Missed out again

Lightning illuminates the sky northeast of Big Spring Thursday night, silhouetting a storm cloud. The clouds brought no rain to the city, though. So far this year, the Agricultural Research Service in Big Spring has recorded only 0.39 of an inch of rain, compared to the normal-to-date of 3.17 inches.

Long distance calls to get price break

WASHINGTON (AP) — AT&T, MCI and GTE-Sprint are planning dramatic reductions in long-distance rates June 1.

For people making out-of-state calls from home, AT&T calculated its average long-distance bill will go down 8.9 percent.

The $1.5 billion AT&T cut, which must be approved by the Federal Communications Commission, triggered plans for the new round of price restructuring in the hotly competitive long-distance arena.

AT&T's competitors were studying the plan but said they would keep their prices competitive.

Because of its size — the government estimates AT&T still has about 80 percent of the interstate long-distance business — the phone giant must submit its price structure for government approval. The smaller companies can change their prices at will.

Under the AT&T proposal, the cost of daytime state-to-state calls would drop by 11.4 percent. The price of weeknight calls before 11 p.m. local time would drop by the same percentage. Smaller reductions — 2.7 percent — are planned for calls after 11 p.m. and on weekends until 5 p.m. Sunday.

The reductions would not affect rates on calls made within states.

The changes would come the same day the FCC doubles a $1 charge residential customers pay for the line that connects them to the telephone central office.

When the reductions were announced Thursday, Gene Kimmelman, legislative director of the Consumer Federation of America, called it "a nasty trick that most of those benefits are going to flow to daytime users."

Hightower blames Washington for faulty agriculture policies

AMARILLO (AP) — Policies in Washington have caused the state to lose 16,000 Texas farmers and ranchers last year, state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower told the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Hightower, speaking before the chamber Thursday, accused Washington of setting "artificially" low prices for commodities.

"We lost 16,000 productive farmers and ranchers last year, not because of bad management on their part, not because of bad weather, not because of bad luck, but as a direct result of deliberate agriculture policies coming out of Washington, D.C. for about the last 30 years," Hightower said.

A study by the Independent Bankers Association showed that of the 22 leading agriculture areas in Texas, only six are in break-even situations, Hightower said.

He said that Texas needs to concentrate on marketing, helping farmers sell as directly as possible to the ultimate buyer at a price that allows them to make a profit. He said 34 farmers' markets have been established in the last three years, and 45 should be complete at the end of this year.

Hightower also pushed for long-range planning and diversification of crops, including establishing wine vineyards.

"There was one wine in 1975 in Breckenridge. Today, there's 18 wineries and another four are going on-line this year. We're going to be second to California in quantity and surpass them in quality," he said.

Texas' second concentration, said Hightower, should be on processing of Texas commodities in Texas. Currently raw goods are shipped out to be processed then shipped back in to be sold to Texans.

Hightower praised the efforts of wheat farmers from Dawn who, with the help of the Texas Agriculture Commission, are establishing a flour mill.

"We need to be investing in people at a grass roots level," he said. "It's not trickle down economics;

it's percolate up economics."

Also speaking Thursday was U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, who said a couple of cuts in the military, a freeze in entitlement programs and at least a dash of higher taxes is the only realistic recipe for cooking up a balanced federal budget.

"It is impossible to balance the budget without cutting defense, without cutting entitlements, without raising taxes," he said. "We need to cut spending as deep as we can everywhere we can find 218 votes (a majority in the House of Representatives)."

To fix the problems, some type of cuts must be found in the Defense Department and such entitlement programs as Social Security, Stenholm said. Together the two areas comprise more than 50 percent of the federal budget.

Similarly, he said, freezing entitlements not only is necessary but defensible, even though it is political suicidal to push for those kinds of changes.

Murder suspect in custody

A man suspected of beating his 66-year-old roommate to death with a baseball bat April 8 was arrested Thursday and charged with murder.

L.H. Williams, 68, was taken into custody by police about 5 p.m. at Big Spring State Hospital, said police Lt. Jerry Edwards this morning.

Williams was transferred to county jail this morning and is being held on $25,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Darratt, Edwards said.

Williams is accused of bludgeoning to death William H. Jewell, who died the next day at Dallas Veterans Administration Medical Center. Williams was admitted to the State Hospital on an emergency basis after Jewell's death.

The two men roomed at 907 Gregg St., a private boarding house that takes in men from both the State Hospital and the Veterans Hospital, said a state hospital spokeswoman.

Assistant District Attorney Robert Morris said Williams will eventually have a criminal competency hearing to determine his ability to stand trial. He said no hearing has been scheduled yet.

If Williams is judged mentally incompetent to stand trial, he will be placed in maximum security at Rusk State Hospital and monitored for improvement that would allow him to later stand trial, Morris said. If Williams shows no signs of getting better, he will likely stay in the state hospital system indefinitely, he said.

People Against Crime

Citizens unite to foil burglars

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Police department and the fledgling anti-crime group People Against Crime decided Thursday to join hands in an effort to curb business break-ins.

Police Chief Rick Turner and top police brass met with 17 PAC members at the Brandin' Iron to discuss the sharp rise in burglaries and how police are handling the problem.

They also tentatively agreed for PACmen to receive up to 40 hours of police training although members insist they will not take part in apprehensions.

Turner said the training will make the group less prone to civil liabilities, the kind police face in practicing law enforcement.

"All it's going to take is one time of someone stubbing their toe, and it'll give the whole group a black eye," Turner said.

NEW YORK — Actor CLIFF ROBERTSON says he's getting ready to fly a glider over Mount Everest.

Robertson, in an interview in this Sunday's "Parade" magazine, said he and Prince Alvaro de Bourbon are planning a two-man trip in a glider over Mount Everest. De Bourbon is a cousin of King Juan Carlos of Spain.

"We're both pilots," said Robertson. "The king of Spain spoke to the king of Nepal about it, and we got the OK. ... I've been to Milan to check out the safety aspects and the structural integrity, and if he can get corporate sponsorship from an environmentally conscious company, we'll go."

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Spurred by Emmy-winning television stars DANNY DEVITO and RHEA PERLMAN, the California Legislature has proclaimed this week "California Week of the Young Child."

The couple received resolutions Thursday from the state Senate and Assembly as honorary co-chairs of Care for the Children, a group seeking support for more child care programs from both business and government.

At a news conference following the legislative ceremonies, DeVito, who won an Emmy Award for his role as dispatcher Louie DePalma in "Taxi," described the stress he and Perlman went through arranging child care while they were both in weekly television shows. They are the parents of two young children.

"It's not just poor people, not just minority people, not just single people," he said. "Today there are lots of women in the work force. We need for them to go to work and have a free mind, not have to go to the phone every 15 minutes."

"There's a severe, growing shortage of child care across California and across the country," added Perlman, who won her Emmy as waitress Carla Tortelli in "Cheers."

 PAC also needs to work out a set of rules and regulations for governing their operations, Turner said.
 The group intends to patrol area businesses in private cars and radio any suspicious activity to another member who will then call police, John Preston of Gold Designers said earlier this month.
 Along with building the first bridge of cooperation between PAC and police, Turner and his men fielded a series of questions about police officers' work and their role in the criminal justice system.
 Steve Chrane of Chrane Boat and Marine asked why police can't move faster in executing searches of the homes of suspected burglars. Chrane's business was recently hit to the tune of about $15,000 in lost cash and merchandise.
 Turner explained that before police can enter and search a private home they must first obtain a search warrant from a district judge. The warrant will be issued only if there is sufficient hard evidence that stolen property is in the home. Police cannot obtain a search warrant on suspicions, he said.
 "The rights are not in the hands of law enforcement, not in the hands of victims, they're in the hands of criminals," Turner said.
 Despite the mushrooming burglary rate, Turner says there are few burglars in Big Spring.

Abducted woman freed after high-speed chase

DALLAS (AP) — A 30-year-old woman abducted from her home and forced to withdraw more than $2,000 from two banks was rescued by police after a high-speed, 30-mile chase, officials said.
 Stevvi Stanley, the wife of Dallas real estate and construction businessman Kermit Stanley, told police two men abducted her at gunpoint from her North Dallas home shortly after noon Thursday.
 Police said they believe the two used a small-caliber handgun to force Mrs. Stanley into her car and make her withdraw the money

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Commodores bassist RON LAPREAD plans to channel profits from a new record to needy children and teenagers in Alabama, saying he hopes to reduce the number of "manufactured criminals."

Lapread appeared at a news conference Thursday with welfare Commissioner Gwendolyn Williams to promote the release of the recording titled "Let's Keep The Music Playing."

Backup performers on the record include several employees in the state Department of Pensions and Security.

Lapread said he hopes sales of the record and accompanying T-shirts, posters and a possible video will raise money for programs for children and teens whose needs may not be covered by the state welfare agency.

"We have in this state a lot of kids who come from homes with one parent or no parents," he said. "After they reach the age of 16 or 17 they do things to get attention and some of these things can get them into trouble down the line."

The Commodores have recorded such hits as "Night Shift," "Brickhouse" and "Machine Gun."

 customer, who is going to pay $1 more a month, is going to get a minuscule nighttime and weekend rate reduction," he said.

But Herb Linnen, the AT&T Washington spokesman, said, "It's wrong to assume that residential customers call mainly on nights and on weekends."

He provided figures that show that 27 percent of AT&T's daytime long-distance revenue comes from people using their home phones. Calls from home account for 45 percent of the revenue in the 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. period.

