How's that?

Male chauvinist

Q. Who was the author of "The Time of Her Time"?
A. Norman Mailer included the short story as part of his repertoire submitted to G.P. Putnam's Sons Publishing Co. in 1959.
Ardent feminists argued strongly thereafter that Mailer was a "male chauvinist" as revealed by his story's hero.

Prime rate hits 8-year low

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's largest banks today began cutting their prime lending rate to 8.5 percent from 9 percent, bringing the key rate to its lowest level in almost eight years.

Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third-largest bank, was the first of the major New York banks to announce a prime rate cut. Chase was followed by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the fifth-largest U.S. bank.

The cut in what banks charge on loans to their most creditworthy customers was effective immediately and follows the Federal Reserve Board's Friday reduction of its discount rate from 7 percent to 6.5 percent.

A cut in the discount rate — the rate the Fed charges on loans to commercial banks — is the most dramatic move the Fed can make to signal its intention to push interest rates lower to stimulate the economy.

Banks reduced their prime lending by a half-percentage point to 9 percent the last time the Fed cut the discount rate, from 7.5 percent, on March 7.

That last time the prime rate was at 8.5 percent was in June 1978. The interest rate cuts come despite the Commerce Department's report on Thursday that the overall economy, as measured by the gross national product, was rising at an annual rate of 3.2 percent in the first three months of this year, substantially stronger than a 0.7 percent rate of expansion from October through December.

Economists said there were still weaknesses in areas of the economy and noted that the GNP report is subject to revision.

Both the March and April discount rate cuts were viewed as a coordinated effort on the part of the industrialized countries to reduce interest rates worldwide. On Saturday, the Bank of Japan announced it was cutting its discount rate to 3.5 percent, effective today.

The Fed's March discount rate cut had come only after the central banks of both Japan and West Germany had cut their discount rates.

Curfew continues in twister-torn city as cleanup goes on

SWEETWATER (AP) — Residents reeling from a fierce spring twister that shattered houses and disrupted lives here remained under a curfew as they continued to sift through debris left in a half-mile wide, two-mile-long swath.

Gov. Mark White, who on Sunday toured devastation left by the tornado, said he would probably announce today whether the area should be declared a disaster.

According to the National Weather Service, two tornadoes approached Sweetwater early Saturday, merged in the air, and then dipped down near Interstate 20 in the southern part of the West Texas city.

An elderly man was killed, about 100 people were injured, and an estimated 1,500 residents were left homeless. The governor said he was contacting the Texas Housing Authority to arrange interim housing.

Mayor Rick Rhodes estimated property damage between $15 and $20 million. He said after the twisters came together, they moved diagonally across the city's southern edge.

"It was a very destructive storm," said Jerry O'Bryant, acting head of the weather service office in Abilene, 45 miles to the east.

The tornado traveled so close to the ground that residents had only a moment's notice, said O'Bryant, who also inspected the devastated area.

"I talked to one man who said he couldn't see anything until it topped a hill, about a quarter of a mile away. He took his family inside a hallway and covered up with a mattress. It missed his house from a dead center hit by one house," O'Bryant said.

Many residents, including a group of senior citizens who watched helplessly as the tornado churned through their retirement project, told White they are thankful to have survived.

"After I saw the extent of the damage, I thought we'd have many more injuries and certainly more deaths," City Manager David Maddox said. "It was luck. It was a miracle."

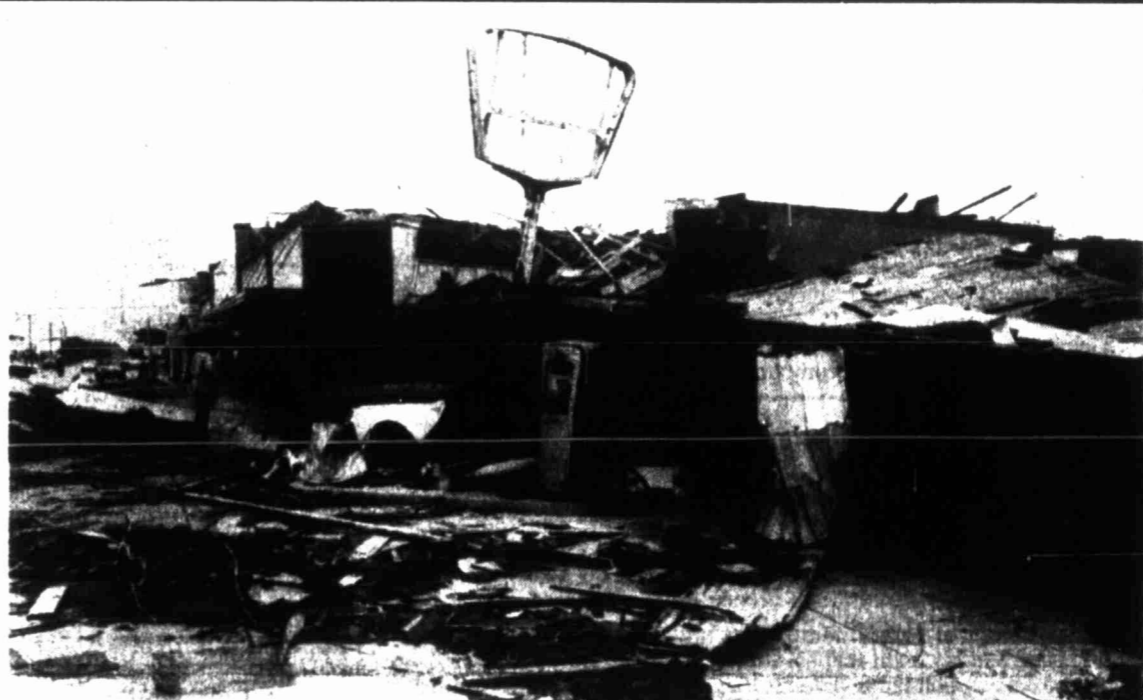

Rhodes said more than 2,000 of the city's 12,000 residents were affected by the damage the storm did to about 800 homes, about 75 percent of which were destroyed.

"The only thing I can say is tough times never last, but tough people do, and we've got a lot of tough people around here," said White.

Nine people remained hospitalized Sunday at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene with injuries suffered in the storm, said hospital spokeswoman Jo Thompson. Another of the injured, Mary Castro, 27, was moved by helicopter to Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas in critical condition, Ms. Thompson said.

Three people were treated at Hendrick Medical Center and released.

Nine people were in stable condition at Rolling Plains

Owners assess damage to a business on Lamar Street that was left in total shambles by twin tornadoes that cut a swath of destruction half mile wide and two miles long in Sweetwater Saturday.

Memorial Hospital in Sweetwater, spokesman Bud Neff said.

Another 67 people were treated and released from the facility, said Dr. Preston Nash, director of radiology and chief of medical staff.

