of Midland, who have served the health care needs of West Texans for over 40 years, the clinic will feature Dr. Carl A. Ferreri, a world renowned expert in the treatment of dyslexia.

A doctor of chiropractic, Dr. Ferreri has practiced for 29 years and has developed a highly effective method for treating basic learning dysfunctions. During the Clinic, Dr. Ferreri will instruct other professionals in his treatment methods which involve no drugs or anesthesia. The treatment, which centers around adjustments of the spinal and cranial structures, along with kinesiological and muscular whether your child will benefit from the procedure. In most cases, a correction is performed in conjunction with the free exam. If your child is diagnosed as receptive to future care, a reasonable one-time fee will cover all exams and treatments related to dyslexia. Treatment is covered by insurance in most cases.

For convenience and accessibility, the Clinic will be held at the Holiday Inn - Country Villa in Midland. Appointments may be scheduled Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