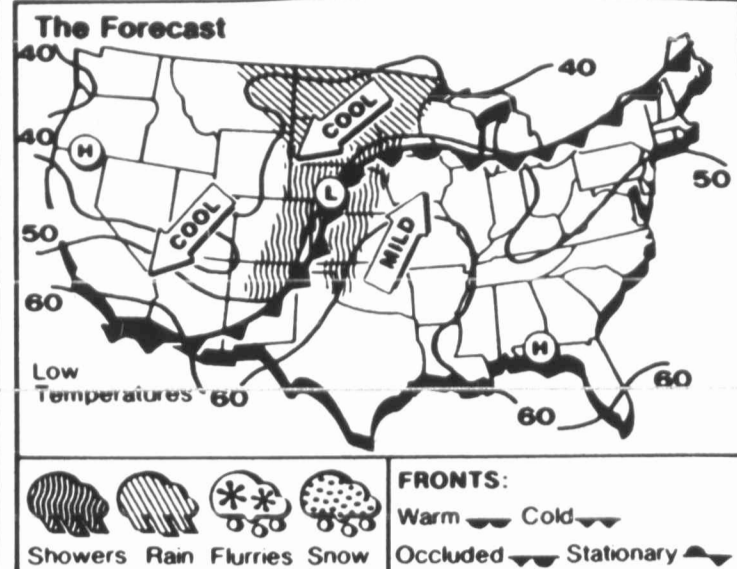

Those are the periods that would get the largest price breaks.

FCC Chairman Mark S. Fowler said the commission's line charge plan has brought "exactly the benefits the commission has always said it would have. That is, dramatically lower rates to all the American people."

Under the new AT&T plan, WATS lines, used by businesses that do a lot of long-distance calling, would cost 12.8 percent less in day and evening hours and 5 percent less late night and on weekends.

Rates for "800-Service" lines that are toll-free for the calling party are scheduled to drop by 9.8 percent for day and evening service and 2 percent at other times.

Forecast

West Texas: Cloudy and very warm. Widely scattered thunderstorms north and central, partly cloudy elsewhere tonight. Partly cloudy and continued very warm Saturday. Highs Saturday around 90 except mid 80s mountains and upper 90s along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend. Lows tonight mid 50s Panhandle to mid 60s Big Bend except upper 40s mountains.

State

A low-pressure system over west Texas triggered widely scattered thundershowers in the eastern Panhandle and North Central South Plains today and forecasters expected the precipitation to continue into the weekend.

A high-pressure ridge also influenced Texas weather, the National Weather Service said. Skies were clear over parts of North, East and Southeast Texas and mostly cloudy from San Antonio across the Rio Grande plains.

Skies were fair to partly cloudy across the rest of the state, the weather service said.

Winds were south to southeast at 5 to 15 mph across most of the state and northeasterly over the Big Bend.

Early-morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s except for readings in the 40s over the mountainous southwest. Extremes ranged from 41 degrees at Marfa in the Davis Mountains to 70 degrees at Laredo on the Rio Grande Plains.

Some isolated thunderstorms were expected in the Panhandle with widely scattered thundershowers over much Northwest Texas this evening. Otherwise, it should be partly cloudy and warm through Saturday.

Highs will be in the 80s and 90s, the weather service said. Other readings at 5 a.m. included 63 degrees at Abilene, Waco, Wichita Falls and Corpus Christi; 64 at Brownsville, El Paso, Amarillo and San Angelo; 62 at San Antonio and Lubbock; and 60 at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport and Midland.

Aid continues for victims of Sweetwater's tornado

SWEETWATER — Members of the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Texas Department of Emergency Management are in Sweetwater this week to help in recovery from Saturday's tornado.

Nolan County was declared a disaster area by President Reagan Wednesday.

The state and federal agencies will start processing claims Saturday in the Nolan County Coliseum annex, said Laureen Chernow, emergency information officer for the Governor's Division of Emergency Management.

Help to disaster victims will be available in the forms of temporary housing, low interest loans coordinated with the Small Business Administration, and up to $5,000 in grant assistance for those who suffered damage from the tornado, she said.

Chernow said the major disaster victims should make their claims first this weekend, and those who suffered minor losses should wait until Monday. Agency officials will remain in Sweetwater until all victims have been assisted, she said. Hours will be 1-6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and 9 a.m.-6 p.m. beginning Monday.

Volunteers also are needed to help with the storm clean-up Saturday. Anyone with trailers, pickups and shovels should meet at 8 a.m. at the Pontiac Garage in Sweetwater, said Marianne Brown of the Big Spring Red Cross.

The Red Cross is collecting money to help the tornado victims. Donations should be earmarked for Sweetwater tornado relief and sent to the Red Cross at 110 N.E. Eighth St.

The Salvation Army is collecting goods for the victims. Especially needed are furniture and large and small appliances, but no clothing, said Captain Carroll Braun of the Big Spring Salvation Army at 308 Aylford St.

Major crimes on rise

WASHINGTON — Major crimes reported to police increased 4 percent in 1985, the FBI says, prompting one law enforcement official to suggest that a new era of rising crime rates may have arrived.

The FBI's index of eight major crimes showed that murders nationwide rose 1 percent compared with 1984, forcible rape climbed 4 percent, robbery rose by 3 percent, and the number of aggravated assaults rose by 6 percent. Violent crime overall was up 5 percent, while property crimes rose 4 percent.

Cold causes crop loss

From the potato fields of Alabama to the apple orchards of Michigan, farmers and agriculture officials who went out to see the results of the week's record cold snap say prospective harvests have been cut by up to 90 percent.

"The heart's killed. It's dead," said Bob MacQueen as he toured his 200-acre apple orchard in Holland, Ohio, on Thursday. "This was a real record. In '56 was the last time it was that severe."

He estimated the freeze, which broke records in 14 states early Wednesday from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes and continued to chill much of the region Thursday, killed half the buds on his trees.

2 banks close in state

First National Bank of Irving and First National Bank of Bandera have become the fifth and sixth Texas banks closed this year, federal banking officials said.

The banks — the 36th and 37th closed nationally in 1986 — were declared insolvent Thursday by the deputy comptroller of the currency in Washington.

The First National Bank of Irving will reopen today as City National Bank of Irving, a newly chartered subsidiary of United City Corp. in Plano, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation officials said.

The First National Bank of Bandera will reopen today as Bandera Bank, said Julie Ambersen, an FDIC spokeswoman.

Depositors of both failed banks automatically will become depositors of the assuming banks, subject to the approval of the appropriate court, officials said.

5 senators urge probe

WASHINGTON — Five Senate Democrats, led by Sen. Joseph R. Biden of Delaware, have asked Attorney General Edwin Meese to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate the lobbying efforts of former White House aide Michael Deaver.

In a letter delivered to the Justice Department Thursday, the senators argue that allegations against Deaver, a close friend of President Reagan, are specific enough to warrant the appointment of a special counsel to conduct an independent investigation, according to Peter F. Smith, Biden's press secretary.

Spanish police remove photographers away from the scene where five paramilitary guards were killed when a booby-trapped car exploded in central Madrid Friday.

Basque bomb

Explosion in Madrid kills five soldiers

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A car bomb exploded in a fashionable district of central Madrid early today, killing at least five paramilitary soldiers in a passing vehicle, police said.

Joaquin Leguina, president of the Madrid regional government, told Spanish television the blast appeared to be the work of the Basque separatist organization ETA.

Four other paramilitary Civil Guards and four civilians also were hurt by the blast, police said.

The explosion occurred at 7:25 a.m. (12:25 a.m. EST) on Juan Bravo Street in the Salamanca district as a Land Rover with the Civil Guards drove by.

Police said it appeared that the bomb had been planted in a car parked along Juan Bravo Street, and that the blast seemed timed to the daily approach of the vehicle carrying the Civil Guards.

Madrid civil governor's office spokesman Antonio Molina said the vehicle had picked up guards coming off the night watch at the Italian Embassy, and was taking other guards to the day shift at the Soviet Embassy and the Ministry of Public Health.

Three of the paramilitary soldiers died instantly, and two others died an hour later in a hospital.

Shortly after the blast, the American School in suburban Aravaca northwest of the city received a bomb threat, school secretary Ariane Doorenbos told The Associated Press.

A dozen policemen rushed to the school and found no bomb, but the 700 primary and secondary students were sent home for the day, she said.

Witnesses said the bomb blast also heavily damaged two floors of the San Antonio de Rosario Maternity Clinic, located near the corner of the intersection of Juan Bravo and Principe de Vergara streets.

Clinic personnel said newborn babies had been moved from a lower floor less than 20 minutes before the blast.

The explosion blew apart the Land Rover, threw bodies onto the sidewalk, destroyed several other cars and a telephone booth, and showered the nearby intersection at Principe de Vergara Street with broken glass.

Witnesses said a car just ahead of the Land Rover also was destroyed by the blast, but that a following vehicle also carrying paramilitary soldiers was not damaged.

Police and firemen rushed to the scene and immediately blocked off the area as relatives struggled to get near the bodies of the three Civil Guards that lay covered by blankets.

Onlookers screamed against ETA, calling the Basque separatists murderers and assassins.

There have been seven other car-bomb attacks in Spain since 1982, causing seven deaths. Most of those attacks have been attributed to ETA.

In 1973, ETA planted a bomb where today's blast occurred. It exploded under the car of Adm. Luis Carrero Blanco, killing the man Spanish ruler Gen. Francisco Franco had picked to succeed him.

Since 1968, ETA has claimed responsibility for the deaths of more than 500 police and military officers.

Libyan students barred

LONDON — Britain today barred more than 300 Libyan aviation students from working on aircraft for security reasons and said they would be expected to leave the country when their student visas expire.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher told Parliament in a written statement that the Libyan aviation students would not be allowed to complete their courses.

Twenty-two other Libyan students who were rounded up earlier this week as suspected subversives were scheduled to leave Britain today on a Libyan Arab Airlines flight, the Home Office said.