White talked with residents of the Sun Village Housing Project, a federally subsidized development for the elderly, which was hit hard by the tornado. A light spring wind blew under blue skies, innocent of the grey clouds that spawned the destructive twisters.

Some houses that weren't destroyed were skewed on their foundations.

Pieces of metal siding were torn from homes and wrapped around trees. Only jagged pieces remained from utility poles that had been snapped in half.

Officials said the damaged area also included a mobile home park and a subdivision. Lumber companies opened their yards to help residents board up their windows.

White, standing in wreckage at the housing project, said he was surprised that the tornado resulted in only one fatality.

One housing project resident, Gladys Lane, stood looking through what used to be the side wall of her house as White spoke.

"It was just like I was in a vacuum," said Ms. Lane. "I was down on my knees begging the Lord to take care of me. I didn't care about the house."

Residents of the housing project pulled together well during the storm, Kathleen Lewis, director of the housing project, told the governor. The lone fatality was Henry Earl Tatum, an 87-year-old project resident.

"They're all fine except for the little fellow that we lost," said Ms. Lewis.

Lorene Wallis, another resident, said she saw the tornado coming. "I looked at it. The water and the wind was just like a fan," she said.

Mrs. Wallis, 72, who lived across the street from Tatum, said she huddled in her hallway and waited for the storm to pass.

"When I looked out again, his apartment was demolished," she said. "I was real fortunate. Thankful, too."

Rhodes said that although emergency shelters were set up, few of the homeless used them Saturday night because they were provided with a place to stay by other Sweetwater residents.

Dewey Alderson, public relations director for the Salvation Army's Texas division, said a curfew was in place again for Sunday night.

Teams sign up for walk Saturday

March of Dimes WalkAmerica is coming Saturday.

Last year the local walk earned $21,000 for the March of Dimes fight against birth defects — mental and physical defects that affect 250,000 American babies each year.

Last year between 25 and 31 teams with up to 320 walkers took part in the event, said Peggy Payne of the area foundation. So far, 28 teams have committed to walk the 5½ mile route this year, she said. WalkAmerica will go on rain or shine, and participants are urged to dress accordingly.

Payne said there's still time for teams and individuals to sign up for the walk by calling the March of Dimes at 263-3014 before Saturday.

Along with supporting research and offering medical services, the foundation is targeting preventable defects. Teenage pregnancy, nutrition, prenatal care and alcohol and drug abuse are some sources of defects that can be eliminated through education.

The walk begins at 9:30 a.m. with registration at 9 at Shadow Retreat Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park.

NBC to broadcast missing girl's case

By SCOTT FITZGERALD Staff Writer

A television show on missing children will feature 10-year-old former Big Spring resident Christie Proctor, who was abducted in Dallas on Feb. 15.

The girl's case will be mentioned on a special television show "Missing III: Have You Seen This Person" to be broadcast at 9 p.m. Wednesday on NBC. Local broadcast will be on Channel 4, KTPX, carried on cable channel 13.

Laura Proctor of Dallas, Christie's mother, said this morning that she has been in contact with the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in Washington D.C.

"They are responsible for many types of media distribution," Proctor said.

Proctor said her understanding of Christie's presentation on network television Wednesday night would consist of a picture of the missing person in addition to a brief description of the case history.

She said Christie's case is also filed with The Lost Child Network based in Leewood, Kan.

CHRISTIE PROCTOR ...case will be featured

Christie was reported missing after she failed to complete a walk of a few blocks from a friend's house to her apartment complex home in north Dallas.

"Christie is the only one who can tell us what happened when we find her," Proctor said.

A $20,000 reward has been posted in Big Spring for her return. The search fund was begun by Christie's grandparents, Ralph and

City Council to consider fee hikes at city facilities

City Council is expected to adopt higher fees for use of city recreational facilities when it meets Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at its regular meeting.
Also, the council is expected to give final approval to a revised city budget.
Final approval of the budget had been held up while the council decided how it would handle a fireman's retirement board request that the city match up to 3 percent any firefighter contribution to the retirement fund.
The council decided at its last work session not to match any contribution beyond the 3 percent pay raise budgeted for all city employees.
The council will also decide whether to purchase a number of $600 burglar alarms for use by the police department in curbing business burglaries. The heat sensing system will be rotated among businesses to warn police of break-ins.
Other items on the council's

Proctor said a recent development in the case "didn't pan out." That lead was reported by a truck driver who said she spotted

Probe to focus on rings

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — The Air Force says it will conduct a wide-ranging investigation into last week's Titan rocket explosion, focusing on "O" rings in the solid fuel boosters and even sabotage.

"We will be looking at everything ... boosters, rings, propellants and electronics," said Maj. Gen. Jack L. Watkins, commander of the 1st Strategic Aerospace Division at Vandenberg.

As for the possibility of sabotage, Watkins said Saturday, "It's one of those things we must always take into consideration." But he added that "things like terrorist activities and sabotage would probably not be discussed in public."

INS faces allegations

DALLAS — Some foreigners bearing valid entry papers at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport say immigration inspectors trying to rack up "turn-around" statistics have bullied them into returning home.

Airport Director Oris Dunham has ordered an inquiry into the complaints that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service inspectors intimidate foreign visitors by shouting, brandishing handcuffs and misleading them into believing they would be jailed if they didn't return home voluntarily, the Dallas Times Herald reported in its Sunday editions.

Interest may level off

WASHINGTON — Interest rates, which have fallen to their lowest levels of this decade, may not go much lower and may actually start heading higher before the year is out, many economists believe.

While that sounds like an overly pessimistic prediction given the dramatic plunge in rates so far this year, many analysts feel the events that have been driving rates down have about run their course.

But even the most pessimistic feel that rates will edge slightly lower in coming months given the momentum already built into the system.

Plane lands on bridge

SHREVEPORT, La. — The pilot of a private plane says he ran out of gas while heading toward a Shreveport airport, so he came down the next best place available — the Interstate 20 bridge crossing the Red River.

The plane landed between vehicles Sunday, with no damage and no injuries, police said.

When the engine quit, "I looked for the biggest piece of pavement I could find," said pilot Bruce Bailey, 39.

"I was doing the same speed the traffic was," he said. "All I needed was about 20 feet of space and pray the guy behind me stopped."

Gorbachev backs ending military pacts

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev said today he would support the simultaneous abolition of the Warsaw Pact and NATO military alliances.

In a speech to several hundred East German factory workers, Gorbachev also repeated his readiness to meet with President Reagan "so long as the appropriate international atmosphere is created, and real disarmament steps are possible."

"We stress our readiness for a simultaneous disbanding of the Warsaw Pact and NATO, or, for a start, their military organizations," the Soviet Communist Party general secretary told workers at a machine factory in Marzahn, an East Berlin suburb.