Gunman kills Briton

LYON, France — An unidentified gunman today shot and killed the regional director of the U.S.-owned Black & Decker Manufacturing Co. on the doorstep of his home in suburban Lyon, police said.

Police identified the victim as Kenneth Marston, 43, a Briton. He was shot once in the chest and once in the stomach, they said.

A neighbor was quoted as saying Marston's wife and young daughter were with him immediately after the shooting. The daughter reportedly said she saw a masked person dressed in black.

Marston was leaving his home in Ecully, a suburb of this southern French city, when he was shot, police said. He died in his home about two hours later.

Filipino ambush kills 10

MANILA, Philippines — The defense minister said today that a guerrilla ambush in which eight soldiers and two journalists were killed had shattered the government's effort to arrange a cease-fire with communist insurgents.

Juan Ponce Enrile, the defense minister, made the statement in a talk with reporters a few hours after Reuters photographer Wilfredo "Willie" Vicoy died in a hospital of bullet wounds received in Thursday's ambush in Cagayan province, 210 miles north of Manila.

Khadafy spills hatred

TRIPOLI, Libya — Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy told Soviet journalists that Americans and their NATO allies are uncivilized and subhuman.

In an interview shown late Thursday on Libyan television, Khadafy said, "It seems they are a species in between pigs and humans. They have not developed to the level of normal humans."

There was no indication when the 20-minute interview was filmed but the official Soviet news agency Tass reported parts of it Wednesday from Moscow. The Tass report did not mention Khadafy's opinion of Westerners.

Khadafy, seated at a desk with a picture of him in military uniform in the background, also said the United States intended to kill him when it attacked the Libyan ports of Tripoli and Benghazi on April 15.

Habib hints at agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential envoy Philip Habib continued a 12-nation tour of Latin America today amid reports in Washington he is seeking a compromise on Nicaragua that would halt U.S. aid to the Contras in exchange for guarantees that Nicaragua won't threaten its neighbors.

"I think Ambassador Habib is deeply committed to trying to resolve this situation peacefully," said Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., one of several lawmakers to receive a letter from Habib outlining the terms for terminating aid to the Contra rebels.

Those terms, Slattery and several other legislators said, should meet Nicaragua's demand that the United States cut off aid to the Contras before Nicaragua will sign a peace accord sponsored by the Contadora group of nations on June 6.

It isn't known whether President Reagan would go along. As recently as Wednesday, Reagan pledged his full support to the Contras, whom he calls "freedom-fighters." And he didn't even mention the Contadora negotiations in his nationwide address on March 16 calling for more military aid for the Contras.

But in his April 11 letter, Habib said the administration interprets existing Contadora proposals "as requiring a cessation of support to irregular forces and/or insurrectional movements from the date of signature."

The United States would "support and abide by a comprehensive, verifiable and simultaneous implementation" of an agreement fulfilling the Contadora's objectives, Habib's letter said, as long as Nicaragua also supports and abides by such an agreement.

In Managua, Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega accused the United States on Thursday of playing a double game in Central America, saying President Reagan was threatening Nicaragua as touring U.S. envoy Philip Habib professed support for peace.

"The speech that Habib repeated in Latin America is demagogic, false and cynical when his president (Reagan) says the complete opposite and the display of U.S. troops continues, specialized troops in territory on the Nicaraguan border in support of the mercenary forces," Ortega said.

Later, Victor Hugo Tinoco, Nicaragua's deputy foreign minister, told The Associated Press that Habib's letter did not address the question of the Sandinistas' opposition to talks with the Contras.

Habib sent the letter to Reps. Slattery, Michael Barnes, D-Md., and Bill Richardson, D-N.M., at their request following a meeting they held with him in early April. The meeting took place after the three congressmen had returned from observing a Contadora meeting in Panama City, where Nicaragua refused to go along with a peace plan until the United States agreed to stop aiding the Contras.

Reagan trip to wind up in Tokyo

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan embarked today on the longest trip of his presidency, a 22,300-mile journey to the Far East that will climax in Tokyo with a seven-nation summit meeting set up to discuss economics but likely to be dominated by the specter of terrorism.

Reagan, in brief remarks as he left from Andrews Air Force Base just outside Washington, said he is going to Asia "to reaffirm and renew our economic, strategic and political ties."

"It is a journey we are very excited about," Reagan said, mentioning talks he will have in Indonesia and Japan but making no reference to terrorism, whose importance on the agenda was evident from a new sign at the base gate.

"Terrorist Condition," it said. "Threatcon Alpha Actual."

The sign, which went up following the U.S. bombing raid against Libya early last week, indicates actual counter-terrorism measures are in effect and that they are not part of a test but that the level of alert — Alpha — is relatively low.

Reiterating the theme the White House has sought to set for the trip, Reagan repeated its "Winds of Freedom" slogan, saying, "They are brisk and bracing winds, sweeping out the old and, I believe, ushering in a new era of freedom, an era in which democracy is once again recognized as the new idea."

Asked whether he had any concern about possible terrorist attacks directed against him or Mrs. Reagan, he said, "I'm superstitious. I won't even mention it."

As he left the White House for the helicopter ride to Andrews, hundreds of White House employees gathered on the South Lawn to wave and cheer.

With him were Secretary of State George Shultz, national security adviser John Poindexter, White House chief of staff Donald Regan and presidential spokesman Larry Speakes.

Vice President George Bush and members of Reagan's Cabinet were on hand for the sendoff, marked by the playing of "Stars and Stripes Forever" by a military band on a White House balcony.

With a schedule designed to adjust to the 13-hour time difference, Reagan will take a week to reach Tokyo with rest stops in Hawaii and the Indonesian island of Bali. He returns to the United States via Anchorage, Alaska, on May 7 at the end of the 12-day journey.

At the start of his third presidential trip to Asia, Reagan goes first to Los Angeles, where he will rendezvous with his wife, Nancy, who stopped in Phoenix to visit her aged mother. After a private overnight stop, they fly to Honolulu, where they will stay at a private estate for two nights and are not scheduled to make any public appearances after the president's brief remarks upon arrival at Hickam Air Force Base.

Reagan is expected to telephone deposed Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos while in Hawaii. He also is scheduled to receive a briefing on U.S. military operations in the Pacific and receive a courtesy call by Gov. George Ariyoshi.

Cowardice can indeed be costly

The urge to appease terrorists is still strong in Western Europe as judged by the refusal of a single nation on the continent to support the United States' retaliatory air strikes against the Libyan terror apparatus.

Britain's Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher stood alone with the United States in Western Europe while the timid, accommodating Francois Mitterrand of France, Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany and other West European leaders covered at the thought of striking back at Khadafy and his terrorist network. Canada and Israel, to their credit, also backed the United States retaliation.

Mitterrand refused to give permission for American planes to fly over France en route to their strikes against Libyan terror-training centers and bases of operations, causing American planes to fly an added 2,400 miles on this dangerous mission.

On the subject of the U.S. military action in Libya, the British newspaper, the Daily Mirror, wrote:

"Europe has had the chance to act against Khadafy. It could have expelled diplomats, stopped training his forces, ended trading in his oil, blocked all flights to and from Libya, banned all tourists and recalled its citizens working in Libya. It is Europe's failure to do any of these things which makes military action likely. Cowardice can be costly."

Amen, to that. Well said, Daily Mirror.

Bush's fumble may be costly

George Bush's pronouncements on oil prices are likely to become to his presidential campaign what the Three Mile Island accident was to nuclear power: a near-disaster that crystallizes latent public doubts. Not since George Romney blamed his past support of Lyndon Johnson's Vietnam policy on "brainwashing" has a leading presidential contender done himself so much damage at a stroke.

The harm derives less from the political explosiveness of the issue than from what the episode reveals about the Vice President — though its political explosiveness should have been ample notice to handle the issue. The first electoral tests in the presidential campaign normally take place in Iowa and New Hampshire, states in which the majority of oil producers is not an general concern.

Texas voters, who may look at the issue differently, probably won't get to express themselves until at least two weeks after the New Hampshire primary. Anyway, Bush shouldn't bet too heavily on Lone Star solidarity. He is barely recognized as an adoptive son, and in Texas' 1980 presidential primary, he lost to a Californian named Ronald Reagan.

But the effect of Bush's tortured explication of his views on oil prices goes beyond the small cost of being on the wrong side of a controversial issue. His boss, after all, frequently finds himself arguing an unpopular position — on the environment, Central America and military spending, to name a few.

Reagan can get away with it because the public knows that his positions, right or wrong, reflect consistent, deeply held beliefs. Bush, however, made himself look like a GOP version of Walter Mondale: weak, unprincipled and pandering.

Weak because he waffled. While warning against "a continued free fall" in oil prices as a danger to "national security," the Vice President lamely insisted he merely wanted to "let the market forces work." He repeatedly tried to explain himself, each time engaging in doubletalk that only further highlighted the contradiction.

Unprincipled because he betrayed the free market gospel that forms the core of his administration's economic policy — and especially its energy policy. One of Reagan's first acts as president was to remove federal price controls on gasoline and crude oil. In truth, the world oil market, which is dominated by a single producer (Saudi Arabia) holding considerable power over prices, is no more or less free than it was when prices were soaring. The only difference is that then prices were rising and now they're falling.

Pandering because Bush was so solicitous of the special needs of the U.S. oil industry and so obtuse to the broader national interest. His statements showed no appreciation of the sacrifices made by consumers when prices were punishingly high, nor of the cost they extracted from the economy as a whole. His servility toward oil producers looks every bit as craven as Mondale's deference to labor unions.

Worst for Bush is that the flaws suggested by his conduct reinforce established doubts about him. It fits the pattern established by his gushy cheerleading for Reagan, by his clumsy macho posturing after his 1984 debate with Geraldine Ferraro, by his recent attempts to ingratiate himself with the New Right. All feed the widespread suspicion that he has no convictions or courage, that he is all sail and no anchor.

A gaffe like this wouldn't cripple a politician like Ronald Reagan, because it would represent an aberration. But it threatens to cripple Bush because it affirms the worst of what his critics have always claimed.

There is always a chance that he can weather this mistake, just as the nuclear power industry survived Three Mile Island. But he can't be encouraged by the parallel: It took 6½ years to get just one of those Three Mile Island reactors operating again, and George Bush can't wait that long.

W. Germany takes note of Austrian plastic pistol

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — We stirred up a storm when we revealed that an Austrian manufacturer is producing plastic pistols, which can be smuggled undetected through airport security.

We also disclosed that Libyan dictator Moammar Khadafy was dickering to buy 100 to 300 of the Glock 17 pistols on the black market. These handguns represent an obvious threat to airline passengers, because they are far easier than other weapons to slip by airport metal-detection devices.

The Austrian inventor/manufacturer, Gaston Glock, heatedly denied this, insisting that tests by Austrian security experts showed that "both scanners and detectors can identify the Glock 17." As we reported, however, tests by a Pentagon official at Washington National Airport and by Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., proved how easy it is for a disassembled Glock 17 to get past security inspections.

Now there's an equally alarming report from West Germany:

U.S. Ambassador Richard Burt in Bonn sent a cable March 27 to Secretary of State George Shultz that included an informal translation of an internal report on the Glock 17 by the West German interior ministry.

"It has been brought to my attention from different sides," a high-level official in the ministry began, "that a new Austrian 9mm pistol, the 'Glock 17,' is being offered on the market. This weapon consists predominantly of plastic parts, but is fully functional. I have initiated a thorough investigation. As a first information, I am submitting the following report from the Interior Ministry Stuttgart:

"An apparently new Austrian 9mm pistol, the Glock 17, was subjected to test for detectability in airport X-ray apparatus — Hi-Scan 6040, Hi-Scan 9050, GPA 74 — at Stuttgart Airport. The weapon is of plastic material except for the barrel and the magazine spring. The tests showed that the completely assembled weapon is extremely hard to recognize on the X-ray screen. Disassembled, the weapon was X-rayed together with a camera in a camera bag. In this condition only the barrel could be detected as a thick black line. The plastic parts could not be detected."

The federal minister's report continued: "A further test at Munich Airport produced the same findings. Additional tests, the results of which I will submit, are presently under way."

"Without anticipating the final assessment, the experiences until now with regard to detectability of

True love eludes couple

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: It seems like my husband and I can't get along with each other, but we can't do without each other either. Right now we are separated for the fourth time in six years and are talking again about getting back together. How can we get off this roller coaster and have a stable marriage? — Mrs. T.E.P.

DEAR MRS. T.E.P.: You need a new foundation for your marriage — God's foundation. And the first and most important step is for you to turn in faith to Christ and ask Him to come into your lives and your marriage.

I stress this because, first, marriage is a gift from God and only when we follow His rules for marriage will we know the full happiness and security He intended for us. Trying to build a marriage without paying any attention to God's directions is a little like buying a computer or a microwave oven for the first time — and then throwing away the owner's manual.

Second, Christ can give you both a true love for each other. What do I mean by that? For most people, "love" is little more than emotional feeling. But in God's perfect plan, true love always seeks what is best for the other person. I hope you will think about that carefully. Many people go into marriage for what they can get out of the other person — and when their selfish desires are not met, the relationship is in trouble.

But true love is a self-giving love. It is constantly asking, "What can I do to make my husband (or wife) happy today?"

Ask Christ to come into your lives today, and then ask Him to take away your self-centeredness and give you a true love for each other. Christ went to the cross because He loves us and was willing to sacrifice Himself for us. And when you know Him, the Holy Spirit will give you that same kind of love for others — including your husband.

Agrarian reforms worry Nicaraguan

By BRYNA BRENNAN
LAS ESQUINAS, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicolas Bolanos walked among his coffee shrubs, hoping for a good harvest but also worrying that the Sandinista government might seize what land he has left.

It already has taken over almost 3,500 acres of his family's land and all he has now is a 75-acre coffee plantation in Las Esquinas, 20 miles southwest of Managua, the capital. Agrarian reform has been one of the cornerstones of the Sandinista government's revolutionary pledges.

The government says it has redistributed 4.4 million acres of state and privately owned land to peasants since ousting the 42-year-old Somoza dynasty in 1979.

The government claims that 80,000 campesino families, or nearly 60 percent of the landless population, have benefited from agrarian reform.

But Bolanos' brother, Enrique, maintains the peasants gained from his loss, and he recalled the day — June 14, 1985 — when army soldiers with machine guns surrounded his cotton farm and told him, "As of this moment your land belongs to the state."

"So you see," he added, "it's not really an agrarian reform, it's a way of getting even."

Enrique Bolanos is the head of the Private Enterprise Council and a vocal critic of the Sandinistas, claiming they are "Marxist-Leninist all the way."

The Sandinista newspaper Barricada, in a recent article about land reform, said the decision to expropriate the Bolanos land "was based on national priority and not in retaliation against him as an outspoken government opponent."

Requests by The Associated Press to interview government officials in Managua on land reform were turned down.

Nicolas Bolanos, wearing a New York Yankees baseball cap, said land reform has resulted in lower crop production because of a lack of incentives, threats of land expropriation and labor problems.

Under Sandinista regulations, all export products must be sold to the government. Nicolas Bolanos said he gets the equivalent of about $30 for each 100-pound bag of coffee. The coffee is sold on the world market for about $250 a bag.

"So, production doesn't go up because there are no incentives," he said. "There's no real security and even if you have your property your coffee is taken from you."

According to Private Enterprise Council figures, coffee production is much lower than what the government reports. The council puts coffee production for the harvest that just ended at about 700,000 bags; the government says it was more than 1 million bags.

Ten years ago, the average harvest was 45 bags per manzana, a Nicaragua land measure equal to 1.7 acres; last year's average was 20 bags.

Nicolas Bolanos said the average crop worker earned the equivalent of about $90 a month in 1977 and now receives only about $25.

"If they want to buy a flashlight, not to mention rice and beans, they can't," he said.

He added that agriculture production was further hampered by a shortage of skilled labor.

"A lot of the young men are either in the army or running and hiding from the army," he said. The government has been drafting young men into the armed forces to fight U.S.-backed Contra rebels for the past four years.

In addition, Bolanos said, many of the campesinos who take over the land, at first as squatters, don't know how to tend it.

"They risk nothing. And after two years a plantation is ruined because they don't know how to care for land," he said.

"My friend is afraid to talk, but he has a coffee farm in an area where there are a lot of peasants who want to take it over. That's how it happens, they move in and the authorities approve it."

Soloman Aracon, head of the coffee-picker brigades, said about 12,000 Nicaraguans and 3,000 foreign volunteers, half of them Americans, picked the last crop.

Japanese violate trade law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department, in a victory for the U.S. computer industry, said Thursday it has determined that Japan has been dumping computer memory chips in the United States at below-production costs.

The department said it was upholding an earlier preliminary decision that Japanese imports of the computer chips were violating U.S. trade laws.

The decision upholds the imposition of stiff tariffs for importing the chips, known as 64-kilobyte dynamic random access memory components.

The tariffs still will not become final, however, for 45 days.

Oil fee backers get added muscle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional supporters of imposing a fee on imported oil got new ammunition Thursday with a report saying such a levy would be the best way to reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil and raise money to help trim budget deficits.

"We cannot overlook the opportunity offered by the rapidly falling oil prices," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. "This may be a once-in-a-century chance to simultaneously improve our fiscal condition, put part of the burden of the tax on foreigners and alleviate positively our energy predicament and our dependence."

The non-partisan Congressional Budget Office — in a report ordered by Domenici and Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., the senior Democrat on the Budget Committee — said that of various oil tax options, the import fee would be the best means of reducing U.S. demand for imports and encouraging domestic exploration and production. "By raising the price of oil imports, an oil import tariff would encourage all activities that could substitute for oil imports: domestic oil production, production of substitutes for oil, conservation of oil and substitution of other fuels for oil," the report said.

"It would therefore lead to the greatest possible reduction in oil imports ... and provide the most assistance to domestic producers."

The congressional economists estimated that at roughly the current oil price of $13 per barrel: "Imports would decline by 900,000 barrels per day under a tariff, by 500,000 barrels per day under an excise tax, by 100,000 barrels per day under a motor fuels tax, by 300,000 barrels per day under an energy tax and by less than 100,000 barrels per day under a combination import tariff-motor fuels tax." "At oil prices of $23 per barrel," the report said, "1987 U.S. oil imports would decline by roughly 400,000 barrels per day under an oil import tariff, by around 300,000 barrels per day under an oil excise tax, by perhaps 100,000 barrels per day under a motor fuels tax, by 100,000 barrels per day under an energy tax and by 100,000 barrels per day under a combination of an import tariff and a motor fuels tax."

Net U.S. imports of oil are about 4.3 million barrels a day. A barrel equals 42 gallons.

The report assumed an import tariff of $5 per barrel, an excise tax of $5 per barrel, a motor fuels tax of 12 cents per gallon, an ad valorem (invoice value) energy tax of 5 percent and a combination tax of $2.50 on imported oil and 6 cents per gallon on motor fuels.