Gorbachev visited the factory this morning before attending the closing session of the East German Communist Party Congress. His comments were carried on state-run East German television during the afternoon.

According to the television report, Gorbachev did not elaborate on his statement about the dissolution of the Warsaw Pact, a mutual defense agreement between the Soviet Union and its Eastern European allies, and the U.S.-led North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Gorbachev today also repeated his proposal made in a speech at the party congress Friday that conventional forces be cut back across the European continent.

"The course of political dialogue and search for solutions acceptable to both sides are supported by all Soviet citizens," he said, according to East German television.

"But it is not seldom asked whether the negotiating partner of the U.S.S.R. is seeking to use these negotiations as a front for its attempts to reach military superiority.

"We understand this concern and are taking the necessary measures so that it will not come to that," Gorbachev said.

The Soviet leader Sunday accused the United States of poisoning superpower relations, but said that under the right circumstances he still is willing to meet Reagan as they agreed at their meeting in Geneva last November.

He did not elaborate in his criticism of the United States, but apparently was referring to the U.S. air strike on Libya a week ago, and continued nuclear testing.

Because of the U.S. air raid on Libya, the Soviets canceled a May meeting in which Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze were to discuss preparations for the Washington summit.

If the United States "goes on acting as it is today, trying to poison the atmosphere, this will throw a shadow over any future meeting," Gorbachev said Sunday. "If it (the summit) is to happen, a better atmosphere is necessary."

"The meeting can take place if the United States realizes that it is necessary to take this path," Gorbachev said in Russian. His comments in response to a reporter's question were translated by reporters fluent in the language.

White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Reagan said Sunday the United States expected Gorbachev to "live up to his word" and meet with Reagan this year.

Libya claims wreckage

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates — The state-run newspaper claims Libya pulled the wreckage of a U.S. F-111 fighter-bomber from the Mediterranean and recovered the bodies of its two crewmen.

The report, published Sunday by Al-Ittihad, was attributed to unidentified Libyan sources. Arab and Western diplomatic sources, who insisted on anonymity, dismissed the account as unverifiable.

The United States has said an F-111 warplane that took part in the U.S. air raid on Libya last Tuesday failed to return. The Pentagon declared the two crewmen killed in action.

OPEC cartel stays split

GENEVA — A week-long OPEC conference appeared to be moving today toward an inconclusive end, with the cartel split on a plan to reverse the collapse of world oil prices by imposing a curb on production.

A majority of the cartel's 13 members said they favored a proposal to reimpose controls on OPEC oil production starting in July, but the dissenters said they would not accept the plan as official policy.

During a break in today's talks, several oil ministers from the Organizations of Petroleum Exporting Countries told reporters they saw no chance of agreement on a comprehensive production policy, even if a majority voted for the summer production target.

Palestinian in custody

BERLIN — West Berlin police have arrested a Palestinian man in connection with the April 5 bombing of a discotheque in which a U.S. serviceman and a Turkish woman were killed, authorities said today.

U.S. officials have said they had proof of Libyan involvement in the bombing, and U.S. warplanes raided Libya last Tuesday in retaliation.

Manfred Ganschow, the security police official heading the bombing investigation, said the Palestinian was taken into custody late Friday in West Berlin.

An American army sergeant and a Turkish woman were killed in the explosion, and 230 people were injured, 63 of them Americans.

Car bomb hurts none

LIMA, Peru — A car bomb exploded before dawn today outside the residence of U.S. Ambassador David Jordan, blowing a hole in the concrete wall surrounding the building and breaking windows, but no one was hurt, an embassy spokesman said.

A police sergeant at the scene said the bombing occurred minutes after a four-hour curfew ended at 5 a.m. He said police around the residence saw two men running away after the explosion.

Medicare change proves successful

Medicare, which for 20 years served as one of the main engines of rising health care costs, has now become a potent force for economy. The question now is whether it will be used to stimulate additional progress in providing high-quality medical care in more efficient ways.

In 1983, the Reagan administration, alarmed by the growing cost of treating the sick, embarked on a drastic experiment in paying for the care of the elderly. Hence — for Medicare, which had always reimbursed hospitals for their full cost in treating patients, plus a margin for profit, began limiting its payments to fixed amounts for each of nearly 500 ailments.

The idea was to alter the fundamental incentives of hospitals. Under the old system, they had no incentive to cut costs and plenty to inflate them. Under the new "prospective payment system," those hospitals that can provide care for less than the government rate get to keep the difference. Those whose costs exceed the limit have to swallow a loss.

The change was greeted with considerable criticism, and its execution has drawn still more. But two and a half years later, the experiment has proved to be a dramatic success.

The numbers are revealing. In 1982, the average patient over the age of 65 spent 10.1 days in the hospital. Last year, the average stay was down to 8.8 days, a decline of 13 percent. Total admissions of the elderly fell by 2.9 percent in 1984 and 5 percent in 1985.

All this translates into a tidy savings for Medicare — $2.2 billion in the first year, by one estimate. Four years ago, the hospital trust fund was projected to run out of funds by 1987. Last week, the Social Security Board of Trustees reported that it should remain solvent until 1996.

More surprising is that the cuts have done no apparent harm to hospitals. In fact, 1984 was their most profitable year ever, and last year was nearly as good.

The picture is not entirely rosy, though. One chronic fear is that hospitals will respond to the fee limits by undertreating patients, or by discharging those who prove too costly to treat.

A report last October by the Senate Special Committee on Aging claimed that many Medicare patients are being discharged from hospitals too early. But there isn't enough evidence to know if the problem is real. And the threat of malpractice lawsuits serves as a strong incentive to keep patients as long as medically necessary.

The new system unquestionably has forced hospitals to look closely at costs and to improve their productivity. But it lacks the flexibility to reflect constantly changing market conditions. Over time, it runs the risk of either overcompensating hospitals or squeezing them excessively.