The report also said that at oil prices of $13 per barrel, the various tax options could reduce the projected budget deficit in the next fiscal year from $8.9 billion for an import fee to $25.4 billion for an excise tax. At a price of $23 per barrel, the deficit reductions would range from $8.1 billion to $22.1

billions. Earlier this year, Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III said President Reagan was keeping the door open on consideration of an oil import fee as a way to reduce budget deficits. However, Reagan later slammed the door, saying he would not accept such a levy, or any other general tax increase.

Nonetheless, Domenici and others in Congress continue to push the idea as a way to shrink government red ink. The Senate is now considering a bipartisan budget blueprint drawn up by Domenici's committee that calls for $18.7 billion in unspecified tax increases.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., who has been pushing for an oil import fee since the late 1970s, said the new report was "the freshest indication and the strongest evidence yet that the time for an oil import fee is now."

In addition, legislators from states whose economies are reeling from the effects of declining domestic oil prices continue to push for the fee.

Recognizing Texas' volunteer workers

President Reagan has set aside April as "National Volunteer Month" to honor people from all walks of life who make our country a better place to live through volunteer work.

Therefore, it seems only appropriate for me to take this opportunity to salute the thousands of virtually anonymous volunteers across our state, including our 34,000 Texas employees.

In these times of federal and state budget cutbacks, it has never been more important for all of us to devote time and money to those who need our help. It's not surprising to me that so many Texans have responded to the call. We have a legacy of reaching out to our neighbors in times of need.

This same spirit of service is deeply imbedded in Southwestern Bell Telephone's history. Community involvement has been a way of life for our employees for more than a century in Texas. Often their work goes unnoticed, which is the case with most volunteer efforts. Frankly, our volunteers would not have it any other way.

Unfortunately, surveys show most people see big companies like ours as impersonal, even cold. While it's true we are one of the largest Texas companies, we are still made up of individuals who care about their neighbors. It shows in the volunteer work and our concern for customer service.

SWBT receives Governor's Award

That's why it was gratifying to learn recently that Southwestern Bell Telephone employees have been named recipients of the 1986 Governor's Award for Outstanding Volunteer Service. The award was presented to the company by Texas First Lady Linda Gale White at an Austin ceremony.

In making the presentation, the awards committee cited employee participation in a wide variety of areas, including the important field of education.

For example, our employees are involved in programs such as Communities in Schools, which encourages students to stay in school and complete their education. Others work with Adopt-A-School programs, tutoring high-school-age youths in math, reading and English to help them get their diploma.

Some employees teach the unskilled in special tuition-free programs called Basic Employee Skills Training (BEST). They are giving others a chance to learn the skills they need to get a job in today's market. They not only teach classes, but plan them as well.

Working with local groups, our employee Community Relations Teams try to identify and solve various community concerns and problems. CR Teams work with major charities while raising money and devoting time to nursing homes, homes for the mentally handicapped and children's hospitals.

In some areas, our repair and installation technicians who work outside also have started a program called "Crime Watch." Local police departments train them to identify and quickly report suspicious activities. They become the eyes and ears of the community's fight against crime.

Monetary contributions count, too

Employees give more than their own time — likewise, they also show concern by opening their checkbooks. In 1985, employees donated more than $3.1 million to United Way and thousands more to other worthy causes, including educational and cultural programs in Texas.

Our volunteer employees and all volunteer workers from across the state are indeed special. They're the kind of people who make us proud to call Texas home.

Dear Abby

Life may not offer a second chance

DEAR ABBY: My grandson, Randy, who just turned 16, called and asked for an article he knew I had saved when it appeared in your column in the Chicago Tribune many years ago. He just enrolled in driver's education at his high school and that piece had made such a profound impression on him that he wanted a copy to reread from time to time.

It was titled, "Please, God, I'm Only 17." I remember it well because it affected me in the same way, so I clipped it. Unfortunately, I cannot find it.

Will you please run it again? I am sure there are many young people who have never read it. And those who have might need to be reminded of the grim message it carries to young people who will be driving automobiles for the first time.

You may use my name.

MARGIT NELSON,
SKOKIE, ILL.

DEAR MARGIT: With pleasure:

PLEASE, GOD, I'M ONLY 17

The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I wheeled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 the next morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off — going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remembered was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard a deafening crash and I felt a terrible jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly I awakened; it was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything.

Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head! I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I'm supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please — somebody — wake me up! Get me out of here! I can't bear to see my mom and dad so broken up. My grandparents are so cracked with grief they can hardly walk. My brother and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze, everybody! No one can believe this. And I can't believe it, either.

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance.

Please, God, I'm only 17!

40th anniversary celebrated by Big Spring Rainbow Girls

Adele Tibbs was honored at the 40th anniversary celebration of the Order of the Rainbow Girls with a "This is your life Adele Tibbs" presentation.

Tibbs was a rainbow girl in 1927, the assembly demised and in 1946 she was instrumental in organizing a new charter. Tibbs is credited with the beginning of the new Rainbow Assembly in Big Spring, sponsored by the Big Spring Chapter #67 Order of the Eastern Star.

Tibbs has served on the advisory board for 40 years and has given her time and energy to: monthly board meetings; hosting teas, lunches, dinners and slumber parti; attending all the meetings; and participating in all the activities.

She is involved in her church, Sunday school class, a member of the Garden Club, winner of grand champion ribbons at the fair, and a member of the Sew and Chatter Club. Tibbs enjoys crocheting, making quilts, gardening, reading, collecting plates and thimbles, traveling, keeping scrap books, going to the theater, and listening to music.

During the presentation, Amber Holly read a poem about rainbows to Tibbs. The Rainbow girls dedicated and sang "She finds good in everything" and "Wind beneath my wings," to Tibbs. Donnie Wheeler accompanied with the piano.

The assembly presented Tibbs with a plaque of appreciation that read "Forty years with Adele" and a crystal basket of blue bonnets. A special surprise gift was presented to Tibbs at the end of the evening: Lisa Buchanan video-taped the evening's events for Tibbs.

Jane Thomas, who was first M.A. in 1946 gave a brief history of the Big Spring Assembly of Rainbow Girls. Then the girls sang "Let me thank you for your time." Rebecca Read gave a reading "Who's gonna fill their shoes" and dedicated it to the advisory board. She then made formal introductions, welcomed out of town guests, and recognized other family members of Tibbs'.

The theme "Round up time at Rainbow Branch" featured with western decorations highlighted the evening. Dinner was served from a table decorated as a chuck wagon and a cake was decorated with a stand-up Rainbow emblem and "Forty years with Adele" written on the cake.

Moore reunion celebrated

Former residents and teachers were welcomed by Mrs. Zirah Bednar to the 24th Annual Moore Reunion held recently in Garrett Hall of the First United Methodist Church.

This year marked the 80th anniversary since the opening of the school in 1906. Former Moore teachers attending the reunion were Anna Smith, Twila Lomas, Ted Phillips, Cordelia Castle, Elfreda Edwards and Inez Grant. Mrs. Odessa (Lomax) Stallings and Twila Lomax are the only surviving persons who attended the first session of the school.

Mrs. Zirah Bednar read a history of the Moore Community, written by Reverend Wayne Cook, a former resident of the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lancaster, of Gates, Or., traveled the farthest to the reunion. The J.W. Phillips family had the most family members present, which was eight. Mrs. Alta King was the oldest person attending the reunion and Doris Newton Pope was the youngest.

Haskell Grant gave the invocation. Group singing was led by Truett Thomas, accompanied by Mrs. Doyle (Alpha) Turney, of Kingsland.

Rev. Wayne Cook, of Lubbock, presented the memorial service and the meeting concluded with the group singing "The more we get together" led by Truett Thomas and Doyle Turney.

Dr. Donohue

Rare illness affects spine's core

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have never read anything in your column on syringomyelia. I know it is quite rare. My husband was diagnosed as having this. Is there any new treatment for it? — Mrs. C.E.A.

It is, indeed, a rare condition of the spinal cord. Pronounced it syringomyelia. I know it is quite rare. My husband was diagnosed as having this. Is there any new treatment for it? — Mrs. C.E.A.

The hollowing process often begins in the neck region of the cord, so hand and arm muscles grow weak and shrink, reflecting the damage to the corresponding nerves. A loss of pain and heat sensation occurs.

There is not much new I can tell you about this illness. A CAT scan of the cord discloses the condition. Also, there's nothing new in the way of cure or treatment. However, as with any brain, spinal cord, or nerve problem, physical therapy becomes important to keep muscles as limber as possible and limit their shrinkage. It also helps by training other muscles to take over some of the lost function.

Once in a while, syringomyelia is found in association with bone malformations of the spinal column and skull. In such cases, surgery can be done to correct matters if the malformations are causing a pressing against the cord.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Do you recommend use of ipecac syrup to bring up swallowed poisons? — Mrs. W.I.

That's a major question. The very first action to take when a child has ingested a suspected foreign substance is to contact a doctor or a local poison control center. That is to learn two things (1) the nature of the substance swallowed, and (2) the proper action to take to avert harm from the ingestion. It would seem to be natural to want to get the foreign substance up and out of the body, but that is not always true. Some substances should not be vomited for fear of lung aspiration or esophagus damage. I am thinking of certain caustic substances.

Ipecac syrup on hand for emergency, but the cap should remain firmly in place unless the person using it knows what he's doing. If not, it's best to get prompt expert advice in identifying and evaluating the actual contents of what was swallowed and discovering whether vomiting is in order.

Having trouble getting to sleep at night? In his new booklet Dr. Donohue examines the insomnia problem and offers some ways to help you get your needed rest. For a copy of "Why Can't You Sleep?" send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald,

P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611. Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Official: Pentagon budget showed savings

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the Defense Department prepared its fiscal 1987 budget request early this year, it had identified $2.2 billion in savings in the current year's spending plan, a spokesman said Thursday.