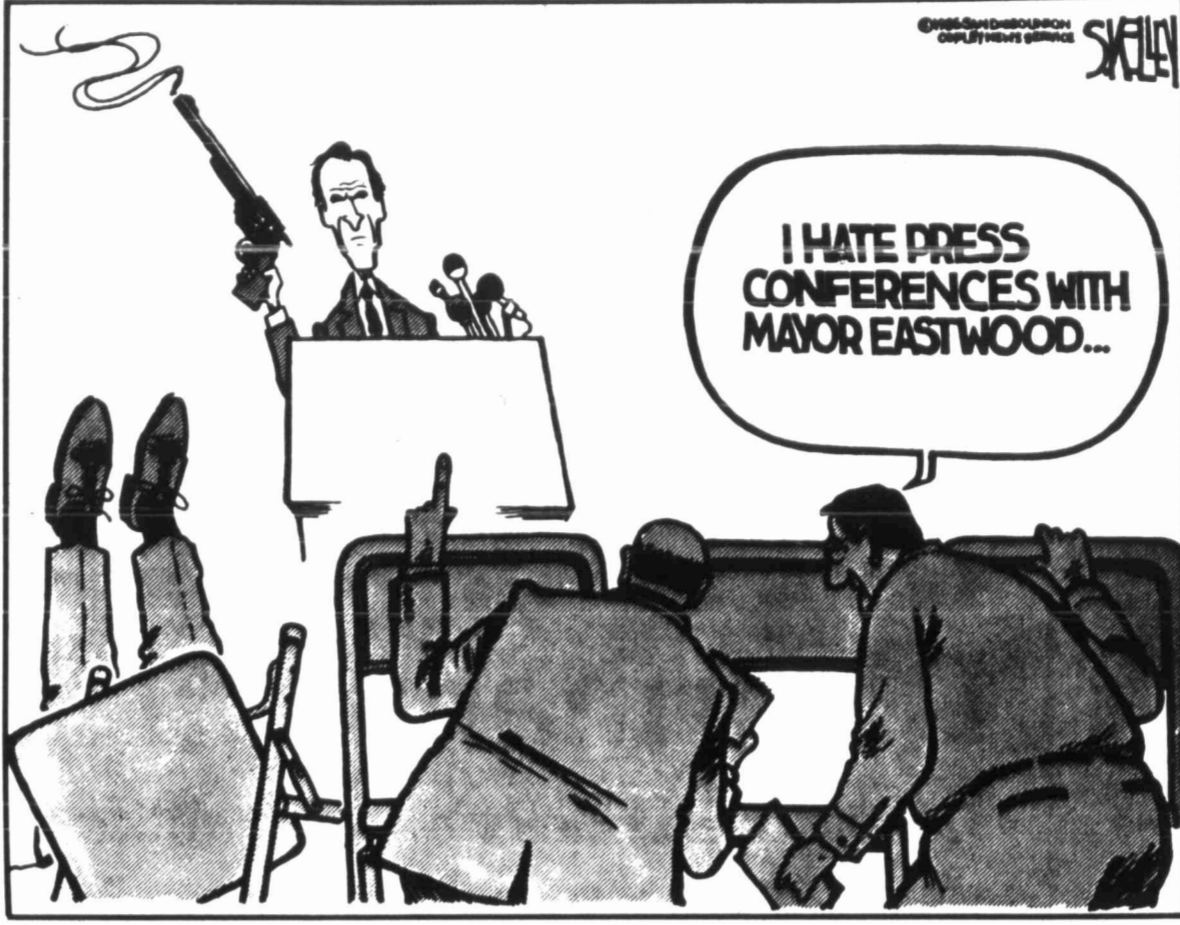

What is needed, then, is a further step to encourage both efficiency and first-rate care. The Reagan administration has begun allowing beneficiaries to enroll in health maintenance organizations. For each new member, the HMO is paid 95 percent of the average retiree's annual cost to Medicare; in return it is obliged to provide all needed care, whatever the cost. The administration would like to expand that option, allowing more suppliers to compete for patients.

This measure, like the prospective payment formula, has the virtue of saving money and compelling efficiency. But it has two more attractions, which are just as important.

The first is that, because it covers not just hospital care but all treatment, it encourages the supplier to work with the patient to promote sound health and to catch any dangerous problems early. The second is that it gives suppliers a new incentive not to cut costs at the patient's expense — since the patient may switch to another HMO.

The federal government has used its leverage as a buyer of medical care to bring about sorely needed changes in the benefit of both medical patients and taxpayers.

Update: drug trafficking

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — We reported last December evidence that the Marxist government of Suriname, the former Dutch colony on the northeast coast of South America, was engaged in drug trafficking. Cocaine processed in a jungle factory guarded by Surinamese troops was being shipped to Amsterdam in diplomatic pouches, according to Dutch intelligence sources.

Now the Drug Enforcement Administration has produced dramatic confirmation of our report.

On March 24, federal agents arrested three Surinamese citizens in Miami. DEA agents, posing as smugglers, had approached the three suspects who agreed to provide a safe place to refuel drug-carrying aircraft en route from Colombia to the United States. The price was to be $1 million per plane.

The case has created an international scandal thanks to the identity of one of those arrested: Etienne Boerenveen, a member of the five-man military junta that has ruled Suriname since Desi Bouterse seized power in a 1980 coup. The Netherlands government is particularly embarrassed because it had just offered secretly to resume aid to Suriname — $25 million worth — in exchange for a pledge to restore democracy in the country of some 400,000. Dutch and American aid was abruptly stopped when Bouterse executed 15 opposition leaders in 1982.

Boerenveen, a graduate of the Dutch military academy, bragged to the undercover agent that he was the No. 2 man in the Bouterse regime. He entered the United States on a diplomatic passport and has tried to claim diplomatic immunity.

Before his arrest, "Boerenveen offered protection to ether and cocaine transshipment," court records state. "(He) would provide small boats and trucks to transport ether" from freighters to Surinamese refineries and back. He told the DEA agents that he "controlled the police, the military, the ports and security of all airfields" in Suriname, according to the court records.

The Surinamese government is concerned about Boerenveen's arrest. Surinamese officials have threatened to break off already tenuous diplomatic ties with the United States if his diplomatic status is not recognized.

As we reported, Suriname has become a refuge for Colombian drug lords forced out by President Belisario Betancur in recent years. Sources told our associate Donald Goldberg the Bouterse regime invented the drug bosses into Suriname because of its desperate need for hard currency after the cutoff of Dutch and U.S. aid.

Bouterse's situation grew even worse in 1983. His role model and mentor had been Maurice Bishop, the Marxist leader of Grenada who was deposed and murdered by Cuban-backed rivals, leading to the invasion by U.S. troops. Fearful that Suriname might be next on the Reagan administration's hit list, Bouterse abruptly expelled his Cuban military advisers — and welcomed the Colombian cocaine lords into his country.

Four days after Boerenveen's arrest, the Surinamese foreign ministry issued a statement accusing the United States of "setting up" Boerenveen because of Suriname's increasingly close ties to Libya. And one Dutch source suggested there might be some truth to the charges.

Our intelligence sources say Libyan dictator Muammar Khadafy has sent more than 200 advisers to Suriname; in return, he has asked for Surinamese passports for his international assassination squads.

Boerenveen's arrest may have been a coincidence in timing, or it may have been linked to the Reagan administration's undeclared war on Khadafy. According to Dutch sources, the State Department quietly warned Suriname in late January to cool its ardent embrace of Khadafy. Four weeks later, federal agents made their first contact with the Surinamese suspects and set up the sting operation that netted Boerenveen.