Those savings occurred despite large reductions to the Pentagon's budget under the new Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law, thanks to low inflation and management efforts to save money, added Robert Helm, the Pentagon's comptroller.

Robert Sims, the Pentagon's chief spokesman, disclosed the savings figure on Thursday. He dismissed suggestions the Defense Department had purposely hidden the extra money in the 1986 budget to cushion expected cuts to the fiscal 1987 request.

"That is flatly not true," Sims said. "These amounts were clearly reflected in our fiscal 1987 budget request."

"There is no $2.2 billion slush fund hidden by the department," Sims said.

According to Helm, some $507.8 million was saved on procurement, construction and maintenance, thanks in large part to lower-than-expected inflation. Another $400.7 million was saved in personnel costs. And another $1.325 billion was saved through savings in the cost of purchasing spare parts and performing heavy overhaul work on aircraft and ships.

Sims and Helm said the department already has asked Congress to approve the "re-programming" of the $507.8 million toward high-priority projects during the current fiscal year.

The department also has informed Congress it will use the $400.7 million in personnel savings this year to pay for special pay raises for various types of hazardous duty that Congress authorized but never funded, Helm said.

The remaining $1.325 billion was used in formulating the fiscal 1987 budget request now pending on Capitol Hill, Helm said. That 1987 request would have been even higher without the savings, he added.

President Reagan has requested $320.3 billion in budget authority for military spending in fiscal 1987, compared to $286.1 billion for the current year.

The administration initially requested $323 billion for military spending in fiscal 1986. Congress reduced that to $297 billion, then imposed an additional $11 billion in cuts under the new Gramm-Rudman law to reach the $286.1 billion total.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger has complained repeatedly about those cuts, saying they threaten the security of the United States.

The fact that savings totaling $2.2 billion were found even in the wake of the Gramm-Rudman cuts, however, prompted criticism on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Charles E. Grassley, R-Iowa, a member of the Senate Budget Committee, said the Pentagon's admission would make it easier for him and his allies to fight for a fiscal 1987 ceiling of $295 million recommended by the committee.

That figure was calculated on the basis of "zero growth" in the Pentagon's budget next year after allowing for inflation.

"The squirrels in the Department of Defense are socking away billions to cushion against budget cuts," said Grassley.

Three to receive national awards

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan announced Thursday he will present the nation's highest civilian award to Dr. Albert Sabin, discoverer of the oral polio vaccine, retired Gen. Matthew Ridgway and actress Helen Hayes.

In all, seven people will receive the Presidential Medal of Freedom at a White House ceremony on May 12.

Others who will be cited are journalist Vermont Royster, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.; Earl H. "Red" Blaik, former head football coach at Dartmouth and the U.S. Military Academy; and Walter H. Annenberg, former ambassador to Britain and a friend of the president.

Sabin will be recognized for his contributions in education and science, while Miss Hayes will be recognized for her work in the arts and entertainment.

Ridgway will be recognized as a distinguished war hero and contributions to U.S. security and national interests. The onetime supreme allied commander in Europe and commander of U.S. forces in Korea retired as Army chief of staff in 1955.

A year later, he complained that politics were influencing military decisions at the Pentagon. Later, he voiced public skepticism of the Nixon administration's plan to wind down the Vietnam war, and in 1971 called for the withdrawal of all American troops.

Goldwater will be cited for contributions in public service and national interests of the United States. In 1964, Reagan delivered the nominating speech for Goldwater at the Republican National Convention, and the speech helped propel Reagan into politics.

Blaik will be recognized for his contributions to education and public service, while Royster will be cited for contributions in journalism and communications.

Annenberg will be cited for contributions in education, public service, philanthropy and as a pioneer in the use of television for educational purposes.

Administration lauds South African decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration on Thursday said South Africa's decision to abolish many travel restrictions on blacks was a "major milestone" and should be implemented quickly.

"We regard these developments as an important step in the process of dismantling apartheid," the State Department said in a statement full of laudatory phrases for the South African announcement.

Less enthusiastic, Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa, called the decision a "significant development" but he said the announcement did not address a need for political equality and would do nothing to stem violent unrest in the country.

The Pretoria government said Wednesday it would abolish "pass laws," which prohibit free circulation of blacks in urban areas, and do away with labor regulations that restrict the movements of the black majority.

Blacks will still be prohibited from living in white areas and citizens of so-called "independent black homelands" also will be restricted.

"We regard the acceptance of freedom of movement to and within urban areas for all South African citizens on a non-discriminatory basis as a major milestone on the road away from apartheid," the State Department said.

It said the changes "promise perhaps the most conspicuous discarding of discriminatory laws in recent South African history."

"We should add that these proposals are so far-ranging and complex that we must reserve judgment on their full implications for blacks, but it is clear that their intent is to widen the scope of freedom for all South Africans," the department said.

In addition to speedy implementation, residential segregation and restrictions on "homeland" blacks "whom we regard as South African citizens who deserve to be treated as such" should be lifted, the department said.

Ruling on ill woman to be appealed

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — A nursing home will appeal a judge's ruling allowing the family of a permanently brain-damaged, comatose woman to remove her feeding tube, according to an attorney who said such a decision to intentionally cause a death is wrong.

Expanding precedents set by the historic Karen Ann Quinlan case and another New Jersey "right to die" decision, the judge ruled Wednesday a feeding tube can be removed from 31-year-old Nancy Ellen Jobes, who has been kept alive in a nursing home for six years.

Eleanor Laird hugs her husband, Robert, after reading a judge's ruling on Wednesday in Morristown, N.J., permitting them to remove a feeding tube that has kept their daughter, Nancy Ellen Jobes, alive in a comatose state since 1980.

Superior Court Judge Arnold M. Stein said testimony during a seven-day trial earlier this month showed that Mrs. Jobes "is in a persistent vegetative state with no prospect of improvement."

The evidence also showed that if Mrs. Jobes were competent, she would not want her life to be artificially extended, Stein said.

The judge said no action can be taken for 20 days to give the Lincoln Park Nursing and Convalescent Center, where Mrs. Jobes is being cared for, time to appeal.

Raymond M. Tierney, the nursing home's attorney, said an appeal would be filed with the Appellate Division of Superior Court.

"The intentional causing of death, which this is, is wrong," he said.

Mrs. Jobes suffered irreversible damage on April 2, 1980, when her brain was denied oxygen because of an anesthesia foulup during an operation to remove a fetus killed in an automobile accident.

Stein based his decision on rulings by the New Jersey Supreme Court in 1976 in the Quinlan case and later in the case of 84-year-old Claire Conroy.

The Quinlan "death with dignity" ruling for the first time allowed the disconnection of a life-sustaining respirator from a permanently vegetative person. In the Conroy case, involving a terminally ill woman, the court said a feeding tube is also an extraordinary life support and can be removed, even if death results.

Stein said that in Mrs. Jobes' case, "if the feeding tube is removed, dehydration and starvation will follow, and Mrs. Jobes will die. If feeding continues, she will live indefinitely."

Mrs. Jobes' husband, John H. Jobes of Boonton, and his wife's parents, Robert and Eleanor Laird of Parsippany-Troy Hills, asked nursing home officials to remove her feeding tube, contending she had a constitutional and common-law right to die. The nursing home disagreed, leading Mrs. Jobes' husband and parents to sue the center.

Stein excused from criminal or civil liability any health care facility, doctor or other person involved in the tube's removal.

He said Lincoln Park can refuse to participate in removing the tube and can refuse to allow the device to be removed while Mrs. Jobes is a resident there.

Stein said Jobes could take his wife to their home, where the tube could be removed under a doctor's supervision.

The victim's family applauded the ruling, which Jobes said "will help other people in the same circumstances."

Mrs. Laird said, "It's the first step in letting Nancy out of this world. ... It's been a long ordeal for the family and for Nancy."

Jobes' attorney, Paul Armstrong of Morristown, said the decision if upheld could affect the cases of thousands of people who, like Mrs. Jobes, are permanently brain-damaged with no hope of recovery but who are not terminally ill.

One such case is that of Hilda Peters, an Essex County woman diagnosed as being in a permanent vegetative state who is being kept alive in a Cedar Grove nursing home through a feeding tube. A judge earlier this year rejected a plea to remove the tube because she is not expected to die within a year and is therefore not considered terminally ill.

During the trial, medical experts disagreed as to whether Mrs. Jobes is in a persistent vegetative state and whether she can follow simple commands.

Stein decided that movements made by the woman were reflex reactions to external stimuli, not command responses.

"She has no cognitive function and remains permanently fixed in a vegetative state," Stein wrote in his 17-page opinion.

Dwight Gooden: man in spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) — Somehow, through all of his 42 victories and 556 strikeouts, one number involving Dwight Gooden gets lost: 21, his age.

Mix the age with fame and fortune and the pressures of baseball's toughest spotlight, and Gooden's toughest opponent may simply be himself. And, says New York Mets General Manager Frank Cashen, no amount of advice can speed the aging process.

Gooden can't seem to avoid the darker side of the limelight. He feuds with rental-car agents. He tells conflicting stories about injuries. And he gets fined for missing practice.

No incident outstanding, his name still appears in stories under banner headlines like: "What's Up, Doc?" and "No Apology." Tell the truth, he's been advised. Walk away from trouble, he's been told.

"But those things are a lot easier to do when you're older, more worldly," Cashen says. "It's great to give that kind of advice, and I think of having raised seven kids and all the advice you give them. I feel sometimes like I'm starting all over."

Gooden, winner of the 1985 National League Cy Young award, added to the latest in a growing list of media mishaps. Last week when he, his sister and his fiancée got into a brief shouting match with a rental-car agent at New York's LaGuardia Airport. Gooden's sister, Betty Jones, later received a police summons, for

"harassment."