LOBBYING DE LUXE: The billboard lobby is totally shameless in its courtship of congressional influence brokers. At the January convention of the Outdoor Advertising Association, the Naegle Co. and Gannett Outdoor put up a 25-foot banner with the picture of the quest of honor, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass. Other guests were House Majority Leader James Wright, D-Tex., House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., Reps. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., and Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., and Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo. The billboard industry's magazine headlined its story of the junket: "The outdoor advertising industry — forever challenged, rarely defeated."

Around The Rim Clothes make the man crazy

By T.M. APPEL
I will never figure out this obsession that women have with new clothes.

Mr. Spock would have a coronary if he saw how illogical the entire rite is. And on a recent expedition to a clothing store with my wife, I learned a few things that made my mind spin.

First off, New York and Paris usually set the clothing trends seen round the world. Yet these places are much cooler in the springtime than here, are they not?

So why is it that stores around here carry these springtime-looking sweaters? Here it is, the middle of Spring, at times the weather has been hot enough to melt the rubber off car tires, yet these stores continue to carry sweaters, and the girls wear them, of course with a long-sleeved blouse underneath. Does this make sense?

What about sizes? A guy can walk into any men's store, blurt out the words "medium size" and get an entire wardrobe that fits perfectly.

Do women demand this type of convenience from the manufacturers? No way!

Not only do they have sizes like 5-6, 9-10 and 11-12, but they have classifications like petite, juniors, misses and probably others that I've never even heard of.

So if you know the clothes size of your wife or girlfriend, you can easily go out and buy her some clothes for presents, right? Not so. Some clothing manufacturers may make a large 5-6, for those who really wear 7-8, or a small 11-12, for the true 9-10 crowd.

Is that it? No, not quite. Take a look around at some of the fashions that women are wearing. Many are sporting the baggy look: Whether it was designed that way, bought a size larger, or they thought it was the right size and it turned out to be one of those weird size deals remains to be seen.

And how does shrinkage during washing play a factor in all of this? Finally, let's discuss colors and patterns. I can't wear solid black pants with a brown-striped shirt without getting yelled at by my wife on how stupid my clothes look.

Yet the biggest selling clothes for women right now seem to be colors on the opposite end of the spectrum, with flowered shirts and striped pants as the "in" thing.

So if you want to buy your loved one a present at any time, try a computer. It's a lot less complicated.

Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, April 21, the 111th day of 1986. There are 254 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: One hundred and fifty years ago, on April 21, 1836, an army of Texans led by Sam Houston defeated the Mexicans at San Jacinto, capturing the Mexican leader, General Santa Anna, and assuring the independence of Texas.

On this date: In 1649, the Maryland Toleration Act, which provided for freedom of worship for all Christians, was passed by the Maryland Assembly. In 1789, John Adams was sworn in as the first vice president of the United States.

In 1910, author Mark Twain died. In 1918, Baron Manfred von Richthofen — the German ace known as the "Red Baron" — was killed in action during World War I.

In 1967, the Greek army seized control of the government in Athens. In 1967, Svetlana Alliluyeva — daughter of Soviet leader Josef Stalin — arrived in New York.

In 1975, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu resigned in the face of advancing Communist forces.

Ten years ago: Full-scale testing of the swine flu vaccine began in Washington, with the first injection given to the director of the Food and Drug Administration's bureau of biologics, Dr. Harry M. Meyer Jr.

Billy Graham

Ailment doesn't mean God's gone

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My daughter just called with the shocking news that she has to have an emergency operation. I am numb with fear and heartbreak. Where did God go? He has always been so good to us, and now He has let this happen. It just doesn't seem fair that He has abandoned us. — Mrs. P.W.

DEAR MRS. P.W.: God has not abandoned you — not at all. As the Bible promises, "God has said, 'Never will I leave you; never will I forsake you.' So we say with confidence, 'The Lord is my helper; I will not be afraid.'" (Hebrews 13:5-6).

Even when we do not understand why some things are happening to us, we still can know God is with us and wants to help us.

It is important to remember God has not promised our lives will always be trouble-free and bright. But He has promised to be with us, because He loves us. "When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and when you pass through the rivers, they will not sweep over you" (Isaiah 43:2).

It is like a stormy day: When clouds obscure the sun, does it mean the sun is no longer there? Not at all. In the same way, when our problems seem to blot out God's presence, it does not mean He has left us. In fact, if we learn to turn to Him in those times, we will discover He wants to draw close to us and help us in ways we never thought possible.

The Bible says, "Come near to God and he will come near to you" (James 4:8). Let this, therefore, be a time when you and your family "come near to God." How can you do that? First, if you have never made your commitment to Christ, turn to Him in trust and faith.

Dear Abby

Operation Dear Abby sets sail

DEAR ABBY: Your Operation Dear Abby was a wonderful morale booster for lonely and homesick Marines in Japan. It let thousands of U.S. Marines know that Americans back home really care about them. It also gave some stateside people an opportunity to learn something about military life overseas.

Abby, we here in Guantanamo Bay Naval Base wish that you would extend Operation Dear Abby to us. We are an extremely isolated installation in the Caribbean, and would love to hear from people in the states. Our base is the oldest American post on foreign soil, and the only U.S. base in a communist nation.

There are a lot of lonely Marines and sailors here. We have women here, too, the majority of whom are in the Navy.

Anyone wishing to correspond with a service person can address letters to me. I promise to see that the letters will get into the hands of someone who wants a pen pal. Mail from "home" keeps us going.

Thanks in advance from all of us stationed here.

OPERATION DEAR ABBY
LCPL STEVE WILLIAMS
CO. L MARSPT BN
NSGA BOX 41
FPO NEW YORK, N.Y. 09593

DEAR STEVE: You asked for it! (The Marines on Okinawa received more than 30,000 letters!)

OK, Steve, you are now included in Operation Dear Abby. Prepare to hear from boys, girls, men, women, moms, pops and grandparents. The nicest people in the world read Dear Abby.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more letter about European eating practices?

Eighteen years ago, on the plane home from our first visit to Europe, I asked our 10-year-old son if he had learned anything in the three months we had spent traveling around Europe. He thought for a minute, then said, "Well, I learned that there are a lot of different ways to flush a toilet."

Then I asked him if he'd also learned that one way of flushing a toilet was just as good as another, and he said, "Sure, they all get the job done." So I told him that he had indeed learned something of value.

To those who think the American way of doing things is the best and/or the only way, I say: "Please don't be an Ugly American. When you travel abroad, keep an open mind, and if you still don't think the way they 'flush their toilets' is as efficient as ours, please keep your opinions to yourself and don't insult or ridicule them. It will make life much more pleasant for us all when we follow in your footsteps."

DEAR MR. DuBOSE: Your son was wise at age 10. But then, he had a good teacher. Congratulations.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Two-Tone in North Carolina" — the black woman who had a mastectomy and was fitted with a pink or rose-colored prosthesis. She said she felt "funny," and asked if any manufacturer made artificial breasts for black women.

Well, I can tell her they do. I'm a white woman who also had a mastectomy. The place I bought my prosthesis didn't have a white one in my size, so they gave me a black one to wear until a white one came in. It sure looked funny, but it got the job done. I wore it for three weeks and my husband cracked up every time he saw it. Sign me...

For your garden

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

Horticulture course to be held April 22

If growing tomatoes and/or pecans are your thing, then you'll want to be at the Dora Roberts Building on the Howard County Fairgrounds in Big Spring April 22 at 7:00 p.m.

Tomatoes are the most popular garden vegetable grown in Howard County, but unfortunately, they have a lot of problems associated with them.

Proper variety selections, planting, watering and other management techniques will be discussed by Dr. Austin Stockton, Horticultural Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This is the first time we have offered a complete short course on tomatoes and we hope you can attend. You will receive some helpful information to assist you with growing this vegetable in your home gardens in 1986.

After the tomato course, we will have a short 30 minute break and go directly into a pecan management program. Pecans are ever increasing in popularity in the county and this program will be of a lot of interest to those of you growing pecans.

We have a lot of calls to our office about spraying pecans for the pecan nut case-bearer. Dr. Charles Allen, our Extension Entomologist has assisted us in combating this pest. A production model was developed by Dr. Allen and daily high and low temperatures are reported to him beginning in late March.

The pecan nut casebearer prediction model allowed us to predict casebearer first significant nut entry with accuracy of three days.

An insect prediction model, driven by temperature data, can be used to predict with accuracy the date on which first generation pecan nut casebearer should begin to enter nutlets. This information is very useful to those who check their trees for this pest and schedule insecticide applications to control it.

Temperature data was accumulated for the county starting late March and ending in mid-May. From that point historical weather data for May was used to predict the date when larvae begin entering nutlets.

The model predicted first significant nut entry would occur on 5-27-85 for Howard County. The prediction, to the best of our knowledge was accurate to plus or minus three days. For most growers it was closer than this. This level of accuracy is, in general, close enough to time insecticide applications for effective control.

We are monitoring these temperatures again this year so please watch this column for recommended spray dates for the control of the pecan nut casebearer.

Dr. Donohue

Blood fluid can collect

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My wife, age 67, died recently from buildup of fluid around her heart. She was sick at home, then suffered a heart spell and was rushed to the hospital. Her problem was diagnosed as fluid around the heart. It was drained, but next day she had rapid heartbeats and her blood pressure went way down. Later the same thing happened and drainage was done again. That evening she died. The heart specialist didn't know where the fluid came from and asked permission to do an autopsy. I refused. My question is, where does the fluid come from? Surely medical science must have some idea. — E.M.S.

I'm sorry that you had to lose your wife. I'll try to explain what might have happened with as little medicalness as possible.

Fluid around the heart is called pericardial effusion. Often the cause is a viral infection of the pericardium, the protective sac covering the heart. Infection brings the inflammation that causes an outpouring of fluid. The pericardium fills.

If the outpouring is great, pressure on the heart can be so severe that blood pressure drops, which seems to have happened in your wife's case. And of course, blood circulation cannot be maintained.

The fluid drainage was to correct this situation, which doctors refer to as cardiac tamponade, a word that is from the French word for "to stop up" (tamponner).

More specifically, the fluid in such effusion comes from blood vessels leaking the liquid part of blood, the plasma. That is the same thing that happens during inflammation anywhere in the body — in an inflamed knee, for instance.

That's just one example of a cause of pericardial effusion. I am only speculating on that very common cause.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: In response to a previous item, I have some questions. It was on osteoporosis (bone-thinning). How do you know what your bone density is, say at some point, like at menopause? What kind of doctor do you see? What kind of tests will that doctor want to do? Are they painful? — D.D.

To begin with, if you are a white, slender, non-athletic woman, you can be pretty sure your bone density at the onset of menopause is on the low side. If you smoke cigarettes and have forsaken traditional sources of calcium, (like dairy products) most of your life, you can just about double the bet that your bones aren't what they should be.

Two good tests can measure bone density. One is called dual-photon absorptiometry. Please let me forego the details of that. It's like a bone scan. The other reliable test is the CAT scan, which, like the other one, utilizes injected radioisotope material that goes to bones to permit measurement with delicate instruments. If you're wondering whether a regular X-ray will show osteoporosis, it won't, at least not reliably. From 30 to 40 percent of bone's density has to be lost before it can be spotted on an X-ray picture.

Your family doctor can order the tests if you need them. They don't hurt.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When people write and ask you what to do for canker sores. I can't understand why you don't suggest small pox vaccination. — L.C.

My weak reason for not doing so is the fact that small pox vaccine is not readily available, since the illness has been eradicated. My stronger reason is I don't believe it will work.

I know many readers will take umbrage at this, citing what they consider their personal victories over canker sores through the vaccination method. However, the scientific evidence just does not support claims for it. The idea is that when you get a live vaccine (like that for small pox) you develop a benign viral infection. Viral infections promote interferon production.

Volunteers give 20,583 hours to State Hospital

During the fiscal year 1985, volunteers donated 20,583 hours to the hospital, Nancy Jane Jackson Barker, coordinator of volunteer services, said at the Big Spring State Hospital volunteer services luncheon held Thursday to honor volunteers for Volunteer Month.

"This is equal to 12 full-time paid employees," Barker said.

Announcements were made of upcoming activities:

•The Fifth Annual Big Spring Health Fair will be held at the Big Spring Mall April 26 from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m.

•The volunteer office is scheduling picnics for Big Spring State Hospital clients.

•An In-Service Luncheon will be held in the volunteer office May 7 from 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m.

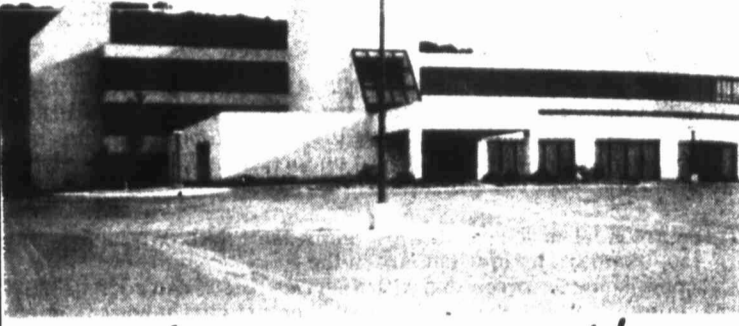

•Dr. Harry Davis will be conducting a seminar May 13 entitled "Adolescents — The Socially Acceptable Psychosis."

Jim Weaver, chairman of the hospital said because of the success of the donation tea, held in the home of Don and Marilyn Newsom, approximately $2,500 was raised leaving a $300 balance the curtains.