One day later, Gooden confirmed that police offered the three of them a way out of the mess if they apologized, but they refused. "We didn't do anything wrong," Gooden said, blaming the incident on the rental-car agent.

"Every single thing that he does is in the focus of a high-speed zoom lens," Cashen said Thursday.

"In baseball, there are two names that, when you mention them, everyone knows what you're talking about, and they are Pete Rose and Dwight Gooden. That you can include him in that company says something about the degree to which he has become a household name."

Gooden first tarnished his All-American image early in spring training when he sustained a slight ankle injury. Gooden said he was playing baseball. His former high school coach said he was playing basketball. It really didn't matter, but it appeared that he had been caught in a fib.

Late in the spring, he missed a practice. He said he was in a minor car accident. First, he was the driver. Then, someone else was driving. Finally, there were reports it wasn't a car accident at all. Gooden was fined by Manager Davey Johnson.

"I still don't know what happened to him the day he didn't show up to practice," Cashen said. "He told the manager one version, some other people another thing. He was fined and had his wrist slapped, which I think was proper. And if I had to go into court and swear on a stack of bibles, I couldn't truthfully say how he hurt his ankle."

Cashen says he's never seen another player go through quite the same problems as Gooden.

"Not to this degree," Cashen said. "In the early time when Darryl (Strawberry) came up, he went through some of these kinds of situations, but nothing to this degree."

"Then, you take a guy like (pitcher) Ron Darling, 10 games over .500 in his second year in the major leagues, being from Yale, an Ivy Leaguer. He would have been a real media kind of story, but everything gets dwarfed around Dwight. Even Gary Carter has the best year of his career, Keith Hernandez hits .309 with all his problems, and all that kind of gets dwarfed by Dwight."

The Mets have quietly accepted criticism for shielding Gooden by controlling his interviews. Now, Gooden says that sometimes he feels like "bringing my furniture and putting it in the clubhouse" to further insulate himself from the outside world.

"What has happened, of course, is that all of these incidents have come while he's not in uniform, and there's nothing in the world we can do short of sending keepers around with him," Cashen said. "In all candor, if this hadn't been Dwight Gooden, it either never would have happened or it never would have been played to the proportions that it was."

Cashen said the club has tried to help Gooden.

"We've talked to him after each of these incidents," Cashen said,

"The only thing we're really afraid of is that he'll go into a shell. These kinds of things have happened before. It's nothing new. You only need to know that history repeats itself."

"I sit here and think about Steve Carlton, who went through a series of these things. He felt misunderstood, and he stopped talking to reporters. We don't want that to happen."

Bullets reserve guard does 76ers in again

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia 76ers know how to beat the Washington Bullets. But solving reserve guard Dudley Bradley, now that's a different matter.

NBA

Bradley, who beat the 76ers with a last-second three-point shot in Game 1, made a heady play to set up Jeff Malone's tie-breaking basket with 43 seconds remaining on Thursday night and send the Bullets to a 116-111 victory, tying the best-of-five NBA playoff series at two games apiece.

The deciding game of the series will be played in Philadelphia on Sunday night, with the winner to play the Milwaukee Bucks in the Eastern Conference semifinals.

In the only other NBA playoff action on Thursday, Denver beat Portland 116-112 to eliminate the Trail Blazers in four games. In action tonight, Atlanta visits Detroit and Utah hosts Dallas.

The 76ers, who rallied to win the previous two games, overcame a nine-point deficit in the fourth quarter and took a 111-109 lead with 1:31 remaining.

Washington center Jeff Ruland tied the game at 111 with a driving layup and was fouled on the play.

Bradley grabbed Ruland's missed foul shot and bounced it out of bounds off the sturdy shins of Philadelphia's Charles Barkley, setting up the go-ahead basket by Malone.

"The first thing I did was look for my teammates," said Bradley, who started the season on the Detroit roster. "I didn't see anyone, so the only thing left was to bounce it off Charles, and Charles is a big target."

After Bradley scored on one of two free throws to make it 114-111 with 22 seconds left, Barkley missed a three-point try and Robinson rebounded and was fouled. Robinson missed both free throws with eight seconds remaining but he wrested the ball from Julius Erving and sank an insurance basket.

Bradley, who scored nine points, said he has been able to contribute more since Kevin Loughery replaced Gene Shue as the Washington coach near the end of the regular season.

"Kevin worked me in real well," Bradley said, "gave me a chance to prove myself and play my game ... which is to play aggressively."

Malone with 32 points and Robinson with 31, posted playoff career-high totals for the Bullets.

Maurice Cheeks scored 10 of his 30 points in the fourth quarter for Philadelphia, Erving finished with 25 and Barkley had 22. Barkley also had 15 rebounds.

The Bullets, outrebounded by a 166-106 margin in the first three games, beat the 76ers off the boards 44-40 with the bulky Ruland grabbing seven boards in his first game since he was sidelined with a knee injury on March 22.

Barkley started after the 6-foot-6 Bradley after being knocked to the floor on an attempted layup with 6:44 left, but was restrained by his teammates.

"I was very upset," 76ers Coach Matt Guokas said. "That's not the first time it's happened. He (Bradley) is back there and trying to hammer them as hard as he can. I don't think he played the ball, which is what you're supposed to do."

Nuggets 116, Trail Blazers 112
At Portland, Alex English hit the decisive basket with 1:10 remaining and Lafayette Lever scored 30 points as Denver defeated the Trail Blazers to take the best-of-five series in four games.

Portland tied the score at 110-110 on Jim Paxson's three-pointer with 1:23 to go, but English put the Nuggets on top for good at 112-110 with a rebound basket. Clyde Drexler was called for an offensive foul on Portland's next possession. Two free throws apiece by English and Mike Evans sealed the Nuggets' victory.

Lever said he took the outside shots to take pressure off English inside.

"I wanted to take the shots because we were down," he said. "If you make the shots, you're a great guy. If you don't, you're still down with nothing to lose."

Calvin Natt added 22 points for Denver, while English scored 20. Kiki Vandeweghe topped Portland with 24 points.

Colts take look at Hogeboom

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Quarterback Gary Hogeboom of the Dallas Cowboys says he tried to impress Coach Rod Dowhower and the Indianapolis Colts by "doing everything that was asked of me" during his first workout in six years with another NFL team.

Hogeboom, with the Cowboys since 1980, was whisked in and out of the Colts complex Thursday. Dowhower said Hogeboom is "a good looking guy, he's got a lot of pose."

"Gary has a strong arm and good size," said Dowhower. "He's obviously been well-tutored in the mechanics of the position."

Hogeboom told The Indianapolis Star by telephone from Dallas Thursday night that he is hopeful a deal can be worked out with the Colts or another NFL team.

"I had a very good talk with Dowhower," said Hogeboom. "I like his personality and I like the way he's doing things. He's a credit to the organization."

Hogeboom does not anticipate hearing from the Colts for several days.

"They have to see what happens in the draft before they make a decision about me," he said.

Hogeboom said working out with another team "felt strange at first, but they made me feel comfortable."

Hogeboom, the Cowboys' backup quarterback, replaced Danny White as the Dallas starter in 10 games two years ago.

Peete, Grady lead Houston Open golf

THE WOODLANDS (AP) — Calvin Peete, one of the tour's most consistent players, and Wayne Grady, erratic this year to say the least, came into the Houston Open as forces pulling in opposite directions.

However, the two arrived at the same point at the end of Thursday's first round with course-record, 7-under-par 65s and a two-stroke lead in the $500,000 PGA tournament.

Peete, the No. 2 money-winner with two tour victories this year, has been a model of consistency.

He leads the tour in scoring average and hitting greens in regulation and is second in driving accuracy and putting.

"Calvin and Byron Nelson are like 'which side of the pipeline do you hit,'" Tom Watson said comparing Peete's consistency with one of golf's all-time greats. "The rest of us worry about which side of the rough we hit."

Grady, meanwhile, has suffered through a miserable start this season.

He missed the cut in nine of 12 tournaments — three times by disqualification — and has not finished higher than a tie for 57th.

But his game suddenly fell into place Thursday.

"It doesn't take too much to get it turned around, but I'd get my hopes up 30 times a day and then something would go wrong," Grady said. "But today, I got it going and kept it going."

"Maybe this is what I've been waiting for."

Mike Hulbert shot a 67 to hold down second place, while five golfers — Nick Faldo, Rod Curl, Jay Haas, Bruce Lietzke and Billy Pierot — were another shot back.

Grady and Peete bettered the course record of 66 shot by Payne Stewart in the first round of last year's tournament, the first played on the par-72, 7,042-yard TPC course at The Woodlands.

Grady had 10 birdies in his round and was eight under par going into the final hole with a one shot lead over Peete.

But Grady three-putted from 35 feet for a bogey and a share of the lead.

"I hit a lot of good shots today and I haven't hit too many lately," Grady said. "But I'm not silly enough to think I've got it back. All I know is it's got to turn around sometime so it might as well be now."

Grady was disqualified at the Bob Hope Desert Classic and the Los Angeles Open for playing the wrong ball and he signed an incorrect scorecard at the Phoenix Open.

Grady started on No. 10 Thursday and had an erratic front nine with two bogeys but he made the turn at two under par and then started his birdie run.

Peete withdrew from last week's Sea Pines Classic because of a pulled shoulder muscle that had nagged him for weeks.

Because of the layoff, Peete said he was surprised that he was able to putt well.

"The first putt on No. 10 got me going because I didn't expect to putt so well," Peete said. "It was so early, I guess it I was unconscious."

Peete, also starting on No. 10, opened his birdie run with a nine-foot putt and also sank an 18-footer on No. 12 and chipped in from 15 feet on No. 15.