CHRISTA'S CHALLENGE

Christa McAuliffe, teacher, astronaut, American hero. Something wonderful glowed deep within her.

She was a dreamer whose passion was to reach for the stars. Her imagination knew no boundaries.

Today, our future dreams can be found in America's classrooms. It was in the classroom that Christa taught and where she hoped her achievements would one day inspire her students to return — as teachers.

That is why the American Federation of Teachers has established a special fund entitled "Christa's Challenge."

This education and scholarship fund will help encourage more of our nation's brightest students to dedicate their lives to the challenge Christa loved most — teaching.

All contributions to this fund will go directly for scholarships and grants.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You may have a slow start in the morning, but persevere. Your activities can work out well later in the day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Know what your partners want of you. Later, be more home-oriented and entertain guests this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Some worry may have you confused in the morning. Forget it for a while and go out shopping or visiting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you change your attitude toward a good friend, you could regret it later. Get busy at building up your income.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Taking any risks with those who have any power over your affairs would be unwise. Maintain poise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) It is not the right time to make that change you have in mind, but fine for having a good time with friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Responsibilities of a practical nature have something puzzling about them, so set them aside for a while.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Discuss matters with associates until you have achieved a harmonious agreement without ill will.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very precise and discriminating and would do well in professions that will require just such talents and qualities, but should early be taught to be more understanding of others and not be so critical.

Chicago Bulls Michael Jordan reacts after slamming the ball through the hoop Sunday afternoon at the Boston Garden. Jordan set a new NBA playoff scoring record by hitting for 63 points against the Boston Celtics.

Jordan sets mark; Bulls lose in O.T.

By The Associated Press
Michael Jordan put on one of those performances that was hard to beat. But 63 points didn't prove an insurmountable object for the Boston Celtics.

"They can have the records as long as we get the wins," Boston's Jerry Sichting said following the Celtics' double-overtime 135-131 victory Sunday over the Chicago Bulls in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Jordan's output set a single-game NBA playoff record, but the Celtics got 36 points from Larry Bird and some clutch baskets in the second overtime from Sichting for their clutch victory and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series.

"I'm not worried about the points," said Jordan, who had 49 in the Bulls' opening-game loss to the Celtics. "I'd give all the points back if we could win. We, as a team, played well. They just got the breaks at the right time."

Celtics 135 Bulls 131

Jordan broke the record of 61 points set by Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers in Boston on April 14, 1962. The overtime record was 50 points by Boston's Bob Cousy in a four-overtime game on March 21, 1953.

"We rely on him," Chicago Coach Stan Albeck said of Jordan. "His two performances were the two best in NBA history."

"It was just an awesome display of basketball," Boston Coach K.C. Jones said of the game. "I'm glad that I wasn't at home or I would have torn the couch apart. I was watching the game and all I could see was this giant Jordan and everyone else is sort of in the background."

with three seconds left in the first overtime, Jordan missed a 15-footer to leave the score tied at 125.

With Chicago trailing 133-131 in the second overtime, Jordan had a chance to tie the game, but missed a jumper from the foul line with 30 seconds to play. Then Sichting, who finished with eight points, made two decisive field goals in the second overtime — including a jumper with 51 seconds left — to pull it out for Boston.

76ers 102 Bullets 97

Charles Barkley recorded 27 points and 20 rebounds to lead Philadelphia over Washington. Barkley scored 14 of his points in the fourth quarter to key a late rally for the 76ers, who trailed by seven points midway through the period.

"Our offensive rebounding got us back in the game, especially Barkley and Terry Catledge," Philadelphia's Maurice Cheeks said. "They both came up with some big offensive rebounds."

The 76ers had a 21-15 rebounding advantage over the Bullets.

"The total numbers might not be significant," Washington Coach Kevin Loughery said, "but it was down the stretch. They are unbelievably great jumpers."

Blazers 108 Nuggets 106

Former Nuggets forward Kiki Vandeweghe drove for a three-point play with 1:18 remaining to lift Portland over Denver. Vandeweghe finished with a game-high 36 points and Clyde Drexler had 22.

Alex English, despite his second straight poor shooting game, led Denver with 24 points. Guard T.R. Dunn had 21 and Calvin Natt 17. Natt scored a career-high 40 in the series opener.

"I had the big guy (Denver center Blair Rasmussen) on me," said Vandeweghe, explaining his winning shot. "It was one-on-one, just him and me, and I should be able to score on him. I was bumped, and I shot it, and I got hit again, and I went down. I didn't see anything else."

Bucks 111 Nets 97

Terry Cummings scored 13 of his 28 points in the third quarter to pace Milwaukee over New Jersey.

Sidney Moncrief added nine of his 20 points as the Bucks outscored the Nets 36-25 in the third period to take an 85-71 lead into the final 12 minutes. New Jersey got within seven points midway through the fourth quarter, but Milwaukee responded with six straight points to regain control.

Mike Gminski led the Nets with 28 points. Darryl Dawkins, the Nets' 6-foot-11 center who has been out with an injury, made his first appearance since March 9 and scored 10 points in 16 minutes.

Mavericks 113 Jazz 106

Mark Aguirre shook off his back spasms to score nine of his 27 points in the fourth quarter to lead Dallas over Utah. Aguirre, who was listed as questionable right up to game time, played without any problems and helped the Mavericks beat back a fourth-period rally from the cold-shooting Jazz.

Utah, playing without high-scoring Adrian Dantley who was hospitalized with back spasms, was led by rookie Karl Malone, who scored a game-high 31 points. Utah led 73-70 midway through the third period, but Aguirre caught fire in the last period to help Dallas pull away.

Royals win rematch of champs

By The Associated Press
This year, it took the Kansas City Royals only six tries to beat the Toronto Blue Jays four times.

"I think it was the kind of series people expect when we play," Kansas City Manager Dick Howser said after the Royals beat the Blue Jays 6-4 Sunday and wound up the weekend series in Toronto with a pair of victories in three games.

AL

The two teams that met in last season's American League playoffs have played six times in 1986, with Kansas City winning four of them. In the playoffs, the Royals rallied from a 3-1 deficit to win in seven games.

Angels 8, Twins 5
Brian Downing hit a three-run homer with one out in the ninth inning, capping a four-run rally that lifted California over visiting Minnesota.

Yankees 5, Brewers 4
Dave Winfield dashed home from second base on a pair of Milwaukee throwing errors in the 10th inning, giving New York its triumph over the Brewers.

Orioles 6, Rangers 1

Murray hit a two-run homer and a single. He wound up the three-game series with Texas with seven hits in 12 at-bats, including two homers and seven RBI.

Davis pitched a four-hitter and won his first decision of the season. Davis, who struck out five and walked none, improved his career record against Texas to 8-0.