Calvin Peete chips from the backside of the 17th green during the first round of the Houston Open being played at the Woodlands.

Quarterback finds security in Canadian league

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — The National Football League's continued reluctance to accept black quarterbacks played a significant role in Roy Dewalt's return to the British Columbia Lions, says Dewalt's agent, Vic Morriss.

Dewalt signed a new four-year agreement with the Canadian Football League team Wednesday after seven weeks as a free agent.

"I think I'm more disappointed than Roy," said Morriss, who in the past has arranged NFL deals for former Lions Leon Bright, Kerry Parker, Harry Holt and Mack Moore.

"I don't think Roy was ever in awe of the NFL. All he wants is some security for his family. I don't think he was really a big believer that there was a place for a black kid to play quarterback in the NFL."

"I don't mind being quoted on this. All you have to do is look at the numbers."

Only two black quarterbacks are on NFL rosters — ex-Edmonton Eskimo star Warren Moon with the Houston Oilers and Randall Cunningham of the Philadelphia Eagles.

"There were situations in the NFL," Dewalt said. "But they were just too speculative for someone in my position — someone with a family; someone who wants to play and wants to have some security for the future."

eagled the par-5 No. 1 hole, his 10th hole of the day, to go five under par for the round but from that point on his game fell apart with two bogeys and a double bogey over the next four holes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get in touch with as many friends, both old and new, and deepen the associations that are pleasant.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Pick up those outside activities that have not been completed and finish them now with alacrity.

Missionary work uplifts Big Springer

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

Traveling and making it count for something is why Deena Smith volunteers to travel abroad with the Baptist Partnership Missions on evangelist crusades.

"I feel I have a special rapport with people from other lands and they open themselves up to me," Smith said.

Each of three trips have been "uplifting," she says. In June 1984, she traveled to Campinas, Brazil; in August 1985 she went to Fortaleza, Brazil; and her most recent mission was in March 1986 when she went to Dungog, New South Wales in Australia.

On her mission in Campinas, a group of 26 evangelists stayed for two weeks. "It was my first experience with witnessing to people on the streets. We had interpreters because the Brazilians speak Portuguese," Smith said. During the day, the group witnessed door-to-door and at night they held services featuring singing, preaching and a spiritual film (in Portuguese).

"The people of Brazil are loving and outgoing people," she said, "and they were so accepting of us." The group received 426 professions of faith, Smith said, which means 426 people vowed to give their life to the Lord.

Her second trip to Fortaleza was much like her first trip to Brazil. "We (a group of 46 evangelists) witnessed in poor neighborhoods, again," she said. They didn't have interpreters this time and it was "amazing" how much Portuguese she learned, she said. "We received 216 professions of faith on this trip."

After their crusade to Fortaleza, the group got to visit Rio de Janeiro for "rest and relaxation," Smith said. In Rio, they toured the Baptist Publishing House and seminary, she said. "That's where they do all the Portuguese publishing." Baptists have been in Rio for 100 years, she said.

Her most recent trip to Australia "was a completely different ball game," she said. Thirty-eight evangelists went on this trip and they split up into groups and covered different areas. "I was in a group of three and we went to Dungog which is a rural, dairy farm area. (Dungog is 250 miles north of Sydney). The population there is about 1,500," Smith said.

The Australians were "reserved," she said. "They worked with us and advertised that we were going to be there. They allowed us to go in their schools and churches and have bible studies for the men and women. But, we didn't get to witness door-to-door or on the streets," Smith said.

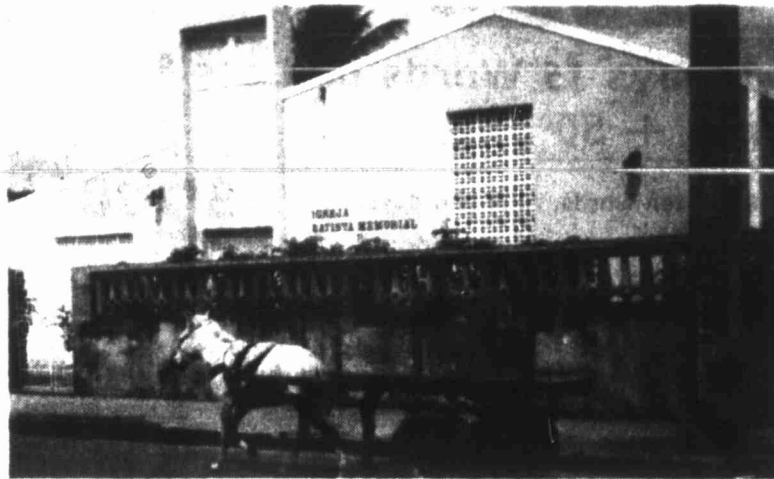

During her stay in Australia, Smith said the evangelists stayed in the homes of the natives, unlike their trips to Brazil where they stayed in hotels. "We got to know the people, eat their food and live the way they do," she said.

After her stay in Dungog, she moved on to Tarroberesfield, a suburb of New Castle in Australia. "It was completely different from Dungog. New Castle is more city-like," she said. The Australians took the evangelists sight-seeing to the country and to the ocean. "The shoreline is just beautiful," Smith said.

The schools in Australia still have scripture reading, she said. "They offer it to the kids 30 minutes each day," she said. "It's optional."

Catholic, Baptist and Anglican (Episcopal) are the three main religions in Australia, Smith said. "The Australians are very dedicated to their Christian life — in the church and in the home," she said.

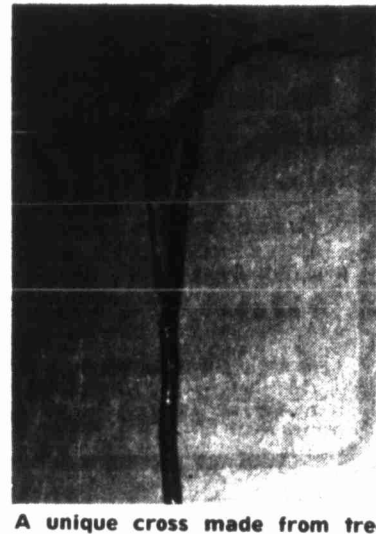

Smith's role in her mission to Australia was to witness to the women and at the schools. At the schools she held a question and answer period. "I gave the in-Igreja Batist Memorial is the church in Fortaleza, Brazil where Deena Smith witness to the people.

A unique cross made from tree branches and the figure of Jesus Christ carved out of wood was a "beautiful sight" at a monastery in Gloucester, Australia, Smith said.

The kids were also interested in their religious beliefs, she said. "I feel like God called me to make the three trips," Smith said. "I'd like to go again, but I have to save some money."

roductions and told the kids about West Texas," she said. "The kids all asked about Dallas and J.R. Ewing. The Australians love American TV and they pattern their shows after ours," she said.

The kids were also interested in their religious beliefs, she said. "I feel like God called me to make the three trips," Smith said. "I'd like to go again, but I have to save some money."

May Fellowship Day slated

May Fellowship Day is an ecumenical worship event sponsored each year by Church Women United (CWU) on the first Friday in May to be held May 2 at 10 a.m. at the Wesley United Methodist Church, located at 12th and Owens.

The purpose of May Fellowship Day is to bring together women from different Christian traditions to strengthen their feelings of community and enable them to address mutual concerns.

The 1986 service "Let Us Speak and Pray Together, Sisters," comes from the hearts of a group of CWU in Hawaii.

Church won't spring forward

First Church of God, 21st and Main streets, will not spring forward to daylight savings time until noon Sunday. Church members will not set their clocks up one hour until after the morning worship activities beginning with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m.

Pastor Delmor Loy gives three reasons for not changing the time Saturday night: members will not lose an hour of beauty sleep; members will not find it difficult to be on time for Sunday school; and members who eat their noon meal at restaurants won't have to wait in line.

The Board of Christian Education will sponsor a Sunday School Workers' Banquet and Training Session with the theme "Strong Sunday Schools Link Together." Dr. George Golden, pastor of the First Church of God in Odessa, is guest speaker for the banquet which will be at 7 p.m. tonight. Price is $2 per person. Saturday at 9 a.m. - noon the teacher training session will feature conferences by Pastor Loy, Renae Loy and June Strickland.

Open house to be at Hillcrest

An open house and spaghetti dinner will be held at the Hillcrest Christian School, 2000 FM 700, April 28 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Cost for the dinner is $3 for ages 11-adults; $2 for ages 6-10; and ages 5 and below eat free. A nursery will be provided for ages 3 and under. Everyone is invited to attend.

Lutheran's convention slated

Members of St. Paul Lutheran Church will attend the 43rd Annual Convention of the International Lutheran Laymen's League May 2 in the San

The International Lutheran Laymen's League — Missouri Synod sponsor "Bringing Christ to the Nations" by means of TV and radio in the United States, Canada and countries abroad.

Activities of the convention will include: an update of Lutheran Laymen's League programs and activities, leadership seminars, a tour of San Angelo for women and children, a sesquicentennial barbeque on the shore of Lake Nasworthy, and a Sunday worship service with communion held at Trinity Lutheran Church lead by Rev. Gerald Boeger.

The public is invited.

For more information contact Jesus Is Lord Ministries or Doyle Rice at 263-8855.

Billy Patton, Minister

When bad things happen to us one on top of the other, when everything seems to be going wrong, when our world is crumbling at our feet, we find ourselves in the basement. In contrast, when everything is going great we're on cloud nine! We describe our good experiences as "Mountain Top Experiences". It's interesting that many of the great events in Christianity also occurred upon mountain tops. Beginning Sunday, May 4th, we will examine some of these in a series of sermons called, "Mountain Top Events".