Athletics 9, Mariners 3
Moose Haas checked Seattle on two hits for seven innings, and Dwayne Murphy, Jose Canseco and Tony Phillips collected three hits apiece for Oakland.

Haas, acquired by the Athletics before the season, raised his record to 3-0. He allowed just one run, while reliever Keith Atherton gave up two runs on three hits the rest of the way.

Oakland rapped 15 hits. Murphy drove in three runs, Canseco knocked in two and Phillips scored three times. Donnie Hill also homered for the visiting Athletics.

Red Sox 6, White Sox 2
Boston's Mike Brown pitched a five-hitter over seven innings and won his first major league game in nearly two years.

Subs lead Mets to victory

By The Associated Press
New York Mets Manager Davey Johnson wanted to give George Foster a day off. And now, despite protestations, Johnson may have a decision to make.

On Saturday, Foster's outfield replacement, rookie Kevin Mitchell, singled, doubled and drove in a run in New York's 3-2 victory over Philadelphia. And on Sunday, sub Danny Heep hit a three-run homer to start the Mets to an 8-0 victory over the Phillies.

NL

"I just wanted to give George a couple of days off to get in a lot of extra batting practice," Johnson said. "He hit for about an hour each day. I wanted to put him at ease, try to get him enough hitting to where he feels comfortable with his stroke."

Dodgers 7, Braves 3
Los Angeles got off to a fast start with first-inning homers by Greg Brock and Mike Scioscia and broke a five-game losing streak by beating Atlanta. Bob Welch, 2-0, allowed nine hits, struck out eight and walked one in beating the Braves for the eighth straight time.

Astros 6, Reds 4
Phil Garner and Alan Ashby both homered for Houston in the fourth inning to erase a 3-1 Cincinnati lead. Garner's was a solo shot and Ashby's drove in two runs against Bill Gullickson.

Eric Davis hit a two-run homer for Cincinnati in the third inning off Jim Deshaies. Mike Madden worked three innings in relief of Deshaies, and Charlie Kerfeld finished up for his second save.

Jose Cruz played his first game since coming off Houston's disabled list. He doubled and scored in the sixth inning, and Kevin Bass also had an RBI double for the Astros.

Expos 2, Cardinals 0
Jay Tibbs of Montreal pitched an eight-hit shutout to outduel St. Louis' Rick Horton, and Tim Wallach and Vance law drove in the Expos' runs. Wallach broke a scoreless tie with a two-out, eighth-inning double, and Law had an RBI single.

Giants 4, Padres 0
Vida Blue won his 200th game, giving up five hits over five innings, and the Giants defeated San Diego despite getting only three hits themselves. Blue left with a slight hamstring pull, and reliever Jeff Robinson held San Diego hitless the rest of the way. Blue is the 85th 200-game winner in the major leagues.

All four of San Francisco's runs were unearned and came in the fourth inning against Dave Dravecky, who had won five straight against San Francisco. Dravecky had a throwing error in the inning, and Chili Davis hit a two-run homer for the Giants.

Pirates 8, Cubs 8
Keith Moreland hit a two-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth to produce the 8-8 tie, and neither team could break the tie through 13 innings.

Fuzzy claims Heritage title

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Early last week, during a practice round, good friends Hubert Green and Fuzzy Zoeller were kidding each other, one-upping one another.

"Anybody can win one here," Green said of the deeply respected Harbour Town Golf Links. "But it takes a helluva player to win two."

It left Fuzzy at loss for a response. Zoeller had won once on the tough little course with the tight fairways and tiny greens, winding through moss-dripping cypress, oak and pine down to the finishing holes on Calibogue Sound.

Green, of course, was one of that elite club of two-time Sea Pines Heritage Classic winners, a group which also included Hale Irwin, Johnny Miller and Tom Watson.

Zoeller found his answer Sunday with a 15-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole that capped a comeback round of 71 and made him a one-shot winner in a five-man scramble to the finish.

It confirmed him, in Hubert's words, as "a helluva player," enabled him to join Calvin Peete as the only two-time winners on the PGA Tour this year, and provided him with a personal triumph over pain.

Australian Greg Norman and Roger Maltbie already had finished and had their 7-under-par 277 totals on the board when Zoeller, Chip Beck and Jay Haas came to the final hole.

Beck rapped in an 18-foot birdie putt and was tied for the lead. Now it was Zoeller's turn. He had a 15-footer for birdie and a comeback win.

His 276 total was worth $81,000 from the total purse of $250,000 and pushed his season's earnings to $221,335 for the year, third on the season's money-winning list.

Fuzzy Zoeller of Williamsburg, Va. waves to the gallery after sinking a birdie putt on the 18th green to win the Heritage Golf Classic.

Norman, Maltbie and Beck tied for second, one stroke back. Maltbie had a closing 69, Norman and Beck 70s. Haas was next at 71-278.

Aussie favorite in Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — Australia's Rob de Castella, the 1983 world champion, was the favorite in today's richly endowed Boston Marathon, but little-known Mexican Arturo Barrios, making his marathon debut, was poised for a possible upset.

Barrios, who completed an unheralded collegiate track and field career at Texas A&M last year — except for a second-place finish in the 10,000 meters at the 1985 NCAA Championships — had been dazzling in three road races this year.

He won the Continental Homes 10-Kilometer race at Phoenix, Ariz., by six seconds in a world-best 27 minutes, 41 seconds, running the final mile in 4:16.

He won the Jacksonville, Fla., 15K River Run by 13 seconds in 43:18 and he won the 10K Crescent

City Classic at New Orleans in 28:15, with a 4:13 closing mile, leaving de Castella 13 seconds back in third place.

"I think Barrios is going to perform exceptionally well," said de Castella, who recently had trained with the Mexican at altitude in Boulder, Colo.

While de Castella was somewhat in awe of the swift Barrios, he was not conceding anything to him.

"The last six months, I have been training hard and running well," he said. "I'm ready."

While de Castella and Barrios were expected to stage a close battle, with perhaps strong challenges from two-time New York City winner Orlando Pizzolato of Italy and 1983 Boston winner Greg Meyer, the women's race figured to be one-sided, with Ingrid Kristiansen of Norway the overwhelming favorite.

Kristiansen owned the women's world best of 2 hours, 21 minutes, 6 seconds, and was determinedly aiming to break the 2:20 barrier.

"I think it's possible," she said. "I hope to show a lot of men I can run under 2:20," added Kristiansen, who trains with men at a sports club in Oslo.

Kristiansen said she didn't think any woman would "push me," despite a field that included 1984 winner Lorraine Moller of New Zealand, Lisa Martin of Australia and Carla Buerskens of the Netherlands.

The fields for the 26-mile, 385-yard race were much stronger than in the past two years because the Boston Athletic Association, the race organizer, decided to award prize money for the first time.
